Will prevent classroom misuse by extremists

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec education department is taking steps to prevent teachers from using the classroom as a forum for "political propaganda and indoctrination," Education Minister Guy Saint-Pierre said Thursday.

He told the Quebec national assembly a four-point program has been established to muzzle teachers who preach revolutionary change.

"I have stressed that I will defend with all my energies the right of teachers to have opinions which differ from mine in matters of religion, politics and ideology," he said.

"But this academic freedom must not become an umbrella to hide incompetence and intellectual dishonesty."

The education minister was speaking during the continuing debate into the Liberal government's handling of the current terrorist crisis in the province.

He said he would announce, within a few days, the nomination of a commissioner to receive complaints from concerned parents and school administrators.

This commissioner would investigate cases of alleged abuses of the teachers' position and report to the education minister, who then could take formal action under the Public Instruction Act.

Second, Mr. Saint-Pierre said he has written to all university rectors, junior college principals and school board presidents, saying that while teachers should be concerned with social change, these "legitimate" desires must not "be translated into attitudes of provocation."

The school authorities are asked to assure that teachers do not interfere in any way "with the goals of an education system."

Third, the Superior Council on Education, which advises the education department on policy, was asked by Mr. Saint-Pierre to remain vigilant for teachers who "take advantage of their contact with students."

Fourth, the minister said plans are under way to create a joint committee of teachers, administrators and government representatives to draw up a code of ethics for teachers and professors.

Mr. Saint-Pierre said he already has contacted union representatives for 80,000 Quebec teachers with a view to the establishment of such a code.

He said the government action must not be seen as a "witch hunt" but rather as "a positive attempt to establish, in this very delicate field, a guideline which won't be subjugated by extremist pressures, either from the left or the right."

Some teachers had introduced the political manifesto of the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec in their classes, he said, and it was roundly discussed.

OTTAWA (CP) — An epic parliamentary battle is taking shape over the government's bill to restrict activities of the auditor-general. Parliament's overseer of federal spending.

Opposition spokesmen say they will force the government to use closure rather than agree to such a measure. Closure is the parliamentary device used to choke off protracted debate.

The Conservatives and NDP appear delighted that the government has given them an issue on which they believe they can get widespread public support.

A government spokesman said there will be no retreat by the administration.

In the middle making no comment, is Maxwell Henderson, auditor-general for the last decade who has upset the Trudeau government for more than two years with such exposes as the $13 million refit of the aircraft carrier Bonaventure just before its sale for scrap for less than $1 million.

Mr. Henderson, whose salary is $30,000 a year, has not been given a raise by the government since 1965 though deputy ministers have had three raises since then and earn up to $42,000.

He has complained that the government will not give him the staff he needs to perform his watchdog role properly.

The government's bill, introduced Monday in the name of C. M. Drury, treasury board president, would impose limits on the auditor-general's current authority to call Parliament's attention to "any other case" he thinks should be reported in addition to any enumerated mis-handling of public funds.

Henceforth, "any other case" would have to be related to the auditor-general's specified duties: the proper keeping of accounts and the expenditure of money as directed by Parliament.

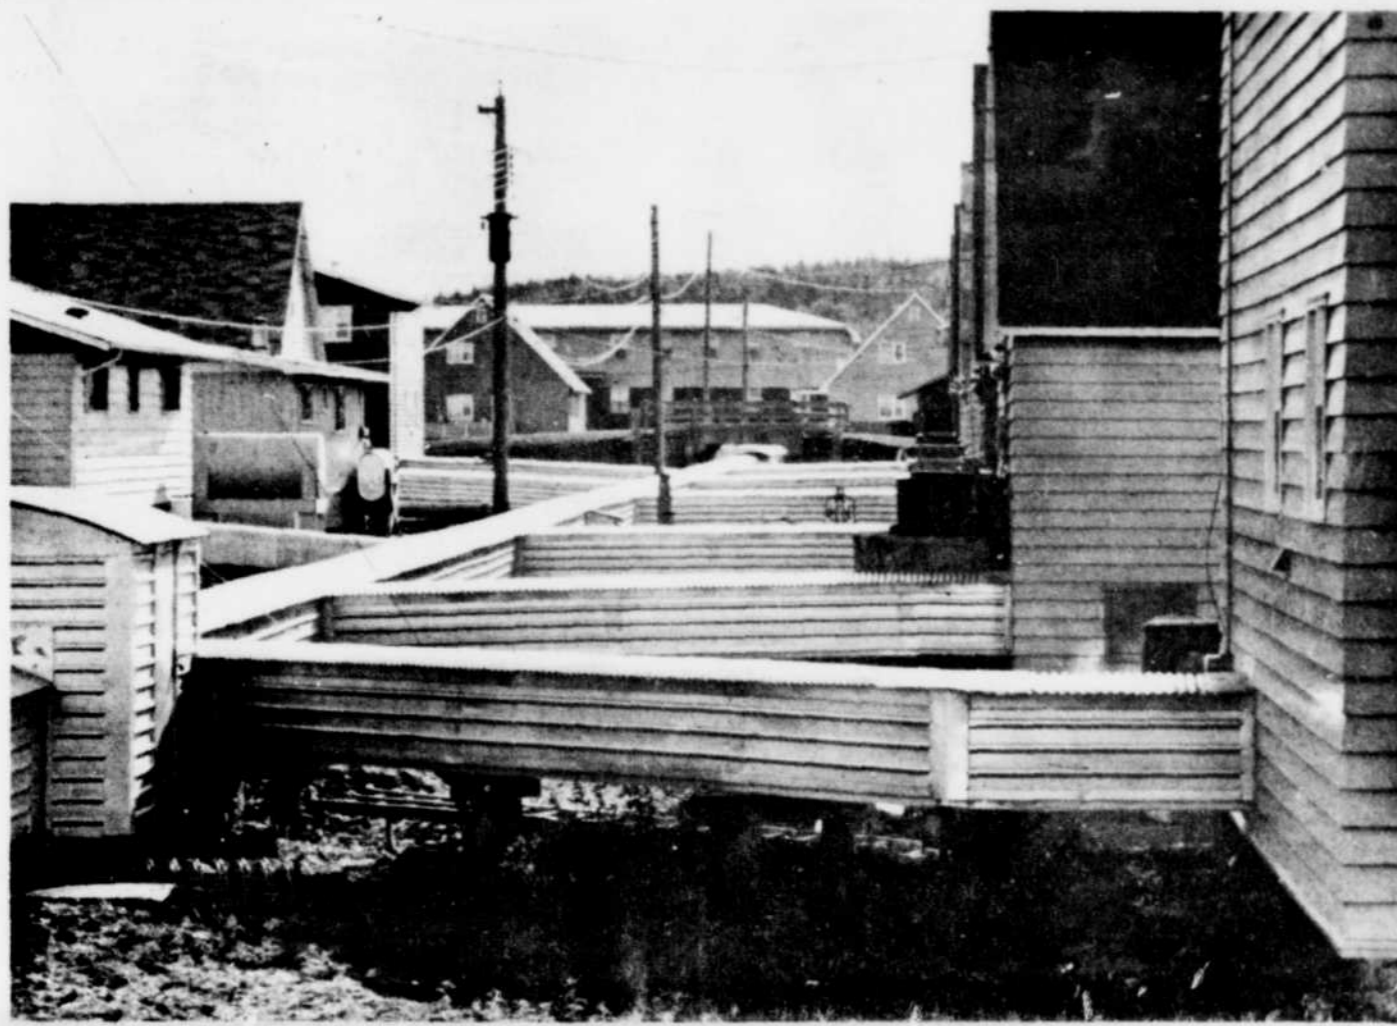

The auditor-general would also have to tell the government in advance what he planned to say in his annual report and the government would be entitled to publish simultaneously its own observations on his findings.

The government's argument is that Mr. Henderson has been commenting detrimentally on government policy endorsed by Parliament.

It claims that the auditor-general has no right to make remarks about policy even though that policy may have resulted in wasted expenditure.

For example, it was Conservative government policy to build the Prince Edward Island causeway and Liberal government policy to cancel the project. Thus, it is contended, it was not the auditor-general's job to remark on the amounts spent before cancellation.

Bousquet takes interbreed
TORONTO (CP) — An entry by Laurent Bousquet of Granby, Que., won first prize Thursday in the inter-breed adder class at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Runner-up was an entry by Oak Ridges Farms Ltd. of Oak Ridges, Ont.

