Sixty - Seventh Year

QUEBEC (CP)—The education bill jumped another hurdle Thursday night on its steeply-chasing course towards becoming law as the Legislative Assembly gave it unanimous approval in principle by a vote of 70-0.

Approval came more quickly than expected but the pace is expected to slow up today as the House continues clause-by-clause study of the measure creating Quebec's first education department.

The hurdle past second reading was eased by Premier Lesage's statement in the House that the Roman Catholic bishops of Quebec have expressed qualified approval of the way the government handled changes they suggested to the bill.

Last August the bishops expressed their approval of the idea of an education department, although they had reservations about the way the government intended to protect the religious denominational character of education in Quebec.

FOLLOWS SUGGESTIONS
Their suggestions for improving protection were largely followed by the government.

The department would take most of the power over education away from the church, except in the case of teaching of religion and morals. Of these matters a consulting body—the superior council of education—would have most authority. The church and lay groups would suggest members for the council.

Union Nationale members said they favor the principle of department, but Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson said the consulting bodies should have more power.

It was made clear the Opposition will have several amendments to suggest as detailed work on the bill goes on.

The measure has had a checkered career. It was introduced last June, based on recommendations of a royal commission. In July, it was shelved following an outcry against the government's haste and fears the confessional character of education would vanish.

The government invited amendments and on these based many of the alterations it has made in the second version, although it said the "essence" of the first version has been kept.

Earlier, as debate opened, Premier Lesage said that the province's Roman Catholic Bishops had given their approval to the measure when a new draft of it was submitted to them late last year.

Mr. Lesage said the bishops feel government changes to the bill "correspond in substance" with their own proposed amendments.

Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson said the Union Nationale favors the bill, but there must be changes to it. He suggested advisory bodies being created along with the department should have more authority.

He also said that creating a centralized authority within one department goes against recent trends in the western world. The trend is towards decentralization, he said.

Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie said the department won't be a cure-all to education problems.

But, said Mr. Gerin-Lajoie, the probable Education Department once the bill goes through the legislature, is a "preliminary and necessary conditions" to new growth in education.

Mr. Lesage said the time taken to collect suggestions had been "a happy delay" which resulted in better written guarantees for the denominational character of education in the province.

Responsibility for religious and moral teaching will rest with the advisory group, to be called the Superior Education Council.

De Gaulle explains move

Unwise to ignore largest power

WASHINGTON (AP)—French President de Gaulle has sent word to President Johnson that he decided to recognize Communist China primarily because he felt it unwise in a rapidly changing world to ignore any of the largest and most powerful nations in the Far East.

De Gaulle's argument, made known to the state department and White House through various diplomatic channels, boiled down to a contention that the U.S. policy of trying to isolate the Communist mainland of China from the world of Allied nations is unproductive and out of date.

The latest and perhaps most comprehensive report on de Gaulle's views on this alliance-straining issue was made by Prime Minister Pearson of Canada when he conferred here Wednesday with President Johnson.

Pearson came here following a visit to Paris last week during which he had several talks with the French leader.

France is expected to announce recognition next week and take immediate steps to establish full diplomatic relations with Peking. A week from today de Gaulle is scheduled to hold a press conference and the prospect is that he will set forth his position on China.

As now understood by U.S. officials, his views cover these major points:
1. He feels there is a vacuum in Western policy in the Far East because of a lack of effective contact between the West and the Communist Chinese. Thus he has argued that the Western powers will gain in the long run from having France move into the gap.

U.S. officials have argued that Britain has had diplomatic contact with Communist China from the beginning of the Peking regime 13 years ago and this has made no real difference in Chinese policy.

2. De Gaulle sees the split between Russia and China as a tremendous power conflict rather than an ideological struggle as many Western experts ordinarily describe it. He feels it is important for the West to have maximum contacts with both sides in this struggle.

3. Under terms of the understanding which he has reached with Communist China for establishing recognition de Gaulle believes he may be laying a basis for a two-China policy since the Chinese did not lay down the condition that recognition covered also their claim to Formosa.

4. De Gaulle believes it should be possible to use French influence in Peking to work for Communist Chinese acceptance and support of a true policy of neutrality in Southeast Asia.

Other Western leaders, particularly U.S. policy-makers, dispute the reliability of any Communist Chinese neutrality pledge since the neutralization of Laos is still in controversy and U.S. officials think any partial neutrality measures would be used by the Communists as a new springboard for conquest.

5. De Gaulle believes recognition of Communist China is directly in line with the policy of his government for re-establishing a position of French influence in Southeast Asia. He sees the possibility that expanding trade and other ties between France and the Communist Chinese mainland will provide a bargaining position and some leverage for influencing Chinese Communist activities.

British troops sent to Kenya

LONDON (AP)—Britain announced today it is placing its troops in Kenya at the disposal of the Kenyan government to help preserve law and order.

Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys told the House of Commons the move was "purely precautionary." He said the troops had been requested by prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta because of unrest in Kenya's East African neighbors.

In the last 13 days three new Commonwealth countries in East Africa have been shaken by internal trouble. In Zanzibar, the conservative Arab government was overthrown by a pro-Communist revolution Jan. 12. In Tanganyika and Uganda, Kenya's neighbors on the south and west, brief army mutinies occurred this week.

The Tanganyika mutiny was accompanied by rioting and looting in which at least 17 people were killed before order was restored.

U.S. officials have argued that Britain has had diplomatic contact with Communist China from the beginning of the Peking regime 13 years ago and this has made no real difference in Chinese policy.

Sweetsburg situation

Part annexation ruling protested

By TED BEAUDOIN (Record staff reporter)

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — A group of Sweetsburg property owners who are "not satisfied with the annexation situation as it turned out" are calling on Municipal Affairs Minister Laporte, in Quebec City today.

Urban Bickford, president of the Citizen's Committee of Sweetsburg said, "We will try to get an appointment with Mr. Laporte and ask why Cowansville's bid for annexation to a portion of Sweetsburg was passed."

He declined to make any further comment.

Mr. Bickford went to Quebec City last Monday to present the minister with the petition signed by more than 100 property owners protesting the annexation bid and asking that a referendum be held. It was subsequently learned that those who signed this petition did not live in the portion of Sweetsburg that was to be annexed.

It was reported in Thursday's edition of The Record that the land annexed consisted of "all that portion of Sweetsburg outside of the old village."

Plan quick action on power plan

OTTAWA — (CP) — Parliamentary approval of the revised Columbia River Treaty seems assured well before the Oct. 1 date set by the government.

This assumption is based on current prospects for expected support and Opposition—and barring any revelations that might cause disruption or yet another look at the whole multi-million-dollar project.

The Columbia Treaty of 1961 and the revisions signed Wednesday in Washington, have been labelled as priority items for the new parliamentary session starting Feb. 18.

Informants say this is a matter likely to be confirmed in about a week when the cabinet committee on legislation settles its program of vital and secondary matters.

Jack Davis, Liberal member for Coast-Capilano, parliamentary secretary to the prime minister and Liberal power authority, has publicly predicted parliamentary ratification by June.

First step would be study by the external affairs committee. This will be the first and most demanding test of the Columbia issue for the minority Liberal government.

Last session on the committee the Liberals had 17 members to 12 Conservatives, three Social Credit-Creditists and three New Democrats. Only the NDP are opposed outright to the treaty or its revisions, although Opposition Leader Diefenbaker has said the revisions will require thorough study.

Thus, unless the committee membership ratio is revised, the Liberals and the Social Credit members who support Premier Bennett of B.C. have a clear majority.

Gerard Turmel, secretary-treasurer of Sweetsburg and one of The Record's sources of information pertaining to the stories printed earlier this week said last night he made an error in "not clearly identifying one portion of Sweetsburg which was to be annexed."

The portion that now belongs to Cowansville consists of the entire part of Sweetsburg annexed from the Township of Dunham in 1961-1962 and a part of the original village as it was before the Dunham section was taken over.

Sweetsburg today consists of a narrow projection along Main Street, which on a map, looks like an isolated peninsula of land.

The Brome-Missisquoi-Perkins Hospital remains in Sweetsburg as do the jail and courthouse.

Some reaction along Sweetsburg's main street is "now what are we going to do?"

All of the town's councillors still live in Sweetsburg with the exception of Dr. Gerard Duprat.

One question asked is "will Cowansville try to annex the remaining portion of the village?"

The answer to that lies in part in the minutes of the Sweetsburg Town Council meeting of November 4, 1963, when the council voted:

"... that if the proposed partial annexation is accepted and ratified by the Department of Municipal Affairs, the council (Sweetsburg) feels they should bring the question of total annexation to the remaining proprietors of Sweetsburg as it will be practical and difficult to carry on as a separate unit."

Some unofficial sources say that plans are now being worked out to annex the remaining portion of Sweetsburg.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Admiral Francis Stuart Low, 69, former commander of the U.S. western sea frontier and an expert in submarine warfare, died Thursday at the Oakland Naval Hospital.

Farm talks concluded

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Seventy-nine farmer delegates Thursday completed three days of discussions during which they considered a wide range of problems facing the Canadian farmer.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture devoted most of its attention to resolutions—most of them either asking the federal government for something or commending it for what it already had done.

The federal government was commended particularly for its arrangement of huge wheat exports this year—the biggest in the country's history. Delegates made it obvious they felt that "tremendous contributions" national economy and toward correcting Canada's exchange difficulties.

The huge sales, coupled with good prices being paid for the wheat, went a long way toward defeating another resolution asking for a two-price grain system in Canada.

Malaysia offers renewed threat

LONDON (AP) — U.S. Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy arrived in London today to brief British officials on his Malaysia peace-making mission but he left behind a possible new threat to his diplomatic effort.

