Air Ways

Our aviation history from balloons to jets

By LARRY McINNIS

A LITTLE HISTORY: Everyone is so pleased about the new terminal opening, including us, that we can't help mentioning it again.

This week, though, a little history of aviation in the Montreal area would seem timely, since the first flight here took place in 1879 and to some it seems like our new terminal took almost as long. Anyway! June 21, 1879 three men, Charles Page, a professor Grimley and an American newsman, James Creelman, took off in their balloon from the Shamrock lacrosse grounds in Westmount, eventually landing safely near St. Hyacinthe. Balloon ascensions were fairly common, gas being used from city mains to fill them. The first heavier-than-air machine over Montreal was a French Bleriot (the type which was first to fly the English Channel) piloted by Count Jacques de Lesseps, who took it off from Lakeside, near Pointe Claire, in July, 1910. It is recorded that newsmen following his progress in an automobile had to stop from time to time to let the aircraft catch up. First official mail flight in Canada was in 1919 from Montreal to Toronto. It was around 1924 or after that aviation had progressed to the point where it was considered necessary for Montreal to have an official airport, and St. Hubert was chosen as the site.

AND MORE: In 1929 Colonial Airways (which became part of Eastern in 1956) started a passenger service between Montreal and New York. On July 31, 1930 the famous British dirigible R-100 moored at St. Hubert at a mast specially erected for the occasion. In 1937 TCA was formed and a regular passenger service was started from Montreal. In 1940, after the war had started, Ferry Command came into being to deliver American aircraft to Britain. Dorval was completed in 1941 for this purpose, and like many government-run things, a switch took place in 1945. Dorval was military, so DOT took it over as a civil operation. St. Hubert was civil, so it was handed to the military.

ANYTHING FOR A LAUGH: Eastern Airlines got the brilliant idea last week to run the first flight from the new Dorval terminal, and to make sure it was the first they scheduled it for 2 a.m. Dec. 1, called it a champagne flight and invited a few (62) friends. Needless to say, even at that hour of the morning, the plane was full. However, aside from other benefits, the trip re-affirmed my faith in the Electra as we climbed out rapidly to 12,000 feet for a fast trip to Massena and back. The tour through the new terminal was impressive, especially when one realizes that here, at last, you can have elbow room.

SPEAKING OF ELECTRA: The man responsible for keeping the Electra flying even at reduced airspeeds following a series of crashes, Gen. Quaesada, will quit as head of the FAA in Washington to take over the franchise of the Washington Senators baseball team. Although he is undoubtedly quite competent, I can think of a lot of people who will not be sorry to see him get out of aviation, especially a few pilots who are nearing the compulsory retirement age. Anyway, Lockheed have three modified Electras on the line undergoing rugged tests, and if they prove successful, all Electras will get the same treatment so their speed can be upped to 325 knots plus.

SO WE HEAR: Many seaplane operators still have their craft on the river, but are getting up early these mornings to check with the weather. Paul Belanger of MFC has taken on the task of converting a Cessna 180 from floats to wheels for the winter, and he hopes to get it off the back river and into St. Jovite before the freeze comes. Good luck! Montreal Flying Club's new social (and everything else) committee considering staging a fly-in south of the border late in January or early in February. Possible site: Saranac Lake in New York. Ed Gates wants to have the event take the form of an exercise in practical dead reckoning navigation and, let's face it, we all need the practice.

Obituary

J. R. FENWICK

A funeral service was held Wednesday in Dominion - Douglas United Church for James Reid Fenwick, retired veteran employee of the Northern Electric Co., Ltd., who died Monday at his home, 697 Victoria avenue, Westmount. He was 63.

Born in Toronto, Mr. Fenwick was a graduate electrical engineer of the University of Toronto.

He came to Montreal in 1922 and joined the Northern Electric Company with which he was associated until his retirement last summer.

He was interested in educational and municipal matters and was for years on the Westmount School Board. He was also a past president of the Westmount Municipal Association; a past president of the Val Morin Golf Club, and for many years was an elder of Dominion-Douglas United Church.

During World War I, he served with the Royal Canadian Navy.

He is survived by his wife, the former Norah Tremble; three sons, Edward T. (Ted), Donald R. (Don), and Dr. John D. (Jack), and two grandchildren, all of Montreal; a brother, Alan Fenwick, of Toronto, and a sister, Dorothy (Mrs. Bruce MacNeill), also of Toronto.

Gifts sought for forgotten mentally ill

The 1960 Christmas Gift Campaign for the "forgotten" mental patient was launched by the Quebec Division of the Canadian Mental Health Association at the offices of its President, Lt. Col. S. C. Holland under the co-chairmanship of two well known television and radio personalities, Fred Hill and Mrs. Nicole Germain.

The campaign is not a fund raising appeal but a request for gifts of clothing, toiletries, toys and smoking supplies to be given through the Association to twenty mental institutions throughout the Province. It is part of the national appeal for Christmas gifts under the chairmanship of Lady Eaton.

The shocking fact that 15,000 of the 25,000 hospitalized mental patients in this Province have been completely forgotten by their parents and friends after months or years in an institution spurred the Association to organize this appeal for gifts.

Through the generous help of industry, individuals and all types of social and welfare organizations, 16,000 gifts were obtained and distributed last year.

The campaign's objective is twofold: to educate the public at large, and help it realize the enormous mental health problem which confronts it, and to help the mental patient through a remembrance at Christmas. Many people believe that a mental patient cannot appreciate such a gift. This is far from true. The one thing the patient needs is to feel that he is still part of the community and that he is not a cypher who has been forgotten by his friends and by his community. Doctors all agree that such recognition is of prime importance in the treatment and final rehabilitation of a person struck by this terrible disease.

A gift for a forgotten mental patient may be sent to Quebec Division, Canadian Mental Health Association, 5757 Decelles avenue, Montreal 26.

Young people offer pageant

Next Sunday in Dominion-Douglas Church at 4 p.m. the Annual Christmas Pageant will be presented. This Pageant is prepared by the Teen-Age Group, assisted by a great number of people. There will be an Angels' Choir.

Next Sunday, White Gifts will be received for Christmas giving elsewhere.

Unity Boys Club

Yule parties set December 17, 23

By MAURICE MARIASINE

Nine McGill University students from the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity spent the day at the Unity Boys' Club last Saturday as part of their Community Services Day project. The day was spent inside and outside of the Clubhouse — windows were washed, floors were polished and the spacious lawn was raked and cleaned.

We would like to compliment the students and their capable supervisor, who not only did an excellent job, but also showed a keen sense of community responsibilities.

SPECIAL EVENTS

It was announced this week that the Unity Boys' Club will hold their annual Christmas Parties on Saturday, December 17, for the younger set of the Club — for boys and girls under 12 years of age and also their younger brothers and sisters and on Friday, December 23, for all those 12 years of age and over.

The youngsters will be treated with a variety of good things to eat, such as: ice cream, cup cakes, milk, candies and oranges and their program will consist of: movies (Christmas cartoons); group games, entertainment and the special guest will be none other Santa Claus himself.

The teen-age members will start off their evening of fun with a skating party and conclude with party games, dancing and a weiner roast. Prizes will be given at both parties.

TALENT PARADE

Many requests have been received for the services of the Unity Boys' Club Talent Parade — the most exciting of which is a return engagement at Lake Placid, New York on May 7, 1961. This for the fourth time and the second time for the International Rotary Assembly where some 1,000 Rotarians from all over the world will assemble. This is indeed an honor and our youngsters are very proud. Another important engagement scheduled for 1961 will take place at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel on January 22, and at that time the entertainment will be provided for the Rotary Club of Montreal's Annual International Student's Tea . . . And to continue, on January 10, the Club will entertain the elderly people at the Old People's Home on Esplanade avenue, on behalf of the Pythian Sisters, Calanthe Temple No. 1. On December 18, Unity's Talent Club will provide entertainment at a Children's Party at the Police Athletic Club on behalf of the Canadair Management Club. Two other engagements not as yet confirmed, will take place at Smith Falls, Ontario and at Chateauguay, New York.

A busy schedule is ahead for the talented entertainers of the Unity Boys' Club Talent Parade.

OTHER PROGRAM NOTES

Sports under Physical Director Rupert Bowen continues to attract large numbers every day — the program consists of: soccer, badminton, basketball, indoor tennis, gymnastics, general gym, group games and weight training. Hockey will soon start . . . Douglas Wright and Douglas Gavin are making preparation for the House League.

Boys' Work supervisor Chuck Tyler reports that his tournaments are going full tilt and that champions will soon be declared in table tennis, chess, checkers, darts and shuffle board.

Louis Thomas, Unity's popular Indian Lore exponent will in addition to his regular Wednesday and Saturday classes, also inaugurate a Tuesday afternoon class for members of the club.

