It is with sorrow that we record the death of Mrs. H. N. Pierce. She has been a great sufferer for some time past and bore her affliction with christian fortitude. The funeral took place on Sabbath last the church being crowded. Mr. Pierce being a Royal Templar, Pioneer council attended in a body. The church was beautifully decorated and a most comforting sermon preached by Rev. Mr. Harris. Her large circle of relatives and friends deeply sympathize with the bereaved husband and children.

Fire at Magog.
SAW AND GRIST MILLS DESTROYED.
(Special to the EXAMINER)
Magog, Que., Nov. 9th.—At 5:30 p. m., last evening, G. W. Ayer & Co's, shingle mill and the grist mill occupied by Manson & Boright were totally destroyed by fire together with large quantity of stock on hand. Loss supposed to be about $6000. Manson & Boright carried $2000 insurance on their stock and Ayer & Co. had $1000 on their mill.

Leavitt's Mills.
The school here has commenced again after having four weeks vacation in which time the school house has been repaired. The new mill that is being built under the supervision of Messrs. Lovell, Caswell and Mayhew, is progressing finely, and we all hope their labors may be crowned with success. Mrs. W. W. Pope has been very sick but the report is, she is better. Mr. G. O. Bailey from New Hampshire is visiting friends and relatives here, and intends to spend the winter in this section. The Misses Julia and Ada Bailey, who have been living in Brighton for some time past, have returned home on a short visit to parents and friends. Mrs. S. Griffin from Vermont has been here visiting her children, grandchildren and other relatives.

Lennoxville.
At a meeting of the Municipal Council of the Township of Assot held on Monday the 6th instant, the Mayor reported that the case of Cheover against the township of Assot had been decided against the Corporation and judgment given for five hundred dollars and costs. The Mayor and Secretary Treasurer were ordered to settle the same soon as possible. It was also decided that in future the winter road tax shall be paid in money and collected by the Secretary Treasurer with the ordinary taxes. The following resolution was also adopted:

"Moved by Councillor Mitchell, seconded by Councillor Allard. That in the opinion of this Council the farming community while prepared to bear their just share of the public burdens would be very greatly prejudiced by the scheme of taxation recently suggested to the Provincial Government by the Board of Trade and others in Montreal; and moreover the imposition of a uniform tax on all the real property alone, for the additional needs of the public service would be a most unjust preference against the farmer's who differing from others are compelled to have the chief part of their capital invested in real estate, and whose farms bear all the expenditure of the rural municipalities, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Hon. John S. Hall, M. P. P., Treasurer of the Province."

Danville.
The tenth annual Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held here Oct. 24-27 and was the largest and most successful yet held. There are twenty-five departments, and work over each of which there is a Superintendent, who presents a definite report, and if absent, has a lady appointed to read it—followed by free discussion. The election of officers was carried on in an honorable manner and with business tact:—Honorary President, Mrs. Middleton, Quebec; President, Mrs. J. G. Sanderson, Danville; Vice Pres. at-large, Mrs. Judge Foster, Knowlton; Corresponding Sec., Mrs. R. W. McLachlan, Montreal; Recording Secretary, Mrs. M. McKeljohn, Knowlton; Treas., Mrs. S. P. Dinet, Montreal. During the ten sessions the papers submitted on so different subjects evinced genuine talent, the addresses were brilliant and the business conducted with skill and promptitude. On the 28th Dr. Minnie Leavitt gave at Kingsley Falls a lecture on "The Effects of Alcohol on the Human System." By statistics and numerous charts the fair speaker was enabled to aid her natural eloquence and personal charms, and make a lasting impression for good. There was music, and Mrs. Emma Hodge of the W. C. T. U. presided. Patriotic men of some capital should erect in Danville neat inexpensive houses for rental. They are much needed, and by co-operation we can have electric light, getting the generating power from our falls; or if better from the plant at Kingsley Falls. Farmers can utilize the average dog but the value of such dogs as we have in

Explosion of Dynamite.

THREE HUNDRED PEOPLE KILLED—THE TOWN NEARLY DESTROYED.
Santander, Spain, November 6.—Over three hundred lives were lost as a result of the blowing up of the dynamite laden ship in the harbor on Friday night. Hundreds of people are homeless and thousands of dollars' worth of property has been destroyed. It has been learned that the vessel was the "Cabo Machicao." When the buildings and wharves caught fire the flames spread rapidly. The big railway station was burned. Everybody was panic stricken and made but little effort to subdue the flames. In response to telegrams asking for assistance to neighboring towns, a large number of soldiers and fire apparatus soon arrived on the scene. By this time half of the town had been burned, but by good work the fire was got under control after some hours' hard fighting. Temporary hospitals were at once strung and into these the burned and mangled bodies of those who were injured in the disaster were carried. Many of them died for want of medical attendance. The doctors worked heroically, but they were few in number and the calls for their services were many.

Besides the Governor, among the dead are the prefect, the chief of police, two judges, seventy-five civic guards, the whole police force, except two members, several officers and the majority of the passengers on a railway train that had just arrived. The number of injured is very large. At the time the "Cabo" blew up the Spanish steamer "Alfonso XII" was lying alongside of her. The steamer was completely destroyed. All her officers and forty of her crew are missing, and it is certain that every one of them are killed.

