World News In Brief

Berlin, Nov. 17 —(AP)— A score of American tanks will be sent to Berlin about Jan. 1 to reinforce the western powers' garrison in this cold war city, it was learned today.

They will join the eight British Comets — 33-tonners with 77-millimetre guns — which arrived yesterday from west Germany by freight train.

Naples, Italy, Nov. 17—(Reuters)—Sixty-seven "new fascists" were held in jail today after two bomb attacks in Rome and a big demonstration in Naples yesterday.

Police seized 300 fascists when the bombs wrecked the Rome offices of the Italian republican party and the socialist unity party, youngest of Italy's three socialist parties. They later released all but 30.

Olds, Alta., Nov. 17—(CP)—The Social Credit government retained its Olds seat in the Alberta Legislature in yesterday's provincial by-election, but its winning margin was reduced from the 1948 provincial election. London, Nov. 17.— (AP) — Raymond Emmett, 37, was charged today with firing six shots at another man outside a Soho restaurant where Princess Elizabeth was dining with friends.

Inspector A. J. Usher, her bodyguard, rushed out and took part in the police chase after Emmett.

The man shot at was Charles Cozens, 29, who was walking with a girl.

Quebec, Nov. 17.—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Michaud of Plessisville, Que., who both died aboard the airliner "Canadian Pilgrim" Monday, were "largely" assisted financially for their Holy Year trip to Rome because they had an "ideal" family of 19 children. A Quebec Roman Catholic diocese spokesman said last night that the elderly couple had never travelled abroad before and had never before been in an airplane.

Work Stoppage In Support Of Classon Strikers Hits Several Sherbrooke Plants

Demonstration Staged Outside Classon Mill—Workers Are Refused Entry Into Plant—Outsiders Are Involved.

A general strike of members of the Catholic Syndicates in Sherbrooke designed to give support to certain employees of the Classon Knitting Mills, Ltd., who have been on strike since May 11, tied up several local concerns today and caused reduced operations in several other concerns whose employees are affiliated with the Central Council. However, in many plants the strike call went virtually unheeded, although a number of employees of the night shifts joined in the demonstration before the company's plant on Tenth Avenue to show their support for the alleged grievances of the Classon employees.

There was little or no actual violence in the display before the Classon factory this morning, although a number of employees who have been working since October 17 were prevented from leaving the bus which customarily brings them to work and a taxi carrying a group of clerical workers was gone over by the demonstrators and one door was ripped off. The office staff was able to enter however without any injuries being received.

A large detachment of the local police force was on the scene and maintained good order and discipline from the time the first of the demonstrators began gathering about 5.30 a.m. and the time the gathering adjourned to St. Jean Baptiste Church Hall nearby where a morning-long meeting was held, addressed by various officials of the local syndicates and by sympathizers from outlying districts, including Rodolphe Hamel and Michel Chartrand who had played an important part in the asbestos strike of two years ago.

When the news of the demonstration was received, a special committee session of the City Council was called to discuss the situation.

A delegation from the East Sherbrooke meeting was received by the Council and requested that the Mayor and the Aldermen turn up at the gathering to explain the position of the City. This was turned down flatly although the delegation was informed that the aldermen were ready to meet any important group at the City Hall, provided it was composed of local residents and not dominated by outside organizers.

This information was relayed to the meeting in St. Jean Baptiste Hall but no definite course of action had been decided upon at noon. However, it is expected that a group of four hundred or more members of the local Syndicates will meet Mayor Howard and his associates this afternoon.

Following the committee session this morning, the following statement was released by the Council:

"The Mayor and City Council of Sherbrooke regret the latest development in the Classon Mills' strike.

"The Council has taken the position that it should not interfere in a labor dispute between two groups of workers.

"Upon the written request of ninety (90) citizens, employees of Classon Mills, we have furnished the necessary protection to maintain law and order.

"We regret outside interference in this dispute.

"We intend maintaining our attitude of not favoring either side in the regrettable dispute and we trust that this matter will be settled to the satisfaction of all concerned."

The city-wide strike was decided upon at a meeting of Syndicate groups last evening when it became apparent that no immediate solution of the impasse would be forthcoming. The concerns whose employees answered the call in full number were the Julius Kayser Company, the Rubin Co., and the Austin Glove. Many other trades affiliated with the Central Council sent substantial token delegations, including over forty workers of the municipal public works departments. In other cases, the night shifts went directly from their work to the Classon plant, where an estimated crowd of 1,500 was gathered at one time.

Syndicate officials were unable to give any idea as to how long the demonstration would last, saying that this to an extent depended upon the attitude of the City Council. The prime motive of the move was allegedly to "wake up the City Council and make them do something." What they wanted the Council to do is still uncertain. Many sympathy strikers indicated they would return to work at noon, however. The fact that most of these concerns distribute their pay envelopes Friday afternoon may have something to do with this latter decision.

RCMP Plans To Deal With Reds Ready

Ottawa, Nov. 17 —(CP)— Justice Minister Garson said today that plans and precautions of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to deal with communists in Canada are "well matured" and "some of them are now in operation."

He added, however, that it would be contrary to the public interest to disclose what these plans are since such a disclosure would be of vital assistance to the communists themselves.

The minister in a statement referred to an article by T. G. McManus in a recent issue of Maclean's magazine. McManus, a former communist who renounced the party, said communists in Canada were prepared to strike at Canada's internal security if an emergency arose.

Mr. Garson said he had been asked what precautions the government, and in particular the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, had taken to deal with these intentions of Canadian communists to commit treason against Canada.

The Minister recalled the actions and attitudes of the Canadian communist party following the signing of the non-aggression treaty between Hitler and Stalin. They opposed Canada's entry into the second world war but changed this attitude when it was in Russia's interest to do so.

But until this change, he said, Canadian communists had "carried on a campaign of obstruction, disaffection and other subversive and illegal acts.

"This campaign, however, was not very successful; for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at that time gave a pretty convincing demonstration of its ability to deal with these communist activities.

"The Royal Canadian Mounted Police have long realized that if a war were now to occur between the free countries and the communist states, the communists in this country would again be loyal to Russia rather than to Canada, and would again attempt to carry on a campaign of subversion and treason.

"The precautions and plans of an enlarged and more experienced Royal Canadian Mounted Police to deal with such a campaign are well matured.

"Some of them are now in operation.

"But quite obviously the publication of these precautions and plans would be of vital assistance to the communists themselves. For since these plans are mainly directed against traitors, these are none in Canada more anxious to know what these plans are, or who would be helped more by such knowledge than these traitors.

Infant Is Reported As Crash Victim

Croix de la Pigne, France, Nov. 17.— (CP) —A report that a six-month-old baby was among the victims of the "Canadian Pilgrim" air disaster today mystified authorities engaged in recovering and identifying bodies of those killed in Monday night's crash.

The manifest of the plane, which crashed on an Alpine peak while bound home to Canada with Holy Year pilgrims, showed seven Canadian crew members and 51 passengers, most of them Canadians, were aboard.

But last night Eugene Pellissier, member of the first rescue team to reach the crash scene, said there was a 59th person aboard the plane.

A sister of a crash victim, Rev. Romano Mocchuitti, said the unknown passenger was a six-month-old infant, too young to be on the passenger list and travelling without a ticket. Father Mocchuitti, an Italian priest travelling to Ottawa to become secretary at the apostolic delegation there, was one of 14 Roman Catholic priests killed. The others were Canadians.

In Canada, sponsors of the pilgrimage said they were positive none of the pilgrims had children with them.

Meanwhile, Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec, continued his task of identifying the victims brought down from the crash scene to a village chapel.

Twenty-eight bodies have so far been brought down and Archbishop Roy has identified 17.

Earlier reports said 53 bodies had been brought down but this figure was later corrected. It was

Demonstration At The Classon Mill

This picture shows part of the crowd of about 1,500 persons who gathered this morning at the Classon mill to demonstrate in support of striking employees of that company and prevent non-striking workers from going to their jobs. United States Tank Column Fights Its Way Out Of Trap, Rolls Forward Towards Manchurian Frontier

Japanese Polite To Foreigners

By DAVE McINTOSH

Tokyo, Nov. 17.— (CP) —If the Japanese have had to swallow their pride with the white man patrolling their country, they give no sign of it. But at the same time they know the white man is boss.

This realization and their natural politeness makes life in Tokyo comfortable for the foreigner.

In the Marunouchi Hotel, for instance, one gets service unexcelled probably anywhere in the world. The hotel is for Commonwealth forces, and Canadian airlift pilots live there on their 48-hour layover in Tokyo.

The hotel is similar to a Canadian hotel except that wash basins are set low for the shorter Japanese.

The desk clerk speaks excellent English and keeps his composure through a harried day, translating destinations for cab drivers, looking up addresses on maps and generally answering every conceivable question a foreigner might ask in a strange city.

The days starts at 7 a.m. with the ceremonious arrival in the rooms of two maids, one carrying tea, the other bearing cream and sugar.

Service in the dining room is perfect. The food is good—I found the roast beef better than at home—and there is no waiting between courses. The dishes are mostly western, with some Oriental ones now and again.

There are two lounges and a ballroom where drinks are sold until 11 p.m. or midnight. A scotch and soda costs 18 cents, a rum or a beer seven cents.

For room and meals, plus laundry, the cost is $4 a day.

There are at least three official currencies in circulation in the hotel—the Japanese yen, the occupation dollar and the pound sterling.

Seoul, Nov. 17.—(AP)—An American tank column blasted its way through a Red trap in a far north Korean mountain ravine today. Then it rolled northward in a blazing bid to reach the Manchurian border in four days.

Communists opened up on the 17th infantry regiment from the hillsides as the tanks rumbled along a narrow road in northeast Korea. A three-hour battle ended with 125 communists dead on the hills and marine planes firing on the fleeing remnants.

This was about 23 miles south of the Manchurian frontier.

The commander of the column said his force would reach the border early next week and if fired on from Manchuria —

"We will shoot hell out of them."

Elsewhere on the front:

The South Korean Capital division clawed 3,000 to 4,000 yards forward on the extreme northeast sector;

U.S. Marines probed mountains around Changjin reservoir in the centre of the peninsula;

Patrols of the U.S. 24th division roamed unopposed more than six miles north of Pakchon in the northwest.

American troops hunting down guerrillas far behind the lines reported inflicting the biggest death toll of any battle action this week. More than 500 Reds were killed. Red raiders retaliated by setting an entire town, Kapyong, ablaze. More than 8,000 villagers fled.

Along most of the front communists avoided any major engagement. But they were building up forces in the mountains. A spokesman estimated 100,000 Reds are available in the northwest — armies equipped with American artillery captured by Chinese communists from Chiang Kai-Shek's nationalists and now supplied by American-type shells manufactured in Red Manchuria.

Planes, striking out in front of the spearheading advance of the 17th infantry regiment's tank column in the northeast, set ablaze the Red stronghold of Kapsan, the 10th corps announced. Kapsan is the U.S. 7th Division's immediate objective.

The 17th's two-day toll of 370 Reds was topped by anti-guerrilla actions in the rear.

The U.S. 25th Division reported it killed 537 by-passed communists Thursday in battles 50 miles south of the northwestern front.

A Red guerrilla command post was blown up by artillery and an ammunition depot in a cave was captured. Three hundred thousand rounds of mortar and artillery shells were in the cave, 20 miles east of Pyongyang, former North Korean capital.

These actions were in the Pyongyang - Chorwon - Ichon triangle where guerrillas have opened a "second front" patterned on tactics perfected by Chinese and Russian communists.

Just outside this triangle, a small band of torch-bearing guerrillas set fire to the town of Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul, early Friday. Sweeping flames routed 8,000 civilians.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said North Korean Reds, by-passed in the United Nations sweep northward, have been reorganized under a central command. They are carrying on coordinated guerrilla raids to disrupt U.N. supply lines and keep themselves equipped. There are believed to be 10,000 by-passed communists in the triangle.

Intelligence officers were not so sure about the significance of communist strategy on established battle fronts.

Reds fought fiercely around Tokchon, centre of a road network on the right flank of the western front, and on the northeast cost 90 miles south of the Russian border. They staged new attacks in both areas.

Elsewhere they pulled back. But Red build-ups in the north centre mountains posed constant threats.

Canadians Will Study In U.K.

London, Nov. 17.—(Reuters)—A scheme for bringing more Canadian engineering students to Britain was announced yesterday.

Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, said its aim is to build up a greater awareness among Canadian engineers and buyers of Britain's engineering products.

Thirty-eight awards, to be known as "Athlone Fellowships," will be made to Canadian graduates each year for post-graduate training in Britain.

Some have been provisionally allocated to each engineering faculty in Canada for new graduates. Others will be reserved for graduates already employed in industry.

Training facilities will be provided in industrial establishments or academic centres. The awards will cover the cost of travel, maintenance and tuition fees.

Industrial firms and the government will share the cost of the scheme, which will start at the beginning of the 1951-52 academic year.

Competition At Fair Is Improving

Toronto, Nov. 17 —(CP)— The Royal Winter Fair is turning out to be a "real national show," a western Canada cattle man said today.

Charlie Yule, managing director of the Calgary exhibition and stampede, said in an interview that the competition at the Royal, founded in 1922, has been improving steadily from an east-west standpoint.

"And this year is the biggest year for the west in the history of the Royal," he said. The prestige of the eight-day agricultural fair would go up considerably as a result of this year's competitions.

Stars of the show today are horses and sheep. Eastern Canada may sweep the awards but until now the westerners have given them a ding-dong battle.

The west has pretty well cleaned up in beef cattle, while the east has done equally well in dairy classes.

Alberta cattle paced the west's wins in the market division with Killearn Seal II, shown by the University of Alberta, taking the grand championship award for steers. Ed Noad's Hunters Compress II, from Claresholm, Alta.,

Truman Tells Chinese U.S. Will Not Invade Manchuria

Washington, Nov. 17—(AP)—The State Department radio today beamed into communist China President Truman's assurance that the United States has no intention of invading Manchuria, and will help protect China's interests along the Korean border.

Department officials, deeply concerned over a possibility that war will spread beyond Korea, privately expressed hope that communist China's leaders would consider the President's statement, issued at a press conference yesterday.

Truman said a professed belief that the U.N. forces in Korea would carry the war into China was the "pretext" on which the Chinese communists intervened in Korea.

Insofar as the Chinese actually have such fears, the President's statement was designed to reassure them in the hope that they might then withdraw their forces and permit an early peace in Korea.

Normally such a declaration would be transmitted to another government through diplomatic channels. But the United States does not recognize the Red regime at Peiping. Officials said the United States is relying on "Voice of America" broadcasts and on regular international channels of news to reach the Peiping authorities.

The President's statement came a day after State Secretary Dean Acheson and assistant secretary Dean Rusk had offered similar assurances. They also warned that the situation growing out of Chinese intervention in Korea is extremely dangerous.

Acheson and Rusk made it clear that the U.S. does not know for certain what caused the Chinese communists to act as they have or what objectives they seek. If they are trying simply to protect

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Russian threats vie with American promises today as the United Nations Security Council meets to debate the question of Chinese communist intervention in the Korean war.

Russia's Jacob A. Malik charged last night that the United States has been attacking China on land, on the sea and in the air. He threatened to cast the Soviet Union's 47th veto to prevent passage of a Security Council resolution demanding that communist China withdraw troops from Korea. Malik said the United States—not the Peiping communist government —is the aggressor.

