RAILWAY ACCIDENTS

A decrease in the number of railway killings in the United States is noted by Slaton Thompson of the bureau of railway news and statistics. He remarks that passengers and railroad employees killed in railroad accidents in the United States during 1908 were fewer by 1,322 than those killed in 1907.

During the year 119 passengers and 491 employees were killed in accidents to trains, such as collisions and derailments. This was a reduction in deaths due to train accidents of 70 per cent for passengers and 51 per cent for employees. The British railroads got through the year with only six fatalities to employees and without killing a passenger in train accidents. Mr. Thompson points out, however, that in the United States there are 230,000 miles of railroad to only 23,108 in the United Kingdom.

The decrease in fatalities to passengers on the American railroads took place in spite of an increase in passenger traffic. A similar striking reduction of accidents was shown in the year following the financial panic of 1893. Mr. Thompson declares the conclusion unavoidable that the marked diminution of fatalities in railroad accidents last year was due almost entirely to the decrease in freight traffic following the panic of October, 1907. That decrease slowed down railroad operation, increased the observance of rules for safety and caused a reduction in the number of engineers, firemen, conductors and others exposed to accidents. It resulted, as did the slackening of traffic in 1894, in the weeding out of inefficient railroad employees. Mr. Thompson holds that the eliminating of negligent and incompetent men from the service of the railroads was a great factor in the decrease in fatalities in 1908.

It is urged by the Chicago News that with the loudly-heralded return of prosperity, the railway corporations should devote increased attention to the development of habits of carefulness among all persons engaged in the handling of trains. It certainly seems a patent proposition that life on the road should be as safe in times of prosperity as in times when the carrying trade is not so brisk.

NATAL AND CONFEDERATION

A hitch has unfortunately taken place in the arrangements for the new Commonwealth of South Africa. The colony of Natal is the cause. It has a considerable body of men who are opposed to the terms of union as approved by the second session of the National Convention. In consequence a referendum is now to be taken to decide whether or not Natal will enter the union; and the signs are not promising. The Pietermaritzburg Chamber of Commerce has already declared, by 19 votes to 12, against union; and it is feared that vote reflects the feeling of the majority of the people in Natal.

The people in Natal should certainly think twice before refusing to cast their lot with those in the other colonies, though their dislike to the terms may be quite understandable. They should bear in mind that to conciliate them many concessions were made to Natal at the second session of the convention—some of them even at the expense of British interests in the other colonies—and if they now refuse to homologate the Constitution they will be acting in a rather shortsighted manner.

It is said that Natal prides itself on being considered the most British of all the South African colonies, and if it be so then there is the more reason that it should do nothing rashly. There is no doubt that Cape Colony, the Orange River Colony and the Transvaal will unite whether Natal does so or not; and as Natal's welfare is bound up with theirs it would, sooner or later, be compelled to join them, and that probably on not so advantageous terms as are now offered. Natal is the natural outlet for the Orange River Colony, as well as for a great part of the Transvaal. Already it has had to face and solve difficult problems arising out of railway rates and traffic and Customs arrangements. These questions might recur in an acute form should Natal remain outside the union. Besides, it is not generally thought that in an isolated position Natal would be so well fitted to cope with the ever-present, troublesome question of native races, as it would be as part of the Confederation. On the whole it is thought that if Natal refuses to enter the union now it will not only damage its own interests, but also those of Britain in the whole of South Africa. It is to be hoped, therefore, that Natal will sink its own grievances, and decide to enter the union.

WHY SHOULD GERMANY TAKE OFFENCE

Lord Rosebery's speech on Empire defence has offended Germany. The press of that country treats it as a species of defiance, and declares that it tends to make mischief. One of the Berlin papers says it will "result in a strong revival of the agitation which has kept Europe in breathless suspense. This is a strange situation. All that Lord Rosebery has done is to repeat, in ornate language, what has often been said before in less picturesque terms, namely, that the British Empire, if it is to stand, must be prepared to defend itself, and that its defence must be undertaken unanimously.

How such a statement can be an offence to Germany is one of the things that it is difficult to explain. It happens, however, that on the very day that Lord Rosebery spoke the German Navy League held its meeting at Kiel. There speeches of an extreme character were indulged in. Count Reventlow, for example, asserted that "England's claim to rule the seas is preposterous." "Germany and the other rising naval powers," he said, "must contest for supremacy!" Baron Engel added that Germany must create a naval armament "which will be powerful enough to wrest the control of the seas from England." Admiral Koester took up the same parable. "Germany," he declared, "must continue her work, and perfect a fleet which will enable us to cope with our most powerful marine rivals." The league, after contributing to the happiness of mankind a mass of oratory in which the destruction of the power of Britain was the main feature, concluded by passing a resolution demanding a navy that will "stand supreme in the world." After this outburst, the complaints entered as a result of Lord Rosebery's moderate suggestion that Great Britain and Greater Britain must stand together in the defence of Empire are almost ludicrous. The navy league practically declares a war against Britain, and then the Berlin press raises a terrible outcry because a British statesman says the British Empire must unite to take care of itself.

Germany is evidently opposed to the co-operation of the various portions of the British Empire for defensive purposes. Its press treats the mere suggestion that there should be such a union as hostile. But if any agency contributing towards the condition which Germany dislikes, that agency is Germany herself. The German pamphlets, such as Nach dem Sturm, which tell of the downfall of the British Empire, and the talk of the navy league about wresting the control of the sea from Britain, are more persuasive in their arguments in behalf of British union than even the speeches of Lord Rosebery.—Mail and Empire.

IMPERIAL IDEALS

At the time of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee the popular phrase, "What we have we'll hold," ran round the Empire. It partly voiced Imperial sentiment. The true Briton has other ambitions besides mere forcible possession of the territories which make up the Empire. The history of the race embraces nobler traditions. Sir Edward Grey has completed the phrase. He has given a better definition of those sentiments which inspire the British people. The true Imperial policy is "to keep all we have, to consolidate and develop it, to quarrel as little as possible with other peoples, and to uphold in the councils of the world those ideals by which we set so much store."

In this highly condensed sentence from the Foreign Minister's address to the Press Conference in London are found the true motives for Imperial consolidation. We are not to be aggressive. As far as possible we must avoid international disputes. Yet we are hardly called upon to lie down and let other nations trample upon our rights. We are to maintain our present world-wide heritage. We are to unite in the development of all our natural sources of wealth. We are to consolidate for purposes of mutual advantage and defence. Above all, we are to continue to lead the nations in the spread of liberty and civilization throughout the world. To borrow a line from Stevenson, here is a task for all that we have of fortitude and delicacy.

The message conveyed by Mr. McKenna, the First Lord of the Admiralty, is that supremacy on the seas means supremacy on all seas. The widely scattered Empire borders on every ocean. Canada faces the Atlantic and the Pacific. Australia and New Zealand present long coast lines to the Southern Pacific. South Africa, India and the other British possessions are all largely maritime in character. We here in the Dominion, they of the Commonwealth and the people of the new African Federation are all vitally interested in the maintenance of British naval power. The oceans are our highways of commerce, and henceforth it is to be our privilege to help keep them open. The history of the nations shows that diplomacy unbacked by force is powerless. As long as war-like peoples enlarge their armies and navies, the peace-loving law-abiding nations must have troops and fleets in order to protect themselves and to maintain the cause of justice in the world.

Britain's role as a peacemaker has been exemplified in the settlement of the Balkan crisis. The British Embassy has played an important part in the ascendancy of the party of reform at Constantinople. The peaceful revolution there accomplished was inspired by British ideals of free government, and aided by moral support and the promise of material assistance from Westminster in case of emergency. If the younger British States stand by the Mother Country and each other as they should, the British Empire will continue to be the all-powerful champion of popular rule, constitutional government and peace and liberty throughout the world.—Toronto News.