The lost "Cabo Machicao" was discharging 2000 tons of iron and many barrels of petroleum and flour and several wine casks. The captain had declared only 20 casks of dynamite; otherwise he had not been allowed to dock. The fire started at three o'clock on Friday afternoon in the coal bunkers. The Customs officer and police hastened to remove the twenty casks of dynamite, which soon were landed at a safe distance from the vessel. The captain and crew of the "Alfonso XII" boarded the burning vessel to help fight the flames. They worked for an hour and a half without success. At the end of that time the fire reached the petroleum. Then came a series of explosions as the flames went from barrel to barrel of the petroleum, until they reached the contraband dynamite. Then came the explosion of the dynamite. All on board the "Cabo Machicao" and many along the dock were blown to atoms. The quay, with its enormous crowd of spectators, rose slowly in the air. The people were scattered in every direction into the sea and upon the land. The fire brands fell in showers over sea and land for a radius of a mile and a half. The destruction in the harbor was equally appalling. The fire burned unchecked throughout the night. Street after block sank in ruins. Every structure near the water front was filled with the noise of crashing buildings. Thousands abandoned their homes and fled to the fields or outlying villages. Others remained to search frantically among the heaps of ruins and half burned bodies for their lost friends or relations. On Saturday afternoon many injured persons, insane from terror or pain, were found crouching in alley ways, and outhouses far from the scenes of the fire. Santander has been like a city of the dead and dying. The streets have been deserted except by a few mourners still looking for their dead. Most of the houses left standing are as empty as if plague-stricken. The occupants, who fled on the night of the fire, have been afraid to return to the scene of the horrors which they then witnessed. The sea was tossed as if by an earth quake. Tremendous waves broke upon the water front, and large vessels were tossed like shells against the docks.

Waterville.
Mr. Moulton of Coaticook, was in town last week. Mrs. L. W. Wyman returned from Worcester, Mass., last week. The Waterville House has gone into the hands of Messrs. Metcalf & Sundry, of Exton. The Hon. John McIntosh returned from Chicago last week and is looking well. He leaves to-morrow for Quebec, for the opening of Parliament. Mr. Levi Parker, of East Hatley was in town last Saturday. The members of "Lord Erne," Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 1591, held their annual oyster supper in the Town Hall last Friday evening which was pronounced by all present to be a grand success; oysters were splendid and songs and speeches very enjoyable and instructive. An interesting feature in the entertainment was the presentation by the Rev. Mr. Osborne, of East Hatley, of a handsome Bible bearing the inscription, "Presented to Lord Erne Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 1591, by Lady Friends, Nov. 3rd, 1893." The Bible was bought by the ladies, friends of the Orangemen, and kept a secret until nearly the close of the entertainment, so the surprise created quite a pleasant sensation, the Worshipful Master thanking the ladies very heartily on behalf of himself and the Lodge. The pleasure of the evening was marred by the sudden and alarming illness of Mrs. Jas. Rooney who had to be carried out of the hall and still remains very low, not having been able as yet to return to her home, but is still with the Silver's. Mrs. Jas. Osgood whose illness was reported last week died very suddenly last Friday morning. Her loss is deeply felt in the community as was shown by the unusually large attendance at the funeral which was held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in St. John's Church, when the Rev. Albert Stevens of East Hatley spoke comforting words from the Good Book, and of the many christian virtues of the deceased. Mr. Osgood being a member of the Orange Lodge here the members all assembled and walked in procession to the church and the grave. They also passed the following resolution:—

"Lord Erne L. O. Lodge, 1591.
Waterville, Nov. 5th, 1893.

To Bro. James Osgood.
"Whereas it has pleased Almighty God in his Divine and farseeing providence to remove from our midst the wife of our much beloved brother, James Osgood, this Lodge does hereby tender its warmest and most tender sympathy for him in this hour of his bereavement.

We as a Lodge feel it as a loss to ourselves, for we were well assured that her sympathies were with us and that she held the utmost regard for our Order, as she did every good cause in the community. Many of us have experienced similar circumstances as our brother has now been called upon to undergo and we well know it is hard to submit to the Divine Will, but in this case we can all have the assurance that she has gone to live with Him who is the Resurrection and the Life, and that we can all have the privilege of meeting her again in the Grand Lodge of Heaven.

Signed on behalf of the Lodge,
W. H. WARD, W. Master.
L. VANLUVEN, R. Secretary.

The sorrowing family have the sympathy of all. Mrs. Osgood was universally esteemed and has lived nearly all her life in Waterville. Mr. Osgood's son, J. H. Osgood and daughter, Mrs. Budgett, came on from Boston to attend the funeral. Mrs. Rooney's brother, Mr. John Moore of St. Johnsbury, Vt., formerly of this place, was in town yesterday on account of the illness of his sister. Mr. Brooks of Sherbrooke has moved to this place to work in the Smith Factory. Last Wednesday being All Saints Day, service was held in St. John's Church. A missionary meeting was held in the Anglican Church Monday evening at which the Rev. Canon Foster of Coaticook; Rev. Mr. Murray, of Dixville; Rev. Mr. Forsythe, of Stanstead; Rev. Mr. Parker, of Compton; Rev. Mr. Brooks, of Ways Mills; Rev. Mr. Stevens of East Hatley, and the pastor, the Rev. E. A. W. King, of Waterville were present. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. Canon Foster and the Rev. Mr. Murray, which were listened to with deep interest.

Of this amount $9,440 was divided among the universities, $5,165 went to seventeen academies, $725 to special schools, $600 to three girls' schools and $4,495 to thirty-six model schools scattered over the province. The grants to colleges were: Morris Gill $4,150; Bishop's $2,250; Morris College $1,750; St. Francis college $700; Stanstead Wesleyan college $590. The export season drawing to a close, trade in this class of cattle becomes proportionately dull. We quote the following as being fair value: cattle export 4 to 4 1/2; cattle, butchers good 3 1/2 to 4; cattle, butchers medium 2 to 3; cattle, butchers culls 1 1/2 to 2 1/2; calves $2.00 to $5.00; lambs $2.00 to $3.00; hogs $5.75 to $6.00.

