Interesting cases confront courts

OTTAWA (CP) — A string of cases which have generated considerable public interest will confront the nine Supreme Court of Canada judges when the high court opens its winter session Tuesday.

High on the list are the appeals of convicted police killers James Hutchison and Richard Ambrose, the religion-versus-taxes fight between Ottawa and some Alberta Hutterites, and the case of Edmonton doctor Charles A. D. Ringrose who is fighting a one-year professional suspension.

Hutchison, 47, and Ambrose, 26, were convicted early last year of the December, 1974, slayings of two Moncton police officers. They were sentenced to hang on June 13, 1975, but this was stayed until exhaustion of appeals.

If the Supreme Court rejects their pleas, their last hope is the federal cabinet which has commuted all death sentences since 1962.

In the Hutterite case, Ottawa is appealing a Federal Court of Appeal decision overturning a tax appeal board ruling that Hutterites must pay income tax. Hutterites, a religious sect of German descent, have large communal farms in the West.

Most Hutterite colonies have signed an understanding with the government, agreeing to file a tax return each year. The rest have refused, saying that their religion prohibits individual earnings or property and that they take no services from governments.

At the centre of this court battle is the Cranford, Alta., colony led by Jacob K. Wipf. WAS SUSPENDED

Dr. Ringrose, an obstetrician and gynecologist, was suspended June 13, 1973, pending an investigation into charges of unprofessional conduct stemming from female sterilization procedures.

The discipline committee of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta later ordered a one-year suspension.

Dr. Ringrose said he had pioneered development of an office procedure for sterilizing females. The college had not approved the procedure but later dropped that charge and found him guilty of doing surgery in his office.

The tangled legal affairs of industrialist John C. Doyle also are before the court this time. He is seeking the return of $25,000 bail, his passport and some sureties posted in December, 1973, when he was arrested and charged with breach of trust and fraud.

The charges arose from the Canadian Javelin Ltd. scandal that touched the Newfoundland government of Joseph R. Smallwood several years ago.

Doyle now is believed living in Panama and his lawyers argue that a St. John's magistrate illegally postponed his preliminary hearing by more than eight days. Therefore, they say, the items posted to ensure his appearance at the hearing should be returned.

These are only a few of the 107 cases listed on the court's docket. In addition, the judges will hear 20 to 30 applications to have cases added to the docket.

Three public interest groups are seeking to appeal a Dec. 12, 1975, Federal Court decision that Marshall Crowe, National Energy Board chairman, is not biased toward the need for a northern natural gas pipeline.

Also, the Indian Brotherhood of the Northwest Territories is seeking leave appeal in its attempts to file a claim on 400,000 square miles of the Northwest Territories.

Decisions on whether to grant leave also must be made in the case of a Hungarian immigrant tried and convicted—without an interpreter—of indecent assault 14 years ago, and the case of a divorced man who says he should not have to share with his ex-wife the house in which they lived.

The court is expected to hear cases until mid-April when it will take an Easter recess.

Official language

MONTREAL (CP) — The Jerome Le Royer school commission, in east-end St. Leonard, has drawn up a report requesting that the provincial education department apply Quebec's Official Language Act more rigorously next year.

The Official Language Act, known as Bill 22, gives priority to the use of French in Quebec province and limits enrolment in English-language schools.

"It is evident the phenomenon of anglicization is continuing and will continue to affect future enrolments unless amendments are made to Bill 22's regulations," the report said.

The number of English-language students in the commission's schools increased five per cent last year while the French sector diminished 3.5 per cent, the report said.

It said the department should ensure school boards which have available space in their English sectors do not accommodate students from other school board whose English student quota is filled.

The board's English-language teachers said last week they "reject the very idea of a quota system restricting the inherent right of parents to choose the language of instruction for their children."

The Jerome Le Royer school commission had difficulty last fall providing space for instruction in English-language schools for 185 children of Italian immigrant families and were accused by parents of unfairly applying the Official Language Act.

PQ calls for release

MONTREAL (CP) — The national council of the opposition Parti Quebecois called Sunday for the immediate release on bail of Dr. Henry Morgentaler.

Dr. Morgentaler has been imprisoned since March 25 when he began serving an 18-month sentence for performing an illegal abortion.

Federal Justice Minister Ron Basford Friday ordered a new trial after the 52-year old physician was acquitted on a second charge of performing an illegal abortion. The acquittal was upheld by the Quebec Court of Appeal.

A resolution adopted by the PQ's national council called on the party to "exert pressure" to have Dr. Morgentaler released on bail immediately. A bail hearing is scheduled for today.

The council is composed of riding association representatives, members of the national executive and the six PQ members of the Quebec national assembly.

Asking for support

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Liberal party called upon federal Liberal MPs Sunday to support Premier Robert Bourassa in his efforts to obtain federal aid in financing the 1976 Montreal Olympics.

The appeal to federal members followed unanimous adoption of a resolution by 250 members of the provincial party's general council in support of the premier's campaign.

Mr. Bourassa said last week the federal government should rebate $200 million to Quebec because Olympic construction costs have increased to more than $1 billion from $210 million, generating additional federal tax revenue.

Trudeau works for closer Canadian-Mexican relations

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and Mexican President Luis Echeverria announced Sunday, after two days of talks, that a group of Mexican government ministers will visit Canada within a few days to study the possibility of using a Candu reactor in Mexican nuclear development.

They will also discuss Canada-Mexico co-operation in development of the electrical industry.

Trudeau and Echeverria said the visit will be in return for one to Mexico a year ago by Canadian government representatives.

Negotiations will also continue for a new Canada-Mexico air agreement involving Aeromexico, the Mexican airline, and the Latin American operations of CP Air.

Canadian government officials say Mexico is seeking a greater share of increasing traffic through that country to South American points. CP Air has been operating in the territory since 1952. The last air agreement between the two countries was negotiated in 1954.

Since then, Mexico has developed its own international airline, which wants a bigger slice of the business.

Trudeau expressed the hope that Mexico will continue to be a primary air gateway for Canadians to Latin America. A common issue Sunday said the two leaders favor a revised agreement "to provide further balanced expansion of air services of the two countries."

HOUSING DISCUSSED

The two men said they also discussed applying Canadian low cost timber-frame housing systems to Mexico's housing needs. Officials of the Mexican federal housing agency recently visited Canada to study the prospects with officials of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. A Canadian group is expected to make a return trip.

Trudeau made a pitch to interest Echeverria in Canada's short take off-landing (STOL) aircraft.

Canadian officials said the Mexicans are giving STOL serious consideration for domestic air routes. A decision would have to be made this year.

Mexico is in the market for railway equipment, including cars, rails and locomotives, officials said, but would require Canadian financial help.

Trudeau's party spent Sunday afternoon touring archeological sites at Palenque near the Guatemala border. They flew on to Cancun at the tip of the Yucatan Peninsula to spend the night at a newly-developed tourist resort. They go on to Havana, Cuba, today.

Olympic lottery results

VANCOUVER (CP) — The holders of ticket number 2599369 in series A, B and C each won $1 million in the seventh Olympic Lottery draw Sunday night.

The holders of three tickets with the number 1735704 are to receive $500,000 each and thousands of Canadians won lesser amounts in the draw.

The numbers, all unofficial until ruled on by lottery headquarters in Montreal, were selected by computer from among 7.5 million tickets that sold for $10 each.

Altogether, 90,000 of the tickets are worth a total of $28.5 million to their owners. The draw was also expected to net about $30 million for the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal.

Other major prize-winners include:

- $250,000—ticket number 2917977.
- $200,000—ticket numbers 2087262 and 1384408.
- $100,000—ticket numbers 2928168, 3017332 and 1297706.

Prizes of $50,000 each were won by the holders of tickets numbered 3091801, 1661770, 2755364 and 2018904.

Volcano erupts in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A gritty, thin layer of ash topped the snow-covered streets of Anchorage today after Mt. St. Augustine, an island volcano 180 miles to the southwest, erupted three times over weekend.

The U.S. Geological Survey said attempts to view the volcano were foiled by bad weather. A boat trip planned today by scientists to the uninhabited island was cancelled because of the weather.

A pilot for Cook Inlet Air Service said it appeared that a portion of the north part of the 4,000-foot-high cone had been blown away Saturday by one of the blasts. The Geological Survey said it could not confirm the pilot's observation.

Hot mud flows were reported oozing down the south side of the mountain.

The first eruption Friday morning sent a plume of smoke and ash eight miles high. The volcano erupted again Friday afternoon. The third eruption came Saturday morning, but detailed observation was difficult because of cloud layers.

The eruptions sent ash floating hundreds of miles. It was the first time such grit covered the streets of Anchorage since Mt. Spurr in the Alaska Range erupted in the 1950s.

As a precaution, residents of lower Kenai Peninsula, about 125 miles northeast of the Cook Inlet island, have been warned to move to higher ground immediately if they hear a tremendous explosion or feel a moderate earthquake.

Diefenbaker critical of Trudeau's visit

HALIFAX (CP) — Former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said Sunday Prime Minister Trudeau's visit to Cuba will give Canada "the blackest of black eyes" in light of Cuban intervention in Angola.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Trudeau's visit to Cuba would build up resentment, and all Western countries, including the United States, will conclude that Canada supports Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's actions in Angola.

Mr. Diefenbaker was interviewed on arrival at Halifax International Airport. He is in Halifax to address a dinner in honor of Mitchell Franklin, a well-known businessman here and in Saint John, N.B.

After arousing controversy recently with statements about the free market system, Prime Minister Trudeau is "in Cuba embracing Fidel Castro" instead of being in Parliament at its opening today to explain his remarks, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

He said the prime minister is "coddling up to Cuba."

Bus services cancelled today

TOWNSHIPS — Freezing rain and icy road conditions forced the cancellations of Sherbrooke city bus service as well as school bus service throughout the Eastern Townships area.

A spokesman from the Larabee Bus Lines said earlier this morning that Sherbrooke streets were "like a skating rink" and that all city bus service would have to be cancelled until the road conditions improved.

Country roads were completely iced this morning forcing the cancellation of all school busses within the jurisdiction of the Eastern Township Regional School Board. Sand and calcium trucks are at work however the freezing rain continues making driving for them hazardous as well.

Fatality-free weekend

QUEBEC (GA) — In spite of the cold and hazardous road conditions over the weekend there were no fatalities reported in the province.

An eight-year-old boy was killed Sunday when the toboggan he was riding slid into the path of a car near his home at Temperancevale, N.B., 40 miles northwest of Fredericton. He was among at least 23 persons who died accidentally in Canada during the weekend.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday local times showed eight fire deaths, seven other traffic fatalities, six snowmobile deaths and one drowning.