While Kennedy conferred in Bangkok, Thailand, Indonesia's President Sukarno told a cheering rally in Jakarta he would not abandon his "crush Malaysia" campaign.

"Onward, never retreat! Crush Malaysia," Sukarno told 15,000 persons at a Communist-dominated youth conference.

"Indonesia may change its tactics, but our goal will remain the same."

Despite the fiery words, Sukarno did not retract his promise to Kennedy of a cease-fire along the 800-mile Malaysia-Indonesia border on the island of Borneo.

PLEDGE INTACT
Sukarno also did not disavow his pledge to send his foreign minister to a conference with the Malaysian and Philippine foreign ministers in Bangkok next month as a possible preliminary step to a summit conference of the three nations.

Some observers thought Sukarno's speech was intended for domestic consumption only. Anti-Malaysia sentiment has been so whipped up in Indonesia by Sukarno and the strong Indonesian Communist party, it would be difficult for him to cut off the campaign abruptly.

Kennedy told reporters at London Airport he never suggested that Sukarno drop his opposition to Malaysia.

"But I hope that position will be modified through conference and discussion," Kennedy said. "That is the purpose of it."

The attorney-general said he thought Sukarno was "genuinely willing to sit down and try to resolve the difficulties."

Reporters asked Kennedy if he thought Sukarno could be trusted. He replied: "Yes, I think so."

Kennedy will meet with Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler this evening and hold luncheon talks with Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and other top ministers Sunday.

While Kennedy conferred in Bangkok, Thailand, Indonesia's President Sukarno told a cheering rally in Jakarta he would not abandon his "crush Malaysia" campaign.

Cyprus tension mounts

CP from AP-Reuters
NICOSIA, Cyprus — Tension rose again in Nicosia's isolated Turkish quarter today after mysterious explosions toppled the minaret of the Bairaktar Mosque, one of the Turkish-Cypriot community's major religious shrines.

Greek-Cypriot police and British Army explosive experts combed the rubble, seeking to determine the origin of Thursday night's blasts. No one was hurt.

Archbishop Makarios, Greek-Cypriot president of Cyprus, said: "The detestable culprits, whoever they may be, are enemies of the people of Cyprus and their peace."

Dr. Fazil Kutuch, the Turkish-Cypriot vice-president, protested the explosions. Rauf Denkash, Turkish-Cypriot delegate to the London peace talks renewed a demand for partition separating Cyprus' feuding Greek and Turkish communities.

Only a few hours before the bombing, Makarios restated his opposition to any attempt by the Turkish-Cypriots to establish a separate regime.

Two-price wheat system defeated

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — the government approved an increase in the price of grain destined for human consumption—a one-cent-a-loaf increase in the price of Canadian bread.

But the farmers want more from the government. For example, they passed a resolution asking that pension legislation cover farm people on a compulsory basis. They thought any kind of a voluntary program would be difficult to set up for farmers and a carefully worked out compulsory plan would be more desirable.

All requests to the government will be presented in a brief to the federal cabinet later in the year.

A few requests asked that certain policies be re-emphasized to give the farmer a better deal. Chief among these is a request to federal and provincial governments to plan their investments in ways intended to develop resources so that agriculture "may have an equal chance of sharing in the general prosperity."

Statements by Washington often embarrassing to Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Ever since Canada and the United States signed the North American Air Defence Agreement in 1957, American statements and actions on defence have frequently been a source of acute embarrassment to the Canadian government.

The latest U.S. defence budget, made public Tuesday, is an example.

For instance, it contains this sentence: "The vulnerability of our defences against bomber attack will be reduced by the further dispersal of interceptor aircraft."

Just 11 days previously, the Canadian defence department had announced the opposite policy — amalgamation of five squadrons into three—to promote "efficiency and economy."

Farm Forum Activities in the E.T.

GALLUP HILL

The Gallup Hill Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mastine, on Jan. 20, to listen to the broadcast Harvest for the Mind.

Mr. Jacques Martin, assistant agronomer for the county of Richmond was present to discuss farm problems and take part in the discussion following the broadcast.

This forum feels that we must look ahead to economic planning in specialized fields and that we are in great need of farm organizations.

This forum feels that we should be more informed about, and have say in, the farm policies put forth to the government. These policies should come completely from farm organizations which have the full support of the farmers and which are not influenced by the government or profiteers.

Weather permitting the next meeting will be a group meeting to be held in St. Francis High School, Richmond on Monday, January 27.

On February 3 there will be another group meeting at the St. Francis High School.

This forum thinks, also, that if the farmer is to be a good all around citizen he should interest himself in public affairs, church and have a bit of time for the recreation of his choice.

The Pinnacle Farm Forum met at the home of Milton Baker January 20.

There were 10 people present. The radio broadcast was listened to and the Greenleaf read.

The topic of discussion was on harvest for the mind.

This forum does think that farmers need more business and technical education. They need all the information possible on current affairs.

Everyone's education begins in the home and is followed up in the school. It is in these two places that the child should be taught to apply himself to work and to think for himself.

A farm organization should study the needs of the farmer and work for the economic improvement of the farm. Farmers need organizations more and certain times and for certain needs and each community organization should serve their own particular need.

Rapid changes in a community bring a need for the farmer to understand and adjust to these changes.

More attention should be paid to 4H Clubs and to youth organizations so that they would be the future members of our Farm organizations.

A number of questions arose from this topic and are being sent in for the Talk Back next week.

Lunch was served by the hostess and members were asked to Walter Baker for the next meeting.

After a good broadcast was listened to on Harvest for the Mind, the following question was discussed.

Farm organizations and education. What do you think? This Forum believes there are too many farm organizations. If dairy groups went together and beef groups went together it would form larger and stronger organizations.

If children went with their parents to the organizations they would be better trained to carry on an organization. If you don't have a good leadership you don't have a good organization.

Members should try to attend meetings and participate. If you belong to a group and are interested enough about it you should tell your friends and neighbors and encourage them to attend meetings and get them interested to build your organizations up.

Following the discussion period the remainder of the evening was spent playing cards. The hostess served lunch assisted by several of the members.

COOKSHIRE

Farm Forum met on January 20 with Mr. and Mrs. Pat Cassidy the attendance being 21.

Harvest for the Mind the subject of the broadcast was on education for the farmer.

This forum thinks everyone agrees that the farmer needs and should have a good education, just what that needs to be and how it should be attained is the question.

Everyone's education begins in the home and is followed up in the school. It is in these two places that the child should be taught to apply himself to work and to think for himself.

If these two tracts have been instilled in the young farmer he will then be able to assess the information so freely available on farm practices and decide what is useful and economic in the carrying on of his own business.

Rough textured walls or ceilings require a roller with a deep pile. This will carry the paint into the crevices.

As you would with a brush, get a roller of good quality. Good rollers and good pans will last for years.

One reason is that a good roller is easy to take apart and clean.

The cover can be slipped off of a good roller easily. Avoid those that require fumbling with a nut or thumb screw before you can pull off the cover.

Cheap rollers have no bearings, don't work smoothly and will tend to stick.

Clean Roller Cleaning rollers is a little messier than cleaning brushes, but is no more difficult if done immediately.

Clean with the proper solvent for the paint you have just used. If water, just hold under running warm water until all the old paint is removed.

Remember to remove as much paint as possible before cleaning. Roll out on newspaper. Then clean. Rinse several times and wring out the extra fluid.

After the roller has been washed, wipe with a clean dry cloth and wrap in aluminum foil. This will keep it soft until the next time it is used.

The popular medium-length nap roller made of so-called "lamb's wool" (really a synthetic) is used for walls and ceilings when using alkyl-based or oil-based paints.

Latex paints or rubber-base paints should be applied with a roller with an extremely short nap, generally with a mohair cover. The longer nap leaves a heavily textured surface.

You can switch materials, of course, depending on what type of surface you desire.

The short nap rollers also are best for enamels, high gloss paints, varnishes and other fast drying finishes.

The type of surface you have to cover can determine the roller.

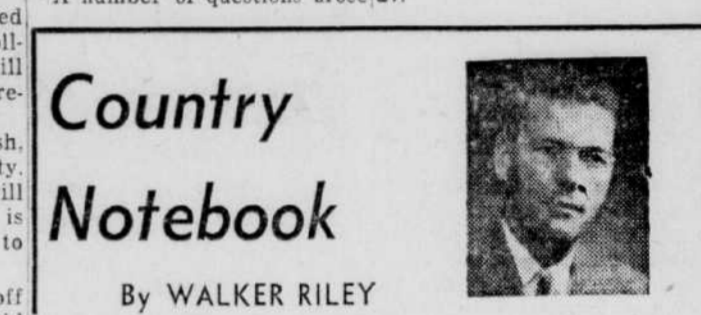

Following the reading of reports of the October meeting, election of officers for the new year was held. Due to the illness of her husband, Mrs. Douglas McGowan resigned as president.

The new slate is as follows: President, Mrs. Neil MacTavish; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Dixon, assisted by Mrs. Horn.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. MacTavish.

The World Day of Prayer will be observed in St. George's Church here on Feb. 14.

Country Notebook By WALKER RILEY. This forum thinks, also, that if the farmer is to be a good all around citizen he should interest himself in public affairs, church and have a bit of time for the recreation of his choice.

When the seed catalogue comes, can spring be far away? Our first arrived in yesterday's mail. It was as welcome as a robin.

With the mental picture before me of warm brown fields, dust clouds behind the harrows, and rich soil spilling off the top of the seed drill's slowly turning wheels, I phoned my old friend Bill Ewing.

He knows his work inside out, and he has a wealth of information on the tip of his tongue.

I asked Bill how the seed situation was shaping up for this spring, and his report came back crisp and concise.

