PICKETING STARTS IN STRIKE AREA IN NOVA SCOTIA

Strikers Prevent Several Workers from Going on Maintenance Staff

ORDER EXCEEDED?

Several Miners Declare Pickets Exceeded Orders of Executive

GLACE BAY, N.S., May 6—Pickets were active at some of the collieries of the British Empire Steel Corporation here this morning but only at number two colliery were any of the officials and men doing maintenance work stopped from entering the plant. At the big producer, between 200 and 250 pickets were on duty. Any official below the statue of underground manager was not allowed to go into the plant with the exception of the colliery engineers who were not stopped. Four overmen, some members of the electrical department, and engineering staff were sent back.

The district Secretary of the United Mine Workers, Alex MacKay, asked this morning if the Union officers advised the locals by circular to stop officials below the rank of underground manager, said that the union had issued no such instructions. It was not the policy of the organization to keepany of the colliery officials from working who desired to do so. The union would, however protest against persons working who were not officials and the bringing in of outside labor.

This morning at New Aberdeen, some of the local members raised a protest that the orders from the executive had been exceeded. It was their opinion that overmen and other officials should not have been stopped. A meeting of the Phalen local is likely to be held this afternoon to reconsider the picketing question. Officials of the corporation stated this morning that no outside labor had been employed for maintenance purposes. Some three weeks ago a number of men from Sydney were employed doing work, but these had been dismissed. For three weeks prior to this morning pickting, only officials and members of the clerical staff and engineering staff were working. Even some of the clerks had been laid off, there being no work for them. No academy students were in the employ, nor to the knowledge of the head officials were any relatives of different colliery officials given jobs. There was not one member of the United Mine Workers working at any of the plants they said.

CONDITIONS NORMAL

Conditions are normal at all the collieries of the corporation this morning with the exception of No. 2 where the pumps are down. In the case of No. 2 where there is plenty of lodgment room, the pumps can stay idle for quite a period without any danger, but in the case of No. 9, the lodgment will overflow in a few hours. The fans were in operation at No. 2 today.

There was not a picket out at any of the New Waterford collieries this morning. Conditions in that area were normal.

At Reserve, several pickets were out. The night surface foreman was stopped but not prevented from entering the plant when he told the pickets he was an official.

A few pickets were gathered at No. 4 colliery. They spoke to two men who were working and advised them to quit but did not prevent them entering the yard.

There was no sign of pickets at No. 11, No. 21, No. 22 or No. 6 collieries. A report from Sydney Mines tells of a similar condition, there being no pickets out there.

At No. 24, about ten pickets were out but they did not interfere with any of the officials. A number of pickets were also stationed at the Glace Bay machine shop this morning.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

J. W. McLeod, district superintendent of the United Mine Workers of America, stated this morning that no orders had ben issued by the executive to stop any person from working at the colliery plants.

So many reports had been received by the executive from the different locals that outside labor was working in some of the departments that the executive had decided that each local union should appoint pickets, make their own investigtions, and report to the United Mine Workers' office if outside labor was doing any scabbing.

The following circular sent out to the different locals clearly outlined, he said, the position of the executive and the instructions given:

"Glace Bay, N.S., May 4.

"To Officers and members of local unions

"Brothers:

"From information received in the district office it appears that the company has been introducing outside labor in some of the departments. Each local union should therefore appoint pickets and make their own investigations and promptly send to this office written reports as to the results of those investigations as to outside labor doing any scabbing. Each local union will see that pickets do not interfere with company officials and that there is a continuation of the good order that has prevailed and no destruction of property."

Fraternally Yours,

(Signed) John W. McLeod, President.
A. MacKay, Secreary-Treasurer.
District 26, U.M.W. of A.

COMPANY'S STATEMENT

SYDNEY, N.S., May 6—(Canadian Press)—The following statement was issued at the Dominion Coal Company offices at noon:

"Pickets to the number of about 250 were on duty at New Aberdeen and the central power plant this morning. These pickets prevented any of the persons engaged in maintenance work, under the rank of under ground manger, from going to their duties. This action made it impossible to relieve upwards of thirty men engaged in maintenance work during the night shift. The men on the night shift carried on until 11 a.m., when they became exhausted and it was necessary to close the boiler house and power plant at No. 2. This will make it impossible to pump and ventilate a number of collieries. Picketing was also carried on at No. 4, 5, 10 and 24 collieries."

SEAPLANES MAY HELP TO STARVE RUM-ROW CREWS

Determined Effort is Made to Exterminate Wet Fleet

OFFICIALS SILENT

12 More Ships Scheduled to Join the Dry Navy

CLIFTON, N. Y., May 6.—(United Press). — Seaplanes may assist the dry navy in its campaign to exterminate Rum Row by a "starvation" program.

This became known today when a squadron of 12 'planes headed out to sea from the Narrows. Another seaplane hopped off from Rockaway Point.

Government officials were reticent concerning this phase of the rum-war operations, but they intimated that it was thought possible that the ships in Rum Row would try to replenish their food supplies by the use of seaplanes.

Twelve more ships are scheduled to sail today to augment the dry flotilla which is lined up on the port side of Liquor Lane. At the Coast-guard base here, 27 other vessels, all liberally supplied with machine guns and some equipped with one-pounders, are held in reserve.

Coast-guard officials said today they believed Rum Row would be able to withstand the siege only a short time, before the liquor-laden vessels had always communicated with shore points at frequent intervals to renew food and water supplies.

TO SIT TIGHT.

They said they understood that the rum ships had orders from shore bootleg operators to "sit tight" for a few days and watch development. The dry blockade will be maintained, however, until Rum Row weighs anchor or surrenders, according to these authorities.

The Government plans to extend its operations today, according to Coast-guard officials, who said another fleet would go out of Boston to cover the New England coast and a third would attempt to crush rum running activities in the Great Lakes.

For the first time since a diminutive tramp steamer, with a cargo of whiskey, established Rum Row by dropping anchor near Barnegat, the liquor armada today was reported completely "bottled up."

Not a single case has been landed since the dry navy took up its position over a 50-mile frontier yesterday according to Government officials.

The prohibition flotilla extends from Ambrose Light-ship to Barnegat on the Jersey Coast and from the lightship to a point just south of Fire Island on the Long Island coast.

These Federal vessels are between Rum Row and the shore and have orders to seize any craft that attempts to establish communication with the liquor fleet.

A new wireless code is being used by the Government in issuing orders to the dry navy. The cutter Mojave is acting as flagship.

Operating in a 40 mile gale, the prohibition armada had its troubles last night. Two of its vessels were reported to have been driven into Rockaway Inlet for shelter from the heavy winds and high seas.

FEAR RESULTS.

While the ships of the dry navy are manoeuvring around Rum Row, their operations are being watched by representatives of the bootleg interests, who see in this major offensive a possible end to their business.

Several of these men in small craft, went on a reconnoitering expedition early last night and returned gleefully with the report that the picket-boats of the dry fleet "were up against it" because of the gale.

R. Q. Merrick, Federal prohibition director for New York, said recent activities of the Coast-Guard had eliminated 90 per cent of the landing of liquor. He said he was confident that the present campaign would spell "finis" for Rum Row.

Seven of the 19 Coast-guardsmen under arrest on charges growing out of rum-running activities, have been courtmartialed here, but Government officials refused to make public the results of the trials.

JOINS DRY FLEET.

BOSTON, May 6,—(United Press). —The New England coast-guard's "dry fleet" has officially joined the rum war off the Atlantic Coast.

Captain Preston H. Uherroth, commander of the New England Coast-guard division, which extends from Nova Scotia to New London, Conn., admitted today that he had received secret orders from Washington.

He declined to reveal the size of the force he would command.

A. B. Stroup, divisional prohibition chief of New England, however, declared he had received no official information that the New England dry fleet had been ordered out. He explained that the fleet movements were not under the jurisdiction of his department.

The size of the New England fleet is estimated at 25 Coastguard boats, with headquarters at Boston. The fleet is headed by the Coast-guard cutters Acushnet and Ossipee.

CHECK ON LIQUOR EXPORT IS URGED

SENT TO U.S.

Details Given of Liquor Smuggling from Ontario Port

PORT STANLEY, Ont., May 6 — (Star Special.) — Closer check on the export of liquor was urged last night by the jury investigating the loss of the rum-runner Ada May Belle with four men, recently. In the cases of Frank Payne, Bert Butcher and George Knaggs, of Port Stanley, and Charles Wright of Cleveland, the jury returned a finding that the deaths were due to exposure. To this, however, was attached a rider urging that all liquor export warehouses be inspected regularly by Government officials with a view to keeping a close check on them; that all boats clearing from a Canadian port be required to produce proper clearance papers, and that the customs officials of the port from which a boat clears notify the ports from which clearance papers are made out. The jury advised further that the evidence taken be submitted to the Attorney General's department.

All that is known of the tragedy in which the four men met death was unfolded by William Jackson, customs officer at Port Stanley, and Louis McCaughey, manager of the exporting interests of the John Labatt Company, of London, at Port Stanley.

For the main part the inquest featured the questioning of witnesses in an effort to learn the mission of the boat. Testimony that was given indicated that the fourth man of the party who was drowned did not leave Port Stanley. It was also learned that the purpose of the trip was to carry liquor to a United States port.

Mr. McCaughey stated that Messrs. Payne, Butcher, Knaggs and a man named Richards left Port Stanley on the ill-fated trip with a cargo of whisky and beer being shipped from Labatt's warehouse at Port Stanley to "Interests" in Cleveland, who, according to Mr. McCaughey, made arrangements for the trip while in Port Stanley last Good Friday. Mr. McCaughey gave the names of the "Interests" in Cleveland as James Richards, James Fitzgerald and a Russian whose surname was Hoggan.

It was in a free and easy manner, without any effort being made to hide anything, that Mr. McCaughey related his activities in the wholesale shipments of liquor that, according to him, have been sent to the United States via the water route for the last three years. He stated that Messrs. Payne and Butcher two victims of the tragedy, had taken a number of these shipments last year and the ill-fated trip was one of a number that was to have been made by them this year by previous arrangement for a consideration of 50 cents for every case of beer and $1 for each case of whisky.

The evidence submitted showed that the boat on which the men left Port Stanley was cleared for Buffalo by William Jackson, customs officer located at Port Stanley, but Mr. McCaughey stated that there was not any idea at the time of receiving the clearance of going to Buffalo. He knew Mr. Jackson was being imposed upon but it did not hurt the customs officer any, and there were too many "friends" around Port Stanley who would phone United States officers and a "load" would never be got across.

QUEBEC LIBERAL SPLIT THREATENED

Federal and Provincial Liberals Divided Over Power Export

OTTAWA, May 6 — (Star Special by Own Correspondent.) — Considerable interest is being evinced here today in the controversy over the export of hydro power which has been fanned into flame by Premier Taschereau's speech before the Canadian Manufacturers at Montreal last night.

Word reached Parliament hill this morning that Mr. Taschereau will stress his viewpoint before Premier King here Friday when a conference of Provincial Premiers is to take place.

The Quebec Prime Minister's opposition is directly contrary to the policy expressed by Mr. King and members of his Cabinet and an ominous split between Quebec Federal and Provincial Liberals is said to threaten.

It was only Monday that the largest delegation of the year, including representatives of every municipality along the lower Ottawa valley and several members of the clergy, visited the Government to urge that the Carillon project be proceeded with. The Cabinet's answer was interpreted as most hopeful by the delegates. Mr. Taschereau's speech against power exportation last night, is regarded as a direct challenge to the Cabinet.

J. A. C. Ethier, M.P., for Two Mountains and a supporter of the King Government, today reaffirmed his conviction that the Carilon project should be proceeded with at once, disagreeing with Mr. Taschereau in the contention that power once contracted for export could not be returned when home demand required it. Mr. Ethier paid tribute to Mayor Lahaie of Buckingham, who is also Provincial member, and forecast that Mr. Taschereau would find many other of his supporters favoring export of surplus power, with adequate safeguards for future Canadian requirements.

OIL MAGNATE FOUND GUILTY OF FRAUD

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 6.—(Canadian Press).—Gordon Campbell, discoverer of the Kevin-Sunburst oil field, and the man who employed Senator B. K. Wheeler at $10,000 a year as his attorney, following Wheeler's election to the Senate in 1922, today was found guilty in the Federal Court here by a jury under charges of fraudulent oil promotion and using the mails to defraud.

Campbell is under another indictment in the District of Columbia with Senator Wheeler and E. S. Booth, former solicitor of the Interior Department, charged with conspiracy to procure Federal land by fraud.

DIRECTORS MADE DIVIDENDS FROM BANK'S CREDITORS

Crown Counsel in Stewart Appeal Tells of Loans Made

REYNOLDS COMPANY

Attorney Declares Directors Received Dividends and Made Big Loans

TORONTO, May 6. — (Star Special). — At the resumed hearing of the appeal of J. F. M. Stewart, Home Bank director, against conviction under the Bank Act by Judge Coatsworth, D. L. McCarthy, Crown Counsel, said the only complaint the Crown had against the Mercantile Securities, Limited, in which Stewart was greatly interested, was the amount of Home Bank capital tied up therein for the benefit of directors.

N. W. Rowell, K.C., for Stewart, referred to the Reynolds Company as "a bank company," and said the Crown agreed with that view.

Mr. McCarthy did not know what Mr. Rowell meant by "a bank company," but he did know that Home Bank directors held shares in the Reynolds Company and drew dividends thereon and also that the Bank lent money to the Reynolds Company, losing $200,000.

Mr. McCarthy said one thing the Crown had against the Reynold's Company was that when the concern went into liquidation the directors were not called upon to pay the balance they owed on stock.

Mr. Rowell, "No claim has been made on Stewart. If there is any obligation it will be paid."

Justice Ferguson said the Bank had simply cleaned up the whole thing, the Bank agreeing to take care of its own loss.

Justice MaGee, "How do you acquit Stewart of knowledge of not having paid $2,000?"

MISSING NOTARY'S OFFICE SEIZED

Order Made to Search Papers of Auguste Dionne Who Disappeared

QUEBEC, May 6. — (Star Special) —A seizure performed by Hon. Amedee Robitaille, protonotary of the Superior Court on the premises of Notary Auguste Dionne, alleged to have disappeared from this city a few weeks ago, was upheld this morning by Hon. Justice Gibsone of the Superior Court.

A few days ago, in accordance with the law Adolphe Labreque, Syndic of the Chamber of Notaries in the District of Quebec, sought permission from Protonotary Robitaille to take possession of records, and documents held in the office of the missing notary. The request was followed by an order to that effect, and in accordance with the law the courts had to intervene, and the order was upheld.

WOMAN CHARGED IN SHEPHERD CASE

Mrs. Shepherd Accused of Knowing of Slaying of Husband's Ward

CALLED LADY MacBETH

Attorney Declares Wife of Murder Suspect Was Leading Spirit

CHICAGO, May 6. — (Associated Press.)—Described as a "Lady MacBeth" by Judge Harry Olson, instigator of the inquiry into the death of William N. McClintock, Mrs. William D. Shepherd, whose husband has been indicted for McClintock's murder, was recommended held as an accessory by the investigating coroner's jury in its final report.

Judge Olson, in addressing the coroner's jury, characterized Mrs. Shepherd as "cold and purposeful, a strong masculine woman," and her husband as "soft and weak-willed, unfit to earn a living for himself." He charged that a 16-year-old conspiracy existed which culminated in young McClintock's death after he had made a will leaving the bulk of his estate to Shepherd.

Mrs. Shepherd hastily left her suburban home after the jury reported and could not be found by policemen who went there to take her on a coroner's mittimus. Robert M. Stoll, her attorney, said he would surrender her today and endeavor to obtain her release on bail.

The coroner's jury concurred in the action of the Grand Jury in indicting Shepherd and Charles C. Faiman, who confessed Shepherd offered him $100,000 for typhoid germs to give McClintock. The report accused Mrs. Shepherd of "guilty knowledge as to the administration of typhoid germs or other manner causing the death of the deceased."

Shepherd also was recommended held on a murder charge, with his wife as an accessory, in the death 16 years ago, of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, the young millionaire's mother. The jury found Mrs. McClintock died of "mercury poisoning," "administered by Shepherd, of which his wife had guilty knowledge."

The jury was unable to fix the cause of death three years ago, of Dr. Oscar Olson, brother of Judge Olson and friend of the McClintocks. No poison was found in his exhumed body.

The findings ended a five months' investigation in which three bodies were disinterred, 75 witnesses examined and 1,800 pages of testimony taken.

FRENCH SOLDIERS SOUNDLY DEFEAT RIFF TRIBESMEN

FURTHER TROUBLE

Natives Preparing Huge Force to Exterminate French Troops

PARIS, May 6.—(United Press.)—A communique Tuesday said General Colombat had finished re-victualling the advanced posts along the border between the French and the Spanish zones in Morocco which had been attacked by Riffians.

Monday's victory made a profound impression upon the natives. Colonel Freydenberg met a heavy Riffian force in the Daounat sector, where there was severe fighting. Colonel Cambay inflicted heavy losses on the enemy, who then counter-attacked fiercely near Kissane.

LOSSES HEAVY.

LONDON, May 6.—(United Press.) —The Times' Tangier correspondent cables that General Colombat, commanding the western wing of the French lines in Morocco, inflicted heavy losses upon the Riffs and relieved several isolated French posts near the Spanish zone, northwestward of Fez.

Swollen rivers have of late retarded the movements of the French, but these have now subsided and the streams can be forded.

The Daily Telegraph's Tangier correspondent says the situation is quieting in Morocco on the Ouergha front, due to inactivity necessitated by the Riffs' losses. On Sunday General Colombat's column drove off raiders in the Ouregia country north of the Ouergha, killing fifty and capturing many.

ESTABLISH CONTACT.

RABAT, May 6.—(United Press.)—Marshal Lyautey has decided until reinforcements arrive General Colombat, commanding the French left wing against the Riffs in Morocco, shall move eastward for the purpose of re-establishing contact posts between his and Colonel Freydenberg's zones.

Meanwhile, Colonel Freydenberg and Colonel Cambay will prepare for the next advance northward.

It is reported that during Monday's fighting the French losses were four officers and forty men killed and 150 wounded. The Riffian losses were at least ten times heavier.

INCREASE FORCES.

FEX, French Morocco, May 6.—(Associated Press.)— Abd-El-Krim, the Moroccan rebel leader, now is reported to have mobilized 20,000 Riffian tribesmen for his attack on the French zone instead of the 4,000 previously estimated. Of these forces, 5,000 are on the border between the Spanish and French zones, from which they are making raids into the territory occupied by the French in their advance of last autumn.

PROGRESSIVES IN STATE OF MIND

Caucused All Morning But Without Reaching Decision

OTTAWA, May 6 — (Star Special by Own Correspondent.) — Over the internal troubles with which they are beset Progressives battled among themselves for four hours in caucus today and then adjourned till tonight at eight o'clock without coming to any conclusion. The caucus which began at nine lasted till nearly 1.30 and at the end of it, Robert Forke said he "was not going to say anything, nothing is settled."

Mr. Forke's ultimatum of yesterday was practically a determination to quit the leadership unless there is a new organization—a new chairman of caucus and a new chief whip and furthermore an agreement that the party in voting shall stand together as a solidified unit. It is understood that, while there was considerable argument for a compromise and the establishment of peace, the more predominant view was in support of the position taken by Mr. Forke. However final decision was deferred until tonight.

In the meantime chances point to Chairman J. W. Kennedy and Chief Whip Johnston being deposed. R. A. Hoey and T. W. Bird M.P.'s for Manitoba were the principal advocates of methods by which the caucus would be "purged" while the Ontario wing and a few from the west favored a more moderate course but seemed to be outnumbered. If the re-organization talked of is carried into effect it is uncertain whether the 17 who voted with the Government will leave the caucus or not. Apparently relations are severely strained and the temper bad.

BOYS JAILED FOR ACADEMY BLAZE

AYLMER, May 6 — (Canadian Press.) — Edmond Lambert, and William Lebel, two youths attending Aylmer Academy, were yesterday afternoon arrested and lodged in Hull jail on charges of arson, arising out of the fire which destroyed the academy Monday night, causing $30,000 damage. The boys are alleged to have confessed to Chief of Police Joseph Henri that they burned the school because they were tired of school life and thought that if the school was burned they would not have to attend.

According to their alleged confession the boys entered the school by cutting out a pane of glass from a window on the ground floor. They then made their way to the second floor and dropped lighted matches through cracks in the walls. They finished their work by pouring coal oil on a book case on the first floor and lighting it.

EXPECTED "RACE" BETWEEN RIVALS IS NOT PROBABLE

Captain Amundsen May Have Honors All to Himself

INTEREST INTENSE

Algarsson Claims Lack of Financial Aid Cripples Him

LONDON, May 6.—(British United Press).—The race to the North Pole between Captain Roald Amundsen, and Grettir Algarsson, of Vancouver, the announcement of which stirred two continents a few weeks ago is in danger of being caled off. Amundsen seems likely to have the race all to himself. The construction of the necessary airships has been delayed for some unexplained cause, but at the Liverpool yard where Algarsson's craft is to be built, it is said that the Vancouver man will not make the trip this year, the reason assigned being that the necessary financial backing is not forthcoming.

Meanwhile reports from Copenhagen show that Amundsen is all ready to start today, and those Canadians on his side who had their hearts set on seeing Algarsson win the honors, are naturally disappointed. Efforts are, however, being made to ensure that Algarsson will be able to make the attempt later in the summer. He had arranged to leave Liverpool on the first of May in the sailing ship Iceland, commanded by Captain Worsley, who was in charge of Shackleton's ship the Quest, and also of the Endurance, but the Iceland is still in port.

READY TO START.

COPENHAGEN, May 6.— (United Press).—Raold Amundsen's ships, the Hobby and the Farm, expected to depart from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, late this afternoon to find a satisfactory jumping off place for Amundsen's proposed Polar airplane flight.

Weather conditions are favorable, and everything is in readiness for the sailing of the supply and mother ships.

The Hobby is commanded by Lieut. Horgan, and the Farm by Captain Hagerup.

The vessels will seek to locate a satisfactory landing place somewhere on the edge of the Polar ice. The southern boundary of the ice is at present unknown.

When the advanced works have been located and formed a base, the two airplanes which are to start on the flight across the top of the world will fly from King's Bay, thereby undergoing a difficult test and proving their suitability for the harder trip across the Pole and back. At the new base, the 'planes will be filled with sufficient gasoline and oil to enable them to accomplish the final flight. Amundsen plans to carry a relatively small reserve supply of fuel which possibly will become exhausted in the event he encounters difficult flying conditions.

The date of the actual Polar flight is thus far undetermined. It depends largely on the weather.

PRESS DISAGREE.

The Scandinavian press is filled with contradictory reports regarding Amundsen. Today's papers agree that the Farm and the Hobby both departed northward, but disagree as to whether they were going to Danish Island or James Island.

Weather reports indicated high pressure over the Arctic Sea, an easterly wind and a clear sky.

Some reports indicate that Amundsen actually ordered the flight to begin forthwith, while others say that the airplanes are merely departing today from King's Bay for their real starting base, where experts are to put on the finishing touches.

There is a general feeling that Amundsen means business, and that the actual Polar flight is likely at any moment.

The explorer plans to have his airplanes land as near to the Pole as possible, after which the party will use skis for the remainder of the journey. He admits the possibility of failure, because heavy cloud-banks in the Polar region render correct calculations difficult.

THREE NATIONS TRY.

NEW YORK, May 6.—(Associated Press.)—Roald Amundsen's impending dash to the North Pole by airplane tentatively set to start this afternoon from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, marks the beginning of the efforts of three nations to conquer by air that portion of the frozen northern wastes.

FIREMEN PERISH AS BUILDING FALLS

Collapse of Wall Kills Six Atlanta Men, Injures Four

ATLANTA, Ga., May 6 — (Associated Press.) — Six city firemen were killed and four injured here early today when the upper floor of a building in which they were fighting fire, collapsed, the men being buried beneath bales of cotton.

Police believed at least three more bodies were in the ruins.

The fire damage was confined to the one-building and a nearby structure.

The burned building was the property of the firm of Harrison and Tyler. Cotton was stored on the second floor and miscellaneous articles on the first. The firemen were fighting the flames from the ground floor when the upper floor and the front wall of the building collapsed, burying them underneath.

The dead are: Captain C. A. Bone, Lieut. R. L. Dennard, Firemen F. F. Wilson, L. M. Smith, E. S. Kenkle, and C. C. King.

FROM THE STAR FILES

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

(From The Star Files, Monday, May 6, 1895.)

Montreal—Dominion Square was the scene of an interesting ceremony on Saturday afternoon, when the statue of Sir John A. Macdonald was placed in position. A large number of citizens were present, among them being Sir Donald Smith, Sir Joseph Hickson, R. T. Gault, Col. Henshaw, J. A. Boyd, D. A. McCaskel, J. H. Jacob, Robert Reid, ex-Alderman Masterman and others. It was after two o'clock when the workmen began to tear away the outside box in which the bronze statue of the chieftain was enclosed, and as the well known features were slowly uncovered, many expressions of approval and surprise came from those who witnessed the scene. Ropes were then placed around the figure and it was slowly worsted into position between the granite pillars without slip or accident of any kind. Upon the base below the figure a Canadian flag and other souvenirs were placed by Mr. J. H. Jacob, secretary of the Memorial Committee, upon these the chieftain was placed.

Southampton — The steamer Tartar Prince having on board Jabez Spencer Balfour, the embezzler, has arrived here from Buenos Ayres. The crowd which was awaiting his arrival early last evening, thinned out as the night wore on and when the steamer went into her dock very few persons besides the officers of the law were waiting for him. Jabez Spencer Balfour, the ex-Member of Parliament, it will be recalled, is the man who has gained world-wide notoriety through his connection with the collapse of the Liberator Building Society and allied concerns, and by the long continued efforts of the British Government to secure his extradition from Argentina, whence he had fled. When the steamer arrived the dock was closed to the public, and Balfour was placed on board a special train which was waiting to convey him to London.

London—Professor Clarke prophesies that diamonds of marketable size will soon be manufactured. M. Moissan, of Paris, has manufactured diamonds by melting wrought iron together with carbon and permitting the mixture to cool very slowly. Under these conditions the carbon became crystalized. Simultaneously M. Kroutschoff, of St. Petersburg, got diamond crystals by a similar process, employing silver instead of iron. These artificial diamonds are scarcely big enough to be seen by the naked eye, but they represent the solution of the problem of crystallizing carbon.

London—In the House of Commons today, the reply of the Hon. Sidney Burton, Parliamentary secretary for the Colonial Office, to Sir George Baden Powell's question about the Pacific Cable, that the Government had not received a request from the Canadian Government, or a request through that source to call a conference of those colonies interested, with a view to the arranging of the details of the laying of and maintaining a cable through the Pacific Ocean between Canada and the Antipodes.

London—John Burns, the M.P. and the Labor leader, during the course of his speech at the Labor Day demonstration in Hyde Park, was greeted with groans and cries of "Why didn't you support Keir Hardie?" "Traitor." Replying to this outbreak of disapproval, Mr. Burns said: "If you don't want to hear me, I will go home." This was followed by cries of "Go Home." "You are no workingman."

St. John's, Nfld.—The half-breed rising has been squelched and without loss of life. The Indian camp near here which sheltered several men for whom warrants were out for stealing timber, has been broken up. The half-breeds and Indians surrendered unconditionally.

D. Lighthall, secretary; the Hon. Frank Oliver, Speaker Sutherland, Mr. R. L. Borden, Sir Sandford Fleming, Col. Hanbury-Williams, the Hon. A. G. Blair, the Hon. G. E. Foster, Charles Marcil, M.P.; Robert Stewart, M.P., and about 200 members of the club.

Toronto — Professor Robertson, head of the experimental farm, established by Sir William Macdonald at St. Anne de Bellevue, and Principal Peterson, of McGill University, called at the Agricultural Department yesterday. They have been visiting the Ontario Agricultural College, and the consolidated rural schools at Guelph. The latter is the school to which pupils are conveyed from distances in waggons. Professor Robertson, speaking particularly of the latter, said that the experiment had proved a great success. The enrolment at the schools was now 195, whereas the maximum at the four schools which have been consolidated formerly was only 85.

London—The date of the wedding of Crown Prince Rudolph Adolph of Norway and Sweden, and Princess Margaret of Connaught, has been fixed for early in July. It will take place in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. After the wedding the young couple will visit Stockholm and Southern Sweden, where they will make the castle of Sofiero their home for a short time before settling down in Christiania Castle.

That Body of Yours

GETTING TIRED.

The amount of research work on this getting tired business, or fatigue, is increasing every year.

It would seem that the human race, in its effort to find out things, is learning truths that should be of great help in living the everyday life properly.

In a former article recently, I spoke of the fatigue products that get manufactured in the muscles, and cause the weariness, soreness, and also the lack of power or ability to work any longer.

These investigators have found that a certain acid is manufactured when the muscles work, and that this is the cause of the tiredness or fatigue.

They find that the muscle has within its cells a certain amount of food material (starches), which is kept at a certain level or amount by the blood stream.

If the muscles are worked regularly, as in walking, then the blood can keep up the supply of this material. If the rate of walking is increased, then the blood is not able to supply the food, and in addition the fatigue or waste products get piled up, and you have fatigue in those muscles.

Just as long as you work the muscles at a certain rate then the muscles serve sufficient food to supply the energy for the muscle movement, and the blood can carry off the waste. This explains why certain of our foreign laborers can wield a pick, or use a shovel, hour after hour, without having to stop and rest.

It explains how the foot runner can so train his body and muscles so that the proper food supply is kept up in the muscle, and the wastes do not accumulate too fast and cause fatigue.

It explains why the world's greatest runner of all time, Nurmi, is able to break all the world's records.

Every article concerning him tells of the watch that adorns his wrist. He has so trained himself that he knows just how much distance he can run within a certain time, and not get fatigued or out of breath. He has trained himself to have his supply of food in the muscles and the rate the blood can carry away the manufactured waste on an equal basis.

Dapper Bandit, Son Of Preacher, to Be Married in Prison

ATLANTA, Ga., May 6. — (United News.)—Roy McWhorter, "sheik bandit" son of a Holiness Church preacher, who, with two companions committed a series of eight robberies in four days, plans to marry his fiancee in jail, and then when he is freed from prison, settle down and live a good life just to show the authorities he isn't really a bad boy.

"It was bad company," McWhorter declared, "that led to my downfall. My mother tried to warn me, but I wouldn't listen. When I'm free I'm going straight."

McWhorter, along with W. M. Beckley, of Tampa, Fla., and Miss Pauline Partain, of Atlanta, has been indicted for the eight robberies.

The trio, who confessed they were the "dapper bandits," whose activities were centered on grocery store proprietors and filling station operators, will be tried early next week.

POLICE HUNTING MISSING DRIVER

MOTORIST ESCAPED

Alleged to Have Driven Off Rapidly After the Accident

A speeding motorist raced into the darkness, and no one saw his license number, after he struck and ran over 17-year-old Rene Frechette, of 21 Desjardins street, as the youth alighted from a street car on Ontario street east, late Saturday night.

Frechette died at 5 o'clock this morning in the Notre Dame Hospital.

Detectives of the police department and the coroner's court are today scouring the city in an effort to obtain trace of the driver of the motor car.

Frechette had stepped to the pavement as the street car came to a stop, at LaSalle avenue, and, as he turned to approach the sidewalk, the motor car struck him. His skull was fractured and he was otherwise injured and little hope was held out for his recovery.

Persons on the tram car were unable to make out the license number of the automobile as it quickly sped out of sight.

FIRE DEPT. MOURNS EX-DISTRICT CHIEF

E. Favreau, Aged 59, Dies—Retired Year Ago After 32 Years' Service

Flags are at half-mast over the fire stations of the city today, in homage to former District Chief Ernest Favreau, whose death occurred last night after a long illness, at his home, 3402 Rosemount Boulevard.

Until he was pensioned a year ago, District Chief Favreau was one of the best known and most popular members of the Montreal Fire Department, and all at headquarters this morning were unanimous in their sorrow at his passing. Chief Gauthier and Deputy Chief Carson expressed their personal sense of loss also.

District Chief Favreau was born at Boucherville, Que. on April 29, 1866, and joined the Montreal Fire Department in May 1893. He was made a Lieutenant in December 1904 and a Captain in April 1908. His appointment as District Chief came on May 1, 1914, and his retirement from the force, on pension, due to ill-health, on March 8, 1924.

The details of the funeral have not yet been completed, but arrangements have been made for the presence of a large squad of firemen, led by Chief Gauthier and preceded by the Fire Department's band. The choir of the Fire Department will also participate in the services at the church and graveside.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL IN LICENSE FIGHT

Judge Allows Request to Call Provincial Officer for Test Case

OPPOSING CITY

Effort Pending to Declare Montreal License By-law Illegal

The license by-law of the City of Montreal was again before the courts this morning, David Segal making application to Mr. Justice Coderre in the Practice Division of the Superior Court to call the Attorney-General of the Province into the action he has taken against the Recorder's Court.

As the constitutionality of the Provincial laws is attacked it was necessary to call the Attorney-General into the case. This was the purpose of this morning's proceedings, and judgment was granted by Mr. Justice Coderre to that effect.

Segal was condemned by the recorder to pay a fine of $40 and costs for having solicited sales from door to door without first having paid his license fee. He attacked this judgment in the Superior Court by a writ repudiating the jurisdiction of the court. He also claimed that the license by-law had never been sanctioned by the provincial legislature. He added that even if such sanction had been obtained, the matter was ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature as it constituted a restraint of trade, which could be dealt with by the federal parliament alone. He also stated that it constituted an indirect tax, and also a double taxation. It was a double tax because the company which he worked for had already paid a tax to permit it to do business. He finally alleged that his principals were a company incorporated by federal charter; that its trade was interprovincial and could not be legislated against by any but the Federal authority.

Directive clauses show how milking shall be carried out, and how the milk shall be preserved afterwards. Cooling, refrigeration, etc., are all detailed.

In the chapter establishing the qualities of milk, it is specified that, "Milk shall contain at least 3.25 per cent of milk fat; .68 of salts; 8.5 of solids other than fat; and must not contain more than 88.25 water; density shall be between 1029 and 1033. It shall contain no preservatives, antiseptics, or other foreign matter. It shall show no abnormal physical characters, such as bitterness, viscosity, or coloring."

NO OLD MILK.

It is against the law to ship or receive milk older than 36 hours, excepting Saturday's milk, or to have in one's possession at any time, milk older than 48 hours.

The degree of acidity of milk shall not be above .21, nor below .16. No one shall have in his possession milk to which skim milk, cream, condensed milk, or dessicated milk has been added. In the case of cream the degree shall not be above .6.

A delegation of milk dealers waited on the committee and was allowed to make suggestions. This was composed of W. Bastien, president of the Milk Producers' Association; J. Renaud, Z. Alarie, and J. P. Labreche, president of the Cooperative Milk Dealers' Union.

COOLING MILK.

Cooling of special milk was set at 45 degrees Fahrenheit, and the certification of dairies where certified milk may be produced was set at 80 points out of 100 on the dairy score card.

There were present at the meeting, Ald. Desroches, chairman; Dr. Ald. Genereux, Dr. Ald. Quintal, Dr. Ald. Tessier; Dr. S. Boucher, director public health; Ald. Sansregret, Savard, Bedard, Legault, Angrignon, Vandelac, Lalonde, Riel, Jarry, and Desauniers.

A petition from the milk dealers was received asking that examination of herds be conducted by the Federal Government instead of by the city, and was laid on the table for future study.

PLAN EDIFICE ON HOME BANK SITE

New York and Montreal Capitalists Consider New Building

TORONTO, May 6—(Star Special)—Action taken yesterday at Osgoode Hall in connection with the head office of the Home Bank, 8 King Street West, clears the way for possible sale and important changes at the Northwest Corner of King and Yonge streets.

Groups of capitalists in New York and Montreal have been working on a plan to erect a new building, or an extension to the present C. N. R. structure and lease it in whole, or part, to the C. N. R.

It is understood that the latter company is not in the market for the purchase of the property, but may be induced to lease a building or extension, if such be erected by outside capital.

The present building and land are heavily mortgaged to the holding company, in reality a New York bond house, represented here by the National Trust Company.

Home Bank liquidators have little interest in the matter, although they have an arrangement with the holding company by which they will get all over a certain amount obtained by a sale or by the erection of a building or extension. It is admitted by all the parties that the property is too valuable to be allowed to remain idle.

CUT IN SERVICES WILL NOT SOLVE RAILWAY PROBLEM

Cannot Expect Solution from This Alone, Beatty Tells C.P.R. Shareholders—Poor Immigration Results—Suffer from Lack of Definite Policy

Although the Canadian Pacific Railway is in favor of a co-operative policy which will eliminate as far as possible duplicate train service on the lines of that railway system and of the Canadian National Railways, that is not sufficient to constitute a solution of Canada's railway difficulties, E. W. Beatty, president of the C.P.R. told the shareholders, in his address at their annual meeting this afternoon.

This was the only proposal that had passed between the C.P.R. and the Dominion Government, and no situation had arisen which should give the shareholders of the company any reason to believe that their interests would be adversely affected in the working out of Canada's railway problems.

Regarding the shipping side of the company's interests, Mr. Beatty found it singular that the Government should have started a movement toward Government control of shipping rates, with lower rates as its object, through the Petersen contract, at a moment when it was well known that shipping, especially as regards freight, had given very unsatisfactory financial results, during the past two years. He was sure that the public would get a much more accurate knowledge of the real situation in regard to Atlantic shipping, from the publication of the evidence being given on this subject before a committee of the House of Commons.

DISAPPOINTING IMMIGRATION.

Mr. Beatty regretted the somewhat disappointing results achieved in the field of immigration, and stated that he and the president of the National Railways had made representations which he thought would bring about closer co-operation between government departments and immigration agencies, obviating delays in obtaining permits which have hitherto existed.

He noted with gratification a marked change in the attitude of the Canadian people toward the railway problem, a lively interest taking the place of the apathy the public formerly showed on this subject.

He combatted the idea that public ownership had, in some way, been forced on the Canadian Government by a breakdown of private ownership. Practically all the excess railway construction with which Canada was today burdened had been launched either by the Government, or with Government assistance, and received the approval of the people.

"Private administration did not break down, but the undertakings were so far in advance of the country's existing or immediate future requirements that their failure was almost inevitable. Undoubtedly, too, the situation is aggravated by the disappointment in the honest hopes of many of our public men and others that in a relatively short period the burdens would be lightened, if not altogether removed, and that they would then be in a position to assure themselves that the Canadian railway problem was behind them.

ECONOMIES WANTED.

"In consequence of the existing conditions, there is a general and deep-rooted desire for railway economies, for the elimination where possible of intensive competition and duplicate services and the utilization where feasible of joint instead of separate terminal facilities. The position of your Company in this situation is almost as unique as that in which it has found itself for some years in respect to the Canadian railway situation generally. Many of the lines of railway now forming the National System were not constructed as part of one railway conception but were conceived and designed to compete with each other as separate transportation units.

TRAMS TIED UP BY SHORT CIRCUIT

Service Throughout Montreal Interrupted by Power Difficulty

WIRES CROSSED

Repair Gangs Find Electrical Trouble Near Shawinigan Plant

A short circuit on the power lines from Shawinigan to Montreal demoralized the street car service during the rush period this morning.

From 8:15 until nine o'clock the service throughout the city was disorganized and street cars were at a standstill. When the power was restored there was a line-up of street cars in several sections for blocks., and the passengers impatient at the long wait decided to walk.

The Shawinigan Water and Power Company on whose lines the trouble was located explained that the break was caused by two wires coming together. The switches opened and the power reverted back to its source, instead of coming to Montreal. Repair work was executed quickly and the lines corrected. Meanwhile power in Montreal was off and it took some time to get it back. Transmission lines according to the Shawinigan Company were only out of order for a few minutes. The "short" was found near the power plant.

KOCHURA SEEKS TO STOP APPEAL

Counsel for "Bastille Prisoner' Says Proper Notice Not Given

Abraham Kochura, who was freed from an "illegal detention" of seven months in Bordeaux jail by Mr. Justice Bruneau, on April 20, and who is now on bail awaiting a decision of an appeal taken by the Attorney-General against Mr. Justice Bruneau's judgment, filed proceedings this afternoon vigorously attacking the action of the attorney-general, and also the legislation respecting Habeas Corpus passed by the Quebec Legislature and assented to on December 29, 1922.

Kochura, through Albert Goodstone, his advocate, asks that the appeal be set aside as the notice was not served within the delays laid down by the provincial statute.

The Attorney-General, through William Patterson, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, was given three days notice of Mr. Justice Bruneau's intention to render judgment on April 20 in the Practice Court. His representative was present when the judgment was read. The inscription in appeal was not served upon Mr. Goodstone until April 23, or, according to Kochura, 24 hours late. On this contention he says the Crown cannot go to appeal again.

