

School Board Beginning To Plan For Operation Of School During Period Of Building

The Huntingdon High School Board of Commissioners held their first regular meeting of the new year of 1958, at the County Building, on Thursday evening, January 2nd. All members were present except Commissioner Rennie, and Chairman Lyell Graham presided. Dr. K. Willis, Principal, was also present and received the best wishes of members for his health, following a recent operation.

The minutes were read and a number of bills passed for payment of the school for the year. The committee which had to interview three boys who broke into the school prior to the holidays, was asked for a report. It was reported that the boys were not of the opinion that they were doing any harm and they had only come into the school to play basketball. One of the three was not present, one of those present was not a scholar at the school, while the other one was. After a serious talk with the boys, the committee impressed them that if it ever occurred again it would lead to more serious consequences. The boys promised that it would not happen again.

Two letters were read stating that they contained cheques for substantial grants to be used for administration purposes in accordance with regular practice. Some discussion took place with regard to the correct time for the renewal of contracts for the teachers and it was felt that as there may be some disruption in the school routine during building operations, that the teachers should be made aware of this.

The plans of the Science Room and the Household Economics kitchen were shown. These contained the proposed layout of these rooms and a letter from the architect suggested that any changes be marked in order that the whole of the plans may be completed. Dr. Willis felt that as this was new and they had no real idea of how the arrangements would work out in actual practice, some members of the Board should visit other similar schools to find out how they were operating. It might be found in this manner that this experience would be a practical guide in arranging these rooms in a more satisfactory manner. This might also prevent changes being made after the rooms had been completed. The Household Economics kitchen will have to serve in connection with the cafeteria, or a separate arrangement might have to be made in order to facilitate the movement of food to the cafeteria. He thought that there may be 250 or more to be served in a very short time and it was imperative that this operation run as smoothly as possible at all times. By visiting other schools it may be found that there are faults which could be remedied before the arrangement had been made of these rooms. This would save expense in the end and work toward a better program when the time came to operate the rooms.

It was decided that some Board members and Dr. Willis would visit some other schools in the very near future with a view to seeing the cafeteria in operation and how the arrangements worked out in the rooms concerned.

Dr. Willis also informed the Board that there would be disruption in the running of the school during the term of the building operations. He felt that operations should start in May of this year and that they would not doubt carry into the following school year. If they were later than May, then it is quite possible that the building would not be completed until the fall of 1959. Plans should be made now as to what will be done during this period and the teaching staff should be aware of this in order to prepare for it. The occupants of the old building would likely have to be moved out this spring in order to allow for the building to be taken down. He felt that this would likely be the first operation. The being so, accommodation would have to be found for these pupils to carry on during the examination period. He was not sure what arrangements could be made, but he felt that the parents and others interested in the school should be made aware of what would be going on.

Dr. Willis suggested that a meeting of the members of the Board, the teaching staff and a certain number of representatives of the taxpayers from each ward be called and the matter discussed. It would then be open for those present to make suggestions as to the best method to be used while the building is in progress. It was decided to follow this suggestion and letters will be sent out calling such a meeting for the very near future. It was also felt that if other people had suggestions to offer that they might do so at this time. Such suggestions could be passed along to members of the Board, or to Dr. Willis.

Mr. Russell Milne appeared before the Board and stated that he had the opportunity of securing a larger bus whereby he might consolidate the two routes now in the case of operating just one bus instead of two. Mr. Milne said he did not see how the cost could be lowered as he would still be covering the two routes and the same number of miles would have to be travelled and that under the present conditions, the routes were not paying him too well. The commissioners felt that Mr. Milne would be saving cost on the insurance, the gasoline and upkeep of one bus and the cost of one driver. He would operate the bus himself. Mr. Milne did not see it this way. The Board therefore felt that if any change was made that tenders should be called and Mr. Milne should put in a tender at that time. Mr. Milne did not feel that this would be right and if that would be the case then he would continue as at present with the two routes on the present contract. He only wanted to know if the Board would be satisfied if he purchased a larger bus and operated the two routes as one. If they would not be satisfied, then he would forget the idea and leave things as they are. No other discussion took place and matters will probably remain as they are.

The meeting adjourned until January 23rd.

Barn, Cattle, Machinery Lost In Fire At Howick At Year's End

Fire caused death and destruction of livestock and property at Thorn Brae Farm, Howick, Que., on Sunday morning, December 29th, bringing the year 1957 to a sad end for the Anderson families who live there.

Wilburn, son of Willie Anderson, owns and operates the farm, and the two homes are situated on the east bank of the Chateaugay River. The owner finished the chores about 10:20 that morning and at 10:45 left, with his father, for service at Georgetown Presbyterian Church. About 11:40 Ross Brown passed the farm and saw no signs of fire. A few minutes after 12 noon, Mrs. Anderson (Marian Craig), saw smoke and called for the Howick Fire Brigade. Then she hurriedly carried the 5 week old baby to the other home and returned for the other two little sons. By this time Hendrickus Schroeders, a Dutch neighbour, who works with Robert Tolhurst, next farm east, arrived. He rescued 4 milch cows before other help arrived. Billy Wright across the river had seen signs of fire and rushed to the scene and on his way notifying the owner, at the church. The service was about to close, so immediately many went to help. The telephone operator had done a wonderful job and neighbours had arrived. Men worked furiously to rescue the livestock, but smoke, and the usual difficulty of getting cattle to move from a fiery building, hampered operations. They saved 14 milch cows, 5 calves, and 11 young cattle (30). Lost were 12 cows, 1 bull, 5 yearlings, 3 calves and 2 horses (23).

