CASHIER MISSING; BANK OUT $600,000

Russo-Chinese Bank in New York Reports Serious Defalcation.

New York, July 25.—"Wanted: Erwin Wider, about 32 years old, five feet five inches in height; weighs about 135 pounds; swarthy of complexion, with small black moustache, curled at the ends; wears rimless nose glasses; talks with a German accent and is timid in address."

Such is the general alarm sent out by the police to-day for the missing cashier of the Russo-Chinese Bank, although the district attorney's office said to-night that no aid had been asked of them by the bank and that no application for a warrant had been filed.

But this is only one mysterious feature of what is now admitted to be the most serious defalcation in the history of Wall street since Cornelius Alford stole $600,000 from the First National Bank, served a term in Sing Sing and then retired to the seclusion of a princely country place.

When the Russo-Chinese Bank first made public the fact that its strong box was short, the amount was given as $50,000, all in negotiable bonds, a list of which was furnished. This afternoon the amount suddenly jumped to $600,000, of which the additional $520,000 is said to be in stocks partly owned by the bank and partly by its customers.

No positive statement has been made yet as to where these stock certificates are and no list of the certificates or their owners is available.

Inspector E. Markowski, now in charge of the New York branch of the bank, is convinced that Wider had an outside accomplice. "When Wider entered our employ," explained Inspector Markowski to-night, "he was a modest, exemplary clerk. Within the past year I feel sure that some man of strong personality has gained control of him, and it is with a hope of laying hands on this man that the bank has dealt so delicately with Wider. His counsel, L. R. Ginsberg, has said from the first that the bank was in touch with Wider, and even to-night, after the general alarm had been sent out, he reiterated: 'They know where he is just as well as I do.'

"It was intended to have my client come forward at the proper time," said the attorney, "to take his medicine; but Wider objected to being looked up in the Tombs this hot weather, when he might be able to get bail. That was his only reason for keeping out of the way."

"There was a gentlemen's agreement that the loss of the securities was not to be made public at this time. The plan was to restore them without loss to the bank in the fall, but instead of carrying out the agreement, the police have been put on the case and I have been dogged by detectives."

"I want to say that it was not Inspector Markowski who discovered the loss. He knew nothing of it, nor did any one at the bank, until my client confessed."

It was known yesterday that at least the stolen bonds had been hypothecated with brokers, and that the bank knew where they were. The names of these brokers are still withheld, but to-day the list of possibilities narrowed down to two well-known houses.

"We shall institute suits to recover from the Wall street firms the securities they obtained from Wider, said Inspector Markowski. 'They must have known that he did not own them; they ought to have known that he stole them.'

The Russo-Chinese Bank is credited in Wall street with a capital of $15,400,000, but it could not be learned to-day what assets or capital is credited to the branch in this city. The New York branch is not under the jurisdiction of the State Banking Department, as it does not attempt a regular business in deposits, but makes loans with foreign funds.

FATAL RESULT TO A DRINKING BOUT.

Phillipsburg, Que., July 25.—L. B. Doherty is dead as the result of being brutally beaten by William Richards yesterday and who is being held pending an investigation. Both men were employed in the marble quarry and considerable drinking went on between Saturday night and Sunday morning. They got into an altercation and finally came to blows. Richards, who is 28 years of age, pounded the deceased, who is 45 years of age, unmercifully about the head with his fist. When the serious condition of Doherty was observed a doctor was sent for, but life was extinct before he arrived. Doherty leaves a widow and children, while Richards is single.

GOING NORTH TO LOOK FOR RELICS OF ANDREE.

Winnipeg, July 25.—Martin Rosendahl, of Stockholm, Sweden, is in Winnipeg on his way north to see if he can find any trace of Andree, the Swedish explorer. A short time ago stories came down from the north that Indians had relics of the party.

H. CRIPPEN IS ON BOARD THE MONTROSE

This is the Opinion of the Scotland Yard Authorities.

London, July 25.—That Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and his former stenographer, Ethel Clara Le Neve, are aboard the Canadian Pacific Steamer Montrose, now on the high seas bound for Quebec, is Scotland Yard's firm conviction. Of the many clues followed to the final ending that which leads to the docks at Antwerp and to pursuit across the ocean seems to hold out the best prospects for the capture of the two.

Inspector Dew is now aboard the Steamer Laurentic, which is due to arrive at Quebec on July 30. That is the date also of the arrival of the Montrose, but the Scotland Yard officials hope the inspector will reach Rimouski in time to arrest the fugitives. Inspector Dew knows both Crippen and the Le Neve woman personally.

According to one despatch received here from Montreal, the Canadian Pacific Railway officials were in receipt of a wireless message from the Montrose stating that the Le Neve woman had been found and had confessed. Another despatch from Montreal stated that the company had not been able to establish communication with the steamer.

Antwerp, July 25.—The two passengers on the steamer Montrose who have been the object of inquiries by the London police were booked at the steamship office as John Robinson and John Robinson, Jr. The elder gave their ages as 30 and 17 years. They booked passage for Montreal on July 13 by the steamer Montrose, sailing on August 31. Later Robinson asked that they be transferred to the same steamer sailing July 29, provided they could obtain a two-berth cabin. The passenger agent of the line recalls their appearance. Upon being shown a photograph of Dr. Crippen the passenger agent said: "If Robinson is Crippen, the photograph flatters him." He added that Mr. Robinson did not show any nervousness, and that the boy did not speak at all. Robinson wore a light gray suit and a gray hat. The agent did not detect any American accent.

London, July 25.—The accumulating evidence makes it more likely that the couple aboard the Montrose are Crippen and Ethel Le Neve. Their movements have been traced practically since they left London. Most of the time was spent by them in Belgium under the alias of Robinson, the girl throughout posing as Robinson's son.

When purchasing passage tickets at Antwerp Robinson particularly insisted upon having a double berth cabin. The London Express published a circumstantial story of their arrest on board the Montrose. On Friday the couple were overheard discussing their escape, according to the paper, and the captain of the steamer then communicated with Scotland Yard and on Saturday decided to arrest the couple.

Crippen was searched and deprived of a revolver and cartridges and a pen-knife. He demanded to know what offense he was charged with, and was informed that he had contravened the law by giving an assumed name and traveling with a woman in the guise of a boy. As he was unable to prove that his name was Robinson or that the woman was his wife, he and the girl were placed under arrest in separate cabins and are being watched day and night.

Elizabeth, N.J., July 25.—Madame Ginnet, formerly president of the London Theatrical Society, of which Belle Elmore was treasurer, said to-night that she will leave on Wednesday for Quebec, in time to be there when the Montrose arrives. Madame Ginnet knows Dr. Crippen personally and hopes to be able to identify him.

PREPARATIONS FOR EARL GREY'S COMING TRIP.

Winnipeg, July 25.—Sergeant Nichol and Constables Withers and McDiarmid, of the Mounted Police, left this morning for Norway House to secure canoes and make preparations for the trip of Earl Grey to Hudson Bay. Major Moodie is in Winnipeg awaiting the Governor-General.

BOTH SIDES FIRM IN G.T.R. STRIKE

Little Change Was Reported in the Situation Yesterday.

