Report Soviet-Czech talks are going well

CIERNA NAD TISOU (Reuters) — The critical Russian-Czechoslovak talks on basic policy differences are going well, Czechoslovak journalists who managed to get near the meeting place in this Slovak border city reported today.

The journalists, who were within 50 yards of the conference site, said Josef Smrkovsky, one of the Prague leaders at the talks, came out of the conference building and said: "I went in with a smile and I expect to leave it with a smile."

Prague radio said a communique on the talks, which went into their second day today, would be issued either tonight or Wednesday morning.

The talks, which are taking place in a club opposite Cierna station, lasted Monday until late at night. They were officially described by Czechoslovakia as "an exchange of views."

Prague radio said Russian Communist party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev and Czechoslovak Chairman Alexander Dubcek made opening speeches, but did not give any details. The radio correspondent said no one could approach the meeting site, a railwaymen's "House of Culture."

"We watch from a distance of 50 metres," he said. "People gather to chant encouragement to the Czechoslovak leaders."

A report from Moscow by the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said the Soviet delegation, headed by party chief Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny, brought a "minimal program" that included the curbing of the new freedom of the Czechoslovak press and the ouster of "anti-Socialist elements" from positions of influence.

Meanwhile, Russian troops were on the move through eastern Europe as Czechoslovak leaders defended their new look democratic socialism in talks with skeptical Russian leaders.

However, in Prague and throughout the country, there was a mood of optimism as the talks went into their second day, generally taken as a good sign.

Most Czechoslovaks refused to believe the Russians—to whom they look as natural allies—would occupy the country by force if the talks go badly.

Yet beyond the Czechoslovak border, Soviet troops were on the move in large numbers—a reminder of the reality of unchallenged Russian military supremacy in eastern Europe and the ever-present threat of armed Soviet intervention.

Russian tanks and thousands of troops were reported moving southward through East Germany in the direction of Czechoslovakia and more troops were encamped on the Polish border with Slovakia.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass said troop exercises which began a few days ago in western Russia near the Czechoslovak border were to be continued in Poland and East Germany with rear army units of those two countries joining in.

It did not say when this shift would be made, but added that the manoeuvres in Russia itself would continue.

Reuters correspondent Ronald Farquhar meanwhile reported from Cieszyn astride the Czechoslovak-Polish frontier that Russian troops and vehicles are camped just outside the Polish half of the town. But no unusual troop movements were noticed along the southwest Polish frontier with Czechoslovakia.

LINGER ON
Inside Czechoslovakia, Russian troops still lingering on since Warsaw pact manoeuvres ended June 30, were reported by the Czech news agency to be travelling from northern Moravia in the direction of the Slovak frontier.

There were no easily visible signs of concern among Czechoslovaks although people appeared more subdued than usual.

Many expressed satisfaction that Czechoslovakia has supporters in eastern Europe.

News in brief

Granny gets

HOUSTON, Tex. — (AP) — A 49-year-old grandmother is the world's newest heart transplant patient, and she was reported in satisfactory condition today at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital.

Beth White Brunk, a Houston housewife, received the heart of a Corsicana, Tex., woman, Monday night in the first woman-to-woman heart transplant.

Nab at supper

MONTREAL (CP) — Serge Cofsky, 33, who escaped custody while awaiting trial on a charge of murder in Montreal May 6, was recaptured by suburban Montreal North police Monday evening while eating supper.

The burly escapee, who had been No. 2 on Quebec's most-wanted-men list, is accused of capital murder in the stabbing death of Albert Fournier of Montreal, whose body was found on a suburban Laval beach last October.

Sniper wounds

SEATTLE — (AP) — A sniper fired through the roof of a police car, wounding two officers Monday night in an outburst of shooting, firebombing and rock-throwing in Seattle's area.

Three other officers were injured and three civilians were wounded by gunfire which police said they did not return.

In trouble?

MONTREAL — (CP) — La Presse says Montreal police are conducting an investigation into alleged irregularities involving concessions at the exhibition Man and His World.

The newspaper says the investigation centres on an alleged collusion among concessionaires, high city officials and former officials of Expo 67.

Rouses debate

LONDON — (AP) — The Pope's ban on birth control for Roman Catholics roused wide debate in Britain today. Many commentators saw it as certain to impose a heavy strain on Catholics, and likely to set back the cause of Christian unity.

Bishops of the worldwide Anglican communion, in London for their church conference, privately expressed fears the ruling would harm closer relations with the Roman Catholic Church.

No building strike yet

Eastern Township construction workers last night decided not to strike following exhaustive, day-long negotiations that broke only briefly for lunch and supper.

The CNTU-affiliated union representative said this morning there "was no obligation" for the workers to strike at midnight last night. Strike action had been indicated at a meeting two weeks ago if the workers demands were not met.

The union representative said negotiations will continue today and hinted that they may stretch into Wednesday. He admitted the increased wage package demand of the workers was high and indicated the demands may be softened.

The spokesman said he had no idea whether the employers would increase their offer of a 75-cent an hour increase over the next 30 months for all workers in the construction industry.

Eastern Townships licenced class C electricians are presently earning $3.10 an hour and are demanding a $2.25 increase over a two year period. The carpenters are receiving $3.05 an hour and are demanding an increase of $1.50 over the 24 month period. Plumbers earn $3.35 an hour and are bargaining for a $2 per hour wage hike.

The employers representative was unavailable for comment this morning, but said last week the various contractors are "all negotiating under one common front. They cover all trades pertinent to the construction industry."

The employers sitting at the negotiation table are: the Corporation of Plumbers, the Corporation of Master Electricians, and the Eastern Townships Contractors Association.

Negotiations have dragged on for the past two and one half months. If the construction workers do strike then some 2,000 to 3,000 men would be affected, reliable sources suggest.

The employers representative said last week that the employees are also shooting for the possibility of tacking a seniority clause on to their contracts, "but the employers are dead against it," he said.

Sources have observed that it is mainly the men who work on a non-permanent basis rather than the permanent workers who are applying pressure for the possible strike action.

Quebec will seek support

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government plans to seek support for its views on provincial jurisdiction within confederation in dealing with other countries at this week's conference of provincial premiers, says a government spokesman.

Claude Morin, deputy minister of intergovernmental affairs for Quebec, said here Monday the province's delegation to the Lake Waskesiu, Sask., meetings, which begins Thursday, will have its chance when the subject — "provincial relations with foreign countries" — appears on the agenda.

In an interview, Mr. Morin said the Quebec group will be led by Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand in the absence of Premier Daniel Johnson, recuperating from a mild heart attack.

The deputy minister recalled that at the last meeting of provincial leaders in 1960, the premiers made no decision on the matter, allowing the provinces to take steps on their own within provincial exigencies.

The contentious issue of provincial rights in dealing with foreign powers has been brought to a head in recent months by Quebec's appearances at international educational conferences.

Following one such conference at Gabon in February, where the federal government complained Quebec was treated as an independent nation, Canadian diplomatic relations with the tiny, French-speaking West African nation were suspended.

More recently, Quebec turned down a federal invitation to attend the Aug. 6-14 UNESCO conference on education, to be held in Paris, the invitation for which went to Ottawa.

