OTTAWA (CP)—It was open season on the CBC Friday in the Commons.

Complaints about the publicly-owned corporation — from programming to spending to alleged political patronage—flew thick and fast as the House debated the CBC's projected $71.700.000 spending program for the current fiscal year that began April 1.

Leading the attack was a phalanx of Progressive Conservative backbenchers from Quebec who charged that the corporation is a forum for Liberal and socialist propaganda.

At the other end of a different party line, Douglas Fisher (OCF—Port Arthur) expressed disquiet about the CBC's relations with the Conservative government.

"GREATLY BOTHERED"

He was "greatly bothered" about the role of government—and of Parliament generally—with respect to both the CBC and the Board of Broadcast Governors, Canadian broadcasting's regulatory body.

"The air certainly needs to be cleared up," Mr. Fisher declared as he called on Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to Parliament on broadcasting, to make a clarifying statement. Mr. Nowlan is to reply later to this and other points.

Mr. Fisher took out after the BBG as well as the CBC, which he criticized for its programming policies, contending that many of its programs are too "high brow" for the average Canadian.

Recent recommendations by the BBG regarding private television franchises in Toronto, Halifax, Ottawa and Winnipeg have caused grave doubts as to its impartiality, he said.

Otherwise, the debate was concentrated on the CBC, as the representatives of the people took advantage of their annual opportunity to sound off against the big people's-owned corporation.

Capture by posse imminent

Provincial police said today there is a good chance of capturing two men, known to be armed, trapped in a wooded area near Garthby, about 40 miles northeast of Sherbrooke.

The two are suspects in a $2,000 holdup Thursday in the village of South Ham, just a few miles from Garthby.

Police aided by a small private plane, the property of Philippe Desautels, of Sherbrooke, an automobile dealer, twice spotted the pair as they dodged in and out of the wooded area.

The first time, at 4.30 p.m., police opened fire on them and at 9.55 p.m. they had a "good look" at them when they darted across a road.

The search area was narrowed down from about 350 square miles as police closed in on the men and threw up cordons to block all exits. The posse was leaving the woods in ones and twos to be fed before continuing the search.

The two men eluded a provincial police traffic officer, Joseph Nadeau, who heard a police radio report of the holdup and spotted a car speeding down a quiet country road.

CAR IDENTIFIED

As he closed in, the fugitives turned on to an unpaved side road. When they reached a dead end after four miles of rugged driving, they jumped out and ran into the woods.

The car was identified as one stolen in Drummondville, about 40 miles west of where the hold-up took place. Police said it carried false license plates.

Search churches after kidnapper calls newspaper

SYDNEY, Australia — (Reuters)—Police searched churches in metropolitan Sydney Friday after a man claiming to be the kidnapper of Graeme Thorne, 8, told a newspaper reporter he would leave the boy in a church if the hunt was called off.

The man, who spoke with a foreign accent, called the Sydney Daily Telegraph and spoke to a reporter. He hung up before he could be questioned.

Graeme was grabbed by an abductor Thursday who made it clear in a telephone call to his father, Basil Thorne, he had struck because Thorne won £100,000 Australian in a lottery last month.

The kidnapper demanded £25,000 Australian and threatened to feed the boy to the sharks if the money was not paid.

Work at hospital Cuba's fight may resume soon 'just'

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record Staff Writer)

Work on the Pavillion St. Georges, a new mental hospital on the outskirts of the city, may be resumed in the near future, Louis Philippe Brousseau, Liberal MPP for Sherbrooke, stated last night. Construction was halted by the new Liberal Government some days ago as part of the policy of reviewing projects undertaken in the final days of the old Union Nationale regime, Mr. Brousseau explained.

The Pavillion St. Georges had been launched, he said, before the final plans had been received by the Minister of Health and before the construction contract had been approved by the cabinet, a necessary step in any major undertaking.

"This construction was undertaken without the proper authorization," Mr. Brousseau said. "Although work was undertaken several months ago, the contract only reached the authorities at Quebec on June 16 and it had not received official approval when the work was stopped."

"We hope to continue with the Pavillion," Mr. Brousseau added, "but we have to consider the general financial position of the province. I will be in Quebec next week and I am hopeful that some definite, and favorable, decision will have been reached by that time."

Mr. Brousseau said that he desired certain changes in the hospital set-up.

The present plans, he said, called for the institution being devoted to advanced cases of mental illness, which meant that patients suffering from less serious cases of mental illness still would be confined at institutions in Montreal and Quebec City.

"I want a certain number of beds to be reserved for minor cases from the Sherbrooke area," said Mr. Brousseau. "Experts declare that one of the best aids to recovery from mental illness is frequent visits from the family of the patient. How can the medium income family make frequent visits to the Montreal and Quebec City institutions? I am making an effort to have provision made for district patients at the Pavillion St. Georges."

Postal hike 'not enough' union says

OTTAWA (CP) — Postal union officials said Friday night that salary increases announced by Postmaster-General Hamilton came just in time to avert action on a Canada-wide work stoppage.

Mr. Hamilton earlier in the evening announced in a speech at Trois-Rivières, Que., wage boosts for 15,758 employees ranging from $30 to $4.80 a year.

Jack Roberts, general secretary of the Canadian Postal Employees Association, said a memorandum on the work stoppage due to go out today will be pulled back because of the announcement.

Mr. Roberts later left Ottawa to attend the Postal, Telegraph and Telephone International's convention in Vienna, but not before indicating the increases were not sufficient and that postal workers "will not be satisfied."

Mau Mau revival believed broken

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Sudden raids Friday by more than 500 police are believed to have cracked the inner circle of organizers behind a revival of Mau Mau terrorism.

Kikuyu tribesmen suspected of administering savage Mau Mau oaths were rounded up on native reserves and in the capital of this British East African colony.

Kenya police maintained strict secrecy over the raids, but it is believed they captured about 25 of the most wanted alleged terrorist instigators.

Treasure is found

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Police searching the home of a 65-year-old scrap dealer in Norrköping, central Sweden, found a fortune in gold bars, gold and silver coins, precious stones and antique silver, it was disclosed Friday. They were looking for account books on a warrant obtained by tax authorities investigating the man's tax returns. The treasure was estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

Oil tanker explodes in Wales

MILFORD HAVEN, Wales (AP)

— The first oil tanker to berth at the new $18,500,000 Esso refinery here burst into flames after three violent explosions early today.

Hundreds of firemen were fighting the blaze.

First reports said the ship's radio officer and a fireman were injured. The extent of the casualty list was not immediately known.

The tanker, the 23,500-ton London-registered Esso Portsmouth, entered harbor Friday with a cargo 32,000 tons of crude oil from Kuwait.

It was engulfed by flames at 6.30 local time this morning after three sharp explosions. A towering pall of black smoke spread across this small town of 10,000 people.

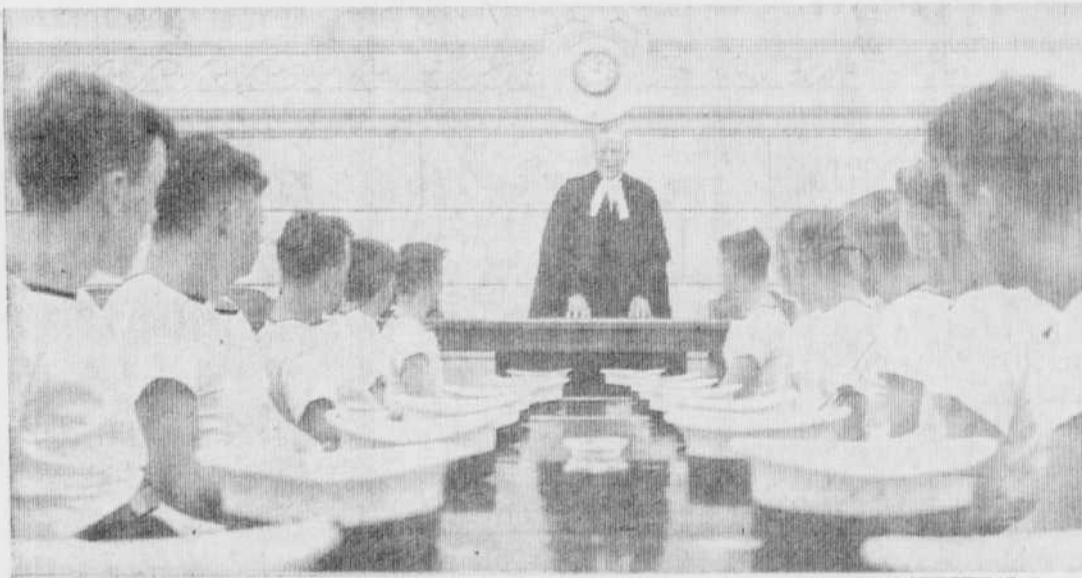

The tanker carried a crew of 57.

Nears 100 mark may wed again

WIDNES, England (Reuters)—Mrs. Polly Flynn, who will be 100 in four days, announced Friday night she is considering a proposal of marriage.

Her suitor is 72-year-old widower Tom Purcell, who has been courting her for the last 10 years.

Mrs. Flynn, who has been widowed three times, said Friday night: "Tom has proposed several times but I am never able to tell whether he is serious or not. He last proposed only a few days ago, but I turned him out of the house. Now I am not so sure. "After all, they say life begins again when you are 100."

Eisenhower gets tough with Cuba

By DAVID ROWNTREE
THE WEEK: U.S. halts Cuban sugar imports, Aneurin Bevan dies, Europeans flee Congo. Lesage takes over in Quebec.

Washington's row with Havana, and vice versa, became angrier this week. President Eisenhower virtually ended Cuba's sugar sales to the U.S. for 1960. He trimmed the Cuban quota to less than 40,000 tons compared with the 700,000 tons that had been assigned to the Caribbean republic. The loss in sales is estimated at $92,500,000.

Anticipating this, Fidel Castro's regime passed a new confiscatory law providing for the legal seizure of industry, banking and commerce owned by Americans said to be worth $500,000,000.

In Italy, rioting between Communists and Fascists resulted in five deaths and scores of injuries. There were fist fights in parliament at Rome. The shaky Italian government of Premier Tambroni, a compromise administration, blamed the trouble on an international Communist plot to overthrow the government.

