World News In Brief

Buenos Aires, Nov. 13.—(P)—Juan D. Peron today was apparently assured the almost-unanimous support of Argentina's federal congress and 14 provincial governors during his next term—1952 to 1958—as President.

Provisional but almost-complete unofficial results from Sunday's elections showed that Peronista candidates swept the board for the 30-seat senate and took all 14 provincial governorships.

Government forces also were complete control of the lower congressional branch, the house of deputies.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—(P)—The army announced yesterday it has decided to adopt the British Centurion tank—considered one of the finest mobile fighting units in the world—as equipment for an armored squadron forming part of Canada's 27th brigade force now moving to Europe.

The speedy Centurion, a post-war British development, has proved itself in the Korean battle. It is equipped with a 20-pounder gun as the main firing unit and a Rolls-Royce engine.

Stephenville Crossing, Nfld., Nov. 13.—(P)—Two youths died in an early morning fire in this St. George's Bay community when their car heater exploded.

The young men were trapped as the flames spread quickly. Elmo Jefferies and Allister Wellon, both about 17, are dead. A companion, Louis Ball, managed to escape.

Tokyo, Nov. 13.—(P)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's press information officer today said a British correspondent's charge that American censors in Korea discriminate against Commonwealth units was a "distortion of fact."

The accusation was made by Eric Downton, Canadian-born correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph.

Downton, in a story in his newspaper, said, "the need for Commonwealth representation on the censors now operating at Eighth Army headquarters in Korea has become unpleasantly obvious. Correspondents here have lost confidence in the efficiency, consistency and fairness of the all-American censorship."

Col. George Patrick Welch, Ridgway's press information officer, said British officers have not been assigned to censorship duty because of a shortage of qualified personnel.

Washington, Nov. 13.—(P)—Iranian Premier Mohammad Mossadeq, heartened by promise of an international loan, arranged a final day of conferences today with American mediators who are trying to solve Iran's oil dispute with Britain.

A breakdown of current talks by nightfall appeared possible unless Iran or Britain backed down.

The 50-country International Monetary Fund was reported willing to grant the near-bankrupt Iranian government an emergency credit of $8,750,000. Formal announcement was anticipated during the day.

United Nations Troops Stop Communist Attacks

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Nov. 13.—(P)—United Nations troops today stopped a series of co-ordinated communist attacks along the muddy east coast of Korea.

The Reds attacked along a three-mile front in the Kosong sector. The attacks began before midnight. Shouting Reds kept coming through the darkness until 5 a.m. by 7:10 a.m. the Eighth Army said, the last communist soldier had been driven back.

The Kosong sector is 45 miles north of the 38th parallel, and the northernmost point of the front.

It was the only action since dawn patrol clashes, reported in the evening communique.

Sixty miles northwest of Kosong, U.N. warships carried their siege of Wonsan into the 27th day. Destroyer guns set a big Wonsan supply dump afire Monday.

Skies cleared Tuesday and U.S. Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers cut North Korean rail lines in more than 100 places.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, U.S. air forces chief of staff who left Tokyo for Washington Tuesday, said allied planes have done such a thorough job there isn't a single target left worthy of attack by a mass flight of B-29's.

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 13.—(P)—An allied spokesman said communist truce negotiations "made it even more clear today" that they want to create a buffer zone across Korea to end the shooting now.

Big Three's German Plan Will Be Debated By U.N. Despite Soviet Objections

Store By-Law Faces Test Before Court

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal, Nov. 13.—(P)—A recently-passed city by-law requiring stores to close on four Roman Catholic holy days has shopkeepers in this predominantly Catholic city at sixes and sevens. And that goes for Catholics and Protestants.

Both plan to put the by-law to a court test and are believed to have picked Dec. 8, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, as the day. Most stores and shops probably will remain open that day in defiance of the law.

If charges are laid as a result of this defiance, the store owners plan to pool their resources to fight the case in court.

The by-law raised strong protests from Protestants, including Rev. Victor Rose, chairman of the Montreal Presbytery of the United Church of Canada and Rev. J. S. McBride, Moderator of the Montreal Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

They charged it was an attempt by one religious group to force their religious observances on the minority.

Following these protests, a group of businessmen, among them prominent Roman Catholics, formed a committee to prepare for a test case. Some of these Catholics were members of the Chambre de Commerce de Montreal, a 3,000-member organization whose monthly bulletin defended passage of the by-law.

The Chambre bulletin said the law "merely enables a great majority of the population that is preponderantly Catholic to practise their religion and discharge their church duties."

"The by-law does not encroach upon the liberty and freedom of any minority group. It does not oblige them to profess the faith of those who belong to the Roman Catholic faith."

The new law provides that all retail stores must close on Epiphany, Ascension Day, All Saints day and the Feast of the Immaculate Conception.

A similar bill failed to get the required two-thirds majority in the council last year. But earlier this month it passed by a 61-29 vote with the support of Msgr. Paul Emil Leger, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal, and Catholic Action groups.

Although the law was the subject of debate before and after its passage, the committee on businessmen planning a test case have remained silent and have declined to be identified prior to the test.

However, their stand is that of one retailer who said he was firmly opposed to the argument used by the Chambre de Commerce that the by-law was framed to prevent unfair competition by those remaining open while others were closed.

"That's mistaking service to the public for unfair competition," he said.

Russian Claim That German Problem Does Not Concern Assembly Is Rejected By 47 To 6 Vote.

By STANLEY JOHNSON

Paris, Nov. 13.—(A.P.)—Over strenuous Russian objections, the United Nations' General Assembly today voted to take up a western big-three plan intended as the first step in the reunification of Germany.

The vote was 47 to six with two abstentions. By its vote, the Assembly rejected Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky's claim that the German problem is none of its business.

The Assembly also beat back a Russian attempt to force off the agenda long-pending nationalist Chinese charges of Soviet aggression in China.

The big-three plan, as explained by State Secretary Dean Acheson of the U.S. and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain, calls for the establishment of an impartial international commission to investigate whether conditions in both west Germany and communist-ruled east Germany are suitable for holding elections.

Both Acheson and Eden said it is designed to lead to eventual unity of Germany, and was introduced at the request of the west German chancellor, Konrad Adenauer.

"I beg to differ," Vishinsky said in a slashing attack on the plan. France, Britain and the United States want "first and foremost to perpetuate the dismemberment of Germany," he said.

Vishinsky claimed that establishment of such a commission would violate both the U.N. charter and the Potsdam agreements.

He also said it is "an insult to the German people to present them with demands which are usually made to such backward countries as Morocco and Tunis."

The Soviet foreign minister insisted that the problem of Germany should be considered not by the General Assembly but in the council of foreign ministers, made up of the foreign ministers of the U.S., Russia, Britain and France. Russia has a veto there.

Vishinsky was backed by Moshe Sharett of Israel, who claimed that "the spirit of Nazism" is reviving in Germany and that the big-three proposals are "morally and legally unjustified."

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb said the plan has the support of west Germany and urged its acceptance as a preliminary step, which might lead to the holding of elections throughout Germany.

U.S. delegate Warren R. Austin also urged inclusion of the item on the agenda of the 60-country assembly.

The vote to keep the nationalist Chinese charges against the Russians on the agenda was 30 to 8 with 13 abstentions.

Nationalist China has had before the U.N. for two years the charge that Russia boosted the Chinese communists to power in violation of the U.N. charter and her treaty with Chiang Kai-Shek.

The Assembly also was expected to hand the Soviets another setback later today by ruling there can be no further debate at this session on the Russian demand to admit communist China to U.N. Such action was recommended Saturday by the Assembly steering committee, despite strong communist objection.

Soviet delegate Jakob A. Malik denounced the nationalist Chinese charges as "silly and provocative libel" and charged that the real menace to China's territorial integrity is American aggression.

Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang replied that the question, which was debated inconclusively at last year's Assembly, was the most important item before the U.N. He demanded that it be taken up immediately as unfinished business.

The nationalist charges were referred last year to the "little assembly."

The Assembly also decided, over strenuous South African objections, to air Indian charges that the Indian minority in South Africa.

Churchill Will Visit Ottawa

London, Nov. 13.—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill has accepted an invitation from the Canadian government to spend two or three days at Ottawa after his talks with President Truman at Washington in January, it was announced tonight.

The length of the Prime Minister's stay in North America is still to be announced. So far it is known only that he will leave Britain in the first days of January.

Authoritative quarters here could not say tonight whether Churchill will address a joint session of Congress during his Washington visit. They merely commented he would naturally be anxious to meet any wishes which Congress might express.

Collision Of Two Passenger Trains In Wyoming Takes At Least 20 Lives

By CLIFTON E. WILSON

Evanston, Wyo., Nov. 13.—(P)—Twenty or more persons were killed yesterday in the screaming collision of two eastbound streamlining passenger trains during a howling snowstorm near here.

Union Pacific Railroad officials reported four other persons were missing. Eight were seriously injured and scores more hurt slightly.

The luxury train City of San Francisco slammed into the rear of the halted City of Los Angeles with a roar which sounded "like someone screaming" to one of the survivors.

The impact crumpled portions of the two trains into what looked like a huge tomato can squashed almost flat, with bodies and parts of bodies just "lying around."

The San Francisco was thundering across the desert about three miles west of this small southwest Wyoming town, 20 miles northeast of Salt Lake City. It plowed its way through a storm which already had dumped eight inches of snow on the ground. Ten minutes ahead ran the City of Los Angeles. Both were behind schedule.

Then the Los Angeles halted on the line for a block signal. At 11:32 a.m. MST the San Francisco hit the last car of the Los Angeles with a thunderous rending of metal. The three-unit diesel power plant of the second train went through the last car like a plowshare and crushed four other cars.

All cars of the second train leaped off the tracks but remained upright. Thomas E. Sharp, radio station owner from San Diego, was sitting in a compartment of the City of San Francisco drinking coffee.

"The coffee flew out of my hand and the conductor flew into the room," Sharp reported.

Alex Henetz of Cheyenne, Wyo., said he rushed outside and helped a woman from the top of the shattered wreckage. "How she was thrown out I'll never know," he said.

The snow let up as rescue operations began. It was a foot deep near the wreck.

The snow began again at nightfall. Workmen rigged floodlights and continued work in sub-freezing temperatures.

Reports of the dead began coming out of Wyuta, the Wyoming-Utah border community which was the site of the wreck. Five were reported dead; then eight, then 12. All the dead were aboard the City of Los Angeles.

Two hours after the wreck, two Union Pacific freights collided north of Laramie, Wyo. No reports of injuries were received.

A rush call went out to Evanston and Ogden for cutting torches to slice into the twisted metal and free the trapped injured, dead and dying. Later diesel oil began to leak, and the torches had to be put out and the tedious hacking done with steel saws.

A large number of doctors were aboard the two trains, returning from a medical convention in San Francisco. They assisted local doctors. Dr. Anthony P. Ippolito of Chicago, prominent orthopedic surgeon, was killed in the wreck with his wife.

No Canadians were among the casualties listed in incomplete rosters of the identified dead, missing and injured.

London, Nov. 13.—(Reuters)—Britain's present spell of wet weather continued today without any sign of a break.

Drizzling rain, some fog, heavy cloud and bright patches were reported for most of the country but the floods in the west and north were receding and Britons have the consolation that the weather while abnormally wet was also abnormally mild.

All major roads now were open again to traffic.

Brome Team Wins At Royal Winter Fair

Special to the Record
Toronto, Nov. 13.—The Quebec province team of Robert Miller and Garth Hadlock of Brome won the dairy cattle judging competition at the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto.