"At the wholesale level, the stocks of grass seeds are generally quite tight, with prices running above last year's level, but, with the exception of red clover, seeds of legumes are more plentiful and prices easier.

With a good demand overseas, red clover is quite short, and prices very firm. A similar situation exists with timothy. We can't fill the export orders for Climax, and with U.S. stocks low, timothy seed is coming into Canada from New Zealand.

The price spread between common and Climax timothy is very narrow this year," he replied.

I asked Bill about certified seed of other named varieties.

"There should be plenty of seed this year of Vernal and Narragansett alfalfa, and at lower prices, but Dupuis may be hard to buy. There is a good supply, though, of Alfa which is about equal to Dupuis.

As for certified brome grass, Saratoga is quite short. In orchard grass, the Swedish varieties Frode and Harus are available," was his answer.

He told me also that the stocks of certified Viking and certified Empire trefoil would not likely fill demand, but that there were sufficient supplies of good commercial seed from Ontario and the Northeastern States.

Alsike, Ladino, and White Dutch clover were also in plentiful supply.

Last year, corn received a lot of publicity. The advantages of early maturing hybrids were stressed. As a result, there was a rush to buy early varieties, and the dealers were caught short. It is not likely they will let it happen again; there is a good stock of these corn hybrids in the warehouses.

Wondering what varieties to plant this year and what mixtures to use? A good guide is the booklet put out by the Department of Agriculture, Recommendations of the Quebec Seed Board.

Send us a postcard if you want a copy. Dr. John Bubar, of the Agronomy Department, tells me that the Board has not made any changes this year, so your last year's copy is still valid.

These recommendations are not made lightly. It is only after careful checking over several years that a new variety is accepted by the Board.

For instance, I wondered why the two oat varieties, Rodney and Russell, which I knew so well in Ontario, were not included. It seems that under Quebec conditions, they simply do not perform as well as Glen, Sheford, and Garry. Rodney dropped after 77 trials, in all parts of the province over a period of six years, gave consistently lower yields. In the same way, Russell has not yet proved itself.

Mrs. Robbins, who looks after the Extension Film Library, tells me that there is an excellent new film on hand. It is Cattle Ranch, a robust, prize-winning film of the life of a real cowboy. Made in colour by the National Film Board of Canada, it is accompanied in music and songs by folk singer Pete Seeger. Cattle Ranch presents a vividly dramatic picture of the open range where the cowboy is king.

If you would like to borrow this film, or anyone of the 700 others in the library, drop us a line. The charges are moderate—just $1.00 for this one, plus transportation. The address is Box 237, Macdonald College.

I have received a very well-written letter from a grade five boy in one of the city schools. He wants information on Dairying in Canada so that he can write a composition for his geography class. I don't know whether the fault is mine, or the industry's, but I can not find one single piece of good general information. I am sending him some dry-dust statistics, and hoping that someone will help him figure them out.

However, in the process of searching, some interesting facts did turn up. The National Cow gives 6500 pounds of milk—enough to supply six Canadians with eighteen pounds of butter each, eight pounds of cheese, and 150 quarts of milk. Besides, this fictitious beast exports seventeen pounds of skim milk powder, and eight pounds of cheese. And note this—out of 6500 pounds milk she gave last year, less than 50 pounds was surplus.

Next week, I hope to have some information for you about the farm management group being formed in Argenteuil County.

At Bishop's Liberals 'election' winners

The Liberal Party, headed by fourth-year Arts student George N. Crossgrove, has won 26 of 60 seats in elections for the Bishop's University Model Parliament.

Though none of the five parties contesting the election gained a majority, the Liberals were by far the strongest. They took 44 per cent of the popular vote, getting 162 of a 372 total vote, in winning their 26 seats.

The Progressive Conservatives won the right to form the official opposition by a scant three votes over the student-formed La Frange Party. The PCs received 72 votes, 19.3 per cent of the total, and thus will have 12 seats in the three-day parliament.

La Frange, with 11 seats on 69 votes, and the New Democratic Party, with 10 seats on 60 votes were close behind. The Social Credit Party was a disappointment, as they got only nine votes, and so can occupy but one seat in the January 27, 28, and 29 sessions.

LIBERAL GOVERNMENT

Barring any coalitions made before Monday, the Liberals will form a minority government. Crossgrove, a resident of the Town of Mount Royal in Montreal, will be asked this weekend to form the government by the sponsoring Literary and Debating Society.

Mr. Crossgrove announced before the voting that, if elected, the Liberal cabinet would consist of Peter Whitcomb, Minister for External Affairs, Bill Brown, Secretary of State for International Affairs, Michael Holden, Minister of Defence, and Gordon Thompson, Minister of Justice.

In preparation for Monday night's 8:00 House opening, the Liberal are busy drafting legislation which they will introduce before the parliament.

This year, as before, the Model Parliament will convene in the Bishop's Memorial Gymnasium on the campus in Lennoxville.

Proposes ETAA consider new industrial building

The President of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association Ivan Dugre recommended in his annual report yesterday the investigation of a possible new industrial building to replace the existing structure.

He gave his report at the annual shareholders' meeting held yesterday at the Arena Building in Sherbrooke.

He said the old building was not worth spending money on, being too old and in too poor a state of repair.

He said the existing building would require an investment of $12,000 to bring it into good repair.

On the same subject Everett Nicol told shareholders that the ETAA had once been promised a large sum of money from the federal government for a new building but that an austerity program had cut off the funds.

Mr. Nicol said that with the new government in power the ETAA might have a better chance of obtaining the funds.

The federal government will usually pay for 40 per cent of such a building if the provincial governments pay the other 40 per cent.

Mr. Nicol later told the Record that a delegation would be sent to Quebec City "some time in the future" to see the minister of trade and industry about matching a possible federal government grant.

Mr. Dugre said in his report that although the building had a revenue of $6,690 last fiscal year he would be very surprised to see a repetition this year and said the ETAA was "lucky" to have made that much from the existing building.

The president tabled his financial report for the last fiscal year and reported a deficit of $13,786.23. Last year the Association showed a surplus of $1,776.

The main reason for the deficit was a loss of $13,783 for the Arena building which lost $10,259 in 1962.

The Summer fair and Winter Fair earned profits totalling $23,318. Other sources of revenue were a $3,000 grant from the federal government, $7,845 from building rentals and $435 from interest on deposits.

The main expenditures were $14,595 for repairs, maintenance and general improvements, $3,398 for salaries, $2,955 for taxes, $5,171 for insurance, $1,379 for adult and legal, and $1,400 for sundry expenses.

Mr. Dugre said that a committee would be formed to investigate the arena situation in order to determine whether the cost of its operation could be reduced or eliminated. This would put the ETAA's balance sheets in the black.

The large deficit brought up the question again of the city's offer to buy the ETAA. Alderman Everett Nicol told the Record that the city's offer last January which was subsequently withdrawn is now "dormant, but not dead."

He declined to elaborate. At the meeting, shareholders unanimously re-elected the entire executive for the next year. Re-elected president was Ivan Dugre, first vice-president Everett Nicol and second vice-president Len O'Donnell.

The Executive Committee will consist of C. B. Howard, Louis Codere, W. G. MacDougall, A. C. Ross, R. A. Webster, J. A.

St. Marie, C. L. Campbell, W. W. Nichol, Paul Sylvestre, V. R. Beattie, N. G. Bennett, Dr. L. A. Gendreau, D. J. MacMillan, Hugh McClary, G. McElrexa, B. D. Lyon, W. S. Richardson, Carl Camirand, N. H. Beach, E. G. Taylor, Carlo Fabi and G. Drouin.

The general chairman for the Summer exhibition to be held this year from Aug. 23 to 29 are W. G. MacDougall and George McElrexa. The general chairman of the Winter Fair is Wesley Nichol.

Newly elected directors of the ETAA are H. R. Ross and Paul Sylvestre.

Annual meeting held Amalgamation YM concern during '63

1963 was a year of decision concerning the future of the Sherbrooke Young Men's Christian Association, the YMCA president, Art Wright, said Thursday night.

In his year-end president's message to members of the YMCA, Y's Men and Hi-Y members Mr. Wright said that during 1963 it was necessary for the local YMCA to choose between continuing the discussion of amalgamation with the Sherbrooke Young Women's Christian Association or establishing a policy for the renovation of the existing facilities and program re-building within the YM organization.

Meetings, he said, were held between the amalgamation committee and the joint boards as well as with representatives from both national councils throughout the year.

In December, both associations concluded deliberations and recorded resolutions favoring amalgamation proceedings in 1964, he said.

"It is my hope," Mr. Wright said, "that the Sherbrooke Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations will realize their amalgamation objective and further extend their respective program in this Community."

Two YWCA representatives, president, Miss Van Cornwall-Jones and general secretary, Mrs. R. W. Murray-Smith attended the annual meeting held in the YMCA building on Dufferin Avenue.

As the Sherbrooke YMCA completed its 88th year of service to the community, Art Wright said a total of 24,117 persons had used the Association's facilities during the 1963 year. Active members totalled 932.

A total of 73 memberships for under-privileged boys were donated to the YMCA by the Sherbrooke Rotary, Lions, Lennoxville Optimist, Kiwanis, Y's Men and Hi-Y Clubs.

In physical instruction, 57 boys completed standard swimming tests and a total of 13,703 persons made use of the pool and shower facilities. Organized classes, sports, games, social activities were conducted in the gymnasium for a total attendance of 9,421 persons. A six-team city volleyball league was also in operation.

Some 321 boys took judo training and cumulative attendance for weight training and hand lifting classes was 1,297. Tribute was paid Thursday night to weight-lifting instructor Allan Odell who has completed 25 years of instruction at the local YMCA.