Kochura further states that Mr. Justice Bruneau's judgment setting him at liberty was rendered by the Court in full exercise of its jurisdiction, and the learned judge has not erred in any part of his judgment in maintaining the writ of habeas corpus.

Mr. Goldstone also attacks the constitutionality of the Quebec legislation respecting habeas corpus. He claims that the province has no right to legislate in matters touching the Criminal Law of Canada, that being wholly within the purview of the Federal Government, and also claims that they cannot legislate in any matters regarding habeas corpus, under the provisions of the British North America Act.

The argument on these points will be heard by privilege at the first session of the Court of Appeals, whether the sitting be of three or of five judges.

DAMAGE ACTION

Stephen Iron has entered an action in damages against the Kraft Maclaren Cheese Company, Ltd., claiming $4,300 plus one-half of his salary from February 6, 1925, up to the date judgment is rendered in the present case. He claims his wages were $25 per week.

GOVERNMENT LOSING CASH BECAUSE OF BEER WAR IS APT TO PUT STOP TO IT

There is nothing standing in the way of a settlement of the brewery war in Montreal, but the "amour propre" of the contending brewers, The Star was informed this morning by one in close touch with the heads of the different firms involved.

This man had been in touch with the interested parties yesterday and this morning, and was definitely convinced that all the brewers were willing and even anxious to bury the hatchet, but neither would sacrifice his personal dignity to the extent of making the first move toward a reconciliation.

"If some outsider, who though not one of the parties to the dispute has yet sufficient interest in the matter to exercise an influence over the brewers, could step in and use that influence, so as to give them an opportunity to quit without loss of dignity," he commented.

"The only party that I can see for the moment, who has sufficient interest and influence, is the Government of this province. They have made up their budget in the anticipation that from their 5 per cent tax on the price of beer sold they would raise a million dollars of revenue. At the present prices of beer, they stand to raise only half a million, and will be half a million short in consequence.

"The public, who see only the temporary benefit from cheap beer, might do well to remember that that half million shortage on revenue will have to be made up somehow, and as the beer tax cannot be increased between sessions, the only alternative will be to increase something else.

"But I believe that if the Provincial Government, through the Provincial Treasurer or else through the Liquor Commission, were to give a hint to the brewers that the province was not prepared to lose its revenues on account of an internal squabble among the brewery companies, and that if the brewers do not compose their difficulties the Provincial Government will have to take some action to protect itself, every one of the brewers would welcome this as the excuse they are whole-heartedly looking for, and would come together again at once.

"I do not believe they would wait for any definite action. If they could say they were deferring to the superior authority of the Government, instead of any one of them being under the stigma of having given in to the others, they would all jump at the chance.

"Of course," The Star's informant concluded, "the Government may have another point of view. They may be hopefully waiting for the brewers to ruin their business by their internal squabbling, so that the Government may have a legitimate excuse for taking over the beer industry too. If that were the viewpoint, it would be useless to look for a point-blank refusal from that quarter."

EXPECTS SLUMP IN BITUMINOUS PRICE

Glasgow Gas Department Manager Says Export Trade Has Declined

COMPARES SYSTEM

Visitor Surprised at Difference in Public and Private Taxation

Scotch anthracite coal as used in Montreal may be expected to drop in price following a slump in the rate for Scotch bituminous which has already dropped and is due to drop further. J. W. McLusky, engineer and general manager of the Gas Department of Glasgow, second largest publicly-owned gas plant in the world, gave this opinion this morning at the Mount Royal Hotel. The department he represents is operated on the same basis as a private enterprise and has been so conducted for 60 years. It sells gas to citizens at a rate varying from 46 cents to 73 cents per 1000 cubic feet, according to quantity consumed. Montreal pays 90c to $1.20. It keeps all equipment and gas appliances in repair whether it owns them or not, and is carrying on a campaign in schools and from the lecture platform to induce citizens to burn gas and thus eliminate fog from the city. For it is not the factories and industries, he says, which are responsible for the sticky pall which besmirches the city, but soft coal burned in the grates.

SURPRISED AT TAXATION.

The Glasgow Gas Department is on the same basis as any private enterprise, Mr. McLusky affirmed. "It comes to me as a great surprise that any disparity is made in taxation between an undertaking privately owned and one controlled by the municipality," said the visitor. The Gas Department is obliged to pay income tax, it finds its own money, and can borrow for short or long periods according to the methods of spending money.

The cost of gas to the consumer has always been regularized by the cost of material and the cost of wages. The public pays these costs, plus a sum for reasonable maintenance of plant. In Montreal nearness to the coal field and the fact that laborers work 48 hours for 54 shillings gives the citizens of Glasgow a great advantage in obtaining a cheap gas supply. Scotch bituminous coal, fairly rich in gas, though not so rich as that used in this city is $5 per ton. It has come down in price recently a dollar per ton owing to a slump in the export trade. The same condition holds in regard to coke.

THREW TOBACCO PLUGS OVER WALL OF PRISON

CHARGE AGAINST TWO

J. Ovila Girard and Camille Lamarche appeared today before Judge Enright, charged with smuggling tobacco in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary. They were paroled until preliminary investigation, May 11.

The accused, who are being prosecuted under the Penitentiary Act, were caught last Monday by penitentiary guards, while throwing tobacco plugs over the big wall of that penal institution. Two other men were with them, but they escaped before they could be reached.

MAKE EXAMPLE OF MEN WHO SMOKED "FAGS" IN GARAGES

Nine men who smoked cigarettes in automobile garages were fined court costs today by the Recorder. This was the initial move of the Montreal Fire Department to save lives and reduce losses through fire outbreaks traced to the cigarette in conjunction with gasoline fumes.

Making surprise visits to 85 garages Inspectors L. Lavergne and H. Lafleur reported considerable negligence, and the campaign is continuing in full swing. Over 100 fires this year have been of "fag-and-gas" origin it is claimed, so Chief Gauthier has opened war on offenders.

PROGRESSIVE MEMBERS KILL MEASURE TO BUILD AVONLEA C. N. R. BRANCH

Western Men Oppose Spending $941,000 On Work Although Line Near Regina Would Pass Through Their Own Constituencies

OTTAWA, May 6.—(Star Special by J. E. March, Staff Correspondent) — A precedent, marking an epoch, has been created in the House of Commons.

Four members—Progressives—arose in their places yesterday, and dealt death to the proposed Avonlea branch of the Canadian National Railways. And believe it or not the proposal was to build through the constituencies of two of them.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, was so mentally upset that he is in the record as never having witnessed a similar scene. The reaction among the Conservatives was equally emotional and subsequently Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen slipped up to the most eloquent of the heroes and shook him warmly by the hand.

In all the incident was a peculiarly effective criterion of the value of the Canadian National branch line railway program.

The branch was to extend from near Regina to Avonlea, a distance of 33 miles at an estimated cost of $941,000. The stage was all set for another raid on the treasury when Edward N. Hopkins, of Moose Jaw made the most surprising speech in the history of Parliament. He defied certain of his electors, and his words, and the principle contained in them, should be memorized by every member of the Commons.

He said:

"I will tell them that if they put that line across that territory to Regina that they will be adding another million dollar white elephant. We have put on 600 of them in the last five years, and Canada cannot stand any more.

"Now I know that is not going to get me any votes, but I am going to tell you that it is not necessary that I get votes. It is not necessary that I come back to this House, but it is necessary that some men in this country stand up like men and denounce such projects."

John Morrison Declares Farmers Are Already Within Ten Miles Of Railroad

John Morrison, of Weyburn through whose constituency the branch would also have passed was equally militant averring that there was no justification for the expenditure; that the farmers in the district were already within ten miles of a railroad, and that it was all part of an old deal, a relic from the "palmy days." With the look of astonishment growing on Mr. Graham's features N. M. McTaggart, of Maple Creek and J. L. Brown, of Lisgar added to the chorus of disapproval. Eventually Mr. Graham managed to say that as the members from the district opposed the line he saw no reason to press it. Thereat the Commons reported progress and the Senate was saved the painful duty of killing the bill.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell who sits for Regina was not in his seat and Mr. Meighen sarcastically suggested that the resolution be taken up again when he appeared.

Mr. Graham's harrowed feelings were revealed in his reply.

"Don't make it any specific date, Mr. Speaker," he pleaded.

The Avonlea branch has a unique history. In 1913 the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the City of Regina combined to construct a hotel. Their efforts resulted in a foundation and a little skeleton iron work. Two years ago Sir Henry Thornton promised Regina a hotel but subsequently it was discovered that hotels were not paying, and the Avonlea branch was suggested in lieu. Thus are railways some times built. This one will not be.

The Ben-gough branch in Saskatchewan, price $945,000 for 27 miles, survived to go to the railway committee but it is due for a rough passage. The Progressives are again the attacking force. They want to know if the road is to be built, why it should not tap a territory where it will do the settlers the maximum of good. The Turtleford branch, also in Saskatchewan at a price of $1,871,000 was the only one of the three regarded with any degree of approval.

The remainder of the working day was given over to consideration of a mass of minor or non-partisan legislation. The Commoners, as if glad of release from the dreary routine of the budget debate, passed a variety of bills and resolutions, and for the first time this session provided the Senate with cause for steady sittings.

BILL NOT INTRODUCED.

OTTAWA, May 6. — (Canadian Press).—The proposal to construct a branch of the Canadian National Railways from south of Regina to Avonlea, Saskatchewan, came up in the House of Commons last night but owing to unexpected opposition from Western members while the preliminary resolution was in committee, the bill was not introduced. The customary prefacing resolution had been introduced by the Minister of Railways and the House had as usual gone into committee, only a few minutes before Western members began their protest.

E. N. Hopkins, Progressive of Moose Jaw, objected to the practice of beginning railway lines in the west which could not be finished because they were unremunerative. He had received letters urging him to support the construction of all sorts of branch lines. These lines very often, in Western Canada, remained incomplete because they were unpractical.

"I will tell those people that we have got too many lines in too many places and I will also tell them that they have been ruined because of just such letters as the ones they have sent to me. I will tell them that I consider it a crime for me to support that line when there are people in that country drawing their grain for 40 and 50 miles. I will tell them that if they put that line across that territory to Regina, that will be another million-dollar white elephant. We have put on six hundred of them in the last five years and Canada cannot stand any more.

"Now, I know that is not going to get me any votes, but I am going to tell you that it is not necessary that I get votes; it is not necessary that I come back to this House. But it is necessary that men in this country stand up like men and denounce such projects."

John Morrison (Progressive, Weyburn), and A. J. Lewis (Progressive, Swift Current), also opposed the expenditure of public money on this branch line. The latter said that he had received a lot of telegrams asking him to support it, but he did not feel justified in doing so.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, remarked that it was the first time in his experience that members from the district affected, had so openly opposed the construction of a branch line. He felt that the only thing to do was to suggest that the committee rise and report progress.

WOULD REVIEW WORK.

There was a good deal of laughter on every side of the House. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, while the chairman of committee was on his way to the Speaker's chair, to return the resolution, suggested that the committee "ask leave to sit again when the Minister of Agriculture is again in his seat." Mr. Graham appealed to Mr. Meighen that the House should not set any specific date.

The usual formalities preparatory to proceeding with new business were then gone through, and the resolution was not further discussed.

A Canadian National Railway branch line bill for the construction of a line from Turtleford, Saskatchewan, came before the House of Commons for second reading tonight.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition, suggested that the Minister of Railways review the work actually accomplished as a result of last year's branch lines.

Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways, said that all the information available had been tabled in the House early in the session.

Speaking of the Turtleford branch line, he pointed out that it would complete the project at a cost of $1,070,000. The sum of $801,000 was available for the work on this line. It was held in trust by Saskatchewan for the Canadian Northern Railway. It was estimated by railway officials that the proposed line would handle 1,400,000 bushels of grain annually.

C. C. Davies (Progressive, North Battleford) stated that he had no hesitation in declaring that this road should be built. The people in the country affected were promised railway communication. Time after time their hopes were dashed to the ground, yet they showed their grit by staying in the district and carrying on under the handicap of lack of proper railway facilities. He hoped that this year the bill would pass the House and also the Senate.

The bill was given second reading and referred to the railway committee.

A bill to authorize construction of a branch of the Canadian National Railways from Bengough, Sask., to Willowbunch, 27 miles away, was given second reading and was referred to the railway committee.

There was practically no opposition to the passage of the usual preliminary resolution.

REPORTS CURE FOR STOMACH ULCERS

Ontario Medical Association to Hear of Dr. Arnott's Work

TORONTO, May 6. — (Canadian Press.) — It was stated here last night that Dr. H. Arnott, of London, Ont., will make an important announcement at the gathering of the Ontario Medical Association here on Friday in reference to an established cure for chronic gastric and duoenal ulcers.

In speaking of Dr. Arnott's cure, Dr. Banting is reported to have stated that the discovery is a greater contribution to medicine than his own work on insulin.

The disease to which Dr. Arnott has devoted himself is commonly known as ulcers of the stomach and is one of the common and severe maladies that afflict mankind. The doctor's treatment, based on 24 years' research, and said to have been tested successfully during the past two years in forty cases, is described as follows: The patient is given but two meals in the day and these are spaced five to six hours apart. Absolutely nothing but water is allowed between meals. The intention is to secure daily 14 continuous hours of physiological rest for the stomach and duodenum. Should there be retention of food, the stomach is washed out with warm water four or five hours after the second meal. Fatigue is to be avoided where living conditions will permit, and all are required to lie down for 15 minutes immediately after leaving the table.

Diet must be continuous for one year. Tea, coffee, tobacco, spirits, wine, beer, highly spiced sauces or foods, bran, salads, raw fruits or cooked fruit with seeds, such as raspberries, are forbidden as is also any other article of diet which the patient has found to have been a constant cause of trouble. Fowl and fish are to be preferred to heavy meats and milk soups are a much better choice than stock soups.

SPURNED BY GIRL, COMMITS SUICIDE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 6.—(Canadian Press)—Disappointed in love, Alexander Volschuck, Niagara Falls, N.Y., was found hanging from a bandstand yesterday after he had appeared before Judge Piper and was ordered out of the city and told to forget his love problems. He said his girl had left the city after saying she wanted to have nothing more to do with him.

HEALTH RULES FOR MARRIAGE URGED

Social Worker Says Raising Children Must be Given Thought

TORONTO May 6. — (Canadian Press.) — In the future the youth who would "a wooing go" with the object of choosing a mate "for better or for worse" must yield to "reasonable rules for the protection of the health of the community and the prospects of the coming generation" before he will be permitted to follow the dictates of the heart. This was the decree laid down yesterday afternoon by Robert W. Kelso, secretary of the Boston Council of Social agencies, when addressing a joint meeting of the Social Service Council of Ontario, in annual convention and the first all-Toronto social welfare conference, in Convocation Hall. Marriage should not be the happy-go-lucky affair that it so often has been in the past, he said.

The first essential, in his opinion, was for the Government to provide accurate and complete birth registration. Then there should come into effect reasonable requirements regarding the physique and mental health of the persons contracting marriage.

"This matter of mating and breeding children," he declared, "must be given thought by the whole people, and the wishes of the individual must to some extent yield to reasonable rules for the protection of the health of the community and the prospects of the coming generation."

That the next generation of men and women who live in the farms of Ontario would be one hundred per cent. ahead of the past generation because of the community and social development that was going on, was the opinion expressed by Alexander McLaren, of the Ontario Agricultural College.

DEPUTATION URGES KING TO COMPLETE HUDSON BAY LINE

Premier Declares Western Proposition "Very Much Before Us"

HARBOR SOUGHT

Delegates Believe Only Million Needed to Finish Work

OTTAWA, May 6. — (Canadian Press.)—"I assure you that we have the matter very much before us," Premier Mackenzie King informed a delegation which waited upon members of the Cabinet yesterday afternoon, and urged the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway to Port Nelson this year, and the establishment of the minimum harbor facilities there.

The deputation, which included Premier Bracken of Manitoba, members of the On-to-the-Bay Association, and other organizations in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, was introduced by F. C. Hamilton, president of the Liberal Association, Winnipeg.

"This question is vital to the progress of Western Canada," General R. W. Patterson, president of the On-to-the-Bay Association said. He personally had visited Hudson Bay and on another occasion had gone as far as the end of steel. An expenditure of one million dollars would carry the road to the Bay, and he asked the Government to so complete the line this year, and provide the minimum harbor facilities. He believed that there was sufficient valuable material at Port Nelson, which, if sold, would more than cover the cost of the completion of the line as suggested.

Premier Bracken pointed out that every year since his Government had been in office in that province, the Legislature had unanimously asked for the completion of this road as soon as possible. He believed that the rails should be laid to the Bay this year and the minimum amount of work done on the harbor, so as to give the scheme a chance to prove itself.

Hon. J. R. Wilson, Saskatoon, chairman of the Saskatchewan On-to-the-Bay Association, declared that the completion of this line would "instill a new hope among the Western people," who had been laboring under many difficulties. The delegation, he stated, was not asking for the expenditure of any extravagant amount.

F. H. Martin chief engineer of Manitoba Power Company, believed that "there would be little difficulty in keeping the harbor at Port Nelson open for a period longer than most people admitted," by reason of the development of power on the Nelson River. Such a development, he considered, would keep the harbor open throughout the winter. We have a wonderful heritage in the Nelson River," said Mr. Martin, who looked forward to extensive power development there when the Hudson Bay project was carried out.

George Edwards, president of Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, believed that the Government would be justified in spending enough money to complete the railway to the Bay, and sufficiently develop the port to afford an opportunity to try out the scheme. Such an expenditure this year would be money well spent.

W. Thrasher, secretary, Farmers' Union of Canada, considered that the construction of the line would lower the cost of production to the Western farmers, bring prosperity and assist immigration.

A. B. Hudson M.P., urged that the request of the deputation receive favorable consideration.

F. C. Hamilton, who introduced the delegation, in concluding its presentation, considered that from a business standpoint, in view of the amount of money already expended, the Hudson Bay project could not be allowed to stand in abeyance.

C.P.R. EMPLOYES MUST STAND TRIAL

PERTH, Ont., May 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Arthur G. Snider, C.P.R. agent at Glen Tay, and Walter Norris, C.P.R. engineer of Trenton, were yesterday committed for trial to appear before Judge J. H. Scott in Lanark County Court next month on a charge arising out of the death of C.P.R. Engineer David Bourne, of Toronto, who was fatally injured on February 23 last when he jumped from the engine of passenger train No. 20 prior to a collision with a freight train standing at Glen Tay station.

At the preliminary trial before Magistrate Kirkland the two men were charged with negligently omitting to perform their duties on the day the passenger train travelled through an open switch and collided with the freight train.

He represented the Dominion in determining the levels of the Great Lakes and other lakes on the International Boundary. In 1920 he was active in the drawing up of the Bowden-Wootan report regarding navigation of the St. Lawrence by ocean going shipping.

INDUSTRIAL PEACE ACT APPROVED IN MARITIME HOUSE

Armstrong Bill Restricted in Operation to Utilities and Mines

MANY OPPOSED

Labor and Capital Voice Opposition at Public Hearing

HALIFAX, N. S., May 6 — (Canadian Press.) — After a public hearing at which eight representatives of both labor and capital had unanimously voiced their opposition to its main characteristic, Bill 184, Premier E. H. Armstrong's "Industrial Peace Act, 1925" was passed by committee of the whole House at last night's session of the Legislative Assembly, with amendments restricting the scope of its operation to public utilities and coal mines, and rendering it retroactive to cover any strike or lockout that may be in progress when the act is put into effect.

The measure, brought down last week by Premier Armstrong, was presented in two parts, the first being a copy of the Lemieux Act, with minor changes to suit Provincial needs, and the second providing machinery for a permanent arbitration commission to deal with labor disputes when the first part had proven ineffective, and the findings of which would be binding upon both parties to the dispute.

The first part of the Bill met with little opposition but all the force of the labor members of the House was brought to bear against the second part which provided for compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes.

Originally the Bill covered all organizations employing ten or more people and the amendment to that section restricted its scope to public utilities and coal mines only; this was also covered by an amendment that would enable other industries to place themselves under the Act. Another amendment provides penalties for the failure of either employer or employes to observe the 30 day armistice after making application for conciliation board or arbitration, and the other important amendment makes the Act retroactive to deal with any dispute that may be in progress when the measure becomes law.

The Opposition objected to passage of the Bill through committee of the whole House and divided on the question, 13 to 10, with the two Liberal members from Pictou, Major J. Welsford MacDonald and R. H. Graham, voting with the Opposition. Forman Way, Labor, Cape Breton, objected to the Bill being given third reading at once, as moved by Premier Armstrong, and the motion was withdrawn.

At the public hearing J. Welsford MacDonald was acting chairman and the following representatives were heard: M. E. Keefe, head of the M. E. Keefe Construction Co. of Halifax; Patrick Healey, representing the Trades and Labor Council of Halifax; A. Handfield Whitman, Halifax, representing the Canadian Manufacturers' Association of Canada, and himself as an employer of labor; William Hayes, International Board Member, District 26, United Mine Workers of America, representing the Nova Scotia coal miners; J. W. Weeks, a printer; ex-Mayor John Murphy, W. L. Best, Ottawa, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and Joseph Wallace, Halifax, a local labor party worker.

MARLOW FIGURES SHOW REDUCTIONS IN FREIGHT RATES

Statement Compares Rates of 1919 and Those of 1924

FEATURES INQUIRY

More Than 50 Commodities Included in List Witness Presents

OTTAWA, May 6. — (Star Special by Our Own Correspondent). — The feature of the Ocean Rates inquiry committee yesterday afternoon was the statement presented by William Marlow, of the Canadian Pacific Freight Department, showing reductions which have been made in freight rates on a list of more than 50 commodities handled by the lines of the North Atlantic Conference. The figures were comparative, being those of 1919 in relation to 1924. In all of the list substantial reductions were indicated, for example where, in 1919 the freight on agricultural implements was $1 per hundred pounds, it had been reduced to 43 cents by 1923, although coming back to 50 cents last year. Most notable of all was the reduction in the freight on apples. In 1919 it stood at $3 a barrel, while in 1924 it was down to 90 cents. The carrying charge on automobiles declined from 65 to 25 cents per cubic foot and on newsprint from $1.25 to 53 cents. In all the other commodities which covered an extensive list corresponding reductions were shown.

Mr. Marlow did not paint the condition of the steamship lines in any favorable light. The effect of what he said was that business is depressed and he indicated that it would be "absolutely hopeless" if subsidized competition was to go into play against it. On grain rates he asserted that there was no relation between New York and Montreal.

Colonel Gear was recalled in evidence with regard to the cattle rates. The nature of his testimony was to establish that handling this class of freight is in no sense remunerative. He also said that it cost more to handle flour than grain. Where the grain charge is about 15 cents a bushel, it would be fair to charge about 25 cents for flour. The inquiry is continuing this afternoon. The committee does not usually meet in the morning because some of its members are on other committees that do meet at that time of the day.

It is hoped to have the companies' case finished and to begin the examination of W. T. R. Preston.

REDUCED SINCE WAR.

OTTAWA, May 6. — (By Canadian Press). — Steamship companies represented before the special Parliamentary committee on ocean rates yesterday afternoon, filed a lengthy statement of commodities on which rates had been materially reduced since the war. The statement covered the years 1919 to 1924 inclusive. It showed that a rate of $1.00 per hundred pounds on agricultural implements in 1919 which had been reduced to 43 cents a hundred pounds in 1923 stood at 50 cents last year. The cost of shipping a barrel of apples which, in 1919 was $3.00 (ordinary stowage) had dropped to 90 cents in 1924. The rate on automobiles which was 65 cents a cubic foot in 1919 had gone down, according to the statement, to 25 cents a cubic foot last year. Newsprint paper in rolls, which in 1919 was carried at $1.25 a hundred pounds was 55 cents a hundred pounds in 1924.

Practically all the commodities listed in the statement showed very great reductions in the 1924 rate as compared with 1919, some 50 commodities were covered in the statement.

Examination of W. T. Marlow, general foreign freight agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was concluded. He expressed the opinion that freight returns to the steamship companies were now in a depressed condition. In the event of a subsidized line further depressing rates, it would be natural, he said, for conference lines to operate until rates became "absolutely hopeless" when they would probably withdraw tonnage. Mr. Marlow also filed a statement showing that grain rates from Montreal and from New York have no direct relation one to the other. There was frequently a wide divergence in the two rates.

The statement filed earlier showed that the rate on butter (ordinary stowage) was exactly the same in 1924 as in 1919, $1.00 per hundred pounds. The rate on butter carried in refrigerator, however, which was $2.50 per hundred pounds in 1919, was only $1.50 in 1924. The flour rate which was $1.00 in 1919 had dropped to 19 cents last year, according to the statement.

The committee asked some further questions of Col. W. I. Gear, of the Robert Reford Company, a former witness who gave some information in regard to the carriage of cattle and grain.

The committee adjourned until three o'clock this afternoon.

Reading As An Aid To Convalescence Is Suggested To Nurses

A PRACTICAL suggestion to utilize selected reading under the direction of a skilled psychologist as an aid to convalescence in hospitals was submitted at a meeting of the Montreal Graduate Nurses' Association, held in the Stevenson Hall, Drummond street, last night by S. Morgan-Powell, Literary and Dramatic Editor of The Montreal Star.

The speaker submitted his scheme succinctly as follows:—

"Given a condition in a patient on the way to recovery in a hospital that permits that patient to listen to reading for a certain period each day without any ordinary deleterious results, is it not a reasonable thing to suppose that, by a carefully prepared system of reading, under which the character of the matter read shall have been considered carefully in direct connection with the mental and physical condition of the patient, that patient's mental and physical condition may be so stimulated, so soothed, so helped, as to facilitate and to hasten the period of convalescence and to bring the patient into a state of mind which will engender that cheerfulness, that optimism, that will-to-get-well which is, after all, an all-important factor in recovery from all ills, both physical and mental?

"Now, for all I know, this theory may be as old as the pyramids. It may have been in full blast when Cleopatra paid her famous visit to King Solomon. She may even have read to him from the Egyptian Book of the Dead while she laid her ebony hands upon his brow when he had a headache after a trying day in court, testing motherhood by ordering nice chubby babies to be cut in half. But I have not heard of the theory, as a theory, having been advanced seriously before. So I make haste to claim it as my own until somebody shall come along with documentary proof to the effect that it was thought of several thousand years ago.

"That, then, is my little theory. Now as to its application in actual practice. My idea is that there should be a distinct branch attached to each hospital,—a patients' reading department. I would have a light course in elocution for the nurses attached to this department, and I would have a trained psychologist in charge of it. His duties would be to study the cases in a state of convalescence, their record and character, in order to determine whether the reading treatment could be beneficially applied. Having done that, he would have the additional responsibility of deciding as to the nature of the reading to be given.

"This, I admit, would be no easy task, for it would obviously require a man fairly widely read, who had made a study of the mental reactions of convalescents to religious, comic, serious, serio-comic, technical, biographical, or fictional listerature. (The establishment of a reading clinic to provide for study along these lines would, it seems, be indicated in this connection.) But provided you had such a man, and provided he made studies of this kind, he ought, if he is a sound psychologist, to be able to direct a reading department as to the most appropriate sort of reading for each specific case that came under his notice for observation.

"I have often wondered what patients lie and think about during the period of convalescence. It is obvious that they cannot sleep all the time. It is also obvious that, in many instances, to be left alone with your thoughts is not a very helpful thing. Suppose, to take a normal case, there is a man in the general ward who is without friends, who is unable to sit up and read, or even to read lying down, if and when permitted to do so, but who is of a restless disposition, who does not sleep well naturally, and who shows signs of depression or worry. My idea may not be worth a nickel, but it seems to me that, under normal circumstances, and if there are no contributory features or symptoms that would render it inadvisable for him to be read to, he might very easily be kept from worrying or from thinking depressing thoughts during his waking hours, or during some of them, if he were read to, and if the matter read to him were of a cheerful, amusing, diverting nature. Even the most active and determined enemy of the psychologist will be prepared to admit that laughter is usually a good tonic. If it were not, a tired business man would not feel refreshed after attending the performance of a good comedy or after reading a good humorous book.

"Similarly, neurotic patients with over-active minds, turned continuously into one depressing or exciting emotional channel, might well have their thoughts diverted into another channel which would tend to soothe, to operate as a sedative mentally, by being read to, if the matter read were of a placid, non-emotional, quietly confident nature.

"I fancy that in the case of children this would work wonderfully well. I have known instances in which the attention of a child was successfully diverted from some necessary surgical work by the telling of a fascinating fairy tale in a manner that held the child's undivided attention. That is doubtless an exceptional case, but it is certain that children can be soothed, be drawn out of the fretful and querulous moods inevitably associated with periods of convalescence, by the reading of some story that so grips their childish imaginations as to help them to forget themselves and their troubles, even for a little while. You all know how children in hospitals enjoy occasional entertainments, motion pictures, and singing or playing on the piano or violin.

"Well, it seems to me that suitable reading might well take its place along with that sort of diversion. I have been informed by the matron of a children's hospital that her little charges slept all the more soundly after having witnessed a performing elephant, some clowns, and some Arab tumblers.

"My general theory is simply this: that it is a good thing to get the mind of a normal patient—I suppose that is not the correct term, for no patient can be quite normal—but I mean a patient who is making normal progress towards recovery and who is, apart from his or her ailment, normal in body and mind—to get the mind of such a patient off himself or herself. I firmly believe even thoroughly healthy people can worry themselves into sickness by giving way to depressing thoughts. Acutely nervous women are often apt to diagnose themselves as suffering from cancer every time they may feel a sharp pain in the chest or the side, for instance. Or they may get the idea, because they suffer from constantly recurring nervous headaches, that they are going slowly crazy. What could be better for such people than to be helped to think of something else, other than their own selves and their imaginary ills?

* * *

"I admit that there is a good deal to be said against my theory, in so far as its application is concerned. For instance, you might find, after you had been reading some charming romance to a young man, that he had lost his sweetheart shortly before he entered the hospital, and the re-opening of an old mental wound might work more harm than good. But that is where your experienced psychologist and his supervision and examination would come in. He would take all conceivable safeguards against errors of this sort.

"As a general rule, I imagine, he would find it advisable to work on a system of antidotes. For easily excited patients, calm, placid reading, poetry, descriptive writing, biographical or travel literature; for placid, sluggish minds, something calculated to stir them up to a certain extent, to make them think of things they have never thought of, and so on. For misanthropic and melancholy patients, comic matter, to make them laugh, with due safeguards against inciting to laughter too soon after an operation, naturally, or there would be new stitches to take. For healthy youth, romance, action, history, and adventure when they are fit for it. And so on.

"The will to live is a theory which has been widely discussed and is admitted by many experienced medical men. I should imagine that any legitimate means by which that will could be developed, stimulated and strengthened in the ordinary, or extraordinary, sick or ill person would be worth while investigating and cultivating. One often hears a doctor complaining that a patient does not respond as he or she ought to respond to treatment during convalescence, that they seem to care nothing about getting better. It is upon the minds of just such patients that I believe a skilful treatment of reading would have a very beneficial influence.

"One thing is certain,—under the necessary precautions, such a treatment could do no harm. Those of us who recall the old type of nurse—I take time hastily to protect myself from any adverse criticism on your part by assuring you that I am quite confident no such types now exist anywhere in Montreal, of course,—will recall that she was often a person of dour countenance, stern in manner, quite competent, quite experienced, of course, but devoid of a smile, tending rather to an aspect of countenance that suggested to the imagination of the patient either commiseration or a fixed conviction that his future was most uncertain. She did her work with unimpeachable ability, authority, celerity, and calmness, and when it was done, she sat down by the window with her knitting, or else she folded her hands in her lap and, with lips compressed and head bent, contemplated the floor, or the window, or the prim folds of her dress.

"And the patient, duly admonished not to talk, not to worry, not to move, not to think, but to try and sleep, promptly began to think hard, so that the brain worked overtime. Now, how much better it would have been if, instead of such a grim routine, that nurse could have read to her patient and cheered him or her up,—or read them into untroubled slumber.

* * *

"We have made such inconceivably wonderful progress in almost every branch of medicine, in almost every department of the art of healing, that it seems almost a pity not to try experiments that can threaten no possible harm and hold out at least a reasonable prospect of working a very liberal measure of good."

"A Man of Honor" to Be Presented at His Majesty's Next Week

Considerable public interest is being shown in the forthcoming performance of Somerset Maugham's society drama, "A Man of Honor," at His Majesty's Theatre on Thursday evening next week, by the recently established Montreal Dramatic Club, in aid of the Fresh Air Fund.

The rehearsals have been proceeding smoothly, and give every indication of a most satisfying presentation. The cast includes several of the most prominent amateurs in the city and district, who need no introduction to theatregoers here. Among them will be found Mrs. F. H. Wallis, who will play the part of Jennie, the heroine. Mrs. Wallis has been engaged in amateur theatricals for some years, and her work with the Community Players here has often called forth enthusiastic comment. She had experience in London before coming to Montreal, and is a competent and versatile artiste.

Mrs. Bruce Crombie, who will portray Hilda Murray, one of the principal roles, has also been connected conspiciously with the later efforts of the Community Players, and is a tireless and enthusiastic worker, and an actress of distinct ability. Mrs. T. H. Furlong's extensive experience and effective work with both the Trinity and Weredale Dramatic Clubs here qualifies her for a prominent role in any amateur cast. Miss Tuta Long will be remembered for her excellent work in "The Younger Generation" when that play was presented by the Weredale Club some three months ago. Miss M. Lamb is a newcomer who gives great promise.

Among the men are Messrs. Gilbert Robinson, H. Randall Lane, Hal Grindon, and George H. Grace, all well-known and competent amateurs. The tickets are being well taken up. Seats may be secured from now on at the theatre or at Chapman's book store on Peel street.

MUSIC

Matinee Musical Club Final Meeting

For the last meeting of the present season, at the Mount Royal Hotel on Tuesday afternoon, the Matinee Musical Club had music by four young, local, but good performers. The program, which had been arranged for the occasion by Mrs. H. W. Conover, was a short one, since it had to follow the annual general meeting of the club, but the hour which it occupied was well filled. Miss Bessie Hershorn began with piano solos by Chopin and Debussy and gave a particularly good performance of the latter's "Golliwog's Cakewalk." She was followed by Miss Beatrice Gerson, who, in a concerto by De Beriot and a Kreisler arrangement of a Spanish Serenade by Chaminade, showed very sound playing and a tone remarkably fine for so young a player. Miss Esther Asner, who is, like the preceding players, a pupil of the McGill Conservatorium, sang charmingly, if a little nervously, in songs by Strauss and Sinding, and later, in Schurman's "Spring Night." Master Lucien Martin gave Elman's arrangement of a song, "After a Dream," by Faure, and Wienlawski's "Scherzo-Tarantelle," two pieces of showy music, in which he displayed amazing technical skill.

De Pachmann Gave Wonderful Playing of Program of Chopin

For the third time in about eighteen months De Pachmann gave a piano recital at the Windsor Hall on Tuesday evening, and had an audience which filled the hall. That was the first wonder of the evening, for there are very few people who can do such things in Montreal. His playing too is still wonderful, not only in itself, but in being something quite different from what one should expect from a man of seventy-six. At that age one might expect all the musical wisdom in the world, but the fingers have a right to be a little stiff and tired. In De Pachmann's case, however, it is the fingers that have defied the action of time and they still play as only very few other fingers can or ever could play.

* * *

The evening's program was made up entirely of work by Chopin. What the original intention may have been is not quite clear; there had been a hint of Beethoven's Sonata Pathetique, and it was given on the printed program as a "Special Number," whatever that may mean. Perhaps it was promised to us if we were good, and we were not quite good enough. In any case only Chopin was given, in an assortment of nearly every kind of thing that he ever wrote. There were a Ballade, a Polonaise, an Impromptu, a Scherzo, Etudes, Preludes, Mazurkas and Valses, and these things, when performed by De Pachmann, make a recital that is thoroughly satisfying to worshippers of piano-playing. It was a long evening's work; fourteen things were on the program and two more were added at the end, and, of course, some time was taken between numbers by remarks addressed to people sitting near the front of the hall.

* * *

As technical piano-playing it would be hard to imagine anything better, and now and then the old Pachmann spirit seemed to come to life. In the Nocturnes and the last of the Etudes particularly there were beautiful tone and feeling, but too often on Tuesday, as in the past the pianist spoiled the things that he played by the things that he said. The audience was thoroughly sympathetic and, for Montreal, enthusiastic and even De Pachmann must have been well enough satisfied with his reception for it was he who brought things to an end by having the piano closed.

Ossip Perelma, R.I.A.F.A., famous Russian artist recently arrived from Paris, who is exhibiting work in Montreal.

Ossip Perelma, R.I.A.F.A., the noted Russian artist who recently arrived from Paris, has painted a portrait of Isaac McBride, who is in charge of the Russian Art Exhibition shown at Henry Morgan & Co.'s store.

Mr. Perelma exhibited four paintings at the Spring exhibition at the Montreal Art Gallery—among them a portrait of Albert Bartholome, the French sculptor; a Breton fishing group, and a street scene of La Rochelle, France, in aquarelle.

Mr. Perelma is an Imperial Academician of Russia, and has been honored by France for the exhibitions which he arranged in aid of the Red Cross at the time of the World War. A painting which he made of Frank B. Noyes, president of the American Associated Press, was presented to France by America in commemoration of the brotherhood of the two countries during the war, and is now hanging in the Luxembourg Museum. In addition to being admitted into the Luxembourg, the highest honor to which an artist may aspire, Perelma's works are hanging in the galleries of La Societe Nationale des Beaux Arts. A painting of Metchnikoff, the celebrated biologist, is in the Pasteur Institute.

Although Perelma has spent the last eighteen years in France, he is distinctly Russian in his art, and is particularly renowned for his historical compositions and his power of expression in portraits. He has taken a studio in the Medical Arts Building during his stay in Montreal.

DECLARES MINERS UNDER RED RULE

Senator Beaubien Demands Protection from Foreign Labor Leaders

WOULD OFFER LAND

Senator Robertson Favors Placing Strikers Under Settlement Scheme

OTTAWA, May 6. — (Canadian Press.)—The mine workers of Nova Scotia were under the domination of foreign emmissaries and were held in "a reign of terror" by the Red element, Senator Beaubien, of Montreal, said in a speech in the Senate last night.

He quoted from McLaughlin's paper a plea to the workers of Canada to destroy capital, join the Red Internationale and send a degelate to Moscow. In British Columbia mining districts where the United Mine Workers' representatives had been driven away there was peace and prosperity. This organization recognized no tribunal; they were a law unto themselves. Their leaders came from the United States to Canada to destroy industry, poison the minds of workers and misery and disaster followed in their wake. He concluded by demanding protection against such foreign labor leaders who perverted the minds of our people.

Senator Beaubien then quoted the wages paid the miners by the company. Of 6,000 men employed, 3,141 get over $6.91 per day; 1,712 get from $4 to $6.30 per day; 1,217 receive from $3.50 to $3.99 and the remainder, 185 get less than $3.50 per day. Senator Robertson interrupted to ask if it was not true that the men averaged only 76 days' work last year. Senator Beaubien then quoted wages of other classes of laborers in Nova Scotia. Carpenters, $4.56; painters, $4.80; plumbers, $5.90; plasterers, $7.30. In other mining enterprises in Nova Scotia, he said, the wages averaged from $2.50 to $4.00 a day. Even railway employes did not receive as high wages as the miners, as conductors receive $4.27, brakemen $2.93, engineers $6.00 and firemen $4.48.

PLACE ON LAND

Senator Robertson expressed the opinion that it would be an excellent idea if the Federal Government would make some arrangement to place a number of the 4,000 returned men, included in the miners on strike in the Cape Breton coal fields, on the land, under some scheme similar to the Soldiers' Settlement Board.

In his opinion, the dispute between the miners and their employers had become National in its character through the interest it had created. The coal and steel industry in Cape Breton, he pointed out, had a much greater capacity than the market for its product, and therefore could not be reasonable continuity of work. The industrial conditions in Nova Scotia from 1909 to the present time were traced by Senator Robertson. In 1909, there had been a strike lasting over six months, causing much distress, and from that arose a bitterness which had been felt for many years. This feeling, he stated, was being gradually eliminated, until in 1921, military forces were sent into Cape Breton, which were unnecessary, and had done much to destroy confidence between employer and employe.

Senator Robertson pointed out that no troops had been sent this year, and no disorder had occurred, which proved they were unnecessary on previous occasions. He declared that the sending of troops to Nova Scotia at the time had resulted in a change in the law in respect to such action and had a direct part in causing the repeal of the Industrial Disputes Act. Senator Dandurand interrupted to say that the Government in sending troops to Nova Scotia had only been carrying out the law; but Senator Robertson disagreed.