American delegate Ernest A. Gross immediately countered these assertions by reading a statement from President Truman stressing American friendship for the people of China and stating that the United States has no intention of invading that country.

Delegates today took a cautious attitude, waiting for the answer to this question: Will all-out Russian diplomatic support encourage Peiping to continue and enlarge its military operations in Korea, or will the American assurances result in a withdrawal behind the Manchurian frontier?

Despite a declaration by Eduador's Antonio Quevedo that the "Security Council cannot simply fold its arms" in the face of Chinese intervention, the majority view seemed to be that, for the moment, a policy of watchful waiting is the most realistic and useful one.

It was learned that not even the United States will press for an immediate vote on the resolution calling on the Chinese to withdrawn from Korea and promising to respect their frontiers.

The United States feels, informed sources said, that every possible resource must be used to get China out of the Korean war peacefully, since the alternative might

Security Control Covers Many Defence Activities

Ottawa, Nov. 17—(CP)—A lot of Canada's defence activities have passed into the twilight or full darkness of secrecy under the impact of Korea and the half-war with Russia.

The theory behind it all is keyed to the natural wish to tell the Russians as little as possible about what is going on in a preparedness program wthout peacetime precedent in this country.

Compared to Russia's own disclosures, a veritable stream of revelations pours out steadily from defence headquarters here through speeches, press releases, statements to parliament and news stories.

But these are among recent developments which show the way the winds of security-consiousness are blowing in an effort to keep vital disclosures as scarce as possible:

Troop movements: the army's special force has been moving to Fort Lewis, Wash., under a security blackout on times, departures and arrivals. Officials say this precaution is observed generally around the world now, that it could be construed as a move against potential sabotage but more as an exercise in such movements which could be valuable as experience if war comes.

Jet engines: it was announced in the U.S. this week that an American jet engine has been built with a device to ward off ice, a major problem for jet propulsion. A year or so ago the National Research Council made no bones about the fact it was working on the same problem. Now, however, the N.R.C. says it's not saying what is going on. This blackout on scientific activities for defence has extended to numerous other projects, despite science's natural aversion to secrecy.

Anti-tank weapons: Defence Minister Claxton recently disclosed that Canada has completed development of two anti-tank projectiles. That's as far as officials are prepared to go. They won't say even broadly what kind they are, whether they are going into production, whether the special force will use them.

The north: for some time, officials say, Canada's northland has been divided into two general security groupings—areas where no unauthorized persons are allowed, areas where the bars are less strict. At some northern bases there is a complete ban against all but military people and their associates.

Internal security: the forces not only co-operate with the R.C.M.P. in trying to weed out any communists who seep in, but their own security arrangements have been put on a virtual wartime basis. Service men are warned to take every precaution to see that papers and documents don't fall into unauthorized hands.

13 Measures Approved At Brief Legislature Session

Quebec, Nov. 17.—(CP)—The Quebec Legislature yesterday concluded a nine-day meeting which brought into effect 13 new government measures.

Most important legislation authorized the government to undertake a three-year, $60,000,000 program of road and bridge building and confirmed a gasoline tax increase from 11 to 13 cents a gallon decreed last week.

Sanction was given yesterday afternoon to the roads bill and bills by which the government will lend the towns of Rimouski and Cabano a total of $1,150,000 for loans to citizens re-building homes destroyed by fire last May.

The brief ceremony of royal assent for the government bill was conducted in the Legislative Council Chamber by Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fauteux.

After the sanction, members of the Legislative Assembly, who had been summoned from the Lower House, returned to their Chamber. Premier Duplessis and George Marler (Lib.—Westmount-St. George), Liberal House leader, agreed on Jan. 24 as the date for resuming the session in the new year.

Premier Duplessis praised government opposition members for the "remarkable celerity" with which the business of the first part of the session was conducted.

He said adjournment yesterday would give him a few days to prepare for a meeting in Ottawa next Thursday of the special federal-provincial constitutional committee of Attorneys-Generals.

This committee meeting will be folowed Dec. 4 by a plenary federal-provincial conference on fiscal problems and resumption of general talks on the constitution.

Only extended debate of the Legislature session occurred on the roads bills. Government spokesmen, headed by the Premier, declared it the government's duty to increase its spending on roads because of Quebec's rapid industrial progress.

The opposition contended that the new gasoline tax places too heavy a load on the province's motorists.

The Legislative Assembly's eight Liberals voted against the roads bill. The Liberal majority in the Legislative Council, provincial Upper House, also spoke against the bill but did not vote against its adoption.

After the Legislative Assembly's adjournment yesterday afternoon, Union Nationale members of both houses met for a closed two-hour party caucus.

As is usual after such party meetings, there was no statement about discussions.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

DON'T GO UP A BLIND ALLEY

By OSWALD JACOBY

In the last previous article I attempted to answer a question as to what discard I would make in a certain extremely tough situation.

The problem developed as follows. Both sides needed 120 and one player melded joker-joker-8-8 right away. The opponents froze the discard pile immediately. Thereupon all four players entered into immediate all out competition for the discard pile.

The side that had melded threw wild cards away with abandon, and threw low cards on the assumption that they were safe. Any high card they had were held. The opponents did likewise but they had reason on their side. The opponents between them held 22 cards, the side that had melded only held 18.

Strangely enough, the partner of the man who had melded was the first to get into real trouble. Eventually, he drew and found that he held four aces, two kings, three queens and three jacks and none of those cards had been discarded.

I recommended throwing an ace in that unfortunate spot but also pointed out that I would never have gotten into that situation.

When my partner melds from his hand and the next player counters by freezing the pack I assume that unless we can get the discard pile fairly soon or meld out fairly soon we will eventually reach a spot where we will be on the defensive. Therefore I attempt to prepare for that either by playing to establish safe discards for the eventual trouble that may arise.

Hence, my first discard after the freeze will be a high card. If I want to try to get the pile I will throw away one of that denomination that I hold most of, intending to throw the rest of that rank later. If I want to play for out I will throw an odd high card.

If my discard gives away the pile then and there the loss is slight. If it goes through I have set the stage to avoid any possibility of landing in the real trouble that this other player did.

As the play develops from then on I will let my partner who has only seven cards decide whether we should fight hard for the pile or play for out. A discard of a wild card by him will be a signal that he wants to fight for the pile. A further meld by him a command that I help him go out.

If he just discards normally, without melding, I will base my decision on what cards I draw. If I acquire two or three wild cards I will decide to play for out.

If I can't add eights to his eight meld for a base there I will put down some new meld in the hope that my partner will be able to make that meld into a base. If he can't help my first meld I will try a second and so on.

Of course there are no guarantees in canasta. It might be that he could not help any of my melds. However, that chance is extremely small.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Like others he came from Vermont University, (1826) going first to Hatley in Stanstead County as academy teacher. He began medical study there under Dr. John Weston, a noted physician of his day in that county. He attended lectures in Quebec and McGill and in 1829 he went to Waterloo where he remained until 1869 at which time he went to Oregon and died there, after a noted career. He was the father of W. G. Parmalee of Ottawa.

Coming before 1850 was Dr. Brigham, whose service was centred in Missisquoi County; Doctors Cheney and Jenks, graduates from Vermont, the former beginning practice in Georgeville, the latter in Barnston, in 1866. Dr. Solon Shurtleff came to Massawippi, then went to Coaticook where his life was spent. About the same time Doctors Powers and Draper came to Eaton Township and began practice together at Eaton Corner, a village with a population of two hundred! They soon left for broader fields of service, Dr. Powers to Waterville and Dr. Draper to Coaticook, where he practiced many years and lived with his daughter, Sarah, both well remembered.

In Marbleton a doctor of early days was Dr. G. W. Nelson, a grandson of the noted Dr. Wolfred Nelson of Rebellion fame. In 1883 Rev. Thomas Shaw Chapman had for visitors William Drummond and Frank Nelson, students at Bishop's University. Their holidays were spent at Silver Lake and at Clear Lake, the home of Captain Charles Weyland. During this visit a lifelong friendship was formed between Rev. Chapman and Dr. Drummond, who for a time practiced at Stornoway prior to going to Montreal. Dr. and Mrs. Drummond were often visitors to their friends in Marbleton, while Mrs. Drummond was the author of "The Grand Old Man of Dudswell." Dr. Eli Ives and Dr. Cooke were also early resident doctors in Dudswell Township, well remembered as men devoted to their profession.

Note: Requests for information relative to our pioneer doctors resulted in more than anticipated, but all greatly appreciated. Because of this we will indulge in more glimpses into the early days, and into the lives of Our Family Doctors who paved the rough road for the medical men of the past half-century.

DON'T GO UP A BLIND ALLEY

By OSWALD JACOBY

celluloid dolls confess that kissing a brawn-and-profile boy means about as much as bussing the wallpaper.

You can't catch Claire doing the department store dummy act when John Wayne or Robert Ryan whisper, "I love you, gal."

She took a deep breath and told me:

"I'm always in love with my leading man when the cameras roll."

No inner voice from the Trevor subconscious mutters, "Come off it, kid, the guy's not your type."

Even if it's somebody like Sidney Greenstreet or Boris Karloff, Claire let me know, she's thinking:

"I love you to pieces."

It's a trick that's tagged her as Miss Smouldering Furnace with a lot of moviegoers.

"That's the secret of the sex appeal they say I have," Claire shrugged. "It's thinking you're in love with the guy on the screen. That way something gets through to the audience."

But what happens when the director yells "Cut"?

Claire looked surprised.

"Why, I'm out of love with my leading man and back in love with my husband."

Claire Checks Chatter

Jane Russell may need a bale of hay and Jennifer Jones may be lost without rocks to slither over, but Claire pays strict attention to the lines they toss her in super-epic movie westerns.

She's always re-writing her dialog.

"Somebody has to," she winced. "'Stage Coach' was a cinch. Nobody did much talking in that except Thomas Mitchell. But some of the others! Ugh! Elsie Dinsmore lines for the heroine. I fight for natural lines."

More than once, Claire's allergy to scripts that give off a peculiar attar of skunk and dialog that even Lassie would want to bury in the backyard, has kept her off the screen for long stretches.

Nowadays she thinks twice before turning down a role.

"You can't do it. An actress can't afford to be off the screen for a long time. Not if she wants to stay in the business."

Make a smeller and a good one comes along, she's found out.

After bouncing back to the movie lots in "The Lucky Stiff" following a long absence, she said "Oh, that terrible picture." Then she landed "Key Largo" and won an Oscar for her performance.

Her agent sends her flowers when she latches on to a good role.

When she reported for work in "The Best of the Bad Men," she got a ton of posies from him with a card that read:

"To the best of the bad women."

Claire laughed:

"I got him on the phone and said, 'Is this the best of the bad agents?'"

Lowdown On Lupino Deal

People are always asking her for the absolute lowdown on what really happened when she and Ida Lupino got together as star and director in "Mother of a Champion"—a saga about fierce mamas that's lately been retitled, "The Money Game."

Claire keeps hearing that she and Ida acted like a couple of lady tigers in a powder-room brawl.

"Story disagreements, but no fights," she tells it. "Ida knows more about directing than a lot of men I've worked with."

But it didn't look like Claire and Ida were going to have a divine waltz when the picture started, Trevor admitted.

"Ida is intense and emotional," she said. "I don't react to that type of person. In the test for the picture, she kept draping me all over the set. I couldn't give. I balked. I went home and told my husband that Ida was going to drive me crazy with all the dramatic talk."

Claire isn't the kind of star who makes voice recordings and swoons over the playback. She sometimes wishes the Trevor voice would get lost.

Moviegoers like the long drawn-out and slightly nasal tones, but Claire told me:

"I hate my voice. It sounds like I'm weeping all the time. The first time I really heard myself was at a preview of 'Dead End.' I came out screaming that the sound man had ruined me."

She has no love either for the legend that beneath every tough doll she plays beats a heart of gold.

"I murdered Richard Carlson at canasta the other night," she giggled. "He kept saying that was no way for a gal with a heart of gold to act."

Desire Baron, "Grand Old Man" Of Lennoxville, Deplores Noisy Age

By ARNOLD BARON

When Louis Desire Baron, of Lennoxville, marked the anniversary of his birth yesterday among his callers was J. F. Wark who was 90 years of age last June.

"There's a youngster downstairs to see you," laughed Mr. Baron's niece, Mrs. Ferdinand Dube, in referring to Mr. Wark's visit.

Desire Baron is now one day over 99 years of age!

Snowy-haired, white-moustached Mr. Baron now spends all of his time in his bedroom of the house at 15 Depot Street, almost diagonally across from the Lennoxville Railway station, where he has lived for the past five years with his niece, his grandniece, Miss Yvonne Dube, and his grandnephew, Roland Dube.

Born in St. Croix, he was working in the Capelton mines by the time he was sixteen. He was also employed later on the old Canadian part of the Boston and Maine Railway which is now the Quebec Central.

Mr. Baron then bought a farm at Maple Leaf, a settlement about seven miles from Sawyerville. He built his own home by chopping down some of the neighboring trees.

He remembers when the Indians were part of the scene about Bishop's College, friendly Indians, although Mr. Baron referred to them as "les sauvages," the somewhat more terrifying French equivalent.

This veteran of the Eastern Townships worked the farm for 35 years and later was employed by the Experimental Station at Lennoxville until his retirement—that was almost 30 years ago.

The old gentlemen now contents himself by reading a little and waving to passing friends through his window. He reads the newspapers and religious books. When he was more active, Mr. Baron was a very devout man and would never miss a mass at St. Anthony's Church.

His reading, however, is limited as his old glasses are no longer strong enough and he refuses to get them changed.

Another source of amusement is his radio. He always listens to Seraphim, the "hero" of "Un Homme et Son Peche."

"People are not so quiet today," Mr. Baron mused in a voice tired by receiving so many visitors, 'they don't seem to care about their neighbors as much as they did in my time." He deplored the dishonesty of modern times and his niece praised her uncle for the honest character that he has always maintained.

But despite his poor view of modern life, Mr. Baron got along real well with this reporter, whose name, by chance is also Baron. This similarity in surnames seemed to delight Mr. Baron, who is 73 years older than his interviewer, and a smile filled his weary blue eyes.

Perhaps the oldest resident of Lennoxville, Mr. Baron felt "well enough" yesterday. He has two sons, Desire of Portsmouth, N.H., and Cyprien of Laconia, also in New Hampshire. His sons have a total of 15 children but how many great-grandchildren there are is unknown, at least to Mr. Baron of Lennoxville. His wife died some years ago.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

TANKS HELPLESS WITHOUT PACKING

The terrifying tanks that roar into battle spitting fire from every angle would be helpless without efficient packings. Nor could planes, ships, trains or transports operate. For practically every machine that moves requires the packings that prevent leakages of steam, air, gasoline, oil, water or other liquids.

An infinite variety of packings and gaskets are required to meet the industrial demands of the modern machine age. And backed with three-quarters of a century's experience, Johns-Manville produces efficient packings and gaskets for every purpose.

Johns-Manville research is always at industry's service. If you require assistance with any packing problem, write Johns-Manville — Sun Life Bldg., Montreal — or see your J-M distributor.

Melbourne Church Changes Hour For Services

Melbourne, Nov. 17—Two new officers were added to the Board of the French Protestant Church of the Eastern Townships at their first annual meeting, held Sunday following the evening church service.