Within minutes the barn was a flaming mass and the houses were threatened, the wind being from the west. Furniture was removed from the old home, but both were saved and one implement shed.

The corn binder, grain binder, threshing mill and sleighs were destroyed. During the afternoon more than 300 bush of oats were shovelled into containers, some of which may be used.

The fire brigade from Howick, about 20 men and a booster pump, did a wonderful job. They, and all the neighbours and friends, together prevented a much greater loss of livestock and property.

After the fire, Mrs. Anderson found a pair of dark eye glasses, so put them aside for the owner. A letter came from Mrs. A. Wangh, Central Park West, New York City, asking if the glasses had been noticed. The Wanghs had been driving by, saw the fire, and came in to help. Neighbours had noticed this lady carrying household furnishings to safety. The letter contained a message of sympathy and a cheque for $5. to be used for the new baby who might be deprived of something due to the great loss. This kindly gesture is typical of our neighbours to the south, and was deeply appreciated by the Andersons. Kind friends offered stable room for the rescued cattle. The Andersons, who come from a line of independent and industrious farmers, are busy planning to rebuild. Everyone joins in wishing them good health and success in the future years.

Good Public Relations Mean Much To Business

Mr. Alex Hainey, plant superintendent of the Electro Metalurgical Company, Division of Union Carbide Canada Limited, Beauharnois spoke to the Rotarians on Monday, December 30. Subject of his topic being "Some Thoughts on Public Relations". The thought expressed was that public relations of a favourable character were a great asset to any individual or company. Mr. Hainey stated that the general public reaped much benefit through any company having good public relations. It is largely through the public relations department that the public become acquainted with what a manufacturing, or business firm may have to offer, that can be of use to the public at large. In plants where there are upwards of 200 employees or over, a house organ is desirable and serves a very useful purpose, not only to management but to the employees.

For every employee, in a plant of 200 or over, there will be found four other people particularly interested in the welfare of that employee and the business success or expansion of the firm.

Mr. Greaves was a classmate of E. C. Martin at McGill University, they also served overseas in World War I in the same military unit and completed their Arts Course at McGill, together. Mr. Greaves entered the educational field, whilst Mr. Martin took to that of law.

Mr. Greaves address might much more profitably have been made before an audience of school boards, teachers, parents and citizenry at large from the entire Chateaugay Valley, rather than the 25 Rotarians present.

Mr. Greaves opened his address through cautioning his audience that we should not let Sputnik stampede us into unthinking, or over-emphasis of science. If a nation loses its soul the people will perish. Engineers are now available and in too many cases the engineers we now have are not being occupied with work that they have the trained ability to exercise. In some cases engineers are devoting a great deal of their time that might well be used by a good foreman. As far as the supply of engineers is concerned, the increasing size of classes are meeting with the law of supply and demand. The Russians are not cutting, and their captured German scientists will not live for ever.

The changes suggested are that the zoning not take place until after the present term of the office of the Public Bill which is being applied for at the present session of the Quebec Legislature, by the Town of Huntingdon.

The amount of $100,000 to be borrowed without resort to referendum, was cut to $25,000.

It is expected that the Bill will be getting consideration in due course.

high spring like temperatures prevailing. Certainly the representatives of the different teams who met in Ormstown at the end of December were not too pleased with the lateness of the season.

This year there are to be eight teams in the League and because of this and the fact of the weather, it was decided to divide the league into two divisions. The Eastern Division will be

Direction of Education

The purpose of education is to teach each student to do better in the things he may desire, and in the avenue of work he is likely to do as an adult.

For the scholar who is of University material make-up; that student should be prepared for the course of his desires. For those incapable of study, that stresses much reading of books, trade schools would be the seat of learning.

For those who will enter the business life they must first master language, both oral and written. Composition, literature and public speaking are very essential. (2nd.) Geography and current world economics and history, then world history. Arithmetic is most essential, but not necessarily algebra or geometry. Algebra and geometry could be omitted from our public schools except for those who are to study science. These young business people of to-morrow should know French and something about civics, so that they will know what it takes to make good government.

From the foregoing it is all evident that Trade Schools must be made available for those with practical minds. Schooling for pre-university education. Hence diversified high schools which might pair off and through the use of buses, have say: commercial courses featured in Huntingdon; Arts at Ormstown; Science at Howick; or whatever other arrangement might be thought best. This idea would end up with a greater cost, but it would mean the scholars would be receiving a better education toward their life work. Bear in mind too, that when the Government provided for university education for returned veterans the expense entailed was more than paid back to the treasury of Canada through the increased income tax, within a 10-year period. Consequently it can be said that for every dollar a government spends on having students better educated it will result in that student paying back to the government during his or her lifetime in the form of income tax, four times as much money as was invested in providing the student with the university education.

