EISENHOWER GAINS LANDSLIDE VICTORY

World News In Brief

Zagreb, Yugoslavia, Nov. 5.—(Reuters)—The sixth congress of the Yugoslav communist party was thrown into turmoil today when one prominent member charged another with stealing his wife.

The complainant, Ljubodrag Djurich, secretary-general of the Yugoslav federal government, was hustled out of the convention hall. Speakers including Premier Tito reproached him for bringing up the matter in public.

Tokyo, Nov. 5.—(Reuters)—A Japanese court today freed two British sailors who had been jailed for stealing a taxi and robbing its driver of 1,700 yen (about $4.75). They had served four months of their 2½-year sentence.

The Osaka high court reaffirmed the men's guilt, upheld Japan's jurisdiction in the case (which had been disputed by Britain) and approved the original sentence. It then suspended the sentence for three years.

London, Nov. 5.—(Reuters)—Clement Attlee today was re-elected leader of the Labor party group in parliament, but the big fight is yet to come.

It will pit Aneurin Bevan, leader of the party's left against Herbert Morrison, in a contest for the deputy leadership. Morrison is seeking re-election for another year.

All 296 members of the parliamentary Labor party will take part in the secret poll. The result will be made known next week.

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Bloody fighting for Triangle Hill and Sniper ridge flared today into the heaviest action of the 23-day struggle for the Korean central front heights.

South Korean troops in a pre-dawn sneak attack stabbed within 10 yards of the crest of Triangle Hill, then were pinned down by Chinese hand grenades and machine-gun fire. Five previous allied attempts to retake the height, lost Friday, have stalled in the same place.

Mont Laurier, Que., Nov. 5.—(CP)—Three men lost their lives last night when the automobile in which they were riding failed to make a sharp turn and plunged into the Rivière du Lièvre. Mont Laurier is 120 miles northwest of Montreal.

Dead are Roland Brien, 21, and Gerald Theriault, 26, of St. Come, Que., and Antoine Guilbault, 28, Ste. Emelie de L'Énergie, Que.

London, Nov. 5.—(Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh, sailor husband of the Queen, yesterday passed a physical examination by the R.A.F. and will soon begin taking flying lessons. It was learned last night. Preparations have been made at the R.A.F. base at White Waltham, where he will train.

A new Chipmunk training plane has been delivered and is kept under strict night-and-day guard. A police dog is locked up inside the hangar with it each night.

United States Election Sidelights

Hackensack, N.J., Nov. 5.—(AP)—An absentee ballot from a soldier in Korea turned up here yesterday with a write-in vote for coroner. Spelled out in big letters was the name "Harry S. Truman."

Burrillville, R.I., Nov. 5.—(AP)—For the first time since it was incorporated in the early 1700s, this town gave a majority to a Republican candidate for President in yesterday's election.

The vote of nearly 5,000 gave Gen. Eisenhower a margin of 140 over Governor Stevenson. Burrillville has a population of 9,000.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 5.—(AP)—William A. Purtell, Republican, won a U.S. Senate seat, but lost his title as Senator in a political oddity.

He was appointed to the Senate recently by Governor John Lodge to succeed the late Senator Brien McMahon, Democrat. The appointment ran only until a permanent successor was elected to finish out the last four years of McMahon's term.

Prescott Bush was elected to that seat, and becomes Connecticut's senior Senator today.

Purtell won the full six-year term, but doesn't take office until next January.

Secaucus, N.J., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Henry Krajewski, pig farmer turned Presidential candidate on his own poor man's ticket, got a total of 71 votes in his home town yesterday.

Other candidates did better. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower got 2,286 votes and Gov. Adlai Stevenson 1,608.

Washington, Nov. 5.—(P)—Dwight Eisenhower's landslide ride to the Presidency in yesterday's general election ripped from the solid south a larger chunk of votes than any Republican ever won in Dixie.

With four states in the bag and two others teetering, Ike already had far more popular votes than any other Republican nominee ever polled although he ran a bit shy of the electoral total won by Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Florida, Oklahoma, Virginia and Texas, with 54 electoral votes, were firmly in his column early today.

He was in a hairline struggle for Tennessee's 11 electoral votes and Louisiana's 10. The Republican choice was about 1,600 up in Tennessee this morning, about 2,000 down in Louisiana.

The other seven states of the traditionally solid south—Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi and North and South Carolina—with 71 electoral votes appeared safe for the Democrats' Adlai Stevenson.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—(P)—Republican, pacer by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Presidential victory, smashed Democratic domination in Illinois today with a nearly clean sweep of major state offices.

Governor Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic Presidential nominee, lost in his home state, giving the Republicans the state's 27 electoral votes. It was the first

Close Contests In Several States Will Determine Control Of House.

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected President of the United States yesterday with a landslide that ripped open the once-solidly Democratic south and shattered the 20-year Democratic hold on the White House.

An avalanche of votes gave the 62-year-old General a tremendous personal mandate but felt short of guaranteeing him a Republican-controlled Congress.

Making a spectacular entry into politics after a 40-year military career, Eisenhower buried Governor Adlai Stevenson, his Democratic opponent, under a coast-to-coast swell of votes matching in volume that given Herbert Hoover, his last Republican predecessor, in 1928, and rivalling some of those for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

But while the voters liked Ike in emphatic terms, they were somewhat less certain that it was "time for a change" in the Congress which the Democrats have dominated for the last four years.

Control of the House of Representatives apparently hinged on the outcome of a half-dozen or more districts with only a vote or two likely to separate the two parties in the 435-seat House.

The Senate contest was just as tight. One-third of the 96 Senate seats were up for re-election. On the basis of mid-morning returns the Republicans had won or were ahead in enough states to seat 48. This would leave Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, a Republican until he switched to Stevenson and became an independent, to cast the decisive vote. He has refused to indicate how he will go.

Stevenson was able to hold only the remnants of the once-solid south, plus possibly Kentucky and Missouri in the border states. His running mate, Senator John Sparkman, helped salvage his home state of Alabama, but not much else. The Democratic campaign of "talking sense to the American people" had fizzled.

The Illinois Governor, who reluctantly accepted the Democratic nomination, lost even in his own state.

With all the big states—New York, Michigan, California, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and New Jersey—safely in the Republican column, Eisenhower had a whopping total of electoral votes. He needed only 266 to win but was heading for a possible total of 442.

In Springfield, Ill., Stevenson philosophically conceded the victory to Eisenhower, called on all Americans to "close ranks" and pledged his support to the winner.

Eisenhower, wildly cheered when he appeared in a New York hotel ballroom, matched his opponent's unity plea, said it was "a day of dedication rather than triumph" and pledged that he never will give "short weight" to his responsibilities in Washington.

With more than 49,000,000 of the estimated 55,000,000 or more ballots counted, the popular vote tabulation at 10 a.m. EST, stood:

Eisenhower	27,027,230
Stevenson	22,039,899

The General already had passed the record high for a Republican—the 22,305,198 rolled up by Wendell L. Willkie in 1940, but still was short of the 27,751,598 amassed by Roosevelt in 1936.

However, Ike was getting about 57 per cent of the popular vote, sure to be far in excess of the 49, 829,312 record cast in 1940.

In his sweep, Eisenhower carried two states the Republicans haven't been able to capture since 1924, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. He won or was out in front in 14 states where the Republicans haven't had a Presidential victory since 1928—Arizona, California, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington.

But his landslide wasn't quite as widespread as that registered by Hoover over Al Smith, since Eisenhower couldn't break into West Virginia, Kentucky and North Carolina as the former President did in 1928.

In some respects, Eisenhower's was more of a personal than a party victory. Although he helped elect Republican administrations in many states, there was tough sledding for Republicans in Senate and house battles and races for governors.

The General's friend and one of his earliest Presidential rosters, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., conceded defeat by his Democratic opponent, Representative John F. Kennedy in the Massachusetts senatorial race. Republican Senator James P. Kem of Missouri went down to defeat and Senator Harry Cain of Washington was trailing.

Eisenhower carried Washington but Missouri still was in doubt.

In Ohio, Democratic Governor Frank Lausche was going away from Charles Taft, brother of the Senator, despite Eisenhower's hefty

GENERAL DWIGHT EISENHOWER

New President Will Find Many Friends In Canada

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—(P)—Gen. Eisenhower's Presidential victory in yesterday's United States elections sends to the White House a man well known and well liked in Canadian official circles.