HORSE MARKET.
The receipt of horses at the Montreal Horse Exchange, Point St. Charles, for week ending Nov. 4, 1893, were 52. The horse trade at these stables during the week was somewhat quiet, the sale only numbering 9; prospects for the coming week better with 65 very excellent, with one car to arrive on Monday. Included in the above lot are twelve standard bred colts that will be sold by auction on Wednesday, November 8th, at p. m.

Bronchitis

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold, and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."—J. C. Woodson, P.M., Forest Hill, W. Va.

Cough

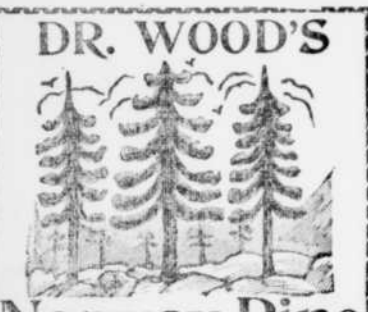

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured."—Franz Hoffman, Clay Centre, Kans.

La Grippe

"Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I begun taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

AT THE SIGN OF THE SKULL.

A strange old tavern have I seen. The walls are thick, the garden green. 'Tis damp and foul, yet through the door Do rich men come as well as poor. They come by night, and they come by day, And I never a guest is turned away.

The landlord, an unwholesome fellow, Has a complexion white and yellow, And though he looks exceedingly thin Does nothing else but grin and grin At all his guests, who, after awhile, Begin to imitate his smile.

The guests are a fearful sight to see, Though some are people of high degree, For no one asks when a carriage arrives A decent account of the inmates' lives, But holy virgins and men of sin, Sleep cheek by jowl in this careless inn.

The house has a singular bill of fare— Nothing dainty, nothing rare, But only one dish, and that dish meat, Which never a guest was known to eat. Night and day the meal goes on, And the guests themselves are fed upon!

These merry guests are all of them bound To a hand far off, but I never found That any one knew when he should start, Or wished from this pleasant house to part.

O strange old tavern, with garden green In every town its walls are seen. Now the question has often been asked of me, Is it really as bad as it seems to be? —Theodore C. Williams in Century.

ONLY A STORY.

It was rather a remarkable ball, this. Not only were most of the bigwigs of Brisbane present, as well as the girls for a hundred miles inland—at least, the best of them—but it was an open secret that some men were present who ought either to have been swinging disconsolately from hempen ropes or confined in convict prisons for the greater remaining part of their mortal lives.

But they were a rough and ready community in those days, taking life as it came. Edith Gaston, as a Tyrolean damsel, was charming. Every one said so, and you could see by the bright eyes and satisfied face of the girl that she knew it. One of her partners whispered to her to take note of a certain handsome fellow in a cavalier dress.

"That is the celebrated Murphy," he said. "Keep it dark. He's not such a brute as the rest. There's a speck of the devil in him, but he's not so very far wrong at heart." Now, being a romantic and strong natured girl, it needed no more than this confidential hint to excite in Edith an overmastering interest in the handsome cavalier.

His opportunity soon came. Edith was waiting for her next partner—waiting with evident impatience, moreover. Her neat little feet tapped the floor more than once, and she frowned. She was not used to being neglected. Mr. Murphy did not hesitate. He, with a fascinating bow, asked if he might be privileged to fill up the gap which had accidentally (he laid sweet stress upon the word) occurred in her programme.

After the dance the cavalier was loath to let her go. He took her into a cool bowler of palms, and for five minutes they talked on equal terms. "I consider that you have done me an unforgettable favor in condescending to dance with me," said the bushranger. "For I've not a doubt you know who I am better than the police."

"I admit that I have an idea of it," replied the girl, with a light laugh. "Why don't you become?" "Respectable? Is that it?" "Well, more or less. You know it is not much of a profession, this picking of pockets, is it now?" There was real earnestness in the girl's eyes as she said these words.

the much disapproved, bushranger type. Mr. Jones had, in fact, begun to turn out his pockets before being bidden, when the chief of the robber band politely stopped him. "No, no," he said, with a smile. "Only your clothes, sir. You and your man will be well cared for—somewhere—for a week or two, and I am going to be the new vicar of Leyburn. I have a fair smattering of theology, acquired during more serious hours in England. I hope, therefore, I shall not disgrace you."

The bushranger having attired himself in the parson's clothes, the new vicar of Leyburn produced a false beard that was an admirable facsimile of Mr. Jones' beard and adjusted it. The metamorphosis was as convincing as it was complete. One of the younger rogues was then endowed with Tom's (the man's) clothes. After which, with due salutations, the car drove on, the parson and the real Tom being the next moment carried off, good humoredly enough, into the forest, whence they soon reached the celebrated Captain Murphy's lair.

On the second day after the new vicar's arrival tongues began to sound his praises. The next day it was known for miles out that the parson was a downright capital fellow. Something was to happen on the evening of this third day. In his various parochial visitations the new vicar had eloquently urged the more influential of his parishioners to attend a very special meeting at the parsonage between 7 and 8 o'clock. One and all the 10 men came to the meeting.

The time had purposely been left a little vague. First came a wealthy sheepowner. "Good evening, Mr. Anderson," said the new vicar to this gentleman. "Step in, if you please." The door immediately closed upon Mr. Anderson, and he was covered with a revolver on either side of him. In fact, there were four men and four revolvers opposed to him.

