HERALD
Steam, Book & Job Printing Office,
No. 209 Notre Dame Street,
(Near St. Frs. Xavier Street.)

THE Proprietor of this Establishment begs to inform his friends and the public, that, having enlarged his Stock of PRINTING MATERIALS, STEAM PRESSES, &c. he is now prepared to undertake every description of

BOOK, JOB AND CARD PRINTING,
In his premises, "Herald" Buildings.

Having recently added one of HOE'S NEW CYLINDER PRESSES, for Job Printing, to his Stock, he hopes to be able to execute every description of JOB PRINTING at moderate rates, and with despatch.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

To Nervous Sufferers.—A retired Clergyman, restored to health in a few days, after many years of great nervous suffering, is anxious to make known the means of cure Will send free the prescription used. Direct the Rev. JOHN M. DAGNALL, 59 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Sept. 25. 2m rts 227

Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh,

AND other affections of the LUNGS and CHEST, cured by INHALATION, local and general treatment. Inhalation alone will fail to cure most of these diseases, but in connection with proper general remedies, under Dr. HEATH'S direction, it is highly curative in these, heretofore, incurable affections. Dr. Heath is frequently applied to by persons who have neither been relieved by Inhalation, nor benefitted by shoulder-braces, nor inhaling tubes. The fact is that inhalation is only an auxiliary, and that those "Traps" are absolutely injurious.

As a proof of the success attending Dr. Heath's combined treatment, we refer to the subjoined—a few only of a large number of letters:—

423 Broadway, New York, Sept. 8, 1855.

Dear Doctor:—Although not indebted to you pecuniarily, I am under obligations of gratitude which I do not expect to be able to pay for your skill in curing me of a Bronchial affection, some three years ago, which had troubled me for a number of years, and which would not yield to caustic applications, gargles or washes. Notwithstanding my profession requires the almost constant use of my vocal organs, the cure is permanent. If you think this will be of any service to yourself or the public, you will please use it in any manner to attain it. You will, no doubt, remember two or three of my friends were also cured by you. MARCUS COLBURN.

Nervous, Chronic, Scrofulous, and affections of the Generative system, tax the constitution to such an extent as to render it liable to take on Tuberculous and other Chronic forms of disease in both sexes. Those afflicted with any of these diseases can apply with a certainty of relief to Dr. HEATH, No. 850 Broadway, New York, from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M., Sundays excepted. Patients at a distance may be treated or advised by letter on stating their cases fully.

Who is Dr. Heath? For the information and satisfaction of those who perchance do not know, we refer them to an interesting editorial which appeared in the New York Day Book two weeks since, and which has been extensively copied in the leading papers of that city, and pretty generally in the country papers. We will let others answer this question, lest our readers who have not read the above-named article, entitled "The Character and Men of New York, the Metropolis of North America," should complain of our neglect to publish it also.

I have known Dr. Heath for ten or twelve years, during which time he has assiduously devoted himself to the study and treatment of Chronic Diseases, Genito-urinary, Nervous and Constitutional Affections, Diseases of the Ear and Eye, but especially in treating Consumption and affections of the Chest with flattering success.
J. K. SNELL M.D., Green Point, Brooklyn.

Having seen numerous affidavits of cures performed by Dr. Heath, of No. 850 Broadway, we take pleasure in recommending him to the afflicted.—Advocate and Register, Rahway, N. J.

We most cheerfully recommend Dr. Heath to an enlightened public, as a professional friend of surpassing attainments, and of eminent success in his departments of practice.
LESTER GREEN, M.D., N. Y.
J. A. SMITH, M.D., N. Y.

Dr. Heath is a gentleman of high moral character and most estimable professional abilities.
GEO. PETRIE, M.D., N.Y.

The two chief characteristics in a good doctor are moral excellence and professional ability, both of which Dr. Heath possesses in an eminent degree. Hon. A. LOOMIS, N.Y.

New York, Sept. 24, 1855.

Dr. Heath—Dear Sir: I have taken my pen in hand to inform you that I am entirely free from every symptom of that alarming Consumptive Throat Disease, which I came under your medical care with, and which was so rapidly undermining my constitution. I was almost despairing of getting cured at all, until I was advised by Mr. Shaw to try you, and see if you could not relieve me. You have not only cured me physically, but you have relieved me of excessive suspense and anxiety of mind.—Yours, in gratitude, JOS. G. BYERS, N. Y.

N.B.—The Doctor's Introductory Work on the Cause and Cure of those Diseases, will be sent free to any address, upon application.

DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S
Much Celebrated Eye Water!!
"Its merits stand unrivalled."

THIS old, tried and invaluable remedy for all diseases of the eyes, after having stood the test of over fifty years, and the demand for it still increasing, is now, and has been for the past two years, offered for sale in an entire new dress. Each bottle will have a Steel Plate Engraved Envelope, with a portrait of the inventor, Dr. Isaac Thompson, New London, Conn., and a fac simile of his signature, together with a fac simile of the signature of the present proprietor, John L. Thompson, No 161 and 163 River Street, Troy, New York, and none other can be genuine.

The proprietor has been compelled to make this change in the style of wrapper owing to the large quantity of counterfeit which for the past few years has been palmed upon the community and especially at the west.

Purchasers are particularly requested to buy none but the above described, and as the red label heretofore used has been called in, any found in that form the proprietor does not hesitate to pronounce counterfeit.

THE ASSAULT ON THE REDAN.

The large cut of this spirit-stirring scene, which we have now in the hands of the wood engraver, is expected to be ready about the end of the week, and will be distributed to the subscribers to the Herald

GRATIS.

WOOD CUT OF THE REDAN.

The Cut of the Assault on the Redan, which we hoped to present to our readers on or about this day, has been unavoidably delayed for a few days.

The Peterboro' Election.—The acceptance by Mr. Langton of the office of an Auditor has created a vacancy in the representation of Peterboro', which two candidates are each ambitious to fill. These are Mr. Conger, the late Sheriff, and Mr. F. Ferguson. Each gentleman has published his address, and irrespective of their personal interests and claims, or of the local politics involved in the election these two bids for popularity may be profitably studied, with a view to ascertaining the course of the political mind in the western section of the Province. They are not two different and adverse professions of faith seeking favour, but very nearly the same sentiments put forth by both candidates. Hence we may fairly augur that these sentiments are admitted and acknowledged as those which have the greatest hold upon the public feeling of the population to which they are addressed. The chief heads of the two discourses are promises of advocacy of the application of the principle of representation by population; of a remodelling of the Legislative Council; of the choice of one city for the Seat of Government; of the Maine Liquor Law; and the reduction of duties on imports, together with "Civil and Religious Liberty." On the school question both gentlemen agree—with a difference. Mr. Ferguson says, if elected—

I will aid by every means in my power the consolidation and extension of this admirable system of education, so well adapted to the wants of a young and growing country.

I am entirely opposed to Sectarian Common Schools, and equally so to the application of any portion of the Educational grant towards that object. I consider that the Common School System is for the good of the whole country, and should be upheld in its integrity; that the principle is a sound and beneficial one of endeavoring to have the youth of Canada assemble and mingle together in receiving elementary Education, and lastly, I maintain, that the Holy Bible should be a class book constantly and systematically used in those popular institutions

Mr. Conger, on the other hand, says of separate schools:—

"I have always looked upon their establishment as impolitic, and that the parties so separating were the greatest sufferers thereby. Now, however, that they have been established, I would allow them to continue; and I do so upon the principle of not interfering with any one's religious views, or conscientious scruples."

But, with some inconsistency he comes to the very same practical solution of the question as his rival, for he adds:—

"At the same time, I insist upon their being self-supporting, and shall oppose any attempt to sustain them either by government aid, or by general taxation."

We suppose that is all Mr. Fergnson means himself.

So far, as we have before remarked, the doctrines of both gentlemen seem to be very much alike; each however, throws in a special cause of recommendation. Thus Mr. Ferguson goes for elective institutions universally; what we believe, is called in England, household suffarage; and free-trade in everything.

"I am in favor of the Elective principle being applied to all our Institutions except in the appointment of the Judiciary. In the latter respect I desire above all things to see the fountains of justice clear, pure and untrammelled, believing it to be one of the absolute requisits to freedom of person and the security of the rights of property."

"With respect of the exercise of the Franchise, I hold that every man who pays taxes, and whose name stands on the Assessor's Rolls as entitled to vote for a member of the different Municipal Corporations, should also be entitled by law to vote for the election of a Member of Parliament.

"I am an advocate of the principles of Free Trade in its widest extent. I belive that the Reciprocity Act between the United States and this province has been productive of the greatest benefit to the Agricultural and Commercial classes, and the manufacturers of the produce of the forest. I consider that the greater the stimulus that can be given to these great interests, the greater will be the material prosperity and advancement of the entire province, in wealth population and industry."

Mr. Conger on the other hand proposes if elected to devote his "energies to the development of the resources of the country. The promotion of Agriculture, the encouragement of Manufactures, and the extension of our Commerce, are subjects which will especially engage my attention." He is for making a railway from Belleville to the Georgian Bay, and for diverting the proposed canal from the latter place by the Ottawa River to Montreal, to the valley of the Trent.