PARLEY HAD FAILED

Premier Armstrong's conference, stated Senator Robertson, had failed, as the men wanted a ten per cent. advance and the company wanted a ten per cent. reduction in wages. The loss to the Province of Nova Scotia was $2,500 a day. He suggested as a means of settling the difficulty that the Province of Nova Scotia offer, if the men go back to work at the wages demanded by the men, that the company be reimbursed from royalties until an enquiry had brought about a satisfactory agreement.

A compulsory arbitration law had been proposed by Premier Armstrong, he declared. If cordial relations existed between the company and the men there was some chance of accepting the verdict of such a court; but under existing conditions such a law would be unacceptable. The only permanent solution was to build up confidence between the contracting parties.

REPORTERS VIEW C.N.R. EXHIBIT

Pavilion Surpasses That of Last Year, is Opinion of Pressmen

PANORAMA SHOWN

Prince of Wales as Indian Chief Modelled in Butter

LONDON, May 6—(Star Special Cable)—The London Pressmen were on Monday given a preliminary view of the Canadian National Railway pavilion at Wembley. The unanimous verdict was that the exhibit surpasses last year's.

The principal new feature is a panorama which shows Canada from East to West as it would unfold itself during a railway journey across the Continent. The first scene is Quebec city. The St. Lawrence is kept in view and the new Quebec bridge is passed and then the Island of Montreal is presented. Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, and Niagara are passed and the spectator finds himself travelling through the region of the Great Lakes into the Western lands, the foothills of the Rockies and out to the Pacific coast.

In the Canadian Government pavilion there is again a life-sized butter exhibit of the Prince of Wales but thistime he is with feathers and tomahawk and the general paraphernalia he wore when received as Morning Star, chief of the Stoney Indians.

MINERS' PICKETS PLACED ON DUTY

Will Ascertain Number of Bonafide Officials at Work

HOSPITALS HIT

Institutions Behind Several Thousands of Dollars in April

GLACE BAY, N. S., May 6 — (Canadian Press.) — Picketting of the collieries of the British Empire Steel Corporation was commenced here last night by representatives of United Mine Workers of America, in an endeavor, it was stated, to ascertain the number of bona fide officials engaged in the work of maintaining the miners which have been idle since March 6 owing to a wage dispute involving 12,000 miners. Company officials it was added, would not be interfered with but others would be invited to refrain from protective work.

Both the local hospitals, the Glace Bay General and St. Joseph's have been exceedingly hard hit by the industrial struggle and the broken time at the collieries which preceded it.

Cut off from their main source of revenue, the weekly payments from the miners, the institutions are having all they can do to make ends meet and at the end of April were behind several thousands of dollars.

Norman McKenzie, president of the General Hospital Board of Directors, said there were as many in the hospital at the first of May if not more than at this time last year. There was no money coming in and if the present situation continued he could not say what action the board of directors might have to take. Since January the hospital had gone behind $7,500.

At St. Joseph's Hospital a similar situation exists. Sister Ignatius, superintendent at the hospital stated that the deficit since the first week of April was between $8,000 and $9,000. The hospital was treating an average of 55 patients daily and overhead charges remained the same. If conditions did not improve within a short time the hospital authorities might be faced with the problem of curtailing to some extent admissions to the institution.

There was no change in the industrial situation from the mine workers' standpoint, District Secretary Alexander McKay said. The United Mine Workers relief was being distributed as usual and an additional $10,000 had been received from International headquarters.

GEORGIA LINE COACH BELIEVED SUICIDE

ATLANTA, Ga., May 6. — (United News.) — Fay E. Wood, line coach of Georgia Tech's football eleven was found dead in his home Tuesday, his head mutilated by a load of shot.

Police believe he committed suicide. A small shotgun was found nearby. Wood had been in poor health for some time, according to friends.

Wood was a graduate of Notre Dame and came to Georgia Tech eight years ago. Aside from his athletic connection, he was assistant manager of an insurance company here.

ESKIMO SLAYER JAILED FOR YEAR, WILL RETURN TO COPPER SWEETHEART SOON

EDMONTON, Alta., May 6 — (Star Special.) — Ikalupiak, copper Eskimo, who has spent less than a year in the penitentiary for the killing of another Eskimo in the Far North is to be released and sent North. Word has been received here by his counsel J. Boyd McBride to that effect.

The trial was held 2,000 miles north of Edmonton, last summer, by Judge Dubue and the judicial party on the lower deck of a river boat. Ikalupiak was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to five years. Details of the case were laid before the Premier and Hon. Charles Stewart by defense counsel and the action of the Cabinet followed.

Kattiah, the young Eskimo belle, over whom the two men quarrelled is still waiting at Herschel for Ikalupiak's return. When her lover reaches her late this summer in charge of the mounted police, the couple will face a 700 mile journey to the copper Eskimo country.

News of the Eskimo's release is to be broadcast to Northern Stations Saturday night, so Herschel island will get the news some two months sooner than would have been possible in past years.

ASKS OTTAWA TO AID PULP PROJECT

Spanish River Company Wants Pulpwood Supplied to New Mill

OTTAWA, May 6 — (Canadian Press)—Co-operation of the Federal Government to provide sufficient supplies of pulpwood for the enterprise is being sought by the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company who in conjunction with J. D. McArthur have announced their willingness to erect a 200-ton pulp and paper mill in Manitoba. They are willing to pay a price equal to the stumpage of pulpwood to competing mills in Northern and Northwestern Ontario and to leave subsequent prices to be fixed by the Crown.

These concessions are sought, the companies claim, only to ensure the setting of a sufficient supply of pulpwood to keep the mill going for a number of years. The expenditure on the contemplated mill would be about five or six million dollars.

The companies have signified a willingness to operate the pulpwood berth under the direction of the Dominion Forestry Department, to attend to forestation and to assume a fair share of the cost of increased fire protection.

GIRL DISAPPEARS GOING TO CHURCH

Special Police Squad Hunts Germaine Carbonneau, of Quebec

QUEBEC, May 6—(Canadian Press) — Mystery surrounds the disappearance of 19-year-old Germaine Carbonneau, employed in this city, who was last seen on her way to the Dominician church on Sunday morning and Chief of Police Trudel has detailed a special squad of men to look into her dropping from sight so suddenly.

The missing girl, who was born in Bellechasse, but who had been in Quebec for some time, was employed as a servant by a resident on de Salaberry street and Chief Trudel received a complaint from the girl's employer stating that she had left the house on Sunday for mass and had not returned.

A peculiar thing is that the girl had donned her old clothes to attend church, as all her belongings, even to her purse, were in her room when the authorities searched the place.

In addition to her clothes the sole thing she had was a prayer book.

WOMEN'S WORK

SPOKE TO SISTERHOOD ON NATIONS' LEAGUE

Good Reports of Year's Work by Temple Emanu-El Women

An address by Lady Foster on the League of Nations and reports of the seventeenth year of the Temple Emanu-El Sisterhood followed the annual luncheon of the Sisterhood held yesterday afternoon in the lecture hall of the Temple. Mrs. Gustave Fischel presided, and guests at the head table with officers of the Sisterhood were Lady Foster, Mrs. Basil Williams, Mrs. Henry Joseph, and Rabbi M. J. Merritt. About one hundred members and guests were present at the luncheon.

Lady Foster began by outlining the working methods of the League through the Supreme Council, the Assembly, and the Secretariats, and then proceeded to consider some of the accomplishments of the League, and of the International Court of Justice. The speaker mentioned a number of instances in which peace had been maintained between countries whose strained relations with each other had threatened war, and she dwelt especially on what had been done for the rehabilitation of Austria, speaking from personal observation on a visit some three years ago.

Lady Foster spoke at more length on the humanitarian side of the League's work, in the control of epidemics which ravished Eastern Europe in the years after the war; steps taken towards the suppression of traffic in women and children; help given to re-establish destitute refugees; and the internationalization of knowledge through assistance given to universities that had suffered great losses during the war. In regard to the traffic in drugs and narcotics, there had been no settlement as yet. Opposed to the demand that opium should be grown only for scientific and medical purposes was the attitude of India, where in some parts were millions without medical attention who use opium in its native state to alleviate pain. There is to be an opium conference this month, it was stated, at which the question would be discussed in the hope of finding a solution of the problem. Mrs. Julian Shields thanked the speaker, who was presented with a bouquet of pink roses.

Reports of the past year's work of the Sisterhood were given by officers and chairmen of committees. As in the past three years, the Social Service committee, under Mrs. J. D. Kuppenheimer, had concentrated on the University Settlement, where the proportion of Jewish children was 65 per cent. The providing and serving of hot noon-day lunches to under-nourished children had been found very beneficial. Practical assistance and personal service had also been given in the Baby Clinics and Child Welfare work in the same congested district. A new phase of activity was the social service flower fund. The idea was that intending donors instead of sending flowers to friends on anniversaries or special occasions should send the money to the secretary of a fund to be used for social service. Acknowledgment by special card was made by the secretary to both the donor and the person for whom the gift had been intended. The plan, it was stated, had worked well and a considerable sum had been realized. The Sisterhood had given material and moral support to a number of Jewish activities, including the religious school. The close of the seventeenth year evidenced the broadened scope of the organization.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. Joseph Kruger; honorary vice-president, Mrs. Jerome Lewinsohn; president, Mrs. Gustave Fischel (re-elected); first vice-president, Mrs. M. J. Merritt; second vice-president, Mrs. D. Kuppenheimer; treasurer, Mrs. M. Silver; recording secretary, Mrs. J. P. Leves; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. Solomon; board of management, Mrs. Arthur Simon, Mrs. H. B. Davis, Mrs. H. M. Rubinovitch, Mrs. L. Samuelsohn, Mrs. J. A. Dobrofsky, Mrs. D. Cohen, Mrs. Geo. Blumenthal, Mrs. Louis Stein, Mrs. Sol. Vineberg, Mrs. J. A. Roston, Mrs. D. Roskam, Mrs. Max Jacobs, and Miss Ruth Kruger.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS ANGER ASSOCIATION

Owners Should Note All Markings on Their Cars

"The police are doing their best to stop the theft of automobiles in the city," said Chief Belanger this morning, in answer to the directors of the Montreal Trade Automobile Association, Limited, who declared at their last meeting that 77 automobiles have been stolen in Montreal since February, and that the police were not active enough in this matter.

They further complained that the laws against car thieves are not strict enough; and they propose to take steps to get these things remedied.

At the meeting of the Trade Association the question of automobile thefts was discussed at some length, and it was urged that the public be warned to buy cars only from dealers licensed by the Government. It was also urged that the attention of the public should be drawn to the necessity of taking special note of all the engine numbers, marks, etc., on their autos, so that in the case of theft they could be easily traced.

The stolen automobile, it is pointed out, always returns on the market, and any individual who buys such an automobile lays himself open to the loss of the machine and the money he paid for it, if it was purchased from a dealer not licensed by the authorities.

ON ANOTHER CHARGE.

Walter Edward, condemned in Police Court yesterday to one year in jail on a charge of having attempted to steal an automobile, was before the Arraignment Court again this morning. He was found guilty today of having drugs in his possession, and was sentenced by Judge Enright to six months and a fine of $500 or one week more. To-day's sentence will start to run after he completes the term of punishment imposed upon him yesterday.

Have you a room that is dark?

SAVES TIME

THE EXPERT SAYS:—
It's a treat for the decorator to turn those dark rooms that no-one wants to call his or her own into bright spots brimming with sunshine and laughter. Let me suggest 10123, 10160, 10262, 10500 or 05, 10812, 10951, 10144 or any of 10110 series.

EVERY house has one! Some times it's tucked away beneath the eaves, with windows that are small and poorly placed. Sometimes its single window faces a brick wall a scant three feet away. These are the rooms which constitute a problem.

Stauntons show many wallpapers designed for just such rooms. Papers which catch each ray of light, hold it, and reflect it into every corner—papers which defy the shadows.

Stauntons Semi-Trimmed feature is a general favourite. Simply rap the end on the table and the selvage falls off, leaving a neatly trimmed roll.

Ask your dealer to show you a Staunton paper for that dark room.

Paperhangers should write for particulars and name of nearest Staunton dealer. It's easy to satisfy customers with Staunton Semi-Trimmed Wallpaper.

IRISH DIVINE TO BE GUEST HERE

Dr. Bernard, Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, Arrives Saturday

The Most Rev. and Rt. Hon. J. H. Bernard, D.D., Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, will arrive in Montreal Saturday and will be the guest of the Rev. J. Paterson Smyth, Archdeacon of Montreal, for a few days. He comes to Canada as a special representative of the Anglican Communion of the Motherland.

Dr. Bernard was to have been the representative of the Archbishop of Canterbury at the semi-centenary of the Diocese of Niagara. The death of the Rev. W. R. Clark, Bishop of Niagara, however, has upset for the present the plans for the jubilee which has been postponed.

On Monday there will be a ceremony in St. George's Rectory, at which the Dean of Montreal will preside in the abscence of the Bishop, when a group of Montreal churchmen will present an address to the distinguished Irish divine. At one o'clock on the same day he will be entertained at a luncheon given in his honor by McGill University, at which Sir Arthur Currie will preside. Dr. Bernard will preach on Sunday morning at St. George's Parish Church and in the evening at the Cathedral.

For six years, Dr. Bernard has been Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, having resigned his post as Archbishop of Dublin to take over this post. Not only as an educationalist has Dr. Bernard achieved distinction, but also as a theologian. He holds many honorary degrees, and the latest being the conferment upon him of the degress of Doctor of Divinity by the University of Glasgow.

WOMEN'S SERVICES

Members of "The Dumbells Company" at present playing at His Majesty's Theatre, themselves all ex-service men, were hosts to the members of the Montreal Branch of the Ex-Service Women's Club Monday night, to see their new revue "Oh Yes."

The members of the club present represented all the four women services which were attached to the combatant forces during the war. There were Wrens, Waacs, Wrafs and Women's Legion, and a great many were wearing war ribbons, all the old areas in Frence-Rouen, Dieppe, Abbeville and Boulogne—were represented in the Waacs, and they all thoroughly enjoyed being back in the service atmosphere created by Captain Plunkett and his company.

Earlier in the evening the last club reunion dinner of the season had been held at the Queen's Hotel, over which Miss Sutton, O.B.E., the president presided.

At the unveiling of the Empire War Memorial to Women by H.R.H. the Duchess of York, in York Minister on June 24th, the Montreal branch of the Ex-Service Women's Club has been invited to send a representative, and Miss Sutton, who expects to be in England at that time, hopes to make the trip to York.

New Camps—One result of the Jamboree has been the appointment of additional Deputy Camp Chiefs in the Dominions and the establishment of new Training Centres. Camps have already been held in Victoria and New South Wales, and the latter State has been presented with a magnificent site by Mr. V. Roinel and Mr. and Mrs. Danvers Power. Their ever-generous chairman, Mr. Kelso King, has provided the funds for fitting out the camp which was opened by His Excellency the Governor-General. The site contains various useful buildings which will be suitable for club-room, library, Red Cross purposes, stores and offices.

The first camp has also been held in New Zealand, at which Major F. W. Sandford, the veteran Scouter in charge of the New Zealand Jamboree Contingent, assisted, and which we are told was in every way successful. The site, known as Sandwell Camp, closely resembles Gillwell Park itself.

Scouts In New Zealand—New Zealand is suffering a serious loss in the departure of Lord Jellicoe, but they have been fortunate in obtaining in their new Governor-General, Sir Charles Fergusson, one who is equally interested in our movement.

At a farewell Jamboree given by the Scouts to Lord Jellicoe we are told of an amusing incident in which the Hon. George Jellicoe, aged 6½, was concerned. Although, of course, not of Wolf Cub age, he was at heart a Wolf Cub, and on sighting the Hutt Wolf Cubs marching past, headed by a fearful and wonderful Totem Pole, he made an escape and attached himself to this Pack.

In a short time his absence was noticed and he was discovered by some Scouts. It was artfully suggested to His Excellency that, should he find time to inspect the Hutt Wolf Cubs, the honor would be very gratefully appreciated. The inspection took place, and there, in proud possession of the Totem Pole and bursting with pride and dignity, stood the Hon. George.

"And who may this be? Surely I have seen that face before," said the Governor-General to the Totem bearer.

But the bearer only saluted gravely with two fingers, and spoke no word of recognition.

"I thought I knew him," said His Excellency. "It must have been a mistake!" And so he passed on—and the Hon. George never even winced at the parting!

THANK PREMIER.

At the first meeting of the new Council of Ville Lasalle, held last evening, a vote of thanks was unanimously adopted in favor of Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Premier of the Province, for his support of the amendments to the Municipal Act which gave this corporation more equitable representation in the Council.

CHAMBRE DE COMMERCE

The general meeting of the Chambre de Commerce will be held tomorrow afternoon as usual at four in the afternoon, where discussion of several projects will take place. A demonstration of the automatic phone will be given by the Bell Telephone Company.

GIRL GUIDE NEWS

GUIDE RALLY SATURDAY.

Tomorrow night the rehearsal for Saturday's Rally will be held in the Arena. Headquarters are anxious to get results of the ticket sales from the various companies. Further particulars as to the Rally will be given in this column on Saturday.

27th Montreal Company's Concert.—The Strathcona Hall was filled with parents and friends of the guides to hear the 3rd annual concert of the company. The District Commissioner, Miss Helen Ogilvie, was the chairman of the evening and made an interesting speech outlining the aims of the Guide Movement. District Capt. Miss K. Montague, was also present. Every item on the program was given by guides of the company and the varied program went through without a hitch.

The opening number with the entire company on the stage was very well done. Ranger Annie Shapiro gave several recitations and was encored. Guide Sylvia Rothchild danced delightfully. The numbers illustrating the Guide work included signalling, ambulance, physical exercises and games, all of which were carried out smartly.

Two members of the Brownie Patrol distinguished themselves by being encored. They were Edith Giles, who sang and Francis Shapiro, who recited.

The two outstanding numbers on the program were the play and schooldays, both given in the second half of the program. The play was well acted and brought out the value of Guiding in a very telling way. In Schooldays the audience simply roared at the witty sallies of the school children, boys and girls whose costumes excited admiration among the younger members of the audience. This playlet was well staged and all taking part made good and received the well-merited encore at the end.

In the Song Tableau several old favorites among the songs of yesterday were sung in costume by the Guides. The idea was original and some of the tableaus were loudly applauded.

It is impossible to mention those who took part in these numbers, but the work of all was good and the concert, its arrangement and carrying out reflects great credit on Captain L. Salzedo, who is the officer commanding and the only warrant officer over this company of over forty Guides. Flowers were presented to Mrs. Giles, who helped to arrange the concert and to Captain Salzedo by the Guides of the company. The concluding number with the Camp Fire Ceremony was very impressive, showing how real the spirit of Guiding is to the Girl Guide.

Our Uniform.—It was only the other day I heard a Guide exclaim, "I don't see the good of our uniform except for Guide meetings. I think it's silly!"

Leaders, do you know what our uniform really does mean to us? It is not given us only to wear for our club meetings, church parades, or any other Guide functions. It is a distinguishing mark to show that we all belong to one great Sisterhood, from one end of the world to the other, and are ready to give a helping hand to any who may need it.

It is the duty of every Guide to keep her uniform smart, for if she is seen untidy and heard talking loudly, thereby attracting other peoples' attention, it goes against the whole movement, and it gives people a wrong impression of guiding altogether. So Leaders, do not fail to explain to your patrols, and see that every Guide does understand what our uniform really does mean.

SWISS SETTLERS

Few Families Going to Model Settlement Out West

Dr. C. P. Huebscher, former Swiss consul-general for Canada, and now acting for the Department of Colonization and Development, Canadian Pacific Railway, has returned from Switzerland. A group of Swiss farm laborers, carefully selected and well-fitted to do the work they will be asked to perform, came out on the Minnedosa last Saturday, he stated, and a second group is expected on the Melita.

Among these will be a few families en route to the model Swiss settlement, which is established at Coaldale in the Lethbridge district and which is known as the Van Horne Settlement. There they will be placed on farms of 160 acres, with houses, barns, water supply, and with excellent school facilities. A concert hall is already erected, and a cheese factory is about to be built. Mixed farming will be followed.

SAILORS ENJOY CONCERT.

An audience consisting of seamen from the ships in port, and many friends enjoyed the weekly concert at the Sailors' Institute last night. Those from the city who helped in the entertainment included Mrs. Alfred Gardner, Mrs. William McKean, Bert Mason, and P. Lunny.

The talent from the ships consisted of songs by James Smith of the Marloch; Fred. Parkinson of the Montclare, Griffiths and O'Brien, from the Regina, and Leslie Metcalf of the Antonia. The comedian of the evening was H. Lawday of the Antonia, Edward Burgess, of the Marloch, danced and the pipes and drum band of the Donaldson Line Letitia furnished music. Accompaniment to the various numbers was furnished by Miss Carrie Fredericks.

THE PROGRESSIVE SPLIT.

THE Progressives are having their internal troubles at Ottawa, as all new and inexperienced political organizations are bound to have. Such improvised political parties lack the restraining force of tradition which does so much to keep the rank-and-file of the older parties in step. They have no natural discipline, such as is imposed by the pressure of the closely-knit party organizations throughout the whole nation on their long-established rivals. So a clever manœuvre, like that contained in the Premier's threat to dissolve in his closing speech on the Budget, is quite likely to split their loosely linked ranks—just as the Liberals of Toronto adroitly induced Premier Drury to commit political suicide by getting him to swallow their "broadening out" program.

But the political prophets will make a serious mistake if they imagine that any internal trouble of this character will permanently remove from the Canadian political problem the feelings and the issues which gave rise to Progressivism. A party in power may exercise a malevolent magnetism which will lure individual representatives of that party to their ruin; and a leader—not very firmly in the saddle—may not be able to read the Riot Act effectively to rebellious "followers." But the fundamental spirit which gave birth to the party will still exist, and will register itself at the polls.

To those who are anxious lest the more stable interests of the country in the East may be sacrificed to the impatience, the sectionalism and the lack of knowledge of anything save agriculture in the West, it will make little difference whether the anti-Protectionist from Saskatchewan is called a "Progressive" or a "Liberal"—or, for that matter, a "Conservative." It is his opinions that count; and his opinions will in the long run be those of his constituents.

What the East must do is to find a formula that will enable the West to co-operate with us of the East in keeping our industries going, our railways on a paying basis and our trade and commerce moving. To do this, we must meet the proper and well-founded grievances of the West wherever it is at all possible. Today, the East has a large majority in Parliament. If it unites—as it may have to unite for self-protection—it can get its way. But it would be a capital mistake for the East, just because it has a comfortable majority, to deny to the West whatever can be granted without scuttling the national ship.

The men of the West—when free from fear of their often prejudiced and little informed constituents at home—are usually quite ready to admit that our whole industrial system cannot now be torn up by roots without imperilling the existence of the nation. They are ready to admit that our west-and-east railway systems must be maintained. There seems to be no reason why a workable compromise cannot be reached between the two sections of the country. It would be reached if three men from the West and three men from the East had plenary powers to act for their respective sections.

One of the advantages of an unlimited franchise is that the least intelligent section of the community usually fixes the pace of the whole.

NO STREET CARS ON MOUNT ROYAL.

THERE should be no delay in scotching the proposal made by the City Engineer, Mr. H. A. Tetrault, to revive consideration of the plan to build a street car line up the eastern slope of Mount Royal. This idea was first mooted several years ago. The proposed line would start at the corner of Mount Royal and Park Avenue and wind up the north side of the eastern slope of the Mountain in a serpentine form. It was abandoned when first suggested on the ground that it would be too dangerous to operate. The Chief Engineer admits that it might be necessary to tunnel through a cliff at the top of the grade.

Under no circumstances should such a project be entertained. This line, if made, would cut right across a part of the park which is at present available for the public and easy of access, and there is all too little of such space around Mount Royal as things are. The danger of operation is certainly no less today than is was when the plan was first submitted to the city. If anything, it is greater. Wherever a street car track runs across land used by children, danger is ever-present and ever-menacing.

The plea that the line would not mar the beauty of the park is a weak one. Any line that cuts into the present park territory affects its beauty. Even a practical landscape artist would not advance such a ludicrous argument as that a car line enhances the charm of a natural park. Mount Royal was created for the use of the people of Montreal, not as a revenue-producer for street cars. The great bulk of the citizens do not want any street cars on the Mountain, and the City Council is supposed to represent the citizens.

The proper course to pursue—a course that ought to have been pursued years ago, and that would have been followed but for incompetent civic administration—is to revive the elevator service. New elevators should be procured without delay and the system set in operation in ample time for the summer. If the demand for accommodation up the Mountain may be gauged by the past, then an elevator service will meet all requirements for many years to come. Why a street car line should be built up the eastern slope of the Mountain just because it would connect with the existing line on Shakespeare Road is beyond comprehension.

THE HUDSON BAY AGAIN.

IT is nearly forty years ago since a paternal Government gave the little urchins from the West who had "just come to live in our street" a brand new toy to play with. Ordinary fathers give their offspring presents at Christmas and on birthdays, but politicians with more selfish motives always time their choicest gifts to appear within a few weeks of a general election. So the politicians of the day—the genus has not modified its characteristics in the forty intervening years—promised the young Westerners, who were already beginning to be a power in the gang, a toy railway of their own to play with. Miss Vancouver had the C. P. R. and John Maritime the Intercolonial, so why should not the lusty youngsters from Manitoba and the North-West Territories have their own line, properly equipped with rails, ties, signal boxes, engines and real cars. What did it matter if it went from the Prairie to the Great Beyond. It looked very pretty in the box and it wouldn't hurt anyone.

The West has stuck to that old road like grim death, until today the Hudson Bay route is not merely a railway in the eyes of ninety per cent of them—it is a religion. The Hudson Bay Railway is the trump card at every grain growers' local in the West; it is as certain to rouse the audience—under the emotion of commercialism rather than sentiment—as surely as does the name of Laurier start the hand-clapping in this province.

Government succeeded Government and the lusty boys to whom the plaything had first been given became grown men. They no longer asked for favors—they demanded them. More than this, they let themselves be heard in no uncertain voice when the Government was handing round presents (just before election times) and they criticized the gifts that were made to other older members of the family. "Why should Miss Quebec's present cost more than mine, or why should Master Ontario have something that is priced higher?"

Now political promises are often forgotten after the votes are tallied so the cunning political strategist takes care to change his promises at every election. Unfortunately for Ottawa, the West has never allowed the party in power to forget its original pledge. The members from that region make a concerted drive year by year on the Government for more money to be spent on the Hudson Bay Road. Up to the present the sum of twenty-two millions and up has been lavished on the project. Today it would require anything from seven to twelve millions to build the remaining ninety miles and put the line in working order. Even then there is a school of Westerners led by Mr. Motherwell which believes that the Port of Nelson should be abandoned and Churchill used as the terminus.

Royal Commissions and survey parties have traversed the country alone, in pairs and in platoons. There is enough evidence in the archives at Ottawa to show that the Straits are navigable for three days, for three weeks, for three months, or for any specified period that fancy dictates. There are files of statistics to show that within three months, or six months, or six years, or sixty years, enough ore would be shipped from north of Le Pas to make the line a going concern. There are Boards of Trade in Saskatchewan and Manitoba who can show conclusively that the salvation of Canada lies in spending another round ten millions on this route. On the other hand, there is evidence that the route will never pay, that the scheme is chimerical and the prize political football of a country surfeited with "party."

As the showman said, "You pays your money and you takes your choice," according to your political predilections. Mr. Lovie, of Macdonald, Manitoba, even sees the finger of Divine Providence in the site and "cannot think that Hudson Bay could have been put into the North American Continent for nothing."

With an election looming on the horizon there is a danger that the politicians will be forced against their better judgment to give way to the popular clamor. To do so will be a shameful betrayal of the interests of this Dominion. To pour another five or ten millions of the taxpayers' money into the project in order to swing a few more votes to one political party or the other would be a crime.

Speakers in the House of Commons in bursts of rhetoric spoke of this line as the challenge of the Northland. That is a misnomer. The challenge is issued by the politicians and the gage is thrown down to every ratepayer in this Dominion. The stakes are the richest that this country has ever played for, with sectional hatreds the prize and bankruptcy the consolation of defeat.

Affairs succeed by patience, and he that is hasty falleth headlong.—Sadi.

The British Credit in America.

Providence Journal: It is significant that this aid is given through the medium of Great Britain, whose record in meeting squarely and honorably the immense financial burdens of the post-war period increases the desire we have had for a long time to work together with her in directing the future of international finance.

Landless Men and Manless Lands.

London Evening Standard: We are still confronted with the two main facts that perplexed the 'forties—on the one hand, a crowded island in which health, good character, and the knowledge of a trade will not necessarily secure a man work; on the other, a great outer Empire whose full development is hindered by a shortage of suitable human material.

Work and Play.

Westminster Gazette: What the new world has still to learn from the old is that relaxation is the real test of civilization. A great Englishman complained some years ago that the Americans no longer know what to do with their leisure. There is a tendency to distort the spirit of play by turning games into a lucrative profession which has become simply another form of spectacular entertainment for a public that never thinks of playing games itself.

Swat the Fly.

Louisville Courier Journal: An ornithologist recently, in no spirit of levity, made a statement that human life would disappear after five years if the untold myriads of insects were not kept down by their enemies, the birds. Great businesses thrive on fighting insects, and no year passes unless some new problem is brought to light. Bugs attack not only the animate, but the inanimate necessities of life and cause losses to forest, field and home.

Subsidized Ships.

New York Times: Chairman O'Connor (of the U. S. Shipping Board) declares that the higher cost of operating American ships will be a fatal handicap to them unless they have an assurance of aid from the Government. But they have already had enormous aid from it, in the shape of buying ships from the Government at from one-sixth to one-fifth of their actual cost. If with such a reduced overhead they cannot enter successfully into foreign commerce, they had better keep out of it. After inefficiency has gone to a certain length, not even a bonus will avail to save it from the inevitable consequences.

The Singapore Base.

Singapore Free Press: Britain must have a Navy; if that Navy is to be effective it must have fuelling, supplies, opportunities for replacing stores, and refitment in case of injury. All that the Singapore Base will do is to provide these for the Navy. If we are going to have an instrument to preserve peace, the least we can do is to make it effective. As to Singapore being a "perfect sitter" for æroplane attacks, we have yet to meet with a town on or near the shores of the sea that can skip about from place to place to escape attack by aeroplane—or indeed any town anywhere.

The British Budget.

Baltimore Sun: The new British Budget takes into full account the scheduled payments of $166,000,000 of war debt to this country this year. It does not rely on a single cent of debt repayment, principle or interest, to Great Britain by her war debtors. A nation which can run its finances like that, paying its way, meeting all debts scrupulously, restoring the gold standard by natural means, is one which will retain the highest admiration of the business world. The struggle of the British people from the valley of the war is not the least remarkable and heroic incident of their long history.

The All-Blacks' Homecoming.

The Dominion (Wellington, N.Z.): There is no doubt that they have been most effective missioners of Empire and that their contact with their kinsfolk in Britain has done not a little to intensify the sympathy and understanding on which the Empire must depend for its strength and unity as time goes on. In Canada, as in the Mother Country, the visit of the All Blacks was hailed as the occasion of a family reunion. In the words of one Canadian writer, our representatives were welcomed as "our own people"—members of one great family, linked in a world-wide union of British loyalty and British allegiance.

Patriotism or Popularity.

Holford Knight, in the Fortnightly Review (London): Our public business has suffered from the participation of men, otherwise admirable, who feared to brook popular disapproval by the statement of unpalatable facts. The whole course of the Peace has been vitiated by this lack of moral courage. The public have been told fair words which they have come to suspect, and a growing want of confidence in public representation is the result. But the British people have always appreciated in the long run the sincere words of public advisers who have the courage to face unpleasant truths.

Racialism in South Africa.

Johannesburg Sunday Times: Everyone knows that General Botha, and, after him, General Smuts, suppressed racialism in South Africa until it had almost ceased to exist. Who has fanned it into flame again? Certainly not General Smuts, who now leads a party composed of the progressives of both races, which depends for its very existence upon the moderation that is only possible where racialism is an issue definitely abandoned. The Pact, with equal opportunities to hasten the end of racialism, has preferred to revive it, and now pretends to be inexpressibly pained when the Opposition, most reluctantly, is forced to mention the word and to protest against the policy that makes its use necessary.

Arcady.

I was lost in Arcady
  Upon a distant day,
When all the world was witchery
  Within the spell of May,
When magic joy and mystery
  Thrilled from each lilac spray.

I saw a dryad dancing
  As blithesome as the breeze;
"Heigh-ho, for mad romancing!"
  She sang from 'mid the trees,
And, oh, her eyes were glancing
  Like sunshine on the leas!

I quickly hastened after
  Into the shadows sweet,
The while her lyric laughter
  Was music for my feet;
I followed her glad laughter
  Into her far retreat.

Upon the grasses lying,
  She hid me in her hair;
Her breath came like the sighing
  Of twilight on the air;
And, while the day was dying,
  I found my heaven there.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A great many interesting letters received by the Editor of The Star are too long for publication. Our correspondents would do well to study brevity.

NO SECESSION TALK WANTED

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star;

Sir,—As a disabled, returned man, who left many comrades "In Flanders' Fields," it makes my blood boil with rage to see the apathy with which the Canadian people regard the treacherous hissing of seccession. What would be the feelings of our dead comrades were they back in Canada, hearing the viper hiss of the traitor steadily increasing in volume — without a protest from the Government? In European countries the offenders would be behind the bars in no time; in many places they would be shot. The "Mounties" should be given definite orders to arrest those who advocate pulling down the flag. The subject should not be allowed to be mentioned at all. Secession is beyond the pale of possibility and should be dropped into oblivion forever.

OLD PATRICIA.

WHY WE SHOULD HONOR MEMORY OF MAISONNEUVE

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir,—The recent letter of Mr. E. C. Woodley in your columns, where he proposes the observance of May 18 as Maisonneuve Day, being the 283rd anniversary of the foundation of Montreal by Paul de Chomedey de Maisonneuve, cannot but meet with universal commendation. Such a day, whether we call it "Maisonneuve Day" or "Montreal Day," should be annually celebrated on May 18. A beginning has already been made by our French-speaking friends, for they annually decorate Maisonneuve's statue in Place D'Armes, and I have seen groups of pilgrims visiting the historical spots in Old Montreal on that day. Such a day should be for all, for all rejoice that it was Maisonneuve who founded our great and prosperous city. His was a character all can admire, a knightly man who sacrificed himself for the colony, watching over it as an able administrator, a just judge, and a father to all. He came to found Ville Marie, not to make his fortune, but to help on the great cause of the civilization of the Indians. All his contemporaries looked upon him as a disinterested and a loveable man.

To honor such a founder is to elevate ourselves and to affirm our respect for civic virtue of the highest order. Paul Chomedey de Maisonneuve, our first Governor of Montreal, can be taken as a pattern and an ideal for public men seeking public service for the public weal. His goal was not material success or self-aggrandizement. He had twenty-three years of office, during the perilous days of constant Iroquois attack, and during which he devoted his patrimonial fortune to the infant city, for his remuneration from the company of Montreal was very small. He could have enriched himself by engaging in the peltry trade, or securing commissions thereby, but he retired to Paris in 1665, a worn-out and a poor man, unrecognized, dying in obscurity, and in debt for the unpaid services of his faithful servant, Louis Frins, who had followed him from Ville Marie, overseas. But Maisonneuve has recognition now! His statue on Place D'Armes—erected in 1895—has secured that!

Certainly, let us have a Maisonneuve or a Montreal Day and honor the founder and the first associates of the "foolhardy enterprise,"—as the attempt to form the first settlement here was called.

May I add that May 18 this year comes within the "clean-up week" campaign. We have chosen the slogan, "Keep Montreal the cleanest city in Canada." May not our civic pride be stimulated during that week by a remembrance of the noble and pure ideals of those who founded Ville Marie, a determination to be proud in word and in deed of our own Montreal, now become one of the great cities of the world—the mustard seed which became a great tree!

LINCOLN AND PROHIBITION.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir,—A few days ago there came into my hands "Current Events" for April 19, 1925. On one of its pages we are told that it is published in Montreal, "purely for the benefit and in the interests of the stranger within our gates." On page 22, we find the following statement: "Even if promoted by prohibitionists whose sincerity of purpose cannot be questioned, any agitation aiming at federal prohibition will be highly resented by the Province of Quebec." "(In order to better resist such an unwarranted attempt, all should keep well in mind the statement of Abraham Lincoln in the prohibition controversy of 1840: —'Prohibition will work great injury to the cause of temperance. It is a species of intemperance within itself, for it goes beyond the bounds of reason in that it attempts to control a man's appetite by legislation, and makes a crime out of things that are not crimes. A prohibition law strikes a blow at the very principles on which our Government was founded.')"

Having read much about Abraham Lincoln, we were much surprised at this claim to quote a definite statement from him asserting his opposition to prohibition. This led to a careful examination of his biography and many other volumes. In "The Cyclopedia of Temperance," 1917, edition, Dr. Deets Pickett, the careful editor, after completely investigating the assertion that Lincoln uttered such anti-prohibition statements, declares that "it is absolutely without foundation." He continues: "The statement never came to light until a local option election in Atlanta, Ga., long after the war, when it was used to influence the negro vote. Various liquor men of prominence, including Mr. Tom Gilmore, of the National Model License League, have admitted that there is no record of Mr. Lincoln's having made this statement, and Nicolay and Hay, his great biographers, have pronounced it spurious."

That this quotation is spurious has often been charged, but the opponents of prohibition have never been able to produce any evidence as to when or where Lincoln uttered such a statement. Without doubt it was made out of "whole cloth." The real attitude of Abraham Lincoln towards the beverage use of intoxicating liquor is revealed in his address at Springfield, Ill., U.S.A., on February 22, 1842, when he said: "Turn now to the temperance revolution. In it we shall find a stronger bondage broken; a viler slavery manumitted; a greater tyrant deposed. In it more of want supplied, more disease healed, more sorrow assuaged. By it no orphans starving, no widows weeping. By it none wounded in feeling, none injured in interest. Even the dram-maker and the dram-seller will have glided into other occupations so gradually as never to have felt the shock of change; and will stand ready to join all others in the universal song of gladness." Many quotations could be given and many incidents related which would show that Lincoln was unfalteringly opposed to the beverage use of intoxicating liquor.

THE PASSING HOUR

"George, dear, if you marry me people will think you did it for my money." "What do I care what the people say?" "Yes, dear, but to keep you from getting a bad name, I have given all my fortune to the missionaries. Why, George, where are you going?" "Oh, to be a missionary," was the sad reply.

The turtle was somewhat unsteady
As he found himself caught in an eddy;
He mused, "Though I hurtle,
I can hardly turn turtle,
Because I'm a turtle already."

A cynic was recently asked why a woman next to getting married herself loves to see another woman married. He replied: "Because it increases her chance by one."

It was in a breach of promise case, and the rustic defendant was under cross-examination.

"Now tell me please," said the counsel, sternly, "on the evening of the 16th when you bade her good-bye, did she suffer you to kiss her?"

"Well," said the witness, slowly, "I reckon now I did give her a kiss or two; but there worn't much sufferin' about it as I could see—she rather liked 'em!"

And even the learned judge condescended to smile.

The heckler was persistent, and the speaker saw that he must suppress him. Turning to the interrupter, he suddenly asked:—

"Are you vaccinated?"

"I am," was the reply

"Then I am afraid the doctor must have scratched you with a gramaphone needle when he was doing it," shouted the candidate.

A western governor had lost one of his colonels, and there was an unseemly scramble for the office, despite the fact that the colonel's body was awaiting burial. One of the ambitious candidates went so far as to call upon the executive and ask: "Governor, have you any objections to my taking Colonel Smith's place?"

"No," the governor replied complacently. "I have no objections if the undertaker is willing."

Phyllis—"Has he proposed, then?" Gwendolin "Oh, not yet, dear! But his voice had such an engagement ring in it last night."

"You've heard what the last witness said," persisted the counsel, "and yet your evidence is to the contrary. Am I to infer that you doubt her veracity?"

The polite young man waved a deprecating hand.

"Not at all," he replied. "I merely wish to make it clear what a liar I am if she's speaking the truth."

Bill—"That fellow held a good poker hand last night." Frank—"You couldn't beat it and had to pay up, eh?" Bill—No; it was the other way. I couldn't pay up and had to beat it."

There are bright moments in the life of a Battersea schoolmaster. At a recent examination in General Knowledge a pupil defined a volcano as follows: "A mountain with a hole in the top, and if you look down the hole you can see the creator smoking." Another child, when asked why the days are longer in Summer than Winter, explained it by the fact that heat expanded everything.

PROTECTION SANS OBSTRUCTION

An old New York farmer attended a big picnic at Binghampton and stayed over to watch the dancing at night, says Trollicar Topics. He hadn't been out in the world much, and he was deeply impressed with the girls' clothes at that dance.

"Some of the ladies' clothes I see here," he said "puts me in mind of a barbwire fence."