Federal authorities have argued that Canada should have only "one voice" at foreign conferences and if provinces attend they should do so solely at the behest of the federal government.

No sign of strike end

OTTAWA (CP) — Mediation to end Canada's countrywide postal strike continued until early today with no letup in the 12 day walkout in sight.

Representatives of the striking Council of Postal Unions and the government's treasury board spent Monday night closeted with mediator Judge Rene Lappe on the 18th floor of a downtown hotel until 3:10 a.m. today. They were to resume discussions at 12:30 p.m. over luncheon.

Dismayed with policy

VATICAN CITY (CP) — Liberal Roman Catholics reacted with dismay today at Pope Paul's uncompromising pronouncement Monday on birth control.

Liberal Catholic theologians are unlikely to give up the fight to obtain a relaxation of the rigid ban on contraception.

Rt. Rev. Fernando Lambruschini, a prominent Vatican theologian who introduced the encyclical Monday, made it clear that while the papal ruling must be obeyed it does not close the door completely to a future relaxation.

The Rome independent daily Il Messaggero, which often reflects the thinking of the church-orientated Christian Democrat party, Pensa a generally moderate editorial on the encyclical today with a warning to the church.

"The encyclical probably reflects the theological opinion of a minority," it says. "The problems that the world faces under population pressures cannot be entrusted to the intelligence of single men, nor to calculation by natural rhythms regarding the reproductive system."

FACES TEST

One test of Italian Catholic faith may come when a bill to make the birth control pill available to women for the first time is introduced into Parliament in the fall.

The Italian penal code prevents the sale of contraceptives, but in December the Roman Catholic news agency said 6,000,000 boxes of pills were sold in the country in 1966.

Fiercest reaction so far has come from The Netherlands, where clergy said the question remained completely open.

In a statement released in Rotterdam, Msgr. C. Ruygers, vicar-general of the bishopric of Breda, and Msgr. J. A. Van Laarhoven, vicar-general of the bishopric of Den Bosch, said the encyclical was not to be regarded as an infallible pronouncement.

Belgians heard a Jesuit priest, Father Delepiere, declare over their national radio: "The Pope's encyclical is not the language that people expected. It appears to a very high ideal but is too remote from the daily life of Catholics."

SHOULD RAISE WAGES

Archbishop Casimiro Morcillo of Madrid, however, expressed support for the encyclical and told a news conference that employers should increase the wages of workers with large families.

Freed from sidewalk payments

After a long campaign of persistent effort and complaints, six proprietors on Bowen Street South were absolved from paying $32 each a year for a sidewalk constructed last year in front of their properties between Trudel and Leber Streets.

Their complaint that the city built the sidewalk against their wishes was presented at council last night by a delegation of three men and a woman.

Council decided, after considering the circumstances, that the proprietors should not be forced to pay for the sidewalk and the City will absorb the $192 a year total payment for the sidewalk.

Mayor Nadeau told the small delegation that the sidewalk was built on the recommendation of a police report which deemed the sidewalk absolutely necessary.

The spokesman for the group told council the six proprietors affected voted against the sidewalk and said the city did not have a right to construct it.

He asked the mayor what would happen if a proprietor built a house without obtaining a building permit.

Mayor Nadeau said he would be fined.

The spokesman then asked if the city shouldn't be fined to make the payments because it constructed the sidewalk without the proprietors' permission.

Mayor Nadeau replied yes. The work on the sidewalk was ordered suspended by council last year when complaints were received but it was completed without authorization.

The spokesman told council "We don't want to pay."

He described himself and his fellow proprietors as already being "throttled" with taxes and he grasped his throat with his hands to add emphasis.

He said the lack of a sidewalk before it was constructed posed no danger. Children always took another route to school and people walking to church on Sundays walked on the sidewalk on the other side of the street.

Council agreed the complaint was valid.

Rene is mum on director's resignation

MONTREAL (CP) — There was no comment Monday night from separatist leader Rene Levesque on the resignation of Francois Aquin as an executive director of the Mouvement Souverainiste-Association and talks of merging the MSA with the Rassemblement pour l'Independence nationale.

Mr. Aquin, left both the executive position and the separatist party in a policy disagreement with Mr. Levesque.

Meanwhile, there was no immediate word on outcome of talks proposing a merger between the 7,000-member MSA and Pierre Bourgault's 13,000-member RIN.

The meeting also was to consider MSA union with Gilles Gregoire's Ralliement National, which has 12,000 members, as a prelude to the MSA's October convention at which it will become a Quebec political party.

TWO HAD CLASHED

Mr. Levesque and Mr. Bourgault clashed in late June over the RIN leader's participation and arrest in the St. Jean Baptiste riots in Montreal June 24.

Mr. Aquin, 39-year-old lawyer and independent member of the Quebec legislative assembly for Montreal-Dorion, quit in disagreement over separatist policies that include Mr. Levesque's espousal to provide full state aid to English-language schools in a breakaway Quebec.

Mr. Aquin said Monday night he has not changed his views on separatism but has no intention of joining any other separatist group.

His resignation focused on three main differences with the MSA leader: The position of the English-language minority in Quebec, the place of Quebec in partnership with English-speaking Canada and economic relations with the U.S.

He said there was no personality conflict with the 45-year-old Mr. Levesque, like Mr. Aquin a former Quebec Liberal.

Mr. Levesque contended the MSA is a logical development of the Liberals' 1966 Quebec election campaign slogan of masters at home—"Maitres chez nous."

Quebec and the rest of Canada, he proclaims could negotiate on "basically economic matters" but these also tie in with a "lot of other problems—citizenship, labor market, things like that."

Silence snipers

GARY, Ind. — (AP) — Police silenced snipers with return gunfire and arrested 64 persons while restoring local order again early today.

Mayor Richard Hatcher toured the city and told reporters: "Almost no one was on any street after the police moved in and made mass arrests."

Multiple Sclerosis Still Subject for Study

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What is the cause of multiple sclerosis? How does it affect a person? How is it diagnosed? Can the victim continue to work? Is there any cure?

A—Multiple sclerosis is caused by the destruction of the myelin sheath (insulation) that surrounds the individual nerve fibers in the spinal cord. The cause of this destruction is not known. A recent theory is that it is the result of a deficiency of linolenic acid in the diet. This nutrient is found in seed oils and fresh fish. The theory has not been proved so studies to discover a viral cause are continuing.

The symptoms vary. They include an unsteady gait, rigidity or weakness of various muscles, tremors that are made worse by trying to control them (intention tremors) and a staccato-type of speech. The disease is diagnosed by a careful study of the symptoms relating to the nervous system. Since the severity varies widely, some victims can continue to work while others can't.

Treatment has in general been unsatisfactory and improvement is often temporary. Much can be done, however, to ease the victim's symptoms. Although there is no cure, local cooling of the spinal cord will relieve the muscular rigidity, painful spasms and intention tremor. Dr. Irving Cooper of New York has reported excellent results in the relief of these same symptoms with an operation on the midbrain. Other treatments that have apparently been helpful are injections of a synthetic cortisone-like drug into the spinal canal and giving the victim vitamin K-3.

Q—I know a woman who got multiple sclerosis when she was 22. After about 24 years it left her. She didn't take anything for it. Have you ever heard of such a case?