We should say that Mr. Ferguson is the most out-spoken and reliable man. Mr. Conger will neither pledge himself for or against the Ministry, which, we always find, means that the man declining the pledge will vote with Ministers so long as they are strongest. The great talk about local improvement usually tends to the same conclusion.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

Les Servantes de Dieu en Canada. By Laroche Heron.

This is an account of the foundation, the history and the present state of all the houses of nuns in the Province of Canada. It contains full particulars of the members of each establishment, and the affiliations of the several branches, with the parent house. The services of these ladies at different epochs of sickness, already so well known, and so deservedly acknowledged, of course, occupy a large part of the book.

Mexico and its Religion. By R. A. Wilson—Harper, New York—Armour, Montreal.

This is a very amusing, and very Protestant, or rather Anti-Catholic account of Mexico, mixing up personal adventure and history, in a manner, perhaps, something novel, but, not the less agreeable on that account. The historical scepticism of the preface, reminds us a little of the preface to Charles the 12th.

I have presumed to follow the great Las Casas, who called all the historians of the Conquest of Mexico liars; and though his labored refutation of their fictions has disappeared, yet, fortunately, the natural evidences of their untruth still remain. Having before me the surveys and the levels of our own engineers, I have presumed to doubt that water ever ran up hill, that navigable canals were ever fed by "back water," that pyramids (teocalli) could rest on a foundation of soft earth, that a canal twelve feet broad by twelve feet deep, mostly below the water level, was ever dug by Indians with their rude implements, that gardens ever floated in mud, or that brigantines ever sailed in a salt marsh, or that 100,000 men ever entered the mud-built city of Mexico by a narrow causeway in the morning, and after fighting all day returned by the same path at night to their camp, or that so large a besieging army as 150,000 men could be supported in a salt-marsh valley, surrounded by high mountains.

The authors description of the wonderfully, varied natural scenery of a country, which lying in the torrid zone, by the elevation of its table lands has habitable regions, almost as cold as Canada, are exceedingly good, as are some of his accounts of Mexican manners. Here is a robber adventure told by a fellow traveller.

"Four years ago," began the artist who made sketches for this work, "while I was making a pedestrian journey over this road, I seated myself, weak and hungry, upon a stone by the roadside, not a little tired of life and evil fortune. The remains of the yellow fever were still upon me, and only a single dollar burdened my pocket; for I did not learn, until too late, how poor a place for an artist from abroad is this country, where the San Carlos is creating the native article by scores. I had not sat long in my gloomy mood before I had company enough; for as I looked up I saw, trooping down the side of the hill, a band of men, who I thought would soon put an end to my troubles. I took the thing coolly, for I cared little for the result; and had I cared, there was no helping it now. So I patiently waited their arrival. To the questions of the only one who could talk English I answered briefly, as I supposed they would soon end my troubles. When I told him that I cared little if he did kill me, the whole party laughed uproariously. The leader now came up, and having searched me, found my story to be true. I then drew an outline of a picture with my pencil, and gave it to him.—This so pleased him that he wrote me a memorandum, and with verbal directions as to the way I was to go if I wished for lodgings for the night, he bade me adieu and the party disappeared up the side of the woody hill, and I set out on my journey."

The leagues were very long, but the landmarks were unmistakable; and without difficulty the artist reached the house and presented his paper to an old woman that appeared at the door. This paper procured him a good supper, and comfortable quarters for the night; for his fine open countenance and yellow hair seemed to have touched the heart of this old Mexican matron—a class o persons, by-the-way, who are the kindest mortals in the world. The good cheer disposed of, he gathered up his feet upon his mat for the night, and slept as men do who have nothing to fear from robbers. When in the morning he awoke, he found the old dame astir, preparing for him an early breakfast, which was of a quality unexpected in so unpretending a mansion.—When breakfast was prepared, and after he had finished eating it, the old woman made him understand by signs that he was to go into the adjoining room and there replenish his dilapidated wardrobe. She supplied him with a new suit from head to heel, and then urged him to tie around his waist a small sheep's entrail filled with brandy, according to the custom of Mexican Indians.

The Works of Charles Lamb, Edited by Talfourd. Harpers, N. Y.—Armour, Montreal.

Who has not heard of the worthy, melancholy, kind-hearted Elia, who thought himself, or who professed to think himself, worked to death by six hours a day at the East India House, in return for a pretty good salary; but whose whimsies made even his real or fancied miseries a subject of amusement to himself and his friends. This edition of his works by Talfourd, with a biographical notice, will, no doubt, be considered a treat by those who have hitherto admired his stray pieces, or who, having read his works, desire to know something of their author. The following letter to the Quaker poet, Bernard Barton, is a pretty good illustration of the vein of fun which runs through the writings of Charles Lamb, though the joking upon the death of a fellow-creature is certainly not the most amiable of his writings:—

TO BERNARD BARTON.

"Dear B B—Do you know what it is to succumb under an insurmountable day-mare—'a whoreson lethargy,' Falstaff calls it, an indisposition to do anything, or to be anything—a total deadness and distaste—a suspension of vitality—an indifference to locality—a numb, soporifical good-for-nothingness—an ossification all over—an oysterlike insensibility to the passing events—a mind-stupor—a brawny defiance to the needles of a thrusting-in conscience? Did you ever have a very bad cold, with a total irresolution to submit to water-gruel processes? This has been for many weeks my lot and my excuse; my fingers drag heavily over this paper, and, to my thinking, it's three-and-twenty furlongs from hence to the end of this demi-sheet. I have not a thing to say; nothing is of more importance than another; I am flatter than a denial or a pancake; emptier than Judge ——'s wig when the head is in it; duller than a country stage when the actors are off it; a cipher, an O! I acknowledge life at all only by an occasional convulsional cough, and a permanent phlegmatic pain in the chest. I am weary of the world, and the world is weary of me. My day is gone into twilight, and I don't think it worth the expense of candles. My wick hath a thief in it, but I can't muster courage to snuff it. I inhale suffocation; I can't distinguish veal from mutton; nothing interests me. 'Tis twelve o'clock, and Thurtell is just now coming out upon the New Drop, Jack Ketch alertly tucking up his greasy sleeves to do the last office of mortality, yet cannot I elicit a groan or a moral reflection. If you told me the world would be at an end to-morrow, I should just say, 'will it?' I have not volition enough left to dot my i's, much less to comb my eyebrows; my eyes are set in my head; my brains are gone out to see a poor relation in Moorfields, and they did not say when they'd come back again; my scull is a Grub-street attic to let—not so much as a joint-stool left in it; my hand writes, not I, just as chickens run about a little when their heads are off. Oh for a vigorous fit of gout, of cholic, toothache—an earwig in my auditory, a fly in my visual organs; pain is life—the sharper, the more evidence of life; but this apathy, this death! Did you ever have an obstinate cold—a six or seven weeks' unintermitting chill and suspension of hope, fear, conscience, and everything? Yet do I try all I can to cure it; I try wine, and spirits, and smoking, and snuff in unsparing quantities, but they all only seem to make we worse instead of better.—I sleep in a damp room, but it does no good; I come home late o'nights, but do not find any visible amendment!

"It is just fifteen minutes after twelve; Thurtell is by this time a good way on his journey, baiting at Scorpion, perhaps; Ketch is bargaining for his cast coat and waistcoat; the Jew demurs at first at three half-crowns; but, on consideration that he may get something by selling 'em in the town, finally closes

Estelle Grant, or the Lost Wife.—Garrett & Co., N. Y.—Armour, Montreal. Lily, A Novel—Harpers, N. Y.—Armour, Montreal.

We class these two books together. They are of the ordinary style of the American romance, both pleasant companions for a quiet afternoon or a railroad excursion, but not calculated to command any very enduring interest. We can recommend them to the searchers after new light literature.

Destruction of a Bridge.—We regret to learn, says the Hamilton Banner, that Bridge across the Grand River, at Brantford, was carried away on Thursday last, by the accumulation of a large quantity of drift-wood against the wooden supporters of the Bridge. In spite of the exertions of the towns-people, headed by the Mayor, to tear away the immense mass of brushwood it continued to increase, and eventually carried away a portion of the Bridge.

The foreign emigration to the United States in 1853 was 283,954; in 1854, 319,223; while in ten months of the present year it is but 119,420.

The Chicago Democratic Press says "Our readers will be glad to learn that Col. R. B. Masson, left last evening for Toronto to examine the ground of the Georgian Bay Canal. The commercial and business public will look anxiously for his report, for if the project should be found to be feasible it will at once take rank as one of the great necessities of the age."

Marriage of Meagher.—A New York paper says that Thomas F. Meagher, Esq., was married by Archbishop Hughes, at the Episcopal Residence, to Miss Elizabeth, daughter of Peter Townsend, Esq., of Grange County. The parents of the bride objected to the alliance, and it became a runaway match.