The Congo's first week of independence from Belgium was chaotic. Negro troops mutinied against their Belgian officers Wednesday; tribal clashes between Negroes continued; provincial governments threatened anew to secede; and on Friday panic-stricken whites fled the country when mutinous troops seized effective control of Leopoldville, the capital.

An era ended Tuesday when the Union Nationale cabinet of Antonio Barrette met for the last time in Quebec. Shortly after 3 o'clock that afternoon, Premier Jean Lesage and his period last weekend produced the country's worst rash of accidental deaths on record. Sixty-two persons died on the roads and most of the tragedies, in the words of a safety council official, were "needless, caused by someone doing what he knew he should not do."

Another 49 persons were drowned and 11 more died in a variety of mishaps.

Vancouver's worst fire this century swept through five blocks of the False Creek industrial area Sunday. Starting from a short circuit in a motor of a planing mill, the flames consumed a sawmill, two office buildings, railway boxcars and more than 1,000,000 board feet of lumber in a lumber yard. Estimated loss: More than $2,000,000.

The Dominion Day holiday

The Week's News In Review

16-man Liberal cabinet took the oath of office. The change-over ended 16 years of Union Nationale administration. Lesage, in addition to being premier, holds the portfolio of finance.

Aneurin Bevan returned to his birthplace in the coal-mining valleys of Monmouthshire for the last time Friday.

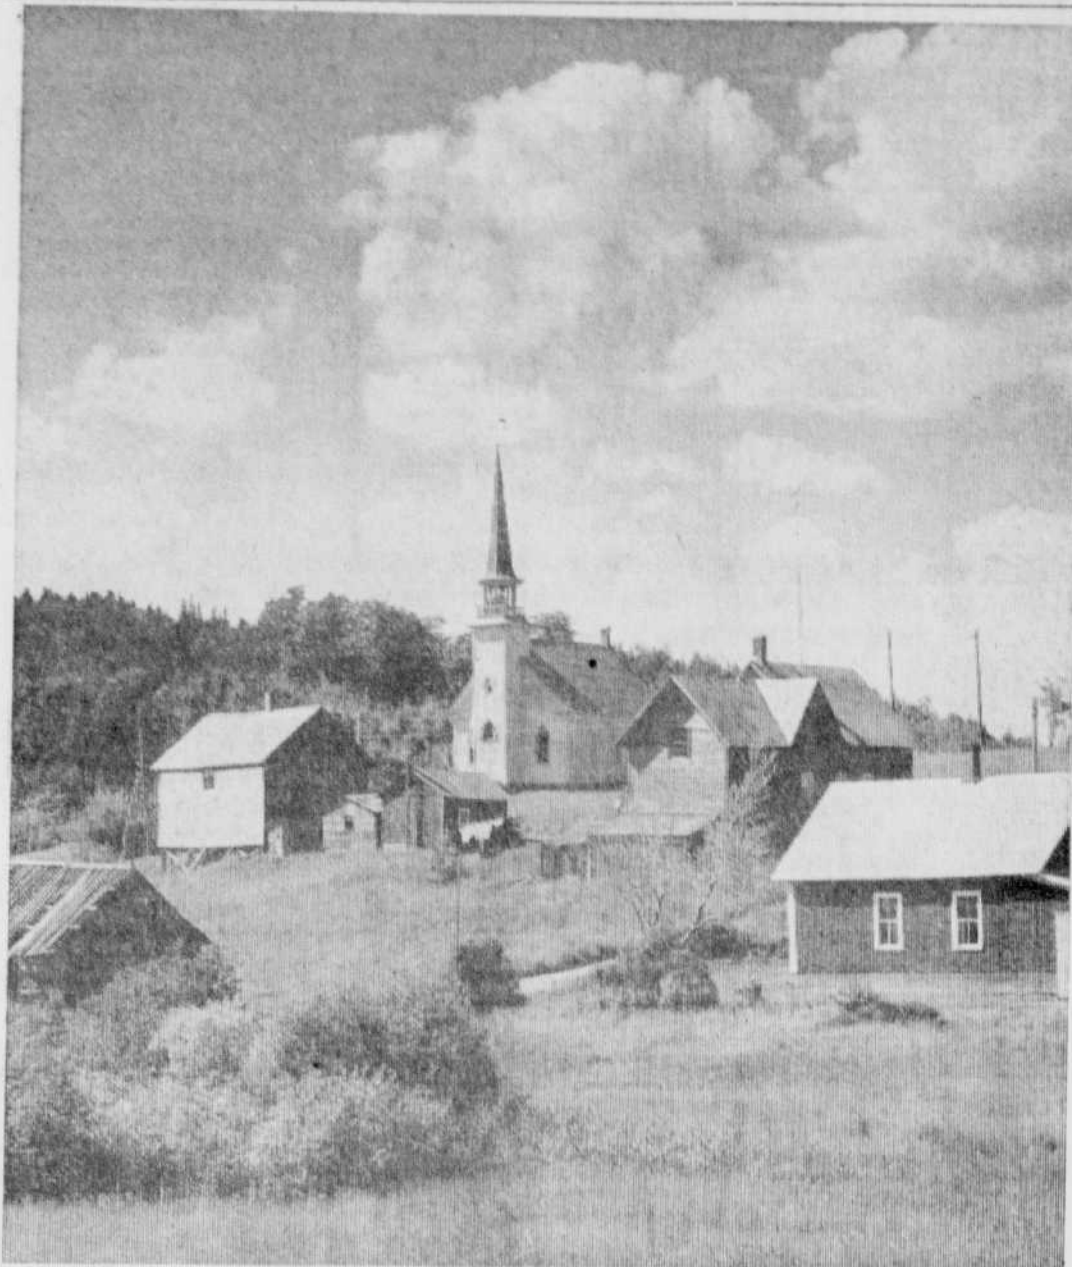

The body of the one-time Welsh miner was cremated in Tredegar two days after death ended the flamboyant career of the deputy leader of the Labor party.

Bevan, at 62, had mellowed considerably since the time 12 years ago he described British Tories as "less than vermin." Where once he led the Labor party's rebel wing, Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell recently found he needed Bevan to keep the left wing in check.

Keep uneasy Congo truce

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo (AP) — Belgium rushed combat troops to help Negro authorities in the new republic maintain an uneasy truce with mutinous native soldiers.

Panic-stricken white settlers told of rape and humiliation at the hands of Negro soldiers in the rioting city. Several thousand whites—mostly women and children—fled. Then a night curfew was clamped on Leopoldville and the city was reported deadly quiet.

The refugees came across the swirling Congo River by ferry from Leopoldville, capital of the new Congo republic, to Brazzaville, capital of this autonomous territory soon to gain independence from France.

Others landed by plane in Luanda, capital neighboring Portuguese Angola. Commercial airlines joined in an airlift from the Congo, whose 13,000,000 people gained independence from Belgium 10 days ago.

Two big United States Air Force transports were dispatched to Brazzaville to help the evacuation. About 2,000 Americans are believed in the Congo, with 200 in Leopoldville. No Americans were reported harmed.

From Brussels a detachment of 164 Belgian infantry volunteers, armed with automatic weapons and dressed in combat uniforms, were flown to the Congo.

By all accounts, Friday was a day of chaos in Leopoldville, with native soldiers in control of the city for a time.

The Belgians reported by their diplomats and the state radio that calm was restored after Congo President Joseph Kasavubu talked to the troops, who have been grumbling for pay raises and demanding dismissal of their white officers.

The peace plan was for the army chief of staff to be a European officer and the command of the big Leopoldville military base to be a Congolese non-commission officer. The Congo has no officers of its own in the 25,000-man army.

Kasavubu appealed for order. Most stores and offices were closed down, and Kasavubu urged people to return to work.

In Luanda, many of the refugee women who arrived on two special planes from Brazzaville were too distressed to talk of their experiences. Most came with nothing but their clothing, and many were weeping women and dazed children.

Mrs. Emilia Ferreira said she saw two Europeans killed in the streets of Kinshasa. Another woman told of Europeans being forced to walk barefoot and said

Mayor to press for completion

Backs Granby mayor

By MALCOLM DAIGNEAULT
(Record Staff Reporter)

A course of action designed to assure completion of the Montreal-Sherbrooke super-highway has been decided upon, Mayor Armand Nadeau said at his press conference yesterday.

"I will confer with Granby Mayor Horace Boivin as soon as possible, after which we will release details of what is to be done," he said.

Plans for the building of a bridge from Dufferin St. at the intersection of Montreal Street across the St. Francis River to East Sherbrooke have not been dropped in spite of the change of provincial governments, Mayor Nadeau continued.

Still on the subject of new construction, Mayor Nadeau told reporters that he had met yesterday afternoon with Liberal MPP for Sherbrooke Louis Phillippe Brousseau and that the main point of discussion had been the expansion of the city of Sherbrooke.

"Mr. Brousseau assured me of his full co-operation in the matter of rebuilding approaches to the city and of his concern with other facets of the city's expansion," said Mayor Nadeau.

If there is any question of whether or not a building conforms to city zoning restrictions, it should be brought before city council before the building has been completed and not after, Mayor Nadeau emphasized.

"Our Inspection Department has two men, both of them specialists but they are terribly overloaded with work."

"We would need four men working as inspectors if we expected to keep up with the new construction going on in Sherbrooke," he said.

"Therefore, is it any wonder that occasionally a building is completed before these two men have a chance to see whether or not it conforms to building regulations and other restrictions?" he added.

Rules for pensions revised

Modifications aiding old age pensioners have been approved by Ottawa is was announced last night by Maurice Allard, Member of Parliament for Sherbrooke.

The modifications are covered in three clauses: Old age pension cheques will not be suspended if the pensioner has left Canada. The cheques will be sent to the foreign address.

The pension will continue to be paid to the pensioner who has established residence in Canada for at least 25 years, dating from his 21st birthday, even if that pensioner does not return to this country.

If the pensioner has not resided in Canada for 25 years after his 21st birthday, the pension will be withheld for the month in which he left the country and for six succeeding months.

