Uncertainty in Quebec cleared away by solid Liberal win

QUEBEC (CP)—Political uncertainty which had hung over Quebec for several months was cleared away by the solid election victory of Premier Jean Lesage's Liberal party.

The election was called at a time of flux, when the political milieu was attempting to plumb the effects of Social Credit victories in the June federal election.

It came as the Union Nationale was getting a massive reorganization under way. The party's future—with 31 seats in the 95 seat assembly—now is a question mark in the minds of many observers.

It came at a period of grumbling from rural regions, where the changes the Liberal administration is making were being felt most. Most of the talk centred around increased taxes which hit small wage - earners hardest.

There was growing discontent among some Liberals because the government was doing little in the way of vote-getting road work and the like, although this work increased before the election call.

But the election also was called at a time when Quebec felt a growing pride in itself and confidence in its future. The issue of public ownership of electricity — growing through the summer—suited the mood.

In many regions where Social Credit was strong in June, the Liberals won a firm majority of seats. However, of the seven seats the Union Nationale gained from the Liberals, six were in Social Credit areas.

Most political observers put the reasons for the change down t. local reasons.

One striking example was Quebec East, considered solidly Union Nationale and represented by Armand Maltais, a fire-brand nationalist. But he lost to the comparatively unknown Liberal Ernest Godbout.

In June an unknown Social Crediter took the riding in a cakewalk.

Of the 32 provincial ridings that fell in territory where Social Credit made a showing, 19 went Liberal Wednesday.

Early this summer the Union Nationale had started building an organization based on a minimum of six adherents at each poll in the province, under the guidance of Daniel Johnson, leader for 13 months and fifth leader in two years.

Union Nationale informants said the reason the party did not come out in favor of the principle of state ownership was because it was feared an open split would occur in party ranks.

Premier Lesage is understood to feel that the Liberals had the election won the moment Mr. Johnston announced his party favored acquisition of two small companies and referendum on the other nine.

Another of the reasons the Liberals called an election at this time was to obtain a longer time to iron out the program it has already put into operation.

If it had waited until 1964 the Union Nationale might have been in a strong position. So might the New Democratic party and Social Credit. This was Liberal reasoning.

The NDP admitted it was not ready and did not field any candidates.

Mr. Johnson appealed to Social Credit for support, but Real Caouette, deputy leader of the Social Credit party, refused to commit himself although he opposed state ownership of electricity.

Lesage mandate solid

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage's Liberal government now has its mandate from the people to expropriate 11 private power companies in Quebec.

The Liberals Wednesday won the mandate they sought in calling the snap general election after 27 months in office by a two-to-one margin in the Legislative Assembly over the Union Nationale opposition.

The standings, compared with the results in the 1960 election, when the Liberals ended 16 years of Union Nationale rule:

	1962	1960
Liberals	63	52
Union Nationale	31	42
Independent	1	1
Total	95	95

At dissolution Sept. 19, the Liberals held 54 seats as a result of gains in byelections, the Union Nationale 40, and there was one Independent.

Mr. Lesage said after re-election of his government became evident that it would lose no time in preparing the power take-over.

"There is a cabinet meeting tomorrow," he said. "We will review legislation already started by our legal experts in connection with the nationalization (expropriation) of electricity in Quebec."

He looked on the result of a sign that "the people have given themselves the key to the economic liberation of Quebec."

TO BE MERGED

The private electricity power companies are to be merged with Quebec - Hydro, which now serves the Montreal area, to form a single, unified provincial power system.

The government's estimate of the cost is $600,000,000 for the companies, which include the so-called Shawinigan group—Shawinigan Water and Power, Quebec Power and Southern Canada Power—and eight smaller firms.

Daniel Johnson, leader of the Union Nationale party since September, 1961, said he accepted the defeat of his party without bitterness.

He hinted the snap election

To work on nationalization

Meeting of cabinet is called for today

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Lesage presides over a cabinet meeting today—within hours of his party's election victory—and he says one of the subjects to be discussed is the legislation required to expropriate 11 private power companies in the province.

He told a roaring crowd—celebrating the Liberal victory in the Quebec Coliseum—that the cabinet will "review the legislation already started by our legal advisers in connection with the nationalization of electricity in Quebec."

Just when his new cabinet—which lost one member in the election—would be sworn in was not immediately indicated. It might be done some time next week, it was indicated.

During the campaign Mr. Lesage once hinted that there would be some changes in the cabinet, noting that besides the premiership, he holds two other portfolios—finance and federal-provincial affairs.

Mr. Lesage said the electorate had given "a non-equivocal verdict" to his government's appeal to take over the companies.

The election had been called to obtain "the key to our economic development."

"You have given it to us," he said. "Through the nationalization of electricity we will realize a greater degree of industrialization in Quebec."

Mr. Lesage and his family watched returns come in over a teletype at a curling club in his riding of Quebec West. Several hundred party organizers and friends were on hand under the hot glare of television lights.

In a meeting hall at the club he shook hands with a long line of enthusiastic well-wishers.

One woman came up to the premier and said, "I just have to hug you," and kissed him on both cheeks. A number of other women followed suit.

One wanted his maroon scarf as a souvenir. She didn't get it. Mr. Lesage and his family then drove to the coliseum in a horn-tooting motorcade, escorted by a squad of municipal policemen on motorbikes.

Despite the province-wide wave which carried the Liberal Government back to power at Quebec with an increased majority, the Union Nationale more than held its own in the 12 Eastern Townships ridings. The Opposition managed to hold on to the four seats they held in the last Legislature and turned Wolfe from the Government ranks, the only changeover reported in the district.

Wolfe continued its tradition of changing its allegiance from one election to the next by electing Rene Lavoie, of Disraeli, over the former member, Dr. Gerard Lemieux, by a majority 491 votes. In the 1960 elections, Dr. Lemieux registered a 334 majority over Mr. Lavoie.

The only other newcomer to the Eastern Townships' delegation to Quebec is Carrier Fortin, who retained Sherbrooke for the Liberals by defeating Sherbrooke Mayor Armand Nadeau by a majority of 1,794. The victor polled 18,443 votes to 16,649 for the Mayor.

In the 1960 election, L. P. Brousseau obtained a majority of 1,396 over J. S. Bourque.

Mr. Brousseau did not seek re-election this year, withdrawing from the Sherbrooke ride to take a position with the central organization of the provincial Liberal party.

Claude Perrault, nominated as a Provincial Action Party candidate in Sherbrooke, received 94 votes despite his announced intention of quitting the fight. His decision to drop out came after the deadline set by the Quebec Election Act and his name remained on the ballot paper.

Actually Mr. Perrault who remained on the sidelines did nearly as well as his fellow PAP candidates in Compton and Wolfe who carried on an active campaign. In Compton PAP Gerard Houle gained 105 votes and in Wolfe Robert Roy got 101.

The closest fight in any ET riding was recorded in Shefford where a split in the Liberal ranks permitted the return of Waterloo Mayor Armand Russell on the Union Nationale ticket. Mr. Russell edged out Marcel Boivin, former Shefford Liberal MP, by a margin of 673. This lead was slightly less than the 802 votes cast for Independent Liberal Romeo Lantagne, 1960 party candidate, who entered the race after losing to Mr. Boivin at the Liberal nominating convention.

Mr. Russell received 11,927 votes to 11,250 cast for Mr. Boivin.

The two cabinet ministers from the Townships, Roads Minister Bernard Pinard in Drummond and Welfare Minister Emilien Lafrance in Richmond, were returned by majorities substantially in excess of those

IN RICHMOND — Emilien LaFrance, Minister of Family and Social Welfare, was re-elected when he defeated Raynald Frechette, a newcomer to the Union Nationale ranks in Richmond County. 2,000 congratulate city winner

Over 2,000 well wishers crowded the Sherbrooke Reform Club on Dufferin Street last night to congratulate former Sherbrooke Alderman Carrier Fortin for his victory over Mayor Armand Nadeau last night.

Mr. Fortin won by a majority of 1,794 votes over his opponents, UN candidate Mayor Armand Nadeau and PAP entry, Claude Perrault.

Totals last night were: 18,443 for Mr. Fortin, 16,649 for Mayor Nadeau and 94 for Mr. Perrault.

Mr. Fortin told The Record in an interview that "when we talk seriously to the electors, and when we appeal to their intelligence and good judgment, they know the best government to vote for."

Mr. Fortin said "Mr. Lesage has received a clear mandate and his victory is an approval of what he has done during the past 27 months in office."

"I think the victory of the Liberal party is the triumph of the basic principle of true democracy," Mr. Fortin said.

Mr. Fortin won by 1,794 votes.

Mr. Fortin from the time the elections results started coming in led Mayor Nadeau and maintained his lead until the last results of the polls were received in Sherbrooke returning office at the CPR Terrace.

No Indian losses claimed

India launches an offensive against China

NEW DELHI — Indian Army troops have launched their strongest offensive in the undeclared Himalayan border war with the Communist Chinese, a defence ministry spokesman said today.

He said the attacks were carried out on the northeast frontier and that an unknown number of Chinese were killed.

The Indian forces attacked Chinese positions near Walong, about 15 miles from the Burma border, and carried out offensive actions against a Red-held village near Jang, near the Bhutan border.

The spokesman said there were no Indian losses in the attacks, opened Wednesday.

On the diplomatic front, Prime Minister Nehru has sent a three - page reply to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's Nov. 4 offer to withdraw, with concession, an external affairs ministry spokesman said.

Nehru has said India continues to stand on its demand the Chinese withdraw to their positions before Sept. 8 when their penetration into northeast India began.

Earlier today it was announced that the government has suspended constitutional guarantees of individual rights and freedoms during the state of emergency declared last month because of the border fighting.

The government suspended equality before the law and constitutional articles guaranteeing protection of life and personal property, protection against arrest and detention in certain cases, and freedom of speech, association, movement and residence.

Meanwhile, a fleet of trucks today was moving emergency civil supplies to the northeast border state of Assam to overcome a five-week-old stoppage of river shipments caused by a steamer crew strike in east Pakistan.

High-level talks were going on between the British - owned steamer company and the Indian and Pakistan governments to end the strike, which has caused India major supply difficulties since heavy fighting broke out with the Chinese on the Northeast Frontier last month.

About half of Assam's supplies go by river steamer from Calcutta and the remainder by rail and road through the narrow neck of land between Nepal, Sikkim and Bhutan to the north, and east Pakistan to the south.

Since the military buildup has been in progress, virtually all civil supplies have gone by the river route. The steamer crews are almost all Pakistani, and one of their major grievances was understood to be the difficulty in transferring dues paid in India to Pakistan because of Indian exchange control regulations.

PCs unperturbed

Federal Liberals see hope in Lesage win

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal Liberals read encouragement for their hopes at the next federal election into the victory of Premier Lesage's Liberal government in the Quebec election.

Progressive Conservatives, revamping their Quebec organization since the June 18 federal election, remained unperturbed on grounds their party wasn't directly involved and the voting showed no trend which could be translated to the federal scene.

Observers here foresaw at least two effects in federal politics—the Liberal opposition will be in an even tougher fighting mood in Parliament and they will be counting heavily on help from Mr. Lesage's organization when another federal election is called.

Opposition Leader Pearson gave an indication of this in his comments on the election. He described the Liberal victory as merited by their conduct in office and stressed that federal Liberals worked hard for their provincial confereres.

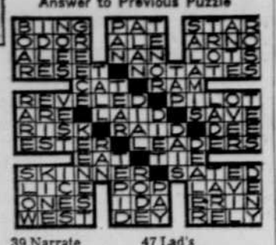

He was asked whether he thinks Premier Lesage will work harder in the Liberal cause at the next federal election. Mr. Pearson said federal Liberals worked in the Lesage cause because they thought it the right thing to do "and I'm sure he will do what he thinks is right."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker followed his usual custom of not commenting on provincial elections.

However, Senator Jacques Flynn said he thought no definite conclusion could be reached about the effect on the next federal election. Senator Flynn, former federal mines minister, was defeated June 18 and has been a key figure in the Progressive Conservative reorganization in Quebec since then.

Christian revelation decree draft touches off debate in church council

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—A draft decree dealing with the sources of Christian revelation touched off an intensive debate Wednesday between conservative and progressive cardinals at the Roman Catholic ecumenical council.

The relation of holy scripture to church tradition in matters of Christian revelation is one of the essential points of disagreement between Roman Catholics and Protestants.

The debate was opened by 11 cardinals who, a Vatican spokesman said, divided themselves into three groups—those who agreed with the draft, those who disagreed with it and those who wanted a complete rewording.

PRESENTS DRAFT

Conservative Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani presented the draft decree to the more than 2,000 bishops and cardinals assembled in St. Peter's Basilica.

The cardinal is president of the council's theological commission and secretary of the Vatican's Supreme Congregation of the Holy Office, official watchdog of faith and morals.

Speakers in Wednesday's debate included Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, who is regarded as a moderate progressive.

The Vatican spokesman said those agreeing with the draft said it was possible to perfect it within the council. Those who disagreed said the decree was too long and required modification which would involve "very difficult and complex study." They said the work of the council would be excessively prolonged.

The group who wanted a rewording of the draft asked for "an entirely new formulation."

'MUST BE PERFECTED'

All three groups were agreed the project "must be perfected," the spokesman said.

Roman Catholic doctrine holds there are two sources of divine revelation; the Bible and church tradition.

The Protestant reformation attacked the central authority of the church, arguing that divine revelation was contained only in holy scripture.

The 16th-century Roman Catholic ecumenical council at Trent reacted to the Protestant charges by defining the Catholic acceptance of a dual source of revelation.

In recent years, some Catholic theologians have argued that after the council of Trent, Catholic counter-reformation theologians made an exaggerated separation between scripture and tradition in developing the arguments for two distinct sources.

SECOND FINESSE FAILS TO WORK

The unlucky expert has had many brilliant defensive plays made against him. They work because this unfortunate man always seems to be dummy and therefore unable to cope with them.

Here is one of his sad stories:

"Look at my hand! As you can see almost ayone would go to four spades with it and be set one trick because the defense would cash two hearts, a diamond and a trump. I kept out of that trap and when my partner repeated his no-trump I let him play the game there. As you can see, the hand is a laydown, but he succeeded in going down three tricks."

"What happened?" I asked. "Did he try two spade finesses?"

"Not exactly," said my unhappy friend. "My partner played the king of diamonds from dummy at trick one. East took his ace and returned the suit. My partner won with the queen and led the queen of spades. He played low from dummy and East played the jack, not the king! Now my partner led another spade and finessed dummy's ten. Now East took his king and there was no way to get to my spades."

"Well," I said, "You certainly were unlucky, but East made a beautiful play."

"Hrrmmph!" said the expert.

Telephone call causes explosion

TAKELY, England (Reuters) Someone made a telephone call here Wednesday, firemen believed, and accidentally blew up half the village.

Firemen believed the call caused a spark in the telephone dialing exchange which ignited accumulated gas fumes in a nearby manhole in this village northeast of London.

The explosion, heard five miles away, shot a sheet of flame 60 feet into the air, damaged about 200 houses and injured at least six persons.

One villager said: "I thought quite honestly that an atom bomb had been dropped in London."

Murderer, rapist being sought

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — A police alarm was sent out Wed. for a suspect in the strangle-slaying of a 50-year-old woman and the abduction-rape of her teen-age daughter.

The teletype alarm to 13 states identified the man sought as Harlis Miller, about 30 to 34 years old, a tall Negro.

Mrs. Isabel Sillan, active in this town's civic and social life, was strangled in her home Monday. The assailant then seized her 14-year-old daughter, Gail, and held her captive in a car for about 12 hours.

The young girl was raped in the car, police said, but managed to escape in the neighboring town of Norwalk Monday night.

Show Business

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It shouldn't be a surprise that Sabu the elephant boy is no longer a boy.

After all, he starred in Elephant Boy back in 1937, when he was 11. That makes him all of 36 at the present time, yet he now is playing his first really grownup role in films. He even has his first screen wife.

Sabu is working at Warner Brothers in Rampage with Robert Mitchum, Elsa Martinelli and Jack Hawkins. It is the Indian-born actor's return to acting after a long absence, during which he suffered a deep personal loss.

His brother, Shaik Dastigir, was killed by an 18-year-old boy he had hired in his furniture store. The youth decided to rob him, and Dastigir was shot in a scuffle. The youth was sentenced to one to 10 years for manslaughter.

FELT LOSS DEEPLY

Sabu said that he didn't feel like working after the tragedy.

"It took me a long time to get over it," he remarked. "My brother and I were very close, and the whole thing was so senseless."

He busied himself with running the furniture store, and engaged in building and operating apartment houses. Married for 14 years to the same girl, father of two, he is aware of his responsibilities.

So it was a wiser, older, more mature Sabu I met between scenes of Rampage. He is anxious now to remain in the field that brought him fame.

The new film is a good return for him. He plays the head tracker for a game-hunting expedition in Malaya. The company recently returned from the island of Hawaii, which doubled for the Malaya jungle.

Bernard Pinard wins by a 3,000 majority

DRUMMONDVILLE — Quebec's minister of roads in the last House was returned to the legislature Wednesday by voters of Drummond County.

With a majority of only 101 votes in the 1960 election, Bernard Pinard was regarded by observers as one of the members of the Lesage cabinet whose re-election was unsure.

This time he had a lead of 3,663 over Lucien Morissette, his Union Nationale opponent.

Mr. Pinard attributed his and his party's win to "the major question of nationalization whereby Quebecers will obtain their economic emancipation. The accomplishments of the Liberal government during 27 months also played their part."

Mr. Pinard obtained 14,621 votes and Mr. Morissette 10,935. A record 93.7 per cent of the eligible Drummond electors actually voted.

The Union Nationale candidate conceded at 7:45 p.m., an hour and a quarter after polls closed.

The minister's opponent was ahead of him in only 23 of Drummond's 141 polls. At St. Edmond he had a 59-vote lead on Mr. Pinard, and the roads minister had his biggest poll majority at poll 24 in Drummondville, with 108.

The municipalities of Drummondville South and Drummondville West overwhelmingly supported the Liberal incumbent.

Mr. Morissette also thought the nationalization issue had strongly helped the Liberals, he said in his message of concession. The result in Drummond was an indication of what was to come through the province, he said.

Mr. Pinard said that the Liberal government had kept its 1960 promises and came before the electorate as "a government which has not betrayed its mandate towards workers, farmers, the sick — in short all classes of society."

Mr. Morissette said he would rest up from the campaign and then get back to his factory job. "I fought a democratic fight and I don't think I hit below the belt. I kept it on a strictly political basis. I accept the decision without bitterness."

Vaillancourt given second term

MAGOG —(Special)—Georges Vaillancourt, of Coaticook, was returned for a second term as Liberal member of the Legislature for Stanstead County in Wednesday's provincial election.

With 8,923 votes in his favor, Vaillancourt had a 2,106 majority over Union Nationale candidate Rolland Dion of Magog. Marcel Richard Ostiguy, of Montreal, running as candidate for the Provincial Action Party received 101 votes.

Vaillancourt took an early lead, having 3,890 votes at 7.15 p.m., compared to Dion's 3,019. At 7:40 it was 6,548 to 5,048 in favor of Vaillancourt, and 7,784 to 5,958 for Liberal candidate at 8 o'clock.