Two Men of the "Premier" Drowned.—Intelligence has just been received from the ship "Premier," near the Pillars, of an accident whereby two of her crew unfortunately found a watery grave. The following is an extract from a letter written by a sailor on board:—"It becomes my painful duty to inform you that John Creighton, who shipped with me at Quebec was drowned this day, (Nov. 16th) about twelve o'clock, while in the execution of his duty. The circumstances were these:—He was ordered to cat the anchor, and while in the act of so doing, the weather being boisterous, the cat-fall surged too much, and he was precipitated into the St. Lawrence, and sunk never to rise more. A boat was lowered to render him assistance, but it almost immediately filled, and we, besides, lost Mr. Robt. Richards, our Mate, who was also drowned. Two others of the crew who were with him at the time had a narrow escape. The Captain will go to shore to-morrow morning, and send Creighton's clothes to Quebec."—Quebec Chronicle.

Terrific Storm.—The wind blew on Saturday from the eastward with a violence seldom exceeded on these lakes. The weather had been heavy for forty-eight hours previously, but became much worse towards noon. We have not heard as yet of any accidents to vessels, but fear that damage has been done. The Magnet arrived here from Kingston at 5½ p.m., with a company of the Rifles on board, and a number of passengers. Capt. Twohy reported having seen three steamers on his way up, and two schooners scudding under bare poles. It was the Passport's day for going down the lake, but she did not leave harbour. The Maple Leaf left Rochester at 12 o'clock on Friday night, and arrived here about half-past 9 on Saturday evening. The Welland came down in the morning from Hamilton, but did not return; the Chief went up, but did not make the trip down. The Passport which arrived on Friday night, as we noticed on Saturday, was on the lake twenty-four hours. The soldiers on board were put on short rations, it is said.—Toronto Globe, of Monday.

Meeting Yesterday at the Board of Trade Rooms.

Yesterday a meeting of some of the principal merchants of this city was held at the Rooms of the Board of Trade. Mr. Edmonstone was called on take the Chair, and Mr. Hart was requested to act as Secretary.

Mr. Young said, as one of those who had been instrumental in calling the meeting, it became his duty to say a few words as to its object. It was universally believed among the merchants of Montreal that the trade of the country was suffering materially from the present mode of collecting specific duties and that the ad valorem was the more just method. The present system was, indeed, driving away the trade of the country into other channels, and giving the merchant of Lower Canada very little chance, no matter what his enterprise, of attracting a trade through the St. Lawrence. Under such a system the Canadian merchant had no opportunity of entering the distant markets of the world to purchase merchandize at its lowest cost and bring it here on the same terms as the American merchant. It had, therefore, been thought that if some organization could be devised to bring the matter before the public a very good work would be accomplished; for he could not believe that if representations of the injustice of the present law were made to the Government they would fail to see the propriety of changing the obnoxious principle. At present it was the poorer classes of society which paid the heaviest taxes; for instance, the man who bought common brown sugar at 10d per pound paid as much as the man who bought sugar at 1s 3d per pound—and so with everything else—the poor man constantly paid the largest proportional duty; in some cases 200 or 300 per cent more than the richer one. Besides this, the present method of collecting the duties, while it was unjust to the poor man drove away our trade. In 1854, there were imported into the Province 363,210 lbs of tea, of which only 66,027 lbs came by sea. There were also imported 301,185 lbs of sugar, of which only 145,359 lbs came by sea; 64,283 lbs of molasses, of which only 23,397 lbs came by sea; and 42,000 lbs of coffee, of which only 5,913 lbs came by sea. Now, it was plain that unless the merchants of Lower Canada could import goods direct they could not send away cargoes from hence, and the result was that our exports to the British West Indies last year were but £2,247, while those of the United States were $4,300,000. There must then be something wrong in the system upon which the business of Canada was conducted; and he thought that under the system of ad valorem duties the merchant at one end of the province would have the same chance as the merchant at the other, and as the merchant of the United States. Under that system there would be no injustice to anybody, for the Upper Canada merchant would be able to import his goods at the same rate as the merchant of Montreal, and bring them through any channel he pleased. He proceeded to move the first resolution:—

Moved by Mr. Young, seconded by Alexander Urquhart—

That in the opinion of this meeting all duties on imports should be so levied as to bear, as far as possible, equally on all classes of society.

Carried.

Mr. Seymour agreed thoroughly with the sentiments of the first resolution as to the present mode of levying duties not being the most just; but he thought it would be proper to go beyond anything at present mooted, and that the principle of reciprocity should be carried out to its fullest extent. Free Traders and Protectionists would alike agree in saying that that was not the case at present. There was, for instance, a quantity of low-priced teas now in the market, which were not fit for Upper Canada, but which were of a class of goods largely required in the New York market, and could be sold without loss were it not for the high rate of duty charged on crossing the line—a rate so high that holders here preferred to keep them. It was the same with many descriptions of dry goods, and woollens could not be taken across the lines without a heavy duty being paid for them. He thought, thereupon, that a committee should be appointed to bring this matter before the Legislature; for so long as the present system existed there could be no manufacturing prosperity in the country. He moved the second resolution, viz:—

Moved by Mr. Seymour, seconded by Mr Marchand—

That the present mode of levying specific rates of duty is unjust to a large class of consumers, and injurious to trade.

Mr. Henry Lyman in moving the third resolution said he had long felt we had only the first instalment of reciprocity; and if the United States had not managed their duties better than Canada, their foreign trade would yet be to be created.

Moved by Mr. Lyman, seconded by Mr. Hart—

That in the opinion of this meeting the ad valorem principle of collecting duty is the most just, is best calculated to promote the trade of the Province; that every means should be used to secure its adoption by the Government, and that Messrs. Young, J. B. Smith, Mitchell, Renaud, Seymour, Cramp, Urquhart, Marchand, V. Hudon, T. Ryan, D. L. McDougall, be a Committee to take such measures as, in their judgment, may best promote this object.

Mr. Hart in seconding the resolution said it seemed as if our Government had done all in its power to drive the trade from our own waters. We had invested large sums in our Canals, and yet they were nearly closed up. The present tariff, indeed, prevented Lower Canada from carrying on its trade. In the same way the Province was reponsible for a large part of the cost of the Grand Trunk Railroad, of which the revenues depended entirely on the traffic done upon it. Yet what was the effect of the tariff? Why, that the Upper Canadian merchant went to New York and Boston to purchase his goods. The result was that the profits were made by American forwarders, railways and canals, instead of being made by our own. The change which would obviate this, then was a matter of public concern. If the Western merchants were opposed to it, it could be only from prejudice, because, under the proposed system, they could go and buy anywhere, and bring the goods through the United States on just the same terms as by any other route, and with the same advantage as New York or Boston had at present. No one could deny the injustice of making rich and poor pay the same amount of duties, as they did at present. The principle was erroneous. In the United States they once had specific duties, but they changed them to ad valorems; and even in Canada most of the duties were still ad valorem, it being only on a few kinds of goods, just those which it was important to bring this way that specific duties were levied. The merchant of Lower Canada was debarred from going to foreign markets, or if he went he had to compete with the jobbers of New York, upon whose goods no more duties were levied than upon goods brought from 3,000 miles away. It only wanted a proper representation to set the public feeling right, and if that were strong in Lower Canada alone it would be enough to induce the government to act. The resolution was carried.

Mr. Lyman here said that it was objected to the ad valorem system that it enabled cheats to be practised on the revenue; but in the United States they obtained accounts of the true value of different kinds of goods through their consuls, and we could do the same through British consuls, or have consuls of our own

Mr. Gould, whose name was on the list of the Committee, objected to serve, because he thought the object of the appointment did not go far enough. He wanted thorough reciprocity.

Mr. Hart said the present meeting was only called with reference to the one subject—the changes in the mode of levying the duties.

Mr. Gould remarked that in the United States the duties were not all ad valorem and there was was an effort being made to convert some of the present ad valorems into specifics. Nevertheless, he approved of what was proposed in our present circumstances. However, it was only another struggle, which would not prevent us from sinking still deeper till we should be forced at last to get rid of the whole system. The Hon. Mr. Merritt had told him recently that the reciprocity bill was but the first step to a more comprehensive measure. It was idle to speak of prosperity while we were shut out from the markets of the United States. There could be no manufactories in Canada under such circumstances. The Province was a narrow belt of territory with a small population, and persons of capital would not come here to manufacture for it. It would be quite a different thing if they could manufacture for this country and the United States also. Till that we must struggle on as we could. It appeared to him that when the purport of that meeting came before the Government and people at Toronto, they would be inclined to chuckle again over it, as another spasm of the people down in Montreal.

Mr. Young said it was a mistake to say that many specific duties were changed in the United States. All the duties there were ad valorem.

Mr. Bristow urged that it was not sufficient to contend for the attention of the system from specific to ad valorem duties, unless at the same time it was clearly indicated, that the duty was to be levied on the value, at the place of export.

Mr. Torrance said that was always the case.