Composition important factor making well-balanced picture

Composition is sort of a conversation piece, but when you try to explain it, we are likely to become slightly incoherent. However, I will make a stab at simplifying the subject which amongst other things, composition is the nucleus of a well-balanced picture.

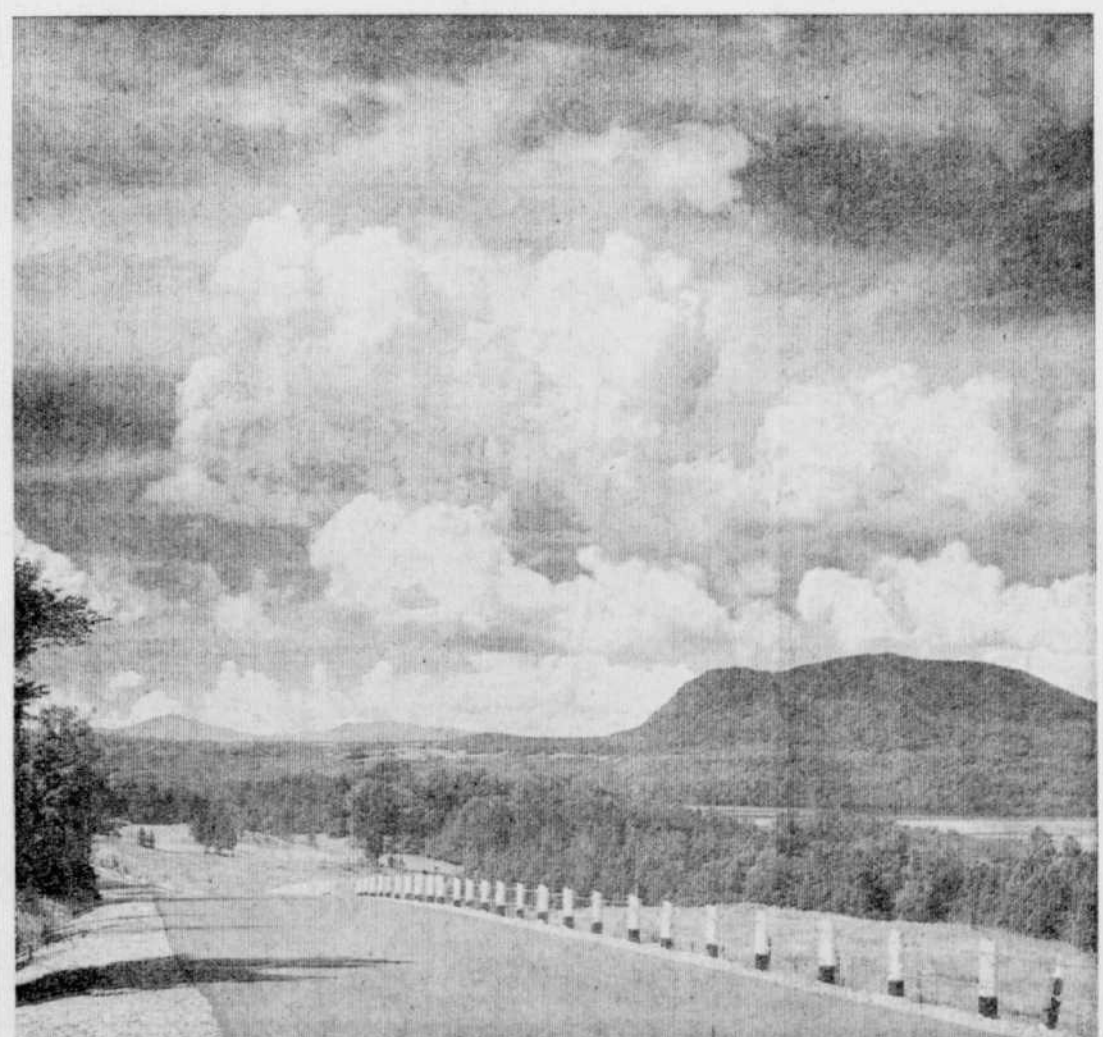

Let's say, for instance, you have come upon a rather pleasing scene which you are about to photograph and a quick look through your view finder tells you that you are including many objects: a farmer's boy, a road, trees and a farm house. Also for discussion's sake, the tree is on the extreme left, the house is jammed up against the right and the boy is smack in the middle, smiling like a cheshire cat. To

Guide since nine

Henry McGowan, Georgeville, noted fisherman

By NICK POWELL
(Record Staff Reporter)

Rowing 14 to 16 hours a day for three dollars used to be pretty good wages, Henry McGowan, Georgeville fishing guide pointed out recently, but it can't compare with $18 or $20 today.

Henry is a fisherman's fisherman and has been guiding for the past 30 years—since he was nine years old. That was when he made the three dollars a day.

"And let me tell you," grins Henry, "you've got to really row for those rainbow."

Settling down to chat to Henry McGowan is not the easiest thing in the world. He's always too busy. Or else, someone is always dropping in to ask a little friendly advice.

It might go something like this:

"The biggest ones I've caught are a 27-pound lake trout and a 15 $\frac{3}{4}$ -pound salmon. Upstairs I've got a box full of medals for fishing prizes . . . oh, tell the doctor I'll be ready to take him out in a few minutes—wait till I've had a cup of coffee . . ."

"Went out all day yesterday . . . got back last night about 10:30 p.m. ("Quarter to eleven," comments his wife.)

"Got to be going again soon this morning. The doctor and his boy are out there biting their fingernails waiting for me."

"Oh yes, I couldn't tell you how many fish I've taken out of the lakes here, but I suppose it might be some sort of a record . . ."

And so it goes.

A quiet-spoken, weather-beaten man, Henry has the ideal physique and is the ideal picture of a fishing guide.

Tall and burly, his face sports a wonderful tan as far as his eyebrows—where the brim of his fishing hat rests.

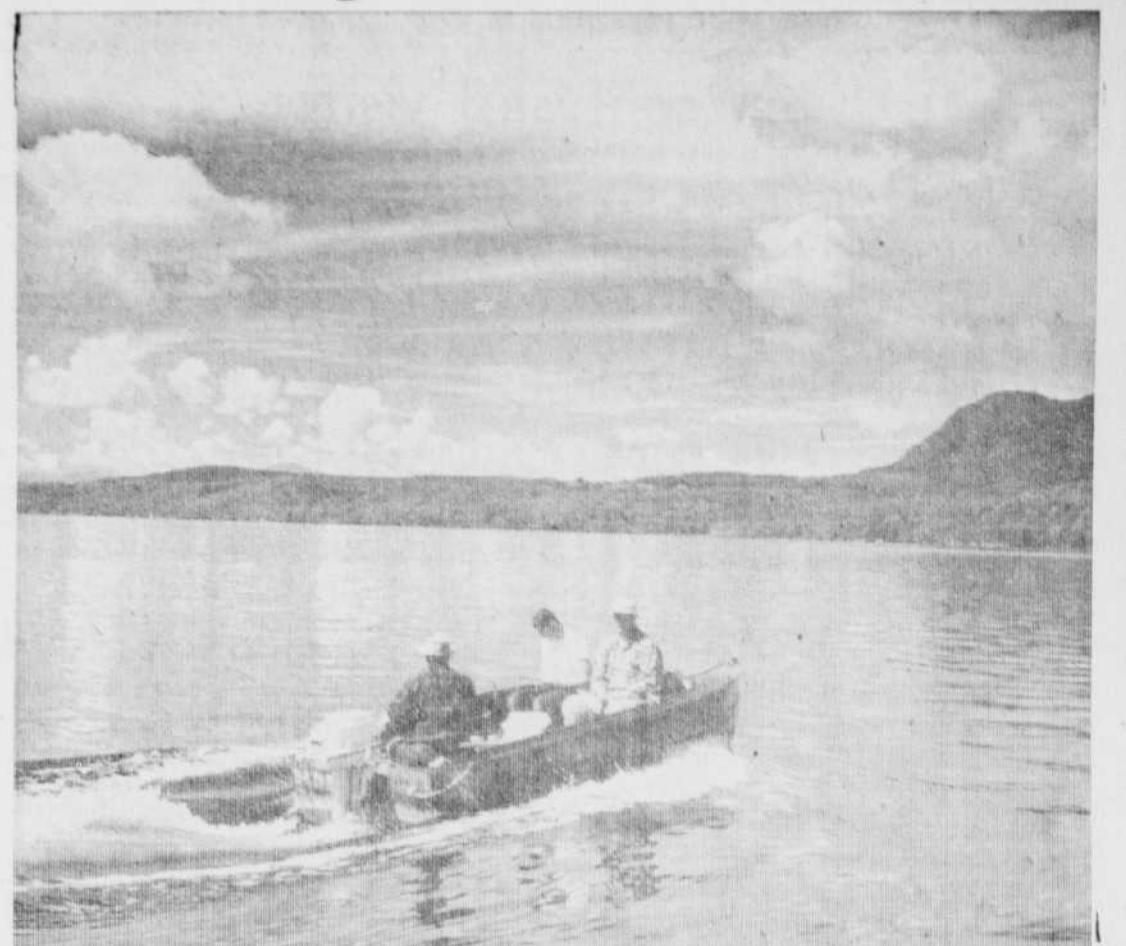

He invented several lures including the tandem and single long smelt flies and is still using original models—sales are pretty fair, he admits.

A year and a half ago Henry dreamed up the fire and blaze orange fluorescent buck-tail flies. They too are getting popular and are sure things for catching salmon, smallmouth bass, and brown and rainbow trout.

But Henry's fame—recorded on newspaper clippings and television films and broadcast many times in the United States—does not bother him a bit.

He still proudly displays a battered photograph album filled with small clippings, snapshots and group pictures of the days when he played hockey for the local team.

"Yes," he interrupts, talking

over his shoulder to someone who just came in. "You got a motor? Okay, take the small one at the end of the dock."

"They're taking well to some of the chrysalis moose hooks this year. In fact we're getting big salmon consistently. I haven't seen them that big for about five years."

"Well, have to go. The doctor's waiting."

He finished his coffee, stubbed his cigarette, grabbed several reels, rods and other paraphernalia, and headed out the door.