Two city bridges in need of repair

By STEVE BELL
(Record Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — A passing glance at either the Wolfe bridge or the Joffre bridge would offer little for the average motorist to worry about, but the combination of age, heavy usage, winter's annual assault and the unlucky or careless motorist have on closer inspection, all had an effect on the relative safety of these two bridges.

Two recent traffic accidents have seriously damaged the guard rails at either ends of the Joffre bridge. One place in particular, where a complete section of the guard rail has been torn away, the only thing between an unlucky motorist and a 30 foot drop onto hard pavement is a snow fence, a ladder and a piece of electrical conduit wired across the gaping hole. In no less than five places on either sides of the bridge, the relative safety of the guard rails is extremely questionable.

Reassuring statements have been made by one city official after he had made his first initial inspection of the bridge. He stated that granted some guard rail sections were out of position, but in all the areas in question the guard rails were solid enough to keep a vehicle from plunging either into the river or onto the roadway below.

REPAIRS?

When asked why repairs were so long in getting initiated, Mr. Frank Mascolo, Technical Services Director for the city replied, "The city has plans to widen and repair the Joffre bridge, but first we wish to consult our engineers as to the widening of the bridge so as not to have to undo any repairs done to the bridge when we go to widen it. We prefer to do both operations at once."

WOLFE BRIDGE

Wolf bridge, scheduled for demolition sometime this summer, is the other bridge in question. City officials were advised, as early spring 1974, that heavy traffic was to be prohibited from using the bridge and that the bridge was in bad need of repair. The city has since decided to build a controversial one-way, two lane bridge on the site of the present bridge. But tenders haven't been called for demolition and won't be until some time in April with final completion of the new bridge some time in late fall.

Meanwhile the surface has deteriorated and patching efforts are deteriorating and at one end the concrete sidewalk is supported by wooden stakes and at the other end, part of the sidewalk is cordoned off because pieces of the sidewalk have fallen away. On close inspection, from underneath the bridge, one will notice a large hole where the sidewalk is and in other places wooden slats have been placed for support.

"We are keeping a close watch on the Wolfe bridge," stated Mr. Mascolo, "and once the present snowfall is cleared away, we will inspect the condition of the bridge thoroughly and should it prove necessary we will close one lane of the bridge."

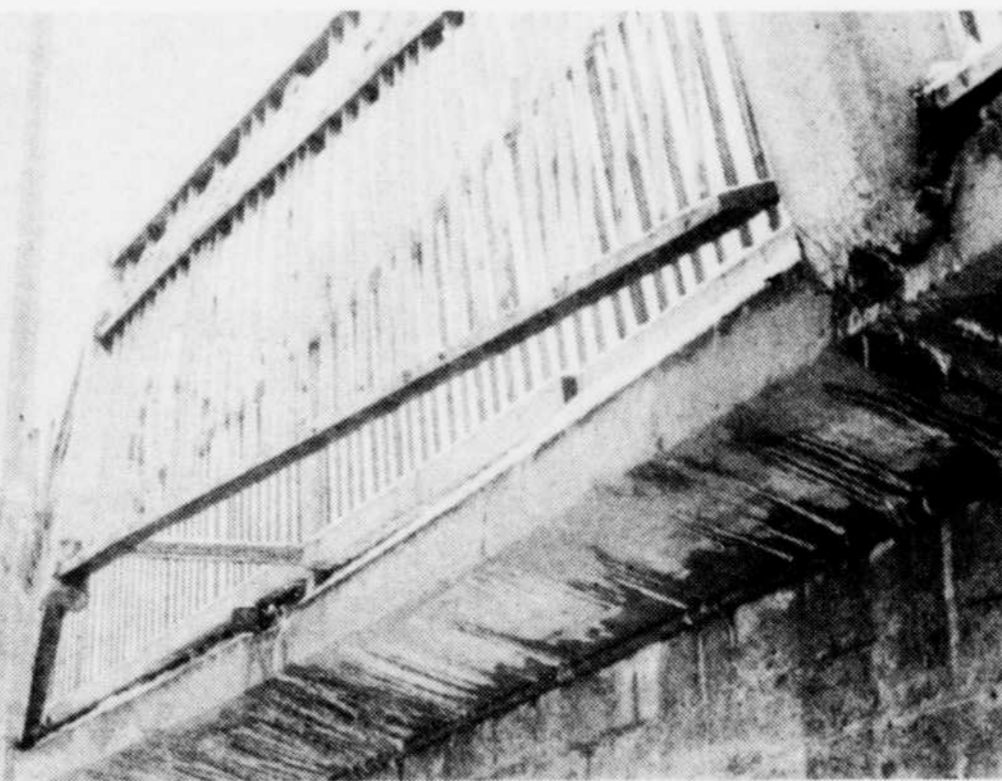

Mr. Mascolo also stated that the city was holding back major repairs to the Wolf bridge in view of the planned demolition. He does not feel that there is any immediate danger to the public using either of the two bridges in question.

Out of all this, there are two hard facts remaining, one, the city has no plans to push ahead its plans for these bridges and start work ahead of their schedules and two: that the condition of the two bridges aren't going to improve by themselves.

SUPPORT? — The rapid deterioration of the Wolfe Bridge is becoming increasingly more evident as winter continues to wage war on area roads and bridges. The stakes shown above are supporting the concrete sidewalk for a distance of 15 feet.

BEND AND STRETCH — According to city officials this guard rail on the Joffre Bridge, which has been slightly bent out of shape by some unlucky motorist, is solid enough to keep another vehicle from taking a plunge.

NO HEAVY TRAFFIC — That includes pedestrian traffic too! This section of the sidewalk on the Wolfe Bridge has been cordoned off because parts of the concrete have fallen away.

Vermont history topic at school meeting

DERBY LINE (IH) — A delightful program was held at the Parent - Teachers Club meeting held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 21 in the Learning Center of the Derby Elementary School, Derby Line.

This first meeting of the Club in 1976 featured a program in recognition of America's Bicentennial year and Vermont's in 1977. John Wells of Newport, a student at Keene State College, Keene, N.H. with commentary and slides took the assembly on a trip down through the ages to days of the Pilgrims. This was in five sections of the theme, Early American tools, with commentary on tape by five Vermonters.

The fascinating program started off by comments by Mr. Wells, slides and comments by Ralph Aldrich about miscellaneous tools, actually those used by the early settlers, made by hand showing great skill as trees were felled to build their homes and so forth.

Bruz Pierce's comments were about the maple sugar tools, the first spouts made from white ash, the sap bucket on the trees, the gathering tub, the sleds used with horses to haul the sap to the boiling center where a huge iron kettle was used over a fire of wood, and the tubs made to store sugar in.

Miss Catherine Davis commented on the house tools and their uses, the choppers, spinning wheel wash board and the many items used by the early housemaker.

Roger Wells' comments and pictures were on lighting, the making of candles and early types of oil lamps.

The thought was presented to have a drama group here in the spring from Burlington. The group is known as "The Delinquent Group" and travel about presenting drama to schools. This will be given further thought after more information is obtained.

churches with them.

Many of the tools were made by combination of wood and metal, the latter moulded and fashioned by a blacksmith. The blacksmith forged nails, sled runners, the cow bell and many such items, many of which today may be found in museums.

The viewers, through the slides on Wednesday evening could not help but think of the heritage that is theirs, for Vermont is rich in its history. Many of the items shown on slides were from generations of the Wells family.

Mr. Wells was introduced by Mrs. Jean McKenney, the program convener, and thanked by Club President Mrs. Margaret Erwin.

A short business meeting preceded the program. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard. The playground committee is steadily on the forward move and volunteers are still being sought. They are asked to contact the school principal, David Elwood, concerning this.

There was discussion about an effectiveness training course for par-ents, on bringing discipline into the home through understanding.

Volunteers are needed to assist in the making of Bicentennial costumes for a production by the students at the school in April. Anyone who can assist should contact the music teacher, Joan Kirchoff.

Second reading was given to the club by-laws after which these were adopted by motion and vote of all present.

The thought was presented to have a drama group here in the spring from Burlington. The group is known as "The Delinquent Group" and travel about presenting drama to schools. This will be given further thought after more information is obtained.

Mrs. Joan Fuller, art teacher, brought up the subject of an art workshop at the school for parents and teachers. She spoke about its purpose and its understanding to appreciate a child's drawings and colorings and to stimulate creativity in the home between parent and child.

Oddities in the news

FOUR EXECUTED

CAIRO (Reuter) — Four Sudanese officers and a corporal were executed by firing squad in Khartoum today after being convicted of leading last September's abortive military coup against President Jaafar Nimeiry, the official Egyptian Middle East news agency said. The agency named the men as Lt.-Col. Hassan Hussein Osman, Capt. Mohamed Mohamed elTom, Lieut. Abdel Rahman Noway, Lieut. Abbas Barsham Farah and Cpt. Magthoub elNimeiry Mohamed. A sixth accused, Abdel Rahman Gingal, had his death sentence commuted to life at hard labor.

POKES FUN

PEKING (Reuter) — China, which boasted a record harvest last year, today poked fun at the failure of grain crops in the Soviet Union. The monthly magazine People's Literature joked that Kremlin bosses had found a way to "sow wheat in Kazakhstan and reap it in North America."

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Phil Saad made the 610-mile journey between Denver and Kansas City the hard way — on foot.

"I'm still sore but I'm proud of myself," Saad, 51, said Monday after walking and jogging for eight days.

Would he do it again? "Hell, no," Saad said in a telephone interview the morning after he completed the trip.

Saad, a jogger for 24 years, said he left Denver Jan. 11 and walked or ran all the way. "I'm honest, and I'm stubborn. I wanted to do this myself. Lots of people offered me rides, but I turned them down. People along the road were nice."

Saad, a carpet cleaner, said he averaged six to seven miles an hour and once ran 33 hours without stopping to sleep.

DERBY LINE (IH) — Laurance Holmes Laythe, Derby Line of Golden Rule Masonic Lodge AF & AM Stanstead, its oldest living member, was honored Jan. 18 by Fraternity Brothers and friends of long standing when presented his 70 year membership bar attached to his Fifty Year jewel and his 60th year bar presented to him 20 and 10 years ago.

Mr. Laythe, presently at the Health Care Center in Newport, was presented the bar by Rt. Wor. Bro. Gerald Colt, Past District Grand Master, Grand Lodge of Quebec and the presence of some of the fraternity.

Mr. Laythe is 91 years of age in September. In 1906 he joined Golden Rule Lodge and in 1949 was Worshipful Master. He has given many years of his life to Masonry and on Sunday recalled some of the historic events of the lodge.

