END OF COAL MINERS' STRIKE NOT IN SIGHT

Urge Brompton Lake District As A Hunting Preserve

Propose Move To Stop 'Lightning' Labor Movements

English Conservative Party Conference Unanimously Adopted Resolution Urging a Change in Trades Union Law to Make Calling of a Strike Illegal Without a Secret Ballot of Members of Union Affected—Law Would Also Be Amended to Provide Protection of Trade Union Members from Intimidation or Victimization Because of Their Political Beliefs.

(Associated Press Despatch)

SHERBROOKE, ENGLAND, October 7.—The Conservative party conference here today unanimously adopted a resolution urging a change in the trades union law to make the calling of a strike illegal without a secret ballot of the members of the union affected.

The law would also be amended to provide protection of trade union members from intimidation or victimization because of their political beliefs.

Adoption of the resolution comes as a result of pressure from party members for some legal means of preventing such "lightning" labor movements as the recent general strike, in which the men were called out by their leaders without a strike poll first being taken.

BELGIUM PLANS STABILIZATION OF THE FRANC

Programme Includes a Foreign Loss of from Fifty to Sixty Million Dollars.

(Associated Press Despatch) BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 7.—The Belgian government, under the dictatorial powers recently conferred upon it by parliament, is expected to announce shortly a plan for the stabilization of the Belgian franc.

This will include a foreign loan of from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000, of which New York will be expected to take at least half. The remainder will be distributed to London, Amsterdam, Berlin and Basle. No steps have been taken to negotiate such a loan, however, nor has the cabinet yet formally announced its decision.

M. Frank, governor of the Bank of Belgium, who has been in London, yesterday related to the council of ministers the result of his London conversations. Although no statement was issued, it is understood that he informed the cabinet that the principal banks of issue in countries having the gold standard had promised their aid to the Belgian National Bank.

SCHOONER RACE WILL BE HELD THIS MONTH

First Contest Will Take Place Off Halifax on Saturday, October 16.

(Associated Press Despatch) HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 7.—The Bluenose, champion fishing schooner of the North Atlantic, and the new and untried Haligonian will race off Halifax this month for the championship of the Nova Scotia fleet of salt bankers.

The winner of the series will be decided in the best two out of three races.

The first race will be sailed, conditions permitting, on Saturday, October 16, and the other two races of the series (if two are necessary to decide) on Monday, October 18th and Tuesday, October 19.

Arrangements for the race were completed in Lunenburg yesterday afternoon at a meeting attended by representatives of the two vessels and members of the board of trustees of the Nova Scotia fishermen's trophy.

There was some discussion of the question of the revival of the regular International race to be sailed by the winners of the Halifax and Gloucester series, and it is expected such a race will be arranged.

The Haligonian was to have competed in the open races off Gloucester beginning next Monday, but owing to the impossibility of getting her ready in time, her entry had to be cancelled.

(Special to the Record) COOKSHIRE, October 7.—The Provincial W. C. T. U. Convention is being held here today. A large number of delegates from the Townships and other parts of the province are in attendance.

Registration of delegates took place yesterday afternoon and a public meeting was held last evening.

A comprehensive report of convention proceedings will appear in tomorrow's Record.

COMMANDER OF GERMAN ARMY HAS RESIGNED

Allied Military Control Commission Has Long Sought to Have General Seekt Removed.

(Associated Press Despatch) BERLIN, Oct. 7.—What the Allied Military Control Commission long has sought vainly to accomplish, Major General Von Seekt, himself, apparently has brought about by political indiscretion—namely his removal from the highest active military position in the German republic.

The general yesterday tendered his resignation as commander-in-chief of the Reichswehr, and it is believed that President Von Hindenburg will accept it.

Evidently without foreseeing the political possibilities that would be stirred up, General Von Seekt permitted Prince Wilhelm, the eldest son of the former Crown Prince, to participate in recent manoeuvres of the Reichswehr. The Prince served in the Potsdam regiment, where many of his ancestors had received their military training.

The resignation has not yet been accepted by President Von Hindenburg, who has postponed a decision until tomorrow, when he will discuss it with Chancellor Marx. There appears to be no doubt in political quarters, however, that the general will have to go.

CATHOLICS IN MEXICO FINED

(Associated Press Despatch) MEXICO CITY, Oct. 7.—Fines were imposed yesterday by a police magistrate upon about a dozen Roman Catholic men and women charged with conducting a religious meeting in a private residence.

The assembly was regarded by the police as unlawful.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL OPENED AT CANTERBURY

Rally at Community Hall Last Evening to Celebrate Event—Concert Programme and Speeches—Fine School Building Erected, Uniting Bown, Gould Station and Canterbury Districts.

CANTERBURY, Oct. 7.—(Special) The Community Hall was crowded to the doors last evening, for the entertainment programme, organized in celebration of the opening of the new Consolidated School.

The school building, which is modeled after that of Brookbury, opened a year ago, stands just across the way.

The school is now in operation, under the principalship of Mr. Franklin, with Miss Bennett, as assistant. Some forty pupils are attending, the uniting districts being Bown, Gould Station and Canterbury.

The new building was erected at a cost of $6,000, one-half of which was received as a Government grant, through the plan for Consolidated School encouragement, arranged by the Protestant Committee of Public Instruction.

The Board of School Commissioners of the Townships of Bury and the citizens of the three local districts, both men and women, have taken hold of the matter with much enthusiasm and view the opening of the new school with much satisfaction.

Congratulations Extended.

Several speakers from outside points were present, last evening, and extended congratulations to the Commissioners and to the people. These included Dr. G. W. Parmelee, Director of Education, Quebec; V. E. Morrill, of Sherbrooke; Rev. Mr. Lewis, of Bury; Rev. Mr. Templeman and Rev. Mr. McLean, of Scotstown; and Inspector Hunter, of Sherbrooke.

Expressions of regret at inability to attend were received from Hon. Jacob Nicol, Hon. W. G. Mitchell and Mr. P. C. Duboyce.

The speakers emphasized the importance of the event that was being celebrated. The new school would have an important bearing upon the life of the united communities. It gave the boys and girls educational advantages on a par with those in towns and villages.

The people were urged to give full support to the teachers in their work. The building was a fine one, the equipment up-to-date, and the best results could be anticipated.

The School Commissioners of Bury township came in for a share of the congratulations, for this is the second Consolidated School opened under their direction.

The Brookbury school achieved a good success in its first year and the same good results are expected of the Canterbury school.

Interesting Concert Programme

A very interesting programme of music, recitations, etc., was rendered during the evening.

Mr. Atkins, secretary of the Bury Board, presided.

The programme opened with an address of welcome by Mrs. F. G. Bennett, arranged in verse, and bringing in the names of Commissioners and others. This brought forth much applause and will find a place in full in a later issue of the Record.

The items of the concert programme were: Song and tableau, "Sweet Bunch of Daisies,"

Reading, by Mrs. Churchill. Recitation, "The Queer Boy," by Hazel Rudd.

Dance, Patricia Bennett. Song, "Star of the East."

Reading, "Danger," by Mrs. Justine Sherman. Instrumental music, by Kathleen and Arnold Cowling.

Recitation, "The 20th Century Girl," by Tommy Garneau.

Song and tableau, "When You and I Were Young Maggie," by Miss Lillian Churchill.

Song, "The Good Old Union Jack."

During the evening Principal Franklin spoke briefly thanking the people for their welcome and hospitality and hoping that he and his assistant, Miss Bennett, might enjoy their full co-operation.

Mr. James Groom, chairman of the Board, moved a vote of thanks to the speakers.

The pupils of the new school, at the opening and close of the programme, gave the "School yell," in true college style.

The programme was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Following this, refreshments were served by the ladies of the united districts.

with conducting a religious meeting in a private residence.

The assembly was regarded by the police as unlawful.

LONDON'S MAYOR

Here is the new head of London's great civic government, Sir G. R. Douglas, just chosen Lord Mayor.

HON. DOUGLAS' MAJORITY REDUCED

ANTIGONISH, N.S., Oct. 7.—The recount in Antigonish-Guysboro ended yesterday gave Hon. J. C. Douglas, Conservative, 6,140; and C. F. McIsaac, Liberal, 6,003, decreasing by eight votes the majority given from previous count.

The government proposals rejected by the miners today unanimously adopted a resolution rejecting Government's Plan After Announcement of a District Vote to that Effect of 737 to 42,000.

(Associated Press Despatch) LONDON, Oct. 7.—The government's latest attempt to settle the long drawn-out coal strike has failed. A delegate conference of the Miners' Federation today unanimously adopted a resolution rejecting the proposals after the announcement of a district vote to that effect, of 737,000 to 42,000.

The government proposals rejected by the miners today were contained in a letter sent by Premier Baldwin on September 17 to A. J. Cook, general secretary of the Miners' Federation.

The principal point was an assurance that, if the miners returned to work, they would be given government assistance in obtaining a nationwide agreement, in effect, if not in word. Such an agreement has been one of the main points held out for by the men.

Mr. Baldwin admitted that he had failed in an effort to bring the owners into a conference on a national agreement covering hours and wages, as desired by the men, but said that the owners throughout the country were generally willing to admit the principles that such a national agreement would secure. He therefore appealed to the miners to return to work under provisional district agreements while the government prepared legislation to establish a national tribunal of appeal.

The miners, numbering more than a million, went on strike May 1, to support a demand for continuation of the post-war rates of pay and hours of work after the withdrawal of the government subsidy on that date. The mine owners, with the end of the subsidy, had proposed a reduction in pay of 13-1-3 per cent and an increase from seven to eight hours in the working day.

A general strike called at midnight May 4, to support the miners' stand collapsed after nine days. The British press association, semi-official news agency, yesterday said that to date 103,403 of the approximately 1,000,000 miners had returned to work.

Chilly October Days Have Awakened Public

(Associated Press Despatch) LONDON, Oct. 7.—With coal costing a dollar for one hundred—if you can get it—and only one hundred pounds allowed to each household fortnightly, Londoners are looking longingly toward the Riviera and wondering how they will get there for the winter.

Even a settlement of the coal strike will not make the British coal situation easy for several months after the miners go back to work, as there has been such disorganization in the trade, and the demands of railways, power plants and gas plants are so great that the small consumer will not have much chance to get more than his rationed amount.