Somebody asked him why.

"Well," said he, "it's this way—they appear to protect the property without obstructin' the view."

At a school inspection the children were asked if there was a text in the Bible forbidding a man to have two wives.

Silence reigned. At last a little girl held up her hand.

"Well, my child; which is it?"

"Please sir, 'No man can serve two masters'."

Love and a Cottage—Creeper creeping round the front door and creditors creeping round the back.

There are more humorous stories told about the play of "Hamlet" than any other stage work. This little yarn concerns a certain bombastic actor who essayed the part of the tragic Dane with so little success that the gallery showered its time-honored verdict upon the actor in the form of eggs. Going home after the performance, two dramatic critics were chatting. One said, "Well, in all my experience I never saw a worse show." "True," remarked the other; "he was a rotten 'Hamlet,' but a perfectly wonderful 'Omelette'."

"Love," says Don Marquis, "is always the bright picture on the front cover of the seed catalogue. Marriage is too often the way the garden really looks in August."

"They asked me to their reception, but it wasn't because they liked me; it was only because I can sing." "Oh, I'm sure you're mistaken!"

Hub—Why so pensive, my dear?
Wife—I'm thinking what I shall get in the way of summer clothes.
Hub—I see. After being pensive a while you are going to become expensive.

"Come, now," said the teacher, "Tommy, will you point out Australia to the class?"

Tommy did so.

"Who discovered Australia, Georgie?" asked the teacher.

"Tommy did," was the reply.

Among the prisoners arraigned before the Court was an Irishman. "Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked the judge in a stern voice. "Faith, an' it's yer Honor's business to decide that," replied Pat.

Doctor—But, madam, a woman of your age can't expect to grow younger!

Patient—I'm not asking that, doctor. All I want you to do is to keep me from growing older a little bit longer.

Black—"My wife never asks me where I go." White—"You don't say so!" Black—"Yes; she's always with me to see for herself!"

Mother (to much battered son)—So you've been fighting again! Didn't you stop and spell your names, as I told you?

Son—Y-yes, we did—my name's Marmaduke Algernon, and his is Jim.

"Supposing I were to scold you because the coffee was cold?" "I would make it hot for you, dear!"

MONTHLY INCOME UPHELD BY COURT

A clause in the will of the late George Wray, of this city, bequeathing $50 per month for two years, to Henry Pink, his former manager, was upheld by Mr. Justice Archer in the Superior Court yesterday. The first payment was to be made one year after the testator's death and was to continue month by month, but no payment was to be made to Pink, if, through such payment, the annual income provided for his sister, a Mrs. Keith, fell below $2,500. Mr. Justice Archer pointed out that the revenues of the estate for the first three years following the death of Mr. Wray were insufficient to pay Mrs. Keith's income and also the monthly stipend to Pink. Since 1920, however, the court held that the revenues were sufficient, and he gave judgment against the estate for $1,200 with interest and costs.

TO CELEBRATE ITS 75TH ANNIVERSARY

The first three days will be devoted to visiting the points of interest, and on the fourth, grand high mass will be celebrated in the St. Jean Baptiste Church, conducted by the Fathers of the Blessed Sacrament.

The final days will be devoted to meetings, and will close with a banquet at the Majestic Hotel.

EMPLOYMENT IS IMPROVING HERE

Provincial Bureau Reports Conditions Better Than Last Year

The demand for labor is steadily increasing in Montreal, according to J. Ainey, superintendent of the Provincial Employment Bureau. Last April the number of applications for work was much less than in the same month of 1924. On the other hand in proportion to other figures, the number of situations found through the bureau showed an increase.

In 1923 there were 1,780 registrations, 407 situations open, 387 workers sent by the bureau to employers, and 308 workers actually engaged.

In 1924, 1,790 workers applied, 411 vacancies were registered, 455 workers were sent to employers, and 358 were engaged.

In 1925 there were 1,715 applicants, 390 vacancies, 399 workers sent to employers and 329 of them engaged.

MANY UNSKILLED.

One of the causes of unemployment today Mr. Ainey declares, is the fact that so few working men take the trouble to learn a handicraft. There is a considerable amount of unskilled labor on the market. He also points out that the development of modern industry is causing once prosperous handicrafts to disappear.

The reduction of woodwork in modern buildings, with the increase in concrete construction, for instance, has reduced the amount of work available for carpenters. Consultation with the heads of labor unions, and with refuges which house out-of-works when the latter are in dire need, brought further evidence that the unemployment situation is steadily improving.

DEATH OF W. YUILE ENDS BUSY CAREER

Was a Founder of Original Diamond Glass Company Here

Willitm Yulle, merchant, died at his residence, 89 Redpath street, Tuesday afternoon, in his 81st year. He had only been ill for a few days and his death was quite unexpected.

The late Mr. Yulle was born in Glasgow in 1844, and came to Canada with his parents while a boy. He settled at Ingersoll and went to school there. He then came to Montreal and went into business with his uncle, the late John Watson. He organized the Dominion Diamond Flint Glass Company with his brother. This concern has been reorganized and is now known as the Dominion Glass Company.

He was a life-long member of the Erskine Presbyterian Church.

He retired from active business 30 years ago, but remained on the directorate of several companies. He was also interested in the Montreal General Hospital and was a generous helper of the Protestant House of Refuge.

Although he played little he was a member of the Royal Montreal Golf Club.

He is survived by his widow and three sons, M. N. Yulle, H. Yulle and J. W. Yulle.

Funeral arrangements have not been yet made.

STUDY MOUNTAIN TRAM LINE AGAIN

Gradual Grades from Park and Mt. Royal Avenues, is Plan

Although no definite plans have been adopted by the city engineers for a better means of access to the mountain top, H. A. Terreault, chief city engineer, has stated that he is studying a tram line on the north-eastern slope of the mountain.

This proposition had been abandoned shortly after being advanced on the grounds that it would be too dangerous. However the chief engineer thinks that tram service would be more efficient than elevators and is reviving the plans for the tram line.

The present scheme is to ascertain if a sequence of mild grades can be found to effect the ascent and it is thought this may be discovered. The tentative route is from the corner of Park and Mount Royal avenues, along the north east slope of the mountain, and up to the high levels. To make the last grade it might be necessary to tunnel through one of the prominences that mark the back of the mountain.

This line would have the advantage of being able to handle heavy traffic, would connect with the Shakespeare Road line and would not disfigure the beauty of the park in any way.

NARROW ESCAPE

Sleeping Family Menaced by Escaping Gas

Awakened by a choking sensation and an overpowering smell of gas, shortly after 4:30 this morning, R. Burt, aged 50, of 1230 Cadieux street found his home full of fumes coming from a broken connection adjoining the gas meter. Half smothered he managed to open a window, and after a few gasps of fresh air, summoned neighbors to his aid and roused his sleeping family, including his wife, aged 48, daughter Sarah, aged 20, and two sons, Sam and J. Burt, aged 14 and 11 respectively.

Police Station No. 12 was notified, and Lieut. Corbett and two constables went to investigate. Dr. Leo I. Rutenberg, of 95 Pine avenue east, was summoned and gave medical aid to the victims who are still under treatment at their home.

The house was undergoing repairs, and examination revealed that a heavy piece of plaster had fallen from the ceiling onto a gas-pipe, breaking a joint.

JUDGE MAY HOLD TRIAL IN PRISON

Lorenso Latore, Accused of Manslaughter, Victim of Police Bullet

Lorenso Latore, charged with manslaughter following the death of Guiseppe Delicato, whom he is alleged to have struck in the course of a drunken brawl, nearly eight months ago, will come up for preliminary investigation Thursday before Judge Enright. Police state Latore was found drinking with companions in a dive, and when about to be caught, started to run away from the detectives. When he refused to stop Detective Brooks said he fired a shot at him. The shot took effect, and Latore had to be conveyed, seriously wounded, to the hospital.

He remained in the Montreal General Hospital, hovering between life and death up to last Friday, when he was conveyed on a stretcher to Bordeaux. His preliminary enquete is fixed for tomorrow, at the Court House. It was reported today that Latore will not be well enough to stand the trip from Bordeaux, and that Judge Enright will be asked to hold the Enquete at the jail.

HIGHLANDERS BUSY

Parade, Drills and Practical Work on Militia Program

A busy period of parades and drills confronts the Royal Highlanders of Canada. Both the first and second battalions will parade for a marchour and drill Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock and next Monday they will parade for a similar purpose at the same hour. Then will follow night tactical exercises on Mount Royal on Thursday evening, May 14, with the idea of imparting valuable lessons to the younger members. Both the pipe and brass bands will attend all the parades, so there will be no lack of music while marching through the streets. Dress will be drill order.

"D" Company, first battalion, will hold a social and dance on Friday evening.

BROKEN HEARTED MARY.

Try to see the boy and ask him face to face what is the matter.

GLEANINGS.

(Culled by Grandpa.)

A woman's greatest power is her womanliness.

You cannot make a good church member out of a quarrelsome saint.

According to your devotion, so will home become like heaven.

We are often considered old fogies if we preach old-fashioned virtues.

Women show a weakness when they imitate men's vices.

Oh, what a joy to be young, happy, and pure in mind and thought.

One is often deemed a "meddler" when he warns youth of danger. But he is not. He is your real friend.

He's a brave chap who refuses to follow the crowd—when his better nature hesitates.

All difficulties become light as determination becomes strong.

A woman's greatest joy is in her good name. Oh, "kids," prize it as your greatest blessing.

One of her greatest dangers is in the honeyed—too often lying—words of her flattering friends (?).

We are often counted a "slacker" or "one-sided" if we will not argue over non-essentials.

Any one who tempts a boy to sin is a traitor to his country.

It's a pity we can't punish some parents instead of their boys.

We are getting so busy hunting heretics we are forgetting to worship God.

Never forget: "Earth has no sorrow that Heaven cannot heal."

BELIEVES IN KISSING.

At the beginning of the war, I was considered very popular and had lots of nice boy friends, most of them used to want to kiss me good night, but I was a very determined little lassie and wouldn't let one of them do it. Quite a lot of the poor fellows went overseas, and I was so mean, stingy and small, that I even refused to kiss them good bye when they sailed away. The result was that some of them found girls over there that were more generous than I was, and they brought home brides with them. Other poor chaps went over the top, and I have often since regretted that I didn't grant them their last request. The years have gone by and I find that I am all alone, and I'd give the world to have some of them now ask me to kiss them. The only ones who I can get to kiss me now are little children. They never refuse. Life would indeed be wonderful, if we had the confidence in human nature, that a child has.

Now girls, don't be stingy with your kisses. If you know a nice good fellow for some time don't refuse him, if he asks you to kiss him. I am afraid I'll be in wrong with Miss Currie, but I can't help expressing the feelings of

ALL ALONE.

TIPPING.

A letter appeared in your page recently about tipping waitresses. Why should they expect any to tip them? I work in an office all day and sometimes have to do a thing over two or three times through no fault of mine. The boss changes his mind as to how he wants it done, sometimes I have to work till 7 or 8 p.m. at night. Do I get a tip for this? I should say not, perhaps lose my job if I refused. I only make a small salary, and although I live at home I have a lot of obligations to meet. I divide my salary every week so as to have a certain amount to pay for my lunches. If I give a waitress ten or fifteen cents for a tip, it means that I must go without something on the menu, in other words starve myself. A waitress is always sure of her own three good square meals, and a salary besides. Think of it! One of them to whom I was in the habit of giving a tip once in a while told me that she made from twenty-five to thirty dollars per week.

It is about time that someone started an investigation in the "hold-ups" in hairdressing parlors. Imagine paying $1.25 to have your hair waved which only takes a half hour, then they wanting twenty-five cents tip on top of that. If an employer can charge $1.25 from a customer, surely he can pay his help enough not to expect them to keep his staff as well. It is allright to say don't patronize them, but it is almost a necessity with bobbed hair, so why hold a gun to the public.

ANTI-TIP.

SWIM TO MUSIC.

Would you be so kind as to publish this letter regarding "Music and the Swimmers."

It has been on my mind for quite a while now, and I have been wondering if I was the only one who felt the same way as myself about having music played during the Swimming Gala. I think it would add greatly to the enthusiasm of the swimmer, and would aid him, or her, in doing their water stunts with greater feeling and encouragement. Not only would it help the swimmer, but it would also please and help to entertain the audience.

Just imagine how lovely it would be to be swimming through the water and the orchestra playing that well known waltz "Over the Waves," or some other such nice tune; why when it came to one's turn to do a Long Plunge, we would sure reach the other end of the pool instead of stalling in the centre of it.

Why do they have music at nearly all other entertainments? To add to its charm of course. Then why not at the Swimming Gala, I think there is just as much necessity for having music to swimming as there is to having music for dancing; even at the Fashion Show one needs music, it helps to make the styles more charming, stop the music when the model's are promenading and see where they come in, why they have no better look as far as style goes than the onlooker.

Come on all you swimmers what do you say to having a nice orchestra playing for your next Swimming Gala, everything would take on a different look, even the scrawny swimmer would look handsomely plump, and swimming could be done with much more grace, the very sound of the music would make you want to swim gracefully.

THE MAIDEN'S DREAM.

THE VARIED LIFE.

A short while ago, some man wrote in about all the things he has been, all the positions he's had, I believe, if I remember correctly, he was everything from a beach comber to a high commissioner, having traveled over the whole face of the earth.

But what would our known friend say to this, the following list of odd jobs I've had, and personages I've been, being only in New York State:

I have been a wealthy man with two valets. I have been a valet to a wealthy man. I have had a chauffeur to drive my car, and I have been a chauffeur to a wealthy man. I have been a president of a bank, and the private secretary to the president in a bank.

I have been a supervisor on a construction job, a laborer on a construction job, and the boss, the owner of a construction plant. I have been a janitor in an apartment house, and the proprietor of one, a street-cleaner and an alderman, a policeman and a chief of police, a detective and a district-attorney.

I have been a good husband and bad one, a good father and a bad one, a swell lover and a villain, a dancer and a singer, an accomplished artist and a talented violin player, a hurdy gurdy man and I have begged for charity. I have been a stenographer and have had hundreds of men and women under me who took orders from me and me only. I have been a postman, and the head of a post office, an ordinary sailor, and a captain of a ship, a drunkard and a reformer, a mechanic in a garage, and owner of a garage, an apache, a thief, a good for nothing, a drug addict, a city dude, a country hick, a college boy with too much money, a college boy working his way through college.

I have been a professor in a college, a college has been named after me, and a town has been named after me. I have been a shoe maker, an inventor, a pilot, an engineer, an advertising manager, a viceroy, and I've even been a French maid to a Lady, a lady-detective, a society woman, a cow boy, a bully, a champion prize fighter, and champion swimmer.

I've died a thousand times, I've been murdered still more times, I've been shot at, with the intention of killing, I've been drowned, intentionally and otherwise, and I've been a ghost and once I was dead for three days. I've been a doctor, and a lawyer, a soldier, a lieutenant in the army, a cook in the army, and I've even extracted teeth.

Now, I'm a man of leisure. But to make a long story short, I've been an actor all my life, and therefore the reason for all these roles and characters that I had to play. Oh, yes, I've even been a hunchback and a cripple and last but not least, I've also been a clown.

FIRM AND TRUE.

AN APPEAL FROM SACRAMENTO.

I think Canada should really begin now, if ever, to push herself forward and not lie so modestly behind other nations "in her own conceit." Everything is superlative in the States. When I was in Los Angeles some fifteen years ago, her slogan was "Boost and Buy." The words were pasted up everywhere. We all know what strides that city has made in a comparatively few years as time goes. They boost the smallest things. Even one cent boxes of matches have written on them, "Made in U. S. A. by American workers, of American materials," and so on. After all those years, I am living in Sacramento and have just read they are going to have a chain of "Booster" Stations throughout California. Let us do the same. Let us boost our splendid country, with its wonderful natural resources, it's wonderful climate, it's wonderful products, and so forth. Where in the whole world could you get more magnificent scenery, than in this Canada of ours? I will say this for the Americans, they do use their wealth for the benefit of their own country and are not afraid to invest it. Where are our millionaires, that they are not putting up money to open up our natural resources, to the enrichment of their country and the employment of thousands of our fine people, to the opening up of industries and to employ more thousands? As good articles can be made in Canada, as in any other country, given the sale. Let women come forward to buy our own goods and not be chasing after Paris fashions and American-made goods and keep their money in their own country. There are clever men and women in Montreal, who can turn out as stylish suits and hats, etc., as these foreign places. Until we tide over this time of hardship at least, let the people spend their money at home by buying "Made in Canada" goods. Wealthy men and women, spend and invest your money, not unwisely, and do good with it, while there is yet time. You cannot take it with you. "There is no work or device in the grave." Do honor to your proud ancestors, by getting a few steps farther than they were able to get. Brides, buy your trousseaux, and take your honeymoon trips, in Canada. Mothers, rig out the little ones and your houses at home. Ye stylish ladies, don't go abroad for your clothes, for you'll look just as well dressed from our Canadian stocks. My friend heard two men talking. One said: "Canadians are seven years behind the times." If I had heard him, woman as I am, I'd have struck him down, at least, I'd have given him a tongue thrashing, and opened his eyes somewhat, to the wonders of our lovely country and the advancement of its splendid people. Everywhere we go we should boost our beloved Canada and not only boost, buy now, if an ordinary person makes an appeal,

How to Keep Well
By Dr. W. A. Evans

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

FACIAL EXPRESSION AND DISEASE

The wise old family physician may not know much about chemistry, bacteriology, and pathology, but when it comes to making a diagnosis from the expression on a patient's face he is a wizard. One look at his patient's face and he had made a shrewd guess as to what the disease was, how sick the patient was, and whether he was likely to get well. For his trained eye there were signs written there. Oftentimes the very skilful, laboratory trained specialist does not see or cannot read signs, even though they be plain as day to the man who, like Lincoln, was blessed with New Salem for an alma mater.

Some of these signs were written on the brow, some around the eyes, some in the pinching of the nose, the flaring of the nostrils, the lips, the cheeks, and even the chin. Sometimes the skin of the face told a story. One of the world's greatest surgeons trusted the appearance of the tongue more than almost any other sign in sizing up his patient.

All of these signs are engraved in the soft parts, the muscles, the blood vessels, skin, and nerves. Dr. George Draper, as the result of thousands of very accurate measurements of the face, seems to have proven that the bones of the face have a story to tell those who are wise enough to read.

He finds that the people who develop consumption have narrow faces. Knowledge of this fact may help physicians in making diagnosis. It may help narrow faced people to change their habits and in that way escape consumption, and that is of far greater importance than helping physicians to make diagnoses.

People who have high blood pressure and Bright's disease likewise have narrow faces. The face of the people with chronic Bright's disease and high blood pressure, while narrow, is broader across the eye zone than is that of the fact of the consumptive group. Assuming this to be proven, the man or woman with a narrow face that at the same time is rather broad across the eyes—such a person will carefully guard against those excesses and those infections out of which come chronic Bright's disease and high blood pressure. For one thing, a man with a face like that will do well to avoid being a painter and to keep away from all jobs that cause lead poisoning.

On the other hand, the people who have infected gall bladders have wide faces. People earn their gall bladder troubles by decades of sluggish living and overeating. Let the round face folks understand that such habits are almost certain to earn gall bladder trouble for them and some will pep up a little. Some will eat less and exercise more.

The people with pernicious anemia also have broad faces. The lower face of the pernicious anemia subject is even broader than is that of the sufferer from gall bladder trouble.

HEALTH OF OLD PEOPLE

H. S. F. writes: I suppose I can be classed with "old people," as in about two weeks, if alive, I will celebrate my 74th birthday. I could not be induced to read a medical book giving rules for an old fellow to follow, I have not had a doctor to "look me over" for years. I just go blundering along in blissful ignorance.

Unless I am out at a party I go to bed at 10. Am soon asleep and usually sleep until 5.30 or a little later, in a well ventilated room. Am up and well rested at 6, make the fire, and help about breakfast. Eat a reasonably good old southern breakfast without any of the modern frills. Have never tasted coffee and seldom drink tea. Drink plenty of cool water at meals and other times. Put off drinking whisky. If I could get some good whisky now, would take some about noon each day when I feel tired. I always eat some fruit, cake or candy about 11 each day. Eat a good dinner and a light, cold supper. Have never taken a laxative or used bran or health food. Eat just such things as I like.

Each morning I am in my car by 8 and am on the go most of the day. Just now I am having some houses built and some repaired. Have about sixty houses. Keep no books, but my memory is so good I can tell at any time how each tenant stands. Some days I jump in my car and run down ten miles to my farm. I either ride around horseback or walk for two hours or more, eating a bite while on the go, then I rush back to town (always driving myself) at a good gait.

Of course my pulse is a little quicker, but I always rest two or three hours after such a trip. Have been married forty-three years and my wife is also in fine health. My only child, a daughter, and two grandchildren live next door, so I am happy and contented, realizing that the end may come at any time.

Life and Character Reading

MAY 6

These people have the most terrific tempers imaginable. They can never be touched by moral suasion or mental argument when in such a temper. Words infuriate them and the best assistance that can be rendered them is to go away and leave them by themselves. Never leave them in a spirit of resentment.

They should know and be taught early in life that every disease known to man can be entirely cast out and entirely dominated by those who realize that mind is the master and the body the servant of mind.

Her Husband's Wife

— BY —

IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

THE HUNTED MALE AT BAY.

Finding that he could not have Claire to himself, Hastings excused himself and asked another young girl to dance.

The beautiful ring on Mrs. Nottingham's finger attracted Claire's attention. She innocently remarked as to its beauty. Ralph scowled; he had not thought that Olga would put the ring on immediately. He was almost sure someone would realize that she had not worn the ring earlier in the evening and would surmise that Ralph had given it to her.

Olga, however, seemed to delight in displaying it. She very ostentatiously handed the ring to Claire. This further angered Ralph. He shuddered as he saw it on Claire's finger, knowing just what it commemorated.

"It is the most beautiful ring I have ever seen, Mrs. Notingham," said Claire, enthusiastically. "I had always thought that Aunt Sabra had some beautiful jewels, but I am sure she has nothing like this."

A smile of elation curled Olga Nottingham's lips. She slipped the ring on her finger and raised it to her lips. "Yes," she said, "I think it is the most beautiful stone in America now that the Hope has been taken to England. I consider it priceless."

Claire then called attention to Sabra's pearls. "I have never before worn such exquisite things," said the girl. "I feel overpowered by them. You see, I have never had any gorgeous jewels."

"Tell Olga what Sabra said when she put the pearls on you," Ralph urged, almost cruelly, still smarting under Olga's remarks.

Claire blushed. "Oh, I can't do that," she said. "It would not sound well."

Olga insisted on knowing what Sabra had said.

Ralph answered. "You see, Olga, Sabra has peculiar ideas about wearing jewels. When she threw her pearls around Claire's neck she told her that she, Sabra, probably would not wear them again. 'I think,' she said, 'that I am too old to wear jewels,' and she also remarked, my dear Olga, if you will pardon me for repeating it, that she thought you were too old to wear them."

Olga turned white with rage.

Claire hastened to tell her that it was only a question of taste; she was sure that had she a ring as beautiful as the one Olga was wearing, she would never let it off her finger if she lived to be a hundred.

Olga was ready to say something which would have probably precipitated a tense moment, but a glance at Ralph brought home to her the fact that she must not quarrel with him if she wanted him to give her more jewels.

Again looking at the ring, she said, smilingly: "As you say, Claire, it is a question of taste. I have always been very fond of precious stones and perhaps have worn more of them than I should.

"I love this ring more than any of the other jewels I have. I am afraid I shall be like you—never take it off my finger again. I know that I will never think myself too old to wear it."

As Olga spoke she laid her hand lightly on Ralph's arm and gave him a significant glance. This semed to anger Ralph for he was afraid Claire would see this little familiar, almost caressing action. He was growing very tired of Olga's claims to possession.

Quickly he shook off her hand and turning to Claire, asked her to dance. But Hastings came up and insisted that Claire had promised that dance to him. Ralph turned with a frown to Olga. As they left Ralph heard young Hastings say to Claire: "Who is that old woman who seems to think she is a vamp? I should think Mr. Kenton would see through her tactics immediately."

"My, Harry, you are a great reader of human nature, aren't you?" returned Claire with a smile. "Mrs. Notingham has not realized she has grown old."

Simple Sports Dress

Nearly all Spring out-of-door wear may be called sports wear. The "dressy" dress is no more; every garment must be plain and well-tailored straight from shoulder to hem, though occasionally one still sees a surprising flare, sometimes hidden between two folds, sometimes the material is cut circular but hangs so straight it is hardly noticeable until the wearer moves to walk. But flares or fulness, it matters not which, always comes to the front, leaving the back straight and plain. In the simple sports dress illustrated, you will notice the skirt boasts a well-tailored, well-pressed inverted pleat. It is stitched on to a shaped band which is brought in at the waist. The new Chanel Collar is simply made with facings of the same material, and may be worn open or closed. Kasha, marocain, flat crepe, repp, are a few materials which would make up beautifully in this design.

The Home Landscape

By M. H. HOWITT, B.S.A.

THE PERENNIAL BORDER

Of all the plantings about the home, the perennial border may be made the most attractive and colorful.

It is undoubtedly the best way of displaying these plants and giving them the necessary attention. With perennials to choose from that bloom in the spring, summer or fall, one can have an almost continuous feast of bloom throughout the season. By planting bulbs and annuals to fill in the gaps one can have a delightful blaze of color from the melting of the snow until frosts start again.

By carefully following the suggestions that follow, the home gardener can arrange a satisfactory border that will add charm to the place and be a never-ending source of pleasure.

MAKING THE PERENNIAL BORDER.

Perennial borders should be placed on the boundaries of the lawn or along the walks and drives preferably with a background of trees or shrubs. If on the boundaries the general outline facing the lawn should be irregular but along walks or drives the margin may follow the general direction of the walk or drive. Five to six feet is a desirable width, and anything less will be found more difficult to treat satisfactorily. The length will be limited only by the owner's ability to care for it properly.

Prepare the areas to be planted deeply, digging under a good application of well-rotted manure. Should manure not be available, use a commercial fertilizer.

Arrangement. — We have low, medium and tall plants to work with, all varying within this classification. For a border with a background, the tallest perennials will be planted at the back, the low-growing ones in front and the medium planted all through the middle ground. These medium growing plants should also be placed well towards the front, and the taller ones planted well towards the back, i.e., the planting should be arranged to give variety in height and a strict avoidance of banked effect. No background—the taller perennials are placed down the centre with a varying slope to the sides. Consideration should be given to the fact that certain perennials die down early in the season, and the arrangement should alow for these to be hidden by later varieties. Good-sized clumps are usualy preferable, say at least 3 ft. by 2 ft., depending upon the size of the area, though a number of scattered single specimens give variety. Distribute each variety the length of the border with the idea of having bloom everywhere the whole season through. This will require a good deal of thought and skill, and in future years a certain amount of re-arranging.

The color scheme should receive a certain amount of consideration, but for the beginning, color will pretty well take care of itself. Unless you are planting with the idea of some very definite color effect or combination in mind, make a beginning, and after seeing and testing a planting through a year's aspect, changes in color may be made another year. White may be used to separate discordant or strong colors, and a strong color contrasted with white appears to be very much more brilliant for the reason that the contrast accentuates the color.

Except for the above purposes, some advocate associating whites only with the paler colors, such as pinks and pale primrose yellow. Pure blues should be kept away from the purplish blues or mauves. Blues are excellent for special individual groups, and in some cases strong contrasts.

Two harmonizing groups of colors are, for example, rose, carmine, scarlet, orange and yellow; or another, lilac, lavender, mauve, purple and violet. These latter could be used equally well with each other or to contrast with a mass of yellow.

Material for planting the border may be obtained from the nurseryman, either field grown or pot grown. Pot grown plants are more compact and stand transplanting much better. A very good way is from well grown seedlings from your own garden seedbed, which have been transplanted as they needed it and are ready to set out. Plan to start some this summer and order your seed right away.

For success in transplanting, it is best to remove the perennials with a good ball of earth, to avoid any setback in any part of their growing period.

Either water copiously the evening before or choose a day after a rain, so that the earth will not shake loose easily from the roots. A damp soil is really necessary. Starting at the plant's circumference, set the spade down its full depth into the earth all the way around; then gradually work it around the root mass, which will gradually loosen if the implement is worked back and forth patiently. Grasp the entire top of the plant close to the ground and lift gently, but firmly and continuously as the spade works its way underneath; and when at last the mass yields, tilt it over on the spade. It may be carried thus to its new place or deposited on a barrow to be moved there.

Replace in a hole dug a little larger than the earth ball, and in which the earth has been made soft and fine. Sift earth in at the edges and press down firmly. Fill in to a level with the ground, and after the final pressing stir up the top soil or throw some loose soil in for a mulch.

If you can obtain plants from a neighbor or have a partially filled border, or wish to renovate do not remove the entire plant, but use portions only for planting. The roots may be uncovered on one side of the clump, a portion cut off, say a half or two-thirds, and the earth restored after the reduction is made. This piece removed may be separated into as many new specimens as possible. Divide by pulling it apart with the hands or the use of a knife, depending on the compactness of the root system. Some perennials separate much more readily than others. Do not be afraid to separate into quite small pieces, as these will grow rapidly and will prove better in the end. Discard any very old pieces and use the young growth.

Distances Apart.—Distances are not so important as they are with trees and shrubs, as perennials can very readily be thinned or shifted about. For the smaller growing low perennials, as Phlox subulata, six inches; medium, Coreopsis, ten to fifteen inches; tall, Delphinium, one and one-half to two feet. The spread of the plant in relation to its height should, of course, be taken into consideration as for instance, the peony, though medium in height, is very broad and requires to be planted three to four feet apart. Care should be taken to make the various clumps fit into one another irregularly. Do not give each clump a formal rounded outline.

Especially in the early stages of a newly-planted border, annuals may advantageously be used. Certain plants, such as bedding plants and stocks, are too stiff for the purpose. Verbenias, Phlox Drummondi, Salpiglossus, Marigolds and Snapdragons are most suitable. Asters and Zinnias will do, but are a little formal. Verbenas and Phlox drummondi may be pinned down at intervals, and will form a dense mass of flowers. Bulbs may also be used successfully for early spring effect in the border. Here are too stiff and formal for clump planting. Narcissi of all kinds, tupils, Crocuses, and many of the other small flowering bulbs are best.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

TIMMY SAVES HER BABIES.

By Thornton W. Burgess

'Tis not of self a mother thinks.
And so from danger seldom shrinks.
—Old Mother Nature.

Mrs. Grouse was not the only one who had made a home in the Green Forest on the other side of the old road. Even before Mrs. Grouse had moved over there, Timmy the Flying Squirrel and Mrs. Timmy had chosen to make their home there, and for very much the same reason. They wanted to be where there was likely to be less danger while their family was growing up.

So in an old home of Drummer the Woodpecker, quite high up in a dead tree, they had made their home and there their babies had been born, four of them. How little Mrs. Timmy did love them! She was sure that never in all the Great World had there ever been such wonderful babies before. Being naturally timid you can guess how she worried over those babies. She couldn't bear to leave them even long enough to get food, and always she hurried back sure that something had happened to them while she was away.

But nothing did happen, and the babies grew as is the way with babies of all kinds. And Mrs. Timmy's love for and pride in them grew as is the way with all mothers. It wouldn't be long now before they would be out trying their first jumps in the Great World. How Mrs. Timmy did dread that time! She couldn't bear to think of it.

One evening, just as the Black Shadows came creeping through the Green Forest, the beginning of the dark time, the safe time for timid little people like a Flying Squirrel or a Wood Mouse, Mrs. Timmy poked her head out of the little round doorway of her house, preparing to start out to look for something to eat. Something made her nose and mouth smart and sting. She scrambled out and right away her big, soft eyes began to smart and fill with water. Smoke, choking, smarting smoke filled all the air. In the distance, and not such a great distance, there was a red glare. One good look Mrs. Timmy took and then darted into her house.

When she came out a few seconds later Mrs. Timmy had a baby in her mouth, holding him by the skin of the neck as you have seen a mother Cat carry her kittens. She jumped and sailed down on a long slant as only a Flying Squirrel can sail. But though she did her best she did not make as long a jump as usual. She couldn't with that precious baby to carry. Along the ground she carried the baby for a short distance, but this was too slow, and climbing another tree she once more jumped.

At last she dropped the baby in an old nest in another hollow tree and hurried back for another baby. The smoke was thicker now and it was harder to breathe. But the little mother thought only of her babies and picking up another she hurried out and made the first long jump. By the time this one was safely in the old nest with the first one she was very tired. The Red Terror was much nearer her home. Never in all her life had she been filled with such fear. But stronger than the fear was mother love, and back she went and got a third baby.

She jumped and sailed down on a long slant, as only a flying squirrel can sail

By the time this one was safely with the others the Red Terror was so near her home that it didn't seem possible that she could reach it without being burned to death. But she did. Yes, sir, she did! The last of the babies was in the doorway and without stopping an instant she seized this one and was off again. The heat was so great and she was so tired that it seemed as if she must drop and give up to the Red Terror. But she didn't, and she didn't let go of that precious baby. And so at last she reached the others.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

MEND HOSE FIRST.

Turn stockings wrong side out before you wash them and see that the smallest holes are mended before the water touches them.

BRUSH YOUR HATS.

A hat should be brushed after each wearing if you want to keep it in good condition.

KITCHEN CLOCK.

A clock that keeps accurate time is a necessity in the kitchen.

BRIEF BACKYARD GARDEN NOTES

OBSERVING BULBS.

Next fall, when it is time to plant bulbs outdoors, will you know exactly what you want or will you trust to the catalogue description or the dealer's say so as to varieties? If you are wise you will keep your eyes open now and ask the name of any variety that takes your fancy as being particularly desirable. Attend your local tulip show, for instance, and there you will usually find the newer varieties anyway, labelled, or some enthusiast will be only too glad to give you the desired information. Make a list and put it carefully away with your garden books, clippings, etc., for future reference.

Make notes, also of any particular location where you notice bulbs growing that strike you as particularly fitting and pleasing. Seek to emulate such a planting or go one better. If you have an area, for instance, just a little wild, where bulbs can be left undisturbed until fully matured, look around and observe where some neighbor or other home owner has naturalized a few or many bulbs, and have a try at getting a similar effect. Criticize the planting you are observing from the standpoint of naturalness and in this connection observe wild flowers or ferns in the woods. Notice how in nature the flowers are displayed in large and small groups of varying outline, with occasional single specimens scattered about to add variety and connect up the groups, as it were. Observe this type of planting closely, as when well done it is possibly the best way to display narcissi of all kinds. Some of the smaller bulbs, such as Scillas, Grape Hyacinths, Snowdrops and Crocuses, lend themselves very well to naturalizing in the open lawn.

Park plantings are worth observing for color combinations, but not with the idea of attempting a number of such formal beds in the home grounds. Rather, it is better to use bulbs in the perennial border, in borders of naturally grouped clumps in front of shrubbery, limiting only formal beds to areas quite close to the buildings.

BATTERY TESTING.

Q.Would you mind telling me whether an ampere battery tester will serve A, B, and C batteries? The tester numbers up to 35. On testing my batteries the dial points to 8. Are they exhausted?

2.—What kind of tester should I get for my B and C batteries?

3.—I recently purchased a new B and C battery and I could not get my set to work on long distance, i.e., from 368 to 780 metres unless I disconnected the cable lead from the positive terminal of my new B battery and connected it to the positive terminal of the other battery. Would you mind telling me why this is?

4.—Also I could not get other stations as loud as I used to before I got the new batteries. My set is a two tube set—O.H.J.H.

A.—1, An ammeter is useful for testing a dry cell A battery which, when new, should register from 15 to 20. The ammeter should be used very cautiously when making this test, and only a momentary contact should be made, sufficient to take the reading, otherwise you will run down your A batteries. If your A battery only registers 8 on the ammeter this would indicate that they are getting run down.

2.—B and C batteries should always be tested with a voltmeter as an ammeter imposes too heavy a drain on them owing to their small current capacity.

3.—When conecting up a new B or C battery, the same voltage should be used on the tubes as was originally found satisfactory, but if the new ones are connected in series so as to boost up the voltage, then this would make the resulting voltage higher than that for which the tubes are intended, which would not improve results.

4.—The new batteries should be connected up so as to give the same voltage as originally specified for the circuit, and should not be used in conjunction with the old batteries which should be discarded.

GRID RETURN CONNECTION

Q.—I have a three tube Remartz using a heavy duty dry cell battery, 22½ volts for detector and 45 volts for amplifier dry cell tubes. I find that I get greater volume when using 22½ volts throughout. When I change over to 45 volts for amplification volume is decreased over half, but when I switch back to 22½ volume is good. The battery is new. What could cause this? Would it be that due to newness of battery 45 volts is too much, or would it be possible that battery is too large in size?—E. E. W.

A.—The size of the battery does not have any effect on the voltage as this is determined solely by the number of cells of which it is made up. A heavy duty battery is designed to provide ample current such as would be required in a multitube set, which would render the life of a small capacity B battery comparatively short, owing to heavy current drain. The size of the B battery would not therefore have any effect on reception as long as the voltage was of the amount specified, except that the larger battery would give longer service before the voltage started to drop. All tubes have a particular voltage at which they operate best according to the use made of them, although it is found generally that 22½ volts is best for the detector while 45 volts will give better results on the amplifier tubes. In the latter case it is necessary however, that the grid return connection is made so as to give proper grid bias for the tube, and it is usual in amplifier tubes to make this connection to the negative side of the A battery, although a C battery of about 1½ volts inserted in this connection with the negative connection on grid side will sometimes improve results.

AERIAL AND TUNING.

Q.I have been about four years in the radio business and I have been making all kinds of radios, and I tried to make a radio without a coil and I think it is impossible. Will you tell me, is it impossible to make a radio without a coil, and if not please explain how to make it. I am anxious to get your answer.—M.Z.

A.—It is usually necessary in all radio circuits to use some kind of coil for tuning as this provides a method of tuning the aerial to the various wave lengths used in broadcasting. The coil has the effect of artificially increasing or decreasing the length of your aerial, and therefore your wave length range would be very limited if an aerial alone were used.

RECEPTION AND ATMOSPHERIC CONDITIONS.

Q.—I have lately had a lot of trouble in reception of below 360 metres, KDKA, etc. Ordinarily these come in very clearly. Within the last two weeks I have (on 360 metres or less) received what seemed like tremendous static yet with some resemblance to code signals. I have watched the columns of The Star radio page and tried every suggestion that might be of use, I have overhauled the set and battery (new ones) connections, and taken down and resoldered every aerial and lead in connection. The ground is a one piece wire to the radiator which has worked very well for two years. Can you help me?—J.S.M.

A.—At this time of the year static is liable to be troublesome and atmospheric conditions do not seem to favor consistently good reception. I think that your trouble is more likely due to the vagaries of radio reception which seem to be more pronounced at this time of the year, and seem to affect some localities more than others, than to any defect in your set. I would suggest that you give the conditions a chance to adjust themselves before blaming the set itself if it has been giving you good results. You might check up by finding out if other radio fans in your locality are getting similar results.

Set In Bottle

A new use for an empty 40-ounce bottle has been discovered by Victor Laforce, a car checker employed by the Canadian National Railways at Montreal. Mr. Laforce has succeeded in building a radio set inside such a bottle, and has received concerts on it from CNRO, CNRM, KDKA and WBZ. The set was made with a small pair of pliers, a screwdriver and a few pieces of wire in less than seven hours actual working time. All the pieces except the posts were made specially by Mr. Laforce. The photograph shows Mr. Laforce listening in on his unique set.

Rugs must be beaten clean

Dirt, destructive, gritty dirt, gets into every rug and carpet, and stays there until it is beaten out. It must be kept beaten out, too, regularly and often, lest the life and beauty of your rugs suffer from its sharp, grinding edges.

But how, you may ask, can rugs be beaten regularly and often? There is only one convenient, easy way—with The Hoover.

For The Hoover is the electric cleaner which gently beats loose all the destructive, embedded dirt, while it thoroughly sweeps and air-cleans, too, all in a few easy movements.

And The Hoover, with its dusting tools, is a complete household cleaning servant. Wherever dirt hides or clings, it hunts and cleans. There is a part for every place—curtains, hangings, upholstery, every out-of-the-way nook or corner.

Authorized Dealers recommend The Hoover and are glad to show how efficiently it cleans. If you wish to purchase, $6.25 down, and a few easy monthly payments give you one complete with dusting tools.

To Prove Rugs Need Beating
Turn over a corner of one of your rugs. Take an ordinary table knife or something of equal weight and tap the under side smartly several times. Watch the harsh, gritty dirt fly out—dirt that required beating to dislodge. Because only The Hoover BEATS, it alone will insure your rugs freedom from this destructive dirt.