Castonguay denies exodus
QUEBEC (CP) — Health Minister Claude Castonguay denied Thursday that there has been a "massive exodus" by medical specialists from Quebec since the province's medical care insurance program went into effect Nov. 1.

Mr. Castonguay said in the national assembly he had heard reports of some doctors leaving the province but that they were few in number and mostly connected with university medical centres.

He was replying to questions from Creditiste member Fabien Roy about published reports that many of Quebec's top medical specialists were going elsewhere because they disagreed with several sections of the medical care plan, including its fee structure.

Allows Lemieux to appear
MONTREAL (CP) — Mr. Justice Kenneth Mackay decided Thursday to allow imprisoned lawyer Robert Lemieux to appear in court today to plead a petition for bail on behalf of himself and four other persons being held under the War Measures Act.

Mr. Justice Mackay said he would permit Lemieux to appear in Court of Queen's Bench with the understanding the lawyer would restrict his arguments to matters of law.

The four others Lemieux will represent are labor leader Michel Chartrand, free-lance journalist Jacques Larue-Langlois, writer Pierre Vallieres and former teacher Charles Gagnon.

The five are charged with seditious conspiracy and with being members of the outlawed Front de Liberation du Quebec.

Freighter still burning
QUEBEC (CP) — A small freighter owned by Coastal Shipping Ltd. of Montreal continued to burn Thursday after being run aground near here to prevent it from sinking.

Fire broke out in the engine room of the 1,091-ton Sillery Wednesday afternoon. Its 12 man crew, after battling the flames unsuccessfully for several hours, was removed without injury.

It was reported earlier that Sillery was owned by Marc Carriere Ltd., but an official of the Montreal investment firm explained that the company merely carried out the purchase on behalf of Coastal Shipping.

Cause of the fire, which broke out during a routine trip from St. Lawrence River ports to Montreal, was not known.

Two powerful tugs, Foundation Venture and Foundation Vanguard, ran the Sillery around on Ile d'Orleans, downstream from Quebec City, and turned their hoses on the fire.

Will meet labor reps
QUEBEC (CP) — Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer said Thursday he will meet with labor and management representatives before recommending to the Quebec cabinet the contents of a government order establishing work conditions for the next two years in the province's construction industry.

Mr. Cournoyer told the Parliamentary labor committee he will meet representatives of each of the two labor groups and seven employers' associations which have appeared before the committee studying the construction dispute since late August.

The committee finished its work Thursday and the government now will rule on the conditions to prevail in the construction industry until 1973.

Issues still unsettled are wage parity throughout the province, seniority, working hours, acquired rights and the right to unionize foremen.

Assaults restrictive trade policies

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian government campaign against what it sees as restrictive international trade policies emerging in the United States has been orchestrated to a crescendo on the eve of annual U.S.-Canada ministerial talks.

Canadian officials say dangers posed to both U.S.-Canada trade and world commerce generally by legislative and policy trends in Washington will be the main talking point when a half-dozen Canadian ministers play host to U.S. counterparts Monday and Tuesday.

Speeches this week by Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin in New York and Finance Minister Edgar Benson in Vancouver zeroed in on restrictive trade legislation moving through Congress. They thus publicly joined a chorus of protests raised by trading partners of the United States to provide political ammunition for U.S. opponents of trade restrictions.

Also high on the ministerial agenda as far as the hosts are concerned will be the current hard sell for Canadian oil, a perennial campaign to resume uranium exports to the United States and discussion about joint anti-pollution efforts on the Great Lakes. Canada also is likely to preach the virtues of reviving a world grain-marketing pact.

The visitors want to impress new upon Canadians the U.S. desire to balance its international accounts. That implies restraint on the part of Canadians—notably provincial governments—in borrowing funds in the United States.

It also forms part of the motive behind U.S. moves to raise some barriers against imports, stimulate exports and—specifically in Canada's case—to seek revision of the 1965 U.S.-Canada auto pact on the ground that Canada has the best of that deal.

Lesser problems range from U.S. limits on Canadian migrants to seasonal Canadian restrictions on U.S. tomatoes and cucumbers.

No final resolution of any issue is expected from the meeting, although Canada may be able to confirm by Tuesday an expected increase in oil exports as a result of short-term demand pressure in the United States.

Existing Canada-U.S. committees of senior officials handle detailed negotiations on such issues as trade in energy resources and automobiles.

The annual ministerial get-togethers—the last was in Washington 16 months ago—are designed to let ministers discuss mutual concerns in a general way.

U.S. arguments that Canada should co-operate with U.S. efforts to correct a worrisome payments deficit carry added force at a time when Canada has built up a record current account surplus of $750 million on international dealings, partly at the expense of a sharply-reduced deficit with the United States.

Dayan promotes Suez reopening

Israeli Defence Minister Moshe Dayan is promoting a Middle East settlement that calls for a rollback of heavy artillery from the Suez canal and a reopening of the waterway to international shipping, informed sources said Thursday.

Dayan outlined his plan at a closed-door party meeting in Tel Aviv Tuesday. None of the details has been made public but observers say it proposes:

—That Egypt and Israel pull back their heavy artillery 18 miles from the Suez, let the blocked canal reopen, and declare an end to hostilities.

—Small patrols would continue to police the semi-demilitarized shores of the canal.

—Israel, feeling relatively secure, then could return to the United Nations peace talks with Egypt and Jordan.

Jerusalem is boycotting the UN talks because of Egypt's missile buildup along the canal. Israel says the buildup violated the U.S.-initiated ceasefire agreed to by Egypt, Jordan and Israel.

Production not affected but fire leaves 250 idle

Mr. Vaffeur said a 55,000 square foot area of the plant was totally destroyed, a loss of over $500,000 dollars.

The building was fully insured and Mr. Vaffeur said efforts are now under way to rebuild an assembly line in an undamaged 15,000 square foot area of the building.

The walls and ceilings of the plant were coated with fiberglass dust, a manufacturing by-product which is highly inflammable and difficult to control, according to Mr. Vaffeur.

"The most tragic part of this is the number of people who will be unemployed for some time," Mr. Vaffeur said, "but from a production standpoint we've been lucky."

Mr. Vaffeur said the assembly line being constructed in the unburned section of the building will employ between 75 and 100 persons by next Monday. "As for the others, we cannot

Typhoon hits Philippines, kills 30, injuries hundreds

MANILA (AP) — At least 30 persons were reported killed, 34 missing and hundreds injured after Typhoon Patsy smashed through Manila and densely-populated Luzon Island Thursday with winds that reached 124 miles an hour.

The casualty toll was expected to rise as reports reached Manila from outlying provinces in the Philippines.

A weather bureau official said it was the worst typhoon to hit Manila since 1882.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos declared a state of calamity in the Manila area, where tens of thousands were homeless and damage was estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Marcos ordered all non-essential public and private establishments closed until Monday.

VALCOURT — The town of Roxton Falls may be in serious economic difficulty as a result of a fire which destroyed the Roski fiberglass plant early Monday morning.

The Roski plant is a subsidiary of Bombardier, Ltd., supplying it with fiberglass components for snowmobiles.

Jacques Vaffeur, of Bombardier's public relations staff in Valcourt, told the Record yesterday about 250 employees of the Roxton Falls plant are now off the payroll as a result of the disaster, which began on a molding table where inflammable resins are used to fabricate the familiar black and yellow Ski-Doo cowlings.

Employees on the night shift, later assisted by Acton Vale and Roxton Falls fire departments, battled the blaze until heavy black smoke from the burning chemicals forced them from the area.

DISTRICT
On November 10, an executive meeting was held at the Lennoxville Town Hall Council. President Archie Christiansen presided. Many topics were discussed for the upcoming season. It is my opinion that the present Executive have a lot to offer with a fresh new approach in the administration of Scouting in the District.

The District Council Meeting will be on Nov. 24, at St. Paul's Church, MacManamy Street at 8 p.m.

7TH SHERBROOKE CUB PACK WEST WARD

Other prizes went to Denis Godbout, winner of the peanut race and Fred Baker as the mystery goblin. The following badges were awarded: Fred Baker for athletics, collector and reader; Sunjay Bedi for gardener and house orderly; Jim Leonard for angler and pet keeper.

SCOUT - GUIDE WEEK
Scout - Guide week is February 21st to the 28th. During the week, many groups plan special celebrations and activities. The Scout center at Dorval has a good selection of colourful and exciting films which may be used by groups to add interest to activities.

