Sample Street Lights in Huntingdon

RECENTLY, the Shawinigan Water & Power Company installed ten new type street lights on Chateauguay Street, with the idea in mind of showing the Town Council the increased lighting effect and to getting the reaction of the general public. The lights are enclosed in a globe and are of 400 watt power, which is about double the power of the regular light, and a different type reflector is used to give added brilliance. There is no doubt that the lighting has been greatly increased in effectiveness along this street and it may be well worth the extra expenditure involved to allow these lights to stay. It may also be a good move if the lights along the balance of Chateauguay St. and Bouchette Street were also changed to the new type lights. Later, perhaps it would be possible to have these new type lamps in all parts of Town. The cost of the new lights runs to $7.00 per lamp per year extra to what is now being paid.

Huntingdon is progressing along many lines in this day and age, and it would not be amiss if it progressed along the street lighting line as well. At various times a large number of people have complained of the poor lighting on Chateauguay Street and expressed the hope that some day something would be done about it.

While on the subject of street lighting, it has been noticed on several occasions that one of the lights at the centopast has been out for some time and that oftentimes these lights are burning during the day time. Further, as Christmas is approaching and most towns do something in the way of brightening the streets at this time of year, we believe that Huntingdon should revert to the policy of hanging up Christmas lights and having a lighted tree in the centre of town for the festive season. This was an annual practice up until the time during the war when lighting and electric power had to be conserved. That is now past, and it is not too difficult to obtain the colored bulbs at this time, so why not have Huntingdon lighted up and decorated in the festive manner. As well as the town doing this, the citizens and storekeepers could also join in the spirit of the occasion and decorate their places and store windows. We believe this is one reason why so many people journey to the cities, because store windows are attractive and there is a feeling of gaiety that gives a lift to the shopper. People of all kinds are attracted to well lighted and decorated places and there is no doubt that it does much for the business of a town for it to be well lighted and attractive. There is no doubt that such displays would pay dividends in the amount of business attracted from other centres. As one travels to other parts, it is noticed that almost every store is carrying some type of Christmas display, while in Huntingdon, as yet, few stores have any sign of Christmas display. The windows of the stores still have that same old everyday look which only attracts a casual glance from the passer-by. Effective lighting can do much to attract people and we believe Huntingdon should have more of it. Here is an opportunity for the Retail Merchants' Association to go into action for the general welfare of trade.

Christmas Seals Again

NO doubt by this time, people throughout the Chateauguay Valley and elsewhere will have received the regular letters drawing their attention to the annual Christmas Seals campaign on behalf of the Tuberculosis Fund. This is one of those campaigns whereby people get value for their money while assisting unfortunate sufferers of a dread disease. That is, they are able to obtain Christmas seals for attaching to letters and parcels, which are used so extensively at this time of year and the money used to purchase these seals goes into the fund for assisting in the fight against tuberculosis.

We cannot stress too much the need for help to build this annual fund and therefore we urge everyone possible to buy the Tuberculosis Fund Christmas Seals wherever they are on sale. In Chateauguay and Huntingdon Counties, Mrs. J. E. Barrett is in charge of the distribution of the seals and if anyone has not received word of them, they are requested to get in touch with her and she will be glad to advise them regarding same. Huntingdon and Chateauguay do very well for this campaign every year, but each succeeding year brings its quota of expenses for the fight against tuberculosis and consequently steady contributions are needed. The medical scientists have done much to break down the ravages of the disease and it is the help that has been received by a generous public that has helped so much in this advancement. Notwithstanding this, however, there is still much to be done before the disease has been entirely conquered. The disease can be held in check, but actual complete immunization has not yet been achieved. It is this end that the scientists are working for and it is this week for which you provide the money by buying Christmas Seals.

The people of Huntingdon and Chateauguay counties in 1946, subscribed the sum of $800 and from this amount approximately $500 had been spent among the people of this area. Children of the Huntingdon High School and St. Joseph's School have been supplied with chocolate milk at the old price as the local committee has made up the difference of from one to two cents out of the fund created. Tonic has been supplied to school children and to homes in the area. Boxes have been sent to individuals in the sanitariums, containing fruit, candy and such like. Payment has been made for a number of X-rays where persons have been suspected of contracting tuberculosis and when the party could not wait for the regular visit of X-ray Clinic. The committee is ever willing to assist in such ways if the circumstances are brought to its attention and if it is within its power to assist. It will thus be seen that your money helps locally and does not all leave the district.

We therefore urge each and everyone to buy at least some of the Christmas Seals being offered in support of this fund, and use them on all your letters and parcels from now until Christmas. Not only will you be helping the campaign with your purchases, but you will be advertising to those you send your parcels and letters the fact that there is such a campaign. In this manner your friends may be induced to seek out how they too can obtain the seals.

Maclean-Hunter Celebrating 60th Year

MOST everyone in Canada is acquainted with at least one of the many publications of the Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company of Toronto, which is the largest publishing house of its kind in Canada. Like most enterprises, this one had its small beginning 60 years ago and through hard work and attention to business has succeeded in becoming an institution that is a national word on the lips of the people of this Dominion. In England the best known magazines are John Bull, Answers, Punch and Tit-Bits; in Canada Maclean's, Financial Post, Chateleine and Mayfair. The latter are all Maclean publications and we do not know of one person who does not know something about at least one of them. Yet when this great enterprise was started, it was no better known than the least known enterprise today.