SEES SCHEME TO AID GERMANY IN HOUGHTON SPEECH

London Predicts Move to Force Security Pact for Teutons

TO HALT INTRIGUE

Berlin Press Hopes That America Will Ignore France

LONDON, May 6.—(United News.) —Twenty-four hours after its delivery, Ambassador Alanson M. Houghton's maiden speech in his new office, continues to roll up commendatory comment for the author.

Among informed Britishers, Houghton's words are interpreted as the initial squeeze of the tremendous indirect pressure to be applied by the United States in an effort to induce Europe to accept a security pact in which Germany would be equally a guarantor and the recipient of guarantees of safety. American influences also is likely to halt some of the intrigue in the Balkans.

It is hoped here that the United States will work quietly during the current diplomatic stalemate to insure sane talk when the time comes to discuss the evacuation of Cologne and of the Ruhr and to negotiate a security pact.

FRANCE IN MIND

BERLIN, May 6.—(Special Star-World Cable, Copyright.) — German reactionaries have decided that Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton had only France in mind when at the pilgrims' dinner in London Monday night he intimated that the European family of nations must preserve peace.

The Lokal Anzeiger, chief of the von Hindenburg organs, in its leading article Tuesday night, said former Premier Briand's rejection of the security pact offered France by Germany constitutes "the reason why the American people cannot get an answer to their question as to whether the time of destructive politics has passed. There is no question that throughout the world and even on the Seine, France will be recognized as the nation accused."

The article implies the hope that America will withdraw support from France and let Germany's chief enemy go toppling over. Democratic newspapers have not all yet made up their minds to comment, but today several of them are printing editorials, the substance of which is that both France and Germany must pursue policies conducive to peace.

They bring out that von Hindenburg, as well as Mr. Briand, was in Ambassador Houghton's mind when he made his appeal to reason.

Officially, the answer here to Mr. Houghton is that von Hindenburg's election has not changed Germany's policy—that her security pact offer stands—that she abides by the Dawes' plan—that she will obey the provisions of the Versailles Treaty.

FRENCH AROUSED

PARIS, May 6.—(Special Star-World Cable. Copyright.) — The French press Tuesday gives prominence to Ambassador Houghton's speech at the Pilgrims' dinner Monday night in London. Le Temps featured his remarks concerning the work still remaining to be accomplished for the reconstruction of Europe and his warning that, while the United States has done and is doing what is humanly possible, there is a limit beyond which it cannot go.

The address aroused widespread attention among political leaders, who are anxious to discover indications of America's attitude and intentions toward France.

Le Matin gives particular importance to the speech under the ironical head, "Directly Europe Puts Her House In Order, America Will Be Happy To Come To Her Assistance."

LONDON, May 6—(Special Star-World Cable, Copyright.)—Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton's warning to Europe in his speech at the pilgrim's dinner Monday night that genuine peace must be restored if the reconstruction aid of the United States is to continue has had immediate effect on the diplomatic situation.

In British high circles the speech was welcomed. It was there regarded as a warning to France not to place obstacles in the way of Anglo- German attempts to provide a basis for European security pacts, and at the same time as a warning to Germany not to attempt sabotage of the Dawes plan.

The principal emphasis here is placed on the warning to France. Of more importance than the effect here, however, appears the impression created in Paris.

According to diplomatic advices Tuesday night Foreign Secretary Briand during the day indicated that, after previous delays, he is now prepared to press forward with a reply to Germany on German security proposals, while the ambassadors' conference in Paris Tuesday discussed meeting this week instead of next to draw up the Allied note on military control to be presented to the German Government. These symptoms are regarded as indicating that France understands Houghton's speech to mean no American credits will be provided to any nation that obstructs or delays the peaceful settlement of Europe.

As distinguished guests were leaving the banquet hall Monday night after Mr. Houghton's speech, Baron Moncheur, the Belgian ambassador, said before a group of bystanders to German Ambassador St. Hamer, "what do you think of America's warning to Europe?"

St. Hamer replied, "it makes me wonder when the Allies are going to reply to our security proposals."

Comments in The Times, the Manchester Guardian and the other most important organs of British opinion on Mr. Houghton's speech are enthusiastic and all point out that American and British policies in seeking for a real world settlement appear identical. Only the Tory Morning Post draws the moral from the warning against the war spirit and the plea for good faith between nations that since it was Germany that broke faith, whatever menace may exist comes from Germany.

The Liberal Westminster Gazette today comments: "The speech of the American ambassador was one of the most important that anyone occupying his position has ever made. In disdaining to make use of the glib phrases which so often grace such occasions and in giving himself to the enunciation of the simple conditions which must decide the degree of American participation in European affairs, Ambassador Houghton was perhaps already performing the most useful service which the moment permits. There are certain things which may readily be assumed, but which it is not wise to state.

"Europe still stands so much in need of the assistance of America that the only hope of the nations who are struggling with their difficulties is to make a venture which will win her further support. It is not altogether easy policy to force upon nations who regard their handicaps as the result of the war, but it is as well as realize there is no other way. Its rewards are obvious and its dangers pass with every increase in the sincerity of its adoption.

"Ambassador Houghton may be assured that he will find at the helm of this country men who will go more than half way to meet him in any efforts he may make to complete the pacification of Europe, and this cooperation must in the end win the day."

ENGLAND DESTINED TO FACE TEUTON IN FREEDOM'S BATTLE

Such Is Belief Of Lord Grey Who Declares Neutrality In 1914 Would Have Meant Defeat With Dishonor At Later Date

Eighteenth instalment of the Memoirs of Viscount Grey of Fallodon, former British Foreign Secretary.

By EDWARD LORD GREY

LONDON, May 6.—France dreaded war, and did all she could to avoid it.

French minds were probably more pre-occupied with the awful peril of war to France than with the dread of war as a general catastrophe.

The immense growth and strength of Germany had smothered all French intention to attempt a revanche (revenge). The idea of recovering the lost provinces of Alsace and Lorraine had tacitly been dropped, though the French Government might not have dared to say in public that it had been for ever abandoned.

The Franco-Russian alliance did not contemplate or cover a French revanche.

I once said to Metternich, when he was still German ambassador in London, that though I had not seen or been told the terms of the Franco-Russian alliance, I assumed that it did not cover a revanche.

Metternich smiled grimly, and said, "Yes; we know very well that it does not."

France had no ally but Russia on whom to count even for a war of defense, and the Russian army was an uncertain factor. It was certainly big, but it was sure to be slow, and France, therefore, in the event of war would feel the first terrific onset of an armed nation, double that of France in numbers, with an army so highly trained and equipped that Germany had persuaded others, besides herself, that it was invincible.

France Went To Extreme Limits To Avoid Giving Germany Any Provocation

France, therefore, in these last critical days, went to extreme limits to avoid giving provocation. She had the memory of 1870 and the apprehension of something much more formidable than 1870. When the shock of war came she met it with all the desperate gallantry of a nation fighting for its life, but she never sought war, and till the last moment strove to avoid it.

Of Russia one cannot speak as of one compact sentient unit.

The czar certainly desired peace. No one can doubt that his suggestion to the German emperor for a settlement by use of the machinery of the Hague tribunal was genuine, nor can the Russian mobilization be fairly construed as evidence of a desire for war. After the veto of a conference, with Austria mobilized and Germany ready to strike, what counsellor could have honestly advised the czar that mobilization in Russia was a premature unnecessary precaution?

When the highest Russian authorities must have been agitated in this manner there came the news of that sinister unexplained issue of the Lokal Anzieger saying that Germany had mobilized. The issue of the paper was stopped, and the statement contained in it denied, but not until it had been telegraphed to St. Petersburg.

That Russia felt that she would not submit a second time to a humiliation such as that of 1908 is probable. That the czar or Sazonoff or anyone who had a decisive word in Russia was planning to provoke or to make war I do not believe.

Perhaps it may be true to say of Russia that she was like a huge unwieldy ship, which in time of agitation kept an uncertain course; not because she was directed by malevolent intentions, but because the steering gear was weak.

What about Germany? Were the German people thirsting for war or even consciously desiring it? I do not suppose so. But the outbreak of war was received in Germany with frantic demonstrations of enthusiasm.

In Bismarck's time Germany had had three wars—the war against Denmark in 1864, against Austria in 1866, against France in 1870. All these wars had been short, had lasted only a few months, and had been completely successful, and out of them had come the German empire. That empire was now, after forty years of consolidation and growth, the most mighty power potentially, if not actually, in the world.

Was it to dread war? On the contrary, was it not possible that war might be another stage in its growth?

We need not give too positive answers to these questions; but surely it is within the mark to say that there was not in Germany a dread of war or a repugnance to war strong enough to create a determined will to peace. If German opinion did not desire war, it was at least content to leave the conduct of affairs in the hands of the emperor, and the powers behind the throne, whoever they might be.

What deciding power was there in Germany? The one steady constant organized authority was the military one; and there can be little doubt that high military opinion held that war must come and that in 1914 the time for war had come.

WERE ALL PREPARED.

All preparations had been made for 1914; even in finance Germans had as far as possible got in what was owed to them and arranged matters so that when war came they should owe and should not be owed money abroad.

The capital levy had been made — the final and supreme effort to equip the army.

Some German naval opinion was adverse to war in 1914, but that was not on the ground that war was not to come; it was solely on the ground that in two or three years more the German fleet would be more powerful.

1. See evidence of Admiral Koch before the second sub-committee of the committee appointed by the national constituent assembly to enquire into the responsibility for the war: "We hoped to be able to delay the war for a few years in order to have the battle-fleet of quite different dimensions, that is, different in the way of numbers, so that we should then have been in a position ourselves to seek a decision off the enemy's coasts. Unfortunately the war overtook us."

The only difference between military and naval authorities was as to the year when war should be made; there was no difference in the opinion that war would have to be made. The military authorities settled it.

The operation against France would work according to plan as in 1870; all the more certainly, perhaps, because this time the plan included an attack through Belgium and therefore in more overwhelming strength, for which the wider front provided by the inclusion of Belgium gave fuller opportunity.

The estimate formed at the time, 1914, of the attitude of Austria must be qualified. This estimate was that Austria simply and foolishly hoped for a triumph over Serbia without the danger of war with Russia; that when she found this to be a miscalculation, she tried to get out of it by diplomatic settlement with Russia direct, but found it was too late. Her ally Germany had gone to war with Russia and dragged Austria in.

If this view is put to a German I am told the answer is that Austria's delay in going to war with Russia was a pose, intended to clear Austria even at the expense of Germany of responsibility for war.

The truth probably is that there were sinister and reckless influences in Austria. The persons and forces that moved in the Friedjung and the Agram trials and made use there of forged documents were still in existence, and they were capable of any crime and any blunder.

In Austria, as in Russia, there was no head with control and grip of affairs.

WHAT PACIFISM MEANT.

Have those who think we should have kept out of the war drawn any clear picture in their thought of what would have happened if we had stood aside in 1914? They give no sign that they have thought of this at all. Let us think it out as well as we can. What would have happened?

Paris would have been taken, according to German calculation. Paris very nearly was taken; there was nothing to spare. If there had been lacking anything, French or British, that was used to stop the retreat and accomplish the battle of the Marne, the Germans would have reached Paris; the absence of the British expeditionary force would have made a difference that would have been fatal.

How long France would have been able to hold out after Paris fell is a matter for military conjecture.

Her fleet having to contain the Austrian fleet in the Mediterranean could not have kept the Atlantic and Channel sea communications open. France would have been cut off from foreign supplies of iron and coal, of which some of her own most valuable supplies would have been in German hands; as, indeed, they actually were, even after the battle of the Marne.

WOULD HAVE BEEN SUPREME.

The end was certain. Huge defeats of Russian armies would have followed; and with no prospect of recovery in France, those elements in Russia that were always susceptible to German influence would have asserted themselves, Russia would have made peace probably in no very long time; especially if Germany, having gained the day, were wise enough to make the terms appear easy.

Then Germany would have been supreme on the continent. Belgium would have been under her heel. The fear of the fate of Belgium would have been before the eyes of every neutral state.

The position of Italy who had refused to join the other two members of the triple alliance in the war, would not have been pleasant.

POSSIBLE FATE OF BRITAIN.

Consider what the position of Britain would have been. We should have been isolated; we should have had no friend in the world; no one would have hoped or feared anything from us, or thought our friendship worth having.

We should have been discredited, should have been held to have played an inglorious and ignoble part.

Even in the United States we should have suffered in good opinion. Those Americans who were outspokenly pro-ally and who wanted the United States to join the allies at once, or much earlier than their own country eventually did, would have despised us.

We should have lost what pro-British sympathy there was in the United States, and we should have gained nothing there; the feeling that was indifferent about us would have remained indifferent; the feeling that was anti-British would have been anti-British still.

Every neutral country would have held that we had turned our back on a clear obligation to Belgium, and done this in spite of the Belgian appeal and of the fight she herself was making against overwhelming odds.

HATRED ON ALL SIDES.

We should have been hated. Even after the Franco-Prussian war, of 1870, we incurred much odium after having stood aside. I think the odium then was quite unreasonable, but the tertius gaudens is always hated.

Our intense unpopularity on the continent at some previous times has been due very largely to the opinion that we were always taking a hand and never taking a side. In those days we had boasted of a "splendid isolation," in other words, of having no friends. Of late years we had found the position of having no friends to be unsafe; we had made friends; if we had stood aside now we should have had no friends.

France and Russia would not have loved Germany after the war, but in one thing they would have been ready to join with her and this would have been in a policy directed against Britain, who had stood aside while they suffered.

In Germany militarism and navalism would have been supreme. The socialism in Germany, of which we heard so much, counted for nothing on the outbreak of war. For a time after a triumphant war it must have been still more subordinate; if it became troublesome, its energies would have been turned into patriotic channels once more, this time by war with Britain.

And that war we should certainly have had to face.

Germany would have wielded the whole diplomatic strength of the continent; for a time we might have struggled on ingloriously, squeezed and thwarted everywhere. There would have been weakness, too, inside the empire. What the dominions would have thought, I do not venture to say, but quite a substantial section of British opinion would have regarded with shame the conduct of this country in standing aside; some of our self-respect would have gone.

Finally, when the German fleet was ready, war would have been forced on us, and we should have been found dispirited half-beaten before the war began. By that time the full range of the big gun, the extended use of the submarine would have been known; the French shores would have been in unfriendly hands, and the channel would have been closed to us.

Can anyone say that this picture is fantastic or improbable? Can anyone draw any other picture that would have any probability of truth?

If any one thinks so, let him read such things as the second edition of Von Bulow's book and the Memoirs and letters of Von Kiderlen-Waechter, and consider German feeling and the part played by German militarism in policy before the war.

Then let him picture to himself faithfully what German militarism and its policy would have meant for us after a war from which Germany had emerged supreme.

My conclusion is that we could not have escaped the struggle between militarism and democracy by turning our backs upon the war in August, 1914. The thing would have pursued us until we had to turn and face it, and that would have been when it was even stronger and we were weak and isolated.

We suffered grievously, most grievously, after going into the war in 1914, but we came out of it honorably and with our country safe; if we had not gone into the war in 1914, we should have had later, and perhaps not so very much later, to undergo suffering at least as great, and have perished ignobly.

Tube Driven Through Earth to Give Rites To Buried Workman

BRUCKMUEHLE, Bavaria, May 6.—(United News.) — A tube was driven through the earth that had caved on Meyer Baumgartner so that a priest could hear his last confession and administer absolution. The religious rites were performed and workmen began removing the fall of earth. It was believed that the man had died of injuries suffered in the cave-in.

Forty-eight hours later they reached the spot where Baumgartner had been trapped, and found him weak and hungry, but completely alive.

MANUFACTURERS END ANNUAL MEETING WITH NOTABLE GATHERING

Hon. L. A. Taschereau and E. W. Beatty, K.C., Advance Policies—Premier Opposes Power Export—C.P.R. President Urges Need of Population

"The surest way to develop Canadian industries is to keep Canadian water power in Canada, not to export it to the States where it will be used to build up American industries that will enter into direct competition with our own."

This was the outstanding declaration of Premier L. A. Taschereau, when speaking at the annual dinner of the Quebec Division and the Montreal Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association last night.

The dinner which was largely attended by a representative body of manufacturers from all over the province was this year a part of the "Produced in Canada" campaign recently inaugurated by the C.M.A., and both Premier Taschereau and E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, dealt in their speeches with some phase of the question of the further utilization of Canadian products by Canadians.

The opposition to the export of Canadian power expressed by the Premier of Quebec, caused something in the nature of a sensation among the audience, and his analysis of the situation as it affects the Province of Quebec brought resounding applause.

GIVES MAIN REASONS.

Mr. Taschereau advanced three main reasons for the attitude he had adopted; if we exported power, he said, we should never get it back; power sent to the States would be used to build up American industries to the detriment of our own; if we kept the power here Americans would come after it and help develop this country and give work to Canadian workmen.

Mr. Beatty in his speech stressed the need for the introduction into this country not only of skilled workers, but of capital, especially capital from Great Britain.

Canadians should be careful not to create the impression that this country did not give proper protection to honest investments.

The dinner was presided over by F. W. Stewart, chairman of the "Produced in Canada" committee of the C.M.A., and other speakers were Col. Arthur Hatch, president of the C.M.A., and J. H. Fortier, first vice-president. There were present representatives of all the Montreal organizations which have assisted the committee in the campaign, as well as the mayors of many of the surrounding industrial towns, including Drummondville, St. Hyacinthe and Granby.

Mr. Taschereau prefaced his address by pointing out that Canada was difficult to govern because of its size, its sparse and scattered population, and the many different races represented, as well as the fact that she was only separated from the greatest manufacturing country in the world by an invisible line. Was this not a good reason, he asked, why we should develop those natural resources of ours in which we need fear no competition. It might be by doing this that the Americans would come to us for what they wanted, and in doing so throw down the tariff wall that at present had to be surmounted by the Canadian manufacturer.

NO SENTIMENT IN TRADE.

The speaker expressed the wish that the Canadian manufacturer would proceed with the development of industrial centres so that the Canadian returning from the States who could not go to the farm and the young man who was forced to leave the farm should be cared for.

"In commerce and industry there is no sentiment," he continued, when discussing the state of trade with the United States, and the Dominions, and the trade barriers that had been erected between the different countries.

"Is there means to stop this?" asked Mr. Taschereau. "It is for those who direct the country in that sphere to decide. It is for them to find the solution, and apply it. As to us, we have only one remedy, and that is to teach the Quebec farmer better methods in order to meet competition. Often it is said that in so doing we are seeking to control everything, that we want our hand on everything. Words like that are anti-Canadian and anti-Quebec."

POSITION ON POWER.

Turning to the question of the development of water power Mr. Taschereau said:

"Permit me to give my opinion. The Province of Quebec, of all countries and above all countries of the world, has been blessed with great water powers. There are those who tell us that we should export our surplus power to the neighboring country. I do not want to give you my opinion, for you will say that it is a poor public man who is talking, and who does not understand affairs, but let me give you some arguments, and you weigh them, and you will determine if it is not well to have in this province a policy of keeping at home our power, or if we should send it to a foreign land."

He continued by pointing out what had been accomplished in the St. Maurice district by the development of water power, and of the Gouin dam. Two years ago J. B. Duke invested millions in the province for the purpose of harnessing the Saguenay River and had already spent eleven millions.

"Last week Mr. Duke came to Quebec and showed us plans of development at the same place of a much greater extent, for which he engages to spend 20 millions, and with the obligation not to export a single horsepower outside of Canada. There will be developed there a million and a half horsepower, and if it is true that the development of 100,000 horsepower, and the building of the factories to use the power, means employment for 5,000 men you will readily see what this will mean in five years."

NEEDS SURPLUS.

"We are told that we have a surplus of power, and why not sell it?" continued Mr. Taschereau. "There are several objections. That we have a surplus is true. That we have a considerable surplus is very true, and it is also true that we have a considerable surplus for a long time to come, but if you send it to the United States it will not be for one year, or even five years. No one in the United States will invest five millions in an industry unless there is a guarantee that there will be power for all the time of the industry, which will mean 30 or 40 years.

"Once this power is exported, I defy anyone to bring it back from the United States," said the premier, with much emphasis. "It is not now a secret, so I can tell it. I met General Mewburn, who was a member of a former Government, when he was in Quebec on the Bonne Entente, and discussed the matter with him, and he said that during the war the export of power to the United States had been permitted so as to aid the Americans in making munitions, and since that time it had been impossible to stop the export. If we send our power to the United States, we cannot stop it, and not only so, but the demand will become more insistent each day. If you send power to the United States it will be to build up the towns and cities of the United States, and when they grow and have greater needs, how can you say no to their demands? By exporting power we will be building up American industry. The cost of coal is getting higher, there are strikes in the coal fields, there is the cost of transportation, and the modern trend anyhow is towards electricity throughout, and are we to go on building up American industries to compete with our own Americans in our own field?

FOR MANUFACTURERS TO SAY.

"It is for you manufacturers who are most interested to say if it is advantageous for Quebec to lose this raw material, or, rather, that we keep it here for our own future. It is for you to say if we shall send this great aid to the competitor so that he may make war against us. Let me sum up the reasons against the export of power. The first is that we cannot get it back. The second is that we aid the United States to compete against our own manufacturers in our own markets. The third is, and you know that the Americans are practical people, is that as soon as they have no power, they cannot develop it at home, they will come here, as Mr. Duke has done, and as the Singer Manufacturing Company is coming here in a few days, because of the concessions that we gave them last session, and will put up a plant in Quebec, the production of which will be sent throughout the world, and it will be work produced by Canadian workmen.

"It is for you manufacturers to direct public opinion on the matter, and enlighten those who must take the final decision in this matter," said the Premier. "I have given my arguments. Weigh them, but from the Quebec point of view and the Canadian point of view, we will be making an error if we send away our heritage, and pillage our domain."

CONFIDENCE IN RAILWAY.

At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Taschereau referring to Mr. Beatty, said:

"There is one thing I wish to mention. It is this. If there is in Canada one big asset of which we are proud, and which is intimately linked with the past, present, and especially the future, it is the Canadian Pacific Railway.

"We have as much confidence in the C. P. R. as in our own country or the Province. We know that it is in good hands. The C. P. R. has many industries and like some Governments, with the exception of those at Ottawa and Quebec, is going through hard times. It is so intimately linked with Canada and its future that those who have no confidence in the C. P. R. have none in Canada.

"I wish every success to that great railway, every success to its worthy president, to whom I wish re-election tomorrow. If he had only taken the opportunity of giving me a block of shares I would have voted for him. Anyhow he has my best wishes and that may be worth a vote. (Loud and prolonged laughter and applause.)

Mr. Beatty, who was introduced by H. M. Jaquays, newly elected chairman of the Montreal branch of the C. M. A. said:

"Your chairman assured me, when he was good enough to extend an invitation to me to attend this dinner, that the campaign you had in mind was of national character and had no political significance. His statement is confirmed by the presence of many men at this table of different political complexions. The Honorable the Prime Minister is currently reported to possess a Conservative mind and Liberal leanings, while the chairman himself is strongly suggested as being what is called, for the lack of a better name, a Liberal-Conservative.

"The fact that both of them are able to speak on this occasion without reservation is strong presumptive evidence that their convictions and not their politics are the impelling reasons for their presence. I, perhaps, should have less hesitation than either of them in supporting your cause, for two reasons: first, because I represent a Company which has been produced in Canada and whose commodity is sold to a very great extent in Canada, and secondly, because the Canadian Manufacturers' and the Canadian Pacific Railway in the last analysis represent the same Canadian conception.

"They were both established for the reason that their proprietors believed in Canada and believed that their institutions could succeed if honestly administered and soundly financed. In other words, their belief in Canada was responsible for the establishment of their enterprises and there is no distinction in principle between the Railway which made Confederation possible and the industries which contributed to make Confederation a success.

AIDS TO PROSPERITY.

"It is a very generally accepted conclusion by most thinking Canadians that this country requires more capital and more men and we know that the contribution of each will be in proportion to the prosperity which the country enjoys. If I were to put it very bluntly, I would say that if the majority of Canadians were able to assert that their business was prosperous, whether that business was agriculture, mining manufacturing or railway, Canada would not suffer from either the lack of capital support or of immigration, and if I were asked what the greatest contribution of the Canadian Pacific to Canadian development has been I would say that its success has acted as a continuous invitation to the investor or the manufacturer both within and without the country to 'bet' on Canada.

"I sometimes feel that, living so close to our own conditions, we are disposed to overlook the influence of the successful individual enterprise on the prosperity of the whole country. I cannot conceive a prosperous East without a prosperous West or a prosperous West without a prosperous East. I will admit that fluctuations are incident to all national or industrial progress and incidents of times of prosperity and those of depression which no country can hope to escape, even though the responsibility cannot, in some instances, be laid to the door of a particular industry, but if you will think for a moment of some of the difficulties which we have to surmount and which are not by any means insurmountable, you will realize that most of them have some relation to the confidence of business institutions which is greater or less in proportion to its success.

HARMFUL SECTIONALISM.

"We have heard a great deal of sectionalism—sectionalism which is good and that which is bad. I will admit that it is the other fellow's sectionalism which seems to disturb us most—we do not appear to be concerned with our own. That sectionalism which means pride in local achievement, in the success of a province or a city which is brought about by the combined effort of the members of that community is everything which is admirable and commendable. It is in no sense unnational but when it is taken to an extreme and the prosperity of one, by special privilege, is demanded at the expense of the other then it is harmful. If we realise therefore that what we can do by our own activities we should do, and that which requires a national point of view and a national co-operative effort we should contribute to, the evils of sectionalism would disappear and I might add that where prosperity exists, sectionalism is reduced to a minimum and therefore the national prosperity of Canada which involves more population and capital support will end it as it will end a great many public questions now the source of agitation.

"I have found, as you have, that wasteful and extravagance are ultimately paid for and that periods of great optimism and the spendthrift characteristics which pervade such periods are usually followed by periods of deflation and depression and that these in turn are corrected by the realization of the necessity of economy and thrift and hard work. In this country, as in others, as soon as the bulk of the people realize that there is an evil to be cured and conscientiously begin the cure, their combined efforts are usually effective and by the application of common sense and great effort a nation swings back on its course towards commercial and industrial prosperity. I have no reason to suspect that this will not be the course of events in Canada because Canada has two assets which cannot be denied or discounted; actual and potential wealth of great variety and a people whose courage, virility and self-reliance needs no proof because it has been proved time and time again.

"With these two fundamentals we need not indulge in misgivings as to the country's future. We have no reason for lack of confidence, even though things may not be just as we wish and even though we may not be making the progress some of us would like to see. In the words of the late Thomas D'Arcy McGee, a man of great eloquence and of almost uncanny vision, 'each for himself should contribute to the country's prosperity by his own individual effort.'

OUR OBLIGATIONS.

"You may properly ask what are the difficulties and what steps should be taken to overcome them. I am not speaking in any political sense because politics and I are almost strangers. But speaking entirely apart from politics, an excess of which in matters of commerce is probably one of our great tribulations, we are confronted with a situation which is partly an honorable scar and partly a self-inflicted wound. We have obligations due to our war participation which must be met and which have been cheerfully met; and we have obligations which are due to our own miscalculations or lack of judgment and these obligations must be met but in the nature of things are not so cheerfully met. All of them must of necessity be discharged and none of them should be increased.

The policy of the country would naturally, if business principles prevailed, be that the discharge should be rendered as easy as is proper and is possible and the reduction in our obligations should be accomplished by our own recognition of the necessity for curbed expenditures and for individual and corporate thrift.

"You will probably say that these are very easy things to point out, as they are within the knowledge of all men.

While they are within the knowledge they are not within the appreciation of all men because not all men, even business men take a very keen and personal interest in the country's affairs.

"That they are there is not a subject of debate but the method of relieving them is naturally a subject of some concern and in respect of which different opinions may prevail.

"My own conception of the situation can be reduced to very few words. I believe first, that we need have no apprehension of the future of Canada unless we ourselves retard that future by acting on false economic principles. I do not know of any country more bountifully endowed by nature than this country. I do not know of any country whose progress in fifty years with its ups and downs has been more steady or on a sounder foundation. On the other hand a serious if cool and confident consideration of its commercial and economic problems is just now necessary in Canada.

CANADA'S DEVELOPMENT.

"Let me illustrate. In 1867, at the time of Confederation, the population of Canada was somewhat in excess of three millions. Today it is slightly in excess of nine millions. In a span of 58 years it has almost tripled. That is not very much, but out of those 58 years you must take five years of the war and at least five years constituting the aftermath of the war when no development of a permanent character was possible even from the standpoint of industry or of population. This reduces the span to 48 years and in 48 years, notwithstanding the withdrawals from the country, due to abnormal conditions, our population almost tripled.

"But we are faced with certain difficulties which we ourselves must surmount. We need more people and the reason why we need them is we are not able to realize upon our wealth without their assistance and we are not able either to reduce the burden of taxation on the population without more production and the addition of more shoulders over which to spread the burden. Some criticize the disclosure of the fact that burdens are heavy and that is a reason why greater population is necessary in the interests of the whole country. Such disclosures are not made for the purpose of deterring prospective immigrants but for the sole purpose of exciting public interest and creating public sentiment, without the support of which no Government in a democratic country feels justified in moving.

"Now, I will admit that our immigration progress has not been spectacular. It has been slow and in quality did not equal and in quantity has only slightly exceeded the emigration from Canada. No one can possibly minimize the great effect of the magnet of the Republic to the south of us or the attraction of its 115 millions of population, of its wealth and the variety of opportunity which that wealth and population gives to young Canadians. We know, too, that Canadians are the most welcome citizens because of their ability and their reliability and we cannot wonder that a young man just through college feels the influence of that opportunity as against more unremunerative employment or lack of any in his own country. There is only one way of meeting this condition and that is by providing through the country's prosperity an opportunity better than which presently exists here.

"I think I may dismiss with a word the question of immigration. Its necessity is acknowledged. Much money is being spent in order to induce it and I am glad to be able to say that not only are the prospects good but that the co-operative effort between the Government and the transportation and immigration agencies is now so much improved that the machinery is able to work smoothly and well, with inestimable advantage both in the numbers received and the facility with which they are handled and placed.

NEW CAPITAL.

"But there is another form of immigration which is almost as important to this country and that is the immigration of capital, particularly of capital from the Motherland. Canada is too young to deny capital from any source, but Canada must prefer, other things being equal, the investment of British capital here and the British investor, both on patriotic and national grounds, would, under proper conditions, prefer this country to any other portion of the world.

"There is one danger in the situation and a danger which should be carefully guarded against and that is that we should not unconsciously or otherwise create the impression that this is not a country in which honest investments are given their proper protection. Many of you gentlemen are more familiar than I am with that peculiar sensitiveness as to credit existing in the money centres of the world. You probably appreciate that the investor in the United States or in England has a very accurate knowledge of the success attending enterprises in various countries. Upon that success he gauges the wisdom or otherwise of placing his money in that country and upon the encouragement of those in authority towards the establishment of such enterprises and their attitude towards them thereafter he will rely for his security. He does not expect unjustifiable rewards. He desires permanency and security and he insists that the commodity known as money should be permitted to work for him, and that his prospects for success should not be interfered with by the action or the attitude of those in control of the country's affairs. Whatever we may do to encourage the introduction of capital into Canada we should do but having done so we should see that it is entitled to such measure of just protection as will place the burden for failure, if failure ensues, on its own administration and not upon the country's fiscal or political policies.

"If I were to speak to you at any length on private enterprise you would naturally assume that I was a prejudiced observer, and in that you would be right, but I have the profound conviction that the spirit and the courage the initiative and the effort which is fundamental to enterprise and private undertakings are what has made this country progress thus far and are what will contribute more than any other factor to its future success.

INDUSTRY'S HELP.

"If I had other associations than those which I have I would still unceasingly advocate the support and encouragement of industry to this country. I do not know of any country which has succeeded without it, and I do not know of any other way in which the effort of the citizens of the country can be more effectively exerted to the nation's advantage.

"You gentlemen represent very great interests in Canada. You will probably admit, or if your modesty prevents, I will admit it for you, that you have a very loyal feeling towards this country, and that you are not willing that its political or national status should be changed in any essential particular. You have realized that something is lacking at the moment in the way of general prosperity, especially in certain sections of the country, and you want to do your share in having that prosperity restored. Now, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, representing as it does through its membership the bulk of industrial activity in the country, may have its motives misconstrued.

"In fact, if you are, I can sympathize with you because I represent the kind of industry which feels that at times even among its friends, its motives, especially when they contain elements of good business are publicly and politically misunderstood. If your activities were misconstrued, by even a portion of Canadians it would be regrettable. It would be particularly regrettable if the impression were created that you were a group of gentlemen sitting around mahogany desks and behind closed doors selfishly conspiring through the instrumentality of the tariff and other commercial devices to unduly increase the cost to the consumers for your own private advantage. The dissipation of any such conceptions which you and I know to be false is an important factor.

HAVE INFLUENCE.

"I do not know of any group of men who, combined, are capable of exercising such extensive public influence as you or who have used that influence less. The answer to the criticism of manufacturers' associations, bankers' associations, steamship conferences and other similar aggregations of men in the same business is that no one is able to point out that they are iniquitous either in action or influence, but in order that they should be appreciated, their policies and their motives should be understood and that means a political, candid exposition of their position.

"If I correctly appreciate the significance of this campaign, it has everything in it which is commendable. There is a general impression that this is a comparatively recent movement, but I am informed by those who have studied the history of this province that it is more than two hundred years old.

"Every one here, I think, will agree that this 'made in Canada' was a good slogan and had a great effect upon the sale of Canadian manufactures. My own impression is that its adoption was one of the wisest steps ever taken by the Canadian Manufacturers, with effects more far-reaching than the original promoters quite realized. If I remember rightly, its adoption was as much a defensive as an offensive action designed to encourage Canadians to support home industries out of patriotism and to spend less on imported goods. It was an advertisement to the Canadian buyer that the goods were made in Canada, and held the implication that it was a good thing to provide work for one's fellow Canadians. I do not recollect any propaganda accompanying the slogan, which suggested that the stamp 'made in Canada' was a certificate of excellence. Perhaps it was felt that that was a certificate which time alone could proye. At the same time its choice of this slogan undoubtedly has had a tendency to maintain a high standard of quality in Canadian goods. For this slogan is an advertisement, and it is an axiom in modern business that advertised goods imply a standard of excellence which must be maintained, otherwise they quickly lose their market.

VALUES OF THRIFT.

"The purely patriotic appeal, I am afraid, does not carry very far with the wife who has a housekeeping allowance of a hundred dollars a month for four children to clothe and feed. The cost of living nowadays is such that the family with small means has to be careful of every cent. And is it not better for a nation in the long run that our people should be thrifty, economical and careful buyers rather than that they should purchase things blindly? What would happen to Canada if all we had to do to sell our wares was to label them 'national'—and how long then would we last as a nation? If, however, the words 'produced in Canada' are found to be synonymous with 'best for the price' or 'worth the money,' then it has a real selling value, and creates an additional feeling of pleasure and pride in the buyer as well as in the seller.

"Now if you accept this point of view that the Made in Canada slogan or trade-mark can only be effective if it represents good quality and a high standard ,the importance of an adequate supply of skilled labor is evident. To force the Canadian manufacturer or producer to depend for his supply of skilled labor only on those who are already in the country is placing that manufacturer or producer under a severe handicap in competition with countries where families have been skilled workers in the same trade for generations. For it is only recently that Canada has become much of an industrial country, and there is no hereditary class of skilled workmen such as one finds, for instance ,in the Midlands of England or at Lyons in France. It means that the Canadian manufacturer in his search for labor must drain the Canadian farm population of its younger generation, and must accentuate the whole problem of farm life in this country. Surely it is sounder economics to do all we can to keep the younger generation on the Canadian farm, and to permit the manufacturer to obtain his skilled labor ready-made from countries where there is a surplus of such labor. As it is, he is being forced to train raw hands from the country whose incentive to come to the city is, as a rule not an interest in any particular kind of craft or manufacture—but merely a craving to be near the bright lights, the jazz orchestras and the moving picture palaces.

CANADA'S CHANCE.

"In this question of the immigration of skilled labor, Canada has an opportunity such as she never had before. Under the quota restrictions on immigration into the United States and under the labor contract regulations of that country, the United States can now be considered a Mecca for only a very few European skilled workers. That imported skilled labor had undoubtedly contributed largely to the phenomenal industrial progress of the United States, but now there is a feeling among Americans that the local supply is about equal to the demand, and the gates are therefore being barred. In the meanwhile, there is no race suicide among the workers over in Europe, and the pressure of population is such that skilled mechanics must emigrate or starve. Why should Canada with its many great facilties for manufacturing, particularly its cheap power and its supply of natural resources and raw materials—why should not Canada take this opportunity and help herself while helping them.

"Skilled labor is essentially creative labor, and if it can be absorbed it is the most profitable form of immigration a country can have. That is admitted by the advocates of farm labor emigration, where the experienced farmer or farm-hand is welcomed with both hands. Such as experienced farmers is really a skilled laborer in the manufacture of farm products. He is a producer and not merely a wage earner. The farmer and the manufacturer depend on each other in the most intimate manner.

SOME CONSEQUENCES.

I represent a company whose consistent and considered policy is the purchase wherever possible of Canadian goods and one of whose many activities consist in inducing the establishment of manufacturers in Canada or branches of their enterprises.

"I can see that there are three or four conspicuous consequences of a successful movement of this kind which, with your permission, I will mention. A national conception is, of course ,to create a national attitude in the expenditure of money and the purpose of such expenditure made in Canada to give other Canadians employment on the farm, in the workshops and on the railroads, such employment in turn providing a consumptive power—providing the producers with food, clothing, amusement and housing. To hold our natural growth, and support immigration requires healthy employment in order to provide positions. The greater our prosperity and the more active our employment means the greater will be our productive capacity and our ability to support taxation easily.

"Internal trade means business for the railways. It means the increasing of the reliance of our part of Canada upon the other parts of Canada and it means that free interchange of goods which involves a mutual support, without which the full prosperity of the Country cannot be realized. It means in particular that a dollar made in Canada may be properly spent in Canada in order that that dollar will continue to work for Canadians and Canadian enterprise. It is a very far-reaching and potent move, not entirely selfish in conception because it is for the creation of national prosperity and therefore greater national confidence. To my mind it is perfectly legitimate and economically sound to conserve and encourage Canadian industry. I hope that your efforts will meet with the success you have every right to expect."

ON CANADA'S TRADE.

Col. Hatch, in a brief speech, cited statistics showing the amount of goods that Canada imported every year, the total value of which amounted to $800,000,000 last year. He also cited figures relating to the asbestos industry showing the enormous difference between the value of the raw product, that Canada exported to the States, and the finished product.

Every country, he pointed out, went through four stages, the first when it had to buy everything, which was a Free Trade era; the second when they imposed a tariff for revenue purposes; the third, an assembling stage when they were bringing in parts of machinery to start the industries of the country; and a fourth when protection was needed to safeguard the industries which would develope the natural resources of the country.

The "Produced In Canada" movement, he concluded, was not a selfish one instituted solely for the manufacturers but was designed to help everything that was produced in the country, both agriculturally and industrially.

Among those present at the meeting were representatives of the Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce, the Retail Merchants' Association, Wholesale Grocers' Guild, Metal and Hardware Association, Wholesale Drygoods Association, Montreal Publicity Association, Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, and Kinsmans Clubs.

Among others present were Chief Justice Lafontaine, Ald. Sansregret, W. S. Fallis, J. H. Sherrard, Col. Robert Starke, W. H. Miner, Norman Holland, Joseph Beaubien, Col. J. B. Maclean, Col. C. Howard Smith, Paul Joubert, George McKinnon, Sir Alexander Bertram, Raoul Grothe, J. Alain, Pemberton Smith, Andrew Cordner, Ald. L. Trepanier, J. A. Bothwell, and Ludger Gravel.

ENGLISH CLERGY TO PREACH HERE

The Rev. Howard May and the Rev. F. B. Meyer, noted English clergymen and lecturers will arrive in Canada next Saturday and will spend a few days in Montreal. Both clergymen have travelled widely and are well known practically in every land. They will travel across Canada and speak in the principal cities. At the morning service at Westmount Baptist Church next Sunday Dr. Meyer will preach. In the afternoon at 3:15 he will speak, with Dr. Howard May, at St. James Methodist Church. This meeting will be for men under the auspices of the Montreal Brotherhood Association. In the evening Dr. Meyer will preach at the Westmount Baptist Church at 7 o'clock.

The program for the Rev. Howard May is as follows: At 11 a.m. on Sunday, he will speak at St. Giles Presbyterian Church; in the afternoon and evening at St. James Methodist Church.

Next Monday night both clergymen will speak at eight o'clock in St. James Methodist Church before the Inter-denominational Young People's rally.