BUSINESS GOOD

How badly are we off in Courtenay? There is talk of recession and hard times . . . Two merchants are extending their operations to take more floor and selling space. At the post office business is up over last year and a number of merchants . . . say business is up a little over last year. — Comox District (B.C.) Free Press.

WMA names candidates for Council

Acclamation is expected

THE nominating committee of Westmount's "baby council"—the 2,000-member Westmount Municipal Association — has issued its political proclamation from above, recommending the re-election of Mayor J. C. Cushing, Ald. Paul Ouimet and Ald. C. H. Drury in the January, 1961 municipal election, "if", as association president G. H. Merrill phrased it, "there will be an election."

There is, then, little doubt that the WMA expects its candidates to be re-elected by acclamation.

And sources here are entirely unhesitant about predicting another victory — uncontested this time — for the WMA: "It hasn't been defeated in more than half a century," they point out.

"The mayor and the alderman," Mr. Merrill explained, "have had only one term in office. They haven't," he insists, "had enough time to prove themselves." The WMA, he added, tries to nominate the best people for the job.

"Elections," he continued, "haven't been customary; last year's were the first time in quite some time. We won, so we feel the people are pleased with how the City is run."

"Elections," he said again, "are an excellent thing; but because of the makeup of the city, perhaps, people don't seem to want them." A former member of the now-defunct Westmount Voters Association, set up prior to last year's election by Rev. William Morris, who was at the time a member of the WMA nominating committee, and who sought an aldermanic seat in opposition to a WMA candidate but was forced to withdraw, in his capacity as a clergyman, disclosed that no suggestion has yet been made to reorganize the WVA.

Rev. Morris, who was sent to Africa shortly after the elections, is now serving the United Church of Canada in the Province of Ontario. No new leader for the group has yet been suggested.

Directory advertisers 'annoyed'

Westmount residents whose names were omitted from last year's Directory may take heart with the news that the same thing is not expected to happen this year.

The commercial letter shop responsible for publication of the Westmount Directory and Year Book reports that last year's errors of omission have been corrected, and the streets left out of the 1959-60 edition have been added to the new book.

A spokesman for the firm disclosed that "we are still in the midst of printing it; it's just a sideline with us."

Issued customarily in September, the book has been delayed, and there have been reports of annoyance among the advertisers who hoped their names would reach Westmount households before Christmas.

"We haven't heard any complaints," said the spokesman, who wished to remain anonymous. He added: "We're working overtime on it but I couldn't say when it will be ready; perhaps sometime in January," he hazarded.

Council votes funds for snow-melting

Westmount City Council Monday night approved the allotment of $8,100 from the Depreciation Reserve to cover the cost of purchasing and installing material-handling machinery necessary for the new snow-melting plant.

Council decided it was necessary to place immediate order for the equipment to maintain the schedule on the snow-melting project.

Two conveyors will be ordered one to gather "detritus", brought in with the snow at one end of the melting pit, for easy removal. The other will replace the hand-raking of slush which is the method currently being used.

The cost of site preparation of the new snow-melting plant will be in the vicinity of $9,070.

A manhole and a pole, as well as underground conduits for the various plant services are expected to be constructed before the snow-melting program begins. A new route to the present melting pond is also expected to be prepared in order to clear the area for construction.

Roslyn School Yule carol program set Dec. 19

A community Christmas carol program will be held on the lawn of Roslyn School Monday, December 19, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the Roslyn Home and School Association, the program will consist of carol-singing by the 130 members of the school choir, and community singing of favorite carols around the Christmas tree on the front lawn.

Residents are invited to attend and take part in the program. Coffee and cocoa will be served.

In even of inclement weather, the program will be postponed to December 22.

WMA nominations— principle not right

The Westmount Municipal Association has again nominated Mayor Cushing and Aldermen Drury and Ouimet to sit on Westmount's Council for the next two years. This will almost certainly mean there will be no change in the present Council setup.

The nomination marks a practice peculiar to Westmount, in that an "association" practically names the Mayor and Council. They have been doing this for more than 50 years with apparently happy results.

The principle, however, is not right.

This Spring the City had its first election in many years because a few formed a group to oppose the WMA choice of aldermen.

The new group was defeated soundly, which is beside the point.

Everyone, including the WMA, feels that elections in a democratic country are a good thing.

Will there be an election this time?

If the WMA nominations go unopposed, as they have in most years, there will not be an election and their slate will go in by acclamation.

There is no doubt that the WMA-chosen people are extremely capable, but it does seem strange that they rarely have opposition. And many people feel that the expense of an election is "unnecessary" — almost as if democracy itself was unnecessary.

But, only time will tell whether the WMA nominees are opposed, whether Westmount will be faced with another election, and whether a trend will be established by making a practice of opposing nominations of this type.

Labor leaders take negative attitudes

Sir: The socialists and leaders of organized labor who blame the government for its alleged indifference to the unemployment situation are more negative than positive in their attitude. To date they have not made one constructive or practical suggestion to deal with it, other than to urge the spending of public funds — the funds that must come from taxpayers or government loans. Neither is calculated to bring a solution.

Only a totalitarian government can provide national employment. Being in absolute control of the nations resources and agencies of production and distribution, it can assign, in virtue of its powers, the work and duties to be performed by those who are subject to its bureaucracy.

Much as we deplore the plight of the unemployed worker who seeks employment in a democracy, he can look forward to better times without loss of his occupational liberty and social freedom.

The socialists and labor leaders who think or argue that a change of government, whereby it would become collectivist instead of democracy, overlook the fact that capitalism and free enterprise can do more to create jobs than voting huge government grants to erect buildings that, because of maintenance costs, become a permanent drain upon the national tax revenues.

The capitalism and free enterprise that has given us the wage standards enjoyed by gainfully employed workers — who number millions (even in this unemployment situation), can do a better job in dealing with unemployment than any government, no matter how benevolent or sympathetic in its appreciation.

Should gambling be legalized? It may happen very soon now!

By
Miriam Armstrong

Canadian speculators who indulge in the "blind bargain," hoping to get something for little or nothing, in other words — gamblers — may be able to do so legally if two bills which had their first reading in Parliament late in November become the law of the land.

emolument or other profit of any kind as by their commission shall be expressly declared and provided."

The commission will not be answerable to the crown, and may call on civil servants and government facilities "without liability for remuneration or compensation for such use."

The money will be given to those now receiving family allowances on a scale that in-member must be a Canadian, not a member of either House of Parliament or of a provincial legislature, and must not be a paid public servant employed by the government, nor can he be 70 years-of-age or older.

To be responsible to the Minister of Finance and to Parliament, the Board would be somewhat similar to the Bank of Canada. It is explained in the Act. The share capital is held by the Minister for the benefit of Canada. The organization expenses of the Board are financed by a loan Scotland Yard! Sweeps! . . . what's next?

Legalized gambling in Canada, whether promoted from outside or within the country, has heretofore been prohibited by the Criminal Code which will be amended if and when Bill C-18 proposed by Louis Pigeon and Bill C-36 proposed by Mr. Browne are passed by Parliament.

The Quebec government authorized lotteries in 1949 but the Federal government has never amended the Criminal Code to render them legal.

Games of chance

but supervised

A "supplement" to the Criminal Code, Bill C-36 would, in effect, provide a legal outlet for gambling on "sweepstakes, lotteries and like games of chance", under strictly supervised conditions, administered by a specially appointed board of three paid members with proceeds after prize money has been deducted to benefit hospitals in several provinces.

Declaring as its purpose the establishment and operation of a Canadian lottery and sweepstakes to be administered by an unpaid commission of 10 members of Parliament, Bill C-18 would apportion profits, after allowance for prizes, among Family Allowance recipients.

The Canadian Lottery Act, C-18, introduced at the last session by Mr. Pigeon but not passed, states in the second section that "there shall be a Canadian Lottery Commission consisting of 10 commissioners appointed by the Governor in Council in equal numbers out of the members of the Senate and House of Commons; the commissioners shall hold office under this act without salary, fees, wages, allowances increases depending on the number of children in a family qualified to receive allowances.

Having family will pay

In an explanatory note to the Act it is stated, "The operations of the Commission are exempt from prohibitions in the law against lotteries and sweepstakes". Under the Act it would be possible for sweepstakes and lotteries to be run in Canada whenever the Commission decides to do so. The affairs of the commission, who must table a yearly report in both houses of Parliament, would be audited by the Auditor General of Canada each year. All advertising matter and other material issued by the commission would be printed in French and English.

Mr. Browne's bill, C-36, called the Hospital Sweepstakes Act, has a two-fold purpose: first, to provide a legal outlet for gambling, and second, to assure money now being spent by Canadians for the benefit of establishments in other countries may be redirected to the "promotion of the welfare of Canadian residents."

