Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of losing the hair with a rusty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a graceful perfume.

FIRE AND POWDER EXPLOSION.—(Goderich, Ont., May 13.)—A fire broke out this evening in a frame shed owned by Mrs. Duffy. There were two kegs of powder in the shed, and two boys going in to have a smoke, lit their pipes and threw a match carelessly away, which fell into one of the kegs, which exploded, and set off the other. The boys, named McLeod and Campbell, were severely injured, Campbell dangerously. The skin is literally peeling off his whole face and body, as low as his knee joints. It is rumored that a little girl has perished in the fire, but it is not known for a fact. A horse and cow were burned. The fire spread rapidly, and two houses adjoining were destroyed.

Mr. Buckingham, private secretary to Hon. Mr. MacKenzie, Premier, arrived in town yesterday, for His Excellency the Governor General's signature to the commission appointing the Hon. D. Christie, Speaker of the Senate, as Administrator of the Government of Ontario, pending the nomination of a successor to the late Governor Crawford.

A recent calculation of the respective numbers of the scholars and speakers of different modern languages estimated, we must admit to our great astonishment, the number of persons speaking Spanish at absolutely more than those who speak German. Whether this estimate was a correct one or otherwise, Spanish is certainly a widely diffused language. From Cape Horn to the Rio Bravo del Norte the whole west and, with the exception of Brazil, the whole east and midland of South and all Central America and Mexico still speak the old and sonorous language of Cortez and Pizarro. And if the land of Cervantes in letters and Murillo in art has done comparatively little for modern thought in either, the discovery of a new world must, in America at least, retain for Spain a grateful interest as a country which has played a large role amongst the nations. This fact causes men of other lands to feel a certain sorrow over Spain's decadence. The slow dripping effusion of blood, as in some medieval torture chamber, which drains away the vital force of the old Castilian monarchy both at home and in its chief American colony Cuba. In each the war is very much of the same character. Desultory and scattered, partisan like and irregular in character, even when not waged by mere guerrillas, it has all the features of guerrilla war. In such was the butcher's bill, as the late Sir Harry Smith called it though seldom presenting a large item as the result of a single day's proceedings, nevertheless foot up in the course of a year to a large though uncertainly known total. Sir James Brooke, of Sarawak, remarked that the seemingly inefficient proceedings of the Malays of Borneo who would pass years in erecting and besieging stockades, ultimately drained the country of a greater amount of human life than would have been lost had the combatants come to close quarters in the open field and fought pitched battles after the manner of the Caucasian nations. Equally true would the remark be of the contending parties of both Cuba and the country which claims her allegiance. It seems to have been expected that in the latter the defection of Cabrera from the Carlist cause would bring peace to his long afflicted country. That the hope should prove fallacious ought not to astonish any one acquainted with the somewhat remarkable career of this once distinguished chieftain. At eighteen years of age Cabrera, then a theological student at the far-famed university of Salamanca, left his college and joined a small band of guerrillas recently formed in his native province of Valencia. In three weeks he became by election captain or leader of the band and such was his activity (ever his distinctive military quality) that he attracted the angry attention of Mina, then the Christiano commander, and once himself the boon guerrilla of his native Navarre and, indeed, of all northern Spain. Mina issued an order pursuant to which Brigadier General Naguera shot the aged mother of Cabrera and publicly flogged and most shamefully exposed his three sisters. Cabrera shot seven women of the wives, sisters and daughters of Christiano's officers, and then issued a proclamation denying the intention to refuse quarter in all cases which had been attributed to him, but declaring that in future for any female relative of a Carlist officer put to death by the enemy, he would execute eight of those of the Christianos, and for every private soldier's female relative sixteen. This for several years checked the hideous system of butchering women which the constitutionalists or Christianos had commenced. It however caused the young partisan to acquire the name of the tiger, by which he was constantly referred to in Madrid. Without any assistance, and for a long time without recognition by Don Carlos, Cabrera by his indefatigable and almost ubiquitous industry succeeded in establishing his power over a great part of Valencia and even making magazines, foundries, manufactories and arsenals, and at length forced the commission of Captain General of Valencia from his unwilling and ungrateful master. His lieutenant perpetrated into Arragon, and a war was carried on by Cabrera in western Spain, which was conducted quite independently of the Carlist forces in other parts of the Peninsula. After five years war, Don Carlos, after most lustily giving his unbounded confidence to one Marco, a creature of Lord Palmerston, was sold by him for £150,000 English, and the Basque Provinces and Navarre submitted to General Espinosa, commanding the Christianos. Cabrera refused all compromise, or as it was called transaction, and noted in the following characteristic manner. He assembled his officers and acquainted them with the overtures of the enemy, and having induced them to speak and vote freely, shot all who voted for "transaction."