A—Yes. It is characteristic of this disease for the victim to have spontaneous remissions. These are unpredictable as to when they will occur and how long they will last. They make the task of evaluating new treatments very difficult because if a remission occurs when the treatment is being used the improvement may be falsely attributed to the treatment.

Fine Arts course is only one of its kind

SACKVILLE, N.B. (AP) — An artist, painter or sculptor should be a well-rounded man, schooled not only in his art, but also in academics of those around him, maintains Mount Allison University.

To this end, the university's fine arts department, the only degree-granting fine arts course in Eastern Canada, accepts students only after they have satisfied the academic requirements of the university, plus a screening of the prospective student's work by the fine arts staff.

The student's four years of work toward his degree in fine arts at Mount A. is not only taken up with drawing, graphics, sculpture or art history. It must also include academic courses to satisfy the requirement of 20 credits for a bachelor's degree.

Prof. Lawrence P. Harris, head of the fine arts department, says that, in keeping with Mount A's over-all policy, the number of students in the fine arts course is limited. When the courses begin again in September, there will be 50 students working toward their bachelor of fine arts degrees.

COMMERCIAL ART OUT

"In addition to this being in agreement with the university's policy of limitation," says Prof. Harris, "the smaller number also ensures the student a certain measure of individual attention."

In screening the prospective student's work, he says, the staff learns whether it would be worthwhile for the student to pursue art as a career.

The department teaches no commercial art, but concentrates on the more serious aspects of the subject.

There are five instructors, including Prof. Harris. "We have added, over the last three years, a sculpture course with a qualified instructor."

According to John Ruskin, the work of science is to substitute facts for appearances. The equivalent bridge expression is "One peek is worth two finesses."

West would have been down six at his seven heart bid, but it would have been a very cheap save.

West didn't get doubled. North passed the bid around to South who went on to seven spades.

Dummy's ace of hearts held the first trick and South relaxed. That ace might have been ruffed. Then South looked everything over and saw that he had to take care of the queen of clubs to make his grand slam.

Based on appearances, the queen was probably going to show up in the East hand. West had bid up to seven hearts and certainly held at least seven cards in that suit. On the other hand, appearances can be deceptive but facts can't be. South managed to perform the equivalent of peeking in West's hand.

At trick two he ruffed a heart and noted that East failed to follow. West had an eight card heart suit.

At trick three a spade was led and East showed out. West had started with three spades.

South ran off a few rounds of trumps for good measure and led a diamond. West followed and South had accounted for 12 of West's cards.

South played dummy's ace of clubs and when West followed suit South knew every one of his cards. East had the queen of clubs and South finessed against it with total security.

Council backs a request for water Danville police chief resigns from post

Council agreed last night to furnish Ascot North with potable water starting in 1969 provided that the small municipality helps pay for the enlargement of Sherbrooke's East Ward reservoir.

The city will provide Ascot North with a 250,000 gallons capacity in 1969 and by 1973, the water furnished will jump to 310,000 gallons per day.

Ascot North employees must also install at the reservoir meters approved by the City of Sherbrooke.

The water will be paid for by Ascot North to Sherbrooke at an as yet undetermined rate for each 1,000 gallons.

The total investment estimated so far which Ascot North will invest inside Sherbrooke's limits is $300,000.

Presently, council agreed that Ascot North can supply itself with 95,000 gallons of water per day from the reservoir on Conseil Street near the city limits and 30,000 gallons from the reservoir on Sideleau Street.

These are only temporary arrangements until the East Ward reservoir is enlarged.

The municipality will pay the city for this water.

A request made by members of Youth With a Mission, YWAM, was shrugged off by Council last night.

The group asked for permission to pitch a tent for two weeks in August on a city lot or any available lot.

Alderman Everett Nicol suggested the decision be put off until next week. Next week, he chuckled, the request could be postponed once more and then by that time "it will be too late."

The YWAM members, who preach about Jesus Christ, wanted to pitch their tent, which measures 40 feet by 60 feet, on a city lot or an available lot outside the city.

What specific two weeks in August were not mentioned in the request nor did they ask for any specific lot.

They would use the tent to hold public meetings.

Alderman Carl Camirand said he did not approve of the group pitching their tent on a city lot.

Alderman Gaston Roy asked if there was a danger of fire.

No decision was taken, council just dropped the subject, at least following the first step of Mr. Nicol's suggestion.

The City will study its policy on allowing groups to use the Sherbrooke Centennial Pavilion which was broken into over the weekend.

Alderman Marcel Savard said if groups wanted to use the pavilion, it should be cleaned and asked if the cleaning costs should be paid by the group that uses it.

He said Sherbrookers are proud to host out-of-town guests at the modern pavilion and it should be used more often.

Council agreed the pavilion should be washed up and this work will be done soon.

Council decided to close the Central School Building on King West because it was becoming dangerous to walk inside the building.

The old structure once housed the Sherbrooke Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society and other organizations but it has become too dangerous to be used.

Council headed a report submitted by the city superintendent of Buildings and Parks, Gaston Lebrun, who suggested the $2,300 to be spent painting the building be spent on another city project.

He called the locale "the site of the future City Hall" and said this was another reason not to renovate the building.

DANVILLE — (Staff) — Paul Breton, for nine years and three months the police and fire chief of Danville, resigned from his post yesterday afternoon for what he termed "personal reasons".

Mr. Breton was currently serving his third consecutive term as sergeant-at-arms of the Provincial Association of Police Chiefs and Firemen.

Mr. Breton's resignation will become effective August 31.

During his term of office, the town of Danville won province-wide honors for a good record both in fire and accident prevention.

Last year, Danville was recognized by the Provincial Fire Prevention League as the best in Class "E", among the towns with a population of less than 5,000.

Last year, Mr. Breton received a plaque from the Provincial Security League, largely due to the fact that the town has not had one fatal accident since June 29, 1962.

Mr. Breton has been in the police force for 27 years, serving on various communities in the Eastern Townships.

Had weapon, disturbed the peace, fined $125

An Asbestos man was fined a total of $125 yesterday when he appeared before Judge Roland Dugre in Court of Sessions on charges of possessing an offensive weapon and disturbing the peace.

Rejean Turcotte, 23, was fined $100 on the first charge, in default 30 days in jail, and on the second charge, he was fined $25 and costs or one week in jail. He was given one month to pay the fines.

He was also ordered to post a $200 bond to keep the peace for two years.

"I was a little drunk" Turcotte explained about the incident.

ing with theft and attempted breaking and entering.

He was on probation from the Pinel mental institute in Montreal and failed to report punctually.

The Crown will check Paquette's record at the institute before he reappears again today.

He stole a chronometer, $290 worth of cheques and $375 in cash, altogether worth $721.95 from the Armand Nadeau Pavilion on July 24.

He was arrested trying to break into the trailer restaurant owned by Robert Maras in Sherbrooke.

Armand Pelouin, 54, R. R. 1, Windsor, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $100 and costs, in default 30 days in jail.

His driver's permit was suspended for six months.

He was given a month to pay the fine.

Big top arrives in Sherbrooke

The circus is here!

The King Bros. Circus reached Sherbrooke on schedule during the early morning hours. The circus grounds at Sherbrooke fairgrounds were a beehive of activity. Red wagons rolled, bands played, cumbersome elephants and humping camels were all a weird part of the transient city.