A board consisting of three members to be appointed by the Governor in Council and to receive salaries shall have power to operate sweepstakes on a national scale. Section three of the Act provides that "the members shall be men of proven financial experience and each shall devote the whole of his time to the duties of his office." Each from the Industrial Development Bank. The Board has power to operate outside the relevant provisions of the Criminal Code, Post Office Act and other prohibitive acts. Apart from operating expenses and the maintenance of a sound financial structure, all income is paid to Her Majesty's Lieutenant Governors for the benefit of hospitals in several provinces. The division of the profits is made according to the population of the provinces."

The capital of the Board is proposed at $5 million at the outset. The Minister of Finance shall recommend the appointment of two auditors yearly to audit the affairs of the board and send a copy of every report to the Minister. A copy of the fiscal year's accounts signed and certified by the proper authorities will be published in the "Canada Gazette."

Good security, fair shake

As the matter now stands in Canada, persons guilty of disposing of any prize by means of a game of chance or mixed chance and skill by drawing, lottery or raffle, are liable to a maximum penalty of two years in prison under Section 179 of the Criminal Code. The buyer or player is considered in the eyes of the law to be equally guilty.

Quebec Provincial Police director, Josephat Brunet warned this fall that the "public often does not get a fair

New arrivals in our business whirl are Richard, Michael and Peter Harling whose Harling Match Limited is moving to 318 Victoria on Monday. Formed nearly two years ago, Harling Match specializes in designing, producing and packaging book matches for advertising purposes. They have other business interests as well.

People are talking about a portrait of Canon Oliver, formerly of St. Matthias Church, which is on view until December 10 at the Independent Art show at Eaton's. The painting is by Eric Wesselow.

Wally Ward would be well advised to try to move his service station across Claremont where he would be under the protection of our efficient police force. His station has been robbed five times in the past two years including twice in the last few weeks. Latest break-in was Sunday night when over $300 was taken. The night before, someone filched a tire that was displayed on a stand at the door, while the attendant was busy elsewhere.

Hilda Van Stockum Marlin, Lansdowne avenue, away in London, England, visiting her daughter, son-in-law and grandchildren and due to return early next week.

Lt. Edward Burns and his wife, Louise, have founded a new catering service on Hillside avenue. Lt. Burns served in the Royal Canadian Navy in World War II and again during the Korean War, retiring in 1956 with rank of Lt. Commander. It is a case of "like father, like son" as Lt.

Burns' father was also in the catering business.

Yves Theriault, Victoria avenue, author and playwright, has just completed a book which is on the press (his tenth) and is writing another about Napoleon Alexandre from the Baie Comeau district, early in the New Year.

Wonder why the gents who deal out the parking tickets never can see the trucks that park under the No Parking signs on Claremont at the corner of Sherbrooke; they're right on the job if an unwary motorist should park there.

Glen Lyman, music award winner last year, is getting many requests to play at various church meetings to celebrate the Christmas season.

African violet enthusiasts who are afflicted with a streak of jealousy, are advised to keep their eyes averted when they pass the Westmount Hobby Shop on Sherbrooke street because there is a display of those delicate blooms in the window over the store that will keep them awake nights.

Claude Beaubien, Grosvenor avenue, is one of the members of the Royal Commission that is meeting currently to look into publication problems in Canada.

Hans Theide, the hairdresser, flying home to Germany for New Years where he will join his wife and children. They have been visiting the folks at home for a prolonged period.

Miss Kathleen Jenkins, Westmount Library, executive director national branch of the Canadian Library Week committee, recently returned from three weeks leave of absence at Ottawa making plans for Canadian Library Week to be held next year from April 16 to 22. Miss Jenkins will be returning to Ottawa about 2 months before the event to complete other arrangements.

Labor leaders . . .

The unemployment situation would have hardly reached its presents state of acuteness if labor leaders and those on whose behalf they speak, had given the employers that co-operative that would have enabled them to produce and sell their merchandise at a price compatible with that now charged for imported goods. Thinking only in terms of what they, the workers, can get, rather than what they can or should give, hundreds of employers in this country have had to shut down or work short time.

Canadian and American workers have yet to learn how they can best serve their occupational and economic interest by giving their employers the measure of co-operation not as wage earners alone but associates in industry. The great majority of wage earners seldom give a thought to an understanding of the employers' position. At the end of the working week they get their pay cheques which they can spend as they please.

In a democracy, with equality of opportunity for both industry and government, the organizer and risk-taking capitalist can and does create profitable employment for the workers. The tremendous amount of commercial construction in Montreal and other centres is the best proof of his.

Socialism would inevitably wipe out the thousands of small merchants in whose welfare labor leaders take little or no interest. It is the capitalist, subject, to governmental regulation and supervision, and the small traders, who are the bulwark of democracy. Government pump-priming is neither an effective palliative or panacea for industrial, economic, or social ills. It is not groups, class, or otherwise, but individuals who have and can contribute to the wealth of the community and the prosperity of the nation.

Canada's prestige as an industrial nation is due to enlightened employers, rather than collectivists or boastful labor leaders. No one can or will blame the competent mechanic getting a fair wage, but this is due to his skill rather than his union affiliation.

For counsel on how best it can help to alleviate the unemployment situation, the government must consult the nation's employers who can give it sounder and more practical advice than the average labor leader who has had no business experience. The salaried spokesmen for labor think more in terms of what appeals to the emotions rather than the reason of their constituents. I have held, and repeat, that what is most needed at this moment is courageous and constructive labor leadership — a leadership that will not hesitate to tell the workers that they must not push the employer to extremes in the matter of wages, working week, and numerous fringe benefits. If the "laborer is worthy of his hire," the employer is likewise entitled to the same measure of consideration.

A political party that is basically "class conscious" and organized to liquidate existing democratic parties is more reactionary than practical, since it seeks to level down to what is static rather than dynamic, in all affects initiative and incentive.

Let's play chess

British Champion

By M. MOSS

To be crowned British Chess Champion is a strong indication of chess ability well above the average. To win the British Chess Championship without losing a single game is an unusual achievement. But to beat the world champion in an international event indicates the makings, probably, of a new world champion.

Such a person is 26-year-old Jonathan Penrose, a member of the British team at the Chess Olympiad at Leipzig. Penrose played first board against world champion Tal and beat him in 39 moves!

Penrose informs us that he is a student in psychology at the London University and is pursuing a most unusual subject there. Briefly, he tries to discover the mental processes by which a person works out the name of an object by means of question and answer.

Some people will approach the task from a material viewpoint, trying to discover the shape, size and composition of the object; others will treat the problem geographically and work their way systematically from finding out whether the object is in a particular country to where it is present in the room in which they are sitting. Yet others will treat the question less systematically and jump from one aspect of questioning to another in an intuitive fashion.

It is interesting to psychologists to find out how different kinds of people approach such problems, for it affords a clue to the nature of the methods by which our minds work. It is this which is Penrose's field of study.

His father is one of the world's foremost geneticists and one of his two brothers is the leading English practitioner of the game of "GO", said to be even more fascinating than chess. Penrose's father, incidentally, has been awarded a $2,500 grant by the American Public Health Association for his work on the genetic effects of radiation.

BOBBY FISCHER

Followers of chess are aware of the fact that the U.S.A. had not intended sending a team to the Chess Olympiad and that it was only at the proverbial last minute that it was announced that a U.S. team would participate after all.

The explanation for this sudden change comes from Bobby Fischer. He claims that his mother was responsible, almost single-handed, for a U.S. team entering the event at Leipzig. He recently informed news reporters that his mother had organized banner demonstrations in front of the White House and finally went on a hunger strike until the necessary $6,000 to cover expenses was collected and until permission was obtained from the

McGill choral concert set Saturday, Dec. 10

The McGill Choral Society will present the 1960 edition of its annual Christmas concert, 'Sing at Christmas,' on Saturday, December 10, at 8:15 p.m. in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium, 475 Pine Avenue, West. The society will be under the direction of Gifford Mitchell, and accompanied by William Stevens.

Mr. Mitchell has directed the society since its foundation 16 years ago. He has distinguished himself in Montreal music circles in connection with other choral groups as well, notably the St. James United Church Choir, and the Montreal Elgar Choir. William Stevens is a celebrated concert pianist in his own right.

The Choral Society annually presents three concerts: 'Sing at Christmas' in Ottawa and in Montreal, and 'Springsong' in Montreal at Easter. The Society has grown in its 16 years until now it contains 320 voices, representative of all faculties and schools at McGill. Listeners are continually impressed by the interpretations of the music by an amateur group singing in a professional manner.

During the first half of the program, McGill students from eight foreign countries, dressed in their national costumes, will read in turn parts of the Christmas story, illustrating both the cosmopolitan nature of McGill and the international quality of the Christmas season.

