SHERBROOKE — Eugene Gosselin, 53, of Sherbrooke, was found criminally responsible in the hunting mishap that took the life of 17-year-old Lynn Chute of North Hatley, October 30, 1975.

This charge was laid by Coroner Jean-Pierre Rivard at yesterday's completion of the coroner's inquest first held Dec. 10 at the Sherbrooke Court House.

The inquest was completed in 20 minutes after the last witness, Constable Jean-Guy Lord, showed photos of the terrain where the incident occurred. Mr. Rivard said that in his judgment because of the adequate illumination of the area due to the earliness of the day and to the layout of the terrain, Gosselin should have been able to determine what he was shooting at.

Crown Prosecutor Michel Cote will be determining exactly what charges will be laid against Gosselin and expects to have filed formal charges within the next 10 days, at which time the date for a preliminary hearing will be set.

Gosselin's attorney, Roch Fournier, says he intends to plead "not guilty" to all charges.

Lynn Chute died in the CHU medical center in Sherbrooke from massive hemorrhaging three days after the shooting incident which occurred October 27. The hunting episode took place in a field 20 yards from a turnoff to Woodland Bay, three miles south of North Hatley on the east side of Lake Massawippi. The victim was accompanied by Scott Caunter and Stephen Piercy, both youths of North Hatley.

In testimony given during the coroner's inquest Gosselin, who was accompanied by his brother, Lucien, Oct. 27, claimed he shot at what he thought was a deer. According to testimony given by the Caunter and Piercy youths, two shots were fired.

"I rushed over to Lynn, some 150 yards, and found him lying on the ground bleeding from the groin," the Caunter youth said at the Dec. 10 inquest. Both youths testified that they, as well as the Chute youth, were wearing red hunting caps and jackets at the time.

If found guilty Gosselin could be sentenced to a term of imprisonment or merely fined for misuse of firearms, according to Gosselin's attorney.

Moore handed life sentence

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sara Jane Moore, ordered to prison for life by an angry judge, says her chief regret about trying to kill President Ford is that it cost her her freedom.

Miss Moore, 45, gave a rambling dissertation on her radical political beliefs before sentence was pronounced Thursday by U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti.

The judge lambasted her as a misguided woman who "blamed society for her own faults" and said "effective capital-punishment laws" would have deterred her. "Why is it that we went almost for two decades without kidnapping in this country?" the judge asked. "For one simple reason. If people did it, then they got the gallows, they got shot, or they got the gas chamber."

Conti accused her of taking it on herself to "be the judge, jury and executioner" when she shot at Ford as he left a San Francisco hotel Sept. 22. The shot missed and the president was not injured.

MIGHT GET PAROLE
Miss Moore, a divorcee who worked for the government as an informant but said she converted to radicalism, would become eligible for parole in 15 years.

Her nine-year-old son, Frederick Aalberg, remains in the jurisdiction of juvenile court, which placed him in a foster home with old friends shortly after his mother was arrested. His case worker, who asked not to be named, said Thursday the boy "seems to be well satisfied" there.

Public defender James Hewitt said Miss Moore saw her son for a half hour earlier this week.

Lebanese jets go into action against leftists

BEIRUT (Reuters) — Hawker Hunter fighters of the Lebanese air force went into action today against leftwing forces besieging the Christian town of Damour.

Reuter correspondent Ian MacDowall saw the jets howling low across the runways of Beirut International Airport to pump rocket fire into the leftwing positions.

Left-wing militia and Palestine guerrillas in positions around the airport opened up with machine-gun fire as the Hunters flashed overhead, firing rockets into a hillside two miles from the airport, then pulling up over the sea to line up for a second attack.

The Moslem-controlled western suburbs of Beirut were swarming with leftwing and Palestinian gunmen as news of the air attack swept the city.

CAMP ATTACKED
Later witnesses said the aircraft had also attacked Tel al-Zaater refugee camp, which was the focal point of bitter fighting in the last week between right-and leftwing gunmen in Beirut, as well as another Palestinian camp, Burj al-Brajneh.

Earlier, Christian villagers at Naameh, just north of Damour, said that the army had moved into the area in strength early today in response to appeals for protection against the leftwingers besieging Damour. Army tanks, armored cars, armored personnel carriers and recoilless rifles lined the road between Damour and the airport.

Observers said the intervention of the Lebanese air force was the gravest development so far in the civil war that began nine months ago.

Earlier, 40 mortar bombs fell around the main Phalangist headquarters in Beirut as leftwing forces pressed home an attack in the devastated heart of Lebanon's capital.

LEADER ESCAPES
One bomb fell within three feet of the office of Phalangist leader Pierre al Gemayel, shattering windows. He was not there at the time.

Other bombs wrecked vehicles, including an ambulance, parked outside.

Although the leftwingers fought to within 200 yards of the headquarters, Phalangist militia prevented them from breaking through.

A number of buildings were burning in the area this morning.

Beirut radio said that after desultory fighting during the night the battle around Damour, a coastal town south of Beirut, flared up at dawn.

But a phalangist spokesman denied a claim by the Palestinian news agency Wafa that the town had fallen to its besiegers, a group of left-wing Moslems, Druze militia and Palestine guerrillas.

Security sources said at least 50 persons were killed in Thursday's battles, bringing the known death toll to about 400 since the country slid into a fresh round of violence last week.

SKI FUN — This winter is turning out to be one of the best in recent years for ski and snowmobile enthusiasts. All Eastern Townships and neighboring U.S. ski centres report excellent conditions following this week's heavy snowfall. Today's Record includes a tabloid edition of the Ski and Snowmobile Supplement, in which readers will find information-packed pages detailing advantages found at various area ski centres, tips on equipment and where to find the ever popular apres-ski life.

Barrett files appeal against ballot recount

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former premier Dave Barrett filed an appeal Thursday against the recount of ballots in Coquitlam riding in the Dec. 11 British Columbia general election.

Mr. Barrett lost the recount by 29 votes to George Kerster, the Social Credit candidate. Mr. Kerster was 117 votes ahead on election night and 19 votes ahead at the final count Dec. 23.

Bill Devereil, lawyer for Mr. Barrett, said in his submission to the British Columbia Appeal Court that county court Judge Stewart McMorran erred in deciding that some ballots should or should not be counted.

A cross-appeal filed by Allen La Croix, lawyer for Mr. Kerster, also disagreed on the disposition of some ballots.

The two lawyers were expected to confer today or

Monday with Judge McMorran, who has custody of all Coquitlam ballots, to explain exactly which ballots they wish the Appeal Court to review.

Once these ballots are delivered to the court, the appeal is to be started within four days, according to the Provincial Elections Act.

Court officials say the appeal should be completed and a judgment rendered within a week or two.

Mr. Kerster's lawyer said his appeal is intended as a cross-appeal under which his client seeks the right to question ballots favorable to Mr. Barrett, should the premier's appeal be accepted and the ballot review granted.

If the Appeal Court grants the review, then his client would hope to make gains from the review to offset any gains made by Mr. Barrett, he said.

Trudeau comments on Olympics

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau has reaffirmed, amid continuing controversy and doubt surrounding the Olympics, that the Queen will open the Games and that there will be no financial help from the federal government.

"Insofar as financing is concerned, there's a firm agreement between Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa that if there is any deficit, Quebec and Montreal will pick up the tab," Trudeau told reporters in Ottawa after a cabinet meeting.

"I'm confident the Games will go ahead and that the site will be ready," said the prime minister, "but I'm not the builder of it and I'm not responsible for holding the Olympics."

Trudeau dismissed as "wildest rumor" a suggestion the Games — with an estimated deficit of at least $600 million — might be abandoned because of financial difficulties.

"If they don't happen it would be because the site is not ready," he said, "not because of lack of money."

Trudeau also said Queen Elizabeth will open the Games despite growing opposition, mainly from French-speaking Canadians.

Asked whether he had sent a message to the Queen warning her of potential dangers, Trudeau replied, "No, the Queen is not scared."

"The Queen was invited by COJO (the Olympic organizing committee). COJO first made sure Premier Robert Bourassa and I were in agreement. They have invited her and she will be coming."

Meanwhile in Montreal, COJO Commissioner-general Roger Rousseau and Olympic Lottery director-general Julien Cote indicated the Games' most successful financial venture was unaffected by the controversy.

They told a news conference — at which Rousseau also voiced confidence the Games will take place on schedule July 17 — the May lottery draw will have six $1 million prize winners — double the previous number.

Rousseau said $1,470,000 in unclaimed prize money will be added to the eighth draw May 16 and ninth draw Aug. 29.

The prize money will be divided equally in the two draws, making an additional $735,000 available in each.

It's in the stars and the snails agree...

ADELAIDE (Reuters) — It's in the stars and the snails agree: something dreadful is about to happen to Adelaide.

Australian astrologer Richard Sterling said today that planetary influences support the predictions of a clairvoyant house-painter, John Nasy, who said the city of 800,000 people will be destroyed at about noon on Monday by an earthquake and a tidal wave.

And as newspapers reported dozens of families heading for the hills behind Adelaide until "doomsday" is past, the snails were said to be making for high ground.

Sterling quoted an elderly woman as having told him that "hundreds of snails, large and small, left the ground and crawled up the walls of her Adelaide home, settling eventually in the roof."