Small boys were there in great numbers, leading Shetland ponies to water, and acting as a "reception committee" for the circus employees. The tents nosed their way into the air and from confusion everything seemed to fall into its place.

Some performers relaxed in the shade of the house trailers. Many of the women performers were busy washing costumes and clothes. Six newly recruited tigers were being introduced into an act; some of the men performers were in the "big top" rehearsing new stunts for their act. A girl rider dressed in slacks was disciplining an obstinate horse and a mother was showing two teenage girls some acrobatic stunts.

Before the doors to the big show opened, the side-show patrons viewed strange and unusual sights and the youngsters enjoyed an old time London Punch and Judy show. The side show manager frequently exhibited on the outside an oddity for a moment's scrutiny.

In addition to the afternoon performance, another exhibition will be given tonight. The doors to the menagerie open at 7 p.m. and the big show will get underway promptly at 8 p.m. on account of its length.

The King Bros. Circus is sponsored by the Lions Club Charities for their charity projects. Shortly after midnight the last of the wagons will have vanished from the show grounds. And tomorrow peanut shells and cracker jack boxes will be all that is remaining on the barren lot.

Hotel room tax hurts Quebec tourist trade

Perhaps the decision of the Quebec Government two years ago to extend the eight per cent retail sales tax to hotel rooms has not killed the golden goose of the tourist and convention industry in this province, but undoubtedly it has resulted in the industry suffering from malnutrition.

Montreal hotel keepers declare that their business this summer is the worst in 20 years and similar reports are received from operators of tourist facilities in other parts of the province, a grim condition indeed when hotels in other parts of the country report a booming business.

At the same time the six per cent tax, later boosted to eight per cent, was first imposed in 1966, the government replied to criticisms that it would harm the tourist and convention business with statements that visitors really would not mind the levy because the premium offered on United States currency would offset the tax.

And it was also hinted that the hotel tax would be something of a temporary imposition designed to skim off some of the cream created by Expo 67 and that it would be rescinded when the great show was over.

But things have not worked out that way. The average visitor is fully aware of the currency premium before he arrives here and probably took the benefit into consideration when planning his trip.

The net result of the impost is, therefore, to create the feeling by the visitor that "he is being took," certainly not a healthy idea for promoting an industry that exists basically on goodwill.

And there is little indication that Quebec administrators plan to abolish the room tax for some time to come.

Like other "temporary" taxes, it shows a tendency to linger on.

Miniskirts, tax dodge

If you have ever wondered why merrie but conservative Olde England, of all places, gave birth to the miniskirt, of all things, a theory being advanced is that it is because of a peculiarity in that country's tax laws.

Skirts shorter than 24 inches from waistline to hemline are officially classified as children's clothing and are exempt from a 12½ per cent purchase tax, as certain sizes of clothing are relieved of paying the eight per cent sales tax in this province on the theory that they are children's clothes, regardless of who wears them.

But a glance at the average adult miniskirt, especially those worn in the Old Country, shows that they do not even come close to that length.

It is doubtful, of course, that taxes were in the minds of the designers when they first came out with miniskirts, but it does seem like a possible explanation of why the fad has lasted this long.

The real fashion crunch will come when the government gets around to changing the law, as it has promised to do.

Bygone days

TEN YEARS AGO

For its Saturday evening concert this week, the musical camp at Mount Orford will present an evening of poetry and songs. This concert formula has had, in the past, a great success whenever it has been employed.

Two celebrated French-Canadian artists, Jean - Paul Jeannotte and Gabriel Gascon will alternately sing and recite some of the finer specimens of music and poetry in the French language. Miss Jeanne Landry, one of Canada's leading accompanists will be at the piano.

Works by Gounod, Debussy, and Poulenc as well as those of past centuries like Durand, Lambert, etc., will be heard together with poems by Pierre de Ronsard, Charles d'Orleans, Paul Verlaine, Guillaume Apollinaire, and Jules Renard.

The recital starts at 8:30 p.m.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Sherbrooke Optimists last night took a dinner meeting holiday jaunt out to Stoke Lake where the presentation of a cheque was made to Henry Crocetti, manager of the St. Pat's Old Boys camp, by club president Paul Nadeau on behalf of the club.

St. Pat's camp, situated on the tumbling terrain that slides down to the water's edge of Stoke Lake, provides a good setting for energetic boyhood. At the same time, however, in the main building of the camp where the kitchen and cook Mrs. Drew are situated, the need was felt, and in no small way, for an electric fan that would eliminate fumes.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Presentation of the Kiwanis Club's "Travelling Gavels" created for the purpose of furthering the development of greater friendship between Kiwanis Clubs through inter-club meetings, featured the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Sherbrooke yesterday at the New Sherbrooke Hotel. The travelling gavel was presented to Roger McKergow of the Waterloo Club who was accompanied by six members of the visiting club.

Money, power and distrust

World is suddenly concerned about Nigeria's disruptive war

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—A world appalled at the threat of starving millions has suddenly taken notice of the Nigerian civil war more than a year after the bloody conflict began.

The fighting has trapped uncounted refugees without food and torn apart a nation which the West once thought was democracy's brightest hope in Africa.

Now, while the war continues, efforts are being made to negotiate a ceasefire and, under international auspices, save lives with shipments of food.

But why this tragedy? What is the war about? Basically, the self-proclaimed Republic of Biafra is fighting for independence from the Federation of Nigeria, Africa's most populous state.

The issues are money, power and a basic human distrust between three major groups that are more truly nations than tribes. They had been welded by the British into what is known as Nigeria in 1914 and told that they were a sovereign nation on Oct. 1, 1960.

The groups are the Hausa-Fulani of the Islamic north, the Yorubas of the west, and the Yorubas of the west and the Ibo of the east.

FACED MANY PROBLEMS

The British and the Western world in general were pleased with the peaceful transition to independence in 1960. But Nigeria shared the problems of most new countries—a lack of skilled workers, money-grasping politicians with no sense of nationhood, and an essentially provincial population. It had the additional problems of vast size and population.

When the crash came it was one of Africa's loudest. Lt.-Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, a 34-year-old Oxford University history major and maverick son of one of Nigeria's wealthiest men, proclaimed the independence of Nigeria's Eastern Region May 30, 1967.

Six weeks later, on July 6, Biafra and the federal government were at war. The act followed a period which from Jan. 15, 1966, saw two military coups and a series of massacres in which 30,000 Ibos were slaughtered.

The federal government claimed Ojukwu and his followers were power hungry, seeking to control the oil in eastern Nigeria, and trying to impose Ibo domination.

The former Eastern Region had 29,000 square miles with a population of about 14,000,000. About 8,000,000 were Ibos, the group to which Ojukwu belongs. Other tribes distrusted them because they showed considerably more aptitude and interest in the Western education and skills needed in a modern nation.

POPULATION SHRINKS

With the continued fighting, Biafra's population has shrunk to 7,000,000, mostly Ibos, backed into less than 10,000 square miles. Federal troops have recaptured most areas along the coast, the Niger River delta, and the Cameroon border.

After a six-week occupation of the Midwest Region, Biafra's 40,000 men have been on a steady retreat while maintaining nuisance counter-attacks.