Members of the Brome calf club, the Eastern Townships youths qualified for the Canada-wide competition by winning the judging competition at Sherbrooke earlier this year.

In winning this important competition, Miller and Hadlock outpointed eight other teams from across Canada.

They were coached by Gaston Marcoux, federal livestock promoter for the Eastern Townships.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—(P)—The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair opens today and from now until Nov. 21 blue ribbon livestock and top-grade farm produce will hold the spotlight.

Farmers, stock breeders and agricultural experts from many parts of Canada and from neighboring sectors of the United States will throng the coliseum on the exhibition grounds on Toronto's western waterfront. Mingling with the throng will be hundreds of city folk, many of whom grew up on farms.

For the top-hat crowd and for the ordinary lover of good horse flesh, the horse shows will be staged in their usual magnificence, with afternoon and evening performances most days.

Other attractions include a flower show, a display of tropical fish, exhibits of latest-type farm machinery, a cat show and various special displays.

On the eve of the opening, officials announced that some 3,000 exhibitors had sent 17,000 entries altogether to compete for upwards of $142,000 in prize money.

Production Minister Howe will address more than 1,000 persons tonight at the annual dinner and later in the evening will formally open the fair.

As in past years, crack teams of international horsemen will provide much of the horse show color. The feature this year will be the cadre noir, all-officer cavalry unit from the French military academy at Saumur.

In addition, jumping teams from the United States, Canada, Mexico and the Republic of Ireland will compete for the international challenge trophy.

Judging of the grand champion steer and the King's Guinness steer in the beef classes is scheduled for the big arena Nov. 19th.

Quebec, Nov. 13.—(P)—Increased farm loan funds and additional grants for housing aids are expected to be discussed when Quebec Legislative Assembly resumes its session today.

The elected provincial house already has approved a bill for pensions at 65 since last Wednesday's session opening. The farm loan and housing aid bills and another to increase grants for rural electricity service will also be dealt with this week on a priority basis.

The farm loans bill will increase government funds placed at the disposal of the rural credit bureau by $10,000,000 to $96,000,000.

Negotiations May Reopen With U.K. On Food Sales

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—(P)—The possibility arose today of fresh Anglo-Canadian negotiations for the sale of Canadian farm products to the food-short United Kingdom.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner indicated this in the Commons last night when he disclosed that he plans to discuss food sales with officials of the United Kingdom and other countries at an international agricultural gathering in Rome.

He plans to leave for Rome Monday next and return about Nov. 29th, stopping off in London on the way back.

Mr. Gardiner, speaking in the Throne Speech debate, made it clear the change of government in the U.K. had influenced him to attend the Rome gathering, the annual meeting of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. He understood the new British ministers of food and agriculture would be there and he felt it would be well to meet them.

Canada now has only a few food agreements with Britain, compared with the big contracts of the war and early post-war years. Present sales cover cheese, wheat and apples. There are none for pork, beef, eggs and poultry, all major commodities in the contracts of a few years ago.

Mr. Gardiner made his announcement in response to a suggestive Conservative leader, that Canadian farmers be told how the British austerity program, with its possible reduction in purchases from Canada, might affect production plans.

The Progressive Conservative leader also urged the government to call a conference of Prairie farm leaders, including the western ministers of agriculture, to consider what should be done to help western producers. They faced "very real disaster" because of the slow movement of grain.

Mr. Gardiner said that problem will be discussed when he attends a meeting of western wheat pools in Regina this Friday. It also will come before the annual Federal-Provincial conference here early in December.

Hinging a move, Federal assistance for the west, he said the government is considering western crop conditions, though he could not say just now what might be done.

As for the twin problems of food production and food sales, he promised the farmers would be encouraged to produce more as soon as a market could be assured.

Mr. Drew suggested the government consider legislation of make the King and all members of his Royal family Canadian citizens. It would be a "happy gesture" from a country with an important role to play in the Commonwealth.

At the same time, he disclosed that his party will support a Social Credit motion, tantamount to a motion of non-confidence in the government, criticizing the government for "failing" to increase war veterans' allowances at this session.

The chicken in the tiny coop no longer need suffer from lack of exercise. A rolling perch has been invented that provides the exercise to develop the muscles of the fowl and help keep the bird in good physical condition.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

HERE'S HOW FIVE CAN PLAY. What do you do with five Canasta players? One solution is to send one of them to the movies. Another is to have the players take turns sitting out.

For example, suppose the family gets together for a game and that they cut cards. It happens that the three highest cards are cut by Father, Grandpa, and Junior; the two lowest cards are cut by Mother and Grandma. Let's suppose that the three males cut cards that rank in the order of their age—Grandpa being highest, and Junior lowest.

The males play against the females in this case (the three high against the two low). Junior sits out for the first hand, and the other four play. At the end of the first hand, Father sits on the bench, and Junior goes in. At the end of the second hand, Grandpa comes out, and Father takes his place. That rotation continues until the games end.

Annual Church Supper Held At Danville

Danville, Nov. 13.—The annual church supper of Trinity United Church was held in the Church Hall recently with a good attendance, and the proceeds were most gratifying. The supper tables, nicely decorated with red lighted candles and dishes of red apples, were under the supervision of Mrs. A. Carr, Mrs. Arthur Paige, Mrs. C. S. Leith, Mrs. Arnold Leet, Mrs. W. S. Hamilton, Mrs. J. Saffin, Mrs. Walter Baker, Mrs. Roy Ledrew and Miss C. Longmoor, each one inviting her own waitresses.

The kitchen committee consisted of Mrs. D. M. Riddle, Mrs. J. H. Boutelle, Mrs. Albert Olney, Mrs. Harry Marek, Mrs. A. W. Bishop, and Mrs. Mattie Lodge. Mrs. R. H. Stevenson was in charge of the pie section and Mrs. S. Rick of the rolls. Mrs. Charles Webb made the coffee. Many ladies assisted with the kitchen work and were kept very busy at the tables which seated one hundred and were reset three times. A table of fancy and useful articles were in charge of Mrs. F. Perkins, Mrs. Addie Lockwood, Mrs. Howard Laxson and Mrs. H. Marek.

A parcel post table in charge of the Brown Leigh-Kingsey Falls ladies, was very popular and made a satisfactory amount. Mrs. N. McNiff, the Association treasurer, was in charge of the tickets and Mrs. D. M. Riddle, the President, deserves much credit for organizing and carrying on so efficiently.

Whist Party The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion Branch 41, held a whist party in the army when 11 tables enjoyed the game. Prize winners at Fort Yellow were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Keen. The hostesses, Mrs. H. Nutbrown, Mrs. William Greek, Mrs. John Philbrick and Mrs. Roy Smith, served refreshments.

Next party in the series will be on the 15th. General Notes Mrs. Lyman Morrill has left to spend the winter months in the eastern states with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cummings and son, of Montreal, were guests of Mrs. Cummings' mother, Mrs. rectoring Joel McCrea and Yvonne de Carlo in "San Francisco Story."

Rita Walks Alone To Repay Polio Fund

By BRIAN COYNE NEA Special Correspondent Arkansas City, Kans.—(NEA)—A misty-eyed young girl stepped out of a car in front of the big U.C.W. memorial hall in Arkansas City. While people held their breaths, she walked—alone—up to the building and into the big dining room. Rita Hammer, 14, was walking without help for the first time in two years, and her slow but sure journey into the V.F.W. hall was to pay back those who had helped her lick infantile paralysis.

RITA'S BIG DAY: Rita Hammer, 14, sits with her mother and father at the barbecue in Arkansas City, Kans., that marked her recovery from polio and raised $5000 to help others.

Rita's father had the idea for the barbecue as a way to repay the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for the $2000 hospital bill the foundation picked up when Rita was stricken two years ago. Before he got through, the whole town pitched in. An old friend, Harry Derry, local V.F.W. commander, got the veterans' organization to provide the hall and line up the rest of the food as a community service project.

Prince Eugene Still Hero To Vienna---In Porcelain

By JULIUS HUMI NEA Staff Correspondent Vienna, Austria (NEA)—After more than 200 years, Vienna's world-famous porcelain is still one of the chief foreign currency earners in this war-damaged city. Craftsman like Joseph Sissabach, 62, who has worked in the Augarten factory for 45 years, and 140 other employees, including young girls with paint brushes, hand out plates, vases and figurines with tools and methods almost the same as those used 220 years ago.

Paquier made a porcelain figurine of Prince Eugene in honor of that hero's Balkan victories. In his Viennese court, Charles VI, emperor of the Holy Roman Empire, was fascinated by the tiny statue made of "Chinese white wonder earth," and authorized the Dutch artist to go into business.

The statuette of Prince Eugene is still one of the factory's most popular pieces. The newest one, called "Corrida" (Bullfight), is rapidly becoming popular despite a price tag of 7000 Austrian shillings ($280). Principal customers for the factory's "extra-fine" dinner ware, all hand-painted, are in South America, Scandinavia and Spain, with some being exported to the U. S., England and Germany. The cast for a complete set is about 20,000 shillings ($800).

Committal Service Held at Sutton For Brig.-Gen. Dennis C. Draper

Sutton, Nov. 13.—Residents of his native Sutton district and former colleagues in the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles gathered here yesterday to pay final tribute to Brig. Gen. Dennis Colburn Draper, C.M.G., D.S.O., former commander of the overseas regiment and later Chief of Police for the City of Toronto, whose body was brought back here for burial. General Draper died Thursday at Sunnybrook Veterans' Hospital in Toronto at the age of 77 years.

The train bearing the body arrived at the station at 11:07 a.m. and was met by Canadian Army and veterans units, as well as by many members of the family and friends from all parts of the Eastern Townships. Prominently represented in the group of mourners were members of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles Overseas Association of which unit General Draper was an original officer and one-time commanding officer.

The cortege, led by a twelve-man firing party from the C.A.T.S. Squad of St. John's, left the station at 11:15 a.m. and proceeded to the village to Fairmount Cemetery where Rev. F. Getty, of Sutton, read a prayer as the party approached the grave. The late general's medals were carried by Major C. A. Hewson, president of the 5th C.M.R. Association.

Lt. Col. H. F. C. Cocks, M.C.,

E.D., chaplain of the Ste. Anne de Bellevue Military Hospital, conducted the committal service at the grave, assisted by Lt. Col. Thomas Stewart, chaplain of the Sunnybrook Veterans' Hospital, and Rev. Dr. S. W. Boyd, of Cowansville. Lt. Col. Cocks was the original adjutant of the 5th C.M.R.

The firing party then fired three volleys and the Last Post and Reveille were sounded by a bugler. The party was under the command of Lt. Col. Wells Bishop, D.S.O., officer commanding the 7th/11th Hussars, the perpetuating unit of the 5th C.M.R.

After the close of the service, the veterans filed past the grave, each laying a poppy on the casket. The pall bearers were Lt. Col. H. E. Eastman, M.C., and Major L. D. McClintock, M.C., officers of General Draper's old militia regiment, the 13th Scottish Light Dragoons, J. H. Bowler, M.M., W. E. Dow, K. Jenne and W. Westover, of Sutton Legion Branch 158.

The honorary pall bearers, all past presidents or officers of the 5th C.M.R. Overseas Association, of which General Draper was an honorary president, were: Col. R. W. Rhodes, D.S.O., M.C., Toronto; Major H. A. Newmark, Col. Bruce Hutchison, Jack Wright and Joseph Cusack, M.M., of Montreal; and Major C. A. Hewson, of LaSalle; Major J. G. D. Bryant, of Sherbrooke, and Capt. H. G. Porter, of Kingston.