The boys and girls who come from families that are looked upon as either wealthy or well to do, are not necessarily the best students at college, or make the best financial and responsible citizens. It is generally agreed that the boys or girls from poorer families, who really have to work hard to receive such an advanced education, become the best students and financially successful and outstanding citizens of the land. We must therefore enable those who cannot afford to go to the university, but have the necessary potential, to go on government grants. We must enable those of all levels to do better the desirable things they are going to have to do in life.

First Hockey Game To Be Played In Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena, Friday

The Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena has taken on shape and a very good idea of its size and looks can now be obtained. The surrounding rail for the ice surface has been made and also ice. A smooth skating surface has not yet been formed, but work is being done to achieve this by Friday. On Friday evening a hockey game is to be played in the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena, the first to take place there.

There is still much to be done before the building is completed, both inside and out. While the roof is boarded in, the roofing still has to be applied and finished. The waiting rooms, etc., at floor level have yet to be finished and the large room upstairs is still being worked upon.

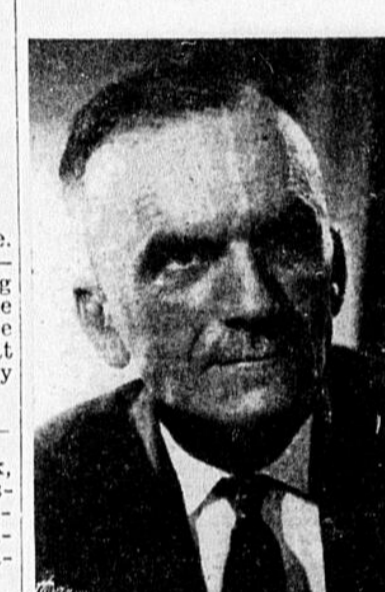

Temporary lighting is being put in for Friday's game between the Huntingdon Bombers and Huntingdon Clydes. It is expected that colder weather is in the waiting, which will do much to help the conditions. The Huntingdon Citizens' Band will be in attendance.

This new arena is certainly an imposing building and the large ice area will provide plenty of space for all purposes to which it may be put. There is plenty of space for patrons to watch what is going on and also seating accommodation. Good space is provided between the seats and the arena wall for the traffic around the rink. Friday evening should provide a good opportunity for citizens to see what has been done and also witness a good hockey game between local teams.

Mr. Fred Laberge, who has had such experience in ice making is the caretaker.

Government Grant To Barrie Memorial Hospital Puts Campaign Well Over Top

MAURICE LABERGE, M.P.

The member for Chateaugay County, Mr. Maurice Laberge, announced this week that the Provincial Government has made a grant of $40,000.00, extending over four years, towards the recent financial campaign of the Barrie Memorial Hospital for capital funds.

Prior to his election in June, and just as the campaign was commencing, Mr. Laberge pledged his utmost effort to obtain a substantial sum from the provincial government, and this pledge has now been fulfilled.

It is hoped that there will be a large number of people attending the first game of the season at the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena this Friday evening. Game time gets away at 8:30 p.m. sharp.

The public, in the areas served by the Barrie, have demonstrated in a magnificent and practical manner their own high regard for that hospital and, in securing this grant, Mr. Laberge has done much to show his appreciation of the good majority he received in the Ormstown end of his constituency. In doing this, he will have secured appreciation not only of the board of governors of the hospital and of all those concerned with its administration, but also of everyone who contributed to bring the campaign up to the hand-some total it had reached before the government contribution was announced.

The campaign goal was set at a minimum of $80,000.00, including what support might be realized from the provincial government, and it was felt by those in authority that the realization of that sum would be a great achievement even though it did represent a bare minimum of the amount needed to pay off the hospital's capital indebtedness and to complete the nurses' residence. But the public itself responded so generously and so spontaneously that over $70,000.00 was received in cash and pledges up to last week; truly a magnificent response.

The people in the areas served by the Barrie are every reason to be proud of their hospital. They have also every reason to be proud of their own response to its appeal for needed funds.

Donations received from other sources during the week follow: The Duple, 5.00; Cash and Pledges, 70,233.75; Standard Chemical Ltd., Beauharnois, 300.00; Municipality of the Township of Hemmingford, 10.00; The Municipal Corp. of the Village of Hemmingford, 10.00; The Municipality du Comte de Chateaugay, 1000.00; Miss Mary Crowe, Calgary, 5.00; Mr. Andrew Strachan, Montreal, 25.00; Hemmingford — Mr. Hector Tremblay 2.00; Mr. Ernest Gagne 2.00; Mr. W. B. Smith 10.00; Mrs. LeDuc 5.00.

Provincial Government Grant of $40,000.00 a year for 4 years 40,000.00. Total $111,602.75.

BEAULIEU-SCHURMAN

The marriage vows of Janet Estelle Schurman to J. Marcel Beaulieu were solemnized at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, December 14th, at the Valleyfield United Church by Rev. C. Pelletier. The organist was Mr. R. Anderson and he accompanied the soloist Mr. Eddy Rago who played Schubert's Serenade on the violin during the signing of the register. The best man was Roger Sexton and the two ushers were Leo Berger and Claude Sauve. The church was decorated with red gladioli and white carnations.