Mr. Laythe is the third Mason of Golden Rule Lodge in 1976 observing its 173 year in Stanstead, to receive his 70 year bar.

Mr. Laythe is a native of the Boundary communities and was for many years employed in a high position at the Butterfield plant of

Consumer affairs topic at meeting

SHERBROOKE — The subject of Consumer Affairs was discussed by Guy Desrosiers at a recent meeting of the Sherbrooke and District University Women's Club. Mr. Desrosiers has been appointed by the Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs to the position of Consumer Consultant for the Sherbrooke area.

In a brief explanation of the history and role of the department, Mr. Desrosiers said that it had been set up in 1967 to protect consumers from fraudulent practices and misleading advertising, to help them to be better informed about available services and in general to promote consumer interests.

There are five branches in the Sherbrooke area, each dealing with different aspects of consumer information and protection. The first is responsible for carrying out the electricity and gas regulations, the second for weights and measures, including inspection and consumer enquiries. The third branch provides protection in the areas of fraudulent labelling, packaging, etc., the fourth gives pertinent information to the small businessman obliged to declare bankruptcy. Lastly, the consumer's branch is set up to provide a liaison between the consumer and commercial interests.

Among the problems being considered by Mr. Desrosiers and his staff, false advertising appears to be one of the most prevalent. One example of this was the failure of a large financial institution to mention the special administration fees required in certain widely-advertised savings accounts, another the unavailability of various grocery items at low advertised prices. Often these infractions may be prevented by a better-informed business community and by the cooperation of consumers and citizens groups in reporting violations of the code.

Members of the audience asked Mr. Desrosiers to comment on various consumer problems, including the important question of defective or harmful toys. With the present small staff, it is important to inspect all toys for possible dangers, but the department tries to act quickly when certain articles are shown to be potentially dangerous. In this category may be included the recent seizure at the manufacturer and in stores of 25,000 sub-standard infant pacifiers.

The advantages of listing all ingredients present in various prepared foods, etc. were mentioned, and Mr. Desrosiers explained that legislation covering this matter was presently being drafted in Ottawa. Laws governing fines imposed for infractions of false advertising regulations may also be tightened, as at present these fines are often too small to deter offenders.

In conjunction with the informative talk given by Mr. Desrosiers, executive members of the local branch of the Consumers Association of Canada were present to explain their role in protecting consumer interests. This includes studying pollution in French and English to help school children spend their money more wisely, etc. The association hopes, as does Mr. Desrosiers, that the public will cooperate by providing full information on possible infractions of the consumer protection laws, wherever and whenever they occur.

Historical society hears annual reports

LENNOXVILLE — Annual reports for 1975 were presented at the January 12 meeting of the Lennoxville-Ascot Historical and Museum Society.

The first publication of the Society, dealing with the history of Lennoxville, is expected to be in print shortly. It was reported that orders have already been received from interested subscribers at a distance. Members were asked to continue to solicit advance orders at $5.00 a copy (plus postage where necessary).

On the recommendation of the Nominating Committee, the following slate of officers was elected for 1976: President, Gerald Frost; Past President, John Cruickshank; 1st V. President, Everette Denison; 2nd V. President, Mrs. R. Brand; Secretary, Norma Farwell; Treasurer, Frances Whittle.

In the absence of the president-elect, Gerald Frost, Mrs. Brand took the chair for the conclusion of the meeting, and thanked the retiring executive and committee members.

On display were several recent acquisitions for the archives, and snapshot albums covering the building of the Quebec Bridge in 1917. The latter supplemented the presentation of a short film showing the completion of the bridge, including the raising of the central span. Commentator for this rare documentary film made by Pathe in 1917 was Mrs. K. Herring, whose father and grandfather were engineers associated with this historic achievement.

Angola Shockwaves

It has been said, with much justification, that Angola is far more important to the safety of the United States, and the Western world, than was Vietnam. Yet the reaction seems to be: Who cares? The hope that the organization of African Unity would be able to bring peace to this African country, a tenuous hope at best, has collapsed, and if there was no majority backing at Addis Ababa for the Soviet sponsored MPLA, nothing was done by the Africans to prevent the Cubans, who in Angola act as Soviet mercenaries, to pursue their offensive. The offensive has scored significant successes, and the northern-based National Front supported by President Mobutu of Zaire (former Belgian Congo) is said to be in danger of complete collapse. Once the National Front had been eliminated, the Cubans with their Soviet rockets, heavy artillery and MiGs will be able to concentrate their forces against the other non-Communist force, UNITA, that is based in the south and holds the greater part of the country.

It may be useful to recapitulate the salient points that illustrate Angola's importance: It is one of the richest countries of Western Africa with huge oil and metals reserves, apart from being an important coffee exporter. It has excellent ports that, leased to the Soviet Union — as had been Somali ports on the eastern coast of the continent — will provide the Soviet Union with means to dominate the South Atlantic. Each and every day some 500 Western-flag ships, one ship every 50 miles, sail past Angola's shores. Angola is the terminal of the Benguela railway that carries African copper to the West. Once established in Angola, the Soviet Union will be able to spread her influence to the rest of Africa, sponsoring guerrilla warfare and supplying arms and men to movements anxious to subvert the established regimes. And, last but not least, there is the moral problem, discarded by the anti-Vietnam protesters and presumably of equally little impact upon public opinion where Angola is concerned, that the Soviet-sponsored MPLA controls little more than a quarter of the country, would be heavily defeated in a free election (that would follow tribal, rather than political, lines) and is a minority that is determined to foist upon the majority of Angolans its rule, its ideology and its Soviet allies.

In Angola, the Soviet Union is engaged in establishing her presence far from her borders, in an area with which Russia has no historical links. It is sheer neo-colonialism, the latest step in the Soviet scramble for Africa: In addition to the huge Somali base mentioned earlier, the Soviet Union already has a base in Guinea of Sekou Toure, and has been stationing aircraft in Nigeria, the latest recruit to the pro-Soviet bloc. Indeed, nobody has explained, thus far, the sudden about-face of Nigeria following the recent ouster of her former president, General Gowon. Those who foresaw the dire consequences that would result from the crushing of the Biafra secession — defeated by Nigerian forces equipped by Britain and the Soviet Union — now witness their worst fears come true. Nigeria's oil, situated in what was Biafra, is to be used against the West not only over Angola, where Nigeria backs to the hilt the Soviet-Cuban adventure, but also over other "imperialist" issues, including Israel. Indeed, Nigerian troops may soon be fighting in Angola on the side of the Communists. The battle for Angola, say the Nigerians, is the beginning of "liberation" of southern Africa, and the West should pay heed to what the Nigerians say. What would it have done in the winter of 1973, the Nigerians point out, if it had not had Nigerian oil to replace Arab oil?

By attempting to control the Cabinda oil in Angola and Nigerian oil in Biafra, the Soviet Union is slowly closing the loopholes that became apparent during the 1973 Arab oil boycott of the West. With all the loopholes plugged and Soviet warships patrolling the tanker lanes at both ends of Africa, what indeed will the West do in the next Middle East crisis.

A checkmate of western oil supplies, of Western shipping routes and of South African trade by Soviet naval power, now surpassing Western navies not only in numbers but in quality, is something that will create shockwaves far and wide.

A portrait of war-torn Beirut Montreal—a city of character

BEIRUT (AP) — Beirut's flies usually disappear in the winter. This year, with piles of garbage and corpses to feed on, they wobble about, carrying disease.

Nature provides an antiseptic background, snow-topped mountains and the pristine blue Mediterranean Sea, for the rot and destruction of Lebanon, once the prettiest, liveliest and most-modern country in the Middle East.

More than 9,000 persons have died, mostly in Beirut, in nine months of Christian-Moslem fighting. That is more than six times the number killed in Northern Ireland in four years.

Murder and looting have replaced trade and tourism. Beirut's great hotels are black with the fires of rocket blasts. At least a tenth of the three million Lebanese have fled the country, along with the large colony of Western businessmen.

The economy is in ruins, losses estimated at more than $5 billion. Thousands of homes have been looted, thousands more destroyed.

Few salaries, rents, or bills have been paid during the last two months, the period of the most intense fighting between Christian right-wingers and Moslem leftists backed by Palestinian guerrillas.

PROSPECTS GRIM
The prospects for the future are grim. They include:

—More political dithering among the various factions with more fighting and more dying.

—Partition, with the 1.2 million Christians forming a small Monte Carlo-like enclave in the mountains and coastal area north of Beirut.

—Outside intervention, possibly leading to a new Middle East war. Syria has threatened to take over the country to prevent partition.

Israel has threatened to invade southern Lebanon if the Syrians do.

—Military government, with a coalition of Moslem and Christian officers ruling in place of civilian politicians, bringing an end, at least temporarily, to parliamentary democracy.

Christians, once a majority but now a 40-per cent minority, dominate the economy. Through an unwritten pact in 1943, they hold most of the political power. They control the presidency, the officer corps of the armed forces and a 6-to-5 parliamentary majority.

WANT TO HANG ON
Hard-line Christians want to hang on to this. If the Moslems get the upper hand, they say, Lebanon will lose its profitable role as middleman between Christian Europe and the Islamic Middle East.

Moslems, moderate and left, want more political power, at least a 50-50 split in Parliament and more power for the Moslem premier at the expense of the Christian president. They also want economic and social reform but differ on how far these should go.

Leftists, who include Communists and Scandinavian-type socialists, want radical change. They find ready support among the poor who, since the crisis, have to beg, borrow, steal or starve.

About 400,000 Palestinians live in Lebanon, nearly half in dreary camps on handouts from the United Nations. They want to go home to what now is Israel.

The Lebanese Moslems support their cause. In return, Palestinian guerrillas, many of them members of radical groups, back the Moslem political demands and fight alongside the Moslem private armies.

Old Montreal could have been a parking lot. It isn't. For the last 10 years a strong municipal commission and provincial legislation have kept the bulldozers from levelling priceless historical buildings in downtown Montreal, Canada's largest city and site of the 1976 Summer Olympic Games (July 17 - Aug. 1). Instead of parking lots and high rises, the past has been maintained and refurbished.

Le Vieux Montreal is 95-acre sanctuary, the heart and historical soul of Canada's island metropolis in the St. Lawrence River, where artists, fashion designers, architects and businessmen live and work.

The old city of narrow, cobble-stoned streets, limo buildings and gas lights is an irreplaceable reminder of the times when Montreal was founded by the French, besieged by British forces and occupied by the American Revolutionary armies. Before 1964, 16th and 17th century buildings were being torn down at an alarming rate and the gaping holes used as parking space.

Surrounding Le Vieux Montreal is a cityscape of church spires, freeways, towering head offices of multi-national corporations, banks and hotels — the concrete and glass of futuristic architecture that lets people dine in the sky and shop in a surrealistic maze underground.