Chilly October days have awakened the public to a situation which did not seem so alarming while the weather was warm and fine. One hundred pounds of coal is a very thin allowance for even a cook-stove over a period of two weeks, and a hungry fireplace can easily consume that amount in a week, and not provide much heat at that.

Flat seekers are interviewing engineers and learning how much coal is on hand before they sign a lease, and hotels which can guarantee a fuel supply are signing up plenty of guests.

CRIPPLING BRAZILS TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

(Associated Press Despatch) RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 7.—The British coal strike is crippling Brazil's transportation facilities, the government having cut down train service in order to reduce the consumption of coal. The shortage of coal is due to the fact that many steamers have discontinued the South American trade in order to handle the more lucrative transport of coal from the United States to Europe.

Nearly a dozen trains have been, or will be, withdrawn. This means a considerable cut in freight service but has the advantage of saving 300 tons of coal daily, against a regular consumption of 1,100 tons daily.

There is only a stock of 10,000 tons of coal on hand, but additional shipments from the United States are expected to arrive soon.

PREMIER EXPECTED TO MAKE IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

(Associated Press Despatch) LONDON, Oct. 7.—Premier Baldwin tonight will address the annual conference of the Conservative party at Scarborough and make an important statement on the demand for amendment of the law governing trade unions in Great Britain. Ever since the general strike followed the coal strike, the members of the Conservative party have been pressing their leaders to revise the law and curb the powers now wielded by the various unions.

A resolution to be placed before the annual conference will declare, among other things, that the trade union law in its present state menaces national security and deprives the individual worker of political and industrial freedom. It will call for specified measures to overcome these things.

The conference will be attended by a record number of 2,600 delegates. For the first time in history the conference will be presided over by a woman—Dame Caroline Bridgeman, wife of W. O. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty.

CATTLE DROVER GIVEN JAIL TERM

(Associated Press Despatch) TIMMINS, ONT., Oct. 7.—"This is one of the most vicious cases I have had before me for some time," said Magistrate Atkinson yesterday in passing sentence of sixty days hard labor on Mike Briski, a cattle drover, who was alleged to have abandoned a cow on the highway when it was sick.

ITALY HELPS IN KEEPING PEACE IN THE BALKANS

Political and Economic Matters Were Discussed at Conference Yesterday Between Premier Mussolini and Bulgarian Foreign Minister.

(Associated Press Despatch) ROME, Oct. 7.—Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Bouroff, of Bulgaria, yesterday had a long meeting in which they discussed political and economic matters of interest to their respective countries.

The official visit here of Foreign Minister Bouroff is interpreted by the press as indicating the intention of Italy to contribute to the equilibrium of the Balkans in order to preserve peace there, regarded as a highly important factor for European peace.

While Italy is strengthening her relations with Bulgaria, she is also maintaining the best relations with Yugoslavia, Rumania, and Greece, the press points out.

King Victor Emmanuel has appointed Count Bonin Longare, Senator Sotolaja and Senator Mangiagli ministers of state.

At the close of each address, discussion followed.

Activities of Boards Reviewed By The President, Col. J. Bruce Payne.

Following the opening of the session the president reviewed the activities of the Board since the last meeting of which the following is a summary:

Gambling Slot Machines.

The subject of gambling slot machines, which has received considerable discussion at previous meetings of the Boards, was again brought up by the president, who reported that he received complaints to the effect that gambling machines had been in operation in the Eastern Townships and that he had reported the matter to the Quebec Government, whose officers had seized four machines. The president also brought to the notice of the assembly that it was very difficult for the officers to make a seizure because of the difficulty of proving that the machines were being operated. It appears that the officers have to have proof that the machines were operated by two independent persons before they could be taken. Another great difficulty was the fact that as soon as an officer made an appearance in the vicinity the owners of these machines were informed in time to temporarily do away with them.

A discussion followed as to the best manner in dealing with this question and it was decided that a petition be sent the Federal Government asking them to consider an additional phrase on the criminal statute dealing with gambling slot machines, to the effect that these machines could be seized where ever found.

Fish and Game Conditions Good.

The subject of fish and game laws was referred to by the president, who reported that the Fish and Game Department at Quebec had showed a willingness to co-operate with the Boards in matters pertaining to the breaking of these laws, in spite of the fact that they were often lead on many a wild goose chase. A discussion as to the legality of killing a dog found running deer was then taken up and the president pointed out cases where dogs had been shot without any come back as far as the owner of the animal was concerned.

Wire Sent To Hon. Mackenzie King.

A wire had been sent to the Hon. Mackenzie King, urging him to have in his cabinet a minister representing the Eastern Townships, the president reported.

President Approached Regarding Coal Near South Bolton.

The president reported that he had been approached by a resident of Bolton regarding an anthracite coal vein which he thought he had on his land. The question was discussed and the general opinion was that he should send a sample to the government geologists at Ottawa.

Parade Prize Won By T. J. Parkes.

The prize of twenty-five dollars, offered by Mr. A. A. Paradis, of Victoriaville, for the best essay on the best way to renew and maintain activities of Boards of Trade was won by essay No. 597, which was written by Mr. T. J. Parkes, formerly of Sherbrooke, now of St. Petersburg, Fla. It was proposed by Mr. P. J. Girard, of Richmond, seconded by Mr. B. N. Robinson, of Coaticook, that copies of the two best essays be sent to the press for publication. The essays were by Dr. John Hayes, Mr. A. M. Hunter and Mr.

W. Twyman were especially commended.

Discussion of Brompton Lake District.

The advisability of making the Brompton lake district, which comprises of about fifteen lakes in sections of Richmond, Stanstead, Shefford and Bromme counties, a hunting preserve, was introduced by Mr. J. M. O'Halloran. It was shown that the land was not suitable for farming and was a territory about 15 miles square. After some discussion it was decided that the Government be approached in this connection and urged to take over the area, making it a game preserve somewhat similar to the Laurentian preserve. A motion to this effect was made by Mr. J. M. O'Halloran, of Richmond, and seconded by Mr. P. C. Duboyce, of Richmond.

Letter of Welcome To Be Sent To Viscount and Lady Willingdon.

It was proposed by Dr. John Hayes, of Richmond, and seconded by Col. W. J. Ewing, of Richmond, that a letter of welcome be sent Canada's new Governor General and Lady Willingdon.

E. T. Immigration Society In Flourishing Condition.

The report of the secretary of the Immigration Society was next read, which showed that the Society was in a flourishing condition. One hundred and sixty-three immigrants from the British Isles, sixty-three from European countries and three hundred and twenty-eight unemployed have been placed on farms in the Eastern Townships during the summer months and sixty-eight applications for help are at present on the secretary's file, which he is unable to fill on account of shortage of labor.

The president of the Society, Mr. B. N. Robinson, of Coaticook, stressed the fact that the Society had to rely solely on the Federal Government for immigrants not having a representative in England to procure help as needed. The subject of deserted farms was referred by the president, who asked the members to get particulars of these farms and send them to Mr. W. M. Hillhouse, the secretary, so that they could be forwarded to Ottawa. One of the great causes of the deserted farms was that the owners wanted war prices for them and until they understood that prices had gone down considerably the farms were likely to remain untenanted. A letter was received from the Canadian Council of Child Welfare, asking the members to keep an eye on the children indentured to farmers and others so that their conditions may be checked up. The letter, moreover, stated that the clergymen of the different religions had been approached in the same way and that they signified their willingness to help.

Welcome Extended By Mayor J. McMorine.

The Mayor of Richmond, Mr. J. McMorine, addressed the assembly in a few words expressing the pleasure of Richmond at having the members of the Associated Boards of Trade present and gave a brief outline of the attractions of Richmond, referring to the manufacturing plants, railway shops and schools of the town. Regret was expressed by the Mayor that the weather did not permit an automobile drive through the town to view the beautiful residents and the Wales Home, which the speaker thought was the greatest institution in the Province if not of the Dominion. In closing, His Worship expressed hope that the Associated Boards would be a help to the town and to the Eastern Townships as a whole.

Several Speakers At Afternoon Session.

Mr. T. A. Benson, of Ottawa, gave a very interesting address on co-operation and dealt with the co-operation between the farmer and the business man. This address will (Continued on Page 13.)

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS BOARDS OF TRADE AND IMMIGRATION SOCIETY MEETINGS HELD AT RICHMOND

Some Excellent Addresses Heard—Welcome from Mayor McMorine—Col. Dennis Tells of Population Problems in Canada—Co-operation Between Business Men and Farmers Urged by Mr. Benson—Brompton Lake Region Urged as Game Preserve—Fine Opportunity for Eastern Townships Park—E. T. Immigration Office Busy in Its Work of Securing Farm Help.

(Special) The joint fall meeting of the Eastern Townships Boards of Trade and the Eastern Townships Immigration Society was held here, yesterday, in the town hall. While not as well attended as usual by members of the outlying districts, on account of adverse weather conditions, the meeting was never the less a very profitable one. At ten thirty o'clock, the morning session of the meeting was called to order by the president, Col. J. Bruce Payne, of Granby.

Among the speakers who addressed the meeting were: Mayor, J. K. Edwards, of Sherbrooke, on "Have the towns and cities of the Eastern Townships a common interest?" Mayor J. McMorine, of Richmond, on "Welcome to Richmond—A word or two about our town"; Col. S. E. Francis, Manager Sherbrooke Exhibition, on "Are our Fall Fairs worth while?"; Col. J. S. Dennis, commissioner of Colonization of the C.P.R., on the future of Canada, and Mr. T. A. Benson, of the Dept. of Agriculture, of Ottawa, on "Co-operation."

At the close of each address, discussion followed.

The ladies of the United Church put on a very successful Thanksgiving supper at the Town Hall on Thursday of last week, the tables being loaded with good things. The total proceeds were a little over $150.

On Saturday afternoon the Protestant School Board met at the Town Hall. The principal business was the levying of the rate for the current year. This, being based on the new valuation, had been delayed until the new valuation roll had passed the Council. It was found that the Protestant valuation had been reduced some $38,000 over the whole township, which necessitated the raising of the general rate one-half mill.