Darting Pains Around Shoulders and Spine

"It would be impossible for me to tell how much I suffered with a sort of travelling rheumatism. It wasn't confined to any particular spot, but wandered over all that area from the neck to the small of the back. Sharp, shooting twinges and dull, gnawing aches finally stiffened out my muscles and left me so helpless I had to give up work and go into the hospital. I stayed there three weeks and felt better. Still I wasn't cured and as soon as I started back to work again the pain was as bad as ever. I fortunately read of the strange, powerful effect Nerviline has over such pain and at once I got five bottles. Four times each day Nerviline was rubbed over the seat of the pain and I could feel it sinking deep into the muscles and sinews that were stiffened and sore. In a short time I was limber, active, free from pain and perfectly cured. "No other liniment could have cured me but "Nerviline," and I strongly urge its use for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, strains and swellings and all other muscular affections." (Signed) A. M. McLelland. REMEMBER THIS: Nerviline is five times stronger, far more penetrating, possesses more pain-relieving power than any other known remedy. For fifty years its use has been universal. Beware of the substitute, ask for and get Nerviline only. Large 25c. bottles at all dealers.

HEROINE OF THE RAILWAY

London, June 11—One of the most remarkable acts of heroism that have ever been reported to the Royal Humane Society of Australasia came under the notice of the court of directors at the last meeting. On the approach of the Goulburn Valley train at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, Mrs. Kennedy, the wife of a line repairer, saw a little girl on the rail. She rushed on to the line and snatched the child from almost under the engine, falling in such a position that the train passed within nine inches of her head. The directors were unanimous in granting the first gold medal they have ever awarded to a woman.

LONDON SUICIDE NOW REVEALED

London, June 10—According to the statements published in the London papers to-day, Mary Agnes O'Brien Ruise, who was divorced a year ago from Antonio M. Ruise, a Cuban diplomat, and whose name was mentioned prominently in connection with the divorce case of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, committed suicide in her home in Grosvenor street, May 16th, by shooting. The newspapers also state that an inquest was held on May 19th, but that the facts in the case were suppressed, and the affair is now being investigated.

Mrs. Ruise came to London last April, and with an American companion, Miss Caney, took a furnished house, where she had numerous visitors. During the early part of May, however, she became ill. On May 16 Miss Caney heard a shot in Mrs. Ruise's room, and on entering found the patient lying in bed, with a bullet wound in her breast and a revolver at her side. A physician was summoned but Mrs. Ruise died the same night.

Liver and Stomach Wrong

Indigestion, Bad Color, Pale, Fatigued, Those Oppressed by Palpitation and Heart Pains Will Find Interesting Facts in this Article.

The following letter is printed with the hope that it will show a clear road to health to those who suffer the pangs of indigestion and weak stomach. "I am anxious to send the message of hope far and wide to all who are in poor health, as I was a year ago," writes Mrs. Ernest P. Gomez, from Meriden. "For years I have had a weak stomach and have experienced all the distress caused by indigestion. I may say that the heart pains, watery risings at times almost drove me wild. For a time I could scarcely eat a mouthful without causing myself endless misery; I could not sleep well, my color was fearful, dark circles under my eyes, bad dreams, etc. "As a last hope I was persuaded to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. As I persevered with this treatment my appetite gradually returned, and I began to relish my meals. My strength slowly returned, and headache and chest pains grew less severe, and at last I began to look my old self again. Dr. Hamilton's Pills cured me, and I use them occasionally still because I find as a system regulator and health-supporter no medicine is equal to them. "The same medicine that so wonderfully restored Mrs. Gomez will also cure you, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00. Beware of substitutes. By mail from The Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont.

VICTIM OF HER DAUGHTER'S LOVER

Rich Hungarian Widow Murdered in Her Own Garden.

London, June 11—A mysterious murder which has been extensively discussed in Hungary for several weeks has taken a sensational turn. A month ago at Szabadka, Marie Haverda, a rich widow, was found shot in her garden, and the police were unable to prove the guilt of any of the numerous persons arrested in connection with the affair. Mme. Haverda left over £100,000 to her only daughter, Alexandrine Jarmanzy, an extremely beautiful woman who lived in Buda-Pesth in great style though her mother, who hated her extravagance, had long ceased to give her money. It has only now become known, says a correspondent of the "Daily Mail," that Alexandrine was suspected by the police, who ascertained that she had been hard pressed by her creditors. Nothing could be proved against her, as she was in Buda-Pesth at the time of the murder. The police however, shadowed all Alexandrine's admirers, and circulated their portraits in Szabadka and neighbourhood. At last they discovered that two of the men were seen by a railway official at the station near Szabadka on the day of the murder. These two men were arrested, but declared that their identification was a mistake. The police, however, kept them in custody, and one of them, Andar Janosy, made the startling confession that Alexandrine, of whom they were both passionately fond, had besought them to murder her mother, so that she could get her money, until they had complied. They drew lots, and it fell to Janosy to commit the crime. He sneaked into Mme. Haverda's garden and shot the old lady. When Alexandrine heard of Janosy's confession she declared that it was true, adding that a certain Leopold Klein, her chief creditor, had so often suggested the idea of getting rid of her mother that she finally acted on his advice. Klein, who is the director of a small banking institute, was arrested last night.

You Can Defy the SPRING FATIGUE

And nervous exhaustion, if you will make the blood rich and red by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Fatigue and weakness tell of weak, watery and impure blood. Are you going to get through the usual suffering and discomfort of spring this year or take a hand in the matter of your health and build up the system? It is for you to decide, for you know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, by forming new, rich blood, overcomes the fatigue, weakness, the feelings of depression and discouragement which come with spring. The nervous system is almost always exhausted in the spring. Your appetite fails because the nerves which control the appetite are exhausted, and so it is with digestion and the working of the other bodily organs. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest of spring medicines because it forms the new, red blood from which vigor, energy, and nerve force are created. If you would restore the healthful glow to the complexion, sharpen the appetite, improve digestion, strengthen the action of the heart, revitalize the wasted brain and nerve cells and round out the wasted form you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. No imitation is just as good. There is no substitute but will disappoint. Mrs. John P. Shannon, Whiteside, N.S., writes:—"I used four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it an excellent medicine. It has proved to be a splendid treatment for headache and a run-down nervous system."

SUICIDE IN SCHOOL

London, June 11—A singularly dramatic suicide is reported from Clermont-Ferrand, in the South of France, where a schoolboy named Nemy blew out his brains on Tuesday during an afternoon lesson. Tired of life and hating Latin; the boy added a touch of peculiar pathos to his end by first scribbling on a piece of paper on his desk in Latin words, "Hail, friends, he who is about to die salutes you." His last attempt at the hated language produced a final "howler," the invocation failing to agree with the plural noun. At the time of his death he was engaged in writing a Latin theme. The task displeased him, and he said to a comrade, "It is hardly worth while going on with this theme, for it will never be finished." A few minutes later he left his seat and went towards the door, as if to quit the class-room. Before reaching the exit he drew a revolver, and in full view of the assembled school blew out his brains. Nemy, who was a promising scholar had often threatened to kill himself in order to escape school drudgery and Latin compositions, for which he had a special aversion, but his threats were not taken seriously. The suicide of an uncle deeply impressed him. "I've had enough of life," he used to say. "I shall do as uncle did." On Monday he told the boy sitting next him that he would commit suicide on Tuesday morning. The morning passed, and his school-mates jested at him. "Wait till three o'clock and see," he answered. "It was a quarter past three when he carried out his threat. Probably if women were not so inquisitive men would not be so deceptive.