At 8:20 p.m., with 91 of Stanstead's 100 polls heard from, Mr. Dion conceded to Georges Vaillancourt, the tally then being 7,982 to 6,096. At that point Ostiguy had earned 92 votes.

In an interview, following the final count, Georges Vaillancourt, speaking from the Magog Liberal Association committee room where he began his county-wide tour, offered words of appreciation to all who helped him.

"I see the people of Stanstead County have recognized the hard work I have done over the past 27 months," Mr. Vaillancourt said, adding, "This is the sweetest victory I have ever known."

When asked about his opinion with the big difference this time." His Coaticook majority this election was over 1,100.

Questioned about his plans ion on his hometown vote, where his opponent defeated him by 250 votes in the last Provincial election, Georges Vaillancourt said, "I am pleas for his next term of office, the Stanstead member said, "I hope that everyone in this county will look to me with their problems concerning the province. As their representative at Quebec, I stand ready to help everyone who needs my assistance, regardless of their political opinions!"

Mr. Vaillancourt added, "I also hope that abnormalities that go contrary to the provincial administration will be promptly brought to my attention, so I shall be able to take immediate action in direction corrections."

An eighteen year veteran organizer and supporter of the Union Nationale Party, Rolland Dion expressed regret at his defeat, but expressed hope that he would have better luck in the next election.

Mr. Dion commented, "I want to thank everyone who voted for me, and especially the people who worked on my behalf." He wished Mr. Vaillancourt success, stating that he hoped the Liberal member would provide the Stanstead County population with all the benefits and advantages that were rightful theirs.

"In spite of my defeat, I have confidence for the future," Mr. Dion said, referring to the next provincial contest.

Paul Tellier, organizer for Georges Vaillancourt, said he was certain his candidate would win, noting that over the past two years he had gained tremendous popularity throughout Stanstead County.

For the people who normally work at polls and the Stanstead County central returning office, Wednesday's election results were compiled in record time. Asked what contributed to the efficiency of this year's ballot counting, chief returning officer for the county, Adrien M. Lacroix said it all had to do with careful organizing and good administration. Mr. Lacroix has served several times in this post in Stanstead County.

After leaving Magog, where he stopped first, Mr. Vaillancourt, accompanied by Mrs. Vaillancourt, and members of his committee, toured Stanstead County.

English vote in his favor

Gosselin is returned by bigger majority

EAST ANGUS — Compton riding re-elected Claude Gosselin, Union Nationale member in the last Legislative Assembly, by a higher majority than the 1960 vote.

In the previous provincial election, Mr. Gosselin obtained a 802 majority over his then Liberal opponent, Omer Dionne. In defeating his Liberal opposition, Roland Broussau in yesterday's election, he increased his majority by another 231 votes.

Mr. Gosselin was first elected in 1957 in a by-election which was called after the death of John French. He won this first election by a 300 vote majority.

According to the returns, Mr. Gosselin won in 28 out of 35 polls in the riding. In certain communities he obtained heavy votes. For example in Bury the result was 106, Cookshire, 167, Island Brook, 106 and Sawyerville, 128.

Mr. Brousseau's strength showed in the towns of St. Isidore, St. Mathias, and Compton (Cochrane). He obtained more votes in East Angus than Gosselin, that is a majority of 28 votes.

Mr. Gosselin pointed out that the English - speaking voters were a big factor in his re-election. The Provincial Action Party candidate, Gerard Houle, fared about as well as any of his party candidates in the Eastern Townships. He received a total of 105 votes.

Election day was quiet throughout Compton riding. In East Angus municipal police reported there were no incidents stemming from the elections. From the time the polls opened until they closed, East Angus residents cast their ballots without interruption or incidents. The heaviest voting was reported at noon and during the supper hour.

Police Chief Phaneuf said his men patrolled the polls throughout the day as a matter of routine. When the election appeared to be in Mr. Gosselin's favor, he went to a local church hall to thank his electors.

COMPTON WINNER — Claude Gosselin, centre, re-elected by an increased majority in Compton riding in Wednesday's provincial election, has his arms raised in a victory gesture by his organizers and supporters. The Union Nationale candidate was first elected in a byelection in 1957 when the seat was left vacant by the death of John French. He defeated his Liberal opponent, Roland Brousseau, mayor of East Angus, yesterday. Mr. Gosselin said part of the reason for his victory was the heavy vote given him by the English-speaking electors.

Will You Trade Your Headache for Health?

Last month I opened this Specific Chiropractic office in Cowansville, after having been in practice in Saskatchewan for the past nine years. During that time I experienced a great number of people who came to that office still suffering headaches after the taking of various types of drugs had failed to replace their health.

There are a great number of citizens from in and around Cowansville who do not seem to realize however, what can be accomplished by Specific Chiropractic care. Therefore, in order to paint a clearer mental picture of the scene let me use a verbal illustration.

The symptoms are like the fire alarm being sounded signifying there is a fire (trouble). The fire usually begins small but grows greater and more severe. It would be foolish to merely stop the alarm, but a wiser act would be to have the basic CAUSE for the alarm to be extinguished, the fire itself. So when the symptoms of a condition give warning that a DIS-EASE is present, why take a drug which merely blocks the sensory nerve, thereby stopping the sense of feeling? Remember, the CAUSE of the condition remains. Headaches of course are often symptoms of more severe conditions to, such as high blood pressure in which medicine again can offer a TREATMENT of the EFFECT, but not a correction of the CAUSE.

Under Specific Chiropractic care the removal of the CAUSE is made and genuine health is restored from WITHIN the body, in a comparatively short period of time, thereby eliminating the need for artificial substitutes for health.

Vote result a win for consistency

Probably the largest single factor in the sweeping victory registered by the Liberal party in Wednesday's provincial general elections was the fact that the Government came before the electorate with a single issue to which it remained constant throughout the campaign.

Premier Lesage and his associates insisted that the voters must decide upon the question of the nationalization of the electricity producers of the province and never swerved from this principle. This was in marked contrast to the wavering course followed by the Opposition who failed to give the electorate any clear alternative to the nationalization program of the Liberals and whose program appeared hastily assembled and contained many inconsistencies.

But another important factor in the Liberal sweep was the progressive policies of the Lesage Government which was able to point to an impressive record in many fields for the general advancement of the province.

Liberal speakers were able to present the electors with a story of accomplishment in the fields of hospitalization insurance, education, social welfare and economic development.

But they insisted that these policies could not be implemented fully without a centralized control over the power industry of Quebec which they claimed holds the key to continued economic growth.

Obviously the Liberals were successful in their attempts to sell the electors of the province, who have given the Lesage Government a clear mandate to continue with its policies for advancing Quebec to the head of confederation.

It takes hundreds of nuts to hold a car together and just one to tear it apart.

Little change in Eastern Townships

It was evident from last night's vote that the Liberal appeal in the Townships is no wider than it was in this area during the last provincial election.

For the most part, the 12 Townships counties remained loyal to the parties they supported in the last provincial election. The one exception was in Wolfe.

In Wolfe, the Liberal candidate, who had ousted a Union Nationale candidate in 1960, was in turned defeated last night. Wolfe thus lives up to its reputation as a "wild" county upon which few parties can count from election to election.

In Shefford, the Union Nationale kept the seat it won in the last provincial election The campaigning of an independent Liberal, may have split the vote to such an extent as to allow the Union Nationale candidate to win.

So, in the overall picture, there was little change in Eastern Townships representation at Quebec city.

Nationalization obviously did not take the Townships by storm. But nor did the opposition's plans in this regard. Perhaps, in the increased majorities some of the Liberal candidates earned, nationalization support could be speculated on. It is more likely, however, that local issues played a major part in all Townships contests this time.

In Sherbrooke, Mayor Armand Nadeau, making his first bid on the provincial scene, lost by a healthy margin to former city alderman Carrier Fortin. We thought Mr. Nadeau was the best man. But in Mr. Fortin, he had a worthy opponent who, it is to be hoped, will serve the interests of Sherbrooke county well in the legislature.

It isn't easy to say exactly what you mean and still keep your friends.

Retarded children need your help

There is little drama in the problem of the Canadian boy or girl who is mentally retarded.

On the surface, it is a problem to which you can't apply such words as "disaster", or "tragedy" — or any of those words that catch the public eye.

It does not cry out for headlines.

And yet the massed problem of each mentally retarded Canadian child is — without exaggeration, socially and economically — a national disaster: the Canadian Association for Retarded Children points out.

The individual problem of each mentally retarded Canadian child is — to each of them, and to their loved ones — a personal tragedy.

Because the retarded child is the victim of a disability — not an illness — he can't be cured, but he can be helped.

Of the 30 out of every 1,000 Canadian boys and girls who are mentally retarded, 25 are "educable" — or able to be educated, given special care and training, to a point where they can become self-supporting in simple occupations, and contented, useful members of the community.

Another four of every 30 mentally retarded are "trainable" — or, again under special care and training, able to be trained to attain some degree of self-support in "Sheltered Workshops".

One out of every 30 mentally retarded children can be neither educated nor trained, and will rely on its parents all of its life for its simplest requirements.

Yet even this child can be helped, through visiting workers who offer parents counsel and guidance under "Home Care Planning".

Such services as "Home Care Planning", "Pre-School Playgrounds", special schooling and training, recreational activities, and "Sheltered Workshops" are only part of the broad program for Canada's mentally retarded carried out with the guidance and co-operation of the Canadian Association for Retarded Children and its member-associations.

Throughout Canada, this federation totals nine Provincial Associations, and more than 215 local member-groups.

This year, under the new "Canadian Fund for the Mentally Retarded", they are asking you to give from the heart — to get to the heart of the problem of mental retardation.

On Nov. 16 and 17, the local association is holding tag days as part of Canadian Retarded Children's Week Nov. 11-22.

With an objective of $1 million, federation members hope to encourage greater research into its causes, and into better, more effective methods of schooling and training of the mentally retarded.

As a parent, or as an individual, they suggest that there is no better way to give thanks, than to give help to Canada's retarded children.

The readers say:

Why all the fuss to speak French?

Dear Sir,

Why all the agitation over speaking French? Surely it is not needed in Canada where nine of its ten provinces speak English, also much of Quebec. There is no reason why anyone should not speak English readily when surrounded by it.

Newcomers to Canada of all nationalities verify the truth of this when even their pre - school age children are soon speaking English as readily as their Canadian-born playmates.

There is absolutely no need of burdening the country with a second language if there were any desire or attempt to co-operate by those agitating for it.

Mrs. L. Pratt, Galt, Ont.

Other papers say:

President Kennedy gained little

The big question today for the pundits is the effect President Kennedy's Cuban action had on Tuesday's Congressional elections. Certainly, it did not hurt either him or the Democratic party.

In gaining four Senate seats and losing only four in the House, the Democrats chalk up the best off-year record for a presidential party since 1934. They had not expected to do so well.

The GOP can also take heart from its astounding showing in the old Confederacy. The party now has eleven House seats in these eleven states, the most it has held since Reconstruction following the Civil War. If the two-party system is finally coming to the South, the Republicans may be able to crack the alliance of big cities and Deep South that has made the Democrats the dominant party for the past thirty years.

If these inroads continue, the outcome of the 1964 election may not be such a foregone conclusion—after all.

"All He Really Needs Is Understanding"

Are Mounties too tough

Drug addicts brutally treated; RCMP says methods are necessary

By FRASER KELLY

MONTREAL — (TNS) — Kenneth Orvis, a Montreal author, has blown away the smoke screen of half truths and police secrecy that have long obscured the gray world of the drug addict.

The desperate, struggling life of the addict in Montreal's vicious underworld is held up for all to see in Orvis' new book, The Damned And The Betrayed.

And his vivid descriptions of brutal police treatment of these people who have "resigned from the human race" have won an admission from the RCMP.

The book, the Mounties say, is reasonably authentic.

The never-ceasing fight between addicts and Mounties is described in intimate detail. It is highlighted in the following passages outlining methods used by the RCMP to search suspected traffickers:

"Fingers and a thumb — tight and squeezing cruelly tighter — dug into my throat. My arm, the right arm that was cocked, grew into a burning mass of pain behind my shoulder.

"I writhed in agony — while unseen hands riffled quickly through my pockets, ran down my trouser legs and under my collar.

"Abruptly, pressure relaxed on my throat. Before I could suck breath into my straining lungs the man gripping my arm spun me back to face him and closed in fast. I saw his balled fist go back — then my stomach seemed to burst wide open."

The RCMP had an opportunity to object to these passages — but didn't.

Before publishing the book, McClelland and Stewart sent it to the RCMP for comment.

RCMP VIEW

Although they object to other passages in the book the RCMP didn't refute this exposure of their punch-first-questions-later method of arrest.

In their letter to the publisher the Mounties said: "the book is fictional but the background is reasonably authentic. We think (Orvis) has done a lot of research."

Orvis has written what Canadian addicts have long said and researchers are now trying to prove. Most of the Canadian addicts now being treated in England complain bitterly of beatings administered by the RCMP.

Lady Isabella Frankau, Britain's leading drug-cure expert, is compiling medical evidence of smashed teeth, scarred mouths and broken noses which seem to bear them out. Ontario's Drug Research Foundation is doing the same thing.

When RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harvison was asked about the beatings some time ago he said: "Certainly it is quite often necessary at the point of arrest to grab a man roughly and search him. It is usually a very small package the addict or trafficker is trying to hide."

Addicts often carry capsules of drugs in finger stalls or in balloons in their mouths so they can swallow the evidence if they are caught.

Police grab them by the throat and hit them in the stomach to prevent them swallowing.

GOES FARTHER

"But the addict is rarely the type of person who fights back. My men certainly would have no reason to be rough with addicts — after the moment of arrest," Comm. Harvison said.

Orvis' fictional RCMP Insp. Welch goes a little farther: "Our men are trained to be effective. We didn't think up that swallowed finger-stall trick—only a way to defeat it."

Although they won't admit it officially, experts at the Drug Research Foundation believe many of the brutality stories—and are determined to stop the beatings.

"It's shocking that such barbaric police methods are condoned in a supposedly enlightened society," one of them said.

Orvis does not criticize the RCMP—he expresses unreserved admiration for their efficiency in cracking drug rings.

His plot is a little to Mickey Spillane; Private-eye Maxwell Dent is hired to smash a drug ring because the daughter of a rich Montreal family is an addict.

But he uses the plot as a loom to weave a story of depravity and deadly crime that is real enough to be sickening, and shocking enough to be true.

Against New Zealand Maoris

Legal inequalities discovered

AUCKLAND (CP)—New Zealand is often cited as a country where European and native races have learned to live together with a high degree of harmony.

It is true that Maoris and white people live side by side in New Zealand on a general basis of equality. But a study of the laws has revealed 82 instances where legal provisions for the two races differ.

The figure has astonished New Zealanders and the government is taking steps to abolish those differences which no longer seem justified.

Some of the differences are substantial, many of them minor. A considerable number relate to privileges or protection accorded to the Maoris and not extended to the white population. For instance, certain fishing and other rights were guaranteed to the Maoris by a treaty under which they accepted the sovereignty of Queen Victoria.

A large number of the cases of legal race discrimination have been abolished as the Maoris have learned to hold their own in a predominantly white community. For instance, restraints on supplying liquor to Maoris were repealed some years ago.

The most obvious discrimination remaining is in parliamentary representation. Maoris have their own voting lists and elect four members to the 80-seat house of representatives, a rather larger proportion than they would be entitled to on a strict population basis.

Suggestions have been made in recent years for the abolition of the Maori seats and the merging of Maori voters in the common roll. So far, however, the Maoris themselves oppose the change and say they still feel the need to be representd by people of their own race.

Meanwhile, Parliament is considering a bill to abolish differences in jury service. At present, Maoris are not eligible to serve on ordinary juries, but Maoris appearing in court have the right to call for trial before an all-Maori jury where an offence against a Maori involved.

The government maintains the time has come when Maoris should be on the same basis as white people in jury service. The Maoris are divided on the issue, but a change is likely to be made.

In some cases, demands for an end to discrimination are matched by contradictory calls for the preservation of privileges. This applies, for instance, in education. Most Maoris attend mixed-race schools, but in some districts there are still all-Maori schools.

Curiously, the call for the abolition of such schools comes mainly from white educationists, who see them as slowing integration and interfering with the uniformity of the school system. But some Maori leaders claim they should be retained because of their value in giving a strong grounding in Maori arts, crafts, history and traditions and preserving a pride in racial origins.

For practical purposes the color bar in New Zealand is small. The races intermarry freely with little social stigma. Cases of exclusion of Maoris from boarding houses, hotel bars and parts of some cinemas come to light occasionally. Inquiry usually shows the bar to relate to behavior rather than color.

Probably the commonest structural material, brick is also the most remarkable. It goes back to some of the earliest civilizations, and bears on its surface written records of early ages. Excavations at Ur of the Chaldees, the city of Abraham, have yielded brick tablets inscribed with information about the life of people living 6,000 years ago.

NEW MINE

More than 30 railway cars of nickel and copper concentrates are shipped daily from the new $12,000,000 operation at Levack Mine near Sudbury, Ont.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — Four Eskimos who dog-sledded into Yellowknife last winter to trade white fox skins for supplies were brimming with curiosity about what the crazy white men were doing up at Contwoyto Lake.

They had sledded past this barrens land lake en route from the Arctic Coast, and they had seen many stakes protruding from the snow, glowing in the moonlight with luminous orange and yellow paint.

They had mulled over these stakes for many sleeps on the trail to Yellowknife. "The white man is teetuk," said Henry Algoona with a finality that seemed to settle the matter. "But he's teetuk like a fox," he added.

Abraham Kikpak, John Otoajok and James Kaoloak nodded reflective agreement. Yet soon after they arrived in Yellowknife they sought out the government welfare officer to satisfy their curiosity.

In mining parlance Contwoyto Lake is "hot". During the summer of 1961 a Canadian Nickel Co. drilling crew drove bits into a substantial body of fair to good gold ore near the shore of the lake. All last winter prospectors flew into the lake area and staked blindly in the snow.

As Henry Algoona and his friends heard the news they marveled. But it did not occur to them to do anything about it until the government man suggested that on their way home they should stake some claims. A good claim, he said, could be worth many hundreds, even thousands, of fox skins—and a good fox pelt will bring $20.

That, in short, is how four Eskimo trappers came to stop by the radio beacon station at Contwoyto Lake, and to form a claim staking partnership with the Pacific Western Airlines radio operators there. Then the mixed group set out on a trip along the lake in 45 degrees below zero weather. Several of the trail-worn dogs died before they got back to the radio station. Nevertheless they made two more trips to stake a total of 90 claims of 51.65 acres each.

Blind staking in snow is a chancy business — but when summer stripped the land bare the claims of the Eskimos and radio men were found to be as promising as any in the area. Representatives of several companies searched for the claim owners, but it was an official of Giant Yellowknife Mines Ltd. who reached them first. He negotiated an option for his company to buy a 90 per cent interest in their claims for $50,000, with first payment of $5,000 by Sept. 30.

In truth, said Abraham Kikpak as he counted $100 bills in his summer tent near Coppermine, the white man is teetuk.