Montreal, July 25.—There is little change in the G.T.R. strike situation. Both sides still express satisfaction. The G.T.R. in a statement to-night, says that it was able to move a number of freight trains to-day, and that it is pleased with the progress being made, as while it had promised to operate fourteen trains it had operated eighteen. Mr. Murdoch, in a statement to-night, ridicules the Grand Trunk claims, and says the company has been able to make little progress and that the men are holding firm.

Hamilton Fears Water Famine. Hamilton, Ont., July 25.—With only ten days' coal supply on hand, the city officials are alarmed over the possibility of the waterworks system being tied up as a result of the Grand Trunk strike. Mayor McLaren says that if he has to arm the whole police force for protection he will see that coal is delivered at pumping station before the supply gives out.

G.T.R. Shops Re-Open. London, Ont., July 25.—The car shops re-opened this morning, giving work to 450 men, who have been idle since the strike began. Only 150 of the men employed here went to work. But it is assumed that they did not know work was to be resumed and so went on a holiday.

Freight Moving at Windsor. Windsor, Ont., July 25.—For the first time since the strike, freight trains are moving in and out of Windsor. The strikers are still active on the frontier against strike breakers from the United States. Pickets are now stationed up the Detroit river on the Canadian side watching that none make an effort to land in small boats. Immigration officers here are also vigilant in keeping out strike breakers. Special officers from Ottawa were here Saturday and Sunday looking into the situation.

Strike Breakers Stoned. Detroit, Mich., July 25.—Thirty-five strike breakers manning a freight train on the Grand Trunk Railway were stoned by strikers and sympathizers at Owosso to-day. Several of them were seriously injured and all were forced to quit work. The railroad promptly remanned the train with armed men.

Signs of a Settlement. Cleveland, July 25.—President W. G. Lee, of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, left Cleveland this evening for Toronto where he will meet President A. B. Garretson, of the Order of Railroad Conductors. Mr. Lee said that he was going to Toronto on the invitation of high railway officials and that developments were pointing to a settlement being reached. A conference is expected to be held to-morrow at the Canadian city between the two union chiefs and officers of the Grand Trunk Railway, but union leaders here declare that Mr. Lee will under no circumstances compromise, and is prepared to hold out for the full terms asked for by the strikers.

Booth Mills Wants Train. Ottawa, July 25.—"If the Grand Trunk would supply us with two experienced trainmen, together with an engine and crew, to operate the lumber train from the mill to the piling grounds, a distance of from one to five miles, we would open our mills here to-morrow and the 2,000 men now idle would resume work immediately." This was the reply of Mr. J. R. Booth this morning to the question put to him, how many trainmen would it require to permit the opening up of your mills. Superintendent Morley Donaldson refuses to discuss the question.

OFFICERS LADIES' CATHOLIC BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

Cleveland, July 25.—The Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association, which is holding its annual convention here, to-day completed its election of officers. The following will be the new officers:—Supreme President, Miss Kate Mahoney, Troy, N.Y.; Supreme Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Mary Marzoff, Buffalo; Miss Frances E. McGee, Scranton, Pa.; Supreme Recorder, Mrs. A. J. Royer, Erie, Pa.; Supreme Treasurer, Mrs. Mary E. Costello, Brooklyn. The convention will probably adjourn on Wednesday.

GOVERNMENT DECIDES AGAINST DEPORTATION.

Ottawa, July 25.—The Government has ordered that John Butler, now held for deportation at Montreal, be returned to Thorndale at his expense. An Ontario doctor, it appears, was responsible for a case of injustice on the part of the Immigration Branch. John Butler came out from Norwich, England, in 1905, spent three years in Canada and went home in November, 1908, returning in March, 1909. He then entered the employment of a farmer at Thorndale, near Toronto, but while at work in a hay field he suddenly fainted. He claimed it was a stroke, but the local doctor who was called in stated that he had an attack of epilepsy. Upon the strength of the doctor's certificate Butler was ordered to be deported. He was sent to Montreal to await the action of the department and was held there pending decision.

NINETEEN DEATHS IN GREATER NEW YORK

Maximum Temperature Yesterday was 93 and Humidity 53, Lower Than Previous Day.

New York, July 25.—There were nineteen deaths in Greater New York to-day from the heat. The maximum temperature was 93 at 3 p.m., as against 94 yesterday, and the humidity was much lower—53 as against 83 yesterday; but a sleepless night had left vitalities lowered and unable to meet another day of exhausting heat.

There was also a correspondingly longer list of prostrations than yesterday. Suffering on the crowded East Side was intense and the public baths were never so crowded. Because of the crush bathers were allowed five minutes to undress, ten minutes under shower and five minutes to dress again.

Philadelphia, July 25.—Four deaths were reported here to-day as due to heat exhaustion. The maximum temperature was 92 degrees at 4 p.m.

FIRE IN ST. ROCH.

A fire that looked for a time as if it might develop into a serious conflagration broke out about noon yesterday in the big building formerly occupied as a machine shop by F. X. Drolet, on St. Joseph street. The building has been occupied since the 1st of May last by Mr. Bertrand, hardware merchant. A double alarm brought a large detachment of the firemen quickly to the scene, and no time was lost in getting to work. The fire was burning fiercely in the rear portion of the first story, but after a hard battle the firemen got it under control. Mr. Drolet, who owns the building, and Mr. Bertrand, owner of the stock, both suffer severe damage by the fire.

The sympathy of a large circle of friends is extended to Mr. F. D. Monk, M.P., on the death of his son, Mr. Henry Monk, advocate, whose sad demise occurred on Saturday last after a prolonged illness.

DEFENDER LEAD BY NEARLY A MILE

But Not Enough Wind to Finish First of Seawanhaka Cup Races.

Manchester, Mass., July 25.—The first race of the series for the Seawanhaka Cup was called off this afternoon by lack of wind. When the time limit expired, the American defender Massachusetts was nearly a mile ahead of the Canadian challenger St. Lawrence.

Manchester, Mass., July 25.—The weather proved too fickle to finish the initial race to-day for the Seawanhaka Cup, but there was about twenty minutes of the contest in which the conditions were fair, in which the defender Massachusetts of the Manchester Yacht Club showed superiority in windward work over the challenger St. Lawrence, of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club. The yachts will try again to-morrow to race over the same course.

ANTIQUITIES

Visitors to Quebec are cordially requested to call and examine our Antique Clocks, Antique Silver Wares and Antique Jewellery.

We have a number of fine old Hall Clocks at prices ranging from $60 to $250. One of these clocks is particularly valuable because of its history, having originally been owned by a famous French Canadian General.

Another interesting article is a large brass watch, weighing nearly a pound. This watch has an alarm and repeating attachment, and is in good going order.

In antique Silver Wares, we have a few pieces, English Hall Marked, dating back a hundred years or more.

In Antique Jewellery we display some fine old chains in solid gold, also pendants, bracelets and lockets. We would direct the attention of any one interested in cameos to a fine specimen blood-stone cameo pendant in a rich gold Etruscan mounting. The stone carved on both sides, is an excellent example of the cameo engraver's art.

A WORD IN SEASON.