Somewhere in between these "two cities" is the spirit of modern day Montreal. Montreal is a city of shops, restaurants, the arts parks, museums, galleries, churches and sports. It's geared to tourists — five million visit the city yearly.

Montreal is two-thirds French which makes it the second largest French-speaking city in the world after Paris. But it is not the Paris of North America. It is reminiscent of 17th and 18th century France tempered by a rugged frontier existence. Immigration of the English, Irish, French, and, today, the Italians, makes Montreal more cosmopolitan than any city in France and more homogeneous in its origins than any place of its size in North America.

In 1534 Jacques Cartier was the first white man to set eyes on the archipelago at the junction of the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers. Montreal is the largest of this group of islands with a population approaching 3 million.

Today, not far from the spot where Cartier observed the Indian community of Hochelaga, is a square named for him, located close to the center of Le Vieux Montreal. But Le Vieux Montreal is not just a resurrected ruin. It's a living community where people work, shop and dine in refurbished surroundings. Today the old city has about 30 restaurants, a score of haute couture and handicraft boutiques, several art galleries, antique shops, museums, libraries, a cinema, discotheques and other store.

The City of Montreal published a booklet called A Walking Tour of Old Montreal which takes the tourist from Place d'Armes, site of Notre Dame Church, an example of early Gothic Revival architecture constructed in 1829, through the narrow streets past all notable reconstructions.

In contrast to all the charm of grey limestone, pine beams and gas lights is contemporary Montreal, a city for shoppers, wanderers and gourmets. The subterranean city has been called visionary — an incredible city beneath a city. Theatres, railway stations, hotels and subways are linked by passages lined with boutiques, shops and restaurants.

Place des Arts concert hall and theater complex is the center of Montreal's artistic community with its three theaters: Salle Wilfrid Pelletier, Theatre Maisonneuve and Theatre Port-Royal.

There are many churches of artistic and historical importance throughout the city. The Cathedral of Mary, Queen of the World, is an exact replica of St. Peter's in the Vatican, but half the size.

On the north slope of Mount Royal, the mountain that dominates the city, is St. Joseph's Oratory, a marked feature of Montreal's skyline visible from all points, attracts pilgrims and visitors from all over the world because of the miraculous cures attributed to it.

Dining out is no problem in Montreal — but where to go might be. There are 2,000 restaurants in this city and several hundred of these offer authentic French cuisine. The dishes of at least 20 other nationalities are specialties at other restaurants.

Chez Henri is reputed to be one of the best in Montreal where a bottle of wine could run $200. There are dozens of excellent cafes, bistros, restaurants and dining rooms in all price ranges.

Yester Years 20 years ago

Three buildings, all owned by Isadore Echenberg sustained damages totalling an estimated $2,500 in separate blazes yesterday.

Eight people were rescued from a North Ward tenement at 963 Arthur Lane when flames cut off their escape just before noon yesterday.

A paralysed man, Lewis Sullivan, was carried from a ground floor apartment and among the four children stranded on the third floor veranda was a crippled child who was also rescued by firemen.

Two people were taken to hospital as a result of the blaze, Florian Guay who burned his hand in an attempt to battle his way to safety and Miss Berthe Martineau who suffered nervous shock.

The fire is believed to have started in the bedroom closet of a second floor apartment occupied by Fred Asselin. The flames were noticed by an eight-year-old youngster, Jean Marie Beaudoin, who boldly pulled the fire alarm summoning Sherbrooke firemen to the scene.

The sixth annual winter show of the Sherbrooke Poultry Association was officially opened this afternoon by his worship the Mayor Sylvestre in the Lansdown Market. A large number of visitors arrived by the morning and noon trains and there is every prospect that the three day show this year will prove the most interesting and successful ever held in Sherbrooke.

There are about two thousand birds on exhibition. They are all cooped in sanitary cages, most of them being housed in single coops.

Judging commenced this morning and will be completed tomorrow. The judges claim this is one of the finest and nicest exhibits they have seen in the province, both as regards the number and quality of the birds. All entries are well filled and particularly noticeable are the White Leghorns, Barred Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, and Orpingtons. A very gratifying feature is the outstanding number of outside exhibitors.

Justice Department vs. Shapp

WASHINGTON — Pennsylvania's Gov. Milton Shapp called on six several weeks ago to complain that the Justice Department was hounding him. He was the victim, he alleged, of a "political investigation" directed by Assistant Attorney General Richard L. Thornburgh.

Before Thornburgh came to Washington, he was the U.S. attorney in Pittsburgh. He campaigned against Shapp and accused him of improprieties worse than Watergate. Now Thornburgh is using his new powers in the Justice Department, Shapp charged, to try to make the charges come true.

These were serious allegations coming, as they did, from a powerful governor and presidential contender. At first, Shapp appeared to be the darkest horse in the Democratic presidential race. But in a poll taken at a Democratic convention in the key state of Florida, Shapp placed second to Georgia's ex-Gov. Jimmy Carter and beat out Alabama's Gov. George Wallace.

Therefore, we sent out reporter Marc Smolonsky to Pennsylvania to check into Shapp's complaints. Smolonsky has spent more than a month on the investigation. He has interviewed a host of state officials and government investigators from Harrisburg to Washington. Here are our conclusions:

— We found systematic corruption, including organized crime links, throughout the Shapp Administration. During his two terms, 57 state officials have been indicted by grand juries. Except for an allegation of perjury in a complex contracts case, however, no wrongdoing has been attributed directly to the Governor.

— Another grand jury indictment, which should shake up the Shapp Administration, is expected within 10 days. Sources close to the investigation say Edgilio "Gene" Cerilli, chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, will be indicted on federal kickback charges. Cerilli told us he was unaware of the possible indictment, had no idea what the charges could be based on and, in any event, had taken no kickbacks. Shapp said he couldn't believe Cerilli was guilty of the charges.

— Reliable eyewitnesses have seen state officials sitting at the same restaurant table with Joseph Scalleat who, according to the Pennsylvania Crime Commission, is a Pennsylvania underworld boss. He has a regular table and telephone set-up at Lombardo's restaurant near the capitol building in Harrisburg.

Among the high officials who have been spotted at his table are Lt. Gov. Ernest Klein and the Liquor Control Board's chief counsel, Harry Bowytz. Both Klein and Bowytz admitted seeing Scalleat in Lombardo's but denied meeting with him.

— George Greenblat, vice chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, formerly owned an interest in Luv Motors, an American Motors dealership in Allentown, Pa. He also became a paid consultant for American Motors in 1971-74 while he was a turnpike official. During this same period, Pennsylvania suddenly began buying American Motors cars.

Greenblat is also part owner of a Chrysler-Plymouth dealership in Allentown. Curiously enough, the state also began purchasing Chrysler-Plymouth cars after Greenblat became a state official.

Governor Shapp admitted this didn't look good but expressed confidence in Greenblat. Federal authorities, meanwhile, are investigating. Greenblat denied any conflict of interest.

— The Philadelphia Strike Force is investigating alleged violations of the Pennsylvania liquor code by the Thrifty Beverage Company. The task force is also attempting to untangle some alleged mobster and political ties to the beverage firm.

— Federal investigators are also looking into charges that Pennsylvania's Attorney General Robert Kane wrongly granted immunity to at least one prominent politician who had been accused of taking kickbacks. Since we couldn't reach the politician for comment, we will withhold his name. Kane denied any wrongdoing.

— Shapp himself has been accused of lying to the State Contract Practice Committee on Oct. 8, 1974. His testimony dealt with the complex, controversial sale of a cable television franchise. Shapp was a pioneer in cable television and founded the Williamsport, Pa., Cable TV Company. This is not the end of the story. We counted at least 21 separate state and federal investigations into the Pennsylvania government. However, the details tend to be repetitious.

Oppression in Paraguay: Paraguay has arrested a famed anthropologist, Prof. Miguel Chase Sardi, who dared to oppose President Alfredo Stroessner's genocide policies against the Ache Indians. Arrested with the professor but released, was Marilyn Renhfeldt, who also had sought civil rights for the Indians.

In the past, Stroessner actually permitted wealthy Paraguayans and foreign "sportsmen" to hunt the Ache like animals, competent sources have told us. Now the genocide takes the form of slave labor and starvation. The distinguished archaeologist was charged with "subversion," which covers any opposition to veteran despot Stroessner.

Footnote: The U.S. embassy in Paraguay has made informal inquiries about the case.

TODAY'S TREASURES

In the market for 'remuddling'?

By Jean Barnes

There's a word for it. Clem Labine, editor of The Old-House Journal calls it "remuddling." He defines the term as, "the turning of an old house into a dwelling that is neither new nor old."

Naturally, Labine would rather see the homeowner restore than remuddle an old house but he is very much aware of the problems involved in restoration. And the more remuddling that has been done the greater difficulties the owner will meet in restoring an old house.

He says, the first edition of the Journal had scarcely left the press (October, 1973) when readers began coming to its editors with the question, "Where can I find...?"

We learned of the gap of information, he adds, between suppliers and owners and felt that a buyers' guide would be of value. The Guide is designed to help homeowners find the unusual and hard-to-find items such as special wood mouldings, tin ceilings, medallions and handmade bricks.

The guide is divided into three sections and cross indexed for reference. There is a Company Directory in which the names and mailing addresses of each firm is alphabetically listed. Usually, there's a telephone number, too. The Classified Listing of products and services groups similar and related products by category. An alphabetical index of items makes finding a specific product a simple matter.

Items that are usually available at hardware stores and building supply centers are not included. Rather, the guide concentrates on products needed for restoration — not remodeling — the pre-1914 house.

Categories include: Exterior Building Materials and Supplies, Exterior Ornament and Architectural Details, Decorative Interior Materials and Supplies, Interior Hardware, Plumbing and House Fittings, Lamps and Lighting Fixtures, Structural Materials for Interiors, Paints, Finishes, Removers and Supplies, Tools and Other Supplies, Antique and Recycled House Parts and Regional Restoration Services and Craftsman.

In addition, there is a complete listing of the back issues of The Old-House Journal and their contents. These offer an unbelievable wealth of information to the old-house buff.

For instance, the May, 1974, Journal contents include such diverse helps as recreating period window hangings, repairing old floors, American Federal ceiling tile and restoring rotted wood. Or the March, 1975, issue contains information on restoring old brickwork, grants for preservation, techniques for marbelizing, a list of books on regional architecture and a source for pre-1840 hardware.

The number of "restorations" are growing. One of the reasons is found in the Buyers' Guide introduction: "In a society that puts a premium on sheer volume of production, there is immense satisfaction to be found in taking all the time necessary to do a job in the very best possible way."