LOCATING A BROKEN WIRE.
When a telegraph wire is broken or damaged, say several hundred miles away, how does the operator, sitting in his office, know exactly where the accident occurred? The explanation is simple. It requires, as everyone knows, considerable force to send electricity through a wire. The longer the wire, the greater, of course, must be the force required. This force is measured in units called by electricians "ohms." Let us suppose that a wire between a New York office and a point one hundred and fifty miles away has broken somewhere. The telegrapher knows that when the wire was intact there were required, say, twenty-one hundred ohms to facilitate the current or fourteen ohms to the mile. He now finds that he can send a current with only seven hundred ohms. Dividing seven hundred by fourteen, he finds that the break in the wire is 50 miles from his end.

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back brought on by excesses, unnatural draining, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So, I have determined to send a copy of the prescription, free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it. This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men, and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor-failure ever put together. I think I owe it to my fellow-man to send them a copy in confidence, so that any man, anywhere, who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what, I believe, is the quickest-acting, restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. ## OLD CANON LAW CAUSES TROUBLE

Essex rector seeks to enforce one Dating from Saxon Times.

London, June 11—Little Canfield, a tiny parish in rural Essex, is the scene of trouble between rector and parishioners.

The rector, the Rev. Thomas Hill, refused to marry the daughter of Mr. George Stammers, a former parish warden, at Canfield Church on Saturday last. Mr. Stammers was for two years people's warden at the church, but he has not attended recently because of differences with the rector. Mrs. Stammers complained to the Bishop who ordered the ban to be announced.

On Saturday, however, the rector of Little Canfield refused to perform the wedding, and the young couple had to drive to Birchanger, ten miles away, where the bridegroom, Mr. Alfred Banks, lived. There the rector, the Rev. William Cam, who is also rural dean, performed the ceremony, and gave the couple the Church's blessing.

The Rev. Thomas Hill, interviewed by a representative of Lloyd's News, said: "I refused to marry the couple because an ancient canon law of the Church says there shall be no wedding between Rogation Sunday and Trinity Sunday. These are not the times for people's thoughts to be distracted by weddings, nor should the parish priest's teaching be interrupted by performing such ceremonies. I am a priest of the Church, and it is my duty to teach both my parishioners and other clergy what the law is."

I certainly refused to marry the couple at this season. I was formerly principal of the Theological College at Sydney and at Edinburgh, so I know what the law of the Church is in these matters."

From inquiries made in Canfield it is clear the rector's explanation is not regarded as satisfactory. The help of the bishop is again to be sought.

The law quoted by the rector dates from Saxon times.

INDIGESTION CURED EVIDENCE IN PLENTY

Your Neighbors Can Tell You of Cures by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Every case of indigestion, no matter how bad, can be cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Not only cured, but cured for good. That's a sweeping statement and you are quite right in demanding evidence to back it. And it is backed by evidence in plenty—living evidence among your own neighbors, no matter in what part of Canada you live. Ask your neighbors and they will tell you of people in your own district who have been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills of dizziness, palpitation, sour stomach, sick headaches, and the internal pains of indigestion. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure because they strike straight at the root of all stomach troubles. They make new, rich blood, and new blood is just what the stomach needs to set it right and give it strength for its work. Mrs. Geo. E. Whitener, Hatfield Point, N.B., says: "I am glad to have an opportunity to speak in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for they deserve all the praise that can be given them. I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which was often accompanied by nausea, sick headache and backache. As a result my complexion was very bad and I had black rings under the eyes. I took a great deal of doctor's medicine, but it never did more than give me the most temporary relief. About a year ago I was advised to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. Before I had taken a couple of boxes I found relief, and by the time I had used a half dozen boxes I found myself feeling like a new woman, with a good appetite, good digestion, and a clear complexion. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for this trouble and advise similar sufferers to lose no time in taking them. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all the troubles which have their origin in bad blood. That is why they cure anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, eczema, St. Vitus' dance, partial paralysis, and the many ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or two boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BETRAYED BY LOVE

London, June 11—A daring Portuguese smuggler chief has just been taken by the police at Antwerp, under circumstances that read more like romance than reality.

The man was named Rodriguez, and his raids were conducted on such a reckless scale that a Government reward of the equivalent of £100 was offered for his capture. The king of smugglers only laughed at this, and went openly every day to the village to visit the beautiful girl he loved.

Although the girl returned his passion, the course of true love was not to run smoothly. Her father communicated with the authorities, and as the joyous smuggler was nearing the home of his loved one a strong force of civil guards suddenly appeared.

Through taken by surprise, Rodriguez defied himself valiantly. Pulling out a revolver, he shot one of the guards dead and wounded two others. However, he was overpowered and carried off in a half dead condition.

AN ITALIAN PALACE DRAMA

Sensational Bonmartini Murder Recalled by Countess's Release.

London, June 11—One of the most sensational crimes ever committed in Italy was recalled on Thursday by the unconditional release of Signora Linda Murri, the widow of the murdered Count Bonmartini.

She had already enjoyed three years partial liberty, conditional on her residence in Porto-San-Georgio at the villa of her father, Prof. Murri.

Among the famous crimes of Italian history the story of the death of Count Bonmartini was a prominent place. He was the head of a noble family, and married the daughter of a professor at Bologna. The pair differed in political and religious family tradition, and the marriage was unhappy from the first.

Bonmartini's friends say he was distracted by her constant hunger for gaiety. The countess's party, however, said that the murdered man was a heartless and cruel libertine.

In August, 1902, the Countess Linda went to Venice with her children. Later the count returned to Bologna from his country house. He was never seen again alive. The countess telegraphed for news of him, and had no reply.

His home in Bologna was a palace in which, after Italian customs, other families rented apartments. When the door was broken down there lay the count's corpse in the entrance hall, with twelve dagger wounds in it. He had been killed as soon as he passed his threshold, for his umbrella and bag were beside him.

Searching the apartment, the police found evidence which to their mind showed that Bonmartini had been murdered by the accomplice of a woman whom he had himself admitted. The widow, after receiving the expressions of general sympathy, left for a holiday in Switzerland.

Shortly afterwards anonymous letters concentrated the suspicions of the police upon Tullio Murri, the countess's brother.

Following the clue, they questioned a woman named Rosina Bonetti, Tullio's mistress, and their suspicions gathered. A new chapter began when Prof. Murri, playing the Roman father, suddenly denounced his son as the murderer.

Tullio, when arrested, pleaded that in a quarrel over the count's ill-treatment of his wife he had killed him with a knife which the count had drawn upon him.

No one believed him, and when the trial began at Turin the countess, Rosina, and two medical men named Secchi and Naldi were in the dock with Tullio.

It was nearly three years after the murder that the case was opened. It dragged its course for six months. At the end the court professed itself convinced that the murder was the work of Tullio and Naldi, the latter having used the stiletto with a surgeon's skill "for a consideration." They were each sentenced to 30 years of solitary confinement. The countess and Secchi, who is said to have been her lover, were given ten years apiece, and Rosina Benetti seven years.

Tullio, Murri, Secchi, and Naldi are still serving their sentences, but it is generally believed that the whole story of the tragedy has not been told.

GREEDY BACHELORS

London, June 11—French society is much exercised as to the greediness of bachelors, who are anxious to obtain big dowries rather than good wives. It was stated in Paris on Sunday by Mme. Madeleine Lemaire, the accomplished artist, that she recently heard a young dowry-hunter declare that he would not marry any girl unless she had £16,000. He added, cynically, that her character, disposition, and accomplishments were unimportant details. The dowry was the only thing that counted.