In addition to the members of the family, those attending the funeral from a distance included: Henry Richards, Ivan Richards, Sydney Spanswick, J. A. Bourgeois, W. Hutchinson, Roy Trussler and G. Barlow, Sherbrooke, A. W. Buckland and J. H. French, Coakshire; Robert Woodall, Ste. Anne de Bellevue; Col. R. F. Stockwell, Swetsburg; Capt. A. A. Tritsch, New York; Dr. E. O. Macdonald, Ile Perrot; J. E. Kingsland and Alf. Cotterell, Magog; Jack Cochran and W. E. Brookhouse, Georgeville.

General Draper was born in Sutton and became interested in cavalry units at a nearly age. When the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles were organized in Sherbrooke in 1915 for service in the First World War he joined them as officer commanding a squadron, consisting largely of Sherbrooke residents and students from Bishop's University. This regiment went overseas in June 1915 and was in the trenches by October of the same year. He rose quickly and became officer commanding the Regiment. Following reorganization in which the mounted rifle units became battalions of infantry and were formed into a brigade, Brig. Gen. Draper became commanding officer of the larger formation, the 8th Infantry Brigade, and was its C.O. when the war ended.

He was keenly interested in the affairs of the 5th C.M.R. Association, of which he was honorary president, and was present at the last reunion in Sherbrooke in June.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Marjorie Hume, of Sherbrooke, two sisters, Mrs. F. H. Darrah and Mrs. H. LeGallais, and many more distant relatives.

Fire Prevention Week At An End

The extra duties of Fire Prevention Week are finally over for the Municipal Fire Department.

These ceased with the sending away to Quebec City the detailed report by which Sherbrooke will be judged.

Although Fire Prevention Week was held October 7th to 13th, the inspection of buildings and industries here continued until last week.

Provincial finalists are determined in each of the 10 capitols in Canada and the winning reports are then forwarded to New York City to determine the winner for all Canada.

Director W. P. Donahue wishes to thank all who helped in Fire Prevention this year, particularly the firemen who used their off-duty hours to help with the inspection.

While not over-confident, the Director feels Sherbrooke has a chance to win first place in the Province and Dominion again, as it did last year.

Results will be known late in December or in early January.

Local Kiwanians Pay Visit To Theftford Mines

Theftford Mines, November 13.—Fourteen members of the Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club journeyed to this mining town for an inter-club meeting last night with the Theftford Club which they sponsored.

President-elect C. H. McNaughton, in the chair in the absence of the president, welcomed the guests, saying that the members always looked forward to a visit from the Sherbrooke club.

He added that it was particularly fitting the visit should take place yesterday when the "baby" club was celebrating its anniversary.

President-elect Les Memory, of the Sherbrooke Club, said the members were happy to be in Theftford Mines and suggested that an evening of curling be arranged sometime within the next few months, between the two clubs. Gilbert Rheume, of Sherbrooke and Tom Johnson, of Theftford, were appointed to look after this event.

There being no speaker scheduled for the evening, Kiwanian Rheume, formerly with the St. Lawrence Club, Montreal, was asked to outline the manner in which his former club raises funds for its various good works.

He said that the club's main project is the sale of apples, by the case, each of the almost 200 members acting on a team, assisted by their wives and families. Net proceeds from this sale amount to $25,000 or $30,000 yearly, he said.

Kiwanian Rheume congratulated the baby club on its phenomenal progress in spite of its tender years, commended the officers for the good attendance average, and congratulated the editor of the weekly bulletin for an excellent publication.

He was thanked by Paul-Emile Leclerc, of Theftford.

Past President Sydney Bateman, of Theftford, introduced Past President Newman Hunter, of Sherbrooke, who spoke briefly, complimenting Theftford on having the largest delegation of any club in the district at the recent O.G.M. convention held at Murray Bay.

He stressed the importance of attending these conventions, expressing the hope that many of the members would make it a point to attend the Quebec meet next year.

Past President Hunter also said that the growth and progress of the baby club is an example to its parent, Sherbrooke. He was thanked by Kiwanian George Jenkins.

A singing followed, with Kiwanian Larry Pratt, of Sherbrooke, at the piano.

Following the meeting, the visitors were invited to watch the curling at the club.

Remembrance Day Services

Waterloo, Nov. 13.—Members of the Waterloo branch of the Canadian Legion, the Granby battery, Boy Scouts, C.G.I.F., and Wout Cubs paraded to the cenotaph Sunday for Remembrance day services.

The parade was headed by the Waterloo concert band, under the direction of George Young. At the cenotaph a brief ceremony of Remembrance was held, with the observance of the minute's silence followed by the Last Post and Reveille played by bandsman Mainville. Rev. E. D. Mitchell pronounced benediction.

Wreaths were placed on the cenotaph by representatives of all manufacturers, organizations and clubs. Following this impressive ceremony, the entire company paraded to St. Paul's United Church for Divine Worship.

Rev. E. D. Mitchell was in charge, and the choir was under the direction of the organist, Mrs. F. W. Colwill. As an anthem, they sang unaccompanied the hymn "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." The hymn sung were "Unto the Hills," "O Valiant Hearts" and "Abide With Me."

Mr. Mitchell read the names of those who lost their lives in the last two world wars, which was followed by silent prayer and the Last Post.

In his address to the huge congregation, Mr. Mitchell took the theme "Remember This Day." We are not soon to forget those who laid down their life that everlasting Peace might be our lot, the minister said. We remember Christ who died on the Cross for us, but we also remember those who died on the field for our rights. We are proud of our freedoms, we are able to worship, we are able to say what we choose, and we are free to do what we wish. These are all ours, the minister went on.

New Bridge To Be Known As "Joffre"

After extended debate lasting over a period of months, the Sherbrooke aldermen at a committee session held last evening decided that the true and official name for the new bridge across the St. Francis River should be the Joffre Bridge, commemorating one of the great French generals of the First World War.

For some time there has been hot discussion in aldermanic circles as to the exact name to be given this structure, linking Galt street in the West ward with Joffre street in the East. Some favored Galt, others Joffre and still others had their own pet schemes.

Last night's decision is believed to fit in with the plan for the general re-numbering and considerable changing of street names throughout the city. Although details have not been submitted to the Council by the special committee, it is known that the scheme calls for re-naming Joffre street as Galt street east, with the present Galt street becoming Galt street west.

Joffre street is being extended by the provincial authorities to link up with No. 1 highway just outside the city limits in the direction of Ascot, with the idea of forming a by-pass highway to remove heavy traffic from King street.

The official opening of the new bridge will take place Sunday.

Optimists Plan Free Movie Show For Youngsters

Final arrangements have been made for the children's movie program at the New Premier Theatre Saturday morning, it was announced last night at the Weekly Optimist Club dinner held in the LaSalle Hotel.

Through the courtesy of the Theatre management, one full-length film and several cartoons will be shown to the kids.

Tonight the Club will be host to more than 1,000 boys at the Sherbrooke Valleyfield hockey game in the Arena. Actually 1,200 tickets have been distributed to several local stores for free pickup for any young boys who want to attend the game and reports are that the supply is nearly exhausted by now.

The members were asked to put on a final effort to get rid of tickets for the Oyster party to be held at the Arena Thursday night and to attend the closing of "Week" banquet Saturday evening.

One new member, Mike Skena, was introduced by Don Clowery and one guest, hockey player, Jacques Prefontaine, was introduced by Guy Labrie.

Towards the end of the meeting, the members listened to a broadcast on Optimism by John Nesbitt of "Passing Parade" fame and also some radio remarks by their own past president Paul Lefebvre on the work of the local club.

The members voted against having a meeting next Monday and the next gathering will be Monday, November 26th.

President Jacques Laliberte was in the chair for the meeting and seated at the head table with him were: George Galvin, Paul DeJorme, Raymond 'jr. Jean Louis Dupuis and Gaston Roy.

Valuable Hints On Care, Feeding Of Steers Is Given By Agronome

"Livestock Hints" was the topic of a recent radio address by W. G. MacDougall, County agriculturalist.

Mr. MacDougall discussed de-horning of steers (all steers must be dehorned for the 1952 Winter Fair), stabling, breaking to halter and leading, care of steers, feeding, and feed records.

Following is a partial text of Mr. MacDougall's talk.

"Most breeders dehorn their market cattle as calves, when they are only a few days old. This is done with the use of caustic potash. If this is not done when the calves are a few days old, and the horns are allowed to grow, then the dehorner or clippers have to be used. It is advisable to dehorn in the cool weather when the saw or clippers are used. An application of pine tar or friar's balsam, will prevent bleeding and hasten healing.

"Steers should be provided with a roomy box stall, preferably the stall should be in a stable or shed where there is plenty of light and ventilation. A small yard in connection with the stall, where steers can be given regular exercise, will benefit them and lessen the work. Steers do not require as warm a stable as dairy cows. Do not put steers on exercising pen, when it is icy or slippery.

"If you do not have a convenient yard for exercise, then steers should be lead out at least twice each week during the winter and early spring and more often as the feeding period advances.

"During the early winter, it is advisable to put a halter on the steer and tie him to a solid post for a short time each day until he becomes accustomed to the halter. Do not keep him tied at feeding time. After the steer has become accustomed to the halter, he should be taught to lead. It is advisable to do this in a small yard or enclosure. Never allow a steer to get loose or get away. Never take him outside until he is safely broken, as sometimes calves are ruined for feeding by allowing them to break loose and become excited and overheated by running. Train your calves to lead when they are young.

"Be quiet and gentle with your steers. A good brushing frequently will not only improve the appearance and make your steers more gentle, but will assist in keeping them healthy and thrifty. Keep the feet in proper condition, they will need trimming from time to time.

"You may find that your steers are infested with lice. Last year several farmers bought steers that were badly infested with lice. If so, it will be necessary to apply a recommended lice powder such as Dri-kill several times. Be sure to rub it well into the hair. If

Nelly Mathot To Appear In Rigoletto

Nelly Mathot, well known soprano of the Paris Opera Comique, will sing the leading role of Gilda in the forthcoming production of Rigoletto at the Granada, December 11.

Presented by Le Theatre Lyrique of Quebec, the production will have in the title role, Don Ares, Spanish baritone who has won acclaim at La Scala in Milan, the Liceo in Barcelona and the Colon Theatre in Buenos Aires.

Madame Mathot, heard here some time ago as soloist with the Sherbrooke Symphony, is Parisian and made her debut at the Palais de Chailiot in Paris, before an audience of 5,000.

On that very day she was engaged by the Paris Opera and for five years played many of the great roles, in such famous operas as the Magic Flute, Rigoletto, and Hamlet, and at the opera comique, Barber of Seville, Lakme, La Traviata, Lucia de Lammermoor and many others.

She then made concert tours through the large cities of France, then to North Africa and finally to Canada.

Press notices have acclaimed her voice as one of the most beautiful coloraturas of the day.

Emmanuel Grandin, artistic director of the Theatre Lyrique of Quebec, himself a renowned French artist, is proud to present Nelly Mathot to the Sherbrooke public in one of her best roles.

DON'T BE AFRAID OF THEM

One satisfaction the Western world can take out of the Conservative victory in Great Britain — even though it is of minor proportions — is that there will be no pussy-footing on the part of Winston Churchill in any dealings he may have with Russia.

Anyone who has read the recent volume of Churchill's War Memoirs will be impressed by two statements he made in communication with high British officials in 1943 and 1944, which show plainly enough that he feels that, in talking with the Russians you must let them know from the start that you mean what you say. Never lead them to think you are afraid of them, is the way he felt they should be dealt with in the war years.