Giant Yellowknife crews carried out preliminary work on the claims this past summer. It won't be until next year, when they start diamond drilling, that Giant will get any accurate picture of what is under its costly Contwoyto real estate. By then Henry, Abraham, John and James will be counting more $100 bills.

If drilling results are favorable the company will continue development and payments to the owners until $50.00 has been paid. If mining operations prove profitable, the claim owners' 10 per cent should be worth much more than $50,000.

If the drilling results are negative Giant will drop its option. But even in that event four Stone Age Canadians will still be a good many hundred dollars richer — and tax-free dollars at that.

New radicalism sweeping through Canadian labor

By FRANK DREA

After 10 years of playing it close to the vest, a new upsurge of radicalism is sweeping through the ranks of Canadian labor.

The new radicalism is reflected in the decision of the Ontario Federation of Labor to endorse the concept of a 30-hour work week; to collect a war chest to fight the battle for Medicare in every community of the province; to continue its battle for a new deal on behalf of 20,000 migratory farm workers.

The battle cry was given by OFL president David Archer with his warning that the day of business unionism was gone forever—but labor would insist on being accepted as the conscience of industrial society.

The impact of the new image—or more properly a return to the image of the 1940's—is that trade unions will no longer attempt to justify their existence on the basis of what they are doing for their members.

COMMUNITY ROLE

Instead labor will stress its community and its social role to members as the prime reason for remaining loyal during times of economic turbulence.

The reasoning behind the new approach is that the curtain has dropped on the era when skilled labor negotiators would win enough money and fringe benefits across the bargaining table to insure the continued loyality of the membership.

The bargainers will continue to push for better wages and conditions but they realize that it will be a tedious, uphill fight in the next decade.

And, senior labor leaders realize only too well that when they talk of the direct benefits that have from trade unionism, they are reaching a decreasing audience.

In terms of membership, fewer and fewer trade unionists remember the days before the union when there was no seniority, no grievance procedure, in fact no regulation covering their job or the way they worked.

The beginnings of the new approach can be seen in Mr. Archer's speech where he stressed that labor cannot remain as an isolated segment of society, concerned only with the wages of its members and the size of the union treasury.

NEED IDEALISM

He rejected this as crass materialism and put the new order on the line: " a union without idealism is not a union."

To translate the appeal into practical terms, the OFL moved sharply leftward with the formal recognition of the 30-hour work week as a goal of unions at the bargaining table.

In contrast, it was only two or three years ago that labor was cautious about discussing a 32-hour week. American labor has tentatively ventured as far as recognizing the 35-hour week as a big goal—but no other labor body has put the 30-hour week up as a target.

In terms of the practical, the Ontario labor body, which has 500,000 union members within its ranks, put all its cards on the table with the call for money to fight the Medicare battle.

TO THE PEOPLE

Instead of launching a traditional labor lobby to pressure legislators, the OFL plans to take its campaign to every street corner in Ontario. Instead of presenting resolutions and making speeches, the OFL intends to spend every penny it can get its hands on to bring a Government sponsored medical care plan to Ontario.

Whether it is successful in the Medicare battle or not, and since the Liberal and New Democratic Parties now favor such a program, the labor leaders will have demonstrated their role and made a firm foundation for future drives in the social welfare field.

In fact it is the determined move to have a much larger role in the community that makes the OFL actions extremely significant.

In effect, labor is digging in to try to prove that it should be accepted as part of a tightly regulated industrial society—not just tolerated as one phase of a loosely run industrial economy.

Television men face charges of impersonation

MONTREAL (CP)—Two television men Tuesday were charged with impersonating a union official to play a prank on Jean Duceppe, an actor and commentator.

"They went too far," said Duceppe in court.

He said that after interviewing an official of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) Oct. 10 on a TV show he received a telephone call.

The callers identified themselves as officials of the union and told him he had better appear for a meeting at a down town bar for his health.

Duceppe, 39, said he sought police protection.

Arraigned in court were Pierre Chouinard, 35, a TV announcer, and Gerald Tasse, 34, a scriptwriter.

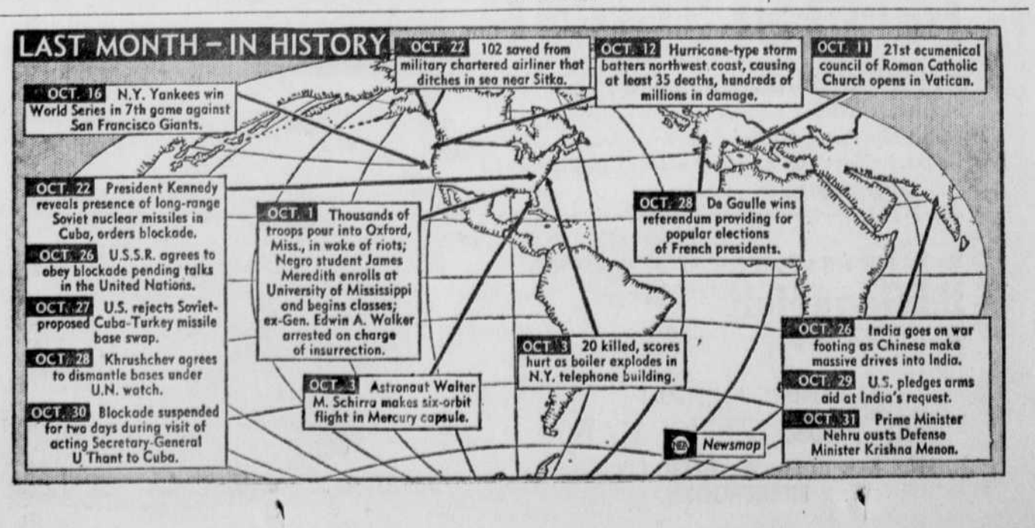

The complaint was filed by Jacques Lafrance, an official of the union.

The finest advertising doesn't have a chance unless it is seen or heard.

The circulation of an advertisement is vital to its success. And circulation is people . . . not the number of advertisements printed or anticipated or projected.

No advertiser can afford expensive guessing. Positive proof of circulation should be demanded. Vague generalities should be discounted. Charts, formulas, and promises are not readers, and can lead your advertising off sales target.

The actual circulation figures . . . verified count . . . of this newspaper are available through the reports of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Exactly how many units of your advertising are delivered into the hands of paying customers? How much do they pay to see your advertising? Where and how is this advertising being delivered?

This is the type of circulation information that helps keep your advertising and advertising budget aimed in the right direction. No camouflage, just facts and figures.

Guillemette sweeps Frontenac

Eloi Guillemette, Union Nationale candidate for the county of Frontenac was again swept to victory defeating his Liberal opponent Joseph-Luc Roy by 601 votes.

Mr. Guillemette, an agronome, who has represented Frontenac County since 1956 was re-elected by 143 votes more than in the last provincial election.

His opponent in yesterday's election a newcomer to provincial politics, received 5,646 votes in his attempt to win a Liberal seat as compared to the 6,247 votes amassed by Mr. Guillemette.

Both candidates were able to win approval in the area surrounding their place of residence.

Mr. Guillemette and Mr. Roy live at opposite ends of Frontenac county.

Of the 19 city polls, the Union Nationale candidate won in 14, the Liberal candidate won in 4 and there was one poll even. These 19 polls represent a total of 1,603 Union Nationale votes to 1,417 Liberal votes.

In St. Ludger, Mr. Guillemette won a 14 vote majority over Mr. Roy, the total vote being 296 Union Nationale votes to 282 for the Liberal candidate.

In Ditchfield the Union Nationale candidate again triumphed this time with a majority of 69 votes, the final count being 218 to 147 for Mr. Guillemette.

A 129 vote majority was registered in Courcelles with the winner here being Mr. Guillemette. Total count was 352 to 223 for the Union Nationale.

In Lambton, Mr. Roy won (382 Liberal - 321 Union Nationale) by 61 votes. He also won in Chesham (by 2 votes), in Marsboro (by 34 votes) in St. Leon (by 14 votes).

In Piopolis, Mr. Guillemette won by 28 votes. He also gained a majority in iMlan (by 42 votes), in St. Daniel (by 4 votes), in Dorset (by 25 votes), in Winslow (by 24 votes), and in Woburn (by 2 votes)

The Liberal candidate also came out in front in St. Gedeon (by 30 votes), in St. Evariste (by 47 votes), in St. Romain (by 40 votes) and in his home town of Guadeloupe (with a count of 447 to 356 in his favor) by 91 votes.

Lemieux to retire in Wolfe

Rene Lavoie, Union Nationale candidate for Wolfe county, was elected by a majority of 491 votes over his Liberal opponent Dr. Gerard Lemieux, who has represented the county since 1956 in Quebec.

Dr. Lemieux who had 3,451 votes, said he plans to withdraw from public life, as a result of the outcome of the election in his county.

Mr. Lavoie received 3,942 votes in Wednesday's election. Over 75 per cent of the eligible voters cast their ballots in the elections.

Megantic re-elects Maheux

THETFORD MINES — Megantic electors turned out in a near record number Wednesday to again send Liberal candidate Emilien Maheux home victorious with a majority of 2,390 votes over Union Nationale candidate Henri Paquet.

According to official statistics of the election president, Aurele Binette, the total popular vote in the county of Megantic was 13,152 Liberal votes to 10,762 for Union Nationale.

The turnout of citizens in this provincial elections was 23,914 second only to the record number that voted in 1960 when Mr. Maheux first broke the Union Nationale grip on the county. They had represented the county for 20 years.

The figures represents 88.2% of the eligible voters in the Megantic county.

This is the third try for the Legislature that Mr. Maheux has made.

He was rejected by the voters in the 1956 election and again in a by-election held in the county in the year 1957.

Lafrance increases his majority

RICHMOND — (Staff) — Hon. Emilien Lafrance, minister of social welfare in the last Legislature was re-elected with a majority of 2,736 votes over his opponent lawyer, Raynald Frechette, Union Nationale candidate, in Richmond county Wednesday.

Mr. Lafrance received 9,964 votes while Mr. Frechette was given 7,228 votes.

Returning officer Joseph O. Michaud and president of the election in Richmond county said about 80 per cent on the eligiable voters turned out at the polls, 8 per cent less than in the 1960 elections.

Mr. Lafrance won his election in 1952 by a 742 vote majority. In 1956 he was elected by 1,469 vote majority and in 1960 he was elected by a majority of 1,269.

UN GAINS

registered in the 1960 general elections.

Mr. Pinard who was elected in 1960 by the narrow margin of 101 votes saw his majority mount to 3,670 this year, defeating his UN opponent, Lucien Morissette by 14,621 to 10,951 in a straight fight.

Also in a straight fight, Mr. Lafrance boosted his majority in Richmond from 1,269 in 1960 to 2,726 yesterday. He polled 9,954 votes to 7,228 for his opponent, Raynald Frechette.

In Arthabaska, Liberal Alfred Morissette retained his seat by a majority of 1,384 over UN Yvon Jutras, a slight increase over his majority of 1,269 in 1960. Yesterday Mr. Morisette outvoted Mr. Jutras 10,93 to 9,545.

Political convictions apparently die hard in Brome where Liberal Glen Brown defeated UN James Jolley for the third time, but somebody must have changed his vote this year because Mr. Brown's majority of 710 in 1960 dropped to 708 on Wednesday. The final vote in Brome was; Brown, 3,417, Jolley, 2,709.

Claude Gosselin, UN member for Compton since 1958, retained his seat yesterday with a lead of 1,032 over East Angus Mayor Roland Brousseau running on the UN ticket. This represents a substantial increase over the majority of 802 he obtained in 1960.

Mr. Gosselin polled 5,561 votes, Mr. Brousseau 4,529 and Gerard Houle, PAP, 105.

In Frontenac, joined with Compton in the federal field, Eloi Guillemette, Union Nationale, was re-elected with a majority of 601 over Liberal Joseph-Luc Roy. This was a slightly higher majority than that enjoyed by Mr. Guillemette in 1960 when his lead was 438.

The vote yesterday was Guillemette, 6,247; Roy, 5,646.

In Megantic, Emilien Maheux elected as a Liberal in 1960 saw his majority drop from 4,427 at that time to 2,390 yesterday when he defeated UN Henri Paquet by 13,152 votes to 10,762.

Jean-Jacques Bertrand, runner-up for the Union Nationale leadership at the 1961 convention in Quebec City, retained Missisquoi by a majority of 2,002 over Gabriel Cloutier, polling 7,667 votes to 5,665 for his Liberal opponent. In 1960 the Bertrand majority was 2,108.

Georges Vaillancourt, Liberal, scored a runaway victory in Stanstead leading 8,923 to 6,817 over Union Nationale candidate Roland Didn, for a majority of 2,106. The PAP candidate, Marcel Ostiguy, garnered 101 votes.

In 1960 Mr. Vaillancourt entered the Legislative Assembly with a majority of 410.

The victory of Mr. Fortin in Sherbrooke appeared assured a few minutes after the polls closed. The first six polls to report all gave the Liberal candidate slight majorities, ranging from one to 16 votes. The trend continued during the evening and each tabulation showed his majority slightly higher than in the earlier figures.

At 7:10 Mr. Fortin's majority was substantial enough to claim victory.

Irregularities in enumeration produced considerable complaint from residents in at least 21 streets, none of whom were included in the original lists prepared by the enumerators. Investigation revealed that for reasons best known to themselves, the enumerators had not bothered to travel down the streets in question. The neglected areas were spread throughout the city.

One party organizer stated that in the case of 17 streets, the omissions had been discovered by the party checkers before the revision period closed.

LESAGE

caught the party in the midst of a reorganization by saying: "If Premier Lesage had given us six more months the result would have been different."

During the campaign, which started in late September, Mr. Johnson would not commit himself or his party on the expropriation plan, and suggested a referendum on the question.

Wednesday night, he said: "We shall closely watch the government in carrying out its expropriations of private power companies."

Incomplete tabulation of the popular vote indicates a record turnout. With 600 polls still unreported, 2,061,921 ballots had been cast by the province's 2,710,301 eligible voters. If the remaining 600 polls continued the election's average of 150 votes a poll, this would lift the total well past the previous record of 2,096,597 votes cast in 1960.

The Liberals received a clear majority on the votes cast—1,165,617 or 57 per cent—and the Union Nationale had 868,117 votes, or 42 per cent.

25 SEATS CHANGE

When 600 polls were still unreported, there were 2,061,921 ballots cast. The Liberals received a clear majority of 57 per cent—1,165,617 — and the Union Nationale 42 per cent—868,117.

Activities at Stanstead College

Of course the big news of the weekend was the football game between the College and Quebec High School. The game was won by Stanstead, giving them the Dunn trophy. Previous to this the Junior soccer team was victorious in a game played on Bishop's College field with St. Pat's team. This has brought a triumphant conclusion to the football and soccer games of the season. Shortly, practices of hockey and basketball will commence and on Dec. 8, the hockey and basketball teams will clash with Lower Canada College at Montreal.

There is a new teacher on the staff, Philip A. Brett, a native of Montreal, who has come here from Vancouver, B.C., and will teach maths and physics.

Rev. and Mrs. Stirling and family and Mr. and Mrs. George Banks are com fortably settled in their new homes in the new duplex building erected on the College grounds.

The play, Julius Ceaser has been postponed, due to the crush of recent events at the College. The play date has been extended to mid February to provide for a more comfortable schedule, and to insure the excellence of the production.

Blue Bombers' coaches and players studying films of Stamps' attack, seeking ways of stopping attack

CALGARY (CP) — Bobby Dobbs can't do anything about the frosty weather forecast for the opening game of the Western Football Conference final here Saturday. But there is much he is trying to do about Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

"They are the champs until somebody beats them," the Calgary Stampeder coach said Wednesday. "I've been watching films on them. They are good, real good."

The weatherman forecasts frost and a hard field for the game, to start at 2:30 p.m. MST. The temperature is expected to be about 25 degrees above zero.

Dobbs said a hard turf will hurt the outside running and could make a bad game of the first battle in the three-game series.

The Stamps, who belted Saskatchewan Roughriders out of the title running in the two-game, total-points semi-final series, probably will be without all-star guard Tony Pajadzkowski for Saturday's skirmish. He has been bothered by an ankle injury.

"I'll use Hal Krebs at offensive guard rather than an under-par athlete," Dobbs said. "Krebs did a good job against Saskatchewan."

WASN'T USED MUCH

Krebs, formerly with Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Conference, wasn't used much by the Stampeders earlier this season. At one point he asked Dobbs about the chances of being traded.

"I made it plain we wanted him," Dobbs said.

The reason is evident now. With Krebs and Bill Crawford as regulars, the Stampeders could call on Wayne Harris or Ernie Danjean as reserves in case of injury.

Dobbs said he expects the Bombers will arrive with some new wrinkles in their attack.

"They've had two weeks to think about it. They'll try to hit us early and get us off balance. We'll have to be ready. We'll have to have a good rush on Kenny Ploen because they have dangerous receivers in Ernie Pitts, Leo Lewis and Roger Hagberg."

The Bombers, defending Grey Cup champions, got a bye into the Western final because they ended up in first place during the regular season. The second game of the series is set for Winnipeg Wednesday, Nov. 21, and the third, if needed, in Winnipeg the following Saturday. The winner takes on the East in the Grey Cup at Toronto Saturday, Dec. 1.

Victory moves Toronto two points ahead of Montreal, Hawks stop Wings 4-2, Rangers blast Bruins

Billy Harris, the idol of many a Toronto Maple Leaf fan, is working his way into Punch Imlach's heart. He showed why again Wednesday night.

The stage was set. Toronto led 3-2. Montreal Canadiens had control of the puck in the Leaf zone. Jacques Plante was halfway from the Canadiens' net to the bench to be replaced by an extra forward.

Then Harris entered the picture. Plante scooted back to his net, but he might as well have not bothered.

The lanky, stick - handling centre culminated his rush up the boards by neatly outfoxing the Montreal netminder to score and give Toronto a 4-2 victory.

TAKE THIRD PLACE

With the victory went third place in the National Hockey League for the Leafs, who now are two points ahead of the Canadiens. They have 17 points, one behind the second - place Chicago Black Hawks who defeated the first-place Detroit Red Wings 4-2 Wednesday night. The fifth - place New York Rangers licked the last-place Boston Bruins 6-2 in the other NHL game of the night.

All last season—and for much of the previous part of his seven-year professional hockey career — Harris was kept around as a spare man. Imlach, Toronto manager-coach, didn't heed the reaction of the fans who applauded Harris almost every time he appeared on the ice.

For the few games, Imlach has put Harris between wingers Bobby Pulford and Ron Stewart, and now the six-foot centre is tied with centre Dave Keon for most points by a Leaf this season. Both have 13.

"He will keep the job as long as the line is producing like this," Imlach said after Wednesday night's game.

Apparently the centre's new role is almost accidental—"Imlach just threw us together," Harris said.

ALSO SCORE

Pulford, Keon and right winger George Armstrong scored the other Toronto goals. Centre Henri Richard, on a 75-foot shot that fooled Toronto goaltender Johnny Bower on the bounce, and right winger Bernie Geoffrion were the Montreal marksmen.

Bower was back after a three - game rest during which Don Simmons, now out with the flu, took over, both he and Plante who strained a leg muscle in his last game and had to be replaced, played a competent game.