Mme. Adolphe Brisson, wife of the eminent dramatic critic, says that formerly a girl who brought her husband a dowry of £4,000 was considered very eligible, but to-day that amount is looked upon as insignificant.

M. Paul Marguerite, the author, laments the exaggerated importance attached to the dowry in France, and M. Marcel Prevost, the distinguished novelist, commends the system of "love matches" obtaining in England.

DANCE IN LION'S DEN

London, June 11—There was great excitement at a fair at Longton, Staffordshire, on Monday, when Miss Amy Williams, who is engaged as a barmaid at a local hotel, entered a lion's cage and executed a dance in the presence of a full grown lioness. Miss Williams, who was accompanied by a trainer armed with a large stick, showed no sign of fear. The lioness crouched in the corner of the cage at the opposite end to that at which Miss Williams entered, apparently not at all pleased at the intrusion. Once inside the cage, Miss Williams immediately began dancing a hornpipe, and, despite menacing growls from the lioness, completed the dance before leaving the cage.

A MARVELOUS WATERFALL.

One of the highest waterfalls on earth and the highest, perhaps, when the volume of water is considered, is the Kaieteur fall, on the Potaro river, Essequibo, British Guiana. The height is 741 feet, nearly five times that of Niagara. The width varies from 350 to 400 feet in the rainy season and the depth of water passing over simply ranges from a few feet to 20. Even in extremely dry seasons the river has a depth of 35 feet a quarter of a mile above the fall.

There is now some talk of making use of this tremendous contract by converting it into electric energy and it is calculated that the fall would supply over 2,200,000 horse-power.

A GOOD STEAK.

"A steak that has the fat marbled in it, is the best to eat," said Dr. P. F. Trowbridge, Professor of Agricultural Chemistry in the Agricultural College of the University of Missouri, in a recent lecture. "Pale, pinkish steak is Sunshine Furnace is designed and constructed to heat a house, church, school or store, and does this more satisfactorily than any other known furnace or other style of heating apparatus. It does this more rapidly than the hot water boiler because, as soon as fire is started in Sunshine Furnace, heated air can be obtained for the rooms.

It does this more conveniently than the hot water boiler, because it has no radiators to take up room, congregate dust and mar the paper and woodwork.

It does this more hygienically than the boiler because pure air is admitted to the furnace through a cold air pipe.

His Doctor Advised Him To Take Dodd's Kidney Pills.

And He Found Them to be All They Were Advertised—How and Why Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure.

Montreal, Que., June 11 (Special).—Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by our family physician, and I must say they have proved to be what they were advertised.

This statement made by L. J. R. Hubert, the well-known advocate of 214 James Street, is a double tribute to Dodd's Kidney Pills. It shows that they are recognized by reputable medical men as a peerless remedy for diseases of the Kidneys, and also that they do just what they are advertised to do. They cure diseased Kidneys and put them in condition to clear all impurities out of the blood. They cure Bright's Disease, Diabetes and Backache, because these are Kidney diseases. They cure Rheumatism, Lumbago and Heart Disease, because these are caused by impurities in the blood that the Kidneys would strain out of the blood if they were in good working order. If you haven't used them yourself, ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN

IS THIS WOMAN PURSE-SNATCHER

Important Arrest Made Yesterday by Constable Copeman of City Police.

An arrest made yesterday by Constable C. Copeman, at St. Patrick's Church will, in all probability, put an end to the series of thefts by which women have been victimized of late while attending services in the different city churches. It will be remembered that cases of purse snatching have recently been successfully accomplished by a woman in the Basilica and in the Parish Church of St. Roch's.

Yesterday afternoon, previous to the arrival of the funeral of the late Edward Neville, at St. Patrick's Church, a woman was noticed in the galleries, who was observing with interest the movements of the congregation below.

At this moment, it happened that Mrs. McDonald arrived in church and deposited her purse, containing about $13 on the seat of the pew in which she was kneeling. The woman in the gallery was seen to quickly descend and enter a pew adjoining that of Mrs. McDonald. The latter shortly afterward noticed that her purse had been changed and that instead of a full one an empty one had been substituted. She also noticed that the woman who had occupied the pew alongside of her had also disappeared. She immediately made for the door of the church and overtook the stranger, who when she saw Mrs. McDonald coming restored to her her purse, claiming that she had taken it by mistake. A woman friend, in the meantime had notified Constable Copeman, who was outside the church, and from the description given him he was not slow in locating the alleged thief and took her into custody on d'Arroux street. She was taken to the Central Station, where after she had first given her name as Blanche Archambault, afterward acknowledged that it was Adelaide Gagnon. Efforts are now being made to identify her with the woman who had already been operating in the Basilica and St. Roch Parish Church, and she will be brought before the Court of Sessions this morning to answer to the charge. She is a woman over 30 years of age, and a resident of St. Sauveur.

Drink Beauport Lager. It is the best.

EUROPEAN MAILS.

Yesterday, in the Court of Sessions, a man accused of stealing a quantity of wearing apparel from a stranger, pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence.

NEW LODGE.

A meeting of the R. A. O. E. was held last night when further steps were taken towards the foundation of the lodge. A hearty response to the call for members is being made and any one desirous of joining will note that the next meeting will be held on Friday next at 8.30 p.m. in the Neptune Inn.

SIR ROBERT PERK'S ADDRESS.

The lecture given last night at the Methodist Church by Sir Robert Perks proved most interesting and was greatly appreciated by the members of the congregation present. After the meeting had opened with a prayer and hymn, Sir Robert gave his views on the benefits which would arise from a concerted movement on the part of Methodists in Canada and in the old country in finding positions for immigrants. He cited many examples of young men, skilled craftsmen in different lines, who were unable to find positions simply on account of their not knowing where to apply. After Sir Robert had finished his lecture, Rev. Mr. Williams and Rev. Dr. Jackson made some suggestions as well as some of the members of the audience.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

The following building permits were issued at the City Hall during the past week:—A. Fackney, contractor, erection of another story to building on St. Augustin street, A. Bouchard & Co., contractors, erection of building on St. Francois street, cost $2,200; W. Blais, proprietor, erection of building on St. Helen street, cost $1,000; J. Bertin, proprietor, repairs to building, Crown street, cost $6,000; Mme. Ph. Prunet, repairs to building, Queen street, cost $1,000.

MME. JARRAND ARRESTED.

Mrs. Jarrand, of Montreal, against whom a "True Bill" for theft at Paquet's store last summer, was returned by the Grand Jury at the recent term of the Criminal Court and against whom a bench warrant was issued on Thursday, arrived in town yesterday morning and put up at one of the local hotels. Her appearance in the local police authorities and the police authorities and yesterday Detectives Sylvain and Patry went to the hotel and placed her under arrest. She was taken to the Police Court and subsequently lodged in jail, where she is occupying quarters in the infirmary. She will probably be brought back to court some day next week.

NICKEL THEATRE.

The animated views of that famed and popular book entitled, "Oliver Twist" are shown among a well selected programme of other illustrated views, at the change of programme that took place at the Nickel Theatre yesterday. As this book, "Oliver Twist," is widely read by Quebecers, it is needless to say that this play, shown on the screen, will prove a very interesting and enjoyable one to all who attend the Nickel's week-end entertainment. Laughter will know no bounds when "Lunatics in Power," "He Couldn't Dance, But He Learned," "Empty Sleeves" and "Empty Slaves" are shown. These three films are the latest issued in the fun making line, and are sure to be appreciated by the Nickel Theatre-goers. Miss Dolly Grace, Miss Jackson and Mr. Edwards will be heard in three fine illustrated songs.