Sterling, who claims he predicted the cyclone that flattened the northern Australian city of Darwin on Christmas Day, 1974, said the influences of Mars, Uranus and Neptune pointed to a disaster in South Australia between Jan. 17 and 24—the worst days being next Monday or Tuesday.

SELL HOMES

Some people, mostly migrants with a poor understanding of English, have ignored appeals by the authorities not to panic and have left town. Several have sold their homes.

Others are treating the whole thing as a joke.

One group has set up refreshment stands at a city beach for the hundreds of sightseers expected to watch state Premier Don Dunstan stand on the shore to prove there is nothing to fear.

There are also plans to sell for charity survival kits including empty bottles in which people may send farewell notes to their relatives as the giant seas bear down upon them.

There was no word today from Nasy. He moved to Perth, 1,500 miles away, after his widely-publicized "mental flash" of disaster in November and left no forwarding address.

The World in focus

Lifts siege

QUITO (Reuters)—Ecuador's military junta lifted Thursday the state of siege—a mild form of martial law—imposed when it took power from retiring president Guillermo Rodriguez Lara last Sunday. The junta, which also ended press censorship, is composed of the commanders-in-chief of the army, navy and air force. It has promised to restore Ecuador to civilian rule within two years.

LONDON (AP)—Margaret Thatcher, leader of Britain's opposition Conservative party, reshuffled her shadow cabinet Thursday for the first time, and again left out former prime minister Edward Heath. Shadow cabinet members would take over the top jobs if the Conservatives won the next election.

Living costs up

JERUSALEM (AFP)—The cost of living in Israel rose by 23.5 per cent last year, official figures showed Thursday. This was half the rate recorded in 1974, when the consumer price index rose by 56.2 per cent. In 1973, the increase was 26.4 per cent. Food prices showed their highest increases yet in 1975.

Bridge stolen

PECARA, Italy (AP)—Police received complaints from shepherds near this Adriatic city that a small stone bridge is missing. Police said the bridge, over a narrow creek, was probably dug up and hauled away by collectionists. Its dimensions were not disclosed.

Snoopy invited

SALZBURG, Austria (AP)—Snoopy of cartoon fame has been officially invited to the 1976 Olympic winter games as a skater. An accreditation card, No. 008, has been issued to the many-talented beagle of the Peanuts comic strip, Pat Quinlan, the U.S. consul in Salzburg, said. Quinlan said he did not know how Snoopy will get to Salzburg but "after all, Snoopy is a pilot as well. Maybe he'll fly."

Exposes CIA

ROME (AP)—A new Italian daily newspaper published today what it claims to be the name of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) station chief in Italy and seven of his associates. La Repubblica, which began publishing in Rome three days ago, said the eight were from a contingent of 40 CIA officials operating from the U.S. embassy in Rome.

Quake count down

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—Fewer earthquakes than usual shook the world in 1975 and the known death toll—1,350—was much lower than the previous year, says the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS).

Control terrorists

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Representatives of 14 countries have agreed to co-operate in an attempt to end kidnappings and terrorist crimes, a conference leader reported Thursday. Dr. Robert Woetzel, coordinator for the 4th International Law Conference held under United Nations auspices, said it will take about five more years to establish a world court to handle such crimes.

Gulf Oil Corp.
chairman resigns

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. chairman Bob Dorsey resigned under fire Wednesday as directors sought to end its political contribution scandal.

Three other Gulf officers were forced out by the board. They were all mentioned in the investigation of Gulf's illegal contributions—both at home and internationally—that surfaced almost three years ago when a $100,000 donation to former president Richard Nixon's political campaign came to light.

Jerry McAfee, 59, president of Gulf Oil Canada, Ltd., and a 30-year Gulf employee, was named to succeed Dorsey. He took office at noon Wednesday.

Dorsey vowed last June he would not resign as chief executive, a job he had held since 1972, despite board acceptance of a report of Gulf's legal and illegal political contributions made from a slush fund. He has declined comment since that time.

The 300-page report said that Dorsey "perhaps chose to shut his eyes to what was going on" with the political slush fund.

There had also been indications that the Mellon family, which controls between 15 to 18 percent of Gulf stock, wanted Dorsey ousted from the seventh-largest corporation in the United States.

At 63, Dorsey had two years to go before retirement from the company he joined 35 years ago.

It was not known if Dorsey would remain on the board of directors.

that the South African government could undertake a project of general social value with desirable effects for white and black South Africans. Mr. McLaughlin explained.

W. Earle McLaughlin was responding to a statement by a bank shareholder and spokesman for a church group opposed to that country's apartheid policies.

Reading from a prepared speech at the bank's annual meeting, he said the bank agreed in the group's stand against apartheid, but that a blanket embargo on loans would be a "cop-out."

Mr. McLaughlin earlier quoted a South African black leader, saying that if pressure is put on big firms to disengage from South Africa, it will bring unemployment, hunger and despair into thousands of black homes.

Such an embargo would be a denial of the possibility

Consumer problems topic at meeting

SHERBROOKE — Consumer Problems will be discussed by Guy Desrosiers at the January meeting of the Sherbrooke and District University Women's Club to be held in the Faculty Lounge of Bishop's University on Wednesday, Jan. 21 at 8 p.m.

The Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs recently appointed Mr. Desrosiers to the position of Consumer Consultant for the Sherbrooke area. In this post he acts as liaison between the department and consumer, professional and commercial groups.

Mr. Desrosiers graduated from the University of Ottawa and also holds a B.A. in History from the University of Sherbrooke. He worked for four years with CUSO (three in Ghana), and for the Canadian International Development Agency and the Public Service Commission. His wide experience has given him an excellent background for his present demanding position in the field of consumer problems. Guests are welcome to attend this meeting, and there will be ample opportunity to ask questions afterwards.

A special feature will be a Book Sale, beginning at 7:30 p.m. A wide variety of second-hand books will be available at very reasonable prices.

U of S displays engineering exhibit

SHERBROOKE (SB) — The Department of Civil Engineering of the University of Sherbrooke is opening three of its laboratories to the public to permit visitors to gain general knowledge of the different types of research carried out by the civil engineering department.

Activities for civil engineering week start

Friday afternoon, January 16. Secondary and college students will be visiting the labs all afternoon. The public can view the department's work Saturday, January 17. The section of the most interest to the general public concerns the hydro-electric installations at James Bay which has been reconstructed in model form in the Hydraulics Lab.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rooney, Verdun, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barber. Callers over the holidays were Mrs. Garth Mackay, Verdun, Mrs. McBurney, Clifton, Miss Ann McBurney, Winnipeg, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Thompson, Lennoxville and Mr. Ellis Waldron, Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Mathews, Carol, Martha and Sally of Cambridge, Ont., and Debbie, a student in Valencia, Spain, arrived after Christmas to spend holidays at the Irwin McBurneys and also visited Mrs. Mathews' brothers Wilfrid and Douglas and their wives.

Over $1084.00 was collected in this area for the Sherbrooke Hospital Campaign.

Mrs. John Aulis spent a few days with her son Mr. and Mrs. S. Aulis in Bury and also called on Mrs. Winnie Kirkpatrick who is ill, in Cookshire. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Miss Ann McBurney was driven to Montreal Airport by Mr. and Mrs. K. Mathews and her parents from whence she flew to Winnipeg, ending a pleasant holiday with her family.

On Nov. 1st, a white birch tree was put in the United Church. Each Sunday it was a joy to see knitted articles added to its branches. On Dec. 20, it had mittens, socks, sweaters and other articles on it. These were put in boxes and taken to Sherbrooke where Mr. LaForest of the Salvation Army distributed them. Many thanks go to all who helped to make this a happier Christmas for others.

Stanstead development discussed

By IVY HATCH

ROCK ISLAND — The first of 13 symposiums in the Eastern Townships was held in Rock Island by the Eastern Townships Council for Regional Development (CRDC) Tuesday afternoon and evening at Del Monty Hotel.

A gathering of men and women representing the municipalities of Stanstead Plain, Stanstead East, Ogden, and Beebe was present as well as members of the Stanstead, Rock Island, Beebe, Cercle de Fermiere, Chamber of Commerce, clergy, business and other professional people.

The CRDC is made up of 13 zones with Stanstead listed as Number 7, including the four represented municipalities and the Town of Rock Island. Its interests and aims are to promote development in potential areas.

CRDC president Camille Tremblay was present and was the last speaker of the evening.

Gaston Bachand, Director General of the Council, was the first speaker and outlined aims for the areas.

With the aid of a film photographed in the Townships and another in the Stanstead zone, the economy was shown to be based on agriculture, dairy and beef cattle, forestry, and industry, such as Butterfields and the Granites in Beebe, also Magog Textiles, and tourism. There are several other smaller industries in the Stanstead zone.

Mr. Bachand outlined the geographic picture of the Townships region, its economics, populations and so forth.

A picture of the economics in the Stanstead zone was given by Paul Jeannette. In 1968 the population was 5,562 and in 1973 it decreased to 5,325.

Normand Brouillette spoke on the industrial situation and salaries. Beebe and Rock Island have the main industries in the Stanstead zone with Butterfields employing some 375 people in the Canadian Plant and Beebe Granite industries.