The evening service at the United Church on Sunday was very largely attended. It was the annual Thanksgiving service combined with the usual monthly song service. The special numbers rendered by the choir were all appropriate to the occasion. The church was decorated with the produce of field and garden and autumnal leaves in a very pleasing fashion. Following the evening service on October 17, an important congregational meeting will be held. This meeting was pre-

SICK ABED EIGHT MONTHS

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Could Do All Her Work and Gained in Weight

Melfort, Saskatchewan. "I had inward troubles, headaches and severe pains in my back and sides. I was so sick generally that I could not sit up and I was in bed most of the time for eight months. An aunt came to visit and help me as I was unable to attend to my baby and could not do my work. She told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two bottles I could get up and dress myself. I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. When I first took the medicine I only weighed seventy-eight pounds. Now I weigh twice as much. If I get out of sorts or weary and can't sleep I always take another bottle of the Vegetable Compound. I find it wonderfully good for female troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. I will be only too glad to answer any letters I receive asking about it."—Mrs. WILLIAM RITCHIE, Box 486, Melfort, Saskatchewan.

SCOTSTOWN WAS THE SCENE OF A SERIOUS FIRE

Barn Belonging to Mr. John Mayhew Destroyed—Firemen Had Difficult Time Keeping Flames in Check.

SCOTSTOWN, Que., Oct. 7. — A serious fire took place Tuesday afternoon on Victoria street at about two o'clock. It broke out in a barn, the property of Mr. John Mayhew. No one seems to know how it started or what was the cause.

The barn was situated at the rear of Mr. John Mayhew's residence and very near a shed belonging to Mrs. James Coleman. Shortly after the fire was discovered the Guelph Patent Cask Company's whistle gave the fire alarm. This aroused the whole town to come to the rescue, getting out the town hose, forming a water line with pails and getting ladders, while some were busy taking out furniture from the Coleman house, as it was feared this would burn as the fire had already got a good hold on the shed, even reaching to the dwelling house. Fortunately the wind was blowing away from the buildings surrounding, so after a severe fight the fire was confined to the barn, which was completely consumed with all its contents. Sparks from the fire were carried north across the river and kindled and started a fire on the south end of the dam belonging to the Scotstown Electric Light and Power Company. A spark also set fire to the roof of the old chair factory, while the roof of Mr. Donald Morrison's home on Albert street, also caught fire, the flames burning a hole about three feet wide.

General Notes.

The opening of the Scotstown High School will take place on Friday, October 8th, at 7:30 p.m.

A dimeful daily will suffice—KRUSCHEN'S worth three times its price.

Costs No More—Lasts Much Longer!

Quantity does not always imply quality. The unnecessary bulk found in ordinary health salts demands large and disagreeable doses which are harsh on the sensitive organs of the body. This increases the cost and necessitates frequent trips to the drug store. At best, the results are unsatisfactory.

Kruschen Salts contain quality in compact, undiluted form. A 75 cent bottle lasts longer than ordinary salts and, therefore costs less. The standard daily Kruschen dose is just sufficient to cover a dime. One bottle will last about six months, and in regular daily use costs only half a cent a day.

Kruschen is tasteless in tea or coffee. It contains nothing but the six mineral salts which every human organism requires for the regular and efficient elimination of waste materials that clog and poison the system—the cause of most ills.

While youth prevails, nature tolerates many abuses—overeating, overwork, worry, etc. But when the abused body needs nature's aid most during the years of maturity, she is liable to foreclose and demand prompt payment in the form of numerous maladies. You can forestall such a tragedy by cultivating the daily Kruschen habit.

True, "it is never too late to mend"—yet all progressive physicians admit that it is better to prevent disease than to remedy it. A perfect body is better than a patched body. The systematic daily Kruschen habit—your "dimeful" of prevention—will keep you sound in mind and body, fighting fit to tackle successfully "the cares that infest the day."

Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a bottle today—start to Kruschenize to-morrow! It's the daily dimeful that does it.

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

The dose of a dimeful taken every morning is found in practice just the right amount of a most invigorating daily tonic. The medicinal dose for persons suffering from pains of rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago or sciatica, or habitual constipation, with inactive liver, etc., is half to one teaspoonful in a tumbler of hot water before breakfast. Every drugstore sells Kruschen. A 75 cent bottle lasts three months. This works out at half-a-cent a day for health and happiness. Get a bottle at your druggist's to-day and start to-morrow. It's the little daily dimeful that does it!

Sick Man Offers $50 For Stomach Medicine

"I was a sufferer from indigestion until a druggist advised me to try Adlerika. The results have been wonderful. I eat anything, and can do a big day's work without feeling tired. I wouldn't be without Adlerika if it cost $50 a bottle."—R. C. Culver.

Unlike most medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, giving the intestines a REAL cleansing and bringing out the poisonous matter you never thought was in your system. Even if bowels move daily, you will be surprised how much more old matter Adlerika brings out which may have been causing all your trouble. In slight disorders, like occasional constipation, GAS bloating, indigestion or sick headache, ONE spoonful always brings relief.

Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling, and detergent elements. It is excellent for Intestinal Stasis, a disease due to modern ways of living and which is often the true cause of sour stomach, gas bloating, nervous dyspepsia and restless sleep.

Doctors Praise Adlerika. Dr. H. L. Shoup, New York: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. C. Curl: "I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice I have found nothing to exceed Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for twenty years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. F. M. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose."

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists.

FOR Sour Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA For fifty years genuine "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Quick Way to Build Up Weight

This new combination of yeast-vegetables with iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with the vitamins that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamin food, but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. If you are under weight, do not enjoy good health, lacking in energy and force, "ironized yeast" tablets will pick you right up, and if they fail, you get your money back.

Sold by druggists at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package. Ironized Yeast Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

DANNY WATCHES A FISHER-MAN

Patience is a virtue fine. Alas, I wish that it were mine. —Danny Meadow Mouse.

When Danny Meadow Mouse escaped from Jim the Fish Crow he felt that he had learned a lesson. "It doesn't do to take too much for granted," said he. "No, sir, it doesn't do to take too much for granted. I certainly thought that was Blacky the Crow, but when I had a chance to really use my eyes I could see the difference. That fellow isn't quite so big as Blacky. And when I think it over, his voice isn't quite the same. My, I must watch out, or I'll be getting into trouble one of these days. Now supposing that fellow had caught me." Danny shivered at the thought.

By and by he came to a low place on the bank of the creek. He saw Peep the Least Sandpiper and a lot of his friends running around. Danny stopped to watch them a few minutes. Just beyond him there was an old stick standing in the water. At least Danny took it for a stick. He nearly lost his balance and fell in the mud when that stick suddenly disappeared.

"Oh, my eye!" exclaimed Danny under his breath. "It's Longlegs the Great Blue Heron. I've seen him at the Smiling Pool and I know. He's caught Slippery Slim the Eel. Well, Slippery Slim will slip down that long neck a good deal easier than I would."

Danny was right. It was Longlegs the Great Blue Heron and he had caught a small eel. It disappeared head first down that long neck of his, and then Longlegs resumed his fishing.

Now the secret of success in fishing is to be patient. Every fisherman knows this. You can't go after fish; you have got to wait for the fish to come to you. Longlegs learned this as soon as he was big enough to wet his toes in the water. So he settled himself with his head drawn back between his shoulders until he didn't look like a bird at all. At a distance he looked like one of the weather-gray stakes which were driven in the mud here and there along the creek. Danny settled himself to watch. "I'm going to sit here until he catches another fish, if it takes the rest of the afternoon," said Danny to himself.

The Sandpipers ran this way and that all around Longlegs. He didn't pay any attention to them. No, sir, he didn't. You never would have guessed he was alive. He simply stood there on those long legs of his, as if there were no such thing as fish, or birds, or anything else. "He's asleep," said Danny. "He's asleep. I could run right under his bill and he never would see me. It's a funny place to go to sleep, right out there in the open. Oh!"

Longlegs had suddenly darted that long neck of his forward to its full length. His great bill had splashed down into the water. It was done so quickly that Danny rubbed his eyes to see if it really had been done. It had! Up came that head, and a silvery fish was tossed in the air. As it turned it came down head first and disappeared down Longlegs' long throat. Then Longlegs, stretched to his full height, looked this way, looked that way, spread his great wings, said "Quawk," tucked his head and neck back on his shoulders until he looked as if he hadn't any head at all, and away he flew with his long legs trailing out behind him. So Danny learned how patience is rewarded.

KEEP KIDNEYS CLEAN, DRINK MORE WATER

If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Also Take a Little Salts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

Music lovers of Sherbrooke are looking forward with a great deal of interest to the programme which will be offered this evening in the Art Hall by Lorette Athola, Canadian Soprano. Miss Athola will be accompanied by Mademoiselle Jeanne Girard and Master Brahm Sand, the reputed cellist, who will also render several selections.

SO IT SEEMS

according to law, that when men become Councilors, they inherit a power that protects them in their municipal dealings, even when they are totally wrong; but this wrong must be proved. Try to do it. Their intentions may be good, however defective their judgment. They may drag a community into bankruptcy, and even worse, with their good intentions, and the law protects them, but the people suffer by it. If there had been a hundred thousand petitioners against the site chosen by the Council, instead of one thousand, the result would have been the same, according to law, and yet, we are taught and advised to respect the law. Too often this is a bitter morsel to swallow. By the decision of the Court rendered yesterday, the people will learn much about the power invested in a municipal council (their civic servants), and after a while they will also learn why this city is not a city of double its importance. The Little Orator's foresight in the progress of this city, providing it is properly conducted, was the base of his taking such an active interest against the sentimental features associated with it. He judges the future, by the past ten years, on the increase in automobile traffic, believing that that street must be restored to its former width to serve the demand within a few years. In fact it is already found too narrow during certain hours of the day. H. H. Morency.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bagley, East Angus; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cummins; Mr. John Morrow, Mrs. George McClintock, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Ross, Lennox, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Ross, Falls, Vt.

BILLETS FOR BOYS ATTENDING CONFERENCE

From present appearances it would seem as if there was going to be a shortage of billets, for those attending the Boys' Conference here and the promoters of the conference are satisfied from past experience that this only needs to be known and the necessary help will be forthcoming. Viewed from every angle the Sherbrooke Older Boys' Conference is one of the most important events in the life of Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships, giving to the boys in the rural communities inspiration and stimulus that will mean much for the future life of the Province. The promoters are very hopeful that the residents of Sherbrooke will help in this great undertaking.