PLEASED WITH QUEBEC HARBOR

Sir Robert Perks Given a Trip Yesterday by the Commissioners.

Sir Robert Perks, M.P., London, Eng., who is on a visit to Canada in connection with the Georgian Bay Canal, was given a very pleasant trip round the harbor yesterday afternoon by the Harbor Commissioners. Sir Robert, who has been spending the last two weeks in the Maritime Provinces, arrived early in the afternoon and boarded the S.S. Pilot at 2.45, accompanied by his son, where he was met by many prominent citizens, including Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Senator J. P. B. Casgrain, Mr. Alphonse Bernier, Mayor of Levis, E. Bellenger, K.C., J. G. Scott, G. D. Davie, Thomas Vien, Roger LaRue, George Tanguay, D. Arcand, J. A. Blais, Dr. Alfred Roy, A. G. Lambert, J. B. Michaud, A. E. Omer, J. S. Thom, Uric Barthe, Auger Chaput, L. J. Gagne, A. Laprise and R. Leduc.

The Pilot then made the tour of the harbor, passing close to the Empress of Britain and the Graving Dock, and skirting the south shore as far as the Grand Trunk station, then returning by the Quebec shore.

Sir Robert Perks expressed himself delighted with the trip and thanked the Harbor Commissioners very warmly. He had visited, he said, all the important ports of Canada but he considered that Quebec compared favorably with any.

BUSH FIRES NOW RAGING

Great Damage Being Done in the Lake St. John Region and Elsewhere.

Unless rain comes speedily, there promises to be terrible devastation from forest fires. Already serious conflagrations have been reported from various sections, and a pall of smoke floated over the city at intervals yesterday. Last evening, in particular, the smoke was thick and the odor of burning wood was strongly in evidence. Fires are reported from the Lake St. John district and from the North Shore, not to speak of the great blaze which has been eating its way through New Brunswick for some days past.

Passengers by the incoming Lake St. John train late last night state that the bush fires are particularly fierce and are doing considerable damage between Lake Edward and River a Pierre, and that the flames in some places almost reach the railway line. As there are a large number of fishing club houses in that region it is said that several are in danger, and yesterday fears were entertained for the camps of the Jacques Cartier Club, near Beauport station. Bush fires are also raging behind St. Raymond while reports have also been received from Les Escoumains and the North Shore that considerable damage has been caused in that district.

PROTESTS HIS INNOCENCE.

Dr. Bouillon, according to a despatch from Matane, protests his innocence of the charge of professional negligence alleged against him. He states that the accusation against him is ridiculous and untenable and a plot to ruin his reputation.

REGRET AT DR. MORIN'S DEATH

Resolutions of Sympathy Adopted by the Board of Trade at Special Meeting.

News of the death of the late Dr. Ed. Morin was received with universal regret yesterday. At a special meeting of the Quebec Board of Trade, held yesterday morning at 11.30, under the presidency of Mr. Mantefiore Joseph, a series of resolutions of regret at the death of Dr. Morin, who was first Vice-President of the Board, were unanimously adopted. Sentiments of eulogy and regret were expressed by Messrs. Joseph, W. E. Wiggs and J. G. Scott, after which the following resolutions were adopted on motion of Mr. J. G. Scott, seconded by Gen. E. Amyot:—

"Resolved,—That the members of the Council of the Quebec Board of Trade have heard with the deepest feelings of regret of the premature death of Dr. Ed. Morin, first Vice-President of this Board; that we consider the death of Dr. Morin to be an almost irreparable loss to the Quebec Board of Trade; that Dr. Morin held for the Quebec Board of Trade, as he did for all organizations and all enterprises of a nature to favor the development and the progress of the city, a sincere attachment and profound interest, and that he had rendered our organization inappreciable services on many occasions by his ideas and suggestions always full of practical sense; that Dr. Morin, at the time when death snatched him from the affection of his family, occupied an important position as a member of the Board of Trade, a position which he had won through the confidence so justly reposed in him on account of his eminent qualities, which were recognized by all business men; that as a sign of sorrow and a mark of respect for the memory of the deceased, the Council immediately adjourn its deliberations and that the Secretary be instructed to transmit to the press of the city for publication a copy of these resolutions, and also a copy to the family accompanied by a letter expressing the profound and sincere sympathy which the officers and members of the Council of the Board of Trade feel for them in their great sorrow and deep affliction; resolved that the members of the Board of Trade be requested through the papers of the city to assist at the funeral of the deceased on Monday next."

It was also decided to forward a floral tribute from the Board. It will take the form of a broken column between three and four feet high, with the inscription "Chambre de Commerce de Quebec." As Dr. Morin had been for two years Vice-President of the Board, and in the natural course of events would become its next President, it is confidently expected that there will be a very large attendance of the members of the Board at the funeral.

The local branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, of which the late Dr. Morin was President, will also send a floral tribute in the form of an anchor and inscribed "C.M.A."

QUEBEC TURF CLUB MEETING

Every Prospect Points to a Successful Race Gathering This Year.

Everything now points to a very successful race meet in Quebec this year, and the project is being received with great enthusiasm by all followers of the royal sport. A meeting of the Club is to be held at the Chateau Frontenac on Tuesday evening next, when a number of important matters in connection with the meet will be discussed and decided. The hope is expressed that all the stewards of the Club will be in attendance, and that all will put their shoulder to the wheel and assist in making the coming meet one of the most successful ever held under the auspices of the Club.

It is quite probable that Lieut.-Col. Ashmead, the popular Secretary, will leave on the following Wednesday for Montreal to make arrangements with horse owners to race at the Quebec meet.

TWO FOOTBALL GAMES.

The Quebec Football League schedule decided to-day on the Q.A.A. Grounds, one between the R.C.R. and the R.C. G.A. No. 1 team, at 3.15 p.m., and the other at 6.30 p.m., between the Quebec and Chateau eleven. Both games promise to be very interesting, as all teams concerned are fighting hard for the championship. The team to represent Quebec will be chosen from the following:—Toburn, Wells, Spry, Lewis, Shires, Murray, Sutton, St. Clair, Walberton, Brown, Watts, Dugdale and Rylance.

BOAT RACE TO-MORROW.

The boat race between the crews of the Clip and the Guess, originally fixed to take place on Sunday week will instead be rowed to-morrow afternoon. The course will be from Lewis to Quebec, and the race will take place between 2 and 3 o'clock. The race promises to be a well-contested one.

JACK JOHNSON'S PLANS.

Chicago, June 10—George Lytle, manager of Jack Johnson, declares the colored boxer will probably start training either in this city or Cedar Lake for his bouts with Al Kaufman and Stanley Ketchell. He said that Ketchell's easy victory over O'Brien last night will not have any effect on Johnson's plans. His meeting with Stanley Ketchell is set for Oct. 12, and that with Kaufman for Sept. 15 or 19. Johnson is now in Boston. He is expected here on June 22.

OTTAWA PLAYERS RETURN.

The threatened action of the Capital executive to import players to take the places of the strikers, has apparently had the desired effect, as Butterworth and Ashfield made their appearance in uniforms at the last Capital practice. Satisfactory terms were arranged between the pair, and the management had contracts signed for the season. It is said that the club has also opened negotiations again with Jack Powers, Hutton and Fred Taylor, and it would not be surprising to find the trio in the line up against the M.A.A. on June 19. It now looks as if the breach between the executive and players would be satisfactorily healed.

AFTER THE MINTO CUP.