Also he is known by name and reputation to virtually every adult Canadian as the victorious supreme commander under whom Canadians fought in the second world war.

Adlai Stevenson, the defeated Democratic candidate, was virtually unknown both in official and private circles here but his campaign had been closely followed. He had won many friends and admirers while Eisenhower's popularity had suffered a bit because of his association with elements in his party not popular in Canada.

If there were any partisan feelings in Canadian government circles undoubtedly they favored a continuation of the 20-year-old Democratic regime, in spite of their personal regard for the Republican candidate.

But in the main this was one U.S. election in which Canadians could sit back and enjoy the spectacle, share the thrill and excitement of their friends across the border, and not worry about the outcome.

Traditionally Canadian Prime Ministers and their responsible associates do not comment publicly on the internal politics of their friendly neighbors.

But one highly placed minister said early today that "there is not the slightest doubt that we will have the same friendly, practical co-operation under a Republican President—especially one like

Eisenhower Is Humble; Adlai Accepts Verdict

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower stood there early today, solemn and unsmiling, holding a piece of paper in his hand.

It was a long moment before he could speak.

The people in the Hotel Commodore's big ballroom were frantic with delight and excitement. Some stood on chairs. Some threw confetti. Others embraced each other. The hoarse cries and the shrieking and screaming swelled into a frenzy.

Eisenhower tried again. Then, through the din, he began to speak. "I am indeed as humble as I am proud," he said.

With his first words the roar subsided.

What he had to say was quickly and soberly said.

First he read a telegram of congratulations from Governor Adlai E. Stevenson. Then he read his reply.

"I thank you for your courteous and generous message. Recognizing the intensity of the difficulties that lie ahead, it is clearly necessary that men and women of goodwill of both parties forget the political strife of the past and devote themselves to a single purpose of a better future. This I believe they will do."

The storm of applause and excitement burst again. Eisenhower quickly stilled it.

He said: "It is trite to say that this is a day of dedication rather than triumph. . . . I recognize clearly the weight of the responsibilities that you have placed on me, and I assure you that I shall never in my service in Washington give short weight to those responsibilities."

Whether Eisenhower will begin his new task with a trip to Korea—before the inauguration in January—still is not known. In the closing days of the campaign, he pledged himself to go to the scene of the Korean war for a personal inspection. He placed the achieving of peace as the first and greatest objective of his work, and he said he felt he could best make the start by visiting the battlefields and studying the Korean problem on the ground.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 5.—(AP)—This was the sour and bitter moment after for the legions who followed Governor Adlai E. Stevenson—and lost.

The defeated Democratic Presidential candidate himself admitted he felt as Abraham Lincoln once did after a losing election.

Like a little boy who had stubbed his toe in the dark—but who was too old to cry and "it hurt too much to laugh."

Still the rumpled-looking slender man who was Democratic standard bearer could muster a smile and a quip even in defeat.

The capitulation came shortly after 1 a.m. EST. At that hour the vote returns showed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower rushing to a tremendous victory. The last desperate hope had been snuffed out in the Stevenson camp.

Stevenson knew he was beaten. He had sensed it, an aide later said, from the time he was handed a news report that Paul Fitzpatrick, New York state Democratic chairman, had conceded the state to Eisenhower, with its big chunk of 45 electoral votes.

In an unburied voice, Stevenson told his followers:

"My fellow citizens have made their choice and have selected Gen. Eisenhower and the Republican party as the instruments of their will for the next four years. The people have rendered their verdict and I gladly accept it."

That was it. That was the concession of defeat. The reporters broke out of the room in a run for telephones to signal the concession.

Gen. Eisenhower has been a great leader in war. He has been a vigorous and valiant opponent in the campaign. These qualities will now be dedicated to leading us all through the next four years."

For a few moments Stevenson posed for photographers, chatting with those nearby. Someone asked him: "What about 1956?"

He quipped: "Have that man's head examined."

Conservative Party Holds U.K. Seats

High Wycombe, England, Nov. 5.—(Reuters)—Winston Churchill's Conservatives today retained the Wycombe parliamentary seat with an increased majority in a by-election yesterday.

Conservative John Hall polled 26,750 votes compared with 24,650 cast for Labor's John Haire. The Conservative majority of 2,100 was an improvement on the 1,753-vote margin in the 1951 general election.

The seat became vacant and a by-election was required when the 1951 victor, William Waldorf Astor, inherited his father's Viscountcy and entered the House of Lords.

The victory enhanced the prestige of the Churchill government, for the constituency has always wavered between Labor and Conservatives.

Standing in the 625-seat Commons: Conservatives and allies 329, Labor 292, Liberals 6, Irish Nationalists 2, Irish Labor 1, vacant 4.

Belfast, Nov. 5.—(Reuters)—Sir David Campbell, Ulster Unionist by-election at South Belfast yesterday with a majority of 19,412 over his Socialist opponent.

This was nearly 10,000 fewer than the Unionist majority in last year's general election, but today's polling figures showed that only 48.7 per cent of the constituents voted compared with 74.9 in 1951. Campbell's total was 22,967, Samuel Napier, Labor, polled 7,655.

The by-election was caused by the resignation, through ill-health, of Connolly Gage—Campbell, 61, was until recently Lieutenant-Governor of Malta.

Europeans Generally Favor Election Of Eisenhower

By The Canadian Press

Many European officials expressed happiness today that an old friend had won the United States election. Areas where feelings for Adlai Stevenson had run high were hopeful that a Republican victory would mean no U. S. withdrawal into isolationism.

In the Middle East there was hope the Republicans would provide a better deal than the Democrats.

Officials in western Europe, most of them on the Conservative side, voiced belief that the new administration would continue to play a major role in European affairs. Socialists and left-wing groups which favored Stevenson weren't so happy. They were concerned over the extent of Republican old guard influence in the new administration.

There was no immediate comment from Moscow where the press has described both Eisenhower and Stevenson as fronts for America's "ruling financial and industrial circles."

In Ottawa a spokesman for the cabinet said:

"There is not the slightest doubt that we will have the same friendly, practical co-operation under a Republican President—especially one like Eisenhower—that we have had in the past."

Reaction by countries included:

Britain—Foreign office: "We are happy at Gen. Eisenhower's success. He will continue to be sure, the policy he followed as supreme commander of the Atlantic forces in Europe." Most Labor Members of Parliament were disappointed.

Giant Earthquake Shakes Soviet Siberian Peninsula

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—(P)—A giant earthquake near the southern tip of Siberian Kamchatka peninsula yesterday rocked delicate recording instruments here and elsewhere, and sent tidal waves racing across the north Pacific.

Along the British Columbia coast the waves were hardly felt, but the less-protected Aleutian islands in the north and Midway and the Hawaiian islands were hit by waves between six and nine feet high.

First report of the shock came from Ottawa's Dominion observatory at 12:09 p.m. EST. It was first believed to be a strong quake within 600 miles of Ottawa, but when the seismograph continued to show vibrations Dr. John D. Hodgson, Dominion seismologist, decided it must be a great distance away and of "very, very great magnitude."

Other reports from Victoria, B.C., Pasadena, Calif., Honolulu, Washington and New York finally placed the centre of the quake near Kamchatka peninsula, which juts southward into the Pacific from Soviet Siberia. Earlier reports led scientists to think the quake might be centered near the mouth of Canada's Mackenzie river, in the Northwest Territories.

All scientists agreed the earth tremor was a giant one.

Dr. Charles Richter of the California Institute of Technology said it was one of the "really great earthquakes." One of the recording instruments at New York's Columbia University was broken by the quake.

Ottawa's seismograph continued to record tremors for several hours and two large "after-shocks" were felt about four hours after the first shock. Dr. Hodgson said a quake of this size might be followed by about 100 after-shocks during the next week.

The coast of British Columbia was told of tidal waves and R.C.A.F. air-sea rescue operations were alerted for a short time. All seaplanes were removed from the water or double-moored as a precaution.

Weather stations along up-coast British Columbia, however, reported only "moderate swells." Farther south as far as California nothing more than a rise of inches in the tide level was reported.

Canadian weather ships far out in the Pacific noted nothing unusual in sea conditions and there were no distress signals from ships in Alaskan waters.

"Give 'Em Hell" Fight Fails; Truman Silent

Washington, Nov. 5.—(AP)—President Truman kept his thoughts to himself today as he rolled toward Washington on the campaign train that started out during the Labor Day week-end carrying high Democratic hopes.