Alternating with these segments of the Christmas story, the society will sing carols from many lands and many periods. Two of the better known selections are 'O Holy Night' and 'The Little Drummer Boy.' In the second half of the concert, the Society will sing a cantata entitled, 'Grandma's Thanksgiving,' music by Harry Simeone.

Featured at the concert will be a group of selected voices from within the society itself, the Martlets. There will also be a period during which the audience will join the society in the singing of some of the favourite carols.

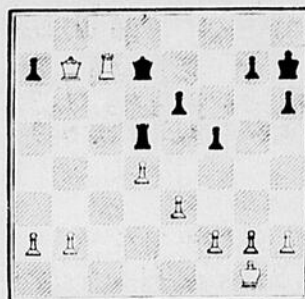

Tickets to the concert can be bought at the door or at the International Music Store.

Black to Play and Win

The winning move, submitted by only one reader, Barry Carin, is R-B5! Black threatens mate on the last rank and White can avert this only by giving up his Queen, after which he may as well resign.

Problem 11

Mate In Two

Readers will undoubtedly find this somewhat more difficult than the problems submitted to them recently. Send solution, key move only, to Chess Editor, The Monitor, 7005 Kildare road, Montreal 29, to arrive within one week after publication (December 15).

HIGH SCHOOL CHESS

Arrangements are almost completed for the mammoth chess tournament between the high schools of Montreal and surrounding district. Next week's column will be devoted to details of this coming event. If you are a High School student, watch for this announcement.

on the firm foundation of the past...

THE LAST WORD IN BANKING BY CANADA'S FIRST BANK

*Founder of Canada's branch-banking system
143 years ago, the Bank of Montreal returns to the original site of its first head office*

Rising 260 feet above St. James Street and historic Place d'Armes, the Bank of Montreal's new head-office building houses the most up-to-date banking headquarters in Canada.

The new building will be the nerve-centre of the B of M's operations across the nation and abroad. The most modern offices and departments will serve the Bank's hundreds of branches, providing customers everywhere with faster, more comprehensive head-office banking services.

This "last word" in banking resides in an 80,000-ton structure which rests on a site that is part of the storied past of Canada — of her first bank — and of her branch-banking system for which this nation has long been famous.

Soon after the founding of the Bank of Montreal on November 3rd, 1817, its directors erected, on this exact site, the first building in all Canada especially constructed for banking purposes.

On this same spot, more than 140 years later, Montrealers can see the beginning of a new chapter in the long story of Canada's economic development... from the time when business by barter and travel by stagecoach were still the order of the day.

In the intervening years, Canada and her first bank have grown up together — each contributing to the strength of the other, sharing in the ups and downs of more than 14 decades.

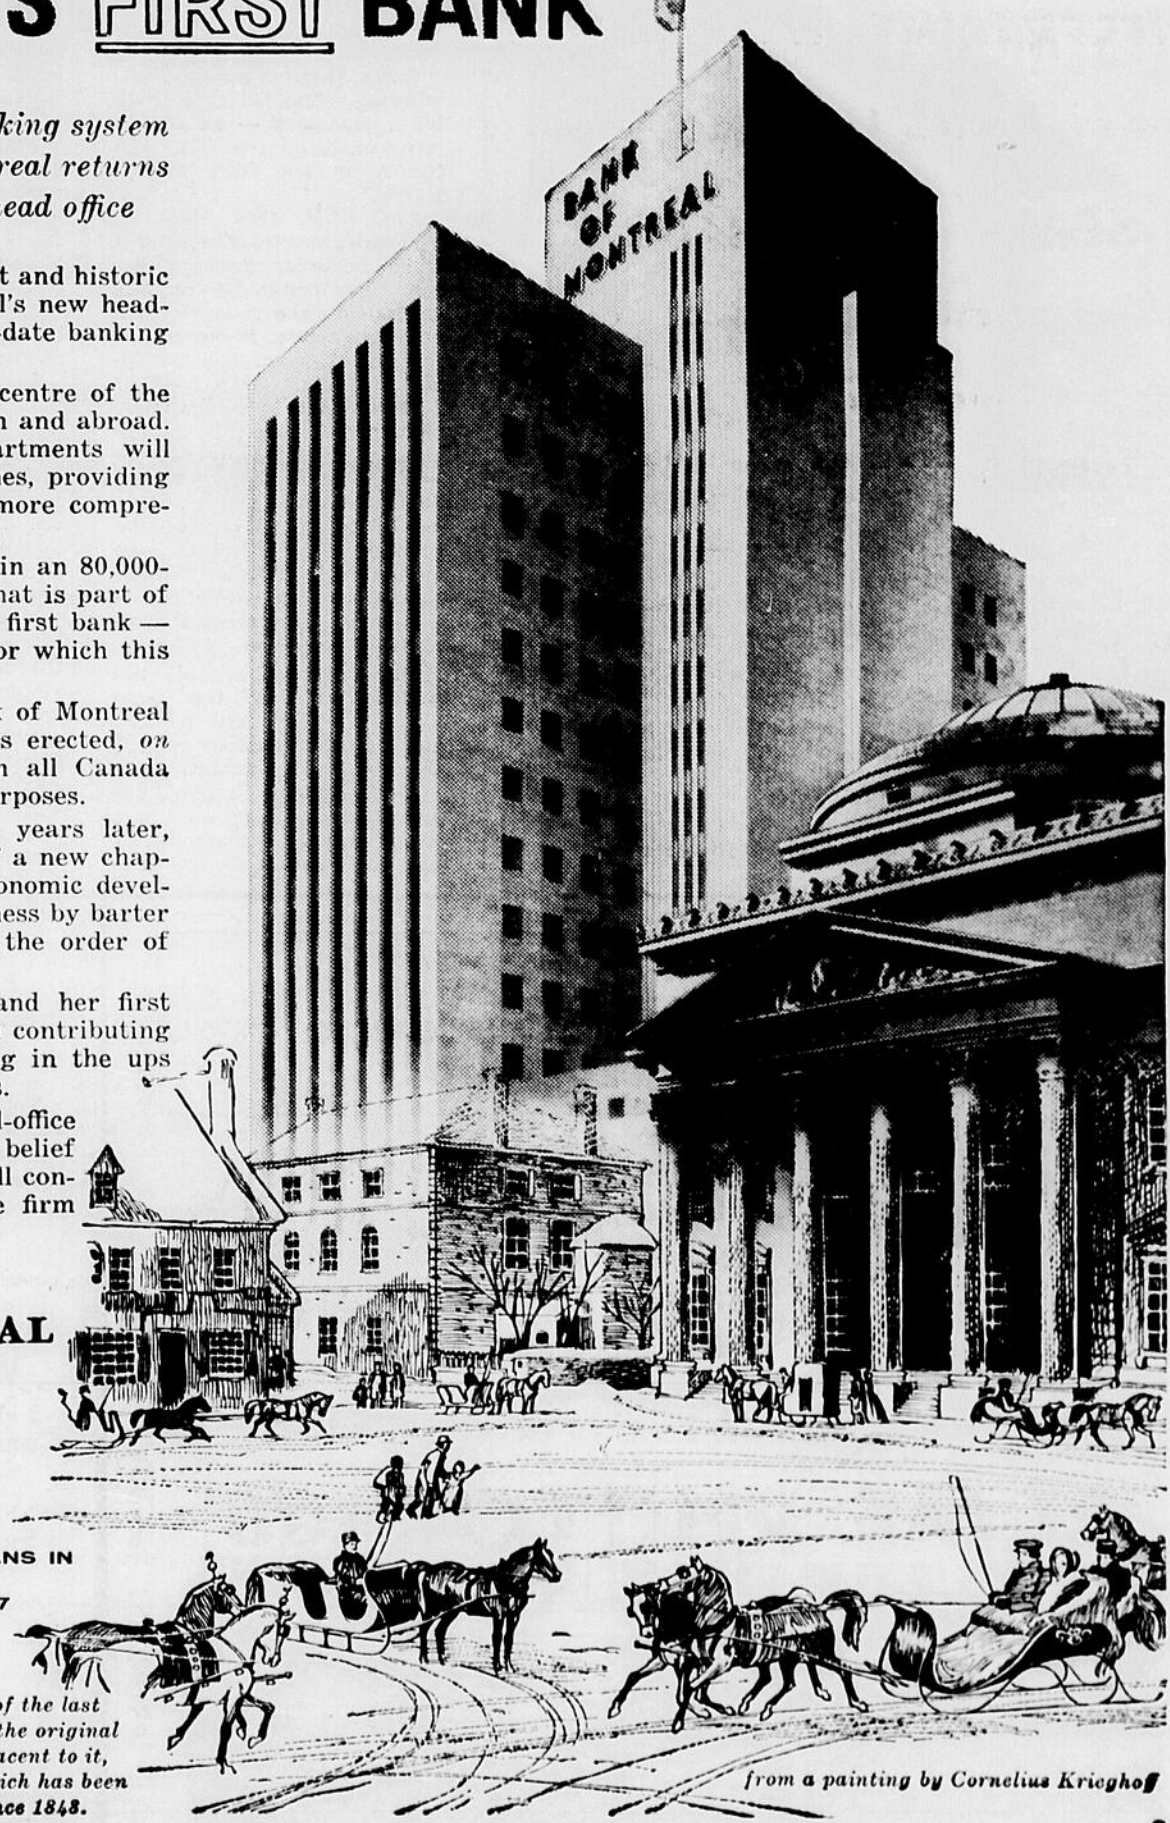

Today, the completion of its new head-office building testifies to the Bank's strong belief that both Canada and the B of M will continue to build with purpose on the firm foundation of the past.