The Y's Men's Club, the 40-year-old service club of YMCA rewrote its constitution this year, and for the first time started a Little League baseball team.

In view of the forthcoming amalgamation of the two Y's, president of the Y's Men's Club, Jim MacKinnon announced Thursday that the club has set up a special project and camp committee in hopes of giving a new look to the YM-YW program. The committee, he said, would be working closely with YWCA members.

The Hi-Y Club (high school YMCA) began a bursary for college education this year according to president David Sinclair. Announcement was also made of the club's Eastern Township basketball jamboree Saturday at Sherbrooke High School and

Sherbrooke in path of nuclear fallout if Montreal bombed

ROCK ISLAND — (Special) — If Montreal were ever subject to nuclear attack, prevailing winds would sweep the fallout towards Sherbrooke, the director of civil defence for the Sherbrooke region told a joint meeting of the mayors and councils of Rock Island, Stanstead and Beebe at the Rock Island town hall Wednesday.

Sarto Roy said that in this eventuality, much of Sherbrooke would have to be evacuated, and many people would probably move into the border area.

He said for this reason, if the border council decided to enter a civil defence plan, auxiliary firemen, policemen and first aid men would be trained.

Alex MacDonald, co-director of civil defence for the area, also spoke.

Mr. Roy told the three groups how municipalities can fit into a civil protection plan to meet with any disaster of peace and war. The main object of the plan is to protect the mayor and council who are responsible for the population of their town or municipality.

In the Province of Quebec there are eight zones which include Rouyn, Chicoutimi, Riviere du Loup, Quebec city, Sherbrooke, Three Rivers, Hull and Montreal. Sherbrooke is in zone five.

In zone five are further divisions with Mr. Roy offering Group 541 to include Rock Island, Beebe and Stanstead. Also to be invited into 541 will be Coaticook and Waterville.

Mr. MacDonald presented a budget of $3,500. Of this the Federal government would pay 75 per cent Provincial government 15 per cent and the municipality 10 per cent.

This is based on a total population of 14,000 in the three places. Mr. MacDonald also gave administration details and pointed out the mutual assistance of the zones with equipment for fires and rescue work for which the money is spent each year.

After the talks, Albert Fregeau, Mayor of Rock Island, speaking for the three Councils said they would adopt in principle the Civil Defence plan which would place the Border Town and Municipalities first in Zone 541 with confirmation to come later from the individual councils.

The speakers were introduced by Mr. Fregeau and Mr. Struthers, the latter mayor of Stanstead, and were thanked by Hugo LaPenna, mayor of Beebe.

The 14 directors include B. D. Lyon, E. T. Webster, and Judge Evender Veilleux, of Sherbrooke; W. W. Nichol and Albert Taylor, of Lennoxville; Jean-Paul Dionne, of Cookshire; and Art Bennett, of Sawyerville.

Figures comparing the years of 1962 and 1963 show that the province of Quebec had the greatest percentage increase in membership in the Hereford Association of any province.

Membership rose from 1,067 in 1962 to 1,404 in 1963; an increase of 40 per cent. The next largest increase was in New Brunswick whose membership increased from 362 to 470; an increase of 30 per cent.

Membership is the highest in the province of Alberta where there are some 21,457 members, Saskatchewan is second with 20,305 members; and Ontario is third with 8,131 members. Quebec is in sixth place in total membership, behind Manitoba and British Columbia.

Complete purebred cattle records aim of Ottawa livestock office

The Canadian National Livestock Records Office in Ottawa aims to keep complete and accurate records of breeding operations for all Canadian purebred cattle.

F. G. Clark of the Ottawa office stressed this point in his speech before the Quebec Hereford Association last night at the St. George's Club, Sherbrooke.

Mr. Clark outlined the workings of the organization in his speech.

The organization was founded about 40 years ago, he said, to centralize records which were being kept in several centres. It is not a federal government office, he said, but does receive government grants.

The livestock records office, said Mr. Clark, grants certificates for purebred cattle. Any purebred cattle, he said, must be tattooed before the age of six months. Then, the breeder must enter the identification and other information about the cattle into his private breeding record. After this, he said, application for registration should be made to the recorder's office. Remittance should be enclosed to cover fees.

Cheques, he said, should not be addressed to the receiver general for the Canadian National Livestock Records Office is not part of a federal department.

When the proper information is mailed in the certificate will be returned in from two to four weeks, he said.

"Some people," said Mr. Clark, "ask why we are so slow in returning their pedigrees. Often, it depends on how busy we are at the time. For instance, in the last months of the year we get 10 to 15 thousand applications per month."

Some people may lose a certificate and request a duplicate. This will be supplied if the proper application forms are filled out, Mr. Clark said.

Everything possible is done at the office to maintain accuracy, he said. However, sometimes there is error by man or by a processing machine. Breeders should check their certificates when they receive them for letters or numbers that are wrong.

Breeders should not attempt to change a tattooing error if one is made, he said, but should write giving information to the Ottawa record office. If this is not done, a buyer may suspect dishonesty on the part of the breeder.

Secretary of the Quebec Hereford Association, J. C. Tanner, reported that the provincial association has 282 members. There were 75 members and wives present at the buffet dinner.

President of the Quebec Hereford Association for 1964 is L. Langevin of St. Pie. He succeeds R. N. Mayhew has this year been named director of the Canada-wide Hereford association.

The 14 directors include B. D. Lyon, E. T. Webster, and Judge Evender Veilleux, of Sherbrooke; W. W. Nichol and Albert Taylor, of Lennoxville; Jean-Paul Dionne, of Cookshire; and Art Bennett, of Sawyerville.

Psychology worker is said needed for schools

Dr. A. A. Dougan, medical director of the Sherbrooke hospital, stressed the need for a trained social worker in psychology in schools last night, at a meeting of the Lennoxville Home and School Association.

The meeting took place in the school gym. Dr. Dougan said that mental health is a real problem in the schools today. However, he continued, until the public is sufficiently aroused to see the need and become aware of what can be done to help children with problems, it is likely that little will be done.

He outlined what had been done by the government to preserve the health of school children and explained what was planned for the future.

More and more parents, he said, are becoming aware of the health needs of their children. However, he continued, the school doctor and nurse also inspect children for any sickness. Previously, school children were given a yearly examination but Dr. Dougan explained that this system has been replaced by a system of more thorough examinations given every three years.

By grade nine most school children will have had four examinations by medical doctors, he said.

The school nurse, said Dr. Dougan, watches for contagious diseases. If a child has a rather serious disease, such as mumps or measles, he is required to have physician's clearance before he returns to school.

The only immunization law, he said, is that for smallpox. A smallpox vaccination is required to enter school and every five years thereafter. Other vaccinations are also beneficial. The D.P.T. shots which are given at an early age have proved almost 100 per cent effective for diphtheria and 75 to 80 per cent effective for whooping cough.

The other speaker for the evening was Mrs. Russell Wells, school nurse at Lennoxville High School. She explained the work of the school nurse.

Records are kept, she said, to show the development of each child throughout his school years. Transferred students are given a copy of their medical report along with the other school records.

Every fall, she said, a vaccination clinic is held and in summer dental clinics are provided. Mrs. Wells thanked parents.

World Federalist meeting Jan. 27

A bilingual address will be delivered to an open meeting of the World Federalists of Canada by Henk Hoppener, Executive Director of the W.F.C. at the group's next meeting in Stanstead College Jan. 27.

The public is invited and the meeting will start at 8 p.m. The topic of the address is The Future of the United Nations.

Industrial exhibit is planned

A permanent exposition of Sherbrooke's industrial products is to be opened at Howardene by April, it was learned this morning.

Howardene superintendent Leo Cadorette told The Record that he had so far sold over 50 per cent of the available space and by April other companies should have bought the rest.

According to Mr. Cadorette, there are to be about 40 mahogany kiosks with windows, in the former B. C. Howard residence.

Products to go on display there he said will reveal a cross-section of Sherbrooke industry.

Although there is to be no admission charge to visitors, the city is expected to gain a small profit from the rental fees charged to companies.

Trial continues today

A Stoke youth appeared in Criminal Assizes in Sherbrooke yesterday to face a charge of rape arising out of an incident last March.

Opening yesterday morning was the trial of Jean-Guy Roy. The twelve jurors were selected during the morning.

Crown Prosecutor Guy Blanchette presented a part of his case in the afternoon and the girl involved in the case was cross-examined at length by the defence attorney Reynald Frchette.

The only other person called to the witness stand in the closed court was the sister of the alleged victim.

Proceedings continue today. Mr. Justice William Mitchell is presiding over the trial.

Ownership of Canadian newspapers

It is to be hoped that suggestions the government might be considering legislation to prohibit the sale of newspapers to non-Canadians comes to nothing.

The proposal, along the lines of government control of advertising recommended in the infamous O'Leary report, is apparently aimed at preventing American ownership of Canadian newspapers.

But there is no evidence that any daily newspaper in Canada has been bought, or is about to be bought by American interests.

Canadian newspaper owners have shown themselves aware of their responsibilities in this regard. There have been a number of large newspaper sales. None have been to Americans.

It is, perhaps conceivable, though scarcely likely, that at some future date, a newspaper owner may decide to sell to American interests.

But the way to prevent this eventuality is not through government control of newspaper ownership, however well-meaning it may be. Rather, the government should be seeking ways to make it more attractive for Canadians to invest in such enterprises. Indeed, the government should be moving in this direction in connection with all investment.

For government intervention in the affairs of a newspaper is direct intervention in freedom of the press. And that is a freedom not possessed by too many countries in the world. Seventy per cent of the world's press is fettered. And where this is the case, the rights of the public to know are impaired.

Very often, this situation is brought about in a gradual way. The first attempts at control often appear innocuous. But they soon become the thin edge of a wedge. Any kind of government control, once introduced, is notoriously difficult to remove.