This year the Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company is celebrating its 60th year in the publishing business and is responsible for producing 36 publications: 31 in Canada, 4 in the United States and 1 in Great Britain. The company has a full time staff of more than 1,200 and maintains numerous part-time correspondents, writers and subscription agents. They have 900,000 subscribers, with 3 1/2 million readers and more than 7,000 advertisers. Founded by Lt.-Col. John Bayne Maclean from an idea born on July 1st, 1887, it was in 1903 that Horace T. Hunter joined the company that was later to bear his name in conjunction with that of the founder. The two names were joined in May, 1945, after Mr. Hunter had succeeded through various positions of responsibility to become President, and then to be received into a partnership with the founder. Even this being so, to the general public the name is still "Maclean's".

Further expansion is being made to this great publishing company's plant by the erection of a new and modern building in Toronto, to house the mechanical section of the business; the editorial offices will remain at their present location.

Strange to say, it was not the magazine that the people are most familiar with, i.e., "Maclean's Magazine", that was the first endeavor of the founder, but it was the "Canadian Grocer", a trade magazine devoted to facts of the business and helpful market prices and trends of great benefit to those in the trade. From this, all other publications were born and form the family of the Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company of today. Col. Maclean was born the son of a minister, and here again is a strange, but true fact, many of the world's newspaper men today were sons of ministers, or were ministers, or were related closely to ministers. This may account for the fact that in Canada the news in newspapers and magazines for the greater part, is such that children can read because scandal and morbid stories are shaded rather than enlarged upon. The boyhood aspiration of Col. Maclean was to be a soldier, and as so often is the case, his destiny was decided otherwise. In this change of destiny, Canada has profited through its people being provided with magazines of various types that serve them in their various capacities and assist them not only in their literature, but in developing their various businesses. Truly then, we can say that at this, the time of the 60th anniversary, the Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company has become a national institution in more ways than one. The Gleaner, therefore, wishes to place on record its congratulations to the founder of the company, and his associates, and to add its own to the numerous extensions of good wishes for the future of this great Canadian company.

The Weekly Newspaper Comes to the Screen

THE weekly newspaper is to hit the silver screen in the near future in a film under production and as yet untitled. Stories of the weekly newspaper have been unfolded on the screen in the fictional type, but the true story of a real Canadian weekly newspaper has never yet been given to the people by way of the movie. This is now to come to pass and the National Film Board has been busy for some time screening the countryside around Vernon, B.C., and centering its attention on The Vernons News, a well known weekly to all newspapers editors. This was selected as being the most representative of all weekly newspapers.

NFB's film on the weekly newspapers of Canada will depict not merely the mechanics of publishing a paper; it will show the operations of publication, but the principal aim will be to emphasize how vitally the paper and its editor and staff enter into community life and activities, how they serve the area covered by the paper, and how the activities in that area affect the paper and its contents and services.

When released, the film will be available to film councils and film libraries and is being considered for release to theatres. It will also get nationwide screening on the NFB's extensive rural circuits. Eventually, it will be given international distribution, and will probably be produced in a number of foreign languages, reaching as many as 70 countries outside Canada and the United States.

In view of the fact that Huntingdon and Chateauguay counties have available the use of NFB's films, it is most likely that people here will soon be seeing the film on the circuits that have been established. When that time comes, it would be well that the showing is booked, as much of interest will be gained as to the workings of the weekly newspaper. In such a film the people will get the true story of the weekly newspaper and not a fictional type that has so often been shown before.

The Snapping Turtle and the Atomic Bomb

by LEWIS MILLIGAN

The turtle is perhaps the longest lived of all animals. I am just guessing at this, but an old lumber-jack whom I met in Northern Ontario told me that there was an enormous-sized turtle in one of the lakes which he said must have been two hundred years old or more, because he had known the reptile since he was a small boy when it was the same size. He had a name for it, which I forget.

That may have been just a "fish story," but it set me wondering why turtles should or could live so long. I came to the conclusion that the reason for the longevity of turtles was that they are well armoured, and this not because they are belligerent creatures, for they are among the most harmless and peaceful of quadrupeds. The snapping turtle has very powerful jaws which I believe it uses chiefly as a weapon of defence.

I don't want to get into any argument with the zoologists as to the pacifist nature of turtles; but I think I would be correct in asserting that they are not warriors. And yet they are one of the most impregnable armed or armoured against war of all creatures. The jelly-fish is a pacifist and is naked to attack, but I believe it is poisonous or not very good eating. The snapping turtle has no powerful jaws which I believe it uses chiefly as a weapon of defence.

Man is the only creature that is not naturally equipped with means of protection from the elements of nature. He is thin and furless, and he has to make himself clothing and some sort of a home for protection against the weather. He has to cut down trees or dig deep in the earth for coal in order to keep from freezing and to cook his food to render it digestible in his delicate stomach. He has no horns, tusks, claws or hoofs to defend himself, and he must make artificial weapons.

These necessities have been for man the mother of invention and the spur to progress and civilization. Weapons were the first inventions of man in his primitive state when he had to defend himself against wild beasts. When the human race multiplied and divided up into tribes and nations, men began to turn their weapons upon one another. And even now in his civilized state he continues to invent weapons, and these infinitely more deadly and destructive than was ever dreamed of by the Atlantes and the Caesars.

"Nature, red in tooth and claw," wrote Tennyson, and that seems to apply equally to human nature. In the last two Great World Wars we have seen the fulfilment of the Scottish proverb of the "last days," that "nation shall rise against nation." There were terrible wars in ancient times, but they did not involve the entire world. The wars of the nineteenth century were mere local affairs compared with those of our time.

It would seem that down through the ages the fields of human warfare have been widening, and instead of one nation rising against another nation, the nations are now divided into two opposing and equally armed with scientific weapons of destruction against which there is no defence, neither side would dare to start another world war. War may thus defeat itself by the terror of its own weapons and a stalemate in arms. There is no such stalemate at the present time, so far as the atomic bomb is concerned, for assuming that the Russians have succeeded in making the bomb, the United States holds the balance of power in that respect. This balance of power is not held by the Americans for aggressive purposes.