The "fish finder without peer" climbed into the boat accompanied by the doctor and his son, and headed off across the lake for some of the big ones.

What does Henry McGowan do during the winter?

Well, he doesn't go fishing!

A confused visitor

The American visitor looked rattled. He had stopped his car at a clearly marked crosswalk on Wellington st. North at Meadow st.

Some grateful but confused-looking pedestrians were taking advantage of his unexpected courtesy. But behind him sounded an impatient horn.

A common-sense action

The virtually unanimous approval given two city by-laws by the ratepayers this week represents little, if any, change in the attitude of those groups who forced the defeat of the large loan by-law in June.

Rather, it is the logical sequel to the arguments used by these groups to bring about the defeat of the earlier by-law.

Last month, the Proprietors' League, and others, claimed that the City Council, possessed certain unexpended credits which should be used up before the citizens were asked to approve additional loans.

One of the by-laws presented Thursday night was a direct acknowledgement of this claim. The larger of the public works projects is to be financed by money voted for various undertakings in earlier by-laws, but which for one reason or another was never expended. In other

He is being sought after, cajoled and bribed.

All he has to do is go to work.

West Germany is experiencing a severe labor shortage and this has greatly enhanced the position of the teenager. Adventures with God

Five eventful years reviewed

By JANE SCOTT

Five years ago today we made our bow to readers of The Toronto Telegram under the caption Adventures With God. With a thankful heart we review those eventful years.

They have brought the ultimate in fulfillment and happiness to us and to thousands of readers. They have confirmed our faith in the purpose and will of God to guide individuals into the way of service and friendship.

We hoped when we launched Adventures With God that it would be a factor in encouraging others to begin that adventure. Seldom a day passes that we are not cheered by the news of someone who at some time has accepted the challenge to step out in faith into a life of adventure with God.

Helen of Troy is credited with launching a thousand ships with her beautiful face but I am grateful for the opportunity I have to launch a few ships with my faith.

A young business man introduced himself to me at a wedding recently. He expressed pleasure at meeting me personally and said: "It might interest you to know that your writings influenced me to hand my life over to God."

RESOURCES TAPPED

Every adventure with God begins with self doubt. This is the case because each one of us knows his own limitations. But the secret of successful adventure with God is to recognize your own limitations and God's inexhaustible resources and grace.

Solomon had the right approach. He knew that in himself he had no qualifications for leading a great nation, but he also knew that he could tap the resources of God as he needed wisdom and strength to carry on.

So he prayed to that end, confessing his inadequacy and seeking wisdom and knowledge to conduct God's business among his people. This is the kind of request that pleases God and releases power of the life of an individual.

If we set out merely to gain fame, fortune, popularity and comfort, we are not likely to end our adventure satisfied. But men and women who, like Solomon, seek God's wisdom and resources to use for the glory of God and to do His will and work in the world, can rest assured that their adventure will end in a blaze of glory and satisfaction.

And they will have cause to marvel at the outcome of their unpromising lives and the unending blessing of God through their years.

Solomon prayed for wisdom and knowledge, nothing else, and God was pleased. It will please Him when you and I humble ourselves before Him and acknowledge our weakness and seek His wisdom and knowledge to conduct our lives according to His plan.

When I applied for a berth on this paper the interviewing chief asked "Do you think you can write two columns a week?"

With more fear than faith I answered "Yes."

I hadn't the courage to say frankly "I can't do it alone but I know where I can get help with ideas and writing."

When I left the office following that interview my faith went into a complete tailspin. I spent the week end torn between the wish to try my luck and the fear that I would burn the bridges behind me and become a failure as a columnist.

URGE TRIUMPHED

My security was at stake in such an eventuality. Physically I was not fit at the time to make the change but the inner urge triumphed and I stepped out with a little mustard seed of faith in the promises of God to be with me.

I am here to report that day by day "there hath not failed any good thing which the Lord hath promised." He has never left me comfortless or columnless.

The ideas came spinning along as the need arose. The strength to put them on paper has been given. The mysterious power which makes the written word come alive to readers, has been supplied.

Today we are confident that

"He which hath begun a good work in us, will perform it until the day of Christ."

This is the experience that God wants all His children to enjoy. He encourages us through the Psalmist to "Commit our way unto the Lord; trust also in Him; and He shall bring it to pass." Psa. 37:5.

Though we may be clueless as to what tomorrow holds, we may also be assured that God knows the beginning and end of every adventure and everything in between.

IDEAS FROM GOD

If we are in fellowship with Him and in business for Him we may confidently expect Him to guide our destinies and supply our needs for the work He has fitted us for, and to which we have dedicated ourselves.

When one accepts a job on a paper all the mechanical equipment he needs to do the job is supplied by the employer. But the ideas, and particularly the spiritual messages, must come from the Invisible God who is the source of all wisdom. We accept this arrangement and His promise that "God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound unto every good work." 2 Cor. 9:8.

It works and we experience the ultimate in satisfying adventure.

CANADIAN FARMER IS THE LOSER IN FOREIGN TRADE

(From the Farmer's Advocate)

It is more than a little shocking that this country of ours, which boasts of its agricultural prowess, cannot feed itself.

Last year, 1959, we bought and brought into Canada 739 million dollars worth of agricultural products. That is: every man, woman and child spent an average of 42 dollars each for farm products grown by farmers in foreign countries. (The value of these food imports amount to about one quarter of the total cash income of Canadian farmers.)

The sad part of our food trade situation is that most of these imported products could have been grown right here at home. But instead we are enriching the pockets of farmers in other countries while our own farmers are being backed up to the wall.

The really disturbing element in all this is presented by our relations with the United States.

Until recently we had been under the impression that the United States was consistently buying more agricultural produce from us than we from them. And it appears we are still formulating our trade policies on the assumption that this is true. Farm and government leaders have been saying for years: "Don't make the American mad at us or they'll stop our cattle and hogs from going over the border. We must treat them with kid gloves or we'll be the loser."

But is this true? Who would be hurt most by any embargo on farm products imports? Recent Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that we are now buying almost twice as much in farm products from the United States as Americans are buying from us.

Last year we bought 389 million dollars worth of agricultural produce from the United States, while Americans bought only 217 million dollars worth from us. Compare these figures to the situation 10 years ago. In 1949 we bought 217 million dollars worth of farm produce in the United States while they bought 266 million dollars worth from us.

What do we buy from the United States? Of course there are some things we cannot of a second battalion of United States troops as Gen. MacArthur ordered night lines in a bid to off halt the advance.

Mrs. Sarah Hazard, of Sutton, celebrated her 99th birthday on July 3rd. Some 18 friends and relatives attended the special birthday luncheon and cards and flowers were received from many others.

The gulf widens

Trading blocs causing concern

By DAVE OANCIA

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The gulf between Western Europe's two trading blocs has widened.

This is one of the far-reaching effects of the tariff reductions made by members of the peace-setting European Economic Community.

These cuts have set the two blocs on courses that, unless there is a change soon, can only take them farther and farther apart.

In Britain, this is causing grave concern not only about the island nation's economic future, but also about the threat to the unity of a Western world faced with a ruthless Communist political, trade and economic offensive.

This concern has, for the first time in Britain's history, provoked a growing cry that the nation should give up her centuries-old policy of aloofness from continental affairs and join the Six in their efforts to build a United States of Europe.

"We have not too much time," pleaded Lord Boothby, an outspoken former Conservative member of Parliament, during a recent House of Lords debate on international affairs.

To reinforce his plea for British participation in the Common Market, he added:

"So far as Europe is concerned the tide is ebbing. There is no longer time to waste in and test the temperature of the water and come out if we do not like it when it gets up to our ankles. The time has come to jump."

Similar demands now are being made frequently by most segments of the British press and many other leading personalities.

The latest appeals were touched off by the July 1 tariff reductions. The Six — France, Germany, Italy and the Benelux nations—made their second 10 per cent cut among themselves.

The Seven — Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal — slashed tariffs 20 per cent on industrial goods traded among themselves. This was their first step towards formation of a regional free trade area.

So far the rival blocs have kept in step. They will start to draw apart in earnest next January. Then the Six will make their first move towards a common external tariff and also reduce by a further 10 per cent the duties among themselves.

"Then the shoe will start to pinch," said one economist.

It will mean that tariffs in the Benelux countries and Germany will start to go up, while at the same time the barriers between the six nations will come down.

Thus, the members of the community will be encouraged to switch at least some of their purchases from traditional world sources to suppliers within the Common Market.

The Six, however, are trying to achieve far more than just free trade among themselves. To them, the creation of a single economy in Europe implies the common management of that economy as well.

Possibly still more important are the political aims that lie behind the idea of the community. A continental Europe ravaged by war and nationalistic rivalries was gripped by a deep-seated desire to unite. This desire, fulfilled for many in the Common Market, has led to the development of a new and major force in world affairs.

When Britain decided five years ago not to participate in the discussions that led to the establishment of the community, the chief arguments she advanced were that she could not accept the supra-national aspirations of the Six or any weakening of the Commonwealth ties.

Above all, few Britons believed the Common Market would ever be a success.

a reality suddenly last summer although we have never believed it would," said Lord Boothby. "When we suddenly woke up to the fact that it existed, we panicked and rushed into the creation of the free trade area of the Seven."

"This was a profound mistake because it consolidated the division of Europe instead of healing it."

Boothby insists that Britain will never achieve successful negotiations going between the Six and Seven. All that the creation of the Seven has done is to consolidate and aggravate the present division of Europe and to provide the government with another excuse, in addition to the Commonwealth, for keeping out of Europe.

"Do we want to lead Europe or become an isolated offshore island? There is no choice between the Commonwealth and a united Europe. Imperial preference is a diminishing factor and would be negligible in five or six years."

"We must create in Europe a political and economic unity capable of standing on its own feet in the face of gigantic political and economic organization of the Communists on one hand and the United States on the other."

SINGLETONS NOT SHOWN IN BID

I am going to finish up this series of Blackwood hands with an interesting example of how the convention almost went wrong.

The game was match point duplicate and after South had located one ace and two kings by means of Blackwood he counted 13 top tricks. Seven hearts and two in each of the other suits. Hence, he bid the grand slam in no-trump to get that extra 10 points.