Should gambling be . . .

shake in lotteries and games of chance."
"Promoters get the lion's share, the worthy sponsor may get a pittance, and too often," said Director Brunet, "ticket buyers get lost in a fast shuffle."

Last fall a promotional concern in northeast Montreal offered 100,000 one dollar tickets on a $40,000 house and other prizes to visitors of the 35-home development. Proceeds were to be split three ways — 40% to pay for the house, 40% to go towards a new church and 20% to the promoters. Ticket sales were halted after QPP visited the site. Director Brunet warned the provisions of the Criminal Code must be "strictly applied".

The Criminal Code exempts operators and concessionaires at Agriculture Fairs from the provisions of Section 179 if prizes don't exceed $50 in value and are offered for sale at that price at the time and place of the draw.

This exception still makes it illegal for promoters to offer bingo prizes of $500 a card, Brunet said. Other cases given the green light are draws and raffles at church bazaars when permission of the mayor, town or city council has been obtained. Prizes must not exceed $50 in value and promoters must give services gratuitously.

Quebecers spend millions

"Quebecers spend millions every year buying tickets for English and Irish sweepstakes in addition to betting $100,000,000 per year at the Blue Bonnets and Richelieu race tracks in Montreal," said Frank Hanley, independent member for St. Ann's, at the legislative assembly November 17 when he urged that a provincial lottery to finance Quebec's hospital insurance plan be set up.

Mr. Hanley added, "These people would be only too glad to have this money spent in support of our own hospitals rather than those in UK."

Surveys made by the Gallup poll across Canada would indicate Canadians are, by and large, in favour of legalized sweepstakes or controlled gambling, if profits go toward educational or health measures. The Gallup poll showed 70% of Canadians questioned in favor of the move, 21% opposed, and 9% undecided. The idea appears to be most acceptable in Quebec where 80% of those queried replied in favor, in Ontario 72% and in the Prairies 63% favored the legalizing of sweepstakes.

An MP said recently Canadians spend $90 million annually on sweepstake tickets.

What locals say

Rev. R. DeWitt Scott, secretary of the United Church said, "We are utterly opposed to the legalization of gambling."

Exclaimed Mrs. F. Thomas of 5234 Coolbrook' "Personally I think it's a terrific idea! It's a wonderful way to get hospitalization. We might as well legalize it, everyone gambles anyway."

Mrs. O. H. Wilson, 3820 Linton avenue, agrees with Mrs. Thomas, as she says, "It should be legalized, because people do it anyway, and this way, it would help hospitals."

"There wouldn't be so much under-handed gambling," was Mrs. W. Shayer's opinion of 2118 Claremont avenue. "It would be a good thing to legalize it. I would certainly be in favor of it, this way it doesn't do welfare any good only the sellers and winners benefit. Coming from Britain as I do, I just can't see why it isn't legal here. We buy sweepstakes tickets anyway."

Mrs. J. Eberwein, 606 Westminster north, said, "I think it's a good idea — we always buy tickets on the Irish and the Army and Navy sweepstakes."

Don Wall, 1389 Manning, Verdun said, "No, I'm against it. It's basically against a person's upbringing. It's morally wrong to make it legal for a man to gamble. It doesn't affect me, I never buy sweepstakes tickets."

Henry Cave, insurance salesman, put it like this: "I approve of the Irish sweepstakes — and I think this should be done in Canada legally. The money is going out of the country. Why shouldn't it be kept here to help hospitalization. I don't approve of gambling dens, but sweeps are alright."

Husband and wife do not necessarily share the same views, as illustrated by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Graham of 2030 Guertin, Saint Laurent:

Mrs. Graham: "I don't approve of gambling — it's a wrong way of getting money you don't earn."

Mr. Graham: "I a way, it's alright — Canadians are buying anyway and it's better for the money to be kept here. It's up to the person whether he buys or not."

Actress Ann Purdom of N.D.G. commented, "I think it's extremely hypocritical to make it illegal — nothing is compulsory about it. I gamble regularly on racing and I don't consider myself a gambler and I have never run my family into bankruptcy."

And a Westmount housewife who prefers to remain anonymous said, "People enjoy gambling. It's a good way to raise money for taxes or for hospitals — people gamble anyway so I don't think it would encourage gambling to legalize it. Gamblers don't care if it's legal or not."

A gambler or sucker?

Is a man a gambler or a sucker in unsupervised gambling?

Many are the abuses now existing in the passing out of tickets so eagerly bought by Canadians, as shown in British Columbia by police this year who uncovered a sweepstakes ticket racket which worked something like this: Agents get books of tickets from Ireland and keep the money from books they sell and claim books were seized by police or lost in the mails.

Police said a system of issuing receipts to eliminate the destruction of ticket stubs after books have been sold has failed.

Books and receipts are often mailed to agents at the same time as receipts are sent to customers, but mean nothing as stubs have been destroyed.

In every 12-ticket book of stubs returned to Ireland, only four are figured into hospital donations and the prizes. The rest is absorbed by agents, sellers, grafters and hangers-on. Police recently made two sweepstakes tickets seizures and are looking for a major agent.

The sale of tickets to win a house or a car is a lottery and therefore illegal. Nevertheless, sweepstakes and bingo winners may not be taxed on their winnings, according to a ruling by the Income Tax Appeal Board in April, 1960. A grocery store owner in Ottawa won an automobile in a contest draw and instead he asked for and got $2,275 against which no tax was levied.

The postmen check

Tolerated, but not legally, the sale of sweepstakes tickets and lottery tickets on cars continues to flourish in Canada.

The Post Office Department issued the following statement recently, "For years we have been routinely suspending the mailing privileges of people who are caught a second time using the postal service for pool and sweep purposes."

Mail service is restored upon a sworn declaration that there will be no further use of postal service for pool, sweep or lottery or other illegal purpose.

Over the years the Post Office has built up a file of prohibited addresses overseas known to be collection points for money sent by Canadians trying their luck in pools and lotteries.

The "blind bargain" seldom gives as much as it takes, although gamblers are said to be irresistibly drawn to stake their pay or whatever monies they possess on a chance to win. Why?

A white collar worker in Snowdon who admits to gambling frequently says, "With me, it's an emotional kick."

Said another man who professes to spend the larger part of his earnings on gambling in one way or another, "I have an insatiable desire to win."

One man admitted that over a long period of time he had lost more money than he had gained. A West End businessman remarked that last month he "broke even" in his speculations.

Commented another, "Gambling? It's a sport — it's exciting."

Christmas tree fire source — Safety League

"Protect your Christmas tree, your family and yourself from your common enemy — fire," warns the president of the Province of Quebec Safety League, Philippe Hurteau, who wishes to draw everyone's attention to this danger and makes the following suggestions:

1—Christmas wrappings and ribbons should not be left at the foot of the tree as a spark from a cigarette could cause them to catch fire.

2—Do not have the Christmas tree lights on when no one is in the room.

3—Do not take chances with defective wiring, otherwise a short circuit may set fire to the tree and the entire house.

4—It is advisable that the base of the tree be placed in a bucket of water, thus preventing drying to a certain extent.

NEW RECORDS: —

Brahms — Concerto No. 2 in B Flat / Sviatoslav Richter, piano / Chicago Symphony Orchestra — Erich Leinsdorf / VICTOR LM 2466 (Mono)

Richter's first U. S. recording is a disappointment from every point of view. Fritz Reiner's illness made the last minute switch necessary and the orchestra obviously does not enjoy playing for Leinsdorf, or with Richter, or perhaps both. This being a two-way street, Richter, too, responds with a sluggish performance. This is a great pity, since so much was expected from this release.

Beethoven — Concerti Nos. 1, Op. 15 and 2, Op. 19 / Emil Gilels, piano / Leningrad Philharmonic Orchestra — Kurt Sanderling / PARLIAMENT PLP-138-2 (Mono)

Quite another story is the Gilels recording of these two concerti. The playing is poetic and yet fiery enough to arouse plenty of excitement in bravura passages. First class collaboration between conductor and soloist is evident in both concerti and the recorded sound is excellent.