Now that the Hon. S. N. Parent and Mayor Drouin—both of them Napoleons by baptism—have arranged the terms of the contract for the erection of the railway terminals in lower town—a first great step towards Quebec's advancement as a seaport—it would be worse than suicide for Quebec to stand aside and take no action towards inaugurating the second great step in the same direction, namely the reorganization of the Harbor Commission in line with other Harbor Commissions. An important meeting for the election of two new Commissioners is to take place on Wednesday, the 3rd of August. That meeting should be made more or less of an historic gathering, if the technicality-monger does not stand in the way. The election of two new members to hold office for three years is not the main question before the community, however, one or two may plead for its being so at the meeting. Let Quebec therefore be frank with itself and those who have decided to help it. The premier has told us that we must do something for ourselves. His Ministers repeated the advice in our hearing. Mr. Parent has said the same thing. Are we going to be indifferent to our communal interests, because some one may think that his personal prestige is in peril. The first great step has been taken: it is now for us to take the second great step of our own accord.

THE DUTIES OF THE TURNPIKE COMMISSION.

Since there seems to be some doubt as to the power and functions of the Turnpike Commission, and certain of our readers seek to have their curiosity enlightened on this point, we quote from the Act, which authorized the organization of this Turnpike Roads' and Toll Bridges' Commission, as it is called. It reads as follows:—
"Whereas turnpike roads and bridges subject to tolls, exist in several places in the Province, and it is expedient to devise equitable rules whereby they may be abolished, and the maintenance and improvement of the said roads and bridges at the same time provided for.

Therefore His Majesty with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and of the Legislative Assembly of Quebec, enacts as follows: I. The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may appoint a Commission called "The Turnpike Roads' and Toll Bridges' Commission."

Such Commission shall consist of a Commission and of a Secretary. Its duty shall be:

1. To devise equitable rules for the abolition of Turnpike Roads and toll bridges in the Province, the repeal of the statutes creating such roads and bridges, and the winding up of the trusts or companies which manage them, while providing for the maintenance and improvement of such roads and bridges;
2. To make any suggestions which may tend to the adoption of a more modern system for the maintenance and improvements of roads and bridges at present subject to tolls; and more particularly
3. To devise the most reasonable method for the repayment of the persons entitled thereto, of loans contracted by the proprietors of bridges, or by turnpike trustees and commissioners, or any other properly constituted authority administering turnpike roads and toll bridges;
4. To propose equitable rules for the maintenance and improvement of roads and toll bridges in future.

II. The Commission shall proceed with all possible diligence to carry out the purposes for which it is constituted.

In matters not provided for by this act, it shall be guided by instructions from the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

The Commission shall report to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council as to its researches, as well as its recommendations and suggestions."

From the above it will be gathered that the duties of the Commission run to investigation and its functions are merely advisory. There are but two members, Mr. Lamarque, the Commissioner, and Mr. P. J. Paradis, the Secretary. The former is now enjoying the European tour at Government expense, which seems to be the inevitable perquisite of certain of these investigatory commissions. We have no information as to whether his absence restrains the Secretary from the use of "all possible diligence," in the execution of his duty, but if this is the case there is no reason why he should not apply for the "guiding instructions" of Messrs. Gouin and Taschereau. It would be no harm, if he, for his part, were to guide these Ministers down to the Dorchester Bridge to pass an hour or two there watching the string of vehicles detained for twenty or thirty minutes to suit the convenience of the bridge men. They might then recognize that patience is not always a virtue.

OUR MARKSMEN.

It is a pity that our Rifle Associations do not receive more support and encouragement than is now the case. Quebec has turned out some of the best shots in the Dominion, it would be no exaggeration to say in the world. This fact is patent from their record in Canada and at Bisley. We are sure that if by any chance in the near future it were possible to send a team composed entirely of Quebec men to shoot in the Old Country, they would compare favorably with the best.

One of the things with which the local Rifle Association have to contend at times is defective ammunition. For instance the Eighth Royal Rifles have been doing splendid shooting whilst they had good ammunition. Up to last Saturday their leading team consistently averaged around the 96 and 97 mark. However, in their matches last week they were obliged to fall back on old ammunition. The difference was felt at once and the average dropped several points. Some cartridges even had the bullets sunk into the shell. In other cases it appears that the bullets fell short and lacked consistency of strength. When such is the case it is extremely likely that the steadiest shots will become "rattled" since they can have no confidence when their experience and skill are thus discounted.

We understand also that a Levis Regiment was served out with Dum-Dum cartridges some time ago. There is no need to dilate upon this fact. It is sufficient unto itself. An effort should be made to supply the same material as would be employed under war conditions.

THE CROP REPORTS.

Recent crop reports from the West have brought home to us how absolutely dependent is our business outlook upon our agricultural returns. At one time it looked as though this would be a lean year for the country and, though we in the East hardly realize what it means to us as do the people of the wheat-belt, yet the whole Dominion may look upon the rainfall as a godsend. As it is there has been much damage from drought. The average yield will not be as high as that of last year, which was good beyond the ordinary. It must, however, be remembered that there is a large increase in the acreage under wheat this year and this may enable our total yield to compare favorably with the best in previous years.

Meanwhile this has been an anxious time for many and the Monetary Times says:—

"This is naturally an uneasy time in business circles, because the commercial welfare of the Western country for another year depends on what happens between now and September 15th. It may be a question as to whether a total production of 150,000,000 bushels and one of 100,000,000 bushels, and the difference is an important consideration. The lines of activity which reflect most sensitively the prospects have adopted a waiting attitude for some weeks, and this hesitating position will be maintained for another month. The merchants, wholesale and retail, the railway officials, the bankers, the manufacturers, and the other elements who shape the policy of what is known as the business world are watching. They do not care to take an advanced attitude, even if the general feeling is one of confidence and hope. The time to take advantage of the benefits accruing from a successful crop is approximately that in which the best assurances of a satisfactory return are indicated. There will then be plenty of opportunity in which to rejoice and to plunge."

From the effect of the wheat reports upon our commercial standing as a nation we may learn that it might be well to devote more of our faith and attention to mixed farming. It is perhaps due to the variety in Eastern farming that our crops will probably be above the average this year. In the west, as the "Shareholder" says, if wheat fails, they have little or nothing to fall back upon, while in Eastern Canada the farmers can rely upon the various grains, hay, fruits and vegetables, as well as dairying and cattle-raising. The introduction to the July crop report of the Provincial Department of Agriculture reads as follows:—

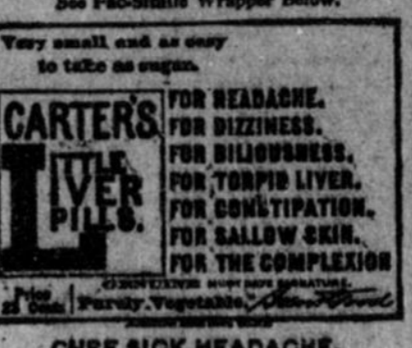

"The spring made its appearance sooner than usual and sowing began in many parts of the province at least fifteen days sooner than usual. When work was well advanced the cold rainy weather of the month of May put a stop to it for several weeks, preventing farmers on heavy lands from continuing. But now, thanks to a period of fine weather accompanied by warmth interspersed by fine showers, the appearance of the crops is, with but few exceptions, most satisfactory. The meadows and pastures are excellent, hay-making having begun July 1st. Under the influence of favorable weather the cereal and fruits look much better now than it was at one time thought they would."

Such a condition of affairs will no doubt benefit not only the farmers but the business men also.