At Chicago, Hawk left winger Bobby Hull proved that his goal - scoring slump couldn't last too long. He scored two goals as the Hawks handed Detroit its second loss of the season. Before Wednesday night Hull, who last season became the third man in NHL history to score 50 goals in a season, had only tallied twice.

Stan Mikita and Ab McDonald got the other Chicago goals. Norm Ullman and Gordie Howe scored for Detroit.

COUNT FIVE IN SECOND

New York scored five goals in the second period to send the Bruins home with their seventh loss of the season. The line of Earl Ingarfield, Andy Bathgate and Andy Hebenton accounted for half the Ranger scoring. Each had a goal and Ingarfield added two assists.

Doug Harvey, Dave Balon and Camille Henry scored the other New York goals and Don McKenney and Wayne Hicks replied for Boston.

Bobby Perrault, the goaltender who let New York's five second-period goals go by, was replaced in the third period by Ed Johnston. He has been in action only a minute and 33 seconds when Ingarfield scored.

Hull-Ottawa has trouble in posting win over Fort Wayne of IHL in interlocking game, Kingston wins

Many eyebrows were raised at the start of the season when the eastern Professional Hockey League said it would play an interlocking schedule with the International Hockey League.

The EPHL had dropped to a four-team league from six teams and promoters felt its only salvation was a hookup with the IHL.

Critics said EPHL teams would be too strong for the IHL amateurs. Much has been written and said about the new setup—most of it bad.

The interlocking schedule opened Wednesday night at Fort Wayne, Ind. One game is no indication of how things will go for the season, but the IHL wasn't embarrassed.

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens, champs of the EPHL the last two years, defeated Fort Wayne Komets, as most folks figured they would—but only 5-3.

In regular EPHL action, Kingston Frontenacs protected their two-point lead over Hull-Ottawa with a 2-1 win against Syracuse Braves at Syracuse.

The powerful Canadiens held a wide margin in play at Fort Wayne, outshooting the Komets 39-16, but didn't run away on the scoresheet.

It was 1-1 after one period of play and Hull took a 4-2 lead in the second.

The win counts in the EPHL standings and the Komets' loss counts against them in the IHL.

Doug Senior and Bob Ellett scored two goals apiece for Hull and Terry Harper scored the other one.

For the Komets, Eddie Long and Walter Bradley scored a goal apiece and Reg Primeau added the final one with only seconds remaining in the game.

Three rookies did all the scoring in the Kingston - Syracuse battle.

The winning goal, midway through the third period, was scored by Kingston's Jean-Paul Parise, with Niagara Falls Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series last year.

Jim Kozie, a junior grad from western Canada, gave the Frontenacs a 1-0 lead in the first period and Peter Ford, a defenceman last year with the OH junior St. Catharines Teepees, tied it for Syracuse before the period ended.

There was no scoring in the second period and Parise's winning goal was scored during a Kingston power play while Red Ouimet of the Braves sat out a hooking penalty.

Friday night, Hull visits Minneapolis to play Minneapolis Millers in the second interlocking game and Kingston plays Sudbury Wolves at Sudbury.

Three teams tied in City Bowling League

Dow, Bergeron, O'Keefe and P. V. M. made clean sweeps in the weekly matches in President J. M. St. Cyr's City Bowling League.

Following the matches two teams, Hotel Albert and Dow, are in a deadlock with 21 points each for first place. Bergeron is close with 20 while L. O. Noel is next with 19, Manoir has 18 and Levesque 17. Only four points separate the top six clubs.

O'Keefe has 15 to their credit while P. V. M. is next in line with 14 and Lemieux has 10. Molson's and Brunelle are deadlocked with six each while the Elks are in the cellar with only two points.

Richard Blais of Bergeron rolled the top triple 500 but the battle for individual honors is between the Ainslie brothers, Norman and Romeo. The former has an average of 167.14 while his brother has 167.13. Percentage points is the difference between A. Dulac and J. Paul Dussault at 167.7 and 166.1. It is the same for fifth spot with Rene Provencher with 162.19 and Ernest Gagnon with 162.7.

In the other games Hotel Albert and L. O. Noel emerged with 3-1 victories over their opponents.

Russians whip through stiff hockey workout

OTTAWA (CP)—Russia's national hockey team whipped through a 90-minute practice at the auditorium Wednesday in preparation for the opening of its Canadian tour against Ottawa Montagnards tonight.

The team, believed to be the youngest ever iced by Russia, drew high praise from two hocky veterans who watched the workout.

Howie Meeker, a former player and coach for Toronto Maple Leafs and now a minor hockey official in St. John's, Nfld., said he is impressed with the team's shooting ability. The players kept two goalies on the move with the speed of their wrist shots. Not once during the drill did any of the players try a slapshot.

Jack Roxburgh, immediate past-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said the team's fine physical condition could help it go through the nine - game tour without a defeat.

"They've been practicing since September and most of our teams have had only a few games under their belt," Roxburgh said.

Both Meeker and Roxburgh also praised the sharp passing of the attacking units. And both drew attention to the defencemen who seemed to do more checking than Russian teams have done in the past.

Only five members of the team have played in Canada before and coach Arkady Tchernitchov explained that the Russians are putting the accent on youth this season.

Supreme gains on leaders in bowling league

Supreme moved within one point of the league-leading De-Luxe in the Civil Service Bowling League when they posted a 3-1 victory over the pace-setters in the weekly matches.

Lee Cafe posted a 3-1 decision over King's Pharmacy while Clark's Parmacy blanked McMahon 4-0 to gain ground on the third place King squad. De-Luxe retained a slim one-point lead 21-20 over Supreme while King's is third with 19, Clark's 17, Lee Cafe 14 and McMahon has amassed only five points.

Claude Steel of King's was the top player with a single of 215 and a lusty triple of 510. This helped him to gain ground on the leader, R. Marechal,, 156 to 155. G. St. Louis is third with 150 while A. Carrier is fourth with 148.12 and J. Joncas has 148.2 while P. Fillion has 147.

Dow's "Tournament of Champions" starts fourth year, top bowlers of each district will compete

A season-long bowling tournament, which last year placed 15 bowlers on television giving them a chance at big money prizes and province-wide fame and acclaim, starts its fourth year this month.

The event in question is Dow Brewery's "Tournament of Champions", granddaddy of the now many tournaments which encompass bowling halls across Quebec.

It's an elimination tourney on a grand scale, involving some 400,000 bowlers and one of its main features is that it reaches into every corner of the province affording all male duckpin league bowlers an opportunity to figure.

Here is how it works:

Every week in every bowling hall the two top high triple bowlers are singled out to take part, at the end of season, in a tournament to decide the champion of their hall. There are 15 such weekly qualifying rounds.

Next, all hall champions of a district, and their runners-up, meet together in another tournament, this one to decide the district champion. For this purpose the province is divided into 36 districts.

The top bowlers of these district tournaments, based on number of bowling halls and population (for example Montreal sends 33 while Quebec City supplies 17) are invited by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to take part in their tournament to select players to appear on the French network bowling show "L'Heure des Quilles" sponsored by Dow.

The successive elimination stages guarantees only the cream of the crop of Quebec's duckpin bowlers remains after the extensive filtering. That this is so is proved by the fact in the C.B.C. tournament this year 15 "Tournament of Champions" survivors placed on the program. Some of them came from regions which had never before supplied a bowler.

Roger Meloche, Dow's sales promotion manager who is coordinating the vast event, said "During recent years many new names have come to the fore in duckpin bowling in Quebec and many of them made their first mark in our "Tournament of Champions". We hit on a tournament formula that gives everybody a chance and evidently the bowlers feel that way too."

AAU, NCAA began exploring ways and means following truce, out to form strong team for 1964 Olympics

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, their war of words cut off before it reached the shooting stage, began exploring ways and means Wednesday of implementing their day - old truce.

The two organizations, feuding for the past 2½ years over the control of amateur athletics in the United States, formed a coalition Tuesday in a last-ditch effort to sign a peace treaty.

But how much authority the coalition will have still is secret, no details have been announced because each faction must get the truce, which will assure a strong Olympic team in 1964, ratified by its membership.

Everything should be settled two weeks from Wednesday when the AAU begins its annual convention in Detroit. Ratification by the general membership of both the NCAA and AAU is regarded as a mere formality. The NCAA, instead of waiting for its convention in Los Angeles in January, probably will take a mail vote.

There are several conclusions to be drawn from the truce which will last at least until after the Tokyo Olympics.

For one thing, the NCAA-backed United States Track and Field Federation, which had demanded equal sanctioning privileges with the AAU, will confine its activities to collegiate competition. This, in effect, is no different from the past, except that the name will be changed.

SANCTION OPEN EVENTS

For another, the AAU will remain the sole sanctioning agent of all open competition, and will sanction all athletes for the Olympics. This also is how things have stood since before the turn of the century.

Originally, it was understood that the coalition would do the sanctioning internally while the AAU would handle international affairs. Instead, the AAU keeps it all.

All that is known definitely. Just where the coalition comes in its vague. It could turn into a paper outfit with committees from the AAU and NCAA meeting occasionally to talk over their problems.

Where does the NCAA profit from the deal?

While it could not be confirmed, the NCAA undoubtedly got what it was after from the start—equal representation on the executive board. The NCAA always has been outnumbered on the foreign relations committee and never has been permitted on the powerful executive committee.

Ernie Davis out for year, says Coach Brown

CLEVELAND (AP)—Although halfback Ernie Davis will not play for Cleveland Browns this season, hte National Football League club said Wednesday he will start full - scale workouts and attend meetings with the team.

The decision to keep Davis on the sidelines came from Paul Brown, coach and general manager.

"Ernie Davis will not be activated in 1962," he said.

Art Modell, club president, was plainly disappointed. He broke the news to Davis Sunday and said the 23-year-old former Syracuse All - America took the news gracefully. Davis came down with leukemia in early June, but the deadly disease now is in a state of remission.

"Art Modell and I feel it's too late in the season for Ernie to catch up enough to play," said Brown.

Modell said the Cleveland club is delighted at Davis's physical and medical progress report.

The latest report by Dr. Austin Weissberger, who has headed the team of specialists, stated:

"Ernie Davis continues to be in an excellent state of remission. His blood values remain perfectly normal. In fact, his hemoglobulin is high normal and at this time there is no trace of leukemia."

Hershey Bears tally three goals in 21 seconds in 7-1 romp over Cleveland, Indians lose 6-1

Hershey Bears, benefitting from a record performance by Marc Reaume, Mike Nykoluk and Les Duff, have moved to within one point of second place in the eastern division of the American Hockey League.

Reaume, Nykoluk and Duff set a league record by scoring three goals in 21 seconds Wednesday night in a 7-1 Hershey romp over Cleveland Barons. The victory pulled the Bears to within one point of Springfield Indians, who took a 6-1 pasting from Pittsburgh Hornets.

Buffalo Bisons edged Rochester Americans 4-3 in other action.

The old mark for the fastest three goals was 26 seconds, set by Cincinnati against New Haven in 1950.

The other Hershey goals were scored by Yves Locas, Dick Meissner and Howie Yanosik, while John Ferguson got the Cleveland marker.

Howie Glover scored three goals for Pittsburgh, on in each period, in sparking the Hornets. Lowell McDonald, native of Thorburn, N.S., scored twice and Norm Corcoran once. Only a goal by Bruce Cline spoiled the shutout bid by Hank Bassen who turned back 39 shots.

For Buffalo, Barry Cullen, Billy Dea and Cliff Schmautz scored early goals and Art Stratton got what proved to be the winner in the third period. Dick Gamble counted twice for the losers and Gene Ubriaco netted the other.

Dodger's Don Drysdale winner of Cy Young Award as outstanding pitcher of 1962, Sanford runner-up

BOSTON (AP) — Speed king Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, who won 25 games last season while leading the major leagues in strikeouts, was named winner today of the annual Cy Young award as baseball's outstanding pitcher of 1962.

The 26-year-old right-hander polled 14 of the 20 votes cast by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Only four pitchers, all National Leaguers, received votes.

Jack Sanford of the pennant-winning San Francisco Giants won runner-up honors with four votes. Cincinnati's Bob Purkey and Billy Pierce of the Giants each received one vote.

Drysdale is the fourth National Leaguer to win the award since its inception in 1956, when Don Newcombe was the recipient. Other winners were Warren Spahn in 1957, Bob Turley in 1958, Early Wynn in 1959, Vernon Law in 1960 and Whitey Ford in 1961.

Frank Boucher, former New York Rangers star centre, runs SJHL by rule book and with iron hand

By RON MacDONALD

REGINA (CP)—Frank Boucher runs the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League by the book, preaching what he once practised.

Boucher, former New York Rangers centre star who has been commissioner of the SJHL since the beginning of the 1959-60 season, believes strongly that amateur hockey can be clean and still draw fans.

He says he has been slowly tightening adherence to the league constitution and Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rules since he took over. This year he warned all players, coaches and officials there would be no more breaches of the rules escaping punishment. The mass of penalties that has been handed out so far is testimony to the fact he meant what he said.

While in the National Hockey League, Boucher, now 61, won the Lady Byng trophy for clean, effective play seven times and finally was given the original trophy. The greatness of the forward line he made up with Bill and Bun Cook is evidence that ability and clean play can go together.

HARD ON PARENTS

"A lot of fans love blood and thunder in their hockey," Boucher said in an interview here. "But I think they're in the minority, especially in a league like the Saskatchewan junior."

"How would you feel if you were watching a hockey game and saw your kid brother getting beaten up? Not good. Well, you've got to remember that almost all the kids playing in this league are known by lots of people in the stands. Uncles, aunts, brothers, parents, neighbors—they're all out there to watch the game.

"And when you're dealing with youngsters in an amateur league you have to be fair with them. It's a lot easier to handle them if they know they have to play by the book.

"Pro hockey is a different matter. There, you've got fines and deterrents of that type to keep the game from getting out of hand."

FREE-FOR-ALLS OUT

Boucher said he had been accused on occasion of trying to promote "sissy hockey." But he said this was far from his aim.

"I don't mind a fist fight now and then; it's natural. The play is fast and hard and tempers get short. But what I will clamp down on is the sort of thing where a fight begins and everybody on the ice plus the benches join in—that's against the rules.

"Hockey itself can be rough and tough without being dirty. Clean hockey results in few injuries, even if it's rough."

Boucher said he thought his policies had been effective in raising the standard of hockey played in the seven-team loop.

PERTH, Australia (Reuters) The Canadian track contingent here for the Commonwealth games Wednesday delighted fellow Commonwealth athletes with an impromptu game of touch football.

"They're developing a real team spirit," Canadian track and field manager Ken Twigg told reporters.

In the thick of the football game were sprinter Harry Jerome of Vancouver, three-miler Bruce Kidd of Toronto and quarter-miler Lynn Eves of Saanichton, B.C.

Jerome, co-holder of the world record for the 100-yard dash and one of Canada's top Gold Medal prospects, was upset because his bed was too soft

The Telegram claims IL and AA will merge

TORONTO (CP)—The Star and The Telegram predict that the International League and the American Association will be merged at the convention of the minor baseball leagues starting Nov. 26 at Rochester, N.Y.

The newspapers say that the proposed league would be divided into two six-team divisions playing a 154-game interlocking schedule.

The six-team American Association has already lost its Louisville and Omaha franchises, The Star says, and Denver has expressed a desire to switch to the Pacific Coast League.

Cassius Clay faces his toughest test tonight when he takes on veteran Archie Moore at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bombastic Cassius Clay, who has designated himself the next heavyweight champion of the world, faces the toughest test in his brief career tonight.

The 20-year-old Clay, from Louisville, Ky., meets ring-wise Archie Moore of San Diego, Calif., in 12 rounds or less at the Sports Arena.

Seated at ringside will probably be the present heavyweight champ, Sonny Liston, who had indicated some interest in fighting the winner for the title next year.

Clay, 1960 Olympic Games light heavyweight champion and unbeaten in his 15 professional engagements, remained favored at 2-1 odds or better. He has repeatedly promised to knock old Archie out, and named No. 4 as the round.

The battle may be the most interesting heavyweight fight of the year, perhaps erasing boxing fans' reaction to the Liston-Floyd Patterson fiasco.

WILL NOT BE BROADCAST

The contest will be on closed circuit in theatres in a number of United States cities. There will be no home television nor radio. Fight time is 8 p.m. PST (midnight AST).

Co-promoters Cal Eaton and George Parnassus envision a live gate of about $150,000 and attendance of about 14,000.

Moore, who admits to 45 years of age, gets a guarantee of $75,000 and his ebullient challenger $40,000.

Archie, with 219 fights behind him, has a record of 135 knockouts and can still wallop with authority.

Cassius needs no casual observer to evaluate his skills. He provides his own assessment, and begins with: "I am the greatest."

Both fighters have regaled the public with a constant exchange of views and verbal needles recently.

"I'm going to retire that old man," said Cassius. "A good young man can whip a good old man. Moore must fall in four."

Retorted Archie: "Let him needle. Needling is my business, too."

'NOW COME OUT FIGHTING'

Injuries hit WHL clubs

Los Angeles Blades, Portland Buckaroos and Spokane Comets—all of the Southern Divsion of the Western Hockey League—Wednesday night knocked off Calgary Stampeders, Seattle Totems and Edmonton Flyers of the northern sector.

Edmonton, bowing 3-0 to Spokane, lost centre Forbes Kennedy of Charlottetown with pulled knee ligaments. Edmonton is already shy centre Sid Finney.

The win, which left the Comets in fourth and last place in their division, was fashioned on goals by Max Mekilok, Gerry Brisson and Steve Witiuk. It was the second shutout of the season for Claude Dufour of Trois-Rivieres, Que.

Portland swamped Seattle 6-1 as Art Jones scored twice, with singles by Bill Saunders, Gerry Goyer, McVie and Tom McCarthy. Jim Hay got the Totems' lone goal.

Fleming Mackell, Leo Labine and Mac Boileau got the Blade goals in Los Angeles' 3-2 overtime win over Calgary. Ron Leopold and Jack Hendrickson scored for Calgary.

The action did nothing to alter the standings. It's still Vancouver atop the Northern Division, with Edmonton and Seattle tied for second and Calgary in the cellar. Los Angeles leads the southern loop, followed by Portland, San Francisco and Spokane.

France, Britain to share costs on plane project

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government Wednesday approved a $375,000,000 project for joint development of a supersonic airliner with Britain.

A communique issued after President de Gaulle presided over a top-level meeting on the project said a formal Franco-British agreement to build the airliner will be signed as soon as the British government approves it.

Equipment of assembly lines in France and Britain is also included in the total initial cost, sources said.

Present plans call for the air liner—which will have a top speed of 1,450 miles an hour—to go into service in 1970.

The longrange version will carry 90 passengers with a range of about 3,750 miles. The mediumrange version will carry about 110 passengers more than 2,800 miles, the sources said.

The companies involved in the project are Sud-Aviation, maker of the Caravelle, and the British Aircraft Corporation.