Unfortunately for South he had failed to allow for one thing. A singleton ace opposite a singleton king will produce only one trick, so when the dummy hit the table South saw that his 13 tricks had become only 12.

If South had contented himself with a seven heart bid he would have had an excellent play for that contract. All he would have to do would be to establish dummy's fifth diamond.

At seven no-trump tricks looked bad indeed. However, there were two chances. The queen of diamonds might drop on two leads or three would be a squeeze if the queen of diamonds and the long spade were in the same hand.

The squeeze worked. South simply ran off all his hearts. He discarded two diamonds and two spades from dummy and the last heart squeezed East out of his spade protection.

Now South cashed the ace of diamonds; went over to dummy with the king of spades; discarded

Texans may brag about the Lone Star State, but one famous Texan disliked a lot of it. Stephen Austin, who gave his name to Texas' capital city, liked grass, trees and rivers. So he settled around the Brazos and Colorado rivers. Mrs. A. Mimnaugh

Thetford Teacher Retires

By DOROTHY DAIGNEAU

THETFORD MINES — It was with a feeling of sadness that the school-term ended this year at the A.S.J.M. High School, for one of its teachers, Mrs. Arthur Mimnaugh, was retiring and taking a well-earned rest.

In her 28 years as school teacher, with the exception of one year spent at Siorneway, three in Saskatchewan and one in Manitoba, the remainder of the time Mrs. Mimnaugh has spent teaching in the County of Megantic. Her first two years, 1920-1922, she taught in one of the first schools in Thetford. A Mr. Bagnell, from Halifax, N.S., was then principal. The late Mrs. Clara Pharo, then Miss Bertha Scott, was one of the teachers. Of the present teaching staff at A.S.J.M. School, Mrs. Raymond Davidson and Mr. S. L. Hodge, along with Mrs. Mimnaugh, also taught in this school.

Born at Adderley, Mrs. Mimnaugh has spent most of her life in Inverness where she obtained her education, graduating from Macdonald's College. Prior to her marriage to Mr. Arthur Mimnaugh, she was Cora McKillop, her family being among the early settlers in this region.

Mrs. Mimnaugh has two daughters, both of whom followed in their mother's footsteps and were teachers. Blanche, Mrs. Robert Wood, taught school before her marriage and Grace was a teacher at Valleyfield this year.

MANY CHANGES
During this period of time, Mrs. Mimnaugh has seen many changes. For one thing, there is a big difference in schools. The present streamlined High School in Thetford Mines is a far cry from the first school in which she taught. Teaching methods have improved, salaries are better, every convenience is provided in the new schools, the Home and School Association gives an opportunity for the parents and teachers to discuss mutual problems.

However, it does seem as though the pupils aren't as attentive to their duties as their er's engine failed. Air Vice-Marshal Keith Hodson of the RCAF, deputy chief of staff for operations at the North American Defence Command, and Col. Harry Allen of the U.S. Air Force parachuted from the plane. They landed in an open field but Allen said Hodson's chute was blown along the ground by gusty winds. When he reached the vice-marshal, he was dead. An autopsy disclosed his neck had been broken.

A huge U.S. Navy blimp joined the hunt Wednesday for two yachts missing off the Atlantic coast. For some unknown reason, the airship crashed into the sea eight miles from the New Jersey shore. Only three of the 21 men aboard are known to have survived. One body was found; the other 17 disappeared without trace. Ironically, the two yachts had been found shortly before the crash.

The Week in Quebec
The patrol vessel C. D. Howe sailed Monday from Montreal on its yearly mission of good-will and supply to Canada's Arctic wilderness.

Aboard the sturdy, 3,628-ton icebreaker for the three-month cruise was a government medical team which will carry out a program of medical and dental care among Eskimos.

Montreal's protection racket violently came into prominence Wednesday when 20 hoodlums broke up a downtown nightclub after it was made known that club proprietors were organizing to resist further extortion. Police complained "protection" victims were too scared to provide concrete evidence which would help break the gangs.

It was announced Wednesday that the director of the Quebec Provincial Police, 58-year-old Hilaire Beaugrand, one-time provincial assembly candidate for the now defeated Union Nationale party, has asked to retire on medical grounds.

parents were, or possibly it is because the modern teaching methods are turning out pupils who are not as prepared to think for themselves as those of former years. It is much more pleasant, though, for the average pupil to attend present day school with its attractive classrooms, sports, dances, and many other interests, said Mrs. Mimnaugh.

PRAIRIE SCHOOL

In recalling her teaching days out west she said that she had taught on the Prairies in one school which was 40 miles from the nearest town. There a teacher had opportunities to influence adults as well as children. She recalled an incident at election time when the youngsters asked her which way their fathers should vote.

"In teaching there are moments of great satisfaction when one sees results but many more of discouragements," Mrs. Mimnaugh, stated. She has enjoyed teaching in Thetford, she said, and when asked if she would take up school-teaching if she had it to do over, she said she most certainly would.

Mrs. Mimnaugh will be greatly missed at the A.S.J.M. School where she has taught for the past six years.

The Doctor Says
-THIS CASE, etc.
By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

You've probably heard the expression "dying of improvements" and maybe it has puzzled you as it used to puzzle me. Perhaps its meaning will become clearer to you if I tell you how I came to see the light.
My instructor was a middle-aged leader of her local society. Her children had married and gone their separate ways. Her husband had prospered. Now, like the lilies of the field, she neither spun nor toiled.
On arising each morning, she took her multivitamin and appetite-killing pills. These were followed by a "health" breakfast that consisted of mixed vegetable juices, black coffee with a sugar substitute, and seaweed biscuits spread with black strap molasses.
After she's wheeled her doctor's nurse into sneaking her in an empty room so she could get her "gland shot" without delay, she hastened to the podiatrist to see if something couldn't be done to her bunions that, in her own words, "were killing her."

Finicky Women Tough On Egg Sellers

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Finicky housewives are making things tough for egg-sellers and chickens—in the Niagara peninsula.

A sudden demand has grown for white eggs instead of the brown ones which have always been popular in the area.

"A short time ago it used to be all brown eggs women wanted. Today one customer in five wants all white eggs," says George Keiwan of Welland, Ont., who has sold eggs on the Niagara Falls city market for five years.

"The white eggs come from a lighter, smaller, far more temperamental bird," he said.

"These four- and five-pound chickens scare so easily that when I have to knock on the door first. If I didn't, they would panic and fly into a corner and smother."

Keiwan has about 700 hens on his farm and of these, 150 are leghorns which produce the white eggs.

"I don't know what the fuss is about," he said.

"They all look the same and taste the same when they are fried and sunnyside up on a plate. And white or brown, the price is the same."

Fluid Lines, Fur Trim Fashion News For Fall

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A fluid line based on the chemise is the autumn trend in women's fashions, says Jean Miller, Toronto fashion illustrator and commentator.

Mrs. Miller discussed styles when members of the Garment Salesmen Ontario Market Inc. showed more than 500 fall fashions from Canadian manufacturers in Toronto.

She told buyers that Canadian women now own "loads of clothes" and are looking for something new, different and exciting when they buy more.

Canadian fall clothes have shape but "not that plastered look," she said. They are luxurious with rich fabrics and bright colors though trim will be simple.

FUR FOR CUFFS
Wide bodies and big shoulders will be seen in coats. Fur trim not only appears on the neckline but again on cuffs of many models. The figure—following suits often are fur-trimmed too.

The easily shaped jackets rest on the hipbone. Collars are usually away from the neck and although the jackets have no real fit, they are shaped gently over the bustline. Many skirts will be pleated.

Dresses will feature the long look with the return of the princess line. Some dresses have the overblouse look. In others the waistline is eased and lowered. Sashes appear on both dresses and sportswear and are often made of leather.

Fashion co-ordinator Helen M. Lawson of Toronto told buyers gold will be a strong color next winter with yellow a dominant shade for the spring of 1961.

TAUPE RETURNS

Taupe, "which is always a good shade in Europe and good once in every 30 years in North America," will appear and is especially intended for shoes to be worn with the violet to lavender hues.

Miss Lawson predicted this will be the last season for moss and yellow greens. Pine, bronze and bottle green are taking over.

A new shade of blue, a blackened royal blue, will appear and is elegant with furs, she added.

Magenta, fuchsia, wines and maroons will appear in high-fashion clothes, an influence from the popular violets and purples. Clay and rosy reds will be seen frequently.

Grey is likely to be popular next spring. It is strong in Europe and this influence is bound to affect the North American market, Miss Lawson said.

Most important for spring, 1961, will be tarnished gold, a yellow shade with reddish tones. Some of the new yellows will be known as chamais, straw, cologne and chrome.

A Positive Mental Attitude ---Key to Success, Happiness

"PMA," say the authors of a new how-to-be-successful - type book, "is short for 'a positive mental attitude' which successful people cultivate and unsuccessful people don't."

This column isn't going to be a discussion of the book, "Success Through a Positive Mental Attitude," or what its authors have to say about success.

It is just a reminder to wives that if they want their marriages to be happy they might do well to keep those letters "PMA" in mind.

For instance, the wife who thinks positively instead of negatively will decide that it is possible to get along with her mother-in-law.

She will try to understand what makes her mother-in-law hard to get along with and will work out ways of avoiding unnecessary arguments and misunderstandings.

It takes two to fight — so if one person is determined to get along peacefully most relationships can eventually be made to run smoothly.

The wife who has PMA working for her won't nag her husband about his irritating little faults but will figure out ways to make them unimportant.

For instance, it is far better for a woman married to a man who hates yard work so much he never finishes a job to hire the work done, even if it means having to cut down elsewhere on the household budget. Yet a lot of wives will spend their lives nagging instead of taking such a simple, positive step toward solving a simple problem.

With a positive attitude toward living, a wife can solve many of the day-to-day problems in family living without either worrying her husband about them or brooding over them.

So as you go about the business of making a happy home and building a good marriage put PMA to work for you. It is a tool you can use every day of your life.

Actually it is merely the attitude of mind that asks "how can I solve this problem?" or "how can I make the best of this situation?" instead of asking "what's the use of trying?"