"Now, sharp's the word, Mr. Anderson," said the new vicar briskly, with his hands deep in Mr. Jones' pockets. "Checkbook, self or bearer, £1,000." "Who are ye, then?" Mr. Anderson was beginning to exclaim, with some impatience, when the little guns drew nearer to him, and one of them clicked. "Gill Murphy, at your service, Mr. Anderson," was the reply. "There's two minutes for you. Thirty seconds of it's gone."

Then, with a resounding sigh, the big sheepowner sat down and wrote the check. One of Captain Murphy's aids at this moment whistled. With scant ceremony Mr. Anderson was hustled out of the room into a certain yardhouse that was both strong and remote. Here he was locked in. In all 10 checks were reaped in at this compulsory offertory in the vicarage, and in all there were 10 leading parishioners in the vicarage yardhouse, well immured and kept in comparative quietude by a couple of gentlemen with revolvers, who covered them from two side windows without glass, but with an iron grill to each.

The 10 leading parishioners were rather wild, especially Mr. Smithson, but it was evident they were in masterful hands, and for their lives' sake they did not go beyond verbal abuse and anger. "That," said Captain Murphy, as he looked through the shaft of checks, will be £1,000 apiece, my boys, and £2,000 for me. And now, Mike, get out the cart and drive like lightning. I must have a clear six hours' start of Leyburn. That'll just bring me to Brisbane in time to cash this paper and be off again."

The cart was being prepared with the utmost celerity, when Captain Murphy stepped out of the house for a moment. To come face to face with—Edith Gaston. At the same moment the sham vicar's beard got detached from his face and fell to the ground. The surprise on the girl's face was scarcely so keen as one would have expected it to be.

Truth to tell, she had heard the new vicar's voice when he had paid her father a visit the previous day, and though she had not then put in an appearance she half suspected that something odd was in the wind. Still the denouement brought about by the slipping of Captain Murphy's disguise did startle her a bit. Her presence was even more of a shock to Captain Murphy, who had until now failed to remember that she was Gaston as well as Edith.

When he bowed, with a look of shame in his eyes, she did not so much as move her head to him. "Where is my father?" she asked. "He will be with you by and by, Miss Gaston." "How do I know that? Mr. Murphy, how could you descend to such wickedness as this?" "I think I understand your game. You insult the Deity as easily as you pick the pockets of your fellow creatures. Mr. Murphy, I would rather be the meanest wretch in Melbourne than be you, with your crimes on my shoulders. Let me tell you straight what I think of you."

On a Blockade-Runner.

The captain had ordered the children, nurse, and myself on deck ere starting out, and wrapped about with sheets we reclined or sat on the cotton bales that lined the sides of the ship's deck. The men were all dressed in white, the smoke stacks were painted white and inverted, giving forth no sound, and consuming their own smoke. No word was spoken on the ship.

Thus, without sound, and seemingly without visible motion, she glided through the waters like a bird on the wing. She was an illusion to the material senses,—a phantom; we on board seemed sceptres, silently but recklessly laughing in the face of death. Faster, faster glided the toy ship; nearer, nearer grew the great red light. It seemed to me we must run into it. I sat motionless beside Captain Reid on a bale of cotton, watching the glowing ball of fire that loomed through the shroud of mist in front, and realized that impending death was on either side, the visible risk of it ahead. Suddenly, and without verbal order from the captain, the man at the wheel turned the little craft with the alertness of hand of the magician, and she shot to the left, just outside the radius made by the beacon-light of the flagship, and between it and a great lumbering cruiser rolling about in waters half a mile off. As we noiselessly ran thus between the very jaws of death, Captain Reid touched my arm and pointed right and left. Following his directions, I saw on one side, within the radius a magnificent man-of-war, its deep rounded canon near the surface of the water, its towering masts majestically reared against the clouds, its deck swarming with a powerful marine force, all bathed in red and yellow light that made a minute, distinctive picture against a dark sea background.

On the other side, in shadowy outline, lay the dark hulk of the other, noisily puffing her steam, but quiet, like a monster held in leash against its will; while between the two, with the nicest kind of calculation, our little craft ran her gauntlet boldly, defiantly. Once well through I could feel the speed being gradually strengthened, until in two hours a fine distance had been put between her and the fleet. At the end of that time Captain Reid advised me to go down below and get all the rest I could before daybreak.

"Way before daybreak?" I asked. "Isn't the danger of blockade-running over?" He smiled grimly. "It has not fairly commenced. What we have done seems something to you, but it is not difficult. My ship makes no noise, nor shows herself at night. With a little management in guiding her by the flag-ship's light, it is easy to run through the fleet. Ah! they are clever at Washington. They've put their two fastest men-of-war into the high seas to pay us for this, and by the light of day."

Turning Over a New Leaf

Once upon a time there lived in a Michigan town a judge and a lawyer, who liked their tools, and liked them often. The judge was twenty years older than the lawyer, and had been an ex. for ten years, when the lawyer was elected a judge. Shortly after this election he met the judge on the street. "Come on," said the old judge, breezily; "let's go have something."

"No," protested the new one, "since my election as judge I propose to turn over a new leaf and quit drinking." The old judge snatched him on the back encouragingly. "That's right, my boy, that's right," he said; "I was sorer for three weeks after I was elected."

Cures Others

Will cure You, is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend, and try to impose upon you, as "just as good as Ayer's." Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's only, if you need a blood-purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation, and made a record for cures, that has never been equalled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this, my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and, in a short time, the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jarmann, 33 William st., New York City.