Bookings for these films are now being accepted and as usual are on a first come, first served basis. For more information

This equipment is available to all the memberships of Boy Scouts of Canada and is reasonably priced. Now is the time to make a booking while choice dates are still available. Reservations can be made by calling Abe Zemel at the Scout Center at Dorval (Tel. 683-3004).

BY A SCOUT

The following report on troop activities was submitted by Steven Kenneth, Patrol Leader of 3rd Sherbrooke Troop.

"Tonight we finished up the requirements for the bronze citizen badge. Our Scout Leader Mr. Doe, was back from the big city of Montreal. Next week we will be starting on our first-aid silver stage badge. Mr. Kouri will be kind enough to lecture and teach us on the badge. The badge will be on the fundamentals of first-aid. It will take us a minimum of three weeks to a maximum of a month to complete the badge. Nearing the end of the night we had relay races. It was Panther patrol's unlucky night, Friday the 13th, when they lost all three relay races. While the other patrols raked in the points for winning.

At the end of the night the Blackfoot Patrol and Panther were tied for the lead with 102 points."

GROUP COMMITTEE

On Nov. 3rd, the 3rd Sherbrooke Group Committee held its monthly meeting at Plymouth United Church with Ed Mills, chairman, presiding.

With an attendance of 36 parents and District Council Members, I believe this is a record for this Group Committee. It certainly must be gratifying to the Executive and Group Committee Members, that two years ago serious consideration was given to discontinue the Group because of lack of support.

Today, the Group must be considered one of the more efficient and well organized in the district. The exemplification shown by the past and by the present Group Committee Members, by their

SECOND QUEBEC JAMBOREE '70

AUGUST 22 TO AUGUST 29, 1970

In the Scout column of Monday, November 9th, the picture published showed incorrect names. The caption should have read: Standing back row, left to right: Gary Packwood, leader; Donald Grey, Bury; David Last, Theftford Mines; Donald Bougie, Second row, from left: Geoffrey Towers; Daniel Lafrance; Daniel Chullier; D. Matherson; Bury; Chris Verhinden and Richard Bougie, Leader. Sitting, left to right: Andre Normandeau, Theftford Mines; Richard Laroche, Bury and Walter Dougherty, Bury.

Missing from the picture are Rocky Dwyer, Micheal Trainor and Jody Curran, all of Gander, Newfoundland.

In our last Scout Column, we covered the activities of a Patrol up to Monday, August 24th. The following will describe the activities of Tuesday, August 25th Activity No. 3.

Activity No. 3 - took place Aug. 25 and consisted of water skiing and water activities.

Every boy had an opportunity to water ski and to participate in a water sport known as sea horse and steeple chase. At lunch the boys met Hughes Lapointe, Lieut. Governor of Quebec.

Afterwards, Activity No. 4 took place. This being tug of war, push ball and swim tug of war.

To conclude the afternoon's fun, five boys in a rowboat with two paddles only, matched up with another boat to pull a boom to the other side of the lake. The boat containing Tom Hewitt, Danny Speck, Ward Hunting, Patrick Masterson and one other called Hooty? won one of these events.

After supper the "Quebec Soiree" was held with Lt. Gov. Lapointe, as guest of honour.

Participating in the evening's activities were Danielle Dorice of the Cafe Conc, and I quote the following from Peter's log: "Danielle was a sight for sore eyes, the Scouts and Scouters went wild over her." This was followed by Nat Raider and his orchestra. Afterwards, the boys were given the official Jamboree uniform, a red tuque with a telescopic tassel and Jamboree Logo. After the show, the boys were treated to a true French Canadian style meal: pea soup, tourtiere and apple pie. Unknown to the time, "Miss Canada" Julie Maloney, was present and visited the camp site. Again I quote from Peter's log: "the guy's mouths dropped when they found out who she was." unquote.

DISTRICT SCOUTS

On Nov. 7, the District Scouts supported the Sherbrooke Jaycee unit in their anti-pollution campaign. Forty-two Scouts and twelve Jaycees took part in a paper drive. Twenty thousand pounds of paper was collected during the course of the day. In addition to this, the Scouts sold bumper stickers. All proceeds derived from the sale of the paper and bumper stickers will be turned over to the Boy Scouts of Canada, Sherbrooke and District Council in aid of the development and expansion project for the Scout Camp at Lake Lovering.

Dave Bacon, president of the Jaycees, stated that the proceeds of the paper drive would be turned over to the District Scouts at one of the Council Meetings as soon as the final figures have been tabulated.

The Scout Movement is most willing to support projects that helps one to help himself and the community, such as taking an active part in the Jaycees' anti-pollution campaign. The Scouts have shown their willingness to help curb an environmental problem, something that all citizens must take a hard look at. As for the Jaycees, they have sponsored a project with a two fold purpose, minimizing pollution and to further aid the youth of the community, by turning over the proceeds in aid of the Scout Camp. This is the real meaning of the Jaycees in fulfilling their primary purpose

"Leadership Training or self development of the individual and service to the Community." Jaycees! you have succeeded once again and thank you.

...and the Derby Line Boy Scouts

by Ivy Hatch

DERBY LINE - Troop 80 is a busy group of young adults with its clubs and activities. Each week patrol meetings take place.

The weeks they don't have troop meetings, they have planning sessions under the direction of the Senior Patrol Leader, Craig Bedard.

Like every other organization the Scouts must have a little money to back up their many activities. During the coming couple of weeks they will be selling Christmas cards, plastic covered placemats, fire extinguishers and note paper with American scenery on it. A phone call to a scout in your area will be appreciated if one is not otherwise contacted.

The Troop has a newspaper club. Its members will be meeting weekly under the direction of Bruce Muir. The object of this club is to stimulate interest in journalism, and give an opportunity to pass the printing and journalism merit badges. These members of the Club publish a monthly newspaper, The Troop 80 Gazette, which gives past, present and future activities of the Troop. It's really an interesting and worth while reading edition.

In October the Indian Club was reorganized with the following boys as members: Chief, Bill Fisher; Assistant Chief, Chuck Gardyne; Medicine Man, Craig Bedard; and secretary, Ronald Blais. The Club members and dancers are Dana Armstrong, Steve Gardyne, Gordon Quigley, Bruce Muir and Milt Porter who is the adviser. The object of this Indian Club is to learn Indian lore and dances with the hope of performing before a Scout or a family gathering in the near future.

In the fall several members of the troop went to Stearns brook Camp site in Holland, with work, advancement and campfires, the time was well spent.

Scouting stresses the relationship of Father and Son and Troop 80 realizes its importance and tries to schedule events to involve both Father and Son. One of the activities is hiking and recently 14 Scouts, and five of their courageous fathers climbed Camel's Hump Mountain. It was windy and foggy but the seven mile hike was accomplished proving there is no generation gap in Scouting.

Some of things done last year are hoped to be repeated in the months ahead. Remember last February's ski-doo hike to Lake Seymour? The spring outdoor cooking lessons at Stearns Brook camp using hand made utensils? The summer fun at Stearns brook? And that canoe hike on the Connecticut river for two days to total 22 miles.

Incidentally members of the Canoe club are Adviser Milt Porter, the Scoutmaster; President Bruce Muir; Vice president, Craig Bedard; Reporter, Donald Blais; Peter Earle; Ronald Blaid, Denis Chenette; Gordie Colby, Gordie Quigley, Scott Judd and John Fregeau.

Then there was the Mountain hike, a night spent in Taft Lodge and day climb Mount Mansfield and exploration of the Cave of the Winds.

A week of camping at the Mt. Norris Scout reservation with work on advancement with several taking and passing tests and badges. Those campfires and the Indian Club presentation of pageants will all be memoirs of a happy year in Scouting and now "we look forward to another" and are deeply appreciative of the time and effort put into this by our "elders".

Pakistan appeals for helicopters to aid flood victims

DACCA (Reuter) — The government appealed urgently again Thursday for helicopters to drop food, water and drugs in East Pakistan to more than one million survivors of the century's worst cyclone and flood disaster.

The big question was whether aid would arrive in time to save the homeless survivors of last week's cyclone and tidal wave which some local reports said may have taken as many as two million lives. The official death toll has risen to at least 150,000.