Newspaper ownership is not the business of government, and should not become so. It is in the best interests not so much of newspapers, but of the Canadian people to resist all efforts in this direction.

British posties protest circulars

Canadian postmen, leaving the central post office each morning loaded down with hundreds of items of advertising matter, can be sympathetic to their fellow workers in Great Britain who are protesting loudly the decision of the British General Post Office to go into the advertising circular business.

From time-to-time letter-carrier organizations in this country have passed resolutions urging the Canada Post Office to curtail the flood of "unwanted junk" which they are called upon to deliver. But these resolutions are never couched in very strong language nor are threats made of reprisals should the Postmaster-General fail to heed their suggestions.

One possible explanation for this spirit of moderation is the realization on the part of many of the complainants that if the Post Office lost its revenue from distributing circulars, the number of carriers might be reduced and their walks lengthened.

For the British GPO to enter the field of circular distribution is not surprising when the many aspects of its activities are considered. In addition to the regular postal functions, which show a profit of $3,000,000 annually, the post office operates the telephone and telegraph systems at a profit of $40,000,000 and the 25,000 post offices are a sort of community centre in the smaller towns and villages.

There the citizen draws his social security pension, buys his licenses for dog, gun, radio or TV and his automobile. He buys his national insurance stamps and makes his deposits in the popular post office savings bank.

So, the mere addition of a few billion circulars to the already variegated business of the GPO should cause little concern.

Leap year loses its significance

Don't look now, men, but 1964 is a leap year.

According to an old tradition, women can take the romantic initiative during these next twelve months.

Legend would have it that this means all eligible bachelors go into hiding.

In reality, of course, this doesn't happen.

Those bachelors are just as numerous as ever, and just as available. Some may be a little bit more wary during leap year than normally, but this shouldn't provide any problems for the normally alert husband-hunting female.

She knows better than anyone else that leap year just doesn't have the significance it used to have.

In the good old days, men did all the courting and all the proposing. Well, things have changed.

More than one family argument these days begins with the question of who proposed to whom.

For, in the jet age, romance like everything else has speeded up. And if a fellow's a little slow, there's always some cute thing ready to all but pop the vital question herself.

Esau needed that mess of pottage

Esau, who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage, has always been regarded as something of a weakling or simpleton. Now he has a champion. A scholarly American...

Dr. Robert Greenblatt, learned in scriptural research, has examined some Bible characters in the light of modern medical knowledge and come to fresh conclusions.

Genesis 25:29-33 tells of Esau coming from the field "faint" and asking his brother Jacob to give him some red pottage Jacob had boiled. Jacob counters with a demand for Esau to sell him his birthright.

Now I rejoice in my sufferings for your sake, and in my flesh I complete what is lacking in Christ's afflictions for the sake of his body, that is, the church. (Colossians 1:24, rsv.)

right, and Esau, saying he is "at the point to die," and doubting that his birthright can do him any good in his state, sells it.

Dr. Greenblatt, while admitting that Jacob was a sly, greedy customer, does not agree that Esau despised his birthright. "In almost certainty," he writes, "Esau, being faint and feeling near to death, was the victim of an illness recognized only in recent times: hypoglycemia or low-blood sugar."

If doctors in Esau's time had been more knowledgeable, Esau might never have got into such a state that he was a pushover for the swindling Jacob. And where were the lawyers? Didn't they know enough to upset the deal on the grounds of contractual incapacity?

Dear Sir: For all those who admire the natural beauties of the lovely Eastern Townships, reports of the proposed "drainage" of Lake Memphremagog are more than disquieting. The City of Sherbrooke, it seems, plans to take increasing quantities of water from the lake to meet its industrial and domestic needs for water.

I, for one, strongly urge that some other source of water be found. Lake Mem-phremagog, in the opinion of some conservationists, is even now "marginal" as far as water-levels are concerned; any impairment of the balance can only have the most unfortunate consequences. Over the years, the lake has withstood pollution, deforestation and the resulting diminishment of water-intake and too rapid a run-off of snow; neglect, poaching, and sheer indifference.

There is bound to be, however, a point of no return, when artificial methods of conservation cannot meet exorbitant demands upon the resources of the lake — and if the City of Sherbrooke carries out its plans, that point of no return is in sight.

I, for one, am protesting as vigorously as possible against what I consider to be an outrage.

Sincerely, Sherwood Hayden Lachine.

England freed French Canada

Dear Sir, How much more of this nonsense about closer ties between Quebec and France must we endure?

France and Quebec are so far apart that the average French national emigrating to Canada soon leaves this province for Ontario or returns to France rather than live in a society which, although it may be predominantly French speaking is mentally and spiritually foreign to France.

Since the 18th century the French have become pagan and "republican" while Quebecois have become increassingly religious and democratic - thanks to the encouragement of the English conquerors who freed Quebec from the oppression of absolute government and feudalism and gave it democracy and free enterprise.

De Gaulle has no right to claim that France is one of the mother countries of this nation for she gave up her ill-conceived child and lost all but the most remote parental claims. Prime Minister Pearson is not being honest when he subscribes to the French leader's false suggestions.

For centuries the English speaking citizens of this nation have done more than anyone for French speaking Canadians. Isn't it time to appreciate this fact?

Sincerely yours, D. Vyess, Stanstead.

Bounty descendants quit Pitcairn

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Pitcairn Island, the remote mid-Pacific island on which the Bounty mutineers settled, is in danger of being abandoned.

Mutineers' descendants are leaving their island home in great numbers and the population now is the lowest it has been for many years.

The island's total population is down to 83, including only 15 males between the ages of 15 and 60. Nearly every ship calling at the island takes small groups of islanders to New Zealand, where many of them are settling. Most of them think that there is little future at Pitcairn.

The island has known many ups and downs since the Bounty mutineers arrived there in 1790. It may overcome the new crisis, and certainly some of the older folk will stay there until they die.

But the present crisis will soon compel drastic changes in the way of life of the islanders if they are to survive in their isolated home.

There now are only just enough men to man a longboat. It takes 14 men to handle one of the boats, used for communication with passing ships and to obtain supplies of wood from a neighboring island for carving curios.

The main source of income on the island has been curio carving. But today so few ships call at the island that there are only enough sales to support a few people.

Ships of the New Zealand Shipping Company, the main passenger liners which used to make a stop off Pitcairn, no longer do. Only four liners still call at Pitcairn and they carry a maximum of 80 passengers.

The threat of radioactive fallout from the proposed French nuclear testing site at Mururoa Atoll, not far away, is another reason why Pitcairners despair for the future.

There also are fewer children on the island. Two years ago the school roll was 26. Today it is down to 21.

The last of the McCoy line on Pitcairn died a few months ago. Now the male lines of only two of the nine mutineers who settled on Pitcairn are still represented—descendants of Fletcher Christian and Midshipman Young.

The history of Pitcairn has been marked by violence and hardships, but also by piety and faith. The original community of mutineers was almost wiped out by violence and murder in the early years.

But many children had been born and a substantial half-caste population developed. The numbers grew too large for the island to maintain, and at different times the population was moved to Tahiti, back to Pitcairn, and later to Norfolk Island, in the middle of the last century. But many returned to Pitcairn once more to re-establish the Bounty line.

Left almost alone in their remote island, their numbers increased once more. Few people came or went and the Pitcairners developed a distinctive appearance and mode of speech, with some archaic English usages surviving. Yet inbreeding among a few families brought little sign of deterioration in vitality. The people are serious, hard-working, pious and straight-forward.

Investigations are being made into other ways of earning a livelihood for the islanders.

New agreements

Labor contracts due for 1964

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP)—The stage is set for a critical round of collective bargaining that could reshape—perhaps even revolutionize—labor-management relations in many key industries in Canada.

In the next 12 months, labor and management negotiators will be hammering out new contracts involving thousands of workers, from bartenders in British Columbia to macaroni makers in Montreal.

More than 210 major agreements—not counting those in the construction trades or those in plants with fewer than 500 employees—come up for renegotiation in 1964. About 375,000 workers are covered by the agreements.

Another 100,000 railwaymen are involved in wage negotiations that started last year and continue into the new year. By June, the CPR and CNR will be embroiled in bargaining sessions with 19 unions representing the running trades and the non-operating work force.

The 1964 negotiating calendar includes the pace-setting steel and auto industries, national bargaining of the meat-packing industry, regional talks in textiles and the first test of bargaining skills for the government's three-man union trusteeship in the maritime industry.

These talks—in some cases, such as in steel and automobiles, the first formal labor-management meeting in three years—are set against a backdrop of unemployment and advancing technology. Unionists are fighting to save jobs while searching for new techniques to deal with the job-killing impact of automation.

In this era of the thinking machine, the big question is whether the collective bargaining process, founded traditionally on conflict and crisis, can be revamped to cope with the human consequences of automation without curbing the vast opportunities opened up for human improvement.

While trade unionists generally accept the new technology as inevitable, they fear that the toll in lost jobs and social and economic dislocation often outweighs the promised abundance of automation.

Says economist Russell Bell of the Canadian Labor Congress: "Technological progress is a misnomer if it leaves in its wake a mass of unemployed workers."

Many observers believe labor and management must relax the traditional tensions and tactics of bargaining and work together continually in close co-operation to find new solutions to the problem of technological change.

They see hope in the new rapport between organized labor and big business at the national level, increasingly evident in such forums as the Economic Council of Canada and regional labor-management conferences.

While the raw test of economic strength—the strike or lock-out—remains as a tool in the bargaining process, the emphasis seems to be on round-table consultation, an acceptance by union leader and businessman of their mutual need for mutual respect and understanding.