Look Pleasant

The photograph friend says: "Look pleasant" and a look of unexpressed anguish overspreads the face of the victim. It is no easy task for a man to look pleasant when he finds his new coat ill-fitting, when his new gloves split or when his new shirt collapses at the first washing. These misfortunes gentlemen have frequently suffered from, but if you believe the majority have gone over to the majority—in other words the gentlemen of the city have by one address in their minds when they desire to replenish their outfitting stock. Need we add that address is CHARLIE FULLER Men's Outfitter. A notable feature about our fall importations is that they are the best made that are turned out by the most reputable British manufacturers and sold at lower rates than are asked for shoddy grades picked up promiscuously in the country "no one knows where." Had we space we would like to make reference to a few prominent features of certain of our lines, but such suggestions can convey no more than a hint of a stock of furnishings that are certain to be in touch with the wants of every well-dressed man, in every instance there is quality freshness, and lowest price to recommend it to his patronage.

The Question of the Day. Often Asked.—Where can I find a home? Where can I make a living? Where can I, with ordinary diligence, economy and energy, provide my family with the necessities of life, and feel assured that at the end of it I can leave to my children a decent inheritance? To what place can I go and find good land on terms so reasonable that I may get a portion of it without burdening myself with debt, which I can never hope to pay off? Where can I find such a place on these terms and safe from crop failures, and allow me to devote myself to any special branch of agriculture for which I may feel myself fitted.

Answered in a few words. Get a home in the great Flour State of Minnesota. It never yet had a crop failure—where land values are increasing rapidly. Write without delay to the International Land Company, Guaranty Loan Building, Minneapolis, Minn., for all information. They can sell you farms on any terms you may desire so that you will be satisfied.

Thought He Had a Bite

He looked as though he had drifted into Chicago on the tail end of a cheap excursion. He was a thin, old man in a blue checked shirt and a wispy goatee, and while two hundred thousand people wandered about the world's fair grounds and marveled at the wonders of the Columbian Exposition, the thin, old man sat on a stone under the bridge in front of the agriculture building, and fished. A piece of hemp cord, relic of a cast-off lunch box, dangled from a ten cent cane with a head of Columbus handle. A convenient grass-hopper did duty as bait. Up above, the thousands poured over the bridge and spread themselves about the grounds, but the thin old man fished on, calmly oblivious to all about him.

"Had any luck?" asked a man on the bridge.

"Pretty middlin'," caught two sheep-head and a shiner."

"Been fishin' long?"

"Yestiddy and to-day. Minnie I slapped eyes on this water I knowed there was fish in it."

"Seen the fair?" asked the man on the bridge.

"Nope."

"Been through the buildings, haven't yer?"

"Nope."

"Goin' to, ain't yer?"

"Nope."

"What did you come for?" inquired the other in astonishment.

"Come up with the old woman and the gals."

"Where are they?"

"Reckon they're teeterin round the buildin's somewhere."

"Haven't you seen the court of honor and the golden statue?" persisted the man on the bridge.

"Nope."

"Why man it's only around the turn. Just look under the bridge," he urged, "and you can't help seeing the fountain anyhow."

The thin man didn't hear. He grasped the head-of-Columbus handle and watched the line intently. "Hush!" he said, "reckon I had a bite."

Suggestions to Young Reporters.

A young man, desiring to become a reporter on the daily press, received the following suggestions from an old timer to whom he applied for professional tips:

"In rescuing drowning men, it must be always when they are going down for the third time. No case is on record of a rescue when the sufferer was going down the first time."

"When a gentleman gives a banknote it must always be a crisp, five dollar or ten dollar one."

"Tunds are of two descriptions, the 'dull' and the 'sickening'."

"Of course, every writer knows that fire must always be mentioned as the de-vouring element."

"What 'wildfire' is no one exactly knows, but when anything spreads rapidly, remember it 'spreads like wildfire'."

"Figs, especially political ones, must always be 'flung to the breeze,' no matter whether there is any breeze or not; fling it do not unfurl it."

"If you can manage to get an assault, a dog fight and a burglary all into one column do it, for it will secure the alliterative scare head of 'A Carnival of Crime.'"

"Speaking of winning or losing money, it must always be a 'cool' $500 or $5,000. How- ever heated the struggle, the amount must always be 'cool.'"

"Always remember that a man is 'launched into eternity,' not hanged at a certain time."

"When a person after an accident is found to be dead, it is best not to say to him that 'the vital spark has fled.'"

"Speeches on the political side which your paper advocates should always be 'ringing' speeches."

"Jokes respecting one's 'best girl,' the old man kicking the lover out, size of his boot, or respecting 'After the Ball,' 'Comrades,' plumbers and ice-men had best take a back seat for the present."

What Am I To Do?

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bare inspection at any time; if it is not white and furrowed it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhoea or Consumption may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache, and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy. If

A Scientific Agreement.

"Do you know that the doctors have decided that young meats, such as veal cutlets and spring chicken, are very unhealthy?"

"Is that so?" They must have told my landlady the same thing."

A Famous Madhouse.

The wonderful house of Dr. Blanche, where he died, was full of histories. The initials over its principal door—A. C.—are those of Antoine Caumont, duc de Lauzun, who built it, for the increase of his elegance, in 1610. The Princess de Lamballe entertained Marie Antoinette at her garden fetes under the great trees where Guy de Maupassant walked insane. Some poems were read, several songs we sing, were composed there.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Mrs. Edison's Roof Garden.

Mrs. Thomas Edison's favorite lounging place is the roof of her conservatory. An awning is stretched above it, and a French window opens from her boudoir on to it. Afternoon tea is served here by Mrs. Edison, and a divan with silk cushions is her favorite resting place on the roof.—Exchange.

Then He Got Mad.