The Soviet Government knows right well that the United States and the other democratic nations have no intention or desire to attack or invade Russia for what they can get out of that country, as the Germans did in the last war. The Soviets, on the other hand, have already declared political war upon the democratic nations with the avowed intention of stirring up industrial revolutions as a prelude to Communist world conquest. They are thus the real and only warmongers.

For the time being, at least, the atomic bomb monopoly in the hands of the democratic nations is the best assurance of world peace. It is an armour of defence, like the shell and the jaws of the snapping turtle. We should cease talking or worrying about another world war, for even if the Russians caught up to us in the making of atomic weapons, they would never dare to take the initiative in using them, for by that time, Stalin, Molotov and the rest of the would-be world-rulers will be dead and the Russian people may be free.

Other points in Mr. Coldwell's program included renewal of subsidies on milk, butter, bread, feed grains, cotton and wool, re-introduction of the excess profits tax; the rationing, if necessary, of any essential commodity which becomes in very short supply and reconstruction of the Prices Board in such a way that it can adequately administer price controls.

Mr. Coldwell said that unless parliament, which convenes Dec. 5, acts to stem the tide, all price controls will end automatically at midnight Dec. 31. The majority of Canadians, he said, sincerely hoped the government would act because "profiteering is rampant" and "unscrupulous big business men have taken advantage of the nation's calamity to wring the highest profits in history out of the Canadian people."

Farmers From Netherlands
Canadians learned last week that 10,000 more immigrants are coming to Canada, this time from the Netherlands. It was announced that plans had been completed for movement of 10,000 Netherlands, all farmers and their families. They will be settled on Canadian farms where their labor is needed and the hope was expressed that eventually these immigrants would acquire farms of their own in the Dominion.

They will cross the Atlantic on two ships chartered by the Netherlands government and which will make several voyages, landing the first group at Halifax in March, with further arrivals at St. Lawrence river ports. They will join about 3,000 Dutch farmers already working on Canadian farms.

The 10,000 Netherlands will be over and above the 20,000 persons Canada has agreed to accept from displaced persons camps in Europe. About 8,000 of these displaced persons are expected to reach Canadian shores before the end of the year for various types of work.

Even while the new immigrant plan was being announced, the labor department disclosed that 12 of the 4,500 Polish veterans brought to Canada to work on farms had Reaction to the government move was one of general approval so far as it went. But most seemed to think the action did not go far enough and Premier Drew of Ontario, during an interview in Ottawa, declared flatly that "half-baked price controls offer no long-term cure" for what he termed the possibility of "the worst inflation in Canadian history."

The first and imperative need, the Ontario premier said, was to "free our people from the clutches of the bureaucrats and return to economic sanity by giving the Canadian dollar its true value."

Mr. Drew also spoke to a meeting of the Carleton County Federation of Agriculture and called for establishment of a co-ordinating committee of all governments, provincial and Dominion, to provide a constant exchange of ideas on matters of common concern. He said this was particularly necessary in agricultural problems.

Gardiner Replies
Next day Agriculture Minister Gardiner called in reporters. He said that the Dominion-Provincial Conference of Agriculture which opens here this week, and the Advisory Council on Agriculture provides just such a set-up as Premier Drew proposed. These bodies had been functioning since early in the war.

M. J. Coldwell, the C.C.F. party leader, urged on the government a six-point program including closure of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange left their jobs without authorization and now were being sought by the government's national employment service. The Polish veterans had agreed to work on Canadian farms for a period of two years. And under the agreement the men undertook not to leave their employer without approval and following investigation by the national employment service.

Arthur MacNamara, deputy minister of labor, said the action of the dozen Poles in breaking their agreement "jeopardizes a project which has been tremendously successful and which, when brought to its ultimate conclusion, will mean that more than 4,500 will attain the full rights of citizenship in a free country."

ROLL OUT THE APPLE

The apple has been used as a symbol of all fruits since the garden of Eden. Peaches were, long ago, called Persian apples even though they were probably a native of China. There are also three vegetables which have at one time or other been known as apples. Tomatoes were "Love apples". Egg plant was called "Mad apple" and potatoes were in France still are "ground apples" or pommes de terre.

It is believed that the apple as we know it originated somewhere in south-western Europe but they are now cultivated in all temperate countries. Several of the most desirable apples have been developed in Canada. Whenever or whatever the origin, the apple is the standby fruit of the Canadian household. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture suggest recipes for slightly different apple desserts and an appetizer.

1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup molasses

BOXING—The boxing show last Friday evening was a complete success in every way and the boys from the 79th Battery Cadet Corps Boys' Club did a grand job.

Our local boys, although lacking a lot of training, put up a pretty good showing and Milton Evans in particular, really has the makings of a fine boxer, if he takes the sport seriously.

The boxing program this week will be changed slightly to enable us to sort things out a bit and to get some of the chairs painted. There will be no program this week at all as far as boxing is concerned, and a general tidying up will take place.

WINNER OF SILVER TROPHY AS FIRST PRIZE

Above are shown Mr. Stanley Anderson of the Gore, and his dog, "Bing", which captured the Silver Trophy as first prize in the Field Trials held by the Red Fox Sporting Club at Sheek Island, near Cornwall, Ont., on November 1st. The trophy is now on display at McLean's Meat Market, Chateaugay St., Huntingdon. A further story of the event appears on another page of this issue under the heading "What's in the Wind?"