MOTHERS-IN-LAW GET CONSOLATION

"The faults of mothers-in-law are born of the love of the mother for the child of her bosom," said the Rev. Canon Coube in addressing a large gathering in the hall of the St. Sulpice Library last night. Canon Coube said that he did not pose as the defender of the widow or the orphan nor as the solicitor for the mother-in-law, especially as the mother-in-law needs no apologist. The mother-in-law was never the object of a serious attack. It was true thousands of witticisms had been conjured up which revolved around her personality, but in all truth her status gave rise to some interesting problems.

"Being a mother-in-law is an institution founded by God when he ordered the husband and wife to cleave to each other, abandoning their fathers and mothers. But the mother, whose child is flesh of her flesh, suffers agonies when she sees the child leave her—and these are the more poignant when the child is a boy—and she naturally feels antagonistic to the girl who has come into his life and taken him away from her."

THREE IN ACCIDENTS.

Colombe Lortie, nine, of 158 Mount Royal Avenue East, is a patient in the Montreal General Hospital with a fractured right wrist as a result of a fall from a second storey balcony at her home late yesterday afternoon.

Isaac Billington, 28, of 20 Baisin street, is also at the same hospital, suffering from scalp wounds, which he suffered when struck by a door at the Montreal Dry Dock yesterday, when seeking work.

At the same hospital, and likewise suffering from scalp injuries is G. A. McDonald, aged 33, of 339 Beaver Hall Hill, who fell down a flight of stairs outside 322 Lagauchetiere street west, late yesterday afternoon.

Tells Why He Can Now Eat Hearty

"A letter which I read in the paper about Carter's Little Liver Pills fitted my own case so closely that I could not help trying them and am very happy I did." So writes Mr. Frank J. Trumbull of Jersey City, N. J., whose letter goes on to say, "I had heard about Carter's Little Liver Pills for years but never knew they helped overcome poor appetite and sour stomach, until I read about another man in the same plight who took Carter's with good results. I tried them and can honestly say that they freed me of nasty gas on stomach, so that I can now eat without getting bilious, and they improved my appetite fully 100%. You can rest assured that from now on I will boost Carter's Little Liver Pills whenever I can."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Girls Devote Funds to Restore Child's Health

Recently the kindergarten class at the Iverley Settlement missed one of its tiny boys. The little fellow had been suffering from a heavy cold, and later in the day was reported to have developed pneumonia. Much anxiety was expressed over his critical condition, but the crisis passed eventually. It was hoped that he could soon rejoin his little playmates at the Settlement, which is in Financial Federation, but the ravages of the disease had seriously undermined his health and his strength did not return.

Through the generosity of the girls belonging to one of the Junior Red Cross groups at Iverley, the funds which they had raised for their club by giving a play were set aside by a unanimous vote to help the little boy in his struggle for health. The Junior Red Cross also contributed. The doctor advised country air, and accordingly the girls paid his expenses out of their funds.

The little boy has now returned to the city, and the doctor states that his health is quite restored through the opportunity given by the girls to get away from the close confines of a city dwelling into the pure air of the country.

SALVATION ARMY VETERAN MOURNED

The funeral service for Brigadier Alexander MacMillan, veteran Salvationist, whose death occurred on Sunday, took place yesterday afternoon at the Citadel on University street, where officers and members of the Army, other agencies, and Freemasons gathered to pay their last tribute.

In the hall where the services were held there were no mourning symbols, with the exception of floral wreaths. The band under William Goodier was present and before the service played hymns, including, "When Peace like a River." Mrs. Staff-Captain Owens sang a solo.

Divisional Commandant Col. Walton officiated during the ceremony and tributes to the deceased were paid by Ensign McBain and Adjt. N. Fitcher. Messages were received from Commissioner Mapp, Chief Secretary John MacMillan, son of Brigadier MacMillan, who is stationed at headquarters in England, and Commander Miss Booth. Many city organizations and societies were represented.

Family mourners were Major Donald MacMillan, of the U. S. Salvation Army, Alexander, Norman, and William of Montreal, sons.

GARRISON PARADE.

The annual church parade of the Montreal Garrison will be held on the afternoon of Sunday May 31, when all the permanent force, active naval reserve and militia units and cadet corps in the area will participate accompanied by their war veterans, to whom a special invitation will, it is understood, be extended to attend the parade. It is expected that the Minister of National Defence will be present in person at the saluting base to take the salute.

REPRESENTS CANADA.

Dr. A. S. Lamb, head of the School for Physical Education, McGill University, will leave Montreal on May 15, for Prague, to attend the Olympic congress and the technical congress on physical education which will be conducted this year by the Czecho-Slovakian Government. Dr. Lamb, and P. J. Mulqueen, Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee, will represent Canada at the Congress.

RUSSIA IS FIELD FOR CANADIAN ENTERPRISE

Commissioner's View After Observing Conditions

When normal economic conditions prevail again in Russia, that country should become a big field, not only for Canadian products, but for the employment of skilled Canadian engineers and technical men. This is the prediction of L. D. Wilgress, Canadian trade commissioner at Hamburg, who is now on a two months' visit to Montreal.

Canadian trade with Soviet Russia since the revolution has consisted of isolated transactions, said Mr. Wilgress, rather than a regular flow of trade. As an example, there was an order for 500 tank cars secured by a Canadian Company, and several orders have been executed by Canadian manufacturers of agricultural machinery. The only periods in which exports from this country to Russia have been heavy have been in times of shortage in Russia, as in 1921, 1922 and at the present, when there have been heavy purchases of Canadian flour.

During the last few months Russian organisations have purchased goods to the value of $19,000,000, all of this except $250,000 for agricultural machinery, being spent on flour.

It would appear that the re-establishment of normal economic conditions in Russia will require the investment of foreign capital, in his opinion. When the necessary conditions have been established for the investment of that capital we may look forward to abundant opportunities for trade since the great natural resources of the country are unimpaired, he said.

There are two ways in which the revival of Russian trade will interest Canada. In the first place Canadian manufacturers of agricultural machinery and other appliances are in an excellent position to supply a good share of Russian needs and, secondly, Russia will also require foreign technical skill. Canadian engineers and technical men are eminently suited to deal with such matters as the provision of grain elevators; agricultural operations, the building and operation of railways, lumbering and mining, he said.

AMERICAN VETERAN BURIED BY FUND

Last Post Fund has taken charge of burial arrangements of Horace E. Fitzmaurice, American veteran of the Spanish American War who died here suddenly on April 30 from cerebral hemorrhage in a Dorchester street rooming house.

Local authorities tried to get into touch with the man's relatives without success. A. F. Brunet also a veteran of that war, an American of French Canadian origin asked the support of the Last Post Fund in giving his comrade an honorable burial

The funeral will take place from Wray's undertaking establishment on Mountain street to the Mount Royal Cemetery at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Interment will take place in the Last Post Fund plot. The service will be conducted by the Rev. H. V. Frisker.

DIES SUDDENLY.

Robert C. Pike, 50, of 1645 De Normanville street, died suddenly at 6:30 o'clock this morning, at De Gaspe and Bellechasse streets.

RAZE MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

Workers Wreak Havoc on Famous Big Gotham Building

SCENE OF MURDER

Slaying of Stanford White by Harry Thaw is Recalled

NEW YORK, May 6. — (United Press).—The chunk of crow-bars and pick-axes into plaster, the ring of hammers and the whine of saws are sounding through Madison Square Garden as a wrecking crew is making the final assault upon the historic edifice that has been a New York landmark for 35 years.

Pine scaffolds reached up to bring down Diana, the undraped deity by St. Gaudens which tops the Moorish tower designed by Stanford White.

The latter's apartments and studio, which figured so fantastically in the famous trial of Harry K. Thaw for White's murder 19 years ago, were the first to be demolished. Nothing remained of them when the workmen broke the dusty walls save rusted locks and a few massive pillars. The mirrors that once covered these walls and the lavish appointments that led Stanford White to notoriety greater than the fame won by his architectural skill had long since been carried away.

SCENE OF MURDER.

A step lower down, where the roof garden, the scene of the sensational murder, stretched from the tower's base to Madison avenue, nothing remains, but the steel cage of what was once an elevator shaft to remind one of the days of the fin de siecle and later, when the smartest of New York Society and the fastest of the sporting crowd came to wine and dine at the Garden.

The vast auditorium of the structure was vacated recently by the circus. Johnny Dundee and Sid Terris, were the last of a famous line of gladiators to appear in the Garden.

Mention of this better known (at least to the present generation) part of the Garden brings one inevitably to Tex Rickard. For the last five years Rickard, who has started work on a new and greater Garden farther uptown, has been lessee of the entire building.

Seated in his office high in the tower, Tex told about the later stages of the Garden's history.

"You can get some idea," said the promoter, "of what this place has meant to New York City and the Government when I tell you I have paid a million and a half dollars in rent and taxes on it during the last five years.

"The amusement tax paid to the Government in that time has been more than a $2,500,000. Not counting amusements, every time I turn the key in the door in the morning, it costs me about $1,000.

"We have had every presidential candidate and every celebrity of the athletic world that ever came to New York.

"And here's an example of how sentiment changes. When boxing first started in the Garden, you couldn't get a reputable businessman to admit he came to the fights. Attendance at a bout was something done surreptitiously. Now, on my board of directors for the new arena uptown, I've got some of the biggest bankers and business men of Wall street."

PROMINENT CITIZENS.

And Rickard ran over a list of names that sounded like a combination of Bradstreet and the Social Register.

Tex Rickard claims that since he took over the Garden and started bouts, conventions, swimming, circuses ,all of "shows" from the rodeo and the dog show to needle-work exhibitions with some 10,000,000 people passing through the turnstiles —there has not been a single serious accident.

"In all that time only one man reported having his pocket picked," Rickard said with a grin.

But there are ghosts about the Garden that ante-date Rickard by many a year. The present structure was completed in 1890. Before that there was Gilmore's Garden, on the same site, which was nothing more nor less than a converted train shed of the old Harlem and New York railroad. P. T. Barnum gave his "greatest show on earth" in Gilmore Garden for many years.

ANNUAL HORSESHOW.

In the new garden ,in the '90s, the feature was the annual horseshow. The luncheon in the big room on the southwest corner the Sunday before the horseshow opened was the most spectacular social event of the year. And the chief feature of the luncheon was the "Battle of the Waistcoats," society bloods seeking to outdo one another in displaying extreme vests. Corbett, Fitzsimmons, McCoy and our present Jack Dempsey were but a few of a long line of champions to box in the Garden. Adelina Patti gave one of her many farewell concerts in the auditorium.

The French ball and the Arion Ball brought the leaders of half the world to the Garden each year. Honest John Kelly and George Kessless, the famous wine agent, rubbed elbows with Diamond Jim Brady and the beauties of the period.

Dan O'Leary and Barney McCoy walked in the Garden, and Johnny Hayes and Dorando, disputants for the Marathon title, ran there. Harry Stevens, now a millionaire caterer, got his start selling "weenies" in the auditorium. Harry's first "stock" was a basketful. At one of Rickard's shows recently, the crowd ate 12 tons of "hot-dogs."

William Jennings Bryan, came to the Garden to 1896 to accept the Democratic nomination for the presidency and John W. Davis was nominated there last year.

NEVADA CITY, Calif., May 6.—(Associated Press.)—Two men believed to be Joe Tanko and Floyd Hall, escaped murderers from San Quentin prison, yesterday held up the United States mail stage between North Bloomfield and Graniteville. They drove the automobile at high speed through the mountains, passed through Nevada City and Grass Valley, then abandoned the car. Sheriffs of four counties had posses searching the mountains within an hour after the robbery.

SEVERE MASCULINE LINES MARK FEMININE FASHIONS DESPITE MAKERS' EFFORTS

PARIS, May 6.—(United News).—Severe masculine lines, flouting alike the ambitious couturier and the spirit of spring, mark feminine fashions this season. Despite determined attempts of dressmakers to persuade women to adopt fantastic novelties, there are very few departures from last season's vogue and all these tend toward style stabilization.

At Longchamps in the fashionable tea places of the Champs Elysees and along the boulevards at shopping time, women are seen wearing short, straight-cut, skirts, flesh colored stockings, low-heeled shoes, and coats like those men wear in the spring. These coats are strikingly masculine in material and design and appear as though they may have come out of a man's shop. They are set off only by the bright scarf around the neck, which is still popular here.

The only striking departure from the masculine effect is the broad-brimmed hat. This has suddenly become so astonishingly popular that milliners have trouble fulfilling the demand. It is an instance of wearers dictating to makers, for the potentates of fashion decreed another good season for the bell-shaped hat, but apparently milady wants headgear of more distinction.

Women themselves are determining what they will wear, according to the great dressmakers, who are beginning to think that the emancipation of women has gone beyond them.

"Women's fondness for sport fixes the present severe contour," said M. Jean-Charlesworth. "Women actually prefer simplicity in order not to attract attention. Their 'emancipation' socially and politically has gradually led to masculine severity in line, and dressmakers have not the courage to introduce anything new."

Mme. Jeanne Lanvin believes that fashion today is an expression of contemporary life. Dressmakers and their clients alike are powerless to change modes without first changing prevailing ways of living, she says. Changes must come slowly and gradually, and in the consciousness of the woman wearer.

"Women are hampered in giving way to their whims," complains M. Poiret, the well known dictator of fashion. He ardently hopes that present styles will change, for he says there can be no real artistry in clothes as preferred at present.

Lucien Lelong thinks women themselves have created the present styles by their manner of living. He believes there is an economic reason in the stability of styles.

But M. Lewis sees signs of the age-old vanity of women. "The desire to appear as young as possible explains the simplicity in present styles," he says. "These masculine lines make women look young, and they go nicely with the short skirt and bobbed hair. We will change fashions only when women change their ideas."

CHARGE SEDITION AGAINST BISHOP

MEXICO CITY, May 6.—(Associated Press.)—Jose De Jesus Manrique Zarate, Bishop of Huejutla, has been cited to the Attorney-General by the Department of the Interior for a recent pastoral letter, which the authorities consider openly seditious.

Referring to the occurrences in connection with the creation of the Mexican apostolic church and the taking over of church buildings by the Government, Bishop Zarate declared that the church was the owner of the buildings and that the Government was guilty of theft when it took them over.

Concerning the article in the Mexican Constitution empowering the Government to intervene in religious matters, the pastoral letter is quoted as saying:

"We solemnly declare that we will never submit to the Government's authority in church matters in which the Pope is the only authority."

Any laws contrary to the divine or ecclasiastical laws, it was added, were null and highly unmoral.

Increase in Price Of Flowers Raises Housewives' Ire

PROVIDENCE, R.I., May 6. — (United Press.) — The House-Wives League of Providence has endorsed the wearing of a white ribbon on Mothers' Day instead of the usual white carnation, as a protest against a promised increase in the price of flowers.

Carnations now sell at retail here from $2 to $2.75 a dozen. Leading florists announce that prices will go up as Sunday approaches, "with the possibility of reaching $4." They say the rise in price is small in comparison with that in larger cities, and is governed entirely by the law of supply and demand.

OPPOSITION TO INSURANCE PLAN

Industry Doubtful if it Can Bear Additional Expense

LLOYD GEORGE SILENT

Chancellor is Given Credit for Comprehensive Scheme

LONDON, May 6. — (Canadian Press)—Whatever demerits there may be in the new system of pensions and insurance which the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill, has included in the Budget, certainly it lacks nothing in comprehensiveness. The Chancellor is given credit on all sides, except in Labor circles, for having made a bold attempt to combine the existing measures of insurance against sickness and unemployment with the new provisions for old age pensions.

The most important point in the new scheme is the one based upon compulsion on the part of the employers and upon the workers contributing their share, whereas under the existing narrow system the old age pensions are borne entirely by the State.

It is noteworthy that when Lloyd George, 13 years ago, introduced the first National Health Insurance scheme, he rather surprised his political enemies by providing that the workers should contribute to their insurance from the start, although those were the days when his speeches envisioned "rare and refreshing fruit" awaiting the workers. He inferentially conveyed to the workers that it was his intention to help them to the said fruit from the tree of the idle rich and the bloated capitalist.

Incidentally it may be stated that Lloyd George has had little to say so far about the Chancellor's new scheme.

As has already been predicted, these measures will form the biggest items of contention in connection with the Budget. To such an extent will this be the case that the details thereof will be thrashed out on the floor of the House of Commons instead of in the standing committee.

The chief discussion undoubtedly will be the plain and momentious question, can industry bear this extra imposition? It is suggested that what the employer spends on insurance will have a round-about effect on the doles paid out under the poor law. The Chancellor has stated that if the unemployment figures fall to 800,000 both the workers and employers' contributions can be reduced. The number of unemployed on the first of this month was estimated at 1,202,700.

Employers seem inclined to take the view that if there is a real trade revival the insurance contributions can be met easily, but failing a revival of trade the Chancellor's scheme is bound to lead to insolvency in a short time.

Local Horsemen and Horsewomen are Busy Practicing for Hunt Club Show

MANY HORSES BEING SCHOOLED FOR THE HUNT CLUB SHOW

Despite the unusual conditions of the weather a number of the members of the Montreal Hunt Club who have entered horses in the annual horse show of the club which takes place on the club grounds on Cote St. Catherine Road on Friday and Saturday May 8 and 9, were busily engaged at the grounds yesterday afternoon schooling the horses with which they hope to win some of the excellent prizes at the forthcoming show.

Due to the recent rains the ground of the ring was somewhat soggy and the footing of the horses at the jumps anything but secure but regardless of this fact, the horses appeared in splendid condition and the competition for the prizes should be very keen. The horses of Mr. and Mrs. Ethier were perhaps given the hardest training of any on the grounds and they will no doubt be in first class shape for the opening of the events on Friday afternoon.

Considerable interest is being taken in the Gymkhana events which will be run off on Saturday morning and a number of the young entrants have been practising during the past two weeks and appear to have their performers well drilled.

The grounds were in a rather rough condition this morning due to the softness of the turf yesterday but the groundkeeper and his assistants were busy putting the ring back in shape for this afternoon's schooling.

The officials of the show are making arrangements to take care of all the children who are interested in horses and who wish to attend the Gymkhana Events on Saturday morning. They hope that the youngsters will find it worth their while to make the trip to the grounds to witness the races.

A cup will be presented to the winner of each event by the Hunt Club and a special trophy is being given by Miss E. Viau for one of the classes which will be made known before the show.

The officials in charge of the show are as follows: Stewards, Harold Hampson M. F. H., Lieut. Col. G. R. Hooper, George A. Ross, James G. Shearer, E. Ethier, Judges, A. E. Ogilvie and H. B. Would Force Fighters To Protect Head

With the idea of cutting down fatalities in the boxing ring, Louis A. Larivee, member of the Civic Athletic Commission of Montreal which controls the fight game in this city, has come forward with a suggestion that all boxers be forced to wear skull caps, or guards which will cover the skull and the parts lower down at the back of the head.

He will bring that up at the first opportunity at the local commission and intends, he says, to submit the idea before all the commissions when a joint meeting is taking place.

In support of this idea, which, he says, is no more foolish today than the proposition to use boxing gloves was fifty years ago, Mr. Larivee explains that all the fatalities in the ring are not from a blow struck by an opposing boxer but from the resultant contact of the head with the floor of the ring when knocked down. It is useless, he says, for a boxer to hit another on the head, as he would only break his hands eventually. The use of the skull cap would prevent fracture of the skull from a fall and the only thing it would prevent other boxers from doing would be hitting their opponents around the head. The body-punching and chin-socking would go on as before and therefore the game would not be spoilt, he contends.

LOCAL SWIMMING CLUB'S NEW OFFICERS ARE OLD

The fiftieth annual meeting of the Montreal Swimming Club was held at the Windsor Hotel last night, and it was better attended than for many years past. The secretary and the treasurer presented reports showing that the old Island club had enjoyed still another year of progress and had finished up with a balance on the right side. The committee that is looking after the arrangements for the celebration of the big jubilee program, this summer, submitted a report of their activities that gives great promise of a very busy season at this club. The plans have made provision for the holding of a series of weekly aquatic sports that will be staged each Saturday afternoon all through the summer months. Sanction has been secured from the Amateur Swimming Association which will permit the Island club to hold quite a number of Dominion championships, and the club hopes to have the attendance of several of the United States aquatic stars during the season.

The membership committee say that many old members, of years gone by, have joined up again and they expect that the membership list will be increased fully three times over the previous year. It was announced that John Kerry was in Ottawa looking after the program arrangements, and also with a view of having a delegation of swimmers from By-Town visit the club and compete in some of the weekly meets. It is even hoped that a water polo team will come along. Several of the Toronto speed men have promised to put in entries for the championship events. The elected officers for the coming year are as follows: President, N. W. Power; 1st vice-president, A. R. Laflamme; 2nd vice-president, George Moore; 3rd vice-president, John Kerry; hon. secretary, Fred E. Stacpool, 359 Jeanne Mance street. Treasurer, Thos. J. Darling. Committee, Stanley King, Hector Smith, L. Gauvin, M. Guay, A. W. Ross, Terry Lewis, D. Callaghan. Re-election was the rule, with the exception that the new office of 3rd vice-president was created this year. In view of the fact that this will be a very busy year, the officers were cautioned that the members will expect them to be on the job at all times throughout the summer. The jubilee committee will continue to meet every Monday night at the M.A.A.A. until further notice, as they still have considerable work ahead of them.

THE CLOSE-UP

LADY BOWLERS ON THE INCREASE

It is remarkable how the interest in ladies' bowling has increased in Montreal, as elsewhere. The ladies first took to it in the United States.

There is a club in New York city called the Greater New York Women's Bowling Association, writes Aileen Riggin, organized October 27, 1919, with seven charter members and which now has more than 200. The club recently ran a tournament which brought together thirty-five teams of five women each, seventy-two doubles teams, and 139 single entries. The first tournament, held several years ago, attracted seven five-girl teams, twenty-two doubles and thirty-three singles.

HE'S FOUND IT OUT

A despatch from Paris recently announced that Firpo had decided he was just "about through" as a prizefighter.

Oh, Luis Angel Firgo,
What's that we hear you say?
You think you're through?—
We think so too
And have for many a day.

Now that you know it, Firpo,
We burst out into rhyme.
You've learned at last,
When years have past,
What we knew all the time.

THE GOLDEN PEAK

A recently published series of articles regarding the life and battles of John L. Sullivan brings back to mind the vast gulf financially between pugilism of the past and the present ring game, writes Wm. F. Kirk.

When the immortal John L. was a youngster around Boston a purse of one or two hundred dollars was regarded as princely! Can the reader imagine John L. Sullivan taking the stand which was taken by Dempsey and his manager at Shelby, Montana?

Sullivan, in his younger days, fought for the sheer love of fighting. He was tremendously powerful and remarkably fast for a heavyweight, and he hit like a trip hammer. A fight between a man like Sullivan at his best and our Dempsey of today would be a marvelous exhibition. Who would win?

Sullivan lived long enough to see pugilism develop into the imposing ranks of big business. He lived to see gates running up into the hundred thousands. It must have annoyed the old gladiator to see fat purses handed out to men whom he could have flattened in less than a round of fighting. However, it is doubtful if John L. Sullivan would have remained as popular with modern conditions existing as he assuredly did remain with things as they were.

Dempsey may be a greater fighter today than Sullivan was in his prime, but he can never hope to hold the unique place in Fistiana that will always be occupied by "yours truly, John L. Sullivan, always on the level."

TIME LIMIT FOR RESIDENCE

They take their amateur hockey very seriously in Ontario as the following story published in a newspaper there shows. The time limit for residence enabling one to play next winter, it seems, was May first. This is how the story goes:

ORANGEVILLE, May 1.—The town was out en masse to greet the great Conacher last night, but as usual he disappointed the crowd. At 10 o'clock a report was circulated that Conacher, Cotton and McCurry had 'phoned from Toronto and were heading for here in an auto, but the clock struck twelve without the famous athletes. However, "Andy" McGee, of Toronto, arrived, so the prospects for a fast senior O.A.L.A. team are assured.

Granite Curlers honor T. Howard Stewart with ancient title.

BIG ENTRY LIST FOR FOX-TERRIER SHOW

Montreal dog fanciers are assured of a treat on Saturday next. The Montreal Fox Terrior Club of which that popular and veteran dog enthusiast, W. R. Aitken is president, will stage their Spring Specialty Show on the afternoon and evening of Saturday May 9th, at the Auditorium Hall. Over 125 entries have been received to date and some very high class dogs have been entered, both Canadian bred and imported stock. Judging will commence at 4.00 p.m. sharp, and decisions will be handed out by that famous and well known terrier authority, Mr. H. Robinson. There are specials for every class, including a fox terrier and an enthusiastic attendance is assured.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE PRO. BOXERS AND WRESTLERS

ALTHOUGH little has been heard of late about Armand Vincent's boxing show in the Forum, he announces to-day that he has been negotiating with "Kid" Norfolk, Paul Reed and Tommy Loughlin to oppose Harry Greb here on the 18th, and all three are ready to come. The executive of the new Metropolitan Athletic Club is to make a selection of these this afternoon.

Other attractions will be: Silvio Mireault and Jackie Johnson ten rounds; Rosario Baril and Pete Mullins, six rounds; Art Dufour and Leo Lafontaine, six rounds; and "Battling" Sanderelli and Zbysco Gravel, six rounds.

There are to be no waits between bouts. Ten per cent of the net profits are to go to the Fresh Air Fund, and ten per cent to the Home for Incurables.

One of the great troubles in selecting an opponent for a man like Greb is that such as Jeff Smith or Bagosh want such big sums that there would be nothing left for the Fresh Air Fund or the Home for Incurables, if these men were engaged, according to Mr. Vincent.

NEW YORK, May 6. — (United News). — The New York fight commission mixed the ingredients of a very warm tamale Tuesday when it named Stanizlaus Loayza, the new Chilean lightweight, to battle Tommy White, Mexico's nominee, in the semi-final round of the foreign section of the tournament to find a new lightweight champion of the world.

GUELPH, May 6. — In order to get into condition for the London-to-Brighton 52-mile British walking classic, in which he intends to compete this year, Philip Granville, Canadian walking champion, will commence an extensive training campaign at once.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, and his bride, Estelle Taylor, sailed today for England and France to enjoy a vacation of six weeks. Dempsey denied again that he had any matches in sight. "We're going for pleasure, and I'll talk business when I return," he said.

NEW YORK, May 6. — Negotiations have been practically closed for a world's featherweight championship bout between Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., and Red Chapman, Boston boxer, to be held as the main attraction in Long Island City, June 9, under the auspices of the Long Island City Elks.

PARIS, May 6. — Roland Todd, of England, former European middleweight champion, and Francois Charles, of France, last night fought fifteen rounds to a draw. The match was for the chance to meet Bruno Frattini, of Italy, the present holder of the European middleweight championship, for the title.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Rocky Kansas, veteran Buffalo lightweight, was suspended for sixty days by the New York State Athletic Commission at its semi-weekly meeting yesterday for fouling Sid Terris, of New York, in the fifth round of their ten-round match at Buffalo, on April 27.

At the same time the commission lifted two suspensions—Jock Malone, St. Paul welterweight, who appeared against Mickey Walker while the champion was under the ban in New York, was returned to good standing, and the same action was taken in the case of Charlie Carpenter, of New York, who engaged the light-heavyweight titleholder, Mike McTigue, while the latter was barred from New York State.

CHICAGO, May 6.—Stanislau Cygeniewicz Zbyszko, conqueror of Wayne "Big" Munn, says the world is all wrong in attempting to guess his age. When the veteran Pole flopped the giant Nebraska collegian, the reporters said that Zbyszko was 52 years old, some said 56, and a few hit 58 as the high mark.

Zbyszko, however, made solemn oath yesterday that he's just 45 summers, and no winters, old.

OLD ORDER OF NOBILITY REVIVED IN CURLING

E. HOWARD STEWART MADE THANE OF GRANITE CURLERS—FIRST SEASON'S PLAY FOR EDINBURGH TROPHY A GLORIOUS ONE.

A Scottish title of nobility centuries old was bestowed upon T. Howard Stewart at the annual meeting of the Granite Association held last night at the Royal Montreal Curling Club when the members of the association unanimously named him Thane of the Granite Association. This honor was given in appreciation of Mr. Stewart's gifts to local curling clubs when last winter he presented the clubs of this city with granite stones to encourage the granite game in Canada.

AN OLD, OLD TITLE.

The honor is a revival of an ancient Scottish dignity ranking with Earl, indicating second person in the land, or, as applied in the case, second to none in curling. Jamieson's etymological dictionary of the Scottish language says it means "Lord, dynast of governor." This, at all events, was the authority from whom W. O. Roy, the president, read. By way of illustration, it may be recalled that Macbeth was the Thane of Cawdor, and Macduff the Thane of Fife.

It has not been used for many centuries.

The entire slate of officers were re-elected as follows: President, W. O. Roy; vice-president, W. G. Kent; honorary secretary, W. Brown; honorary treasurer, James Currie; honorary auditor, R. M. Finlay. Heading these, of course, is T. Howard Stewart as Thane.

Those present at the meeting were: P. D. Lyall, Caledonia; S. W. Tench, St. Lawrence; J. Currie, Caledonia; J. Bruce Stewart, president of the Canadian Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club; W. B. Hutchison, Heather; W. J. Little, Outremont; W. O. G. Dettmers, St. Lawrence; C. D. MacFarland, St. Andrew's; W. G. Kent, Thistle; W. Brown, Royal Montreal; W. O. Roy, Caledonia; A. P. Bastable, Lachine; W. L. Cushing, Heather; A. B. Otter, Montreal West; W. J. Muir, Montreal West, and T. Howard Stewart.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The treasurer in his report stated that he had received $536 in subscriptions during the past year. There were no expenditures to report and no accounts outstanding. The expenses for the first year of organization were defrayed by T. Howard Stewart.

It was decided at the meeting that, following an agreement with Toronto, the Birks trophy would be held by Montreal and Toronto every other year regardless of the city which won the prize. It was first suggested that the club with the largest margin on the winning side should have the possession. The match will also be held alternately in Toronto and Montreal, play to be held here next year. A draw was then made as to how the local clubs would be awarded the trophy, with the following results: St. Lawrence, Thistle, Heather, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Outremont, Lachine, St. Andrew's, Montreal West, Royal Montreal, Pointe Claire. The last named club will therefore be the guardian some twenty years hence.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

W. Brown, in reading his annual report, said, amongst other things:—

I have much pleasure in submitting the first annual report of the Granite Curling Association.

The conception of the idea of forming a granite section amongst the iron-playing curlers of the Island of Montreal was born in the minds of several of the members of the Caledonia Curling Club, and for the purpose of gauging the pulse of the other clubs as to their attitude in relation to the granite game, a meeting of representative curlers was convened on February 27, 1924, to form an association.

W. O. Roy, to whom may be very justifiably ascribed all the credit due for the launching of this project, said that be, like many others, had felt that the granite game had been brought into ridicule in the eyes of many curlers through its being played only under conditions which would not permit of the playing of irons, and as a consequence it was relegated to the burlesque, and many curlers failed to realize the good points of the game.

HEARTY APPROVAL.

The project met with the hearty approval of the meeting, and a provisional committee was appointed, and the hands of the committee and the delegates were greatly strengthened by a most generous offer made by T. Howard Stewart to equip all clubs on the Island, who so desired, with a sufficiency of granite stones to ensure a full complement for all the rinks.

The actual organization of the Granite Curling Association took place at a meeting held December 3, 1924, and notice of acceptance by the Royal Caledonia Curling Club (Canadian Branch) of our application for membership was intimated, the relationship to be similar to that existing between the Branch and the Ladies' Curling Association.

As a result of Mr. Stewart's offer, application was made by the several clubs for 180 pairs of granite stones, and these were all Red Hone Ailsas and a choicer lot of stones never left any manufacturer.

Mr. Stewart later came forward with the proposal that he have the privilege of presenting a trophy for competition annually amongst the members of the Granite Association, and that if acceptable he would donate a miniature to each constituent club, with 4 pieces of Royal Crown Derby China to the members of each of the winning rinks, the main trophy to be called the "Edinburgh Trophy" and the replicas the "Pat Lid" Trophies.

Unfortunately the curling season on the whole was not quite up to the standard of previous years, due to the vagaries of the weather.

RENTED FORUM.

Mr. Stewart this time came to the rescue and has placed all curlers in this vicinity under a deep sense of gratitude for that memorable and never-to-be-forgotten sight which we were all privileged to witness on March 13 and 14, afternoon and evening, at the Forum, when 360 players vied with each other in friendly encounter for the first year's possession of the "Edinburgh Trophy." Mr. Stewart, without expense of any kind to the Association, engaged the Forum for the two days, and the granite season was brought to a triumphant conclusion at midnight Saturday, when the Outremont Club, on the basis of percentage per rink, were declared the winners with an average of 4 1-12, and the two rinks skipped by W. J. Little and W. J. Bramley, having each a victory of 12 shots. Mr. Stewart, with his usual generosity, kindly donated 8 gold medals to the winning rinks, and likewise presented the same 8 players with silver trays, which brought unalloyed pleasure to the wives of the fortunate recipients.

The ice on Saturday morning was kindly placed at the disposal of the lady curlers, and the variety of color in evidence on that occasion lent added splendour to the scene, and Mr. Stewart made it memorable through the presentation of flowers to all the competing ladies.

Since the public were invited to view the games, it was gratifying to know that some five or six thousand availed themselves of the opportunity to see the game played under such impressive circumstances, and to many this was their initial experience, and it is not to be wondered at if many of these identify themselves by another year with some of the presently constituted clubs.

THREE TRUSTEES.

It was considered expedient to appoint three trustees who would have the custody and care of the 'Edinburgh Trophy,' and we have been fortunate in securing the services of three gentlemen whose names stand high in the church and state for business integrity and honor, and I think we have reason to congratulate ourselves that we have been able to enrol them in this capacity: Rev. Father McShane, Sir Vincent Meredith and our president, W. O. Roy, and I imagine that we can rest secure as to its being administered wisely and well.

This record represents, to a large extent, the activities of our association, in this our inaugural year, and I am sure that our accomplishments have contributed very considerably to the making of curling history, and afforded much pleasure to the 536 members who identified themselves with our association during the year.

To all we extend our hearty thanks for the kindly support and cooperation which they lent to the officers and executive. It is perfectly true that we have not succeeded in convincing certain opposition of our absolute sincerity in carrying out our original program and sticking closely to our avowed purpose to refrain from doing anything which would savor of interference with the iron playing game, and in spite of all argument to the contrary, we have continued our knitting secure in the conviction that we have done nothing to break faith with our original pledge given out at the time of our organization.

The Maison-Cimon ball club, rated as one of the best amateur independent teams in the city, will travel to St. Jerome next week-end to fulfil an important engagement there for the opening of the baseball season.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Outfielder Bob Veach and Pitcher Alex. Ferguson, of the Boston Red Sox have been traded to the New York Yankees in exchange for Ray Francis, southpaw pitcher, and $8,000 in cash.

ROYAL ST. LAWRENCE SEA SCOUTS AT HOME

PORT AND STARBOARD GAVE INTERESTING DISPLAY LAST NIGHT — HOWARD AIKMAN AND KENNETH HALL CONGRATULATED ON SMART SHOWING OF TARS

The two divisions, western and eastern, or to give them their official titles, the port and starboard divisions, of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club's Sea Scouts, gave a most interesting display before parents and friends at the Queen's School, Westmount.

The young tars gave a display of a typical evening's training which they go through once a week during the winter months, and there is no doubt that the audience found the scraping and varnishing of spars and blocks, the tieing of knots and splicing of ropes, the little lectures of the coxswains on taking bearings, navigation by compass, and, to finish up, a nautical tale told by one of the boys, both interesting and instructive.

After this refreshments, (not the hard tack served out by the Sea Scouts at the recent Jamboree), were served, and then the boys were drawn up and inspected by the officers in charge, Howard Aikman and Kenneth Hall.

Vice-Commodore R. C. Stevenson, chairman of the Sea Scout Committee of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, thanked Mr. Raddon and the Westmount School Commissioners for the use of the hall, which had been so kindly placed at the disposal of the Sea Scouts, thus assisting greatly in their training and organization, and warmly congratulated Kenneth Hall and Howard Aikman on the splendid turnout of their respective divisions, and the very excellent manner in which the evening's display had been carried out.

PAN-AMERICAN BOXING STARTS THIS EVENING

BOSTON, May 6.—(United News.)—Mere amateurs, battling in the ring for gold mugs and medals, in the semi-final and final rounds of the Pan-American championship tournament tonight will be covered more extensively and far more expensively than most professional champions.

South American newspapers will spend thousands of dollars for blow-by-blow reports of the 20 bouts in which eight South Americans, eight Canadians and 16 United States fighters will compete. There may be 60 rounds of fighting, and 80 words per round is a low estimate of the cable report which will be flashed to Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro and Santiago, among other cities on the lower continent.

Eight Canadians will meet eight native A. A. U. fighters in one set of semi-finals and the eight South Americans will fight the eight other United States boxers in the second set, making 16 semi-final affrays. The final round will bring the winners together in four more fights.

Newspapers in South American cities plan to give "world series" service on the descriptive accounts of the tournament, posting the winners on bulletin boards thousands of miles from the ringside a few minutes after the verdicts are given.

CANADIANS FIT.

BOSTON, Mass., May 6.—The Canadian representatives were this morning reported by Coach Metivier in good condition, following a workout last night. The Canadians arrived in Boston last evening from Montreal.

"We will spare nothing to help the boys bring back the honors to Canada. They will do their best," said Metivier.

The members of the Canadian team are T. B. Bragen, Bobby Leitham, Arthur Gagne, Agnew Burlie, Ray Smillie, C. Belanger, C. Snider, Frank Gallagher and E. L. Metivier.

BASKETBALL

AN exhibition game between Calvary "21" Club and Cinco, of Sherbrooke, P.Q., was played on Calvary's floor, with Calvary emerging on top of the score which was 53—17.

The game was fast with Calvary checking very hard. At halftime the score was 10—24 for Calvary, the score does not indicate the closeness of the play, which was hard and close throughout both periods.

The last period Circo rallied for awhile, but were never dangerous to the local boys, Sargent, the captain, and Reader, were outstanding for the home team, piercing the hoop for 32 points.

For the visitors, who could not hit their stride, Lathrop, the centre, and Echenberg were stars.

Calvary "21"—Sargent, 19; Reader, 13; Lamont, 10; Buddo, 9; Newton, 2; MacLeod, 0.

Circo—Echenberg, 6; Lathrop, 5; Canon, 3; Stocks, 1; M. Lathrop, 0; G. Robinson, 0.

Referee—Mr. Bronson, of McGill College.

TORONTO, May 6.—(Star Special.)—The Y. W. H. A. team arrived home this morning from Edmonton after a two-week sojourn in quest of the Dominion championship. The team will be guests of honor at the first annual ball of the Leonard athletic club at the Prince George hotel tonight. Although not coming back with the Dominion championships, the girls excelled themselves by the fine showing they made against the pick of the west.

CAMERAS BARRED AT OLD COUNTRY TENNIS MEET

The London Daily Express says:—

A decision by the Lawn Tennis Association, which, if carried to its logical conclusion, means that the Wimbledon lawn tennis tournament cannot be photographed, has just been enforced.

Photographers who went to Torquay to record the National Hard Court Lawn Tennis championships were refused permission to enter the ground. Large printed notices displayed the warning: "Photography forbidden."

H. Hall, general manager of the Sport and General Press Agency, which supplies photographs to newspapers, informed the Daily Express that his representative was refused admission. He saw the tournament secretary, and was again refused admission and informed that no newspaper photographers could be allowed on the ground. Others were similarly dealt with.

CRITICISM.

"I have written a strong letter to the town clerk of Torquay," said Mr. Hall, "asking whether this action was done with his knowledge and authority; and saying that I thought the action was ridiculous.

"At Surbiton last year our representatives were allowed to work only on the understanding 'that they came from a reputable agency and would act with circumspection.'

"The Lawn Tennis Association seems to have overlooked the fact that it is the newspapers which are directly responsible for the great growth of lawn tennis in recent years. Are photographers to be barred from Wimbledon this year?"

Two years ago the secretary of the Lawn Tennis Association wrote to all tournament secretaries saying that "undesirable photographs" appeared from time to time in some of the daily newspapers. He added that the council "strongly deprecate the publication of pictures of this character."

DENIAL.

A. A. Sabelli, the secretary, in an interview at that time, denied that the association would attempt to prevent photographers from attending tournaments. He declined to suggest a "more suitable attire for women players."

Lady Colyer, the mother of the most photographed English girl player, said regarding this question:—"It is absurd to make a fuss about pictures. As a rule, the dress of women players is good. I do not think there is any need for alteration."

It is pointed out that the most photographed players do not object to the pictures, and that one or two of the older generation, who do, should, to be logical, similarly object to the presence of spectators—for no photograph can record anything that is not apparent to the onlookers.

LORD DERBY'S SPITHEAD WON CHESTER CUP RACE

The odds were 6 to 1, 100 to 9, and 100 to 7.

