Six Members Took Part In Budget Debate Yesterday

Opposition Keep Up Fire Against Tariff Changes

Budget Debate Now Well Under Way—Three Parties Are Alternating With Their Speakers—Official Opposition Is Pounding Away on Vital Necessity for Protective Tariff—General J. C. Clark, Conservative Member for Burrard, Criticized Progressives From the Viewpoint of the Broader Canadianism, and Declared That if the Western Farmers Were Attempting to Make Canada Into a Purely Agricultural Country They had Only to Proceed Along Their Present Course.

(Associated Press Despatch)
OTTAWA, Ont., April 23.—The Budget debate will be continued in the House of Commons this afternoon. Yesterday the following speakers took part in the debate: Edmund Bristol, Conservative, Toronto East Centre; J. P. Howden, Liberal, St. Boniface; J. A. Clark, Conservative, Burrard; A. Totzke, Liberal, Humboldt; P. McGibbon, Conservative, Muskoka, and John Millar, Progressive, Quappelle.

MOTOR TARIFF CONTINUES TO BE FEATURE TOPICS

(Associated Press Despatch)
OTTAWA, April 23.—Debate on the budget was resumed in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by Hon. Edmund Bristol, (Conservative, Toronto East Centre). He was glad that the Government had made the reduction in taxes on small incomes, which he recommended last year. He could not approve of reductions in tariff, however. The Government having appointed Rt. Hon. George P. Graham and other members to the Tariff Board to investigate such matters, Mr. Bristol thought that the Government's action in reducing the tariff right away showed a lack of faith in their own appointees. An old supporter of the Laurier policy like Mr. Graham might very well have found it difficult to make such inroads on the tariff as were effected in the present budget. Presumably, said Mr. Bristol, the Government had found it necessary to give Mr. Graham a big example of what he would be expected to do. If he carried out that example, the effect on industry in Canada would be ruinous.

Mr. Bristol made an appeal to the "spirit of co-operation and fair play which he felt sure existed in western Canada. It should be remembered, he said, that Canada had two classes of farmers. Those who grew No. 1 hard wheat had no world competition to fear. The farmers of the east, however, had to market their product against world competition, and were as much in need of protection against the cheaper markets as were the manufacturers in the Dominion. He hoped that western people would bear in mind that it was much better to manufacture our own products and keep our people in Canada than to buy American goods. The present Government or any government which happened to be in power should look after the affairs of the country from a national and not a political viewpoint.

OF Opinion Motor Car Manufacturers Have Been Reaping Handsome Profit

J. P. Howden (Liberal, St. Boniface) said the elimination of the receipt tax, the return to penny postage and the efforts to develop trade through Canadian ports were features of the budget worthy of commendation. The change from an adverse balance of trade to a favorable one since 1921, and the reduction in the national debt during the Liberal regime, were other matters to the credit of the Government.

Construction of the Hudson Bay Railway was due to western Canada. The people of the west had been looking to the construction and completion of this for years. "I am by no means convinced that the proposed reduction of 15 per cent in the tariff on automobiles is going to ruin the industry in Ontario and put these people out of employment," said Mr. Howden. "He was disposed to think that motor car dealers had been reaping handsome profits from the manufacture and distribution of motor cars."

Tariff in this country was "simply a subsidy paid through the medium of Parliament." This was scarcely patriotic and certainly it was unfair for Canadian manufacturers to charge their fellow citizens more than they charged the people of other countries for the same goods when exported, said Mr. Howden.

conservative estimate of the amount to be expended this year over the amount expended last year would be $20,000,000 to $25,000,000. The budget offered very little relief from taxation for the people earning small incomes, said General Clark. People of this class were not benefited by the proposed reduction in taxation nor in cheaper motor cars. Another class which had not been helped by the budget was the manufacturers and corporations, who paid all except about $10,000,000 of the amount contributed to the treasury last year in income taxes. This class deserved greater consideration, and General Clark wondered what the Government would do for its revenue if the tariff-cutting policy resulted in their being driven out of business.

The Government was trying to blame the increase in the national debt on war expenditures. The special war taxes still imposed, General Clark asserted, exceed by many millions the amount annually required for expenses arising out of the war. He doubted if Parliament was without its powers in contributing to vote money in this way. General Clark stated that he favored the restoration of the 35 per cent tariff on motor cars and the placing of the whole question and investigation of the industry before the new Tariff Advisory Board. With a low tariff, American manufacturers would just as soon return to the United States and manufacture there. It was only justice that consideration should be had for the twenty-two thousand workers and one hundred thousand dependents on the industry. The proper course, he reiterated, was to put the matter before the Tariff Board.

Declare U.S. Lenses Fitted To Canadian Cameras Imported Into Britain, Thereby Enjoying Empire Goods Duty Exemption

Report Presented by British Board of Trade Which Has Been Investigating Development of Certain Industries Protected Under Safe-Guarding of Industries' Act of 1921.

(Associated Press Despatch)
LONDON, April 23.—The suggestion that American lenses have been fitted to Canadian cameras imported into Great Britain, thereby enjoying the exemption of duties extended to Empire-made goods if they represent twenty-five per cent of Empire labor, is made in a report of the Board of Trade committee which has been investigating the development of certain industries protected under the safe-guarding of industries act of 1921. The report tabulates figures on imported cameras from the United States and Canada since 1921. It shows an increase in the latter at the expense of the former. "We are informed," says the report "that large numbers of American lenses are fitted to Canadian cameras and seemingly advantage has been taken of the twenty-five per cent basis to SAN PEDRO, Calif., April 23.—With her crew gaunt from hunger and long believed lost at sea, the four-masted schooner Irene arrived here yesterday after 130 days battle against adverse weather. Two members of her crew were ill in the bunks from exposure and lack of change in diet, while the remainder presented a half starved appearance.

DENIES CANADIANS WERE LET DOWN AT VIMY RIDGE BY BRITISH COMRADES

Declares no Canadian Soldier Would Like to Have His Credit Enhanced at Expense of Any Part of Empire.

OTTAWA, April 23.—Emphatic protest against the suggestion of a Canadian war correspondent in a recent article in a Toronto newspaper, that the Canadians were let down at Vimy Ridge by some of their British comrades, was voiced last night by General W. A. Griesbach, at the Red Chevron Seventh Annual Reunion dinner. General Griesbach denied that British comrades let the Canadians down at Vimy and recalled that of 869 gavs firing over the Canadians about sixty per cent were British.

"It does not lie in the mouth of any Canadian gentleman to disparage the efforts of this great people," he declared. "Certainly no Canadian soldier would like to have his credit enhanced at the expense of any other part of the Empire."

Doubt Drive For Collection Of Defaulted Debts Of U.S. Southern States Will Get Beyond Foreign Office At Present Time

Money Was Loaned Prior To End Of Civil War And Amounts To Approximately $75,000,000—Loans Contracted Mainly For Railway And Other Public Works And Do Not Include Confederate Bonds Of Civil War Debt.

(Associated Press Despatch)
LONDON, April 23.—Doubt seems to exist in Downing Street as to whether the drive instituted by the Association of British Chambers of Commerce for the collection of defaulted debts of a number of the southern states of the United States will get beyond the Foreign Office at the present time.

This association at its annual meeting adopted a resolution setting forth that Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and North and South Carolina, had defaulted in the payment of money lent by British subjects for industrial purposes and national development. It seeks to have the British Foreign Secretary and the United States Ambassador call the attention of the United States Government to the matter for the purpose of obtaining a hearing before the Supreme Court.

This money was loaned prior to the end of the Civil War and amounts to approximately $75,000,000.

The action of the Chambers of Commerce carries on a fight which a corporation composed of the foreign bondholders started fifty years ago, and which has been revived annually in the report of that organization and by Parliamentary questions, diplomatic representations and letters to the newspapers.

The bond holders corporation maintains a permanent organization to look after the interests of British investors abroad and keep an accurate record of the default of all countries.

The money owed by the southern states is only one of its worries, but with patience and tenacity the organization keeps hammering away year after year and says it intends to keep up the fight until there is some sort of settlement with the United States defaulters.

Sir James Martin, who introduced the resolution yesterday, enumerated the defaulted issues as follows: Alabama $13,000,000; Arkansas, $8,700,000; Florida $8,000,000; Georgia $13,000,000; Louisiana $6,000,000; North Carolina $13,000,000 and South Carolina $6,000,000.

He declared that these loans were contracted mainly for railway and other public works, and do not include confederate bonds or the Civil War debt.

MISSISSIPPI'S DEBT PARTICULARLY IRKS ORGANIZATION.
Mississippi's defaulted debt particularly irks the bondholders' organization, as those bonds were issued in 1831 and 1838. He avowed that he had no desire to attract attention either to himself or to the London Chamber of Commerce in introducing the resolution because of the good will existing between the two nations, and any attempt to prejudice it would deserve the utmost condemnation.

PRESENT MEMORIAL TO PREMIER KING ON BEHALF OF NUMBER OF ONTARIO MANUFACTURING CITIES

Large Delegation Interviewed Government Officials Today at Ottawa in Regard to Recently Announced Tariff Changes on Automobiles and Automobile Parts—Declare Sudden, Drastic and Unexpected Proposal of Finance Minister Has Caused Grave Concern.

(Associated Press Despatch)
OTTAWA, April 23.—The memorial presented to Premier King, on behalf of various manufacturing cities in Ontario represented in the big delegation which interviewed the Dominion Government today in regard to the recently announced tariff changes on automobiles and automobile parts, was as follows:

"The sudden, drastic and unexpected proposal of the Finance Minister as mentioned in his Budget speech to reduce the duty on automobiles 41 per cent, and 21 per cent, respectively, fills us with feelings of the gravest concern, and if the bill is made effective in its present form, we fear it will have such disastrous effect upon our respective communities as to seriously impair their financial status, and will impose such a serious burden upon our ratepayers as to jeopardize our present and future prosperity. Kindly permit us to present the following facts:

"1.—That the tariff rate of 35 per cent, in operation prior to the introduction of the present Budget was inaugurated about a quarter of a century ago by a Liberal government of which the late revered Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was leader and Premier;

"2.—That it has remained at that figure ever since and has not been disturbed by either Liberal, Conservative or Unionist government;

"3.—That during the life of the preceding Parliament of which the leader no change was made, nor has any notice been given of such a contemplated reduction;

"4.—That during this twenty-five year period of time, the automobile has come into existence, has been developed and today forms a most important link in our economic development; that immense sums of money have been subscribed by individuals and companies and expended in Canada in plant and equipment, both in primary automobile factories and multitudinous accessory supply concerns;

"5.—That the initiation and development of this great industry which is today one of the prime industries of Canada, has necessitated the expenditure of vast sums of money by various municipalities in the Dominion in order to properly house, educate and care for the great number of workmen and their families who have been attracted to its centres of activity.

"6.—That in presenting his Budget to the House, the Hon. Minister of Finance said: 'There is a pronounced sentiment throughout Canada that the automobile industry enjoys more protection than is needed to maintain it on a reasonably profitable basis and in deference to that sentiment we propose a downward readjustment, etc.'

"We most respectfully submit that when dealing with a complicated question so vital to such a large percentage of the population of the country, that sentiment is not always a wise counsellor or safe guide, and that a thorough examination into the economic conditions surrounding the entire industry should be made before such drastic action, as is proposed becomes the law of the land.

"7.—In some quarters the opinion is expressed that automobile manufacturers have a protection of 35 per cent. We believe that a careful investigation into the ramifications of this great industry by such a board of experts as you have suggested, would reveal the fact that the real protection enjoyed by automobile manufacturers does not now and never has exceeded 12 to 15 per cent. In making this statement we use the word protection in its proper perspective and true manner.