Men with long faces and stenographers fighting back tears moved slowly through the cars this post-election day.

They had figured the odds favored Dwight D. Eisenhower when they left Washington that Sunday in September. But the champion of 1948 was their ace in the hole and they had counted heavily on his "give 'em hell" campaigning.

Harry Truman gave them all he had from one end of the country to the other.

For 18,000 miles he travelled, making a total of 212 speeches for Adlai Stevenson, driving himself even harder than when he campaigned for his own election when he was four years younger—64 instead of 68.

When the campaign ended in his native Jackson County, Missouri, the grey-haired, bespectacled Missourian reflected optimism.

When he dropped his ballot into

Univac Was Too Accurate For Experts

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Univac, the electric brain which has been counting votes and making predictions for CBS, suffered a "slight aberration" last night but its master blamed it on human failure—not Univac's.

The people running the machine just wouldn't believe what "Univac" said early in the counting, changed the "past-tense" information they were feeding the machine and threw it off balance.

The electric brain's man-made aberration was disclosed by CBS commentator Charles Collingwood about 12:30 a.m. EST.

He told CBS television viewers that Univac had given the odds on Eisenhower an hour earlier as only 8 to 7.

"But he shook himself, all 5,500 electronic tubes of him," Collingwood said, "and came up a few minutes later with a prediction that the odds were beyond counting, above 100 to 1 in favor of Eisenhower's election."

"He gave Eisenhower 40 states and Stevenson only eight; gave Eisenhower a considerable lead in both the electoral vote and the popular vote."

Then CBS-TV presented Arthur Draper, expert on the machine.

This was Draper's explanation of the "aberration":

"It is a prediction like this you have to assume certain facts about past trends."

When Univac made its first prediction with only 3,000,000 votes in, it gave five states for Stevenson, 43 for Eisenhower; 93 electoral votes for Stevenson, 438 for Eisenhower.

"We just plain didn't believe

BACKGAMMON IS GAME OF ART By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD "I don't understand it," a young friend said to me the other day. "I'm twice as good a backgammon player as Alice, but she just mops up the floor with me. We keep a running score of our games, and at this moment she's nearly 200 points ahead of me."

"That's an easy one to explain," I answered. "You're taking too many bad doubles." The problem was easily solved because I happened to know that my friend was actually a far better player than his wife. This isn't always so, of course. Sometimes a man will tell you that he doesn't understand why he loses, when the answer is simply that he's up against superior opposition.

But in this case a good backgammon player was opposed to a mediocre player—and the mediocre player was miles ahead. The answer lay in the way the doubling cube was being used.

My friend had such confidence in his skill that he was willing to take a double no matter how bad his position happened to be. As a result, whenever he got a few bad rolls he would lose a double game.

Whenever his wife got a few bad rolls she would refuse a double, and she would therefore lose a single game. The difference was tremendous.

There's more to it than that, however. When you habitually take bad doubles, your opponent needs no delicate psychology or judgment of position. As soon as he has an overwhelming advantage, he doubles. He knows he will not be refused, so he has no worries.

It's very different if he knows that you are cautious about accepting doubles. If he waits until his advantage is overwhelming, he knows that you will refuse the double. Hence he will tend to double somewhat earlier, when his advantage is not so big. If you refuse those doubles also he will shave another thin slice off his advantage. Eventually you will educate him to the point where he is doubling with only a slight advantage. Then you can afford to accept the double and sometimes the luck will change quickly, and you can redouble and win the game.

If there were no doubling cube, the best backgammon player would be the one who made the best moves. With the doubling cube, however, it is also vital to know at every stage of the game whose position is better and by about how much. Moreover, it is also important to know how good your opponent's judgment is and what sort of double he is willing to accept.

In short, if both players have passed the beginning stages of learning the game, they will find that the outcome of their games depends more on the use of the doubling cube than on anything else.

Automobile Accidents Cost Canadians More Than $2 A Second, Rotary Told

"Automobile accidents cost Canadians more than $2.00 per second every day last year," R. W. Harris, of the All Canada Insurance Federation, told members of the Rotary Club at their regular weekly dinner meeting held in the New Sherbrooke Hotel here last night.

Speaking on behalf of nearly 300 fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies, Mr. Harris named increases in the number of accidents, high repair costs and more generous court judgments in recognition of costlier medical

THE U.S. RESULT

The landslide victory of General Dwight Eisenhower in yesterday's United States presidential elections is a definite sign that the vast majority of the American voters are deeply concerned over the revelations of malpractice in high places. By their votes they have given active support to the verbal protests which have been mounting through the nation over the irregularities disclosed by various investigators, irregularities which the Democratic chiefs, from President Truman down, have sought to gloss over as something of minor importance.

Certainly the support of the retiring President must have been a weight around the neck of Governor Adlai Stevenson. In addition to linking Governor Stevenson to a discredited regime, President Truman's campaign utterances sank to a level seldom heard from a man holding such a responsible post. Admittedly the campaign as a whole was conducted, in its latter stages, at the muck-raking stage but the Republicans were fortunate that the most violent utterances on their behalf came from speakers of relative unimportance and the senior members of the party could point to a personal record of reasoned utterances. In addition to the rantings of the President, the Democrats were unfortunate in that Governor Stevenson was too much of a quipster, seeking to turn aside serious problems with a smart saying designed to indicate the issues could be ignored.

Apparently, however, the people thought otherwise, and by the record-breaking vote yesterday indicated their belief that morality and seriousness are still factors in politics.

STRENGTH IN THE CANADIAN DOLLAR

The Canadian dollar has been generally and surprisingly strong ever since the fixed exchange rate was abandoned in favour of a market rate of exchange two years ago, says the current Monthly Review of The Bank of Nova Scotia. Even in the first half of 1951 when Canada was running a heavy deficit in her current international transactions, the rate declined only moderately, remaining well above the previous fixed level. And since the autumn of 1951 it has been almost uniformly strong.

The Canadian dollar now ranks with the Swiss franc, the Venezuelan bolivar, and the U.S. dollar as one of the few strong currencies in an unsettled world. For nearly eight months, it has been above parity with the U.S. dollar and in September when it ran at a premium of about four per cent over the U.S. dollar it was at the highest level in modern times.

The substantial inflow of capital into Canada provides the main explanation of the general strong position of the Canadian dollar in the last few years as compared with the early post-war period. From 1950 to date, Canada has been importing capital on a substantial scale for the first time in twenty years. In 1950, the net capital inflow was over $1,000,000,000, and in 1951 it was over $500,000,000.

This inflow is in marked contrast with the earlier postwar period when Canada was an exporter of capital in amounts exceeding $600,000,000 in each of the years 1946 and 1947. This shift from a capital-exporting to a capital-importing position has clearly resulted in a very large increase in the demand for the Canadian dollar.

The Review points out, however, that capital movements do not explain the fact that the Canadian dollar has been stronger in 1952 than in 1951. Indeed, the net capital inflow is likely to be small this year whereas there was a substantial net inward movement in 1951. The fact that the exchange rate has been consistently much higher must be attributed to the marked improvement in the current trading position this year as compared with last.

Last year, Canada ran a deficit in her current transactions with the rest of the world of over $500,000,000. This year, the accounts suggest something approaching a balance — an improvement of around $500,000,000 from one year to the next. Thus, this year, Canada has not been dependent on a large inflow of capital to balance her international accounts. With her current transactions approximately balanced, and direct investment in Canada and Canadian borrowing in the United States continuing on a substantial scale, the Canadian dollar has necessarily been strong.

Though the overall trading balance has improved, the regional picture of Canadian trade is less reassuring. The fact is that Canada is running a large current deficit with the United States and an almost equally big trading surplus with overseas countries, mainly Britain and Western Europe. There has been no sign of any reduction in the large current deficit with the United States which reappeared in 1951. This year, it seems likely to be as large as the $950,000,000 deficit of 1951 and perhaps a little larger.

On the other hand, says the Review, Canada's trading surplus with overseas countries will be much larger in 1952 than in 1951. It is strange to reflect that the process by which Canada's current transactions are being approximately balanced this year is the traditional triangular method of settlement. As long ago as 1947, this method seemed untenable and was, indeed, followed by a marked tendency toward a closer balance in all the main geographic sectors of Canada's trade.