The bride wore a full length white tulle gown with a high collar and a full length white tulle train. The dress had white applique leaves with seed pearls running down the front from both sides of the neck line over the hips. The sleeves came to a point over the hands and a shirred type bustle effect in the back was the only break in the simplicity of the lines of the dress. The bride wore a lace applied on tulle headpiece with a hip length veil. The only jewellery worn by the bride was a string of pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white mums.

The bride was accompanied by her sister, Isabel Schurman, who was dressed in a sapphire blue tulle and net dress. The dress was strapless tulle with matching bolero. The back of the dress had bows from top to bottom and flounces of net from the hip descending to the centre back and front. The bridesmaid wore a matching hat and matching brocade shoes and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and pink baby rose buds.

The mother of the bride wore a periwinkle blue peau de soie sheath dress, with a lace top. Her hat was white tulle with a matching blue flower and she wore white kid gloves. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The mother of the groom wore a black silk crepe dress and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The groom, best man and ushers wore grey trousers and navy blue blazers. The father of the bride wore a dark grey suit and the father of the groom a black suit. All the men wore white carnation boutonnieres.

The reception was held at the Tourist Club. The table centrepieces were white and bronze. The music was said by Rev. C. Pelletier and he then proposed a toast to the bride. About one hundred and twenty guests were served turkey dinner and champagne. The groom answered the toast to the bride and thanked everyone for their kindness and said that he and his bride would be at home in January to all their friends. The best man, Roger Sexton proposed a toast to the bridesmaid and ushers and read the telegrams from Mr. and Mrs. J. Zippan, St. John, N.B.; Betty Starratt, Los Angeles; and Mr. and Mrs. Leo

Mr. Anderson kindly sang a solo, and the recitations, drills, pageants and carols were all well done showing the benefit of the training given by the S. S. Teachers. There was a well-laden Evergreen Tree, and Santa Claus arrived in time to present the children and adults with gifts from it. Treats of candy and oranges were given to every child present, and the evening closed with Thanksgiving and the Benediction pronounced by Mr. J. M. Anderson, Student Minister.

Junior Red Cross Members Doing A Splendid Job

Junior Red Cross members in elementary schools as well as high schools are striving to make this Christmas a happy one for the less fortunate children and lonely old people. Last year they collected over 65,000 gifts and this year the pile of toys, books and puzzles at their headquarters in Red Cross House, on Dorchester street west, Montreal, is getting higher every day.

Over 6,000 red net stockings have been sewn by JRCers, chiefly girls, but some grandmothers have helped too. Now, these stockings are being filled with small gifts for little children and include books, cars, balls, horns, paints, puzzles, colouring books, dolls, crayons and candy. For veterans and elderly people in oldfols homes and institutions, stockings are packed with "Who Dunnit's", puzzles, cigarettes, hankies, playing cards, toilet articles and notepaper.

Junior members have undertaken to make hospitals and care centres bright and cheerful by preparing thousands of favours such as serviette rings, candy containers, placecards, trays, mats as well as holly wreaths, santas, snowmen and bells for tray, table and tree decorations.

Another important project for the Junior Red Cross members at this time of the year is the sale of next year calendar. Part of the proceeds from the calendar sale goes to the International Help and Understanding Fund. The remainder is used to help handicapped and crippled children. Needy children are provided with such services as physiotherapy, dental clinics and speech therapy in the province of Quebec. The money serves also to buy glasses and braces or to pay for some operation.

Special projects are under consideration this year by the Junior Red Cross and include the purchase of overbed tables, steel wardrobes, hot plates, playpens, combination swing and Leam rubber mattresses for the Alexandra Hospital in Pointe St.

Charles. For the Montreal Children's Hospital some $1,800 will be needed to buy a Zeiss operating Microscope and a deep freeze to establish a bone bank. Another $200 will be required to supply the School for Crippled Children with a hot water heater for the physiotherapy department at their summer camp at Ayer's Cliff.

"A chain is only as strong as its weakest link" said Ken Korentayer, of St. Laurent High School and editor of the Junior Red Cross School News, "and it is the responsibility of Junior Red Cross members, through service and friendship, to be strong in our efforts to aid all less fortunate others."

Twenty cartons of toys, candy games, books, warm woollies and favours were bright and cheerful, at every small harbour, bringing Yuletide cheer to these distant youngsters. Red Cross nurses and teacher-directors will keep these gifts safely hidden away until the festive season comes.

Special Studies Aid Geophysics In Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — At least five Newfoundland centres are probing the secrets of earth, sea and sky in order to compile data in connection with the International Geophysical Year, which began last July 1 and runs to the end of 1958. Newfoundland will contribute findings in the fields of meteorology, geomagnetism, aurora, air glow, ionosphere, oceanography, gravity and atomic radiation. Information in these fields will supplement studies being carried out in Canada. In turn, Canada's information will be put into a world pool of new material.

Most Newfoundland studies are being made at St. John's, Goose Bay, Labrador, Argenta and Stephenville, Nfld. Meteorology is studied at all Newfoundland weather stations except Gander and it is hoped more accurate methods of forecasting weather will be found.