As a step in this direction, the federal government has offered financial help to companies and unions willing to undertake joint research on future technological changes and their impact on the work force.

William Mahoney, national director of the United Steelworkers of America in Canada, is expected to press again for a joint labor-management committee to work on problems away from bargaining table.

When Steel's contracts expire in July, he is also expected to go after an extended vacation plan similar to that won by the steelworkers in the United States. Under this trail-blazing agreement, long-service workers get special 13-week vacations once every five years.

Meanwhile, the auto workers' union has indicated it will be seeking contract protection for retired workers, including company-paid hospital and medical care for those who have already left the work force on retirement. Present contracts in the Canadian auto industry start expiring in October.

The railway unions representing the running trades may take to the bargaining table their fight for legislation to protect rail workers from job displacement through technological changes.

Labor Minister MacEachen, hailing the responsible approach by labor and management in 1963, says both sides must actively plan to meet the human problems that result from automation.

"It is clear that new relationships are evolving between labor and management. This is based on a recognition that the broad problems being faced today can be solved only by closer consultation and more continuing discussions."

L'ville Women's League of St. Andrew's Church elect new officers

Lennoxville Women's League of St. Andrew's Church in Sherbrooke held their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Laurison, Prospect Street, with 12 members present. The president, Mrs. George MacDonald, was in the chair and Mrs. Evan Cathcart conducted the devotions.

Mrs. Harold Turner, secretary, read several letters of thanks for Christmas donations and also gave the annual report of the year's activities. The financial report showed a successful year.

Mrs. Angus MacKenzie presided for the election of officers and Mrs. Raymond Stevenson presented the following slate for 1964. Honorary president, Miss Annie Shaw; president, Mrs. George MacDonald; first vice president, Mrs. Evan Cathcart; second vice president, Mrs. Raymond H. Stevenson; treasurer, Mrs. Gerald Cascarden and secretary, Mrs. Harold Turner.

Conveners: Teas, Mrs. Ray Hunting; food, Mrs. Nelles Jackson; fancy work, Mrs. Evan Cathcart; wellfare, Mrs. W. Grezor MacDougall; aprons, Mrs. Raymond H. Stevenson and Christmas decorations, Mrs. Harold Turner.

Mrs. MacDonald extended thanks to the officers and members for their support during the past year and resumed her duties for another term. She was also appointed to represent the League at meetings, to formulate plans for St. Andrew's 100th anniversary.

Mrs. Nelles Jackson invited the members to her home, 48 Wilson Street, for the February meeting.

The meeting closed with prayer after which refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Evan Cathcart.

Slow teeners social pace

In an all-out attempt to get rid of the accelerated social pace at the junior high school level once and for all, one school district has done away with the junior high school and divided its education system into a five year elementary school, a three year intermediate school and a four year high school.

Just to make sure that the intermediate school isn't a carbon copy of high school, the way so many junior highs are, a strict set of rules has been laid down.

In intermediate school there will be no pep squads, no cheerleaders, no school-sponsored functions at night, no dances, no crowning of queens or election of class favorites. An honors day with awards for academic excellence will replace banquets and sweetheart elections.

In fact, there won't be just one football team to represent an intermediate school, but teams will be expanded so that everybody who wants to can play, thereby removing the temptation to make football heroes of intermediate-age boys.

There are other rules, but these are the important ones. They should be enough to give other school districts the idea that parents and school officials don't have to sit around shaking their heads over the hectic pace that today's youngsters are pushed into when they move from elementary school to junior high in the seventh grade. Junior highs — even the

Running out of home - made preserves?

Try these winter - made conserves and pickles

By HELEN GAGEN

Women who pride themselves on their home-made preserves and relishes are usually dismayed at about this time of year by great gaping holes in their preserve shelves! The jams and pickles that the family like best are gone — and what's to do about it?

One good answer, of course, is the colorful and flavorful commercial jams and relishes in stores. But if you yearn to show your own individuality and treat your family to something just a little different, you can look for inspiration to dried and frozen fruits... as well as those that are at their best in winter on the Canadian market.

Some of the winter-made conserves and relishes are so good, you could almost look forward to running out of your summer store. The two recipes below illustrate what I mean!

GOLDEN WINTER CONSERVE

A sunny touch for the winter breakfast table. Delicious too, with crackers and cheese, for dessert or evening snack.

1 pound dried apricots, Cold water (about 3 cups), 1 can (15 oz.) pineapple tidbits, 2 pounds (about) granulated sugar, 2/3 cup sliced blanched almonds, toasted, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, Sliced marshmallows (optional).

Wash apricots, drain and cover with cold water. Let stand overnight. In the morning, simmer until tender.

Combine apricots and their liquid with the pineapple and pineapple syrup. Measure. Add enough sugar to equal two-thirds of the volume of the combined fruits. (There will be almost 6 cups sugar, requiring about 4 cups sugar).

Combine fruits and sugar and cook gently, stirring frequently, until thick. Add almonds and lemon juice and cook 5 minutes longer. Seal in sterilized jars. About eight 6-oz. glasses.

SPICED ORANGE WEDGES

This delightful and original relish is excellent with either hot or cold meats.

4 large seedless oranges, 2 cups sugar, 1 1/4 cups water, 1/2 cup white vinegar, 1/4 cup seedless raisins, 1/2 teaspoon whole cloves, 3 3-inch sticks cinnamon.

Cover the whole, unpeeled oranges with water. Bring to boil and simmer 20 minutes, or until the skins may be easily pierced with a fork. Drain, cool and cut in quarters; then cut each quarter in half.

Combine sugar, 1 1/4 cups water, vinegar, raisins and spices. Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Bring to boil, add orange and simmer very gently for about 20 minutes, until pulp is clear. Store in sterilized jars, or in a covered container in the refrigerator. Makes about 5 cups. (TNS)

Trinity U. C. W. elect officers and review year's work

The annual meeting of the Trinity United Church Women, was held in the Wesley Hall, with Mrs. G. C. Hall in the chair. Mrs. J. Burnell was in charge of the devotions, assisted by Mrs. W. Bowman. The collection was taken up by Mrs. W. Bowman.

Following words of welcome by Mrs. Hall, the minutes were read by Mrs. W. Curtis and the financial report by the treasurer, Mrs. A. Clarke.

Letters of thanks were read from St. John's Hall and from Mr. C. Rublee, for donations sent to the hall and to the U.C.W. for help in collections for the Bible Society. Thank-you letters were read by Mrs.

E. Fuller, for baskets and gifts sent out at Christmas.

Announcements for future events — Congregational meeting, January 29, Quebec - Sherbrooke Presbytery, February 4 and 5, and the World Day of Prayer, February 14.

The annual reports followed, with Mrs. Clarke reporting a very successful financial year.

Mrs. B. Jarvis presented the slate of officers for 1964 which are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. R. G. Barr; past president, Miss Verna Hatch; vice-president, Mrs. E. A. Cooper; recording secretary, Miss C. Perkins; assistant secretary, Miss B. Bryce; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. G. Armitage and treasurer, Mrs. A. Clarke.

Committee Chairmen, finance, Mrs. E. A. Cooper; flowers, Mrs. J. D. Hazle; literature and communication, Mrs. B. Carr; manse, Mrs. C. E. Soles; membership, Mrs. J. G. Mitchell; nomination, Mrs. B. E. Jarvis; periodical, Mrs. L. A. Curtis; press and publicity, Mrs. W. E. Hodge; program, Mrs. H. Hough; devotions, Mrs. L. Humphries; social functions, Mrs. E. Webster; stewardship and recruits, Miss D. Knapp; supply and social assistance, Mrs. B. Hyatt; community friendship and visiting, Mrs. W. Mutchler; citizenship and social action, Mrs. E. Fuller; co-operation in Christian Education and Missionary

Today's recipe

Often mothers find it far from easy to get their small children to eat vegetables. A mother of four children between 2 and 8, Mrs. C. R. writes:

"My youngsters will always eat finely chopped vegetables mixed with hamburger meat. Sometimes I mix tomato, green pepper and onion with the meat and shape and brown the mixture like hamburgers. Other vegetables like grated fresh carrots and finely diced celery are a good addition to meat. For 1 pound of ground beef, I use 1 cup grated carrots, 1/2 cup finely diced celery and 1/2 cup finely chopped onion."

She added, "These vegetable hamburgers make attractive and delicious little meat balls to serve as a hot hors d'oeuvre. The vegetables keep them moist so they may be made ahead of time and popped in the oven just before serving."

VEGETABLE HAMBURGERS WITH MASHED POTATOES

(6 servings)
1 lb. ground chuck
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 cup chopped green peppers
2/3 cup finely chopped onion
3/4 cup finely chopped fresh tomatoes
Combine ingredients. Shape into 6 patties and brown as desired on both sides in a skillet over direct heat or in the broiler. Serve with mashed potatoes or in hamburger buns.

name junior high can go if necessary — and a more sensible division of students can be made, with sensible rules of what is and what isn't suitable for children of "intermediate" age.

The very name "intermediate school" seems better suited to children who are between elementary school and high school than the name "junior high," which seems to make children feel that junior high ought to be as much like high school as possible.

Day or date time, this collarless style wool coat really makes the scene. Pencil-line design accentuates the slimsness - detachable front half belt adds a versatile touch.

SHERBROOKE HOSPITAL ALUMNAE

Mrs. Raymond Cathcart and Mrs. Charles Smith Jr. were elected as co-presidents of the Sherbrooke Hospital Alumnae Association at the annual meeting held on Tuesday, January 21. Other officers elected were: First vice-president, Mrs. Gerald Bryant; second vice-president, Mrs. James MacKinnon; treasurer, Mrs. Ernest Taylor; recording secretary, Miss Thelma Gratham; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Morrison. Social conveners, Mrs. Gerald Frost (advisor), Miss Diane Kerr, Miss Carol McCone and Miss Margaret Rose. Card committee, Miss Francis Whittle.