What's In The Wind? By Paula Dicks

Tale of a Houn' Dawg
A Silver Trophy was awarded as First Prize for the performance of the Trigg Hound, "Bing" owned by Stanley Anderson of the Gore, Huntingdon County.
"Bing" was numbered "3" in the pack of thirty-one dogs entered in the Field Trials held by the Red Fox Sporting Club at Sheek Island, near Cornwall, on November 1st.
The Ontario Fox Hunters' Association was formed in the afternoon, and on November 15th at Greely, near Ottawa, the Ontario Championship Trials took place. The best six dogs from four Ontario and Quebec Clubs competed for this honor. "Bing" was placed second in this event. "Bonnyman's Commander" owned by E. D. Bonnyman, Ottawa, was declared Champion.

The portrait of Stanley Anderson holding his First Prize Trigg Hound "Bing Kemper" appeared in the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder on November 3rd.
Mr. Anderson tells me that his interest in breeding fox hounds goes back many years and that he has been attending the field tests for two years. He won first award over a field of ninety-six dogs at Iroquois, Ont., last year with "Bumpy Rogers" and was offered $500 for this hound which he refused. Unfortunately, last December "Bumpy" was accidentally drowned in the process of running down a fox.
This year's trophy winner, the Trigg Hound "Bing Kemper" was purchased as a pup from Ernest Stansbury, of Bronte, Ont. Mr. Anderson has already sold a litter of six two-month old pups sired by "Bing".

Stanley Anderson claims only a modest devotion to the breeding of fox hounds, which has developed out of a life long addition to the sport of fox hunting. But naturally he now feels that some outstanding qualities have become apparent in the development of the "Trigg" strain. In recent years his time for the sport of fox hunting has been limited, due to his employment as a carpenter on the Watson farm. His own farms in the Gore are operated as a family undertaking with assistance of hired help.
Mr. Anderson says his hounds are useful only for fox hunting. The young pups are trained once a week during the summer for this type of hunting. He follows the sporting magazines from the United States and says that in the South kennels for fox hounds are operated in a big way, much as we go in for pure bred cattle up here. His dogs are confined in a regular yard and identified by collars and tags. One of his young dogs failed to return from a hunt. After several weeks a clue was picked up and in company of a Constable, a visit paid to a settlement back of Ormstown led to recovery of the dog.
Mrs. Anderson thought little enough of the hound branch of farming in the earlier days, but since the "Field Trials" have developed over in Ontario she is an enthusiastic follower of these events and wouldn't miss attending them on a bet. At the last meeting near Ottawa there were hounds and people from all over - Orangeville, Toronto, Kitchener, Montreal, Quebec and even a representative of the Department of Game and Fisheries.
Mr. Anderson was naturally quite elated with the success of "Bing" at the Sheek Island event. A Master of Hounds, Bert Depratto of

E. R. Lowden, Injured In Truck Accident, Now at Home

COVEY HILL—Great concern was felt by everybody here at the accident to a popular neighbour, Mr. E. R. Lowden. It happened last Tuesday morning a few rods south of Covey Hill Corners, as he was helping to shove a gravel truck facing south which was stuck in the snow. Another truck facing north, whose driver was all unaware of Mr. Lowden's position, backed up to give the first truck a push, and Mr. Lowden was badly hurt. With several ribs fractured, motion was extremely painful, and his right arm was powerless for some time owing to a serious wound in the hand muscles. On advice from Dr. Abrah he was taken to the Barrie Memorial Hospital and X-rayed. On Friday evening he was brought home. Due to the nature of the rib fractures taping was deemed inadvisable.

Scenic Route Farm Forums GORE GROUP

The Gore Farm Forum met Monday evening, December 1st at the home of Mrs. Lily Henderson. In answer to the question re: medical and dental services available, it was decided that we were very fortunate being near both Huntingdon and Ormstown. It would be well for each to do his share towards helping support these fine hospitals. There are too many people today who do not have the proper medical or surgical care they need due to the lack of funds. More than one farmer has given up farming due to the cost of sickness in the family. It would be advantageous to many if there was a low cost hospital insurance plan in force which would pay part if not entire costs of hospitalization, both medical and surgical.

Allister Neely and Isabel Foster were appointed delegates from this farm forum to attend the short course given at Macdonald College the week following Christmas.

Miss Ella Neely won the prize at cards. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Money Penny.

In Memoriam

McARTHUR: In loving memory of our dear Mother who passed away Dec. 7th, 1944. She was worth the name of Mother. She fought life's battles square. No matter when we needed her. We always found her there. So on this day our hearts go out to the dearest and sweetest of Mothers, who never found time to think of herself. For she was always thinking of Others. Always remembered and sadly missed by her daughters, Margaret and Lois.

Interesting Address

Given at Chateaugay Home and School Meeting

CHATEAUGAY—At the Home and School meeting on November 19th the guest speaker, Mr. Lloyd D. Jack, principal of Gilson School, Montreal, was introduced by Mr. Hatcher of the Montreal Central School Board. Mr. Jack stressed the importance of the approach to reading readiness in kindergartens and primary grades, that the child must be ready physically, intellectually, socially and emotionally to learn to read and how much kindergartens prepare the child for this experience. It is unfortunate that in the Province of Quebec kindergartens are not provided by the central school board, although an ever increasing number of schools are opening kindergartens on their own. To approach reading readiness the child needs first a wealth of experience, gained from books in the home and experiences at kindergarten. Second, good health, and this is very often neglected. Third, a good oral vocabulary to enable him to organize ideas and express them in sentence form. Fourth, social adjustment. A child that has been kept away from other children finds it very hard to concentrate in school he is too interested in watching the other children. Fifth, intellectual maturity and emotional stability. The child must be happy, and must also have the desire to learn to read. Six year olds are not all ready to read and a child who starts to read too early may be able to memorize in grades one and two but will have trouble in the upper forms. Parents should be anxious to start children to school under six years of age — kindergarten, yes by all means! A very interesting discussion period was held at the close of Mr. Jack's talk.

ficers, as well as the Chairmen of Committees. These give important information concerning the work of the Federation.