Here are the two statements that impressed us:

Prime Minister to Gen. Ismay: ... Experience has taught me that it is not worth while arguing with Soviet people. One simply has to confront them with the new fact and await their reactions.

Prime Minister to First Lord of Admiralty: Do not hesitate to be blunt with these Russians when they become unduly truculent. This is better done by manner and attitude than by actual words, which can be reported, and also by neglect of certain civilities to the superior people when they have been intolerably offensive. They should certainly be given a feeling that we are not afraid of them.

THE WATCHDOG BARKS

One of the recurring routines of Parliament is the presentation of the report of the Auditor General, presently Mr. Watson Sellar. Every session he emerges briefly from obscurity of estimates, statistics and disbursements to give bureaucrats with big ideas a few bad moments when he raps them over the knuckles for the extravagance and disregard for the manner in which they spend the taxpayer's money. Mr. Sellar's latest report does nothing to quell public suspicion that official Ottawa still does not know the meaning of prudence and economy.

Among the many choice examples of waste and indifference cited by the Auditor General this year is the Public Works Department's payment of $70,000 for rented space in Ottawa which was never occupied. Another example of extravagance is the penchant indulged in by bureaucratic top brass for going out and buying their own office furnishings, instead of getting the stuff from Public Works. The Defence Department, for instance spent $919 for furniture for the office of the Chief of the General Staff, $184 for a rug and table for the Quartermaster General's office, $144 for fluorescent lighting for RCAF headquarters, and $72 for venetian blinds for the offices of the Defence Research Board, despite the fact that the department lacked any authority for such expenditures, and could have been equipped with routine office furniture by Public Works.

Nor do such items exhaust the catalogue of extravagance. Honorable members would be well-advised to devote serious attention to the Auditor General's findings. For it is they, and not the Government, to whom the Auditor General makes his report. And it is to Parliament that the people look for the correction of such loose and extravagant practices.

GROUND COVER AND CONSERVATION

Soil conservationists believe that, if what they advocate were carried out, farm production would be immeasurably increased and the need for other flood control measures would almost disappear. They present facts and figures to prove their case.

For example, the U.S. Soil Conservation Service has demonstrated that, where there was a good cover of natural grass, more than three inches of water soaked into the soil in one hour.

Where the land was overgrazed or where the grass had been burned off, only two-thirds of an inch of water soaked into the ground in an hour. The rest ran off. Land without any ground cover soaked up only half an inch of water.

So the land with a good ground cover soaked up six times as much water as ground with no cover and more than four times as much as overgrazed land or land with the grass burned off.

Those figures ought to be enough to prove to anyone that good soil conservation practices will make a sponge of the topsoil so that it soaks up water for future use and insures more productive croplands. Not only that but this extra water that soaks in raises the ground water level and keeps wells filled and springs flowing.

All of that water is a clear gain in addition to saving the topsoil which will not be washed away if the water does not run off. Ground cover, terraced fields, and farm ponds built where they will catch the runoff will thus enrich the farmer and save the people below him from floods caused by the five-sixths of the rain that would otherwise run off and carry topsoil with it.

BERLIN HAS NO WAR SCARE DESPITE RUSSIAN MENACE

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
Berlin — (NEA) — When Americans in Berlin read pieces in the paper about people back home building bomb shelters, they wonder what the scare is all about. Nobody is building any bomb shelters here. There is no atomic bomb scare here, and these people are living right under the Russian guns.

There are some 2000 American civilians here, in addition to the troops. Mostly they are the wives and children of American officials. There are a hundred or so State Department people and civilian advisers to the U. S. commander, Maj.-Gen. Lemuel Matheson. American Express, TWA and Pan-American Airline officials and transients make up the rest. And they all seem to love it. Wouldn't live any place else for anything.

Western Berlin society is reviving. Ever since the airlift, and the Marshall Plan, Americans rate high with all Berliners. The wives of the American officers have their club, and they do relief work among the refugees who stream across the border from the east Russian zone. The children are in school. There is plenty to eat and plenty to buy. Life goes on.

"We don't need anyone's sympathy," says Matheson, the big blond paratrooper who has been in command here since January. "But we would like to have the people at home a little better informed on Berlin."

RUSSIAN IMPROVEMENTS ARE FEW

A new auditorium, sports center, and a row of apartment houses still under construction, for party functionaries and picked workers, about completes Soviet-zone improvements. The place is dead. In the Western zones, however, business is booming, despite the terrible refugee problem—there were 6000 arrivals last month, 200 a day—and an unemployment of 25 per cent of the estimated million workers.

Industrial production in the Western zones is only 45 per cent of the 1936 level. But this is a three-fold improvement over the 14 per cent of the blockade and airlift days.

What Berliners hope for is that they can get this production up to the 1936 level within the next four years.

There is no particular incentive for this revival. Berlin businessmen have to pay ten per cent for short-term money. But there is a determination on the part of the Berliners, in spite of all Soviet threats, to make Berlin again the capital of Germany. Morale here is high.

There is no question but that the Soviet could push the Western powers out of Berlin if they wanted to. Tempelhof airfield in the American zone and all of Western Berlin, for that matter, is in easy artillery range of Russian guns. They could pulverize any target they chose.

Yet so definite are the Allied commitments that the Russians know any open attack on Berlin would mean the start of World War III. That is the only safety the city has.

RUSSIANS MIGHT PASS BERLIN IF WAR COMES
There is a theory now that if the Russians should march west, they might bypass Berlin. They surround it now. Rather than trying to clean it out as a strong point in their path, they might leave it for siege and starvation in another bloody city war.

This is the threat that Berliners live under and ignore.

Eighteen freight trains a day and four passenger trains connect West Berlin with Western Germany, 103 miles away at the closest point. Also there is the one autobahn, or express highway over which the Russians allow motor traffic to move, with checks. But they could shut all this off on a moment's whim. The only agreement which the Western powers have in writing with respect to Berlin traffic is the right to use the air corridor over which the airlift was flown.

This, as a matter of hindsight, is the result of another American diplomacy blunder. When the Russians agreed to lift the blockade in 1949, there was such a relief in Berlin, in Germany and in Washington, London and Paris, that another loose deal was made.

It had been feared that the blockade and the airlift might lead to war. When the threat of this war was evaded, American officials now believe that a whole new deal should have been made over Berlin. Additional railroad and motor highway transport and communication lines between Berlin and the West should have been demanded. Written guarantees for free movement of traffic should have been bargained for.

Maybe they couldn't have been obtained. But the opportunity to get them was lost. And there is no new opportunity in sight.

PRESS COMMENTS

WITH UTTER SCORN

St. Catharines Standard

Andre Vishinsky, foreign minister of Soviet Russia, treated the peace and disarmament plan of the United States, France and Britain with utter scorn and contempt, and added to it sarcastic laughter. He did have a counter-proposal for a world conference in June, when the subject could be taken up. One cannot help the feeling that such a conference would present another world forum for more sarcastic laughter and contempt.

As President Truman said, there is only one alternative. The free nations must arm to the teeth and be ready. And within these free countries, Canada and the United States, it would be salutary to be on guard against the machinations and treachery of the enemy within.

Letters To The Editor

LABOR LEGISLATION

The Editor, Sherbrooke Record.

Sir:

I was pleased to note the emphasis given labor-management relations in the speech from the throne read by the Lieutenant Governor at the opening of the Legislature. Industrial expansion within recent years has demonstrated that our province is not only stupendously rich in resources but human skills, organization and technical ability.

Where a government encourages free enterprise, and safeguards the worker, it can rest assured that their joint co-operation will enrich the community and promote the general welfare. One of the busiest of the several branches of government is the Conciliation and Arbitration Service of the Department of Labor at 89 Notre Dame street east, Montreal. Every day throughout the week hearings are held in the several rooms, the principal purpose being the concluding of an understanding between employers, and their employees, who, through their unions, request consideration and action relative to wage payments, working conditions, and other matters affecting their occupational welfare.

I have had occasion to remark that our labor legislation is every bit as progressive as that of any other province or state in the American Union in some respects it is more advanced.

The Superior Labor Council, in every way representative of the parties to industry and the public, discusses and recommends legislation based upon needs, economic justice, and changing conditions.

Notwithstanding all that may be said in criticism of the government, it has shown a disposition to meet labor's views as far as circumstances permit. I am aware that from time to time complaints have been made because of delays but these are no more numerous or of longer duration than what the situation is in other provinces. On scores of occasions the Honorable Mr. Barrette, Minister of Labor, has personally intervened to obtain for the union or unions involved a speedy hearing or adjustment of its grievances. Complaints regarding discrimination are investigated and the course to be followed suggested. I am confident that enlightened employers and equally enlightened labor leaders will agree as set out in the throne speech "that a just and loyal co-operation between capital and labor is synonymous with progress and prosperity." This has been amply and profitably demonstrated in our province, consequent upon the legislation enacted and a readiness on the part of the majority of employers to no longer look upon their workers as items in the cost of production but human beings with feelings and an appreciation of their work to the community as wealth producers.

We have made remarkable strides along labor-management

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

LITTLE LEARNING IS DANGEROUS THING

A little learning is a dangerous thing in bridge as in anything else. The other day I saw a couple of good players butcher a defense in a way that simply wouldn't occur to average players. West opened the king of diamonds, and East very properly played the queen. His motive was very simple and very correct. He wanted West to continue the diamonds.

Any average West would understand what was expected of him. He would lead a second round of diamonds, forcing dummy to ruff. After that, declarer could huff and he could puff, but he couldn't capture East's king of trumps. He was unable to take two trump finesses with only one trump in the dummy.

However, West was no average defender. He had heard about the "suit preference" signal, and he was one of those players who like to work a good thing to death.

West said to himself: "My partner is trying to indicate which suit to shift to. A high diamond means the higher side suit (hearts), while a low diamond means the lower side suit (clubs)."

So West shifted to a heart, and South proceeded to wrap up the slam and the rubber. South ruffed the heart, got to dummy with a club, and led the eight of spades rummy around successfully, and dummy continued with the three of spades. South won the second trump finesse with the queen, drew the last trump with the ace, and then ran the clubs to discard his losing diamonds.

The difference between the sensible defense and West's brain-storm was 1530 points. What's more, this sort of thing is being done all over the country in the name of the higher skill. There is a place for the suit preference signal. When you lead a card for your partner to ruff,

There are even one or two other ways to use suit preference, but don't dream of using it on a simple follow-suit play. In that situation, a high card should mean "Lead the suit again, partner," while a low card should mean, "Don't lead the suit again unless you have a very good reason of your own."

The Record Short Story

COME BACK, MY LOVE

By SEVEN ANDERTON

Centerville agreed that something should be done about Amos Grant. The way of Centerville's agreement in such things is cumulative. Somebody makes casual mention and somebody else embellishes and repeats. There are no formal discussions, but presently the town has reached unanimous decision.

When the conclusion is that something should be done, nobody is selected to begin the doing. It is started when the opportunity offers — by any citizen in position to do the starting. Therefore, the starter is aided and abetted by all his fellow citizens.

Amos Grant was a ne'er-do-well and a boozier. Shiftless, folks said. "Amos is a good worker," Sandy King said, "when he is sober and anybody can get him into the notion."

"Likeable scallawag," Aunt Hatie Baron said. "Must be some good in Amos. His kids are crazy about him."

"Kate Grant should brain him with a skillet," Madge Sonberg declared. "The next time he comes home to drink up all she has got ahead."