"8.—That after the most mature consideration it is the settled conviction of our respective communities entirely independent of party affiliations that should such a drastic reduction become effective in the manner at present proposed, a staggering blow will be dealt our communities, a grievous wrong inflicted upon thousands of workmen and a great injustice done to millions of invested capital throughout the Dominion, as the ramifications of this, one of Canada's primary industries, effects the life of the entire Dominion at almost every point.

"We, therefore, humbly pray that before the blow falls your Government will refer this entire matter to the tariff board which you have set up in order that all interests affected may have the fullest opportunity of presenting their views to the said board, so that it may effectively acquaint itself with the entire setting of the industry and have in its possession expert knowledge as to what effect the proposed legislation would have on the development

CANADIAN BEER IS SEIZED AT VERMONT LINE

Three Seizures Yielded More Than 11,000 Bottles of Beer.—One of The Seizure Made at Newport.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., April 23.—The long awaited coming of spring which apparently began here on Wednesday brought with it the opening of the Canadian border beer season. Three seizures of Canadian ale made Wednesday morning yielded border patrol men something more than 11,000 bottles of beer all destined for the thirsty in the cities of the south.

Two of these seizures were made by members of the border patrol who are on their annual vacation. The first was made by Deputy Collector and Inspector Hugh S. Lyons who is spending his vacation at Waterbury. He found a truck this morning containing 25 cases of ale and forthwith seized the vehicle and its contents.

Deputy Collector and Inspector Richard A. McLoud at the Derby Line seized a two horse team and 192 bottles of ale. The drive escaped.

At Newport a freight car found to contain between 10,000 and 11,000 bottles of ale was seized Wednesday morning by Collector and Inspector Stacey W. Willey. It was billed as shingles. It was shipped from Blue River, Que., by Malenfant, which is probably a fictitious name and was destined to be delivered to J. B. Arousef at Oak Grove, Mass.

Hope Suggestion Will be Accepted

"Our hearts are encouraged to hope for your acceptance of this suggestion by reason of the following facts in addition to others. The Premier himself when appealing to the electorate of the city of Oshawa prior to the election stated that if the Liberal Government were returned to power no act of theirs would in any way interfere with any industry of the city, and further, in referring to the government's policy for the handling of such tariff matters, he on October 19, 1925, used the following words: 'There must be great care and caution used in adjusting the tariff to safeguard the industries of the Dominion. The only way to handle the matter of tariff is that a board of advisors, containing officers of the different departments of the government, gather information that will be of service to the government in determining a tariff policy. In our opinion this is the only fair and just way to deal with the question.'

"We most humbly admit that if, prior to the election, this was the only fair and just way to deal with the question, after the election it still remains the only fair and just way to deal with it. And further, the government's policy was outlined in the Speech from the Throne on January 8, 1926, referring to tariff matters, in the following language, as per Hansard. We believe that in the interest of industrial development, every effort should be made to eliminate the element of uncertainty with respect to tariff changes; that changes in the tariff should be made only after the fullest examination of their bearing upon both primary and manufacturing industries and that representations requesting increase or decrease of duties should be made the subject of the most careful investigation and report by a body possessing the necessary qualifications to advise the ministry with respect thereto. A tariff advisory board will accordingly be appointed forthwith. This board will be expected to make a careful study of the customs tariff, the revenue to be derived therefrom and the effect of the tariff and allied factors on industry and agriculture.

"In conclusion, we are not appealing for the welfare of any individual or company, but for the life and future of our communities and in accordance with the best traditions of British fair play and justice, respectfully ask that an opportunity be given to submit all evidence before a final decision is rendered.

"All of which is respectfully submitted."

Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbyterian Convened in Chalmers' Church, Richmond—Several Important Business Matters Discussed.

RICHMOND, Que., April 23. — The Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery of the United Church of Canada convened in Chalmers' Church on Tuesday, April 20th, and was constituted by prayer by the chairman, Rev. Dr. G. E. Read, of Sherbrooke, and Revs. Wilson, Carson and LaRonde.

The roll of the Presbytery was called and forty-one ministers and twenty-eight lay delegates answered.

Correspondence re the amalgamation of the two churches of the United Church in Cowansville was taken up and referred to a special committee, to report later in the day. All fields where any difficulty exists as to church property were asked to refer such matters to the Presbytery for advice and direction. A number of delegates reported difficulties from their fields.

The Rev. G. Ford brought to the notice of the Presbytery that the Rev. Wm. Perley, of Stanbridge East, was too ill to be present, and it was resolved that the secretary of the Presbytery prepare a suitable letter of sympathy to be sent to the Rev. and Mrs. Perley. At noon the Presbytery adjourned to the church parlors, where a banquet had been prepared by the ladies of the three United Churches, Chalmers' College Street and Melbourne. Presbytery matters were forgotten and fellowship and good humour were the order of the day.

At the conclusion of the meal, the Rev. Dr. Read addressed the ladies on behalf of the Presbytery, expressing the gratitude of the Presbytery for their splendid entertainment.

The Presbytery resumed its duties at two o'clock, and a nominating committee was appointed to select members of the conference committees. The petition of the congregations of Kingsbury and Melbourne Ridge was heard and favorably passed.

A discussion re the amalgamation of the United Churches of Richmond and Melbourne ended in the appointment of a committee who shall meet these congregations at an early date to find ways and means of amalgamation.

The most interesting business of the Presbytery was a report of work developing in the Kenogami and Arvida district under the care of Rev. Mr. Campbell. Mr. Campbell was introduced by the Rev. J. C. McLeod, convenor of the Home Missions Committee, and gave a most interesting account of work commenced in that new territory.

The representatives of Kingsbury and Melbourne Ridge were heard in their call to Rev. Mr. Gilbert, of Megantic, and representatives of Megantic were also heard. Rev. Mr. Gilbert indicated his acceptance of the new call.

Rev. Dr. Read requested permission to retire on account of having to attend duties in Toronto, and Rev. Dr. Lennon was appointed chairman pro tem.

A report of the maintenance and Extension Fund was given by Mr.

Reid, secretary, and showed that while a very large number of charges had reached their objective, there were some that had not been able to reach their allocations. As a Presbytery, the returns are not complete, but indications are that about $38,000.00 have been raised by charges, and between three and four thousand by the special names committee.

At six o'clock, Presbytery adjourned to the church parlors, where a delightful supper was served by the ladies. Dr. Lennon took occasion at the conclusion of the meal to express the appreciation of the Presbytery, and Rev. Mr. McLeod responded for the ladies.

At seven o'clock, Presbytery resumed its task, and received reports of the Home Missions Committee, prepared by Rev. J. C. McLeod, which were adopted.

The pastors at large, Rev. Mr. Beauchamp and Rev. Mr. Tucker, were heard with great interest as to their work.

Arising out of a discussion re the bounds of the Presbytery, a committee was appointed to consider the matter and to report at a later meeting.

A large budget of correspondence was attended to, and Dr. Lennon presented the report of the Church property committee which was adopted.

The delegates to the conference were appointed as on the roll of Presbytery.

Motions of condolence were passed to several ministers who have suffered bereavement and to prepare letters to be sent.

The statistical secretary, Rev. F. R. Matthews, B.A., could give only a partial report, as some schedules were not in. The following figures were interesting: Members, about 7,000; families, 4,000; charges, 51.

The petition of the Bury and Marbleton charges were heard and granted; that amalgamation shall take place under the pastorate of Rev. E. M. Wilson, B.A., and that the Marbleton Mission shall be kept on the list of stations.

The Home Missions Committee introduced the matter of immigration. A very lively discussion ensued and it was urged that a memorial be sent to the conference, asking for greater efforts to reach the incoming people.

The names of ministers desiring charges and of fields was read. It was very small indeed, and revealed a splendid spirit in the church and great harmony between people and ministers. The Rev. Dr. Lennon pronounced the benediction at 10.30. Minstrel Show at Richmond was a Success.

One of the best amateur entertainment which has taken place in Richmond for sometime was given in the town hall on Monday night, April 19th, when, under the auspices of the B. P. O. Elks Lodge, and under the able direction of Messrs. H. M. Gain, J. A. Perrier and G. H. Aylmer Brooks, a minstrel show was given. The local hits seemed to find their places, judging by the applause.

The "end men", Messrs. W. D. Manning, Dr. McCabe, J. L. Barrie, G. Manning, M. Rooney and E. L. Hayes added greatly to the evening's amusement. Messrs. Rooney and Manning deserve special mention, as their jokes and the latter's apology were specially good.

The solos and chorus were very good, and the numbers that "O'r Boys Orchestra" gave added much to the evening's enjoyment.

MAKING THE BEST OF A BAD MATTER

Always make the best of things, And then ignore the rest of things. —Mrs. Grouse.

Poor Mrs. Grouse was quite heart-broken when she flew away and left that precious nest with most of the eggs broken after her fight with Ringneck the Pheasant. She flew away to look for Mr. Grouse. She knew just where to look for him. She always knew where to look for him. You see, Thunderer the Grouse was still drumming every day, and you know his drumming sounds like distant thunder. That is why he is called Thunderer.

She found him at his favorite log. It was an old, moss-covered log. He had drummed on that log almost from the time he began drumming. He sometimes drummed in other places, but it seemed that he never drummed as well as when he was on that log. Mrs. Grouse did not fly straight over to the log. She dropped down to the ground a short distance away and stole forward carefully so as not to make any sound. She didn't want Thunderer to see her at once. When she reached a place where she could see the old log, she stopped.

For a few minutes Mrs. Grouse forgot all her troubles in admiration of Thunderer. He might not have the handsome colors of Ringneck the Pheasant, but to Mrs. Grouse he was far handsomer. Of course, Mrs. Pheasant wouldn't have agreed with her. Thunderer was standing on one end of the old log with his head thrown back, his black ruff spread out at its fullest. His tail also spread out just as far as he could spread it, so that it was like a fan, and standing up. His wings were dropped until the tips almost touched the old log on which he stood. His chest was thrown out. His eyes were bright and sparkling. For a few steps he strutted along the old log. He looked this way and that way to see if any one were watching and admiring him. But he saw no one. He stopped. His tail closed. He stretched upright and listened for a moment or two. Then, very carefully he set his feet on the old log, so as to get a perfect position. The wings went up until they almost met above his back. They came down until it looked as if they nearly met in front of him. Up they went and down again. Up and down, up and down, faster and faster. Each time they went up a booming sound rolled through the Green Forest. Presently those booms came faster and faster and faster until they seemed almost one. It was like a roll of thunder. Then it stopped. Thunderer listened to see if there was any response.

Mrs. Grouse rustled a leaf. Instantly Thunderer turned his bright eyes that way. He saw her at once and began to strut. Mrs. Grouse came out from her hiding place. "You are wonderful, my dear," said she. Thunderer strutted a little more. "I wish," said Mrs. Grouse, "I could be as happy as you are."

"Why aren't you, my dear?" inquired Thunderer.

Then Mrs. Grouse poured out all her troubles. She told how Ringneck the Pheasant had fought her and had broken all her eggs.

"Tut, tut, tut, my dear," said Mr. Grouse. "There is plenty of time for a new nest and more eggs. Make the best of a bad matter. Now, if you had only let me know where that nest was, this might not have happened. This is what comes of keeping a secret from me."

Mrs. Grouse looked at Thunderer and then away again quickly. "Do you think," she asked, "it would really be worth while to make another nest?"

"Certainly, my dear, certainly," replied Thunderer, strutting more than ever; but he didn't offer to help her build that nest.

ADVICE ON PICKING BIRDS FOR BREEDERS

Vigor in the Birds Is of Particular Importance.

"Feed costs are not determined wholly by the amount of the different food materials consumed. The initial cost of such materials is probably of equal importance," is the advice given by G. P. McRostie, Dominion Agriculturist, speaking on lowering feed costs.

"In endeavors to lower the cost of feeding, one source of saving too frequently lost sight of is the wise use of annual hay crops. Such crops are not for seasons when the regular meadows promise to yield abundantly, but can be used with considerable financial advantage where either hay or grain crops fall below the mark in the spring or early summer months.