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Gallacher, "it was funny enough to make a donkey laugh. I laughed till I cried." And then as he saw a smile go round the room he grew red in the face and went away angry.—London Tit-Bits.

THE SPHERE OF SPORT.

In the football game with Lehigh, Princeton won. Score, 28 to 6.

H. C. Taylor has made the world's 100 yards bicycle record 5 4-3 seconds.

"Buffalo Bill" on horse-back, has started a long race with bicyclist Meyer at Paris.

SHOOTING ACCIDENTS.

SUICIDES.

Hon. Frederick Charles Howard, brother of the Earl of Effingham, shot himself in London.

Frederick A. Lovecraft committed suicide in New York. Cause unknown. He was manager of Palmer's theatre and secretary of the Coney Island Jockey Club.

DEATH IN MANY FORMS.

Hugh Brown dropped dead at Smith's Falls.

Death from heart failure overtook Peter Kemsley while he was repairing a fishing net in St. John.

Two children of Napoleon J. Stone, a weaver, have died of starvation at New Bedford, Mass.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Lord Dunraven's Molly Morgan won the Cambridgehire Handicap at Newmarket.

S. C. Wahl, the bicyclist, of Washington, has ridden 297 2-5 miles in 24 hours, beating the record by 14 miles.

TIRED OF LIFE.

CRAWLEY SAYS: GENTLEMEN—I am happy to testify that I have used your Cough Syrup with the most effectual results. My daughter had the Measles, which left her with a frightful cough. She had the best of doctors, but they said there was no cure for her, unless a voyage at sea would do it. I took her to England and spent several months there, but her cough was no better, and returned home. THE TURN OF THE TIDE.

The crushing defeat of the Democrats at the polls on Wednesday last has astonished the country. That a reaction would be shown to have set in was expected but to nothing like the extent which has manifested itself.

MR. A. O. GRANGER'S CASE.

The Customs authorities have removed the seizure of the Auer light fluid on payment of the duties and have waived the imposition of any fine or penalty being apparently satisfied that no fraud was intended.

THE COLLECTING CRAZE

Human nature has many strange characteristics. One of the oddest is the very general desire to possess what other people have not got. Almost any article however insignificant its intrinsic worth may be, becomes valuable in proportion to its rareness or scarcity.

THE ELLIS CASE.

With reference to this case, on which we commented in our last issue, it is interesting to note the views of the Hon. David Mills who is known to be one of the best constitutional authorities of the day.

Upon what theory can you censure or denounce the scandalous breach of public duty on the part of the public officer who returned Mr. Baird and remain silent in reference to the conduct of Judge Tuck?

Indeed, Mr. Mills claims that Judge Tuck should have been arrested and sent to gaol for an unwarrantable interference with a public officer in the discharge of his duties.

This is a case in which all journalists are deeply interested. The liberty of the press is of vital importance to the whole community and must be most jealously guarded at all costs.

The following clippings from the Portland Argus refers to a grand Testimonial Concert tendered Miss Florence Knight Miss Katherine Ricker and Miss Alice Philbrook, October 5th, by the musicians and citizens of Portland in recognition of the success of the work of these ladies at the Woman's Musical Convention at Chicago.

We understand the audience numbered about two thousand and the proceeds realized was four hundred dollars each for the three ladies.

THE TESTIMONIAL CONCERT. Miss O'Reil ought to have been in the City Hall last evening. He found fault in it will be remembered with the coldness of Portland audiences, but he could have found none with the reception given Messrs Knight, Ricker and Webb by the magnificent audience gathered together to honor them.

The concert opened with Fanny's "Mourning Woogie" by the Singers' Club, given with charming expression and phrasing, under the direction of Mr. Harvey S. Murray. The other numbers by the Singers' Club were the Slumber song by Lohr and the closing number Gault's "Daybreak." The personnel of the club has changed considerably of late and the changes are surely not for the worse.

There are many fresh young voices added which makes it probably the best vocal society so far as training and voices go in the State.

The second number on the programme was violin solo, a theme of Leonard's with variations, by Miss Bertha Webb. Miss Webb was given a perfect ovation as she stepped on the stage and when she finished an encore was emphatically demanded and given. Later on Miss Webb gave Wientoski's waltz "Caprice," and for another encore came down to the front of the stage alone and played "Home Sweet Home" in such a pathetic strain as to draw tears to many eyes.

The third number was the Meyerbeer duet that won the prize for Miss Knight and Ricker at the World's Fair with accompaniment by Miss Philbrook.

All of the young ladies were at their very best which is saying that there are no better performers for their age and experience in the country. An encore was asked for, but as the duet was long and very taxing to the singers it was not granted, they simply appearing to bow their acknowledgments.

Miss Knight's solo was Gounod's "Ave Maria," with piano accompaniment by Miss Philbrook, organ by Mr. Murray and violin obligato by Miss Webb. Miss Knight's voice is particularly suited to religious music and was heard to full advantage in the plaintive tones of this matchless composition.

Miss Ricker's solo was Dudley Buck's "From the Desert I Come," rendered with the dash and fire in which she delights and which no audience, however distinguished, can frighten out of her.

The Haydn Quartette, with Mr. Will Stockbridge in place of Dr. Nickerson, sang the wonderful "Last Chord," holding the audience spell-bound. An encore was demanded, the audience evidently wanting to hear the same again, but a jingling love song was substituted and the spell broken.

Each of the ladies received many beautiful bouquets and all have reason to feel that they at least are honored and admired best by those who know them best.

The Matabele War.

KING LOBENGUELA TO MAKE ANOTHER STAND—THE FIGHT.