Viateur Blais' comments were on the Stanstead zone that includes Lake Memphremagog, Tomifobia River, Lake Massawippi, and Crystal Lake. Potential recreation sites were pointed out as outlined in the Sores Report of June, 1973. This includes several points in the municipalities of Beebe, Ogden and Stanstead East for parks, camping and other facilities.

Dinner was served by the management of the Moon Palace in the hotel dining room, then four workshops were conducted. Before the afternoon session terminated Dr. Marcel Bonin, N.D., Stanstead, asked if a discussion could be held on Health and Education and this was arranged.

City bank held up

SHERBROOKE (GA) — Two gunmen held up the Banque Canadienne Nationale at 2445 King St. West yesterday making off with an estimated $3,000 in cash. According to a police report the men, both in their early twenties, were not masked. The report also reveals that the identity of the men is not known and that the men, both of whom spoke English, were from out of town.

Mediator named in Vilas contract talks

COWANSVILLE (GA) — Gerald Harvey, Labor and Manpower Minister, has appointed Roger Pilote as head mediator in the contract dispute between Vilas Furniture Company and the employees' union.

The dispute which has been continuing since September 29, 1975 affects 357 employees. Representing management in the dispute is Attorney Claude Denis of Montreal. Carol Jobin of the CSN is representing the employees' union.

Magog looks into senior citizens home

MAGOG (SB) — City councillors at a recent council meeting voted 4-3 in favor of a resolution calling for the city to approach the Societe d'Habitation du Quebec concerning construction of a 100 unit senior citizens home within municipal limits.

The city agreed to participate financially in the construction of the home and to co-operate with the Societe d'Habitation du Quebec in adopting a housing code acceptable to the S.H.Q.

Council members adopted a resolution calling for the formation of a citizen's group to look into the possibility of a second senior citizens home and suggested that this committee enlist the aid of the Societe d'Habitation du Quebec concerning applications for government funds.

Council adopted a resolution calling for the payment of $11,085.66 to local contractors for services rendered in conjunction with city regulations 623 on excavation.

The Catholic School Commission of Magog was granted $375 for the maintenance of the St. Jean Bosco skating rink by city council.

Construction cost for city regulations 623 and 623-638 were again discussed. This time the resolution called for the payment of $134,952.96 to contractors for work done in conjunction with the above regulations. This resolution was also passed.

City council has agreed to spend $5,363.28 for a 1976 model police car to be purchased from Belanger Autorama Ltee., Magog.

Before closing the meeting, council discussed numerous land transactions.

Granite workers contract signed

BEEBE (IH) — An agreement between the Granite Industries of Beebe and the employees union has been reached and a tentative contract signed. Several of the workers have returned to their jobs.

The Granite companies in the Union are Fairmont, Border, Beebe, Dominion, Eastern, Lepitre and Adru Granites. There are also a few small non-union and two sand-blasting businesses in the village.

The contract will be signed giving the workers an increase of .95 per hour over a two year period.

The walkout started on December 29, 1975.

Meeting planned by Derby Line School

DERBY LINE (IH) — The first meeting of the American Bicentennial year for the Derby Line Elementary School will feature a program in keeping with the 200th anniversary of the United States. John Wells, a student at Keene Teachers College, Keene, N.H., will be guest speaker and will present the topic, "Early American Tools." This promises to be an extremely interesting topic especially to historians. The meeting and program will be held Wednesday, Jan. 21, 7:30 p.m. in the school learning center. Parents, teachers and area people are extended a welcome to attend.

Student applications invited by city

SHERBROOKE (SB) — Each year the City of Sherbrooke hires students to work in various municipal service departments during summer.

The personnel office advises interested students to make their applications to the personnel office in City Hall before April 1, 1976. Applicants must be 16 years of age before that date.

Last year there were 1,300 applicants and only 350 found work for the city.

Well-known farmer dies

MAGOG (IH) — Well-known Stanstead County farmer William Brus of Brown's Hill, Ayer's Cliff died suddenly this morning of natural causes after being rushed to La Providence Hospital here.

Mr. Brus who was in his early 50s came to Canada over 10 years ago with his brother, John, and worked on farms in Stanstead County. They subsequently purchased large farms of their own and became active in local agricultural affairs.

William Brus at the time of his death was president of the Stanstead County Ploughmen's Association, a member of the Stanstead County Fair Board, the Stanstead County Jersey Club, the Quebec Farmer's Association Ayer's Cliff Branch as well as the provincial QFA board. He had also been a township councillor, a post from which he retired in November.

The Quebec Young Farmers meeting scheduled for tonight in Massawippi has been cancelled due to his death. His daughter, Mary, is president of the Hatley QFY branch.

the Environment

Cancer in the United States has been described as having reached major epidemic proportions, killing one in five Americans. Dr. Samuel Epstein, environmental health program director at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, pointed out this chilling fact this week at a US house of Representatives environmental study conference on cancer.

Over-all cancer death rates since 1933 have increased annually "by about one per cent until 1975, when the increase for the first seven months was reported to be about five per cent," he said.

"The century of cancer" is how consumer advocate Ralph Nader terms our times, laying at least partial blame on the broad use of corporate-produced chemicals which are absorbed into the environment.

He links the growth in the use of pesticides and other chemicals allowed to enter the land, air and water directly with the growth in the incidence of cancer.

There is a growing consensus that a majority of human cancers "are due to chemical carcinogens in the environment and that they are hence ultimately preventable," Dr. Epstein adds. Several experts estimate 70 to 90 per cent of cancer in humans is "environmentally induced."

Countless examples of cancer-causing compounds are regularly revealed. In Quebec it was pointed out this week that the extent of asbestos fibres found in the Becancour River were found in a concentration of more than one billion fibres per litre. Tributaries from this river flow from the Thetford Mines area, where most of the Quebec's asbestos mining industry is located. Recent studies have linked the ingestion of asbestos fibres with cancer of the internal organs. Thus, a cancer-causing element is known to exist in concentrated form in at least one of our rivers.

Another example is the recent US and Canadian ban of two pesticides, heptachlor and chlordane, both of which are described by the Environmental Protection Agency as "imminent cancer threats." The two chemicals are showing up in unborn babies, mother's milk, and in the body tissue of 97% of the US population.

These chemicals have been used widely for soil feed-treatment on lawns, turf and gardens, and for household pest control. Thus, proven cancer-causing compounds also have been allowed to enter our soil and our homes.

Can the chain of self-poisoning that the North American continent has established be broken? Harm already done by the broad use of such compounds and the release of dangerous elements into the environment is incalculable. However, strict laws governing the use of various compounds and the emission of dangerous elements into the environment as well as high priority given by governments on research on environmental cancer, can at least limit the future degree of environmental pollution.

Opinion from the French language press

Ottawa Le Droit: For the first time, the government of Quebec has admitted the "unlikely" possibility the Olympic Games could be postponed.

The Olympics Installations Board, now responsible for the project instead of the city of Montreal, and the organizing committee (COJO) must report to the International Olympics Committee (IOC) at its plenary session in Innsbruck Feb. 2, just before the Winter Games.

Less than a month is left, then, for the Quebec authorities to decide among three possibilities:

—The "essential" installations will be ready by the target date and, as Quebec Minister of Municipal Affairs Victor Goldbloom says: "We must pay what it costs"—more than $1 billion.

—The "essential" installations could be ready a few weeks later than the target date and the IOC would be asked to delay the Games for the first time in modern Olympic history.

—Or, it will be impossible to finish the work, even with a reasonable delay, and the IOC will have to choose between cancelling the Games or holding them in another country, probably Mexico, which has already volunteered its services.

"If I were a gambler," said Mr. Goldbloom, "I would bet that we will be ready on time. We are prudently, reasonably, optimistic."

The minister is right. The whole thing now resembles a lottery. The Olympic stadium now stands an 80-per-cent chance of being ready on time if the climate is favorable, if there are no labor disputes on the site, if productivity is exceptional, and if the professionals have no major technical problems.

That is a lot of "ifs," none too promising.

So here is the real Olympic lottery: $1 billion with the Games, or $1 billion without the Games. Is this lottery the precursor for another one?

Are we witnessing the unfolding of a clever scenario? Could it be that the Quebec government is preparing an election by dramatizing the present very real difficulties, the better to show the voters its efficiency while they will be under the delirious charm of an international success?

Ladies and gentlemen, place your bets!—Fay La Rivière (Jan. 7)

Quebec Le Soleil:

Speaking of blunders...

We don't want to know who first thought of inviting Queen Elizabeth to inaugurate the Olympic Games in Montreal, providing of course, they open at all... The idea is no more brilliantly appropriate than to have invited President Giscard d'Estaing or, why not, Pope Paul VI to do it. The governments which supported the idea do not deserve to be congratulated.

Certainly, as Canadian citizens, we are aware that, constitutionally, we still are "loyal subjects of Her Majesty" and that because of this anachronism, which pleases but does not suffice to satisfy Mr. Diefenbaker and those of his ilk, the Crown still presides over our judicial system and public administration.

We readily understand that political courtesy still binds us to this purely symbolic allegiance and that the respect of certain Canadian ethnic sentiments prevents us from too brutally cutting this cumbersome cord.