"While restoring an old house has more than its share of pain and aggravation, those who have gone through the process successfully have found it to be one of the most creative and rewarding experiences of their lives!"

Suede, leather know no season

By Jill Leslie Sentz

NEW YORK (NEA)—Consumers still are cautious about their fashion purchases. As a result, there is less impulse buying, stores report. It appears the shopper again is noting that the best way to economize on clothing bills is to buy quality items that promise longevity.

But longevity, quality and practicality do not have to be synonymous with old, stagnant and unfashionable. And what's happening to suede and leather clothes is an excellent example of alive design.

At one time, manufacturers used skins in very classic ways because it was difficult to maneuver them. But with new tanning and cutting techniques, they can work leather like fabric making leather and fabric almost interchangeable. The result is clothes that combine practicality and economy with lots of style.

Originally, only the lambskins were soft, subtle and drapable. They still lead in terms of softness and quality, but now all leathers and suedes — even the buckskins which used to be stiff and harsh — are pliable.

Spain still is the most famous country for raising and tanning leather and its leather industry is responsible for the highest quality skins, best for the soft, fluid couture styles. Spain, however, is being challenged by Israel, Argentina and the United States. Because of the increase in costs and higher delivery charges, many American manufacturers are beginning to produce either part or all of their leathers domestically, making leather clothes available at all prices.

Even shearlings (sueded leather with its own natural fur back) have come a long way. They, too, have been tanned so that the resulting skin can be more easily styled. The new versions even wrap and tie. The best shearlings this season are mottled and solid browns and a variety of natural colors. All are trimmed and bordered with matching or contrasting mouton fur. Shearlings can last a lifetime — they are practical, and nothing can be warmer.

Another style shift finds fur trims on suede and leather coats a thing of the past. Trims are simpler and similar to those on fabric clothes: trapunto, shirring, quilting, wetting, tooling and lacing.

While there were always slacks, skirts and jumpers in leather, they were stiffer, less comfortable and less important than they are now. The most recent collections present soft, less bulky jumpers and jumpsuits and full gored skirts that are incredibly swingy. All are conceived for today's active lives.

The recurring design themes are the same ones that currently dominate fashion: blazers, toppers, wrap coats, trenches, tents and duffles. In the supporting roles are the western (cowboys, cowgirl, Indian) and the Oriental looks that surprisingly adapt well to leather.

Whether hip length or finger-tip jackets, three-quarter or full-length coats, the look is slimmer, leaner — even tent coats are semi-

Ann Landers says:

You're fighting a losing battle

Dear Ann Landers: My oldest son is just recovering from a heartbreaking romance. He bought the girl jewelry, record albums, expensive clothes, took her to the fanciest restaurants and last week she broke off with him.

Now my younger son (age 18) is headed in the same direction. He had a good summer job and saved quite a lot of money. Although he needs new shoes, a winter jacket and several other items of clothing, he doesn't spend one cent on himself. All his money goes on this girl's back. She calls him "to go shopping" and like a sap he buys her anything she wants.

When I tell him he's making the same mistake his brother made he says, "It's my money, and I'll do what I want with it."

What can I do about this stupid fool? — Heartsick Watching

Dear Mother: If you are "Heartsick Watching" my advice is to look the other way. You're fighting a losing battle, Mother. Some folks must get their lumps first-hand, and I'm afraid your son is due for some "on-the-job training."

Dear Ann Landers: Do I have the right to be mad? Recently I married a man who was spoiled rotten by his mother. She waited on him like a hand-servant. He never picked up a sock after himself.

I work an eight-hour day.

After the honeymoon I had a talk with him and he agreed to do the supper dishes on weekends while I took the clothes to the laundromat. When I returned, my mother-in-law was walking out of the kitchen with a towel in her hand. She had just finished doing the dishes.

After she left I hit the roof. My mother-in-law didn't eat with us. She just dropped in. I think she should not have done his work. What's your opinion? — Angry

Dear Ang: This is a problem? Grow up, kiddo. If you're going to make a go of it with Junior you'd better learn not to sweat the small stuff. Save your anger for the major hassles ahead — and I can promise you there will be many.

Dear Ann Landers: A woman I know lost her husband three years ago. They were married 18 years.

She still wears her wedding ring, which, to me, seems like an act of misrepresentation. After all, a widow is NOT a married woman.

Should I do her a favor and tell her she is violating a rule of etiquette? — A Friend

Dear Friend(?): Do yourself a favor and M.Y.O.B. If a widow wants to wear her wedding ring (and many do) it's perfectly proper to do so.

Dear Ann: My mother-in-law smokes around my young children and it drives me crazy. She always has a cigarette dangling from the corner of her mouth.

Yesterday she was holding our three-month-old son and dropped some ashes on the baby's face. I was furious but gritted my teeth and said nothing. I hate fights. Please advise. — Peace Lover

Dear Friend: I, too am a Peace Lover but there are times when one should speak up regardless of the risks. If ever you had the perfect opportunity to ask your mother-in-law not to smoke in the presence of your children, that was it. Too bad you blew it.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Home safety tips given for winter holidays

Winter vacations are no longer the luxury of the few. And for many people now making a winter escape from home and job, vacation usually means "out of sight, out of mind."

However, Robert Saint Jacques, Director of Sales, Pinkerton's of Canada Limited, reminds time home owners that before they can put their home out of mind they need to be certain that it will be safe while they are gone.

"Tell-tale signs announcing that you are away on a winter vacation may impress your neighbors," Saint-Jacques says, "but it won't do a thing for the security of your home."

For example, he cautions that unshovelled walks and driveways and lack of footprints in fresh snow are just as likely to be noticed by a professional burglar as by your neighbors, and your house will move right to the top of the burglar's "hit" parade as a prime target.

Incidence of daytime burglaries has risen dramatically in recent years, Saint Jacques notes, and "giving the impression that a house is occupied is of the greatest importance to the vacationing homeowner, during the day as well as evening hours."

Too many people think that the only precaution they need is automatic timing devices for operating house lights, but much more needs to be done to make sure the potential burglar will have second thoughts about trying to break in.

Another common misapprehension, is that suburban homes are safer than urban or rural dwellers. Suburbia's visible affluence has brought crime out of the city and into the suburbs, where an increasing number of the winter vacationers live.

One of the first lines of defense in any community is the local police department. Vacationers should notify the police of their departure date, date of return, and where they can be reached in an emergency. Regular police or private security patrols may then make a daily check of your property.

Police should also be advised of other precautions you have taken, Saint Jacques adds, including any automatic lighting devices in use and where they are located; who has been hired to shovel snow; and which neighbors have a key to your house.

The rest is up to the homeowner, and Pinkerton's has compiled a checklist of do's and don'ts to observe as an important element in pre-vacation preparation:

- Arrange for someone to shovel your walk and driveway in the event that it snows in your absence. Request this person to check your doors and windows as well, so that footprints will be seen.
- Encourage your neighbors to use your driveway for overnight parking, to give the appearance that someone is home.

— Leave curtains at least part way open. Closed blinds serve as a screen for a burglar inside the house.

— Close and lock all doors, including the garage, tool shed and other work shelters.

— Install safety latches on all windows.

— Take empty garbage cans indoors.

— Don't leave notes to milkmen or other tradesmen in conspicuous places.

— Stop all deliveries of mail, newspapers and dairy products.

— Ask neighbors to "police" your grounds for window breakage.

— Remove all keys and valuables from your car, even if it is in the garage.

— Don't leave your house and car keys at home. If you don't take them with you, leave them in a safe deposit box.

These easy precautions will help protect your home and property while you're away and add to the peace of mind a vacation is supposed to bring.

Fashion and Beauty Tips

Natural light
Before leaving the house, check your make-up in a mirror by a window. It gives you a chance to correct any cosmetics excess caused by working under artificial light.

Tea aid
Combat puffiness around the eyes by placing cotton balls soaked in camomile tea on your lids for 10 minutes. Or use the soaked tea-bags themselves.

Spray twist
If you have trouble with flyaway hair but you don't like hairspray, spray some on a cotton ball and then smooth the hair with the cotton.

Black's back
A black suede, plain hand-bag is a perfect accessory for any late afternoon to evening occasion when dressing up is called for.

Peeping lace
For wear under a sheer caftan or pajama outfit, try a lacy camisole. Once you've bought one, though, don't hide it under sweaters and quilted jackets.

Less is best
Long, drop earrings are perfect for V-neck evening clothes, but they shouldn't be accompanied by a choker, which ruins the effect of the neckline.

Inflation Fighter

DEAR POLLY — One of our energy saving tips for winter is to keep all walk-in closet doors closed when not in use. It surprised us how often we carelessly left them open before we realized we could save heat this way — JOY

DEAR POLLY — My single best time, energy and money saver is the daily newspaper. First there are the wonderful Pointers. Next comes the "cents off" coupons. They are a nuisance but do help one to cope with inflation, if we remember to overlook those for products we will not use.

Next separate the pages and make a stack near your deep fat fryer. Cover with only ONE layer of paper towels and use for draining fried foods. Crumple up remaining clean papers. When wet they are great for washing windows and you need no soap or cleaner as the papers are the cleaner. Use the dry pieces for drying and polishing the glass. This is very good for car windows. They do not steam up so easily after such a treatment. All this is free since you bought the paper anyway.

— TERESA
DEAR POLLY — I never discard a pretty shower curtain but use it to make plastic aprons to wear in the kitchen. They can also be made into aprons to hold beauty aids, as well as toaster and mixer covers. Most of us do not like to waste anything that can be put to good use — PAULINE

DEAR POLLY — Now that pretty greeting cards are so expensive, we do not sign them but write a little note on a separate piece of paper and enclose it. This way the person receiving the card can use it over again to send to someone else. Pretty cards can be used over and over again and again. This is especially good if you have a weakness for pretty cards as I do and I wish more people would start not signing them. — LIZ

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer for conserving electrical energy is that I unplug my clock radios each morning and reset them again at night. After all, who uses the bedroom in the daytime unless there is someone ill. This may seem a very small savings but it all adds up — ANNE

DEAR POLLY — Never discard those beautiful bows that decorate potted plants from the florist. Untie, iron with the steam iron on the wrong side and have pretty ribbons for gift packages. Add your own pre-tied bow and have ribbons for all occasions — LOL

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea, Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

The next meeting will be held in the Cultural Centre with Mrs. Joyce and Miss Ord as hostesses.

President, Mrs. Hugh Wallace, who was unable to attend.

Nine members answered the roll call. "Tell where your grandmother and great-grandmother were born". Ancestors were traced to Normandy, Wales, Ireland, England, France and Holland. Some families had been in Canada for many generations, while others were themselves the immigrants. Some could trace their families to the first settlement at New Amsterdam (now New York) in the early seventeenth century.