Mr. Bristow went on to say, that the change sought, was one of vast importance; but not a man in Upper Canada, could be found to support their views. It was merely a local movement, which they were making, and it would be met with the strongest opposition, from the Government and people of Canada West, and he would be sorry to see such an assembly of the principal merchants of the first mercantile City in Canada placing themselves in a position which seemed to him almost ridiculous. Such a movement could not be responded to in Upper Canada. There was, therefore, something more required, and that was to have the principle of reciprocity carried out farther, and extended to manufactured goods—not with regard to one country, but with regard to all countries which would adopt it. He acknowledged that he was disappointed that so trifling a matter was proposed when there was one of so much more importance which a large body, out of doors, in Upper Canada and in Lower Canada would support. Whatever might be thought of it, this question was knocking at the door for admittance. Every manufacturer in Montreal would come there and tell them that he could not continue his trade, if the manufacturers of the Unieed States were admitted at a nominal duty, while he could not send his goods to the American market without the payment of a high duty. He felt convinced that it was the only change that was feasible, and that the mechanics and manufacturers of Montreal and Canada West would not lend their assistance to a project like this, which was of special application merely, instead of being beneficial to all parts of the community.

Mr. Hart repeated that the object of the meeting was a special one to bring about a cooperation with Upper Canada on a subject which was thought to be of general benefit, and so far from Upper Canada being opposed to it, in Parliament last winter, it was the want of Lower Canadian support which alone prevented it from being carried. The Canadian merchants had to pay as much duty on goods sold in Montreal, as the American merchant did on goods sold in New York, and thus all the advantage was created in favor of American ship owners, canals, and railways. The great question was as to putting our duties into a position where we might do business on fair terms.

Mr. Sinclair though in favor of direct importations would not wish to injure ourselves to promote it. Something had been said about the article of tea, and that we could not export it to the United States; but the truth was that in the United States they had a greater quantity of low priced tea in the market than we had. Formerly low priced tea used to be imported here, and any quantity of it could be sold; but now, if that quality were imported it would be impossible to sell any of it. The truth was, that the poorer buyers seeing that the better qualities could be had, for a small addition to the price would not buy the inferior kinds. It was the same thing with sugar. Under the ad valorem system, too, there had been a great deal of fraud which the specific system prevented; for goods had formerly been entered 50 or 60 per cent below their cost, for want of efficient Custom House officers. It must not be supposed either that any system whatever would bring trade entirely from the large to the smaller marts. In England the merchants of Liverpool and Glasgow imported considerable quantities of teas, but they never thought of taking them to Glasgow or Liverpool. They all went to London. So in the United States, a great deal of tea was owned in Boston; but it had to go almost always to New York, because that was the emporium of the trade. It should be remarked, also, that a great increase in trade had taken place since the specific duties had been imposed, and he believed now that nothing was wanted but enterprising merchants to do a good trade in Montreal.

Mr. Young said that, with regard to the alleged frauds under the ad valorem system, two-thirds of all the imports paid ad valorem, and they were dry goods, silks, and fancy goods, upon which it was almost necessary to rely on the faith of the merchant; whereas there could be no deceit with respect to the value of sugar. In the United States, they had three appraisers constantly going round fixing the price of goods, and we might do the same thing. Many other things were wanted no doubt to restore our fair share of trade; but the one now proposed was one of great necessity.

Mr. Hart believed the increased trade spoken of by Mr. Sinclair had occurred under the ad valorem system. The specific duties only took effect this year and we had yet to see the effect.

Mr. Thos. Thompson thought it very desirable that the resolutions to be passed should not be of a sectional character, and he believed that those adopted were not of that character. Mr. Bristow thought they would be opposed in Upper Canada, but he failed to show why—how they could hurt the poor man in Upper Canada.

Mr. Dorion, M.P.P.—Did not come there to speak; but to hear the opinions of others; but he suggested that it would be very desireable, in order to influence Parliament, to secure the co-operation of the other Boards of Trade, so as to avoid the appearance of anything sectional.—There had last session been differences between the various Boards of Trade, which had done much mischief. He was, perhaps, not acquainted with the practical difficulties; but he could not understand what objection there could be to ad valorem duties.

Mr. Gould—Did not object to the proposed change, but wanted to go farther.

Mr. Cramp then moved the fourth resolution.

Moved by Mr. Cramp, seconded by ——

That while this Province has expended vast sums of money for the construction of Canals and improving the navigation of the St. Lawrence, our present system of levying duties entirely prevents the flow of business and consequent production of revenue, from this, its natural source.

Thanks were voted to the Chairman and the meeting adjourned.

TORONTO CORRESPONDENCE OF MONTREAL HERALD.

Toronto, Nov. 17

A Startling Rumor—Repudiation by the City—Trouble ahead—Sale of the Northern Railroad—Another 1 per centage Speculation—More Political Dinners—Their spread and folly—The Public Offices—The Parliament House—Who gets the pickings, and slurs over the work.

After the natural tendency of our frail humanity to people idle space with crude fancies, the public, at present growing almost tired of the continued vacancy in political affairs, has started a strange rumor—no less, indeed, than the conversion of the ambitious member for Lambton into a patriotic ministerialist, and his broad-sheet into a regular coalition dulcimer.—With whom, or how, the odd report has originated, it is not easy to learn. However this may be, there is no question as to the fact of its forming just now the only bonne bouche among the quid nuncs,—a theme of wonder and discussion especially in gossiping circles. It possibly may, have originated in some very insignificant manner, and have gathered all the probability its propagators boast of through thoughtless repetition. The knowing ones, whilst they repeat, do not believe it. Nor does your humble correspondent deem the rumor worthy of serious mention—except only as a sign of how small a matter, fanciful or real, suffices in these stagnant times to start the talking jade into full cry; and, otherwise, as an illustration of what curious and contrary conclusions the public is apt to draw from the acts and language of parties in whom it has no great confidence. There is a vast difference between confidence and that kind of sectarian partiality which the followers of Mr. Brown extend to him, quick in its growth, but feeble in development and liable to wither in a medium temperature. Mr. Macdonald, who applauds the Hincksian tactics of ruining his adversaries by combining with them, is said to be the negotiator of the rumored compromise. Who can blame the public gossip for such singular reports when she notes—

"Men who last week were foes, now found in corners, Mysteriously affectionate?"

Should the mooted fusion become a fait accompli who will say consistency is not a name to fright our Cæsars from a better choice?

A debate of more interest than is common to Municipal bodies is expected to take place in the Toronto City Council, next Monday night. It arises on a resolution caused by certain statements of an authoritative kind, made by Mr. Hincks at the London dinner. He there stated that the Board of Directers of the Grand Trunk Railroad Company have decided to abandon that part of the Main Line West of London, to the Great Western Road, leaving them the entire route to Windsor and also the Sarnia branch.—The Toronto Corporation having subscribed stock on conditions including the extension of the Grand Trunk Road to Port Sarnia, it is now proposed to repudiate the subscription, on the plea that the alteration announced by Mr. Hincks, speaking for President Ross, is a breach of bargain which releases the Council from its corresponding obligation. Now, as our aldermanic body is famous (rather, I should say, infamous) for repudiating all sorts of contracts, and has by this time got its hand pretty well in for unravelling the most binding obligations, there is every probability of making trouble in the present instance. The result, if important, will be communicated to the Herald. I fear that no desire to preserve the credit of their city can be expected to deter these Pennsylvanian aldermen from affirming an act of repudiation. Their previous performances have so completely destroyed all faith in them as a representative body, that they seem conscious of having no character to be lost, and are therefore valiantly reckless.

I forget whether or not my last week's communication informed you that the sale of the Northern Railroad has been talked of in quarters which give an air of certainty to the negotiation. Mr. Zimmerman, of Niagara, and an American speculator, are the purchasers. Thereby hangs a tale. Mr. J. C. Morrison, President of the Ontario and Simcoe and Hamilton Railroad Company, went to England during last summer to raise a loan. He was not successful. People wondered why. It is said that Hincks and others of Zimmerman's friends canvassed against the road, and spoilt all chances of a loan in the London market. In the meantime it was perfectly understood between these speculators that the road must be sold, if funds could not be procured—and sold cheap, too, in these straitened times. They have gained their point. Pinched at home, and disappointed abroad, the interested parties have come to the conclusion that the line must be disposed of to whoever will pony up. The whole scheme has worked admirably, so far as the sharers are concerned. Zimmerman & Co. have got a cheap bargain, the cute Governor of the Windward Islands has pocketed his "one per cent" the usual rate, and the grateful chief speculator has given his accommodating friend a grand dinner and ball. So runs the world away.

Mentioning this dinner reminds me of a fresh brace of these feeds intended to come off before long; one of which is announced as a genuine Reform banquet, "in direct opposition to the present Administration." None but honest yeomen will attend, who, by their capacity of stomach and strength of lungs, shall "show that the Ministry are detested by all staunch Liberals, and that their period of domination and misrule must soon give way to something better." This meeting has been appointed to be held somewhere in the county of Norfolk—at Simcoe, I presume, as that is the county town. Of course there'll be mystic handwriting on the wall. The county member, Dr. Rolph, has been selected to do the Mene, mene, because he is supposed to have a better acquaintance with phosphoric characters than any one else. And the other dinner, at Hamilton, has been "got up" to solace the gallant Knight. Public dinners are now the only fashionable salves to blemished reputations, and a very convenient substitute for true popularity. The fact is, we shall soon require a regularly appointed Officier de Cuisine, a provincial M. Soyer. Here's a chance for a new porte feuille. The Premier's dinner will take place on the 29th of this month. At the same time a service of plate will be presented to him—if it doesn't get into the sheriff's hands before that date. Sir Francis Bond Head is the principal subscriber to this testimonial! Think of that, Reformers of 1837 & '38. Perhaps Sir Edmund will present it.