"During the past five years a large number of grasses and clovers suitable for annual hay have been planted, both alone and in combination at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. Some valuable data have been secured as to the possibility of using crops to safeguard against winter shortage of feed.

"On the whole, mixtures of grasses and legumes have been more satisfactory than either seeded alone. The largest average amount of feed per acre has been secured from a mixture of the Japanese Foxtail millet and either the white or yellow-blossomed sweet clover. The rate of seeding for this mixture was 15 lbs. of sweet clover and 20 lbs. of the millet seed per acre. Three and a half tons of cured hay per acre has been the lowest yield secured and six and a half tons the highest yield. The sweet clover is quite fine when grown in such a mixture. Consequently the usual difficulty of curing this crop is not experienced. The quality of hay secured is also quite good.

"The lowering of feeding costs by feeding hay produced at the rate of three and one-half to six and one-half tons per acre instead of often a poorer quality of hay produced at the rate of one-half to three-quarters of a ton to the acre in poor hay years should be quite apparent. The experiment is worth a thorough trial on the part of any feeder threatened with feed shortage.

RECENT INVENTIONS OF INTEREST TO EASTERN TOWNSHIPS FARMERS

(By K. E. Cameron, 664 Old Orchard Avenue, Montreal)

DISK PLOW

This plow does away with the front furrow wheel and uses only one rear wheel. The weight of the tractor is used to hold down the the front end and the rear furrow wheel is heavy enough to hold the rear end of the beam down.

HARNESS

This harness is designed for simplicity. The breast strap has no supporting strap as it is claimed the traces support it. The breeching straps hitch on a ring below the shaft loops.

COMBINED TRACTOR AND POWER PLANT

This tractor may be used as a truck by mounting a box on the chassis. It may be used to haul implements in the ordinary manner and it may also be used as a power plant since a pulley is provided at each end of the transverse shaft. When so used the sprocket chains are removed from the rear wheels.

CORN PLANTER DEFLECTOR

This device is pivoted at the point of the planter shoe. Near its rear end it is secured by a bolt and washer which sit in a slot in the upper edge of the shoe. If an obstruction is hit this bolt is forced out of the slot and the deflector is free to revolve. In use it clears sods and trash away from the shoe.

HOLDING DEVICE FOR ROPES

This device consists of two clevis-like members pivotally connected by a transverse pin on which are two washers. When used as illustrated the strain of the rope locks the clevises on it and prevents the hitch slipping.

PLANT TOPPING MACHINE

This machine has a transverse revolving wheel which is gear-driven from the axle and which has a series of knives which top the plants in the row. The frame which carries the wheel is adjusted for height by a hand lever. (Address enquiries to the Inventors, quoting serial number.)

ROUGHAGES ARE NECESSARY FOR BROOD SOWS

"Roughages in Some Form or Other Are Necessary in the Ration of Brood Sows," Says W. G. Dunsmore, Assistant Animal Husbandman.

Speaking on the importance of roughages for brood sows, W. G. Dunsmore, assistant Animal Husbandman, says:

"Roughages in some form or other are necessary in the ration of brood sows. Among other uses these mechanically assist in the proper digestion of the more concentrate parts of the ration. In the report of the Dominion Animal Husbandman for the year ending March 31, 1924, the results are recorded of a test in which alfalfa hay is compared with alfalfa meal. Two lots of pregnant brood sows received a ration of mixed meal and roots. In addition, one lot of five sows was fed alfalfa meal at the rate of one pound of the alfalfa meal to five pounds of the mixed meal ration, while another lot of three sows was given uncut alfalfa hay in racks. In all 192 pounds of meal was fed and 196 pounds of alfalfa hay. The physical condition of both lots of sows was equally good. The average number of pigs farrowed by the alfalfa meal fed sows was 11.8 per litter, these weighing 28.55 pounds. The sows which had hay averaged 11 pigs per litter, these weighing 32.25 pounds. The latter group of sows farrowed 93.9 per cent of good pigs or 10 per cent more than the sows which had meal. These results would, therefore, give hay some what the advantage over the meal for brood sows.

"During the previous two years a test was conducted in which beet pulp was compared with pulped mangels for brood sows. In these two tests the beet pulp ration was not only the more expensive but the sows on this gave smaller pigs and fewer pigs per litter. The ten sows fed mangels and meal averaged 12.3 pigs per litter or 2.4 pigs more than the ten sows on beet pulp and meal, while the litters weighed 32.4 pounds at birth or seven pounds more than those from the sows fed beet pulp. Mangels would, therefore, appear to be the more suitable roughage for pregnant brood sows.

"In tests of this nature the factor of heredity, of course, enters, aside from this the results are significant."

CROW ARRIVES FROM PENNSYLVANIA

Noticing that one of a flock of crows could not fly very well, Mr. Austin Dillon, residing on his father's farm on Spring Road, proceeded to investigate. He managed to catch the bird, and was surprised to find fastened to its leg a tin tag stamped 1926, South Carretta, Pa. The end of the crow's wings had also been clipped.

DUDLEY'S BUSINESS SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

Examinations in Pitman's Short-hand will be held tomorrow afternoon, the following gentlemen having kindly consented to act on the board of examiners, Messrs. W. P.

"No one, as far as I know, was ever kept from using Murphy varnish because it was not good enough for the job. Some have, no doubt, with a proper sense of proportion, sometimes realized that a job was not good enough for Murphy Varnish."

Would you get a summons?

If the traffic cop should give a summons to every car that needs repainting, would yours escape? Is your car one of those whose luster has been dimmed by daily wear? And do you continue to drive it under the delusion that no one notices it but yourself? The cop won't molest you as long as you obey the traffic rules, but the censor might bawl you out with "Your car is arrested for indecent exposure; go get a coat of enamel."

Take it to the painter or do it yourself. In either case you can have a Murphy finish. Sixty years' experience in varnish making has taught us how to produce a satisfactory finish for motor cars.

The professional car painter is prepared to put Murphy Murcote on cars for his customers. Anyone can buy Murphy Da-Cote at the local store and put it on himself. In either case the result is a good job. The professional painter's job is better, of course. Also it costs a little more. But it is the same Murphy.

SEVEN NURSES ARE PRESENTED WITH DIPLOMAS

Graduation Exercises Were Held At Sherbrooke Hospital Yesterday Afternoon.

Graduation exercises were held at the Sherbrooke Hospital yesterday afternoon when the following young ladies, having completed three years of training, were presented with their diplomas and pins and became full-fledged members of the nursing profession: Miss Olive G. Harvey, of Black Lake, Que.; Miss Christine J. MacLeod, of Milan, Que.; Miss Verna K. Beane, of Waterville, Me.; Miss Bertha S. Boyd, of Barre, Vt.; Miss Adele C. Dyson, of Richmond, Que.; Miss Evelyn B. Clark, of Lewman, Sask.; and Miss Rhena J. Wark, of Lennoxville, Que.

The function was held in the Nurses' Home, which had been prettily decorated for the occasion. Among those present in addition to the officials and staff, were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Paton, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Salls, Mrs. D. Wilson, Miss Twose, Mrs. J. H. Blue, Mrs. C. D. White, Rev. H. R. Bigg, Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Hume, Dr. W. W. Lynch, Dr. F. H. Bradley, Dr. W. E. Hume, Dr. E. A. Tomkins, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Grundy, Mr. W. Spier, Dr. J. B. Winder, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Norcross, Mrs. Seiveright, Mr. Gains, of Richmond, Mr. Stevenson and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Staples, of Cookshire, and many others.

After the invocation by Rev. Canon Bigg, Mr. W. E. Paton, president of the hospital addressed the gathering, confining himself chiefly to congratulatory and advisory words to the new graduates.

Presentation of Diplomas and Prizes

Presentation of diplomas to the graduates was made by Mr. W. E. Paton, president of the hospital. The number of entries is very large. Applications are already in for Sept., and intending students are requested to make reservations early as the number of students will be limited. A great number of this year's graduates have already obtained positions and it has been impossible to fill all the applications for Pitman's Short-hand writers.

NOTHING QUITE LIKE IT

Each year over 3,000,000 directories are distributed by The Bell Telephone Company. When one reflects that of all books printed, the telephone directory is the one volume that is in use continuously—Sundays, holidays, throughout the working hours of the whole community—the universal volume is realized. In the extent to which it is used as a book of reference there is nothing that can begin to compare with the telephone directory. The influence of the messages it carries is beyond question.

QUALITY OF SERVICE

The determining factor in your choice of route in travel is the quality of service. Courtesy of employees, comfort of equipment, fine dining car service and convenient schedules constitute service on a railway.

These qualities have made the Canadian National Railways the popular route for travellers between Montreal and Sherbrooke—the sleeping car service on the night trains is a service that the Canadian National alone offers.

SHAKESPEARE'S BIRTHDAY

Three hundred and sixty-two years ago today, in the little village of Stratford-on-Avon, in the centre of the most beautiful and romantic district in rural England, a boy quietly made his way into this world who was later to become known as William Shakespeare, England's, and even the world's, greatest man of letters. Born under humble circumstances and to humble parents, deprived of educational facilities, his real teachers being the men and women and natural influences which surrounded him, Shakespeare, through his own efforts, achieved such renown in the literary world of his time, that today, three centuries later, his name and works are universally known and will continue to be honored and cherished by countless generations yet unborn.

The early years of Shakespeare's life were anything but happy. His father died when the poet was still a young boy, and much of the responsibility for the financial support of the family fell upon his shoulders.

In 1582, when in his eighteenth year, he married Anne Hathaway, eight years older than her boy-husband, and, from numerous references available, it is generally believed that this marriage was a hasty and unhappy one.

Shortly after his marriage, about 1587, he left his wife and family and went to London, where he joined a company of players. While in London, between the year 1587 and 1611, he realized his greatest literary activities.

In 1611 he left London and retired permanently to Stratford, where he led the life of a country gentleman. After a few years of quiet life he died on the probable anniversary of his birth, April 23, 1616.

It is safe to say that Shakespeare is more generally known and read than any other figure in English literature. While he is dear to all students of literature, even those who do not read Shakespeare are still unconsciously guided by him for his thought and expression have so pervaded our life and literature that it is impossible so long as one speaks the English language to escape his influence.

"His life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him, that Nature might stand up And say to all the world, 'This was a man'."

graduating class followed and prizes were distributed as under:

Mrs. A. Dyson—President's prize for the student in the graduating class who has shown most interest in upholding the standards of the hospital and training school.

Mrs. M. H. Hyatt—Dr. Lynch's prize for the student doing the best work in surgery.

Miss E. B. Clark—Dr. Gordon M. Hume's prize for the student who has done the best practical work in the wards.

Miss Jean Fenton—Dr. J. B. Winder's prize for the student obtaining the highest marks of the year.

Miss V. K. Beane—Miss Dorothy Seiveright's prize for general proficiency.

Dr. Lynch's Address

The Florence Nightingale pledge was then taken by the new graduates who were addressed by Dr. Lynch, representing the medical board, in the following terms: "Nurses have, so to speak, an outer and inner temple. In the inner temple thought reigns, and in the outer action becomes the landmark of thought. So spake Lord Dawson in a recent address, which in the reading gave me a text for this auspicious occasion, and, like most texts, will probably be hard to associate my remarks with, yet in brief analysis so much is said in these few words that they will bear essentially on what is wished to express.

"Your inner temple has been under construction from the first day of your labors here in the hospital—from the rough foundation made up with the stone and mortar of technical and practical teaching you have gradually built up your edifice, adding month by month to the structure bits of learning that has constructed an inner temple, replete with the finest mental architecture, which now is your ability to think in terms of your profession. Today the outer action becomes the landmark of your thought and you now make or mar the painstaking efforts you have made and those made for you in the building of your personal temple.