Certainly, the holding of the 21st Olympic Games in Montreal is a national event. Canada is, as many other countries have been since 1896, the host to international athletics. In this sense, all Canadian citizens will participate in the event through the money paid by the federal government and which they have provided by their taxes as well as by buying Olympic stamps and coins. By the same token, if the Games were being held elsewhere in Canada than in Montreal, the invitation issued to Queen Elizabeth would be just as inappropriate because it is a gesture to a symbol which fewer and fewer Canadians recognize.

Since the Games are being held in a French-speaking province where sentiments about the British have long since died and where many have entirely legitimate aspirations of independence, we cannot understand how the federal and provincial governments could have consented to this gesture. And since Quebecers will have to pay the greatest part of the Olympic deficit, there could have been a greater respect shown for their convictions without insulting Queen Elizabeth, whom they regard in the same way as any other head of state.

Under such regrettable circumstances, we must not be surprised that the opposition Parti Québécois seized the occasion to make political hay and launch the ridiculous cry against colonialism.

We can applaud the denunciation, as such. But we can express doubts about the puerile method used, the grotesque letter "to Her Majesty" sent to the British consul in Quebec City and returned because the wrong procedure was followed.

The PQ will no doubt say that the attendant publicity accomplished its purpose, and awakened the "nationalist" conscience. But if it claimed to represent the majority of Quebecers—which could be true in this case—it should have considered the consequences that such a way of acting would have on its own credibility and on that of all Quebecers "in the eyes of the entire world," as its letter said.—Paul Lachance (Jan. 12)

Montreal Le Jour: A member of Parliament has withdrawn from the Progressive Conservative leadership race because of his inability to pay the prohibitive costs of such a campaign. As if to endorse this, former Liberal minister Paul Hellyer has evaluated the price of his entry in the Conservative marathon at $175,000.

The withdrawal of Paul Yewchuk (PC—Athabaska) unveils one of the worst aspects of capitalist democracy—its dependence on money to gain access to the highest political offices.

When Jean Lesage resigned as head of the Quebec Liberal party in 1969, three members of the Quebec national assembly contested the leadership: Robert Bourassa, Pierre Laporte and Claude Wagner. The dice were loaded from the start. Jerome Choquette, who had to forget his leadership aspirations in 1970 because of the cost, remembers this.

Mr. Bourassa won after spending more than half a million dollars and financially ruining Mr. Laporte and Mr. Wagner. Other factors apart, it is clear that Mr. Bourassa's alliance with the heiress of one of Quebec's richest families gave him an advantage from the start. Mr. Bourassa himself will concede that he owes a good part of his political career to the comfort and financial security resulting from a fortunate marriage. These facts are in the public domain.

The lack of controls in leadership campaigns compromises the democratic process, allowing the worst kind of abuse... and creates illicit and secret ties between those who are in power and those who made it possible for them to get there.

In 1974, the American House of Representatives and Senate adopted a law to regulate the expenditures of presidential candidates.

"It would be naive," says New York Times, "to believe that this simple reform will ensure equality among all candidates. But limiting the intervention of large fortunes and introducing the concept of state subsidies... will democratize the electoral process and give ordinary people a voice."

The financing of political parties by the state in the interval between elections, a ceiling on candidates' and parties' election expenses, the public contribution to election expenses all have helped to rectify the bandit mentality which regulated capitalist democracy until the mid-1960s.

For the public to participate in the choice of its leaders and to know sources of electoral financing as is its right, the state must intervene in three areas:

- Regulate leadership campaigns;
- Reveal contributions to parties and candidates;
- Contribute to leadership campaigns.

Not everything would be perfect, but state intervention in the clandestine domain of electoral and leadership campaigns would have a depolluting and beneficial effect.

Even now, Canadian and Quebec democracies still are contaminated by the corridor procedures and privileges accorded to large private fortunes.

Give it a good airing!—Yves Michaud (Jan. 8)

Montreal La Presse: I doubt Jack Horner is a candidate with a certain prestige in the Progressive Conservative leadership race. He is one of a family very popular in Alberta. He also represents the ultra-conservative wing of his party, and can thus count on much support from the start.

However, the way in which he has attacked the Quebec candidates, and his opponents in general, will not improve his image. On the contrary, he has shown the pettiness and bigotry of which he was unfortunately known to be capable.

He said a Quebec candidate could never lead the party to victory because of the numerous scandals with which they would necessarily be identified. If he did succeed Mr. Stanfield, we cannot see how he could expect to get very many votes here with that attitude.

In attacking his rivals personally, Mr. Horner should know he is risking wounds that could take some time to heal. He has once again shown that his party's unity is not his primary concern. Under Mr. Stanfield, he stayed faithful to Mr. Diefenbaker. He is simply continuing to sow discord among the Conservatives. The delegates to the February conference surely expect something else from the leader they will elect.—Vincent Prince (Jan. 9)

MAGOG — Two men suffered third degree burns early this morning when a gas stove blew up in their faces setting off a blaze which raged uncontrolled for three hours in the New Magog Hotel here.

Burned were Wilfred Simard, cook at the Hotel whose condition is critical, and a boarder, Claude Dumont of St. Georges de Beauce. Both are in La Providence Hospital, Magog.

At least a dozen persons were in the hotel when the fire broke out around 6 a.m. but by the time they were awakened the first ground floor of the building was engulfed in flames and staff members and guests escaped from a second floor window.

Navy in need

Jack Anderson's

Washington

WASHINGTON — As a measure of the poor state of the U.S. Navy, its ships were involved last year in an incredible 17 collisions — most of them with other Navy ships.

In the past month alone, three of the Navy's proud aircraft carriers — the Independence, Saratoga and John F. Kennedy — have banged into other ships at sea.

The worst collision occurred the night of November 22 in the murky waters of the Ionian Sea. During routine flight maneuvers, the carrier JFK collided with the cruiser Bellnap. The accident set off blazing fires aboard both ships. Eight persons were killed and 46 injured, 25 of them seriously.

Clearly, something is wrong with the Navy, which supposedly is supreme on the seas but apparently can't steer its ships straight. We have written a number of reports, most of them taken from secret Navy documents, about the deterioration of the fleet. Here are our conclusions:

The admirals have let the fleet run down. We have seen classified reports about ships with rusting hulls, broken gear, inadequate equipment and foul living quarters. Navy inspectors have also reported waste, mismanagement and inefficiency in the shipyards which are supposed to keep the Navy's 580 warships in repair. At best, the fleet is only in fair fighting condition.

Yet the admirals always manage to squeeze enough money out of the budget for their own comforts. They also find funds for their pet projects, whether it's a study of "the drinking practices of Navy personnel" or the roundup of stray goats and pigs from San Clemente island off the California coast. No less than President Ford has complained, according to confidential White House minutes, that the military brass deliberately cuts muscle instead of fat when he orders a budget reduction.

Like its sister services, the Navy is top-heavy with military brass. Most admirals can be found manning swivel chairs in the Pentagon, rather than the bridges of our fighting ships. The best officers, invariably, are assigned to the Pentagon where they occupy themselves churning out reams of paper. Our far-flung ships, therefore, are sometimes commanded by unqualified officers.

Since the Navy brass is concentrated in the Pentagon, they become more absorbed with bureaucratic maneuvers than naval maneuvers. The fleet has been neglected, with infrequent practice runs and inadequate equipment. Routine refueling operations at sea, for example, resulted in four collisions last year.

With the close of the Vietnam War, the Navy's combat crews have no one to combat. They are at loose ends, whiling away their time at makework projects. Living conditions aboard ship have also deteriorated. Therefore, morale is low, discipline lax and efficiency poor.

This naval neglect has been costly. The Bellnap, for example, cost the taxpayers $700 million. Now it has been put out of action by a careless accident.

Even the minor accidents have been costly. From confidential Navy documents, we have seen how much damage a sideswipe can cause. The carrier Saratoga and older Missisquoi, for example, collided during refueling operations last month off the Florida coast.

The Saratoga's hull was ripped open and a refueling station was severely damaged. Aboard the other, more than 40 specific pieces of equipment were damaged.

But the most serious consequence of our naval neglect is that the Soviets are steadily overtaking the U.S. on the high seas. Already, one Soviet fleet dominates the Baltic and Barents seas. Another is challenging the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. A third fleet patrols the strategic Indian Ocean, and a fourth guards the approaches to Siberia in the Pacific.

Many experts fear the modern, expanding Soviet Navy is more than a match for the U.S. Navy.

Footnote: A spokesman told us that the Navy is undertaking a thorough investigation of the recent collisions. He pointed out that some commanders had exhibited superb seamanship after the collisions. The destroyer Claude V. Ricketts, for example, conducted heroic rescue operations which saved dozens of lives after the JFK-Bellnap collision. And the Saratoga's coolheaded commander, Capt. Robert Dunn, averted a possible catastrophe by taking swift emergency measures.

Slogan Search: Our search for a Bicentennial slogan is now in the final screening process.

From more than a million entries, the 100 finalists have been selected. These are now being narrowed down to the six best slogans, which will be announced January 18 during the Superbowl football game. Such magazines as Time, Newsweek, People and U.S. News and World Report will also list the six finalists.