Music for French Horn and Orchestra / James Stagliano and Arthur Berv, soloists / KAPP SINFONIETTA — R. Dunn / KAPP KCL 9053 (Mono)

A delightful bouquet of baroque concerti by Telemann, Handel and others, all performed and recorded in a manner leaving little room for improvement.

Bach by Ormandy — Music of J. S. and J. C. Bach transcribed by Eugene Ormandy — The Philadelphia Orchestra / COLUMBIA ML 5580 (Mono)

Comparison with Stokowski's version of the inevitable Tocatta and Fugue in d shows it to be closer to the original, if one might say so of an orchestral transcription of a work for organ. Not that the Ormandy version is not a valid one, and it certainly benefits from superior sonics by Columbia. Two other transcriptions are on the same record, and the delightful Sinfonia for Double Orchestra in E Flat, Op. 18, by J. C. Bach.

Recommended music reading

Part III

By FRANCES GOLTMAN

The famous American educator and writer, Amos Bronson Alcott (1799-1888) said, "That is a good book which is opened with expectation, and closed with delight and profit." How true!

So many people have expressed their pleasure to us concerning this four-part series on "Music Reading" that I feel it has been well worth the task. Some subjects do not require any research but when a topic does, it is surprising how one's own knowledge increases. One feature leads to another and before you know it you are immersed in looking up new material in connection with the issue at hand.

More books of entertaining interest in the sphere of music are "The Standard Concert Guide" by George P. Upton and revised by Felix Borowski. Mr. Upton was a pioneer in helping concert goers to understand orchestral music, ortorio and cantata. I bought this book in 1938 and it has had many reprints since its first appearance which is marked 1908. Felix Borowski (a Chicago concert artist, composer, teacher and critic, who died in 1956) signed his additions with his initials. A real authority on music, Mr. Borowski wrote the Chicago Symphony Program notes for 50 years!

There are 300 (yes, I counted them) clear cut analysis of the most famous symphonies, overtures, suites and other orchestral numbers alphabetically arranged according to composers. The book was dedicated to Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony.

An equally fine book is its companion, entitled "The Standard Opera Guide" which I acquired in 1939. It is still available. In the preface Mr. Upton states "The writer's aim has been to acquaint his reader with the prominent operas of the past and present, assuming that it may be well to know their story and musical construction whether they retain their places on stage or not."

In preparing this present edition, a few operas have been eliminated entirely. — The work has been prepared for the general public, rather than for musicians, and with this purpose in view, technicalities have been avoided as far as possible, the aim being to give musically uneducated lovers of opera a clear understanding of the works they are likely to hear, and thus heighten their enjoyment."

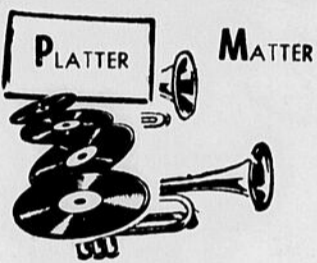

There is a second preface by Felix Borowski (Mr. Upton having passed on) in which he tells of modern works which he has added. Again I counted the index . . . 152 operas. This book is well worth including in any library.

"The Book Of Musical Knowledge" by the famous writer Arthur Elson, has on the frontispiece "For Music Lovers, Students and Teachers." It is a 609-page volume with many illustrations and the contents include:

- I. The Evolution of Music.
- II. The Great Composers.
- III. Musical Form.
- IV. The Instruments — and
- V. Special topics with an appendix of musical terms. It is a very fine book.

Who doesn't enjoy a Strauss Waltz? You will find great entertainment in "Johann Strauss, Father And Son" by H. E. Jacob translated by Marguerite Wolff (Crown Publishers, New York). It is a "century of light music" created by these famous Viennese musicians. The son outshone his father and became known as "The Waltz King," thus creating a feud with his parent. There are 27 beautiful illustrations, the last being two photos of John Philip Sousa (The March King).

London: Continuing our selection of Christmas suggestions, we Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra. This famous group gives full-bodied definitive performances of some Josef and Johann Strauss compositions, a change from the over-crisp readings of some American orchestras. The program includes four polkas, among them the popular 'Unter Donner und Blitz' and 'Banditen Galop', and four great full-length waltzes: 'Morning Papers' and 'Artist's Life' by Johann, and the tuneful 'Music Of The Spheres' and 'Mein Lebenslauf ist Lieb und Lust' by Brother Josef.

Some of the most spirited and exciting of ballet music is that from Massenet — "Le Cid", the seven excerpts on CM 9005 being chock-full of castanet-accented Spanish rhythms guaranteed to set the toes tapping and the spine tingling. On the reverse is the Meyerbeer - Lambert "Les Patineurs" ballet music, tuneful, warm and gay through its eight sparkling movements.

This is music selected and arranged by the late Constant Lambert, musical director of the Sadler's Wells Ballet Company from two operas of composer Giacomo Meyerbeer. A superb performance from Jean Martinon and The Israel Philharmonic Orchestra which recently appeared in Montreal.

Gilbert and Sullivan music always seems appropriate at the festive season and 5170 presenting Highlights From "The Pirates Of Penzance" and "Princess Ida" features the renowned D'Oyly Carte Opera Co. in a great favourite, 'The Pirates', and one which we feel should be among the most popular of G and S operas. For 'Princess Ida' has many tuneful numbers and is lots of fun, as we can vouch from a memorable performance we can still remember from a few years ago under the able direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norris, well-known local Savoyards.

'Israelis look with faith at future of new nation'

"Shalom!" (peace!) said Menachem Begin, leader of the Jewish underground in 1947 and hero of the book, "Exodus", to well-wishers who crowded around him on the richly-carpeted platform at Temple Emanu-El Monday evening following a two-hour lecture to some 1,200 persons.

Questioned as to the character, allegedly himself, in the best-selling novel by Leon Uris, Mr. Begin said, "I was Akiva—but I was half and half in the book. Half an old man of 80 and half—"

But the man who had been one of 60 to besiege the fortress of Ager in Israel in a fierce and bloody battle, was unable to complete his sentence as his admirers almost swept him off his feet before a thoughtful rabbi came to the rescue and conducted him to a room at the back.

"It was greater in reality", exclaimed Mr. Begin in his talk in which he made a "confrontation" between fiction and reality, or the struggle to establish homeland in Israel as described in "Exodus" and the real thing as it actually happened.

One great act

"All the battles were one great act of liberation," he continued, speaking at times with dynamic force and at times in hushed tones as he described dramatically events of 1947 and after leading to the recognition of Israel as the homeland of the Jews.

Dividing the world into the free and the slaves, the developed and the under-developed, the communist and the non-communist, the speaker eloquently described the Jew as abnormal when he was "humiliated, trampled underfoot, called names, and submitting to all."

"But when the Jew took arms and fought for liberty and for all the values that make life worthwhile, the Jew became normal," he said, adding, "there was the clever, begging, wicked Jew, then a new specimen appeared in the eyes of the world — the fighting Jew. The people had risen to life again with their culture, a people whose sons know how to labor and how to fight. A people no better than others, but no worse."

Fight for survival

In the book, a man and a woman have a grudge and look for revenge — that is fiction. In reality, Mr. Begin said, the fighting spirit of the Jews in Palestine was one in which they held no grudge but fought a justified fight for national survival.

The underground, he eulogized, presented the case to the United Nations "by the sweat of their brows and the blood of their hearts." Mr. Begin said the "coward who waits for the slaughter" has asked if it was worthwhile.

One of the young heroes who died at the storming of the fortress of Ager exclaimed, "I regret I have only one life to give for my country," according to Mr. Begin who as leader of the Irgam paid tribute to all fighters of all battles, laying no claim to "monopoly on fights" for his group.

"We were only 60 who stormed the fortress," he said, "and it was a great historic operation of liberation, but the fortress today is an asylum for the mentally ill."

"Somebody," he pleaded, "should give a gift of a million and a half dollars for a new hospital and free Ager fortress as a national shrine for Jewish people throughout the world."

"Sacrifice is the mainspring of all human achievements," he declared, "and we are today in a position to tell about a free and independent people looking with faith into our future."

Price on his head

Born in Poland 46 years ago, Menachem Begin was brought up in the Jewish faith and gained a degree in law at the University of Warsaw. A fluent linguist, he joined the Jewish Youth movement in the 30's and with his oratorical gift and organizing ability became head of a 60,000 member army in 1938 who were to fight for and settle the Jewish state.

Once in the Russian zone he was sentenced to eight years in prison but he was released in 1941 and joined the Polish army, going to Iran and then to Palestine.

He became commander-in-chief of the Jewish underground in 1943 and in 1944 he declared a revolt against the British. Disguised as a rabbi, he directed the Irgam.

He was a man with a price on his head, but when Israel became free he was a national and an international hero and was given a tickertape welcome in New York.