The Biafrans have bought arms from European dealers who have charged high prices for substandard equipment. They owned several B-25 bombers which never became a major factor in the war.

The Biafrans never overcame a federal land and sea blockade but a shuttle of chartered Super Constellations flying from Lisbon, Portugal, has delivered arms and ammunition. The Biafrans hired some mercenaries, but most quit.

It is estimated the Biafrans had $120,000,000 to spend on the war.

The federal government has drawn $154,000,000 from its hard currency reserves to arm its army and increase it tenfold to 80,000 men.

After a reluctant start, Britain has been Nigeria's most consistent arms supplier. When at first denied by the British, Nigeria bought jet planes from Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union and Sudan.

BOMBINGS PROTESTED

Mercenaries including white

South Africans flew for the Nigerians. Now Egyptians and some Nigerians handle combat flights. Then bombing of civilian targets inspired worldwide protests, and as a result the Czechoslovaks stopped arms shipments, followed by the French, Dutch, and Belgians.

Great public pressure is on the British government to follow suit.

The Biafrans, in the underdog role, have won wide sympathy. Four African countries have recognized their government despite the military setbacks.

Pressure has been exerted on both sides to open mercy corridors. One effort at peace talks broke down in Kampala, Uganda, May 30 after a week, but this week the two sides were making arrangements to try again in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

The Ibos of Biafra have no place to run after a year of war. Their people are on the verge of starvation. Their arms supplies are low. The federal government has virtually emptied its treasury to finance a war that may set back development a generation. Its promising oil industry is virtually defunct. The longer the war continues, the greater the strain on relations between tribes elsewhere.

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — (TNS) — There were no demonstrations when 19 mass graves, containing the bodies of about 1,000 civilians murdered by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops, were discovered in Hue after the Tet offensive. No demonstrations can be expected to protect the ambush and slaughter of four Western newsmen and the execution of one Western diplomat by the Viet Cong in Saigon over the weekend.

The protesters, who are always willing to march at the drop of every bomb on the positions of the so-called "freedom fighters," have apparently nothing to say about calculated, cold-blooded murder of non-combatants. Their conscience does not seem to be bothered by wanton Communist terror, but invariably condemns those who dare to take up arms against intimidation and aggression.

This has been the pattern throughout the Vietnam war. One after another, synchronized and well-organized demonstrations pillory the defenders in the brutal struggle forced on South Vietnam by the regime in Hanoi, while reports of deliberate atrocities committed by the other side draw no protest.

One sided reporting

Part of the explanation of this peculiar phenomenon undoubtedly lies in the one-sided reporting of the conflict. With no television crews and swarms of Viet Cong troops, we have been consistently getting only one side of the gruesome picture.

And even that partial picture has been distorted by the inevitable selection of the sensational, the exceptional, the comically "newsworthy" material. Day in and day out we have seen the goriest moments of one side of the fighting, divorced from the context of the struggle, while the enormous allied pacification and rehabilitation effort hardly ever merited a glimpse or a mention.

The cumulative effect of this pictorial and verbal reporting, reinforced in many cases by heavy doses of pro-Communist propaganda, has produced a wide-spread psychological bias. This bias is now so deeply rooted that atrocities which would trigger a tremendous uproar if perpetrated by the South Vietnamese or any of their allies are passed over in silence or dismissed as irrelevant when repeatedly committed by the Communists.

Blame the corpses

In some cases the blind bias seems to have gone so far that otherwise rational people tend to blame the mutilated bodies of old women, French priests and German doctors found in the mass graves in Hue on the defenders instead of on the attackers of South Vietnam. The incredible "reasoning" behind this perverted logic is that all the horrors of the war could have been avoided had there been no opposition to the "liberation forces."

This ultimate foolishness of starchy-eyed pacifism, which would have presumably given a free run to the savagery of Nazism a generation ago, turns a blind eye to the intrinsic intolerance, aggressiveness and brutality of the totalitarian systems.

Neither Nazi Germany nor Soviet Russia was engaged in "liberation" or any other wars when they started systematically murdering millions of people. In the specific case of Vietnam, there was no war when, more than a decade ago, the Ho Chi Minh regime massacred an estimated 100,000 of its own peasants who dared to voice opposition to forced collectivization of land.

Born of hate and terror, the totalitarian systems maintain themselves in power by hate and terror. They try to expand their domain by exporting hate and terror. Torture and murder are part and parcel of their method of government.

When the Hanoi regime launched its attempt to extend its rule over South Vietnam, it started with systematic intimidation of defenceless peasants by disembowelling and then beheading their village chiefs in front of their eyes. School teachers, medical personnel and district government officials were next on the list when guerrilla raids got under way.

Had South Vietnam chosen not to resist, who can tell how many people in the country which accepted a million refugees from the North would have been "liquidated" by Ho's Red fanatics? The cold blooded slaughter of civilians in Hue is indicative of the answer to this question.

As always in history, resistance to aggression has brought the casualties and the ruins of war. But it has also kept alive the prospect of avoidance of the greater tragedy of totalitarian enslavement of millions of people who seek to shape their own destiny.

With the opening of preliminary peace talks in Paris this week, a new wave of Communist terror is on the rise in South Vietnam. The motley company of defunct pacifists and Ho's admirers around the world will undoubtedly do the utmost to put the blame for it on Saigon and its allies. Incredible as such a distortion of facts may be, it has, in the sorry atmosphere of confusion, a good chance of success.

MD proposal

MONTREAL (CP) — A brief now being prepared by the Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons proposes that post-degree training for general practitioners be increased a year and that the present one-year internship period for specialists be dropped.

A spokesman for the college's secretary, Dr. Augustin Roy, said Monday that under the proposed system a doctor who has completed four years of medical school would serve a two-year hospital residency providing extensive training in various areas including minor surgery, obstetrics and pediatrics before going into general practice.

A general practitioner now serves only a year before taking up practice.

The brief also calls for giving more clinical training during medical school to students planning on specializing so that the now required one-year internship following graduation would be unnecessary.

Confederation of National Trade Unions, said in a statement issued after a two-hour meeting with Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor, and Donat Quimper, deputy labor minister, that the proposal has the support of the QFL leader.

Couple marry in Richmond

RICHMOND — The marriage of Eleanor Louise Duffy, daughter of Mrs. Elmer J. Duffy of Richmond and the late Mr. Duffy, to Glenn Nelson William Brock, son of Mrs. Spencer Brock of Danville and the late Mr. Brock, took place on June 29 at noon in St. Anne's Anglican Church Richmond.

Heather Kerr sang O Perfect Love and A Wedding Blessing. Baskets of pink, red, and white peonies decorated the church and the pews were marked with pansies and white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Arthur Johnston, wore a floor-length empire gown of white sheer over tulle, featuring a low back with a panel trimmed with small roses. Her shoulder-length tulle veil was held in place with a headdress of stephanotis and net leaves. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white shasta daisies and stephanotis featuring a large orange ribbon.