GOLFING NOTES

By PLUS FOURS

Plans were discussed for the official opening of the Maisonneuve Municipal Golf Links at the general meeting held last night in the Windsor Hotel. It was felt by those in attendance that such an event should take place a little later in the season, and the meeting was adjourned till Friday, May 15, at the clubhouse on the grounds on Sherbrooke street.

Alderman Drummond, who was mainly responsible for securing the links two years ago, presided, and outlined to the members the advantages of the course in the east end of the city, and suggested for a foursome match between four leading professional golfers for the official opening. He also announced that the membership had now reached close to the century mark, and was expected to be considerably increased prior to the opening.

The appointment of the various committees was left over to another meeting along with the date of the official opening.

A vote of thanks was given the members of the Maisonneuve Park Commission for their efforts in furthering the Royal and Ancient game in Maisonneuve.

Alderman Oscar Lalonde, chairman of the Commission, attended the meeting.

Membership fees for the Municipal course are as follows: Men, $20 for the season and $3 for a locker; women, $10.

CRICKET

LONDON, May 6.—The opening of the cricket season in England was associated with the usual unseasonable weather and all the matches in which play started on Saturday last have been curtailed owing to rain. No play was possible yesterday in either of the county fixtures, Lancashire vs. Warwick, and Leicester vs. Sussex. Lancashire and Leicestershire defeated their opponents in the first innings, and the feature of the play was the scoring of the first century of the season by King, of Leicestershire, who made a splendid 114. He is 55 years of age and is the oldest player in first-class cricket.

In a fixture between Middlesex and Oxford the match was drawn after remarkable play by the professional footballer-cricketers, Hendren and North. North made his first appearance for Middlesex. He is a member of the Norwich City forward line and a former member of the Woolwich Arsenal team.

The scores in the county fixtures were:

Lancashire—283—Warwick, 80 and 157 for 6; E. Tyldesley, 78; Sharp, 63; M. Qualfe, 66, not out; R. Tyldesley took 5 for 11 in Warwick's first innings.

PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY

Another member of the Canadiens' Hockey Club, champions of the National Hockey League, has returned to the fold long before the next season of the sport.

He is "Bill" Coutu, stalwart defenceman of the eastern titleholders, who has been such a pillar of strength in the past partnered with Sprague Cleghorn in front of Goalkeeper George Vezina.

Coutu left for Cleveland on business last night, and before he went away he handed in his contract signed and sealed at the offices of the Canadiens' Club, according to word received from that source today.

THREE TEAMS STILL TIED FOR TOP PLACE IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

(By United News.)

AFTER losing five games in a row and eight out of nine, in a slump that may eventually cost them the pennant, the Yankees finally caught the Athletics in a moment of weakness yesterday and whaled them 8 to 4. It was only their fifth victory in 16 starts since the season opened, and it was only due to a faulty selection of pitchers by Connie Mack, the enemy commander.

Mack picked Lefty Groves, his $100,000 disappointment, to face the Yanks for the second time in two days and Groves, who is one of the wildest pitchers in the league, was knocked out of the box.

Notwithstanding their accident, the Athletics retained a one-third interest in first place, for the Indians and Senators, with whom they were tied for the high spot, both were beaten. The Indians dropped a game to the White Sox in Cleveland, 7 to 2, and the Senators were trounced by the Red Sox, 9 to 4. The Tigers won from the Browns 14 to 8.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yanks, has been threatening to drop Everett Scott, his shortstop, out of the line-up for a rest after 1,300 consecutive games, but he kept Scott in, nevertheless.

Huggins says the Yanks are not as bad as the score would make them appear. He explains that his team had the bad luck to play its worst, while the Athletics and Senators were playing their best.

The Giants were whipped by the Phils, 13 to 5 in Philadelphia, and the Dodgers, with Burleigh Grimes pitching well again, won from the Braves in Boston, 6 to 1. This was Grimes' first win in four starts.

The Cincinnati-Chicago game was postponed because of rain.

Wrightstone and Williams of the Phils each made two homers and Southworth and Kelly of the Giants made one each in a game of heavy slapping.

CRAIG CAMPBELL'S SOCCER NEWS AND GOSSIP

The Mid-Week League open the 1925 season tomorrow evening with the five games. The Eatonians (Goodwin's) vs. Turcot fixture has been postponed, owing to the pitch of McGill Stadium being too soft. But the following games will be staged:

Rosemount Brotherhood vs. C.P.R. Recs., on Rosemount's ground, Iberville and Masson streets.

Glen Yards vs. Can. Railroader, at Glen Yards, Decarie Blvd., N.D.G.

C. N. Coach Yards vs. M.A.A.A., at Thornton Park.

Kennedy Taxis vs. C.N. Offices, on Verdun Town's ground, Hickson avenue, Verdun.

Borden's vs. Park Caledonians, on Rheaume Park, Verdun.

The above offer some very fine entertainment for the followers of this league and others who like to watch an evening game. Perhaps the best clash will be seen between Glen Yards and Canadian Railroader, on the former's ground. The Railroaders contain many of last year's Printers in their ranks, and Herb. Mould considers he has a fine team together. Another good game should be witnessed at Thornton Park, which will this season be used in mid-week circles by C.N. Coach Yards, and they play M.A.A.A. The other fixtures are also attractive, any everything points to a good opening.

The entries for the Connaught Cup, local series, closed last night, with 30 aspirants for the greatest soccer honor in Canada. The hopefuls include 10 clubs of the Montreal League, and the full list is: C.P.R., Nomads, C.N.R., Printers, Can. Vickers, Royal Highlanders, Calvin-Verdun U., Sons of Scotland, Lachine, St. Paul Town, Blue Bonnets, Emard, Imperial Tobacco, Molsons, National Breweries, Rosemount, Sons of England, Thistles, Windsor Hotel, Gurney, Sunnyside, Verdun Town, Wood Hall, Calvary Brotherhood, Maisonneuve, C. N. Offices, Glen Yards, Can. Railroader, Carsteel and Canadian Explosives. First round, May 12.

As McGill Stadium will not be ready for use next Saturday, Royal Highlanders have arranged to play their league game with Canadian National t Thornton Park, St. Henri.

This evening Iberville F.C., will play a team from the S. S. Montclaire, on the former's ground, 14th avenue, Rosemount.

In the game between St. Henry Baptist and Lachine Juvenile, which the former won, 6-1; Fewtrell, of St. Henry, scored four goals and Peddie and Carruthers ,one each.

Enquirer—Gallacher, C.P.R.'s new goalkeeper, first played with Royal Highlanders, four or five years ago. His next was sons of Scotland, and last season he played with Can. National A, signing again for them, but on Saturday morning was transferred to C.P.R.

VETERAN DUNDEE NOT ABLE TO KEEP UP PACE

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, May 6.—(United News)—Madison Square Garden, where John L. Sullivan fought and Harry Thaw killed Stanford White, and where Will Brennan almost sliced the left ear from Jack Dempsey's head, went out of business at last Tuesday night after many premature farewells, when Announcer Joe Humphreys threw back his head, opened his brassy neck and pitched the crowd into a row by announcing that Sidney Terris, of the East Side, had won a 12-round battle from Johnny Dundee by the judges' decision.

It was not much of a fuss that the mob kicked up, merely a sentimental squawk for Johnny Dundee, who is as much a landmark in New York as the garden itself. Terris had won most of the way, but the people who had seen Dundee fighting in the ring when Terris was playing with spelling blocks, didn't want it that way.

There was a widespread sentimental desire to weep over Dundee and even his best friends seemd to want an occasion to sob for the grand fighter that used to be, wherein all were thwarted by a lively, belligerent little battler with features gnarled like the bark of an old tree, who battled young Terris from bell to bell, and lost by no more than a shade. You can't weep for the "Little Contemptibles," nor for any fellow who can fight as Johnny Dundee fought Tuesday night.

Dundee started out leading Terris' speed with more speed, but he couldn't hold the pace beyond the first half of the first round, and forced Terris to come to him most of the time after that. Johnny did manage to trot out all the ropewalking antics and leaping tricks which made him famous in his youth as the boy with the rubber ankles. But the vitality wasn't there any more, and between these spurts Johnny slowed down and stood spread-legged with his thick forearms raised to protect his face.

Terris was jarred a few times by Dundee's short left swings to the head, but he never was seriously hurt and played the cautious game of standing at a distance and outboxing Dundee for points.

As for the semi-final, Eddie Shea, of Chicago, stopped Jackie Snyder, a New York bantamweight, with a right to the head in the twelfth and final round with only two seconds to go after Snyder went down for the fourth time.

ENTERPRISING CELT, MATCHES CHINESE AND SICILIAN IN BOUT.

NEW YORK, May 6. — (United News.) — Under the auspices of an enterprising Celt, before an assemblage composed largely of colored fight customers, a Chinaman and an Italian will fight the main bout of the evening at the Commonwealth A. C. tomorrow night.

Hong Fong Lee, said to be the only Chinese heavyweight fighter at large, will meet Johnny Grosso, an athlete of Sicilian ancestry. Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, also handles Grosso, and is busy promoting the bout.

Hong Fong Lee, late proprietor of a laundry, swings a right fist that resembles a flat iron and Grosso stabs with a left like a stiletto.

Verdun A.A.A. Ready To Honor New Charter

An enthusiastic gathering received the news of a Civic Charter being prepared for them last night when a general meeting of the members of the Verdun Athletic Club gathered at the City Hall, Verdun heard the details of the proposed charter. The charter will be taken out under the name of the Verdun Amateur Athletic Association, necessitating a slight change in the name of the present organization.

Charter members are James Hutchings, J. Roy Ingram, James Black, Thos. Richardson, Rob. Cumine, Thos. Urquhart, P. Brennan, Ed. Smethurst J. K. B. Bacon and Harry Wright.

The meeting was largely attended and a general resume of business for the past season was given out, as well as plans for the coming summer season.

The question of amalgamation which has been occupying the attention of the club for the past few months, was dropped for this time, the committee who had charge of negotiations gave a detailed report, and explained thoroughly what had been accomplished.

Don Stockton and Bobby Leatham, both this year's Canadian champions in their respective lines of sport were given life memberships in the club.

The sports committee have plans drawn up to have water sports and other activities taking place on the river front practically every evening.

The soccer season is now open and the junior teams have already played some games. Other sports will fall in line as the season advances. The program for the summer includes almost every branch of amateur sport.

It was a very representative meeting and indications are extraordinarily bright for a very successful summer season.

Application blanks for membership are now ready and can be had from the secretary Thos. Richardson or from the treasurer, George Walsh.

ALBANY, May 6.—Joe Lynch, former bantamweight champion of the world, and Larry Goldeberg, of New York, fought a ten-round draw.

Minor League Pro. Hockey Talk Again

QUEBEC, Que., May 6. — (Star Special). — Local hockey fans are bitterly disappointed over the result of the meeting Saturday night of the Q. A. H. A. senior group when that body refused to accept the application of the Voltigeurs, a local team, while officials of the Sons of Ireland have come in for a lot of criticism for their action in voting against the new outfit.

The failure of the group to accept Voltigeurs, in the opinion of close followers of hockey, will do more harm to the progress of hockey in this city than good, for, as it now stands, Sons of Ireland provide the only senior hockey here. There is also plenty of room for another senior sextette, especially for one like Voltigeurs, which was to be composed entirely of French-Canadian players, the majority of whom had already been practically signed.

However, the new team has not given up hope of operating next season, for officials of the club have stated that the team will be organized as planned and either play independent hockey or make an attempt to organize another league, although the latter plan depends entirely on the Q. A. H. A. accepting another senior circuit.

The news has also leaked out that there are only four teams instead of five in the Q. A. H. A. senior group at present, as St. Ann's in changing their name to Columbus last Saturday automatically forfeited their right to their franchise in the group and will now have to make application to the Q. A. H. A. for another franchise. This is a new ruling of the Q. A. H. A. and seemed to have been overlooked at Saturday's assembly.

Semi-professional hockey is also being spoken of locally and it is rumored that negotiations are at present going on with a view to organizing a league of such a nature with clubs operating in New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Montreal and Quebec. This organization is being brought about through the disbanding of U. S. Amateur Hockey Association and the ruling of the Q. A. H. A., which prohibits semi-professional baseball players from playing amateur hockey.

It is also stated that some of the N. H. L. owners are behind the new scheme, as this new league could be used as a "farm" for the professional teams on the same lines as pro baseball.

However, although it is known that negotiations are going on for such a league, local officials last night declined to make any official declaration, apart from the fact that pouparliers are going on.

TIMELY TURF TOPICS TERSELY TOLD

Improvements going on at the present time, and plans to further improve the course following the spring meeting, which commences May 23, are announced today by Manager Andy D. Bradford, of the Mount Royal race track.

Besides giving out details of the work going on at the present time at the Back River course, the newly-appointed general-manager of the track says that, provided the spring meeting is the success his club expects it to be, further expenditure will be made for the fall meet. It is the intention of the directors to later on build a clubhouse at the east end of the grounds.

The improvements which are being made at the present time make necessary an expenditure of about $25,000, Mr. Bradford says.

In the first place the lawns are being raised three feet at the foot of the grandstands, betting ring and paddock. Then they are being graded to the track rail. In this way race-goers will have a much better view of the races from any part of the ground than they have formerly.

Besides this the fences at the entrance are being moved to permit of a much better parking space for automobiles. This will be a big improvement in itself.

Renovation of the stables is being done as well. The winter's snow and ice has done much to damage this part of the plant, and special attention is being directed to make the quarters good ones for the thoroughbreds. The stables will be ready for the horses to move into by the beginning of next week.

Painters are at work brightening up the stands and fences, and altogether the place will present a totally different aspect when the opening day arrives.

TORONTO, May 6.—The J. K. L. Ross horses gave the railbirds something to talk about when they were given stiff workouts yesterday by Trainer Henry McDaniel. The feature work was by Hallucination, which was only breezing at the end of a mile in 1.45 1-5 well rated by Jockey Fisher, every furlong in 13 seconds until the trainer gave the signal to slow up.

J. G. Gorman's fast 3-year-old, Sure To Win, hit himself in his work of Sunday morning, and there will be a letup in his training for a few days.

CHESTER, England, May 6.—Lady Sykes' Vermillion Pencil yesterday won by fifteen lengths the $10,000 Chester Vase, for three and four-year-olds, run over the mile and a half course here. James De Rothschild's Gyges was second, a head in front of Sir A. Bailey's Son of Spring.

The betting was: Vermillion Pencil, 7 to 4 against; Gyges, 6 to 1 against, and Son of Spring, 10 to 1 against.

Eight ran.

Vermillion Pencil is the three-year-old bay colt by Gainsborough, winner of the "Triple Crown"—the Two Thousand Guineas, the Derby and St. Leger in 1918—out of Rectify.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Second call on the services of Earl Sande, America's leading jockey, have been purchased by William Ziegler, Jr. for an amount believed to be in excess of $15,000. As Sande receives a salary of $25,000 and a percentage of his winnings for the stable of Joseph E. Widenery his earnings this year should amount to a princely sum.

TORONTO, May 6.—(Star Special.)—Seventeen horses belonging to the Seagram Stable arrived yesterday afternoon at the Woodbine from Waterloo, in charge of trainer William Bringloe. At the close of the Pimlico meeting fourteen more, now in Maryland, in charge of Trainer Bateman, will join the lot here, making thirty-one horses in training for the Waterloo sportsman, and these may be augmented by purchases or the bringing down of one two-year-old filly left at the farm, the latter being by Quartz Rock-Cruche D'Or. Included in the list that arrived yesterday are six King's Platers, and the probable favorite for the Guineas. The platers are Isidorus, Goldlands, Gallant, Greek, Tamarind, Irish Belle and Duchess.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Second call on the services of Clarence Kummer, one of the leading American jockeys, was sold to Gifford A. Cochran for $15,000. Kummer is under contract to W. H. Harriman.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 6.—Appearing for the third time in Maryland this spring, Earl Sande rode Swope for Bud Fisher in the feature race at Pimlico and beat the gate yesterday.

But Swope weakened in the last sixteenth of a gallop of one mile and a sixteenth, and Rustic and Joy Smoke beat him. Swope, indeed, had all he could do to beat Gold Stick, for show money.

Louis Letourneau, member of the syndicate which now controls the Dorval race track, as well as Delorimier and Kempton Parks, left yesterday for Cleveland to join his partner Joe Cattarinich, who is preparing for the opening of their Maple Heights track in that city. The start there will be made on Saturday.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 6.—(United News.)—The utmost refinement of the equine breed is no better than the humblest coal-cruncher that ever labored between the shafts of a junk-waggon, when he's dead. Thus the carcass of Sunny Man, the $100,000 colt, until recently a permanent choice in the Kentucky Derby, will be mingled with the fibre of many steeds of no distinction and cut upon some farmer's acres to make the turnips grow.

Sunny Man, which died of poison under circumstances which have not been explained in full, is being converted into fertilizer at the factory of the Standard Guano Company, at Curtis Bay, Md.

Dr. Frank A. Ingram, chief veterinary for the insurance company, said there was no doubt that Sunny Man was poisoned.

A reward of $5,000 for information leading to arrest of responsible parties has been offered by the Washington Post.

RUTH GETTING BETTER.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Babe Ruth has recovered sufficiently from a recent operation to be allowed a few hours daily in a wheel-chair. Attendants have been warned to restrain him from too much activity. It will be several weeks before he will be strong enough to leave the hospital.

My 16 Years as a Referee

By HARRY ERTLE

(Copyright, 1925, in U. S. and Canada by the North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights Reserved.)

This is the fourth of a series of articles by Harry Ertle, probably America's greatest prizefight referee, on his experiences as the "third man" in the ring. Ertle was the referee at the Dempsey-Carpentier battle and has officiated at most of the important bouts held in this country in recent years. He tells many inside ring stories not hitherto published.

Chapter 4—THE FIRST LEONARD-TENDLER BOUT.

That first Leonard-Tendler bout, July 27, 1922, in Boyle's Bowl, which drew $387,882, was a thriller. Just think of two lightweights drawing all that money in a no-decision bout. But the fight was worth it, for the fans got a great kick out of the battle. A champion in danger of a knockout provides a wonderful thrill for a boxing fan, and Benny Leonard sure was on the verge of a knockout in the eighth round.

If the clever New York boy hadn't kept his noodle he might have been despatched to the land of dreams when Lefty Lew landed a left in his solar plexus that doubled him up. He fooled Tendler when they came to a clinch by saying:

"Don't get fresh or I'll knock you out. Who ever told you that you could punch?"

This was just as much as saying that he wasn't hurt a bit by the blow that Lew delivered to the pit of his stomach.

But imagine a boxer with brains enough to kid an experienced opponent like that. Leonard must have been suffering intense agony when he was talking to his great rival, but Tendler, naturally, thought that if he had really hurt Benny he wouldn't be able to talk.

GIBSON NEAR ARREST.

I'll never forget the sigh that came from some 60,000 people as Lew landed the wallop that nearly caused the crowning of a new title holder. It was uncanny.

Billy Gibson, Leonard's popular manager, came mighty near not seeing the fight. Bill was with the group that entered the ring with the champion. Just before he climbed through the ropes Bill took off his coat, revealing a nice white shirt and also a nifty looking revolver in his hip-pocket.

A detective spied the gun and lifted it out. He followed Bill into the ring and reported the matter to his deputy chief. The latter gave Bill the once over and heard his story. He finally let him stay with Benny, as he hadn't been satisfied Bill would have been arrested. Gibson explained that he carried a New York permit, that he had a roll in his pocket, and expected a bigger roll before he started home. That's why he felt he needed the protection of a "rod."

An unusual stunt was an examination of the men by doctors before the bout so there would be no claims of phoney fouls.

BENNY CLEARLY WINNER.

There were several experts who declared Tendler the winner, but after the first round I thought Leonard had a decided edge, except perhaps in the eighth, when Lew landed the solar plexus blow that nearly put an end to Leonard's championship reign.

Benny landed the more damaging blows, the harder blows, the cleaner wallops. He also put up a remarkable defense. He made Lew miss far oftener than he missed himself.

Tendler was the more aggressive, but he was outfought all the way except in the first round. In the first round Benny hadn't caught on to Lew's style and the latter's left uppercuts and left leads bothered him.

I always figured the bout would go the twelve round route, which it did, as both men were in marvellous form. I had refereed for Benny three times previously, twice with Johnny Dundee and once with Mel Coogan, while I had refereed for Tendler twice before.

Any one who says Tendler is a foul fighter is all wrong. I cautioned him twice and Benny once for hitting low, but any fighter in the heat of such a hot battle is liable to swing low once in a while. But their foul blows were unintentional. I'm sure of that.

HOT WORD BATTLE.

In the eighth for a minute I thought that at last Benny had met his conqueror, but he weathered the storm in true championship style and was better than Lew in the next four rounds. After being hit so hard in the eighth he adopted Johnny Dunde's jumpingjack tactics, and had Tendler bewildered. A smart fighter is Benny Leonard.

There was a lot of gab between them during the fight.

"I'm going to take that title of yours back to Philly with me," said Lew in the first round, when he was going so well.

"If you do," replied Benny, "You'll be taking me along, too."

Later in the fight, when it looked as though Leonard might claim a foul because Tendler hit him low, Lew said:

"Fight, you bum."

Although the boys were supposed to be deadly enemies they acted real sportsmanlike to each other. On one occasion Tendler slipped and Benny waited till the resin was wiped from his gloves. Leonard also slipped and Tendler stepped back till he rose to his feet.

After seeing the way these two boys performed in Jersey naturally I was all keyed up to see him fight again. When they met in New York I attended the show and was keenly disappointed because Leonard had learned so much of Lew's style in their previous contest that he completely outclassed him.

THE DAILY ROUND

By W. D. RICHARDSON

How Many Clubs—Joe Kirkwood, Australian Trick-Shot Star.

One of the greatest mistakes made by beginners usually is that of carrying far more clubs than they actually require—far more than they are ever able to master. It is all right for the professionals to carry a large assortment (most of them carry between eleven and thirteen) but such an assortment is merely a handicap to the average golfer. It only means confusion when they are left with a choice, say among a mashie, midiron, jigger, and mid-mashie. Start out with a few clubs and concentrate on them. Six or seven are plenty.

A RULE WORTH KNOWING.

In a stroke competition a competitor's ball lodged in a tree. What should be done in the circumstances?

If the competitor's ball is found in a tree, Stroke Rule 11 (1), can be applied. Such obstructions as trees, however, should be made the subject of local rule. See "Recommendations for Local Rules."

A SERIOUS FAULT.

They were discussing Smith, the new member, in the locker-room session.

"He's an awful failure at golf," declared one.

"A failure at golf? Why, I thought he played quite a decent game!"

"Oh, his game's all right, but he doesn't know how to talk it up afterwards."

Nurmi Idle Until Quist Explains Things

CHICAGO, May 6.—Their future race engagements cancelled until a satisfactory explanation is made of charges of excessive expense money demands, Paavo Nurmi, his running mate, Willie Ritola, and Hugo Quist, their manager, were due here today on their way to New York, where the controversy will be threshed out.

Cancellation of the Finns' race program was made by the chairman of the National Registration Committee of the Amateur Athletic Association until Quist has answered satisfactorily an affidavit of Kenneth L. Wilson, athletic director at Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa. Wilson asserted that he was asked $500 for Ritola's expenses to appear in the Drake relays, and that he rejected this as excessive.

At the time that Wilson's charges became public, athletic officials of the University of Chicago said they had refused a proposition to have the two stars appear in a scholastic tournament for $1,000.

LAWN BOWLING

At a general meeting of the members of the Westmount Lawn Bowling Association last night, the president, Walter S. Moore, announced that it is anticipated that everything will be in readiness to open the bowling season on May 25. Improvements to the lawns are now in progress, and it is planned to begin play on the Sherbrooke Street side first and the Cote Road side a week or two later.

LONDON, May 6.—The Lawn Tennis Association Council announced yesterday the lifting of the suspensions of S. M. Jacob and A. H. Fyzee, members of the all-Indian Davis Cup team. The suspensions were made April 20, following the failure of these players to adjust hotel expenses in Paris incurred during their play there last year. This matter has now been settled satisfactorily.

SMELTERS WAS ACTIVE LEADER; MOSTLY STRONG

Activity in Consolidated Smelters and, to a lesser extent in such features as National Breweries, Textile, Steel of Canada and Canada Cement, contributed to make this morning's session on the Montreal Stock Exchange fairly active. The underlying trend of most of the leaders was firmer, but the general list was irregular.

Smelters furnished trading in over 2,200 shares and sold up to 70½, after opening at 69¾. The final price this morning was 70¼, a net gain of ⅜. National Breweries, with nearly 1,000 shares, was second in activity, and showed a recovery of a point at 52, although it touched 51 during the session. Canada Cement was another firmer feature, closing at 105¾, up ¾, after having sold at 106¼. The previous high was 106½.

Dominion Textile continued to display further strength and touched a new high at 76½, up 1, after opening at 76¼. Canadian Cottons remained firm at 115. Asbestos issues were less active. The common, fluctuating between 77 and 77⅝, closed at 77⅛, off ⅛, while the preferred showed a 2 point reaction at 103 on a small turnover.

Ottawa Power, which has been absent from the board for some time, but which has appeared in odd lot recently at around 98, was off 4½ points at the new low of 96½. Other changes included Atlantic Sugar off ¼, B. C. Fishing up ½, Brazilian off ⅜, Dominion Glass off ½, Laurentide off ¼ to the new low of 78¾, Lyall off 4½ at 15, Montreal Power off ½ at 175½, Ontario Steel off ⅛, Quebec Power up ⅜ at 91⅜ after opening at 89; Steel of Canada up 1, and Shawinigan up ¼.

Total number of listed shares traded in was 9,401, as compared with 7,240 yesterday morning.

ASSETS OF ASBESTOS MERGER $25,000,000

A local estimate of the assets of the new asbestos combination which Dillon, Read and Co., are forming places the total at approximately $25,000,000. It is anticipated that the new company will have a bond issue, first mortgage, of around $5,200,000.

The first preferred 7 per cent stock is expected to amount to about $5,000,000 par value and the second preferred 6 per cent issue probably will be about $4,700,000 making nearly $15,000,000 in all.

Local theorists figure that the company should be able to show earnings of $5.00 per share on the 200,000 no par value shares which are expected to be issued. While Asbestos Corporation of Canada is considered to be getting good terms it is claimed some of the less successful concerns being taken into the merger, had their capital scaled down drastically.

The new second preferred will be a non-cumulative issue, according to this information, and it is currently reported only 5 per cent will be paid on that issue for the current year, to be followed by 6 per cent in 1926.

As has already been reported Asbestos shareholders are slated to receive one share of 7 per cent cumulativ preferred stock in exchange for one share of the present 6 per cent non-cumulative preferred, plus one-tenth of a share of new second preferred 6 per cent stock, and one share of common, no par value.

The present common stock is expected to get 1¼ shares of second preferred and one share of new common.

Estimate $2,500,000 Gold Output in April

TIMMINS, May 6.—According to preliminary estimates just prepared, the output of gold from the gold mines of Northern Ontario reached an aggregate of approximately $2,500,000 for the month of April.

Output from Porcupine continued at the high record established during the preceding month, while an increase was recorded from the Kirkland Lake field. This increase was due to the big income at the Lake Shore and Wright-Hargreaves, as well as the fact that the enlarged mill at Argonaut Gold was brought into full operation.

The developments in the Porcupine district during the month were remarkable for the very favorable results in the lower levels of all three of the leading mines, namely, Hollinger Consolidated, McIntyre-Porcupine and Dome.

TORONTO MAY HAVE AUDIT

TORONTO, May 6.—(Star Special.)—It is thought likely on the Street that the Toronto Stock Exchange will institute a semi-annual audit similar to that now in force in Montreal, particularly as the Attorney-General has asked the Standard Exchange to approve of such a measure, and it is unlikely that a Government department would single out any one exchange against another. The Toronto Exchange asked one member for an audit sometime ago.

Vipond Mine's Shaft To Extend 200 Feet

TORONTO, May 6—(Star Special).—Directors of Vipond Consolidated have decided to proceed immediately with the deepening of the shaft a further 200 feet below the thousand foot level. The question of the renovation of the mill is still under consideration. The present program, it is understood, is to be carried out of surplus, and it is further understood that the mill renovation and enlargement when finally decided upon will be done in the same manner instead of by the suggested issue of additional stock.

HAVANA ELECTRIC EARNINGS

Net income of the Havana Electric Railway, Light and Power Company for the month of March, after deducting operating expenses, taxes, interest amounted to $519,240, being increase of $41,986 over the corresponding month of 1924. Net income for the first quarter of the year amounted to $1,629,549, being an increase of $179,951 over the corresponding period of last year.

KEELEY SILVER MEETING

TORONTO, May 6—(Star Special).—A meeting of directors of the Keeley Silver Mines was held on the return of Dr. J. M. Bell from the property. The question of sinking a new shaft was discussed, but no decision was reached. The matter, however, was stated officially to be "still under consideration."

SENTIMENT NOW TURNED BULLISH IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, May 6.—(Special to Star from Our Own Wall Street Correspondent.)—New high record high prices for 1925 were registered by a number of stocks on the opening of the market this morning. The hands of brokers on the floor were full of buying orders when trading was resumed.

Public utilities south and south-western rails and oils were in demand. Seaboard Air Line and St. Louis and San Francisco were bid up to new peak levels, the former crossing 31 and the latter 79. Wabash, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Kansas City, Southern and Wabash were other active issues. Chicago and Northwestern rallied to the highest price for the current recovery and other northwestern rails were also firm on reports of increased car-loadings in that territory.

Car-loadings for the country at large were the heaviest of the year during the week ended April 25 with a total of 959,225, or 26,418 more than the previous high record for the year.

In the utility group, Utah Securities was the feature. It was bid to 112, a price 70 points above the low level of the year. Electric Light and Power certificates were very active, also going into new high ground. Consolidated Gas sold at a new high price for the year, and Montana Power also crossed its old top. In the oils Standard Oil of New Jersey was the leader. Despite an unexpected cut in the price of gasoline by the Texas Company, one of the strongest of the independent oil concerns, Standard Oil of New Jersey forged ahead into new high ground.

The buying of United States Steel common was more confident than it had been in some time. Steel went to 116 in the first few minutes of the trading. United States Cast-Iron Pipe, Allis-Chalmers and Stewart Warner gained more than a point each.

The motors were irregular. Dodge Brothers six per cent preference stock reacted to par on news that the scale of the shares in Michigan had been barred. Maxwell Motors "B" was easier. Today is the last day for deposit of the stock under the merger plan. Some cash sales were made at premiums over sales the "regular way."

In contrast with the general upward trend, heavy selling was done in both American common and preferred, with the result that their prices broke to new low ground for the year.

Call money opened and renewed at 3¾ per cent, unchanged from yesterday.

Reports of impending capital changes and merger developments stimulated trading interest in various rail, industrial and public utility issues, accelerating the upward movement of prices. Specialties and representative industrials attracted most of the buying orders, but the western rails also spurted ahead in response to the petition for increased freight rates. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe extended its gain to two points and advances of a point or more were registered by Norfolk Southern, Frisco, General Electric, United Cigar Stores, Utah Securities, Montana Power and Gulf States Steel. American Woollen common and preferred issues were subjected to heavy selling pressure, crumbling to the lowest levels in ten years at 34⅜ and 70, respectively. Maxwell "B" declined a point.

Stock prices displayed a strong tone throughout the early trading which showed a marked expansion in volume, total sales in the first hour crossing the half million share mark for the first time in weeks. Rails and public utilities were the centre of speculative interest, buying of the former being stimulatd by publication of a report showing that car loadings for the week ended April 25, established a new high record for the year and exceeded those of the previous week by more than 36,000 cars.

Utah Securities soared 8½ points, Jersey Central 5, American Ice, Electric Power certificates, Pullman, American Zinc pfd., Frisco common, Seaboard Air Line, Chicago and Northwestern Missouri Pacific pfd., and Texas and Pacific sold 2 to nearly 3 points higher. There were a few additional weak spots, Tidewater Oil breaking 4 points, Maxwell Motors B. 3½ and Nash Motors 2¼. Call money renewed at 3¾ per cent.

The advance halted in the early afternoon. Features up to 1:30 included:—C.P.R., 144⅞ to 145¾; Atchison, 119¼ to 120⅝ to 120; Cast Iron Pipe, 156½ to 155⅝ to 158⅝ to 157; Am. Can, 182¼ to 182 to 186 to 185½; Am. Loco., 121⅝ to 123½; Baldwin, 114½ to 113½ to 115⅜ to 114¾; Con. Gas, 83¼ to 84⅞; Congoleum, 29⅞ to 28⅝ to 29⅝ to 29; Gen. Motors, 74⅝ to ¼; Gen. Electric, 273¼ to 274⅝ to 273½; Int. Paper, 58 to 59; Alcohol, 87½ to 86¼ to ¾; Mack Truck, 150⅝ to 149⅜ to 151¼ to ⅛; N.Y.C., 118 to ⅝ to ⅝; Pan-American B, 78⅜ to 78; Sears Roebuck; 168½ to 171⅝ to ½; So. Railway, 95⅛ to ¾ to 95 to ½ to 95; Steel, com., 115¾ to 116⅞ to ⅛.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 6. — Bond prices swept into higher ground today, new high records for the year being established by a dozen issues of railroads in which favorable dividend or merger developments are understood to be pending. Among those which achieved 1925 peak prices were Seaboard adjustment 5's and 4's, Frisco income and investment 6's, Baltimore and Ohio 4's, Wabash 5's, Southern Railway 6½'s, and Chicago and Terre Houte income 5's and refunding 5's. Gains of a point or so were scored by a number of other western rails. Buying orders were spread over a diversified list of industrial lines including Kelly Springfield Tire 8's, Wilson and Company 7½'s, Pan-American 6's, Westinghouse Electric 7's, and Pierce Arrow Motor 8's, all of which rose about a point. Approximately half of the $60,000,000 New York City bond issue, offered publicly today, had been sold at noon.

INDEX OF WHOLESALE PRICES SHOWS DECLINE

The index number of wholesale prices computed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and weighted according to the commercial importance of the 236 commodities included fell 5.1 points in April, being 156.5 as compared with 161.6 in March (prices in 1913—100). 73 quotations were lower, 25 were higher and 138 were unchanged.

Five of the main groups were lower, two were higher and one remained stable. Vegetables and their products (grains, fruits, etc.) fell from 178.1 to 163.3 due chiefly to lower prices for grains, flour and other milled products and fresh vegetables. Animals and their products declined from 136.7 to 134.6, higher prices for livestock and meats being more than counterbalanced by decreases in butter, eggs, fish, furs and hides. Fibres, textiles and textile products fell from 196.9 to 194.7, declines in wool and silk more than offsetting increases in cotton thread, raw jute, binder twine and manila rope. Iron and its products declined from 158.1 to 155.6 because of declines in pig iron, steel billets and wire nails. The index for non-ferrous metals was 101.5 as compared with 105.2. Non-metallic minerals and their products, chiefly because of an increase in the price of anthracite egg coal at Toronto, rose from 174.5 to 176.2. Chemicals and allied products, due to higher prices for coal tar, rose from 157.1 to 158.6. The index for wood and wood products remained stationary.

Topics of the Street

The local stock list presented an exceptionally firm tone today and a few interesting price changes were recorded during the morning session. Textile maintained its upward trend touching a new high at 76½ which was suggestive of confirmation of hopes of a higher dividend in the near future.

Marked strength was also displayed by Smelters and Cement. At 70 the former was within a point of its former high record touched in February, while Cement came within ¼ of its former high at 106½.

There was a momentary revival of interest in the Breweries situation in view of the circulation of another settlement rumor which sent the price of National up a point, possibly a few shorts being alarmed into covering, but when it was learned that there was no foundation for the rumor there was a reaction of a full point between sales. It was believed in the Street that the publication of the report in question had stiffened up the feeling of resentment between the warring interests. The mystery of where all the buying of recent weeks came from is still puzzling the Street and for once it seems to be without a shred of information on which to found even a plausible theory.

The trading in Asbestos issues quieted down very perceptibly and it was not until well on in the second hour before there was a transaction in the preferred. A fair amount of the common changed hands but the fluctuations were confined within fractional limits. At the early high of 77⅝ the price was ⅜ higher than yesterday's close. The preferred was off 1½ to 103½.

Now that the shares have had a substantial advance on the strength of the impending merger the Street is apparently taking pause to consider. As might be expected there is a divergence of opinion respecting future prices. The report that quite a good sized short interest has been built up among the floor trading element in particular is considered sufficient proof of this.

The market has been trading on the assumption that the deal will be consummated along certain stock distribution lines upon which estimates have been based concerning the present and prospective value of Asbestos shares. No official admission has been obtainable concerning the correctness of these figures and there is always a possibility, until the deal is consummated, that changes might be made but it is considered extremely probable that the figures which have formed the basis of the market's action up to date are approximately correct.

While the merger is regarded as one of the finest constructive steps of an industrial character the market has witnessed for some time there is a feeling that no harm will come from proceeding with less haste. The market may have some latitude left to discount the financial results of the merger, as some contend, but conservative interests are not averse to caution at this stage until something is more definitely known.

Some objection has been taken to the fact that while some of the better class concerns are not going into the merger, most of the least desirable and unprofitable concerns are being absorbed which will have to be co-ordinated with Asbestos Corporation, which will be the king pin of the combination. How this dilution will work out remains to be seen but there are many bulls who figure out that the company can pay dividends on both classes of preferred and still make a good showing on the new common stock.

Minor fluctuations took place in the rest of the list: Winnipeg Electric was firm at the recent advance to 46¼. The news from Ottawa to the effect that the Spanish River interests are to join hands with the McArthur interests in building the Manitoba paper mill was construed as a bull card on Winnipeg as it would bring a good customer into the field of its subsidiary, Manitoba Power. Quebec Power was a strong feature, selling up ⅜ to 91¼, but Brazilian Traction was off a half to 51.

Declares West Dome Losing Ore at Depth

TORONTO, May 6.—(Star Special).—The weakness in West Dome continues. Reports which come from a highly qualified mining man who has had access to the property are that the mine is losing its ore depth. In this connection it may be recalled that the Dome people have constantly stated that the general rake of the bodies was to the eastward. This would indicate that the West Dome ore may be moving into the Dome.

At all events Dome had paid little attention to its westward boundary, save for one long exploratory crosscut, being confident that it could be left to depth. The opinion regarding West Dome comes from a source which was quite optimistic when that property struck ore at is lower levels. He intimates that this ore is raking off the property. In the meantime the West Dome mill is about breaking even.

MICHIGAN STATE DISALLOWS SALE OF DODGE STOCK

LANSING, Mich., May 6.—The State Securities Commission yesterday barred the sale in Michigan of $85,000,000 stock issue floated when Dodge Brothers was taken over by a New York banking firm and reorganized as Dodge Brothers, Inc. The commission, however, permitted the sale of six per cent. debenture notes, which have been issued to the amount of $75,000,000.

In disapproving the sale of stock the commission apparently held that it could not consider good-will as an asset upon which stock issues should be based. The actual assets of Dodge Brothers, according to H. N. Duff, chairman of the commission, total $102,000,000. Against this was $75,000,000 in debenture notes and $85,000,000 in stock. If the assets are collateral for the debenture notes, he said, only $27,000,000 in assets would be left to cover $85,000,000 worth of stock.

NEW YORK, May 6.—(Star Special).—In refusing pending further hearings to approve the $85,000,000 Dodge preferred stock issue recently sold by Wall Street bankers to the public the Michigan State Securities Commission has raised a question which comes up at regular periods to plague Wall Street bankers. The position of the Michigan Commission is that the Dodge financial statements show actual assets of only $102,000,000; that the bankers sold $75,000,000 bonds and $85,000,000 preferred stock against these $102,000,000 assets, which means that there are only $27,000,000 actual assets to cover $85,000,000 preferred stock; that this shortage of $58,000,000 is covered only by good will; that good will could not be considered by the commission as an asset against which stock could be sold to the public.

Wall Street Bankers paid $146,000,000 cash for the Dodge property and got their money back and a profit by selling $75,000,000 bonds and $85,000,000 stock, a total of $160,000,000. In offering the preferred stock to the public with one share of common as a bonus the bankers said nothing about good will, but made earning power of the Dodge company the attraction, pointing out in their advertisements that earnings for 1924 were sufficient to pay the dividend on the preferred stock and $3.80 a share on the common given as a bonus. When a banker either buys or sells bonds or stocks of any corporation, the point considered is the amount of earnings available to pay either fixed charges on bonds or dividends on the stock. Earning power and not assets is the talking point.