In the large hall Monday evening, the only flaw was the faulty public address system, which alternately hummed and failed to pick up the speaker's voice. One lady was heard to remark as she left the hall, "I couldn't hear very well, and I missed all the punch lines."

By LAURENT PRICE

PEOPLE AND PLACES

The small snow storms we had over the past weekend throughout the Laurentians, in the Eastern Townships and Vermont did much to assuage the fears of lodgeowners who, always slightly jittery about this time of year, in some cases looked forward to a green Christmas.

Green is a great color for golf, and sustenance for their winter vacations.

Now if the new provincial government will do something swiftly about the early closing and Sunday liquor laws, everything will come up rosy. (The right side, of course!)

Skiing this year is bigger than ever, but more and more holiday-minded and pleasure-bent persons are taking part of their leisure in the winter months. So if you just don't happen to care for slopes and tows, go anyway — you'll have a swell time. There are many, many like you! And the crisp air and crunchy snow are healthful and relaxing!

On this page the reader will note an index and advertisements of various ski inns and lodges in the Laurentians, Vermont and the Eastern Townships. This is only a partial listing in this issue as New York state, New Hampshire and Quebec City have yet to be covered by your reporter.

We would like to mention here that in all cases we know the management or owners personally, and have at one time or another stayed with them or partaken of the goodness of their cuisines. So we feel more than justified in making recommendations in or out of this column to those seeking accommodations and sustenance for their winter vacations. Frank Starr, the Ronalds-Reynolds adman and chief-tub-thumper for the Cardy-Alpine interests, points out that his client has a new private lodge development in the Ste. Marguerite Laurentian region. We caught a glimpse of them the other day and they're really something! Built from European plans, the effect is unique and eye-catching. More on this later.

From Real Boulanger at Mont Sutton in Sutton, Quebec, comes more news that his establishment will be ready for skiers in time for the big snow. That's soon now, too!

See where Roy Kennedy erstwhile Laurentian and Stowe publicity man has taken on a job with the Lake Placid Chamber of Commerce in a similar capacity. They couldn't get a more talented guy.

This reminds us to inquire about the new public relations man for Whiteface Mountain in Wilmington, New York, to replace the late Art Draper.

Whatever happened to his assistant? The name eludes us, but he had an idea that Whistle Stop, Idaho, was closer to Whiteface than Montreal. Oh, well, it all takes time.

Cancer Society head wants fewer appeals

A recommendation that a committee of influential and responsible citizens be set up to study the problem of multiple fund-raising campaigns in the Montreal district was made Friday by Maurice Forget, president, Quebec division, Canadian Cancer Society.

Mr. Forget was addressing the annual meeting of the Society at the Sheraton-Mount Royal Hotel. More than 150 delegates, representing the various sections and branches of the Society throughout the province, attended the meeting.

The annual meeting was preceded by a two-day workshop conference during which all phases of the work of the Canadian Cancer Society in research, education and welfare were reviewed and plans for expansion drawn up for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

INCREASED SUPPORT

In opening his address, Mr. Forget said the Society's progress in the province during the past year could be measured by "the increased support we have been able to give to the medical research program, the greater number of cancer patients we have been able to help and the greater number of people we have been able to reach with our education program aimed at reducing the cancer mortality rate through early diagnosis and treatment."

It was during his remarks on research that Mr. Forget suggested that something must be done to limit, or at least co-ordinate the number of public appeals. The Canadian Cancer Society was operating in Montreal "under very difficult circumstances" and had not been able to meet its national assessment for research projects being sponsored by the Society in the various hospitals and universities in the province. It had been necessary, he said, to funnel money, raised by the Society in other provinces into Quebec to take up the slack.

"I think," Mr. Forget said, "that because of our complex situation in the Province of Quebec with regard to race, language and religion, Montreal is plagued with a greater number of individual campaigns, to say nothing of several federated appeals, than any other city in Canada and perhaps the continent."

"I suggest that instead of our present practice in Montreal the division of funds raised for philanthropy should be on the basis of personal interest which could be grouped into such areas of interest as education, health, welfare, the arts, children, etc."

"It is, of course, obvious that there would be many problems to be worked out, but I suggest that because of

W'mount Baptist young people to conduct service

The Young People of the Congregation under Peter Carpenter of South Africa, a graduate of the University of Natal, will conduct the evening service while Dr. E. J. Bailey flies to Kitchener to address High School and University Students in a Community Preaching Series.

At the morning service the Minister will speak on "The Beauty of the Bible" honoring Bible Sunday and the work of the Bible Society.

Announcement is made of a Christmas Eve Service at the Church under the City BYPU, and a Watchnight Service on New Year's Eve led by the Minister.

dent went on to say that any organization dependent on public support for its funds should be willing to allow the donor to be the final judge of its worthiness and value to the community. And the donor, Mr. Forget concluded, should have the responsibility and privileges to divide his subscription amongst the participating organizations in any campaign.

In this regard he quoted a recent statement by President Eisenhower: "True voluntary giving is based on the personal desire of an individual to make private donation to a specific agency for the purpose with which he is familiar and which he wants to support."

Following the tabling of reports by the various sections of the Society, Andrew Armstrong, president of Graham, Armstrong Securities, Ltd., was elected president of the Quebec division of the Canadian Cancer Society.

The Coming

II

by

The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.

Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

For many centuries the Church has had a body of teaching for the four weeks before Christmas which emphasizes the preparation that was made for the Coming of the Messiah and also the preparation that is still being made for His Second Coming. Last week we thought of the preparation of the world through Roman Law, Greek

Language and Hebrew Religion. The three forms of preparation came together in the second and third quarters of the First Century. It can be said that the critical years were 25—75 A.D.

Now I should like to think of another side of the Preparation; that is the actual revelation of God to His people. I think of that revelation beginning with Abraham and going right through the Old Testament. You may say it ended with John the Baptist. The persons through whom the revelation came were the prophets. They were the men who were sensitive on the Godward side, just as a scientist is a man who is sensitive to the natural world. The prophet wants to interpret God; the scientist to interpret Nature.

Moses was a prophet. He heard God and received God's Laws and became the medium through which Israel received them. His contribution was to combine religion with morality. It was through him that we learn to observe the moral law because — and "because" is a very important word — the Lord your God is holy.

Moses was followed by a host of prophets, never many in one generation, who gradually became aware of the nature of God, and passed on their discoveries to their disciple or committed them to writing or both. They did not say the same things. One saw God in His majesty, another in His holiness, another in His loving-kindness — each of them speaking out of his own experience. One extraordinary thing was that they or their disciples wrote down their prophecies, which are really sermons. And they were regarded as sufficiently important to preserve. Further, there were others who wrote down the history of the people and their kings and showed how even in the history God had been active. It was He who brought the Israelites from Egypt and the Philistines from Caphtor and the Syrians from Kir. It was He who had allowed Israel to go into captivity and who would bring him once more into his land.

Alongside the prophets were the Psalmists and the men of wisdom who committed to writing the Temple hymns and the reflections of the sages. And also the men who had no originality at all but who had the deepest respect for the written words and gathered them together, that from them God might be known.

All those elements are what we call the Old Testament. In the lifetime of our Lord those writings were the history, the literature, the laws and the hymns of God's people. It was through them that there was a people made ready for the Lord.

The annual School Chanukah dramatization in observance of Chanukah takes place Sunday, December 18 at 10 a.m. An original play written by Mrs. Lionel Morris entitled "The Chanukah Miracle" will be presented by gious School under the direction Miss Suzanne Izenberg and David of Yehuda Vineberg, Mus Bach., Sankoff with members of Class rehearsals are now taking place 4a and 4b. of the traditional Chanukah festival songs.

Huxham-Redfern

The marriage of Maureen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Worsley Redfern, of Westmount, to Mr. Julian Hall Huxham, son of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. David J. Huxham, of Springs, South Africa, took place on Saturday afternoon, at half-past three o'clock, in Dominion-Douglas United Church, the Rev. R. D. Smith, DD, officiating. Mr. John Robb played the wedding music and Mrs. Davies sang during the signing of the register. Standards of white flowers and candles in candelabra were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white poul de soie, fashioned on princess lines with a fitted bodice having a V-neckline and sleeves ending in points over the hands, and a full skirt with a front panel of net over poul de soie reem broidered with flower motifs, falling into a chapel train. Her floor-length veil of tulle illusion, edged with rose-pointe lace was held by a matching coronet, and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

Mrs. Robert S. Cross, as matron of honor for her sister, and Mrs. Keith M. Laidley, sister of the bride, and Miss Sunley Smith, as attendants, were in frocks of magenta velvet, fashioned on princess lines. They wore matching velvet headbows, and carried white fur muffs trimmed with a single red rose.

Mr. William G. Matthews acted as best man for Mr. Huxham, and the ushers were Mr. John D. S. Hill and Mr. Geoffrey F. Jenkins-on.