"One of the finest conceptions the human heart can have is the conception around which centres the nursing profession, that of service to those less fortunate than ourselves. The world never could do without you and less can it do without you today than ever before. There is no phase of medicine which does not call upon you, not only dealing with the sick, but dealing with conditions which prevent sickness. The trend of medicine is toward prevention of disease and your scope is no longer limited to general care, taking of temperatures and so forth. Your viewpoint is much broader and embraces every phase of life from that of the scientific application of the principles which have been instilled into you by careful instruction, but also that you should follow this modern understanding of prevention and anticipation of disease. The nurse cannot go her own untrammelled way without regard to the qualities that the doctor wants in her any more than the stenographer can pursue a course of training incompatible with the duties her employer expects her to perform. It is of importance—enormous importance—to be able, on the top of all your intrinsic and technical merits, to suit yourself to your company and employ your natural gifts to the greatest advantage. And in your cultivation of your healing art—your art—there is nothing of more incalculable importance than the human touch. The nurse is a propagandist, always playing a part, backing up the resources of science by the arts of the skilled advocate, mixing the powder with the jam in such proportions that the powder escapes notice, yet achieves its purpose; doing everything, in fact, that is morally justifiable, to create, maintain and increase the confidence of the patient in his own chances of a speedy recovery. Above all avoid what is known as an 'agreeable bedside manner.' A few words of cheery common sense and unprofessional informality will often do more for the average patient than all the scientific conversation produced from a library; so steep yourself as deeply as you like in the knowledge and lore of your craft but do not forget the human touch.

"There are many other bits of advice that come to us who have constructed our temple and have seen the outer action. There are signposts at the cross-roads you are about to travel that need heeding, and among those that stand out is one which Sir James Barrie in his wonderful address on Youth gives as an admonition to those starting out on their careers, which would seem fittingly applicable in this turmoil and struggling existence to success. He says: 'Stupidity and jealousy are two black spots in human nature which more than the love of money are the root of all evil.' Nothing lowers the morale as jealousy; give it up. Be far enough above this by the use of your intelligence and training to save yourself many uncomfortable hours of distress that come from petty jealousies that strew the road of your chosen profession. By the time you reach the evening of your days, you will realize that we are all failures, the least of us, and the best of us, and to make this less obvious, exclude all errors possible and so make your daily tasks cheerful prospects.

Avoidance of Becoming Entirely Commercial

"One other admonition would be the avoidance of becoming entirely commercial, allowing yourself to become monetary. In this age of dollars and cents it may seem the easiest road, but once it becomes an obsession as it surely will, if the germ is allowed to function and thrive, you lose that grace of mind, that inestimable gift of personality, that ideal expressed in your obligation, and most of all you lose your soul which in your profession is the essence of what one may almost say is a holiness.

"There also is that part you play in the intimate association with your patients, that of the repository of confidences and secrets which probably is greater than even the closest friend. See that your reverence these days of the depths of one's innermost self which often are given in return for the sympathy and comfort you impart. Keep such things inviolate, treat them with respect, never to be told except under extenuating circumstances.

"I have known you ladies of the graduating class, from the day of your entrance to the hospital. In watching your development month by month up to this eventful moment, it is a signal pleasure and honor to be chosen as spokesman as you start out on your voyage of discovery. You will be an honor to the institution. The reputation of the hospital is something for you to live up to. The authorities of this institution have stamped you as their own and everything you do is a reflection on us.

"My best wish is happiness in your work, in your surroundings, in your friends. Your start is auspicious, filled with glowing hopes and ambition to make yourselves an honor to an honorable profession. See to it that you cease not in your study, seek to improve your opportunities by post-graduate work from time to time, apply your knowledge intelligently that your inner temple be never completed, that by a delicacy of touch here and there, a bit of mental finishing, an etching of experience, be hung in the foyer a solidifying brace in its arches, gathered from the road of your travels, and by so doing you will be proud and a part of yourself and a constant joy to you in the retrospect.

"In closing may one be permitted to repeat what has often been quoted from that illustrious mind, Robert Louis Stevenson, the substance of which is what the world holds as emblematic of your profession, but which only such as he could put into words.

Brings Cheer Into Homes

"There are women and classes of women that stand above the common herd! The scrubber of floors, the worker in the office, the artist, the nurse almost as a rule. She is the flower of our civilization, and when that stage of womanhood is done with, and only to be marvelled at in history, she will be thought to have shared as little as any in the defects of the period and most notably exhibited the virtues of the race. Generosity she has such as is possible to those who practice an art. Never to those who drive a trade. Discretion tested by a hundred secrets, tact tried in a thousand embarrassments and what is more important Herculean cheerfulness and courage. So it is she brings air and cheer into homes, into the hospital and often, very often, the not as often as she wishes, brings healing."

A short but vitally interesting programme was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. Music was furnished during the proceedings by Miss Alice Wilson and Miss Joachim.

The eventful day wound up with a dance at the Masonic Hall, attended by the new and former graduates, the members of the present training school and many friends.

The activities were all carried out under the direction of Miss H. S. Buck, the indefatigable superintendent of the hospital.

PRESENTATION OF PRIZES IN MUSIC AND ART

City Hall Auditorium Crowded to Capacity on Occasion of Annual Presentation of Awards. Mayor Edwards Complimented Local Heads on Valuable Service Rendered.

The auditorium of the City Hall, last evening, was crowded to the doors on the occasion of the annual presentation of prizes to members of the free classes in music and art, conducted by the Council of Arts and Manufactures of the Province of Quebec.

Mr. J. W. Gregoire, representing the Council of Arts and Manufactures in Sherbrooke, presided, and also on the platform were His Worship Mayor J. K. Edwards, Messrs. T. Gauthier and J. P. L. Berube, of Montreal, president and secretary, respectively, of the Council of Arts and Manufactures of Quebec; Mr. J. B. M. Barthe, of Three Rivers, and Mr. S. Casavant, of St. Hyacinthe, members of the Council; Mr. J. W. McKee, Rev. Biron, Rev. Letendre, Mrs. L. E. Codere, Mrs. F. H. Bradley and Mrs. J. G. Tremblay.

The evening's programme began with the presentation of prizes to the members of the different drawing classes. This was followed by singing by the French section of L'Union Musicale de Sherbrooke. Prizes for the classes in music were then awarded, after which the English section of L'Union sang.

The works accomplished in the free hand, mechanical and architectural departments of the drawing class were on exhibition, and drew many favorable comments from the visitors, who spent an interesting half hour in admiring the drawings.

Mayor Edwards, being called upon for a few words by the chairman, congratulated the members of L'Union Musicale for the excellent results of their winter's work, and paid high tribute to the splendid services rendered by Messrs. Leonidas Bachand, R. Havard and C. E. Bachand and their associates, who have given so liberally of their time and talent in the interests of musical culture in the city.

The speaker also complimented the students of the drawing school on the fine exhibition of drawings displayed in the hall, and expressed the hope that the director, Mr. J. W. Gregoire, would long continue to direct the school which had enabled so many of the young men and women of Sherbrooke to improve their talents in art.

The remains of the late Richard Hoyer, who passed away on Wednesday, will be laid to rest tomorrow afternoon with full military honors. The service will be conducted at the Chapel of Lord's Funeral Home at two o'clock.

INCREASE IS SHOWN IN BANK CLEARINGS
The Bank clearings for the week ending Thursday, April 22nd, according to figures furnished by the Sherbrooke Clearing House, amounted to $800,023.21, which is an increase of $32,974.28 over the same week last year, when the clearings totaled $767,048.93.

An increase of $126,151.01 is also shown for the past week when compared with the corresponding week when compared with the corresponding week in 1924, when the clearing figures were $673,872.20.

PREPARATORY SERVICE AT ST. ANDREW'S

A preparatory service, in connection with the communion service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday next, was held last evening with a good attendance of communicants.

Eighteen new members were welcomed into the fellowship of the church by the session. The pastor, the Rev. Alfred Bright, conducted the service, and the subject of his address was "The Building of a Character."

During the service, Mrs. M. MacKay contributed a helpful solo.

INAUGURAL MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL ON TUESDAY NEXT

Final arrangements were made at a committee meeting of the City Council as a whole last evening for the inaugural meeting of the City to take place in the council chamber on Tuesday evening next.

According to the present plans, the programme will consist of a valedictory by ex-Mayor Braut, who will also introduce his successor, Mayor J. K. Edwards. The newly-elected Mayor will then make a short inaugural address.

Alderman Tetrault, chairman of the finance committee, will, on behalf of the council, thank ex-Mayor Braut for his services to the city during the past two years, during which time he held the position of chief magistrate, and will tender a welcome to Mayor Edwards.

This will be followed by the swearing into office of Alderman Beauchene, who was elected as east ward representative to replace ex-Alderman Bourque, and Alderman Dr. Forest, who was re-elected as south ward representative. Alderman P. F. Houlahan who was re-elected in centre ward, and Dr. F. H. Bradley, elected to replace ex-Alderman A. C. Skinner in the north ward, have already been sworn in.

Following this the Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, will give a brief address in which, it is understood, he will impress upon the members of the council the great importance and responsibility of their position.

After the completion of the inaugural meeting, the council will consider the regular business which is scheduled to come before the council.

An invitation has been extended to the public to attend the inaugural meeting.

DR. LENNON ADDRESSED Y'S MEN'S CLUB

"Fictional Virtue" was the topic chosen by Rev. Dr. W. S. Lennon in an inspiring talk which he gave to the members of the Y's Men's Club, members of the Board of Directors, and canvassers in the Y.M.C.A. "fictional drive" last evening. The speaker differentiated between fictional and fictional virtue. Fictional virtue was always a bad and a dangerous factor in the life of man, but the main springs of life and the big things accomplished in life had often come as a result of fictional virtue; still fictional virtue could also be a dangerous thing, explained Dr. Lennon. Fictional virtue had three outstanding spheres of activity in the material things, in the mental attainments and in the spiritual values. In the first were the group who were always saying, "If I had the money and the ability I would so use it that institutions of learning, of healing and of spiritual worth would have fullest support," and as most of us are only poor and usually selfish, it was a simple way out of many of our duties that had become difficult. The speaker pointed out and emphasized the fact that the judgment, according to Holy Writ, was not a condemnation because we did not use the things that we had not, but strong condemnation because we did not use the things we had.

The speaker then dealt with the fictional virtue of mental and intellectual opportunity. Man would often be heard to say, especially while speaking to the younger group, "If I only had your opportunity for school, college and for all the educational facilities of today, I would be so different."

"Such people have a wonderful store of good advice, always forgetting that it is never too late to learn and to mend, and the opportunities for the young are the opportunities for the old, and all of us should take fullest advantage of them. In dealing with the fictional virtue in the spiritual life men usually said, 'If I were only young again, how changed my life would be,' always forgetting that the promise in Holy Writ is for a new birth, a restart, with a blotted out past," and to those present Dr. Lennon made a powerful appeal and plea for support of such institutions as the church, hospital, and Y.M.C.A., claiming that it would be unfair and unhealthy and could only lead to ruin if the responsibility for the upkeep of these institutions should fall on the few who seemed to be favored.

This was without doubt one of the most telling and effective addresses that have been given to the Association campaign workers in any year. At the close of the address Y's Men G. S. Sampson thanked the speaker for his presence, and assured him that it was always a very great pleasure for the Y's Men to hear him.

During the business session consideration was given to the activities in the Y.M.C.A. Circus, where the Y's Men are to take charge of peanuts, candies and ice cream, and also some consideration was given to Ladies' Night, which is to be held on May 6th.

Y.M.C.A. Campaign Reports

After supper with the Y's Men last evening, the captains of the teams working in the Y.M.C.A. campaign turned in their reports, which indicated a considerable increase in the amounts given. It was unanimously decided that the canvass be carried on for the remaining days of the week with the hope that the large amount still needed would be made up.