As international relief efforts intensified, Pakistan told the League of Red Cross Societies in Geneva that it needs $12 million for local purchases of blankets and clothing. Twenty-seven countries so far have pledged aid worth $2.6 million in response to an appeal for help by the league. Pakistan continued its own modest airdrop program in the disaster area around the Bay of Bengal.

It was disclosed that more than 100,000 persons died in Bhola and Manpura islands alone when the tidal wave tore in.

Detachments of troops have been sent into Bhola and its eastern neighbor, Haitya Island, where cholera was reported to have broken out earlier this week. Their mission was presumably to co-ordinate relief and bury the dead.

U.S. SENDS AID

The first U.S. relief plane was scheduled to arrive from Bangor, Me., with blankets and tents, and two small U.S. helicopters in Nepal were prepared to fly in.

In addition, four crated American Huey helicopters were expected here today from Fort Bragg, S.C., and it was understood that Pakistan asked the United States to send 30 more.

In Britain, Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home told the Commons the government is increasing immediate aid to $1.2 million. He also said another $1.2 million worth of food will be offered as long-term assistance.

The first means of transportation capable of reaching some of the worst-hit islands of the devastated Ganges delta region arrived in Dacca Thursday in the form of 13 British army assault craft. They were flown in from Singapore.

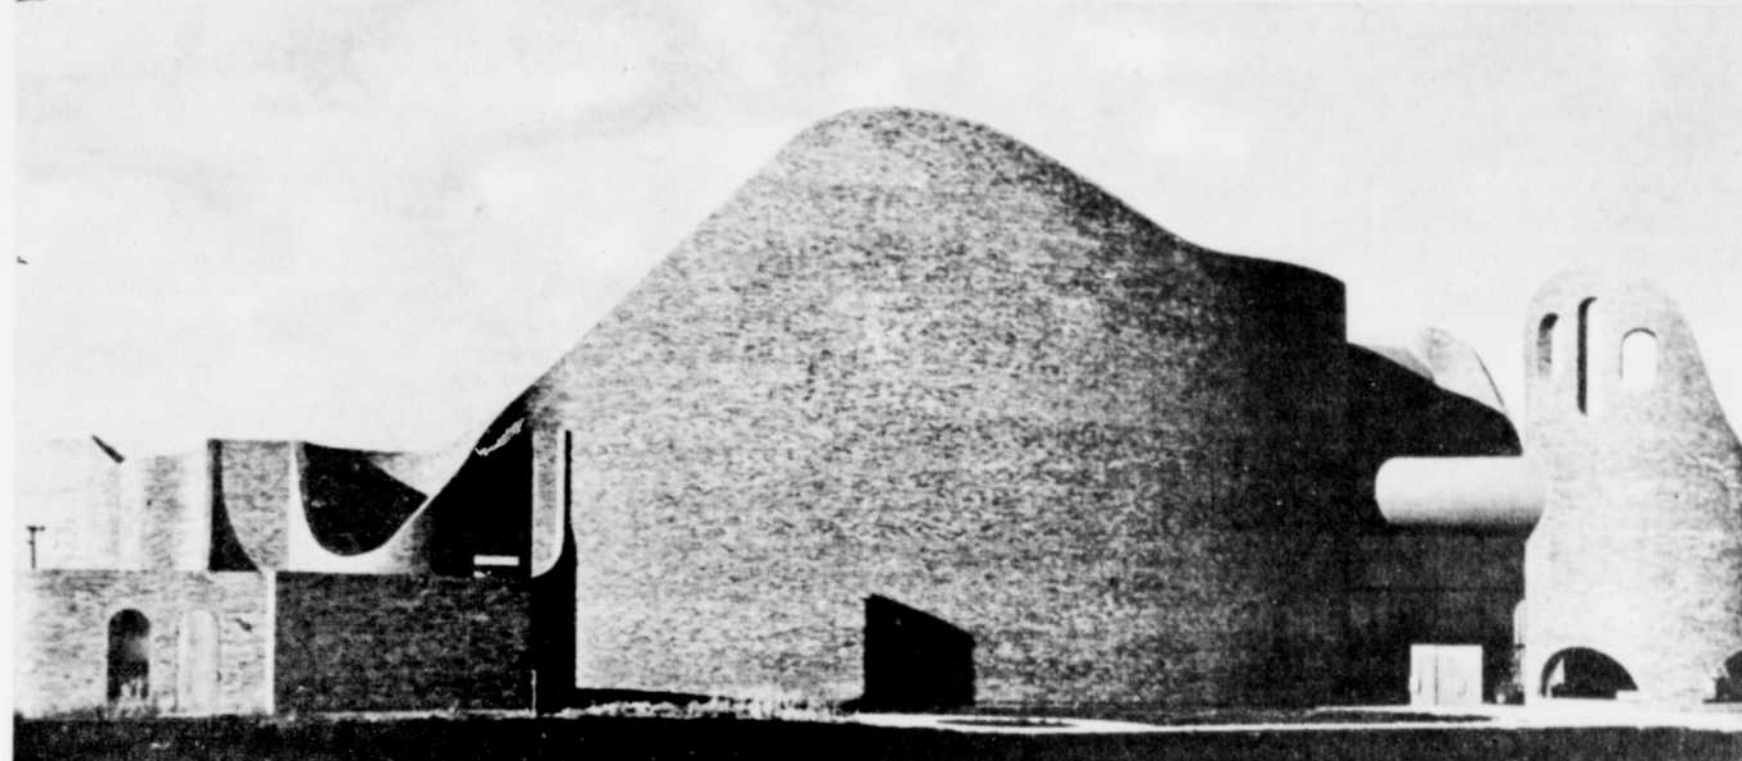

But after they were unloaded at Dacca airport and Pakistanis were told how to operate them, the boats were moved to a nearby warehouse. There was no immediate indication when they would be sent to the distressed areas.

The 11,000-ton British assault ship Intrepid and heavy repair ship Triumph will sail from Singapore today for the Bay of Bengal carrying helicopters, assault craft and supplies, it was announced.

Emergency shuttle flights between Tehran, Iran, and Dacca, interrupted Wednesday by India's refusal to offer landing and refuelling facilities, were resumed Thursday, a foreign ministry spokesman announced.

India, which has been at loggerheads for years with Pakistan, agreed to liberalize regulations for overflights of Pakistani foreign military planes crossing India to East Pakistan.

Soviets ask China admission

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Soviet Union called Thursday for the admission of Communist China to the United Nations. Nationalist China cast doubt on the sincerity of the plea.

In a switch of signals, Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik entered the annual China debate to say that the Peking government is being denied its rightful place in the UN. This was a crime, and a violation of the principles of the UN Charter.

Malik had to seek special permission from the 127-country General Assembly to speak because the Soviet Union had not inscribed its name to join the debate on the Albanian resolution calling for the admission of the Peking regime and the expulsion of the Nationalist regime on Formosa.

The Soviets, in a continuing ideological dispute with Peking, refused last year to support verbally Peking's admission. Malik, who spoke briefly, did not explain the Soviet change of mind.

Meanwhile, Nationalist Ambassador Liu Chieu, presented a quotation from Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, which cast doubt on the sincerity of Malik's support of Peking.

CRITICIZED CHINA

Lieu said Pravda said last May: "Barracks and ignorance, rightlessness and servility—such is the order now being implanted in China. And it intends to impose it on other peoples, to raise the banner of Mao Tse-tung's ideas over the world."

The assembly will vote on the Albanian resolution today. But first it is expected to approve by a considerable majority an American resolution saying the Albanian resolution requires a two-thirds majority of those voting to pass.

The Nationalists and Americans are reported confident that the Albanian resolution will be defeated by one or two votes. Others say the resolution may get a simple majority for the first time in the 20 years the UN has been debating the issue.

Canada will vote for the Albanian resolution for the first time, but will continue its support.

Radioman says Medina ordered shooting halt

FORT BENNING, Ga. (CP) — On the morning of the alleged My Lai massacre, Charlie Company moved into the South Vietnamese hamlet with guns blazing even though no resistance was apparent, a witness testified at Lieut. William Calley Jr.'s court-martial Thursday.

Eventually, their commander told them to stop, he added.

John Paul, 23, was radio operator at My Lai March 16, 1968, for Capt. Ernest Medina, C Company commander. Paul testified he finally transmitted a message to the advancing troops in which "Capt. Medina inquired what all the shooting was about and requested it be stopped so ammunition could be saved."

Calley is accused of the premeditated murder of 102 unarmed Vietnamese civilians in My Lai that day. The defence has suggested that any action he took there was under orders. Medina was his immediate superior.