Parachute ace dies in mid air

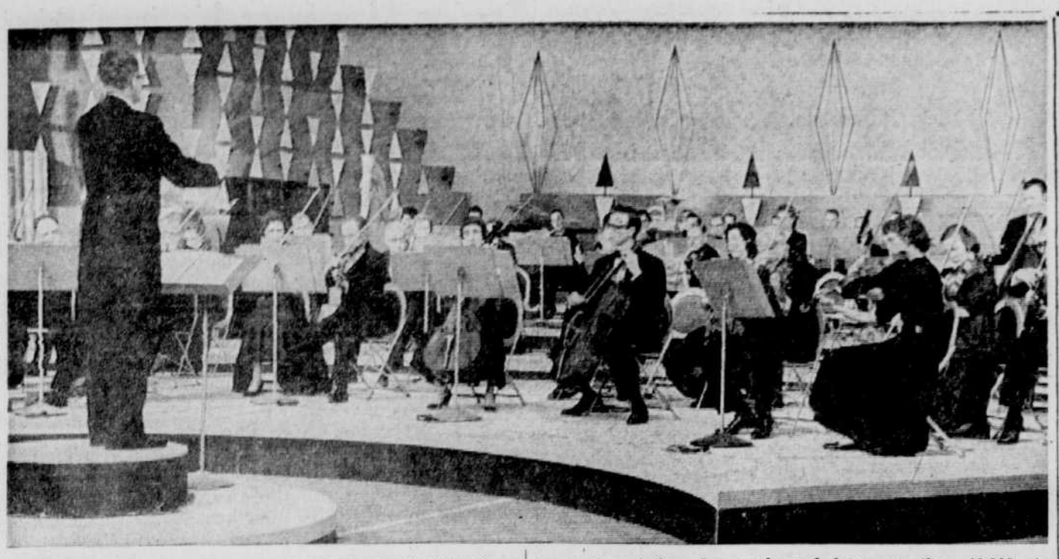

MOSCOW (Reuters)—An ace Soviet parachutist died in mid-air during a jump from 15 miles up but a colleague who jumped at the same time made a record delayed drop, opening his parachute 4,500 feet above the earth, Soviet newspapers reported Wednesday.

The death of Col. Peter Dolgov, who set eight world and national records for parachute-jumping and developed some of the techniques used to land Soviet cosmonauts, was first reported briefly two weeks ago.

Reports from the Soviet news agency Tass gave no indication of how he died, but simply that he "died in the air" after jumping from a balloon 15 miles up and opening his parachute immediately.

Maj. Yevgeni Andreyev, who jumped before him, opened his 'chute 4,500 feet above the earth, a record for a delayed opening, and landed safely after more than four minutes free fall.

He told Tass that when he leaped from the balloon gondola, the temperature was 61 degrees below zero, but he was protected by his space suit.

Mayor Whitton to run again

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton told reporters on the city hall steps Wednesday that she will definitely run for re-election in the Dec. 3 municipal elections.

"I'm in it with everything I have," she said. "I'm making my announcement two weeks earlier than normal."

Miss Whitton declined to say whether she hastened her announcement as a result of an altercation at a stormy closed meeting of board of control Tuesday.

The male controllers said the five - foot - tall spinster mayor struck controller Paul Tardif with her fists and feet.

"Just say this; come one, come all, this rock shall fly from city hall as soon as I," said Mayor Whitton, apparently referring to the stone steps on which she stood.

Mayoralty candidate Sam Berger, a former controller, said the mayor is "not well" and should withdraw from the race.

Injured fish alert others

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) Scientists at Stanford Research Institute say they have discovered that fish, when injured, use a chemical alarm system to warn others to stay away from them.

A research team reported in a magazine article that the chemical signals are precise in salt water fish. Injured fish are special prey for predators, the scientists said, and warn other fish to keep away, lest they also become prey.

The system is based on the highly sensitive sense of smell of fish, the scientists said.

The alarm substance apparently is in the skin of salt water fish, investigators W. A. Skinner, R. D. Mathews and R. M. Parkhurst said in their article.

Warns vaccines may be cause of more head colds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidence was reported Wednesday that use of some vaccines for major diseases may leave people more susceptible to severe colds.

A U.S. Navy doctor, Capt. Lloyd F. Miller, said findings suggesting this were made at the navy's Great Lakes, Ill., training station.

He proposed in a report prepared for the annual meeting of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States that vaccines now given routinely to recruits be postponed if respiratory illnesses are prevalent at the time — and if there's no immediate need for vaccination.

"Recent studies conducted at Great Lakes," he said, "have shown that immunizations against non - respiratory disease accentuated the respiratory disease problem in recruits during epidemics of acute respiratory disease and pneumonia."

Editorial staff quits Varsity

TORONTO (CP)—The senior editorial staff of The Varsity, student newspaper of the University of Toronto, walked out Tuesday, accusing editor Frank Marzari of being incompetent as a journalist and newspaper administrator.

Mr. Marzari announced that he will put out an edition today "even if it has to be mostly a oneman job."

The trouble arose when an editor charged that Mr. Marzari killed a story criticizing Student Administrative Council President Jordan Sullivan for lavishly furnishing his office this year with student funds.

Cuban officials again release correspondents

HAVANA, Cuba (Reuters) — Two of the five foreign correspondents who were re-arrested by Cuban officials Monday were released again here Wednesday.

The two are Charles Troeller, a Luxembourger, working for Stern magazine, and Claudette Defarges, his wife, reported to be working for Paris Match.

Three other reporters, Robin MacNeil of Ottawa, now with the National Broadcasting Company; Donald North of Vancouver, former freelance contributor to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation; and a Mr. Horikawa, a Japanese journalist, were still held at immigration headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Troeller were given press credentials and told that they could work until Friday when they would have to leave with the other three by air for Mexico City.

The five were originally arrested on their arrival in Havana Oct. 31. After being held for nine days they were released but again arrested Monday.

BEWARE THE CANNON—Visitors coming by boat to the log cabin home of Ken Kendall near Nanaimo, B.C., may be startled to see a shot from this cannon whistle across their bow. If the visitors are regarded by the Kendalls as "stuffed shirts", the shot could be a warning; otherwise it's a welcome. Turn of the Rio Grande in 1864 left U.S.-Mexican land dispute

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A little bit of land along the Rio Grande is giving an oversized headache to the United States and Mexico.

Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos discussed the piece of land a few months ago with President Kennedy. The several hundred acres of territory are American—by virtue of a capricious turn the Rio Grande River took nearly 60 years ago. Mexico wants the area back.

A settlement in the long-standing boundary dispute is a distinct possibility before the end of the year.

The dispute had its origins when the United States was occupying itself with wrapping up the Civil War. At the time, the luckless Maximilian was seeking to keep the slippery crown of Mexico on his head.

In 1864, the Rio Grande escaped its banks and roamed freely in Mexico. Then the river returned to its bed. But it didn't return to the exact spot it left. It re-entered a little below its exit and left a small bit of land on the U.S. side which shortly before had been in Mexico. This was in a part of the country where land was almost worthless.

"It was just weeds and brush and a few trees. There wasn't a house there," says Cleofas Calleros, noted El Paso historian and an expert on this land segment.

The area eventually gained a name: El Chamizal—from the Spanish word for brush.

El Paso expanded and eventually people built houses there.

Now a vocal but unorganized group in Mexico clamors for its return to Mexico. Members of the group consider El Chamizal a point of national honor.

The two presidents discussed the matter when Kennedy visited Mexico last spring and turned the touchy problem over to administrative aides.

One would be to turn the area over to Mexico. Another would give Mexico land somewhere else of about the same area. A third is purchase of the land from Mexico.

Return of pink salmon raises hopes of reviving fishing along Atlantic

OTTAWA (CP) — A lone pink salmon which returned to its birthplace in Newfoundland's Avalon Peninsula this year to spawn has raised a faint glimmer of hope for a resurgence of salmon fishing on the Atlantic coast.

The fish was the only known survivor from an experimental planting of several thousand pink salmon eggs two years ago. They were placed in a Newfoundland stream 3,000 miles from their native waters on the Pacific coast of British Columbia.

Late this month 3,000,000 fertilized pink salmon eggs will be flown from B.C. for a second experimental planting in the same region. It will be another two years before results are known.

Although he doesn't match the famed Atlantic salmon as the delight of sports fishermen and gourmets, the pink could become a valuable fishery asset to the Atlantic region if the species can be successfully established.

CATCH DWINDLING

The catch of Atlantic salmon has been dwindling in recent years and there is wide concern over the situation. Intensive studies are being made to solve the complex problems of proper management.

Scientists of the fisheries research board admit they have "hope" for the success of the B.C. pink in eastern waters but caution that it is too soon for enthusiasm.

"It's much too early for anyone to get excited over this experiment," Dr. J. C. Stevenson, a special assistant to the board, said Wednesday.

"The one fish known to have returned from the first small planting of eggs is not much evidence to go on," he added. "We aren't getting excited about the possibilities yet."

TRIED PREVIOUSLY

Dr. Stevenson, a biologist, also stresses that previous attempts to transplant the pink to eastern waters had little success. One experiment carried out about five years ago in the Albany River, which flows through Ontario's northland into James Bay, was a complete failure.

On the encouraging side, however, are reports from Russian scientists who say they have achieved remarkable new runs by introducing the Pacific species to their sub-Arctic waters.

The pink, one of the five distinct species of salmon on the west coast, is the best suited for eastern introduction because it will not interfere with the life cycle of the Atlantic salmon.

While the Atlantic salmon spends his first two to seven years feeding in fresh water, the pink runs to the sea almost immediately after hatching from the egg. Thus there would be no extra competition for food in the spawning streams and rivers.

The pink spends two years at sea, then returns as an adult of about five pounds to spawn — and die — in his native stream.

GIMBY AND HIT TUNE—Bobby Gimby, Canadian musician turned public relations officer, holds a record of Malaysia Forever, the song he composed while in Malaya. The song, currently No. 1 on the Malayan hit parade, has been adopted as almost a national anthem. Gimby, now in England to find a market for his ditty, was best known in Canada when he played on the CBC's Happy Gang radio show. (CP Photo).

Wintermayer says nothing made out of land sale to university

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer said Wednesday he "did not make a dime" out of the operations of a company which sold 176 acres of land to the University of Waterloo in a four-year period.

He was commenting on a report approved unanimously Tuesday night by the Kitchener-Waterloo Labor Council, which named Mr. Wintermeyer as a director of the company up to Nov. 21, 1958.

The report said the firm, Major Holdings (Waterloo) Limited, bought some 390 acres of land in the vicinity of the university's present campus in 1957 for $283,029 and sold the 176 acres from the tract for $355,240.50. The first sale had been in January, 1958.

The report called for "full disclosure" of the names of the shareholders who benefitted "from this land profiteering."

REPLIES TO CHARGE

Mr. Wintermeyer, in a statement issued Wednesday, said he became aware "some months ago . . . that attempts were being made to smear me. . . ."

"I made it my responsibility to make inquiries of all the principals in order to assure myself that the transaction, and my relations to it, had been completely honorable in all respects. . . .

"The facts are that the law firm in which I was senior partner acted as solicitor for the incorporation of Major Holdings Limited. I was an incorporating director but submitted my resignation in the early part of 1958 at the time I announced I was relinquishing all my business directorships.

"I could not and did not make a dime out of the company's operations. These facts would have been given to anyone if they had taken the trouble to ask for them . . ."

Two win medals for tots' books

OTTAWA (CP) — A doctor's wife in Port Arthur and a Montreal freelance writer have won the 1962 medals for the best children's books in Engish and French.

The Canadian Library Association announced Wednesday that the award winners are Sheila Burnford, Scotsborn wife of Dr. David Burnford of Port Arthur, and Paule Daveluy of Montreal, who won the French award for the second time.

Mrs. Burnford, mother of three children, wrote The Incredible Journey, a tale about three family pets that walk 250 miles across Canadian bush to be reunited with their masters. The book was published by Little, Brown Company.

Miss Daveluy's entry was Drole d'Automne (A Strange Autumn), a psychological novel about an underprivileged 17 year-old girl. The publisher was Les Editions du Pelican, Quebec City.

The novel is the second in a projected quartet called The Cycle of Seasons. Miss Daveluy won the medal for the first volume, L'Ete Enchange (The Enchanted Summer).

Miss Daveluy won the fiction prize of the Canadian Association of French Language Educators for The Enchanted Summer.

The announcement coincided with the opening of Young Canada Book Week.

KINGSBURY —

Rev. Jacques Smith of Melbourne, visited Mr. D. Lemoine who is ill, he also visited Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Malboeuf at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beliveau, of St. Hyacinthe, were guests of the latter's father, Mr. Dolphis and of her sister, Mrs. G. O. Malboeuf.

Edmonton footballer, 13, has no arms

EDMONTON (CP) — Lenny Seaby hurtles his 90-pound frame into sports activities with uncommon gusto for a 13-year-old.

His keen desire for success, coupled with what he has learned through experience, watching professionals, listening to coaches or reading books on fundamentals, have brought him plenty of success.

Yet it's only part of the accomplishments of the boy, born without arms, whose day-to-day life is a saga of human courage, determination and example.

"If there's something I want to do I just go out and do it," says Lenny. "I just do it naturally."

And he does.

A Grade 8 student at Killarney junior high school, he obtains better than average marks, excels at art and has a keen interest in shopwork and in sports.

On the playing field his speed, agility and sharp reflexes have made him a star. By example he has helped other handicapped youngsters, and adults too, at weekly Red Cross swimming lessons.

Twice he has been named Edmonton's Timmy in annual Easter Seal campaigns for funds to help the handicapped. The glare of publicity, official functions and many comments about how he has overcome his own handicap have not scarred his personality.

CAN BE ROUGH

"I just never think about it because I can do anything I want to. Sometimes people stare at me, but I just stare back and they stop. When I'm playing sports some guys try to get a little rough, but I know it's because they can't stop me any other way. I can be just as rough, but most times I just slip around them when they play me instead of the ball."

His mother says Lenny never ceases to amaze her.

"I often worried about his handicap when he was an infant, wondering just how he would manage. But every time something came up that I thought he wouldn't be able to do, I'd turn around and find him doing it.

"Once we bought his sister a bicycle. After she outgrew it I told Lenny I was going to teach him to ride. A few days later I couldn't find him around the yard and then I spotted someone going around the corner on a bike.

"I thought surely that can't be Lenny. In a minute or two around the corner he came, riding the bicycle."

Len has been fitted with a special pair of artificial arms, which he operates by moving his shoulders. He can write with either the arms or his feet. As a Boy Scout he has learned to tie all the knots with his arms.

KICKS BASEBALL

Playing scrub softball, Lenny uses a special glove, designed to work with his artificial arms. When he catches the ball he drops it and kicks it to the base he wants, much in the manner a soccer player directs a pass.

In 1961 he was named all-star right wing in the Edmonton and District Junior-Juvenile Soccer Association. Later he set up the only goal in the city juvenile final and was voted the city's outstanding juvenile soccer player.

Each week he attends swimming classes of the Dolphin Swimming Society, a club comprised of about 50 handicapped persons. He was the first member to win all five of the club's proficiency awards.

At a recent splash party, a car key was thrown into the pool and Lenny had to retrieve it. In he went, found the key, picked it up with his foot, placed it between his teeth and then swam to the surface.

In school art classes, Len amazes fellow students and teachers with his sketches of cars. He does his school work with the use of his special arms, but it's a tiring task and at home he works with his feet.

He has skated since he was five and played hockey on outdoor rinks.

He enjoys dancing—especially the twist.

"A lot of my friends are a little shy to get up at dances, but not me," he said. "I think it's great."

Student wears peace armband, is suspended

NEW YORK (AP) — Tedi Farber, who was suspended from a high school in Queens County for continuing to wear a peace group armband, transferred to a Suffolk County High School Tuesday.

A school official said Tedi's father had informed him the 15-year-old girl was going to live with a relative in Syosset to attend school there, rather than give up the armband.

Tedi, a "very bright" senior at Francis Lewis High School in Flushing, Queens, first wore the armband to class a week ago. It was a wide white band-lettered "world wide general strike for peace."

Called to the office and told to take it off, Tedi refused. She was suspended and sent home. But on Friday she was back with two other youngsters picketing the school.

School officials called her father and told him to take her home.

NORAD

Though 5 years old, it's not understood

OTTAWA (CP)—North American Air Defence Command, a joint Canadian - United States undertaking to try to prevent war, is five years old. Like any five-year-old, it is still growing — and still partly misunderstood.

NORAD was established as a purely defensive command in 1957. It cannot start a war, nuclear or conventional, even by accident. It would go into action only when enemy bombers were overhead. And its weapons can't reach the Soviet Union, even supposing one were fired by accident.

Before 1957, Canada and the U.S. had long had their separate air defence commands and they worked closely together. But it was felt that because, for air defence purposes, the two countries are a single unit, air defence operations should be even more closely knit under a single headquarters. NORAD, with headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., was the result.

The West's chief arm of retaliation against any Soviet aggression is the Strategic Air Command of the U.S. Air Force. SAC is the main deterrent to war because the U.S.S.R., if it planned to strike, would know in advance it would have to take a massive counter-blow which might destroy it.

PROTECTS SAC

But SAC in itself has never been considered a complete deterrent, if there is such a thing. It would have to be protected so that its bombers could not be caught on the ground and incinerated in any sneak attack. NORAD is SAC's protector.

NORAD is responsible for two things: providing warning of any air or space attack on North America and fighting the defensive air battle. Billions of dollars have been spent for these purposes.

When NORAD was formed, the basic elements of air defence already existed: Jet interceptors and radars for warning and interceptor control.

But since its establishment there has been a vast improvement in capabilities. Here are some examples:

NORAD now has a ballistic missile early warning system in Alaska and Greenland to provide some 15 to 30 minutes warning of intercontinental rocket assault.

It has a system to track—and keep track of—all space vehicles, whether satellites or burned-out rockets.

ANTI — MISSILE MISSILE

The U.S. Army has successfully test-fired a Nike - Zeus rocket designed to destroy ballistic missiles in space.

The Distant Early Warning radar line across northern Alaska and the Canadian Arctic has been extended far into the Aleutians on the west and across Greenland and Iceland to Britain on the east.

There are 10 bases, two in Canada, with 28 launching pads each for the Bomarc-B anti-aircraft missile which has a range of some 400 miles.

An electronic control network known as SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) has been built to provide faster and more efficient control over manned and unmanned interceptors.

U.S. interceptors, including some in the National Guard (reserve squadrons), are equipped with nuclear air-to-air rockets.

RCAF Air Defence Command this year was equipped with a new interceptor, the American CF-101B Voodoo supersonic jet.

An atomic reactor provides the power for the U.S. Air Force radar station on a mountaintop at Sundance, Wyo.

BOMBER STILL THREAT

NORAD is far from content with this build-up, however.

It wants a new long-range jet to intercept any enemy bombers much farther north. This requirement has been dictated by the advent of the air-to-ground missile which can be fired by a bomber when it is still hundreds of miles from its target.

NORAD is working on a back-up system for SAGE so that it would still have control over interceptors even if SAGE were knocked out in an attack.

It will put its headquarters deep underground in Cheyenne Mountain near Colorado Springs.

And it wants, of course, the Canadian government to accept nuclear warheads for the Bomarc and Voodoo.

The NORAD agreement runs to 1967. Officials say the bomber threat will last much longer than that and that there is little doubt the agreement will be renewed.