Feminine Hand Expert In Meatcutting

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Petite Alberta Dion is a mean hand with a meatcutter's axe.

Miss Dion, 26, of nearby St. Fulgence, started making sausages at a butcher shop here seven years ago and now is a full-time meatcutter.

"Meatcutting interests me very much," she says. "I have even bled a pig."

Miss Dion started by watching male meatcutters, then began helping them. Soon she could identify all the parts in a slab of meat and began carving them out. She is an expert now and teaches new employees at the shop.

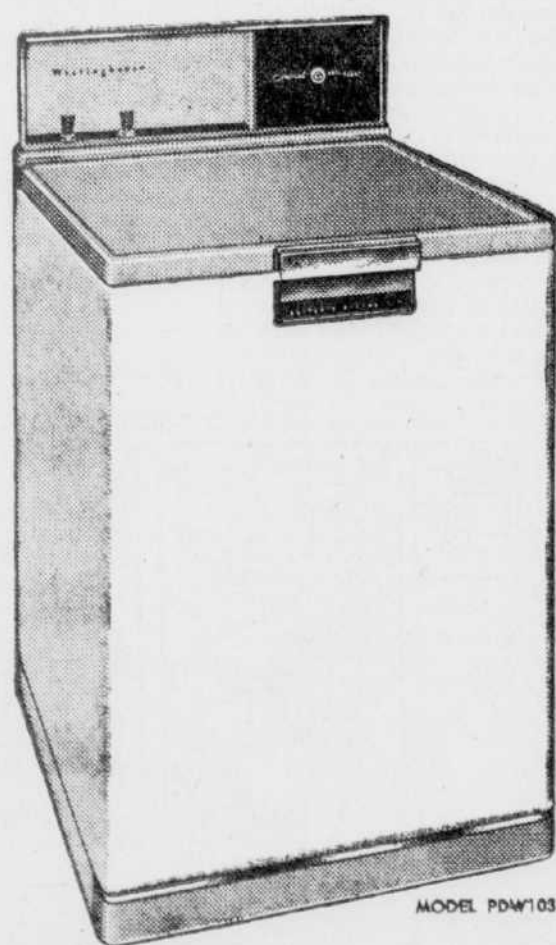

"It is not every woman that could take up the trade. You need solid heart and nerves and strength in your arms. Above all, you have to like it."

Customers, especially new ones, usually linger to watch Miss Dion at work.

Vivid picture of a great actress

THE ART OF RUTH DRAPER — HER DRAMAS AND CHARACTERS — with a memoir by Morton Dauwen Zabel — illustrated with photographs — 373 pages DOUBLEDAY & CO. — $5.75 — Those who have seen and heard Ruth Draper will hail with delight this inspired book with its 35 original dramas, its many photographs, and its vivid biography of the greatest character actress of our time.

With it they can relive that pleasure. Those who have not had that opportunity will wish they had.

The commemorator, Morton Dauwen Zabel, hopes it will have still another purpose: that of helping others to continue that which Miss Draper mastered and perfected.

In comparison with the art of Bernhardt, Terry and Duse, Miss Ruth Draper's work was unique in that she wrote her own sketches and she acted alone, with no aids to illusion beyond, say, a shawl or a chair. Herein lay her genius—her ability to stimulate the imaginations of her audience with the right suggestions by way of voice, posture, gesticulations, so that they saw, heard and felt with those characters which she had temporarily become, and saw, heard and felt those objects and elements which she conjured around them.

She had an instinctive sympathy and rapport with her listeners, a great warmth of personality and charm which drew her many friends.

Until her death in 1956 she crossed and recrossed the Atlantic every year and had performed in cities of practically every continent.

"Her days were filled with friends and family, travel, social activity, public interests... but at their centre remained her work: her characters ready to spring into visible audible life."

She received many honors and much acclaim for the satisfying perfection of her art, "her humour and her humanity."

Mr. Zabel writes that someone asked Bernard Shaw what he thought of her acting. "That's not acting," Shaw replied. "That's life."

The same thing can be said, I feel, for Morton Dauwen Zabel's memoirs of her life. He did not just write about Ruth Draper. He brought her vibrantly alive that all who read this book may know her. FLORENCE HOUSTON POPE.

Hostess with mostest often too much

PERLE — My Story. By Perle Mesta with Robert Cahn. McGraw-Hill, $5.20, 243 pages. Did you know that President Eisenhower can "fix steaks like nobody else in the world" and his potato salad makes a great hit?

The fascinating bits of information are two of many such startling disclosures made by Perle Mesta in her autobiography "Perle."

As a matter of interest, here is Ike's recipe as reported by Mrs. Mesta on page 172, for Potato salad Eisenhower:

Cook in a covered saucepan, until tender, 6 medium-sized potatoes in their jackets. Peel and slice white hot.

Sauté four strips of minced bacon.

Add and sauté until brown: 1/4 cup chopped onion 1/4 cup chopped celery 1 chopped dill pickle

Heat to the boiling point: 1/4 cup water 1/2 cup vinegar 1/2 teaspoon sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon paprika 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard.

Combine all ingredients. Serves 6.

Ike served it hot. Perle served it cold. Its evidently delicious either way.

Perle is a pleasant enough account of the interest-packed life of a famous lady diplomat.

in her career as a diplomat and as a hostess, but in bold print it is often a bit too much.

But by and large this is an absorbing account of Mrs. Mesta's life from her childhood as the daughter of an Oklahoma hotel tycoon to the zenith of her career when she served as the United States Ambassador to Luxembourg.

Perle is hardly a significant book, but it is certainly interesting.

The house of bamboo

THE HOUSE OF BAMBOO by Charles de Verteuil 219 pages... LONGMANS, GREEN & CO... $3.95. THE HOUSE OF BAMBOO is the deeply moving love story of three people; but more than this, it is the story of a man's attempt at psychological escape from feelings of guilt and bitterness.

Peter Sanford has been betrayed by his loved and trusted wife, who then in remorse commits suicide.

Back on army duty in Burma, in the course of his work, Peter meets Nea Thwei, an appealingly beautiful woman of the Burmese hills. At first sight, he falls overwhelmingly in love with her, and decides to live with her in the "house of bamboo" when he receives his discharge from the British Army.

While a bit of "free love", discreetly enjoyed, would be winked at by the white element, to "go native" for love of a native woman is considered the inexcusable sin. This sin Peter commits, hoping thus to escape the memory of his wife's death.

The reader is left to wonder if he would have found peace of mind, and erased the tragic memory of Catherine, but for the love of the beautiful and persistent Irene.

Irene Bankhart is of Dutch-British extraction. She is an intelligence agent, who, having fallen into the hands of the Japs, has known her own brand of suffering. She is as beautiful in her golden way as is sultry Nea Thwei in hers.

With fine perception, and a very deep love, Irene chafes at the thought of the own civilization, to face the reality of life with manly resolve. Nea Thwei with her hypnotic loveliness and equally deep love beseeches him to remain in the peace of their love nest.

Torn between the love of these two women, and with the painful memory of Catherine always ready to complicate matters, Peter at last is forced to come to grips with himself. This he does in a rather weak and unsatisfying way. But therein lies a tale.

There is some very beautiful description in this story which must be quite authentic since Charles de Verteuil found the material for his tale while on army duty in that part of the world.

One is left with a desire to visit this "House of Bamboo", with its ancient, brooding tranquility. One also feels a great compassion for three people who must solve a heart-breaking problem.

Cliff-hanger for hot day

NIGHT WITHOUT END

by Alistair MacLean—Collins—$3.50—Here is a book for a hot, humid summer day; the reader will forget the heat as he lives through five days of cliff-hanging adventure in the savage cold and moaning winds of the Greenland ice-cap.

Alistair MacLean, a Glasgow schoolmaster, who suddenly became famous with the publication of "H.M.S. Ulysses", has written a fifth novel, which will probably have all the success of his others.

A transatlantic B.O.A.C. plane, on a flight from New York, crash lands near an International Geophysical Year research station, in the centre of Greenland and hundreds of miles from any settlement.

The only personnel on the station at the time are Dr. Peter Mason, geologist and physician, Joseph London, radio operator, both British, and Nils Nielsen, usually called Jackstraw, a remarkable Eskimo geologist lent by the Danish government.

These three discover two crew members and nine passengers, still alive in the plane wreckage and manage to get them all back to the I.G.Y. hut, buried in the ice. Mason, the leader now faces a dilemma. There are only sufficient supplies for three men, for, for three weeks, after which time another expedition was to pick up the scientists.

The radio transmitter has been smashed, ostensibly by accident, leaving no way to summon help. The only transport available is an old ice tractor, which, if it can be made to run at all in the terrible weather conditions, will require nearly a week to carry the group to the coast and assistance.

Seeing no alternative, Mason and Jackstraw start out, leading the group, some of whom are old or ill and none of whom have any experience in winter travel.

The original mystery of the plane's crash deepens and takes on sinister implications. There is sabotage and murder, disaster follows hairbreadth escape, and heroic rescue is succeeded by mysterious villainy. In the midst of it all, the proper and slightly starched Dr. Mason falls suddenly in love.

A lesser writer might have made it all somewhat ludicrous but MacLean skilfully and inexorably tightens the rack of suspense to a tremendous climax.

There are British aircraft carriers, U.S. coastguard cutters, French fishing trawlers and Canadian destroyers, but it is the ice cap, that in its own majestic and terrible way, settles the matter.

The author has been likened to C. S. Foster and called a successor to John Buchan. He hasn't the former's skill in characterization and the reader may find occasional, small flaws in the speech of his American characters or may even feel that the descriptions of the effects of intense cold are sometimes slightly overdone.

However, MacLean gives, in general, an impression of detailed knowledge of his subject and a remarkable ability to carry his readers along from climax to breathless climax, leaving them eagerly awaiting the publication of his next book. Drew Gibb.

Good books for summer reading

(an editorial in the Ottawa Journal)

To the bookman, Summer reading, what to take to cottage and shore, is no problem. He goes serenely on, selecting the best of the new—which he seems to know almost intuitively—and filling in the infinitude of omissions (which seem greater the more one reads). But we all do not have pretensions to bookishness and there is a real question of selection.