They were Gerald Fortier, of Melbourne, and G. O. Malboeuf, of Kingsbury. The remaining officers were unanimously re-elected. Rev. J. A. Smith, the minister, presided. Favorable and encouraging reports were given by each society. Mrs. Lucien Perron volunteered to take charge of the Kindergarten Sunday School class.

The members voted to advance the hour of Sunday services to two o'clock in the afternoon, beginning next Sunday. This is desirable in order to accommodate worshippers coming from a distance.

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Smith and Andre were in Montreal last week to meet Rev. and Mrs. Andre Poulain and their daughter, Evelyne who arrived from Dieppe, France. Rev. Mr. Poulain, has been called to take charge of St. Luc Church, Montreal, which Rev. Mr. Smith organized and ministered unto for 15 years and Rev. Mr. Smith was also present at Sunday morning service to introduce the congregation to their new minister and present good wishes for the future of this church.

Municipal police constable Norman Lepage investigated the accident.

Mansonville Farm Forum Will Hold A Box Social

Mansonville Farm Forum will hold a box party in the Town Hall Monday night. Proceeds will go to the Union Church at Dunkin.

At the last meeting the Forum listened to and discussed the broadcast, "Forests, Slash or Save?"

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Korman with 28 members in attendance. A pleasant social time followed, which included music and dancing.

Brome District Farm Forum Association Meets

Brome, Nov. 17. — The Brome District Farm Forum Association met Wednesday night at the home of Archie Ladd, Brome, to discuss finances, the spring rally, the position of Farm Forum as a pressure group, Adult Education and the formation of a committee to assist old Forums which were in difficulty and to organize new ones.

Thirty-two Forum members discussed the Fall Rally and decided on means to raise the remainder of the county allotment. The membership fee stays at $1.50 a family, the registration fee of $1 a group to the District Association remains. The Brome District share of the Provincial expenses is $375 half of which has been raised through the rally and the sale of tickets. It was decided to sponsor two old time dances and a committee of five elected to complete the arrangements. It is believed if all those interested support this effort to the best of their ability the cost will remain at $1.50 a family.

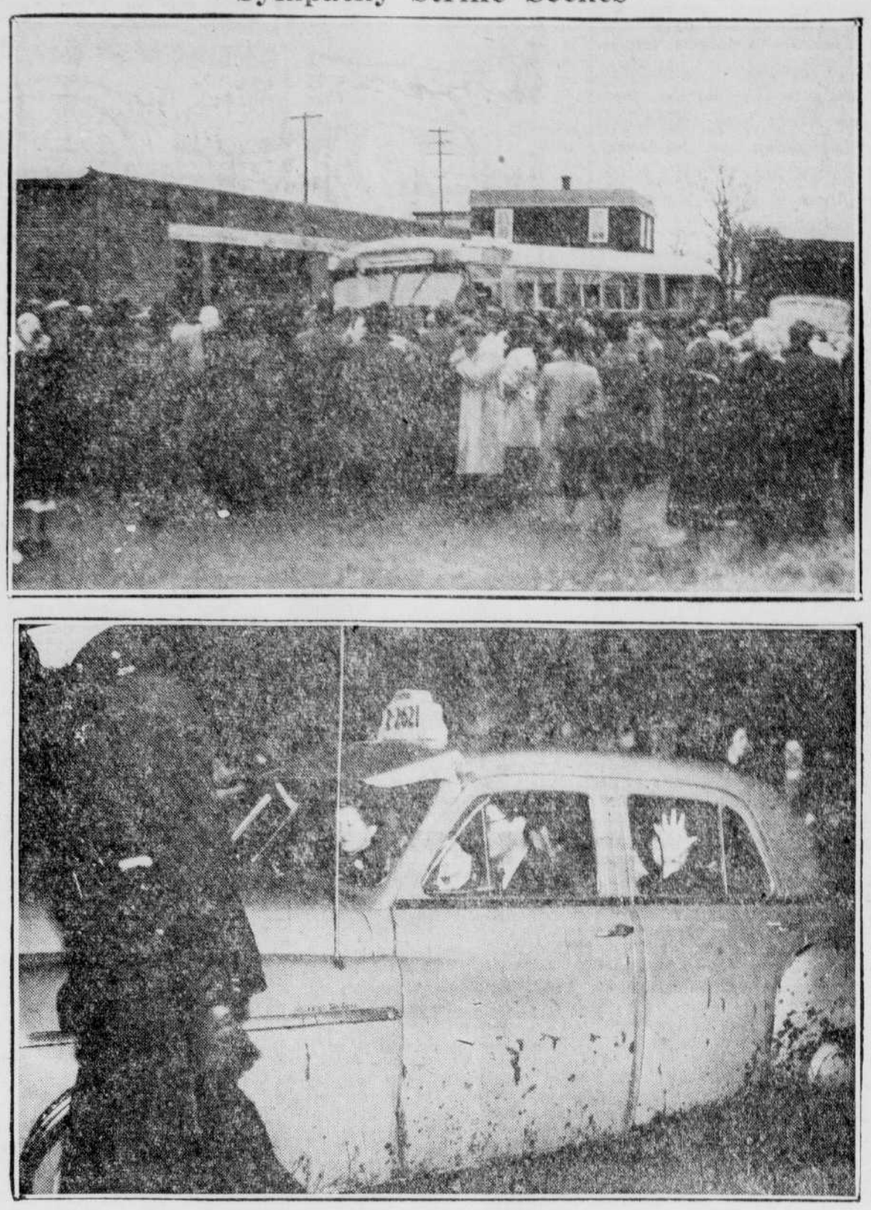

Although it is too early to make detailed plans for the Spring Rally an effort is being made to have Dr. H. H. Hannam or Dr. E. C. Hope, of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, as the speaker.

The question of how far the Quebec Farm Forum Association could go as a pressure group, was raised. It was pointed out the groups could continue as they had in the past as long as they do not involve the National Office or the C.B.C. In other provinces Farm Forum is a study group but in Quebec it is both study and action group.

The position of the field secretary for the Eastern Townships Committee of Adult Education in relation to Farm Forums was raised and it seems one of the services which would be of value is an improved film service.

To assist Forums which need assistance and to help in the organization of new groups a committee of four was formed. These men, D. Hastings, G. Shufelt, F. A. Smith and S. Hardaker, have worked with Forums for quite some time and are familiar with the trouble and organizational difficulties which arise in such group work. It is hoped both old Forums and new groups which are thinking of organizing will not hesitate to ask for the services of this committee.

Sympathy Strike Scenes

A group of local workers who demonstrated today in support of Classon Mill employees still on strike is shown in the top picture surrounding a bus which brought non-strikers to work. The people in the bus were not allowed to get out. Other non-strikers are shown in a taxi in the lower picture. This taxi was roughed up and a door was torn off, although none of the non-strikers suffered any physical injury. (Gerry Lemay photos)

Entry To Silk Products 25-Year Club Accompanied By Tangible "Thank You"

Four new members of the Quarter Century Club of Canadian Silk Products Limited, Orient Hosiery Limited, were given a tangible "thank you" for good and long service, Wednesday night, at their annual dinner held at Hillcrest Lodge.

The new members were each presented with a check for $300, in recognition of their loyalty and service to the firm whose employ they entered 25 years ago.

Marjorie D. Gordon, Corinne Lainesse, Rudolph Gagne, and Raoul Metivier are the new members and they were extended a warm welcome by the Company president, A. A. Munster, and by the president of the Quarter Century Club, Edward W. Bryant.

Entry of this quartet to Club membership almost doubles the total of those who have worked with the firm for two and one half decades.

The original and charter members are: Mr. Bryant, Mr. Munster, Samuel Aube, Leslie C. Hudd and Ambrose T. Aston.

The second annual meeting was held, following the dinner, at which the election of officers was confirmed and tentative details outlined in connection with the organization, charter and by-laws. It was learned that next year 14 new members would be eligible for the 25-year club and at the 1953 dinner a total of 40 is anticipated.

Eight members of the club were present at the dinner, the ninth, unfortunately was ill. The members had a delightful social and business get-together.

At The Blood Clinic

Blood Clinic Does Well But Many Donors Still Needed For Objective

Donations to the Red Cross Society's blood clinic are still running well ahead of those of last spring but an extra-large final day is needed today if the objective of 2,000 bottles from this section of the Eastern Townships is to be reached, Red Cross officials stated this morning.

Yesterday 287 bottles of blood were given at the clinic, being held in the Sacred Heart School, 49 Gillespie Street. This added to the 237 given the previous day and 163 at Lennoxville brought total to 687.

The three-day Sherbrooke clinic ends tonight and there will be a further three days in surrounding communities next week. The objective of 2,000 was set to cover all these communities.

In the last six months Sherbrooke hospitals, which get their blood from the Red Cross for free distribution to those who need it, have used 1,700 bottles. That is the very minimum which must be raised in the current campaign if needs of the next three months are to be met.

This afternoon the clinic will operate from two to five o'clock and it will re-open tonight at seven o'clock. Although a nine o'clock closing hour was set, the clinic will remain open tonight as long as there are any donors.

Yesterday 140 persons gave blood in the afternoon and another 147 turned up in the evening. The nurses and helpers scarcely had a moment's let-up and at one period last night some 50 persons were lined up waiting to give their blood.

Col. Emile Levesque, president of the local Red Cross branch, and other Red Cross officials all voiced their sincere appreciation of the support given the clinic here and in Lennoxville and expressed the hope that this will be an even better day.

Local Merchants Name Officers

The Association of Retail Merchants in Sherbrooke has formed sections for the various branches of commerce represented in the Association and unanimously elected Armand de Leseleuc, of C. O. Saint Jean Limited, as president of the provisional committee. Miss Marian Cassar, manager of Reitman's, was appointed secretary.

Antonio Begin, president of the Association, was in the chair for the meeting held at the LaSalle Hotel, and there were representatives from stores featuring both Ladies' and Men's Wear.

Mr. de Leseleuc thanked the members for their confidence in him and promised to devote himself wholeheartedly to the interests of the association. He asked all the retailers in women's wear to join the section and thus form a complete and solid organization. Because of a lack of solidarity in the past, he said, it has been impossible to reach a definite conclusion on many problems facing the retailer, such as closing hours during the summer season and many other similar problems.

Joseph Willemann, representing the retail merchants of the the Eastern Townships, gave an outline of the activities of the Association throughout the Dominion. He invited all the local retail merchants to attend the general meeting held in the Club Social this week and said that he would be pleased to answer any questions concerning the Association or any other information which might be required.

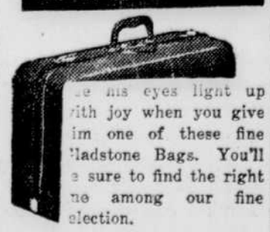

Gerard Pelletier, general secretary of the Association in Sherbrooke, was also present at the meeting.

EGYPT'S DEMANDS

Egypt's demand that Britain clear out of the Suez Canal zone and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan creates a tense situation in one of the world's danger spots.

Yesterday's speech by King Farouk of Egypt was barely finished when Farouk got his answer from London in a blunt rejection by a spokesman for the foreign office who said Britain's defence contracts with Egypt will continue.

He added:

"The defence of the Middle East is an issue which directly affects the peace and safety of many countries."

That states a great truth in a few words. The Middle East is one of the world's most important theatres strategically. It is so important that it could easily become the whelping ground of a third world war.

This area, comprising many countries, is the great land bridge linking Europe, Asia and Africa. And it is cut by the man-made Suez Canal which provides the only direct highway between the west and the Far East. As concerns Britain, it is her life-line to her vast interests in the distant Orient.

Britain and Egypt have been operating under a 20-year treaty signed in 1936. Britain has maintained armed forces in the canal zone. The rich Anglo-Egyptian Sudan has been operated as a condominium, that is, two-country supervision. This is a situation which long has irked Egypt, who claims the Sudan is her territory.

Behind this latest Egyptian thrust is a long history of fierce resentment against what the land of the Nile regards as British intrusion.

Yesterday's speech from the throne declared that "the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty has lost its legality as a basis of Anglo-Egyptian relations." The speech added that "there is no alternative than to decide its cancellation."

Whether this somewhat-ambiguous language means that Egypt actually has disavowed the treaty remains to be seen. Independent observers figure the King's statement isn't an outright cancellation of the pact, but rather is a threat to cancel it if Britain doesn't meet Egypt's demands regarding evacuation of troops and withdrawal from the Sudan.

In any event, it seems clear that the Cairo government is calling for a showdown with London.

IMMIGRATION

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce believes that world political conditions, our own potential but undeveloped natural resources and our strategic place in world affairs, give Canada both an opportunity and responsibility in the matter of immigration.

Pointing up the fact that Canadian industry has undergone a decade of unprecedented expansion and diversification, the Chamber refers in a memorandum to the need for stepping up the tempo of Canada's preparedness for defence and, as a result, there are many opportunities for both heavy labour and skilled artisans in the tremendous construction program now underway.

"We are now in the midst of the greatest era of growth since Confederation," states the memorandum. Apart from industrial expansion, there is a need for workers to develop our natural resources and the statement suggests that there is still room for new agricultural settlement. Calling Canada "the new Belgium of a divided world", the memorandum states that the 14 million people who occupy our half continent are far less than what we need to preserve our national security now and in the future.

Other arguments adduced to support the Chamber's policy are that Canada's governmental, communication and transportation systems as well as other servicing facilities were developed for a much greater population than we have today, and, similarly, the burden of taxation which has grown from our efforts in two world wars and from the cost of various social measures enacted by Parliament, can only be lowered on a per capita basis if there are more people. Immigration will mean greater diversification and efficiency in production and greater domestic consumption. "Greater stability, higher efficiency, more production and greater consumption, almost always have been our experience in the past when there was a heavy inflow of immigrants", states the memorandum.

Other points included in the release are the composition of the population, emigration and the fact that medical and political screening must be given to prospective immigrants.

Reference is made to the fact that both Australia and South Africa have emphasized a strong immigration policy and that every effort must be made not only to invite immigrants but to seek them in Europe by means of a well-planned campaign.

RUSSIA, NOT U. S., SHOULD PAY FOR RECONSTRUCTION IN KOREA

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Korean reconstruction aid is running into a nice foul-up in the United Nations. It is being discovered—apparently for the first time—that this job is going to cost a little money. And the glorious allies are shunning the bill like the plague.

What should happen here, is that the bill for all Korean relief and rehabilitation should be handed to Soviet Russia. They started this thing. Let them foot the bill, and let the United Nations assess the damages. They could never collect. But it would be a good counter-propaganda trick to have Ambassador Warren Austin get up someday at a UN meeting and present a detailed statement to Vishinsky & Malik.

Since diplomats are diplomats, however, this will never be done. Instead, the world now has the spectacle of the Russian representatives sitting in on committee and Economic and Social Council meetings where Korean recovery is being discussed, dotting i's, crossing t's and shifting commas about in such manner that they will later be able to get out of paying one ragged ruble.

UNCLE SAM WILL FOOT MOST OF THE BILL, AS USUAL

Official chatter around Washington is that the United States will be asked—or will volunteer—to pick up the check for about 70 per cent of whatever it will cost to put Korea back on its feet. It is the job of collecting the other 30 per cent that will cause the headaches.

First estimates on what Korean reconstruction would cost were put together by the Army general staff and the Marshall Plan organization in Korea. These figures were taken to Wake Island and given to President Truman by General MacArthur.