"Kate's daffy about Amos," Red Sonberg replied. "She will let him walk all over her."

This was the truth about Amos Grant. He liked to drink and didn't like to work. He refused to accept responsibility. He was simply sentimental about Kate and the kids, but ignored the fact that they must eat. He had an itching foot and thought the world owed him a living. When the money was gone and Kate could dig up no more for liquor, Amos would walk out, board a freight and go galavanting off on the bum. Nobody knew how he existed on these jaunts.

Kate, Centerville's best seamstress could get along very well while Amos was away. She would get the children into better clothes, fill the larder and put by a few dollars. Then Amos would come home, ragged, dirty and fairly sober. Kate and the kids would greet him with open arms and he would take on over the new baby and vow that he was repentant and reformed.

Kate would buy new clothes for him, wash and mend his old ones and give him a few dollars to last until he could find work. The only place Amos ever looked for it was in Fat Butler's tavern.

It usually took Amos about a month to drink up most of Kate's hoarded dollars. Then he would "borrow" the rest and depart in his new clothes for wherever it was he went.

Women for whom she sewed tried to make Kate see the light but it was wasted effort. Nobody understood Amos, Kate said.

So Centerville agreed that something must be done. The newest Grant baby was now 3 months old and Amos had been gone nearly a year. Kate and the kids had decent clothes and didn't look hungry. It was about time for Amos to turn up.

Amos did, and it happened to be Sam Joyce who was in position to do something about Amos when the time came. Sam is a bachelor and lives in a little cabin down by the river where the branch line trains turn around. Sam is the town's handy man when he feels like being handy. His wants are few and he takes life pretty easy, but not at the expense of any-

"If you were half a man," Sandy King finally told him, "I'd drive you over to River City where you could get a job in the defense work. As it is, I'll still haul you out of town to keep Kate from being tried for killing you."

Amos looked like he was about to accept the scathing offer when the street door opened and Kate Grant stood blinking in the bright light. She had come in search of Night Marshal Bob Doon to report shooting and yelling near her house, but she saw Amos before she could ask for Doon.

"The fat was in the fire, Sandy King muttered a disgusted "Humph!" and took a look of loathing on faces of the tavern gang as Kate came running to fold him in her arms.

Kate couldn't help feeling what was in the room, but she only said, "Come on, Amos, let's go home."

Valuable Hints

The steers should be started with the grain mixture gradually. It will usually take about four weeks to get the steer on a full grain ration.

It will be noticed that barley is the basis of the ration. Do not feed steers a dairy ration, as they may contain such feeds as cottonseed meal, which tend to make the fat yellow.

Minerals are all important. They should be added at the rate of 3 lbs. per 100 lbs. of mixture. Equal parts of ground limestone salt and bone meal are recommended, or a good commercial mixture.

Mixed hay should be used. Timothy hay is not satisfactory. The first month, you can give the steer all the hay he will eat. Then, as the grain ration is increased, the amount of hay will be lessened.

The Doctor Says

UNTREATED DIABETES CAN HAVE MANY SERIOUS CONSEQUENCES

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.
What can happen to the person with diabetes who either does not know that he has the disease, or who fails to control it satisfactorily by diet, insulin, or both?

If everyone were aware of the dangers, they would certainly make an effort to be sure of knowing whether or not they have diabetes; if they did have the disease they would surely get proper treatment and stick to it.

Persons with diabetes are more liable than others to hardening of the arteries and the complications connected with such a situation. In the feet and legs, for example, the combination of diabetes and hardening of the arteries often leads to infection, and sometimes death of a tissue, or gangrene.

People with diabetes are likewise more susceptible to coronary thrombosis or angina pectoris, both involving the heart, than those who do not have the disease. Serious eye complications are not uncommon in patients with undiagnosed or unsatisfactorily treated diabetes. Neglect of the disease can lead, in severe cases, to progressive loss of weight and eventually even to death.

Even today there are far too many people who are careless about their diets or insulin and consequently develop serious complications which carry them off many years before their normal time.

The lesson from all this is that diabetes must be diagnosed as early as possible and exact treatment with diet, and if necessary, insulin, must be set up. And just as important as this, the victim of the disease cannot be careless about following instructions if he or she wishes to avoid painful or serious complications and possibly even early death.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cook and Mr. S. Hodge have returned from spending a nice vacation at Brooklyn, N.Y.

Serious eye complications are not uncommon in patients with undiagnosed or unsatisfactorily treated diabetes. Neglect of the disease can lead, in severe cases, to progressive loss of weight and eventually even to death.

Even today there are far too many people who are careless about their diets or insulin and consequently develop serious complications which carry them off many years before their normal time.

The lesson from all this is that diabetes must be diagnosed as early as possible and exact treatment with diet, and if necessary, insulin, must be set up. And just as important as this, the victim of the disease cannot be careless about following instructions if he or she wishes to avoid painful or serious complications and possibly even early death.

Follow These Coke Rules for Warmth & Economy

1. Always fill the firebox as full as you can. A deep fire (a) applies more heat to sidewalls of furnace; (b) circulates more hot air; (c) burns steadier—easier to control; (d) needs less attention.
2. Coke needs less draft than coal. Draft settings vary with each furnace. A little experimenting will prove the most efficient positions to set your smoke-pipe damper and cold-air check. Bottom draft-door should be open only when you want quick heat.
3. Lasalle Coke makes so little ash that hard shaking of grates is not necessary. Use poker to loosen ash, then if you must—shake grates very gently.

In the morning and at night:—

1. Open key damper, close air check, clean fire with poker.
2. Shake grates gently until red glow appears in ashpit.
3. Add a few shovels of Coke and open bottom draft.

Then, when fire is burning briskly:—

1. Fill fire-pot as full as you can.
2. Close bottom draft door.
3. Nearly close key damper. Set cold-air check according to temperature you require.

The Children's Corner

A Trend for Tristano

BY JOEY SASSO

"THANK goodness for the young people whose minds and hearts are open to change and innovations in all forms of art. What would we do without them—these enthusiastic teen-agers with an eye to the future and a sincere appreciation for new technique in painting, new styles in literature, and new sounds in music? I can tell you what we'd do without them; we'd have no audience for fresh ideas and consequently would continue creating the same old hackneyed stuff for the same old stagnant ears and the bright spark of imagination and progression would go down the drain. These are the words of Lennie Tristano, one of our foremost exponents of modern music.

Lennie's unique style on the piano has been described as "weird," "cool," "esoteric," "eccentric," "soothing," "striking," and "subtle," but all agree that it is different, fresh, and original. Barry Ulanov, editor of Metronome (the jazz oracle of the United States) said of Lennie's first released records, "When I heard those sides, I knew that the first notes in a bright new era of jazz had been struck. . . . Because this man's creative imagination holds so much for American music, it is vital to understand its shaping forces, to make some telling appreciation of its breadth and its brilliance."

What did he mean by "its shaping forces"? Lennie has been totally blind since the age of ten. His schooling from then until the age of nineteen was at a state institution for the sightless 200 miles from Chicago where his musical talents were instantly recognized. He studied piano, saxophone, cello, and clarinet, led the school band, played occasionally with his own groups at some of the local clubs, and went to complete his musical education at the American Conservatory where he received his M. A. degree. In 1945 Lennie married Judy Moore, the beautiful girl vocalist with his band during the months he played at Chicago's Zanzibar. Shortly thereafter they moved to New York and except for Lennie's occasional engagements there, in Washington, Chicago, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and elsewhere, the major part of the Tristano's income was derived through Lennie's teaching. His pupils included all the members of his now-famous sextet—each of whom won an outstanding place in the Metronome and Down Beat polls for 1950-51 (Lennie, himself, coming in as the top pianist in the country despite the very little solo work he has done on Capitol and New Jazz records.

Now the future looks a bit more spectacular and the devotees of the "Tristano trend" (including an enthusiastic group over in Sweden) are excited and hopeful. Lennie has rented a building on Manhattan's east side wherein he will establish a school, publishing firm, and record company all his own. All three enterprises will be for the purpose of furthering the interest in and broadening the scope of modern jazz and will feature the top musicians in the field. If you ask Lennie Tristano how he feels about the future of the organization and its potential as a money-making venture, he will tell you, "That angle is secondary. Our primary goal is to study, compose, record and publish our work, offer it as a serious and creative contribution to American jazz, and hope that the kids will relax and enjoy it with us."

DOROTHY DIX

Mixed Marriage

Two Religions Cannot Mate Without Some Concessions

DEAR MISS DIX: About six months ago I met a girl with whom I have fallen in love. I haven't see her too often, as she lives quite a distance from me, but we have maintained a regular correspondence. She will not change her religion, and I don't care to change mine, either. I have suggested that we marry and live our own lives as far as religion is concerned.

ANSWER: It is a fallacy to assume, as you do, that religion can be shunted into the background of marriage and remain there, completely ignored. People of different faiths cannot be married at all without one of them making a concession—not a compromise!

The ceremony must be performed in one creed or the other—one party must give way! One family will be hurt, one church will frown upon the marriage! These are facts that cannot be hidden, cannot be overlooked. A couple contemplating mixed marriage should consult with clergymen of both faiths involved; they will be frankly shown the obstacles to be overcome, the problems to be encountered. They will be warned of the difficulties ahead, and should heed the warnings!

The solution definitely will not be to disregard the admonitions and proceed on the always dangerous, always fallacious theory that "we can live our own lives!"

RELIGION BASIC TO FAMILY Religion is—or should be—an inherent factor in everyone's background. It should be the very foundation of a new family. Youngsters should be taught their prayers as soon as they can talk; they should be taken into church and Sunday school at an early age; they should be inculcated with the truths of faith before they learn their ABC's.

A heated family argument as to what prayers, what church, what faith can destroy the harmony of a home almost before it is established. All these problems should be settled before two people of different worship marry. They are not to be lightly discarded in the beginning, for they will sooner or later have to be faced.

You have not known your girl friend very long and having seen her so seldom, you cannot even be sure of your mutual love. You are therefore beset with much room for doubt. Consider all your problems, talk them over with your clergyman and with hers. Don't marry at all until, and unless, agreements can be made covering all points that will occur in your future.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 18 and engaged to be married. Is it proper for the boy to give the girl money for her wedding outfit? It has been done in my home town several times, and is now considered a custom.

ANSWER: While rare occasions may occur in which a wealthy young lad gives his less well-to-do fiancée money for a wedding outfit, it certainly is not customary and is against the best rules of etiquette. I have not heard of any community where the custom is an established and accepted practice.

A bride's outfit should be only as elaborate as she can afford with due consideration for her financial situation or that of her parents. To exceed your means in this respect is ostentatious as well as foolish. Simple clothes adorn a bride just as charmingly as do elaborate garments.

DEAR MISS DIX: Please advise me what to do with a lazy sister. She is a year and a half older than I, and refuses to do anything to help clean the house. She is inconsiderate and laughs when I ask for help. I am very tired of cleaning our bedroom as she does not take care of her clothes, although she has more than anyone in the family. My mother will not help me.

ANSWER: Your mother is making a big mistake in letting her lazy daughter get away with too much. The girl is being spoiled and mother will one day rue her error.

Every young girl should be at least responsible for the care of her own clothes and room. To permit her to neglect this duty is to pave the way for real trouble when the girl marries. She has all the makings of a careless, indifferent housekeeper—and that could be the ruination of any marriage she is lucky enough to make.