In sober seriousness—has not this farcical solemnity already exceeded the patience and outraged the good sense of the Canadian public? Every sensible man is sick of it. So great and intolerable a nuisance has it become, there should be an act of Parliament passed to prevent any further extension. Even now has it so vitiated public sentiment, that a really honest and deserving man would justly regard it as an insult were he to be offered a public dinner and a lot of silver ware. Just consider what strong amplifications of this dinnering folly the people have been domed to witness. Here we have had two Governors flitting about the country—two full Governors! Jemima! no one knew which was which—and making more mischief than a semi-civilized member of Barnum's Boston caravan, let loose, could ever have accomplished. For pity's sake let us have some little respect for both our intelligence and our stomachs. Please, Sir Edmund, establish a temperate example, by sending for answer to the next invitation you get asking you to attend a public feed, that you have plenty at home to satisfy hunger, and, moreover, you have found it anything but pleasant, after cramming yourself (out of politeness) with substantial viands, to be required to bolt your own vernacular. I dare say the gentle rebuke would have a good effect. May it please you to try the experiment.

But few of the public departments are yet opened for the transaction of official business. It could scarce be otherwise; the buildings designed for their accommodation never having been prepared for that purpose until the eleventh hour. It is impossible to exaggerate the neglect and delay which have characterised the proceedings of all parties in any wise concerned with making ready these offices for occupation. Time certainly was not wanting, since the determination to remove from Quebec was known so early as last spring. And for expense, that has not been spared, as the mechanic off-shoots of the Family Compact in this city can abundantly testify. For, be it known, the fat that is going drips into the pans of cousins, brothers-in-law, nephews marriage relations, &c., who will take good care not to hurry away the receptacle, so long as holding it continues to be profitable. The various public offices are scattered over different and distant parts of the city. Nothing could be more absurdly inconvenient. And with the exception of a few of the apartments in the old medical college, not one of the buildings engaged is properly suited for a public office.

When will this despicable system of alternation cease? And when shall we learn the wisdom of concentrating the vast expenditure incurred to convert some landlords' dwellings into public offices, at an expense nearly equal to the erection of independent buildings, and all the other wasteful outlays; when shall we learn wisdom enough to control the proper appropriation of so much money, in building and beautifying the needful premises for a permanent Seat of Government.—The Assembly Chamber in the old Parliament House here, is about as badly botched as it could have been. Instead of consulting the officers of the Legislature and Council, who should know something about the best mode of complying with the wants of the House, certain favoured contractors here have been permitted to spend as much money as their arithmetic and book-keeping by double-entry can cover, and to prepare the place according to their own pleasure. They, as in duty bound, perform the least possible work for the largest estimate. One of the most remarkable results of this happy arrangement is, that the work at present going on will not only contract the hitherto incommodious halls, but will actually render the whole more intolerably unfit than it has been in bygone days. The reporters' gallery, for instance, which before was like a huge candle-bracket in one corner of the room, has been extended on the same level round to the spectators' gallery! And it now looks like a very unsafe mantle piece, hanging just over the heads of the members. Fortunately it hangs over the ministerial side of the House, otherwise it would be excessively inconvenient, as Mr. Brown's head would be in constant danger of coming in abrupt contact with the ladies' soles (not souls) close above him. He, however, need be under no alarm, as there is not the remotest possible chance of his being seated on the right hand of the Speaker while Parliament fulfils its allotted term in Toronto. The additional gallery in question should have been raised to a level with the lowest tier of seats facing the Speaker's chair and occupied also the now vacant and ugly space between the top of that fixture and the south-east corner of the room. As now arranged the whole structure has a most awkward and ungainly appearance, and it is besides excessively inconvenient—highly so, because uncomfortable for the audience, troublesome to the members, and inadequate to the services of the Press. The Commissioner of Public Works has, I suppose, had his attention so much engrossed with the administration of the Crown Lands Department, during Mr. Cameron's absence in Paris, that so trifling a part of his native duty as superintending the outlay of so much money to accommodate the Legislature has not received the same measure of attention that dear Monsieur Chabot would have bestowed upon it (when not over at old Privat's or in the Police Station); therefore, the whole charge has been left to take care of itself.

The day before yesterday Wm. Coutts, Viscount Bury, only son of the Earl of Albemarle, was united in wedlock to Sophia, second and youngest daughter of Sir Allan Napier MacNab, at Dundurn Castle, Hamilton.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

The French divide a quadrant of the earth's circumference, or the distance from the equator to the pole, into ten million equal parts for their unit of linear measure. This is the basis of their tables, and is termed a metre being nearly equal to 39·38 inches of our measure.

A universal system of weights and measures, uniform, and adapted to the decimal scale, is a desideratum of the commercial world which must ere long be met. Why, even in our own country we must have liquid and dry measures, with different volumes for the same names; why three different measures of gravity, and even in the same measure two different tons, differing by nearly two and a half hundred pounds, are necessary, would puzzle even a French savant.

In the system adopted in France, quantities greater than the unit are denoted by Greek prefixes; viz. deca, hecto, kilo, myria; subdivisions of the unit by the Latin numerals, deci, centi and milli. Thus, their denominations of linear measures, beginning with the smallest, are, millimetres, centimetres, decimetres, METRES decametres, hectometres, kilometres, myriametres.

Their unit of surface measure is a square whose sides are ten metres in length, called are containing 119,66 square yards nearly. The unit of solid measure is the stere, which equals a cubic metre, and contains about 35 34 solid feet. For liquid and dry measure the litre is adopted holding about one quart, being a cubic decimetre. The weight of a cubic centimetre of distilled water at its maximum density is called a gramme and is equal to about 56 of an avoirdupois dram. The weight used for business purposes is the kilogramme, which is nearly 1.21 lbs.

I confess my love for our own nervous Anglo-Saxon, and I believe, while we adopt the French basis, we can secure from our almost monosyllabic mother tongue derivative forms that all convey the idea of the measure along with it. Let the numerals be prefixed to the unit, either with or without a hyphers the derivative thus formed be used as a singular word forming its plural regular Thus, if the unit of linear measure be called a line we can have a ten line or a hundred line, as well as a tenth line or hundredth line: and we may speak of two ten-lines, or four hundred-lines, as we do now of two or four hundred-weight. Such a momenclature may sound a little odd at first, but it has the positive advantage of being distinctly intelligible to the unlettered.

We give below the standard units of several French measures, with the proposed English name, and their nearest approximate value.

We wish some member of the next Congress would move in this matter. A change must come at some time, and the sooner the better, we think.

UNITED STATES.

OUR FOREIGN RELATIONS.

(From the Washington Union, the Official Organ.)

OUR RELATIONS WITH GREAT BRITAIN.

The arrival of the Pacific while it brings more full and exact information in regard to the purposes and object of the British government in despatching an additional naval force to the West Indies, has, at the same time, served to confirm the assurances which we gave to the public a few days since, that there is nothing whatever in the diplomatic relations of Great Britain and the United States which need awaken a moment solicitude on this side of the water. It is abundantly manifest that in both countries there exists in the minds as well of government as of people a right appreciation of the value of mutual peace to each with a correspondent determination not to let go its advantages for any secondary or inadequate cause.

It is true that one most important question is the subject of earnest discussion between the two governments, namely, the Central American question; but, although there is a very serious difference of opinion between them on some points, yet that difference is a matter still belonging altogether in the domain of negotiation.

We apprehend that it will satisfactorily appear in the sequel that the proposed naval demonstration had its origin in part in mistimed alarm produced by the groundless charge, presented, as it may be remembered, early in October by the British Consul to New York, against the bark Maury.

At the same time, it is not to be disguised that the error of the British government in undertaking to raise recruits in the United States, the all but unanimous condemnation that attempt has encountered in both countries, and some quite natural and conceivable vexation of members of the British government in view of all the incidents and consequences of that unadvised undertaking had influence in producing the orders for a naval expedition wearing the appearance at least of a menace against the United States.

Parties accused may continue to fret concerning what they unjustly impute as undue severity of language or of act on the part of the law officers of the government, and of our judges, in the performance of their duties of purely domestic administration. Such complaints are misplaced, and are, besides, of no account. It should be remembered how much more summary and more extreme has been, under the same circumstances, the course of legal authorities in Germany.

The most remarkable fact in this relation is the unfounded accusation against Mr. Marcy and Mr. Buchanan, which appears almost simultaneously in the British press in America and the British press in England.

We have already called attention to the former, and stamped with the reprobation it deserves the false declaration of the New York Albion, that in what Mr. Crampton has done he had the previous sanction of the American Secretary of State.