MAYOR PLEASED WITH DECISION RE MONUMENT

Chief Magistrate Praises Attorney for Plaintiff and Returned Men for Stand Taken in Connection With Monument Difficulty—

"I am very pleased with the reasonable judgment given by Judge White," His Worship Mayor J. K. Edwards said this morning in speaking to a Record representative in connection with the result of the legal proceedings regarding the soldiers' monument.

During the course of his remarks the Chief Magistrate expressed the hope that the difficulty which had arisen regarding the monument site would be forgotten by all and that on Armistice Day, when the memorial is unveiled, everybody would come forward to make the affair a memorable one and to pay just tribute to the glorious dead.

While speaking in connection with the monument, Mayor Edwards said in part: "I was also especially gratified at the stand taken by the attorney for the plaintiff, who said that whatever judgment would be given by the court would be accepted without question. That is indeed a first class spirit."

After saying that he was more fully convinced than ever that the King Hill site was the best one now that the work is quickly beginning to take shape, the Mayor remarked that any organization or body in the city that desired at any time to hold a public demonstration at the monument or to put wreaths at its base would be given every help possible by the civic authorities, and, if necessary, traffic would be suspended.

Pleased With Action Taken by Returned Men

His Worship also pointed out that he was specially gratified with the stand taken by the returned men at one of their recent meetings in connection with the monument controversy. At this meeting, he said, the ex-service men decided to co-operate with the civic authorities, even if the final decision was adverse to their desires. "This," the Mayor said, "was a noble decision and the only one which could be expected from those who had placed their lives for their country's sake."

Arrangements will be started immediately in connection with the unveiling programme, the Mayor said. It is certain that this impressive ceremony will take place on Armistice Day, and it is hoped that His Excellency Lord Willingdon will officiate.

The work in connection with the erection of the monument on King Hill is progressing rapidly. The steps leading up to the monument are already in place, and this morning the workmen were engaged in placing one of the stones on the base. This stone weighs eight tons and consequently it took some time to get it into place.

CONDENSED MILK
(Sweetened)

YOU will find it has the new and distinctive flavor, far superior to that you get when you use ordinary top milk and sugar. It makes it richer, more mellow and golden—unusually appetizing. Then too, it gives a richer 'body' to the beverage, quite the opposite of the thin, flat consistency it has when served with ordinary milk. Eagle Brand is a blend of milk and sugar, pure, full-cream milk, (doubly rich and creamy because part of the water content is removed) and fine granulated sugar. In place of cream for coffee, Eagle Brand means a tidy saving from day to day. It avoids the annoyance of having milk and cream run short or spoil. For you can always keep a supply on hand. Eagle Brand keeps perfectly until used. Try Eagle Brand in your coffee tomorrow morning—and for the rest of the week. If you prefer tea, you'll find Eagle Brand improves that, too. Cocoa, and chocolate, are wonderfully good made with it.

CANADIAN MINISTER TO WASHINGTON

Official announcement by Premier Mackenzie that Canada will have a diplomatic representative at Washington in the person of Vincent Massey, M.A., has quite apparently aroused no little interest in the British Empire and in the United States, and considerable comment has been made by newspapers on the Dominion's latest move. "There is every reason to believe that it is another forward step. It is being made only after thorough consideration, without haste," states the Christian Science Monitor.

Sir Robert Borden, the war Prime Minister of Canada, recognized that Canada's growing interest in the United States should have the particular attention of a Canadian minister who would reside at Washington. Much of the work of the British Embassy has in the past been concerned with what might be termed domestic relations between the Dominion and the United States. An expanding volume of trade and exchange, co-operative industrial enterprise, and comparative freedom of movement north and south has steadily turned the attention of statesmen on both sides of the line to the necessity of establishing more direct means of official communication between Ottawa and Washington. In recent years, Canadian cabinet ministers have found it necessary to make personal visits to the United States which the presence of a diplomatic representative would have obviated.

It is six years since the Parliament of Canada, with a Conservative Prime Minister in office at the time, made provision for the appointment of a Canadian minister to Washington. The Conservative Administration went out of office before the position could be filled. From year to year since, with the Liberals in office, Parliament has voted the necessary appropriation, but Premier Mackenzie King has moved with commendable caution in making the appointment. He has let it become known that Vincent Massey is to be the Minister, but the appointment will be made officially only after the Imperial Conference. Mr. Massey will be in London during the conference between the premiers of the British Commonwealth. It should be an opportunity for British public opinion to discover, as the people of Canada know already, that a most happy choice has been made by the Dominion in filling the new diplomatic post.

Mr. Massey's many fine attainments cannot fail to commend him to the good will of the people of the United States. While he is well equipped by abundant experience in commerce and industry, as well as in public service, to attend to the business and the state questions which arise from the growth of trade between Canada and the United States, it is more particularly as a cultured Canadian, interested actively in education, literature, art, drama, music, architecture that Vincent Massey should bring particular credit to the Dominion of Canada.

PROBLEM OF THE APPRENTICE

The need of readjusting the public attitude toward the skilled mechanic if the right variety of boys are to be attracted to the trades in the future was strongly stressed before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at New Haven by Harold S. Falk. He expressed the opinion that there was too much of a white collar complex at present, and that the wearer of the bit of apparel so frequently wrecked by the laundries occupies the spotlight to the exclusion of his brother of the calloused hands.

"There is much in what Mr. Falk says, but the cause of the reluctance of many youths to go into the trades is not to be found entirely in that direction. There has been a notable improvement in the training courses offered by many employers in recent years, but to too many apprentices the road to be travelled to a journeyman's pay envelopes is filled with useless delays and incompetent instruction. Progress is permitted only at a snail's pace and only the slow or the unusually persevering survive," comments the Chicago Post.

Another contributing cause is the opposition of many of the labor unions to an easy apprenticeship. Restrictions upon the number of apprentices permissible in a shop are notorious in the building trades, but the counter-charge is made, and with justice, that many of the contractors fail to take advantage of the opportunity to train the limited number of youths permitted them.

"The problem of securing desirable apprentices is a many-sided one. In the days before the immigration restrictions went into effect, the influx of mechanics from Europe was sufficient to meet the needs of expanding industries. Now this source of skilled labor is reduced sharply, and fairly so, if the prosperity record of the last few years is taken into account. The necessity of training the American youth to utilize a natural fondness for tools in earning a living is growing more and more important.

"It is an excellent omen that societies such as the one addressed by Mr. Falk are devoting their energies to diverting some of the white-collar surplus of man power to more profitable fields of employment."

A FOODLESS WORLD

(By Dr. Frank Crane)

Every once in a while some scientific prophet announces that the food in this world is about to run out.

Malthus maintained that while the population grew in geometrical proportion, the food supply grew in arithmetical proportion, and consequently there would soon not be food enough to supply all the people.

And now comes Sir Daniel Hall, who tells the British Scientific Association that we are verging toward a wheatless world. While our population is increasing at the rate of five million yearly, the wheat producing lands have been about exhausted.

In spite of vast irrigation schemes and other attempts to cultivate poor land, the wheat supply is running short. In many countries there has been a shrinkage since the war.

The number of white peoples is still growing, but where, he asks, is the land that will support them?

He says also that the world is eventually all going to turn to prohibition in order to save the grain used in the manufacture of alcoholic beverages.

He adds the interesting remark that the race which cuts out meat and alcohol in order to multiply will become a permanent slave type like worker bees.

All this is based upon the fact that mankind's fate is linked up with its wheat production.

The eating of wheat products, however, is largely habit. Other foods just as nourishing can take the place of wheat.

The edge of the tropics, for instance, has only been used for bananas, and the American peanut is very nourishing.

There is no doubt that the ingenuity of man will discover some other form of nutriment if his wheat supply be exhausted.

It is only a comparatively short time ago that the potato and tomato came into use for general consumption, and now potatoes form a considerable proportion of the world's food supply.—Cpt. 1926.

PRESS COMMENT

A BUMPER HARVEST.

(London Observer)

To the townsman the sight of ripening corn or of garnered sheaves has become a pretty one and nothing more. But the divorce between urban and rural life is the great weakness of modern England and any sign of returning agricultural prosperity is welcome. This year the farmer may be of good heart. Hay, fruit and grain crops have all done well. The acreage under the plow is up by nearly 100,000, and yield is above the average. Such figures mean more to the men on the soil than even the wisest legislation.

UTILIZING WASTE PRODUCTS.

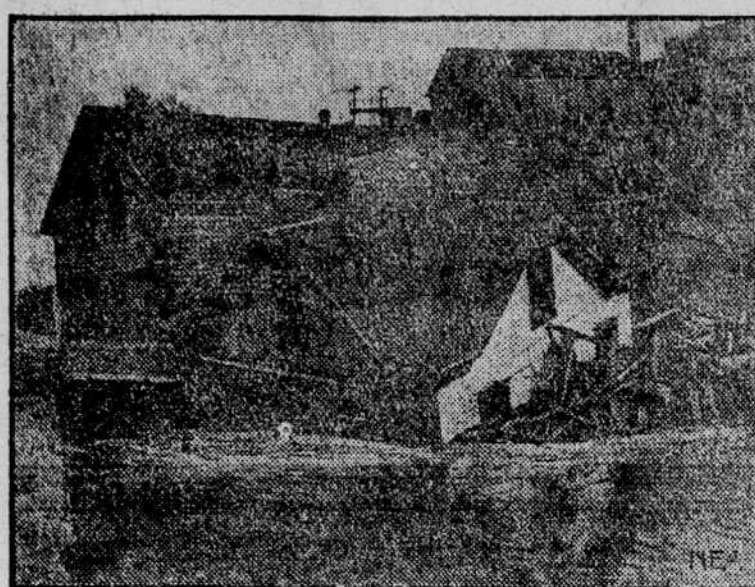

(Christian Science Monitor)

One of the most striking features of present day invention is the widespread effort made to avoid waste and utilize products that have heretofore been counted of no value. Indeed, the salvaging of hitherto useless materials has become a branch of engineering endeavor to which considerable attention is paid, and it is reasonable to expect that greater and greater effort will be directed along this line. Many vitally important products available today in various lines of activity were regarded but a relatively few years ago as not only useless but actually a burden necessitating in some cases expensive processes for their removal and elimination.