Estimates were made for something like a five-year plan. But the cost was found to be so high that the total never has been released. South Korean government estimates have put the total need at $2 billion. Whatever the figure, constant effort has been made to get it down to manageable proportions.

South Korean requirements are fairly well known in some categories. The number of destroyed railway and highway bridges, for instance, and the cost of replacing some bombed-out factories. Nearly 149,000 out of 150,000 looms were destroyed, and 3,200 out of 4,500 spindles.

Destruction of farm livestock can only be guessed at, says Dr. Edgar A. J. Johnson, Acting Chief of the Marshall Plan mission to Korea, who recently returned to Washington from Seoul. Another major uncertainty is the amount of loot taken from warehouses by the communists. And requirements for North Korea still have to be surveyed.

At Lake Success, in order to make the figures look smaller, an effort was made to get up a budget for a shorter period of time. For the first 18 months, it has been thought that $350 million might get the job started.

Since the U. S. Army and the Marshall Plan will spend at least $100 million on Korean rehabilitation in the next few months, this sum was subtracted from the 18-month estimate to give a balance of $250 million that the United Nations might be asked to contribute for the calendar year 1951 or slightly beyond.

OTHER NATIONS EVEN BALK AT LOWER FIGURE

Opposition to approving even this sum has come from two sources. First from the smaller countries who fear that Korea would be given too big an advantage over them by such modernization. Second from the bigger countries who don't want to spend anything at all.

But within a few days or weeks, the UN Economic and Social Council resolution on Korean relief will make its way through the various political committees and finally come up for a vote before the full General Assembly. How much the resolution will be amended is anybody's guess.

Then will come the longer, slower process of trying to collect the money to pay for whatever aid is voted, after making long and detailed surveys of what's needed and reporting back to UN. It will be another UNRRA type operation.

If the United States contributes any more money through the United Nations, Congress will have to approve the outlay first.

PREVENT ACCIDENTS BY EDUCATING THE PUBLIC

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

An official of the United States National Safety Commission recently said in an address that one out of every three children on the continent now under five years of age would be the victim of a fatal accident before reaching 21 years of age, if the present accident rate is maintained.

There is only one answer to this statement, and that is that by some means the accident rate must be checked. At the present moment it is rising. Despite widespread propaganda, depite restrictive legislation, despite improved motor car efficiency, and despite warning after warning, the terrific toll of life and limb on the highway increases.

Education of motorists appears to be the only solution. Coercive measures serve a certain purpose, but until the idea is firmly rooted in the mind of every driver that he is in charge of a potentially death-dealing machine, there can be little hope of reduction in accident totals.

The official made another striking statement, and one in which all interested in the improvement of traffic safety might take to heart. He said that 10 per cent of the drivers are responsible for all the traffic accidents; that such accidents are a problem of human behavior.

After a licence has been cancelled twice, reissue should be forbidden. Only by such method can the appalling picture for the future, painted by safety authorities, be prevented.

THE IGNITION KEY

Glimpses Into The Past

By BERTHA WESTON PRICE

OUR PIONEER DOCTORS

There is evident today an increased interest in certain people who while making history were helping the pioneers in their gigantic task of building a new homeland. Among them were the physicians, young men of adventure, good education, and vision of the future. With their medical degrees won in American colleges they came with or soon after the first settlers in the Eastern Townships. Unfortunately there is little to learn of their experiences.

Quite recently there appeared a most interesting article in the Montreal Gazette covering in part the story of "Our Early Doctors," the writer acknowledging that the subject was so extensive that only a few of the many could be mentioned. Even in those days the Eastern Townships was a big country. Added to that it was found that many doctors were elusive as to personal information relative to their work. Thus it was that many medical men spent some of the best years of their lives in the simple practices of the country doctor, then passed on, leaving the field for those who would come after. We of today may do well to honor them as makers of history.

When reading the above mentioned article the desire came to glimpse into the misty past and find others of whom it may be said: Their works live after them. The settler came with his pioneer equipment, his family, his knowledge of farming and building; the pioneer physician came with his meagre medical equipment and knowledge, eager to fight for lives and relief from sufferings. And so the army came; doctors and surgeons joined the trek across and beyond the frontier, then later they came from across the seas to join the first Canadian army of medical men.

Doctors were scarce at the begining of 1800; the poor settlers and sparsely settled districts could not support them, so many of the first comers taught school as the clergy did, also tilled a few acres of land. One of the first comers was Dr. Stephen Sewell Foster from Vermont in 1822 with a party of settlers. He began his practice in Frost Village, Shefford County, while living on his own farm. He was licensed to medical practice by the Vermont Medical Society, but he attended lectures at McGill and Quebec for some time. He was the only physician in a radius of forty miles extending from Yamaska Mountain to Missisquoi Bay and east to Stanstead, Sherbrooke and Melbourne, travelling by log canoe on Lake Memphremagog and along blazed trails on foot or snowshoes. It is said of him that he never refused a call to service. The name Foster is closely linked with E. T. history; appointed surgeon to Col. Jones' battalion of militia about 1825; joint coroner of the district for many years, and justice of the peace and commissioner of trials of small cases when there was no other court in the E. T., Dr. Foster earned the appointment of Governor of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of this province on its formation 1841. It has been written of him: "His gentleness in the sick room endeared him to the people he faithfully served and by whom he was lovingly called the 'Old Doctor'."

Another Old Doctor

A few years later, in 1832, came Dr. Moses French Colby from New Hampshire, a graduate of Dartmouth College (1821). He was appointed of the local militia at Georgeville where he began practice and served during the Rebellion of 1836-37, then in 1837 was elected Member for Stanstead. Here again is evidence that our early doctors were interested in politics as well as educational matters. The name Colby ranks high in the history of the E. T. as pioneers in a new country.

A young man named Webber came to Stanstead the same year and became collector of customs, then he decided to study medicine and apprenticed himself to Dr. Colby. Soon after he went to Richmond, at that time a centre for immigrants to the Townships and known as the terminus of the Craig Road. Of him we read: "There was hardly a farmhouse in that large area in which he had not at some time ministered to the sick . . . he was dignified, rough, but kindly." Dr. Webber took a prominent part in the founding of St. Francis College; taught mathematics and chemistry and was termed a classical scholar to the end of his days.

In the historical book "Academy Days in Old Missisquoi" we read that Dr. Rotus Parmalee was "one of the best known and best pioneers of the E. T. by reason of his early years of service as acad-

The Record Short Story

Picture For Gran

By NORAH SMARIDGE

At three-thirty Linda turned into Lawson's, the photographer's on Market Street, Nancy toddling at her side. Ted and Joanie were to meet her here, from school. And Paul—Linda winced—Paul was leaving the office early to meet them.

Paul had made the appointment himself, in spite of the amusement with which he had read Gran's letter yesterday. "Mother's snooting the offer of television for her birthday," he had said. "She wants a nice, big, old-time family picture." He had smiled at Joanie; she was hanging on his words, her eyes wide with love of him. "What d'you say, honey?—think we'll be pretty, all duded up in a silver frame on Gran's mantel?" To Linda, later, he had added, "Corny, these family pictures — but we can't refuse, can we?"

"Of course not," Linda's throat went dry. But 'corny' isn't the word, she had thought. The word is "ironic." It would be a grim joke, sitting for a family picture when you knew that you were going to leave Paul in a few weeks, break up the family.

Paul didn't know yet; he didn't dream she'd heard about Elise Bacon. Didn't suspect that Linda was at the end of her tether. She had had all she could take of Paul's philandering, his humiliating little infidelities.

Her mother-in-law (oh, poor darling Gran!) would be heart-broken when she heard—but she wouldn't blame Linda. Because she knew her son, had even warned Linda before the wedding. "You've got courage, Linda—and you'll need it. Paul's like his father, too attractive for his own good. Women will never leave him alone — and he won't always be able to resist." Her eyes had darkened with hurtful memories. "Oh, Paul loves you, Linda. He won't mean to hurt you. But he will, my dear, over and over . . ."

Well, her love has taken a long time to die, Linda thought bleakly. Even now, she dare not look too closely into her heart—or visualize a life without Paul. But she had to consider the children. Nancy was a baby still, but Ted was shooting up, growing knowledgeable. And Joanie—sweet, sensitive little Joanie—simply idolized her father. She mustn't be disillusioned.

Linda had made her decision two days ago, when her friend Muriel had telephoned her. "There may be nothing in it, Linda — but I thought I'd better tell you before anyone else does. Elise Bacon's back, with a divorce. And—well, she's been seen about with Paul . . ."

Linda had put down the receiver, cold with shock. And with heart-rending disappointment. Lately she had been sure that her battle was over, that Paul had settled down at last, put his follies behind him. For months now he had been a devoted husband and father—and no one could be more winning, more wholly lovable. Only last week-end he had taken Ted on a fishing expedition, helped Joanie build a bird-house, played Three Bears with Nancy till she was hysterical with glee. Linda had felt happier, more secure than in years.

And now—Elise Bacon.

She had to put an end to it. Linda reached her decision that night. In two weeks time, Paul had to make a business trip to Chicago. In his absence, she would take the children to her father's—the Danbury farm was big enough for them all, thank heavens. From there she would write to Paul that she had left him for good. She would write to Gran, too—poor, sweet Gran.

Ted was already kicking his heels in the reception room when Linda and Nancy reached the photographer's. "Can't we make it snappy, Mom?" His blue eyes implored her. "The fellows are having a match at four."

"As snappy as possible, without looking like gargoyles," Linda smiled. Adding, because he needed occupying, "Take a look outside—see if Joanie's on the way."

He was back in a few minutes—but with Paul not Joanie. And Linda had to steel herself against the thrill of pride which she always felt when she saw them together. Ted was Paul in miniature—the same fine physique, the same flashing smile, the same vitality and eagerness for life.

"Hello darling." Paul kissed Linda, lightly He picked Nancy up and hugged her till she squealed. "Let's get the agony over—where's Joanie?"

"All ready?" Mr. Lawson came out of the inner room. "If you'll come this way——"

"We're waiting for my daughter," Linda began—and stopped as the street door opened. Joanie half-walked, half-slid into the room. But such a Joanie! Her dress torn at the hem, her face smudged.

"I fell—I'm sorry I'm late, Mother." She was on the verge of tears. "I—I was running." Oddly enough, she seemed to shrink from their questions, from Linda's concern. Embarrassed, probably, by the receptionist running with safety pins, and the visibly impatient photographer. It was Paul, finally, who brought a smile to her pale little face. "Okay now, honey?" He winked at her. "Or do you need a cigarette to steady your nerves?"

The next few minutes went smoothly enough. Ted permitted himself to be posed in a manly attitude. Nancy, sweet and sleepy, settled amicably on Linda's lap. Joanie leaned against Paul, and he put his arm around her, drawing her against him.

The photographer took three shots, and pronounced himself satisfied. "Very nice—you make a fine group." He came out from behind his camera. "That's all, thank you."

It was then, as they all relaxed, that Joanie slid quietly to the ground, crumpling into a little pool at Paul's feet. "Joanie," Linda gasped. She dumped Nancy on a chair. "Joanie darling—"

"She's fainted — stand back," Paul said. "Give her air — and somebody get some water."

It seemed ages before Joanie's lashes fluttered and she opened her eyes. "Oh—" she said. "I—I didn't spoil the picture, though." Her mouth trembled. "I—my arm hurts, Mummy—"

Paul took command then, lifting her gently into his arms. "I'll get her to Doctor Walsh. Call a cab, will you, Mr. Lawson? And Linda—you'd better get Nancy home. "I'll phone you from the doctor's."

There was a miserable interval until he telephoned. Giving Nancy her supper, trying to reassure Ted, Linda could think of nothing but that pathetic little figure crumpling on to the floor. Poor little Joanie—only worried because she might spoil the picture!

Paul's report, when he phoned, was encouraging. "No bones broken, darling—but she gave her arm a nasty sprain when she fell. Incidentally," his voice was grim suddenly, "there's more to that story than she told us at Lawson's."

A little later a taxi drew up, and Paul and Joanie—a pale but important Joanie with her arm strapped up—came up the path. "Doctor Walsh prescribes bed," Paul said. "He'll drop in tomorrow. Meantime," he winked at Joanie, "fed her on chicken soup and ice-cream, I guess—and get her dolled up in one of those bed-jackets with mink on it. Pink mink."

"Daddy's so silly," Joanie said, delighted. "I'm not really ill, Mother, not like pneumonia." But she went meekly enough, smuggling up to Linda as she kissed her good-night and tucked her in.

"Joanie's got what it takes, Linda," Paul said, as Linda returned to the living room. "Guts—like her mother Can you beat it? — she just didn't want to get us all worried and excited before the photograph." His face darkened; there was a white line 'round his mouth. "She didn't just tumble, Lin—it was a car. Came 'round the corner at top speed, just as Joanie was crossing. She only just saved herself—flung herself down." He went on slowly, deliberately. "Elise Bacon's car. If ever I get my hands on that woman . . ."

"Elise Bacon's—" Linda drew in her breath.

"Nobody else in town has a bright yellow convertible — or drives like a bat out of hell in a little place like Elmwood, swarming with kids." Then Paul said a strange thing. "It's ironic, though, Linda— because maybe I drove her to it this time. She was mad clear through when she left me—"

Linda swallowed hard. "You mean you were with her—today—"

"She picked me up at the station," Paul said wearily. "She hasn't given me a minute's peace since she got back. Always running into me. Dropping into the office on phony business. You know, Linda. Till today I got exasperated and gave it to her straight. Told her to kep away from me." There was the ghost of a smile in his eyes. "Not very gallant, perhaps—but she asked for it. I made it clear she'd get nowhere. Told her I'm settled down—and perfectly satisfied with my wife and kids." Suddenly, faced by Linda's dazed silence, he added urgently, "I am, you know. I've proved it lately, haven't I, Linda?"

There was something vulnerable about him at that moment. Something young and anxious, something that needed reassurance.

Suddenly Linda laughed. But gently. She took his face between her hands, as she would Ted's. Inside her slow, warm happiness bubbled up.

"Yes, darling," she said softly. "I think—I believe you've proved it, as last."

USE BOARD ENTRIES TO BEST ADVANTAGE

Every experienced player is familiar with the problem of not being able to get to dummy quite as often as necessary. In such hands it is all the more important to use every entry to dummy to best advantage. Equally, it is important for the defenders, in such hands, to steer declarer away from the right line of play. Today's hand shows how this sort of thing can be done by a wily defender.

West opened the deuce of hearts, the jack was finessed from dummy, and East won with the ace. East thought long and anxiously about his return and finally hit upon the seven of diamonds (the best choice).

South played low, and West won with the queen of diamonds. West returned a diamond, dummy played low, East played the ten, and South won with the ace. Now, of course, South had to get over to dummy with a trump to discard his losing diamond on the king of hearts. When he did so, West naturally played the jack of spades on the trump that South led to dummy's king.

Declarer discarded his losing diamond on the king of hearts, as planned, and wondered what to do next. If the jack of spades were an "honest" card, it was vital to return a trump and finesse the nine. If West were false-carding with the jack-ten, South had to rely on the club finesse.

After a brief huddle, he led the ten of clubs from dummy and let it ride for a finesse. West couldn't be sure what the situation was, but he could make a pretty shrewd guess. He therefore played a low club on dummy's ten—without the slightest telltale hestitation.