But when these same Wall Street bankers who control railroads have their lawyers go before the Interstate Commerce Commission or the courts to talk freight rates, earning power is promptly forgotten, and the talking point is assets. For years railroad officials, in talking freight rates, kept on pointing out that only this or that small amount was earned on property account until Congress, in the Transportation Act of 1920, adopted the rule for making freight rates despite the fact that the railroads, in hearings before the Commission, had previously gone on record with the statement that they were not in a position to show cost of property "because the construction books of the original lines were not in the possession of the present companies, and that the figures in the old books were not translatable into the cost of property." Carrying on its own investigation the commission discovered that in the case of Reading property costs included $38,000,000 representing liabilities instead of assets. The Michigan commission accepts this last viewpoint.

Second Auction Tomorrow For B.A. Nickel Assets

TORONTO, May 6.—(Star Special.)—The assets of the British American Nickle Company will once more be put up for sale at Osgoode Hall tomorrow. A few weeks ago, when the property was put up for auction there was one bid only of $5,000,000 made by Dyce Saunders on behalf of an undisclosed client. As this did not reach the reserve price put on the property by the National Trust Company, the receivers and managers, the sale was adjourned to permit of private negotiation.

In the interval there have been a number of inquiries regarding the property and negotiations were entered into by more than one party, but no definite offer that is acceptable has evolved, or is likely to evolve, before the sale tomorrow, when the likelihood is that the $5,000,000 bid, if it still holds good, will be accepted.

A current rumor in interested circles is that the bid of $5,000,000 was made on behalf of Henry Ford, but a more probable deduction is that it was made on behalf of the bondholders.

ADVICES FROM ROUYN; AMULET'S RICH COPPER

TIMMINS, Ont., May 6—(Star Special).—Owing to difficulty of travel at this season, when the lakes are just being cleared of ice and when some of the trails are still wet, there is a dearth of information today from Rouyn. From officials of companies already engaged in the field, however, it is learned that operations this year will be far greater in scope than at any previous time.

Amulet Gold have 25 men at work on their group A gold-copper deposit, where the showing has improved with development work, the copper proportion proving spectacular in value. No. 2 deposit has been proven for a width of 75 feet, running north-east and southwest. It is understood that two diamond drills will be on the property next month. Building operations are proceeding on C group, where a similar but less spectacular gold-copper, ½ copper deposit exists. Following completion of the buildings work will be conducted on a large scale.

Huronian Belt is expected to play a very important part in developments in Rouyn. Argonaut Gold will also undertake more aggressive work on its big Rouyn group. Noranda Mines, of course, continues to set the pace with its reserve of more than a dozen million dollars already in sight. Quebec Gold Belt, Ltd., the recently incorporated $15,000,000 company has issued a prospectus which is being highly commended for its conservative and businesslike construction.

M. J. O'Brien, Ltd., is meeting with outstanding success on claims in Cadillac Township, and the indications point to a gold mine of considerable importance. These interests are among the most conservative engaged in mining in either Northern Ontario or North-Western Quebec. It is learned that the O'Brien interests are very much in favor of construction of the Abitibi and Southern Railway, which would come from Montreal to Rouyn by way of the Harricanaw River and Cadillac Township.

BIG WHEAT TRANSACTION

CHICAGO, May 6.—Wheat prices rose wildly today during the early dealings. Announcement that the Spanish Government had purchased 2,225,000 bushels of Canadian and United States wheat, was chiefly responsible for the upturn in values. Aggressive buying of future deliveries here, especially on the part of houses with seaboard connections, accompanied the news of the Spanish purchase. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅜c decline to 1c advance, May 160 to 116½ and July 150⅝ to 152, were followed by a sharp ascent all around, with May touching 166 and July 154.

WHEAT PRICES RALLIED AFTER WEAK OPENING

The following noon grain letter was received from Chicago by E. C. Morris, manager for Logan and Bryan, at their Board of Trade branch: Based on lower Liverpool cables and on the theory that the recent advance has been too rapid, the market opened lower this morning, but after the initial selling a wave of buying set in which found the market bare of offerings and carried prices to new high level on this move. The factors in this advance were heavy purchases of wheat on the part of Spain, amounting to 2¼ million bushels and other scattered business, bringing the total up to 2½ million bushels. The congestion in Winnipeg May option was also noted, that option going up 8c from the opening price with offerings practically nil. While Liverpool at one time was 1 to 1½ lower then yesterday, based on realizing sales on the favorable European crop outlook, news in the strength on this side caused their market to close in an advance of ⅛ to 1⅜ over yesterday. Some attention was also paid to a private estimate of this year's wheat crop indicating a total of 152 million bushels less than in 1924. Weather throughout the southwest is on the whole favorable to the growing crop.

Corn has continued to show strength all morning and shorts have covered freely. Cash demand is slow. Deliveries 182,000 bushels.

Wheat inspections at Winnipeg this morning totalled 203 cars, of which 48 cars were graded as No. 1 northern, 59 cars as No. 2 northern, 40 cars as No. 3 northern, and 56 cars as lower grade. Inspections a year ago totalled 427 cars.

Cash spreads at Winnipeg this morning were: No. 1 northern, May price; No. 2 northern, 3 under; No. 3 northern, 8 under.

STRONG FEELING MAINTAINED IN FINAL TRADING

WALL ST., 1:30 P.M.—Another sharp rise in wheat prices and the sqeezing of the short interest in American Can which advanced 4½ points to 186½, a record figure for all time added momentum to the upward trend of prices after mid-day. Considerable profit taking was evident in spots but the market absorbed these sales without much effect on values. Federal Light and Traction, jumped 9¾ to 165, a new maximum figure on the announcement of dividend declarations on the new stock issue. National Lead gained five points and Sears Roebuck 3¾. Changes were narrow on the last hour, features including:

INSTABILITY OF PRICES CHECKS STEEL OUTPUT

NEW YORK, May 6.—(Star Special.)—Iron Age tomorrow will say:

Further restriction of pig iron and steel ingots output is bringing the industry to the point at which both producers and buyers are searching more closely for signs that output and consumption are coming into balance. In wire products and particularly in sheets, there are fresh declines, 3.20 cents and less being reported on black sheets.

Some steel companies have had a better run of new business in the last week, but that report is not sufficiently uniform to indicate a turn, uncertainty as to prices being still a large factor.

In the east there is evidence of withheld specifications, with buyers in some cases able to get plates at 1.90 cents and bars and shapes at concessions from 2 cents.

Keener competition between eastern Pennsylvania and Buffalo furnaces, especially in New England, has further depressed pigiron prices. Buffalo iron selling at $19 or less and eastern Pennsylvania iron at about $20. Very little foreign iron is coming in except to fill contract.

GRAIN FUTURES STRONG

CHICAGO, May 6.—Grain futures finished sharply higher on the Board of Trade today. Corn was the leader in the day's steady advance.

Good local buying of corn was induced by greatly improved cash demand and a decrease of 2,888,000 bushels in Bradstreets' World's supply. Cold weather retarded planting operations, the weekly review said.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CLOSE

NEW YORK, May 6.—(United Press).—The foreign exchange market closed irregular. Demand Sterling $4.85; francs .0518½, off .0005; lire .0410½; Belgian francs .0504, off .0003; marks .2380.

LOCAL LEADERS DISPLAYED FIRM TONE AT CLOSE

Stock prices displayed further strength in the afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange today. The outstanding firm spot was Quebec Power which advanced nearly three points to 94, this being the equivalent of the former high record and represents a total advance of 3½ points on the whole day. Another strong feature was Dominion Textile which touched a new high level at 77, up ½.

Consolidated Smelters was less active than this morning and showed a fractional recession at 70, off 1-2. Asbestos issues were slightly firmer, the common being up 1-8 at 77 1-4 and the preferred rallying 1 3-8 points to 104 3-8, thus practically cancelling this morning's reaction of 2 points. National Breweries held firm at 52.

Other changes included Atlantic Sugar off ¼, Abitibi off ¼, Mackay up ½, Alcohol off ⅛ at 16, Montreal Power up ½ at 176, Ottawa Power up ½, and Canadian Car preferred off ½ at 84. Winnipeg Electric opened ¼ lower at 45¾, but later rallied to 46, while Steel of Canada retained its one point gain at 85. Brompton rallied ½ to 23.

In the unlisted department Argonaut rallied to 28, making a recovery of 6 cents from the low of the week.

AUDIT SYSTEM FOR TORONTO BROKERS NEXT

TORONTO, May 6.—(Star Special).—At a final meeting this afternoon the directors of the Standard Stock Exchange are likely to approve an audit of members' books along identical lines with that now called for by the Montreal Stock Exchange. This consists of an audit as to solvency every six months by a recognized firm of chartered accountants.

Legal advice was obtained by the board in regard to Attorney-General Nickel's letter to the Exchange which was almost in the nature of a demand, though no specific complaint was made. The Standard board are of the opinion that the best thing to do is to institute an audit bylaw first and then insist that the Attorney-General, a similar obligation be imposed on members of the Toronto Stock Exchange, and an even more drastic investigation, probably by accountants, appointed by the Government, of the books of firms which are members of neither exchange.

TORONTO TRANSACTIONS

TORONTO, May 6.—Activity in Smelters and the bank stocks were the features of this morning's brisk session of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Large blocks of Consolidated Smelters changed hands and the stock climbed ⅝ to 70⅝, the noon close being at the high figure. The banks had an active session and prices were strong, Imperial gaining a point at 185 and Bank of Toronto ½ at 199¼. Montreal holding unchanged and one or two others strengthening fractionally. There was no outstanding stock other than Smelters, except F. N. Burt, which receded ⅝ to 45. C. P. R. gained ⅝ at 145½ and Steel of Canada a quarter at 84⅝. ARGONAUT GOLD RALLIED

TORONTO, May 6.—Con. West Dome Lake and Hattie, with McKinley Darragh, led the market on the Standard Mining Exchange today. West Dome recovered 1¼ at 13½, but Hattie sold steadily at ⅝, down an eighth, and McKinley Darragh was a half lower at 34½. Argonaut on active trading climbed 2¼ points at 25¼. A point gain by Barry Hollinger and three points by Mining Corporation were about the only changes registered that were not fractional declines.

SMILE OF SUCCESS NOT FOR GROUCH

One Must be Optimistic to Sell, Publicity Assn. Told

The "grouch" will never be a good salesman. This was the main point of the address on "The Art of Selling from Various Angles," delivered by Georges Arcand to the members of the Montreal Publicity Association at their regular weekly meeting at the Mount Royal Hotel this afternoon. W. B. Tingle and R. G. Vaillant were the joint chairmen.

It is the man who goes about with a smile on his face, who has some love for his fellow men, who understands them, and attempts to get on good terms with them who will be a success as far as selling is concerned, said Mr. Arcand. If he goes out with the idea to do as much as he can for others he will succeed, but the pessimist and the grouch will fail.

The major part of the speaker's address was given to the discussion and description of a number of observations on the conduct of travellers and commercial men, and the effect of their individuality on their selling success. Even in dealing with telephone messages it was possible, he said, to get in closer contact with the prospective customer.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Ald. Leon Trepanier. The good wishes of those present were extended to C. W. Stokes, F. W. Johnson, and W. B. Tingle, who leave today for Houston to represent the Montreal Club at the annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. They bear an invitation from Mayor Duquet to hold the 1927 convention in Montreal.

Imports from Japan have remained steady, and the February value was $687,819.

SENSATIONAL LAW SUITS MAY FOLLOW WRIT ISSUED ON COL. GRANT MORDEN

LONDON, May 6.—(British United Press.) — Sensational lawsuits are promised as a result of the serving of a writ this morning on Col. Grant Morden, by Julius Turner, a well-known financier in which Turner claims damages in connection with the floating of the Vocalion Gramophone Company. This company was formed for the distribution of an invention of Pemberton Billing, who was much in the public eye in the years immediately after the war. The invention is known as the Long Record. They run for two or three hours, and the rights were taken over by the Vocalion Company. Most interesting revelations are promised and other members of Parliament as well as the Canadian member for the division of Middlesex. Brentford are alleged to be involved. Col. Morden among his other activities has proprietory interests in The People, a well-known Sunday newspaper.

WAYS OF LIQUOR BOARD CRITICIZED

Lawyer Says Commission Harsh in Treatment of Accused Persons

Due to the fact that attorneys for the Quebec Liquor Commission did not show up this morning, Judge Enright granted a plea made by Leonce Plante, counsel for W. A. Walsh, manager of a big concern from Rochester, N. Y., charged with transporting liquor illegally, and acquitted his client. Mr. Plante in court made a vigorous onslaught against the way the Liquor Commission was treating people it accused, and said that before the law, the Commission should be treated as an ordinary individual or corporation. He said the Commission had the habit of having its inspectors arrest people at night, put them in the cells, irrespective of their position in life, and then proceed against them when they felt like it.

The case of Walsh was an interesting one, according to Mr. Plante's statement. He bought a bottle of liquor from one of the Commission's stores, and was about to share it, in a taxi, with a friend, when he was spotted by an inspector of the Commission. He was then put under arrest and locked up.

Judge Enright said that in the absence of an attorney for the Liquor Commission he would not decide on the merits of the case, but he would acquit Walsh.

POLICE ABANDON HUNT IN HILLS

Gave Up Search of Gatineau District for Ottawa Slayer

OTTAWA, Ont., May 6.—(Canadian Press.) — The hunt in the Gatineau Hills for Charles Uffett, wanted for the slaying of Charles Edward Underwood in a local boarding house last Thursday night, has been practically dropped. Police have exhausted every clue there and followed every track with no success. At Wychwood, where the trail led yesterday, the search was also fruitless.

Inspector Joliat, of the Ottawa police, is convinced that Uffett either was able to get out of the district or has friends helping him to hide. The police are endeavoring to find traces of a man called Bob Smith, believed to be an uncle of Uffett, and question him.

Police were engaged last night in following up dozens of reports of men answering the description of Uffett. The reports came from all parts of the district and by their very number of variety were stamped false, although police investigated carefully each one.

BRIAND FINISHING REPLY TO GERMANY

Deals With Suggestions Made for Frontier Security

PARIS, May 6—(Associated Press.)—Foreign Minister Briand is putting the finishing touches to his reply to Germany's suggestions for a security pact.

It is understood that the reply will express the willingness of the French Government to consider seriously any responsible offer for the guarantee of the French frontiers.

M. Briand will probably present his reply to next week's meeting of the French Cabinet before he communicates the text to the Allies or forwards it to Berlin.

Little change has been made from the general tone of the answer to the German proposal drafted by former Premier Herriot, it is understood. The Briand note will ask for specifications of several points suggested in the German proposal.

PRINCE STAYS UP TO GREET NATIVES

Refuses to Disappoint Crowds Gathered at S.A. Stations

HAS LITTLE SLEEP

Favorite Hunting Horse is Dead After An Operation

MOSSEL BAY, Union of South Africa, May 6—(Associated Press.) — The Prince of Wales did not get as much sleep last night as had been planned, because he did not have the heart to disappoint a crowd that waited throughout the night at stations to see him as his special train passed. It had been announced that the train would stop 12 hours each night at some quiet place in order that the Prince might sleep undisturbed. But the Prince cancelled that program and refused to go to bed until late when he learned that at each little station or settlement along the route, farmers and natives had gethered around campfires and were patiently waiting to see him. He descended at several of these remote stations and chatted with the watchers amid much enthusiasm.

In consequence, the train did not reach Mossel Bay until about ten o'clock this morning. The Prince expressed regret at the delay, but added with a smile, "we have to get some sleep some time."

A large crowd cheered the royal visitor and local officials headed by the Mayor greeted him with elaborate ceremonies. The Prince motored to a war memorial, situated on a hill overlooking the town and drove along the picturesque coast of Mossel Bay.

FLAG IS TAXED $12 BY U.S. CUSTOMS IN RETURN FOR COURTESY OF BRITISH

NEW YORK, May 6—(United Press Copyright)—The truth of this story is vouched for by the best people, and then there is the receipt for $12 as additional evidence.

It will be recalled that when American advertising men went to England for the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the world the New York delegation carried flags which were presented to the city of Old York. There was an American flag, and the flag of New York State and New York City.

The Duke of York and other dignitaries received the delegation with elaborate ceremony. There were speeches and exchanges of felicitations bands played the national anthems and the visiting delegates rode in open-faced hacks to the Lord Mayor's residence, where a large time was had by all. The flags were accepted by the city of Old York, and with reverence placed in the City Hall.

This year, the advertising men of the world are meeting at Houston, Texas. Desiring to return the courtesy of the Americans, a British delegation arrived, bringing a large British flag to be presented to the city of Houston.

At this point, any similarity between the arrivals ceases. Instead of reverent hands of grateful dignitaries receiving the gift flag, it was promptly seized by the customs officials.

Britishers bearing gifts meant nothing to the authorities whose recent success at confiscating an apple and an orange which a young miss of six summers from Des Moines was attempting to bring into the country will be recalled.

With diligent courtesy, the British guests explained that the flag was to be a gift and was not for sale. With heated indignation their American hosts protested to the customs authorities.

The Britishers were advised that by paying $12 they could obtain possession of the flag, not otherwise. So the $12 was forthcoming and the visitors got their flag back.

When American advertising men awoke to a complete realization of the affront, they dashed down to the customs house and demanded that at least the Britishers be given back their $12.

The dispassionate reply was that the $12 was in the till, as duty paid on one British flag, and that only an act of Congress could get it out.

The British delegation has the flag, and is leaving tonight for Houston.

WASHINGTON'S VIEW.

WASHINGTON, May 6 — (United Press.)—So far as customs officials here are concerned, the $12 duty plastered by New York customs agents on the gift flag brought by British delegates to the Houston advertising convention is in the Treasury to stay. Only an act of Congress can get it out.

The law says flags must pay a 50 per cent. duty, and there is no more reason for suspending it for the Britishers than for suspending the prohibition for them, officials say. Privately they deplore the necessity of collecting the money.

CANADA BEHIND IN SUPPORT OF NAVY

Per Capita Donation Very Inferior to That of Other Dominions

AUSTRALIA LEADS

South Africa Far Ahead of Canada in Naval Defense Aid

LONDON, May 6.—(Star Special by J. E. Poole, Staff Correspondent.)—That Canada expends just 15 cents per capita on the naval defense of the Empire is revealed in a written reply of Hon. W. G. A. Ormsby-Gore to a question asked in the House of Commons. The statistics given place Canada in a very inferior light as compared, not only with the United Kingdom but with other Dominions.

The United Kingdom expends per capita one pound four and ten pence. For every thousand pounds imports and exports twenty five pounds three and nine pence. Australia pays per capita eight shillings and for every thousand pounds exports and imports eight pounds fourteen shillings and in addition £3,000,000 on naval construction and £1,500,000 for defence generally. New Zealand pays eight shillings and fifty five pounds eight pence respectively.

South Africa pays one shilling and nine pence and one pound one penny. Canada's per capita donation is 15 cents and for every thousand dollars worth of exports and imports .74 cents.

Thus even allowing for the special position Australasia and South Africa, Canada lags far behind even South Africa, in contributions to defence.

PILOTAGE HERE IS FULLY OCCUPIED

30 Ships Reported in Gulf and River Heading for Montreal from Sea

38 SHIPS IN PORT

Cattle Shipments Disappointing So Far—Liner Lancastria Reports

Thirty-eight ocean ships in port and 30 more reported in the river and gulf, bound for Montreal, is the measure of port activity in the second week of Montreal shipping and that the incoming ocean ships have been crowding each other in the race for this port is indicated in the exceptional pilotage activity.

There are 47 pilots centered at this point who bring in the ocean ships from Quebec to Montreal and vice versa. Of this number, three pilots are sick and the work of pilotage devolved on the remaining 44. During the past week-end the pilots have been fully engaged and will be occupied on every available train service in the next few days, reaching Quebec by rail and coming down to Montreal with the new arrivals. This process is being repeated in every individual instance as far as the limits of human endurance and personal safety.

It was remarked by the Superintendent of Pilots today, R. A. Wiallard, that the Montreal pilots were never so busy before at this time of the year and it is admitted that the same holds true for the Quebec pilotage district. The shortage of tramp tonnage here, which was very pronounced last week when all the elevators were full, will be more than compensated for this week and the movement of grain from this port in the next ten days should be a record for the month of May in any year.

The thirty incoming ships include one passenger liner, the Cunarder Lancastria, some of them, as seen in the Signal Service Report given below, are regular freight liners maintaining scheduled runs from this port to Britain while the majority are tramps of all nationalities and from every port in Europe and America performing their important function of transporting Canadian and American grain to the European markets going in some instances to out-of-the-way places where new markets for Canadian milling wheat are now offering.

ONLY 2 CATTLE SHIPS

Contrary to expectations the shipments of cattle from this port have not been exceptionally good so far and at the present rate the year's turnover in Canadian cattle from this port will be very poor. This movement however is conditioned solely by the market prices in the United Kingdom.

Up-to-date, only two ships have left here with cattle, namely the White Star Welshman, specially built for the trade, which took out 850 head of Western feeders last Saturday and the Anchor-Donaldson freighter Parthenia which carried out 522 head the day before. The first named went to Liverpool while the latter ship was routed for Glasgow. Scottish stock raisers being very partial to Canadian cattle for feeding and grazing purposes.

It is stated that there are tens of thousands of head of cattle in Canada ready for immediate shipments, especially in Ontario and the trade may pick up very suddenly. In the meantime the Canadian Government Merchant Marine is doing its share and will ship out from Quebec port a lot of Western cattle which is handled for shipment by the Farmers' Co-Operative societies.

COMING ON EMPRESS

The S.S. Empress of Scotland, flagship of the Canadian Pacific Atlantic fleet, and the largest liner sailing to Canadian ports on regular schedule, sailed from Southampton last week-end and is expected to dock at Quebec late next Saturday afternoon with a large list of notables among her cabin passengers.

Among the arrivals will be a number of prominent citizens from Canada, who made the cruise of the Mediterranean this winter on the "Scotland," and are returning on her first trip out this year. There are also a number of cruise passengers from south of the border remaining with her for this trip. A large part of her list however, is comprised of Old Country people, well-known in the business and social worlds, who are paying early visits to the Dominion this year.

Among the important passengers are: Sir George and Lady Perley, Sir Henry K. Eagan and Lady Eagan, H. C. Balfour, Miss Margaret Southam, Miss Ruth Cameron, Col. J. W. Woods, all of Ottawa, Ont.; E. Randolph Bruce, of Vancouver, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cummings, of Calgary, Alta.; Mrs. S. H. Alexander and Miss Alexander, of Hamilton, Ont.

The Montrose is due at Quebec shortly after the Empress of Scotland on Saturday next, and should arrive in Montreal early on Sunday morning. She, too, has a large list of important cabin passengers.

EIGHT KILLED, 14 INJURED IN BLAST

Six Bodies Recovered in Ruins of Pittsburg Store

FIRE BREAKS OUT

Flames and Smoke Interfere With Rescue Work

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 6. — (United Press.)—Eight persons were killed in an explosion which destroyed three buildings at Swissvale early today.

Fourteen persons, including four children, were injured in the explosion and in the scenes of wild disorder that followed. Three of the injured were taken to hospitals, where their condition was reported as serious.

Six bodies have been recovered from the wreckage by police and firemen. Two other bodies are believed to be buried in the wreckage.

The police said it appeared as if a bomb had caused the explosion.

Fire followed the blast, which shook the entire Swissvale district and shattered windows in dwellings for blocks around.

The persons killed were trapped in their beds. A score of others leaped from windows to safety as the fire spread.

The known dead and missing are:
Max Germais, 60.
Richard Balduf, 6.
Carl Balduf, 42.
Mrs. Carl Balduf, 34.
Helen Kagler, 32.
Mrs. Maria Kolter, 62.
Mrs. Karl Kagler, 24.

The explosion occurred in the fruit-store owned by Tony Pusatera. The store crumpled and two buildings adjoining were wrecked.

Flames enveloped the three buildings immediately after the blast. The fire was fed from gas from broken mains.

Calls for help were sent Wilkinberg and Edgewood. Firemen battled for two hours before getting the fire under control. Dense smoke and the flames prevented the rescue of those trapped.

The damage from the explosion and fire was estimated at $500,000 by the fire marshal.

Judge Declares All Reds Should Be Fined For Their Bad English

NEW YORK, May 6.—(United News.)—Lillian Saronoff, a stenographer, arrested for alleged "Red" May Day activities, was discharged Tuesday in Yorkville court by Magistrate Marshal, who declared the most serious charge against her was the bad English used in circulars she distributed.

The evidence against Lillian was insufficient for conviction, but the judge dismissed the case with the comment that "all 'Reds' ought to be fined for the poor grammar they use."

"Your Company's railway, on the other hand, has been extended from time to time always as a single system, each part of which was planned to support the other.

"The consolidation has resulted in heavy expenditure of the public monies to bring these lines to a higher state of efficiency, in particular by the addition of much modern equipment and power. The purpose of these policies was naturally to compete with this Company or perhaps to take from the lines of the Canadian Pacific as much as improved service and large expenditures could accomplish.

"The results have not warranted the hopes of those responsible for the policy and in consequence the annual burdens of the country continue to be heavy and a matter of grave importance. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that a demand for saving wherever possible is insistently made.

NOT RESPONSIBLE.

"Your Company has neither duplicated any important railway line nor has it increased in any appreciable degree the extent of its services during the past five years and it therefore cannot be held responsible for the growth of the conditions which your directors, in common with the business interests of the Country, seriously regret.

"We have indicated that we would be very glad to join with the Executives of the National Railways in reducing, by common action, as much of the duplication as public requirements and the interests of the individual companies will permit. It is probably true that the results of these policies of restriction in services which, in the first instance, will be directed to passenger service, will come at a time when the tourist and ordinary summer traffic of both companies is at its heaviest and that the convenience, in fact, the absolute necessities of the travelling public will demand train service which would not otherwise be required. I am entirely in favor of this action because I think it is dictated by common sense but I should not like to have it felt by the public at large that it will constitute an adequate solution of Canada's railway difficulties.

"As to the larger question of the future relations which the companies will bear to each other, no comment from me is desirable save to express the view that next to the property of their own railway, there is nothing that intelligent self-inerest would lead your directors so much to desire as the prosperity of the National Railways and the lessening and ultimately the entire elimination of the burden its operations impose pon th. Canadian people.

"We propose to work in the greatest possible harmony with the National Railways consistent with the interests of the property itself and of its owners and I would expect that the contribution of this company to the country's development and the importance of the services which it has and is rendering is fully appreciated and recognized by the Government of Canada.

"I am convinced that the vast majority of Canadians, especially the business interests of the country, do not desire ti see the Company either absorbed or menaced. I do not know of any situation which has arisen which should give the shareholders of this company any apprehension or grounds for the belief that in working out the railway problems of the country in the future their interests will be adversely or unfairly affected.

ONLY PROPOSALS MADE

"I should perhaps, add too that no proposals of any kind from the Company to the Government or from the Government to the Company have been made save those having to do with the question of reducing economic waste through the elimination so far as possible of duplicate services.

Regarding the Petersen contract, Mr. Beatty said:

"While the impression has been created that the policy was the result of a report made by a representative of the Government, this has since been denied. The fact remains, however, that the widespread publicity given to that report and to the, in many cases, wholly inaccurate statements in it, has necessitated the fullest exposition of their position and operations by the British and Canadian lines trading to and from the Canadian ports. It is a singular coincidence that the present should be chosen as the moment at which control by the Government, having as its admitted object the establishment of lower rates, should be demanded even to a very limited extent because it is within the knowledge of all steamship companies and could readily have been ascertained by the Government itself that operations during the past two years in particular have been conducted with very unsatisfactory financial returns, especially in respect of freight traffic.

"Your Directors felt that the publication of the report mentioned had placed the companies on trial in the opinion of the Canadian shipping public and therefore they, in common with the other lines, members of the North Atlantic Conference, are making the fullest disclosures of the traffic conditions and of the results of the operations of your subsidiary, the Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited. Whether or not the policy of the Government will be altered in consequence of the representations now being made to the Committee of the House, a much more accurate appreciation of the real situation will be obtained as a result of the evidence being given."

SIGNS FOR FUTURE

Immigration results, Mr. Beatty found disappointing, but he saw hopeful signs for the future.

"For the past few years," he said, "your directors have insistently advocated the need of an aggressive immigration policy as a vital necessity to the development of this country. The progress has not been satisfactory, the immigration results for the first three months of this year being particularly disappointing in that 10,792 immigrants were admitted into Canada as against 23,880 during the same period of the previous year. While there is nothing fundamentally unsound in the immigration laws of this country, we have apparently suffered from a lack of concerted and definite policies in Great Britain and on the continent.

"Representations have recently been made by the president of the Canadian National Railways and myself which, I think, will bring about a closer cooperation between the Government departments and the transportation and other immigration agencies and which should obviate the embarrassing delays in obtaining permits which have heretofore existed.

"The situation, however, is not without its encouraging features in that emigration from the British Isles is becoming more active, enquiries from the United States are numerous and the continental field shows considerable promise. As you are aware, your company has been unremitting in its efforts to bring about colonization and settlement and in spite of the relatively slow progress recently made, the importance of greater immigration to Canada is so obvious that the immigration and colonization departments will not relax their efforts though the expense involved is substantial.

LOSS OF SIR A. NANTON.

Mr. Beatty made reference to the great loss suffered by the company in the death of Sir Augustus M. Nanton, who had been a director since 1914 and member of the Executive Committee since 1923.

He lauded the loyalty of the officers and men of the company, "in face of competition of an unusual character.

Dealing with the facts as shown in the financial report, Mr. Beatty pointed out that a much smaller movement of grain and flour, and a decrease in movement of manufactured articles caused by depression during the latter part of last year, had caused a two million ton reduction in the freight moved during the year.

The depression of the Fall had continued, and the grain moved out of western Canada in the beginning of 1925 was much less than in the corresponding period of 1924. This combined to produce a shrinkage in gross earnings for the first three months of the year of four and a half million dollars and a decrease in net earnings of $593,366. If a good crop was forthcoming this year, he had hopes that this year's results would be satisfactory.

He had hoped to be able to report something definite as to the Government's proposed action on the Crow's Nest Pass rates, but up to this time, no official announcement had been made.

At a meeting of the directors following the shareholders' meeting E. W. Beatty was re-elected president and chairman, and Grant Hall, vice-president. The following were appointed to the executive committee: E. W. Beatty, Grant Hall, Sir Herbert S. Holt, Charles Hosmer, Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., W. N. Tilley, K.C.

HOUSTON READY FOR CONVENTION

Texas Town Preparing Big Welcome for World Ad Clubs

MANY BANDS

Many Special Features Planned to Entertain Visiting Delegates

HOUSTON, Texas, May 6—(United Press).—The first outward indication that a convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the world was to be staged here, beginning next Saturday, appeared today, when flags and banners of all nations floated in the downtown business district.

The first formal meeting will be Saturday evening, when Houston and all Texas will extend a welcome to the visitors. Secretary of Commerce Hoover is scheduled to address the convention the first day.

Sunday, May 10, a bit of the Old South will be injected into the program when ante-bellum favorites will be sung by a chorus of 125 negro voices.

Frowning on the cold storage kind, raised to order spring chickens are being fattened in preparation for a convention dinner at the San Jacinto battle-ground May 11.

MANY BANDS.

Aside from the regular business of the convention, many entertainments have been planned. There will be enough bands here to have one on nearly every corner. Three bands from foreign countries are expected.

Features of the invention include a pageant by Texas school children, "The Texas Star," a revue "South of Thirty-Six" and a trip to Galveston for a "dip" in the Gulf of Mexico and to view boat races.

President Lou Holland, of Kansas City, Mo., of the A.A.C.W., will preside over the business sessions. With the convention theme "Advertising as a Means to World Peace" in mind, delegates representing practically every civilized country have either started to the convention or are getting ready to start. One trainload of Canadian delegates will be piloted across the United States by airplane. Delegates from the west coast are coming via the Panama Canal, thence to Galveston and up the ship channel to Houston.

Rumors were afloat today that representatives were already here digging entrenchments on which to lay down a barrage of bids for the 1926 convention.

SINN FEIN PAPER ATTACKS ALBERTA

Warns Emigrants from Western Province With Orange Bogey

DUBLIN, May 6 — (Star Special Cable). — A Republican newspaper "Sinnrein" severely attacks Father Quilty who recently visited the Free State canvassing for emigrants for Alberta. The heading of the article is "Father Quilty's Crime," and the paper says that the people should not be misled by Quilty and tells the readers that Alberta is a province where Orangism is strongest and where a million Orangemen are to be seen within a decade. It paints a dreadful picture of Alberta's post-war condition economically and dwells on the march of unemployed claiming that these men were imprisoned.

The article generally seeks to frighten intending emigrants from Canada. The anti-emigration feeling is growing and Irish women are holding meetings shortly to discuss the subject.

Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, carrying the flag of Norway, will be followed in June by expeditions headed by Donald B. MacMillan, United States, and Grettir Algarsson, Great Britain, all three taking to the air from bases to be established approximately 550 miles by airplane from the Pole.

Amundsen, leaving his two ships, Farm and Hobby, at the northermost point of Spitzbergen, will attempt the flight in two Dornier Whales all-metal monoplane flying boats, with bottoms shaped like sleds, so they can land on ice, snow or water.

Algarsson's attempt has been termed as daring as the MacMillan-United States Navy expedition is conceded to be elaborate. In a blimp, the gas bag capacity of which is less than one-twentieth of that of the Shenandoah, Alarsson hopes to take off from his ship, Liverpool, anchored somewhere west of Spitzbergen. Like Amundsen, he will be content with merely a dash to the Pole and a few days' exploration.

MacMillan's is the only expedition which hopes to chart definitely that vast unexplored area on the Alaska-Siberia side of the Pole. Quarter the size of the North American Continent, this area may be the unknown continent both Peary and MacMillan on a previous expedition claimed they saw, but could not reach.

WEATHER FAVORABLE.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 6. — (Associated Press.) — The weather prospects at Spitzbergen are reported excellent for the attempt by Captain Roald Amundsen's expedition to reach the North Pole by airplane.

Both the airplanes will be flown northward today, following the two expedition steamers, Farm and Hobby, which yesterday left for the intended hopping-off point, on Dane's Island.

The first plane is to be piloted by Lieut. Rieser Larsen, with Amundsen as passenger, and the second by Oscar Omdal, with Lincoln Ellsworth, a United States engineer, as navigator.

The planes have a speed of more than 90 miles an hour, making it possible, the explorers believe, to reach the Pole in about eight hours. The distance is roughly 680 miles.

If possible, Captain Amundsen and his companions will make a landing at the Pole and attempt to locate its exact position. If this is not found practicable, the aviators plan to drop a Norwegian flag in the approximate vicinity. The planes will fly 100 metres apart and at an altitude of 500 metres, keeping in touch by wireless throughout the trip. It is expected they will take from three to four hours to reach the island.

HOUSE MAY SHELVE GRAIN ACT DEBATE

In View of Supreme Court Judgment Parliament May Not Discuss it

REVISE CONSTITUTION

Federal Legislators Legislated Beyond Constitutional Competence

OTTAWA, May 6. — (Star Special By Own Correspondent.)—Hon. T. A. Low stated today that he is asking the Department of Justice to advise whether in view of the judgment of the Supreme Court yesterday involving the constitutionality of the Grain Act, it is advisable to proceed this session with the contemplated revision, inevitably the finding of the court, which in effect holds that the licensing and regulation authority of the Grain Commissioners are ultra vires, will be appealed to the Privy Council. Another course would be to put in the Grain Act a declaration that terminal elevators are "works for the general advantage of Canada," thus bringing them within Federal scope. The Department will advise on the whole question; but it is thought very possible that pending the ultimate adjudication, the Grain Act revision may not be proceeded with this session in which case a couple of weeks of discussion would be saved.

It is apparent that the Federal Parliament for years has been legislating beyond its constitutional competence. Four outstanding Acts have been largely upset in the courts on the ground that in their provision they invaded the sphere of the Provinces. The Board of Commerce, the Wheat Pool, the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, and now the Grain Act have in turn met adversity on the grounds mentioned, although in some cases it has been possible to maintain parts of alternatives to these enactments. A Federal inter-provincial conference to consider re-writing the constitution may be regarded as appropriate.

NUMBER OF DRUG ADDICTS GREATER

D. J. A. Amyot Believes There are 10,000 in Canada

TORONTO, May 6 — (Canadian Press)—Addressing the annual conference of the Ontario Medical Health Officers' Association yesterday, Dr. J. A. Amyot, Deputy Minister of the Federal Department of Health said that drug addiction is spreading alarmingly in Canada.

"I haven't any definite figures," he said, "speaking on the question of narcotics, "but we know there are new cases developing all the time. We think there are about 10,000 addicts now in Canada.

"We're not unlike the rest of the world. In fact, the condition of affairs is so alarming that the nations of the world have all banded together to try to beat out this plague."

The difficulty of curbing an addict was not under-estimated by Dr. Amyot. "The finest cure is never to become an addict. If you start to slide from the top of a steep roof you know how much chance you have of stopping. It is a very difficult thing for an addict ever to stop.

"The only method of effecting a cure," he said, "was complete control and withdrawal of the drug."

DOMINION DAY THE 4TH, THEIR IDEA

Immigrants Need Coaching in History, Says Aid Society Official

After a trip lasting six weeks, undertaken for the purpose of visiting settlements of Czecho-Slovaks in several Provinces, Karl R. Krivanek, secretary of the Czecho-Slovak Immigrant Aid Society, returned to Montreal today. In the provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba he found thriving communities of hard working, law abiding compatriots, the type of men that Canada is anxious to get.

Most of his compatriots whom he interviewed, declared, that there was no reason why a large number of immigrants should not come to the different colonies and take up land and make it their permanent home. "As a staunch champion of things Canadian, I was delighted to hear the unanimous opinion expressed by those whom I spoke to, as to the desirability of settling in Canada," said Mr. Krivanek. "Its soil," they declared, "was the best that any farmer could work." This testimony as to the fertility of Canadian wheat land is all the more valuable, since it is given by experienced farmers, who before coming to Canada had farmed in the United States, Russia and other European parts.

"It would seem to me," Mr. Krivanek said, "That the advantages of Canada are not as well known as they should be. That is why I am glad I had an opportunity of making an extended visit, so that through our society, we can point out to desirable settlers, in both the United States and Czecho-Slovakia, the advantages of settling in Canada. I also found somewhat to my surprise, that owing to the distance some of these communities are from the stations, that they are not as well acquainted with Canadian history as they might be. This is something which our society, if encouraged by the authorities, will remedy. When I asked several of these parties whether they celebrated Dominion Day, they answered that they did, on the 4th of July. I, at once pointed out that that was Independence Day in the United States, and that in Canada the national celebration is Dominion Day on July 1st. I can quite understand why these farmers think that the 4th of July is the proper national day, since they originally came to the United States, and reading as they do, almost exclusively American newspapers, printed in the Czech language, this belief was confirmed.

LUTHER TAKES TRIP IN GIANT 'PLANE

BERLIN, May 6 — (United Press.) —Accompanied by Count Lerchenfeld, former president of Bavaria, Chancellor Luther flew to Munich in a giant junker airplane and assisted in the dedication of a museum.

Count Lerchenfeld dictated official correspondence to a stenographer during the flight, and a bus boy served the statesmen breakfast at an altitude of 6,000 feet.

WESTERN CANADA BUSINESS BETTER

Sir John Aird Believes Five Million Settlers Solution for Ills

WINNIPEG, May 6 — (Canadian Press)—General conditions in Western Canada are a little better than in the East, with the exception of Ontario, according to Sir John Aird, president and General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, who was here yesterday en route from the Pacific Coast to Toronto. Sir John said the manufacturing sections are slightly depressed, although the retail trade is now showing improvement.

Discussing the position of the Dominion, especially railway problems, Sir John said: "We are short on population, long on taxation, and legislation." Sir John believes that an addition during the next few years of five millions to Canada's population will settle the railway problems, and with Federal and Provincial Governments and railways working harmoniously together it should not be impossible to reach that figure.

On the broader international outlook, the president of the Bank of commerce holds some interesting views. He believes England's return to the gold standard has been perhaps a little premature, and that the Mother Country has been too willing to settle its own external obligations incurred during the war without insisting at least upon a partial settlement of debts due herself.

GERMAN PRINCE HAS BIRTHDAY

Monarchist Press Indulges in Visions for Occasion

BERLIN, May 6. — (Associated Press). — The forty-third birthday of former Crown Prince Frederick William, which he celebrated today, inspired the ultra-Conservative Kreuz Zeitung to a visionary panegyric. It records how Frederick William since his return to Germany from his exile in Holland after the world war, has been enabled to witness the steady re-birth of German nationalism.

The newspaper admits plaintively that an emperor no longer exists in the country, but it consoles the one-time Crown Prince that Germany now has a President who at least is no longer identical with the representatives of the revolution of 1918, but a leader who is a product of Prusso-German history.

The Kreuz Zeitung generously offers to Frederick William as a birthday gift of the German people, Field-Marshal von Hindenburg, the President-elect.