Mrs. Gary Quinn, as matron-of-honor for her sister, wore a pale yellow floor-length sheath with a yellow overdress of sheer over cotton, trimmed at the edges with white lace. Her bouquet was of yellow and white shasta daisies and she wore an arrangement of yellow and white daisies in her hair.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Douglas Page, sister of the bride, Marilyn King and Lyn Gauthier of Elliot Lake wore dresses of pale green, which were similar to that of the matron-of-honor. They carried identical bouquets of white and yellow shasta daisies and wore yellow and white daisies in their hair.

Miss Donna Duffy as junior bridesmaid for her aunt was dressed identically to the matron-of-honor. All attendants wore a gold pin, a gift of the bride.

Gary Quinn was best man, and the ushers were Douglas Page, brother-in-law of the bride, Deryl Brock, brother of the groom and Norman Schmelzer of Elliot Lake.

Mrs. Elmer Duffy, mother of the bride, wore a sheath dress of beige knit featuring a trim of white lace. Her accessories were beige and brown and she wore a corsage of orange carnations.

CUTTING THE CAKE — Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Nelson William Brock, who were married recently at St. Anne's Anglican Church, Richmond. The bride is the former Eleanor Louise Duffy, daughter of Mrs. Elmer J. Duffy of Richmond, and the late Mr. Brock. The groom is the son of Mrs. Spencer Brock of Danville, and the late Mr. Brock.

She's in the business end of the theatre

TORONTO (CP) — If you're not an actor or a designer, but you're theatre smitten, be good at business, and you can keep as busy in the theatre as you want.

Anne Barr says that's been her experience, though no one told her about it. She found out by accident.

Miss Barr moved from Windsor, Ont., to London, England, and was working as staff advisor for a retail firm when she was offered a job as manager of the Drury Lane Theatre.

"Somebody offered me a business job, and it happened to be in the theatre. Had I not been oriented by interest and by having most of my friends in the theatre, I might not have been able to cope. Someone once remarked to me that it's a business of interruptions."

"And though I am in the business end, I have the utmost regard for the artistic. I'm still star struck."

She says managing a theatre in England is a different proposition from a similar job in Canada.

COUNT BAR PROFITS
"In England, a theatre is a piece of real estate. When you make up the accounts you add up income from the chocolates and tea, the 13 bars and last night's party, and right at the bottom, from the box office."

"It's almost a form of subsidized theatre, although you don't attract people to your 13 bars unless you have a hit."

Miss Barr, who came back to Canada five years ago, is manager of the Kawartha Festival Foundation which put on plays

Pretty wedding held in Cowansville

COWANSVILLE — A pretty wedding took place July 6 at 2 p.m. at Trinity Anglican Church here when Marilyn Joan Miner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald G. E. Miner of Cowansville became the bride of Douglas Andrew Dede, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Dede of Rockville Centre, Long Island, N.Y.

Rev. John Peacock officiated at the double-ring ceremony and Miss Elizabeth Watson played the wedding music.

The church was decorated with baskets of summer flowers. The guest pews were marked with white satin bows and flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white pure silk satin, featuring a self pleat at the front edged with gaipur lace. A chapel-length train of the same material and bordered with gaipur lace fell from her shoulders. A shoulder-length bouffant veil of tulle illusion was held by a cluster of white blossoms. She carried a cascade of white gardenia and pink Sweetheart roses.

Patsi Paterson was maid of honor, and Colleen Shanks, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. The bridesmaids included Margaret Morrison, Helen Boyles and Mrs. Kenneth Dede. The attendants wore floor-length empire style gowns of turquoise corded cotton featuring short sleeves and panels of the same material falling from mid-back. Headpieces were turquoise daisies with short tulle veils and they carried bouquets of white carnations with babies' breath.

Mrs. Miner, mother of the bride chose a pale blue shantung dress with beaded trim, a tulle hat in the same shade and matching accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Dede, mother of the bridegroom, wore a turquoise embroidered silk organza ensemble with matching accessories, and an orchid corsage.

The reception was held at the Maurice Hotel where a buffet luncheon was served to approximately 120 guests. The bride's table was centered with the three-tier wedding cake which was made and decorated by the bride's great-aunt, Mrs. Irene Williams. Throughout the reception organ music was played by Maurice Goulet.

The couple left by car on a wedding trip to the Thousand Islands. The bride travelled in a casual green and yellow floral linen dress with yellow accessories.

'Soul food' is the factor of her success

Soul food and family devotion have kept Valerie Dickerson, age 21, of Riverside, Calif., on the upward track. Daughter of a retired Air Force lieutenant-colonel, she is a graduate of San Jose State College with honors in journalism, and now winner of the 14th National College Queen Pageant. Furthermore, the New York Times has awarded her a scholarship of $4,000 for study at the Columbia School of Journalism.

Valerie Dickerson makes her version of "soul food."

She is graceful, poised, well-dressed, alert and beautifully spoken. She is definitely going places. She is also black. Not Negro, not colored, but black, she insists.

"Discrimination? Oh, yes—lots of it during my life. Don't think that a military uniform shields a family from it," she says. "Maybe not outspoken hostility. But the unspoken kind still goes on. And at San Jose State the same thing. We organized a protest and the authorities tried to make things better for us."

She is the first Negro, the first "black girl," ever to win a major national competition for women. One college girl from each of the 50 states competed. She has lived with her military family in England, France, Hawaii and Tokyo. On the dean's list at San Jose State, she broadcast daily over the campus radio and was a feature writer for the college newspaper. Yet she admits to periods of bitterness, frustration and spiritual pain during her climb toward the top.

"The only solid things I had to hold on to were my family and my love of soul food," she admits. "My love for my mother and father and little brother—well, I never doubted them. Never."

As to soul food, Valerie says only a black person really knows what it means. "It's so much a part of our culture—we grew up on it—sweet potato pie, little pieces of fried chicken, chicken and dumplings, collard greens with ham hock—all highly seasoned food—it's really spiritual food for us—all tied in with our lives and struggles and hours of happiness," she explains.

Her mother and grandmother taught her how to make sweet potato pie and how to bake bread when she was only 10. "At college I lived in an apartment with other girls. I baked bread once a week. They loved it and that was all the cooking I had to do. They did the rest."

Valerie served as congressional intern in the Washington office of Rep. J. V. Tunney of California. She also lived for a month in Bedford Stuyvesant ghetto of Brooklyn, N.Y., to learn first-hand the problems of her underprivileged sisters and brothers.

"But their problems are so vast, so terrifying," reports this 21-year-old National College Queen who is also deeply involved in all Negro efforts to escape the ghetto. "Soul food and family love, they all need lots of that. But they need so much more," she pleads to all Americans.

PITCHER PAK — A new method of packaging milk that does away with milk bottles is making headway in Quebec.

In this "Pitcher-Pak" system, the milk comes in a flexible pouch made of plastic film. Each pouch contains one quart and normally two or more pouches are sold as a unit.

NEW HOSE SHADES — Stocking interest continues but goes much more refined through color or pattern. The new patterns are delicate laces, light scallops, fresh flower designs or bold polka dots. The sheer opaques in soft colors with white best, cream, oyster, pink, grey, navy show the most interest.

Why not try grape salad

From the warm valleys of California with their lush vineyards, beautiful table grapes come rushing now to our markets. So let's enjoy them in clusters, in salads and in desserts.

As they are highly perishable, handle them carefully. Use quickly after purchase. Don't try to save them. Eat them and enjoy yourself.