All the affiliated provinces also publish quarterly magazines and news letters. By means of three bulletins information is circulated widely concerning the activities of the Federations, including the reports of the members of the Executive and of heads of Departments. Contributions from leading Canadian educators shed light upon current educational problems. The columns of these magazines and bulletins serve as excellent media for the accumulation of historical information.

Home and School Associations are trying to establish public confidence in the schools. Teachers and school officials take parents into partnership and inform them of the progress of schools in general and of particular schools in particular. They try to show that value is given for the expenditures. To create an interest in the schools is the first step towards their betterment.

Study groups are fertile sources of enlightenment. They are formed for discussion of all kinds of topics, such as the pre-school child, the Kindergarten, Primary grade pupils, the adolescent, the health of school pupils, the need of household science, teaching, what the farm boy and girl should be taught, how parents can cooperate with the teacher, the school as a community centre, the need of visual education, the school radio programme, how to teach children to accept responsibility, how industrial arts help boys to stay in school, what is needed to induce adolescents to stay in school after the end of the compulsory years.

Teachers are responsible for the whole tone of society. It is recognized that if they fail society will fall. Their standards of walking, of dress, of customs, of morality tend to become those of the day. I have no hesitation in saying that our teachers in a decade could set any standard they decide upon and our pupils of the next decade would follow them if they would plan well, become united in aim and execute well.

During the war everyone concerned was willing to take anyone who could keep the school open. Today this attitude is changed and more than ever before, parents are demanding only the best trained teachers, the best brains and the best dispositions as preceptors for their children. In this they are entirely right. Home and School Associations must, however, try to show them what this involves in increased expenditures.

The movement for larger school units is growing in every province. People are realizing that the day of the little red schoolhouse where one teacher taught thirty or forty children in eight or ten grades is past, and that every child brought up under such conditions is seriously handicapped, so seriously that many never recover from it. Modern methods of transportation have helped this movement considerably. The motor bus and the snowmobile having been found to overcome the problem of distance, the bus over main roads and the snowmobile on the snow-covered lanes are cleared of snow in winter. Home and School Associations have been useful in disseminating information concerning school consolidation and crystallizing opinion in its favour.

In the interest of children, all society must pull together. There is so much to do for our children and so little time in which to do it, for they grow up so quickly. All boys and girls are not intended for the same mould, and they should not be made to fit into a pattern for which nature does not intend them. Parents and teachers need to get together to find the best pattern to follow. They need to pull together also to show children that only on the foundation of genuine work can they hope to build for their success. Discussions on subjects such as this widen the horizon of parents considerably and frequently alter their attitude towards school work and the future paths for their children to tread.

There are few things in life from which men and women derive so much satisfaction as from work. Some find this satisfaction as the result of some handicraft, some picture painted, some useful article carved, some rug woven, some dress made. Others find satisfaction in a letter written, a story told, a program solved, a puzzle worked. Many parents think their lives well spent and all the effort expended worth while if they succeed in raising boys and girls who are a credit to them. What work is harder than that? The inspiration of Home and School meetings gives to members better ideas of how to train their children to value work and profitable forms of play.

In the School for Parents organized by the Federation such topics as leadership-training and the teaching of life's problems. Outlines of courses have been provided as well as copious references. Parent education is indeed one of the foundation stones of the federations. Leaders are trained in intensive short courses where child psychology and practical applications are instilled. The Federation publicizes programmes such as "What's on Your Mind?", "Mother's Business", and "Family Life". Montreal has a Leadership Training Committee consisting largely of university graduates and graduate health nurses. They have organized many groups and provided leaders for all of them in Parent Education. The total enrolment in the course numbers several hundreds.

The Associations are interested in films for schools. The Child Mental Health Division of the Federal Department of National Health and Welfare has produced films on family living dealing particularly with certain aspects of child training. The National Film Board is producing technicolor sound films

Amendments Announced On Oil and Grease Imports

Ottawa.—Following a review of the domestic supply situation respecting some types of oils and greases, as well as on fibre glass, importations of which was prohibited in the recently announced Order-in-Council P.C. 4678, the Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of Finance, today announced amendments to the sections of the Order dealing with these products.

The amendments to the Order dealing with tariff items 271, 272, and 272a will allow the importation of lubricating oils and greases composed wholly or in part of petroleum; refined petroleum jellies and similar products; petroleum greases for toilet, medicinal, edible, or other purposes; petroleum greases not otherwise provided, all the above in containers of more than 25 Imperial gallons or of 250 pounds in weight.

In making the announcement the Minister stated that following discussions with the industry it was decided that some relaxation of the restrictions was necessary as the greater part of the imports were essential industrial or technical types of lubricants which are not produced in Canada.

At the same time imports of fibre glass will be permitted by deleting that item from tariff item 689a.

On the subject of prenatal care and care of the infant. Radio courses for adults are being formed, such as a series in Child Study and child rearing, and many study groups of parents in each province so that, after the broadcasts, the topics may be discussed and beneficial effects follow. Further study groups are being formed to find the best means of promoting a better understanding of citizenship and the democratic way of life.

By meetings and radio addresses, Home and School Associations are trying to attract the right type of people into the teaching profession, to point the necessity for increased salaries, with higher personal and academic qualifications. The personal qualities before academic because I so frequently see the necessity for raising the personal qualities of teachers. The academic qualifications are more easily controlled than the personal, and they are more easily met. The personal traits of kindness, courtesy, helpfulness, sympathy and impartiality are so much more difficult to fill.