It is perfectly natural, therefore, that the present should see a radical change in the "retting" and "scutching" of flax to make linen available at low prices, to expand the market outlet of millions of flax growers in Europe and utilize a waste product of millions of acres in the two Americas. For the method by which Belgian peasants today separate the fibre from the flax straw is said to be essentially the same as that employed by the Egyptians many hundreds of years ago. The invention therefore, of the two Englishmen, T. G. Booth and Norman Craik, being demonstrated to New England textile men in Boston, Mass., which apparently does this "retting" and "scutching" in eight hours instead of five weeks, should fill a need in this direction that quantity production in other lines has filled of late years.

Economies in all directions are being aimed at today for greater efficiency of operation. It is no longer considered in the least commendable to flout extravagance in connection with manufacturing methods. The tendency along every line is toward conserving energy, and in many departments of human activity it is being seen that careful administration spells the solution of the problems of adjustment and supply. In connection with the linen industry there is much time wasted and much unskilled labor used. There would seem to be abundant opportunity, therefore, for doing for that industry what Eli Whitney's invention of the cotton gin did for the cotton trade.

Miss Hazel Stone is spending a short holiday in Montreal. Messrs. L. S. Ellis, B. R. Buchanan, R. B. Alpin, T. K. Hooker and

L. Goldstein, officials of the United States Government Tariff Commission, were present in the Knowlton area last week. These gentlemen for the last few months have been conducting a careful investigation throughout the Eastern States, Ontario and Quebec, on dairy farming conditions. The object of this is to find out how costs of production of milk in Canada compare with those to be met by the United States dairy farmers. To some extent, at least, it is expected that the results of this investigation will serve as a basis upon which the United States protective tariff will be determined. Hitherto it would appear that many prominent men south of the line had the idea that Canadian farmers could produce milk much more cheaply than was possible in the United States. Unofficial opinions expressed by some of the above-mentioned investigators seem to clearly show that cost factors on the average dairy farm here and in the United States are much the same in most regards. This most surely will have the effect of considerably modifying what originally seems to have been intended for a practically prohibitive tariff.

Offset

As it is difficult to describe the sun, so is it difficult to describe Offset—there is nothing to compare it with. Offset is not printing—neither is it lithography—it has advantages and possibilities peculiar to itself. Offset is a distinct process for putting words and pictures on paper and the fidelity with which it reproduces line or wash drawings, photographs or color, on either matte or coated paper, has won for it an immediate welcome whenever certain results are desired.

In Offset, Gazette maintains the same exceptional standard of quality that characterizes Gazette printing, engraving, art, writing and all Gazette services. Write or telephone and a trained representative will call with fine examples of Gazette Offset.

Let him explain the advantages of Offset. He can explain why and where it should be used. Perhaps Offset is the medium you have been looking for to make your direct-by-mail matter or other literature "different."

The marriage was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of Miss Grace Leonora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Douglas MacKinnon, of Sherbrooke, to Mr. John Malcolm Stewart Macdonald, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Macdonald, also of Sherbrooke. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alfred Bright.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by friends of the bride, with palms, ferns and maple leaves. The organist, Prof. J. E. Jennings, L.M.S., D.C.M., A.C.C.O., played softly throughout the service.

The bride entered leaning on her father's arm, to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin. She wore a simple draped gown of white chiffon velvet with Vionnet sleeves and court train of Spanish lace. She wore her mother's wedding veil of bridal tulle, with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of Scotch roses, lilies of the valley and white heather.

The maid of honor, Miss Helen McCaw, wore a green bouffant frock of tulle and tulle, a flowered bandeau, silver shoes and stockings, and carried Ophelia roses.

The bridesmaids, the three sisters of the bride and Miss Marion Macdonald, sister of the groom, wore bouffant frocks of maize and yellow tulle, bandeaux, silver shoes and stockings, and carried arm bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums and oak leaves.

The groom, the father of the bride, Mr. Bert Barclay, the best man, the ushers, Messrs. R. Morgan, F. Parker, D. Kittredge and S. Denmore, wore boutonniers of white heather, especially sent from Scotland for the occasion by the groom's uncle.

The mother of the bride wore burgundy chiffon velvet, with hat to match, and a corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

The mother of the groom wore black chiffon velvet with touches of rose, a black sealine hat and corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

The old Scottish service was used by the minister. During the signing of the register the choir sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden."

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Following the reception the young couple left for an extended trip by motor. Going away the bride wore a travelling dress of brown charmeuse, a vagabond hat and brown fur-trimmed coat. She wore also the gift of the groom, a platinum wrist watch set with diamonds and sapphires.

THE INDISPENSABLE HUSBAND

(By MILDRED BARBOUR)

CHAPTER III.

A Warning.

Aileen's taxi sped up Madison Avenue to avoid the late afternoon traffic on Fifth. She sat in a corner of the jolting cab, a fur wrap swathing the green and gold teagown which she had had no time to change, and wondered whether she were on her way to attend her grandfather's death bed.

The valet had said merely: "The master's had a sinking spell, Miss Aileen. He's called for you. The doctor hasn't come yet."

Dunstan had wanted to accompany her to her grandfather's door and Champman, looking his reproaches for the rude breaking off his latest composition, had likewise half-heartedly offered. But Aileen refused.

"Stay and see that everybody gets a drink and a sandwich. Don't break up the usual schedule just because I'm not here. Tell the crowd I'm sorry to miss them."

She spoke lightly, flippantly, but her eyes were very serious. She was really fond of the crabbed old man in his lonely house on Upper Fifth Avenue, even if their two wills always clashed. He'd been half an invalid for so long—somehow she's never thought about him actually dying.

But when she finally reached the house and found him sitting up in bed eating a custard and sipping a glass of fine old port, her solicitude turned to inward anger. She felt sheer fury at herself for becoming so worked up.

He eyed her maliciously. His old face was puckered into a million wrinkles like a wicked, little, old gnome, but his black eyes still snapped with a semblance of youthful vigor.

"Didn't expect to see me so soon again, eh?" he croaked, "or sitting up taking nourishment either."

Aileen slipped out of her wrap and sat down sulkily.

"If it was a trick, I think you might have chosen something less alarming," she remarked.

He eyed her teagown with tightened lips.

"I was having some people to tea," she explained distantly, "and I had to run away rudely."

"That the kind of dress you wear to receive young people of both sexes?" he asked.

"Certainly," responded Aileen shortly, ignoring his reference to her sleeveless gown with its diaphanous folds.

"In my day, a decent woman put on no more than a nightgown before she went into the parlor," her grandfather remarked pointedly.

Aileen waited wearily. She had endured one lecture from him earlier that day. What, she wondered, was the reason for another?

"I suppose," he continued acidly, "that the folks you left in your place are that same crowd of long-haired men and short-haired women that you run with?"

"Yes," Aileen closed her red lips tightly over a rebellious speech.

The old man sighed. He set the emptied wine glass on the bedside table and for a long time, studied his pretty, mischievous granddaughter in silence.

Finally he said brusquely: "I didn't fool you, Aileen. I did have a bad spell—the worst one I've had in years. But it passed, even before the doctor came. Heaven he praised. It told me something though. It warned me." His old head wagged slowly.

"Aileen," the piercing old gaze turned toward her. "What are you going to do with your life? What are you going to be?"

She made a weary little gesture. "Grandfather, we've gone into that so often—even today."

"Have you picked out any decent man to marry?" he went on not heeding her. "Is there a man who'll love you and look after you when I'm gone? Are you going to have fine, strong, honest children that your dead ancestors would have been proud of, proud to have bearing the name I'm leaving you?"

"Grandfather!" Aileen, mutiny forgotten, flung herself on her knees beside him. "Grandfather, don't talk like that! Don't talk about leaving me! You know I love you. But I can't do the things you want. I can't live like a slave. I want my freedom, my right to independence, my right to marry as I choose to bear children if I choose."

He looked down at her, at the bright hair almost under his hand, at the lovely, mischievous, passionate face, at the white shoulder revealed by the sheer chiffon that billowed around her as she knelt.

"You're a lovely thing," he muttered, "a dangerously lovely thing. You're headed for trouble."

"Grandfather," she touched his hand, her eyes lifted appealingly, "I do love you grandfather. You won't talk of leaving me?"

He stared across her head straight before him, as though his bright, old eyes saw a vision. A little ghost of a smile touched the wrinkled mouth.

"But," he said slowly, as though in answer to a voice which Aileen could not hear, "I'll save her. I know a way."

"Two months later he died."

GAVE A LECTURE ON MISSIONARY WORK IN AFRICA

Pictures and Explanations Furnished Vivid Glance into Work Carried on by Bible Society.

The assembly hall of Cambridge School was filled with an interested audience yesterday afternoon to listen to an illustrated lecture on missionary work and the progress of the work of the British and Foreign Bible Society in Africa, given by Mr. Banfill, who has spent over twenty-five years in the dark continent, and who tells a most interesting story of the great work done there.

Mr. Banfill went to Africa with a pioneer mission party to establish inferior work. On the western coast is the Nupe tribe, a primitive people, and here the mission worker lived, learned their language and arranged it to writing, so it could be taught to them as other languages are being taught.

He compiled a dictionary of 13,000 words, a grammar and other school books, and has translated three-fourths of the bible into the Nupe language. This tribe numbers a half-million souls, and the territory stretches along the west coast, and the banks of the Niger river for about five hundred miles.

Mr. Banfill has been with the Bible Society for eleven years, and his agency includes fifty million people, scattered over an area of three thousand miles, and where there exists many different languages. The Bible Society now prints the Bible in 184 African languages, and in 579 world languages. Bibles are being sent out at the rate of ten and a half million a year. The work is so extensive it can hardly be grasped, but when such a lecture as Mr. Banfill gives can be listened to both children and adults can gain an idea of the wonderful work of the British and Foreign Bible Society in heathen lands.

Most interesting slides were thrown on the screen during the lecture, and as Mr. Gordon Hatcher explained in introducing the speaker, he told of people and things he had seen and knew about. Mr. Banfill was the first white person the Nupe tribesmen had seen, and his account of his first experience with them was interesting indeed.

Among the pictures were an oil palm, the most valuable tree in the world; natives listening to a Salvation Army band, the speaker here explaining that they were much attracted by the band and the uniforms of the men; a Christian African chief, who had been the guest of King George; the talking drums of Africa, by which the natives could send messages for miles; idols guarding the entrance to the God of Thunder's temple; a crocodile which had been kept for the sole purpose of eating twin babies, a custom which had been abolished by the government; a huge pile of peanuts, the speaker explaining that the natives of Kano sent to England 200,000 tons of peanuts yearly; Nupe villagers with their quaint huts, and many other pictures, each being described in an entertaining way.