GRAPE SALAD WITH PUMPKIN PEANUT BREAD

- Makes 6 servings, 1-9x5x3 inch loaf
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
- 1/4 cup frozen concentrated undiluted pineapple juice
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- Bite-sized greens
- 24 small bunches green seedless grapes
- 1 egg white, slightly beaten
- Granulated sugar

Mash cream cheese until soft. Gradually beat in pineapple juice and sour cream. Arrange a small bed of salad greens on individual salad plates. Top with some of the cheese mixture. Chill. Dip bunches of grapes into egg white and coat grapes lightly. Roll bunches in sugar. Let stand at room temperature until ready to serve. At serving time surround cheese with grape bunches and fingers of Pumpkin Peanut Bread.

PUMPKIN PEANUT BREAD

Stray Hairs Are Problem

No matter how attractive a hair style is, its beauty can be lessened by stray hairs at the nape of the neck. This is a special problem when setting shorter cuts and can be avoided by checking the back of your set in a three-way mirror.

Indians and Tigers win in Little League action

Pitch a one hitter and lose 2-1. This happened to young Denis Rose of the Tigers in their game with the Indians in Little League action last night. His mates did get him four hits but could only come up with one run.

In the other game played, Yankees, with a barrage of fifteen hits, downed Orioles 10-9. Tonight White Sox meet the Red Sox and Twins take on the Senators with both games at the Parade Grounds.

The first four innings in the Tigers-Indians tilt were scoreless. Tigers in the first four got hits from Belanger (2) and Rose. Indians got their single hit in the top of the fifth inning. Benoit and Gaudreau walked. Then Lambert's single sent in the two runs.

Tigers made their bid in the last of the sixth but the best they could do was a single run with the Indians taking it by a 2-1 score. Rose, though losing, had 10 strikeouts.

Yankees scored nine runs in the bottom of the first last night to start them on a 10-9 win over the Orioles. A total of 10 hits sent in the runs.

Orioles nipped away at this lead and got single runs in the third, fourth, and came up with six in the fifth, and fighting hard, in the sixth only managed a single run. Young J. P. Goyette was the winner with B. Laforest the loser. Mooney had three hits for the losers while Goyette, Warner and Aleksa each had two for the Yankees.

Als host Miners tomorrow night

Royals upset Alouettes 6-5

A four-run eighth inning for the Drummondville Royals was all relief pitcher Bob Neuman needed at the Royals swept to a 6-5 victory over the Sherbrooke Alouettes at the Park Avenue Stadium last night. Als starter Pedro Sierra went all the way on the mound for Sherbrooke and was given the loss while Mike Young earned the win. Sierra is now 10-4.

Elsewhere in Provincial League action last night the Plessisville Braves whipped the Lachine Mets 14-1 while Quebec downed the Miners 4-2 in Theford. Plessisville forced nine runs across home plate in the second inning of their tilt in Plessisville to put the game out of reach for the Mets. The Indians 4-2 victory over the Miners marks Theford's third straight loss, two of which have been before hometown crowds.

Sherbrooke opened the scoring in the first last night on a run-scoring single by Gilles St. Onge. Madison had reached first on an error to Streeter and stole second. The Royals tied it up in the top of the third on a triple by Hector Soto, scoring Gonzales from first.

The Als went ahead 3-1 in the bottom of the third on singles by Madison, Ridley and Felipe. The Als added one more in the fourth and another in the sixth. St. Onge sacrificed Madison home in the seventh after the Als' speedy rightfielder doubled to left-centerfield and stole third base. Going into the eighth Sherbrooke led 5-2.

In the top of the eighth Gmelch led off with a triple, Pignataro singled him home and James singled to put runners on first and second. Young was safe on a fielder's choice forcing Pignataro out at third. Gonzales reached first, on an error by Weiczak, to load the bases. Streeter walked to send James home. Young was driven home on a fielder's choice to Hughes and an error to Sabathier sent the fourth run across.

Willie Madison, the game's first star, led the Alouettes offensively with three singles on four trips to the plate. He also scored four runs and stole three bases.

Other Sherbrooke stars were St. Onge with a single and a double on three trips to the plate. The Als' leftfielder also picked up three RBIs. Sherbrooke coach Nick Testa was the Alouettes' third star. Testa singled twice on three attempts. The three stars were chosen by Fernand Desrochers.

Sierra, in taking the loss, allowed 11 hits, walked eight and struckout four. Young, the Royals' nineteen-year-old right hander, gave up three walks, struckout five, and allowed 10 hits. Bob Neuman, who relieved the Royals' starter in the eighth, allowed one hit, struckout one and walked one Alouette to preserve Young's 6-5 win.

As a result of last night's game, Sherbrooke dropped into a tie for second place with the Indians, one and a half games behind the Cards who were idle.

Tonight in Provincial League action Quebec travels to Granby and Drummondville meets the Mets in Lachine. If the Cards lose and the Royals win Sherbrooke would suddenly find themselves in fourth place.

Sherbrooke's next game is Wednesday night when the Als will play hosts to the visiting Theford Miners at 8 p.m. at the Park Avenue Stadium. This is the re-scheduled game following last Saturday evening's rained out tilt. The Als are home again Saturday evening at which time they meet the Cards.

Sherbrooke travels to Theford Thursday evening and will receive the Miners Sunday night at home. Sunday night the Als will travel to Quebec to meet the Indians in a double-header scheduled to get underway at 6 p.m. Following this they will be home again next Thursday evening to meet the Mets.

Leclair's future as coach of Beavers is in jeopardy

A final decision will be made some time today as regards to whether or not Jackie Leclair will remain as coach of the Sherbrooke Beavers of the Quebec Senior Hockey League. Beavers' President, Leandre Mercier and his executive will meet today to decide the future of Leclair as far as the Beavers are concerned.

Leclair, ex-Montreal Canadiens' rightwinger and veteran of the American Hockey League, sustained a knee injury playing in the Florida State League and as a result needed minor surgery. Preliminary reports are that the knee will not be healed in time for the coming season.

The Beavers signed Leclair to a contract as a playing coach and if the veteran hockey enthusiast cannot live up to the terms of the contract, then the local executive must decide whether the salary they are prepared to pay Leclair is worth just having the ex-Canadian behind the bench.

Leclair is presently at his Jacksonville, Florida, home with his family. The extent of the injuries to the knee are not known yet but the Beavers do know that the injury was sustained during the latter part of the Florida State Hockey League season.

As far as George Roy is concerned, Mr. Mercier emphatically denied any rumors of the ex-coach's return. When contacted about Roy last week, Mr. Mercier said, "There is no question about Mr. Roy returning to the Club, he was in Quebec City with his family the last time I heard."

In other Quebec Senior Hockey League news, Drummondville may return to the fold. President Len O'Donnell was quoted as saying he did not hear any news about the Eagle's return but other sources say the Drummondville fans are not ready to see the Eagles out of the league at all. Drummondville won the Allan Cup last spring.

Red Sox nip Orioles 3-2, Yankees trim Tigers 7-2

New York Yankees caught Detroit napping Monday night and roughed up the front-running Tigers 7-2 behind unsung right-handers Joe Verbanic and Lindy McDaniel.