Several items of business were discussed, with a lengthy discussion on the procedure of changing the sick benefit fund into an endowment fund. Mr. Harry Grundy was present to answer several questions.

It was decided to hold the annual spring bridge in April this year, as lent would be commencing soon.

Mrs. James Kipp (McComb) was accepted as a new member. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. E. Lavallee, Mrs. E. Taylor and Mrs. R. Cathcart.

journed and brought to a close with the Mizpah Benediction. Lunch was then served by hostesses Mrs. Wyatt Savage, Mrs. Clifford Goodfellow and Mrs. Allan Goodfellow.

Church of the Advent W. A.

All officers re-elected at annual meeting

All officers will remain the same for the coming year in the Church of the Advent Women's Auxiliary. The entire slate with the addition of Mrs. Howard Price as vice-president, was re-elected at the branch's annual meeting held January 16 at the home of Miss Fannie Knapp.

Rev. R. S. Jervis-Read presided and congratulated the group on an active and fruitful year's work. Reports were presented by the secretary, Mrs. James Wark; treasurer, Miss Margaret Darby; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Douglas Price; G.A. secretary, Miss Barbara Wark; J.A. secretary, Miss Catherine Wark; Little Helpers' secretary, Mrs. A. Britton and secretaries of other departments.

The president, Miss Doris Price, presided at the regular meeting which followed, and urged members to attend the World Day of Prayer which would be taking place this year at the Baptist Church on February 14. Highlights of the Bulletin were read.

Miss Catherine Wark, educational secretary, introduced the new study book, Frontier Missions. At the close of the session, refreshments were served by the hostesses. The next meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. James Wark, Bowen Ave. South.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

St. Andrew's Guild held their first meeting of the year on January 20, in the church hall with 15 members in attendance. The president, Mrs. Wyatt Savage, opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer, followed by a scripture reading by Mrs. Peter Boulton.

The minutes of the previous meeting and several thank you letters for donations were read by the secretary. The treasurer gave her annual report which showed a most successful year and favorable balance. Reports from various conveners were given and miscellaneous business was dealt with.

The president reminded the members of the World Day of Prayer, to be held at the First Baptist Church on February 14, with hopes that there would be a good attendance.

An outline of the year's activities was given and discussed and members were reminded to bring in their favorite recipes for the February meeting in preparation for the new cook book being compiled.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY — I read the Pointers with delight and one in particular was the answer to a housewife's prayer. It was the recommendation to put furniture polish in an old window spray bottle and spray it on the furniture. This cuts my polishing time one-third and even polishing our ornate old grand piano is no longer a difficult job. I hope my hint, in turn, helps others.

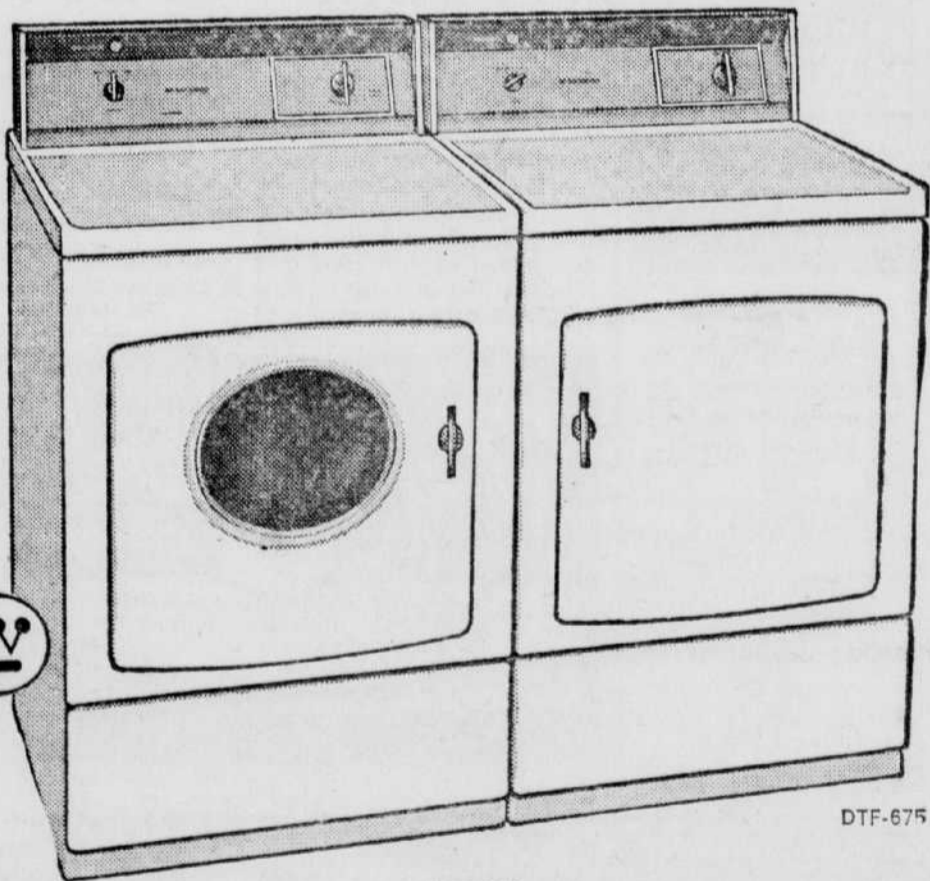

When hand-washing girdles, hose and other drip-dry items, place them in a colander while changing the water. The water that always accumulated under them drains away, carrying with it some of the suds. This can even cut down on the number of rinsings needed and if you let them stay in the colander to drain a bit before hanging, drying time is shorter. They need not be squeezed or twisted, which might possibly damage the fabric. — Mrs. V. J. B.

DEAR POLLY — I am 17 years old. I have a problem with my mother as she is always telling me what to wear. She recently embarrassed me in front of my friends over nothing at all except my clothes. Is there something I could do to make mother and I get along better? — LYNN P.

GIRLS — Do you agree with me that Lynn and her mother might come to better terms if Lynn asked her mother's advice on what to wear? If clothes are the only bone of contention, it seems there might be some sort of a compromise. After all, mother just may be right about the suitability of the clothes her daughter chooses for a certain occasion but she should do her criticizing when they are alone. What do you other mothers and daughters think about this? — POLLY

Share your favorite home-making ideas... send them to Polly in care of The Sherbrooke Daily Record. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your idea in Polly's Pointers.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

KING LIABILITY IN SOUTH HAND
 One of the great bridge players of the '30s was the late Sidney Rusinov (pronounced Ruseinof). He is remembered most as the subject of Howard Dietz' plaintive lines, "Why do you signal, Rusinov? Why play the eight? Ain't the deuce enough?"

Everybody learns to signal, but it takes real ability to know when to waste even a six spot, and when it comes to tossing and West cleared the suit. South was in dummy with the jack and was able to finesse his jack of spades. Then he returned to dummy with the ace of diamonds and finessed the spade again.

This gave him three spade tricks and his contract while if he had hung to his king of hearts he would only have been able to reach dummy once.

away a very high card such as a king most players simply shudder and hang on to the potential winner.
 Fortunately for North, South was not one of that die-hard group.

When East won the opening heart lead with the ace, South dropped his king as if it were a hot potato.

It was, too. Had South hung on to it he could have played the rest of the hand anyway he wished, but would have wound up in the ash can.

Once he dropped the king everything came up roses.

South was certain that West had led from something in hearts and that something had to be the queen. Hence, South was only going to make one heart trick and he wanted to win that heart trick in dummy.

Let's see what actually happened. East returned a heart

22 teams enter Hi-Y basketball jamboree

Basketball and ballroom floors will be given a workout tomorrow in Sherbrooke when 22 junior and senior basketball teams from 13 Eastern Townships schools and one club compete in the annual Hi-Y basketball jamboree Saturday.

Bob Lothrop, co-chairman of the event, along with Roger Warren and Warne Lavallee, said that play is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. and to continue, with eliminations, throughout the morning and afternoon.

Games will be played at two schools, Sherbrooke High School and Mitchell's. Supporters are expected to accompany their teams to Sherbrooke, and the high school cafeteria will be open throughout the day, complete with music for dancing.

In the evening, the Hi-Y, a YMCA club, will sponsor a dance at the Sherbrooke YMCA building.

The day will begin at 9 a.m. when six of the eight junior teams entered will meet. Two others, Sawyerville High School and Knowlton High School will play at 11 a.m.

Six senior teams will play three games at 10 a.m., three more at 11.15 a.m. Sherbrooke High School will be given a by, to compete in the second round with winners of the first sets.

Elimination playoffs will

Top E.T. basketball players compete in jamboree Saturday

It takes hundreds of people to carry out a successful and highly competitive sports event. None are probably more organized or involved as a basketball jamboree. Brought together to make the event come off smoothly are school officials, coaches, referees, scorekeepers, time keepers... right down the line to cheerleaders.

The stars, of course, are the players themselves and there are plenty of them who will compete in the Hi-Y Basketball jamboree for Eastern Township high schools Saturday at the Sherbrooke High School and Mitchell School.

The following is a list of these players:

FOSTER — The evening Guild of St. James Church held its annual meeting, opened by Rev. T. J. W. Ligget, on Jan. 16, at the parsonage.

Reports of a busy year showed a gratifying balance on hand.

The retiring president, Mrs. Gordon Sheppard, thanked the members for their co-operation during the year.