RCAF Air Marshal Roy Slemon, deputy commander of NORAD, now is working with—not under — the third U.S. NORAD commander. Last year, Slemon was in charge some two-thirds of the time.

Red Chinese use museum for propaganda

By ADAM KELLETT-LONG

PEKING (Reuters) — In Peking's "revolutionary military museum" stand row on row of helmets taken from dead American soldiers.

Beside them are shoulder tabs taken from the uniforms of soldiers from Canada, Colombia, Thailand, and a cap badge from an unknown soldier of Britain's Gloucestershire Regiment.

They are only a few of the exhibits displayed around a raised dais in a hall devoted to the Korean War in the huge museum on the outskirts of Communist China's capital.

A complete tour of the museum's 22,000 exhibits would mean a 7½-mile walk through nine exhibition halls and would last at least two days.

The Korean War hall is one of the largest and, as well as booty taken from captured or killed United Nations troops during the war, contains excerpts from books written by American generals and a whole showcase of exhibits devoted to attempts to prove that the United States used bacteriological warfare in Korea.

The guide points, for example, to an evil-looking frog preserved in a glass jar and says "that was one of the infected frogs dropped over Manchuria by the Americans in the Korean War to infect the local population with terrible disease."

The seven-storey white stone building which houses the military museum was one of 10 impressive buildings constructed at great speed in 1959 to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the establishment of the Chinese Peoples' Republic.

It is topped by an illuminated red star on a 120-foot tower which can be seen at night from all over Peking.

Two defect

CAIRO (AP)—Two Jordanian Air Force pilots defected to the United Arab Republic Tuesday aboard two British - made Hawker Hunter jets. The two, Lieut. Harbi Aaref Sandouka and Lieut. Tahseen Fouad Sayma, told reporters they defected because they were unwilling to take part in "current preparations by the Jordanian Royal Air Force for bombarding Yemen."

Former journalist is named ambassador

By PAULINE VAILLANCOURT
Canadian Press Correspondent

ROME (CP) — Canada's ambassador to Italy is a former Ottawa newspaper man with impressive academic qualifications—a law degree from the University of Montreal and a doctorate in letters from the Sorbonne.

Jules Leger, a native of St. Anicet, Que., was named ambassador three months ago. He succeeded Leon Mayrand, who had held the post since 1958.

Once associate editor of Le Droit, where he specialized in international affairs, Mr. Leger quit journalism in 1938 to enter the diplomatic service. The experience he has acquired in almost a quarter century with the department of external affairs is no less impressive than his academic record.

He joined the department as third secretary. In 1943, when Canada opened an embassy in Chile, he went to Santiago as third secretary there.

After a subsequent posting to London and another stay in Ottawa, he was named ambassador to Mexico in 1953.

ON NATO COUNCIL

He was recalled to Ottawa once again the following year, this time as under-secretary of state for external affairs. He held the post until 1958, when he was appointed Canada's permanent representative to the NATO Council.

"This NATO post," Leger said in an interview, "is more of a technical than a diplomatic one.

"The NATO Council reflects a type of diplomacy that is bound to become increasingly important: diplomacy by congress, or by council, which is proving to be most suitable for maintaining multilateral relations between countries and for promoting international relations in this modern age when the ties between countries are becoming increasingly complex in some fields."

Leger said Canada's embassy in Rome has become one of the most important maintained in any Western nation.

IMPORTANT MARKET

"Economic relations between Canada and Italy should be intensified," he said.

"Business in Canada is developing at a very fast pace and is competing more and more for international markets. Canadian businessmen should take note of the potential of the Italian market."

The ambassador said one of the problems that crops up most frequently is immigration.

"It is a problem both complex and fascinating, for immigration creates more intimate links between countries than commerce or culture can do.

"The thousands of Italian immigrants who stake their future on Canada's every year . . . represent an inestimable human potential. They are the most valuable asset Canada can get from Italy.

"On the cultural level, Italy offers us rich possibilities for exchange in many fields. For us Canadians of French origin, Italy is the source of our own culture."

Montreal's waterfront district

Music critic fights to revive old quarter

By JOE DUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP) — The old quarter, where Montreal's history began, is a depressed 60-block waterfront area of shabby rooming houses and rotting buildings.

"It's at its rock-bottom lowest," says Eric McLean, "but if I were a millionaire one of the first things I would do is buy up property in the area."

Bachelor McLean, 42, music critic for the Montreal Star, is no sharp-dealing financier. His interest in the old quarter is purely altruistic. He wants the whole quarter restored, the venerable buildings propped up and preserved.

In May, 1961, he took out a lease—and later purchased outright for $25,000 — Papineau House, one of the quarter's worst derelicts. He did it because he hopes to show, by example, that the quarter "is a pleasant area in which to live," and persuade others to do likewise.

NO GAMBLE

"I'll wager that I'm the only person who lives in his own residence in the whole area," he says. Many who work there live elsewhere. The others congregate in rooming houses.

"One thing should be made clear. There is no gamble in investing in a home there. These old buildings can be made into wonderful homes. I'm not an eccentric."

He insists the city's historic houses are better buys than suburban split - levels, and other modern homes, which are "not as large or as comfortable."

Mr. McLean's bold plan to save his beloved quarter may be paying off. Montreal's fledgling National Theatre School hopes to raise funds to buy the 117-year - old Bonsecours Market building.

A Montreal city council commission, named for Jacques Viger, the city's first mayor whose house stood across from Papineau House, was set up to advise on historic buildings. The city now is considering tax concessions for people who restore houses in the quarter.

FLED IN 1837

Louis-Joseph Papineau was a 19th century rebel who was forced to flee Canada in 1837. His town house on historic Bonsecours Street overlooking the St. Lawrence River has been deteriorating ever since he left it.

Over the years successive landlords put up flimsy partitions to handle more tenants. Instead of replacing old rotted floors, new boards were merely hammered over the old. One room was nine layers thick.

Nobody seemed to care when the ceilings began to sag and the wiring and plumbing disintegrated. A sleezy restaurant occupied what had been Papineau's law office on the ground floor. The derelicts of society, drunks and down - and - outers, found the four-storey house to their liking—beds 15 cents to 25 cents a night.

It took Mr. McLean six months to clear a corner of the second floor where he could live. Exterminators worked an entire week ridding the house of rodents and vermin.

HAS LARGE APARTMENT

He threw himself vigorously into the task of restoration. Contractors were hired to do the major jobs. But he and some friends did most of the back-breaking work, sanding, cleaning, painting, wrecking.

Now he has a seven - room apartment on the restored second floor. But it's only a start. His plans are to convert the two top floors into apartments for rent. "I haven't even thought about that ground floor yet," he says.

Mr. McLean has been so busy that he hasn't had time yet to investigate a legend about the house's tunnel. Nobody has been able to find it, and nobody seems to know what it was used for. He thinks it may have been an escape tunnel to the river, or it may have linked Papineau's house with that of his father's nearby.

How long will it take to restore the house to his liking? "It's a career," he answers.

But, when he looks at the big, sprawling relic from the past and wonders what he's wrought, he's glad he stayed single.

"I never would have been able to talk a wife into this."

He hopes to interest others in buying and renovating historic properties in Montreal's old quarter, near the waterfront. (CP Photo)

Amateur pirate

B. C. cannon maker considered eccentric

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — To the uninitiated, the Ken Kendall family may seem to fall far on the other side of eccentric.

To the initiated, a visit is an experience that can't be forgotten.

Ken Kendall, 58, and his wife Mary live near an innocent-looking harbor about 10 miles south of here. Beware the innocent-looking harbor.

At the approach of a visitor's boat, in all probability a cannon shot will whistle past the bow. And depending on Mr. Kendall's evaluation, it may mean a friendly welcome or a warning to the enemy — the Stuffed Shirt.

Mr. Kendall, with earrings flashing from lobes he pierced himself, is, among many other things, a maker of cannon for yachtsmen, an amateur pirate, a collector of weapons and the owner of 50 precious acres liberally sprinkled with threatening notices proclaiming that trespassers will be shot, or worse.

STEAL THE BRASS

Mr. Kendall, a product of the University of Toronto, has made more than 100 cannon for U.S. yachtsmen and his friends in his backyard foundry.

To anyone who wants a cannon made, he urges them to bring their own brass ("about 16 pounds will do") and to steal the brass if at all possible ("the cannon fires better").

The iron cannon he trains on Stuffed Shirts ("there's no excuse for being pompous") is capable of firing a one-pound lead shot two miles with some accuracy.

The noise is deafening and mainly confined to signalling national holidays, but Mr. Kendall is always on the alert for Stuffed Shirts.

More than 5,000 persons have visited his log cabin home in the 15 years he and Mary have lived here.

"I pity all the rich men I know," he says. "I have everything a man could wish for. . . . On $200 a month we are rich."

Medicines come from the Kendall estate through herbs. Fuel comes from the beach. The car is used mainly to meet the school bus.

OWL FOR DINNER

His wife, a native of England, says she discovered here that British Columbians have some of the rarest foods right in their own front yard. Some of the ingredients may not inspire everyone — rattlesnake, octopus, wolf-eel, beaver, racoon, great horned owl, crow, squid, an occasional ferret and just plain grass.

For New Year's Eve supper last year, Mrs. Kendall began cooking early in October. She presented to her 42 guests on Dec. 31 a total of 92 dishes, few of them ever seen on a menu before.

Recently, the Kendalls borrowed enough money from the bank to purchase half a cow. From this came, among other cuts, almost 200 pounds of hamburger.

Mary promptly began writing a book to be entitled "Two Hundred and Fifty Ways to Cook Hamburger."

Despite the masquerade of pirate and the mock belligerence, Ken Kendall is a perfectionist at anything he attempts.

Only a few years ago, three of his guests proved to be Mounties who took possession of a neat little still and all it contained.

During the subsequent court proceedings, the prosecutor described the whisky as the strongest and best he had ever tasted.

The Oriental shift is favoured

What does it take to make a "shift"? First, a good fabric—preferably a brocade—but it can be made in a wool or firm cotton. The fabric must be one without too much stretch. It must have enough body to hold its shape—not yours.

Some use no darts in the back, allowing the "shift" to hang straight. Dart the front to be in keeping with the snug-fitting midriff. In such a case it is good to use an inside belt, tacked to the darts and right side seam and hooking under the zipper on the left. This holds the dress to your figure and makes it more attractive.

(A)

(B)

You may use snaps, or beautiful buttons—or frogs, in true Oriental fashion.

A shift dress should be lined throughout with a firm no-stretch fabric.

Choose a color, if possible, to harmonize with the fabric, which I assume will be truly lovely because this dress requires only 2 lengths of 35-inch fabric, or length of 54-inch to 60-inch, if you are slender.

The straight little collar is of the dress fabric, as are the fitted facings and flap lining at hem opening.

If you do not want an opening at hem, then cut your skirt with a 2 to 3-inch flare each side, extending this from the hip to bottom of dress. Check this before you begin to cut so that you will have room for walking.

The hem should be caught to the lining, as should the armhole facings.

If you use frogs, make a bias strip, with seam edges concealed, or use a silk cord.

To make bias fold for the frog: Frogs are made of cording or bias tubing. To make bias tubing for frogs, cut true bias strips 1-inch wide. Fold in half lengthwise, wrong side out and stitch a very scant ¼-inch from raw edges, stretching the strip as you stitch.

Taper the stitching at one end of the tubbing so that this opening will be a little larger. Sew a narrow bodkin to this end and work it through; the untrimmed raw edges will serve as filler.

Note the difference in the loop and knot (B). One side of the frog has a single loop, the other a knot which serves as a button. You can frog closing. The length of tubing depends on elaborateness of the frog design.

It is better to have the piece a little longer, as it can be cut off. For the loop side, about 12 inches; the knot side, 14 inches.

(A): Follow the chart to make the knot in the middle of the 14-inch strip. Then start to shape the frog, working on a flat surface, tacking as you go and making sure that the seam edge of the tubing will not show on the right side. Cut off any surplus and tack ends underneath.

After frog is finished, press lightly on wrong side with a steam iron. Sew to garment by hand, sewing around the edges with tiny invisible stitches to within an inch of the loop and the knot.

ADMIRAL SIR DUDLEY POUND CHAPTER, I.O.D.E.

The regular monthly meeting of the Admiral Sir Dudley Pound Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held November 13, at I.O.D.E. House on Moore Street. The regent, Mrs. Stephen Allatt presided.

The main topic under discussion was the forthcoming fashion show and sherry party entitled Festive Fashions being held at the Sherbrooke Country Club November 17 from 4 to 6 p.m.

The co-conveners, Mrs. Gordon Budning and Mrs. Paul Janson reported that all plans were going very smoothly and the show promised to be a great success. Mrs. Robert Beaudry, fashion convener, stated that fashion originals created by world-renown designers would be presented. Miss Ruth Elkas will be the commentator.

The Sherbrooke Country Club will be decorated in a Christmas theme under the convenership of Mrs. R. MacKenzie. The ticket conveners, Mrs. M. Webb and Mrs. K. Bailes, reported that ticket sales were going very well and that there would be only a limited amount on sale at the door.

Mrs. Ronald Kouri, publicity convener, stated that the local papers had given good coverage during the past two weeks. Mrs. Stephen Allatt and Mrs. Robert Beaudry were interviewed by Miss Alene Cassar of CKTS on November 8. Mrs. Paul Janson and Mrs. Ansell O'Connor appeared on the local television station, November 14 and on the local radio station on that day. Posters advertising the fashion show have been placed in store windows in Sherbrooke.

A new member, Mrs. Norman Frye, was sworn in and received her pin from the regent. Two new members were voted upon and will be sworn in at the December meeting.

Mrs. Ansell O'Connor will be the new hospitality convener, replacing Mrs. John Turnbull. Mrs. Norman Stafford, civil defence convener, read a list of essential supplies necessary for survival in an atomic war.

Two donations were sent to the Municipal Chapter. These were — (1) $50 for Christmas baskets, and (2) $5 for the poppy fund.

The members decided that we would have a Christmas buffet at the December meeting. After the meeting was adjourned, the hostesses for the evening Mrs. R. MacKenzie, Mrs. C. Bishop, and Miss G. MacWhirter served refreshments.

LENNOXVILLE WI

Lennoxville Women's Institute made final plans for their third annual pre-Christmas sale of hand-made gifts, home cooked foods and salad tea to be held in the club room Thursday afternoon, November 15 at their regular meeting which took the form of a supper and business session when the hostesses were Mrs. Ralph Mosher, Mrs. Lillian Stewart and Miss Gwen Killingbeck.

A highlight of the evening was a kitchen linen shower for the Maplemount Home in Cookshire.

Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace welcomed the members and guests and conducted a short business session. A most interesting roll call was responded to one hundred percent. Why I belong to the W.I.

An invitation was unanimiously accepted to accompany the Belvidere branch on a tour of the Lowney Plant in Sherbrooke, and members reported in a tour of the Paton woolen mills in Sherbrooke and noted and discussed the many departments of intense interest, describing the processes from the raw state to the beautiful finished materials. A most successful rummage sale was held and several members had assisted at the annual V.O.N. sale and at the Rotary boots and shoe-day.

The sum of $5 was voted towards the Children's UNICEF party and cards were ordered.

The monthly gift was donated by Mrs. Louis B. Pierce and won by Mrs. Ellen L. Atto.

Notice was given of the glove and slipper course for November 19 to 23 and all registered asked to be present on the opening session. The quarterly county meeting to be held at Brompton Road Community hall on November 13.

First chance is last

News item with a New York dateline:

"A new study indicates that youngsters who marry while in high school condition themselves for marital life much sooner than do persons marrying between the ages of 21 and 26.

"They are younger—14—at the time of their first date. They go steady earlier—age 15 or 16. And they experience premarital pregnancies to a much greater extent than do older pairs.

"Given a second chance many of them would postpone marriage."

They won't be given a second chance, of course. All they can do is try doubly hard to make a go of their too young marriages.

Their parents won't be given a second chance, either—second chance to say that 14 is too young to start dating and that going steady at 15 is out of the question.

But there is a chance here for a new set of teen-agers and their parents to avoid the mistakes of those who will never get a second chance.

The parents can take matters into their own hands and resolve it is up to them to decide when their children are old enough to date, instead of letting the kids persuade them that if they aren't in the dating swim by age 14 or even younger their lives will be ruined.

Parents can also rule out steady dating for kids still in the high school instead of professing to be against it but giving in with the helpless plea, "What can you do about it?"

And the teen-agers themselves can take to heart the finding that many of those couples who married in high school already regret being in such a rush to take on the responsibilities of marriage.

This is an important study—one that has a message for all teen-agers and their parents.

Gaile Dugas on fashion

The fragile look of practical velvet fashions

PRACTICAL VELVET — These lush but practical robes of boulevard velvet take fashion inspiration from the 1930's. The Marienbad look is seen (left) in this pink velvet robe bordered in fluffy marabou. Slim hostess gown (center) has front zipper, is trimmed with bands of embroidered gold braid. Short bedroom coat of quilted velvet (right) has sparkly jeweled buttons. Velvet in all three robes is both spot and crush resistant and will give long wear.

NEW YORK — That murky film, "Last Year at Marienbad," has had an impact on fashion even if no one understands what the movie is all about.

First there came the "Marienbad" hairdo. Now, the feather-trimmed robe the heroine wears in one scene has touched off a rage for marabou-trimmed robes in the same genre.

But while the American versions of this robe cater to the same love of luxury, they are cut from durable boulevard velvet. This is the velvet that looks fragile but is both spot and crush resistant.

Other velvet fashions for at-home this fall and winter are equally feminine. Those who love the day length quilted coat may have it with the added sparkle of jeweled buttons.

The long, slinky robe with a touch of Oriental glitter is very much "in" this winter. A 1962 version of the hostess gown of the 1930s, it's done in brandy-colored boulevard velvet with bands of embroidered gold braid.

From a modern point of view, the beauty of these boulevard velvet robes lies in the fact that they need no special babying. If they are crushed, they will shake out. They dry clean beautifully. They are sufficiently durable so that they will give literally seasons of service. And they are weightless yet warm. (NEA).

FREEZER PACKAGING

Most popular month for marriages in Canada in 1960 was July with a total of 18,485, and least favored January with 5,220.

With commercial apple orchards in the lead, total value of all fruit crops in Canada was about $53,000,000 in 1960.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, November 15th — Taken a good look lately? At your property, I mean. Whether you own your home, a block of flats, an apartment building — or all three — it will certainly pay you to keep your property in good repair at all times. At this time of the year, good workmen are readily available — so now's the time to get your repair work or improvements underway. And, you know, there's no need for lack of ready cash to hold up the work you want to put in hand. Just talk to the people at your neighbourhood branch of the BANK OF MONTREAL about a low-cost Home Improvement Loan. They'll be glad to show you what an H.I.L. can do for you.

DECEMBER WEATHER ISN'T KIND to us, is it? One day it's crisp and cold — the next day may be damp and drizzly. Extreme temperature changes cause most of our winter colds — colds that make us feel uncomfortable and out-of-sorts with nagging aches and pains. That's why I consider wonderful pain-relieving BEN-GAY a wintertime 'must'. And now there's the NEW BEN-GAY — greaseless and stainless, and every bit as effective as your old long-time favourite. Simply massage it gently into the spots where the pain is most severe . . . it penetrates deep and fast to bring welcome relief from chest cold congestion, headaches, neuralgia and muscular strain! Keep Ben-Gay handy any season — New greaseless Ben-Gay with the vanishing cream base.