Medina is charged with overall responsibility for the alleged massacre in which the U.S.

Army said at least 175 civilians died.

At Fort Hood, Tex., S.Sgt. David Mitchell took the witness stand at his court-martial Thursday and said he and his men gathered about 15 to 30 villagers together as they moved through the hamlet after landing by helicopter west of My Lai. They then took them to a trail on the east side, near a ditch.

Mitchell, who faces charges that he shot at 30 civilians at My Lai with intent to murder them, said the platoon commander—Calley—ordered him to leave the civilians there with two guards.

The sergeant said one of the guards was Paul Meadlo, who has admitted taking part in shootings at My Lai.

Later, when Mitchell returned to the ditch upon Calley's instructions, he saw people in it who "appeared to be dead." He said he could not be sure if they were the same persons he left under guard.

Mitchell, who denied shooting anybody, said, "I'm still not sure of what happened at My Lai or who was in my squad."

Postpone Panther eviction effort

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Heavily-armed police postponed efforts to evict forcibly a band of black militants from their barricaded headquarters Thursday after a day-long confrontation.

Before police withdrew, one black teen-ager was shot three blocks away by an unknown assailant, the only shots heard all day.

Police agreed to give blacks time to test the state's trespass law in court after they were unable to persuade the militants to leave the building, even with a show of force including the department's tank-like armored car.

Police said the Negro youth, Tyrone Curtis, was hit in the stomach by shotgun pellets fired from a building three blocks away from the barricaded headquarters. He was taken to hospital for surgery.

Police and black leaders agreed that neither law officers nor militants on the building had shot the youth.

Manson girls ask to tell all, but lawyers disagree

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Susan Atkins took the stand at the Sharon Tate murder trial Thursday after defence lawyers tried to prevent defendants from testifying by resting their case without calling a witness.

When the three women defendants said it was their constitutional right to be heard, the judge agreed and the tall, slender 21-year-old brunette was the first to speak.

She gave her name and said "My co-defendants and I agree that I will take the stand first." Proceedings then halted when her lawyer, Daye Shinn, declined to question her.

"I felt these questions will incriminate her," he told the judge. "I have a duty toward my client."

"I absolutely refuse to help incriminate a client on the stand."

The judge summoned lawyers to chambers for a conference to determine whether lawyers can be compelled to ask questions if they feel their clients will be incriminated. Specific questions were to be studied.

SEEKS TO FIRE LAWYER

Earlier the judge overruled a motion from defendant Leslie Van Houten, 21, that she be allowed to fire her lawyer and act as her own defender.

Asked what she could prove, she said: "You try to show the jury what you are, be as real as you can..."

The judge ruled she was incompetent.

The lawyers said their surprise decision to rest their case before it began was to prevent the three women defendants from testifying against their advice.

The women were expected to be the only defence witnesses.

Manson, who had been expected to be the defence's star witness, sat silently through the morning's hectic proceedings and gave no indication he wanted to be heard.

Leader of a hippie-style clan, Manson, 36, is on trial charged with murder-conspiracy along with Miss Atkins, 22, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and Miss Van Houten, 20. The state says Manson conceived the slayings of Miss Tate and six others and ordered the others to carry them out.

Protecting the consumer

New legislation now before the Quebec National Assembly should give the public considerably more protection in this burgeoning business of credit cards.

Banks, gasoline companies, stores and other issuers of credit cards will no longer be permitted to mail out unsolicited cards in scattergun fashion. Under the proposed regulations, issuers may send cards only to fill a specific request from a customer or to renew a credit card already held.

There are many other important safeguards for the consumer, or the purchaser, included in the bill.

Contracts made with itinerant vendors are subject to certain clear restrictions and provision is made for a cooling-off period of five days during which time the purchases may cancel the agreement—the obvious target being high-pressure peddlers.

And of even greater importance in this credit age is the provision demanding that the credit charges be stated clearly in the contract and that a customer can liquidate his liability in advance of the due date and receive due allowance for the interest and carrying charges.

This clause also requires that instalments be of equal amounts and ends the practice of some sellers to quote a low monthly payment for a certain period and hide the fact the final payment is often a back-breaker.

Severe restrictions are also placed upon false advertising and a commission is created to protect the consumer against unscrupulous vendors.

The need for some such legislation has been apparent for years. Most existing legislation on the relations of the buyer and seller where credit is concerned date back to the time when anybody who did not pay cash was regarded as something of an undesirable citizen.

But, for better or for worse, the credit card, the revolving account and the instalment purchase have become an integral part of the commercial and economic life of this country.

Obviously they perform a useful function or they would not be used by millions of people.

So it is only just and reasonable that this province update its legislation covering this important segment of the business life.

Soviet Madison Avenue

A two-page, two-color ad in Aviation Week and Space Technology magazine announces the introduction of the "TU-154, the flexible tri-jet airlines of the 1970s, ready for world wide export."

The ad continues: "Whether it carries 160 or 60 passengers, whether it flies 3,300 or 300 miles, the TU-154 keeps airlines profitable."

And at the bottom: "For more detailed information, please apply to V.O. AVIAEXPORT, 22-34 Smolenskaya-Sennaya Sq., Moscow, U.S.S.R."

What's this? The Soviets advertising in a decadent western journal? Appealing to the profit motive?

A certain Mr. Khrushchev once said that communism would bury us, economically speaking. Evidently his successors are not above trying to do it with our own capitalist shovels.

Pearson: the compleat Liberal

OTTAWA — Lester Pearson is remarkably fit. Time closes in slowly on his resilience and quickness.

In his presence you never think that he's in his 70s or that he's recently lost an eye.

And he still tends to an impatient irascibility in response to hard questions and needling arguments. He goes further into a red-faced petulance when he senses skepticism in his listeners.

Sunday, on CTV's Question Period, I had my first chance to size up Mr. Pearson since he gave way to Pierre Trudeau. I had just finished reading Mr. Pearson's latest book, Words & Occasions (U of T Press, $10). It is a generous selection from his essays, articles and speeches, offered from 1924 to 1968.

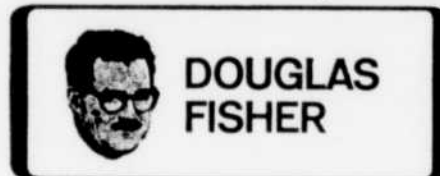

There's a boyish and unpretentious quality in the bridge passages between selections in the book. Here the Pearson personality comes through, sandwiching some warmth and vitality into many worthy but unexciting excerpts.

The marvel of the book and the public Pearson are the paradoxes: How did such a nice, unassuming guy make it so far? How could he have been central to occasions of domestic melodrama and international intrigue? What did he have that doesn't show in his writing or appearances that made him leader of more purposeful, colorful people — a kind of Eisenhower among Pattons and Montgomeries and de Gaulles?

In the early 60s I wrote a column about Pearson's style as a politician. My argument was that he was the perfect product of the history school of the University of Toronto.

There, the late George Wrong had pioneered the seminar method and the intensive subject course built around the written essay.

Each year a student would produce a dozen or more essays, 2,500 to 3,000 words in length, each with a tidy bibliography, proper footnotes, etc. The model essays were those which showed that its author — through paraphrase and quotation — had digested the commentators and the documents on his subject. It was an extended kind of: "On the one hand Maitland argues that..." and "on the other hand, Tout sees the medieval sheriff as..."

The total impression, clinched by the unassuming conclusion, was of even-handed balance, decent compromise, no dialectic, a sound, fair, moderate and informed product, minus a lacking in enthusiasm or certainty.

Mr. Pearson was never friendly with me (with good reason when I was an MP) but he did remark to me later that he agreed with my theory about the shaping given his personality and methods by the George Wrong school of history.

Hardly anyone got or gets inspiration and ideas from the likes of Lester Pearson. "On the other hand" there's never any arrogance or the absolute confidence in himself such as one gets from a more intellectually certain and egocentric leader like Mr. Trudeau. Mr. Pearson may radiate good will and common sense, but there lingers a softness, a caramel centre; and some of this is surely because he isn't comfortable with crowds and doubts the more popular faces of democracy.

And, not to parody, on the other hand one finds in Mr. Pearson a rather satisfying liberal hesitation about strong action. He feels the danger of too much authority; he distrusts the charismatic personality.