This play steered declarer in the wrong direction. The club finesse had succeeded. Surely, the right play was to repeat the club finesse rather than try a trump finesse that might not even be necessary.

Of course West won the second round of clubs. He then led a third club, permitting his partner to ruff. This set the contract at once.

If West had won the first round of clubs, declarer would have made his contract. Regardless of West's return, South could get to dummy with the queen of clubs in order to take the trump finesse.

Ezzard Charles Must Shave Off Moustache

Cincinnati, Nov. 17 —(AP)— Ezzard Charles, world's heavyweight boxing champion, must shave off his moustache before fighting Nick Baron of Syracuse, N. Y., in a title bout here Nov. 28.

The City Boxing Commission so ruled yesterday. Charles and the boys who boss the sport here have been fussing over the question for days. Charles is real proud of the thing.

"This rule applies not only to the champion, but to all boxers who fight in Cincinnati rings," Paul Cain, Commission chairman, announced. "The rules say the fighter must be clean shaven, and the examining physician for the commission has recommended that clean shaven means without any hirsute adornment whatsoever."

Tod Sloan of Toronto and Gordie Howe of Detroit each picked up a goal to bring their totals to 14 and move into a third-place tie with Ted Kennedy of Maple Leaf, leaving Montreal's Maurice Richard in next position with 13 points. Richard is top scorer with nine goals. In seventh place is Sid Smith of the leafs with 12 points.

Williams To Play In Games, Says O'Neill

Cincinnati, Nov. 17—(AP)—Ted Williams, temperamental outfielder of Boston Red Sox, will play in spring training games as long as he is able, Steve O'Neill, his manager, declared here yesterday.

Williams, upon his arrival in Miami Wednesday for a bit of fishing, told reporters he might not play in any exhibition games and would "be in complete command of my training next spring."

O'Neill, in Cincinnati for the annual baseball draft, said he does not anticipate any trouble with the American League slugging star, but told a reporter:

"Williams will play in spring training games as long as he is 100 per cent physically fit. I do not anticipate any trouble with him, however. He will want to play. He always does."

Noor-Hill Prince Race Meeting Is Called Off

Inglewood, Calif., Nov. 17—(AP) — Prospects of renewed rivalry between Noor and Hill Prince in the $35,000 Thanksgiving Day Handicap at Hollywood Park were ended yesterday when Noor was declared out of the race.

Trainer Burley Parke indicated he is saving Irish-bred Noor for the $100,000 Gold Cup at Hollywood on Dec. 9.

Hill Prince was handed high weight of 128 pounds, a jump of 11 pounds over his weight when he defeated Noor in the $50,000 Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont earlier this fall.

Calumet Farm's Ponder and William Goetz' Your Host are next in line, with 124 pounds, while the King Ranch's Assault will pack 122 if he gets up to the 1 1/16 miles feature.

$975,000 To Fund For Pensions, Deaths

Cincinnati, Nov. 17—(AP)—The entire $975,000 that major league baseball derived from sale of radio and television rights for the 1950 World Series will go into a fund for payment of pensions and death benefits for ball players.

It took the major league club owners, meeting in joint session, less than three minutes to make that decision today.

Previously the American and National Leagues had held separate sessions to discuss the proposal.

Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball and sacretary of the Pension Fund, said player representatives Freddie Hutchinson of Detroit Tigers and Marty Marion of St. Louis Cardinals previously had agreed to that disposal of the money.

At the time the television rights were sold for a record breaking $800,000, some of the players sought to have a part of the money diverted into a fund that is divided among players on the clubs which finish in the first four spots of the two loops.

Moreover, the direct threat of a Russian veto on Security Council action against the Chinese Reds makes it even more urgent, from a practical standpoint, to try alternate means of influencing Peiping.

Although the Assembly now has the power to take military action against an aggressor when the Security Council is hamstrung, no one is apparently willing to take the irrevocable step of sending the problem there before every other possibility is thoroughly explored.

A Chinese communist delegation now is en route here from Peiping but is not expected to arrive until late next week. Whether the final decision can be postponed until then is problematical.

gathering which crowded the church hall that this was a great display of labor solidarity in support of a group of fellow workers who were being exploited by outside capital.

A resolution supporting the Classon strikers was passed and also a motion condemning the bill being presented by the Sherbrooke Roman Catholic School Board to the Legislature which would compel all teachers to break away from any central organization and confine themselves to a local union.

The Classon strike, which started May 11 when the workers and the management were unable to agree to arbitrate certain wage and hour disputes, has been complicated by the decision of a large group to return to work, which they did on October 17. Since then there has been continual bickering between the strikers, members of a Syndicate branch, and the non-strikers. Several approaches have been made to the City Council that they intervene in the dispute and condemning them for supplying police protection to the returning workers.

The aldermen, however, have consistently refused to become involved, declaring the police protection was that provided any citizen who desired to go about his legitimate duties.

Crossing Crash Takes Six Lives

Beeton, Ont., Nov. 17—(AP)—Six persons were killed in a level-crossing collision near this village 35 miles northwest of Toronto during a drizzling rainstorm last night.

The victims, all from the Creemore district 25 miles north of this Simcoe county community, were identified as Mrs. Inez Rushton and her daughters, Marion, 10, and Joan, 7; Edwin Hewitt, George Pether and Roy Morrison.

Police said Hewitt was a foreman of a construction project and the other men worked for him.

Mrs. Rushton and the children are believed to have come here from Nova Scotia some time ago, but police do not know their home town.

Investigators reported that the automobile in which the six persons were riding ran into the side of a fast-moving Canadian Pacific Railway freight train on a grade on a county road three miles north of here. The car was carried along the right-of-way more than 200 feet and then rolled down a 30-foot embankment.

The women's body was found inside the crumpled wreckage of the car. The bodies of two of the men had been thrown clear and were found about 10 feet from the wreckage. One man had been decapitated and a foot was torn off one of the children.

Motorists who came upon the crash scene within a few minutes after the collision—which occurred about 11 P.M. EST—said there was no trace of an accident at the crossing itself. But, starting a short distance from the crossing, wreckage was strewn along the right-of-way.

District residents said there have been several fatal accidents in recent years at the crossing. From the south the road approach is tree-lined and the tracks themselves are elevated.

The crossing is about 20 miles south of Camp Borden, big Canadian army training base.

Provincial police from Alliston, eight miles to the north, and from Bradford, about 15 miles east, took charge of the investigation. They threw up road blocks to keep back spectators. All available ambulances and hearses in the district were sent to the scene.

On the other hand, if their purpose is to prevent a final U.N. victory in Korea, grave danger of a more general war is seen here.

In his statement Truman pointedly noted that there now is before the U.N. Security Council a resolution which promises to protect legitimate Korean and Chinese interests in the frontier zone, to keep the Chinese frontier secure and to withdraw U.N. troops as soon as Korea is stabilized under a democratic government. On the other hand, the resolution calls upon the Chinese to withdraw their forces immediately. The President said the U.S. fully supports this resolution.

Japanese Polite

In Japan, no American currency is used .You change your money at the bank for occupation money, at the same rate. It is all paper and the cent money—five, 10, 25 and 50—is about half the size of a Canadian bill.

The $1 and $5 bills are slightly larger than the cent bills, while the $10 bills and up are as long as the Canadian dollar but a bit narrower.

This scrip is used in all military establishments and the British personnel use the pound in their places as well.

Yen is used in dealings with the Japanese. You pay the cab driver and the merchant in yen. The Japanese are not supposed to have dollars, pounds or scrip, and there is practically no black market in money. One American dollar gets you 360 yen.

The dairy classes were strictly an Ontario and Quebec show. Western dairy entries don't show up in large numbers at the Royal because of the distance, more arduous for dairy than beef cattle.

Another one of the western champions who is having a particularly good year here is 13-year-old Ricky Sharpe, the boy wheat king from Munson, Alta.

It was probably the sensation of the show when the youngster was named Tuesday as the world wheat champion. And farmers were equally amazed that he could win this prized award with thatcher wheat, as fair officials said Ricky had. Thatcher, a popular rust-resistant spring wheat, has never won a major wheat championship.

Yesterday N. F. Bell, Alberta agriculture representative Drumheller, explained that Rocky's championship sample is not thatcher after all but marquis. Mr. Bell had labelled the sample incorrectly. The marquis variety is a consistent title-winning wheat.

A fair official announced that the mistake has no effect on Ricky's standing. He's still the king—marquis or thatcher—because his sample was the best at the fair.

expected the others would be brought down today but there was a fear that some might never be recovered.

Archbishop Roy talked with Ottawa authorities by telephone last night and is believed to have asked instructions regarding burial of victims.

Authorities at nearby Grenoble have agreed to a suggestion that the pilgrims be buried at Notre Dame de Salette, site of a famous French Roman Catholic shrine.

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A collision in flight of two giant planes engaged in the United States air force's newest refuelling operation ended yesterday in flaming death for 13 airmen.

Ten others parachuted to safety after the four-motored craft smashed together 50 miles west of Tucson over the southern Arizona desert.

The planes, engaged in a routine refuelling operation, were seen to erupt in flames and plunge to the ground. The tanker is believed to have exploded.

Some of the crew members jumped and might have reached the ground safely, but were apparently caught in a deluge of flaming gasoline that sprayed over the area.

Another, caught flat on the ground after making a successful jump, was crushed to death by a piece of falling wreckage.

There were indications all of the men attempted to get out of the flaming craft.

Their blackened and smashed bodies, most of them wearing portions of parachutes, were scattered over a half-mile area around the crash scene. Bits of flaming debris were found as far away as a mile.

An air rescue team rushed to the scene found the dazed survivors.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has more owners than any other U.S. firm, say Bell System statisticians. The company's stock is owned by approximately one out of every 50 families.

But unexpected emergencies do break the pattern. Usually the emergency requires more money than he has available. This can happen to anyone. Then help must come from a dependable outside service.

The Doctor Says:

ACNE CAN BE VERY DISTRESSING TO ADOLESCENT BOYS AND GIRLS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

One of the most common problems of adolescence is the skin condition called acne—or pimples. This is never fatal and most young youngsters recover entirely without any scarring of the skin. But a lot of trouble with breaking out of the skin during adolescence is a devastating experience.

Jordan

It is during adolescence that shyness reaches its peak. Acne makes this much worse. Most youngsters who have acne of the face become terribly self-conscious and stay away from their friends and social events just because they are so sensitive about this blot on their appearance.

A youngster with acne should make a special effort to fight this self - consciousness and should force himself or herself to take part in all the usual social functions. This is difficult but worth the struggle.

Also family and friends can help by not paying too much attention and by refraining from making remarks. Some parents or brothers or sisters comment every day on whether the pimples are better or worse. Even if done with the best of intentions this only makes the self-consciousness worse.

Acne affects most commonly the face, neck, chest, and shoulders. The reddish lump with which it starts turns into a "whitehead" which contains a mixture of pus, germs, destroyed tissue cells and skin oil. This pimple eventually breaks and forms a crust.

In mild cases the pimples are rather far apart and near the surface. The more severe the case the closer they are together and the deeper they lie in the skin. It is only in the deeper cases that a permanent scar is formed in the skin.

The cause, or causes, of acne are not all known. Although infection is present, several different kinds of germs can be found and there are undoubtedly other elements which enter into the development of this condition.

Diet Plays a Part

Because acne is most common and usually most severe during the period of adolescence in both boys and girls, it probably has some relation to the changes in the glands and hormones which take place at that time. Also diet almost certainly plays a part. Many, if not most, adolescents have a craving for sweets which almost invariably make acne worse.

The pimples almost always get better in the summer with reasonable exposure to the sun. In fact acne can be helped a great deal in most cases and, in my opinion, its principle importance is the effect it can have on the personality at a sensitive and socially difficult time of life.

Her very interesting talk dealt with the importance of this gathering of 700 delegates from 23 countries and representing 6,000,000 women. Photographs and snapshots of the convention highlights were displayed to members present.

Three broadcasts are scheduled to be made by members of the Institutes. Mrs. H F. Taylor, county publicity convener, will speak on "Why I Am An Institute Member," in November. The two remaining broadcasts will be made in April and July. All broadcasts are heard on the third Thursday of the month at twelve o'clock. Expenses for broadcasting are to be limited to $5. each.

The first three weeks in April have been set aside for Stanstead County as the period in which the short course in sewing is obtainable. Objection was made by some members to the season, as it was felt that May or early June would be more suitable. It was decided to leave the matter to be discussed by the branches and report to the County secretary.

The president suggested that the W. I. join with the Farm Forum for the broadcast on Monday, Nov. 27, "What's Happened to the Country Doctor?" and also for the broadcast on Dec. 18, "What The Forums Say."

The annual meeting in May is to be held in Tomifobia. The president urges that Conveners send reports if not able to attend and if they have none to notify the secretary to that effect.

Mrs. Daintry, of North Hatley, introduced the subject of prizes for school children at the school fair. After considerable discussion Mrs. Daintry and Mrs. Cass, as chairman and giving them the power to add to the committee at their discretion.

Mrs. Vaughan, Educational convener, stressed the need for more Home and School Associations; games and books (especially reference books) for school libraries. It was suggested that the various Institutes might take up the study of school law. Mrs. R. Vaughan also reported on the scholarship for this year, which was presented to John Arthur Spriggins, of North Hatley, who is going in for Physical Education, and would take his first year at Bishop's and then proceed to McGill University. Suggestions were made that the various schools submit the names of the students wishing to compete for the scholarship so that the selection committee would be able to make a proper selection in time.

The rummage sale at the School Fair, which was under the convenership of the Minton Branch, realized $34.16.

A Sectional Meeting Of The W. M. S. Of The United Church Was Held At Beulah United Church, Ayer's Cliff

Ayer's Cliff, Nov. 17. — The twenty-second sectional meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, was held in Beulah United Church, when sixty representatives gathered from Magog, Beebe, Rock Island, Stanstead, Lennoxville, Sherbrooke and Kingsbury, for the inspiring services held in the morning and afternoon.

The morning session opened at ten a.m., with the hymn, "Jesus Calls Us Over the Tumult", followed by prayer. Mrs. Sandell, of Magog, received the appointment of recording-secretary, Mrs. W. H. Boomhour, president of the entertaining W.M.S., extended the welcome in words truly spoken making each lady feel that she was personally received.

The worship service taken by Mrs. F. A. Johnston, was most impressive and was thoroughly enjoyed, as her presentation of the scriptures is always original and lucid.

The roll call showed a good number of delegates present and the minutes of the last session were real by Mrs. Easton, of Stanstead.

In the absence of Mrs. D. S. MacIntosh, secretary of Literature, Mrs. E. E. Gilson was in charge and at this point she presented some interesting books on Japan, on which, the study book this year is based.

The reports of the Auxiliaries, Baby Bands, Mission Circles, and C.G.I.T. Groups were made as brief as possible due to lack of time and only one outstanding work accomlished was reported, but each was full of activity and showed progress, which was most gratifying to all.

Mrs. William Yedall, of Lakeside, Dean of the School for Leaders, conducted an open forum, and the questions were largely upon the delegates expenses to the "School for Leaders", and following this, she gave the Noontide address, taking as her subject, "The Good Samaritan," from which, she gave an excellent address.

Lunch was served at 12.30, in the church vestry by the ladies of the W.M.S., assisted by ladies of the church.