LET ME TELL YOU about my new margarine discovery . . . FLEISCHMANN'S Margarine. There's a big difference between this good-tasting margarine and others you may have tried. Fleischmann's is made only from one hundred percent corn oil, with almost a full cup of liquid corn oil in every pound of margarine. This means that Fleischmann's is high in polyunsaturates . . . low in saturates. In fact, of all leading margarines, it has the highest ratio of polyunsaturates to saturated fats. That makes it ideal for modern diets . . . ask your doctor about its benefits. One of its biggest benefits, you won't have to ask about . . . just taste! I know you'll like the luxurious flavor of Fleischmann's Margarine!

SOMETHING GOOD FOR EVERY MEAL of the day . . . and, so often, these good 'somethings' begin with a package of TEA-BISK. You see, Monarch Tea-Bisk is an all-purpose mix that can be used for any number of taste treats. One of my family's favourites . . . piping-hot, home-made tea biscuits . . . and, with Tea-Bisk I can make them so easily simply by adding milk or water. Do buy Tea-Bisk today and try some of the wonderful recipes on the package. And, notice when you buy it, that Tea-Bisk now comes in handy, pre-measured, 1-cup envelopes!

IT'S 'TOPS' IN POPULARITY! Yes, Bright's MANOR ST. DAVIDS CLARET is the most popular red table wine in Canada . . . and no wonder. You see, it's a delightful 'wine of the country' at a price so low that everyone can enjoy it. Manor St. Davids is made right here in Canada — from grapes grown in the sunny Niagara Peninsula. Delicious with steaks, chops, hamburgers — red meat of any kind. Do try it! I know you'll agree with me that a good meal becomes a gala occasion with the addition of Bright's Manor St. Davids Claret.

Brights Manor St. Davids CANADIAN CLARET DRY

MY SISTER-IN-LAW HAS REALLY SOLD ME on the many advantages of CALGON, the wonder water conditioner. For instance, Calgon prevents Hangover Dirt . . . the film of soil, minerals, soap or detergent that sticks to your clothes. It's like the ring you get in the bathtub. Hangover Dirt makes your clothes stiff and scratchy — colors drab and dingy. But Calgon, the Water Doctor, CURES Hangover Dirt — prevents and removes it naturally without bleach. Calgon conditions water so you need less soap — get clothes softer, more absorbent and really clean. For brighter, cleaner clothes — launder with Calgon.

AT THE TOP OF MY LIST of petty annoyances, I'd have to put clogged-up, sluggish drains . . . and they are so unnecessary! Yes, by pouring in just 2 tablespoons of GILLETT'S DRAIN CLEANER you can rid your kitchen and bathroom of the sewer germs that lurk in every slow-moving drain. It takes only minutes, yet this simple chore will save you costly plumber's bills and will guarantee you drains that are fast-running, clean and sanitary. Remember that just 2 tablespoons of Gillett's Drain Cleaner in every drain, once a week, is your assurance of immaculate cleanliness!

Kennedy gives president's pay to charities

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House sources said Wednesday that President Kennedy, since he entered the U.S. Congress in 1947, has contributed all his government salary to charities.

Informants said Kennedy would contribute his $100,000 pay as president to charities this year, as he did with his presidential pay in 1961.

In giving his salary to charity, Kennedy is following a precedent set by President Herbert Hoover three decades ago. Both have large personal fortunes.

The informants who told of how Kennedy is disposing of his salary did so in response to questions about a copyright story to that effect in the Minneapolis Tribune and Des Moines Register.

The White House did not officially comment on the story by Fletcher Knebel of the newspapers' Washington bureau, but sources close to the president said the report is true. They would not identify the charities.

These sources added that Kennedy has used his personal funds for private, family entertaining, but draws on his $50,000 expense allowance in government funds to pay for public, official social events.

IODE festive fashion show to be held November 17

What women will be wearing for this festive season will be presented in the form of cocktail dresses, afternoon and evening wear, fur coats and wraps by the models in the Festive Fashion Show.

Sponsored by the Admiral Sir Dudley Pound Chapter, I.O.D.E. Saturday November 17, the festive fashion show will be held at the Sherbrooke Country Club from 4 to 6 p.m.

Co-conveners are Mrs. Paul Janson and Mrs. Gordon Budning. Fashion convener will be Mrs. Robert Beaudry. Commentator is Miss Ruth Elkas.

Tickets for the fashion show are now on sale at Budning's Drug Store and Jeanne Brien, both stores on Wellington Street North.

Sherry will be served at the fashion show and there will be several door prizes donated by local merchants.

In charge of publicity is Mrs. Ronald Kouri. Mrs. Morley Webb is in charge of tickets and Mrs. R. MacKenzie is in charge of decorations.

Some eight models will be fashioning the latest in Christmas cocktail dresses, afternoon and evening wear and fur coats.

Among the models will be Mrs. Guy Joubert, Mrs. Russel Marois, Diane Brien, Janine Morin, and Denyse Ferlande.

FOR EVENING WEAR — This short evening dress of jewelled white silk satin and chiffon is included in fall fashions by New York designers. Sequin embroidery on the bodice matches the emerald green of the fluid skirt. Dress designed by Gothe of New York. Cocktail dresses will be shown November 17 at a Fashion show sponsored by the IODE at the Sherbrooke Country Club.

STRIKING FORMAL GOWN—The famous Paris fashion house of Griffe includes in its fall showing this striking formal gown of pale blue satin in Orlon acrylic fibre and silk. The fabric rounds the hips and gives shape to a softly swirling skirt. Beading and looped fringe at waist and neckline intermingle red, green and silver. Cocktail dresses and evening wear will be shown at the IODE Fashion Show November 17 at the Sherbrooke Country Club.

Britain, Japan sign trade pact

LONDON (AP)—Britain and Japan today signed a treaty of commerce and navigation making normal their trade ties for the first time since the war and opening the way for a big boost in business between them.

The signing of the treaty in Lancaster House was witnessed by Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Hayato Ikeda, who is touring Europe.

The treaty provides for most-favored-nation tariff and trade relations between the two governments. Since the war British-Japanese trade had been conducted on the basis of tightly controlled year-to-year agreements which set quotas and contained certain discriminatory provisions limiting the amount of business that could be done.

Breakfast is the meal that adds the least weight of any meal in the day. It raises the blood sugar level and provides much-needed nourishment after a long fast. At the same time, it avoids unwanted extra poundage because it is eaten just as the day's activities begin, and calories are used up faster than at any other time.

Split English muffins and spread the tops generously with butter or margarine. Sprinkle them with dried herbs such as thyme, oregano, rosemary or fine herbs mixture. Toast in a portable or oven broiler or saute in a skillet on the stove, adding additional butter or margarine as necessary.

Young Canadian makes out well

LONDON (CP) — A circular bookcase, a flame gun and two poodles . . .

Such is the unusual shopping list of William Holden, a Saskatchewan wheat farmer's son who at 33 is one of the youngest executives to crash the inner circles of British publishing.

A native of Indian Head, Sask. and graduate of the University of Western Ontario, Holden has just been named a director on the board of William Heinemann Limited, a leading British publishing company.

One of his functions is to arrange television interviews for visiting authors and "generally keep them happy."

Among the writers with whom he has been involved recently are Erskine Caldwell of Tobacco Road fame and S. J. Perelman, specialist in esoteric vocabulary.

It was Perelman who asked for the bookcase, two poodles to pull it and a flame gun to beat off intruders.

Holden has risen fast in British publishing. He first came here during summer holidays, liked it and decided to come back.

STARTED ON PAPER

He did so in 1951. Having had experience with the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, he worked for a year at Reuters news agency in London. In 1955 he went into publishing and four years later joined his present firm.

To a reporter who asked whether there is much difference between the world of a wire - service editor, with its round-the-clock pressures, and the quieter pace of publishing, Holden replied:

"There isn't really all that much of a gap, you know. Editors in news agencies are made up to a considerable extent of men who feel they are writers manques, who are always waiting for a chance to work on the novel they know they have in them, or who want to get into publicity or something less exacting."

A bachelor, Holden lives in London and has a country cottage in Oxfordshire.

Russian medical quackery plaques all legitimate Soviet physicians

Topics this week: Russian medical quackery, eyelash replacements, and the ruling out of the "seat belt syndrome."

RUSSIAN QUACKS

Medical charlatans, or quacks, are a problem in Russia and legitimate Soviet physicians scornfully term them "killer doctors."

That's the situation found recently by Dr. Sol R. Baker of Los Angeles during a visit to Russia, says a report in Medical Tribune.

Baker, declaring such quackery goes on in big cities such as Moscow and Leningrad as well as in rural areas, says he observed or learned of such practices as:

Treating cancer with alternate hot and cold water douches. . . . Pasting slips of paper, containing arabic incantations scrawled on them, over a diseased area of the body. . . . Prescribing the carrying of small potatoes in one's pocket as a treatment for arthritis.

NEW EYELASHES

Japanese surgeons have developed a technique for replacing eyelashes when the eyelid has been scarred by a burn, or the lashes themselves have been turned white by an eye lotion that came into use in Japan after the Second World War. The technique is also described as being a good bet for providing chorus girls and actresses ith long lashes, if they lack them.

The method involves taking a graft of hair and skin from the scalp to replace an upper eyelash — and a graft from the eyebrow for the lower eyelash.

Have no fears that the wearing of seat belts, while protecting you from other injuries in a car crash, might at the same time enhance your chances of getting an abdominal injury.

That's the word from a team of Cornell University researchers who conducted a special study.

They examined records from 2,778 automobile accidents in which out of 3,673 occupants of the cars, 3,325 more seat belts and 944 of them were injured. But the doctors found that the frequency of lower torso injuries among the injured seat belt users was mucht he same as it was among occupants who did not wear belts.

Checker taxis made by Michigan perfectionist

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—The assembly line was at a standstill. Workmen watched as the short, slightly plump man in the expensive grey pin-stripe suit, grey felt hat and leather work gloves grasped the sheet metal.

He shoved pieces together and gestured vigorously to nearby welders to get on with the job.

"Oh, oh," said the man's son. "Father's wearing his 'dammit' look."

The man was Morris Markin and the scene was the unorthodox plant of his Checker Motors Corp., which for 40 years has turned out a good share of U.S. taxicabs. Since 1959 it has also built some passenger cars.

The son, David, is the 31-year-old sales vice-president of Checker and the apple of his father's eye.

"What did you think of my son?" Markin abruptly asked an interviewer. "He isn't a rich man's son, is he?"

Morris Markin is a rich man. His share of Checker stock alone is worth almost $12,000,000 and he has many other holdings. But when he arrived in the United States from his native Russia in 1912 he had $1.65.

Now 69, he still works "eight to 10 hours a day because if I retired I'd die."

David Markin began working summers in the plant when he was 17. Like his father he can call each of the more than 600 Checker employees by their first names.

Morris Markin says he was dragged into the automobile business in 1919 to protect an investment. He organized Checker in 1921 although, in his words, "I knew as much about the automobile then as I know now about what's going on in heaven."

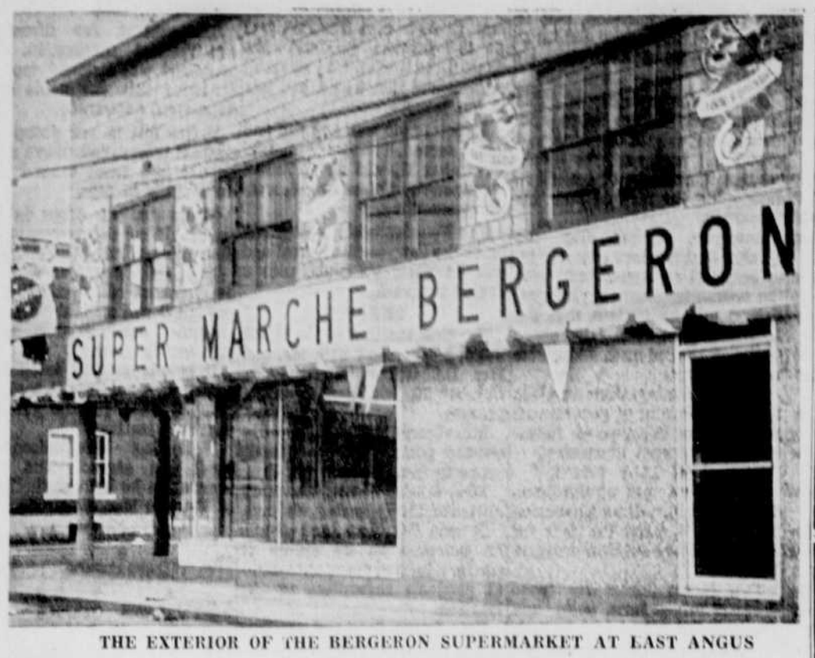

After 38 years of building nothing but cabs, Checker branched into the passenger car business in 1959. The Checker Superba was launched June 10 that year.

Markin doesn't view Checker as any threat to the established passengar car manufacturers "They don't need us unless we can do something better," he says. But he obviously believes he has a quality product.

He is willing to stop production entirely if he doesn't like the way something is being done. Half-completed cars often have stood idle on the line and assembly workers loafed with hands on hips while Markin explored the workings of the welding guns.

Checker didn't make annual model changes on its taxis and it doesn't on its cars, either Basic styling hasn't been seriously altered since 1956. When Markin announced his passenger car he declared he would sell up to 15,000 a year. So far he hasn't come close. Total production this year will run about 8,000 vehicles of which about 3,500 will be cars.

Bergeron Super Market is enlarged

THE EXTERIOR OF THE BERGERON SUPERMARKET AT EAST ANGUS

EAST ANGUS — Thanks to the recent enlargement of the Bergeron Supermarket at East Angus the customers will have available for their shopping convenience double the amount of space.

In addition to this, the whole market has been redecorated in fresh light shades to provide clients with added visual comfort.

One of the idea kept in mind throughout the time that the store was being remodelled was to provide the client with an agreeable atmosphere in which to shop.

The management believes that it has succeeded in producing the effect desired in modernizing the establishment.

Numerous up-to-date refrigeration units have been installed to conserve the foodstuffs.

As in the past there will be no shortage of provisions from which the customers can choose

Meats, vegetables, fruits, frozen products and dairy products will all be available in abundance, providing the customers with as wide a selection as the store's physical capacity will permit.

Among the special services provided to the clients of the Bergeron Supermarket, free-of charge, is the delivery service

Furthermore for the customer who likes to do his business over the telephone there are now two telephones available.

Phone numbers are as follows: TR. 2-2421 and TR. 2-2422.

Mr. Bergeron guarantees that customers will always receive the utmost courtesy in their dealings with his establishment, as those who have been associated with him in the past have been accustomed to.

J. Pruneau Bergeron who is the owner of this establishment is the latest of a family that is extremely well known in the East Angus area.

The establishment was founded in the year 1915 by Theophile Bergeron. His father, Francois Xavier Bergeron became an associate in the year 1919.

Although J. Pruneau Bergeron is the most experienced of the sons in the business,

J. P. BERGERON, proprietor

having amassed 35 years of experience, he also received the co-operation of several of his brothers in making the establishment what it is today.

His brothers Arthur, Edouard and Modiste as well as his sons Pruneau, Gerard, Rodrigue, Jean-Luc and Gilles all contributed to making this "Supreme" Supermarket what it it is today.

The grand opening of the Supermarket was November 8, when a number of specials and gifts were offered but Mr. Bergeron would like to again remind everybody in East Angus of his feeling of gratefulness for making the opening day such a success, and furthermore say that he will continue to serve and welcome his clients as in the past.

The financial report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. R. W. Craighead, showing proceeds of $262.15 from the recent rummage sale, with a bank balance of $380.16. A number of outstanding bills were presented and ordered paid.

Mrs. John Pope reported on the Little Helpers party held recently, collection from the boxes amounted to $24.25.

Donations were made to the following: $10 to the Diocese of the Arctic; $25 as a Christmas gift to the Rev. Aizawa and family, of Nagoyashi, Japan, a family adopted by the Branch; $50 to be sent to Montreal, as the collection for St. Andrew's Cay; $25 as a Christmas gift to Rev. A corporate communion service will be held for the W.A members on Sunday morning, Nov. 25, at eight in St. James Church. At this time flowers will be placed on the altar in memory of the Branch's members, who have been called to higher service.

Mrs. John Ewing, chairman of the rummage sale committee, thanked those who had helped.

This was the final meeting for the year. Appointed as members of the nominating committee to present the slate of officers at the annual meeting in January, were: Mrs. Grisdale Gould, chairman, Mrs. John Ppoe and Mrs. Lloyd Elliott.

Mrs. Jack Paton, Dorcas secretary, read the requisition list for the Branch's sale, which this year, again goes to the Indian residential school at Prince Albert, Sask.

Refreshments were served, the hostsses being Mrs. Jack Paton and Mrs. Allan Palmer.

YOUNG BISHOP—The Very Rev. Kenneth Maguire, 39-year-old bishop-elect of Montreal, is one of the youngest bishops in the history of the Anglican Church of Canada A native of Ireland, he was curate at the Church of St. James the Apostle in Montreal from 1949 to 1952. He returned to Ireland for eight years before becoming rector of Montreal's Christ Church Cathedral in 1960. (CP Photo).

Fewer miners, better trained

VANCOUVER (CP) — The miner of tomorrow will need at least a Grade 12 education and trade papers, a mining industry spokesman has predicted.

"Once the illiterate could get by," C. H. Mitchell, secretary of the Mining Association of B.C., told a miners' convention here. "This no longer holds true.

"Employers are not prepared to entrust large shovels, rotary drills, quarry masters, crushing or milling machinery to the unskilled or the untrained. It costs too much money to take any such gamble."

The emphasis in mining is, and will continue to be, on machines.

Farm Forum Activities

THIRD RANGE

The regular meeting of the Third Range Farm Forum was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Bonnallie with a good attendance.

Mrs. Richie Harrison read the green leaf in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Milton Brown.

The broadcast on vertical integration was considered very good.

The following questions were discussed,

Question No. 1: What comments (agreement, disagreement) do you have about the I.F.A.P. statement on vertical integration?

Answer: The majority of the group agreed with the I.F.A.P statement, there was a good discussion on this question but no comments.

Question 2A: What crops in your area lend themselves to vertical integration.

Answer: Broilers and Hogs.

B. What affects will its development have on your community?

Answer: With vertical integration it will make the price of Broilers and hogs cheaper to the farmer and the consumer.

C. What should be done about it?

Answer: The feed dealer should only sell feed and let the farmer produce the milk, eggs, beef and pork, etc. After the discussion period several families paid their membership fees for this year, one new member joining. Cards were played at three tables. The hostess served lunch assisted by some of the members.

The next meeting is on November 12, at Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brown's.

COOKSHIRE

Farm Forum was entertained this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Learned, 21 being present.

The subject for the evening was vertical integration, how it could affect the farmer and farm community, its uses and perhaps abuses?