The fact that Canada is again running large surplus with Britain and Europe is clearly not an indication of any improvement in the dollar position of the countries concerned. Nor is it an indication of any real tendency toward the restoration of multilateral trade. It simply reflects the fact that Canada has had basic products to sell which were urgently needed and not available in adequate quantities in the non-dollar world — wheat, base metals (including aluminum) and certain wood products.

The Review observes that it would be a mistake to count too much on the continuance of a trading position strong enough to go on producing large convertible surpluses in Canada's overseas trade. The current export figures probably present a more favourable picture than that which is developing, since they will still reflect some orders placed before the import cuts put into effect by overseas countries and since grain shipments have been unusually large recently. It should also be observed that prices in world markets for a number of Canadian basic products, though still reasonably good, have weakened this year — pulp, lumber, lead and zinc are all cases in point.

Washington Column

SAUCER JOCKEY TUNES IN RADAR FOR A "SHARP" POLITICAL PICTURE

Washington — (NEA) — The 18-inch Man from Mars hadn't been around for some time. But he parked his flying saucer on the roof outside the office window last night, and this morning he was perched on the desk, ready and willing to tell anyone who would listen what the U.S. election was all about.

The Man from Mars had been following the campaign ever since Chicago convention time. He had been with all the candidates, made recordings of all the speeches, analyzed all the polls, fed all these data to the built-in electronic computer of his flying saucer. He had, he said, come up with all the answers.

"You poor earth dopes are all confused," he began with his usual self-assurance. "You don't even know who the candidates are in this election, let alone what the issues are all about."

"Pull up your stool and bend an ear," he commanded through his electronic, automatic translator. "It takes someone from another planet, someone with superior mentality to understand what goes on here. You're too close to the facts to see the significance."

"You think Eisenhower and Stevenson are running for the presidency, but that's only what you think. The real candidates are Truman and Acheson for the Democrats, Taft and Hoover for the GOP. At any rate, I hear their names mentioned the most. Nobody pays any attention to Ike or Adlai and what they have to say."

Never Believe A Politician
Where had he picked that up?
"The Republicans gave me the low-down about the Democrats and vice versa," he said. "Never believe anything a politician tells you about his own party. When you want to learn about the Republicans, listen to the Democrats and vice versa."

"With accent on the 'vice,'" he added with a dirty smile. "By the way, I suppose you've heard Nixon and General Vaughan will head the next administration's bipartisan ethics investigation?"
Better get him back on the track. What about the issues?
"Simple!" said the Man from Mars. "Your Republican Party is going to keep business happy by reducing prices and they're going to keep the consumers happy by taking off price and rent controls. Your Democratic Party is going to keep business happy by keeping taxes up and keep the working people happy by preventing wages from going any higher."

The boy was certainly in form. What about labor policy?
"Elementary!" he explained with a wave of his claw. "John L. Lewis, Phil Murray, Bill Green and that bunch are all supporting the other hand, the employers support the Republican Party because they approve of the social security programs which the Republicans now seem to claim they invented."

This was at least an original explanation. What had he learned about foreign policy issues?
The Man from Mars turned his right foot inside out to scratch the rheumatism which the earth's atmosphere invariably gave him on too long a visit, and admitted this was a little more difficult. He hadn't had time to go abroad this trip. But as he saw it:
Both Ends Against The Middle
"The Republican policy is to take all the Americans in Korea and put them on Formosa, then take all the Chinese forces of Chiang Kai-Shek on Formosa and put them in Korea. For Europe, the plan is to cut defense expenditures and bring the American boys home so as to build up a bigger NATO force to liberate Poland and Czechoslovakia."

What about the Democratic policy?
"It's in some kind of a container," said the M. from M., "but I can't figure whether it's a deep freeze or stored in a milk can."
Could the visitor guess who would be next Secretary of State? He took a swig from the steam radiator to overcome the effects of too much oxygen in the earth's atmosphere and commented cryptically:
"The Republicans are talking most about Alger Hiss. The Democrats about Joe McCarthy."

How about civil rights? Had he heard anything about that while whistle-stopping?
"Wayne Morse believes in anti-discrimination against Republican minority groups, Harry Byrd and Jimmy Byrnes have now gone so far to the right that they think all other Democrats are un-civil lefts."

What was going to happen in the South?
The Man from Mars focused one of his radar eyes in that direction and observed sagely: "The South — will always be South."

AUTUMN IN THE COUNTRY

Rolling hills and verdant valleys where the cattle love to stray
Little brooks that dance and gurgle as they wind along their way
Trees all decked in autumn splendor, robes of crimson, gold, and brown
As I stand beneath their branches leaves come floating gently down
Where a winding road gleams whitely and a harvest moon shines bright
Bathing all the Towns and Hamlets with a weird and ghostly light
Thro' a haze the mountains standing guard, like sentinels of old
All the beauty of the season fills our hearts with peace untold
You may have the rush and turmoil of the city's busy life
Give me autumn in the country, far away from noise and strife
For, no matter where you wander, or however far you roam
There's no place on earth more lovely than an Eastern Township home.
EMILY MILLAR, Danville, Que.

WARRING NATIONS

O' what suffering an envious nation doth bring
To plunder torture with its murderous sting
And we that preach from day to day
Of love, and duty, and to kneel and pray.
Our Beloved Saviour that suffered the cross
Spoke of love and honour ere all be lost
Yet this bloody cry for lust, and power
Is foremost in man each earthly hour.
The strong, the aged, so pitiful and weak
Each innocent babe, its life we seek
To crush and maim in this rebel host
Our hands are stained and the soul is lost.
Jesus Saviour thou suffered and died
For this cruel world, how sad, unwise
The love of power, the greed for gold
Leaves a trail of death stark and cold.
And yet we kneel in solemn prayer
For love, forgiveness in the sins we bear
Forgetful to practice what we preach
By loving our neighbours, to be noble and meek.

For those that sit in civil state, in sumptuous luxury and partake
Heeding not the common fry, that toil and starve and in cold death lie
Unsung, unheard through life's battles din
Only victory in death, to the soul once within.

HAVE DEFINITE GOAL AS YOU PLAN DEFENCE

In planning your defense you must usually aim for a definite goal. Count the number of tricks you need to defeat the contract and look for ways to obtain that number of tricks.
In today's hand for example, West knew that he was defending against a contract of four hearts. West didn't try to obtain some vague number of defensive tricks, but instead applied himself to the task of winning exactly four tricks.
West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the ace of diamonds, considering himself quite lucky to win two tricks in this suit. He now needed two further tricks to defeat the contract.
Obviously, no further diamond tricks could be won, and only one spade trick could be expected. Where was the fourth defensive trick going to come from?
The thoughtful defender might continue diamonds or shift to clubs. Either play would allow declarer to make his contract.
When the hand was actually played, West saw that declarer was bound to hold the ace-king of hearts and the ace of clubs for his opening bid. It was therefore useless to hope that East could provide a club trick. The setting trick, if it came at all, was bound to come from the trump suit.

After making this analysis, West carefully cashed the ace of spades, thus winning the third defensive trick. He then continued with a low diamond, forcing East to ruff dummy's jack. East rose to the occasion by ruffing with the eight of hearts.
This combination of plays defeated the contract. If South over-ruffed with the king, West would later win a trump trick with the jack. If South failed to over-ruff,

You, South, hold: Spades 6-4, Hearts A-K-Q-8-2, Diamonds A-9-4, Clubs K-5-2. What do you do?
A—Bid three hearts. You have a count of 18 points—16 points in high cards, 1 point for the doubleton, and 1 point for the fifth heart.
North's raise shows a count of 6 to 9 points, so that the combined total will be enough for game (26 points) if North has a maximum rather than a minimum raise. This invitational bid will persuade North to show which he has.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 6-4, Hearts A-K-Q-8-2, Diamonds A-9, Clubs Q-J-5-2. What do you do?

The Record Short Story

Of Blood And Water

By SEVEN ANDERTON

Sam Joyce had stopped for an evening visit with me on my front porch. We had talked about this and that and were discussing a Centerville family that, after years of internal strife, had been knitted together by illness and financial reverses. I made the pat remark that blood was thicker than water.

"Reckon so," Sam agreed, "but it don't always take that sort of thing to thicken it. Did I ever tell you about Webster Stout and his Aunt Harriet?"