The easy thing is to scan the best-seller lists and be assured at least of the respectability of fashion. The surprising fact is that at the moment there could be far worse guides, particularly in fiction. "Advice and Consent", the best-selling of the best sellers, may not be a great novel, and certainly not the best of its contemporaries, but it is an honest study of political man, an insight into our times.

Three other novels among the first dozen are probably books to endure long into the future. Seldom have three such first-rate works of fiction appeared so close to each other. The remarkable posthumous novel of the Sicilian nobleman Giuseppe Di Lampedusa, called The Leopard is undoubtedly the most distinguished of the three and it surely belongs to the tradition of great novels. Italy could not contain its power and now it is being read in many languages. It is a sombre, brooding, classical and profound.

In Mr. Lawrence Durrell's Clea and Mr. C. P. Snow's The Affair there is something for different palates. Clea is lush, exotic, bizarre perhaps; Mr. Snow, who many consider the foremost novelist writing in English today, is lean, crisp, cool.

A cut, but a small cut, below these three works is Miss Jessamyne West's South of the Angels, a precise, competent story by an author who will rarely turn a journeyman's line. There is richness indeed in these "best-sellers." They are by far the pick of the crop and it will be a long day before a contemporary list of fiction is so decorated. Here is a checklist, not of books but of authors whom we recommend without explanation or apology: Evelyn Waugh, Emily Dickinson, Elizabeth Bowen, John Keats, William Faulkner, Boris Pasternak, Robert Frost, Katherine Mansfield, Henry James, Ezra Pound, John Dryden, Willa Cather, Thomas Love Peacock, Anton Chekov, Gustave Flaubert, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Benvenuto Cellini, Brendan Behan and Matthew Arnold.

That should be enough on which to get through the Summer.

ART EXPERT — Kathleen Fenwick, curator of drawings and prints at the National Gallery in Ottawa for 30 years, is credited with building the collection of 5,000 works into the finest in North America. She is shown with a Picasso lithograph of a symbolic bull. (CP Photo)

By Elizabeth Motherwell Canadian Press Staff Writer OTTAWA (CP)—Kathleen Fenwick, custodian of 5,000 prints and drawings at the National Gallery, is house-proud, and with good reason.

VICTORIA, B.C. — With the largest enrollment of authors seen for several years of Canadian Authors Association Convention already on hand in the first hours of proceedings it looks as though the Victoria Convention is going to be one of the largest on record.

One of the first to register was Roscoe Fillmore whose latest book "Roses For Canadian Gardens" has just been published by Ryerson Press. Mr. Fillmore, who hails from Centerville, Nova Scotia, so far holds the record for coming the longest distance to the Convention. Certainly it is appropriate that the author of a book on roses should attend a convention in a city that can surely be described in no other way than a riot of roses.

Nellie Scowcraft, quarter-century-member of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Authors Association and writer of poetry and articles, celebrated her birthday on July 5th, the first day of the Convention.

Robert Fontaine, well-known writer of The Happy Time and now resident of the United States sent greetings to the Convention and his regrets at being unable to attend.

James Norton, "grand old man" of the Victoria Branch of the C.A.A. celebrated his 90th year by composing a poem of welcome to the visiting authors. Mr. Norton, who spent his youth on a farm in Manitoba, was writing serials for the Free Press Prairie Farmer, a Winnipeg weekly, long before most of today's writers were even born.

Congratulations to Anna Painchaud, Winnipeg writer and sister of Gabrielle Roy of "The Tin Flute" fame, who has joined the ranks of those whose stories have been accepted for use on the John Draine series.

More news next week from the Canadian Author Convention in Victoria.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lewis says he once paid $25,000 for four words—and they were a bargain.

"It was after I had a heart attack," he recalled. "I went to the best doctors I could find. 'I asked them how I could prevent another attack. They told me the main thing to avoid—constant, continuous, unremitting pressure."

"Those four words cost me $25,000, but they were worth it. Whenever I feel the pressure building up, now I take a break. 'I learned a lesson. The secret of living longer is to avoid aggravation."

It is a question, however, how well the wire-nerved young comic has learned his lesson. He has an insatiable curiosity about life (he even watched the births of three of his five sons), and is driven by an almost ungovernable energy.

The ordinary man works 50 weeks a year. Jerry now puts in the equivalent of 81 weeks a year and shows no signs of slowing down.

If anything he has stepped up the pace. In his latest film, The Bellhop, he not only acts as star. He also wrote, directed and produced it.

Lewis believes he has a record which no other present-day star can match. All his pictures—25—have more than paid their way at the box office. None has gone into the red ink.

That is one reason he has decided he will direct, produce—and at least help write—many of his future pictures.

"I decided I might as well have some of that money myself," he remarked.

He also feels his films will improve if he has more authority over their content and production.

Is U.K.'s theatre facing crises?

By JUDITH AYER

Canadian Press Staff Writer LONDON (CP)—There is much talk in London about a crisis in the theatre. But Peter Cadbury, chairman of a ticket agency, says this is a boom year.

"Our theatre ticket sales are already four per cent up on last year."

The crisis talk arises from the number of recent flops—14 in the last two months. Among the victims were two Canadian playwrights—Patricia Joudry's Will You Walk a Little Faster? ran for only five days. It was a light-hearted domestic comedy, which could conceivably have been a success 25 years ago. In February, Ernest Borneman's play Girl on the Highway closed within a week after a panning by the critics.

How real, then, is the crisis? Are audience tastes changing? What kind of play will be a success? What part does television play in the controversy?

These questions have been discussed in a recent series in the London Evening Standard.

Some of those interviewed feel people's tastes are changing and audiences now look for quality of acting, content and production in a play. Others, such as playwright Terence Rattigan, do not think this trend to more serious theatre is due to any change in public taste.

Rattigan, whose play, Ross, is enjoying a successful west end run, attributes the trend partly to television, whose flow of light entertainment provides competition for the theatre.

All those interviewed generally agreed television has had a good effect on potential theatre-goers. They now are better qualified to distinguish between good and bad plays.

Another point developed was that it is relatively cheap (about $14,000) to produce a play in London. Although a number of bad plays are produced, this gives talented young writers a chance to develop.

Actor Roger Livesey said it would seem now that a play is either a success or a flop. "The near-success can't keep going as it used to."

Young playwright Arnold Wesker believes the managements have lost touch with public taste. "The public is not so morose as some of the managements believe," said Wesker, whose plays have received critical acclaim but limited support at the box office.

Evening Standard critic Milton Shulman urged the ambitious producer to make himself more independent of the critics by adopting a businesslike approach. He should decide on his product, to whom he wants to sell it and how to go about selling it.

PERRY MOSS HAS STRONG TEAM LINED UP

We had the pleasure of attending a press football conference in Montreal Wednesday at Dow Brewery and met several members of this year's squad of the Alouettes. General manager Perry Moss and Ken Brown, Director of Development, were on hand to answer any questions tossed their way.

It was the first time we had the occasion of speaking with Moss and one must admit that he certainly knows what he is doing. He has some definite ideas of his own and we think football fans will see something new in the Als this fall.

As for the television of the games Dow and the British American Als. There will be seven home games, three at night and the rest in the afternoon. Sherbrooke, Montreal and Cornwall will be blacked out but the games away will be seen.

The reason for this is that CHTV is too strong and reaches Montreal and rest of the Province very easily. Three Rivers will get it along with Quebec City. Tough luck for us locally but that is the ruling fans.

We took in the meeting along with Gordie Breen, Jean Chartier and Jules Hogue, local Dow representative, and had a very pleasant time. We met several sportswriters from all over the Province as well as Montreal.

We raised the question about Tom Hugo and Ken Brown told us they expect Tom back within a week or so. They are counting on him very much as it seems good centres are rare and Tom rates with the best of them. Coach Moss has plenty of youth on his squad and the boys told us that he really has been putting them through their paces. No one is sure of his spot and is quite different from past years. Hal Patterson stated that his knee is fine while Sam Etchevery looks in top shape.

Coach Moss has the squad up bright and early each morning and keeps them on the move. They held one workout in the morning and the other at 5:30 and they last several hours.

The Grey Cup classic will be telecast on all stations of the English and French networks, coast to coast. The first Big Four games to be carried will be Toronto at Ottawa and Tients at Montreal August 16 at 8:00.

So it looks as though it will be a busy fall. We would like to thank Jules Hogue for a very enjoyable trip to the Metropolis.

The latest release of batting averages in the Sher-Lenn Little League indicates strong sluggers in the circuit this year. There are twenty youngsters clouting the ball over .400.

This speaks well for the hitters but on the other hand maybe the hurlers are not just up to par. It is very seldom that you see so many hitters moving along at such a clip. The leading white Sox have six in the group which gives an indication why they are setting the pace in the loop.

The local All Star squad, who will represent the loop in the Provincial playdowns, has been named and the boys meet Waterloo in the opening round here at the Parade Grounds Thursday July 21. So please keep this in mind and drop up to see the kids in action. We are sure you will enjoy it.

Canada faces United States in the opening round of the Davies Cup play next weekend in Quebec City. This is the first time the round is being played outside of Montreal and also the first on clay courts.

In past years it was on grass courts but with the switch the experts figure Bob Bedard and company should do a little better. We think Bedard will win one of his singles, as he is at home on clay, and should give a better showing. The squad has taken part in a couple of American tournaments on clay and gave a good account of themselves.

John Bassett, CLTA president, was instrumental in getting two youngsters named to the squad for the first time in the history of Davis Cup competition in Canada. This should help in the future as the experience they pick up playing in the various tournaments will certainly help them. We think this was a very wise move and will pay dividends.

Lorne Main, non-playing captain, figures his squad is "lean and hungry and in good physical condition" and they should give the Yanks a little trouble. The round opens Friday and ends Sunday and will be interesting to see how it turns out but let's not forget that the Americans will be tough.

The PONY league, after five years operating locally, will take part in the Provincial playdowns for the first time. The locals will tangle with Laval des Rapides in the opening round at the Park Avenue Stadium next Saturday at 2:00.