The physics of ionosphere, a layer of upper atmosphere extending from 50 to 250 miles above the earth, is under study here. Scientists use radio waves to probe the electrically-charged area and it is hoped their findings will lead to improved electronic navigation and better radio and TV reception.

This port city is also charting water levels, temperatures, salinity and ocean currents as part of a program extending from here to Halifax and northward to Resolute Bay in the Arctic. Aurora, commonly known as northern lights, along with geomagnetism—the earth's magnetic field—are being observed at Goose Bay.

Car Insurance Should Be Compulsory

THERE are many arguments today with regard to insurance on automobiles and the mounting number of accidents which are taking place. In many instances where car insurance is not compulsory, owners of cars operate them without insurance and many of them are not financially able to pay if and when they have an accident.

"Ontario has had its unsatisfied judgment fund since 1947, maintained by collecting $1 additional from all persons granted driver's or chauffeur's licenses. Effective Jan. 1, motorists who cannot produce a certificate of insurance when they apply for their license plates will be charged an extra $5, payable into the fund. New York is the leading exponent of compulsory insurance.

A change in the procedure of holding the annual meeting of Huntingdon Agricultural Society Division "A" takes place with the one to be held on January 9th. Lessnessock Sale Reference has already been made in this column to Dr. Rene Trepanier's (Oka, Que.) purchase of the bull Lessnessock Well Come at the 1957 Lessnessock Sale.

The 31 bulls sold averaged $187,155.74, a rise of $32 from the 1956 average. For the information of those who met Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Knox at an Ormstown Exhibition several years ago, their well-known Kersland Ayrshire herd at Monkton, Ayrshire, was dispersed the day before the Lessnessock sale.

that the matter has become clearer, it is possible to discuss it more effectively.

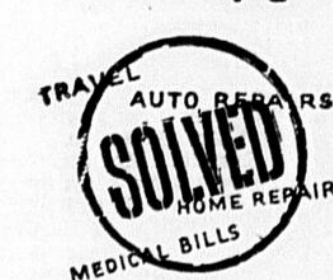

Desirable Factors "To breed a good cross calf from an Ayrshire cow needs a rugged, quick fleshing, thick-skulled bull," says the editorial, and then goes on to discuss the colour question, after which it reads:

Opposite Types "We are told," says the S. F. editorial, "that the Charollais is a big, heavy, rather rough beast, showing quite rapid growth, and from its description readers will probably have reached the conclusion that they are complete opposites of the type of animal in greatest demand today, either at the store stage or at the point of slaughter."

Barbara Hunter visited a few days with her friend, Frances Bown in Vaudreuil. Mr. and Mrs. Ovil Chartrand and family of Montreal were New Year guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chartrand.

Holidays Quietly Celebrated — The Christmas and New Year holidays were quietly celebrated by most people and church services were very well attended. Family gatherings were held for the most part, although some public gatherings were attended during the holiday period. While most Canadians look for snow as the large part of Christmas, they were disappointed this season. The weather was warm on Christmas Day and the day following there was plenty of rain, a little colder, but no snow. During the night however, a little snow fell which made the roads slippery as it turned to rain during the day. It was very dull, but there was no snow. Farmers looked for a rain, as the ground was getting quite dry. New Year's arrived with still no snow, there was a very slight fall during New Year's Day, but not enough to cover the ground. It turned somewhat colder on January 2nd, but the sun shone through to brighten the day. A New Year's day was spent quietly. It may be said that Christmas was truly a Green Christmas and the holiday season upon the whole was very mild.

The New Agricultural Stabilization Bill

OTTAWA, Dec. 15 — "The new agricultural stabilization bill, as introduced in the House of Commons yesterday, may be intended to improve the present economic position of the farmer within the general economy, but definite assurance that it would in fact do so is not found in the bill."

"Whether or not the farmers' economic position would be raised by the use of price guarantees under this new legislation would have to depend on what decisions were made by the government in its administration."

"The new bill contains some important features which represent progress in price support legislation," Mr. Hannam said. "One of these is that price guarantees are to be in effect at all times on key commodities; another is that price supports will be reviewed annually and established on key commodities twelve months in advance."

"On the other hand the bill has serious shortcomings. The three year average of market prices to be used as a basic price formula gives no recognition to the farmers' parity position—that is, to the vital relationship between prices received by farmers, and prices of goods and services the farmer must buy. While the bill sets the level of minimum floor guarantees on a number of key commodities, it does not work out at less than 70% of parity as the CFA calculates it—the absence of any guide as to the level of which price supports should be established annually on key commodities or on other commodities from time to time is a serious omission."

"It is of course satisfactory," Mr. Hannam said, "that the bill provides that guarantees can be established through the use both of market price supports and deficiency payments, since both methods have an important role to play in this type of program."

"The statement attached to this release provides a more detailed analysis of the new agricultural stabilization bill from the point of view of Canadian Federation of Agriculture policy."

"The Canadian Federation of Agriculture has prepared the following analysis of the new agricultural stabilization bill (as given first reading by the House of Commons) for the use of its members and of the press. This analysis is based upon a comparison with established national policy of the Federation—the only general national farm organization in Canada, embracing most organized farm groups in all provinces and in all branches of agriculture."

The bill contains some important features which are in line with CFA policies. In other respects the bill does not contain features which are regarded as important by the CFA.