The National and local Home and School Federations are making many attempts to improve national life and to remove from it many unedifying features. Among these are salacious magazines and thriller radio programmes that arouse children's emotions, unduly and unwholesome appetites that should not be whetted. To attempt to eliminate the undesirable magazines, most of which are importations, presents many difficulties. It should not be too hard, however, to reduce or eliminate low type radio programmes. A score or a few score of letters reaching the sponsors of these undesirable radio programmes have, from time to time, resulted in the necessary substitution because the sponsors of programmes are very sensitive to public reactions and respond quickly to adverse criticism.

On the contrary, a radio programme for children entitled "Cuckoo Clock House" has been sponsored by the National Federation. So concerned is the CBC about complaints reaching it from groups and individuals across the country about the effect of so-called "horror" programmes on children, that they have set up two committees, first a Scientific Committee to undertake a study of the possible effect of such programmes on the thinking, feeling and general behaviour of children, and secondly an Advisory Committee to assist and collaborate with the Scientific Committee. The first committee consists of trained personnel to direct the project while the second consists of representatives of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the National Committee for Mental Hygiene and the Canadian Federation of Home and School.

Home and School Associations perform useful school and community services. An International Festival of School Music took place in Montreal last April. It was organized by school music teachers from the State of New York, the New England States and the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario. About 12,000 children participated in the programme, and billets for about two thousand were found by the Quebec Provincial Federation of Home and School Associations. The hosts met their guests at the station on arrival and provided bed and breakfast for the days of the Festival. This arrangement enabled many parents with a minimum of anxiety to allow their children to participate in the festival.

The newspapers are giving much space to reporting the meetings of Home and School Associations. Such meetings and movements have news value. People read the reports and inform themselves thereby so that they become acquainted with new movements and are able and willing to support those who lead them. The press is thereby giving good service to the public. By this means the Home and School Associations help a wider public.

Founders' day is celebrated throughout Canada in the month of February. A voluntary cash contribution is made on that day every year to a National Extension Fund. For this purpose, some associations take up a special collection while others vote a sum of money from their treasury. Half the amount is forwarded by each association to the provincial federation and the other half goes to the national body.

All in all, the Home and School movement is filling a great need in Canadian life by studying needs, helping to improve educational conditions, financing certain ventures, and strengthening the hands of teachers and school boards. By EDGAR SIMON

Gradually sport fans are learning—some of them the hard way—that there are few "sure things" in athletics.

Wartime dislocation hit some teams harder than others, and most baseball, hockey and football leagues who could be depended on to come through with a degree of regularity, at the expense of weaker competitors.

Lots of people came to accept this as the normal state of things and pre-season betting tended to favor the previous year's champion. It turned out that way for some time—but not this year. Take a look at the baseball season. In the major leagues the champion Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Cardinals finished a city block away from first place. New York Yankees—promptly established as the "solid" team in the year, squeaked through to World Series victory over the underdog Brooklyn Dodgers, needing the full seven games.

Montreal Canadiens, perennial National Hockey League champions during the war, finished first in 1946-47, and were knocked off by Toronto Maple Leafs for the Stanley Cup. This year Canadiens and Leafs are just a couple of clubs in the middle of a four-team scramble for first place.

In amateur hockey, Montreal Royals won the Allan Cup last season. This year they're a poor fourth in their own league. The finalists—Calgary Stampede, aren't much better off.

At St. Michael's College, a lead-pipe cinch for the Memorial Cup last season, are mired in the second division of their junior circuit. Their best friends don't give them a chance to repeat.

The football picture looks a little more orthodox on the surface. Toronto Argonauts and Winnipeg Blue Bombers are repeaters as Grey Cup finalists. But a second peek at the record shows it could easily have been different.

Argonauts looking like your hometown junior high school club, took some bad pastings early in the season. They finished second in the Big Four and produced some brilliant playoff football that carried them to the western title.

Bombers, who haven't been beaten out of a western title since most of their present roster started to shave, played like palookas for the last half of their regular schedule and had to come from behind in a sudden-death game to oust the troublesome Calgary Stampede for the western title.

It all goes to prove we're regaining our athletic health. We've got enough athletes to prevent any kind of a sports monopoly, now that they aren't all wearing khaki-colored uniforms, and nobody is going to win any silverware without working for it.

Chummy Gathering At the end of the recent football

FEATHERED SPOIL-SPORTS VANCOUVER, (CP)—A rugged game between University of British Columbia sophomores and engineers was discontinued because of scuffles. Several thousand of the animated dive-bombers, forced inland by storms and trigger-happy season, with all playoff positions decided, Toronto Balm Beach and Sarnia Imperials were playing out the Ontario Rugby Union string at Maple Leaf Stadium. As the teams prepared to kick off, one of the corporals' guard in the stands broke the deadly silence.

Applications may be made to the nearest District of the Department of Veterans Affairs in person or by mail, or to the Veterans' Officer at the nearest office of the National Employment Service.

The extensions referred to above are veterans discharged subsequent to January 1, 1947, and veterans whose entry into training was delayed by the necessity for medical treatment under authority of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

The Big Four Conference opened last week in an atmosphere of calm... The 200-odd conference reporters... who receive their information from officials at press conference... were surprised on the opening day Nov. 25, when they were told that Foreign Secretary Bevin, State Secretary Marshall and Foreign Minister Molotov had agreed on a basis for a program of talks on the German and Austrian peace treaties.

- The agenda set down was: 1. The report of the Vienna commission on the Austrian treaty. 2. The form of a provisional structure for Germany. 3. Economic principles relating to Germany. 4. Preparation of a German peace treaty. 5. The United States proposal for a draft disarmament and demilitarization treaty among the Big Four. 6. Implementation of the decision made at Moscow on German demilitarization.