Members brought in pictures of grandmothers or grandchildren. A contest was organized to match the members to their ancestors or theirs. Mrs. Earl Findlay and Mrs. D. Geddes won the prizes of pot holders, the first prize being handwoven.

In the absence of the president and secretary the meeting was chaired by Mrs. S. Parker with Mrs. D. Geddes taking the minutes.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner with the repeating of the Collect, the Salute to the Flag and the singing of the Opening Ode.

This was followed by the reading of two poems entitled "Grammas Have Changed" and "Beloved Grandson".

Articles during the conveners' reports pointed out that Canada was a country with a "throw-away culture". To combat the high cost of food, meals should be well-planned using basic foods, more home-cooking and fresh fruits and vegetables in season.

Leftovers should be stored for future use. We should become aware of Canada's Food rules and follow them. Serious thought should be given to conserving good land for farming as a means to prevent a world food shortage.

A list of rules to help prevent crime was read. While walking at night keep to main streets, taking no short cuts. If followed, go to a public place rather than to your own home. When driving keep your doors locked and plenty of gas in the tank.

For women living alone use your initial rather than your first name on your door or in a directory. When leaving your home for a holiday have a timer set for the lights to come on and go off at the appropriate time. Always keep a list of the credit cards, that you carry, in a safe place.

From the report in the Countrywoman of the ACWW President, Mrs. O. L. Farquharson, on her World Tour, interesting facts were gleaned - among them that the nutmeg tree, found growing in Grenada, produces tow spices, both nutmeg and mace.

Another clipping compared the state of the world to a box of odd-shaped quilt patches. At first glance they seem useless and impossible to do anything with, but on second thought, time and patience could make something worthwhile.

According to an article from Health Care Today, due to a growing dependence on medication, man has exonerated himself from responsibility for his own health. We have become a society of unresolved tension, over-eating, over-medication, over-pollution, etc. We should discover the joys of walking - a healthful exercise. A good motto would be, "Walk More and Drive Less."

Wool from CANSAVE was distributed among the members to be knit into mitts, socks or sweaters.

Copies of Women and the Law in Quebec were handed out. After the foreword was read by the convener, it was agreed that for the next month members would study the first section, laws pertaining to Engagement, Marriage and Common Law.

During the business period Mrs. F. Taylor and Mrs. W. Beattie were appointed to act on the Nominating Committee. The Programme Committee is made up of Mrs. H. Wallace, Mrs. G. Povey, Mrs. E. Findlay and Mrs. H. Worster.

Members were reminded to bring in any used stamps, that they have saved, to February meeting.

The County meeting is to be held Wednesday, February 11th, at 11 a.m. sharp, in the Club Room at the Lennoxville Town Hall with Milby Women's Institute as hostesses. Mrs. W. Beattie will be the delegate for the Lennoxville Branch.

Due to the County meeting our next branch meeting will be on Wednesday, February 18th, at 7 p.m.

The evening came to a close with a cup of tea, served by Mrs. G. Povey and Mrs. S. Parker.

His records accumulate

Will Tarkenton get his due?

By Murray Olderman

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — (NEA) — The memory is pungent when the psyche is fragile. Francis Asbury Tarkenton was sensitized early in his professional football career by a reputation as a harum scarum scrambler eager to get out of his protective pocket, a guy who'd make the spectacular play and then turn around and give up 25 yards.

They also said he'd have a short career because of the risks he took against big, pursuing linemen.

"I'll never forget Gino Marchetti," recalls Francis, "predicting after the first time I played against him. 'This kid'll never last more than two or three years.'"

"Well, not many players have played 15 years at the age of 35."

And no player — repeat NO — has ever thrown as many passes, or completed as many. Soon he'll hold the record for touchdown passes, too.

The completion record was achieved by the feisty quarterback of the Minnesota Vikings near halftime of a recent effort against the San Diego Chargers. He had just thrown the 2,831st successful pass of his career, a four-yard swing pass to Ed Marinaro.

At the time it never even occurred to Tarkenton that he had set a new mark.

"We were in a two-minute offense," says Fran, "and I had a couple of plays on my mind." Marinaro, coming back to the huddle, had to jab him and say, "Hey, that one was for the record. Congratulations."

Francis has always been appreciated as a smart and glib and nimble quarterback. But as a pure passer? Never.

"Almost no one has ever called me a great passer," he says wistfully. Oh, maybe his wife, Elaine, and their kids have.

There are nine quarterbacks enshrined in the Professional Football Hall of Fame at Canton, O., and every one of them — from Sammy Baugh to Otto

Horns of Plenty

Graham to Y. A. Tittle — has been surpassed in passing productivity by Tarkenton.

By the end of next season, if he stays healthy (and Tarkenton has never missed a game because of injury), Francis will hold every major lifetime passing record listed in the NFL Record Manual.

"The data I'm producing," he says boldly, "will justify the fact that either I'm the greatest passer ever or in the top five."

It's unusual for Francis, with his astute sense of public relations, to put himself out on a limb of personal achievement. But the quest for recognition has been gratifying.

"Now I'm the greatest," he says cynically. "When your team is 10-0, it produces the whole quarterback syndrome. I'm no better than I was back with the New York Giants. My most heroic feat in football was quarterbacking that 1970 team to a 9-5 record."

With the Giants, from 1967 through 1971, he went head-to-head with Joe Namath for quarterback acclaim in Manhattan. Fran carries no traumatic scars from the experience. He is just as secure as Namath financially — it's not generally known Fran was the first $100,000 quarterback, and he owns a successful management consultant company. He is probably a shade more stable emotionally. And he doesn't have bad knees.

Few quarterbacks of his tenure have played so long with so little challenge to their incumbency. He started his first game as a Viking in 1961. Ron Vander Kelen supplanted him for a couple of games for the Vikings in the mid-1960s. Bob Berry played a full game in 1966 which was televised back to Fran's home town of Atlanta, and the slight led to his final break with Coach Norm Van Brocklin and the demand he be traded (to New York).

"Van Brocklin liked to plot one man against the other," remembers Francis, "and I wouldn't stand for it. I've always said the mark of a pro quarterback is when he has the ability to tell his coach to 'bleep' off. The coach really wants a quarterback to be a stand-up, take-charge guy."

Fran is a talker. Effusive, charming, persuasive. During his Giant period, before the Vikings retrieved him in 1972, he collaborated with me for three years on a weekly column for NEA during the football season. On Sunday night, Fran would be told, "Let's discuss play action passes this week." Thirty minutes later, he would be interrupted, "O.K., Francis, that's enough."

He's perceptive and lucid and his is the most modest of acknowledgments that football is a game of goals.

"I do have career ambitions, but I don't think of them," he says. "They'll come if not this year, then next. It's a great satisfaction to me to find myself up there among the greatest. Sammy Baugh was my hero when I was a kid living in Washington D.C. When I was in high school and college, Johnny Unitas was incomparable, the greatest. He was the big nuts."

So, idiomatically, is Fran Tarkenton, at last.

Voyagers increase AHL lead

Nova Scotia Voyagers increased their first-place lead to three points in the American Hockey League's Northern Division standings with a 5-2 victory Sunday over Baltimore Clippers.

Paul Woods, Mike Polinch, Guy Choinard, Ron Andruff and Richard Lemieux scored for the Voyagers who won a 1-0 first-period deficit to beat the Clippers.

Don Grierson and Jerry Badiuk replied for Baltimore.

Only one penalty was called in the game, a minor for holding to Nova Scotia's Ron Andruff midway through the third period.

In other games, New Haven Nighthawks shut out Richmond Robins 3-0 and Providence Reds beat Rochester Americans 4-3.

In games Saturday night, Hershey Bears defeated New Haven 2-0, Richmond edged Baltimore 4-3 and Springfield Indians nipped Nova Scotia 5-4.

Grierson scored the only goal of the first period at the 0:35 mark.

The Voyagers came back with three unanswered goals in the second period by Woods, Polinch and Choinard.

Andruff opened the third-period scoring when he knocked in a Choinard rebound.

Hawley contender

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A few months ago Sandy Hawley was thinking of abandoning his United States riding career and going home.

The 26-year-old Canadian was the North American riding champion in 1970, 1972 and 1973 and today is the leading rider at Santa Anita Park.

One of five men nominated for the George Woolf Memorial Jockey Award, Hawley acknowledges that riding winners is only half of the battle.

"First you have to get the good horses," he said. "And I've got a great agent."

For many years, Colin Wick has been Hawley's agent—the man who negotiates with owners and obtains mounts for the rider. He has a reputation as a great horse handicapper and a good judge of horses.

Wick also is from Canada and was in the United States on a temporary visa. The visa was due to run out late in 1975 and the U.S. immigration and naturalization service warned Wick that he was in danger of not getting it renewed.

JOB NOT RECOGNIZED

Wick said he was told the reason was that to remain longer meant he'd have to be working, earning a living, and that U.S. immigration laws do not recognize the title "jockey's agent" as a legitimate job title.

Serge Bernier's late goal gives Nordiques win over Oilers 7-6, Aeros win 5-3

Serge Bernier's second goal, with 35 seconds left in the third period, lifted Quebec to a 7-6 victory over Edmonton Oilers in a World Hockey Association game Sunday night that Nordiques general manager Maurice Filion said was an exercise in giveaways.

"The whole thing just had to come down to a flip of the coin," said Filion after his club erased a 6-4 final-period deficit. "A game like that is a fantastic show, beautiful to watch, but for Edmonton it was a heartbreaker."

In other games, Houston Aeros downed Calgary Cowboys 5-3, Minnesota Fighting Saints dropped Toronto Toros 5-2, Phoenix Roadrunners outlasted San Diego Mariners 7-5 and Indianapolis Racers tripped Cleveland Crusaders 4-2.

In games Saturday, Cincinnati Stingers beat New England Whalers 6-3 and San Diego turned back Toronto 6-4.

The Nordiques and Oilers put on a hard-hitting display before 8,875 fans at Quebec City, but offensive firepower carried the day.

STARTED RALLY

The Nordiques rally began when Bernier's power-play goal at 3:56 of the third period narrowed the gap to 6-5. Marc Tardif scored his second goal of the game and 40th of the season, high in the league, at 6:19.

Real Cloutier also scored twice for the winners, and Jean-Claude Tremblay had one. Veteran centre Norm Ullman scored three goals for the Oilers, who got two from Tim Sheehy and one from Rick Morris.

The victory moved the Nordiques, who have two games in hand, within six points of first-place Winnipeg Jets in the Canadian Division. The Oilers are fourth place.