The new slate of officers, drawn up by Mrs. Adrian Whitehead and Mrs. Sheppard, was presented and accepted as follows: President, Mrs. Roland Johnson; first vice-president, Mrs. Sidney de Solla; second vice-president, Mrs. Lawrence Marsh; secretary, Mrs. Arthur Hancox; treasurer, Mrs. Bernard de Solla; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Robert Price.

Conveners: work, Mrs. Miles Rhicard; nearly new, Mrs. Adrian Whitehead; birthday box, Mrs. Leon Derby; drawing, Mrs. Gordon Sheppard.

With the newly elected president in the chair it was decided that each member is to hand in talent money at the February meeting.

Mrs. Robert Price and Mrs. Arthur Hancox served lunch at the close of the session.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Miles Rhicard on Feb. 13.

Richmond High gives ADS 17-14

Richmond High School visited Asbestos-Danville-Shepton High School Wednesday for a senior girls basketball game, Asbestos won 17-15.

In the first half, Richmond dominated play and led at half time 6-5. In the second half ADS took an early lead and never looked back, leading 11-9 at three-quarter time.

An unfortunate incident happened when Barbara Brock, a high scorer for Richmond, fell and broke her foot with two minutes remaining to play. Sandra Strachan was high scorer for ADS, with seven points while Heather Skillen led Richmond with 6 points. The following is the list of players.

ADS, Forwards: S. Dennis, S. Monroe, K. Mills, H. Farmer, S. Strachan, S. Cleveland. Guards: W. Cleveland, S. Lockwood, M. Blake, M. Fortier, G. Grant, M. Lodge. R.H.S., Forwards: H. Skillen, G. Gilchrist, B. MacLeod, R. Paige, B. Brock. Guards: D. Grainger, S. Armitage, L. Grainger, C. Frank.

Provincial league is normal again

Well, things are back to normal in the Provincial Hockey League. The Granby Vics last night won their game against St. Hyacinthe 4-3. Sherbrooke supporters can re-acquire their habitual gloom as the Beavers' two-game blaze of glory was quenched last night in Drummondville with an unquestionable 6-1 dousing.

Bishop's faces hockey, basketball fire this weekend with tough teams

Both major teams representing Bishop's University will move into action this weekend, and both will face tough competition. The hockey Gaiters of coach Bruce Coulter will travel to Ottawa today and Saturday for games with the Carleton University Ravens and the University of Ottawa Gee Gees. The Ravens earned a 6-6 deadlock with the Gaiters earlier in the season, but they will be much harder to tie or even defeat on their own home ice. The Gee Gees are rated only second to last in the league so far, but they have played the league's toughest teams. Last year the Gee Gees were edged out by Sherbrooke for the league title, and they still have a very tough squad, as seen by their effort in holding the RMC cadets to only 1-0 a few weeks ago.

The status of the Gaiters' defence is in question after the 9-3 pasting administered to Bishop's by RMC last weekend. Despite this, the team is expected to make any drastic changes for the upcoming games, unless Carleton disturbs plans with injuries or whopping victory on Friday night.

Carleton's flashy, classy basketball Ravens will take the floor at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday against the same Bishop's Gaiters whom they pounded 88-35 two weeks ago in Ottawa. The Ravens are everything a basketball coach could want, but they represent only a nightmare to Bishop's mentor Garth Smith. The Bytown boys have height, speed, good shooting, and great basketball know-how. The Gaiters, on the other hand, have been experiencing difficulties, especially in close, both offensive and defensive rebounding have been shaky, and many of Carleton's points in that 88-35 disaster came from right under the boards.

THIRD PERIOD

6—Drummondville: C. Aubry, (Michelin, Boivin) ..... 7:30
7—Drummondville: F. Harvey, (Descormiers, Harvey) ..... 17:17
Penalties: Fortin, Drouin.

OVERTIME PERIOD

7—Granby: A. Samson, (Bouchard, Mallette) ..... 8:35
Penalties: None.

Drummondville's Claude Richard and Michel Sawyer skated past the feeble Sherbrooke defence to toss their pucks three minutes, and three minutes, 34 seconds after the game opened. The clock was allowed to run another eight minutes and 50 seconds before Roger Picard scored again for the Rockets.

In Granby, the league-leading Vics seemed to have recovered from their ignominious defeat at the hands of Sherbrooke only partially. They won their game with St. Hyacinthe by a close 4-3, but had to go into overtime to do it.

Andre Samson dealt the deciding rubber into the Gaults' net at 8:34 of the overtime play.

He also scored Granby's first two goals and was credited with an assist on Jean-Pierre Mallette's third period Granby goal which put Granby ahead after a tense 2-2 deadlock.

Gaul's scorers were Fernand Bernaque, Guy Black and Rene Beaugreard who scored the tying goal in the third period.

Before the current National Hockey League season got underway, observers at the Montreal Canadiens training camp were convinced John Ferguson couldn't make the team.

But the rookie left-winger continued to embarrass his detractors Thursday night as he scored two goals and help set up another as the Canadiens dumped New York 4-2 in Montreal. Although he missed 13 games with an injury, he now has 14 goals.

The victory, Montreal's seventh in eight games with the Rangers, enabled the Canadiens to keep pace with the Chicago Black Hawks, who beat Boston 3-1 in the only other game played. The Hawks and Canadiens share the NHL lead, although Montreal holds a game in hand.

Ferguson opened the scoring but the Rangers came back with two goals to force the Canadiens to explode for three markers in the third period to keep their unbeaten string intact at six games. Ex-Canadian midfielder Jacques Plante again was bombarded by his former teammates, facing 43 shots.

NEARS RECORD
Earl Ingardiff knotted the score in the second period and Rod Gilbert, scoring his 19th of the season, put the Blueshirts ahead in the second minute of the final period. Gilbert now has scored in seven straight games, three short of Andy Bathgate's record.

Then the fireworks started as the teams dropped their close-checking tactics and the Habs responded by pumping 19 shots at Plante. Bill Hicke got the tiebreaker at 5:36, Ferguson counted the winner at 9:49 and Bobby Rousseau—foiled twice by Plante on breakaways—added an insurance marker at 13:51.

Charlie Hodge faced only 23 shots in the Montreal net. Chicago proved they still belong in the lead with a rare this season, anyway victory over the Bruins in Boston. The Beantowners until now had held the upper hand when the Hawks came to town.

But there was no doubt Thursday night as the Hawks fired 17 shots at Ed Johnston in the first period and took a 2-0 lead on goals by Ab McDonald and Bill Hay. Boston replied with Jerry Topazzini's goal, but Boston was stalled by Hawks goalie Glenn Hall.

Hall made 30 stops, 15 of them in the second period, and only relaxed when Kenny Wharram put the game on ice with his 25th of the season midway through the final frame. It was the 100th goal of Wharram's career.

THE SKI WHIRL

By LUCILE WHEELER VAUGHAN

The Olympic Winter Games start at Innsbruck, Austria next Wednesday. Until February 10th, the winter sports nations will forget graver political problems and concentrate on competing together in sport, in these the Ninth Winter Games.

Each athlete is honored and proud to represent his country at the Olympic Games. He must compete to the best of his ability and be a true ambassador for his nation at all times. The gold medal winner is faced with sudden world fame while the loser accepts his bitter disappointment, and becomes more determined to do better next time. Whichever way it goes, it's a wonderful experience.

BISHOP'S — B. Aitken 12, D. Oldfield 11, B. Coombs 8, K. Taylor 8, M. Holden 6, A. Lumsden 6, I. Dinning 5, I. Hammond 4, H. Stewart 4, B. Stockwell 4, J. Piper 2, D. Campbell 2, Total 72.
MAGOG — R. McKell 12, D. Parker 6, J. Berube 6, E. Henson 6, P. Brodeur 6, M. Rancourt 1, J. Beaudry, K. Whittier. Total 37.

The most outstanding accomplishment in skiing to date, and I do not think this feat will be repeated for many Olympic Games to come, was Toni Sailer's triple win in skiing (downhill, slalom and the slalom). Since the Olympics are also considered as the World Ski Championships, Toni Sailer ended up with a total of seven gold medals, three Olympic medals and four FIS medals (presented by the governing body of skiing "Federation Internationale de Ski" — the fourth medal presented by the FIS is for the combined standings of the three skiing events).

These are the unexpected thrills of the Olympics, and a spectator marvels that he was on hand to witness such a considerable accomplishment. There is always the lighter side to Olympic competition too. Once a team mate, who drew a starting position, waited her turn in the restaurant of the first racers complete their runs on television. Who would ever think of watching TV up in the Alps of Europe?

I can remember a rather odd conversation at the finish line of the downhill race at the World Ski Championships in Badgastein in 1958 when I won my first gold medal. A friend came up to me and said, "You have won!" I refused to believe her, and said it was impossible. Finally she became exasperated with me, and said, "O.K. find out for yourself."

Probably the greatest feeling in the world for an athlete is to stand on the winners podium, while all the other nations stand at attention to his country's flag and national anthem. The many years of dedication and gruelling training seem so far away.

Canadians have come to expect a great deal from their skiers. I was fortunate to win the downhill and giant slalom at the World Ski Championships in Badgastein, Austria in 1958; and at Squaw Valley in 1960, Anne Heggtveit won the Olympic slalom and the combined for the world ski championships.

This year's ski team has trained as hard as any previous team. However, there is only one of four skiers in the first seeding. This is Nancy Green from Rossland, B.C.

A skier is seeded according to his results in international competition. A racer seldom wins unless he has a number in the first grouping. That is why it is important for our skiers to compete in international competition to try to improve their position. As they improve their seedings, they have naturally improved their skiing and racing ability.

We Canadians should first judge the results of our skiers by the numbers where they started and the position they finished. We must also not overlook the experience of travel and the friends made from other nations.

Competing in various sports is one of the best ways I can think of to help nations to better understand each other.