Toronto, June 11—The Tecumsehs will leave for New Westminster a week from to-morrow night after they play Cornwall in a championship N. L. U. game at the Island. Saturday, the 26th, and Tuesday, the 29th of June, are the dates set for the cup games between the Indians and New Westminster and Querrie's braves. They will go in a special car and several friends will accompany them, J. J. McCaffrey being among the number. Jones and Kinsman have strengthened the Tecumsehs' defence 25 per cent, and with Charlie Querrie back on the home the Indians will be much stronger than last year. In the first game with the New Westminsters the Indians will play a fast, light home, and it does not prove effective a heavy home will be used in the second game.

GOLF NOTES.

Last Saturday two competitions were brought to a close, viz., the Watson Cup and the Challenge Trophy. Mr. G. B. S. Young, playing against Mr. Huettis in the final for the Watson Cup, developed a good steady game and came in winner by the narrow margin of one hole. For the Challenge Trophy, Mr. Percy Turcot was quite at the top of his game and returned a card of 90, which, with his handicap, gave him a long lead over the next nearest competitor. Mr. Turcot's win was very popular. The Club Gold Medal Medal competition, for the championship of the Club begins this (Saturday) p.m.

BASEBALL.

The Montreal Reserve Baseball Club, famous over the province of Quebec and especially in Quebec city, would like to hear from Quebec, Rock City and Lewis Baseball Clubs. The Reserve has started veeding out its players, and expects to round the team out by the end of the week. Bill Vandette, well known in Quebec, has been elected President and Manager. He is considered one of the greatest managers for producing good ball players that the game has known in the province. He has shifted some of the old hands and replaced them with young talent. All communications to be addressed to J. J. Kling, Sec.-Treas., Montreal Reserve B. C., 274 Church Ave., St. Paul, Montreal.

KING'S VICTORY VERY POPULAR

Great Enthusiasm was Manifested on Derby—Is a National Event.

The London Times has the following on the Derby: The victory yesterday of His Majesty's colt Minoru in the Derby will make the year 1909 a landmark in the history of the British turf. The exceptional popularity of the win was attested by scenes of striking enthusiasm in front of the royal box and in the enclosure at Epsom, and at many other places when the result of the race was made known. Though the King twice won the Derby as Prince of Wales, his fortune since his accession has been hitherto in abeyance. No victory could possibly have been more popular than yesterday's with all classes of His Majesty's subjects.

It is one sign of the thoroughly national character of the Derby that the first victory of the reigning sovereign should evoke the vivid and universal enthusiasm which was expressed yesterday. But an even stronger reason for popular satisfaction is the personal popularity which has long been enjoyed by King Edward as the first figure on the British turf. It is realized by all classes who have an interest in racing in England at heart that nothing for many years has done more to promote its prosperity and to preserve its good fame than King Edward's keen attachment to the proverbial sport of kings, both as King and as Prince of Wales. It may be hoped that His Majesty may win other Derbies before many more years pass; but no subsequent victory can possess the unique prominence of this first occasion.

WIDELY CONGRATULATED.

Universally popular as were his victories as Prince of Wales, they hardly carried the same representative importance; nor, indeed, were they wholly unprecedented, since the Derby was once won by the Prince Regent. The congratulations which were showered upon His Majesty immediately after the race will be re-echoed throughout the kingdom and Empire; and the success of Minoru will undoubtedly be welcomed as widely and sincerely among sportsmen abroad, by whom the name of King Edward has long been held in regard, as is compatible with the desire for national pre-eminence. At the moment of starting an American colt actually ranked as favorite. It will be greatly regretted by English sportsmen that the chance of the American were destroyed by an accident at a moment when there seemed at least a fair chance of his getting on terms with the winner.

NATIONAL CHARACTER.

The enthusiasm evoked by the King's win was typically expressive of the representatively national character which the Derby still retains, almost undiminished by the growth of other sports and pastimes. Of all annual sporting contests, perhaps only the university boat race holds a place comparable to that of the Derby in the affections of all classes of Englishmen, and the geographical surroundings of the boat race, as well as the isolated position as the day's one event, and the time of year at which it is rowed, are enough to have prevented it from building up an organization of festivity on quite the same scale.

GENERAL HOLIDAY.

Derby Day at Epsom is a holiday of all classes, and presents a fusion of all kinds of holiday interests, to a degree which is not found elsewhere. It is not a social occasion only, nor yet one where expert interest in racing is exclusively supreme, nor yet a pure holiday for the masses. It combines all these aspects, each of which is represented severally elsewhere. It is this community and fusion of the interests of different tastes and classes which gives it much of its national character, and much of its unique and lasting popularity. Something is due, no doubt, to the spaciousness and beauty of the surroundings of the course, and a good deal to the combination of these advantages with easy accessibility by road from London. It was probably this last advantage which did so much as anything to give the Derby its apparently almost fortuitous pre-eminence among the year's great races in popular esteem.

NOT SURPRISED.

But, however its national position was secured, it has for many years been a very real thing. No Englishman who understands his fellow-countrymen can feel that there is anything bizarre or unnatural in such a combination of aims as that ascribed to the youthful Lord Rosebery, of whom the well-known story goes, that he declared it to be his ambition to become Prime Minister of England and to win the Derby. Many men might be glad to cherish the same ambition, though few can be equally successful in realizing it.

The continuity of the hold of the Derby upon public interest does not seem to run any risk of being undermined by changes in social life and ideas of pleasure, great in many respects though these have been in the last couple of generations. The road promises to become, almost more than ever, the favorite means of access, though the rise to popularity of the motor car in its various forms has introduced a great superficial change during the last dozen years.

CRICKET.

There will be a match upon the Plains this afternoon when the Quebec Club will play Three Rivers. The following team has been chosen to represent Quebec:—Capt. Haggerty, Lt. Achard, Messrs. ### There are Seven Types of Men and 70 Variations from each Type

A thorough practical study of the proportions of the Human Form was made by the originators of the Semi-ready system, and the general types were divided:—

- Tall Man — Type C
- Tall, Slim — Type D
- Tall, Stout — Type G

From these we have a system whereby every conceivable variation of the normal, corpulent, or slim man can be perfectly fitted. Concise directions are given in our Physique Type Book, so that, whether a man be 'high' shouldered, stoop shouldered, or have sloping shoulders, he can have a perfect fitting coat. Height, the never-changing measurement, is helped out by weight, in our basic system.

The three illustrations shown above are among the designs shown in the normal types. There are suits at $18, $20, $25, $30—as high as you want to go in quality, and as low as it is safe to go in price.

BRITISH FORCE IN CANNIBAL AFRICA

Juju Centre Destroyed and Human Sacrifices Stopped—Poisoned Dart Perils.

London, June 11.—Interesting details of the expedition lately concluded by the Southern Nigerian Government, by which some 5,000 square miles of hitherto unknown and unadministered country in the north and on the borders of Northern Nigeria have been brought under effective control, were received by Reuter's Agency on Tuesday.

These operations, which were carried out among tribes who for the most part had never previously seen a white man, proved entirely successful, and were so managed that there was practically no serious fighting. They began early in November last, and only concluded in the middle of April.

The British force consisted of 700 men of the Southern Nigeria Regiment under the command of Colonel Trenchard, who had with him thirty officers, six Maxims, and 700 carriers. The Yala people, in whose country the columns remained for a month, gave a good deal of trouble. When their villages were entered they were found to be deserted, the women and live stock having been removed.

The men meanwhile had formed bush camps in the open vum fields, where they could see the approach of the British, and had also hidden in the branches of trees scouts, whose duty it was to fire signal guns. The people then took to their heels, and encamped elsewhere, but fired on the column when they were in what they regarded as a tight corner. This tribe, like most of those encountered, was armed with flintlocks, and carried poisoned arrows, but, fortunately, the country was fairly open and the aim not very accurate.