Mrs. McMillan went to the platform during the lunch hour and gave a vivid word picture of the "Highlights of the Dominion Board meeting held in Toronto, Ont. Her remarks were very much enjoyed.

The afternoon session convened at 2:15 p.m., and was opened with the hymn, "Over the Trackless Ocean." Mrs. Elsie R. Smith, of Lennoxville, conducted the worship service, in a very uplifting manner and continued on in her department address on "Christian Stewardship," and her theme was "The Stewardship of our Heritage." She referred to the splendid heritage of our forefathers and the bountiful heritage of this our country, which has been handed down through generations.

Mrs. A. E. Wilfong, of Kingsbury, the Mission Band secretary, spoke of the work of the Bands and especially of the Rallies in Lennoxville, and Waterloo.

The offering was taken by Mrs. J. E. MacVicar, and Mrs. W. P. Berwick. Mrs. Nelson Pierce sang as a solo, "The Master's Face," and the dedication of the offering was made by Mrs. Mackie Fuller, of Sherbrooke.

The address of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Yeudall, and her talk was based upon the School for Leaders, and MacAuley's Camp, where the next meeting will be held. The facts regarding this project were very interesting and gave the ladies present a better understanding of this work.

Mrs. Boomhour received the appointment of delegate to the School for Leaders, with Mrs. T. W. Tyson, of Rock Island, as alternate for the 1951 School.

Due to lack of time, the president, Mrs. William MacMillan, did not conduct the dedication of year's work, but Mrs. Yeudall closed the session with a "Dedicatory Prayer." Thus concluded a very successful sectional meeting under the presidency of Mrs. MacMillan.

The Regent, Mrs. Austin Scott, presided over the rather small gathering. Members stood in silence before beginning the regular business of the afternoon, in remembrance of a former regent, Mrs. M. G. Stewart, who had passed away since their last meeting. The secretary read a short appreciation of the fine work done by Mrs. Stewart during her nine years in office, 1938-1946, mentioning her inspired leadership throughout the second world war.

Following routine business, Miss Ina Cobleigh read letters of thanks received from delegates to the B. and P. W. National Convention, in which they expressed thanks for group photos taken on their passage through Sherbrooke, en route to Halifax, last summer.

The executive reported arrangements had been made for a buffet supper to be held at the MacKinnon Memorial, on December 11, when Miss Bessie Milford and Miss Leslie Fales will be in charge. The regular meeting and Christmas program will follow the supper.

Miss Ethel Taylor reported having sent a food parcel to the Poole Club, in England. It was decided to ship another one shortly, and members contributed cash donations to defray expenses of this parcel.

Miss Moir recited the emblem Grace, which was followed by the interpretation of the emblem, given by several members of the executive. "The Maple Leaf Forever" and "God Bless Our Native Land" were sung in chorus by all the members. Miss Eva Mallory acted as accompanist for the evening.

Fitting into the International Night program was the report given by Miss Ethel Taylor, of Lennoxville, of her trip to England, Scotland and France last summer, at which time she attended meetings of the International Congress of B. and P. W. Clubs, held in London.

Miss Taylor, not being a delegate simply touched on the important issues brought up at these meetings. She said members were urged to band together to elect women to parliament and insist that they hold public offices. Miss Taylor said that there were 102 Canadian delegates at this congress, and the Canadian flag was evident at banquets and public social functions held in honor of B. and P. Women. Miss Taylor also mentioned that an interesting part of the program was the visiting of huge hospitals and eight newspaper plants in London.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Marjorie Moir and thanked by Miss Leslie Fales.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses for the evening.

REPORTS ON MOOSE KILL BACKWARD

As it usually the case with any new wrinkle in fish and game regulations, both the public and department wardens appear to have been negligent, or perhaps just slow in complying with new rules on the reporting of killing of moose. As a matter of fact it is understood that only 93 moose thus far have been reported to the Quebec headquarters as having been killed in the brief season of 1950. This if course is far below the number which is already known to have been taken. These statistics are of great value to the government and very considerable interest to the general public, so the delay is unfortunate. the few Quebec men going into that district over a period of years.

Kipawa District Straightened Out

Investigation by the department of these reports revealed them to have been well justified. This led to the establishment of the reserve and a new setup of protection which promises to give the remaining moose of the territory a well-earned respite from the pressure of recent years. Warden Starto Bastien, stationed at Ville Marie is a man highly thought of by his superiors and sportsmen who have encountered him and he is working closely with a new man Joe Lariviere, an Algonquin Indian, who is said to be a very competent man in the woods as well as the possessor of the right attitude toward the law. Lariviere will be stationed at Temiskaming. And they both work with Warden Duly Gervais, stationed at Rouyn.

We Need More Duly Gervaises

Warden Gervais is one of those responsible for calling attention to conditions in the rich territory lying to the south and southwest of his own. It was he who risked a bit of a contretemps in his job by reporting a couple of years ago on 22 moose which had been slaughtered and left to rot by trophy hunters coming in from the Ontario side. More than one law evader who attempted to get tough with Gervais has learned a new respect for the law from the fists of this former boxer turned warden. Naturally any warden of such enthusiasm and vigor would have some reports in against him. The word is that he has to be restrained, but honest sportsmen will hope that the restraint is not too severe.

Many Parties Had Poor Luck

The Oct. 15-31 season certainly made it tough to get a moose. I heard of one party from the States who came up for the full season. In addition to their licenses they spent $2,400, and didn't see a moose. Another party of Montrealers numbering 13 in all, went into promising territory each with a guide. They split up to blanket the territory pretty thoroughly, but all they saw was three cows in seven days.

If the same curtailment could be effected with regard to illegally killing as has been accomplished in cutting down the kill by legal means, the security of moose in the Province of Quebec would be assured.

Won't Keep Best Visitors Away

It would be easier, of course, to enforce the law against killing of moose by poachers if there were no open season at all, and conditions might some day force the government to this drastic step. Insofar as its effect upon revenue from non-resident hunters is concerned, only the skim milk in the form of the tin-can tourist will be eliminated by the short tough season. The sportsmen who really spend the money will come to hunt as long as there is a chance that even 200 moose a season may be taken. They come for the sport of hunting, not for butchering and cheap meat.

Lake St. Louis Anglers Activities

Lake St. Louis Anglers activities have taken on a new intensity with the acquisition of their own clubhouse. The current issue of their publication, Anglers News announced a general meeting of their Beauharnois affiliate last night and a general meeting of the main show tonight. This latter meeting of course will be held at the main clubhouse, 3051 St. Joseph street. It starts at 3.00 p.m. and will be preceded by the second indoor casting contest starting at 7.30. Anglers News also announces a big dance to be held at the clubhouse on November 25th, and a New Year dance on December 30. A sellout is indicated for the latter at $5 per couple and members are urged to make reservations as early as possible.

Members also are asked to get in the renewals of their memberships at the earliest, and this means me. I wish it were $2 instead of $1 and that half of it were to be turned over to Federation.

Bill Gulline Is Stricken

Brian Gulline's host of friends will be distresed to learn that the famed fly tier and caster and principal of Fin Fur and Feather, Union avenue, is hospitalized. "Bill" finished up his holidays out in the Megantic district last Thursday. He returned home extremely tired after the hunting trip and was stricken the next day. It is bad enough so he can't see visitors, but he'll have a lot of people including myself pulling for his speedy and complete recovery.

This Would Be A Good Year To Pass Bowl Deal Around, But Battered Big Ten Won't Break Five-Year Pact

New York — (NEA) — Five years ago, when the pact was signed, the Western Conference appeared to have no intention of monopolizing the Rose Bowl show and sugar.

It was stipulated that at the end of three seasons, the Big Ten had the right to name a team from another section as the eastern representative.

With Ohio State ineligible and every other outfit in the league mangled, this would be a good year for the Western Conference to pass the Pasadena plum around —but it won't.

You have Kenneth L. Wilson's word for that.

The outsider provision was killed two years ago.

"With Big Ten players showing such intense interest in the game," explains Commissioner Tug Wilson, "we realized that we would only stir up a lot of trouble passing up a squad in our conference qualified to make the trip."

ARMY AND PRINCETON

There is no question but that the Pacific coast champion and the Tournament of Roses people would prefer several teams to what the Big Ten is going to ship its way.

Properly invited—by the Western Conference—even Army or Princeton might go. West Point was anxious to make the transcontinental hop following the final year of Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard —1946— but the new two-conference agreement pushed the Cadets aside.

Although the Ivy League and Big Three are on record opposed to post-season competition, a high official of another institution says Princeton undoubtedly would be granted permission by the blue-blood circuit if the Tigers were asked to show up for the battered big boys.

And don't think Coach Charley Caldwell and the men behind Princeton football wouldn't like to further show off what looks like Tigertown's first all-conquering club in 15 years.

With Army or Princeton, the Big Ten wouldn't have to be concerned about exposing the far western champion to the representatives of a school below its own scholastic standing.

The Western-Pacific Coast Rose Bowl tie-up comes up for renewal at the December meetings, incidentally.

There is plenty of squawking on the golden slope, where they want the champion, no matter how painful.

A MILLION OF THEM

Speaking of Army, it doesn't do any good to bottle up Red Blaik's backs.

For every one you stop, the boss of the Black Knights has one you never even heard of sitting way down at the other end of the bench.

Pennsylvania had the celebrated Al Pollard completely frustrated, but Coach Blaik flicked his finger at sophomore Gene Filipski, who skittered around leaving up-ended Quakers all over Franklin Field.

Folks are beginning to wonder if Army ever will lose another game..

Between the schedule and the stars, it doesn't look that way.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 17—(AP)—The United States Golf Association still is worried about players who waste too much time studying shots and lining up putts in championship tournaments . . .That seems singularly unnecessary at this time, when Northern golfers can take all winter if they like and the guys vacationing in the South and West aren't in a hurry about anything . . . Still there are some interesting figures on putting compiled for the U.S.G.A. journal by Runcie Martin, who clocked a lot of the lads in the 1950 amateur championship. . . . Times recorded ranged from 17 seconds, from the time the golfer addressed the ball until he stroked the putt, up to 166 seconds, which was how long Frank Stranahan took to miss his final putt. The average was slightly more than 40 seconds a putt . . . In one match, which required four hours, 11 minutes for 17 holes, almost 37 minutes were devoted to lining up putts . . . Now you can look for some enterprising gent to come up with the ideal Christmas present for a golfer's wife to give the old man — a combination stop watch and alarm clock, with special gong that means "get the heck out of that locker room, you bum, and try to be on time for dinner just once."

One-Minute Sports Page

Word from France is that Robert Villemain has ballooned to 168 pounds and is worried about making the 160-pound middleweight limit . . . The Rangers have hired Doc Tracy, who couldn't hypnotize the St. Louis Browns into thinking they could win, to try the same stunt on hockey players . . . Gosh, Connie Smythe and Art Ross have been hypnotizing the Rangers for years, every time they wanted to make a player trade.

St. John's Displays 1828 Marine Marker

St. John's, NFLD., —(AP)—An observation stone dated 1828 is on display here.

The worn, grey slab, taken recently from Fort Townsend here, once served as an observation stone for mariners in the days of wooden ships and iron men.

On it barely legible are inscribed the various important latitude and longtitude figures which enabled the sailors to determine their exact position in Newfoundland and to set their charts and compasses.

After the stone is polished up and the lettering renewed it will be put on permanent display here by the Newfoundland historical society.

Inscribed on the stone is the following data:

Latitude 47 degrees 33 minutes 42 seconds north.

Longitude from meridan of 10 degrees 52 minutes 31 seconds east Halifax.

Observation, 1828, from Greenwich 52 degrees 45 minutes 29 seconds.

Variation 28 degrees 47 minutes westerly of compass.

Canadian Caddies To Compete In U.S. Event

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)— Pete Zurlinden, executive director of the National Caddy Tournament of the United States Professional Golfers' Association, said today cadies from Canada may compete in next year's annual tournament.

Zurlinden, of Columbus, O., said he and Kenneth C. Murray, of Dorval, Que., president of the Canadian P.G.A., have talked over the matter and will recommend its acceptance by their respective parent groups.

The tournament, which awards college scholarships to the winner and runner-up, will be held Aug. 20-25, 1951, at Columbus, O.

Murray said he will submit the plan to the Canadian P.G.A. for ratification. It calls for the winners of Canadian regional tournaments, sponsored by newspapers, to compete against U.S. caddies for the crown.

Boxing Board To Hold Inquiry On Fight

London, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A secret inquiry into Tommy Farr's latest comeback lasted three hours yesterday but no results were announced.

The British Boxing Board of Control ordered the investigation.

The Board listened to Farr's version of his disputed three-round knockout of Belgian Piet Wilde at Leicester, England, Nov. 6.

Wilde claimed after the fight he had beaten the count after being knocked down by Farr and that Referee Moss Deyong had counted only nine.

Billy Meyer Still Manager Of Pirates

Pittsburgh, Nov. 16.— (AP) —A pleased but cautions Billy Meyer headed for his Tennessee home last night still skipper of the dry-docked diamond craft of Pittsburgh Pirates.

His boss—the newly-named executive vice - president, Branch Rickey—signalled Meyer's retention as manager at least for the time being by failing to announce he was fired.

Billy himself said:

"I'm still in the driver's seat.

"I really don't know for how long. Your guess is as good as mine. But Mr. Rickey hasn't even told me what his final decision is going to be—and he apparently wants me around a while longer."

MAN DRAGS TWO TO SAFETY AFTER OIL TRUCK EXPLODES

Norman Skelhorne, of Windsor, N.S., rushes into midst of flames despite frantic warnings

1. The big oil truck was standing at the Dominion Atlantic Railway siding at Windsor, N.S. It was taking on a load from a tank car and two men were handling the hose on top of the truck. The driver was in the cab. Suddenly there was a tremendous explosion — a blast that rocked the Valley town and scattered flaming oil in every direction. The two men on top were thrown into the air and fell close to the truck.

2. These two men would almost certainly have burned to death had it not been for the instinctive bravery of Norman Skelhorne, a textile worker from Windsor. Although other eye-witnesses, fearing that the railway tank car would also explode, shouted warnings to him, Skelhorne raced 100 yards into the centre of the blaze. Working like lightning, he dragged the two men to safety. They were badly burned — but alive.

3. Skelhorne's efforts where still not over. Again he ran to the flaming truck — this time to haul the driver from the cab. Unfortunately he had been killed instantly when the truck exploded. To Norman Skelhorne, whose unselfish heroism saved the lives of two men, we are proud to pay well deserved tribute through the presentation of THE DOW AWARD.

THE DOW AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Drummondville

Members of the Drummondville League of Proprietors, meeting last Sunday at the City Hall, on Lindsay Street, elected a new slate of directors for the 1950-51 term. They are as follows: Messrs. J.-Emile Lemaire, outgoing president; Gerard Dumais, Philippe Boisvin, Edouard Spenard, Adelard Soly, Raymond Pepin, Joseph Haines, Arthur Haines, Arthur Rochon, Roch Jutras, Kenneth Morrill and Joseph Boucher.

During the course of the meeting Mr. Lemaire suggested that the main task of the new officers would be to take some of the burden off the shoulders of the proprietors, which could be accomplished by a special tax to be imposed on all those, who are employed at full time in Drummondville, but not property owners. This tax if imposed would be $2 per year for Drummondville citizens and $5 per year for all new comers.