Third-place Calgary stalled when Frank Hughes scored two power-play goals to lead the Aeros to their come-from-behind triumph at Houston. John Schella, Mark Howe and Rich Preston also scored for the Aeros, who beat Calgary 2-0 Friday night.

Danny Lawson scored his 29th and 30th goals of the year to give the Cowboys a 2-1 first-period lead and Rick Sentes added Calgary's final goal.

TOROS TRAIL OILERS

The Toros remained five points behind Edmonton as Mike Walton scored one goal and set up two to pace the Saints at St. Paul. Ted Hampson, Henry Boucha, John McKenzie and Mike Antonovich also scored for the winners, while Gavin Kirk and Tom Simpson hit for Toronto.

Robbie Forek set up Del Hall for the winning goal in the second period at Phoenix, and the Roadrunners got insurance from Michel Cormier in the final frame.

Ben Greshaw wins Crosby Open, Jack Nicklaus has troubles

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — There was Ben Greshaw, once again happily restored to the bright promise of his amateur years.

There was Jack Nicklaus, shrugging philosophically and then, almost in a comedy act, patting his pockets in a vain and futile search for a passport.

This emerged Sunday from the confusing and dramatic windup to the $185,000 Bing Crosby National pro-am golf tournament.

"I'm the only guy in the world making a comeback at 24," Greshaw said after his three-under-par 69 had staked him to a two-stroke victory, a triumph that ended almost three years of frustration for the young man who hit the game with the gaudiest credentials and the most impressive start in decades—only to follow with a fall to mediocrity.

"I don't have it happen very often, but I had it happen to me today," Nicklaus said after an all-but-incredible last-round 82—one of the highest rounds of his competitive career.

"It happened," he said before boarding a helicopter to San Francisco to make connections with a jet for a business trip to Tokyo. That's when he started his pocket-patting routine. A look of almost comic dismay crossed his face.

"I just remembered," he said. "I don't have a passport. That tops it."

STARTED IN FIRST

He started the bright, sunny day in first place. He was playing Pebble Beach, one of his favorite courses. He appeared in commanding position to win his fourth Crosby title.

But things started going badly almost immediately and he bogeyed the first hole. Then they went from bad to worse. And from worse to unbelievable.

He played his back nine in 45. He had a double bogey and two triple bogeys. He hit his ball into pine forests. He hit it over the craggy cliffs of the Monterey Peninsula. He plugged it under the lips of the yawning bunkers. He got it in the water of what Pebble Beach calls a lateral hazard and most people call the Pacific Ocean. He three-putted.

Television cameras cut away before he finished slashing his way—with new clubs—to an eight on the final hole.

"It got to be comical," Nicklaus said. "I started laughing. What can you do about it?"

From a one-shot lead starting the day, he went to a 291 total, three over par and 10 behind Greshaw.

MORLEY SECOND

Mike Morley, occasionally the leader early in the final round, took second at 283

after a final 73. Dave Hill and rookie George Burns shared third at 284, Hill with a closing 72, Burns with 69. British Open champion Tom Watson, 71, and Australian David Graham, 75, were next at 286.

George Knudson of Toronto failed to qualify for Sunday's final round after an 80 Saturday for a 239 total. He shared $555 with amateur Rob Willis in the pro-am best-ball competition. Knudson and Willis had rounds of 67, 68, 69 and 67 for a 271 total.

Crenshaw started the day three shots back, made up most of it on the front nine and took the lead for good with a 35-foot birdie putt on the 12th hole.

It was his first victory since the San Antonio-Texas Open of 1973, his first start as a fullfledged member of the tour. He's been in contention countless times since, but another title eluded him.

Crystal Palace upsets Leeds in fight for promotion in soccer

LONDON (Reuters) — Third Division Crystal Palace joined the giant-killers club Saturday by travelling to Leeds and knocking its formidable host out of the Football Association Cup.

Crystal Palace, heading for promotion, must regard a good Cup run as a bonus but its composed defence proved too sharp for Leeds, European Cup finalists only seven months ago.

David Swindlehurst headed in Peter Taylor's free kick midway through the first half to give Palace a 1-0 win.

Swindlehurst had quite a day. Apart from scoring his 15th goal of the season—only goalkeeper David Harvey's agility denied him two more—he was one of three Palace players cautioned.

SKIPPER HURT

Trevor Cherry also was booked and skipper Billy Bremner was taken off hurt to complete a dismal day for Leeds, which was out of the final 16 of the Cup since 1969.

A single goal also decided a match between league champions Derby and Liverpool, one of the few English successes in Europe this season. Liverpool currently is tied with Leeds one point behind first-place Manchester United.

Derby manager Dave MacKay made a successful substitution when he replaced Welsh star Leighton James, who cost Derby £300,000 (about $925,000) late last year, with gangling Roger Davies midway through the second half.

It was Davies who, after being on the field for seven minutes, launched the move which was to break the deadlock. He raced upfield in time to knock in Bruce Riech's centring pass as it skidded across the goalmouth.

Derby's reward is a fifth-round match at home against the other Third Division survivor, Southend, which beat Cardiff 2-1, thanks to a late goal.

VISITS CHELSEA

By contrast, Palace faces a tough visit across London to play Second Division Chelsea, which won 2-0 at York. Palace coach Terry Venables is a former Chelsea captain.

Whatever the postponed matches and replays produce, the fifth round will include seven First Division teams, six from the Second Division, two from the Third and one, Bradford City, from the fourth.

Bradford City ended the dreams of the part-timers of Tooting and Mitcham by beating them 3-1.

Tooting had hoped to become the first non-League team to make the last 16 of the Cup for 27 years. The reward for Bradford is slight—a match at Norwich of the First Division. Norwich advanced with a 2-0 win over Luton.

One fifth-round match which promises a high level of player is the Leicester-Manchester United game at Leicester.

Bob Lee's goal gave Leicester a 1-0 win against Bury of the Third Division. Manchester United, the First Division leaders, disposed of another Third Division hopeful, Peterborough, 3-1.

CLOSE GAP

In Saturday's only First Division match, West Ham moved closer to the leaders with a 1-0 win over the faltering Queen's Park Rangers. West Ham is in sixth place, five points behind Manchester United.

Bristol City missed a chance to overtake idle Sunderland, the Second Division leaders. Bristol City remained one point back after a scoreless tie with Plymouth.

In Scotland, Motherwell upset Celtic 3-2 in a battle of Premier Division powers in third-round Cup play after Celtic led 2-0. Willie Pettigrew scored the winning goal.

Celtic, in a virtual tie for the Premier Division lead with Rangers, is in the quarter-finals of the European Cup Winners Cup and is a perennial winner of either the Cup or the league championship.

Motherwell is third, three points behind the leaders.

ways to respond to this forcing bid. The simplest one is what we recommend. We use two diamonds as a complete negative. Specifically, a hand with no ace or king and not more than one queen. Two hearts becomes a catch-all to cover all hands that include some values. South's two notrump rebid indicates a 23-24 point notrump hand. North raises to three. The same contract would be reached under any bidding system and makes easily.

ASK THE GOODBYES

A Quebec reader wants to know if we would open a weak two bid in fourth seat with: ♠ AK10965 ♥ A752 ♦ 53 ♣ 2. The answer to that one is a decided no. The hand is too strong offensively with its 6-4-2-1 distribution and too strong defensively with its three quick tricks. We open one spade any seat irrespective of what system we are playing.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
When you use two bids in diamonds, hearts and spades as weak bids you retain two clubs to cover normal forcing bids in all four suits. In addition, you suddenly develop a valuable by-product. You find that your two-club opening which is both artificial and forcing will also be used with certain strong notrump hands. Specifically, we use it to show a 23-24 point or 27 or higher point notrump. There are any number of

Gillis gets hat-trick

Beavers dump Laval 10-2, Sags upset locals 7-3

IT'S A GOAL — Jere Gillis, (14), is seen just after he batted the disc into the net behind Laval's Denis Charbonneau. Philippe Bellemare, (8) is seen tackling him around the knees but he didn't stop Gillis from potting the tally.

TRAFFIC JAM AT THE NET — Joe Carlevalle, (19), is seen in the act of being pulled down by Bellemare, (8), as Jere Gillis, (14), behind the net, is trying to get the puck out front. Jim Mann, (21), is watching activities from the front. Sherbrooke ran away to post a 10-2 victory over the Laval Festivals.

By LEN O'DONNELL

Sherbrooke Beavers swamped the Festivals of Laval 10-2 Friday evening at the Sports Palace to take a commanding lead of 16 points in the Western section of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League.

Despite the very cold weather 3,379 fans were on hand for the tilt. It was the sixth game in seven days for the Beavers and they walked off with the honors in all six. They posted a 6-5 win over Hull a week ago to commence their string and on Sunday evening they came through with a 6-1 decision over Chicoutimi. Monday it was the turn of the Draveurs of Three Rivers who went down to a 10-2 pasting, then Montreal Juniors Tuesday 6-5. On Thursday they were held to a 5-5 deadlock by Cornwall and at home Friday they just ran away from the Festivals 10-2.

The Beavers now hit the road, after Tuesday's tilt at the Sports Palace with Montreal. Last night they were in Chicoutimi, Thursday they visit Hull and Friday in Quebec to meet Ronnie Racette's Remparts and Tuesday, Feb. 3, they are in Three Rivers before they return home for a Friday evening engagement with Quebec.

PETER MARSH SUSPENDED

Following the game Coach Delage stated that Peter Marsh was suspended indefinitely for insubordination, also Floyd Lahache who didn't appear, following the second period. Both players were sent to the dressing room by the coach.

"I am still the one to give the orders regarding the team, just who will play and those who won't dress. Peter Marsh, must like all the others, get used to taking orders. My job is to see that we win games which is the main objective in my mind. I know Peter is battling for top scoring honors, but first he must give consideration to the team," stated Coach Delage.

"Several times he had the opportunity of making good plays but instead he kept the puck in an effort to try and score leaving his mates in the open. This in my mind isn't the way it should be played. One must realize it is a team effort and do his share which Peter didn't do in the game and that is the reason why he has been suspended," stated Coach Delage.

"At the same time I have never taken back-talk from any player and I don't intend to commence now. I have had the opportunity of handling star players before and Peter must realize he is just another player on the team and until he does he will not dress. I want all my players to do their best but he certainly isn't playing in that manner," stated Coach Delage.

"As for Floyd Lahache his case is a different thing. He has all the ability of being a leader and should perform accordingly. This is his third year in junior circles and he has the experience to be a real leader and that is what I want him to do. In his past few games he has been turning mediocre performances which I don't like. I had a talk with him after the game and explained why he wasn't used in the final frame and he understood. We had a real down-to-earth discussion and his situation is straightened out and I think he will commence to change his tactics and perform in the manner he is capable of," stated Coach Delage.