Mrs. Redfern, the bride's mother, was in a gown of burgundy embroidered silk. She wore a matching hat and a corsage bouquet of white gardenias.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the Dauphin Salon of the Windsor Hotel. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Huxham left for England and South Africa, the bride travelling in a frock of antique white brocade with a matching jacket, and wearing a sheared raccoon coat, brown accessories, and a beige orchid en corsage.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Keith Pitcher, and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Cross, of Ottawa.

V at the back and long sleeves. They wore white flowers in their hair and carried white bouquets of flowers similar to those of the bride, and having also a maple leaf spray brooch on the corsage.

Flower girls were nieces of the bridegroom, Miss Angela Peniston and Miss Jane Edmonds who wore long white dotted nylon dresses with red velvet sashes and carrying bouquets of white flowers. The page was master Robert Seager, nephew of the bridegroom who wore red velvet trousers, white frilly blouse and cromwellian shoes.

Mr. John Winter Lotimer acted as best man for Mr. Seager, and the ushers were Mr. Martin Greenwood, Mr. David Rance, Mr. Martin Bramston, Mr. John Seager, Mr. Malcolm Peniston and Mr. Michael Edmonds.

Mrs. Greenwood, the bride's mother, was in a sapphire blue dress with matching jacket, blue velvet hat and gloves and carried a corsage of white flowers.

Lady Seager, the bridegroom's mother was in a gown of olive green velvet with matching hat and carried a corsage of orchids.

Following the ceremony the reception, attended by 350 guests, was held at 23 Knightsbridge. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Seager left for a brief stay on the south coast of England after which they plan a Christmas cruise in the Caribbean. The bride travelled in a blue flecked dress with matching jacket and pink velvet hat edged with feathers. The couple will take up residence in Montreal on their return.

JOE POIRIER, who has played great football for Ottawa in the past two years told of his trouble and the years he had to wait until he hit Ottawa and is now rated amongst the best. Joe, one time Verdun resident, but who also saw football action with Loyola, N.D.G. Maple Leafs and McGill said that after all those years he played the game, the first words that he was told at the BC Lions training camp, "We are going to teach you how to play football." It was surprising how much the amateur does not know about the game until he hits the pro camp. He tried out three times for the BC Lions. Then traded to Montreal and finally to Ottawa where he'll stay for several years to come.

Joe was the guest speaker at the Verdun Black and Gold Association who sponsor six teams, four pee-wee, bantam and midget. The group is only three years old and have made such a big impression in those 36 months with a budget of $5,000, including their first appearance in basketball last year, that they may have an eye to take up other sports. Joe reminded the gathering that he once played football on the street for many years before football was popular and then played at Woodland Park. He told the players that he had very little equipment, playing for the fun of playing football. He added that the game had been very good to him, but it had its disappointments.

The council of Saint Laurent with the department of recreation under Simon Major and sports supervisor Raymond Vidal gave visitors as well as Saint Laurent residents a small look see at their recreation program. At the 2nd annual Gala of Champions, the city presented trophies to winning clubs of all sports. Even quiet recreation came in for their rewards. The musical part of the program was supplied by an amateur group picked from the summer playground program. Everybody who had anything to do with recreation and sports in the northern part of the island were feted. The youngsters then retired to another part of the Saint Laurent College and had refreshments served to them while the adults had cocktails and refreshments.

It was well planned, for an affair of this kind can be a long one, but experience has been a good teacher. In the course of the evening we had a talk with Allan Beck, now coaching pee wee football. Bill Liddell was on hand along with Bill Grey, Dennis Carroll, juvenile coach; Jerry Beaulac, one time resident of Verdun, now a member of the council was a busy person. Not very often you can see so many voluntary workers at the same place.

Sports at St. Leo's

No senior hockey this year curling will take up slack

St. Leo's Academy hockey teams are busy with their pre-season exhibition hockey games and results to-date show promise of another fine season for the Red, White and Green puckchasers.

The juniors have two games under their belts, a 2-2 draw with the classy N.D.G., midget Monarchs and a 2-0 win over Brother Paul's St. Willibrord crew. This team is very strong in goals with John Bonneau and Peter Rassenti available. Peter Johnson, Derek Johnson and Maurice Cusson are expected to form a formidable trio on defence.

The forwards are Tony Tyrrell, Claude Servent, Jean-Paul Robitaille, Brian Connolly and Jacques Leblanc. These wings will be pivoted by two classy centers in Connie Nucci and Fred Fisher.

The team lacks depth but should make things mighty interesting for the opposition in the junior section of the GMIAA, this year.

The bantams, with practically a whole new team, do not compare with last year's powerhouse but they are an ambitious aggregation that should show steady improvement. They lost their opening encounter to St. Willibrord 6-3 at the Forum. The team has some promising youngsters with Jimmy Erly, Carl Coté, Ray Langelier, Louis Fortie and Neil Capper heading the list.

NO LEAGUE

The pee wee hockey outfit, always a lifeline for the older teams of the future have a fine little club and scored an impressive 4-0 win over Lower Canada College at the Collegians home rink.

This team is beset by problems that presents quite an obstacle. Made up of 11 and 12 year old youngsters, they have to travel to Verdun Auditorium as under city regulations they do not qualify for regular ice time for practices and games on the Westmount artificial rink, however they may be able to secure some ice time on the outdoor ice when the cold weather sets in.

With no league to enter they will suffer from lack of competition and on top of this are faced with other restrictions and all told it is a rather discouraging prospect for a spirited group of kids whose only interest is that they are eager to represent their school as an official pee wee hockey team.

With only five students in the senior school age category, it left no alternative but to abandon plans to enter a team in the GMIAA, instead it will be replaced by a junior entry. The senior students will continue to practise with the juniors and a move will be made in the direction of securing some exhibition games where these boys can get some competition.

CURLING

The Academy curlers are out in full swing and thanks to St. Georges and Caledonia curling clubs in Westmount, school curling is in for a fine year, with 20 boys engaged in the grand old game.

The school has three afternoons a week and should be top shape for school bonspiels and league games. Expected to figure prominently are Mike Donald, Gerry Emond, Richard Hall, Robert Lymburner, Peter Poiras, Peter Sampson, Philip Taylor, André Legault and Richard Bergman.

Sport Shorts: The bantam and junior school football titles were captured during the past season by Lower Canada College and congratulations are in order to this fine site of learning where studies and competitive sports are so successfully combined.

Coach Ed. Meagher of Loyola is also deserving plaudits for guiding his high school football warriors to the senior title and another undefeated season.

St. Leo's Curlers are grateful to Herbert Burgman for the fine assistance he is giving in teaching the finer points of the game.

The official launching of the O'Keefe Montreal and District Bonspiel, scheduled for Dec. 16-23, was announced at a Press gathering held at the Caledonia Club, Westmount. The O'Keefe trophy for this competition was displayed: Left to right: Ray Osmond, president Caledonia Cllb; D. J. Lelaney, general manager O'Keefe Brewing Co. Ltd. (Eastern Div.), Fred Moore, (Outremont) Chairman.

Long range mixed curling plans laid down by O'Keefe

Gerry Lévesque, General Sales Manager, O'Keefe Brewing Company Limited, announced the company's long range plans to promote Mixed Curling in the Province of Quebec. It could lead eventually to a National Playdown for a Canadian Championship.

The first leg in the Mixed Bonspiels will take place in Quebec City where local and district curlers will compete in a Quebec City and District Bonspiel from December 5 - 10.

The next stage will see Montrealers meeting in the O'Keefe Montreal and District Mixed Bonspiel from December 15 - 23.

At the same time seven Regional Mixed Playdowns throughout other parts of the province will be underway.

The winning rink in the Quebec City and District Bonspiel and the winners and runners-up in the Montreal and District Bonspiel, along with the winning rinks in each of seven regional Playdowns, will meet in Quebec City from February 28th - March 4th for the grand final - the O'Keefe Mixed Provincial Playdowns.

In the Province of Quebec, the Mixed Bonspiels already have the co-operation of clubs belonging to the Canadian Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club, as well as the Province of Quebec Curlers Association.

Acting as Bonspiel Director for the Quebec City and District Competition and the Provincial Playdown Championship is Marc St-Hilaire, Secretary of the Province of Quebec Curlers Association.

The Montreal Mixed Bonspiel Committee is under the chairmanship of Fred Moore (Outremont), and Jim Brown (Lachine), secretary drawmaster.

Mr. Lévesque, who, when questioned on the benefits such a competition would bring to curling, said: "Competition is good for any sport and only through greater competition, such as outside bonspiels, would we be able to develop outstanding curlers in Quebec and improve the whole calibre of curling in general.

"Further," he emphasized, "the sport has not grown to the same extent in Quebec as in other parts of the country; nor have the same (Continued on page 27)