The members seemed also in favour of some form of new adjustments in water taxes, giving preference to a fixed rate per family instead of the present rate based on the rental value of the property, claiming that the present method is unjust. A number of the members were also in favor of changing the present method of electing the mayor and the aldermen. This group would like to hold elections every year to elect a new mayor and four aldermen and four aldermen the following year.

The annexation of Drummondville West also came in for some discussion the majority being in favor of such a move. The construction of a new Arena also came in for comment, the League being opposed to this project as a public enterprise, but would like to see a group of citizens form a company to realize it.

Following the meeting the directors elected Mr. Arthur Rochon as their new president; Messrs. Adelard Soly and Gerard Dumais vice-presidents, with Mr. Ferdinand Smith secretary-treasurer.

After the election the new president declared that a 2 per cent sales tax would be the best means of bringing in badly needed revenue in the city-hall and the School Commission. The estimated revenue of such a tax in Drummondville would be in the vicinity of $100,000 and it was suggested that the League give notice to the city fathers to discuss these various problems.

The town council of St. Simon has just homologated a new valuation roll for the 1950-51 fiscal year. This roll shows that the taxable property has reached a new high of $3,486,895, a very substantial increase over the year previous, due mainly to the fact that property had been assessed to a figure close to its real value.

The council therefore decided to cut down the school tax from $2 to $1.50 and the municipal tax from $1.65 to $1.10. It is alsa expected that the council will soon open negotiations with Mr. Howard, president of Telecommunications Overseas enterprise now operating the local Marconi Transmitting Station to obtain a strip of land along Jean de Brebeuf Street, which the council intends to widen.

A request will also be sent to the local Bus Company to have its services extended up to St. Adolphe Street.

A meeting of The Drummondville Boy Scouts Troop came to order on November 7th, at 6:30 p. m., with 20 Scouts in attendance. The meeting opened with flag-break which was followed by inspection. After this, Instructor Pinder led the boys in their favourite game of British Bulldog. This was followed by the study period, during which the new scouts were given tenderfoot instructions by the various Patrol Leaders, while the remainder of the troop were given semaphore signalling. Leo De Verteuil and Michael McCormick then picked two teams for an elimination game, which really kept the boys hopping. Mr. Pinder then took the boys in some hand-signaling since the boys were getting a little careless in following out the signals. Lesly Heaton then became the most recent victim of the hot oven. S. M. Arsenault announced that after the crates of apples had been delivered the amount netted would be in the neighbourhood of $200. BROME-MISSISQUOI NEWS REVIEW

Bedford Home And School Association Heard Mr. M. Dunsmore Of Granby On The Subject, "What Is Education?"

Bedford, Nov. 17. — At the monthly meeting of the Bedford High School Home and School Association held in the High School, the president, Mr. Raymond Whitcomb, presided. The meeting was opened with the singing of "O Canada."

The guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Dunsmore, principal of the Granby High School, was introduced by Principal William Heath, who welcomed Mr. Dunsmore, who was president of the Protestant Teachers' Association of Quebec. Mr. Dunsmore spoke on "What is Education?"

"Education has progressed greatly from the days of the country school, where there was only one teacher, who had to teach many grades and many subjects to the present day High School, where a student is able to choose congenial subjects and an adequate teaching staff is provided. The greatest problem facing education today, is, to have the ability to turn out a generation of people, who can work and get along together, if this is accomplished, it will make the coming generation firm believers in democracy. In order that the standard of education be maintained and improved it is necessary that all should help with childrens' education.

"As the results of World War II, many of that day's generation, had to curtail their education, and today's lack of understanding and unrest, strikes, labor troubles, etc., are the aftermath of these conditions, as well as of the depression of the 30's.

"Emphasis in education today as a change from the three R's of the past are the three C's, character, culture and citizenship. It is important that schools and churches work together. Young people find in home, church, community and the world at large, the training ground for their future. For the world today it is important that citizens possess "hearts that can feel warmly and heads that think clearly." Churches and schools working together can produce Christian citizens. Knowledge is valueless, unless it is used, knowledge of the law is no surety that it will be observed.

"Home is the first school for a child, where habits and characteristics are well formed before school days, the teacher carries on from home training. Education is co-operative endeavour, i, e, the home must provide facilities for the carrying on of school work. Community must take active interest in school children in preparation to their taking a good part in the community.

"Management and labor have a stake in today's education, trained minds are necessary in commercial life today. Education is also important in the growth of a town, when a town is under consideration for the starting of a new industry, one of the first questions asked is, What are the schools like? Labor wants equal education facilities for all children. Today it is the minority of students, who complete school, one reason, for this, is financial. Many today are completing or getting additional education through attendance at night schools.

"As an illustration of the importance of education in a country as to its progress, the republic of Colombia, in South America, which has great natural resources, but which is very backward, owing to the high degree of illiteracy was compared with Denmark, which through small, and with few natural resources, is noted as a progressive country, thanks to its educated citizens.

"Mexico and New Zealand are further examples of the same state of affairs. In labor, education encourages production, encourages workers to get on, also education along specific lines increases productivity of labor, which in turn promotes national income. Early training in science results in formation of many new industries, while education in health makes for better health, less absentism, which in turn helps productivity. Larger national income means higher individual income, which in turn makes for a higher standard of living."

Mr. B. W. Draper, chairman of the Bedford School Board, thanked Mr. Dunsmore for his address and expressed the thanks and appreciation of all to him for coming to Bedford and delivering such a worthwhile address. Mr. Draper also paid tribute to the work done by the local Home and School Association and the improvements, which the members had made since the formation of the organization.

The business meeting followed. The financial report showed a balance on hand of $ 95.

It was announced that hot lunches would be started in November with Mrs. Eric Roebuck, in charge.

The report on the work done on renovating the library showed that drapes had been purchased by Mrs. W. J. Baglow, and that a number of books had been sent to the Salvation Army. Mr. Heath is looking after the selecting of the books.

The president read an invitation to the members to attend the November meeting of the Home and School Association of the St. John's High School, to be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 21, at which the guest speaker will be Dr. Owell, president of the Quebec Federation of Home and School Association.

The report of the chairman of the membership committee, Mr. Eric Kemp, showed a paid up membership of 135.

The report of Mr. Myrl Wells, Ways and Means committee, showed that $2.60 has been realized from the recent school movie.

The president announced that if sufficient members were interested it may be possible to obtain a Blue Cross group in the Home and School Association.

Mr. Dunsmore, in the question period, which took place, announced that there are government scholarships, tenable for four years, which may be obtained, with a value of $300 per annum, for scholars wishing to attend Laval and the University of Montreal, McGill University and Bishop's University, and for girls wishing to train as nurses, a scholarship of $100 for three years may be obtained. Principal Health has received application blanks and information regarding these scholarships.

The matter of obtaining additional places for the holding of supplemental examinations was discussed, Mr. B. W. Draper reported that the matter had again come up for discussion at the Regional Conference of Protestant School Commissioners held in October, at Ayer's Cliff, at which time a letter had been received from the Department of Education, stating, that owing to the lack of trained personel, that it was impossible to alleviate the situation at the present time. As the matter now stands there are only two centres for the holding of supplemental examinations in the province, one at Montreal and the other at Quebec. It will be at least one year before anything can be done regarding conditions.

The prize for the largest attendance went to Grades VI and VII.

Following the business meeting, a social hour was spent and refreshments were served.

Richmond W. M. S. Reviewed The Work Of The Secretaries And Enjoyed The Study Book On Church Work In Japan

Richmond, Nov. 17. — The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. C. C. Healy, College Street. There was a very large attendance.

Mrs. M. Armitage, the president, was in the chair and she conducted the devotional period.

Very interesting reports were given by the departmental secretaries, Mrs. Walter Moreland, the Baby Band superintendent, reported nine-six members; Mrs. Arnold Healy and Mrs. Erroll Taylor, the C.G.I.T. leaders, reported a membership of seventeen. They have had a very active month and they are planning for their Initiation ceremony and the Christmas Vesper service. They will also assist with the annual Christmas Sale on December 6.

Mrs. A. MacRae, community Friendship secretary, reported that fifty calls had been made during the month. Miss E. L. Bidgood, supply secretary, read a letter from Mrs. A. Willard, the Presbyterial Supply secretary, requesting the members to make a layette for the supply box. Miss Nettie Burill announced that the subscriptions for the "Missionary Monthly" were due and she received a very generous response.

Plans were made to hold the Baby Band and Mission Band party on Friday, December 15th in the Chalmers' Church Hall. Mrs. D. S. MacIntosh, Mrs. T. N. Mitchell and Mrs. M. Armatage were appointed to complete arrangements for this party.

The president appointed the following nominating committee members to present a slate of officers at the meeting in December: Mrs. C. Healy, Miss Nellie Burrill and Miss E. L. Bidgood.

The Chapters in the study book were reviewed by Mrs. H. W. Burnett and Mrs. C. R. Boast. The theme was "The United Church of Christ in Japan."

Mrs. Boast outlined several reasons why we should feel encouraged about this Church in Japan and she also gave a brief history of the Church and the rebuilding of the Churches; 462 church buildings were destroyed by the war and 170 have been rebuilt.

Mrs. Burnett gave a very interesting account of the work the Christian women in Japan are doing and the very splendid work being done by the Christian kindergartens. She also spoke of the camps and the work being carried on by the Missionaries.

A quiz program was conducted and some very interesting facts were revealed about the "Kyodan," in Japan.

The meeting closed with the "Mizpah Benediction." Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Yes, indeed, there are two Vancouvers — one in Washington, U.S.A., and one in British Columbia, Canada. Similarly, there's a FOUR ROSES Whiskey in the United States and FOUR ROSES Canadian Whisky in Canada . . . but they're quite different whiskies. In the United States, FOUR ROSES is an American Whiskey. But, in Canada, FOUR ROSES is a Canadian Whisky, distilled, blended and bottled in Canada under the supervision of the Canadian Government. It's one of the finest Canadian Whiskies you can buy.

Correspondent Says Germany Not Yet Ready To Share In European Defence

Ottawa—(CP)— G. W. (Bill) Boss, en route from Europe to a Canadian Press correspondent's assignment with Canada's Korean force, says he doubts Germany's readiness to participate in military schemes for Europe's defence.

"The ordinary German," he said, "is neither willing nor prepared, as he understands his country's position today, to participate in any scheme for the defence of western Europe — except on complete equality."

And equality had not been achieved or merited. The Germans accepted as a consequence of defe. the fact that Nazism would not be tolerated. They did not yet accept the fact that intellectually it ought to be repugnant.

He doubted that the average German would support Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's statement that Germany must rearm.

Boss, a second world war veteran who spent the last phases of that conflict as a CP war correspondent in Italy and northwest Europe, bases his opinions on talks with Germans known to him personally. After a period in Canada, he returned to Europe two years ago.

He sees six conditions as essential for the continued safety and well-being of the "western way" in Europe. All except the first and most important are to some extent under way.

1. The re-education of Germany, without which her participation in any phase of European activity is meaningless."

2. Agreement among the continental countries on the Schuman plan for merger of their coal and steel industries, as a common basis for their economic lives.

3. Recognition by Britain that her Commonwealth ties now are sentimental and economic links only, and that the time has come for her to throw her lot more solidly in with Europe.

4. Extension of the Benelux idea to other equally-situated countries of Europe. Benelux, fast becoming reality, is the economic union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Other possibilities are a Scandinavian union and an Italo-French one.

5. Transformation of the Council of Europe into a European assembly with real powers within defined limits — perhaps initially into a joint organ supervising foreign and defence affairs.

6. Build-up of western defences in Europe and their maintenance in on-the-spot readiness.

He said progress had been real, though in some cases limited, in all fields except re-education of Germany.

Where continental attitudes were not responsible for greater advances it was possible to hold Britain responsible for impeding the way. Great Britain, he said, had not been able to dispose of charges that she was "dragging her feet" in the creation of the new Europe.

Little had been done to set about the mass re-education of Germany, without which he considered German participation in European rearmament valueless. The Schuman plan demonstrated acceptance of the fact that Germany was essential to Europe's recovery. Europe could be healthy economically only if Germany was. But ideologically an economically-healthy Germany was a political liability unless she also was socially and politically sound.

She wasn't so, yet. Germans still were ignorant to the "other side" of the 1939 war's causes, knowing only the Goebbels version.

Told that Goebbels' build-up to it was "propaganda," they suspect the same "propaganda" in news stories they have read since. They have no confidence in their press.

"How can we know that both you and the Russains are not feeding us propaganda now too," they say, "and that the truth is not something altogether different still?"

Bitter over allied dismantling, demilitarization and restricted-steel-output policies, which continued until very recently, they now say there is talk of getting them into a European army on! because their manpower is wanted, not because their character is trusted.

They profess not to understand how the wes' can want them among its defences against the Russians when during the second world war the same west was invited by the Germans to share in the "crusade" against communism.

Not sure where they stand, the Germans say only that they have had enough of war and want to stay at home. Boss said he had every reason to believe that the attitude was genuine. Fear of the Russians is the Germans' only present link with the west.

Boss maintained it would be "building on sand" to place German troops in a European army, where they would be soldiers without a cause.

The defence of Europe lay in the re-education of Germany to the point at which of her own accord she would place herself alongside her friends, who meanwhile might continue their help in her economy recovery and garrison her frontiers.

Ayer's Cliff Remembrance Day Service Was Held At Beulah Church And A Parade To The Monument

Ayer's Cliff, Nov. 17.—Remembranch Day service was held in Beulah United Church on Sunday morning, when the members of the Ayer's Cliff branch of the Canadian Legion, attended Divine Service in a body.

With the organist, Mrs. Willard Rexford, at the organ, the service opened with the prelude of "O Canada," after which all joined in the singing of "God Save The King." Mr. Lambourne sang a solo, the beautiful song "Lest We Forget," and the choir sang an anthem.

The pastor, Rev. W. H. Boomhour, preached an impressive and forceful sermon taking as his subject, "The Golden Age of Lasting Peace." He took his text from Micah IV: 3, "And he shall judge among many people and rebuke strong Nations afar off; and they shal beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks, Nation shall not lift up a sword against Nation, neither shall they learn War any more."

The preacher stressed the fact that it might seem impractical at this time to speak of lasting peace, when things were pointing in another direction, but he made himself very clear by quotations and illustrations that lasting peace would or could only be, when there was a more world wide spiritual out-look, only when spiritual things are given first place when all people flock into God's house, only when justice, brotherhood, and peace come first among God's people, when the day of universal brotherhood and many nations will say, "Let us go up to the Mount of the Lord," when we have learned to be friends, when we have learned to live together as neighbours in harmony, and to settle the differences of the Nations as well as individuals right and fair, then we can hope for lasting peace.

Rev. Mr. Boomhour said that the modern view of peace was to be so much stronger than other nations that they dare not attack you, but the speaker does not agree, he did not feel that to prepare for war, that peace would reign, but that there would be War—he believed like Micah, to prepare for Peace—and have peaceful pursuits, beat their swords into ploughshares, and spears into pruning hooks. Then one might realize the "Golden Age of Lasting Peace."

Following this service, many gathered at the Monument, where tribute was paid to the men, who gave their lives that we might have peace.

Rev. Mr. Boomhour again conducted the Remembrance service, when over twenty wreaths were placed as the names of individuals and business places were read by Major F. Wallbridge.