We now have to call public attention to the declaration of the London Times, in the paragraph subjoined, which presumes to say that in what the British government itself did, it had the sanction or encouragement of the American minister in London. We know, and are able to state in the most positive terms, that this imputation is utterly false and destitute of any shadow of foundation. We are confident that it will appear incontrovertibly that, in everything which Mr. Buchanan has said or done, he has honorably and ably represented the sentiments and the interests of the United States, and that in this class of public questions particularly, he has, in common with his government and his countrymen, maintained unwaveringly the attitude of dignified and impartial neutrality, in reference to that combat of giants which now convulses Europe, and all the great parties to which are entitled to, and alike receive, the respectful consideration of the United States:—

(From the London Times, Nov. 1.)

"When the war in the East first broke out, and England found herself in new and unwonted alliance with France, and an equally unwonted hostility with Russia, there was no power from which she received assurance of support more hearty, more satisfactory, and more spontaneous than from the United States of America. Even the minister of the Union in this country, unless we are misinformed, testified to the cordial sympathy of the Cabinet at Washington and the nation over which it presides. He expressed an apprehension as to the durability of our alliance with France, and our ability alone and unaided to resist the overwhelming might of Russia. But he desired us to be under no apprehension on that account, for the United States were willing to make our quarrel their own, and aid us with thousands of stout hearts and brawny arms, as ready to pluck down the despotism of the East as to subdue the wilderness and level the giant forests of the West."

We learn that upon the receipt of the intelligence by the Asia of the intention of the British government as to the contemplated despatch of a considerable naval squadron to the American waters the Secretary of the navy, although unable to believe that that squadron had any hostile object, yet, as it bore the appearance, at least, of menace, concluded in the spirit of wise and just regard for the public interest, to withhold, for the moment, instructions to Commodore Paulding, the commander of the Home Squadron.

The official intelligence received from London by the Pacific gives assurance to our government that the proposed British naval expedition has no reference to Central American matters, nor in any respect a purpose unfriendly to this country. In consequence of this, Commodore Paulding will proceed to the coast of Nicaragua with only one ship—the Potomac—and in charge only of the general concerns of the United States in that quarter.

American Diplomacy.—The New York Herald says:—

Lamentable as is such a state of things, we have not as yet touched upon its worst and most degrading feature. From circumstances which have recently come to our knowledge, it appears that not only have the interests of the country abroad been recklessly sacrificed to the necessities of political partisanship, but that its honor has been prostituted to the lust and wantonness of official depravity. It will hardly be credited, but it is not the less a fact, that either the State Department at Washington, or some of its diplomatic agents in Europe, gave, last summer, passports under false names to several kept and disreputable women of this and other cities, furnished by certain corrupt politicians. In some half dozen of these false passports were assumed the names not only of some of the best known and most respectable families of this city, but of other parts of the Union. Under the protection of these documents these women, having plenty of money to spend, made the tour of Europe in the most agreeable and distingue manner possible, receiving the ready attentions of American diplomats on their way; visiting in the best European families in consequence, and leaving, no doubt, wherever they went, a high impression of the refinement and moral purity of our fair countrywomen. These startling facts were first brought under the notice of the French and English governments in the course of some curious discoveries made by the Paris police; but nefarious as they are, Louis Napoleon and Lord Palmerston only laughed at them, feeling satisfied that nothing could be more calculated to throw discredit on republican institutions and advance their own political objects. There can be no doubt that the circulation of these scandals—for they are now commonly talked of in European circles—has contributed more than any other cause to bring about the state of things described by our correspondents. How can we expect that foreigners should entertain a very high opinion of institutions which send abroad such representatives as we have described.

REVIEW.

Inside View of Slavery; or a Tour among the Planters, by C. G. Parsons, M. D., with an introductory note by Mrs. H. B. Stowe. Boston; John P. Jewett & Co.

This volume contains a plain and straightforward narrative of the author's observations while on a business tour at the South. It is very candidly written and without any apparent attempt to exaggerate the enormities of the slave system. To persons who like to indulge in reading the actual accounts of wrong and outrage incident to and inseparable from the peculiar institution" of the south we commend this book. Most men would throw it down in a rage before half reading it. Indeed, it is almost impossible for one who has the least feeling to criticise it, as his anger will surely get the better of his judgment, so faithfully are the horrors of slavery portrayed in its pages. As illustrative of the character of the work, we cannot refrain from giving a chapter descriptive of the mechanical devices which southern chivalry employs to torture the poor and helpless slave. One of those is called "thumb screw." It is not stated who invented the instrument, but we presume there have been letters patent issued for that as well as for the balance of the inventions which are described as follows:—

"The Thumb Screw.—I walked nine miles over bottom land, much of the way in water ankle deep, to see a slave who was wearing this instrument. The boy was riding a mule, in the cotton field, drawing a plow which was held by his mother. I enquired his age, but neither the mother nor son could give it. I judged him to be about sixteen. He had been wearing the screw two days. He said that it caused him but little pain at first; but after the swelling commenced in the thumb, the pain continued to increase, and he was already suffering so much that he said he would die before he would ever have it put on again.

The apparatus consists of a wristband of iron with an iron stud or post about three inches long standing up in it opposite the thumb. A thin strap of iron passes around the ball of the thumb, attached to a piece of round iron, which runs back through a hole in the post. Upon the end of this round iron is cut a screw, and behind the post a nut is put on. When this nut is turned the thumb is drawn backward. The instrument is strong enough to dislocate the thumb by this retraction. The greatest amount of suffering which man is able to endure can be inflicted upon the slave with this instrument, and no scar remains to reduce his value in market. By a long application the large nerves of the thumb become highly inflamed, and the most intense pain ensues.

The poor boy whom I saw wearing it, perished under the first application. The agony became so intense as to induce the lockjaw. As soon as it was known, the instrument was removed, and a physician employed; but his aid afforded no relief. Death came to release the suffering slave from the tyrant's power.

The Stocks.—Two pine planks, about two inches in thickness, one foot in width and two feet in length, have each two semi-lunar notches cut in the edges, near the middle, just large enough to take in half the ankle. One of these planks is brought together, and then wooden cleats, running across the planks, are fastened on with wooden pins or iron spikes. The slaves are put in these stocks to prevent them from running away. They are closely fitted to the ankle that the foot cannot be drawn out, made so strong that they cannot be broken, and so heavy that they cannot be dragged.

The Bell.—The name does not indicate that this is an instrument of much suffering,—and yet the wearer finds it to be so. An iron belt passed round the loins—fastened over the spine with a lock, and a socket about half an inch in diameter. An iron collar is put around the neck with an iron ring about one inch in diameter, fastened to the collar behind. A rod of round iron runs down through the ring at the back of the neck, and rests in the socket of the belt below. Above the neck this rod is split, and bent out in the shape of two horns, rising about a foot above the head. A cross piece of iron is fastened to the top of the horns, and from the centre of the cross piece the "bell"—a common cow bell—is suspended. The collar on the neck is often nearly as wide as the neck is long, and the upper edge sometimes is sorrated—like a saw. Whenever the wearer turns his head, the collar chafes his neck. This bell is put on slaves that have been guilty of running away, so that they may be heard as they run, if they make another attempt. Besides, the apparatus is so heavy, and the horns so high and broad, that little progress can be made with it on in the woods. This instrument is not often applied and I was obliged to travel fourteen miles to see it in use. The slave who wore it was driving a mule, in a cotton gin. Whenever Cuffee raised his hand to strike the mule, the bell would sound and the animal was thus warned of the impending blow.

The Gag.—The gag is a piece of iron, about three inches in length, one inch in width at one end, half an inch at the other, and about one eighth of an inch in thickness. This instrument is put into the mouth, over the tongue with the narrow end inside, while the wide end is left projecting through the lips. The outer end is inserted into a small strap or iron that passes over the mouth, the ends of which extend around to the back of the neck, where they are fastened together by a rivet, or a padlock. With this long, wide piece of iron thus confined on the tongue, the slave is truly gagged,—as he is unable to utter a syllable.

I saw the gag on a slave preacher, who contrary to his orders, had left his hut in the night and gone out in the woods to preach to some slaves, who had also left their huts without leave to go and hear him. It was dangerous to allow such liberty to slaves. But "Sambo" tho't it his duty to preach in the night, even if he became a martyr by it, as there was much religious interest excited among the slaves by his preaching. He had been punished severely in various ways for his night preaching—until his master's patience had been exhausted, and he told him that if he found him out again he would shoot him. But death if met in the path of duty had no terrors for Sambo. When the appointed hour came, his flambeau blazed on the stump, and words of earnest Christian counsel and consolation were dropping from his lips when Mr. B., his master, drew near to the devout worshippers, with his loaded rifle. With stealthy step, he advanced thro' the dark woods, until nearly within range of his victim, when the crackling of some dry limbs under his feet startled the outerguard, and the alarm ran through the listening crowd and reached Sambo's ears. Mr. B. halted, and leaned against a tree, while waiting for the fears which his footsteps had created to pass away. Sambo continued to preach. The musical tones of his voice, the Christian heroism exhibited in his resignation to his fate, the moral courage displayed in recognizing his superior obligations to a higher power, the hearty responses which arose from his hearers, as he counselled obedience to their masters, and a patient endurance of sufferings for their Heavenly Master's sake, touched the heart of Mr. B., who was himself a professor of the same faith, and changed his purpose. He decided to retire silently, and wait until morning before punishing the disobedient slave. In the morning Sambo was taken to the blacksmith to be gagged. After the rough iron had been thrust into his mouth and fastened there it was useless for him to run off in the night to preach again, for he could not speak a word. As I looked upon this preacher, thus compelled by his master to be dumb, I could not avoid the reflection that after all, his condition was not unlike many of his nothern brethern—though it doubtless causes less pain to be gagged with cotton than with iron. It is but just to say, however, that since the passage of the Nebraska bill, the proportion of northern ministers that are gagged by slave power is far less than it was before.