The winner of this game will meet the squad emerging from the St. Laurent-St. Jerome series with the survivors moving to Utica, N.Y., for Saturday July 23 in the finals. President Mullin and his staff have chosen a good team and they should be able to give a good account of themselves. So don't forget to drop up and give the youngsters a little moral support in their first bid in the playdowns.

Baseball's Greybeards Are Doing Well, Ted Williams And Stan Musial Are Smashing At A Good Pace

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball may be a young man's game but greybeards Ted (The Kid) Williams and Stan (The Man) Musial are still showing how the game should be played.

Time doesn't seem to dim the Williams or Musial batting eyes. In fact, judging from their play in recent weeks, the two old standbys are getting better.

On June 8, Williams was batting .235. Plagued by a pulled leg muscle, bedded by a cold and bothered by age, the 42-year-old Boston slugger was on the verge of quitting.

OUTLOOK CHANGED

Two days later he hit his fourth home run of the year and his entire outlook changed. He went on a batting and home run hitting tear which has brought his average up to .345, his season home run total up to 14 and his career homer mark to 506. In the last four weeks, Ted has blasted 32 hits in 82 times at bat for a .390 average.

Musial, back in June, was even closer to quitting than Williams. The 40-year-old St. Louis star had plenty of time to ponder his .229 batting average on the Cardinal bench. It was then that he gave serious thought to calling it a career after nearly 20 years with the Redbirds.

He returned to the lineup June 24 but didn't get going until two days later. Since then he has rapped 16 hits in 33 times at bat, a .485 clip that boosted his average 60 points to .289.

LOTS OF COMPANY

Several other forthright athletes aren't doing too badly, either.

Gerry Staley, who will be 40 next month (his pension age is 42), is among the American League's pitching leaders with a 9-3 record. The Chicago White Sox relief ace was named to the AL all-star team.

Warren Spahn, the brilliant Milwaukee southpaw, who will be 40 next April, hurled his eighth victory of the year Thursday, 2-0 against Philadelphia. It was his 275th big league triumph and 48th shutout.

Early Wynn, who turned 40 last January, has won only four games this year but they boosted his career total to 275 to match Spahn for the most victories among active pitchers.

Six Tilts In Junior Loop This Weekend

Suspensions Announced As Result Of Canadian-Indian Game Wednesday; Coach, Infielder Signed By Indians

Six games are scheduled this weekend in the Sherbrooke Junior Baseball League. On Saturday, the Indians visit Fuller at Dufresne Park with game time at 5:30 in the completion of an earlier tilt while at 6:00 in Windsor, Coaticook Canadians meet Brompton Royals.

Sunday, Fuller has a double-header with the Canadians in Coaticook. The afternoon fixture starts at 2:00 while the evening game commences at 7:30. Sunday afternoon sees Ruel's squad visiting Brompton at Windsor in the completion of an earlier game while at night in the local Municipal Stadium, Ruel's team will host the Sherbrooke Indians.

SUSPENSIONS ANNOUNCED

As a result of the fracas at Coaticook Stadium Wednesday night, Pelouquin of Coaticook, Earl Dorey and Francois Lemire of the Indians have been suspended for the Coaticook-Indian meeting Tuesday night. The decision, handed down by President Marie-Louis Fortier, is only in effect for the one game and was introduced because of a league ruling stating that no uniformed player must enter the stands during a game.

NOW MEN FOR INDIANS

A new coach and first baseman have been signed by the Indians. Dick Nutter is the coach and Andre Tardif the new infielder. This was announced yesterday by Assistant Coach Earl Dorey of the Indians' management.

"We're hoping that this will be what the Indians need to pep them up," stated Dorey, "and we're confident that a change in the Indians style of play will be noticed."

Art Wall Jr., Increases Lead To Three Strokes With 67, Balding Blows, Sam Snead Five Off Pace

TORONTO (CP) — Slender Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., stretched his Canadian Open golf championship lead to three strokes Friday night when he scored a five-under-par 67 third round for a 200 total. He started the day one stroke up on Toronto's Al Balding who blew to a monstrous 77 for a 54-hole tally of 211.

Wall, the 1959 Masters champion who doesn't drink or smoke, went into a three - stroke lead over Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., who also carded a 67 for a 203 over the 54 holes. Another stroke behind were Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., and 48-year-old Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., three-time winner of this tournament.

LAST OFF TEE

The solemn-faced 36-year-old Wall, last off the tee in a day that saw scores balloon due to heavy winds, was one under par until he hit the par-three 16th. Then he streaked home with a birdie two, eagle three and birdie four for a five-under-par 67 on the back nine. He made the turn at even-par 35.

The day was highlighted by a hole in one by Mac Main of Danville, Va., who canned his tee shot on the 140-yard par-three sixth.

US Giants Curbed From Card-Playing Apparently Can't Win At Baseball

It appears San Francisco Giants, who can't play cards for high stakes and can't stay up late, now can't win ball games either.

They've won only six of 19 since mid-June, when Tom Sheehan replaced Bill Rigney as manager. And they've lost four in a row since Sheehan, who chewed them out about the card games and late hours, was named skipper for the rest of the season by owner Horace Stoneham.

The Giants were second, four games out of first, when Sheehan took over. Now they're tied with St. Louis for fourth place, 8½ games behind, after Friday night's 7-1 thumping by the Cardinals.

First-place Pittsburgh split a two-inning doubleheader with the Phillies at Philadelphia, winning 8-3 after a 10 - inning 6-5 loss. That shaved the Pirates' lead to five games over Milwaukee Braves, who beat Cincinnati Reds.

Havana's Sugar King Franchise Goes To Jersey City; Castro Into The Act

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Jersey City will fall heir to Havana's International Baseball League franchise next week, but may get only a part of the team that goes with it.

Eleven Cubans are on the Sugar Kings' 23 - man roster. About half plan to quit the club rather than submit to a franchise shift denounced as American "aggression" by Cuban premier Fidel Castro.

Among those who may go home to Cuba is Sugar King manager Tony Castano. He made his decision Friday but sealed it in an envelope and said it would remain a secret until the team end a road trip to Miami next Thursday.

With both the Cuban players here and with club president Bobby Maduro in Havana, there was confusion and dismay when league president Frank Shaughnessy of Montreal announced Friday the Havana franchise would go to Jersey City, subject to approval by league directors.

Shaughnessy said an emergency exists in Havana and "I feel that our players can no longer be given any guarantee of safety."

Maduro said the move "is completely outrageous" — a decision "Cubans will interpret as a demonstration to harm the nation."

MEANS BANKRUPTCY

"For me it means bankruptcy and loss of an entire holding of $400,000. I don't know what I'm going to do."

Maduro, one of the most popular directors in the eight - team league, said he owes a Cuban bank $100,000, owes an additional $80,000 to others and would have to return $100,000 for radio rights to Cuban games and a part of $3,000 for advance ticket sales.

Castro lashed out at Shaughnessy's action in a television address at Havana Friday night. The Cuban premier said shift of the franchise is "another aggression" which violates "all codes of sportsmanship."

PONY League All-Star Team Lineup Released For Provincial Playoffs Which Opens July 16 In Sherbrooke

For the first time since its inauguration five years ago, the Sherbrooke PONY Baseball League will participate in tournament play by its affiliation with the PONY and Colt League Inc., Washington, Pa.

The local league's All-Star squad members were released yesterday by President Cecil "Moon" Mullin. They are representatives of all four teams in the loop with the greatest number—six—being picked from the Leafs squad.

Players from the Bears team are: D. Palmer, R. Coates, M. Mooney, R. Wilson, and K. Doherty while those from the Wings are P. Legendre, M. Tossel, G. Boisvert, and L. Main. The Leaf contingent consists of D. Labrecque, R. Payette, G. Boisse, R. Bouchard, R. Dore, and P. McFarland with the remaining team—the Royals—sending N. Lachance, M. Daniels, J. Proulx, and R. Caron.

The first round of the Provincial tournament opens Saturday, July 16 when Laval-des-Rapides visits Sherbrooke at 2:00 in the Municipal Stadium. The winner of this tilt goes on to play the St. Laurent-St. Jerome victors in a fixture scheduled for Wednesday, July 20.

The winners of the July 20 game then proceed to Utica, New York, where they will play the All-Star squad from that city on Saturday, July 23.

Ball fans and parents are urged to attend these games as their presence will be an indication to the boys that support is behind them in their tournament games.

The calibre of play in the circuit has been commendably high this year and certainly speaks well of the youth in the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville area.

Rain Hits Old Course Forcing Postponement Of Fourth Round, Nagle Leads With Palmer Third

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP) — The rain came down on the fairways of Old St. Andrews, forcing postponement of the fourth and final round of the British Open Golf championship until today.

The 20-minute cloudburst began just after Australia's Kel Nagle had put the finishing touches to a 71 to give him a 207 total and the tournament's lead. Some early starters had already begun the last round.

Two strokes behind Nagle was Roberto de Vicenzo of Mexico, the leader during the first two rounds, who had tough going Friday. Arnold Palmer of the United States was another two shots back, tied for third with England's Sid Scott at 211.

Palmer blamed bad advice from his caddy — a 29-year-old Scot named Tip Anderson — for his bad play on the last two holes.

"Usually, I make up my own mind, but he had me using a five-iron on the 17th and a wedge instead of a nine-iron at the 18th," Arnold said. "But it's my fault. I should do what I think is best."

De Vicenzo, who had rocketed into the lead with his two previous rounds, was not so certain he reached the turn in 36, then went out of bounds at the 14th, collecting a seven. Obviously shaken, he finished with four fours for an inward 39.

Palmer, the U.S. Open champion, was challenging strongly for the lead up to the 17th tee, when he was four under par. But he had five at the 17th and 18th, three-putting at both.

Re-arranged games to be played at later dates follows: July 16, Senators vs. Yankees; July 25, Red Sox vs. White Sox; July 26, Senators vs. Yankees at Lennoxville; July 23, White Sox vs. Senators; July 30, Tigers vs. Red Sox; and August 1st, Senators vs. White Sox. The game slated between the Indians and White Sox for Friday, July 15.

This week's stars are Vincent, Begbie and Winget.