Mom better get busy with sister and teach her some household skills.

held. Further plans were made for the Christmas sale and tea to be held Saturday, November 17. A social hour followed when the hostesses served refreshments.

Mrs. R. C. Winslade Reports On C. W. L. Convention

"The apostolate of the Catholic Women's League in the Field of Education" was the theme of the thirty-first annual convention of the C. W. L. of Canada, held recently at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa.

The three major resolutions adopted were: A request for action by Parliament to bar anti-religious broadcasts on C.B.C. Copies of this resolution were sent to the Prime Minister, speakers of the Senate and House of Commons and all other leaders of Canada's political parties.

A resolution strongly recommending the banning of "sex love comics," being considered a much greater evil than the lurid action comics banned two years ago.

The recommending of the establishment of the Catholic Parent-Teachers movement on a national basis, and calling on members of the league to press achievement of this objective.

The above salient points were brought out in the report given by Mrs. R. C. Winslade, president of the Sherbrooke Archdiocese of the C. W. L. of Canada, and delegate to the annual meeting.

Mrs. Winslade said 450 delegates, representing 75,000 members of 830 dioceses, registered. Mass was attended every morning and general Communion was received by the members.

The business session opened with the entry of the national executive and the raising of the Flag by the C. W. L. Girl Guides. The League Prayer, Prayer for the Holy Father, and the address of welcome by His Excellency, Most Rev. John C. Cody, D.D., L.L.D., national director of the C. W. L., followed subsequently.

Bishop Cody said: "It is our earnest hope and humble prayer that this convention will inspire and guide us to play our part dependably in providing the integral

A visit to the Parliament Buildings, a drive through the city and a tea held at the residence of the High Commissioner of Australia, the Rt. Hon. M. F. Forde, and Mrs. Forde, followed.

The formal opening took place on Friday evening, graced by His Excellency, Archbishop Alexandre Vachon, O. M. I., Ottawa, who in his address of welcome said: "It is needless to tell you, dear daughters in Christ, that you, the officers and delegates, are most welcome here. Education on every level will be the topic of your studies. I have stressed on many occasions the necessity of Catholic education and the obligation for our people to encourage our Catholic schools and colleges. You have placed this subject on your convention agenda, and I want to heartily congratulate you and bless you for doing so."

Civic greetings were extended by Mayor Charlotte Whitton; Federal greetings from Hon. J. J. McCann, Minister of National Revenue, and fraternal messages from many Catholic organizations of Ottawa.

At the convention luncheon, graced by Archbishop Vachon, the speakers were: Rev. J. Laurin, O.M.I., Rector of the University of Ottawa, and Very Rev. L. R. Poupore, O. M. I., Rector of St. Patrick's College.

"Higher Education," was the topic of the former, who said: "We are living in a century of Canada's expansion in the political and economical world, the century in which womanhood has been called upon to fulfil a new role of increasing responsibilities, and, as Catholics, we owe it to our country to give Canada men and women trained and educated in our Catholic traditions of service to God, King and Country."

The latter, whose subject, "The Cultivation of Religious Vocations," said: "Vocations to the priesthood are, more often than not, born in the heart of a woman: a mother—a sister—an aunt. Your organization can do much to foster religious vocations."

Father Poupore suggested a subscription might help to pay for one boy or girl's schooling, and so make it possible for him or her to attend Catholic High Schools and colleges.

An open forum was held Saturday evening. Three guest speakers, were heard by a large, attentive audience.

Very Rev. Father Leo Curtin, S.F.M., Vancouver, National Director, Holy Childhood Association, told of the work of his association in promoting Christianity among children in pagan countries.

Dr. F. J. McDonald, Ottawa School Inspector, chose as his subject, "The value of Parent-Teachers' Association." He stated the primary right to educate belongs, in the natural order, to parents, while the prior right, in the supernatural, belongs to the church. The school is complementary to the work of education of both the family and the church. If we separate any one of these three elements, our education to that extent, is doomed to failure. If we try to separate the school from the family or the church, the school will have lost the very reason of its existence.

Continuing, Dr. McDonald said: The Catholic Women's League has a wonderful opportunity of promoting Parent-Teachers' Associations, and also Parent-Child programs of the Fraternity of Christian Doctrine. By so doing, they should be able to raise the standard of our schools and make them more efficient instruments of Christian democracy.

Mr. David Goldstein, L.L.D., Boston, Mass., Director of Catholic Campaigners for Christ, was the third guest speaker. Mr. Goldstein, a convert to the Catholic faith, and a most dynamic speaker, related incidents he had experienced in years devoted to outdoor public speaking (for the most part in Southern and Western States of U.S.A.), in his endeavors to interest the general public in the Catholic religion.

The Pontifical Mass on Sunday was celebrated by Archbishop Vachon. The sermon, "The Great Career of Marriage," was preached by His Excellency, Rev. J. C. Cody, Bishop of St. Louis, Mo. An Eucharistic Hour was held in the evening, when the speaker chose for his topic, "Our Lady of Good Counsel."

Mrs. Winslade continued: "The brilliant convention banquet was just getting under way in the ballroom of the Chateau Laurier, when it was highlighted by a surprise visit from Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, and Mrs. St. Laurent, who, due to the Royal Visit, had been unable to accept an invitation for a specific time. The Prime Minister, putting everyone at ease spoke briefly to the 550 guests, assuring them that the government appreciates the work the Catholic Women's League is doing for the welfare of Canada. In conclusion, he asked members, in their spiritual works, not to forget the members of the government, 'they need your prayers.' The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Raymond Provencher, and thanked by Miss Yvette Campbell.

British Cabinet Contains Several Non-Party Men

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London. — Winston Churchill's frequent references during the general election campaign to the need for a "broad-based" government may be understood more clearly after a close study of the new British cabinet.

Of the 16 members of the inner council, three of the more prominent are non-party men, and there are several others who have generally stood aloof from politics in any partisan sense. This is broadly in line with Churchill's campaign speech at Liverpool Oct. 3, in which he said the country needed a "tolerant, non-partisan, non-doctrinaire" policy.

The Liverpool speech was interpreted in some quarters as indicating that Churchill might be calling for a coalition government or party truce. Now it is clear he was thinking more in terms of a non-partisan administration than anything else.

Churchill also promised that any new Conservative government returned in the Oct. 25 election would not be marred by any "dull exclusion" of Liberal and independent forces. He has already made good on that pledge by offering a government post to Clement Davies, leader of the Liberal party. Davies declined on the ground that taking office in a Conservative regime would imperil Liberal independence.

A remarkable feature of the new government is the number of ministers recruited from the House of Lords. There are six Peers in the present cabinet compared with three in the last one, and enough others of blue blood in other posts to make the representation from the Upper House greater than in any government since 1900.

Harold Wilson, a former socialist minister, has criticized the new Churchillian team as foreshadowing "government of the people for big business, by the Lords."

Other commentators think there may be one advantage in the rarefied atmosphere of the Upper Chamber, they will be spared the necessity of appearing in the House of Commons to defend their policies.

The three prominent non-party men are Lord Leathers of Purfleet, who has the imposing title of state secretary co-ordinating the work of transport, fuel and power ministries; Lord Cherwell, paymaster-general, with general responsibility for scientific matters, particularly atomic energy; and Lord Ismay, secretary of state for Commonwealth relations.

The work of Lord Leathers will be watched with special interest. A carpenter's son, born in the east end of London, he started work at 14 as an office boy earning 7s 6d a week.

He was practically unknown politically when, 10 years ago, Churchill appointed him minister of shipping and transport. Frederick James Leathers, the ex-office boy, shed directorships in 60 companies spread across the world to take the job.

He succeeded so well that Churchill wrote in one of the "Well, yes! My name has been mentioned in connection with the presidency—in an unmentionable sort of way!"

Women's Auxiliary Held Meeting At Ayer's Cliff

Ayer's Cliff, Nov. 13 — The regular meeting of St. George's Women's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. N. W. Lobb, with the president, Mrs. Lobb presiding.

Rev. H. C. Denton read the Lesson from St. Mark, 2: 1-13, and Mrs. Lobb followed with the Litany and Prayers. The minutes of the previous meeting were approved and the secretary's report accepted. A letter from Mrs. Fyles, Diocesan Prayer partner secretary, requested that her report be passed on to all branches. After some discussion Mrs. Clough consented to write to Mrs. Fyles to act as branch prayer partner secretary, and thus get the work under way.

The report of the "Little Helpers" meeting prepared by Mrs. A. E. Chadsey, was read by the secretary, Mrs. Bayley as delegate gave an excellent report of the Coats Cook Deane meeting recently held in Ayer's Cliff. The treasurer was authorized to send pledge money and affiliation to the Diocesan treasurer, Mrs. M. Aulis consented to act as secretary of the Living Message. The Mission bale received some attention and Miss F. H. Paul offered to give some help about arranging for its preparation.

The United Thank Offering being handed in during the week is to be taken to St. George's Church on Sunday, Nov. 11. Rev. H. C. Denton spoke of his interest in and of the importance of the W. A. work—the missionary work of the church—also of the difficulties of carrying on today. The Diocesan Bulletin for October was read. Prayer and Benediction by Mr. Denton closed the meeting.

Mrs. Clouston entertained the regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, when 13 members were present, and the president, Mrs. Boomhour, welcomed Miss Pearl Dorman, who is a "Life member" of this organization, and has recently come from Rock Island to live in this community. Mrs. James Walker was also present after a long absence due to illness, and Mrs. Boomhour expressed much pleasure that she was this day with them again.

The president then formally opened the meeting with the reading of "A Prayer for Peace". This was most appropriate at this time of year. The treasurer, Mrs. Crook, in reporting the finances said that they were still short $75 of their $250 allocation, and a vote of thanks was expressed to Beulah Evening Association for the $3 to buy material for the newly organized Baby Band Mission work.

A most interesting letter was read from Mrs. Butler, of Cookshire, on Christian Stewardship. Mrs. Clouston, Mrs. Crook, and volumes of his war memoirs that in Leathers' presence, "difficulties seemed to disappear as if by magic."

The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt is reported to have said wistfully: "I wish I could find a Lord Leathers for Washington. Britain ought to reciprocate lease-lend by letting me have him."

R.C.A.F. Accents Youth And Speed In Air Training

Gimli, Man. — A vast change has been made in the R.C.A.F. flying training in the last few years.

The air force is combining two big factors—air speed and youth—in modern pilot training.

Air Commodore A. P. Revington, senior R.A.F. liaison officer in Canada, said the air force needs new graduates who will serve as pilots for a period ranging from one to eight years. Over-age at 28, they will then form a skilled manpower pool, fit for emergencies.

The student pilot, who'll face the cockpit of a jet aircraft before long, no longer makes shaky training flights in light planes such as Tiger-Moths and Cornels.

Students now start right off in 550-horsepower Harvards, prototypes of propeller-driven fighters. What was known as elementary flying training is now eliminated. Pilots in the last war put in about 75 hours' training in light aircraft.

When elementary schooling was concluded they went into service flying training school. Student pilots were weeded out, some going to single-engine planes and others to multiple-engine craft.

From this stage they went to advanced training in fighter or larger bomber classes.

Now the student pilot begins in the service training stage. Unlike his predecessor who spent 10 to 15 hours aloft with instructors before soloing, the students of today spend 20 to 30 hours up before making his solo flight.

The new method eliminates much of the 75-hour elementary flying training and all light craft training.

Student pilots now take their training in three phases, interlocking and simultaneous. They're marked on (1) flying ability, (2) ground school work, and (3) character and leadership.