So, in Sunday's discussion he became irritated at questions about the recent proclamation of the War Measures Act. He didn't want to go into his actions or lack of them as PM when the FLQ was emerging. He didn't like to cover the reasons why he put restraints on the RCMP's security and Intelligence work. He fudged on whether he or any other Canadian Prime Minister should have ever denied separatism by peaceful means through an insistence that Canada was indivisible. Some of all this reluctance is, again, a pretty honest reflex of his methods. He feels no situation is ever so simple that it can be explained in a few minutes of question and answer.

Mr. Pearson wasn't going to be boxed on what he'd have done as PM in the recent crisis. He wouldn't venture what he thought about it as a private citizen. He didn't have the information that the Government had. Often governments had to act and could not make full revelations of why they had done so.

But into his refusal to come swarming on with approval for the measures, I read a distaste for the steps taken and the mass approval of them which has followed.

Police, he said, always want more authority. He has no apologies to make for the restraint he may have imposed. Concern over the RCMP's work and abilities led him to set up the royal commission on security. Its recommendations came to the Trudeau Government. He'd played his part.

On the indivisibility of Canada Mr. Pearson is stuck with the moderate Liberal's usual dilemma. Anything peaceable, using constitutional means and the present system, can be advanced in our politics. Of course, it can also be argued against. But he asserts now, and he did often as a prime minister, that Canada will stay together and must stay together.

Doesn't this lead to a denial that separatism can ever come to a successful conclusion?

He has no answer, in particular. He won't declare himself for or against the idea that a separatist government in Quebec could proceed to separate without any denying action by the Federal Government and the other provinces. He leaves the impression that any Federal refusal to co-operate is premature until the time comes.

This means he does not rule out the prospect that some day a Canadian leader will declare that Confederation is indivisible. Until that day comes he doesn't want to talk about how division might be handled — say by plebiscites or referendums.

Again, it's the liberal hesitation: Always put off until tomorrow what you don't have to decide today.

"Doctor, Doctor, come right away. McCauley is going berserk!"

We ran down the hall into the ward. Two male attendants were holding McCauley's arms.

"Doc, give me a fix," he was crying. "Please Doc, just one little shot of bad news."

Dr. Hamburger said sternly, "McCauley, when you came here you asked us to cure you. You said you couldn't take any more bad news, that you had had it. We can't cure you if you keep asking for it."

"But I didn't know what it would be like to do without bad news. I can't stand it, Doc. Please. Let me have a couple of pages of Time magazine, an Agnew speech, anything, Doc."

"That's what you said yesterday, McCauley. We let you watch the 6 o'clock TV news. If we keep giving in, you'll never kick the habit."

"Doc, a headline. Just give me a headline. Any headline. I promise, tomorrow I won't ask for any more."

Dr. Hamburger studied McCauley's chart at the end of the bed. "All right," he said to the nurse, "give him the country's unemployment figures for October."

The nurse went to the medicine cabinet and took out a newspaper clipping and let McCauley read it. He started to relax, he didn't fight the attendants any more. Greedily, he took in every word. "Oh, my! Oh, my!" he cried. "It feels so good."

We left McCauley reading and re-reading the clipping.

"As you can see," said Dr. Hamburger, "we don't have as much success as we'd like to. The trouble in this country is that if we just had to deal with the problem of genuine bad news, we would be all right. But, obviously, there is not enough genuine bad news to go around, so the dealers have been manufacturing synthetic bad news and mixing it with the genuine stuff. Most Americans have become so dependent on bad news that they can't tell the difference between the two."

"What's the danger?"

"The synthetic bad news can really give someone a bad trip. Bad news has a mysterious chemical reaction, and anyone who becomes exposed to enough of it can become bad news himself."

We attended a card party on Nov. 14, held by the Stanbridge East Girls Softball and Broomball Team and we regret to say the turnout was very disappointing and lacking in parental support.

After the girls had planned and worked for weeks to make a success for the adults of the town a total of nine people attended to show their interest.

The adults of this community are always quick enough to criticize and run down the young people but are never ready to support them in a worthy cause. We feel disgusted to think that this is the way the parents appreciate and thank these girls for selling tickets and serving at functions, sponsored by our own adult groups.

If this is the idea of Christian fellowship then form your own conclusions to what you could do to help.

MR. AND MRS. EARLE BLINN
Stanbridge East

I as one of the parents of the Stanbridge East Senior Girls'

Softball and Broomball Team am guilty of not supporting the card party held by the above mentioned team on Nov. 14, 1970 and therefore feel I am in a position to criticize the community and other parents for being so remiss in their desire to uphold and help the youth of their community.

There is always so much criticism of said youth but when it comes to upholding them in a fine and worthy project put on for the pleasure of the adults of the community rather than a record hop, we cannot honestly complain about their behavior if we as adults do not uphold their endeavors.

I understand that this card party was for the purpose of raising money for equipment and I think each and every one of us can hold our heads in shame in our lack of interest in helping and aiding the youth of our community.

Let us all, in the future, see it we cannot rectify this most disgusting lack of assistance and interest.

Stopping in dummy, cashed the diamond ace while discarding a club and played the king and ace of hearts. Dummy was left with a club, a low heart and a low diamond.

South held ace-king-10 of clubs. West had to go down to two clubs to hold a diamond, while East had to do the same to hold a heart. His clubs were good."

Tom Nolan writes from Washington: "Here is a hand for the department of blind luck. Eight of us get together once a week for a friendly IMP team match. I opened the North hand with one spade, whereupon my partner lost no time getting us to seven no-trump. It might be a good try for a win in board-a-match, but it meant nothing at IMPs, since a 10-point win counts as a tie.

"West opened the 10 of diamonds and he called for my jack. When the jack held, he thought for a moment and announced, 'Making seven no-trump with six spades, two hearts, three diamonds and two clubs.

"Our opponents pointed out that, while five spades opposite five might produce a lot of tricks with spades as trumps, they would only produce five tricks in no-trumps. Then East got into the act and showed his hand, remarking that the heart finesse would yield a 13th trick but that my partner could not finesse, since he had claimed.

"My partner looked over the East hand and re-

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—New acquaintances may be infinitely more interesting, but don't sever old ties that have weathered time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—With Thanksgiving so near, can you manage to get behind? Start making lists, buying gifts, addressing envelopes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21)—Indifference and apathy of others make you determined to hold up and be counted yourself. Be aggressive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—It is vital to square up job efficiency. Utilize quiet moments today to contemplate changes you can make.

Diarrhea Is a Symptom Worth Doctor's Attention

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Have you ever had diarrhea? Who hasn't? Although constipation as a way of life is more common, almost no one has escaped at least one episode of diarrhea. Isolated episodes usually result from food poisoning, intolerance to specific foods such as food fried in olive oil, spicy foods, or excess amounts of fruit, medicines and drugs (like antibiotics by mouth), virus and bacterial infections. Rarely do acute appendicitis or other local inflammations of the intestine cause diarrhea. Most episodes end spontaneously and the major problem is replacing lost water, salt and minerals.

not digest lactic acid in milk and milk products. Diarrhea, distention and digestive disturbances often disappear when milk and its products are eliminated from the diet.

Anyone with recurrent or persistent diarrhea should have a complete examination. This includes X rays of the stomach, and large intestine. Rarely do ulcers cause diarrhea. The rectum and lower colon should be examined by a scope permitting the doctor to look at the inner lining of the bowel.

Several fresh stool specimens must be examined for any infection. The character of the stool is important to enable your doctor to determine the cause of your diarrhea.

Determining the cause of recurrent frequent or persistent diarrhea is difficult. Diarrhea is more often caused by anxiety and constipation by feelings of hostility. The influence of the psychic on the gut is more complex than this since in some cases with constipation, particularly with the problem of spastic or irritable colon, hard dry stool is mixed with mucus and watery diarrhea.

Repeated diarrhea can be caused by such things as diabetes, an overactive thyroid and rarely by low function of the adrenal gland. When it is a change in bowel habit, it can mean a tumor or cancer of the colon. Adequate screening tests, particularly for diabetes and thyroid function, are mandatory.

A few persons with recurrent diarrhea can help solve their problem by studying the relation of the episode to particular foods, alcohol, spices and cigarettes. Milk is often overlooked as a possible cause. Some people can Simple diarrhea is not so simple. It is a symptom and requires a careful, complete study by the doctor if the problem is to be resolved.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My brother, 44, has a development of one side of his breast. Could it be dissolved rather than removed surgically?