I said no and settled myself to listen. Sam is a walking history of Centerville and Center County. He had ten-twelve thousand dollars in the bank, besides Lord knows how many bonds in a deposit box, and she owned nine good Center County farms. And all of a sudden she was madder'n a wet hen.

"So Harriet marched herself right down to the office of the Weekly Banner and ordered an advertisement put in the next issue. The ad said that anybody who could borrow money from Louis Baldwin's bank could borrow it from her at 3% interest and that anybody who had a note or a mortgage at the bank could get the money from her to pay it off and that she would carry it at 3%.

"As quick as Harriet was out of sight, the editor hiked right over to the bank and showed the ad to Baldwin, and 10 minutes after that Baldwin was knockin' on Harriet's door. He was a badly scared feller, the sum total was that Harriet had more money than the bank had, and Baldwin knew it. So he went at Harriet gentle, but she was still mad. The window was open and neighbors heard what she told him. She said that things had come to a pretty pass in Centerville when a Baldwin could refuse to trust a Stout. She told him a lot more.

"Baldwin finally got her hushed and said that he was sorry and he wouldn't have turned Webster down if he had known that she would back him. Now Harriet was always a good church member, but according to neighbors she said: 'Hell, Baldwin, I won't back him. He don't need backing. He's a Stout—that's all you need to know. If he asks you for a loan again, you give it to him—or I'll see that your funny bank never makes another nickel!' And Baldwin said: 'Yes, Miss Harriet, nice and meek like, because he knew that she wasn't foolin'."

"The next day Libby Brock caught Webster on the street and told him that if he was to ask Louis Baldwin at the bank he could borrow $5,000 to go away with and study art. She told him he'd better do it before Thursday. The Banner comes out on Thursday.

"Well, sir, Webster took her advice and he got the money. And it turned out that Miss Harriet's had never showed up in the next issue of the Banner—nor, as the feller says, at any time thereafter. And Webster's note wasn't signed by Miss Harriet nor anybody else."

"In the final analysis," I said as Sam paused to light his pipe, "that was, of course, blackmail—a malefactor of great wealth. But you'll admit that the Stout blood did thicken under the pressure of financial difficulty."

"Mebby so," Sam said. "But there is more than one moral to most stories, time you hear the end of 'em."
"That isn't the end of this one?" I asked.

"Nope. Webster Stout took that money and it out for Europe without even going to say good-by to her. He never even knew about her taking Baldwin until 10 years later, when he came home to her funeral. He was in New York by that time, and gettin' rich and famous."

"And, of course," I said, "besides leaving him all her wealth, she left a letter telling him how she had—"
"Not by a danged site," Sam cut me off and gave me a reproachful look. "That's the way it would turn out in a book. This happened."

"Well, sir, Harriet danged near went up in smoke. She paved the air. Then she got into motion. She happened?"

"Harriet never left him a nickel," Sam said. "She left all she had to a boy's home in Omaha, but I don't think Webster cared. He attended her funeral and next day he paid off the balance of what he owed Baldwin. He ain't never been back here since."

"How did he find out how he happened to get the $5,000 loan?" I asked.

"I told him," Sam replied. "And what did he say?"
"He allowed that she wasn't a bad old girl, according to her lights," Sam answered. "And that's the story. Mebby you can think up another old saw that will fit it."

I met the twinkle in Sam's wise old eyes and said: "How about it's an ill wind that—"
"I could mention some others," Sam stopped me, "but that one will do as well as any, I reckon."

Airmen Lecture On Rescue Work

North Luffenham, England (C) Canadian jets pilots from No. 1 fighter wing preach as well as practise safety first.
Using the fuselage of a Sabre jet as No. 1 exhibit, a team of six airmen has been touring the English countryside to show police and firemen the best ways of rescuing crashed fliers.
The men give short lectures, run through the rescue "drill" and show how to operate the charge-laden mechanism of the ejection seat.
There is a note of reality about the lecture scheme. Although the R.C.A.F. fighter wing has a low accident rate, the sabre used in the demonstration was salvaged from a crash at North Luffenham a few months ago.

and Mrs. Sutherland awaited their guests in the spooky rooms, below, lighted only by quantities of pumpkins beaming with jolly faces all over the cozy home.

The party was for the members of the choir, their wives and husbands, who were led around to the dark back stairs at the top of which they were met by a ghost. (Mrs. Arthur Fraser), who ushered one at a time into the sanctum of the witch, (Mrs. R. C. Tait) sitting beside a cauldron, who interrupted the stirring of pumpkin seeds to unfold to each, fate's plans for their future.

All types of games followed, the most exciting being an auction game (Mr. Sutherland as auctioneer) where the reckless bidders spent thousands of (play) money for tiny articles, collected by Mr. Tait, emouflaged in large bags and marked at ridiculous prices.

This occasion proved very suitable for the presentation of small gifts—initialled silver cigarette lighters—to Mr. Malcolm Brown and Mr. L. F. Jenne, who each in their capacity as choir master and organist, had rendered untold services to the Plymouth choir, pending the securing of a regular leader. Mr. Fred Sangster, president, accompanied the presentation of the gifts with expression of appreciation from all the members.

Next on the program was a sing song accompanied by Mr. Jenne, which was followed by refreshments, convoked by Miss Ruth Elkas, who was assisted by Mrs. Z. W. Griffith and Mrs. A. N. Flint, with Mrs. Thomas Bailey presiding at the dining table.

Prior to the departure the thanks of the choir was voiced to their hospitable hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland, by Mrs. Gerald Spafford.

Mrs. M. W. D. Ferguson, Mrs. Gerald McDonough, Mrs. John Meagher and Mrs. A. Dussault, will pour at the tea to be held by the Catholic Women's League for St. Patrick's parish, Thursday afternoon, in the church hall. Bridge will start at 3 p.m., and tea will be served from 4 to 6.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beaulieu announce the engagement of their daughter Jacqueline (Jackie) to Constable Gilles Ethier, of the R.C.M.P., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Ethier, of Ansonville, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Owen, Miss Sally Owen and Master Gregory Owen, Prospect Street, spent the week-end in Montreal, when they attended the annual reunion and "at home," at Loyola College.

The wedding has been arranged to take place on Saturday, December 6, in St. Patrick's Church.

MR. and MRS. WALLACE CLAYTON BROWNING, photographed on Saturday, October 4, following their marriage which took place in St. Barnabas Anglican Church, North Hatley. and proposed a toast to the bride and groom. The groom responded to the toast and then extended the congratulations of all to the parents of his bride who were marking the 32nd anniversary of their wedding. Mr. Howard Moulton gave a toast to the maid of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Browning left for a motor trip through the New England States, the bride wearing for travelling a rust wool suit, with matching accessories, an orchid corsage, and for "something old" she carried a bit of tulle from her mother's bridal bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. Browning will make their future home in North Hatley. Out of town guests were from Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Richmond, Magog, Huntingville and Montreal.

Tea Musicale Held By W. M. S., Plymouth Church

Plymouth Church Hall was an attractive setting for a delightful event on Thursday afternoon when the Women's Missionary Society, under the capable convenship of Mrs. J. K. Edwards and Mrs. W. W. Gibson, sponsored a musicale and tea.

Mrs. C. G. Frappied again proved her artistic skill in decorating the rooms. Mums in pastel shades which centred the stage, were the gift of Hovey's Greenhouse. The same firm loaned the ferns and gorgeous chrysanthemums which enhanced the footlights.

Other decorations in the halls were pine boughs with cones, bullrushes, oak leaves and snowberries. The small tables were centred with pine and snowberries.

Two Showers Are Held At North Hatley

North Hatley, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Wallace Browning, the former Imogene Kezar, was the guest of honor at two surprise showers given her prior to her marriage.

The first of these pleasant events was held at the home of Mrs. Stewart Reed, with Mrs. Howard Sharman, for co-hostess. The guest of honor was seated in a pink and white trimmed chair, and presented with a pram filled with dainty cups and saucers. Mrs. Eburn Hampton assisted Miss Kezar in opening her gifts, for which she thanked all her friends. An hour of games, under the direction of Mrs. Howard Sharman, was enjoyed, after which the hostesses served a dainty tea.

At the second shower, held at the home of Mrs. Philip Ferguson, Miss Kezar was greeted with cries of "surprise" upon her arrival, and then conducted to a gift laden table where the gifts, practical, as well as beautiful, were household accessories, including a hand woven luncheon set, dishes, and a kitchen gadget set.