NATURE AT HER BEST. There's a charm in the woodland's carressings Where pathway and rivulet meet— A balm in the breath of the blessings, Fond nature stores up in retreat.

There is something in the name Lorette which bids all and sundry—resident and tourist—pay a visit to the place. Any city guide will tell you that there are two Lorettes to visit near Quebec—Old Lorette and Indian Lorette—but it is the latter, the village set on the hill-side that cannot be hid, that is the greater attraction of the two. There is no pilgrim's shrine there, as there is at Loretto its Italian namesake, where nearly a million pilgrims make their devotions annually in the little church of the Holy House. But the Canadian village in itself forms a kind of nature's shrine, nestling, as it does, just within the frontier line of the Laurentian highlands, like an altar within the communion rail with the mountains for a reredos, and overlooking, as every one knows, the broad expanse of the valley of the St. Charles, as if its farm land and steadings and patches of evergreen growth were the floor-belongings of a vast temple. The picture of the fertile plain, as seen from Lorette, is the reverse view of what Quebecers see every day from the vantage openings of Grande Allee and the St. Foye; and there is neither envy nor regret in finding that the one view transcends the other in many respects, with nature so prolific of her charms all the way from Cap Rouge to Charlebourg, when she is at her best. Gain a footing on the village bridge that crosses the St. Charles where the waters sing a soft madrigal of their own on their way to water the plain! There you may dream of the twin lakes five or six miles away as the crow flies, and three times as far as the stream winds, and marvel over the latter's blend of utilities, from the supplying of the city with water to the providing of the village with electric power. And if you would repeat your lesson of Nature at her best and let the village street, with its retail-trading aspects, make its own worldly-minded comments without your help, you may pass up by the Indian chapel and beyond, the rather unsavory lanes of the Indian suburbs, into the highway that leads to the Chateau d'Eau, across the railway track into the woodland pathways; and there you are, with the song of the river again in your ear as a helpmeet to the hum of the mill near by, not far from a trysting-place worthy the truest hearted of Nature's lovers. Say what you like, the Chateau d'Eau is a poet's inspiration in itself, as you sit by its waterway or stroll along its radiating trails, up or down or back to the village. There is no need for you to pollute the city's drinking-water by launching a boat on the river to seek a wider view. You have all the view you want, within the grounds that have been laid out for your comfort in the vicinity of the dam and below it. Neither boating nor bathing are in keeping with the place. You may indulge in angling or picnicking below the dam where Nature is as prolific of charm and as attractive as one would or could desire. And, when you return from your holiday of healthful recreation, you will find all the hospitality you want, in some one of the many villas on either side of the river, if you only have the proper introduction. Lorette is a synonym for hospitality. The place has a good name, even if there be a smell of moccasin leather around some of its nooks and corners. It is a wholesome place to visit for the man who would feel better in soul and body from having been there. The store-keeper is never too busy to miss greeting you in a kindly way. The blacksmith is there under the "spreading maple

SPORT AND RESEARCH OBJECT OF LUXURIOUS WORLD CRUISE

YEAR'S CRUISE TO COST $3,500 EACH

100 Sportsmen, Scientists and Others Plan Novel and Luxurious Voyage.

IN CONTINUOUS SUMMER

Many Eminent Persons Have Already Booked, and Fads of All Will Be Catered To.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Saturday.

A PARTY of wealthy sportsmen, scientists and invalids, numbering about one hundred, will commence a tour of the world in a month or so under conditions which will appeal to the man of simple tastes as ideal.

The cruise, which is to be undertaken aboard the R. M. S. P. steamship Atrato, specially arranged to minister to the comfort of the luxurious traveller, and will take up a period of nearly one year, is so mapped out that continuous summer weather will be encountered until England is reached again.

The accommodation will be first class only and is limited to single or double berth cabins. A qualified physician and a nurse will be carried on board. A feature, too, is to be made of the catering, which is being superintended by a well known firm which is supplying a domestic staff of fifty persons, including the chef and stewards who accompanied the Prince of Wales on his Australian tour.

EMINENT PERSONS BOOKED.

Eminent men in the social world, some women and members of Parliament have already booked berths, and they are at liberty to make any arrangements they may think necessary for their comfort, as for instance, taking their own valets and help. Personal physicians will not be interfered with, and one naval captain who has a predilection for fishing by himself stands taking a boat with him.

"There will be no hurry about the cruise," said one of the members of the party in an interview. "If we discover that we do not like a place we shall stop here for a few hours only, and at other places we may linger several days. With regard to the shooting expeditions, it will probably be arranged that the guns will be divided into two sections, so that, whichever party has the first shot over a certain district, the other will have a similar privilege at the next landing place. In the course of our cruise we shall have plenty of excellent shooting, and deep sea fishing, and launches are being carried for the benefit of the fishermen.

FOR AFRICAN BIG GAME.

"As for the scientists, archaeologists, botanists, geologists and so on, we shall each at a number of places which will be of interest to them—among others Robbinson Crusoe's Island of Juan Fernandez and Easter Isle, in the Pacific. Thus, while the fishermen and the guns are enjoying themselves the scientists can get about with their hammers, nets and magnifying glasses. Staterooms will be prepared on board for the reception of specimens."

Although the itinerary of the cruise will in the main be adhered to, no objection will be made should a general desire be expressed to visit any interesting island or place near, which the ship may pass, provided the captain considers it permissible. When it is stated that the cost for each person will approach $3,500, exclusive of wines, it will be gathered that only "guided" travellers may enjoy the trip.

"SAILOR LAWYER" DIES IN LONDON

Mr. Alexander A. Miller Was Famed for His Knowledge of Maritime Law.

LONDON, Saturday.

THE death of Mr. Alexander Allan Miller, more widely known as the "sailor lawyer," has just taken place. He will be remembered as the man who, on behalf of the Imperial Merchant Service Guild, brought the famous "color vision" case of Mata Tristram to a successful issue, the result of which was that the Board of Trade returned the certificate of the officer concerned. As the outcome of this case the important question of vision is claiming special attention, the Board of Trade having nominated a special committee to deal with the color vision tests of the British mercantile marine.

Born in Liverpool, Mr. Miller, after leaving school, had eight years of seafaring life, a knowledge of which stood him in good stead in the profession which he subsequently adopted, especially in that branch of it relating to nautical matters.

His chief business was that of looking after the legal interests of masters, officers and men connected with the sea. He was, in fact, the only "sailor lawyer" in the United Kingdom, and in that capacity won a national reputation, not only by his expert knowledge of the nature of the cases, but by his invariable success.

As solicitor to both the Imperial Merchant Service Guild and to the Mercantile Marine Service Association he was able to render great service to officers and the interests of those organizations, and their members were always safe in his hands.

Use of English in the Schools of China to Bring World Supremacy for Language, American Missionaries Having Laid the Foundations

Recent Imperial Decree Adopts Anglo-Saxon as Official Tongue of the Empire.

OF SWEEPING NATURE

Necessity for a Standard Single Medium for Technical and Scientific Education Caused Throne's Action.

(Special Dispatch.)

PEKIN, Saturday.