Dear Reader—Any mass or growth that develops anywhere on the body should be examined by a doctor. There is simply no other way to tell if it is a cancer or not. Men can and do develop cancer of the breast. I don't know what your brother has, but it should be seen by a competent doctor. If he doesn't have one, get a recommendation for one or more from your county medical society. Often such a growth has to be removed by surgery and examined by a microscope to tell what it is. Nothing but trouble is to be gained by waiting.

Magog municipal committees were named

MAGOG (Special) — Mayor Maurice Theroux named his municipal committees at last week's official council meeting on Nov. 12.

Mr. Theroux will personally preside over the industrial committee along with Ward Alderman Jean-Guy St-Roch, Ward 4 Councillor Guy Beaudoin and Armand Gagne of Ward 6.

Public works will come under the presidency of Telephone Lavoie, whose co-directors will be Ward 2 alderman Laurent Girard and Gerard Page of Ward 5.

The complicated hydro department went to Guy Beaudoin, who is a professional electrician and best qualified in the area. With him are aldermen St-Roch and Lavoie.

Waterworks and services will be under the direction of Laurent Girard, who has experience with the department, gained when he served once before on the city council. His assisting directors will be Aldermen Gagne and Beaudoin.

A newcomer to municipal politics and noted sportsman and supporter of the tourist industry and municipal expansion program, Guy St-Roch gained this post. He will take charge of municipal finance, tourism and urbanization.

Gerard Page of Ward 5 will resume his post in charge of parks, playgrounds and the municipal arena. He'll be assisted by Aldermen Girard and Lavoie.

Mr. Gagne will also continue as the alderman in charge of the police and fire departments and will be assisted by councillors St-Roch and Page.

All department committees have been meeting, and planning for formulation of budgets on which to direct their departments over the approaching year.

Magog Community School ends season

MAGOG (Special) — Rod Blaker of Radio Station CJAD, Montreal, described the circumstances associated with reporting happenings since the recent War Measures Act was invoked. Mr. Blaker, speaking at the closing assembly of the 10th annual Magog Community School, Tuesday evening, said that all media had to respect a close censorship of news associated with the FLQ, kidnapped James Cross, and assassinated Pierre Laporte. He referred to an incident of Nov. 17, where information received in the morning from the FLQ couldn't be mentioned until late in the day.

Robert Cooney, president of

On Nov. 7 the Ladies Evening group of North Hatley Baptist Church were guests of Mrs. Horace Gardener, who entertained them with a tour of Dixville Home Inc. The ladies were greatly impressed with the many improvements of the past few years, especially the new buildings being built at the present time.

Friends of Mrs. Sadie Thomas are sorry to hear that she fell in her home, badly injuring one hand.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Mayhew were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hurd of Randolph one afternoon recently.

Magog

Robert Allan, the infant son of Lise and Ronald Bullard was christened by the Rev. Vernon Bell in St. Paul's United Church on November 1st. Mr. and Mrs. Michel Chenier of Valleyfield, parents of Mrs. Bullard attended the service.

St. Luke's Woman's Guild held a very successful Tea and Food Sale last Thursday afternoon. The President Mrs. G. Levick received the guests. Members were in charge of the Food, gift, work and tea tables. The next regular meeting will be held in the church hall.

The Men's Section of the Magog Social and Curling Club held their opening supper on Saturday, with a very good attendance. After a delicious supper of ham, all turkey and all the trimmings, dancing was enjoyed the rest of the evening.

Music was by Guy Champagnay and his 3 piece orchestra.

NEARING COMPLETION AT CHERRY RIVER — Parkside, a youth camp at Cherry River, run by The Christian Brethren, is close to finished. Located a mile north of the village, this hostel will be used the year round for youth groups. It's a large 2 storey structure, with the atmosphere of a country chalet, and basically intended as a religious retreat for young people. One completed, Fred Warnholtz, pastor of the Cherry River parish, and Mrs. Warnholtz will reside here as hosts. The camp is designed to accommodate some 100 to 120 young people at a time. Savard back to form as Canadiens nick Leafs 5-1

When Serge Savard broke his leg in three places in a National Hockey League game last March, Montreal Canadiens broke a 22-year string of Stanley Cup appearances.

The Canadiens, minus the services of the 210-pound defenseman, and New York Rangers closed the season with 92 points each but the Rangers took fourth spot in the final standings by a two-goal margin over Montreal.

"There was a time when I was afraid I wouldn't play again," Savard said earlier this year. "The break was moving inside and it wasn't until August that I was encouraged."

Savard got the green light to start skating shortly after the start of training camp and joined the team for scrimmages the last week of October.

The Conn Smythe Trophy winner, as the outstanding performer in the 1969 playoffs, rejoined the Habs Nov. 7, when the Canadiens walloped Buffalo Sabres 11-2. Savard picked up an assist.

SCORES & GOALS

But Thursday night, Savard, who scored 12 goals and 19 assists before last season's injury, gave every indication that he was back to aid Montreal in this year's Stanley Cup quest when he fired his first two goals of the season as the Canadiens clipped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1.

In other action Thursday, St. Louis Blues edged Pittsburgh Penguins 1-0 and Philadelphia Flyers dumped California Golden Seals 6-2.

At Montreal, the Canadiens jumped to a 3-1 first-period lead and added goals in the second and third periods to keep Toronto in the East Division cellar with eight points, two back of Buffalo Sabres.

The win moved Montreal out in front in the division standings, one point ahead of both Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, both with 22 points.

To add to the Leaf troubles, rookie Brad Selwood apparently suffered a back injury midway through the second period when he and Savard collided against the goal post at the side of the Toronto net.

Selwood was removed from the ice on a stretcher and taken to a Montreal hospital where Jim Gregory, Leaf general manager, said a preliminary examination indicated no spinal damage.

However, Gregory said last season's Western Hockey League Rookie of the Year would remain in hospital overnight for further tests.

At Pittsburgh, Christian Bordeleau's fifth goal of the season near the end of the second period provided St. Louis with the victory.

The goal came when Duane Rupp, the last Penguin defender between goalie Al Smith and Bordeleau, fumbled the puck and the former Montreal Canadian stole it.

"I just gave him the deke and he just opened his legs," Bordeleau said.

Penguin coach Red Kelly had other words for the goal.

"We have the puck at centre ice, then we take it back to our ice—for them—and they put it in the net. The Blues would have been happy with a tie. They check, wait for our mistakes. They finally got one—on a platter."

At Philadelphia, Jimmy Johnson, playing his first game at right wing, scored three goals in the Flyers victory.

The three-year veteran, who normally plays centre, had only one goal this season before Thursday night.

In the only league game tonight, Los Angeles Kings meet the Penguins at Vancouver.

Hockey Gaiters down Clansmen

By SCOTT ABBOTT

LENNOXVILLE — Bishop's University Gaiters made things hard on themselves last night before coming up with a late goal and a 3-2 victory over MacDonald College Clansmen.

The Gaiters have now won both their Ottawa St. Lawrence Athletic Association hockey starts.

Ron Perowne finished off a play with Don Campbell and Gary Chown at 16:55 of the final period to break a 2-2 tie.

A Clansman attempt to knot the count again with an extra attacker replacing goalie Lee Hebert failed.

Numerous good chances were missed in the first period, most of them by the Bishop's skaters.

Jay Hanson put Mike Bookalam's point drive over the prostrate MacDonald goalie for a 1-0 lead at 19:05.

The Gaiters' skating was definitely of early-season calibre in the second frame. Again there were many potential goals missed from in close and medium range.

Doug McEwen broke in alone on the Clansman net and came away with nothing in the twelfth minute, and Jean Dahme's tally at 17:46 produced a 1-1 tie after 40 minutes.

Ross Barrett hinted that the Gaiters would break out of their lethargy when he scored on the first rush of the final period.

MacDonald came back, however, with a goal from Chuck Taylor at 4:25 to lock the score again.

With the crowd, as well as the players, becoming frustrated at the Gaiters' inability to salt away the victory against supposedly much inferior opponents, the team's every offensive sortie was an occasion for disappointment.

Perowne cradled the puck at the blue line and manufactured a breakaway only to be foiled at the edge of the crease, and as the time ticked off it appeared a tie might be the outcome.

The Gaiter captain atoned for his earlier misses, though, by scoring the winning tally while killing a penalty.