Then the public will make the final selection. All Americans will be invited to pick the slogan they like best, write their preference on a postal card and mail it to us. The winning slogan will be announced on March 21.

Footnote: The million slogans were screened by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, American Legion and Jaycees. The 100 finalists were submitted to the 55 state and territorial Bicentennial chairpersons for the final screening. The votes for the winning slogan will be tabulated by the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire girls.

Marriage takes place in Guam

STANBRIDGE EAST — Mrs. C. S. Moore has received word of the marriage of her granddaughter, Anne Bannatyne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Moore of Agana, Guam, on December 21st, 1975, to Mr. Joaquin Vicente, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Leon Guerrero, which took place in St. John's Episcopal Church, Upper Tumon.

The bride was attended by her sister Sara, and the groom by his brother, who came from the Annapolis

Military College for the wedding.

The reception was held in the Ambassador Room of the Dai-Ichi Hotel, where relatives and friends of the bride and groom gathered to extend their best wishes.

Ann's many friends here extend their best wishes to her and her husband. Having spent many summer holidays here with her grandmother and other relatives she is fondly remembered.

Ann Landers says:

You don't owe an explanation

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have a beautiful five-year-old child. This is the only child we plan on having. Are we committing a terrible crime?

I'm sick of answering questions from ignorant relatives, nosy friends, co-workers, etc., as to why we only have one child.

These ignoramuses actually make comments in front of the youngster. He is an alert and sensitive boy. Now he has started to ask why we don't give him a brother. We have tried to explain as best we can. Our answers satisfy him until some big mouth starts it all over again.

We've been very polite to these dummies but both my husband and I are losing our patience. What's the solution? — The Mother Of An Only Child

Dear Mother: You don't owe ignoramuses and dummies an explanation. The size of your family is none of their business. Since you obviously want to respond, simply say, "We could never be this lucky again so we've decided to quit while we're ahead. Any more questions?"

Dear Ann Landers: What can you do when the person you work under is, quite frankly, a turkey? If I need an O.K. for a project I have to go over his head because he is unable or unwilling to make a decision.

This loser is not only indecisive but he is absent-minded, groveling, ineffective and he tends to lie when it serves his purpose.

Although I'm the one who is writing, several people in this organization share my sentiments. No one actually dislikes the jerk but he is out of his element.

Unfortunately, the executives around here are totally insensitive to this person's inadequacy. Even though they have been told everything I'm telling you, they seem unwilling to replace him. It gets worse and worse. We need your help. — Frustrated In Orange County

Dear O.C.: You don't say if the turkey happens to be the boss's son-in-law. This could make a difference. Also, the turkey might have something on a member of top management.

If neither of these two possibilities are in the picture, be patient. It's just a matter of time and he'll get the ax. Do your own jobs and work around the bird.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an 18-year-old college student (girl) with a serious problem, Mother.

She swears she doesn't read my mail, but I can tell when an envelope has been steamed open and resealed. Sometimes the resealing doesn't stick. Frequently my mother betrays herself by absent-mindedly mentioning things she could have learned only from reading my mail.

Last night we had a long discussion about her snooping. She wouldn't admit a thing, but insisted I was a "selfish daughter" for depriving her of the pleasure of sharing my romantic experiences.

Am I wrong about this? Please tell me if you think so and I'll shape up. — Going Bananas

Dear Nan: You are NOT wrong, it's your mother who needs to shape up. Mail is personal and private property. Your mother needs a hobby.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers's guide to "Necking and Petting" — What Are the Limits? Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PICKLING spice makes the difference in beet-cheese ring

Spicy borscht mold

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Everyone looks for shortcuts to cooking because of busy schedules. A spiced Harvard beet molded ring turns out in non-heretic time through the use of prepared borscht (beet soup) as the base.

Borscht is a national soup in Russia and Poland, for example, and considered a refreshing, filling treat by Middle Europeans. The gelatin mold is studded with seasoned cream cheese balls subtly flavored with mixed pickling spice. An added bonus of this recipe is the fresh, pleasing aroma of the pickling spice emitted as the liquid is heated.

SPICED HARVARD BEET RING
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons toasted sesame seed
1 jar (1 quart) borscht
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spice
Boiling water
2 packages (3 ounces each) lemon flavored gelatin dessert
Cold water

Divide cream cheese into 12 portions. Shape into balls, about 1-inch in diameter. Roll in sesame seed, set aside. Strain borscht, reserving slivered beets. Measure 2 cups of the liquid and pour into a saucepan. Add pickling spice. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Strain and discard pickling spice.

Measure liquid from saucepan. Add boiling water to make 2 cups. Pour over gelatin, stir to dissolve. Add cold water to remaining borscht liquid to measure 2 cups. Stir into gelatin. Chill until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Pour a layer of gelatin in bottom, chill until set. Stir reserved beets into remaining gelatin mixture.

Carefully pour into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold onto serving plate. Garnish with salad greens. Serve with sour cream if desired. Makes 8 portions.

NOTE: To toast sesame seed sprinkle evenly in bottom of pie pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until golden, about 5 to 7 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Polly's Pointers

Fighting prices at the grocers

By Polly Cramer

Inflation Fighter

DEAR POLLY — I have a few Pointers that are a help in combating inflation. I shop for groceries only once a month. This saves tremendously. I also collect all coupons that appear in the paper. At the end of the month, I have saved at least three dollars worth. That pays for our paper for one month.

I save, wash and re-use all plastic bags that fresh fruits and vegetables come in and use them for storing bread, crackers, dust rags and so on. I use the brown paper grocery bags for wastebasket liners.

I make syrup go further by buying a heavy maple syrup and diluting it with a syrup made with two parts water and one part sugar. I stretch a gallon of milk (whole) by mixing it with a gallon of powdered milk. This not only costs less per gallon but tastes delicious and is very nutritious. The column has helped me many times. — ERNESTINE

DEAR POLLY — To ease my clothing budget I shop at church and temple rummage sales, other clothing sales and resale shops. I manage to find good serviceable clothing for my entire family at a minimum cost. — NANCY

DEAR POLLY — One lemon can do the work of two, and yield twice as much juice if it is heated thoroughly before squeezing. (Polly's note — Rolling a lemon that is at room temperature will help, too.)

A loaf of stale bread can often be saved by running it BRIEFLY under cold water and then placing in a hot oven for ten minutes. I also revive sweet rolls and Danish pastry somewhat the same way but by brushing with milk instead of putting under running water. — ANNE

DEAR POLLY — During these days of high food prices many of us are doubling the volume of butter by simply whipping one pound with a cup of cold water. Butter must be at room temperature. I use my electric mixer for this but it can be done with a hand beater. Oleo can be done the same way. Restaurants have used whipped butter to serve on pancakes for years. This also cuts on the calories since one uses much less. It does not separate even in warm weather. (Polly's note — During World War II many did the same thing but used milk instead of water.) — MRS. A. T.

DEAR POLLY — I have what I call a "Poor Man's Sewing Basket". To make this use a metal can such as cookies come in. Cut a thick piece of hard white styrofoam to fit and put in the can. Cut plastic straws into thirds or any desired length and "screw" into the foam. Puncture the paper ends on spools of thread and put a spool on each straw holder. I keep my spare machine bobbins and thimble on the center ones. — MRS. J.R.B.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea, Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

Growing Older

Youths blush about sex over 60

Sam Levenson, the comedian, tells a story about a sophisticated 10-year-old who explained sex to a six-year-old. Comment from the smaller fry was, "My father, maybe; my mother, never!"

These days it seems that young people extend the comment to, "My aging parents — never!"

Partly as a result of such unenlightened thinking by the young, we have become the first generation of elderly people who fear their juniors. Most of us feel the need to maneuver for their approbation. And, if that seems impossible, we scheme just to win their respect.

The belief by the young that people over 60 have no interest in sex is well documented. In a survey at Brandeis University several years ago, a majority of undergraduates aged between 17 and 23 considered sex for most old people "negligible," "unimportant" or "past."

As we all know, sex is an urgent part of the lives of young people. It, therefore, seems logical for them to assume that anyone who doesn't feel the same way about sex as they do is unworthy of consideration.

This puts us, the elderly, in a delicate situation indeed. The idea of boasting to the young about our present track record is distasteful to us. Yet the fact that we do the same things they do must somehow be revealed to them. Our status as valid people will be enhanced if the facts become known.

Actually, we don't need to make the revelations ourselves. The medical profession supplies plenty of data that we can pass on to the young. In a review of a book on health among the aging, the American Journal of Health points out, "There is a myth abroad that sex is the exclusive prerogative of youth; that anyone past 50 is only aberrationally capable of sex expression; that sex in the 70s, even between devoted married partners, is somehow abnormal and certainly indecent."

Further, in a recent book, Dr. Isidore Rubin says "the fullest expression of the sexual needs and interests of men and women over 60 cannot take place in a society which demeans and ignores the reality of these needs and interests."

He continues, "Nor can it take place in an atmosphere which prevents full and open inquiry into these interests or in a soil which nourishes every kind of myth and misconception about these later years."

And, still further, the eminent psychiatrist, Dr. Erik H. Erikson asserts, "Sex in later years is a source of much needed and effective psychological reinforcement. A man (in retirement) faces a loss of prestige and self-confidence. He has lost an accustomed status without having acquired a new one. Must the concept of sexlessness be added to this?"