In places the natives, hearing of the approach of a large force, dug pits and planted stakes to prevent their progress. What little hostility there was occurred during the earlier part of the operations in the Okoto country and among the Northern Ibo tribes.

Colonel Trenchard's force started in two columns—one from the Niger and one from the Cross River—with instructions to make for an unknown spot marked X, the two afterwards joining at Ikem, where the first base camp was formed. From this base small columns were sent out in various directions, each being responsible for a definite district, which was to be mapped, and where the officers' duty was to get into touch with the natives and to show them how to make good roads.

In each case the commanding officer of the column summoned the local chief and explained that Government terms, emphasizing the fact that all human sacrifices must stop, that good roads must be made, and that a British Commissioner would be appointed, who would settle all disputes. On these occasions there were impressive gatherings of thousands of natives, in many cases cannibals, and for the most part naked, or practically so. They did not show undue delight at the advent of the British, and, as a rule, silently listened to the recital of the Government terms, and then slowly dispersed.

The various columns report that they found far less human sacrifice and juju rites in the hitherto unknown north than among the tribes of the delta, and, on the whole, the people were of a better physical type. Several juju places were seen, and a big centre was destroyed. It was impossible to discover the nature of the juju rites practised, but in the vicinity of one big juju house discovered in a bush clearing there was found a good deal of blood—whether human or not was not ascertained.

The heat was terrific, and the long marches—sometimes in waterless districts—were very trying even to the native troops. Almost all the officers were on foot, and in many cases they had done over 1,100 miles of walking. No white man was wounded during the whole operations, and there were only a few native casualties, but the nature of the work, combined with the great heat, and the waterless stretches of a proved extremely trying. Five doctors accompanied the force. Hausa traders were found all through the country. The most distant station was established quite close to the Northern Nigeria boundary, another being about forty miles south of Katsena Allah, on the Katsena River.

That Tired Feeling

which you experience on getting up in the morning is not natural; it means a state of nervous exhaustion, or of muscular anemia, general debility caused by impoverished blood giving rise to depression, palpitation of the heart, headaches, neuralgia and other painful symptoms, which although not dangerous by themselves may lead to chronic ailments of the utmost gravity.

This condition has been named Neurasthenia, the 20th Century disease. It is amenable to treatment and is speedily cured by the use of tonics and restoratives which restore the nerve centres to a normal condition by improving the quality of the blood, purifying it and enabling it to supply the exhausted nerves and tissues with vitalizing nutriment.

VIN ST-MICHEL

Like all products of genuine merit and of universal reputation, VIN ST-MICHEL has often been imitated but never equalled: Thousands of testimonials are proofs of its marvellous curative and restorative properties.

Beware of Imitations.

VIN ST-MICHEL is taken in doses of a wine glass full before each meal and often when required.

MADE A FORTUNE OF $12,000,000

City Magnate Who Lived With the One Idea of Acquiring Money.

London, June 11.—Mr. Charles Morrison, one of the wealthiest men in the City of London, died on Tuesday, at the advanced age of ninety-two. He leaves an estate of enormous dimensions, estimated by well-informed persons to be considerably over £12,000,000 in value. It was a saying on the Stock Exchange that the taxes on his estate would buy Dreadnoughts.

On £12,000,000 the maximum death duty of 15 per cent. and the 5 per cent. succession duty will yield £2,400,000 to the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Mr. Morrison, who passed away at his country mansion at Basildon, near Reading, was a bachelor. He made his large fortune from the business which he inherited from his father, and lived for the most part at Basildon, a fine country residence, situated in a large park, with his brother and sister, both of whom are over seventy years of age, and unmarried.

Most of Mr. Morrison's wealth consisted in huge blocks of office buildings such as Basildon House, Finsbury House, and the like. Up to within a few months ago he was a constant attendant at his office, and went into every detail of his business.

Mr. Morrison's personal habits were almost austere in their simplicity. Dignified and tall, though slightly bent by age, he was a familiar figure in the city, but his dislike of publicity made him refuse the natural position to which his wealth would have entitled him.

His relatives cannot recollect that he ever smoked, and he was almost a teetotaler. Though he kept two or three carriages, he never bought a motor-car; in fact, he never rode in one; and his annual expenditure never exceeded £2,000.

Many quaint stories of Mr. Morrison's eccentricities are told in the city. When deeply immersed in studying the details of some vast deal, he was apt to be absent-minded. Upon one occasion, it is said, he arrived at his office wearing a new silk hat, from which the tissue-paper in which it had been wrapped had not been removed.

DISLIKED GOING TO THE TAILOR. He much disliked going to the tailor, and in later years was a regular patron of ready-made clothes shops, while he scorned any conveyance for town use more luxurious than the hansom cab.

One of the most striking things about him was that he had a marvellous memory. Not long ago he quoted to a friend the first two stanzas of a poem by Byron which he said he had not read for over forty years. He was a great reader, not only of English, but also of French literature. History, art, science—all of these appealed to him strongly.

About fifty years ago he wrote a book called "Relations Between Labor and Capital." It put forward no very striking views; it was just a careful study of economics from the point of view of a capitalist. That was not his only effort as an author. In 1903, when, of course, he was eighty-five years old, he published anonymously a book of a little over 100 pages, to which he gave the title of "Doubts About Darwinism, by a Semi-Darwinian."

The family originally belonged to Aberdeenshire. James, father of the multi-millionaire just dead, who was born in 1790, was the son of a Hampshire yeoman. He found humble employment as a boy in the London drapery warehouse of Morrison and Dillon, which later became the Fore Street Warehouse Company. It was the case of "the industrious apprentice" over again, for he married the daughter of the head of the firm, ultimately becoming himself the head of the business.

On attaining to a position of affluence James entered Parliament. He died in 1857. He left five sons—Charles, Frank, Walter, George, and Alan—and two daughters. Each of them received a very large sum of money under his will. One son and a daughter survive.

RICHEST MAN IN THE CITY. Charles Morrison was educated at Edinburgh and Cambridge. He completed his education by a visit to the United States, where his father had acquired various commercial interests. After his father's death his wealth steadily increased, until he earned for himself the title of "the richest man in the City of London." His business was that of a financier—largely in the way of underwriting or promoting enterprises which he had supported in their infancy. He would buy anything and sell anything, and his deals almost always turned out well.

Until his great age made his appearance remarkable he looked like a not too prosperous clerk. He was a man of the strictest probity, never doing a stroke of business he could not justify to himself. It was he who mainly helped to put on its legs again the London and Paris Exchange after its first failure in 1904.

Mr. Morrison's peculiarities amounted almost to eccentricities. He would always walk when possible in the middle of the street—often eating a bun or an apple, which frequently formed his modest repast. At more leisurely times he patronized a restaurant in Coleman street, but an eighteen penny lunch was about the extent to which he indulged.

It is told of him that one night, a year or two back, Charles Morrison got out at Titehurst, the station before Pangbourne, by mistake. It was rather late, and he walked to an inn a little out, and asked for a trap to drive him to Basildon. The landlord appeared to eye him with great disfavor, and curtly told him that he couldn't have a trap. Mr. Morrison had, of course, only to be identified with the finest gentleman in the place pressed upon him. But his accustomed reserve made him say nothing, and he steadily tramped the whole of the way home.

A day or two later someone in Basildon heard the story, and, being in Titehurst, called on the landlord, and asked him if an old man had asked him for a trap a few nights previously. "Yes," said the landlord, "but I wasn't going to let the likes of him have one." "Well," said the other, "it was Mr. Morrison, that was all!" "Lord," said the astounded and disgusted landlord, "I wish I'd known."