But instead of losing ground to the pursuing Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians, the Tigers stumbled forward another half step toward their first American League pennant in 23 years.

Boston Red Sox took the edge off Detroit's setback by sweeping a day-night doubleheader from Baltimore 3-2, in 10 innings, and 8-3 while last-place Washington upended Cleveland 4-2.

As a result, the Orioles and Indians each trail the Tigers by seven games and the Red Sox are 8½ lengths back.

BEAT THE TWINS

Elsewhere California Angels edged Minnesota Twins 2-1, ending a five-game losing string, and Chicago White Sox struck for five runs in the 13th inning and a 7-2 victory over Oakland Athletics.

Verbanic, a Yankee reliever making one of his infrequent starts, pitched out of several early jams at Detroit before giving way to McDaniel in the sixth and squared his pitching mark at 4-4.

McDaniel, picked up in a recent inter-league deal with San Francisco, allowed only one hit — Norm Cash's solo homer in the seventh — over the final 2-3 innings.

Joe Pepitone's two-run single in the fifth broke a 1-1 tie and the Yanks pulled away on two-run homers by Jake Gibbs and Roy White.

Successive 10th innings doubles by Jose Tartabull and Mike Andrews snapped a 2-2 deadlock in the afternoon game at Boston, giving Ray Culp a hard-earned pitching verdict over Baltimore reliever Moe Drabowsky. Culp, 7-4, struck out 12 in going the distance.

SLAMS 3 DOUBLES

Andrews and Joe Jov homered in the nightcap and Carl Yastrzemski slammed a m e d three doubles as the Red Sox breezed behind rejuvenated Juan Pizarro. The veteran southpaw, 3-2, survived bases-empty homers by Boog Powell, Paul Blair and Dave Johnson.

Ron Hansen clubbed a tie-breaking homer in the sixth inning and Frank Howard unloaded his 29th homer in the seventh when the Senators surprised Cleveland behind right hander Jim Haman.

Sammy Ellis stopped Minnesota on four hits and scored the deciding run while finishing one up on the Twins' Dean Chance in a beanball exchange. Ellis hit Chance with a pitch in the top of the fifth and Chance nicked Don Mincher in the bottom of the inning. Chance then plunked Ellis in the sixth and the Angels' pitcher moved around to score the tie-breaking run on Roger Repoz' single.

Triples by Tom McCraw and Tommy Davis, a double by Tim Cullen and pitcher Wilbur Wood's two-run single keyed the White Sox' 13th inning awakening after Luis Aparicio's fourth hit in the game opened the gates. Aparicio drove in Chicago's first two runs with a single and triple.

Red's George Culver pitches NL first no-hitter in '68

Now George Culver knows how to act.

"I really got nervous in the seventh," the Cincinnati Reds pitcher said Monday night. "I'd never even come close to pitching a no-hitter before in my life. I didn't know how to act."

Two innings later, the former relief specialist had a 6-1, no-hit victory over Philadelphia Phillies and he was acting completely normal under the circumstances.

"Actually after the game I was crying," he said. "Winning is important, but doing it by pitching a no-hitter, that's the greatest."

CAPPED SWEEP

Culver's gem gave Cincinnati a sweep of the two-night doubleheader—the Reds winning the first game 7-6. St. Louis Cardinals beat New York Mets 5-1, Pittsburgh Pirates edged Atlanta Braves 3-2, Houston Astros blanked Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0 and San Francisco Giants topped Chicago Cubs 4-1 in other National League action.

Culver, who worked out of the Cleveland bullpen last year and was obtained by the Reds in a winter trade, ran his record to 9-9 with his third complete game of the season.

The Phillies put seven men on bases—five on walks, one on an error and one on a catcher's interference—against the young right-hander who struck out three.

Philadelphia's run was unearned and came in the second. Richie Allen reached first when third baseman Tony Perez booted his grounder, and continued to second when shortstop Woody Woodward picked up the loose ball and threw wildly. Allen advanced to third on a ground out and scored on Cookie Rojas' sacrifice fly.

ELUDES TACKLER — Paul Duda (37) a halfback for the Hamilton Tiger Cats, eludes Montreal Alouettes' linebacker Peter Howlett (30) last week in a Canadian Football League exhibition game. Hamilton's Don Chiofard (34) runs ahead of the play to block, as George Spanach

(52) of the Alouettes pursues. Hamilton won the game 34-15. The Als officially open their 1968 season tomorrow night. (AP Wirephoto)

CFL season opens tonight, Grey Cup finalists meet

A rematch of last year's Western Football Conference finalists and a contest between the 1967 WFC also-rans raise the curtain on the Canadian Football League season tonight.

Calgary Stampeders, who topped the WFC standings last fall, open their 16-game schedule against Saskatchewan Roughriders, the team that ousted them in a three-game final last November.

At Winnipeg, the Blue Bombers will attempt to improve on their fourth-place finish when they meet British Columbia Lions, the only team with a worse 1967 record.

Edmonton Eskimos see their first action Wednesday night, visiting Montreal Alouettes in the season's first interlocking game, which will be televised by CTV starting at 8 p.m. EDT. The Stampeders completed their pre-season exhibition schedule with three victories and a tie, the only one of the nine CFL teams with an unbeaten record.

Although coach Jerry Williams has expressed interest in producing a ground attack to supplement his formidable aerial offensive, Calgary's unbeaten exhibition record was accomplished mainly with the same Peter Liske-to-Terry Evanshen combination that paid off with a flock of passing records last fall.

APPEARS RECOVERED

Evanshen, whose departure with a broken leg in the second game of the WFC finals played a large part in Calgary's eventual downfall, has been confounding defensive backs with intricate running patterns and appears fully recovered.

The most notable absentee from last year's Stampeder lineup is fullback Lovell Coleman, who went to Ottawa Rough Riders in a trade for linebacker Mike Blum.

Once the leading ground-gainer in the West, Coleman was largely used as a secondary receiver last year. Ted Woods, who missed most of the last two years with injuries, will replace him in the offensive backfield.

The loss of offensive guard Jack Abendschan to the National Football League and retirement of flanker Hugh Campbell have caused some spluttering in the Saskatchewan attack, although the Riders won three of their four exhibition games.

A wealth of good offensive ends has permitted coach Eagle Keys to make a flanker of Gord Barwell and former Stampeder Bill Goods, an offensive halfback, has taken over Abendschan's place-kicking duties.

Goods and rookie Silas McKinnie are competing for the ball-carrying role of Ed Buchanan, who went to Toronto Argonauts in an off-season trade. Quarterback Ron Lancaster, all-star fullback George Reed and Alan Ford are back to complete the offensive backfield.

NEW QUARTERBACKS

Both the Lions and Bombers have new starting quarterbacks this season, although there is plenty of backfield talent to help them look good.

Winnipeg came out of exhibition play with an 0-4 record and an eye-opening performance by Dave Raimy, who scored all five touchdowns in a 44-35 loss to Ottawa.

WIN ORFORD TOURNAMENT — Leonard Tourgeon, Mt. Orford golf pro, Mrs. Pat Ross-Ross, organizer of last Sunday's Ladies' President's golf tournament; and Mrs. Dominique, President, are shown congratulating Mrs. Arlene Taylor, low net winner, and Mrs. Andree Roch,