BRENDAN LOWE DOES HIS ACT

Brendan Lowe, the husky defenceman for the Beavers, finally hit the goal plateau when he tallied a real genuine marker in the third period. This time he drove the disc into the net. He had been given credit once before for a goal but an opposing player knocked it. This time it was the real thing.

Lowe turned in a fine job on the blue line and he dished out several good, solid body checks. When he scored his goal he stepped-danced up the centre of the ice and got a standing ovation from the fans. He picked up the puck and said after the game he would keep that one forever.

Jere Gillis opened the scoring the first period on passes from Mark Green and Robert Desormeaux but Michel Bossy offset this when he caught Richard Sevigny off guard. Following this Bernard Harbec, who turned in a good offensive and defensive play all evening, finished off a passing play with Fern Leblanc and Daniel Chicoine. The Beavers had the better of the play driving a total of 22 shots while holding the Festivals to just a mere eight.

The middle session saw Laval even the count but that was it for the Festivals. Roy, Gillis and Denis Halle potted goals and the Beavers were away running. The shots were close 13-10 for the Beavers but this didn't really give a good account of the period.

The third frame was all Sherbrooke as they ran in five goals by Leblanc, Chicoine, Gillis, his third for a hat-trick, Brendan Lowe and Mario Claude to settle the issue. The Beavers should have had more but they were unlucky around the net.

SEVIGNY STANDOUT

Richard Sevigny was at his best in the nets as time after time he came up with key saves during the various Hull's attacks. He robbed Bossy, whose goal was his 50th of the season, time after time and kept the visitors off balance.

The Beavers were hitting and this kept the Festivals at bay. Time after time they would shoot from long distance instead of trying to work in close and this ruined their scoring chances. Desormeaux saw action up front in the final period and picked up four assists during the evening. The Sherbrooke defense was tough to get by as they kept the upper hand in their end and helped on the attack as well.

Quebec Remparts and Montreal Juniors are two Quebec Major Junior Hockey League clubs that have made marked improvements in their records in recent weeks. They met and tested temperatures Sunday night, and the Remparts were found to be hotter.

Quebec skated to a 6-2 victory over Montreal and opened an eight-point lead in the East Division standings over second-place Trois-Rivieres Draveurs, who fell 4-0 to Cornwall Royals.

In other games, Chicoutimi Saguenens surprised Sherbrooke Beavers 7-3, Hull Festivals edged Sorel Black Hawks 3-2 and Laval Nationals outlasted Shawinigan Dynamos 8-5.

Eddy Godin scored two goals and Yvan Hamelin, Remi Levesque, Michel Frechette and Nelson Burton fired one each to power the Remparts. Robert Picard and Real Paiement scored for the Juniors, who were outshot 28-22 before 2,901 fans at Montreal.

The Juniors slipped two points behind Cornwall and into third place in the West with the loss and Royals victory.

Norm Kojolo scored 21 seconds into the game at Cornwall and the Royals had no trouble after that. Ed Clearey, Graeme Nicolson and Pierre Brassard rounded out the scoring against the Draveurs.

BEAVERS AMBUSHED — Seven players shared scoring honors at Chicoutimi as the Saguenens went 20-2-6 on the season with their upset of Sherbrooke, first in the West at 33-9-5.

Robert Sullivan, Daniel Dufresne, Sylvain Locas, Alain Blouin, Alain Cote, Gaetan Gagnon and Robert Charette scored for the Saguenens, while Jere Gillis, Fernand Leblanc and Mark Green retaliated for the Beavers, who had a 37-27 edge in shots before 2,781 fans.

Scott Hunter's goal at 5:03 of the third period completed a Hull comeback and lifted the Festivals to their triumph at Sorel.

Yvon Blais and Benoit Gosselin put the Hawks up 2-0 by 10:48 of the opening period, but Gary McFayden and Val Mitchell scored for Hull in the second period.

Glen Currie, Graziano Orsini and Philippe Bellemare scored two goals apiece as Laval defeated the visiting Dynamos in a meeting of last-place clubs.

Yves Preston and Yvon Vautour scored the other goals for Laval, who erased a 1-0 first-period deficit with five straight goals in less than 12 minutes of the second period. Normand Lahaie scored twice for Shawinigan, who got singles from Jean-Marc Bonamie, Jean-Gaston Douville and Daniel Champagne.

The victory gave the Nationals a 15-29-6 record for 36 points in the West, while the Dynamos dropped to 9-33-4 in the East.

In games tonight, the Remparts visit Hull and the Royals are at Laval.

Foreman stops Lyle in 5th, wants regain world title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Those George Foreman bombs have returned to the heavyweight picture and the 27-year-old former Olympic and pro champion says he wants to keep busy and win back his world title.

"I want to be the champion again," he said after stopping Ron Lyle in the fifth round at Caesars Palace on Saturday afternoon.

What appears most probable for Foreman is a fight against Joe Frazier, the man he knocked out in two rounds to win the title Jan. 22, 1973, in Jamaica, Muhammad Ali then stopped Foreman in Zaire, Africa.

"I was rusty," said Foreman who was knocked down twice in the fourth round before storming back in the fifth to down Lyle for the full count and at least a minute more.

Although the ex-champ says he'd like to fight Ali as soon as possible, it appears the current heavyweight king will choose Ken Norton as the foe in his next major title defence. Before that, Ali must fight Belgium's Jean Pierre Coopmans in Puerto Rico with the title at stake.

Foreman weighed 226 to 220 for Lyle.

FIRST ROUND SLOW

The first round was slow but then the fight became a slugging match. When Lyle tagged Foreman hard, the ex-champ reverted to his previous style even though his new trainer Gil Clancy had been schooling him on cutting down the length of his punches.

A minute was cut off the second round because of a malfunction of electronic timing equipment, but it didn't make much difference.

Foreman had landed a hard right-left combination just before the end of the abbreviated round. Had Lyle landed the punches and then lost, there would have been a major controversy.

CLEMENT TO FLAMES — LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Washington Capitals traded allstar centre Bill Clement to Atlanta Flames on Thursday for two veteran players and a first-round pick in this year's National Hockey League draft. Coming to the Capitals are centre Gerry Meehan and defenceman Jean Lemieux. Clement, the Capitals' captain, had 10 goals and 17 assists in 45 games for Washington this season.

Habs win and tie over weekend

Eddie Bush, who has spent most of his hockey career as a junior coach, apparently has one foot in the door for the coaching position with Kansas City Scouts.

But you couldn't blame him if he asks to have it removed after the Scouts dropped their 12th game in a row, 3-1 to Chicago Black Hawks in National Hockey League action Sunday night.

Bush, who played only part of one season in the NHL, has coached Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A teams at Guelph, Kitchener and Hamilton. He is expected to be named Kansas City coach today or Tuesday.

Sid Abel, general manager of the Scouts, assumed the coaching duties when Bep Guidolin resigned last week. In other games Sunday, Boston Bruins defeated Philadelphia Flyers 5-3, Montreal Canadiens tied Detroit Red Wings 3-3, Los Angeles Kings beat New York Rangers 4-1, Buffalo Sabres downed St. Louis Blues 4-2, California Golden Seals topped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3, and Pittsburgh Penguins tied Minnesota North Stars 1-1.

On Saturday, it was: New York Islanders 5, Los Angeles 0; Montreal 5, Philadelphia 3; Pittsburgh 8, Washington Capitals 2; Boston 6, Detroit 1; Chicago 2, St. Louis 1; and Toronto 5, Vancouver Canucks 5.

MIKITA SCORES — Power-play goals by Stan Mikita and Alain Daigle and a shorthanded goal by Dennis Hull gave the Hawks the win over the Scouts.

The Flyers, who have won the Stanley Cup the last two years, came out hitting against the Bruins—and lost.

"That's the way they play," said Boston coach Don Cherry when asked about a brawling first period. "They're not going to change their style for anyone, but we held our own with them."

But Philadelphia coach Fred Shero said "We don't go looking for fights."

"Fights just happen when two people come into contact," he said. "Players test each other. Then it boils over and erupts. But everything settles down after a couple of fights."

The Flyers tried to belt everyone within range. They were playing with Bobby Clarke sidelined with an injury and several others nursing a virus.

Brad Park and Wayne Cashman scored power-play goals and Don Marcotte made it 3-0 for the Bruins shortly after Philadelphia returned to full strength late in the first period. Cashman's goal came while the Flyers played a man short for five minutes.

SCHULTZ EJECTED — Dave Schultz was ejected from the game for butting during a fight with Terry O'Reilly, resulting in the long penalty. Schultz received a major and game misconduct and O'Reilly a major.

The Flyers narrowed the gap to 3-2 on goals by Bill Barber and Mel Bridgman in the second period. However, Jean Ratelle—who also picked up two assists—pulled Boston from danger with a shorthanded goal in the final seconds of the period.

Guy Lafleur scored two goals, the second at 4:09 of the third period, to give the Canadiens their tie with the Wings.

The Canadiens, who have lost only once in their last 22 games, went in front quickly in the opening period on goals by Lafleur at 2:22 and Mario Tremblay at 12:12. But Detroit rallied on a goal by Dan Maloney at 12:54 and took a 3-2 lead on second-period goals by Buster Harvey and defenceman Rick Lapointe.

The Kings have some ideas on what's wrong with the Rangers.

SHOULD BE TOUGH — "They should get tough and stop feeling sorry for themselves," said ex-Ranger defenceman Sheldon Kannegeisser, now with the Kings.

"We just buzzed around and they let us cruise in front of the goal, that's why we got those rebounds," said Don Kozak, who scored one goal and assisted on the other three in his team's win over the Rangers.

Vic Venasky scored twice for the Kings. It was the sixth consecutive winless game for the Rangers, who have an 0-5-1 mark since winning their first two contests under new coach John Ferguson.

Jerry Korab and Craig Ramsay scored 19 seconds apart mid-way through the final period to give the Seals their win over the Blues.

Claude Larose tied the score for the Blues early in the third period after the Sabres had taken a 2-1 lead in the first period on Danny Gare's 29th and 30th goals of the season.

SCORES THREE GOALS — Wayne Merrick scored three goals to give the Seals their victory over the Leafs.

The Seals trailed twice in the first period, but took a 2-1 lead when Al MacAdam scored once and Merrick twice in less than three minutes.

Goalie Cesare Maniago stopped 40 shots to help Minnesota preserve the tie with Pittsburgh.

The Pittsburgh goal came on a second-period power play when Jean Pronovost deflected a slapshot by Ron Stackhouse into the net past Maniago. Lou Nanne scored a first-period goal for Minnesota.