Pilots training prior to and during the last war were not marked on character and leadership during their student period. A separate schooling division for character and leadership—study of officer development, orderly room duties and drill—was the only training for this. Now it is worked into the student training period and further officer development is studied at an officers' school.

Another big change is the "plan" system. Training is completed in specific lessons or "lesson plans." This enables changing instructors to take over without wasting time or overlapping in lectures.

Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of Canada's air staff, said of the new method: "It's a far more solid plan."

Prior to that time, service was given from Cookshire.

The cornerstone of the present church edifice was laid in 1839, and Rev. J. A. Dorman became the first president minister. The occasion is to be marked by a 50th anniversary service, with Rev. Capt. Colin D. Nickerson, M.C., Protestant Chaplain at Camp Petawawa, Ont., as guest speaker. There will also be special music.

Capt. Nickerson is the son of the present minister of Emmanuel Church. He went overseas in the last war with the Princess Louise Fusiliers, a N.S. regiment, and in May 1944 won the military cross for gallantry as a mortar position officer in operations near Aquino and Ceprano, Italy, where he was twice severely wounded. Later in September in the assault on the Gothic line he was wounded again, suffering the loss of his left arm.

After his discharge, he studied for the ministry of the United Church of Canada, and in 1931 was appointed Protestant Chaplain at Petawawa military camp. He, his wife and three children will be the guests of his parents.

with a life membership pin and certificate in recognition of her outstanding services to the branch and community at large.

Business taken up at this meeting included final plans for the coming art course to be held from Nov. 19-23, and a membership was taken up in the "clearing house" project instituted by the Lennoxville-Ascot Community Association. The next meeting being during the holiday month, members were reminded that there would be an exchange of gifts not exceeding the value of 50 cents at the next meeting. The overseas food parcel is also packed each month with donations from the members.

Red Cross

Lennoxville Red Cross Branch held the regular monthly business meeting in the clubroom. Miss G. Stevens, vice-president, presided.

Mrs. M. Fowles, works chairman, reported the usual shipment sent to headquarters which consisted of 189 sewn garments and 25 knitted garments which were knit from seven pounds and two ounces of wool.

A very appreciative vote of thanks was extended to all who donated to the mobile blood clinic and to the following who helped in various ways: St. Anthony's Church for the free use of the church hall for the clinic; Fairview Dairy for cream; Ascot and Lennoxville Women's Institutes who served a hot supper for the clinic staff and helpers, and all others who assisted in every way.

A very urgent appeal has been received by the local branch, as so many emergency calls and increased output has to be met by headquarters that an increased output is needed in branches as much as 20 per cent, and in order to answer this call more workers are urgently needed, especially sewers.

The work may be done at the workroom or taken home. Blood donor clinic supplies are also in short supply and swabs and small dressings are needed. Anyone wishing to assist in the work may get full information by calling Mrs. M. Fowles, dial 2-9375, or call at 98 Main street in Lennoxville.

Alberta Optimism Voiced By Mayor Of Growing Town

Edson, Alta. — Mayor W. H. Kankewitt waved his arm expansively over his prosperous town.

"We're not a boom town like Edmonton," he said. "I hope we never will be."

But for all that Edson, 1951 in population by this year's census estimate, may well turn out to be half way between Edmonton and Jasper, Alta., this steadily-growing town is the only sizable settlement between those better-known places. It has added almost half to its population in 10 years—a growth inspired by no single factor.

Now industrial expansion seems likely to double Edson's population within a few years.

"Where will we find the money to expand our services as the town grows?" Mayor Kankewitt asks.

Edson, soon after the turn of the century, was a staging point on the old Grande Prairie trail from the American border to the Peace River country. The railway put it on a permanent footing.

But Edson retains its frontier flavor. Mackinaws, ski caps and Cowichan Indian sweaters are normal garb in winter. Talk of the two activities which keep Edson alive—the Canadian National Railways and the lumbering industry—is everywhere.

Even the town police pass by the drunks unless they annoy other people.

That casual approach to life may not last long. Edson district may soon have:

1. A multi-million-dollar wood pulp plant at Yates, seven miles to the northeast.
2. A reopened cement plant about 14 miles away.
3. A brick-making industry, based on nearby clay deposits which could end Medicine Hat's Alberta monopoly on buff-colored bricks.

Best estimate is that these three firms, if present plans go through, will employ at least 500 persons. All are so close that most workers could choose to live in Edson. With wives and families, they might double Edson's population within five years.

Just imagine the headaches that would bring," says Mayor Kankewitt, retired former owner of an Edson department store.

"I hope the expansion doesn't happen all at once, as it did in Edmonton. Town finances never would keep pace.

"Right now we're on top of the world. The city's power plant gives up the revenue we need to pay for our new sewer system and water extension. But where would we get the money—without crippling ourselves—to give public services to twice our present population?"

"So far our progress has been steady. The town supports only three unemployables. There's work for everyone.

Edson, 100-odd miles west of Edmonton, is mainly a railway town, divisional point on the C.N.R. Logging is its next industry. Only in recent years has the surrounding grey-top soil been found ideal for some forms of agriculture, particularly growing seed potatoes.

The town spreads northward from the railway yards some 14 blocks. Its low business premises mostly skirt a street ending at the railway station—hopefully numbered 50th street though the town extends less than a dozen blocks each side. In the last year new building has been mostly houses.

Edson serves a trading area of 8,000 population, including the coal branch to the southwest where much of Alberta's coal production centres. It lies on the main Edmonton-to-Jasper highway, which would be on the Yellowhead route to the Pacific coast if the Trans-Canada highway should be routed by the north.

"That's where we'd like to be—on the Trans-Canada highway," says Mayor Kankewitt, first elected mayor only 3½ years after he arrived in Edson. "But what headaches it would cause us!"

Experts Baffled At Picking A Winner In Maritime Major Loop; Saint John Still Leading The Pack

Which hockey team is the best in the Maritime major hockey league? Who will win the championship? Both questions are difficult. Nobody will give you odds on any club you pick. It's still too risky.

There was more to the game than hockey. Gray's winning goal seemed to be the signal for something to break. It did. The red light had hardly blinked before Halifax players were out of their bench, poking and roughing it with Charlottetown fans.

Red Favero tied up the score at 3-3 in the first two minutes of the third. Minutes later right winger Johnny Morrow scored the winning goal. The assurance goal for Charlottetown was scored when Bob Gray broke away while the Saints were attacking.

Gil Turner Chalks Up Win Over Docusen

Philadelphia, Nov. 13.—(P)—Gil Turner feels he has passed all the tests necessary for a fight with welterweight champion Kid Gavilan.

The 21-year-old Philadelphia, won his 25th and most convincing triumph of an unbeaten career last night when he threw 80 many punches at Bernie (Big Duke) Docusen, the clever little Filipino decided discretion was the better, part of valor and quit in his corner.

Docusen refused to come out for the seventh round. He told ring-side physician Dr. W. G. B. Terry he had had enough. And in his Convention Hall dressing room, the New Orleans veteran said Turner was just too good for him.

"I had nothing left. Turner is everything they said he was. I wouldn't have believed one man could throw so many punches if I hadn't felt them."

Turner, who weighed 146½ in stopping his 22nd opponent, has done everything asked of him. The powers who run the fight business told the rising young welter he had to beat some good punchers. So Gil stopped Charley Fusari and Ike Williams.

Then they said for him to beat a boxer. Last night he slaughtered one of the cleverest welterweight boxers in the business, the 24-year-old Docusen who almost won the 147-pound crown from Ray (Sugar) Robinson in the latter's prime.

Optimist Club To Be Host To Youngsters When Valleyfield And Saints Tangle This Evening

Valleyfield Braves, joint-leaders of the Quebec Senior Hockey League with Chicoutimi, will be paying their second visit of the season here this evening to tangle with the Sherbrooke Saints.

On their last trip to the local Arena Toe Blake's outfit were held to a 1-1 stalemate by Dugre's squad but if the locals show the same form they did over the week-end then the Braves are in for a surprise.

If the Saints can hurdle Blake's aggregation this evening they can improve their position in the standing by jumping from sixth to fourth spot as it is the only game being played in the circuit.

The Braves hold the advantage in games played so far with two wins registered in Valleyfield. In the first encounter they edged out the locals 4-3 and the second time came through with a 5-3 victory.

Lou Kley will only report to the team tomorrow as the Boston club contacted the local team asking permission to retain him for a few more days owing to the numerous injuries received. Ken Biggs will work out a few days before he sees any action. Jacques Prefontaine had his skates on for the first time yesterday but it is doubtful if he will be any help to the local club for some time yet.

Following this evening's tilt the two teams will meet again in Valleyfield tomorrow and will then embark on a road trip taking them to Chicoutimi Saturday and then to Quebec Sunday afternoon before returning home to be hosts to Shawinigan Falls on Thursday, Nov. 22.

Lennoxville Curlers Open Playing Season

Sixty-five members attended the semi-annual meeting of the Lennoxville Curling Club held in the clubhouse Saturday evening.

President Howard Nichol presided and following the dinner welcomed the new members at the brief meeting. After the dinner the members took in some curling and from the scores it would seem that the ice is in top condition for the season's activities.

B. A. Hill, chairman of the match committee, outlined the plans for the coming season and announced that play for the Ladies Cup would commence this week. It was decided that Saturday evening, following the weekly dinner, would be set aside as "ladies' night" instead of the usual Monday as in the past.

Sioux Princess Rallies To Aid Of Jim Thorpe

New York, Nov. 13.—(P)—A Sioux princess is rallying Indians in the Metropolitan area to the aid of Jim Thorpe, famous Indian athlete now ailing in a Philadelphia hospital.

Princess Juanita Senter said last night she had formed a committee of New York Indians and that she donated $100 to a fund to help the one-time All-American football star and Olympic gold medal winner described by his wife as "flat broke."

Thorpe, voted the outstanding all-around athlete in the Associated Press' mid-century poll, underwent an operation last week for skin cancer. He is reported doing well.

Waterloo Maroons Hold Carabins Of Montreal To 4-4 Stalemate In First Game of Season At Granby Arena

(Special to the Record)

Waterloo, Nov. 13.—The Maroons of Waterloo inaugurated their 1951-52 season Sunday afternoon at the Granby Arena when they held the strong Carabins of the University of Montreal to a 4-4 stalemate before 800 fans.

Arthur Belanger, Maroons' hard working goalie, was the star of the game and was in a big way responsible for holding the fast-skating Carabins to four goals. Belanger seemed to improve as the game went on and it was during the final period that he gave his best exhibition as he kicked aside everything that was tossed at him.

Frank Morneau led the scorers with two tallies while Dufresne and Lemieux registered the others. For the Montreal squad Al Day, Bruneau, Vernier and Chaut were the pick.

The Maroons presented many new faces compared to the team which swept through the E. T. Intermediate League last year to reach the finals in the Provincial playoffs. Al Norris and the Blanchard brothers, Johnnie and Claude, have retired but Coach Ab Norris has come up with some good replacements.

Young Dufresne, fresh up from the lower ranks, was the pick of the rookies and turned in a good performance. Morneau turned in his usual steady game while the rest of last year's crew gave a good account of themselves.

Coach Dinning Cracks Whip Over Millionaires

Sydney, N.S., Nov. 13.—Coach Bill Dinning of Sydney Millionaires warned his players yesterday that they are working on a "produce or else" basis and that fines will be imposed on players not showing their best.

Millionaires, in the cellar of the Maritime Major Hockey League, were idle last night.