The idea of the older person

Ice cream recipes for fun

By Gaynor Maddox

"We make people happy."

That's a particularly welcome boast during these imperiled times. The way to happiness, according to the president of Baskin-Robbins, is through ice cream, rich, colorful and always most desirable. That boast has been pretty nearly filled for 31 years, as far as this firm is concerned.

Today, the ice cream company of Baskin-Robbins is headed by Robert Hudecek. He is a realist and has a lively understanding of what people want. "Ice cream" Of course. It's a passion with them. They go for it like crazy."

Hudecek says ice cream no longer means chocolate, vanilla and strawberry, at least in Baskin-Robbins' 1600 stores in the United States, Canada, Japan and Belgium.

His company has developed a record number of unique flavors of ice cream. Guinness' Book of World Records lists the company as having developed 405 different flavors.

A party always symbolizes happiness. So the company recently gave a 31st birthday party at New York's famous Rockefeller Center skating rink.

Clowns in pink and white costumes skated while guests sampled a variety of flavors. That was a happiness touch. Pink and white balloons floated over the restaurant. Young waitresses in starched white uniforms and trim young men saw that the guests were served.

The lunch was delightful but the main interest was the ice cream. The joy of selecting whatever and as much as you wanted was an added feature.

A gaily dressed youth gave me a copy of "Ice Cream World of Baskin-Robbins." If you like ice cream as much as the people at the party, take a look at these recipes as a sample of those found in the book.

Hot Jamaica
Butterscotch Parfait
Six-ounce package cooked butterscotch pudding mix
Whipped cream (optional)

1 pint coffee ice cream

Prepare pudding mix according to package instructions. In tall parfait glasses alternate layers of hot butterscotch pudding with coffee ice cream. Top with whipped cream if desired. Makes 6 servings

Mud Pie

3 cups chocolate water crumbs
3 tablespoons soft butter
1 quart chocolate fudge ice cream
1 pint chocolate mint ice cream

Mix crumbs and butter until crumbly. Press to bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 minutes. Cool. Chill slightly softened chocolate fudge ice cream. Spread over crust, mounding in center. Spread slightly softened chocolate mint ice cream over chocolate fudge, texturing surface with spoon. Freeze at least 2 hours. Makes 10 servings

Udolphus Chapter IODE

RICHMOND — The January meeting of Udolphus Lord Aylmer Chapter I.O.D.E. was held in Chalmers United Church parlors with the Regent Miss B. Dougherty in the chair, and a good attendance of members and one visitor present.

A letter was read from Provincial which included Convention cards to be signed for both National and Provincial Councils. Miss Viola Noble's name was submitted as a Provincial Councillor. A number of thank-you notes for remembrances at Christmas time were read.

The Education Convener reported all calendars had been sold. The wool convener also reported a box of knitted articles had been sent to the Dixville Home, valued at $59.25.

A nominating committee was named: Mrs. E. Newell, Mrs. I. Hazzard and Mrs. George Walker.

Mrs. L. Somerville read several chapters from the "History of I.O.D.E." which was much enjoyed.

Delicious cookies and tea were afterwards served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton and Mrs. L. Somerville and a social hour enjoyed.

Around the Townships

THERE ARE BIG BROTHERS and then there are BIG brothers. Far, far away from their Pacific island homeland, two infant Galapagos tortoises at least have someone to watch over them — WAY over them — at the aquarium on an Atlantic island, Bermuda.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

If Patrick Henry had been a bridge player, he might well have said: "Give me the spade suit or give me death."

Then if Patrick Henry had held today's East hand from the spring charity game, he would have passed in second seat, passed a second time after North responded one notrump to South's one-heart opening bid, but backed into action after South's two-heart rebid was passed by North.

A two-spade call would be dangerous. However, if you aren't willing to take chances you shouldn't play bridge.

If East does back in with two spades he will get a shock. West will take him right to four spades. The shock will be only temporary. One look at dummy and East will smile happily and go about the business of making his game with one or two overtricks.

We don't show East bidding the two spades. Our East in the box was one of the many players who let South play at two hearts. South would have no trouble at that contract. He would be sure of eight tricks and probably come home with nine, because at most tables West would win the first two tricks with the king and queen of clubs. East would go to bed with his ace and South make an overtrick.

ASK THE EXPERTS

A Missouri reader wants to know why most American experts like to use two-club as their only forcing bid.

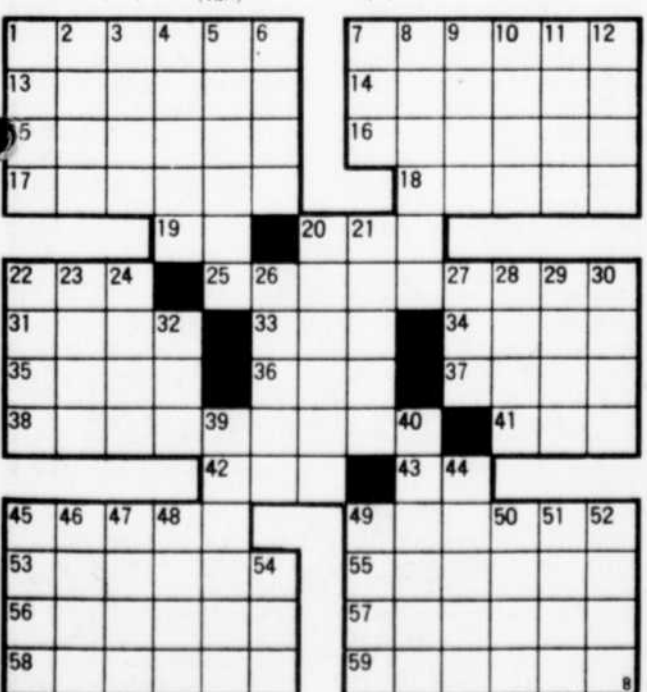

The answer to that one is that you don't get a hand of game or near game strength very often and therefore, it is a great waste to use four opening bids (five if you add three notrump) to cover such hands. Use two clubs as your only force and you can put the other two bids to work.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobs" care of this newspaper. The Jacobs will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty who spent last summer here, that they are now nicely settled in their new home in Adelaide, Australia. In their last communication they state that the temperature down there has reached 110 Fahrenheit which is some contrast to the 30 to 40 below that we have experienced here lately. They wish to be remembered to all their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Moreau of East Farnham were recent callers on Mrs. Moreau's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bracey.

Now that we have lots of snow the snowmobiles are taking full advantage of it. There have been no casualties as of now, although there came near being one a short time ago when Clifton "Bozo" Laduke drove on the river at the back of Blinn's store. The skidoo ended up at the bottom of the river but luckily, Bozo jumped clear. Later, a group of men succeeded in pulling the machine out.

At long last our young people are wearing smiles on their faces due to the fact that our skating rink now has a sheet of ice, but not until the holidays were over, which was a great disappointment to the school children. However, if the present weather continues, there is still lots of time for them to enjoy it.

Annual meeting held by Quebec Presbyterial of WMS

SHERBROOKE — The Annual meeting of the W.M.S. (W.D.) was held in St. Andrew's Church, Sherbrooke on Jan. 10.

Following a delicious noon luncheon, served by the ladies of St. Andrew's W.M.S. group, Mrs. Laroche led in a sing song of favourite hymns. Mrs. D. Bruce was organist.

The Presbyterial President, Mrs. Murray MacDonald, chaired the meeting, using "Let your Light so Shine", Matt 5:16 as the theme for the day.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Malcolm MacLeod, reading from Matt 5: 14-20. A brief meditation from "Queen of the Dark Chamber", telling how a Chinese Buddhist girl became Christian, was very inspiring. Mrs. MacLeod closed the devotion period with prayer.

The president introduced the guest speaker, Rev. K. Toth of Sherbrooke. Several passages of Scripture, in keeping with the theme, were read by Rev. Toth. His address said, "We are challenged to be a light to someone else, to share needs of others. We must not hide the light, it is not a private affair. Practise Christianity and transform our inner life into practical deeds. Let people see your good deeds which are the results of grace and salvation. We must have deep concern for the prevalent hunger problem in the world."

Mrs. Allan Morrison thanked Rev. Toth for his message. Condensed minutes of the 1975 annual meeting were read after which various secretaries gave reports.

New business included the forthcoming events: Synodical for Quebec and Eastern Ontario in April at Cornwall, Ont.; May Rally at Sherbrooke May 15th, Council meeting at Ewart College May 31st to June 3rd; Camp Retreat at Richmond June 18, 19, 20.

The following officers were installed by Mrs. Robert Brown:

Honorary President, Mrs. George MacDonald, Milan, Que.; Past President, Mrs. Malcolm MacLeod, Sherbrooke; President, Mrs.

Murray MacDonald, Sherbrooke; 1st Vice President, Mrs. W. G. MacLeod, Bury, Que.; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. H. K. Mayhew, Lennoxville, Que.; Press and Recording Secretary, Mrs. I. Moulard, Sherbrooke; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Allan Morrison, Sherbrooke; Treasurer, Miss C. Morrison, Sherbrooke.