LENNOXVILLE

FUNERAL OF LATE MRS. H. R. FRIZZELL

On Thursday afternoon, the funeral of the late Mrs. H. R. Frizzell took place, a short service at the family residence being held. The cortege then made its way to the United Church, where Rev. F. R. Matthews, assisted by Rev. P. Pergau, conducted the funeral service. The choir sang favorite hymns of the deceased, "Abide With Me," "Shall We Gather at the River," and "Rock of Ages." After the service interment took place in Malvern cemetery.

The bearers were Mr. D. O. Cameron, Wicheca Falls, Texas; Mr. N. L. Cameron, Lennoxville; and Messrs. A. Frizzell, Kinneair's Mills, brother-in-law; and James Lipsey, of Thetford Mines.

The chief mourners were the husband, Mr. H. R. Frizzell, two daughters, the Misses Grace and Greta Frizzell, and a little son of four years, Harold. Other relatives present were: Mrs. D. D. McMillan, Inverness, sister; Miss Sadie Frizzell, Kinneair's Mills, niece; Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Edwards, Barre, Vt.; aunts; Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Lowry, Lennoxville; as well as several cousins from Sherbrooke and other places.

The late Mrs. Frizzell was born Christina Cameron in Inverness thirty-nine years ago, and her death at a comparatively early age was a heavy blow to her family and friends. Although she had not been in good health for several years, it was only recently that serious results were anticipated and she finally consented to undergo an operation in the Montreal General Hospital. It was found, however, that she could not sustain this ordeal, and she gradually sank until the end came.

Deceased was a woman of great sweetness of character and her deep spiritual insight made of her an understanding and sympathetic friend. Her room, which for many months she was unable to leave, was the abode of peace, giving help and inspiration to all who entered it.

Many beautiful floral designs, including offerings from the church organizations, the W.C.T.U., as well as from the family and neighbors, bore testimony to the universal sorrow felt at her early death, as well as the sympathy of the community for those who remain.

Floral tributes were received from the following: Mr. D. A. Cameron, Wicheca Falls, Texas; Mrs. D. MacMillan and family, Inverness; Dr. and Mrs. I. T. Lowry, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Lowry; Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards and family; Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford, of Westerville, Vt.; Mr. James and Marjory Lipsey, Thetford Mines; Mrs. I. Collins; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Andrews and family; Mr. and Mrs. Goudie; Mrs. D. G. Rollins, Mr. F. Nutbrown, Mr. and Mrs. J. Layhuc, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. MacDougall, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bown, Employees of Mr. W. A. Bown; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gingras, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hunting, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Main, Mr. A. A. Parker and family; Mrs. F. ### Y. M. C. A. "FINANCIAL DRIVE"

The Young Men's Christian Association is this week carrying out its annual "financial drive." Additional funds are required by the Association to enable it to meet all its liabilities and, continue its highly successful programme. The objective is $4,500.

Sherbrooke has every reason to be proud of the record established by the local Y.M.C.A. and its appeal for support for its valuable work should bring a most cordial response. The campaign opened on Monday, and, while the response to date has not been very encouraging, it is to be hoped that the fullest expectations of the Association will be realized in the popular response to its request before the "drive" closes on Saturday.

The purposes of the Association are to promote the spiritual, intellectual, social and physical well-being of the young men and the work that is carried on is acknowledged to be of the highest and most devoted nature.

According to statistics and diagrams just released by the International Y.M.C.A. headquarters, Sherbrooke has the greatest activity and highest form of service at the lowest cost for cities of 25,000 to 100,000 population. In comparison the Sherbrooke Y.M.C.A. service is relatively fifty per cent. above the costs in salary and overhead, while the local plant is far below the average.

RADIO OF THE FUTURE.

The possibilities of the radio in the future are quite frequently discussed. The radio's short history undoubtedly shows wonderful progress, for five years ago one broadcasting station existed against six hundred today and the industry which in 1920 represented an expenditure of less than a million dollars expects for the current year a business of $350,000,000.

Discussing the future of the radio Mr. David Sarnoff, vice-president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, states experiments now being conducted promise a commercial service whereby photo-radiograms of notes, checks, contracts and other documents will be flashed instantly between this continent and Europe, to the bewildering expedition of commerce and industry. Deriving much of its entertainment from the existing concert hall and stage, the radio management of the future will turn producer, manager and publisher and buy and copyright its offerings.

These are broad sketches, but they provide a background from which to survey the possibilities of the magical wireless; and now Mr. Sarnoff is ready to indicate how this elaborate structure of service, which draws no direct tax from the listening public, is to be supported," comments the Boston Transcript. "The problem, long awaiting a solution, is now, he says, beginning to solve itself. The elements which will contribute to the permanent use of the radio he finds in the following: 1, the radio industry, as in the past; 2, commercial broadcasting; 3, organized educational support—when every metropolitan board of education will have a broadcasting appropriation; 4, organized social support, for the promotion of health, child welfare work, etc.; 5, community broadcasting, the advertising of cities and States; 6, institutional broadcasting, as of newspapers, department stores and the like.

"The broadcasting managements are now besieged by 'time' on the air, and thus the problem is working itself out. Very soon the Radio Corporation hopes to institute a system of super-power transmission which will make possible the national and international broadcasting of great events, without the necessity of myriad hookups. Not only public but national interests, Mr. Sarnoff says, demand such a nation-wide system."

PRESS COMMENT

WHAT SOLOMON ESCAPED

(Watertown, N.Y., Times)
If there had been automobiles in the days of Solomon, think of the trouble the old gentleman would have had with eight hundred wives on the back seat telling him how to drive.

THE WATER STEAL

(St. Catharines Standard)
The big fight which looms up in the United States Supreme Court over the Chicago water steal is merely a fight over the question of State rights in the United States; in fact only one State takes Canada's position that no water which ever should be diverted from the Great Lakes watershed, that being Michigan. The other contestants against Chicago, it is noteworthy, merely want to limit the diversion. Canada's position, of course, is based on the sacredness of international rights. Such are no more within the jurisdiction of a United States court than they are within the jurisdiction of a Canadian court.

COME TO NUNCHEON!

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)
A fourth meal is again being suggested for the American people. Why they should want more than three squares a day is not easily understandable. They eat too much as it is. The theory is that they would not eat more at four sittings than at three. Actually they probably could not resist the temptation to do so. Americans are not built that way; and neither are they built to knock off in the middle of the afternoon for tea, as their English cousins do. They would have to recast their whole industrial system, shift their mental gears into slow, adopt cricket in place of baseball and effect innumerable other changes, which they might regard as too high a price to pay for a sandwich and a cup of tea.

DAVY CROCKETT'S GIFT TO EDUCATION.

(New York Herald Tribune)
Although only twelve out of the entire graduating class of New York University are the proprietors of coonskin coats, a census of the more northerly institutions of learning would tell a different story. In Bowdoin, Dartmouth, Amherst, Cornell, Hamilton, Williams, Michigan and points North and West, the average campus is dotted with these garments. As soon as a youth matriculates he begins to dream of a coonskin coat, and most college youths are prolific in ways and means to make such dreams come true.

It is probable that many early Americans found coonskins useful during the long hard winters of the past, but they were really introduced into our history by Davy Crockett, who wore a cap made of a single pelt when he barred the historic door with his sinewy arm, and it is to him that the treed raccoon is quoted as saying: "Don't shoot; I'll come down."

The undergraduate of American colleges outgrew wide trousers even before they were adopted by Oxford and Cambridge. He has long ago discarded other fantastic garb in which he is still pictured by the comic cartoonists. But he still clings to the coonskin. It is his heritage from a great pioneer.

CURTAILING CROP PRODUCTION.

(Boston Transcript)
The policy of curtailing production of such staple crops as corn, wheat, cotton, sugar and potatoes has found many advocates among leading agriculturists of late, but seems hard to put into practice. The theory is that a small crop at a high price will yield more to the producers than will a large crop at a low price. Carried to its logical conclusion, the proposition is absurd because, if it were applied, simultaneously, to all food crops, there would result a world shortage of food sufficient materially to reduce the number of consumers. Moreover there are difficulties which stand in the way of a general crop reduction in a country so large as the United States. Chief among these difficulties is the willingness of the advocates of crop reduction to let the other fellow do it. That is to say: If A, B and C should agree that it would be well to reduce a certain crop and A and B should plant two-thirds the usual area, while C should plant as much as usual, A and B would gain nothing—probably would lose—while C would get rich through his individual bumper crop at a high price.

Recent investigation by the Department of Agriculture shows that there have been many advocates, in the South, of decreasing the area planted to cotton, for the purpose of restricting the crop and keeping the price of cotton high. In many sections agreements to curtail the planting have been made and will be carried out. But a complete canvass of the cotton-producing States shows the probability of increased total planting, with the curtailers certain to lose because of smaller individual crops and the prospect of cheaper cotton through the indicated larger total yield.

BUT HOW TO DO IT?

(Detroit Free Press)
Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan, says that many international problems confronting the world today could be solved by the proper administration of birth control, and he asserts that "over-population is one of the direct causes of war."

Dr. Little might have gone further with his second observation. He could have declared with equal force that war appears to be one of nature's correctives for over-population. Nor would he have been excusing war in doing so. He would merely have been placing an additional emphasis on the deplorable condition of the presence of too many human beings within a given area of inhabitable land at a given time.

The doctor's really controversial statement is his first one. Considering it only on the practical side, we suggest that in advancing birth control as a solvent of international political, social and economic questions, Dr. Little opens up a greater problem than any of those he believes his panacea would settle.

Human nature being what it is, and human ignorance, prejudices and differences of custom and opinion in various lands being what they are, how can proper administration of birth control or any sort of administration of birth control be secured on a world-wide basis? We are afraid that even if some formula, as obviously sound and as simple as the Golden Rule could be developed, we are afraid it would be about as difficult to put into actual, effective globe-wide operation as that same Golden Rule is.

BROWNLEE OF ALBERTA STARTED AS DRUMMER

Before Becoming Established as Lawyer He Proved Ability to Sell Almost Any Commodity Made

By C. B. ROBERTSON

FROM itinerant book agent and amateur "drummer" to premier of the province of Alberta has been the record of John Edward Brownlee. This latest honor the former Ontario boy has attained while only in his forty-second year.

After attending the village school in Port Ryerse on Lake Erie and later matriculating from the Sarnia high school, young Brownlee set his heart upon attending the University of Toronto.

His father, who was a highly-respected storekeeper in Port Ryerse, was unable to give his son all the financial help he would have liked so, after college lectures were over for the day Brownlee junior would tread the humble and none-too-encouraging path of the book agent, from door to door, in Toronto. In vacation, riding his bicycle from town to town and through the country districts, he scoured Ontario for purchasers of his literary wares.

One summer young Brownlee worked his way to England, and there, again on a bicycle, he saw for the first time the land of his fathers. On this trip he sold typewriters, with gratifying success, to the none-too-eager Britishers.

Law school followed Varsity. Brownlee plugged away at his studies, considerably harder than most chaps, for his time for study was limited. He must still make money by the way to carry him through the long course. He sold about everything salable. The old bicycle carried samples of interesting and diverse Canadian manufacturing products.

After being called to the bar, Brownlee offered his experienced services in the selling of goods to a concern which was engaged in the manufacture of "store fixtures." That was just fifteen years ago.

He first carried his samples and his order book into the then little-settled northern Ontario districts. The store-fixtures business didn't make a purse-proud plutocrat of him. But he made his way, and, from Cobalt, reached Winnipeg by easy stages.

There followed the long trail to Victoria, via Moose Jaw, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver.

After this rather broad survey of the land of his birth, Mr. Brownlee decided that Alberta was the province for him. He liked the people of Alberta; he was interested in the legal problems concerned with the colonization of farm lands, he saw a great time coming—"the boom" was on its way to live, and work, and thrive!