BY giving imperial sanction to the adoption of English as the official language for all schools of modern learning established or to be hereafter established in this empire the Prince Regent has not only definitely shaped the course of present and future education for the myriads of people under the protection of the Dragon Throne, but has settled for all time the problem of what shall be the dominant language of the world. Far-reaching as is this decree in its bearing upon the education of present, and especially future, generations of the Chinese people, it possesses an even larger significance from the fact that it gives the stamp of approval of China, with her population comprising one-fourth the human race, to English as the world language.

More than any other ruler of a race of another language—more than all such monarchs combined—the Prince of Chun contributed to the eventual supremacy of English. If the immediate results of his action are of vast importance to China, as judged from any standpoint, they unquestionably are, the secondary, but no less certain, results are of great importance to the world at large.

To those who see in the Throne's decree nothing more than its bearing upon the existing schools directly concerned there may seem something fantastic in this decree of its larger influence. On its face the decree does nothing more than declare that English shall be the standard language for technical and scientific education throughout the Empire, its direct application being to colleges and high schools supported by the central and provincial governments.

SINGLE MEDIUM NECESSARY.

The necessity of a standard single medium through which these branches of modern learning should be taught has long been recognized by those interested in education, and if this decree had no other effect it would be of immense value in providing such medium, rather than that the warring purposes of modern teaching should be rendered null by continuance of Tower of Babel conditions that have prevailed.

Some of these are discussed in the memorial of the Ministry of Education which forms the basis of the Throne's decree. They have been created by the struggle of nations for domination of Chinese education and of China. German, French and Japanese educators, and the Chinese trained in their schools, have vied with English speaking educators in endeavoring to promote the progress of their respective languages. And, while the predominating language has been English, these efforts have given sufficient foothold in spots to give the fabric of modern education something of a crazy quilt aspect. Heretofore, however, it has been impossible to secure the much desired standardization—this due, somewhat to contention between the various elements striving for supremacy, but more, perhaps, to lack of interest on the part of Peking officials.

Recently there has been an active record of agitation on the part of foreign educated Chinese, who realize the inadequacy of their language to accurately convey the meaning of Western science, and this brought fruit in the shape of the highly important memorial from the Ministry of Education to which reference has been made.

DIFFICULTIES OF TRANSLATION.

This memorial frankly recognizes the impossibility of adequately translating into Chinese the scientific and technical terms so essential to an understanding of modern sciences. It points out some of the incongruities of the present system, or lack of system, under which directors of different institutions have designated different foreign languages in their requirements for students, citing, by way of illustration, instances of the use of one language in the high schools given over to the study of some one science—agriculture is especially mentioned—while in the college for which the students of these schools are preparing themselves a different foreign language is required.

In the opinion of the Ministry of Education, the time has come when there should be uniformity, and for reasons cogently expressed the advisability of adopting English as the common foreign language for all these institutions is deemed manifest.

that the new system of education has been tried for some years and that education has intimate relations with the preparations for a constitutional government." The Ministry of Education declares, "It is necessary that as much progress as is possible should be our aim, so as to gratify the desire of the government to promote education among the people."

"Now of the foreign languages English is most extensively used in the world. It was first introduced into China and is most widely employed here. The number of English text books imported is far greater than those of any other country. It is, therefore, proposed that in the different schools teaching technical and scientific subjects the English language be adopted. In the case of schools which do not now include foreign languages in the curriculum they must in the future be required to do so. The study of foreign languages is to be made compulsory in those schools where they are now optional.

"In this manner the schools will have some principle to guide them, and when students are promoted to the higher institutions there will be no confusion arising from a multiplicity of foreign languages. In all provincial high schools (scientific and technical) already existing or established in the future, the studies (with the exception of ethics, Chinese literature, history and geography) pertaining to science shall be taught in English. When the students are sent to Peking for final examination after graduation they shall be examined through the medium of the English language."

The primary effect of the Imperial decree sanctioning these recommendations is to definitely commit China to English as the language through which modern learning—the goal of young China's ambition—shall be reached. The secondary but no less certain effect is to place the seal of official approval upon English as secondary language for China's four hundred millions.

EDUCATION THE RULE.

First, that in no other land on the face of the earth does education hold so high a place in the estimation of all classes. As every American mother sees in her son a possible President, so every Chinese mother dreams of the day when her boy may attain those honors that can come only through education and learning. The romance of Chinese life is not based upon the fabric of woman's love; here it has to do with education—the hero the poor boy who, by burning the midnight oil or its equivalent, acquires the learning that enables him to pass the examinations, attain high place and thus bring honor upon his family and his clan. The career of Lincoln appeals more strongly to the genius of the Chinese people than does that of any other man of "western" history.

Many of China's greatest statesmen have been men of humble origin. These are the men who hold the highest places in Chinese history; their life successes form the fabric of the ideas with which the story pulses charm the "cash" from the slender purses of ever deluged men. In nature, consequently, there is no lack in which the educated class exercises so great an influence.

To-day the aim of young China is to acquire modern education. In response to this demand institutions for its teaching are springing up in all parts of the empire.

No review of causes leading to this end would be complete unless it contained tribute to the great part played by American educators, missionary and other, in laying the foundation for the domination of the English language. English missionaries and English schools have contributed no little to this end, but the American missionaries and American schools have done by far the larger part. British influence has been strong in the British colony of Hong Kong, and in the colonies where a native language has been adopted, and to a large degree at Canton, but in China as a whole Americans have far outstripped all other nationalities in their efforts to introduce the study of English into the Chinese mind.

The plan adopted by the Ministry of Education is that, wherever Dr. Williams' Chinese Dispensary, or the American Legation, which has organized Pei-Yang University for the Chinese, and by Dr. John C. Ferguson, when president of the Nan-Yang College at Shanghai. These men and the American missionary educators, who began the study of Chinese last year, together with hosts of others who have followed in their footsteps, have done an immense amount of good to China, and in doing it have unquestionably proven themselves, individually and especially in the aggregate, a mighty influence to the end of the domination of their language.

Drug Habit Fast Spreading in All Ranks

English Society Seriously Alarmed by Reports Which Indicate That the Insidious Vice, Once Confined to a Few, Now Has Fastened a Grip on the Mass of the People.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Saturday.

SOCIETY is once again becoming seriously exercised about the habit of taking drugs, which appears to be spreading more rapidly than ever, judging from some of the correspondence which is appearing on the subject. What was at one time the vice of a few is declared now to be the practice of many worried business men, professional men "coursed with brain fag," jaded society women, and all the other victims of the killing rush of modern life.

A case is narrated in "M. A. F." of a hospital nurse who recently applied for relief at an inebriate home, confessing that she had not been really sober—that is to say, had been more or less under the influence of some stimulant—for six years. A spell of unusually heavy work had driven her to cocaine. Her holiday, which ought to have followed immediately, had to be postponed for some reason connected with the hospital work, and she continued taking cocaine until, when relief came at last she found herself unable to give up her daily allowance of the drug. Sometimes she took brandy to relieve her craving for the drug, but always she returned. As in every other case, the gradual sapping of the will power weakened her efforts to break the habit, and in the end her friends had to take the most drastic measures to force her to give up her habit.

VICTIMS AMONG ARTISTS.