The whole lecture was enjoyed, both pictures and the explanations giving even the younger children a vivid glance into a far-away land where faithful men and women are trying to clear away the dark cloud of heathenism. The work of the Bible Society is progressing with the years, and interest is retained through such avenues as is given by these instructive lectures, yet the cry is for more help, more money, more interest, and the officers who come to Sherbrooke annually appreciate the good attendance at the lectures and the reports that are given in by the local representatives.

Rev. Mr. Banfill also gave a most interesting lecture in St. Peter's Church Hall last evening before a fairly large gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cramer, of Way's Mills, accompanied by Mrs. Susie Streeter, of Springfield, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Miller.

Miss Annie Fraser was called to Fontenoy by the illness and death of her aunt, Miss Julia Fraser. The late Miss Fraser frequently visited here and made friends by her kind and gentle manner, who regret her death and sympathize with her relatives in their loss.

Mrs. Rochefort and family, also Mrs. Lacombe, of Richmond, were calling on Mr. and Mrs. A. Pepin on September 28th.

Mr. E. L. Miller has bought two thoroughbred Jersey cows from the government accredited herd of Mr. G. Solomon, of Melbourn.

RUTH BANGS OUT THREE HOMERS AS YANKS DEADLOCK SERIES; PENNOCK AND SHERDEL TO GET CALL TODAY

Ruth's Record-Breaking Series of Long Distance Blows Yesterday Drew Unstinted Applause from Greatest Crowd Ever Assembled in a St. Louis Ball Park—Cardinals Used Five Pitchers—Hoyt Was Hit Pretty Freely, But He Tightened Up in Grand Style in Pinches—Final Score Was 10 to 5.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 7.—Boards of strategy of the Cardinals today were in conference to devise ways and means, if any, to curb the home run activities of George Herman Ruth. As preparations went forward for the fifth and last game of the World's Series in St. Louis, the 'big bat' of the slugging Ruth was regarded as a distinct menace to St. Louis' aspirations for world supremacy in baseball.

The home run situation was entirely out of control in the fourth game of the series, when Ruth three times hit for the circuit and so inspired his mates that a ten to five Yankee victory made the series all even again.

Cardinal rooters thought that Ruth's impressive offensive yesterday could be diagnosed as only a light attack of fever for that portion of the St. Louis pitching staff, five in number, called to labor during the afternoon. Yankee enthusiasts insisted that it was a stroke of paralysis.

Showed How Far Science of Home Run Hitting Can Be Developed

Ruth's record-breaking series of long distance blows drew unstinted applause from the greatest crowd ever assembled in a St. Louis baseball park—the paid attendance being 38,825. Many of the assembly came to scoff and remained to cheer. The player with baseball's greatest punch was formally initiated in "the Order of the Razzberry" before the game, but the crowd paid tribute to the greatness when he showed just how far the science of home run hitting can be developed and jeered at Hallahan when he permitted discretion to prove the better part of valor and walked the Babe on four straight balls in the eighth.

The crowd had properly reached a conclusion that the ball game was lost to the Cardinals anyway and, since one home run, more or less, meant nothing in an affair like yesterday, seemed to hope that Ruth would give future generations something to shoot at by lofting another pitch out of the park.

The fifth game was promised under fair weather with rising temperature. A perfect baseball day yesterday restored confidence in a weather man who had lost many friends Tuesday, and plans for today's game went forward without hesitation. Only fresh pitchers were expected to replace the overworked corps on duty yesterday. Hafey and Douthit, who did a tumbling act in the fourth inning, completed a recovery that was begun soon after their collision, for both distinguished themselves later in a game which developed few Cardinal features. Each hit safely and Douthit threw out a runner at the plate.

Pitching Choices Today
For pitching choices today Managers Huggins and Hornsby were expected to turn back to the page of the score book showing the opening game of the series, when Herb Pennock downed Willie Sherdel two to one. There was a possibility that Hornsby at the last minute might call on Grover Cleveland Alexander, but Sherdel was regarded as the more likely nominee, with Alexander the Great saved for service at the Yankee Stadium on Saturday. Sherdel has a slow curve and one a bit slower, and while experts agreed that his curves can be hit into the right field stands, they said such a feat is not easy. Pennock is rated among the best of American League pitchers and held the Cardinals to three hits in the opening game of the World's Series.

Yesterday's result drew the loudest cheers from representatives of railroads under tentative contract to transport both ball clubs and others interested in the current play back to New York to close the baseball fight for the year. Special trains were scheduled to leave immediately after today's game and due to reach New York early Friday evening.

Cardinal Twirlers Were Wild
The fourth game resulted in merit badges for "Babe" Ruth and demerits for the Cardinal pitchers. St. Louis introduced five tenants of the pitchers' box for brief periods of occupancy, and four of them distributed ten bases on balls.

Reinhart was generous to a fault. He sat in on the game in the fifth inning after Rhem had retired under fire, although technically moving out to make room for a pinch batsman to hit a sacrifice fly. The left-hander passed Combs, and permitted Koenig to drop a Texas Leaguer into right, converted into a two-base hit by way of an unintentional kick from Hornsby and a mud puddle. Reinhart then began to give bases on balls with apparent abandon. After he sent Ruth, Meusel and Gehrig to first without an opportunity to hit the ball, he was removed from the cast.

Herman Bell, who responded with alacrity to a summons to get the invaders out, did so with dispatch, but two of the outs were made at the cost of New York runs. Other Yankee runs developed as the game wore on, but these were enough, added to two personally conducted across the plate by Ruth and another scored during the tumbling act of Hafey and Douthit.

Hoyt, serving for the American League entry, was fairly generous with hits, but stingy with runs. He permitted as many safeties as the quintette of Cards yielded, but except in two innings kept them scattered. With perfect support he would have escaped unharmed in the fourth chukker, when three St. Louis runs were counted.

Game Was a Riot for Statisticians
The game was not a great contest from the standpoint of a technician, but was a riot for the statisticians. Playing his seventh world series game in a position to smash records of the classic on the slightest provocation and he did his full share.

Other incidents out of the ordinary cropped out at frequent intervals. Old-timers recalled when Hafey and Douthit collided that a similar mishap befell two St. Louis outfielders in the opening game of the 1888 world series. Meusel became dizzy in the midst of the game and had to come in from right field for a drink of water and some vigorous fanning from a trainer. Throughout the game Cardinal and Yankee players either over-estimated their speed or under-estimated the throwing ability of their opponents. They fell by the wayside at the plate, third and second base trying to score on stretched hits.

Speculation Is Rampant
With the series again deadlocked speculation became rampant. Yankee rooters declared that Ruth is the barometer of his team's attacking power and when he hits home runs his mates may be depended up to at least drive out singles.

Cardinal supporters countered with the observation that the National Leaguers have two great pitchers left, Sherdel and Alexander, and that Ruth has done no home run hitting at the expense of either. B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, went on record with a prediction that the Yankees will surely win. "They've got to win and they will," said he.

Men who let their dollars talk for them were willing to wager five to four against the chances of either Yanks or Cards and two and a half to one against either winning the next two games.

The probable line-up today:
New York—Combs, cf.; Koenig, ss.; Ruth, lf.; Meusel, rf.; Gehrig, 1b.; Lazzeri, 2b.; Dugan, 3b.; Severeid, c.; Pennock, p.
St. Louis—Douthit, cf.; Southworth, rf.; Hornsby, 2b.; Bottomley, 1b.; L. Bell, 3b.; Hafey, lf.; O'Farrell, c.; Thevenow, ss.; Sherdel, p.

Umpires—Dineen at plate; O'Day at first; Hildebrand at second; Klem at third.

DETAILS OF THE PLAY

First Inning

Yankees—Combs struck out. Combs let a fast curve break over the plate striking out. Koenig also struck out, taking a called third strike. Ruth got a home run over the right field stands, hitting the first ball pitched. The ball fell into the adjoining street. Meusel got a base on balls, the fourth pitch being outside. On the hit and run play Gehrig singled into right and Meusel went to third. On the throw in Meusel raced for the plate and was out. Southworth to Hornsby to O'Farrell. One run, two hits, no errors.

Cardinals—Douthit beat out a hit to deep short, hitting the first ball pitched and Southworth singled into centre, Douthit going to third. With Hornsby up the Yankee infield played back. Douthit scored on Hornsby's single to right. Southworth stopping at second, Bottomley sent a fly to Ruth, the runners holding their bases. Bell filed out to Combs. Southworth raced to third on the catch, a sacrifice fly for Bell. Hornsby held first. Hornsby stole second, but Hafey struck out. One run, three hits, no errors.

Second Inning

A NEW RECORD FOR PLAYERS' EARNINGS
(Associated Press Despatch)
NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 7.—The present world series will establish a record for players' earnings, with each member of the winning team receiving $9,254 and the losers $4,168. The players' figure in the receipts of the first four games only.

The previous record was in 1923, when the New York Yanks received $6,143 and the New York Giants $4,112.

fourth pitch being outside. Lazzeri scored on Dugan's two bagger into left, Douthit and Hafey collided trying to make the catch. The two players were knocked to the ground and were unable to arise to make the play on Lazzeri, who rushed across the plate as the ball bounded away from Douthit. Time was called and the players of both clubs rushed to the outfield. It was apparent that both players were badly shaken up. After a couple of minutes the two St. Louis outfielders arose and the Cards took their places in the field. The crowd cheered when it seemed that both players could continue in the game. Play was resumed. Severeid singled into centre and Dugan was thrown out at the plate. Douthit to O'Farrell. Hoyt struck out, taking a called third strike. One run, two hits, no errors.

Cardinals—Koenig made a nice running catch of Bell's fly. Hafey got a single over the middle bag. Meusel came in from right field to second base and the players gathered around him. The trainer was called and it appeared as if Meusel was ill. He washed his face several times with water. The trainer talked to him for several minutes, after which he went back into right field. Play then was resumed. Koenig fumbled O'Farrell's grounder when a double play was in sight. Hafey going to second. Hafey scored on Thevenow's double to right. O'Farrell going to third. Torporcer batted for Rhem and flied to Combs. O'Farrell scoring on the catch. Combs throw was wide. Thevenow held second. Thevenow scored on Douthit's double to right. The stands were in an uproar. Southworth singled to left and Douthit was thrown out at the plate. Ruth to Severeid. Three runs, four hits, one error.