Young Brownlee, now having reached the age of twenty-five years, hung out his legal shingle, before a very, very modest little office in Calgary. The greater part of his professional activities dealt with matters concerning the buying, selling, and mortgaging of lands. His clients, in consequence, were mainly farmers. Being a very human sort of individual, the young easterner made warm friends among his farmer-clients.

When bad times came and the farmers saw their only hope in formulating some system of co-operation, the young lawyer tackled the work and helped his farmer clients and neighbors to organize the most efficient co-operative system.

Virtue is not always its own reward—but, in this particular case, a service which was given freely brought compensation. When the Grain Growers' Limited, and the United Farmers of Alberta were on their feet as an organized industry, it never occurred to anyone that there might be any other possible man for the post of general counsel.

Then the farmers organized politically, as well as industrially. In 1921, when the U. F. A., represented by the Progressive group, carried the province, Mr. Brownlee was elected as a member of the legislature, by acclamation, to the seat of Ponka. He was forthwith appointed attorney-general to the province. This was in his thirty-seventh year.

When Premier Greenfield resigned the premiership of the province last November, the Hon. John Edward Brownlee, B.A., K.C., became his

Vanier Crowns His Work With Paris Canada House

Helped Rebuild Fifteen of France's Devastated Towns Before Planning Return to Dominion

By WILLIAM H. INGRAM, PARIS

HAVING been a member of a firm which rebuilt fifteen villages—including Soissons—in the devastated part of France and having personally designed the Canadian House in the University City of Paris, Georges Vanier feels that his work on the continent is completed.

"I believe there is a greater future in Canada," he said, "and so I am going home. I have already bought a business in Montreal."

In commenting on his work in the devastated regions of France, Mr. Vanier stated, "The ten departments overrun by the German invaders were rebuilt by faith and faith alone. In December, 1918, when there was nothing but ruin in sight and nobody had a cent, architects and contractors proceeded to plan and build on the simple faith that the government later on would pass the necessary credits. Our own firm spent six hundred thousand francs in expenses up to April, 1919.

"If the government had not voted reparation credits on the 31st of December, we would have been ruined, as would everybody else. But the government kept its word."

Before coming to Paris in 1912 to study architecture, Mr. Vanier was a civil engineer in Montreal with his father, who is also an architect. The Ecole Polytechnique is one of his works. He, therefore, comes honestly by his profession.

Upon arriving in Paris the young engineer became a pupil of Victor Leloux, the famous Parisian architect who built the Gare d'Orsay and the Credit Lyonnais.

In discussing the genesis of the Maison Canadienne, Mr. Vanier recalled that the idea was born at a luncheon given by Hon. Philippe Roy, Canadian commissioner in Paris. Letters were afterwards sent out inviting subscriptions for the Residence. Mr. Vanier contributed without any arrière-pensée in his head.

Mr. Roy and himself then tried to find a house such as was wanted but there was none suitable. The only alternative was to build.

The Canadian high commissioner wanted the house to be next to the French one in the University city.

At a subsequent meeting in the University of Paris, Mr. Vanier was accordingly asked for a plan, for 110 rooms to cost about four or five million francs. That was in 1921.

Afterwards this was considered too ambitious and a project for 50 rooms was suggested in its stead.

Mr. Roy then went to Canada, saw Senator Wilson of Montreal, who decided in 1923 to give the necessary money, and the House was started in December, 1924. It will be finished June 1st of this year.

Mr. Vanier admits that he has a hobby, the same as Mr. Rorford of Montreal, Dr. Webster of the Maritime provinces and Col. Don Armour of London, England. It is the collection of books and engravings relating to the dominion. Possibly that is one of the reasons why he wants to return home, entirely aside of course from the greater one of wishing to live in his own country.

But of his hobby he could not say too much. Canadians who have seen the collection of old prints and engravings are equally warm in its praise. There are old prints of Indians meeting the French for the first time in the seventeenth century, engravings showing the progress of Quebec cities from the Champlain epoch down to the present year. Mr. Vanier has also some rare first editions signed by the early French governors. These volumes are now worth a prince's ransom.

The core collection is being despatched to Montreal under heavy insurance.

D'Abernon Is True Type Of Real Canny Diplomat

Would Not Commit Himself Even Respecting the Weather—Prince Arthur the Opposite

LORD D'ABERNON, who was recently honored at the conclusion of his term as British ambassador to Germany by being elevated from a barony to a viscountcy, is a strangely reticent man. All his life he has trained himself not to commit his thoughts too freely to speech. This training proved invaluable when he was British ambassador to Berlin just after the war.

But it once took a comical turn. An English visitor opened a conversation with "What lovely weather!"

But Lord D'Abernon wouldn't commit himself. "So I am told," was his guarded reply. Quite different is Prince Arthur of Connaught, who, as a result of his endless official and social activities is beginning to develop what he calls "a sense of repartee."

His motto is: Always have an answer ready, even though it has nothing to do with the question.

Recently some one asked him whether he liked the new-fangled kind of dancing better than the old-fashioned kind. He replied: "Of course I do. It doesn't make one's heart beat so fast, and it doesn't crumple one's shirt-front!"

Making Good Progress

A YOUNG man from Canada, while visiting in England, paid a call at a house where there was a very pretty daughter.

"Do you have reindeer in Canada?" she asked him during the course of conversation.

"No, darling," he answered; "at this season it always snows!"

Mayor Yelle of Kapuskasing Greets Guests by Trainload

Army of Work-Hunters Came in Such Numbers They Had to Sleep on Pine Floor Without Pillows or Blankets

By JAMES A. COWAN

OF all the peculiar problems which the elected representatives of the people in any Canadian municipality may be called upon to face, few could present the many and varied difficulties involved in dealing with an unexpected avalanche of would-be citizens.

Early in February Mayor E. J. Yelle, presiding executive of the little northern town of Kapuskasing, Ontario, found himself overwhelmed. One evening he discovered that thirty energetic souls, speaking various languages but all possessed of the same ambition, had arrived with the intention of staying. What they wanted was work, and lots of it.

When nearly forty arrived the following evening, for exactly the same reason, the citizens of Kapuskasing realized that something was distinctly under way.

On the next evening another optimistic mob of eager workmen stepped off the express. And so it went. The peak was reached when the daily increase in population began to number two hundred and Kapuskasing commenced to resemble the meeting place of nations.

Even before the first platoon of prospective citizens had arrived, thirty strong, husky individuals had been drifting in two or three at a time. But the influx had not been sufficient to put any strain on the available sleeping and eating accommodation.

The unique part of it was that no one had discovered gold, nor silver, nor even a salt mine. The incoming battalions did not expect to clean up a remarkable fortune overnight or even after many nights and an equal number of days. All they expected to get was work at good wages.

The rumor had gone round that a well-known firm was about to begin the construction of a twenty-million-dollar mill at Kapuskasing, an undertaking which was to involve the cutting of sixty-five miles of right-of-way to Smoky Falls, the building of a transmission line and possibly a railroad and hundreds of workers in various parts of northern Ontario had suddenly decided to co-operate.

It must be admitted that the rumor is more than a mere rumor and that the company referred to does intend to enlarge its activities in a very large way, but actual work in this direction had not been even commenced in February.

And it must also be stated that Mayor Yelle and others of the leading citizens of Kapuskasing had foreseen that their town might suddenly become the Mecca for large groups of work-hungry travelers. Therefore, restraining that very natural impulse which has been partly responsible for making Florida what it is today, they kept the news as secret as possible. They made no glowing and optimistic prophecies concerning the future of their locality. Caution was their watchword and they were very desirous of side-stepping anything that might be termed a boom.

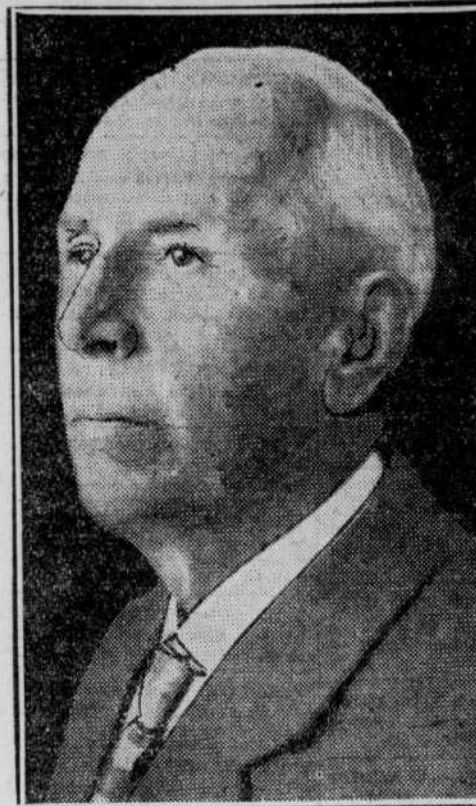

Kapuskasing, as at present constituted, has not yet reached its third birthday. Yet following the fire which forced the municipality to move across the river it has been growing like many varieties of vegetables in spring sunshine. It is a town of 2,700 people and it already has 12,000 feet of water mains and an equal stretch of sewerage. In addition, it has very fine educational facilities and other institutions to match.

This record was sufficiently unusual to make Mayor Yelle and his associates determine on a policy of proceeding slowly.

But somehow the news leaked out and while the newspapers of the dominion were relating in detail the story of the great rush into Red Lake with prospectors hurrying in by twos and threes, with the aid of dog teams, candidates for jobs were being transported into Kapuskasing by the trainload, and Mayor Yelle was struggling with the problems of a much over-populated town.

Before long there was no such thing as hotel accommodation. Mine host was forced to rent floor space for purposes of slumber. For fifty cents or one dollar in the choicer corners, one could obtain a good clean section of pine floor. The supply of pillows, blankets and other accessories usually connected with sound sleep, was completely exhausted in no time at all.

Hotel managers did the best they could, but even floor space is limited and the number of newcomers seemed inexhaustible.

Mayor Yelle of Kapuskasing

Mayor Yelle and his helpers made a survey of the town and with the aid of householders provided a maximum amount of accommodation. Then platoons of visitors were assigned to the schools, where they slept in rows on the floor; to the town hall, where they did the same thing, and to the station.

Determined attempts by Mayor Yelle to check off the supply of local immigration at its source were by now beginning to have an effect. Cochran and Cobalt papers had warned the general public at the mayor's request and many scores of transients had been induced to return, grateful for the townspeople's efforts to look after them and convinced that neither Kapuskasing nor any other town could be expected to provide jobs for several hundred aspirants who arrived because of an enthusiastic yarn.

This in itself was no mean feat. Kapuskasing, returning the workless, sent away very, very few knockers. Most of the men understood the circumstances, and, though the natural impulse would be to knock the town, which they had unsuccessfully visited in their search for an occupation, they have not been doing this.

Among the mobs, there were of course quite a number who had exhausted their financial backing in the purchase of one-way tickets, and there they were, both broke and jobless. These, and others, were informed that there was work available in the bush, cutting pulpwood, and a great number signed on.

But a few seemed determined to avoid any such rural life. While not entirely sympathizing with their attitude, the mayor and the townspeople felt they were bound to help these individuals out. A most amazing number of small chores were successfully undertaken and the amount of cordwood split in the backyards of Kapuskasing during the few short weeks of February must be close to the record.

Mayor Yelle, the central figure in this drama of a floating population, is a keen and far-sighted French-Canadian and a member of a family which has for eight generations taken an active part in municipal politics in old Ontario.