The Times notes the curious coincidence that there should have died within a few weeks of each other the son of James Morrison and the son of his partner, John Dillon, the one a man of colossal wealth and the other a working artist.

KEEPING CHILDREN WELL

Every mother should be able to recognize and cure the minor ills that attack her little ones. Prompt action may prevent serious illness—perhaps save a lifetime. A simple, safe remedy in the home is therefore a necessity, and for this purpose there is nothing else so good as Baby's Own Tablets. They promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles, destroy worms, break up colds, make teething easy and keep children healthy and cheerful. Mrs. Jos. Levesque, Casselman, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets and have always found them satisfactory. My child has grown splendidly and is always good natured since I began using this medicine." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"SPORTING" ON THE CLERGY

London, June 11.—Speaking on Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Curates' Augmentation Fund at Church House, Westminster, Canon Horsley said hard things of a certain section of the laity.

"When the report speaks of the generosity of the public," he said, "I get my back up. I attribute the want of funds to the want of honesty among the laity, and when the laity become more honest in their duty the grants will be increased largely both in amount and in number."

"Where is the honesty of the church laity? As a matter of fact, it does not exist at all. The laity of the church are a very 'spongy' lot; they are ready to get all they can out of their parsons in every possible way, and they will borrow 5s. just as readily as they will call them knaves behind their backs."

W. W. Wood's Modine, The Great English Remedy. Tones and invigorates the whole nervous system, makes you sound in mind and body. Cures Nervous Debility, Headache, Dizziness, Sleeplessness, and all other ailments. Price 5s. per box, six for 25s. (One will please, I will cure. Sold by all druggists or mailed in plain wrapper, 10s. per box. Write for sample and price list. The W. W. Wood Co., formerly Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.)

THE SPIRITUAL LINE.

A good story is told of a very sedate doctor of divinity. When returning by train from a church congress, a fellow passenger undertook to draw him into conversation, and so far succeeded that the reverend gentleman asked him to what profession he happened to belong.

"Oh," said the layman, cheerfully, "I'm in the cotton line."

"Oh, indeed!" replied the clergyman urbanely; "there is a good deal of business going on in that branch just now. I understand."

"First class," said the layman, with a cunning smile. "And may I ask what is your line?"

"I," said the clergyman patronizingly with the nearest approach to a joke he has ever known to perpetrate, "I am in the spiritual line."

"Blest if I don't think so," exclaimed his companion knowingly; and putting one hand on the doctor's knee he leaned forward eagerly and added, with an indescribable wink, "but I say, what a price you have got gin up to?"

A WONDERFUL "COO."

Some of the tenants of a Scotch nobleman noted for his temperance principles were being entertained one day at dinner. There were plenty of aerated water and milk for them, but nothing stronger. One of the farmers, who knew by experience what to expect, had provided himself with a flask of rum and unknown to a brother farmer, poured a generous quantity into the glass of milk which his neighbor had elected to drink. In due time the unsuspecting farmer put the glass to his lips and seemed to enjoy it so that he never stopped till he finished it. Then he turned to his friend and remarked, "Heh, man, Tammas, what a cool London An'wers."

The Reason Why This Trademark and This Razor Are "Known The World Over"

The chief reason is that the "GILLETTE" meets the requirements of every shaver the world over for a quick—simple—easy—comfortable shave. The best proof that the "GILLETTE" is the highest type of perfection in razors is, that the men of all civilized lands now demand the "GILLETTE" Razor and the "New Process" Blades.

The men of Canada are especially well pleased with the "GILLETTE," and take not a little pride in the fact that it is made by Canadians in the Canadian factory at Montreal.

You can examine the "Gillette" at your Jewellers or Druggists—at Cutlery or Hardware dealers—or at any Sporting Goods or Departmental Store. Samples sets 15—for sale everywhere.

PLEADS LIBERTY OF THE PRESS

One of the Reasons Cited by Mr. Fournier Why He Should Not be Adjudged Guilty of Contempt.

The case of the Attorney-General of this Province against Mr. Jules Fournier, managing editor of Le Nationaliste, will be called in the Practice Court this morning, when counsel will be heard on the motion for a rule for contempt of Court.

He also pleads that facts alleged in the affidavit are false, and denies the allegations contained in the rule, and moreover, that the article does not constitute a contempt of Court in the terms of law and jurisprudence.

At the Chateau—R. E. Johnson, A. C. Murphy and wife, Mr. J. Thoro, S. Rubien, Montreal; Miss M. L. Kennedy, Montreal; Mrs. E. F. Bridge, Mrs. A. W. Pope, Boston; George B. Selden and wife, Rochester; H. A. Moore, Sherbrooke; Mrs. M. M. Gordon, Aberdeen; Mr. D. M. Burke, Mrs. D. Burke, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Adams, Brooklyn; F. W. Clapham, K.C. Clapham, England; T. C. Clish, Lynn; H. Henderson, E. F. Bennett, New York.

In concluding his plea, Mr. Fournier shows cause why he should not be condemned to pay a fine or imprisonment, by stating that the liberty of the press is a recognized principle under English laws and that such liberty is essential for the maintenance of sound public opinion.

WORK HORSE PARADE. The Ladies' Branch of the Quebec Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have decided to offer prizes for the best kept working horses, at a parade to be held on the Q.A.A. Grounds, on Thursday, the 23rd day of September next.

WHEN YOU COME TO THINK ABOUT IT. When you come to think about it—on this old terrestrial ball, Ringed with roses in the springtime, heaped with fruitage in the fall;

When you come to think about it—Did it ever beat a rainbow—chase a thunder cloud away? Don't it deafen all the angels when they try to sing an' 'bout it?

When you come to think about it—but the best way's not to think! There's a spring there, by the way-side—stop, ye travellers, an' drink! There's a great tree in the desert, 'neath a firmament o' blue, An' a hive that's dripping honey for the famished lips of you!

CATARH CAUSES EAR RINGINGS. This is the beginning of Chronic Catarrh. If not checked, the result is deafness. A simple remedy that many physicians advise is to slowly inhale "Catarrhose" a few times each day.

SCRAPING THE STOMACH

Dangerous and Painful Operation Avoided by Taking "Fruit-a-Tives."

I suffered for many months with dreadful Stomach Trouble, with vomiting and constant pain, and I could retain practically nothing. My doctor stated that I must go to the hospital and undergo an operation of scraping the stomach, and be fed by the bowels for weeks. All the medicine the doctor gave me I vomited at once. I was dreadfully alarmed, but I dreaded an operation and had refused.

I had heard of "Fruit-a-tives" and the great success they were having in all Stomach Troubles, and I decided to try them. To my surprise, the "Fruit-a-tives" not only remained on the stomach, but they also checked the vomiting. I immediately began to improve, and in three days the pain was easier and I was decidedly better. I continued to take "Fruit-a-tives" and they completely cured me.

A PATHETIC REQUEST.

Kind maid, if it's the same to you, I do not care to get a view of every blooming little play that happens on the field to-day—of runners stealing second base, or fielders madly in the chase of hard-hit balls that fly afar, until they loom up like a star—for these details I do not care, but through the big rat in your hair, or underneath your nine-foot hat, could you arrange it some way that at intervals by hook or crook I might slip in a stinging look, and say, through every other inning, get some faint line on who is winning? Kind maid, I do not hope to spot each play that happens in the lot—such small details as three-base hits that threw some rooters into fits, or mayhap some exciting slide that comes just as the score is tied, or fancy stop the shortstop makes, or 'e'en the pitcher's puzzling "breaks"—I do not care for such as these, but say there, won't you please arrange your "lid" some way that I might once or twice upon the sly peer outward from this crowded den and see the ball field now and then?—Toronto Star.