Departmental Secretaries: Adult groups, Mrs. J. Imrie, Sherbrooke; Associate Members and Friendship and Service, Mrs. M. MacLeod, Sherbrooke; Literature, Mrs. A. K. MacIver, Sherbrooke; Glad Tidings, Mrs. K. A. MacDonald, Scotstown; Supply, Mrs. A. W. Murray Scotstown.

Mrs. Converse, Melbourne, gave courtesies on behalf of all present. The closing devotions were given by Mrs. A.W. Murray, Scotstown, after which tea was served by ladies of St. Andrew's Group.

OBITUARIES

JAMES MACKIE of Beebe

James Mackie passed away suddenly at his late home in Beebe, on December 7, 1975.

Jim, as he was familiarly known, was born in England, the son of the late George Craig Mackie and Mary Jane McWilliam.

The family came to Beebe from Scotland in August, 1906, where the deceased received his education in the Beebe Academy.

In 1930, he was united in marriage to Marion Roy and to this union three children were born: Mary Jane McKellar of Chambly, James, Ville La Salle and George of Beebe.

The deceased was employed in the granite industry for several years, being employed in Barre, Vt. and with the Stanstead Granite Co. of Beebe.

He enlisted for overseas service with the Sherbrooke Fusiliers but owing to ill health was forced to retire when he was given his honorable discharge.

Those left to mourn, are his widow, Mrs. Mackie of Beebe, children, Mrs. Mary Jane McKellar of Chambly, James of Ville La Salle and George of Beebe, sisters, Mrs. Norman Somerville and Mrs. Sarah de Pencier, both of Beebe, as well as several grandchildren.

MRS. DAVID REID of Beverly, Mass.

Formerly of Milan Catherine J. Reid, age 85, of 6 Concord Terrace, Beverly, Mass., died on Saturday, December 13, 1975 after a lengthy illness.

Born in Milan, Que., on November 24, 1890, the daughter of the late John K. Nicholson and Margaret Smith.

On August 26, 1922, she was united in marriage to David Reid II, and of this marriage were born a son and a daughter.

They lived in Lynn, Mass., for many years and in Beverly, Mass., the past 15 years. She was a member of the Bethany Congregational Church, Lynn. Her husband passed away in 1973.

She leaves a son, David Reid III, of Wenham, Mass., a daughter, Mrs. Mary J. Morelock, of Ballston, N.Y., a daughter-in-law and a son-in-law; four brothers, Murdo of Springfield, Mass., John, of Scotstown, Que., Ebenezer of Saskatoon, Sask. and David, of Milan, Que., two sisters, Mrs. Christine Archibald, of P.O. Box 1, Alton, and Mrs. Margaret Murray of Springfield, Mass., also nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral service was held at the Campbell Funeral Home, 525 Cabot St., Beverly on Tuesday at 11 a.m. and burial in the North Beverly Cemetery.

Relatives attending the services from a distance were from Springfield, Mass., Scotstown and Milan.

Obituary

PETER DUSTIN WARK of Huntingville

The sudden and tragic death of Peter Dustin Wark of Huntingville, Que., on Friday, May 30, 1975 at Langdon, Ont. came as a shock, bringing sadness to his family, relatives and friends.

Peter was born April 20, 1955, and was the second son of Roberta Wark Baldwin, and the late Alan James Wark, and step-son of Murray Baldwin.

The funeral service, held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Sherbrooke was conducted by Mr. John Vaudry, with burial in the family plot at Malvern Cemetery, Lennoxville.

The bearers were Neil Patterson, Kenneth Robichaud, Brian Sutor, Barry Sutor, Graham Ramage and Ernie White.

Peter had just graduated from Champlain College, Lennoxville, having completed an admirable academic record, and was preparing to continue his studies in history at Trent University, Peterborough, Ont., in the fall.

At Champlain, Peter worked enthusiastically and with effort, quickly gaining the respect of both his student colleagues and his professors. At a time when so many are turned off by education and the academic world, Peter was turned on to life and to the quest for knowledge.

It is always particularly tragic when one so young is taken so early. Words, no matter how sympathetic and well intentioned, cannot replace such a loss.

Yet, we refuse to resign ourselves to despair; rather we take heart in the memory of the life Peter lived, and of the example he left for us all.

Besides his mother and step-father, he leaves to mourn, a brother, James of Lennoxville, two sisters, Dawn of Inuvik, N.W.T. and Jill at home.

Among those present were relatives and friends from Hamilton, Cobourg, Trenton, New Carlisle, Cowansville, Monroe, N.H. and the surrounding community.

Hull here tonight, Sags on Sunday

The Beavers commence their weekend tilts which will see them in action three times during the next four days. Tonight they tangle with the Festivals of Hull and Sunday it will be the turn of the Sags of Chicoutimi and in a rare Monday fixture Three Rivers will be at the Sports Palace.

Sherbrooke is setting a merry pace in the West Division of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League and have picked up a total of 60 points for their forty games played so far. At home they have been practically unbeatable having dropped only one game in the 22 games played at the Sports Palace.

On the road they have done pretty well also having chalked up nine wins, seven losses and finished deadlocked in two games. They earned a total of 20 points for their road performances while at home they seem to hold pretty much the upper hand.

The Beavers have a record of 28 victories with eight losses and four ties and during this period they have amassed a total of 60 points. They potted a high of 287 goals while holding the opposition to just 157 which puts them in top spot in both sections of the circuit.

Coach Delage will have Richard Sevigny available tonight for action. He has been on the sidelines for close to two weeks and his case will be decided after the warm-up this evening. Ron Carter is on the doubtful list along with Robert Desormeaux as both are in the hands of the club doctor.

The rest of the club are ready for the heavy action on tap the coming week. Brendan Lowe, who played in Laval, came through and should be ready to carry on with his share of duty. His return will be a help since Robert Desormeaux is still on the doubtful list.

It will be Hull's third trip to Sherbrooke and they have one victory to their credit, a 9-7 decision Nov. 7 before 5,000 fans. Following this the Beavers stopped them 11-5 while at Hull in the opener the Beavers came out with a 4-1 verdict.

Against Chicoutimi the Sags have yet to pick up a win at the Sports Palace. In the first encounter, Nov. 3rd, the Beavers posted a 8-4 victory and then followed with a 7-3 decision Dec. 3rd and in the third encounter on Dec. 12th Sherbrooke came through with a 6-1 win over the Sags.

The crowds for Hull's two games reached a total of 9,144 while the Chicoutimi three tilts held steady at a little more than 3,600 average. All in all both series drew fair crowds as the fans can expect a close battle for part of the fixture. Hull will be out to try and knock over the Beavers and improve their position in a race for a higher spot in the standing.

The tilt this evening will commence at 8:00 p.m. while Sunday it is slated for the usual time of 7:30.

Giants' move still on limb

PHOENIX, Ariz. (CP) — President John McHale of Montreal Expos said Wednesday night he remains "very optimistic" about Toronto's chances of getting baseball's San Francisco Giants.

McHale said in an interview he was impressed by a presentation made to National League owners by the Canadian group trying to get league permission to buy the Giants for $13.25 million and move the team to Toronto.

He and officials of the other 11 teams spent most of Wednesday afternoon discussing the Giants' situation after hearing opposing presentations—one by the Toronto delegation, led by Don McDougall, and the other by Mayor George Moscone of San Francisco.

The owners were prevented from actually voting on the Toronto bid by a temporary restraining order issued Monday by a Superior Court in San Francisco.

McHale, a member of major league baseball's franchise committee, has long advocated bringing Toronto into the National League.

National League president Chub Feeney told reporters at the end of Wednesday's meeting that discussion of the San Francisco situation had been concluded and a meeting this morning would deal with other issues.

WILL DISCUSS FURTHER However, Muscone said Feeney assured him later in a private meeting that there would be more discussion of the Giants situation today.

Both Giants lawyer Jim Hunt and McHale also said discussion of the sale would continue.

When the meetings were first set up, they were expected to deal primarily with player relations and routine housekeeping matters and last only one day.

However, the owners decided to meet again this morning and postponed a scheduled meeting in nearby Scottsdale by the Major League Players' Association until later in the day.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn indicated Wednesday that spring training will not start until owners and the association reach agreement on a contract.

The basic agreement with the players' association expired Dec. 31 and the 11th meeting in series of negotiations will take place today.

WILL EXPAND After a joint meeting of both leagues, American League owners met separately and decided to expand by adding Seattle in 1977.

It was not clear how the American League could carry out expansion to an uneven number of teams, 13, without similar expansion by the National League and approval of inter-league play, something National League owners have opposed in the past.

Moscone, who received a 30-minute hearing, said he got the impression the owners were anxious to find a way to get a good deal for Giants president Horace Stoneham and still keep the Giants in San Francisco.

He said he told the meeting he had two groups interested in buying the Giants and keeping them in San Francisco.

He said the offer from a group headed by Bob Short, former owner of Texas Rangers of the American League, was "at least equal" to the Canadian group's offer.

LIONS WANT SWEET VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions are attempting to make a trade with Montreal Alouettes for place-kicker Don Sweet, general manager Bob Ackles of the Lions said Tuesday.