The 1st wreath placed was by Mayor Rexford, for the town, and then organizations such as the Women's Association, Beulah Evening Association, St. George's Guild, E. T. Telephone Co., Canadian Bank of Commerce, Southern Canada Power Co., B. B. Glove M'fg. Co., Alexander Lodge, I.O.O.F., Bouffard Bros., Lysle Thompson, L. A. Despres, E. F. Stevenson, John W. Hunter, Dr. C. L. Brown, Mrs. Doris Goode, Sandy's Service Station, Iona's Dress Shop, and R. G. McHarg. "The Last Post" was sounded by Mr. Ted W. Wyman.

Canadiens Snap Winless Streak At Expense Of Leafs; Detroit Whips Chicago 5-1 As Canucks Win 5-2

Gaye Stewart is making crafty John Adams, manager of Detroit Red Wings, look pretty good as a master dealer in hockey players.

The speedy left-winger from Fort William, Ont., obtained in a National Hockey League five-for-four player deal with Chicago last July, scored two goals last night as the Red Wings walloped the Black Hawks 5-1.

It was the Wings' eighth straight game without a loss and their second over Chicago in as many meetings this season. That gives Adams a pretty strong argument that he got the best of the deal in his trade with the Hawks.

The victory, recorded before 15,488 fans — largest Chicago week-night crowd of the season—also enabled the Wings to close ground on the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs who were tripped up 5-2 by Montreal Canadiens.

Detroit now has 17 points, two back of the Leafs who have played two games more than the Wings.

In Montreal, a Forum crowd of 14,583 saw Canadiens consolidate their fourth-place position by handing the Leafs their worst defeat of the season.

The Canadiens, who hadn't been able to crash the win column since the Leafs tacked a double defeat on them on successive nights early this month, rained 40 shots on Turk Broda in the Toronto nets. The Leafs fired only 18 at goalie Jerry McNeil.

Floyd Curry tallied twice for Montreal and linemate Calum MacKay once. Leo Gravelle and Billy Reay counted the others.

Tod Sloan and Fleming Mackell scored for the Leafs.

Fifteen penalties were called, including a major to Maurice Richard of Canadiens for walloping Bill Juzda with his stick and a 10-minute misconduct to Mackell for sassing referee Bill Chadwick. None of the penalties figured in the scoring.

Action also was rough at Chicago, 19 penalties being called. Detroit took a 2-0 advantage in the first seven minutes on goals by Gordie Howe and Stewart. Bill Mosienko scored the Leafs' lone tally in the middle frame when Detroit's George Gee also scored.

Jimmy McFadden and Stewart closed the scoring in the finale.

Terry Sawchuk in the Detroit nets was called upon to handle 45 shots, Harry Lumley 21.

A six-player trade announced yesterday between the Leafs and Boston Bruins brought Bill Ezinicki and Vic Lynn back into the big league from the minors.

The Bruins got both forwards in exchange for defencemen Fern Flaman, centre Phil Maloney, left winger Ken Smith and the rights to Leo Boivin, a Port Arthur, Ont., junior.

In another deal, the Bruins obtained Dunc Fisher from New York —he was recently sent down to St. Paul Saints of the United States League—for Zellio Toppazzini and Ed Harrison.

The Rangers also announced they had sent defenceman Wally Stanowski to Cincinnati Mohawks of the American League in exchange for Jack Evans, a 23-year-old rearguard.

The New Yorkers also signed Don Penniston as a "defensive consultant" to assist Coach Neil Colville. Penniston, who coached Hershey Bears for five years, also coached several topflight amateur clubs in Canada, including the junior and senior Montreal Royals, Quebec Aces and Cornwall Flyers.

"Wild Bill" Ezinicki And Vic Lynn Traded To Boston For Three Players By Leafs In Effort To Build Bruins

Toronto, Nov. 17—(CP)— Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League yesterday announced they had traded right wing Bill Ezinicki and left wing Vic Lynn to Boston Bruins for three players—defenceman Fern Flaman and forwards Phil Maloney and Ken Smith.

Ezinicki and Lynn, who have been playing with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League, will report to Boston immediately for service with the Bruins. The three Boston players will go to the Hornets, a Leaf farm team.

The Leafs also get the rights to an amateur player, whose name was not announced here. However, the Boston club said he is Leo Boivin of Port Arthur.

Clarence (Hap) Day, assistant manager of the Leafs, announced the deal, completed by manager Conn Smythe of the Leafs and general manager Art Ross of the Bruins, in New York for a meeting of the N.H.L. Board of Governors.

Day said the Toronto club felt that if Ezinicki and Lynn were good enough to play in the N.H.L. it shouldn't keep them in the minors. Another factor was that the Leafs gained reserve strength essential for the long N.H.L. schedule and for Stanley Cup playoffs.

There have been rumors for months that Ezinicki would be traded. They were given fresh impetus when he failed to report to the Leafs camp for pre-season training. When he finally showed up, he was assigned to Pittsburgh to play himself into condition.

Hardest-hitting forward in the league, he has been a leader in penalties since he moved into the N.H.L. in the 1945-46 season. A native of Winnipeg, he played amateur hockey with Oshawa Generals.

Lynn, native of Saskatoon, joined the Leafs in the 1946-47 season and was assigned to Pittsburgh when the present season opened.

Flaman, scrappy defenceman from Dysart, Sask., has been with the Boston club or at its Hershey farm since 1944.

Maloney, a centre who became a Boston regular last season, is from Ottawa. Smith, who went to the Bruins from Oshawa Generals six years ago, is a hard-plugging left winger. He is a native of Moose Jaw.

Hockey Today Is O.K. But Coaching Is Bad

Lindsay, Ont., Nov. 17.— (CP) — Eddie Shore, one of hockey's all-time greats, says he likes hockey they way they play it now, but he doesn't think much of the coaching.

"Some believe the old game had more pretty passing plays and better body checking," Shore said Thursday at the wind-up of a three-day hockey school here.

"I think today's game is better because the puck travels faster. However, the plays have not kept up with the puck. We have lost the power of reasoning, and few coaches take the time or have the knowledge to correct players' mistakes or find out what they do krong."

Shore, owner - manager of Springfield Indians of the American Hockey Association and a veteran defenceman of 19 years in pro hockey, said he thinks coaches have misconstrued the word "streamlining."

"The game today is all go, go, go, and players are bending over in attempts to gain more speed." However, this had the effect of slowing down some players.

"A player who skates in the straight-up position will last from five to 10 years longer in professional hockey and will be able to add from $25,000 to $50,000 to his earning power. It is to our advantage to teach this style of skating and to the players' advantage to learn it."

He said that with few exceptions the outstanding players of the past skated in the upright position, including the late Howie Morenz, the Cook brothers, Frank Boucher and Ching Johnson.

"Nobody can tell me today that anyone could skate faster than Morenz," said Shore. "It is not humanly possible. Howie was an upright skater and when he brought those knees up he really flew. He had terrific power and wonderful grace."

Shore tempered his liking for present-day hockey with the observation that there are "only five really outstanding stars in the N.H.L.," although there are 70,000 hockey players in Canada. He didn't name the five.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

Floyd Curry of Montreal, who notched two counters as the Canadiens downed Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2.

Detroit's Gaye Stewart, who got two goals to lead the Red Wings to a 5-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

Police To Crack Down On Ticket Scalpers

Toronto, Nov. 17—(CP)—Police said today they intend cracking down on Grey Cup ticket-scalpers. Ducats for the East-West football final Nov. 25 are reported being offered by some speculators for $40 a pair, police said.

The Canadian Rugby Union sold tickets by mail-order for $3.90 and $2.60 a pair.

Last year detectives posed as prospective ticket-buyers in downtown hotel lobbies but only a few scalpers were picked up.

Final Grid Game Of Season To Take Place At Park Avenue Stadium At 2.30; Both Squads Ready For Tilt

Bishop's University gridders will be out in force this Saturday for their game against Sherbrooke's powerful Athletics of the Intermediate Q.R.F.U.

The game is being played at the Park Avenue Stadium at 2.30 and will give Sherbrooke citizens their first and last chance this season of seeing the Bishop's team in action.

Bishop's coach Hec Shields will be fielding his entire squad except Reed Scowen and Harry Smith who are both out with slight concussions. As this is the last game of the season Hec will be using every last resource to bring home a victory.

The starting lineup for the Purple and White will be: Charles Wright, flying wing, Jack Simpson, quarter-back, Peter Wilson and Tom Price at the halves, Bib Darby, fullback, Rock MacFarlane and George Spice, ends, Bob Hayden and Bruce Johnson at the tackle spots, Dave Vass and Dave Bown, guards, and Ross McMaster at his new center position.

Interest in Saturday's encounter is running high and there is a great deal of speculation whether the college boys will be able to take the heavier and much improved Athletics. The Athletics came through with a nice 5-5 tie with Eastward last week-end and tomorrow's tilt should be another tight one.

Intercollegiate, Eastern Canada Senior And Canadian Junior Football Titles To Be Decided Tomorrow

There's a familiar "foregone conclusion" feeling around Toronto as Argonauts and Balmy Beach prepare for Saturday's Eastern Canada senior football final at Varsity Stadium.

The feeling is familiar because it crops up about this time every year when the perennially-underdog O.R.F.U. champions come up against the highly-rated Big Four winners.

Ask just about any football fan who he thinks will meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Grey Cup final Nov. 25 and he'll say Argos are a cinch. But then just watch the smile when he adds sheepishly: Wouldn't it be funny if the Argos' farm Club, Beaches, were to upset them?

That about sums up the sudden-death playoff. Argos, who eliminated Hamilton Tiger-Cats in convincing fashion Wednesday, appear to be in. But the Beaches, with some players who would have been good in the Big Four this season, might pull a big surprise.

In general, it could be last-laugh week-end on several football fronts.

The college league winds up Saturday with McGill University Redmen, beaten only once in the six-game regular schedule, playing host to University of Western Ontario Mustangs in a post-season sudden-death playoff.

The McGills must be rated as favorites in this one as a result of their regular-season performance, but Western winning 21-11, proved last week that the Redmen can be beaten.

That victory gave Mustangs second place in the four-team conference and earned them the right to play the league leaders in the final. Under college rules the second-place team must defeat the first place finishers at least once in the season to force a playoff.

The other football feature is a miniature East-West game, with Vancouver Blue Bombers meeting Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Canadian junior final.

The principals are the same as last year when the Hamilton Tigers won it. Only difference is the locale, in Hamilton instead of Vancouver. With little basis of comparison it's a toss-up, although Hamilton might be given an edge off past performance, having won the title for the last three years running. The Bombers, after eliminating Winnipeg, entrained for Hamilton Wednesday night.

Take a look at the Beach backfield which includes Carl Galbreath, one of the best all-round backfielders in Canadian football. The only reason Hamilton let Galbreath go this season was that they had to choose from among such American imports as Bill Gregus and Special Delivery Jones as well as Galbreath.

Then there's quarterback Gerry Tuttle, who can toss a pass like a bullet, accurately too. If it weren't for import Al Dekdebrun, who holds down that spot with Argos, Tuttle probably would have been the man at quarter for the Big Four champs.

Tuttle and lineman Dwight Follin, both imports, did wonders with the Beaches after they took over part way through the season. The team is unbeaten since then and the Beaches would like more than anything else in the world to knock off their big brothers Saturday.

The reasons Argos are odds-on choices, however, are obvious. They include eagle-eye Dekdebrun, ever-dangerous Ulysses Curtis, Big Booter Joe Krol, Little Billy Bass and the rest of a smooth-working backfield fronted by a line that showed Hamilton how to overcome size with fight. And don't forget Frank Clair, the coach. He's not taking the game for granted and he's trying his darndest to see that Argos don't either.

Major League Teams Picked Up 25 Minor Loop Players At A Cost Of $239,500 In Annual Draft

Cincinnati, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Major league teams, hoping to plug gaping holes in their 1951 lineups, picked up 25 minor loop players today in the annual draft at a cost of $239,500.

Eleven of the 25 have seen previous major league service, and the average age of the draftees — around 26 years — is the highest ever in the annual talent grab from the bush loops.

A dozen pitchers, three catchers, eight infielders and a pair of outfielders were elevated to the big time.

The 16 big league clubs have until midnight Friday to post more claims for players by telegraph. The 1949 figure was 21 draftees, for whom $192,500 was paid.

The triple-A clubs, who may be excused from the draft next year, were raided for 22 of the 25 players, the American Association giving up nine, the Pacific Coast seven, and the International League six. Each cost the major loopers $10,000.

The Kansas City farm of New York Yankees was the big loser in the draft, three players being picked off the eighth place club of the American Association.

Pittsburgh picked up first baseman Richard Dale Long. Jack Cusick, shortstop, went to Chicago Cubs, and bonus pitcher Paul Henrichs was claimed by the Boston Americans.

Branch Rickey, making the opening selection as representative of the last place Pittsburgh Pirates of the National loop, put his finger on George Metkovich of Oakland, Calif., former big league outfielder who hit 24 home runs and batted .316 for the Pacific Coast League club.

Three National League clubs, St. Louis Cardinals, New York Giants, and Brooklyn Dodgers, made no draft selections. The American loop made 16 selections, including nine pitchers, and the National league drafted nine players.

Harry Dorish, who won four and lost nine for St. Louis Browns last year, had one of the shortest minor league careers on record. Less than 48 hours before the draft was made he was shifted to Toronto Maple Leafs of the International loop, but Chicago White Sox picked him up as their No. 4 draft choice.

Football Final To Be Real Game Says Kampf

Winnipeg, Nov. 17— (CP) —Sol Kampf, Winnipeg Blue Bombers' line coach, looks for the "best game ever" in the 1950 Grey Cup final.

With head coach Frank Larson, Kampf scouted yesterday's Big Four final at Toronto, won 24-6 by Argonauts over Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Larson is staying in the East to watch the Eastern Final between Argos and Toronto Balmy Beach.

"If Bombers meet Argos in the Canadian Final a week Saturday, it probably will be the fastest and best game ever seen by Canadian fans," said Kampf.

"Argos are a well-coached, hustling ball club.

"If they get into the final—and they should—they'll be the fastest team we've met."

Kampf said Argos' backfield is much the same as Bombers'—light but fast.

"They have a deadly-accurate passer in Al Dekdebrun, and an excellent punter in Joe Krol. Their line isn't as heavy as ours, but I don't think we'll out-charge them."

Unwilling to go out on a limb, Kampf said Bombers will have to be "mighty sharp" in the final.

"Our loss in the first game against Edmonton Eskimos did us a world of good. It made us realize we could be knocked off in any game.

"We know we can't let up in the (sudden - death) final as there's no second chance."

The semi-annual meeting and opening dinner of the Sherbrooke Curling Club was held last night at the local club and one hundred members attended the event.

The minutes of the annual meeting were read by George Katadotis, secretary of the club, and were adopted as read. The new members were introduced by Everett Nicol, first vice-president of the club, and were wished a cordial welcome to the club by D. J. Salls, honorary-president.

President Lothrop in his closing remarks named additional members to different committees and hoped that everybody would give their full co-operation to their chairmen as it was the basis of every successful organization.

Mr. Lothrop stated that during the summer months a curling body had been formed under the name of Sherbrooke and District Curling Association and that all clubs of the district had two members on the board. It comprised every club within the Townships and formed rules to govern all bonspiels and events during the season.