The bill establishes the desirable principle that on certain key commodities there will be price guarantees in effect at all times, and it names those key commodities. The procedure provided in the bill of regularly reviewing the level of price supports and establishing them on key commodities twelve months in advance is a desirable one. Provision in the bill for a minimum guaranteed floor on each of the named key commodities, the levels of which are set by law is also, in principle, a desirable feature. The new bill provides for a larger revolving fund, which may imply an intention by the government to make more generous use of price guarantees. This is welcomed by the CFA.

On the other hand the bill provides no guide as to the level at which price supports should be established either annually on key commodities or on other commodities from time to time.

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture has repeatedly urged that there should be a formula in the bill to be used as such a guide, and that the formula should compare prices received by farmers with the cost of goods and services which the farmer must buy. This is commonly referred to as a parity formula. The absence of such a formula, or even of a statement of objectives which recognizes the fundamental importance of the parity position of the farmer in price support policy, is a serious omission.

The formula mentioned in the bill, based on the average market prices of the most recent three years, bears no necessary relationship to the farmers' parity position. Basic prices established by this formula automatically continue to decline as long as a trend to lower farm prices persists, even though farm costs may be relatively high and going higher. The formula proposed by the CFA takes full account of the level of farm costs.

The Federation has recommended that price guarantees should never fall below 70% of parity as calculated by the CFA formula, and that only in very exceptional circumstances should they be allowed to go this low. The minimum floor price feature of the new bill set at 80% of the prices of the last three years is in almost every case below 70% of parity.

The new bill may be intended to improve the position of the farmer, but definite assurance that the economic position of the farmer within the general economy would be raised is not found in the bill. Whether or not the farmers' present economic position would be raised by the use of price guarantees under this new legislation would have to depend on what decisions are made by the government in its administration.

An Official Look At Past And Future Business

OTTAWA, (CP) — If Canadians doubted that the business boom had slackened, Trade Minister Churchill dispelled such doubts on the night after Christmas.

It had been a Christmas of contrasts. For most Canadians it was prosperous. Their tables were laden with food and a "virtually inexhaustible" potential needs of consumers, and by providing a "tremendous volume" of new capital facilities "to supplement and round out the basic expansion which has taken place."

The gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced—increased between three or four per cent during the year, but the increase was due almost entirely to higher prices. Actual physical production had not increased and, in fact, the country produced smaller crops in 1957.

By contrast, the gross national product had shown a seven-per-cent increase in actual physical volume in 1956 and a nine-per-cent real gain in 1955.

On exports, Mr. Churchill predicted "little likelihood of significant strengthening in world commodity markets. But large exports of several items, including uranium ore, 'probably' would offset declines elsewhere."

He foresaw declines in business investment in material processing industries and some forms of transportation, but predicted increases in some service and utilities industries. There were also indications of more home building, institutional construction and local improvements.

Spending on machinery and equipment would be cut, but since most of these were imported, the cut would not have a major impact on Canadian industry.

1958 Forecast

He forecast that 1958 construction volume will be about the same as in 1957—matching a Christmas day prediction by the president of the Canadian Construction Association.

Tullis N. Carter of Toronto, in his year-end statement, had said the 1957 construction record of $6,900,000,000 would be equalled in 1958, though initial estimates what by higher labor and material costs.

Mr. Carter also forecast increased construction of roads, housing and municipal projects but said there has been a "marked decrease" in the number of major industrial projects.

Freight Rates Up

There were signs that an appeal will be made to the federal cabinet against the announcement by the board of transport commissioners of a 3.6 per cent increase in freight rates on Canadian railways.

An appeal by the western provinces was suggested soon after the increase was announced. Lawyer Charles W. Brazier of Vancouver, who presented British Columbia's brief against the increase during the board's hearings, said he would confer with Attorney-General Robert Bonner on the question of an appeal in association with the governments of the Prairie provinces.

Premier Flemming of New Brunswick said his government views the boost "with alarm." Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia said it will be detrimental to his province and Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said his province "can afford it less and will feel it most."

The Saskatchewan wheat pool said the increase is "another severe blow" to farmers. Higher rates meant business loss to the trucking industry and then requests for a further increase—"on this basis the western farmer is always caught in the squeeze as truck competition in this area is relatively ineffective."

The railways, too, were unhappy. A joint statement from Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railways said the 10-per-cent increase sought last August was a minimum request, and the 3.6 per cent award has prompted study of "appropriate action."

The $15,000,000-a-year increase is the culmination of a case that started in 1956 when the railways asked for 15 per cent. They were given 11 per cent, with consideration of the remaining four per cent to be given later. Last fall, the railways asked for six per cent more.

Brig. Maurice Archer, 47, vice-chairman of the Harbors Board, will be promoted to the chairman's job vacated by Mr. Roberts.

Newfoundland-born Mr. Roberts, a member of the Harbors Board since its formation in 1936 will be the third president of the Seaway Authority. The first was Lionel Chevrier, who resigned the post to re-enter federal politics last spring.

Obituary

The Late Mrs. D. K. Gordon

Mrs. David K. Gordon (nee Bertha Crawford) passed away on December 26th, 1957, at the Patterson Nursing Home in Huntingdon at the age of 76 years and six months, where she was a patient for the past six years.