But within 24 hours the agenda was turned topsy-turvy despite the protests of Bevin, and Molotov raised the spectre of a "Third World War" in a slashing attack on "imperialist" forces.

The following day Britain, the United States and Russia agreed on the necessity of quickly forming a central government for all of Germany, and tentatively agreed that a German government should attend any peace conference and ratify any treaty.

On the main issues, it was said none of the Big Four showed readiness to break the deadlocks evident last spring at Moscow.

Discord and confusion Friday marked the meeting behind closed doors at Lancaster House when Bevin warned that the western powers would act on their own to save Germany and Europe from "chaos" if the Big Four failed to agree on Germany's future.

When Molotov blocked agreement on setting up a border commission to examine territorial claims on Germany and a proposal to all economic integration of the Saar with France, Bevin lashed out, starting straight at the Russian Foreign Minister.

"Are we going to leave Europe in chaos? Is chaos our objective? If it is we had better know now if a settlement is to be blocked every time we try. I say we cannot go on forever with chaos in Europe as it is now."

A strike of 7,500 Canadian seamen, scheduled to take effect on both coasts at the end of last week, was averted within a few hours of the strike deadline when the Canadian Seamen's Union and the Shipping Federation of Canada agreed on a contract for 1948. The contract provides for all unlicensed personnel on Canadian ocean-going vessels: a $20-a-month wage increase retroactive to Oct. 15, 1947; 10 cents an hour increase in overtime rates; two weeks' holidays; with pay after one year's service; the 40-hour week in port; sick pay in foreign port at the rate of two-thirds of wages for 12 weeks; continuous employment; union security; and a marine disaster allowance of $150, in loss of personal effects.

At Ottawa last week National Defense Headquarters announced the enlistment age for army and air force recruits had been lowered from 18 to 17 years, on condition that consent of parent or guardian is obtained.

No reason was given for this action. Officials declined to comment when asked if it was because recruiting was lagging.

The R.C.A.F. seeks about 400 recruits a month for the next eight months to attain its authorized strength of 12,150. The army wants about 6,000 recruits, mostly tradesmen, to bring active strength to 18,750.

The minimum age for the navy, 17 1/2 years, remains unchanged. This branch of the service needs 1,500 recruits to reach its establishment of 7,500.

In the city of Milan, leftist organizations staged a general strike, occupied the prefecture and demonstrated in the streets after the Italian government removed from Office Estore Troilo, prefect of the province of Milan.

Undersecretary of the Interior Achille Marazza, who hurried to Milan from Rome, announced that he would supply the Rome government information on which to base choice of a new prefect... presumably one acceptable to the demonstrating leftists. Troilo was restored to his office for the time being.

Earlier in the week the ministry of the interior reported at Rome that 82 offices of political parties had been attacked within a period of two weeks. The right wing Uomo Qualunque (common man) movement suffered the most destruction with raiders sacking 37 of its offices in a wave of leftist-sparked disorders.

Other party offices wrecked belonged to the Christian Democrat, Liberal and Monarchist parties and to the extreme right Italian Social movement. Two Communist party offices were laid waste.

Premier Robert Schuman of France last week asked the French National Assembly for wide powers to deal with the Communist-led strikes now strangling the nation's economy.

The measures, which will limit freedom of speech and of the press, were immediately approved by the Assembly's committee on civil and criminal law by a vote of 26 to 13.

Schuman said he wanted power to crack down on persons agitating for sabotage or strikes through speeches, writing or tracts. Also requested by the president was the authority to requisition labor.

Preparation of these stern measures followed scattered acts of sabotage in the rail yards of several cities and seizure of strategic points by strikers. About one-third of the country's organized labor was on strike by the end of last week.

With Canada's parliament opening this week there is much speculation here about the attitude of opposition parties in the House of Commons will take toward the government's plan to promote a real Canadian economy.

The case made by Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe in asking for the helpful cooperation of all Canadian people has made a deep impression. "Provided we can have the whole hearted cooperation of all Canadians in the working out of the program, there need be little dislocation."

In support of this cooperation it is recalled that cooperation during six war years had enabled Canada to double the production of goods over the six previous years and to put one million men and women into active service. It is also remembered that new jobs were created in the years of reconversion to absorb all demobilized men and women as well as those who had been employed in war industry, leaving us in a position of full employment today. This was achieved by cooperation of all Canadians in spite of the prediction of the socialist (C.C.F.) leader that hundreds of thousands would be unemployed immediately after the war.

Canada's capacity to expand its production program in the history of our country. This increase in the production of goods will make our economy more self-contained... thus lessening the dangers of depression... and enable us to employ more people by expanding our exports. About 30% of our purchases from the U.S. is steel and other structural materials and machinery and equipment. Obviously these cannot be prohibited without seriously retarding our progress. Thus prohibitions can only be placed on purchases that are unproductive or practically so. Mr. Howe also urges that unproductive public works be deferred until the Canadian production program has attained its objective. Canada is now manufacturing 200 important items which prior to the war, were imported. The government is asking for the cooperation of all to greatly increase the volume and number of these items. The Geneva Trade Agreements have opened many markets for them, and we have a larger Canadian market due to an increase in the buying power of our people. Mr. Howe says that "there are today few manufactured products that cannot be produced as cheaply in Canada as anywhere else in the world as long as we have adequate markets."