London, November 2.—A despatch received to-day in this city says that part of Lobenguela's forces were overtaken by Major Forbes' column last night near Bulawayo. The Matabeles turned on their pursuers, but were defeated with serious loss. Many of them were captured.

According to later accounts of the battle that occurred on Tuesday, the attacking natives numbered 5000. The British were fully prepared to receive the enemy. In the first rush made by the Matabeles they swept past the British pickets. This brought them in range of the British guns, and a deadly fire was poured into their ranks.

For a moment the natives held their ground, and then broke and fled to cover in the brush. The British cavalry then sallied forth and chased the whole force. The native regiments did not stop in their flight. The rocky ground over which they fled prevented the cavalry from making an effective pursuit. In this fight 500 of the Matabeles were killed and wounded.

The company's forces lost two killed—a white man and a negro—and six wounded. When the fight was over, the road was found to be clear. The troops marched through without resistance to Bulawayo, the chief's kraal, 35 miles distant.

London, November 3.—A special to the Daily Mail Gazette from Johannesburg says two thousand Matabeles were reported to be near Mount Ibia, between Fort Tuli and Fort Victoria yesterday. The despatch also gives the details of the killing of Capt. Burnett, of the British South Africa Company's forces, whose death has already been announced. Captain Burnett was a well known Mashonaland pioneer. He with Maurice Gifford was guarding two Matabele prisoners in a hut. One of the prisoners seized a loaded rifle, belonging to a scout that had carelessly been left within his reach, and shot Burnett dead. Gifford thereupon shot and killed both the prisoners.

There are three columns about 900 men operating against the natives. They are a superior force, well armed and have several Maxim and Armstrong guns, and are commanded by Major Forbes, Major Wilson, Major Adams and Commander Raaf. These columns are amply supplied with ammunition and food.

It is impossible to give a correct account of the Matabele force, which is variously estimated at 12,000, 15,000 and 20,000 men actually in the field.

Bulawayo, the capital of King Lobenguela of the Matabeles was captured on the 2nd Nov. by Major Adams and Commander Raaf's column. The natives fought with great bravery and only gave in after 2000 of their men had been cut down by the fire of the attacking column and their machine guns. The kraal was burned to the ground. This will probably end the war.

"Our rule is cash down, young man," said the merchant. "Exactly, and it is my exception. To-day my cash is 'way down, and that is just why I asked credit," replied the young man, sadly.

A Cure for Coughs.

There is no remedy that makes as large a percentage of perfect cures as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. In nearly every case of coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, etc., its curative effects are prompt and lasting.

"Man wants but little here below." But 'tis this fact that daunts— He's sure to get a little less Than the little that he wants.

G. M. Milgay, Parkdale, Toronto, writes: My wife had several severe attacks of cramps in the stomach. Hearing of Dr. Austin's Phosphatide, and its pleasantness to take, I gave her two bottles and she has not had an attack since, and her health is much improved.

"No, she hasn't spoken to her next neighbor for a month." "Did the children make the trouble?" "No, she told what she paid for her new bonnet and the neighbor never repeated it."

A Quarter of a Century.

LITTLE BEGINNINGS.—The steam which raises the lid of the kettle led a philosophic mind to utilize it for man's benefit. No one dreamed that we should now be dragged along by it at the rate of sixty miles an hour.

"We're approaching a time when the average man," Says a prophet whose wisdom is subtle, "Will lock up his coal in a safe, if he can, And carry his cash in a scuttle!"

I Love in Thirty Languages

A French amateur has amused himself by finding out how the verb "I love" is written in 30 different languages. Considering that no less than 53 different languages are spoken in Europe, 153 in Asia, and so on, the result of the French gentleman's researches amounts only to a very small fraction of the 860 different languages that are spoken on our planet.

GUELPH, ONT., Nov. 6.—The despatch from AMHERST, Man., last week, concerning James Brydon, formerly of this city, excited much interest here. Mr. Brydon has relatives here and left this city only last March for Manitoba, so that he is well known. It was also commonly known that Mr. Brydon suffered severely from kidney trouble and was much reduced by the disease.

Western Operatic Criticism.

The hustling western business man had been to the opera and was asked what he thought of it. "They're lazy," he replied shortly. "Who are lazy?" inquired the man who had spoken to him. "All of them," was the reply. There seems to be a lack of good business management that results in a dead waste of time.

Reducing His Strength "I thought I was a great big man," The old-time bully said, "Until I met a sheriff once; I think they called him Ted." "I thought I'd bluff him out, I did; For that was just my biz. But, gentlemen, he covered me With that small gun of his.

The Imprisonment of Mr. Ellis

"According to the last census there are 4,820,441 people in Canada—most of whom according to recent precedent ought to be in jail for contempt of court. In making this statement no reflection is intended upon the fair fame of the people of Canada. In times and places where rogues get political preferment, and honest men get put in jail, surely it is an honor to be imprisoned. At any rate many self-respecting Canadians would rather be in jail with John V. Ellis than in the company of the people who are responsible for putting him there and keeping him there.

And what was the crime committed six years ago for which Mr. Ellis has been so rigorously pursued? In an editorial article he impugned the motives of Judge Tuck in granting an injunction against Judge Steadman to prevent the latter holding a recount of the vote in the Queen's County election. Mr. Ellis may not have been warranted in impugning partisan motives to Judge Tuck and perhaps would have been wiser to criticize the judgment itself without discussing the motives of the judge.

Now that Mr. Ellis has had some leisure time for reflection he must realize that he could have had a good deal more fun for a smaller penalty if he had gone the right way about it. He might have stolen a seat in the House of Commons; he might have stolen almost anything in the way of public property; he might have horse-whipped the people who perpetrated or connived at the Queen's County fraud without any danger of being tucked into jail for a month.