Fifth Inning
Yankees—Reinhart went into the box for the Cardinals. After Reinhart had warmed up a bit, Combs came up to the plate. Combs was given a base on balls. Koenig followed with a double into right and Combs scored by fast base running. Ruth walked, the fourth pitch being outside. Hornsby came in and talked to Reinhart. Meusel got a base on balls and the bases were filled. Koenig scored when Gehrig got a base on balls. The bases were loaded and Hornsby sent Reinhart to the showers. Herman Bell was called into the box. Ruth scored on Lazzeri's sacrifice fly to Southworth. Meusel going to third on the catch, but Gehrig holding first. Meusel scored while O'Farrell was throwing Dugan out at first. Gehrig going to second. Gehrig went to third on a balk. Severeid was purposely passed. Hoyt forced Severeid. Hornsby to Thevenow. Four runs, one hit, no errors.

Cardinals—Lazzeri took Hornsby's hopper and threw him out. Bottomley got a base on balls. Dugan threw out Bell at first. Bottomley going to second. Hafey struck out, swinging for a third strike on a fast ball that curled around his neck. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning
Yankees—Combs beat out a hit to deep short. Koenig fanned, swinging on a drop curve. Hornsby went over and talked to Herman Bell. Ruth hit another home run into the deep centre field stands, scoring Combs ahead of him. Ruth's hit shattered all world series home run records. Meusel singled to right, but was out stretching it. Southworth to Hornsby. Gehrig pumped a long hit into left for a base, but Lazzeri popped to Thevenow. Two runs, four hits, no errors.

Cardinals—Ruth's hit into the centre field stands was the first time that a hit went to that section of the stands. O'Farrell got a single past Dugan. Koenig made good stop, but could not make a throw.

Seventh Inning
Yankees—Hallahan, a left hander went into the box for the Cardinals. Hornsby gathered in Dugan's grounder and threw him out. Severeid singled off Hallahan's glove for his third hit. Hoyt sacrificed, Hallahan taking his bunt and touching the bag. Severeid scored on Combs' double to left. Koenig fanned for the third time. One run, two hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning
Yankees—The crowd cheered as Ruth came to the plate. Ruth got a base on balls and Meusel also received four wide ones. Gehrig sacrificed Bottomley to Hornsby. Bell took Lazzeri's grounder and touched ed Ruth out as Ruth slid back to the base. Dugan walked, filling the bases. Severeid fouled out to Bell. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Inning

YANKS NOW ARE SLIGHT FAVORITES.
(Associated Press Despatch)
NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The St. Louis Cardinals, slight favorites to win the World's series when they took the lead of two games on Tuesday, were shoved back again to the small end of the wagers today, as betting commissioners offered five to four on the New York Yankees to win today's game, and ten to nine for the series.

Bets of twelve to five against the Yankee chances of winning the next two games and sixteen to five against the Cardinals taking two straight were reported.

Commissioners explained the change of sentiment favoring the Yanks as the result of the team's powerful hitting yesterday.

a real cold weather gasoline

IT is no trick to make a gasoline that will start quickly. But to make such a gasoline without sacrifice of power and mileage, has long been a problem that has baffled the best brains in the oil industry.

The discovery of Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound--after 7 years' research in the General Motors Laboratories--has enabled us to solve the problem.

We produced a very special grade of quick-starting gasoline--of even higher quality than the splendid Queen Gasoline. We added this Ethyl ingredient. We thus achieved a gasoline that, while "light" enough to explode the moment the spark jumps, gives more power and longer mileage than any winter gasoline heretofore made or sold in Canada. And in addition, it makes your motor absolutely knockless. 1 cent more per gallon than Queen Gasoline, which it replaces--but emphatically worth it.

Fill with Imperial Ethyl. In the first mile it will show its superior acceleration. On the first hill it will reveal its truly remarkable climbing performance. On the first cold morning it will prove its readiness in starting.

You will come to it some day soon--why continue to miss the driving thrills, the real motoring satisfaction, you can get by filling with Imperial Ethyl!

REMAINS OF THE LATE S. F. MOREY BORNE TO REST

Funeral Held at Plymouth Church Yesterday Afternoon and Attended by Former Friends and Acquaintances—Dr. Read Delivered Impressive Oration.

The funeral of the late Samuel Footie Morey, whose death occurred at the Montreal General Hospital on Monday, October 4th, in his eighty-first year, was held here yesterday afternoon from the chapel of Lords' Funeral Home, and was largely attended by former friends and acquaintances of the deceased.

The remains of the late Mr. Morey arrived in the city yesterday noon, and were accompanied by his son-in-law, Mr. A. A. Bowman, and Mr. C. C. Hoyt, both of Montreal.

The funeral service was held at Plymouth United Church, with Rev. Dr. G. Ellery Read, the pastor, officiating. During the service the church choir rendered the hymns, "Father, I Know That All My Life," "My God, I Thank Thee Who Hast Made," and "For All Thy Saints." Mr. Kendall presided at the organ.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. E. L. Stewart-Patterson, A. M. Sangster, F. A. Briggs, Neil Dinning, C. H. Bowen and E. W. Farwell.

Following the service the remains were conveyed to their last resting place in Elmwood Cemetery.

Dr. Read Delivered Impressive Address

During the service Dr. Read delivered a very impressive oration in which he said:

"You will recall the words with which that glorious eleventh chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews ends. The writer has led the Hebrew Christians through periods of incidents of their national history, and in broad master strokes drawn some of the great and dominating characters who had lived and died in the conquering faith that out of what they sought to achieve God would bring in a new era, a better day, a more vital and spiritual order. These men and women paid a great price for their strivings, suffering and tears, agonies indescribable, even life itself. But all was forgotten in the tremendous sweep of their faith, the conviction that the Eternal God would give substance to the things that their hope and faith led them to visualize as already realized in the far-away future. Through mists of the grey morning they glimpsed the glory of the noon-day splendor, and when they closed their eyes on the world that had failed to see what they had seen, it could be said of them: 'They all died in faith.'"

"Of course, then as now, there were those who cynically asked, 'To what purpose was all their suffering, their tears, their blood? The world will move on as it has done from the beginning. Puny man cannot change the pre-determined, nor transform the existing order by his feeble efforts. This has ever been the soul-stifling criticism of the advocates of moral and spiritual inertia, the men who have never understood that God has summoned man to work with him in the fulfillment of His purposes.

"The men of faith and vision have never had any illusions as to the immediate outcome of all their strivings. They have known, and they know now, that they can make but a small contribution to the sum total of that far-off divine event and they know that only at last, when all is complete, shall they themselves be made perfect; for there can be no individual perfection without the perfection of the whole.

"So the writer of this Epistle interpreted their living, their striving, their hoping, their dying. They saw the end afar off, and themselves as individuals whose lives had found their full-orbed perfection in the community of all those who had shared their faith in the triumph of the Captain of their Salvation, Jesus Christ.

"To put this interpretation in a few words, we may say that life is worth living nobly and well because of the contribution each man may make to the fulness of life for all men, and that this must be kept in view notwithstanding all the apparent lack of results which so frequently leads to discouragement and despair. 'Such fights alone are triumphant. Fight on in faith!'

"Such, in brief outline, was the conviction of the writer of this great Epistle, and such has been and ever will be the conviction of those who with undimmed eyes look down the vista of the years and share the splendors of the shining way with Him who dwelleth in Light Eternal.

Here Today to Pay Last Tribute

"Today we have met to pay our last tribute in a public way to the memory of one who held this conviction with all his heart and who in his distinctive way sought to lead men beyond the material, the outward show of things to an understanding of eternal and spiritual values. Life for him was spirit, not a brief and disappointing affair of a few fleeting years. God had set man in a spiritual order and had so constituted him a part of that order that he could never be satisfied in seeking to quench his thirst at time's broken cisterns. He must ever move on towards God Himself.

"It was my privilege in the intimacies of my fellowship and service with him in the church to know something of the faith that animated him in his many-sided activities in this city. Behind them all lay a deep, passionate conviction in the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. He believed that this first relationship involved the second, which should be evident to all, but, unfortunately, is not; for many of us utter glibly the prayer that Christ taught us without giving a serious thought to the implications of the universal brotherhood it contains. To believe in the Fatherhood of God involved, for him, a solemn obligation to serve his brother man according to the abilities he possessed.

"But beyond this conviction concerning the obligations of service was another, namely that our Heavenly Father in His all-wise goodness would not suffer any discipline to be a part of life's experience unless it were for the benefit of His children. There could be no purposeless suffering in the world. Sometimes we might think so, but that is only because we cannot see life in its universal and eternal relations. Man's very sorrows, sins and failures only serve to emphasize this truth. Through them we learn that there can be no fullness of life but in God.

"In this church he gave expression to his faith by the service he rendered to its membership. Here he loved to worship and to serve. In the church school, on the board of deacons, in various other activities, he showed forth his faith by his works. He became a member of the church in February, 1884, on the same day as his co-worker whose name we commemorated here a week or so ago, the late Thomas M. Cowan. Such men have made the Church of Christ a holy influence in every community.

Lover of Nature and Beauty

"Many of us will remember our beloved friend as an ardent lover of nature and beauty. In his early life he found his kinship with God through His created works, and as he grew into the mature judgment of manhood he came into the consciousness of kinship with those who not only perceived beauty but were able to express what they saw in literature and art. This experience was for him mystical and spiritual. Nature was the symbol of something deep hidden in the lives of men. Sometimes he expressed himself through the medium of poetry. One of his compositions was on the subject of friendship, in which he passed from joy in nature to the mystic interchanges found in the life of friends.

"He could not be content with a lonely love for the beautiful in nature and art. That love was something to be shared, something that led to the heights and depths of communion in friendship with those who knew him.