The stage, literature and art each contributes a large number to the victims of the drug and alcohol habits. Recently a once famous artist was found sleeping on the Embankment, having fallen through every stage of depravity from occasional indulgence in morphia to sheer mania for alcohol. Many men and women connected with the stage have fallen victims to the craving for stimulants, always with disastrous results to their professional reputations. One actress, for whom the critics had prophesied a brilliant career, commenced taking morphia during a nervous crisis, and was deluged with the immediate benefit she derived from the drug, and used it again and again. Before she or any one else had realized the danger, she broken after an agonizingly painful "cure."

One woman who led a very busy social life used to take regularly a mixture of coral, sal volatile, brandy and soda, while another dosed herself with a mixture of sal-volatile and red lavender. Another extraordinary case was a girl of recently. Three specialists had been called in to examine a woman, and though all three agreed that she was suffering from over-stimulation they were utterly unable to discover the cause of her symptoms. The mystery was not solved until some one happened to mention that the woman always kept a bottle of sulphate of quinine in her bureau. She then confessed that she was simply suffering from excessive doses of quinine.

MISS LENA ASHWELL TO AID LOCAL PLAYWRIGHTS

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Saturday.

MISS LENA ASHWELL has hit on a novel method of arousing interest in her provincial town and incidentally booming her business. She is to inaugurate it during her forthcoming engagement at Harrogate, where, she announces, she will give a performance of a play written by a local playwright and selected by a local committee. The only conditions are that the characters must not exceed six and that it will not take more than half an hour to act. If the experiment is a success she probably will make the offer to every town where she is booked to play or a week. This may be good advertising for Miss Ashwell, but it's a little strenuous for the company to have to put on a new play each week.

The Aim of Young China To-day Is to Acquire a Modern Education.

NATION HEARS DEMAND

Institutions of Learning for the People Springing Up All Over the Empire.

Practically all of these come within the provisions of the new imperial order, since by "scientific and technical" training is meant everything except Chinese history and literature, ethics and geography.

The greater proportion of these schools are under the control of the central or provincial governments, and are therefore directly affected by this decree. The others will undoubtedly follow the lead of the government schools in adopting English as the medium of study, since the purpose of their existence is to prepare students for the government institutions of higher learning where the medium must be English.

GIVES MIGHTY IMPETUS.

With knowledge of English the open sesame to all institutions of modern learning a mighty impetus will be given the study of the language in all parts of the empire. This will imply an ever increasing use of English as a means of communication in business, and it may even play an important part in purely internal affairs.

It is not unusual to-day to see young Chinese from different provinces carrying on animated conversation in English, this being the only language in which they can talk with one another understandingly until they have mastered the mandarin, or "official talk," which differs as widely from the spoken language of many provinces as the native languages of these provinces differ from one another. The written language is, of course, the same; but the speech of a Cantonese is as alien to a Shantung man as Finnish is alien to an Italian.

It is clearly within the probabilities, therefore, that English will be found playing a greater and greater part in the everyday life of the Chinese, and that it may become a powerful factor in welding the constituent elements of the empire, whose present weakness is very largely due to lack of a common language for ordinary communication.

With some understanding of these conditions it will not be difficult to realize that official adoption of English as the language for modern learning means more than would similar action in any other land. Multiply the Chinese avidity for modern learning by the vast total of Chinese population, and you will see how great is the sum of China's contribution to the supremacy of English as the dominant language of the world.

MISSIONS LAID THE FOUNDATION.

No review of causes leading to this end would be complete unless it contained tribute to the great part played by American educators, missionary and other, in laying the foundation for the domination of the English language. English missionaries and English schools have contributed no little to this end, but the American missionaries and American schools have done by far the larger part. British influence has been strong in the British colony of Hong Kong, and in the colonies where a native language has been adopted, and to a large degree at Canton, but in China as a whole Americans have far outstripped all other nationalities in their efforts to introduce the study of English into the Chinese mind.

These men and the American missionary educators, who began the study of Chinese last year, together with hosts of others who have followed in their footsteps, have done an immense amount of good to China, and in doing it have unquestionably proven themselves, individually and especially in the aggregate, a mighty influence to the end of the domination of their language.

HAS PASSWORD TO TOWER OF LONDON?

King George Gives Lord Mayor Formula to Gain Admission to Famous Treasure House.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Saturday.

ONE of those events of ancient origin, of which even Londoners know little, has just taken place. The Lord Mayor of London has received the first password to the Tower issued in the new reign. It bears the King's sign-manual, "George, R. L." and it enables the Lord Mayor at any time of the day or night, even though the guard is set, to pass through the gates to see the constable, or for any other public duty. Every three months a new password is sent to the Mansion House, although there is no record, in recent times at least, of the Lord Mayor having availed himself of these privileges.

Another new note at the Tower is the use of King George's name in the stately and ancient ceremony of locking up the fortress. On the stroke of eleven the head warder appears before the guard-house and loudly calls "Escort, keys!" The sergeant of the guard and five or six men, then turn out and follow the warder to the outer gate, each carrying a key as they pass the post, "Who goes there?" "Keys!"

AMERICANS SEEK PLAYS IN LONDON

Mr. William A. Brady and Mr. L. S. Sire Both Busy in English Metropolis.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Saturday.

TWO London theatrical successes have already been secured by Mr. William A. Brady for production in America next season. They are "The Balkan Princess," a comic opera, and "The Naked Truth," a farce comedy. These he bought without seeing. Now he is here in person and is full of business and energy. He plans to stay only a short time, but expects to be very busy and set a number of wheels turning pretty rapidly.

The first thing he intends to do is to open an office here and employ an agent who will be on the spot to see all the new plays and secure the American rights to them if they are desirable. Of course the Shuberts are associated with Mr. Brady in this undertaking, and the agent will represent that powerful and growing organization.

Another American here is Mr. Fred C. Whitney, who has come over to see about producing "The Chocolate Soldier" in London. It was so successful in America that he is sure it will be successful here. "In a theatrical sense London is the art centre of the world," said Mr. Whitney. "I consider 'The Chocolate Soldier' one of the most artistic comic operas ever written and that's why I'm going to give it here. I'm going to do it myself, too, and not farm it out to some English manager. I'm fond of London and I like the English people and, moreover, I do not believe that because I am an American the English public are going to boycott me. I don't take any stock at all in that boggy that there is an English prejudice against American enterprises. Anyway right in me you see another American invasion."

"Will you bring over an American company to play it?" I asked.

"No, I shall do it with an entire English company. Naturally the English people appreciate English actors better than they do foreigners, on account of the accent if for no other reason."

Still another American invasion will be made by Mr. L. S. Sire. His representative, Mr. Edmund Gerson, has leased Paddy's Theatre, where Mr. Sire will present Miss May Robson for a season, beginning August 23. It is in this little theatre that an American play with an American company, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," began a successful London engagement.

DOLL'S HOUSE TOOK FIVE YEARS TO BUILD

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Saturday.

WHAT is probably the most wonderful doll's house in the world is now on view in the ballroom at Lansdowne House, where a doll's bazaar, organized by Lady Beatrice Wilkinson, is being held in aid of the Children's Union of the Waifs and Strays Society.