When the Gaiters are more accustomed to the feel of the ice, as they will be a little farther into the season, they should not have as much trouble as they did last night with a team as young and inexperienced as the Clansmen.

NO SHORTAGE OF COACHES — When Werner Schultz started up his girls' soccer team, the number of prospective coaches assured almost individual instruction for the players. Members of the Joe Ross Copper Queens of Kirkland Lake are shown in practice — France Lemelin showing fine form on a "throw-in" and Debbie Reynolds reacting after "heading" the ball.

Bisons favored in College Bowl

By RON SUDLOW

TORONTO (CP) — Defending champion University of Manitoba Bisons are rated slim favorites to become the first club to win the national collegiate title twice when they take on University of Ottawa Gee-Gees Saturday in the College Bowl.

They'll be led by quarterback Bob Kraemer who was voted the most valuable player in last year's College Bowl when the Bisons beat McGill Redmen of Montreal.

The 20-year-old quarterback, who won most valuable honors in the Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Association this year, will also be at the helm of a club that is essentially the same one that took the collegiate crown last year.

Kraemer was the WCIAA's top passer with a 54.6 per cent average and 1,078 yards in the eight games the Bisons played to become western champions. But he will be facing another top gun in the Gee-Gees' quarterback, Paul Paddon, who Ottawa coach Bob O'Billovich sees as an excellent professional prospect.

Paddon, 23, named Wednesday as Canada's top college grinder.

Beavers face Bruins

SHERBROOKE (SA) — Sherbrooke Beavers resume Quebec Junior "A" Hockey League action tonight when they meet the Bruins in Shawinigan.

The meeting will be the second of the season between the two clubs. Shawinigan took a 5-3 decision on home ice Oct. 11 in the first game.

The Beavers will travel to Cornwall to face the Royals Sunday evening but will not return to Sherbrooke immediately.

The club will spend Sunday night in Ottawa and engage the Val d'Or club of the North-Western Quebec Juvenile Hockey League in an exhibition contest Monday.

The following evening the Beavers will be in Rouyn to meet the Citadels.

That contest is a courtesy match designed to recompense the Citadels for the many players they have sent to the Junior "A" Beavers.

Former Rouyn skaters now performing in Sherbrooke include Raymond and Richard Bibeau, Denis Gingras, Claude Gaudet, Yvon Cloutier, Michel Lefebvre, Denis Gagnon and Claude Raneau.

Following this weekend's league play and the two exhibition outings, the Beavers will be back at the Sports Palace here to play host to the Bruins a week from tonight.

Sherbrooke fans should be on hand in large numbers to welcome the team home. The Beavers will have played only one game at home in the three weeks between Nov. 6 and 27.

J. C. Landry will not be with the club on its return, however, as the right winger has served notice he's quitting hockey to take advantage of a job opportunity in his native Gagnonville.

Loyola powerhouse humbles Green'n Gold

SHERBROOKE — Loyola College Warriors of Montreal humbled University of Sherbrooke Green and Gold 8-0 in Ottawa St. Lawrence Athletic Association hockey action at the Sports Palace here last night.

Haramis and Glenn Surbey enough to the Warriors to overtake them when the teams meet again.

The early-season meeting should not be regarded, however, as an entirely accurate reflection of the relative strengths of the two teams.

Jury investigates blackballing

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bernie Parrish, former Cleveland Browns player, said Thursday he told a federal grand jury investigating the National Football League that he felt he had been blacklisted by the league.

Parrish, who spent one hour and 45 minutes before the jury Wednesday and returned for another hour Thursday, told reporters he felt he had been called because of "my feeling that I was blacklisted and also because of the research I did on my book on the inner workings of the league and the treatment of players."

Parrish said jurors questioned him on blacklisting and trade and waiver procedures in the league. The jury is checking for possible anti-trust violations, apparently investigating owner-player relations in a search for illegal restraints of trade.

Parrish, whose book has not yet been published, said: "I can't see how there cannot be any indictments with the information I have given them and that they've got from other witnesses."

Parrish was followed into the jury room by former Browns' team-mate Walter Beach, who also has complained he was blacklisted.

Roughies, Stamps suffer injuries to key players

CALGARY (CP) — Trainer Larry Chace will pack more than the usual amount of adhesive tape when Calgary Stampeders leave to play Saskatchewan Roughriders Sunday in the Western Football Conference final.

After trying to demolish each other in the first two games of the best-of-three playoff, the teams have succeeded in bruising or straining the muscles of almost every player in each camp.

Saskatchewan appears to have suffered the most with quarterback Ron Lancaster doubtful for the game Sunday and offensive end Nolan Bailey and defensive halfback Henry Dorsch definitely out.

Defensive halfback Bob Kosid has lost some of his effectiveness because of a pulled muscle and a linebacker Chuck Kyle had to be helped from the field during the brutal second game Wednesday which Saskatchewan won 11-3.

Calgary, winners 28-11 of the first game, last Saturday in Regina, are not likely to be short any players but coach Jim Duncan has to look a long way down the bench to find anyone who is totally healthy.

"One or two are questionable, but it appears they'll all be able to play Sunday," Duncan said. Flanker Gerry Shaw is suffering from a badly pulled leg muscle, trainer Chace said, and is the largest question mark for the Stampeders.

Wide receiver Uriel Johnson, who has proved one of the fastest men on the team since he joined Calgary in mid-season, is suffering from a bad knee. Defensive end Craig Koinzan has a bruised hip.

The injuries to Calgary will slow down the Calgary passing attack but Saskatchewan's injuries will open up the Roughriders' passing defence.

Lancaster, who suffered bruised ribs and back and a back muscle Wednesday.

SKIING and Snowmobiling
in the Townships

by Charles Catchpaugh

Tight on the buttocks and legs and flaring at the ankles — that's the way to describe ladies' ski slacks for 1971. Men, however, will still lean toward the tight tuck-ins that ski authorities agree are most practical. Fashion has a tremendous influence on skiwear, and we tend to favor the bell-bottom look to slacks when considering appearance. We would be reluctant to consider it practical, however.

The wet-look will be everywhere on the slopes this season, particularly in jackets and warmers, and — talk about color — this winter you'll spot shades you never realized existed.

Well, that's a bit of the information that came out of the Jean Lessard fashion show held last Saturday at the Horizon Hotel at Sutton. Jean turned proceeds over to the Mt. Sutton Ski Club.

Comments this week from Keith Nesbitt of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association indicate that our national team is in deep financial difficulty. We mention this because Canada would look quite bad without a top-notch group of competitors, especially when ours is one of the world's leaders in the winter sports industry.

Our skiers have always had a hard time staying at the top, primarily due to money shortages. We believe the nation should provide more funds for our national team, but in the interim, a lot of us have to shell out. In the interest of skiing, we hope you'll be generous, too, when asked to help.

Après-ski clothing isn't just for skiers any longer. The motorized crowd have also moved into special togs for after-snowmobiling. While skiers' after-sliding lines retain a semi-ski look, the going and coming outfits for the buzzer-bunch have the look of space suits. Newest are after-snowmobiling boots, made to go over insulated mukluks. They're huge and if unwieldy are at least warm. The same goes for the over-togs, but, be sure, everyone will wear 'em.

+++

The publishing date of this newspaper's annual ski and snowmobile edition is Dec. 18. It will be in tabloid format and, like past years, will be both instructive and interesting.

Snowmobiling and skiing together? It had to happen.

The skiers who couldn't be bothered with cross-country touring are finding a new charge in being towed behind snowmobiles. And, funny as it may seem, some of the snowhorsemen find cross-country skiing a pleasant side-game to snowmobiling.

We've received another suggestion from a snowmobiler about property owners marking off those sections of their spreads on which the snowmobile set is welcome. This would save a lot of the hassle that ensues when off-limits areas are transgressed. A few flags will do the trick, making everybody happy.

Each year at this time, we come up with this warning, hoping that it will save somebody's windshield and perhaps prevent a serious accident.

Usually, at the start of every ski season, skiers will take off without their ski racks in tack. They pick up skis, and these end up slung across the backs of the car seats. All of a sudden, the brakes are applied too fast without thought, and there goes a windshield. In some instances, there's been blood letting resulting from the common mistake we all make or at least come close to making.

Here's a parting word to ask for patience among you skiers and snowmobilers. Last weekend, a number of skiers and snowmobilers got onto the inch of snowfall that hit the high spots. This is, we feel, pushing things a little. We'll know for sure when a count is taken of broken edges and legs!