Young Finnigan Stops Charalito Spirituano

Panama, Panama, Nov. 13.—(P)—Young Finnigan of Panama avenged a knockout loss to Charalito Spirituano by stopping the Cuba lightweight in 2:35 of the first round of a 10-rounder last night.

Finnigan, who weighed 146½ to Spirituano's 146½, floored the Cuban four times before the referee halted the bout.

In their first bout two weeks ago, Spirituano knocked out Finnigan in the second round.

Red Wing Goalie Terry Sawchuk, Sporting One Of Best N. H. L. Records, Says Success Due To Rigid Training

Detroit, Nov. 13.—(P)—Twenty-two-year-old Terry Sawchuk, Detroit Red Wings' heavyweight all-star goalie and rookie award winner last season, said yesterday it was one thing to know where his bread is buttered and quite another to eat it.

"I'm down to 198 pounds," he said. "The lightest I've been in three years—and that's no accident. I reported to training camp at 220—ten pounds more than my rookie weight—and I could see that didn't enhance my popularity with the boss, Jack Adams."

It wouldn't. The possibility is strong that Adams would never have traded away Harry Lumley to make room for Sawchuk if Lumley wasn't inclined to put on weight too easily.

"I wasn't going to let that happen to me," said Sawchuk. "So I put on a sweat jacket and laid off the bread and potatoes and I feel fine. Last year I sort of got tired near the end of a game. No more."

For a big man Sawchuk has remarkably quick reflexes. He has a unique low-crouch on screen shots. And he guards his eyesight as zealously as Rogers Hornsby

Triple-Threat Glenn Dobbs Leads Saskatchewan Riders To Grey Cup Final With 19-18 Win Over Edmonton

Regina, Nov. 13.—(P)—Saskatchewan Roughriders brought the Western Football Championship back to Regina yesterday to end a 15-year title drought for this prairie wheat farming centre of 70,000, smallest city in Canada supporting a professional club.

Triple threat quarterback Glenn Dobbs led Roughriders to a heart-tugging 19-18 triumph over Annis Stukus' Edmonton Eskimos in the deciding game of their three-game Western football final which went right down to the last minute. It capped an uphill fight for the Riders, who dropped the opener 15-11 in Edmonton and won the second game 12-5 here Saturday.

Roughriders now go east to meet Ottawa Roughriders, Hamilton Tiger Cats, or Sarnia Imperials in the Grey Cup final Nov. 24 at Toronto's Varsity Stadium. They still seek their first Grey Cup.

It was all Dobbs yesterday. The six-foot, four-inch American, voted most valuable player to his team in the Western Football Union, won the game on his long passes and booming punts.

Dobbs completed 10 of 19 passes, two went for touchdowns by end Jack Nix, former New York Yankee, and fullback Bob Sandberg. Dobbs went over for a single on a rouge. Riders' other points came on two converts by big Red Ettinger, from New York Giants, and a rouge off an Ettinger field goal attempt.

Eskimos, who did almost nothing until the final quarter when they scored three majors to Saskatchewan's two, came back valiantly within an ace of fulfilling Coach Stukus' pre-season prediction of "this is our year."

Edmonton's two brilliant Negro-backfielders, little Roland Miles and lanky Jim Chambers, scored

US To Send Puck Team To Japan In January

Boston, Nov. 13.—(P)—The Amateur Hockey Association of the United States has been invited by the National Skating Union of Japan to play 10 exhibition games in Japan next January, president Thomas F. Lockhart, of the A.H.A., said last night.

Players not eligible for the U.S. Olympic hockey team will comprise the touring group which will meet Japan's principal teams.

Detroit Sharpshooters Close In On N. H. L. Scoring Leaders; Richard Still Pace-Setter In Goals Scored

Montreal, Nov. 13.—(P)—Detroit Red Wings fought to five deadlocks in as many games last week to see their lead in National Hockey League standings dwindle to three points.

However, Detroit players managed to push their way higher in the individual scoring list to make things hot for Montreal Canadiens—among the better marksmen so far this season.

Detroit has nine players among the 23 leading point-getters, while Montreal has five, all bunched near the top. The nine other spots are divided among players of the four other N.H.L. clubs.

Having tied all clubs but the Chicago Black Hawks last week, the Red Wings now have 19 points for seven wins, two defeats and five deadlocks. The first Detroit-Chicago encounter since Oct. 18 will be next Thursday in the Motor City.

Three points behind the Red Wings are Toronto Maple Leafs with a 6-4 tally, while Canadiens hold a toe-hold on third spot with 14 points. The Habs, who played the highest number of games, 15, have a single-point lead over Boston Bruins who played three games less. New York Rangers follow with 10 and Chicago is in the basement with eight points.

Montreal's Maurice (Rocket) Richard continues to lead the way in three departments. He shares the top scoring spot with teammate Elmer Lach, has the highest number of goals and, a less enviable achievement, is most penalized player.

Richard and Lach have 15 points each. Richard boasts a pacesetter 10 goals and five assists while Lach has two goals and has set the highest number of plays for 31 assists.

A Bostonian and two Torontonians are deadlocked with 11 points for third place. Adam Brown of Boston was joined in that spot two weeks ago by Toronto's Sid Smith. A newcomer to this week is Toronto's Ted Kennedy.

Canadians are the most penalized club with 174 minutes, while Chicago plays the most gentlemanly hockey with 95 minutes called against them.

Detroit's goalie Terry Sawchuk leads in the shutouts division with three, while Boston's Jim Henry and Toronto's Al Rollins have two each.

Toronto's Al Rollins, last year's winner of the Vezina trophy for the lowest goals-against average, has had 24 pucks past him in 14 games for a 1.71 average, while Henry and Sawchuk have 1.75 and 1.78 respectively.

A.H.L. To Vote On Gate Receipts For Visitors

Cleveland, Nov. 13.—(P)—Jim Henry, Cleveland Barons' general manager, predicted yesterday American Hockey League rules would be changed to give visiting teams a share of gate receipts.

At present no professional hockey team gets any money from road games.

The AHL's Board of Governors will meet Dec. 11 at Cincinnati to vote on the proposal. Henry—a member of the Board—said a unanimous vote would be necessary but added "I feel sure it will pass."

He predicted that, if passed, the plan would result in visitors making a better performance in order to boost their pull at the gate on future visits.

Baseball and football teams already get a share of the receipts when they play away from their own fields.

Philadelphia—Gil Turner, 146½, Philadelphia, stopped Bernie Docusen, 145½, New Orleans (6).

Rocky Marciano Earns Hickok Trophy

New York, Nov. 13.—(P)—Rocky Marciano's knockout of Joe Louis yesterday earned the undefeated Brockton, Mass., belted the October award in the Hickok Professional Athlete of the year poll.

Marciano barely nosed out Bobby Thomson, whose last-inning homer won the National League pennant for New York Giants.

Rocky received 41 first place votes and a point total of 192 from sports writers on the panel to edge out Thomson by 23 points.

Ti-Cats' Players On Limp But Are Confident Will Have Fit Squad To Go Against Well-Rested Ottawa Club

Hamilton, Nov. 13.—(P)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats, uninjured but tired, took things easy last night and Coach Carl Voyles said they'll be fit as a fiddle when they tangle with Ottawa Rough Riders in Wednesday's opener of the Big Four football final.

The fatigue complaint went through the entire Hamilton training camp.

However, Voyles said he intends to put his boys through a couple of workouts before the big game Wednesday.

The series, a two-game, total-points affair, swings to Hamilton Saturday after Wednesday's game. The winner will meet Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union for the right to clash with Saskatchewan Roughriders in the Grey Cup classic.

Tiger-Cats, who won the two-game total-points series 31-28, made a poor showing when they lost the second game 21-7 to Toronto Argonauts Saturday, promised a big improvement when they meet the favored Rough Riders. Hamilton won the first game 24-7 in Toronto.

Said Voyles:

"Now we have a real tough task ahead of us in just one night to map the Ottawa defence. It's going to be plenty rough but I think we can come through. Tonight there will be just a light drill."

Jake Gaudar and Jack Carpenter are expected to return Wednesday. Both players' outstanding football against Argonauts, Gaudar

Rough Riders In Top Shape For Big Four Playoffs; No Injuries In Camp; Teams Clash Tomorrow

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—(P)—Ottawa Rough Riders, whose best play of the season to date has been drawing a bye out of the first part of the triple-tied Big Four football playoffs, are rested and ready for Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The team will be at full strength, with all injuries and bruises healed. Coming against a Tiger team which has just finished a scorching home-and-home series against Toronto Argonauts, they carry the odds. They have beaten Hamilton in three out of four starts in regular season play.

Yet some fans feel the Riders may be just a little too rested.

Last night, they held their first outdoor workout since they lost to Toronto Argonauts in the last scheduled league game, Nov. 3. A snowy field has kept them indoors, and they have held their workouts in the Ottawa Coliseum, which confined them to calisthenics and light run-through of plays.

As the team prepared to leave today for Hamilton and the first game of the home-and-home, total-point series, there were conflicting quotes on the prospects.

"We know the Tiger-Cats will be tough," said J. P. (Jimmy) McCaffrey, manager of the Ottawa club. "In many ways, we'd have preferred to meet Toronto."

On the other hand, Clem Crowe, the Rider coach, who scouted the Toronto-Hamilton series, was qualmless:

"There isn't any doubt that we'll beat Hamilton," he told a reporter. "We've got a better team."

Eyeing the Grey Cup, the Ottawa club sent its last year's coach, Wally Masters, to scout the final playoff games between Saskatchewan Roughriders and Edmonton Eskimos.

Lightweight Champion Jimmy Carter And Art Aragon Finish Workouts For Tomorrow's 15-Round Title Fight

Los Angeles, Nov. 13.—(P)—The oddsmakers yesterday quoted champion Jimmy Carter at 103 to re-arrange the Grecian contenance of Art Aragon in their 15-round lightweight title scrap Wednesday night at Olympic Auditorium.

The tempestuous Aragon, a curly-topped lad, finished his strenuous drills yesterday and now will limit himself to setting-up exercises in an effort to ward off excess poundage.

The methodical Carter, defending his crown for the first time since he won it from Ike Williams last May, wound up his ring work Sunday. He has no weight problem and figures to come in a fraction under the 135-pound lightweight limit.

Promoter Cal Eaton envisions a record indoor gate for this year. Advance ticket sales exceed $300,000 and Eaton expects to have all the Olympic 10,000 seats occupied. The previous indoor high here was the $48,035 for the Manuel Ortiz-Harold Dade bantamweight championship in 1947.

Admissions for that one, however, were scaled to a $12.50 top. For Wednesday's show the scale is from $5 in the back row to $20

Just Another Ball Game, Says Coach Stukus

Regina, Nov. 13.—(P)—Coach Annis Stukus, whose Edmonton Eskimos were eliminated from Grey Cup contention yesterday by a spine-tingling 19-18 loss to Saskatchewan Roughriders, summed up the loss this way:

"All we lost was just a ball game."

Having to lose after coming so close to victory was tough. But the 37-year-old placement-kicker de luxe, who will relinquish his coaching job to return to a sports-writing career in Toronto, took it all in stride.

"This was still our year in the West," he maintained, obviously referring to his forecast before the season opened that "this is Eskimos' year."

"We helped fill every park in the Conference and in Edmonton we drew the largest crowds of all. Yes sir, it was still Edmonton's year, even though we didn't win the title."

Stukus took over the new Edmonton entry three years ago and brought it to the Conference final in the last two. When he signed this year he said it would be his last. He's sticking to that decision and Frankie Filchock, his quarterback this season, is expected to take over for him.