Mrs. Ferguson was assisted in serving a delicious tea by her two young sons, Butch and Dickie, and a sister of the guest of honor, Mrs. Larry Allen.

J. J. Bertrand Addresses Lions At Cowansville

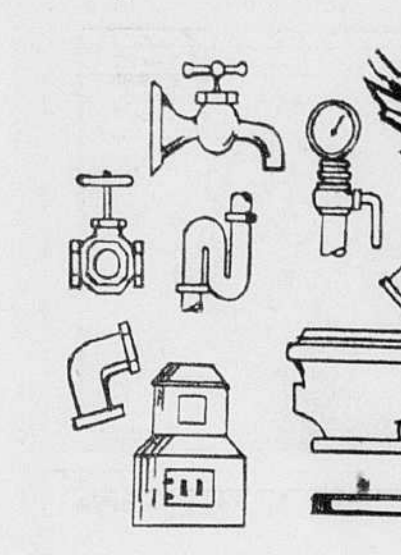

Cowansville, Nov. 5 — Seldom have the Cowansville Lions heard a more pleasing speaker, or received more useful information, than they heard Tuesday evening when addressed at their meeting held in the Ottawa Hotel by Mr. Jean J. Bertrand, M.L.A. for Missisquoi.

Except for two brief reports from Lion Ambrose Graham of the Booster Club committee, and from Lion L. S. Hendersou, on the dance held recently, business was set aside and a purely social evening enjoyed.

SAINTS MEET BRAVES TONIGHT; HOSTS TO ACES TOMORROW

Move Into Hot-Hockey Town For Hard Battle With Blake's Squad; Local Pilot Reshifts His Lineup

The Sherbrooke Saints are booked this evening in Valleyfield to tangle with Toe Blake's Braves in a regular fixture of the Senior Group. In the only other scheduled fixture of the league Ottawa travels to Quebec to meet the Aces.

Tonight's tilt is a very important one for the locals, who have dropped their last four starts. Their last victory was a 4-2 verdict against the Braves on local ice but since then the Saints seem to have hit the skids.

Coach Dugre had his squad out yesterday and put them through a hard drill. He has made a few changes in an effort to pull them out of their slump. Bobby Pepin has been moved back to right wing, a position he has always played although he is a left-handed shot, with Pete Wywrot and Gilles Dube. Tommy McDougall will fill the vacancy on left wing with Tod Campeau and Jacques Locas while the other unit will see Nils Tremblay working the centre slot with Marcial Pruneau and Dewar Thompson.

On the blueline the local pilot has made another shift by switching his defencemen around in an attempt to get more balance out of the duos. Drainville, who was hurt in the first period of the game on Sunday when he broke his stick along the boards, won't be in uniform for tonight's tiff in

CAR RAFFLE IS HUGE SUCCESS
The drawing of the 1952 Pontiac by the Sherbrooke Senior Hockey Club turned out to an outstanding accomplishment and we attribute two things which made it such a success. In the first place the work of J. A. Laforest in organizing the affair and the fine co-operation given him, and his sellers, by the general public.

Mr. Laforest spent quite a few hours in distributing tickets and seeing that the money was turned in. He had sellers all over the Townships and it was through their efforts that the raffle turned out to be such a success. And the second part of the deal, and in our mind the big item, was the wonderful reception that the fans all over the country gave the sellers. We really think that very few people turned them down. Another good item was the price of the tickets. In years past they were priced at $1.00 each but this time, at the suggestion of Mr. Laforest, they were reduced to fifty cents and in the long run we think it paid off.

The gross sum of $7,174 was collected by the committee, which means over 14,000 tickets were sold, and this involved a lot of work by everybody in general. We can truthfully say the main reason for the success was the fine co-operation given by everyone throughout the District.

This just goes to point out that when the fans want to put a thing over it is very easy with all during their share of work. In other words, "Many hands make light work."

So to J. A. Laforest, his sellers and the general public congratulations for a job very well done. It is pointed out that everybody must be in favor of continuing a senior hockey club in Sherbrooke judging from the results of the raffle.

In answer to the hockey fan enquiring about the number of players in National Hockey League who have played with three teams. There are nine players who have performed with three different teams and two who have played with four clubs in the circuit.

Gay Stewart and Jimmy Peters are the two who have played with four different clubs. Stewart saw service with Toronto, Chicago, Detroit and New York while Peters performed with Montreal, Boston, Detroit and finally back to Chicago.

The others who have travelled around the circuit and played with three different clubs are: Cal Gardner, Gerry Couture, Harry Watson, Pete Babando, Jim Conacher, Bob Goldham, Hal Laycoe, Harry Lumley and Jim Henry. So we hope this will settle the big question for you.

Interest in the N-Y Floor Hockey League at the "Y" is still rolling along at a high pitch and the youngsters are going all out to win their respective games.

The demand we made a few weeks ago for a trophy for the kids really did the trick as two kind hearted citizens stepped in the breach with a trophy each. Alderman Everett Nicol and Henry Weinstein are the kind gentlemen who have put up the trophies. So on behalf of the kids we wish to thank you for your generous donations.

Listening to the two hockey games over the week-end between Rangers and Canadiens it would seem that the Blue Shirts from Broadway pitched a tent over "The Rocket" to stop him from setting a new scoring record in the N.H.L.

We suppose it will be the same every game he plays in until he tallies the marker, which will set the record. There should be no doubt in anyone's mind about the "Rocket" setting a record so why not give it to him and let the teams get down to playing some hockey for a change.

Following the game, over the air, it would seem that every time he touched the rubber there were a couple of players on his neck. This definitely ruins the game from the fan's viewpoint. Perhaps he will get it tomorrow night against the Maple Leafs. At least we hope so.

We are sorry to hear that Ted Anderson has resigned as president of the Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League but on the other hand we don't blame him the way he was treated just before he retired as head of the organization.

Immediately following the annual dinner he called a special meeting for the purpose of winding up activities for the season and personally sent each team manager a letter regarding the meeting. When the evening for the meeting arrived only the secretary, Wendel Wilcox, and Lou Griffin, umpire-in-chief put in an appearance. This was in our opinion an indirect way of telling the president just how they felt about him and his league.

When you glance over the different firms, who had teams in the league, you would think that at least they would have the decency to at least put in an appearance and voice their opinions at the meeting instead of doing so behind the president's back. If this was not a pre-arranged affair then we are mistaken.

The reason why we say this is that during the evening several telephone calls were made at the hotel to see if the meeting was taking place. No doubt this will cause a little commotion but we still think it is a pretty raw way of treating a president who worked eight years to keep the league on an even keel.

To President Ted and Wendel Wilcox on behalf of the numerous softball fans of the City congratulations for a job very well done, although some of the managers of the team don't think so, we honestly believe that the fans enjoyed all the games during the past season. Trying to keep harmony in the league was no cinch, this we know, but just the same you did a fine job. We still wonder how the heads of the firms, who have teams in the league, would let their representatives gang-up on an executive who did so much to make the league the envy of all other circuits in the districts.

Confere Arnold Baron returned from Shawinigan Falls Sunday evening full of praise for basketball authorities there and at Three Rivers for their arrangements for the annual meeting of the P.Q.A. B.A., held in the Power City over the week-end.

A new executive was picked and Walt Smith, who last year piloted Shawinigan Tech to the Provincial Intermediate Crown, is Provincial president for the next two years. Duncan Breeze, hard-working sports writer for the St. Maurice Valley Chronicle, is the new secretary-treasurer, and the vice-presidents are Phyllis Glennan, Montreal, and Alex de Lery, Quebec City. Len Hutton continues as an executive member but Mrs. Ruth Carnell, first life member of the C.A.B.A., has decided to retire. She promised, however, that her interest in basketball in this province will continue undiminished and she would always be ready to assist the P.Q.A.B.A.

Among the items ironed out is that the round-robin two-day tournaments involving intermediate men's finalists from each district will be continued. However, the authorities are to devise a schedule which will not require a team to play more than twice in one day. Quebec City has been given first choice to be hosts this year.

The girls will continue in home-and-home finals, with Shawinigan and Quebec to meet in series "A" Sherbrooke and Montreal to meet in series "B", February 21 at Quebec and Sherbrooke respectively. A week later the games will be played at Montreal and Shawinigan with the winner of "B" to play at the home site of the "A" winner on March 7th and the "A" at "B" on March 14, for the Provincial Crown.