Cotton Planter's Whip.—This is called the "Cotton planter's whip," because the planters say that this whip raises the cotton. The stock is covered with green hide, about four feet long, and is loaded with lead at the butt. The lash is long and heavily wrought into hard knots towards the end, with wire. The staff is so heavy and the lash is so long, that the whipping master is obliged to twirl it skilfully in the air before he can command its full force. Hence the labor of using this whip is hard, and when several hundred lashes are ordered, the whippers take turns.

The Paddle.—This is made of a board, about three feet long, and four inches wide. One end is shaven down for the handle, and the other end is bored full of half inch sugar holes. The paddle is sometimes applied to the back of a slave until all the skin is taken off by it, so that no scar will remain to reduce the value of the slave in the market.

Gang Chain.—This is a long chain running the whole length between the pairs of slaves marching in droves to the market. And the short chains between each pair are fastened to the long gang chain, and to a strong iron collar fastened by a padlock around the neck of each slave.

There are other means resorted to for punishing slaves, which I need not describe. They are confined in the "sugar houses"—made to walk the "tread mill,"—and fastened together, or bound with "hand cuffs." And aside from any regular instruments of torture, a master or a mistress, or an overseer, in a fit of rage, will seize whatever weapon is at hand, and use it for this purpose. And the occasions, or the frequency, of such inflictions depend on a thousand circumstances which cannot be foreseen, and which it would be useless for me to specify. I leave the subject as one of the most unpleasant that came under my observation during my southern tour."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

From the "Home Journal," New York.

"No article ever acquired so rapid celebrity and universal popularity as LYON'S KATHAIRON. To those who have used it, (and who has not?) the reason is obvious, as it not only beautifies the hair, but preserves and restores it at an advanced age of life. Its perfume and agreeable enlivening effects should stamp it as an indispensable article of the toilet."

The above is but one of thousands of similar commendations—it stands unrivalled as a toilet article. Be sure and ask for LYON'S KATHAIRON, as its unparalleled popularity has caused several unprincipled persons to put up valueless imitations, which they call by somewhat similar names. Sold everywhere, in large bottles, for only 25 cts.

Human Hair.

HYPERION FLUID.—This is a composition admirably adapted to the diseases of the hair, and has the particular merit of being prepared purely from vegetable ingredients, so that its application is perfectly safe. How often do we perceive young persons with hair nearly grey, or afflicted with baldness, all arising from inflammation of the skin of the head, caused by severe study, violent grief, and other mental afflictions. By a liberal use of the Hyperion, in a short time they will find, to their delight, a complete change will have taken place in the action of the skin, and a rich and luxuriant growth of hair, of its original color, will shortly follow. Its effects in cleansing the hair from scurf and dandruff are also truly wonderful. The Hyperion should be one of the principal appendages to every lady's and gentleman's toilet.

Bogle's Hyperion Fluid is for sale by WM. LYMAN & CO., Wholesale Agents for C.E. and sold by A. SAVAGE & Co., ALEX. URQUHART and S. J. LYMAN & CO., Druggists, Montreal. In Quebec, of JOSEPH BOWLES, and Dr. MUSSON, Druggists.

Pain, the Great Destroyer of Human Happiness!

Pain of the simplest kind, if long continued, will wear out life itself. How priceless, then, the value of a balm which can never fail to quiet pain of every kind, and restore the delicious sensations of health! Incredible as it may seem, such an article has been known and used for many years by a physician of high eminence in this country, and has earned its way into use among thousands of families by its extraordinary and unparalleled virtues. It has recently been made known to the public as Dr. McClintock's Anodyne Mixture, or Great American Pain Reliever. It is not a cure-all, or universal panacea, but simply a deadly foe to pain, wherever found. As such, it produces instant quiet in Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Cramps in the Stomach, Bowels, or Limbs, Bilious Colic, Colic of Infants, Spasms, Sunstroke, Cholera, Cramps, Pleurisy, Pains in the Spine or Kidneys, Gravel, Gout, or Rheumatism. For hundreds of minor ills it is equally efficacious. It cures, almost instantly, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Fever Sores, Sore Lips, Sunburn, Burns or Scalds, Musquito Bites, Stings of Bees, Wasps, or Snakes, Ivy Poison, and all itching or painful swellings and eruptions of the skin. It is used internally and externally.—A few drops taken in water will cure Sea Sickness, Faintness, Dizziness, or Palpitation, while it equalizes the circulation, produces a delightful warmth in the stomach, and causes quiet and refreshing sleep. We need not add, that a remedy of such universal value should be in every family, and in every ship, steamboat and hotel, where it may be procured at a moment's notice. It may be procured, wholesale and retail, of

Wm. Lyman & Co.; & by A. Cushman & Co., 122 Fulton Street, New York, Proprietors of Dr. Jas. McClintock's Family Medicines.

KID GLOVES.

FOR several years past GLOVES of an inferior quality, bearing my name, have been sold as manufactured by me; in consequence I have adopted a new mode of marking my Gloves, viz., with LETTERS in addition to my ancient system of NUMBERS, in view of checking this fraud upon the public, and also to insure a more perfect regularity in the indication of sizes.

Up to this time great difficulties have been experienced in regard to any improvement in the sewing of gloves. I have however succeeded in surmounting them, and have adopted a new system of sewing which enables me to guarantee greater strength in that respect: this system consists in a knot stopping each stitch, and will be applied to black, dark and medium colors. White and light colors will be sewed as formerly, but with a stronger, and consequently more durable silk.

Thus, beside the name "ALEXANDRE" stamped on the inside of each pair, the absence of the following signs will detect the fraud:

1. Addition of the stamp with LETTERS to the stamp with NUMBERS, as per annexed table.
2. New mode of sewing, consisting of a knot for each stich, for black, dark and medium col'd Gloves.
3. Thicker and therefore more solid silk, with the ancient mode of sewing for white and light col'd Gloves.

Hoping that these improvements will meet with your approbation, as they are the proof of my constant efforts to deserve the continuation of general favor,

I remain, most respectfully and sincerely yours, ALEXANDRE.

Paris, April 1st, 1855.

BURNETT'S SUPERIOR EXTRACTS OF Lemon, Vanilla, Rose, Nectarine, Bitter-Almond, Cinnamon,

FOR flavoring Custards, Pies, Blanc-Mange, Ice Creams, Jellies, Sauces, &c. &c.

The superiority of the above-named Extracts consists in their Perfect Purity and Great Strength.

They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and acids which enter into the composition of many of the factitious fruit flavors now in the market.

These Extracts are not only true to their names, but are prepared from fruits of the best quality, and are so highly concentrated that a comparatively small quantity only need be used. Hence it will be perceived that they are cheaper than others which are sold in larger bottles.

Important Warning!

SAVE YOUR RECORDS.—At the recent fire in Vesey-st., two firms lost their books and papers, for want of "Rich & Co.'s Salamander Safes," Wilder's Patent. For evidence see the following certificate of George W. Wright, Esq., who had wisely provided himself with one:

New York, May 10, 1855.—Messrs. Stearns & Marvin—Gents, this morning my factory located on the second and third floors of the four-story building No 60 Vesey-st., was entirely destroyed by fire. On the second floor stood one of Rich & Co.'s Salamander Safes, Wilder's Patent, containing my books, papers, and a package of bank bills, which were preserved in good condition. The Safe was severely tested before and after its fall to the cellar. With full confidence in the fire-proof qualities of your Safes, I am, truly yours, GEO. W. WRIGHT.

These Safes are secured by the celebrated "La Belle" Lock, and for sale by

JAMES HUTTON, Agent for Stearns & Marvin,

The only makers of Salamander Safes containing Rich & Wilder's Patents.

TARRANT'S PREPARATIONS

To the Medical Profession and the Public.

THE attention of the Medical Profession and Public is invited to the following preparations:

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient

prepared on an entirely new principle, from a late and accurate analysis of the celebrated

SELTZER SPRING IN GERMANY,

combining efficacy, economy, and portability, with such additions and improvements as will be found materially to increase its efficacy.

This much esteemed and highly valuable preparation will not fail to effectually remove Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious Affections, Headache, Heartburn, Acidity of the Stomach, Costiveness, Gout, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Gravel, Nervous Debility, Nausea of Vomiting, Affections of the Liver, &c. &c.