The miniature mansion was opened by Queen Alexandra two years ago at Wilton House. Her Majesty owned a golden key, designed by Captain Nevill Wilkinson, the latter King of Arms, the architect of the little house. The owner, who is now exhibiting the house, is Lady Mabel Herbert, daughter of the Earl of Pembroke. The keenest child critic in the world could not find fault with this palace among doll's houses. It has fifteen rooms, one of them a beautiful banquet hall, with marble pillars, artistic paneling on the walls, exquisitely painted ceilings, and everything in fact, that a real banquet hall ought to have. The other rooms are equally complete. All the wonderful rooms, with their dainty pieces of furniture, are packed into a space of seven feet high and about five feet wide. It took five years to build.

Everything is complete, even down to the visiting book, a little volume one inch square, in which can be seen the signatures of the late King Edward and Queen Alexandra—probably the smallest they ever wrote—as well as those of Lord Salisbury, Lord Rosebery and many other celebrated people.

EXHIBIT WONDERS OF OLD EGYPT

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Saturday.

THE exhibition just opened at King's College of the results of last year's work of the officers employed by the Egypt Exploration Fund is attracting crowds of visitors.

Excavation has of late been carried on mainly at Abydos, at the site of the royal tombs of the first and second dynasties. It was discovered that part of the site had remained undisturbed since about the time of the nineteenth dynasty. Deposits of pottery, which are believed to be the remains of the offerings made at the royal tombs, were unearthed. A representation of Osiris, with a snake round his neck, being laid on its back with the head to the west.

A skeleton of an Egyptian woman, of unknown antiquity, is shown. When dug out of the site it was wrapped in a cloth and covered with a red mat. Among the objects found in the neighborhood of a female skeleton were a slate palette, a grinding pebble, five small flasks of ivory, three ivory pins and several vases. The hypothesis of the explorers is that these articles were buried with the dead on the assumption that they would be required in the next world. The circular slate palette, of the pebble, apparently were used. Permitted in the tomb.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN

FALSE ALARM FIEND LOOSE

Firemen Called Out Twice Near Midnight on Fruitless Errands.

The false alarm fiend was again loose in the upper town last night, and gave the firemen a needless lot of bother and trouble. Following each other in rapid succession, near the midnight hour, came alarms from boxes 13 and 6. The firemen hustled to the scenes of the supposed fires, only to find that they had been called out on fruitless errands and that there were no signs of fire in the respective localities.

The Chronicle has already strongly condemned the senseless, not to say criminal nature of those supposed "jokes" of irresponsible "jokers," and it is to be hoped that some of them may fall into the hands of the police, where they can depend upon having their ploys recognized at its full worth, and within the walls of the district jail will have full time to ponder upon all the "fun" they had in placing the city in needless danger by their acts.

WHIRLWIND ARABS AT THE RUSTIC

The leading feature of the bill at the popular Rustic Theatre this week is the Whirlwind Arabs, who give a remarkably clever performance of acrobatic and gymnastic feats. The large crowd in attendance was very enthusiastic in their reception of the dusky sons of the desert, and their set is at times a thrilling one.

Hardly and Graham appear in an amusing sketch, which seemed to just about suit the taste of those present, and they were another leading feature.

A couple of the acts failed to turn up last evening, but Manager Alons has kept the wires busy and they will be replaced this evening by some first-class performers direct from New York. His high reputation which the Rustic Theatre has won this season bids fair to be maintained during the whole summer, and nothing is being left undone to keep the programmes up to standard.

SUDDEN DEATH

A little girl aged 2 years, daughter of Mr. Edouard Maitte, Richelieu street, died on Sunday evening after a few hours' illness. The father had been playing with the child when she was taken ill.

COBONER'S INQUEST

Coroner Jolicoeur held an inquest yesterday morning on the body of Gaspard Dion, who died suddenly on Saturday. Death was due, according to the verdict of the jury, to syncope of the heart.

COURT OF SESSIONS

Yesterday in the Court of Sessions Judge Panet Angers sentenced Ernest Veilleux, who was found guilty of assaulting a contractor from Beauce, to six months' imprisonment at hard labor.

RECORDER'S COURT

Five prisoners charged with drunkenness appeared before Alderman Morin yesterday. One was fined $5 add costs or eight days' jail; one $1 and costs or two days; and three were discharged. A man for loitering was sent to jail for a month, and a boy for destroying trees in Victoria Park was fined $10 and costs or fifteen days' jail.

TORONTO EXHIBITION

Dr. Orr, secretary of the Toronto Exposition, is in this city interviewing the Government with the object of having the latter send a large exhibit from this province to the exhibition in Toronto next fall.

STRUCK BY A CAR

While two men were driving along St. Joseph street yesterday afternoon, they failed to turn off the car track quickly enough to escape an approaching street car, which struck one of the wheels of the rig and threw the men out. One of the men was cut about the head, and the buggy was somewhat injured. The accident took place at the corner of Caron street.

CHILD DROWNED IN WELL

An inquest was held by Coroner Perron at Montmagny yesterday on the body of a 2-year-old child named Paul Bernatchez, who was drowned in a well there on Saturday last. A verdict of accidental drowning was returned.

NEW PRIESTS ORDAINED

At the chapel of the Franciscan Fathers yesterday morning a number of ordinations took place, His Grace Archbishop Begin officiating. Rev. Bros. Benoit, Salvail, B. Guenette, A. Wolfe, G. A. Laplante, F. Coutoux taking the tonsure. Minor orders—O. Rocheleau, A. Godbout, S. Beaudet, P. M. Durand. Priesthood—C. Gelin, H. Boulay, J. Boucher, J. Mercier.

A NEW PARISH

A decree issued by His Grace Archbishop Begin was read in the parishes of Beauport and St. Gregoire du Sault Montmorency, officially announcing the formation of a new parish which will be known as St. Louis de Courville. The new parish will extend east to the Montmorency river and in the west into Beauport parish.

REDEMPTORIST SUPERIOR HERE

The Very Rev. Father Murray, Superior General of the Redemptorist Order, is at present in town. He is accompanied by Rev. Father Schedel, assistant for America, and Rev. Father Faure, assistant for France and Spain. The Superior General has paid visits to St. Patrick's Presbytery and the Archbishop's Palace. To-day he will attend the celebration of the festival of St. Anne de Beauport at the shrine.

SHIP LABORER INJURED

While at work in the hold of the steamship Cornishman at the Louis Basin yesterday afternoon a laborer named Jobin, residing in St. Roch, was struck on the shoulder by a falling bundle of shooks. The man was thrown forward on his face, which was painfully bruised and cut.

SIX-MONTHS-OLD INFANT PROBABLY MURDERED

Toronto, July 25—The body of an infant, about six months old, was found floating in the Don river by some of the workers on the new Wilton Ave. bridge this morning. A corset string was tied tightly around its neck and a piece of cord loosely around the body, apparently having been used to hold a stone to sink the body. The body was badly decomposed and must have been in the water for some weeks. There was nothing on the clothing to identify the child or its parents by, but from the facts of the string around its neck and rope around its body it would seem to be a case of murder.

DESERTED HER HOME

Yesterday morning on the arrival of the C.P.R. train, Deputy Chief Walsh arrested a young girl who had left Montreal on the previous evening. The young prisoner, who is only 17 years of age, was conveyed to the Central Police Station and returned to Montreal last evening in company with her mother, who had been notified of her arrest by telephone.