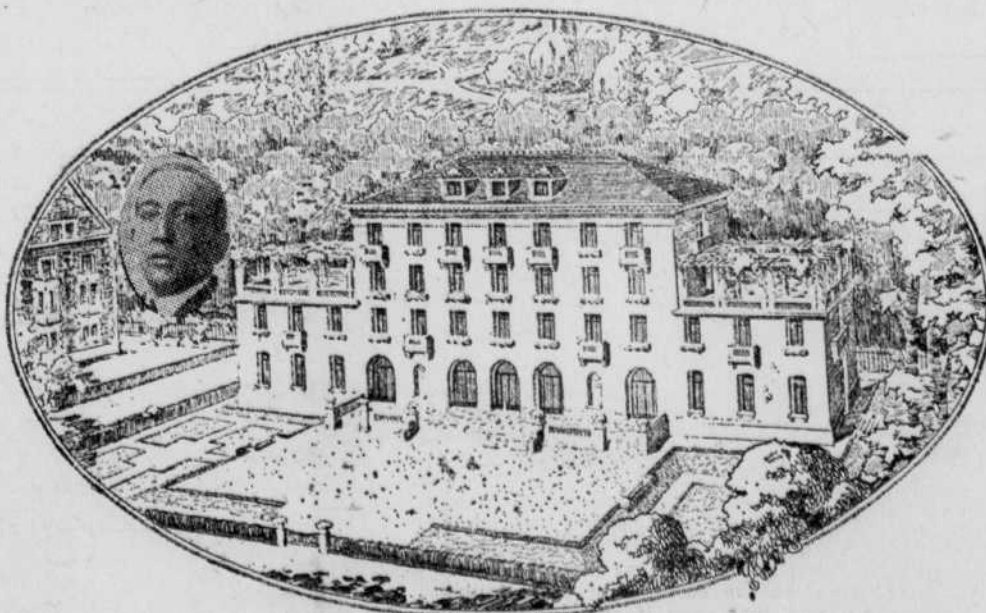

Part of his talent for organization he inherited and part he developed.

His rise to the mayoralty of Kapuskasing can only be equaled by an odd mining town or so. Four months after he arrived in Kapuskasing he was elected and his fellow-citizens are still congratulating themselves on their choice.

Education is one of his chief hobbies. His own family is a very large one and, from their infant years, his children had the fact firmly planted in their minds that, though they were French-Canadians, they could still consider themselves ignorant until such a time as they spoke English as well as they spoke French.

Burglar "Got It"

TWO business men were lunching together. "By the way," said one, "a burglar got into my house at three o'clock this morning, when I was on my way home from the club." "Good gracious!" said the other. "Did he get anything?" "He certainly did," replied the first with a grin. "The poor beggar is in the hospital. My wife thought it was me."

Premier King Was Just Customer to This Clerk

Even Fact He Gave Ottawa Address Failed to Provide Clue to His Identity

By G. E. P.

HOW many Canadians would know Premier Mackenzie King if they saw him?

If you happened to have an hour's conversation with him and he mentioned that his name was King, would you know him to be the head of the Liberal party and the present prime minister of Canada?

The following incident, which recently happened in Toronto, may prove nothing except that every man is not destined to be a detective.

A quietly dressed customer walked into one of the city's leading furniture shops. He was alone. He browsed through the corridors for fully five minutes before he was questioned by a salesman and made his wishes known. He would like to see some small wooden boxes and an oak table, he said.

With his customer following, the salesman stalked to the rear of the store where the tables were to be found. The two stood in conversation about the merits of various pieces of furniture for more than an hour, in which time ten tables were inspected. At last the customer was satisfied and he agreed to buy one table.

"I am certain you will be satisfied, sir. Of course this will be polished up before it is delivered—what is the name, sir?"

"King."

"Yes Mr. King; and what is the first name?"

"William, William King—Ottawa."

While the salesman was jotting down this information, the customer looked about and, finding the store well filled, remarked, "Business seems to be good."

"Yes, Mr. King, business is good at this season. Picking up remarkably well. And how do you find business?"

"Not so good as we should like. Rather unsettled at present."

"That is unfortunate. But of course the election had an unsettling effect on some businesses."

"Mine was one of those. The election affected it."

"Oh well, don't worry sir. Soon we'll have a good old Conservative government running things and then things will improve."

"No, I don't think we will have a Conservative government. If we did, I don't think that would improve my business."

"And what is your business, may I ask?"

"Everybody's."

"Oh I see, sir. Magazines!"

It was two days later when the customer returned to make further inquiry about the table and to inspect some boxes. He mentioned that the boxes must be of antique effect suitable as containers of private papers or jewelry. A different salesman attended the wants of the customer.

"A table is being prepared for me; I should like to see it and also some old boxes."

"Yes sir, and what is the name?"

"King—W. L. King."

"Yes, Mr. King. Just this way," replied the clerk.

While making his pilgrimage to the rear of the shop for the second time the proprietor saw his distinguished customer, recognized him as the prime minister and greeted him most warmly.

Neither clerk had had any knowledge of his customer's identity although both had been Toronto residents for years and read the newspapers regularly.

Winner of Nobel Prize Was But Poor Scholar

First Intended to Be Soldier—Dr. Banting Only Younger Recipient

WHEN Karl Siegbahn was a young lad at school, in northern Sweden, his teachers regarded him as being far from a bright scholar. Even in his favorite subjects, mathematics and physics, his marks on his graduation examinations were quite ordinary.

But at the age of thirty-nine he has been awarded the Nobel prize in physics—being the second youngest man ever so honored, the only younger one being Dr. F. G. Banting of Toronto, whose insulin discovery brought him the coveted prize at the age of thirty-two.

Prof. Siegbahn's triumph appears the more remarkable in view of the fact that he at first had no ambitions along scholastic lines, but intended to carve out his career in the army.

However, before he finally tied himself up to a military life, he was seized with a new interest in the study of physics, and, devoting himself wholeheartedly to this subject, soon became noted as an authority.

Dr. Siegbahn was given the Nobel prize for his work in studying the inner structure of the atom and the exact difference between ordinary light and that given out by the X-ray.

"T. P." Set Him Right

THE "father" of the British House of Commons, T. P. O'Connor, was recently asked by a newly-arrived colleague whether it was true that when he first came to London he secured a job on a daily newspaper, got "sacked" after a week's trial, and found himself in Fleet street with only a shilling in his pocket.

T. P., who is one of the most unassuming and democratic of men, smiled that whimsical smile of his.

"No, sir," he replied. "It is untrue. It was only ninepence."

THIRD COMPANY IN GRANBY IN SIX MONTHS

Dominion Safety Lock Nut Company Have Commenced Erection of Plant—Meeting of Sunshine Club—Other Interesting News.

GRANBY, Que., April 23.—The third company to locate in Granby within the past six months is the Dominion Safety Lock Nut Company, and the contract for the erection of the new plant on the property purchased from Mr. J. A. Menard has been signed.

This company is not only the sole company manufacturing this particular type of safety device in Canada, but they also control the American patent rights and within a brief period, the citizens of Granby will be treated to the novelty of seeing a Granby manufacturer exporting to the United States. As the building has to be erected and in operation within eight weeks, work has already begun under the direction of a local contractor. The plant at Lachine, where up to the present time they have been manufacturing in the experimental stage, has been dismantled and the machines will be removed to Granby without delay.

Sunshine Club Meeting.
The regular meeting of the Sunshine Club of Trinity Church was held on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Geo. Wallace, Long avenue, with a very large attendance.

At the close of the business meeting Rev. D. N. Coburn, who was present, said that he had been requested by the members of the Sunshine Club to express their appreciation of the service their president had rendered during the past six years, and on behalf of the Society presented her with a handsome brown leather club bag.

Mrs. Fuller, in responding, said that she was proud to be the president of such a splendid organization as the Sunshine Club, that during the term of her office they had all worked harmoniously together, that they were all good sports and ready to tackle any proposition that came in their way.

In the programme that followed Rev. Mr. Coburn gave "Current Events," dealing with the prohibition vote in the United States, the Hudson Bay railroad, which is to be completed and will then be the shortest route from the grain fields of the west to England and other European countries; the war graves in "Flanders Field," where one thousand British gardeners are to care for the cemeteries and keep them beautiful at a cost of $700,000 a year; that Greece has made her last war payment of $224,600 by order of the League of Nations; that five or six years ago the Armenian Gregorian Church asked the American Episcopal Church to send men to help educate their ministers along modern lines. A year ago they sent Rev. Bridgmont to the Gregorian Monastery of St. James at Jerusalem and since then two others have gone to Mosul, Turkey-in-Asia (220 miles from Bagdad, in Mesopotamia). Thus two eastern churches are getting something of what the west can give towards a better rounded Christianity. The governor of Trinidad presented the mission school at San Juan (which is owned by the United Church of Canada) with the Agricultural Merit Medal for 1925. There are 89 schools on the island, so it was quite an honor to have been first in merit. The United Church Bill has been passed by the Quebec House. The committee to settle church property being: Sir Arthur Currie, G. Barclay and Dr. E. L. Pigeon.

Miss Gladys Nicholson gave a song and the Sunshine Club song "Sing Alone" was sung in chorus after which a number of silhouettes appeared on the screen, the guessing of "Who's Who" causing much amusement. One gentleman appearing with "horns," which made some wonder how the "critter" managed

ITALIAN AMBASSADOR TO BRUSSELS RETURN TO ROME

Departure Has no Connection With Any Anti-Italian Incidents, According to Italian Foreign Office.

(Associated Press Despatch)
ROME, April 23.—The departure from Brussels of the Marquis De Negrotto, Italian Ambassador to Belgium, has no connection with any anti-Italian incident, it was stated at the Foreign Office yesterday. He is returning to Rome in his capacity as a member of a committee of experts now sitting here.

The Foreign Office is without official information regarding the reported anti-Fascist demonstration by socialists at Lalouviere, Belgium, in which Mussolini was burned in effigy.

to get by the guard and enter the presence of the Sunshiners.

Refreshments brought a most enjoyable meeting to a close, the ladies in the home being assisted by Mrs. E. Patterson, Mrs. Geo. Black and Miss Jessie Lynch.

Monthly Meeting of W.M.S.
The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Drummond Street United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Neil Booth, Denison avenue.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Turner Roberts, Mrs. (Rev.) Burnett occupied the chair. At the opening devotions, the regular business meeting was held. The treasurer, Mrs. O. H. Jackman, read the financial report for the year 1925-26, and reported $479.55 raised during that time. Mrs. C. D. Porter, secretary of the strangers' department, reported forty calls made last month.

A most interesting account was given of the inaugural services of the Montreal Presbytery, held in Erskine Church, on April 6th and 7th, by the delegate, Mrs. Gordon Morrison, which was augmented by explanatory remarks by Mrs. Burnett. As this was the first meeting of the new church year, detailed plans were made so that the W.M.S. here hope to "carry on" under the new regime even better than before, all the ladies being intensely interested in this branch of the work.

The following missionary heralds gave reports from the foreign fields: Mrs. Geo. Mudd, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. C. Swett, Mrs. O. H. Jackman, Mrs. G. Morrison, Mrs. E. Swett and Mrs. H. H. Collins.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. Geo. Jackman and Miss Eliza Simpson.

General Notes
Mrs. W. O. Lewis and two little sons returned on Tuesday from Richmond, Va., where they have been spending the past winter with Mrs. Hechler, Mrs. Lewis' mother. Mrs. Hechler accompanied them home and will remain in Granby a few months.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Smith and two sons returned last week from Locust Dale, Va., where they have been spending the winter. The trip was made by motor and they were accompanied by Mr. Comer Smith, brother-in-law of Mr. R. K. Smith, also by the latter's little nephew, Oswald Smith. Miss Elizabeth is remaining to finish her school year.

Miss Elizabeth Nunns, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stanley and Miss Edith Stanley, of Montreal, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fuller, at "Edgewood."