With the late night matches still uncompleted, New Glasgow scored the highest total of the tournament to date—1,684—and captured four points from Yarmouth.

At that stage of the four-day tournament, which opened today, Fredericton stood second with 15

Thetford High Whips De La Salle College

Thetford Mines, Nov. 5.—Thetford High School scored a 40-27 victory over De La Salle College in the first basketball game of the local season, here Saturday night.

The game was fast and rough with tempers on both sides flaring throughout the contest.

Coach S. L. Hodge kept shifting his players in the hope of finding a more balanced lineup. Thetford's first line has shown it can hold its own against any team.

Composed of Irwin Komery, Bob Elder and Sonny Smith, this combination proved deadly against the College and stopping them is a must for any other teams which want to get by Thetford this season.

The line accounted for 34 of the home team's 40 points. Elder scored 17, Komery 13 and Smith four. Two new defencemen have been added to spell rearguards Howard Logan and Charlie "Pro" Oliver. The new additions are Jack Adams and Gaby Setlakwe.

Summary: Thetford High: Logan 17, Smith 4, Komery 13, Oliver, Adams, Auger, Setlakwe and Shei-to. Total—40.

De La Salle: Poire 4, Samson 8, Charest 12, Letourneau 3, Mathieu, Derocher, Croteau. Total—27.

Montreal Pugilists May Do Battle Here

More than a dozen young men turned out Monday night for the first session of the Y.M.C.A. boxing classes to be held every Monday evening. Coach Ed Bolduc was on hand coaching those new to the sport, and among those training were Burke Emery of Sherbrooke, and Marcel Piau of Windsor.

Plans call for some bouts at the end of this month, and the request was made by Emery and by Piau, through his manager Les Connor, that two amateur fighters be brought down from Montreal for them to fight at these bouts. Tom Sullivan, of the Grenadier Guards in Montreal, is being contacted to see if he can arrange for two men to match these local fighters.

Next training session at the "Y" is next Monday night at 8 p.m. Additional workout time is available on the "Y" floor Tuesdays at 7:30, and Wednesdays at 6 to 8 p.m.

Those interested in starting this course in amateur boxing are welcome to turn out next Monday night at 8 p.m.

Turpin Changes Mind About European Title

London, Nov. 5.—(P)—Randy Turpin has changed his mind about surrendering his European middle-weight boxing championship.

His manager, George Middleton, said yesterday the British Boxing Board of Control had prevailed upon Randy to keep his crown.

Turpin announced ten days ago he would give up the title because one did not want to be bothered defending it while he had prospects of a world title match.

Chuck Rayner Returns To Hockey Wars Tonight When Rangers Face Leafs; 13th Season In Big Time

Chuck Rayner, battle-scarred warrior of nine National Hockey League campaigns, returns to the New York nets tonight for the first time this season.

This fall Chuck suffered a severe leg injury in a pre-season exhibition game which kept him out of action for the 15 games the Blue Shirts have played.

The Rangers, who have only won one game and tied three, will be out to give the affable Chuck a solid defence for his season's debut with Toronto Maple Leafs providing the opposition on the Leafs' home ice in the night's only N.H.L. action.

A victory for the Leafs would move them into a first-place tie with the amazing Chicago Black Hawks with 15 points. A victory for New York would still leave them in the cellar, one point behind fifth-place Boston.

Chuck will skate into his familiar spot replacing a 20-year-old rookie from Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League. In 11 games Lorne Worsley has allowed 38 goals for an average of 3.45. But in most of those games Leo Reise was missing on the defence of a club which has scored only 22 goals.

For Rayner it will be the start of his 13th season in professional hockey. The 32-year-old native of Sutherland, Sask., broke into the big time with Springfield in the American Hockey League, coming to the Indians from Kenora Thistles. Two seasons later he and Sugar Jim Henry were battling it out for the goal duties of the old New York Americans.

After three years in the Canadian Army he signed on with the Rangers and has been a fixture with the Broadway Blues ever since, with the exception of the 1947-48 season when he was with their New Haven farm club.

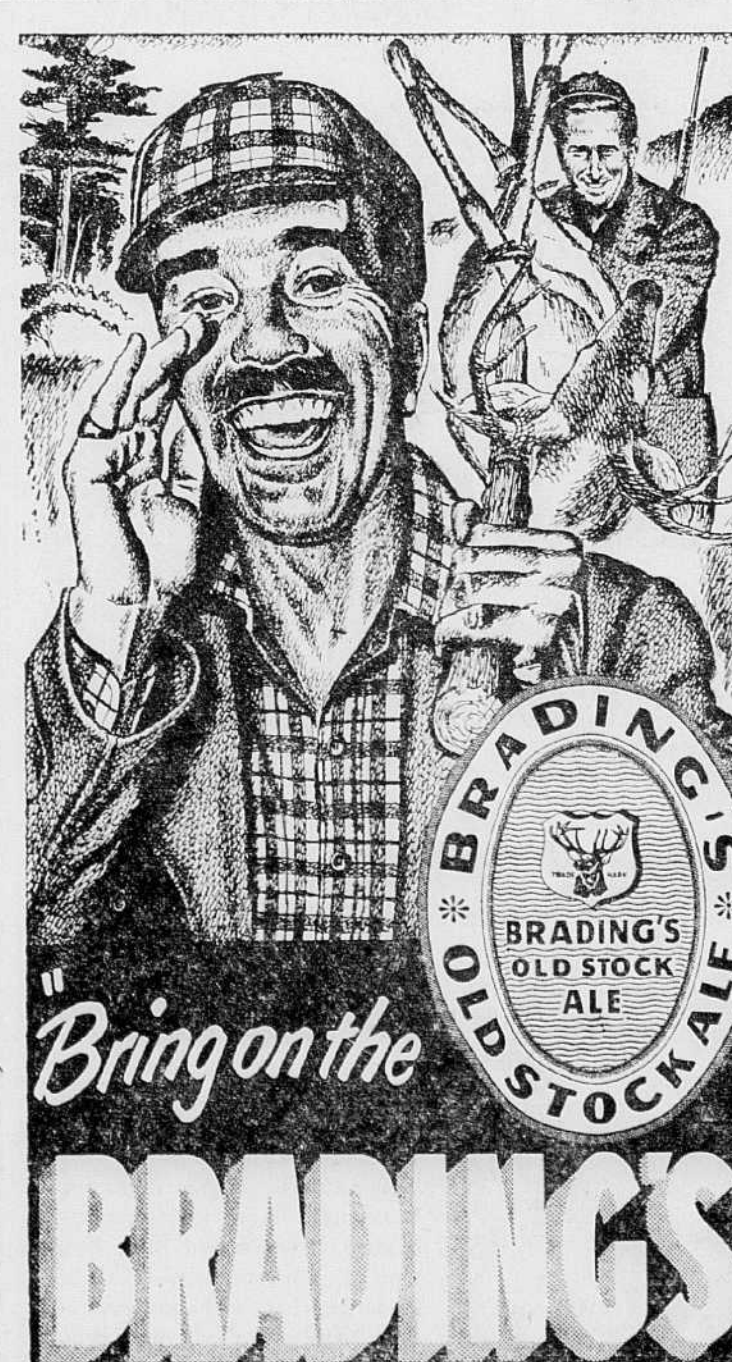

In the 1949-50 season he was named the most valuable player in the league. He was a big factor in New York stretch drive which brought them to within one game of the Stanley Cup only to have Detroit nose them out.

Probably no other active player has been stitched together so many times. He has also had more than his share of broken jaws, charley-horses, broken fingers and assorted leg and arm injuries. At times he has played games with his jaw wired together, feeding only on milk shakes.

There were no games last night. A scheduled game between Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings at Chicago was postponed to a later date because of the U.S. election.

Old Pros Lured Out Of Retirement Open Cage Season At "Y" Tonight Against "Unknown" Richmond Team

"Y" Athletics make their debut in the E.T. Basketball League at the Y.M.C.A. tonight when they entertain the visiting Richmond team.

The game begins at 8.15 o'clock. Athletics are a group of old-time greats of the local basketball world who were coaxed out of retirement this season in order to boost basketball in the Eastern Townships.

Their lineup contains many names familiar to sports fans in Sherbrooke and district from eleven to five years ago, when basketball was a much more popular sport here than it is today. Many of the players are former stars with Sherbrooke High School when that institution was a power in cage circles.