He then completely isolated his troops, keeping patrols constantly moving who fired on all coming to or from his entrenched camp. By these means he assured himself of the fidelity of his subordinates of every rank and conducted a masterly retreat through Aragon and Catalonia to France where he disbanded his troops, previously punishing sundry traitors to his cause as well as being able to boast many brilliant successes in western Spain long after the north and Castille, from which the famous curate Merino had been obliged by treachery to fly, had been wholly cleared of the avowed adherents of Don Carlos. It is singular that this man is now an Afonsist, but it would be still more singular if an influence confined wholly to Valencia and practically isolated from the rest of the peninsula of Carlistism, should induce any portion of the absolutists to re-negotiate that transaction which Cabrera in former days was so sternly opposed to. In fact the Carlists are merely a guerrilla the less by the loss of Cabrera, and the war will doubtless divide and languish precisely as it would have done had no such defection taken place.

"AV HONOR" TO THEIR EXCELLENCIES.—Such was the heading on the cards of invitation issued by His Worship the Mayor to those wishing to bid adieu to Lord Dufferin and his amiable Countess. At a quarter to one p.m., the steamer St. George moved from the St. Andrew's wharf bearing the elite of our citizens. His Worship the Mayor and Corporation, the Hon. Mr. Fournier, Minister of Justice, the Consul of Spain and Portugal, and a large number of civil and military dignitaries. The weather being so miserable the ladies had to refrain from taking part in the trip. The band of the 11 Battery struck up their most appropriate air whilst we swung the St. George clear by the Polaris, which steamed down slowly as if sorry to quit our favorite waters. His Excellency and Lady Dufferin were to be seen on the main deck, garbed in travelling attire. Three hearty cheers for their Excellencies were given with an outburst of enthusiasm. His Excellency bowing gracefully to each greeting. A salute was then fired from the Polaris and on the band playing the National Anthem all took leave of the noble party wishing them a fair voyage across, and a speedy return to our midst. The company then partook of our excellent Mayor's hospitality in the shape of a lunch enlivened with sparkling champagne. The Honorable Minister of Justice proposed Mayor Murphy's health bearing testimony to the extraordinary zeal which he had imparted to the high office of first Magistrate of the City of Quebec, and coupling his name with the success which is about to crown the efforts made to obtain for the city an enlarged establishment and a fresh impulse to its material prosperity. The Mayor replied in happy style, complimenting the Hon. Mr. Fournier on his true devotion to the interests and welfare of good old Quebec, and then the party separated appreciating the Mayor's happy idea of affording the Quebecers an opportunity of paying His Excellency and his fair Countess a fitting tribute of respect, and demonstrating publicly their regret at their departure, which can only be relieved by the assurance of a prompt return.

The Toronto Globe summarizes the report on Marine and Fisheries for 1874, and says: "The money value of the fisheries in 1874 amounted to $1,074,998, while in 1873 it was $1,168,881, an increase of nearly $1,000,000. These figures refer only to fish produced for exportation, and it is calculated that ten per cent. should be added for domestic supply. The produce of British Columbia, Manitoba, and the North-West Territories, is not accounted for in these returns. The total value of the Nova Scotia fisheries for 1874, was $6,652,301.53, while the quantities represented by this sum are very large. For instance, of lobsters there were 5,612,545 cans, and of codfish 549,046 hundred weight. New Brunswick fisheries yielded $2,685,795.91. And here again lobsters figured to the extent of 2,180,504 cans, and preserved salmon 1,402,540 cans. Quebec fisheries yielded $1,968,520.20, of which cod fish was the heaviest item. Ontario fisheries yielded a comparatively small sum—only $446,267.50, of which white-fish and trout were the most important. Prince Edward's Island returns show $288,862. There are five fish-hatching establishments in successful operation throughout the Dominion and it is proposed to build several additional ones.

MUSIC HALL.—A new company opens at the Music Hall on Monday next, of whom the Montreal Herald speaks as follows:—"The genius of pantomime embodied in James Moffitt reigns supreme for the house is full and the audience delighted. The 'Jinks, grimaces and eccentricities of this artist are unique in their way, whilst his support is excellent. The specialty artists are good. Nothing could exceed the grace of the French sisters or the agility of the Caron family, whilst the performances of cabaret artists show a perfection of training which could not be equalled. The pantomime is announced for repetition this evening."