Money "Organized free individualism has its opportunity to prove its worth in the world as never before as against state controls. If it fails it will be due to the selfishness of those who control dollars and sterling; money must be made the servant of mankind and not its master, and if it is utilized so as to pull the world through its present difficulties it will indicate that our system is on the right road." This pronouncement came from the Rt. Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, as he spoke to the Rotary Club of Montreal and answered three daily papers which had questioned his right or competence to speak on matters other than agriculture. Observers here (except some socialists) are satisfied that the actions of United States and Britain in working out the Marshall plan for European recovery prove that the free demo-

Georgetown Ladies' Aid Shows Progress at Annual Meeting

HOWICK—The annual meeting of Georgetown Ladies' Aid was held on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 26th, at the home of Mrs. W. Watson. Mrs. C. Fletcher, president, opened the meeting with prayer. The secretary, Mrs. W. Watson, read the minutes of the last meeting and, in her annual report, outlined the club's activities of the past year.

These activities were in line with the objective, agreed upon at the April meeting, which was to raise money for church repairs. Three projects were decided upon: 1. Band Concert; 2. Hope Chest; 3. Patch Apron, the second and third being long term projects, are still to be completed. The Band Concert, held in July, was a wonderful success both musically and financially. A large percentage of the money earned has already been spent in aid of repairs to church drain, church roof and wiring of manse.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. Stewart, reported total proceeds of the year to be $763.42.

The executive for the following year is as follows:

A meeting of the Howick United Women's Missionary Auxiliary was held on Tuesday, Nov. 18, at the home of Mrs. A. R. Allen. Sixteen ladies answered the roll call with a verse containing the word "Peace". The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Annie Grier, who told of the failure of the League of Nations to secure world peace prior to the second great war. Now we have the U. N. O. facing the task of keeping peace; if they too fail, common man is at fault. This period was closed with prayer. Mrs. Edwin Knox reported on the Rally held in St. Luke's United Church, Montreal, on October 30. Mrs. Robert Roy, Mrs. A. R. Allen and Mrs. Bruce Ness were appointed nominating committee to prepare a slate of officers for the New Year. The Howick, Chateauguay ladies,

Dietary Importance of Milk Emphasized

The importance of milk in the human diet cannot be overlooked, according to Dr. Gordon Bates, General Director of the Health League of Canada.

"Milk is the world's finest all-round food," Dr. Bates said. "One quart contains all the calcium and riboflavin needed by a person in one day, half of the Vitamin A, half of the thiamin, more than half the protein requirement, and one-third of the needed calories."

He added, however, that milk, in its raw state, is a "Jekyll and Hyde." While it is a splendid all-round food it is, at the same time, a culture medium for disease germs.

He remarked that Dr. John R. Fraser, while Dean of Medicine at McGill University, Montreal, had stated that "unsafe milk has been responsible in the past for more deaths and illness than all other foods grouped together."

Recent statistics, Dr. Bates said, show there were 26 officially reported milk-borne epidemics—30 cases or more each—in Canada in the last 25 years.

By unseparated milk, Dr. Fraser meant unpasteurized milk," he said. "Public health officials and health educationists are in agreement that the only way to be sure a milk supply is safe is to pasteurize it."

"In view of the facts concerning the value of the pasteurization procedure, it is amazing that it is not universally adopted. The Health League will continue to agitate in Canada for adoption of compulsory pasteurization legislation as long as one province is without it. Ontario, at present, is the only province with such a law."

DOUBLE-TALK Following an announcement by Attorney-General J. W. Corman that he would "sell you when the next provincial election will be held, what will be the issues and what the result," the public had to be content to learn that "the exact time of the provincial election will be that time within the next 21 months, not a day sooner nor a day later."

DANGER ON WHEELS In spite of repeated warnings by the town and many citizens; in spite of the town fathers having extended authority to the town constable... with a "bicycle by-law" these two-wheeled conveyances are still endangering both older and younger citizens every day.

FOR P. T. TRAINING LONDON, Ont. C.P.—The new Physical Education building of the University of Western Ontario, tenders for which are expected to be called shortly, will be named "Thames Hall," the board of governors announced recently.

Mr. Hubert Boyer of 116 Ellice St., butcher, collapsed and died in his truck on Ellice St., on Monday morning, Dec. 1st. He suffered a heart attack last week.

Mr. Thomson-McCrea At St. Luke's Presbyterian Church on Nov. 29th, at 4 p.m., the marriage took place of Mina McCrea, daughter of Mrs. M. McCrea of Montreal, and Frank Thomson, of Montreal, formerly of England.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Wilson McCrea, of Beauharnois. She wore a plum-colored velvet gown with silver trimming. Her matching hat was trimmed with ostrich feathers.

The reception was held in Preston Hall, Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson later left on their wedding trip to Quebec City. Mrs. Thomson wore a brown gabardine outfit, with a winter white hat trimmed with a brown and white polka dot veil, and brown accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Thomson will reside in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Warner and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kyrer, of Cornwall, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Gilmour.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by Don Graham

To get ahead in the world you need more than ability, personality and experience. You also need good health.

Nowadays the vital importance of the right diet for good health is being more widely recognized. Thus more and more people are eating less of the heavy starch and protein foods and more of the vitamin-rich raw and leafy vegetables, and fruits.

As for sleep, doctors advise a minimum of eight hours rest for average adults.

To most of us, the idea of taking exercise is a chore and a bore. But it is virtually impossible to enjoy radiant good health unless we do so.

A few minutes spent daily in setting-up exercises is especially beneficial to those with sedentary jobs. Long, brisk walks are also recommended.

Above all, have your physician give you a complete check-up every year.

All this may have a familiar ring. But I have repeated these suggestions here because they can do so much to help you win success.

Just as health measures safeguard your physical future, life insurance safeguards the financial future for yourself and your family. During the past 10 years the life insurance companies in Canada paid out an average amount of $400,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries every day.