Reducing His Strength "I thought I was a great big man," The old-time bully said, "Until I met a sheriff once; I think they called him Ted." "I thought I'd bluff him out, I did; For that was just my biz. But, gentlemen, he covered me With that small gun of his.

Mrs. Portly Pompos—"What does that young man do all the evenings he spends with you in the kitchen?" Bridget—"Sure mum, and what did Mr. Pompos do when he called on you before you were married?"

Coaticook.

Orders for Job Printing taken at the office of the Examiner, Coaticook, N.B. Cutting street. Prices as low as good work can be done for.

FRIDAY, NOV. 10, 1893.

Those of us who are too poor to indulge in baked geese have to content ourselves with the extract of Belmont water.

Thomas Henry Esq., General Passenger Agent of the Northern Pacific Railway was in town Wednesday.

Mr. Richard Smith has been appointed caretaker of the town building in place of Mr. L. B. Murphy whose term of engagement has expired.

One of our local tradesmen has been building a woodbox that would compare favourably with the big chest exhibited at the World's Fair. The dimensions are 9 feet high, 5 feet wide and 15 feet long.

Preventive officer Baldwin has gone into the oyster business. Last Tuesday night a team bringing a load of oysters from Norton Mills was seized by him and delivered to the customs authorities at the port of Coaticook.

At the session of the municipal council the resignation of Councillor Fouriere, the representative of the East Ward, was accepted and an election ordered to appoint a councillor in his place. Councillor Roy was chosen returning officer at this election which will take place on the 20th inst.

On Tuesday last a horse belonging to Mr. Octave Blain took a freak to run away while drawing a load of manure. In turning a corner of the street the load upset and with it overturned the horse. The contents of the wagon were spread broadcast on the street and the horse captured lying on its back in the ditch.

It seems that the Barford Council resented having ditches placed across and through their roads by the Coaticook Water Company, and consequently caused a protest to be served on the company forbidding them to lay their water pipes within the limits of the road. The pipes have been laid down however, much to the chagrin of those who caused the protest to be made.

Last Wednesday evening the fire alarm was given by Mayor Sturtevant calling out the fire company to cutting street near the residence of Mr. J. A. Fiske. In four minutes from the time of the alarm the engine passed the central telephone office and had there been a fire very effective work could have been accomplished in less than ten minutes with the force that turned out. The hook and ladder company forms no small feature of the department, being equipped with quite an extensive outfit in the way of ladders, hose, etc., and was on deck ready for service in a very short time.

Quite an excitement was caused last Wednesday on the street by a runaway horse belonging to Mr. Moise Lafantie. The horse was left standing under the shed of the store of Mr. A. H. Cutting on Pleasant street, but from some cause became frightened and broke loose and started towards the Post Office on a run. When he turned the corner in front of the Post Office the wagon overturned and the horse made a circle through Jenks' vacant lot and back on Main street, kicking the wagon all the while and leaving broken fragments scattered along the street. Upon turning the corner a second time the horse was freed from the wagon which rolled over against another horse which stood in front of the stores. This horse attempted to keep up the racket but was stopped before further damage was done.

An amusing incident is reported this week concerning one of our preventive officers and the long haired gentleman who is famous for his jakes on the officers of the customs. The officer suspected his friend was smuggling and seeing him carrying a value was quite inquisitive to know its contents. He started out towards him with the intention of examining the value when the long haired gent took to his heels. The officer ran after him and being somewhat fleet of foot soon overtook him when he dropped the value and scampered off evidently glad to get away himself at the expense of his load. The officer, exultant in capturing the prize, opened the satchel and there in his hand to examine the contents and was quite pained as well as surprised to feel the jaws of a strong steel trap snap around his wrist. He was unable to get the trap off alone and as the supposed smuggler was then absent, he had to go home and get his wife to relieve him, a sadder but wiser man. Moral—Always look into a satchel before you put your hand in.

At the session of the council last Monday evening Dr. Lurie made a report of the condition of the water that is supplied by the Coaticook Water Company. He stated that as a health officer he had made an examination of the springs from which water was taken and found them in a deplorable condition. Cattle, hogs and even geese were allowed to wallow in the water that is used for drinking purposes by the people of Coaticook. He asked the council to visit the place for themselves, and to take measures to have this state of things remedied. Thereupon the council resolved to meet Tuesday at one o'clock and go in a body to the spring in question. Upon visiting the place they found matters as represented. Geese were sporting in the water at the time. It is hoped that the reservoirs will now be put in a clean condition and protected in such a way that cattle, hogs and geese will be prohibited from using the water before it is allowed to run into the water pipes.

Dress-Making.

THE undersigned begs to notify the ladies of the Family Herald and Fashionable Needlework, that she is prepared to cut and make up all kinds of dresses in the latest styles. A call solicited—charges moderate. MRS. W. B. FORD.

A GREAT OFFER!

GREAT PAPERS AND GREAT PREMIUMS.

We are in a position to offer THE EXAMINER and the Family Herald and Fashionable Needlework, to the subscribers to a choice of the two great papers as given by the publishers of the FAMILY HERALD. These premiums are the "STAR" ALMANAC for 1894, a superb book of 150 pages, or if preferred a copy of the great FAMILY HERALD FASHIONABLE NEEDLEWORK which retails at twenty dollars. The premiums—Almanac and Pictures—will be ready about the end of November, and will be forwarded in the order in which the subscriptions are received. Subscriptions to the papers may begin at once. Remember the offer of a choice of premiums holds good only 30 days, so subscribe during the autumn. Afterwards the choice will positively be withdrawn.