Tarrant's Compound Extract of Cubebs and Copaiba,

Sanctioned by popular opinion and the high authority of the most distinguished of the medical faculty; it offers to the afflicted a remedy whose success has in every instance supported its deserved reputation. Being convenient and agreeable in its use, experience has proved that it retains in every climate its desirable and truly valuable character. It is in the form of a paste, is tasteless, and does not impair the digestion. It is prepared with the greatest possible care, upon well tested principles. To persons following the sea, or going long voyages, this preparation possesses qualities far surpassing any other—neat and portable in its form, speedy and efficacious in its operation, successful both in the earliest and worst stages of the severest diseases, whilst the usual and nauseous taste and unpleasant odor to copaiba is wholly avoided in this preparation.

Prepared and sold, Wholesale and Retail, by JOHN A. TARRANT, successor to James Tarrant, 278 Greenwich, corner of Warren street, New York; and for sale by the principal Druggists in the United States, British Provinces, West Indies and South America.

Thorn's Compound Extract of Copaiba and Sarsaparilla possesses a few more advantages not enjoyed by any other medicine, and which must, with an enlightened public, render it assuredly highly popular, and a desideratum long sought for in the medical world. It needs no confinement or change of diet. In its approved form, that of a paste, it is entirely tasteless, and causes no unpleasant sensation in the patient.

It has acquired the utmost fame in almost every part of Europe. It has been examined, approved of, and sanctioned by the faculty of medicine, and recommended by the most eminent of the profession. Prepared by J. B. Thorn, Chemist, London, and for sale wholesale and retail by J. A. TARRANT, sole agent for the United States, 278 Greenwich street, New York.

☞ The serious attention of the afflicted is respectfully invited to a trial of

Dr. Grover Coe's Standard Family Remedies.

Dr. Coe's Liquid Harmattan is guaranteed to be the most efficient external application extant, for the certain cure of Ulcers or Fever, Sores, Abscesses, including Pesns and Lumbar, Felons, Piles, Carbuncles, Chancres, Buboes, Agne in the breast, and every variety of external inflammation.

Warranted to arrest Mortification, when arising from Burns, Wounds, and other external conditions, and to prevent it when used in time.

Also warranted to check Felons, and prevent suppuration when applied before matter has commenced forming. Used early in cases of gunshot wounds (poisoned), pitchforks, &c., it prevents all symptoms of Tetanus or Locked-jaw, and removes them when arising from want of its timely application.

Dr. Coe's Anti-Mercurial Alterative Syrup

A pleasant, safe and efficient remedy for the radical cure of Rheumatism, Erysipelas, Leucorrhea, Scrofula, Gonorrhea, Syphilis, Mercurial Affections, Diseases of the Kidneys & Bowels, and all diseases arising from a vitiated condition of the blood and fluids.

Dr. Coe's Family Vegetable Pills.

The best and safest Cathartic Pill for popular use ever offered to the public.

For the cure of Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Constipation, functional derangements of the Liver, Spleen, and other viscera; they stand unrivalled. These are not crude and untried remedies, experimentally placed before the public, but they have stood the test of years. The proprietor is a practising Physician, and they are the same remedies he relies upon to sustain his wide-spread reputation as a competent and successful guardian of the public health. The Harmattan has stood the tes tof 50 years, the original formula having been obtained from the Indians by an ancestor of the present proprietor, who has improved and brought it to its present degree of perfection.

The Syrup and Pills originated with himself, and during 12 year's extensive practice thousands have had cause to feel grateful for their efficacy.

For wounds and sores on Horses, the world is challenged to produce anything equal to the Harmattan.

For full directions and explanations, see pamphlets accompanying the medicines.

Maryland Lotteries.

CAPITAL PRIZE $100,000!!!

MANAGERS' OFFICE,
Baltimore, Md., Oct. 1, 1855.

THE Managers of the Maryland Lotteries will give their attention to the filling of orders for Tickets and Certificates of Packages of Tickets, and would call the attention of the public to the following Scheme, which is the most brilliant and magnificent Lottery ever drawn.

All Tickets, or Certificates of Packages of Tickets, in the Lotteries authorized by the State of Maryland bear the lithographed signature of "P. K. BERGEN, General Agent for the Contractor," and any others are frauds.

GRAND CONSOLIDATED LOTTERY,
Class Y,
To be drawn in Baltimore, Md. on Saturday, Nov. 24, 1855—SCHEME:

1 prize of		$100,000
1 do of		20,000
1 do of		10,000
1 do of		5,000
1 do of		20,000
1 do of		20,000
29 do of		1,000
20 do of		3,000
20 do of		2,766 60
20 do of		2,500
200 do of		2,000
65 do of		500
65 do of		400
65 do of		300
65 do of		200
130 do of		150
130 do of		100
4550 do of		50
27040 do of		40
32,396 prizes, amounting to		$2,434,432

Whole Tickets $40, Halves 20, Quarters 10, Eighths 5

To determine the fate of these splendid prizes, 78 numbers, from 1 to 78 inclusive, will be severally placed in a wheel on the day of the drawing, and 13 of them drawn out blindfold. Every ticket calling for the combination the 1st, 2d and 3d drawn numbers, will be entitled to the capital prize of $100,000.

Those 6 tickets having on them the

4th 5th 6th	10th 11th 12th	34 4th 5th	}	each $20,000
7th 8th 9th	2d 3d 4th

Every ticket having on it any other three of the drawn numbers, is entitled to a prize varying from $2,000 to 5,000. And so on according to the scheme. Those with but one drawn number draw the original cost, less 15 per cent.

As each package of 26 tickets must draw a certain amount—that is, what the number of drawn ballots multiplied by the lowest prize will amount to, less 15 per cent.—we will sell Certificates of Packages for the difference, between the cost of a Package and what it is warranted to draw, and which entitles the purchaser to such an amount as the numbers drawn over the sum guaranteed.

Certificate of a Package of 26 Wholes, cost		$595
Do	do 26 Halves, cost	295
Do	do 26 Quarters, cost	149 50
Do	do 26 Eighths, cost	74 3-4

IN ORDERING TICKETS OR CERTIFICATES

Enclose the money, drafts, or checks for Tickets or Certificates you wish to purchase, on receipt of which we send what is ordered by return mail, together with the Official Scheme, carefully sealed in an ordinary size envelope, and on the day the Lottery drawn forward the Official Drawing, certified by the Commissioner, with a written explanation of the result of the purchase. Please write your signature plain and give the name of your Post Office, County and State. All prizes will be paid by Drafts on the nearest Cities, or as purchasers may direct.

The Drawn Numbers of the Maryland Lotteries are also published by the State Commissioner in the following papers in Baltimore, viz.: "Sun" "Clipper," "Patriot," "American," "Argus," also the "National Intelligencer" and "Union" of Washington, D. C.

These Lotteries are drawn in public and carried on with the most scrupulous faith and integrity and being authorized by and under the surveiance of the State, whose appointed officer superintends the Drawings of the various Lotteries afford a sufficient guarantee to the public of the fairness with which they are drawn.

The responsibility of the Managers of these Lotteries, and the guarantee of the State for the payment of all Prizes, will insure the continued support and approval of all who may feel disposed to embark in these enterprises.

The brilliancy and magnificence of this Scheme, and the fact that it is only tri-annually that we draw a Lottery of this magnitude, should induce every one possessing the least desire to speculate to invest the comparatively small sum asked for Tickets and Certificates of Packages for the chance of obtaining some of these Magnificent Prizes.

Persons addressing the undersigned may confidently rely upon having their orders promptly filled, and the strictest confidence observed.

The Maryland Lotteries are drawn daily, in which we always have Tickets from $1 to $20 and Certificates of Packages of Wholes from $14 to $360, Halves and Quarters in proportion. The prizes in which vary in amount from $1 to $70,000, according to the price of the tickets.

A circular containing all the Schemes of the Maryland Lotteries will be sent to any one by addressing the undersigned.

PORTLAND
ADVERTISEMENTS.

ISLAND POND HOTEL.

THE Undersigned has leased, for a term of years, and recently opened the new and spacious Hotel at Island Pond. This House was built by the Railroad Companies, and the land proprietors at Island Pond Junction, with special reference to the accommodation of the Railroad travel. It has been finished in the most thorough manner throughout, having accommodations for over 100 guests, and is tastefully fitted and furnished.

Island Pond Junction is the half way station on the Montreal and Portland Railroad from the St. Lawrence to the Atlantic. All trains work from this as a common point, through trains stopping for dinner, and way trains for the night. This place is destined to become one of the most attractive spots in New England, as a place for summer travel and resort. The Hotel looks down upon a beautiful sheet of water, elevated 1158 feet above the level of the Sea, forming the head waters of the river Clyde, which flows into Lake Memphremagog. Situated in the midst of the Green Mountains, few localities in New England possess more natural beauty, or offer more attractions to the lovers of the beautiful and the picturesque.

From this place it is 17 miles only, to Willoughby Lake, and 22 miles to Lake Memphremagog, already known as the favorite resort of the pleasure tourist. The region of Island Pond affords the greatest attractions for sporting and fishing.

Provision will also be made for sailing excursions on the Lake, and there is a fine beach drive on its shore.

The Subscriber intends to make his House in all respects a first class Hotel.