For prepaid letters, 10 cents per 15 grammes; for unpaid letters, 10 cents per 15 grammes; for postal cards 2 cents each; for newspapers, 5 cents each; for other printed matter, samples of merchandise, and all articles, such as newspapers enumerated in article four of the treaty, 2 cents per each weight of 10 grammes, or fraction thereof; for the registration fee on all correspondence 8 cents.

As regards the amounts to be paid for transit of transit according to article 10 of the treaty, the United States claim for itself, whenever the right of transit guaranteed by that article is exercised (over sea) by her transit lines of over 300 nautical miles, and accepting only her own flag vessels, and in the case of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, expressly reserved as continuing to form the object of special arrangements with the post offices (interested), the minimum rate of two francs per kilogramme of letters, or 25 centimes per kilogramme of printed matter, &c.; and is ready by increasing the transit rates as permitted, to 4 francs and 50 centimes respectively, to meet the wishes of those departments of the Union which make the same declaration in regard to the United States transit correspondence.

The ceremony was performed by Mr. J. W. Mackay, Treasurer and Director of the Company, in the presence of a large assembly, representing all sections of the community.

It is with extreme regret that we to-day chronicle the death of Lieutenant Governor Crawford, which took place at 10 o'clock last night. Mr. Crawford had been in very indifferent health for some months, but it was not until about a fortnight ago that his condition began to give alarm to his family and his physicians. During this latter time he was in a rapidly declining state. Possessed naturally of a good constitution, he frequently rallied, however, so that it was not until within a few days that it became apparent his end was drawing near. He was in a rapidly declining state, and a slight improvement in his condition, but it was only temporary, and yesterday afternoon he sank very rapidly, and finally passed away at the hour we have named, attended by his medical advisers and several members of his family. Toronto has had few better citizens than the deceased Lieutenant Governor. In every walk of life he bore himself as a worthy man. His legal career was without a blemish. In politics he was pronounced a Conservative and a true loyalist. His connections with public institutions were of a kind entirely in keeping with his good name as a lawyer and as a private citizen. He filled the office of Lieutenant Governor, the highest official position in the Province, with infinite credit to himself. Though in his time a politician whose views were well known, he settled, he forgot party and government. His integrity and his devotion to his country, and his high sense of duty, were the utmost of his ability in conducting public affairs.

Appitide for the profession which he followed, the establishment of good connections, large family influences, and a long devotion to business, combined to make Mr. Crawford what is known as a successful fortune. Though far from being obtrusive in any respect, he was not wanting in social qualities, which often shone out to an unexpected degree. In every way he was a man of excellent parts; a good husband, a kind father, a most excellent citizen, a Lieutenant Governor who well understood, and never exceeded, the limits of his duty. The announcement of his death to-day will be a shock to thousands in the community who, notwithstanding the public statement recently made as to his condition, were not prepared for the sad and sudden news that he is no more, nor his heart-felt sympathy is extended to his sorrowing widow and the other members of his family in this their deep affliction.—Toronto Mail, May 14.

LOST INNOCENCE.

Bright days of my childhood! Oh come back again!
Revere with your innocent pleasure.
Believe my sad and that long fingers in pain
To weep over the loss of her treasure.

A treasure so costly that no gems of earth—
No diamonds nor gold—can rival its worth.
Too late I discovered its beauty and worth—
'Tis gone—lost I hope forever.

The soul of an innocent child—Oh how fair!
A lily of dazzling whiteness.
The spirit of purity shines there,
And shines in its heavenly brightness.

Sweet Innocence! now I weep over thy loss,
I've wandered afar in sin's wilderness;
But now I will kneel at the foot of the cross,
And there seek, in sorrow, my child's host.

A duel with swords has taken place on the frontier of Lorraine between two Paris journalists, the Editor of the Union and the editor of the Page. Both were slightly wounded. A duel with pistols between the present executives by Don Carlos at Estella led to the duel.

PREMATURE LOSS OF THE HAIR, which is so common nowadays, may be entirely prevented by the use of Barron's Ointment. It has been used in thousands of cases, where the hair was coming out in handfuls, and has succeeded in arresting its decay, and to promote a healthy and vigorous growth. It is at the same time unobtrusive as a dressing for the hair. A single application will render it soft and glossy for several days.