Born in Elgin, Que., on June 11th, 1881, she was the second daughter of the late Charles Crawford and his wife the late Jane Henry, of Elgin, she received her education at the Huntingdon Academy and graduated as a school teacher and taught school for a few years at Corbin, Quebec.

In 1902, she married the late David K. Gordon, farmer at Corbin and lived there for some years with their family. Later moved to Elgin where they purchased the farm of the late John Barrie and settled there until ill health necessitated them to give up farming and move to Huntingdon.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gordon were patients at the Patterson Nursing Home, where they were kindly and tenderly cared for by Mrs. Patterson and her staff until their death.

Mrs. Gordon was a member of Kensington United Church and an active member of the W.A. of that Church and Choir. She possessed an outstanding alto voice, and freely and willingly gave of this talent at any time.

The funeral was held from the Kelly Funeral Home and directed by D. J. McGerrige, Saturday, December 28, at 2 o'clock. Service was conducted by Rev. R. S. Beal, Pastor Huntingdon United Church, who spoke in tender and appropriate words paying tribute to the deceased. Mrs. Marion Reese sang "Unto the Hills."

Mrs. Gordon is survived by four daughters viz: Grace (Mrs. Mark Alford) Madrid, N.Y.; Jean (Mrs. Wm. best first cross with the Ayrshire."

And! says the S. F. of December 7: "The Council of the Ayrshire Cattle Herd Book Society is to tell the Ministry of Agriculture that the importation of Charolais bulls should be on no account proceeded with."

"This was stated after a meeting of the Council in Ayr, when consideration was given to the proposal of the Ministry of Agriculture to import from France bulls of the Charolais breed for experimental purposes in the production of cross-bred beef. The strong and unanimous view of the council was that the introduction of this breed would be highly dangerous as regards infection and foot-and-mouth disease. So far as crossing with Ayrshire cattle was concerned it was also strongly felt that British-bred cattle would cross with Ayrshire cows much more satisfactorily than those French cattle, particularly in view of the leading world place held by British live stock."

Mrs. Gordon is survived by four daughters viz: Grace (Mrs. Mark Alford) Madrid, N.Y.; Jean (Mrs. Wm. McElbannon) Syracuse, N.Y.; Eleanor (Mrs. Allan Smellie) Edgar, Ont.; Claire (Mrs. Ralph Lavry) Montreal, Que. Two sons Ira of Huntingdon and Charles somewhere in France. Charles Wesley Wrote Hymns Still Popular

"Near Ripley, my horse threw me and fell on me," an itinerant minister named Charles Wesley wrote in his journal. "My companion thought I had broken my neck, but only my leg was bruised, my hand sprained and my head stunned which prevented me from making hymns until the next day."

As it turned out, the day lost to hymn-making wasn't very costly since Charles Wesley eventually composed the lyrics to some 6,500 hymns. He was the most prolific hymn writer of all time.

Birthdays Marked Many churches, particularly those of Methodist derivation, are celebrating the 250th anniversary of the master hymn writer's birth in Epworth, England.

Although it may look that way at times, Charles Wesley did not invent hymn-singing. It's older than the Christian church itself. St. Paul exhorted the Ephesians: "Speak to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord."

But Charles Wesley, and the Protestant hymn-makers who followed in his footsteps, added something to the ancient hymns of praise—their contribution was intense personal experience. Wesley was converted—that is, he underwent a deep feeling of forgiveness for his sins—on Whit-sunday, 1738. The next day he wrote his first hymn, "O For a Thousand Tongues to Sing." He dictated his last on his deathbed.

In the 50 years between conversion and death, he averaged 150 hymns a year, many of them composed in the most unlikely places since his wandering ministry took him all over England.

His best known works are Jesus, Lover of My Soul, written in 1740 and still a standard in most hymn books, and the favorite Christmas carol "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

Throughout his lifetime and afterward, Charles Wesley was overshadowed by his elder brother, John. Actually, they were an evangelic team; John the thinker, Charles the eloquent man of song.

Important Role For Women At Liberal Convention

OTTAWA. — The increasing importance of women in the field of politics and government will be highlighted during the Liberal Party's National Convention here January 14-16.

Mrs. A. L. Caldwell of Saskatoon, President of the Liberal Women's Federation, said today that "more women than ever before are being chosen by Liberal constituency associations as delegates to the Convention. Since all delegates have the right to vote, and to submit resolutions, this means that women's opinions will carry greatly increased weight at this Convention."

A second major development is that for the first time in the history of Liberal National Conventions, all executive officers of the Women's Liberal Federation will have delegate status, with voting privileges. This represents an increase of 150 percent over the 1948 Liberal Convention, when only 31 women had voting rights.

"The main purpose of the Convention, of course, is to select a party leader to succeed the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent," said Mrs. Caldwell, "and more women than ever before will be casting ballots."

"But the Convention will also serve the almost equally important purpose of formulating and presenting to the public the Liberal Party's new program. This will be accomplished by means of the resolutions, and here again, women will play a major role."

Through their own Resolutions Committee, women delegates will be able to bring resolutions to the convention floor. Also all women delegates have the right to send in written resolutions in advance of the convention.