The thin wedge towards inducing these fellows out of retirement was inserted last season when Benny Linds returned to basketball, and coached Sherbrooke Spartans (called 35th Battery this season) to the championship in the men's division of the E.T. League.

So the boys came out in earnest this fall and after a few practices are pronounced ready to meet the mystery team of the year, Richmond, tonight.

President-Elect Eisenhower Perhaps Most Sports-Minded Of All American Presidents; Shoots Fair Game Of Golf

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be perhaps the most sports-minded President in American history.

He was a football player at West Point, proud of the fact he once tackled the great Jim Thorpe. He took a brief fling at baseball in the Central League. Today—still at his old playing weight of 173 pounds—he shoots a bangup game of golf.

When A. B. (Happy) Chandler was dismissed as Commissioner of Baseball more than a year ago, Eisenhower was among those considered for the post. But his duties as chief of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were too important.

Ike is an avid sports fan. "Football is a tremendous spectacle," he says. "I saw my first game from the sidelines with Gus Dorais (Notre Dame) throwing passes to the great Kneute Rockne."

He told a group of sports writers at a New York tete-a-tete recently: "Today I can go to a major league baseball game and come away a raving fanatic."

Golf is the President-elect's game today and he's threatened to go away and play ten days of golf as relaxation after the strenuous campaign.

He says his score is 90 and up but acknowledged he fired a 79 two years ago at Blind Brook in Port Chester, N.Y., and recently had an 82.

Ike wasn't an outstanding gridiron star at the Point. He played fullback, did plugging duties and backed up the line.

He recalled the game he played against Carlisle Indians. "It was a pleasure to see a guy like Thorpe running by," he said.

It was against Tufts in 1913 that Eisenhower suffered a torn cartilage in his knee, cutting short his athletic career.

Warren Harding was an ardent golfer. Herbert Hoover preferred to fish. Harry Truman wasn't a sports participant, but Franklin Roosevelt was a fairly good golfer before his crippling illness. Old-timers recall that Woodrow Wilson and Howard Taft tried their hands at golf but never really mastered the game. They were well up in the 1900s.

Ike is the first one who's ever had a 79.

Glace Bay Edges Charlottetown 5-4

For the first time this season, Glace Bay Miners have left the cellar spot in the Maritime Major Hockey League.

At Glace Bay Tuesday, the Miners were forced into playing overtime as they downed Charlottetown Islanders 5-4.

It was Bill McCracken who brought the house down at 8:48 of the sudden-death overtime period. He rifled the puck into the corner of the net after Johnny Myketyk passed it out.

Pop Backo opened the scoring in the first period as he gave the Bay a one-goal lead with his tally at 2:52. Schiller and McCracken assisted.

Charlottetown struck back hard in the second session, skating off the ice with a 3-2 lead.

Bob Gray tied the score at 1-1 at 6:01 of the middle canto. McLagan drew an assist. Nine seconds later Marcel Clements combined with Connie Bonhomme to put Islanders ahead. Gordie Miller struck back for Miners with a solo effort at 13:26 to tie the score.

Then with 40 seconds left in the period, veteran Buck Whitlock gave Islanders the lead when he scored on a play engineered by Bob Gray and Don Bellinger.

In the third period Glace Bay struck back for two quick goals, Schiller getting the first from McCracken at 2:18, and Bob Cooper counted at 5:41 from Keller and Amadio.

There was one minute and 12 seconds left in the sudden-death overtime period when McCracken worked in front of the net and received a pass-out from defenseman Johnny Myketyk to give Miners victory.

The game was a clean affair as Glace Bay-Charlottetown games go, only three minor penalties being called.

Checker League Starts In Magog

Magog, Nov. 5.—A checker league got underway recently in Magog and guest for the occasion was Jean-Charles Robillard, of Montreal.

Mr. Robillard took on the top eleven players in Magog and was given quite a surprise as the Magog boys won five games, tied three and lost three.

Jean Delorme, of Magog, caused the biggest upset by having a victory after only fourteen plays. Other winners were H. Altosar George Smiley, Real Chainey and Fernand Buisson. Gloria Chainey Paul-Emile Chainey and Gerar Roberge tied.

The Magog players are anxious for competition. Anyone interested in a game, especially from Sherbrooke, should call F. Buisson, Magog 3586.

CONSULTS SPECIALIST

Dickie Moore, Montreal Canadiens' rookie sensation of last season, has not played in a single N.H.L. game this year, due to a troublesome right knee that continues to give out on him. Moore's knee has given the Montreal management considerable worry and he was sent to Toronto last week to see one of Canada's outstanding medical men. The Toronto specialist was of the opinion that Moore's knee should be completely recovered within two weeks.

SEVEN NEW FACES IN CHICAGO LINEUP

The Chicago Black Hawks started the 1952-53 N.H.L. season with seven new faces in their lineup. The revamped Hawks, hottest team in the National Hockey League after the first week of play, have such newcomers as Goalie Al Rollins, Defensemen Gus Mortson and Eddie Kryzanowski and Forwards Cal Gardner, Fred Glover, Pete Conacher and Gerry Couture on their roster this year. All have played regularly in the N.H.L., except the 20-year-old Conacher.

Junior Hockey Clubs Are Bad Road Teams; Barrie Flyers, Top Ontario Squad, Drop Opener To Canadiens

It appears the junior hockey crews in Ontario and Quebec just aren't good travellers. Last night Barrie Flyers, leading the Junior A League in Ontario with eight wins, two losses and a tie started their Quebec tour by losing 5-2 to Montreal Canadiens, in an interlocking schedule game. Montreal leads the Quebec section. The pattern isn't unusual.

Two weeks ago Galt Black Hawks, currently holding down second place in Ontario, won only two games in four on their trip through Quebec.

Last week Three Rivers Reds of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association went to Ontario for a four-game series. They lost three.

In the only other action in Quebec last night the Reds, win-hungry after the famine in Ontario, downed Montreal Royals 3-2. The Royals have one win in 10 starts.

It's A Jinx To Win First Game Of Western Finals; Since Inaugurated Team Winning Opener Has Lost Series

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Maybe Winnipeg fans don't realize it, but it's a jinx to win the first game of the Western football finals.

Since the best-of-three series was inaugurated in 1950, the team winning the opener, has dropped the next two and the right to represent the West in the Grey Cup final. Prior to 1950, the series was a two-game, total-point affair.

Last Saturday at Edmonton, Winnipeg Blue Bombers defeated Edmonton Eskimos, 28-12 in the first game of the 1952 final. The second will be played at Winnipeg Saturday with a third, if necessary, Nov. 11, also at Winnipeg.

The "Comeback Kids," as Eskimos were dubbed following their amazing win over Calgary Stampede in the semi-final, are anxious to see the jinx continue. It beat them in both 1950 and 1951.

In 1950, Eskimos edged Bombers 17-16 in the opener at Edmonton, but dropped the next two, 22-12 and 29-6, in Winnipeg. Last year, Edmonton won the first at home against Saskatchewan Roughriders 15-11. But the Riders came back to win 12-5 and 19-18 at Regina.

Rookie fullback Lorne Benson is a doubtful starter for Winnipeg Saturday. He suffered a slight concussion in the opening game.

At Edmonton, playing coach Frankie Filechok says "in a pinch" he might be ready to play. Filechok suffered a shoulder separation in the first contest and was expected to miss the remainder of the series.

Lennoxville Edges Bishop's Girls 25-23 In First Ladies' Cage Game

Lennoxville, new team in the E.T. Ladies' Basketball League, won a hair-raising 25-23 decision over Bishop's University last night, in the first game of the ladies' section.

Tail Ruth Hamilton paced the winners with 11 points in a game that looked like a Bishop's victory up to the last three minutes.

The University points were divided among six of the players with Betsy McKindsey and Pam Garland leaders, scoring six apiece. Rock MacFarlane's University squad led 7-4 at the end of the first quarter, the score was tied 13-13 at the half and University was in the lead 23-18 at the three-quarter mark. With three minutes of play left, Garth Smith's team went into the lead and came up with the victory before more than 100 fans.

Lennoxville plays Friday night against Windsor Rockettes, at the Sherbrooke Y.M.C.A., part of a ladies-men's doubleheader.

Summary: Lennoxville: Enid Smith 2, Ann MacDonald 4, Joan Stirling 2, Lois