"Through what has already appeared in the local press we have been reminded of the relationship of our friend to this city, of his zeal in behalf of the influences that should lead us to appreciate beauty and truth. The tribute paid to his devotion to the aesthetic aspect of community life by 'Onlooker' some years ago was more than well deserved. It put in a moderate and restrained way the conviction, if broadened by every word that proceeded out of the mouth of God, and that one of these words we are strangely deaf to in this age of hurry and rush after the things that perish in the using. The word of beauty is being uttered by God every day to us, and we pause not to listen nor to look. Through his constant call and his patient endeavors he accomplished something

SUDDEN WHIM OF FERDINAND SAVED ROYALTY

(Associated Press Despatch)

BUCHAREST, Oct. 7.—A sudden whim of King Ferdinand yesterday saved a whole boat load of royalty from possible serious injury or death.

With former King George of Greece, Prince Christopher of Greece and several of his nephews and a princess of Hohenzollern, King Ferdinand was motor-boating at Braila, on the Danube. The King's entourage followed the royal boat in another craft.

Acting on the spur of the moment, King Ferdinand decided that he and the members of the royal party would take the boat occupied by his entourage. Hardly had the change been made when the engine on the Royal launch exploded, injuring several persons and forcing the others to dive into the water. The King's party hurried to their aid and pulled the dripping servants to safety.

J. K. L. ROSS STRICKEN WITH APPENDICITIS.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 7.—J. K. L. Ross, of Montreal, president of the Montreal Jockey Club, and owner of one of the largest racing establishments in Canada, was operated on in the Union Memorial Hospital here yesterday at noon. Mr. Ross was attending the races at Laurel, where his horses are being trained.

For this city set in the midst of beauty. Others labored with him, and what we have is largely the result of their efforts under his inspiration. Art gallery and library, park and cemetery are with us as a part of our community possessions in which he was deeply interested and largely instrumental in establishing.

"Time forbids that I should linger longer in this imperfect tribute to one to whom I myself owe more than I can tell. I would only ask that today as we signify our esteem and gratitude for one who lived his life here with such public-mindedness, we may resolve to carry on with fidelity and zeal the work in which he was so deeply interested and for which he wrought so earnestly. No better way could be suggested by which we may honor one whom here we so thankfully commemorate. If there be in any mind a touch of sadness that at times, as 'Onlooker' said, our friend might have been the man with a lonely furrow, let us remember that he labored not for a day or for a generation, but for generations yet unborn, and that he has left to this community a priceless legacy of unselfish service."

Montreal Conservatives Suggest that Choice of Party Chief Be Deferred Until Calling of Representative Convention.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—Calling for a "representative convention of the party" and suggesting that choice of a permanent leader be deferred until such a convention takes place, and also recommending that "immediate steps should be taken by means of conferences of representative members of the party from the various provinces to formulate a platform to be presented at such convention," the Montreal Conservative Club yesterday unanimously passed a resolution urging that the next leader of that party be selected upon the choice, not only of the various leaders, but also of the rank and file.

The resolution was proposed by J. McDonnell and seconded by S. W. Ewing. This was the second gathering of the club, which was organized a short time ago.

SIR THOS. WHITE REFUSES TO DISCUSS POLITICS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 7.—Asked on his return to Toronto last night about his reported meeting with Right Hon. Arthur Meighen in Ottawa yesterday, Sir Thomas White stated that it was on no political motive that he went to Ottawa. "I went there," he said, "on the invitation of Chief Justice Anglin, of the Supreme Court of Canada, to attend the dinner given by His Lordship to the new Governor-General."

Sir Thomas said he had there met Premier King, Mr. Meighen and many others in the public life of the country and had a "very interesting" time.

FRENCH AND GERMANS EMBRACED EACH OTHER

Congress of Pan-European Union Requests League of Nations to Study Limitation of Customs Duties.

(Associated Press Despatch)

VIENNA, Oct. 7.—French and German students solemnly embraced one another yesterday at the closing of the first Congress of the Pan-European Union.

During the closing session the union adopted a resolution asking the League of Nations to study the limitation of customs duties and to tighten the economic ties of European countries, including the economic union of certain groups of states, as a transitory measure. The resolution said that the stabilization of all currencies should be the basis of such a scheme.

Another resolution expressed the wish that Britain and Russia would collaborate closely with Pan-Europeans within the League of Nations upon the basis of a general system of Locarno treaties.

Col. J. S. Dennis, of Montreal, spoke on the interesting subject of the future of Canada and emphasized the fact that if Canada was to prosper that colonization was absolutely essential. This address will be treated fully in a later issue.

Lunch at The Brunswick.

Lunch was had at the Brunswick Hotel, very favorable comments being heard regarding the excellent service.

Level Crossings.

During the afternoon some discussion took place regarding level crossings and a motion suggesting that an automatic gate be placed at the so called "Prouty Crossing" on the Sherbrooke-Stanstead highway was adopted.

Proposed E. T. Fire Brigade.

J. K. Edwards, of Sherbrooke, gave a brief address on the common interest of the towns in the Eastern Townships, pointing out that the advent of the automobile was a great factor in promoting friendship and cordiality towards neighbors.

One of the subjects stressed by the speaker was the advisability of having some central fire pump, so that any town in the townships could call upon its services in case of a large fire. His Worship thought that the most central spot would be Sherbrooke, and added that if this was done the City of Sherbrooke would house the machine and supply men to run it.

The old and dilapidated sheds and barns here and there on streets and along highways were then referred to by the speaker, who thought that they were a reflection, not only on the owner, but on the community. If the owners were unable to afford to have to have them torn down, a subscription should be taken by the community to pay for demolishing.

In closing, the speaker urged that the towns and cities of the Eastern Townships should be in the highest state of cleanliness and repair so that a good impression would be carried back by the visitors when they returned to their homes.

RALLYING TENDENCIES IN EVIDENCE ON WALL STREET

(Associated Press Despatch)

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Rallying tendencies were in evidence at the opening of today's stock market, despite continued liquidation of a few specialties. Initial gains of one to three points were secured by Allied Chemical, Dupont, American Smelting, Woolworth, New York Central, Southern Railway and Baltimore and Ohio, while large blocks of United States Steel, Hudson Motors and Radio changed hands at fractionally higher prices. Foreign oil shares, such as Royal Dutch, were heavy, and Coca Cola, General Railway Signal and Electric Refrigeration were under pressure.

BISHOP'S PLAY LOYOLA HERE ON SATURDAY

First Intermediate Intercollegiate Game to Be Played in Local Football, at Lennoxville Saturday Afternoon—Keen Game Promised After Good Showing Put Up by Locals in Montreal Last Week.

The first Intercollegiate intermediate game ever played in this district will be the programme of football at Lennoxville on Saturday afternoon, when Bishop's University and Loyola College, Montreal, face each other for the second time this season. This game ought to prove one of the keenest and best rugby games yet played in Sherbrooke or vicinity, not only because it is the first intermediate game in the history of local football, but because it is a struggle between two old rival colleges and an important fixture in the League. The opening contest of the Intermediate Intercollegiate series was played in Montreal last Saturday, when Loyola downed Bishop's after a strenuous hour's play by six to one, and only after Bishop's had been leading in the first three periods by one to nothing. This game, the first for the locals in the higher grade of the sport, resulted in a considerable surprise for supporters of the purple and white, as just a year ago the Loyola juniors had trimmed the Lennoxville boys by a far worse score than this year, and into the bargain McCaw, last year's captain, on whom Bishop's had been counting for another good year's play, was missing from the line-up, not being back at college this year.

Now that they are so encouraged by the first game, and considering that that Saturday they are playing on their home field, the Lennoxville boys are in an optimistic mood, and are of the opinion that they can make it a win. Loyola, however, will probably be in far better training than they were a week ago, and will have their captain, the speedy and dangerous "Moose" Bannion, playing, after being laid out thus far by an injured knee. So a hard and earnest game is promised and the local football fans ought to have a real afternoon's enjoyment.

The game will be played on the Bishop's College campus and will commence at three o'clock.

The purple and white have been having hard work-outs under their coach, Herb Murphy, and will end up on Friday afternoon with signal practice and running. While T. Johnston, trusty quarterback of former years, will not be able to play on account of a broken finger, Loomis, who was unable to play in Montreal, will be on hand and should help out on the line considerably. Robertson, who injured his knee in the opening game last week, is again on deck, but Hall, who was also injured, will not be amongst the spares yet.

The probable line-ups for the game will be:

Bishop's—Flying wing, Rider; halves, Klein, Robertson, Dinan; quarter, C. White; snap, Sperber; insides, Jeffers, Loomis; middles, Creighton, Parkinson; outsides, Kenney, Wade.

Loyola—Flying wing, Cannon; halves, Savard, Cummings, Bannion; quarter, Smith; snap, McCarty; insides, Anglin, Pigeon; middles, McCarty; insides, Anglin, Pigeon; middles, McCarty, Wiggins; outsides, Timmins, Boyle.

PRACTICE TONIGHT AT PARADE GROUNDS

Last night a very good workout was held by the Sherbrooke Club on the Y.M.C.A. gym floor, when most of the members were on hand. Tonight a full practice is again called for the Parade Grounds at 6:30 o'clock sharp. Every member of the Club should be on hand for the workout.

Arrangements are practically completed for the trip of the Sherbrooke team to Quebec for the game on Saturday, but some difficulty is being experienced in the financing. The executive of the Club feel that in promoting rugby and other kindred sports they are doing one of the best things that the youth of Sherbrooke needs, and while the present results may seem small, the future should show clearly the ever widening circle of usefulness and helpfulness, not only to the youth but to the city at large. One thing that is to be clearly understood is that every expenditure is cut down to the minimum and every cent of income will be fully accounted for. To date those who have subscribed are: Dr. W. W. Lynch, and C. B. Howard, $10 each; H. G. Munro and R. Webster, $5 each. It is estimated that the trip to Quebec will cost in the vicinity of $125 to $150, and there has been to date no gate receipts, hence all who are interested should subscribe freely.

GOLF

ST. FRANCIS TO HOLD CLOSING DINNER ON SATURDAY

Mr. D. J. Salls, president of the St. Francis Golf Club, calls the attention of members to the closing dinner to be held at the club house on Saturday, October 9th, at 6:30 p.m., which will probably be the last event under the name of the St. Francis Golf Club. The executive committee is anxious that as many members as possible be present.

The captain is busy preparing a match to be played on Saturday afternoon, followed by the dinner, at which all the past presidents of the club have been specially invited to attend.

The officers would appreciate that all members intending to be present phone H. E. Wilson, 539; D. A. McManamy, 25, or P. H. Skelton, 1880, not later than tomorrow, Friday.