Ackles said in a telephone interview from St. Louis that the Lions need a kicker and "something will be worked out with Montreal." Sweet has played for the Canadian Football League team for four years and was named the outstanding player in the 1974 Grey Cup game here when he kicked four field goals as Montreal defeated Edmonton Eskimos 19-7.

Heavy snow fall brings relief to Games' site

INNSBRUCK, Austria — (AP) — Organizers of the 1976 Winter Olympics heaved a big sigh of relief yesterday after up to 20 inches of snow fell on the Olympic tracks in a 24-hour period.

They immediately discontinued the transport of snow to the site from the Brenner area some 30 miles distant. They had been importing snow since Jan. 7 because virtually none had fallen at Innsbruck and the mountains nearby.

During the snow-haul, peasants in the Brenner area had boosted the price to 16 cents from 2½ cents for one square meter of snow taken from their farmland.

Chris Evert named 1975 lady athlete

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Evert, who last year set money-winning records in tennis with her two-fisted backhand and baseline stance, started off 1976 with a victory and yet another trophy—The Associated Press 1975 female Athlete of the Year.

Miss Evert, who won the AP honor in 1974, repeated after winning a record $362,227 in prize money and capturing 14 tournaments, including the U.S. Open, the French and Italian opens and the U.S. clay court championship.

The 21-year-old tennis star ran away with the AP title, announced today, by collecting 246 votes in a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Sandra Palmer, the leading money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, was runner-up with 64 votes. Anne Marie Moser-Proell, who won a record fifth consecutive World Cup in international skiing before retiring, was third with 15 votes.

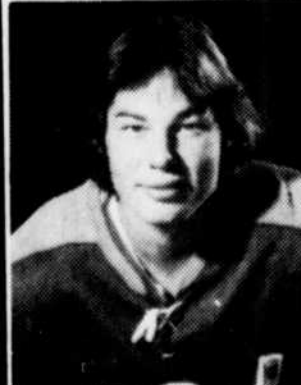

Billie Jean King, a two-time AP female Athlete of the Year who was Miss Evert's nemesis until she retired from singles competition following her victory at Wimbledon, was fourth with six votes.

Miss Evert joins baseball's Fred Lynn, Boston Red Sox outfielder, as AP's outstanding athletes for 1975. Lynn, who became the first American League Rookie of the Year to win the Most Valuable Player Award, was named the AP Male Athlete of the Year on Tuesday.

Quarterback or coach

Football: who should call the shots

By Murray Olderman

SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — For more than eight years, Steve Spurrier, who once won a Heisman Award for his field generalship on the football field, had waited for the chance to call signals regularly as a pro quarterback with the San Francisco 49ers.

In mid-season, his team in desperate straits, he was finally getting it. And so, notified one recent Sunday that he was going to be the field boss, Steve went over to his head coach on the sidelines before the game and said, "I want to go over what plays I'm going to call, Coach."

Dick Nolan looked at him out of the corner of his eye and said, "We're calling the signals. Didn't anyone tell you?"

Spurrier gaped and shook his head and went unhappily on the field when the 49ers got their first offensive possession. Every play a different running back relayed instructions from assistant coach Don Heinrich on the sidelines. The 49ers sputtered and stuttered and halfway through the second quarter were down to the Los Angeles Rams 14-0. After a fumble coughed up the ball to the Rams deep in Los Angeles territory, Spurrier ran to the bench and took Nolan aside for an earnest talk.

"Look, Coach," he said, "we're not doing anything this way. Let me call the plays."

This has been an argument that has been going on in football since free substitution began just after World War II, and Paul Brown started his messenger system of shuttling guards with instructions from the sidelines.

It used to evoke passionate debate, especially about the coaches taking the game out of the players' hands. Otto Graham, despite the record, has not been accepted as the most successful quarterback of all time simply because STEVE SPURRIER: To call or not to call, that is the dilemma.

Brown was calling the shots. Crusty, experienced signal callers such as Bobby Layne used to say they would never accept the messenger system because a coach on the sidelines did not have the same feel of the game they did.

But Brown made it work, and other coaches followed suit and now the issue has become largely academic because many college and pro teams call all plays from the bench, and the sight of new players streaming in every play, like a relay of ants, is accepted as part of the game.

But it is important to equate the difference between Paul Brown calling plays, as he still does for the Cincinnati Bengals, and the situation as it existed on a team like the 49ers.

Spurrier won his point in this particular game against the Rams and, calling all the plays with the wife and experience he has accumulated in almost nine seasons, he rallied San Francisco to an emotional, last-second victory over the heavily favored Rams (and, ironically, may have saved Nolan's job temporarily).

"What the hell," said one veteran offensive star on the club, "why shouldn't Steve call 'em? We got nobody else to call 'em anyhow. And Steve's a competitor."

Spurrier, in fact, had been sidetracked for the starting quarterback job on the 49ers the first half of this season because he had the temerity to defy a game plan in an exhibition contest against the Rams, and put the ball up in the air instead of keeping it on the ground as ordered.

The last time a quarterback challenged the signal-calling authority of the 49er coaching staff, he was pushed into retirement. John Brodie, who held the job for the better part of 17 years, confided after a victory over Atlanta early in the 1973 season that he was probably going to be benched because he disagreed with Nolan on how the offense should be run. He was, and after that season he quit.

General manager Don Klosterman of Los Angeles, once a quarterback himself, argues that coaches should send in the plays because they devised the offense. And Coach Chuck Knox does call all the signals for quarterback James Harris Just, as for instance, Tom Landry of the Cowboys sends in the plays to Roger Staubach for Dallas.

But veteran quarterbacks Bill Kilmer of Washington and Fran Tarkenton of Minnesota run their own games, with only brief suggestions from the sidelines.

"Sure," nods Klosterman, "they're like coaches on the field anyhow."

Dick Nolan may not have that kind of confidence in Spurrier, who, despite the fact that he has been around since 1967, has never been the clear-cut starting quarterback. But Nolan, who is well respected by the 49ers as a conscientious, hard-working coach, does not fill that confidence gap either simply because he does not — as men like Brown, Landry and Knox do — take over the play-calling responsibility himself. He has delegated it to his assistant coaches.

You don't mind the boss telling you what to do. You're reluctant to accept authority unchallenged from one of his aides. Especially if those aides don't have the track records to convince the players, and particularly the quarterback, that their judgment is infallible.

Besides which, a quarterback is paid to think as well as throw.

National Football League postpones draft as court action delays expansion

MIAMI (AP) — The National Football League postponed its scheduled expansion draft to stock the Tampa Bay and Seattle franchises as well as its college draft Tuesday after the two new franchises had filed a joint legal action against the NFL Players Association.

The expansion draft had been scheduled for Jan. 23-24 and the college draft had been set for Feb. 3.

Both were put off following the announcement of the suit filed in federal court in Miami.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the delay is necessary in order to give the court sufficient time to determine the legality of the allocation, which had been questioned by the NFLPA.

The commissioner said it would be impractical to conduct the college draft with Seattle and Tampa Bay participating, then find that expansion to the two cities had to be postponed or abandoned because of their inability to receive the allocation of veterans.

WANT INJUNCTION

Named as defendants in the action, taken by owners

Hugh Culverhouse of Tampa Bay and Herman Sarkowsky of Seattle, were the players association, the union's key officials and player representatives of the current 26 NFL teams. The suit asks that an injunction be issued prohibiting the players' union from any unlawful interference in the stocking of the franchises.

Culverhouse and Sarkowsky said the suit had been filed because of the positions taken on the veteran allocation by the NFLPA and as a result of the recent Minneapolis court decision on the Rozelle Rule.

In that court case, a federal judge ruled illegal the compensation clause that allows commissioner Pete Rozelle to turn over players and/or draft choices to teams which lose free agents who have played out their options.

The Seattle-Tampa suit points out that the veteran player allocation procedure is the same that has been used to stock past NFL expansion teams and that they "will not in any respect restrict or restrain any competition for the services" of veteran NFL players.

Morerod clinches giant slalom

LES GETS, France — (AP) — Switzerland's Lise-Marie Morerod beat the world ski elite by more than two seconds yesterday to win the giant slalom race marking the halfway point of the 1976 World Cup season.

Miss Morerod, fourth in the World Cup standings, completed the 47-gate, 310-meter-high course in 1:08.40, followed by Germany's World Cup leader Rosi Mittermaier, in 1:10.56.

Miss Morerod, 19, from Lausanne won her fourth major race of the season in masterful style, without making a single error on the icy course covered with a thin layer of new snow.

Susan Clifford of Old Chelsea, Que., placed 19th with 1:12.53.

Kathy Kreiner of Timmins, Ont., had a time of 1:13.29 and finished 37th over-all with Karen Cloutier of Lorraine, Que., in 40th, 1:13.62, and Laurie Kreiner 41st in 1:13.74. Betsy Clifford abandoned the race after missing a gate.

Miss Mittermaier's second-place finish gave her an almost insurmountable lead of 39 points in the World Cup standings over Austria's Brigitte Totschnig, who placed fifth with 1:10.95.

Miss Morerod retained fourth place in the World Cup standings, 51 points behind the leader. The top World Cup standings, revised at the halfway point of the season, were Miss Mittermaier 151, Miss Totschnig 112, Switzerland's Bernadette Zurbirgen 109, and Miss Morerod 100.