The home of Mrs. Guy Rutherford was the scene of a pleasant gathering on Tuesday evening, when a number of friends called to congratulate her upon the anniversary of her birthday. Six tables were arranged for "500," and after an enjoyable game, the hostess was presented with a dozen silver tea spoons, a salad set and several other gifts, the presentation being made by Mr. Raymond Wiggins. Miss Rutherford made a suitable response of thanks, and dainty and abundant refreshments brought to a close a very pleasant and friendly evening.

During the meeting a motion was passed which recommended that the tariff cut on automobiles should be referred to the tariff board before being acted upon by the government. Several other matters of business of interest to the Association were also considered by the members.

RUMORS OF LARGE SALE ARE DENIED

Record Learned This Morning That Rumors That Continental Hotel Property Had Been Sold Were Groundless.

Rumors which were circulated about the streets this morning to the effect that the Banque Canadienne Nationale had sold the old Continental Hotel property to a Montreal firm were this morning found to be false when investigations were made by the Record.

According to the rumors heard, the bank had sold this property, which is situated at the corner of King and Wellington Streets, to a firm headed by Mr. Ludger Roy, and it was stated that the building was to undergo extensive alterations, after which it would be opened as a hotel. The rumors even went so far as to say that the price involved, in the supposed transaction, was ninety thousand dollars. The deal was understood to have been made in Montreal yesterday.

The Record this morning made investigations and learned, from a very reliable source, that these rumors were absolutely unfounded. There are, however, it was learned, negotiations under way between the owners of the building and a local man, who desires to rent the building.

SWEETSBURG

Mrs. C. B. Jameson entertained a largely attended meeting of the Parish Guild on Tuesday afternoon at her home. The usual routine of business was carried on and some work done. Very dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

A gloom of sadness was cast over the community by the sudden death of Colonel J. D. Bulman, who entered into rest on Wednesday morning about 10.30 o'clock, after a very short illness of pneumonia, following grippé. Sincere sympathy is felt for the bereaved daughters and other near relatives.

Master Charles Cotton returned on Wednesday morning from the General Hospital, Montreal, where he had been a patient during the past three weeks.

Mr. Justin Hastings, of the Centre Road, was calling at "Green Gables" on Monday.

Mr. Sylvester Orandall, of Farnham's Corner, was brought to the General Hospital here during the past week and admitted as a patient.

Mrs. M. H. Tetrault and Mrs. T. M. Howell, of Manchester, N.H., are guests of the former's daughter, Mrs. E. Gloddy.

Mrs. Rollin Howard and son, Robert, of Glen Farnham, have been ill with grippé.

MARKET COMMENT

Furnished by McManamy & Walsh

Wall Street Journal—Rallying tendencies showed signs of slackening in issues whose earnings outlook was not considered good, or in which weak long holdings still existed.

Journal of Commerce—There is little doubt that short covering accounted for much of the buying in the speculative issues, although investment purchases of the standard issues were again in evidence.

Wall Street Journal will say today:—Commercial Solvents aided by low priced corn.

Mexican oil output gains. March a good month for Northern Pacific.

American Locomotive's earnings improve. Hayes Wheel earns $184,987 first quarter.

Bethlehem Steel profits show big increase. Trainmen's head denies labor trouble looms.

Republic's earnings lower than expected.

HOME RUN RACE HAS STARTED IN EARNEST

Circuit Clout Won Game For Red Sox Against Yanks—Senators Again Downed Athletics.

NEW YORK, April, 23. — The Major League home run race appears to have started in earnest, in two far separated places yesterday. Phil Toot, of the Red Sox, performed the feat against the Yanks, his second one winning the game, and Pinky Hargrave, of the Browns, accomplished the stunt against the White Sox, although his team lost.

A member of the Yanks, broad shouldered, with a powerful swing, now leads in the home run class. It is not "Babe" Ruth, but Pat Collins, the catcher brought from the American Association. Pat has sent forth three for the bleachers to carry home.

Cincinnati and Chicago waged the bitterest of yesterday's struggles, a 5 to 5 deadlock resulting after eleven innings. The Cubs entered a stream of pinch players to tie the contest in the ninth. Luque, Don-hue and May worked for the Reds, while Blake, Kaufman and Bush held the fort for Chicago.

Ten innings was necessary for a decision in the battle at Pittsburgh. In the tenth Chick Hafey scored his second homer of the year, driving in Manager Hornsby, to win the contest. Keen allowed ten Pittsburgh hits but kept them well distributed to win by 5 to 3.

Vance started for the Dodgers against the Giants, but was peppered from all sides. He finally gave way to McWeeney and later Stryker entered the fray, but the Giants won, 11 to 4, by scoring in five of the nine innings. Two triples by Meusel had much to do with the issue.

The Braves continued their slaughter of the Phillies, 6 to 2, with Smith permitting only six safeties. The Phillies, who won four of their games last week, have lost every one since Saturday.

Dutch Reuther, of Washington, ably supported by Goslin and Rice, turned back the Mackmen, 8 to 2. Several errors of omission were made by the Philadelphia infield.

Heavy sticks swung at Chicago, where the White Sox overwhelmed the Browns by 11 to 7. Harris, of the White Sox, getting two doubles and a triple.

The Yanks and Red Sox staged a slugfest which was ended in favor of Boston 9 to 8, by Toot's second homer of the day. Thomas, McQuaid, Braxton and Shawkey were used by the Yanks in the ten inning tussle, with Welser and Wingfield in the points for the Red Sox.

STAN HARRIS FIGURES JOE BUSH TO STAR

JOE BUSH IN ACTION

(By NEA Service)

"Bullet Joe" Bush of the Washington Senators is here depicted getting his trusty right finger into shape at the training camp of the American League champions.

Bush, a veteran of many seasons, was acquired from the Browns during the winter and is being counted strongly upon by Manager Harris in the campaign. Harris figures Bush will win at least fifteen games, possibly twenty, which, naturally, would aid the Nats' cause to an appreciable extent.

WRESTLING

SHOT BECAUSE HE REFUSED TO "THROW" BOUT (Associated Press Despatch)
CHICAGO, April, 23. — Andre Anderson, heavyweight boxer, shot and killed at Cicero, a suburb, March 31, was slain because he refused to "throw" his bout with Wayne Big Munn, police have been informed.

No testimony in support of this theory was given at the coroner's inquest, and the police of Chicago and Cicero have been asked to reopen their investigation.

Leo Mongovern, named at the inquest as Anderson's slayer, is now accused by a police informant as being one of two men who approached Anderson before the Munn fight in Kansas City last December 23, and attempted to "fix" the outcome. Mongovern is under indictment but has not been arrested.

Anderson denied any intention to let Munn win and knocked him out.

SHOOTING

There will be no more shooting for the S.R.R.A., on the indoor range until further notice owing to lack of ammunition.

FINE CONCERT PRESENTED IN 53RD ARMORY

Symphony Orchestra Gave Next to Final Concert of Series Last Evening — "Ye Olde Time Dances" Followed.

The concert presented last evening in the 53rd Armory by the Sherbrooke Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Professor Irwin Sawdon, was the next to the last one of the series and was attended by a fairly large audience.

The orchestra upheld its reputation indeed. The understanding between the director and this body of musicians, both in point of attack, cohesion and shading, particularly in diminuendos, while this is expected to a certain degree, was remarkable. From the easy lilting of the waltz, to the more difficult rhythmic comprehension of the "Cavalleria Rusticana," (Muscagni) the foregoing paragraph received its anti-climax.

The collection of Schumann songs, eight in all, are arrangements full of musical interest, and are well worth a second hearing. It was also a pleasure to hear that popular overture, "Raymond," by Thomas, in its full instrumentation, which a symphony orchestra can give, the flute, oboe and clarinet parts being worthy of more than passing comment.

Mrs. J. Schwartz was the soloist last evening, and her renditions won her great ovation. They were "Greetings," (Mara Zuka), sung in Hebrew, and "The Song of Songs," (Moya), and each was followed by an equally enhancing encore.

Mrs. J. Rosenbloom acted as accompanist for Mrs. Schwartz, and also played for "Ye Olde Time Dances" which followed the concert.

FIXED IT SO THEY WOULDN'T. Husband—You ought to have more sense than to order a new car when you know how I'm fixed. Wife—Why, John, do you think I want everybody to know how you're fixed?

DEPRECIATED. He who loses his temper seldom finds it as good as before it was lost.

HATLEY UNITED CHURCH LADIES' AID MEETING

One of Largest and Most Enthusiastic Gatherings For Some Time—Socials, Personals and Other General Notes of Interest.

HATLEY, Que., April 23.—One of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings in connection with the Ladies' Aid of the United Church, was held on the regular day of meeting, Wednesday, when a dinner was served to nearly fifty members and friends, both old and young.

Those in attendance from St. James' Church included Mrs. (Rev.) C. R. Eardley-Wilmot, Mrs. G. M. Hill, principal of the public school, and Mrs. Hetherington. The treasurer, Mrs. E. A. Hodges, reported the proceeds as $6.10, the largest for some time. The early hours of the afternoon were devoted to the usual business session, which was opened by the reading of the 24th Psalm by the vice-president, Mrs. A. E. Gage, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. A letter was then read by the secretary from the pastor of the church, Rev. John L. Hodgson, expressive of his appreciation and thanks for the written message of sympathy and condolence received from this society, upon the occasion of his recent bereavement.

Both useful and fancy articles are in course of preparation for the annual July sale, which is usually combined with a strawberry and ice cream festival. Arrangements were also made at this time for the fortnightly entertainment of the society, which is duly booked until the late autumn, with an overabundance of food offered for the basket teas, in the Lindsay Parker Memorial Hall. These will vary from time to time by individual effort, when the different members will open their homes for this purpose.

Toward the close, an important conference was held by the acting president of St. James' Guild, Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot, Miss Little, president of the Aid, which resulted in the decision to unite the forces of both societies, as in the past few years, in a Dominion Day celebration.

tion. The pastors of the churches, Rev. C. R. Eardley-Wilmot and Rev. John L. Hodgson, to make further arrangements. These gatherings have been highly successful in the past, both from a financial and social standpoint.

General Notes

The April meeting of the local W.C.T.U., which was held at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Pellerin, on Thursday afternoon, has been postponed until the following week, on account of illness in the Pellerin home.

Mr. W. J. Hunter has returned from Toronto, where he attended the song recital given on March 31, in the concert hall of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, (Mrs.) Madge Hunter Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Parker attended the funeral of the latter's step-mother, Mrs. Murdoch McKenzie, in Coaticook, on Thursday. Mrs. McKenzie's illness was of short duration, the result of acute indigestion. The late Mrs. McKenzie, formerly Miss Parker, was a great-aunt of Mrs. (Rev.) C. G. Stevens, of St. Stephen's Church, Coaticook.

Miss Helen Ayer, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ayer, of "Comfort Cottage," who is at present at Macdonald College, has been already engaged at the Old North Church School, for the year 1926-27. The young teacher will succeed Miss Donna Geddes, who resigned this position, in order to accept a similar one at Heathton, which is much nearer her home.

Mr. A. E. Gage, with his daughter, Mrs. A. E. Pellerin, paid a visit on Sunday afternoon, to their uncle, Mr. Barfield Kent, whose illness has assumed a very serious nature at his home at Massawippi.

BISHOP'S CROSSING

The Ladies' Aid was entertained by Mrs. M. C. Bishop on April 14th with a very good attendance. The sum of $75 was voted towards the minister's funds. A sick committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. De Gruchy, Mrs. F. C. Bishop and Mrs. H. Kenney. The hostess was assisted at the tea hour by the Misses Verlie and Iva Bishop. The next meeting will be at the United Church on April 28th.

The Sunshine Society will meet with Mrs. T. E. Evans on May 1st. The W. A. held an enjoyable card party in the I.O.O.F. hall on Tuesday evening. Cards were played at five tables. Proceeds $5.75.

It is certainly a mild and sweet tobacco—so smooth—that it never will burn your tongue.