It was the opinion of this forum, that, in the more specialized aspects of farming and where the turnover was quickest that it could be of benefit in developing the farmer and his resources.

However, it was also the opinion that farmers entering into contract or agreement with the promoters financing integration should be certain that the contracts provide a fair share of the profits of such enterprise to themselves.

If vertical integration develops a certain amount of government regulation of this type of industry may become necessary.

HIGH AND LOW FOREST

The Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs.Clive Thompson November 5, when the topic for discussion was vertical integration.

This forum thinks the trend towards larger farm units will continue but not so fast as their are not inoustries enough for men to go into. It is hoped the family farm will remain but will be larger as too small farms don't give one a decent living.

The small farmer lacks capital to enlarge his undertaking There is too much spread between the grain raised by the Western farmer and the price that has to be paid here.

The forum would like to see a fairer system so the big man couldn't hurt the little man so much. If the big companies were kept at their own business and let the farmers produce the crops there wouldn't be so much surplus and this would end lots of the trouble.

A social time was enjoyed and lunch served. The next meeting, November 17, will be at Russel Thompson's in Massawippi, weather permitting.

The Fourth Night meeting will be in the Sawyerville School and will be Farmer's night with a varied program.

CREEK

The first meeting of the Creek Farm Forum met with Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Tibbits, Bondville, October 29, with ten members present.

Mr. George Allen led the discussion period, the topic being property tax.

Mrs. Gordon Honey, secretary recorded the following findings.

It was felt that land should be assessed on its ability to produce income from agricultural products regardless of its location.

This forum does not see how it can be changed to bring about a desired improvement.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was served by the hostess assisted by the ladies present.

The next meeting has not been arranged for as yet.

SAWYERVILE

The Sawyerville Farm Forum met for the first time this season at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Grapes with seven members present.

The subject for discussion was Vertical Integration. The broadcast was listened too and following this the guide questions were answered.

It was felt in our group that vertical integration didn't affect anyone too much around here unless it is in pigs.

There are no crops in this area that lend themselves to vertical integration.

It is felt here that with the development of vertical integration it will undoubtedly help to cause over production of pigs in this area.

It is felt vertical integration is not for us unless it could be handled through the farmer's own co-operatives.

Following this discussion lunch was served. The next meeting to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wells Bishop.

QUEEN VISITS MEDICAL MUSEUM — Britain's Queen Elizabeth II views giant skeleton displayed in Hunterian Museum during tour of new buildings of London's Royal College of Surgeons of England Wednesday. Denmark emigrant started working in Canada for 80 cents per hour now owns $1,000,000 company

SEAFORTH, Ont. (CP)—Ten years ago Peter Christensen, an emigrant from Denmark, signed up with 80 others to work on a government project in Labrador. He'd never heard then of Labrador, and didn't care where it was, but he accepted the job and landed with total assets of $120.

Today people in Seaforth, 24 miles northwest of Stratford, say Peter Christensen has accomplished more in Canada in those 10 years than most Canadians accomplish in a lifetime.

He has organized three companies, raised his family in a new home he built with his own construction company and is manager of Seaforth Sewer Tile Limited, a company worth more than $1,000,000, which is embarking on a large expansion program in Toronto.

Concrete pipe that Mr. Christensen designed has become the first tile of its kind to be made successfully in Canada.

When he heard the loudspeakers blaring "Immigrants this way," 10 years ago in Halifax he had more doubts than ever before about his future in Canada. He found many Canadians out of work.

HIT BY DEPRESSION

He was born in Denmark and at age 20 had started his own business, but the depression left him with little and he joined a concrete manufacturing company. He was able to invent new methods and machines which helped the company prosper and on the money he earned he started another business on his own.

The Second World War and the German occupation of his country ended this venture.

When he came to Canada he started work at 90 cents an hour, later raised to $1.00. He worked as many hours as he could and within four and a half months he had $1,000 and had paid his family's passage to their new country.

Things were not easy. Mr. Christensen has a motto, "Trouble is here to conquer," and he soon had trouble. He developed eczema on his hands and his savings went to pay for a skin specialist.

He worked in the Arctic Circle to restore his savings, but again eczema dwindled his money away.

STARTED BUSINESS

Undeterred he started his own business manufacturing small concrete products and within a year he was building supermarkets, bridges and swimming pools. He no longer makes concrete products and has closed the contracting company.

Despite the destruction of his original Canadian company in a fire, he has never looked back and today can say:

"My boy is in high school, my girl is training to be a nurse, and I think they will do as I do —forever count this big country, with all its variations in nature, its richness, its peaceful people and good democratic system of government, as the country of our future."

Okanagan fruit in wide demand

VANCOUVER (CP) — Long noted for its fruit trees, British Columbia's Okanagan Valley now is becoming a prime area for wine grapes.

B.C. winemakers, with sales booming in recent years, are searching for more Okanagan grapes. The Okanagan vineyards now produce only one-quarter of the grapes needed each year by B.C. winemakers. The remainder comes from California.

Winemakers predict the Okanagan production will double in four or five years, and that in 15 years the valley may produce all the grapes that are needed.

One company has spent more than $85,000 in developing Okanagan vineyards in either direct financial assistance or in guarantees for growers under contract. Another company is also sponsoring growers and a third plans a campaign to sign growers to long-term contracts.

The investments won't pay immediate dividends, since a developing vineyard needs about four years to start supplying grapes.

REFORMER AMBUSHED

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters) — The government Wednesday imposed martial law in Shiraz, capital of the southern province of Fars, following the murder of Malek Abedi, chief of the province's land reform organization. Abdei was ambushed by masked bandits Monday while driving to survey large private estates which are to be distributed among landless peasants.

Birthday party held in honor of Magog youth

MAGOG — A delightful party was given on Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whittier for their son, Carl, who was celebrating his 19th birthday.

Upon arriving at La Gondole, in Venise at the appointed hour of 9 p.m. Carl was surprised to find some 45 of his skier and basketball friends assembled there to greet him.

The hall was appropriately decorated with baskets of green boughs, autumn leaves, red berries and cat-tails, as well as the usual streamers, balloons and lighted candles at each end of the guest table which was centered with a huge birthday cake.

The evening was spent in dancing; however a surprise was given with the introduction by Mrs. Herbert Whittier, manager of a newly formed amateur dance band known as the Galazies, consisting of Leader Francis Meehan, George Aldrich, Norman Benoit, Phillip and Carl Whittier. This group, formed only at the beginning of September, rendered four selections which were received with enthusiasm.

The guest of honor was the recipient of many gifts.

After door prizes were drawn a buffet lunch was served to climax an enjoyable evening. Out-of-town guests were from Sherbrooke, Quebec City and Montreal.

BAN EX-PRESIDENT

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The Dominican Republic government Wednesday banned Joaquin Balaguer, long-time political stooge of slain dictator Rafael Trujillo, from returning to campaign for the presidency. The 55-year-old Balaguer, who served as president under Trujillo and hung on for a while after the dictator's assassination, is living in exile in New York City. He was ousted in January.

BEEF ON THE HOOF — About 600 yearlings are rounded up and driven to ranches for winter feeding or marketing after grazing during the summer in the Alberta foothills. The short-grass area around Lethbridge, Alta., has produced some of the best beef in Canada. But a 1961 Prairie drought resulted in severe declines in stock and high meat prices this year. Woman's Institute meeting is held in Sawyerville

SAWYERVILLE — The regular meeting of the Woman's Institute was held in the town hall on Wednesday evening with a good attendance of members and visitors.

The topic for the evening was home economics; members answered the roll-call by naming a household material not in use fifty years ago.

It was reported that the course in leather work now in progress, is being well attended.

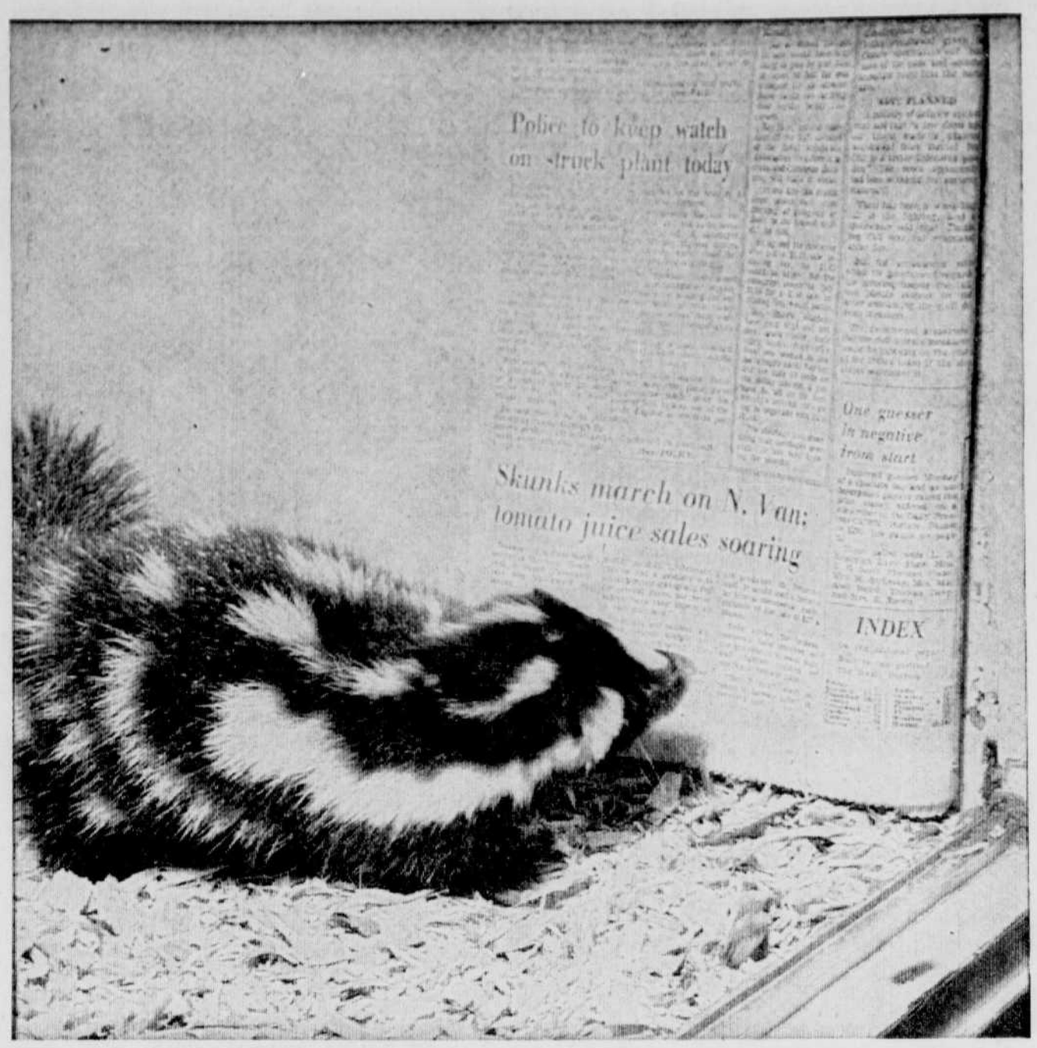

Plans were discussed for serving dinner to members of Compton County Agriculture Society on Nov. 24.

A report on the highlights of the semi-annual convention held in Cookshire, was given by Mrs. V. Hurley.

It was decided that each member invite a guest to the December meeting — gifts suitable for children at the Dixville Home are to be brought to this meeting.

A film on Christmas wrappings was shown.

Lunch was served by Mrs. D. Twyman, Mrs. A. Robinson, and Mrs. D. Mackay.

R.C. ecumenical council marked by "climate of Christian charity"

VATICAN CITY (CP) — The only Canadian Anglican clergyman attending the Roman Catholic ecumenical council here says the gathering is marked by a climate of Christian charity.

Rev. G. W. B. Wheeler, covering the council for the Canadian Churchman, paper of the Anglican Church of Canada, says there appears to be a genuine desire "to talk to other denominations in the true sense of the word love."

"If our assessment is true, another step forward is being taken to create the kingdom of God on earth."

Mr. Wheeler, whose parish is in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough, says the "climate of Christian charity" is perhaps the most important difference between this council and the first Vatican council which in 1869-70 adopted the doctrine of papal infallibility.

"Charity means loving another man so much that you can listen to his views even though you cannot agree with them at all. Charity means a willingness to admit your own faults to your opponents. Charity means a desire to help God bring about the salvation of men, even those men whom you find most disagreeable to you. This virtue seems to be present at this council."

APPROACH CHANGED

Discussing the background of the present climate, Mr. Wheeler recalls that the first Vatican council was called at a time when the temporal power of the papacy extended over a fair amount of Italy. The Vatican state now covers approximately 80 acres.

"In the 19th century the Anglican church ignored men like John Henry Newman, just as in the 18th it had ignored John Wesley. Such blindness led to the defection of Wesley and Newman.

"With the modern emphasis on public relations and the realization that charitable discussion with one's opponents achieves better results in the long run than rejecting them, the approach has changed. Anglicans since the turn of the century have tried bouquets instead of brickbats. In the Christian phraseology, they have attempted charitable understanding instead of anathemas.

"The attitude of the papacy too has changed. The days when a pope would resort to political machinations in order to hold temporal power are past. Perhaps the shearing of the estates from the papacy was an act of God. Certainly popes now are able to concentrate on spiritual leadership and to forget temporal power. All Christians must agree as to the need for spiritual leadership."

Donation voted to North Hatley memorial fund

NORTH HATLEY — The November meeting of the Hatley Center branch of Quebec Women's Institutes was entertained at the home of Mrs. Robert Little, with eleven members and six visitors present.

The branch received a donation from Mrs. W. Hobbs and voted money to the Frank Woodward Memorial Fund, which has been established to provide hot lunches at the school, in emergency cases. Money was voted also, to the Quebec Service Fund and to the Lady Aberdeen Scholarship, two W.I. programs.

A report was heard of the sewing classes, which the branch sponsored for a ladies group in Waterville. A demonstrator from Macdonald College conducted the classes, and several ladies from the branch attended.

During the course of the meeting a bring and buy sale was held. The money making endeavor for the month will be a turkey drawing.

The program for the meeting was in charge of Mrs. A. Marlow, convener of citizenship. She had procured as guest speaker, Mrs. Grant LeBaron, of North Hatley, a former provincial president, and now serving as Chairman of the Northern Canada Women's Institute Committee. Mrs. LeBaron told of the work the committee is doing in organizing branches of W.I., in the North West Territories and the Yukon District.

The mystery parcel, donated by Mrs. R. Little, was won by Mrs. K. Price.

Busy session held by C.A.C. in Richmond

RICHMOND — The Richmond-Melbourne branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers held its annual meeting in the auditorium of St. Francis High School, on Nov. 8, with a good attendance of members and friends.

Mr. P. Cocks, a teacher at St. Francis High, presided at the piano.

Mrs. Thomas Coddington, the new president, welcomed the guests. Seven new members were admitted and a good number renewed memberships.

The new officers are as follows: Mrs. D. Tillie, vice-president; Mrs. Donald Chamberlin, secretary and chairman of consumer problems; Mrs. Irene Burrill, membership convener and treasurer.

A short business meeting was held after which Mrs. H. McLeod, of Lennoxville, president of the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville branch, and who was Provincial delegate, gave an interesting report of the conference and annual meeting, which she attended at Kingston, Ont.

Mrs. Bayne thanked Mrs. McLeod on behalf of the members.

Mr. Levis of Montreal, displayed materials which are used in making snow outfits, ski suits, jackets, coats, etc., which were modelled by local children and adults. The commentator was also a Montreal man.

Mrs. Coddington expressed thanks to Mr. Levis for displaying the material, also for the fashion show, which the C.A.C. sponsored.

Cuba smoothing sugar shipment claim savings

By PETER BEALES

HAVANA (Reuters) — Cuba's state-controlled sugar industry has started a streamlining project under the impact of centralized planning and government control of manpower.

The magazine Nuestra Industria (Our Industry) reports that the sugar ports of Matanzas, on the north coast, and Guayabal, on the south coast of Camaguey province, have been mechanized at the cost of 2,300,000 pesos ($2,300,000) to allow bulk shipments.

Two warehouses, one with a capacity of 77,000 tons, have been built at Matanzas and a sugar warehouse with a capacity of 75,500 metric tons has been built at Guayabal, the magazine says.

It estimates bulk shipment of sugar saves the country $3,200,000 in foreign exchange for every 800,000 tons of sugar exported.

USE IDLE CARS

A total of 122 special containers for transporting sugar by rail in bulk were built for the 1962 harvest, using railroad flat-cars that were lying idle, and a further 200 redesigned containers are to be built for next year's sugar harvest, Nuestra Industria says.

The sugar is moved in the special containers from the mills to the ports, where specially designed units transfer it directly from the train to the dockside warehouses and straight from the warehouses aboard sugar freighters with an average tonnage of 10,000.

Work will begin shortly on a new terminal at the docks of Cienfuegos, on the south coast of Las Villas province, and on three new sugar storage units on the island. Cost of this work will total $6,500,000, says Nuestra Industria.

Under the old system of shipping sugar in sacks it took seven to 10 days to load a vessel, but the new system, cutting out the operations of stacking sacks, unstacking them and loading them manually, permits a vessel to be fully loaded in about 20 hours, the magazine says.

Spock's latest message to mothers: Your children are mostly 'sound'

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Benjaim Spock, considered as indispensable as a diaper pin by most young parents, gives them further aid and comfort with his diagnosis of today's children: "Fundamentally sound."

One way you can tell they're sound, he said the other day, is by how they study—"longer, harder, with more judgment and showing maturity in their extracurricular interests."

As reassuring in person as he is in print, Spock has a craggy, good - humored face and a rangy, six-foot-four frame. He's the author of a book on baby and child care that has sold 13,000,000 copies—and a just-published volume Problems of Parents.

"Many parents still are going through more strain, worry and suffering than they need to in bringing up children," he said.

If you're tempted to worry about the younger generation, he advises comparing it with the youngsters of the 20s when he was going to school.

MINOR DELINQUENCY

"The serious student then was frowned on by everybody, and the only approved things were clothes and sports. I not only approved of these things," the former Yale man added with a grin, "but I applied myself with great earnestness."

He said there is more delinquency today but "most of it is insignificant pranks, moderately destructive." Studies asking leading citizens what they did as adolescents show that "90 per cent did these things."

Spock, who teaches child development at Western Reserve Medical School in Cleveland, Ohio, is no longer in private practice. So perplexed parents call his wife, Jane, for advice.

"I don't give it," she said shaking her head firmly. "I suggest they ask their pediatrician to recommend a psychiatrist. I'm even very careful not to give advice about my grandsons, although that's hard."

SONS AT HARVARD

They are Danny, 3½ and Peter, 1½, sons of 29-year-old Michael, who, after teaching at Antioch College, is back at Harvard to get a master's degree. The Spocks' younger son, John, 18, is in his first year there.

"You could say I had two only children," said Mrs. Spock.

"Mike was 11 when John was born. Mike was brought up in the old-fashioned way—Ben was then just an intern—fed every four hours, cry an hour before feeding, that sort of thing. John was brought up entirely differently—on a self demand schedule and so forth. I don't know how relevant it is, but it was easier for John to adjust to college."