Senator Elsie Inman, of Ottawa, Chairman of the Liberal Women's National Resolutions Committee, is also a member of the Women's Resolutions Committee, and will see to it that the women's resolutions are given fullest consideration.

Finally, the National Federation of Liberal Women is holding a special meeting on January 17, the day following the convention proper. Participating will be all women delegates or alternates to the Convention, wives and daughters of all men delegates, members of local Liberal Women's clubs, and women attending the Convention as guests or observers.

"We are going all out to make the greatest contribution we possibly can to the success of the Convention and to the future development of the Liberal Party," said Mrs. Caldwell.

PLANNING BALANCED MEALS Balancing is tricky business whether it's your budget, your bank account or meals for your family. Although budgets and bank accounts vary with standards of living, a well balanced pattern for healthful eating is a must for every family every day.

What do we mean by balanced meals? The answer is fairly simple. Using Canada's Food Rules as our guide, a balanced meal pattern is one which contains foods from each of the five basic food groups—milk and dairy products, fruits, vegetables, cereals and bread, and meat, fish or poultry. This combination of foods, if eaten in reasonable amounts, will supply all the essential nutrients needed for good health. Only the amounts of the various foods should vary according to the growth and energy needs of the individual.

Although Canada's Food Rules serve as a handy yardstick, they cannot guarantee good nutrition and resultant good health. Foods must be eaten and digested before they can 'go to work' in our bodies. Thus, your meals must be carefully planned, purchased, prepared and served so they are attractive and appetizing, as well as nutritious. With a copy of Canada's Food Rules before you (they are available from your Provincial Health Department), try working out a daily menu plan. Each of the three meals should provide about one third of the daily food needs. With a little practice you'll quickly become familiar with the foods in each group so that you can make substitutions to fit your food budget.

Breakfast should be the easiest meal to plan and prepare. Yet, in many homes, it is the neglected meal, often at the risk of good health and working efficiency. An easy guide for breakfast planning (and eating!) includes: Citrus fruit or fruit juice, egg, at least 3 times a week, cereal, preferably whole grain, bread or toast, enriched or whole grain, milk and additional beverage for adults if desired.

Many people eat their second meal, lunch, away from home. It is no less important nutritionally and should be planned just as carefully as the other two meals. A good lunch pattern includes: milk to drink or in soup or pudding, fruit or vegetable, preferably raw, bread, enriched or whole grain, often as a sandwich, meat, fish, poultry or other animal protein food, as sandwich filling.

The third meal in most homes is often thought of as the 'big meal'. Actually, to provide its one third share of the day's needs, dinner need not necessarily be a 'bigger' meal. It is usually a hot meal, eaten more leisurely, and can be the fitting climax to a busy day's activities. To complete the day's food needs, dinner should contain: meat, or a meat alternate, potatoes and one other vegetable, enriched or whole grain bread or rolls, a simple dessert (fruit if not eaten at noon) and milk for children.

Taking time to balance your family's meal pattern may seem like a lot of wasted effort, but it will pay dividends in good health, and in dollars and cents too.

Part-time employment in all professions is what is needed, says one doctor. "In that way, we can be helpful to the community, raise families, and the long intensive professional training doesn't go to waste."

It is in the professional field that the old battle-cries for emancipation and equality of opportunity are most frequently heard today. And there is a growing feeling among women that they have a better chance of being accepted on their merits. Some of the old barriers are still there. One of a number of professional women interviewed by The Canadian Press, a doctor, said women still take second place to men because of the fear that they will leave the job to marry and raise a family.

Women made a better showing than male students at Oxford, and in the Michaelmas bar examinations where the vast majority who sat for the tests were men.

Although the number of women entering the legal profession is steadily increasing, there are only 335 among Britain's 18,000 practising solicitors. There are 14,000 women doctors and an increasing number are reaching executive posts in industry and government service.

The chief complaint among the girls interviewed is that the opportunity of further advance is limited because the intake of female students to universities is still far lower than the male enrollment. They realize that those in authority are unwilling to risk giving long and expensive training to a woman who may give up work after a few years.

But the girls hope for recognition of the fact that there are plenty of women with enduring qualities who, given the opportunity, can combine a career with marriage and raising a family. In return, they feel it is up to women to prove their readiness to accept responsibility and to expect no privileges because they are women.

Farmer Suffers Electric Shock in Barn; Two Animals Killed

An accident occurred at the farm of Eddy Robson, Boyd Settlement, on Tuesday morning, after the milking had been finished. Mr. Robson who was in the barn noticed that a bull had fallen down and that a calf nearby was frothing at the mouth, but went to investigate and in trying to release the calf, caught the chain and suffered an electric shock. He called to his wife to shut off the power, as he was held to the chain by it. This was done and Mr. Robson was released, but his arm was quite numb. Both the bull and the calf died. A doctor was called and also an electrician. It was thought the trouble had been located, but a similar occurrence took place in the afternoon. The power was shut off and the animals recovered quickly. The power was shut off in the barn during the night for safety and the electrician will try and discover the cause of the short circuiting. Mr. Robson is as well as expected and his arm is still numb, but otherwise he is not suffering.