MISSING YACHTING PARTY

Detroit, Mich., July 25—Grave fears are entertained that three women, two men and a boy, all of Detroit, who left here at 8 o'clock yesterday morning in the yawl Comfort, a 46-foot cruising craft, and have not been heard from since, were drowned in the gale which swept Lake St. Clair yesterday afternoon. To-day the husbands of two of the missing women reported the matter to police headquarters. The missing are: Mrs. Shirley Rheame, aged 25; Mrs. Marc Brown, aged 21; Mrs. Harriet Ogelsby, aged 40; James Rheame, aged 5, son of Mrs. Rheame; Frank Harmon, aged 35, and Robert Munn, aged 21. Later it was found that the party was safe.

PALAIS ROYAL

The Palais Royal is at present the most popular resort for moving pictures in this city, and last week's programme was so much appreciated that several of the pictures have, by special request, been brought before the public again this week, in particular, the conversion of the Centurian, and the heroism of a fireman. The management of this theatre have also secured the services of the 8th Battalion band, besides the splendid vocal selections rendered in English and French by lady and gentlemen vocalists. The theatre is one of the cosiest in this city and there is never any complaint of the heat, owing to the large number of electrical fans distributed around the theatre. We would advise our readers to pay a visit to the Palais Royal where they can spend a most pleasant hour and where they will be received by a most courteous staff of employes.

WELL-KNOWN AUTHOR'S TUSSELE WITH ENGINEER

Toronto, July 25—"It was not altogether the assault, but the indignity of the affair I objected to," said Mr. J. Castell Hopkins, editor and publisher of the Canadian Annual Review and a well-known author, in the Police Court to-day in charging an engineer named Blair, on one of the Niagara Nav. Co. steamers, with assault. Mr. Hopkins claimed that after asking Blair where he could find the baggage-man, the latter knocked him over, jumped on him and pommelled him with hands and feet. Mr. Hopkins admitted striking the engineer with his cane, but said he did it only after having been knocked down, Jas. Blair, the accused, said that Hopkins persisted in coming into his quarters and that he pushed him away, whereupon Mr. Hopkins raised his cane and struck him. Magistrate Cohen remarked that it looked to him like a case of "six of one and half a dozen of the other." He adjourned the case till called on.

TREE CUT DOWN

For years past there have been a number of trees in front of the Custom House, facing the river. These formed excellent shades to people living in the vicinity, who used the Custom House steps and grounds to get a little fresh air during the hot season. For some reason, however, the trees have all been cut down, and any one who desires to take a rest in the locality will have to do so under the full glare of the sun. But who gave the order for the removal of the trees? They certainly did not interfere with the traffic, for there was none there.

MISSING STEAMER ARRIVES; PASSENGERS IN A GALE

Toronto, July 25—The steamer Belleville arrived here at ten o'clock this morning from Montreal, fourteen hours late. Nothing could be learned last night of her whereabouts and her non-arrival caused much anxiety owing to the terrible gale of last night. The 150 passengers on board report an exciting experience, while Captain Cherry says he never before saw so much lightning. The biggest part of the delay, however, was caused by the break in the Cornwall canal.

JOHNSON ARRESTED—THIS TIME FOR SLOWNESS

New York, July 25.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight, was arrested again here this evening. The automobile which is the delight of his life was again the cause. Being arrested for speeding has become an old story with Johnson, but it was a real hoky when he was arrested this time for standing still. He was accused of obstructing traffic by stopping the machine seven feet from the curb and an additional charge of having a wrong number on his car was placed against him. He gave $100 cash bail for his appearance in court to-morrow.

FATHER ROSSBACH'S GOLDEN JUBILEE

Former Rector of St. Patrick's in Quebec Honored in Baltimore.

Saturday's Baltimore Sun has the following:—Rev. Philip Rossbach, assistant rector of St. Michael's Catholic Church, Lombard and Wolfe streets, yesterday celebrated his golden jubilee as a member of the Redemptorist Order with a solemn high mass at the church. The edifice was crowded with members of the congregation and with the parishioners of the other Redemptorist churches of the city with whom Father Rossbach is popular.

Preceding the mass there was a procession from the rectory of the church in which fifty girls dressed in white and wearing gold wreaths and fifty boys dressed in black and carrying bouquets participated. The altar was handsomely decorated.

Rev. John Liebert, of Most Holy Redeemer Church, New York, and Rev. John Beierschmitt, of St. Boniface's Church, Philadelphia, both of whom were former members of St. Michael's parish, were deacon and sub deacon at the mass. Rev. John Denges, of St. Michael's Church, was master of ceremonies. The eulogy on the jubilarian was pronounced by Rev. Matthew Bohn, of Saratoga Springs, N.Y., a co-novice of Father Rossbach at St. Mary's Novitiate, Annapolis.

In his sermon Father Bohn sketched briefly the career of Father Rossbach and showed how the years he had spent in the order had been productive. Father Bohn concluded his sermon by wishing the jubilarian on behalf of his fellow-priests and fellow-members of the Redemptorist Order and his friends among the laity a happy future.

Following the mass Father Rossbach knelt before Rev. Ferdinand Litz, provincial of the Redemptorist Order and renewed the vows made by him 50 years ago. After this benediction was given by the jubilarian, the religious services were concluded with the singing of the Te Deum by the congregation. Father Rossbach was the guest of honor at a dinner given in the rectory of the church.

MAN WHO CAN DEFEAT JOHNSON

He is Warren Barbour, a Young Millionaire, and an Amateur.

The man who can lick Jack Johnson is found.

New York is swarming with fight fans back from Reno, and they all say Warren Barbour can do it.

Warren Barbour, aged twenty-two, son of a millionaire, also amateur heavyweight champion of the world. Will he fight the black man. Opinions differ. Some people—society folks—say no. Sporting men say that Col. William Barbour, the multi-millionaire, is so proud of his strong, hard-hitting boy that they wouldn't be surprised to hear him say to Warren—

"Go thou and smite this Philistine hip and thigh!"

This young giant has a trainer, Jack Cooper. It is Jack who made him a wonder. Jack wouldn't say right out in company that Warren could lick Jack Johnson, but he told me just how he'd get him ready for the championship fight.

"All the boys need is experience," said Cooper. "I'd give him his experience and his training for the match at the same time. I'd have him take on the best professional fighters in the business in knockout fights, two a month. He could pick the best, for he doesn't need the purses and the other fighters could make their own terms.

"The hardest men in the business should fight him, and I wouldn't be afraid for him, either. Then, after he's got used to handling himself in the professional ring, we'd make the match with Johnson. That would be in about a year."

Young Barbour is a giant and a natural fighting machine. He stands 6 feet 2½ inches high in his bare feet and weighs 208 pounds in fighting trim. He has a reach of 73 inches and a barrel of a chest of 45 inches round inflated and 41 deflated.

He is a better physical specimen, from the physical culturist's standpoint, than Johnson or Jeffries either, for his weight is distributed. He isn't topheavy like the colored man. Stripped, he looks lean as a congar and his muscles lay flat on his huge frame like rippling plates.

He is lithe and shifty as a cat on his feet, a superb boxer, aggressive in tactics, and just "feeds on punishment," Cooper says. And he has a punch in either hand as short and hard as a compressed air trip hammer.

"He can hit as hard with a four-inch movement as he can at a foot," said Cooper. "He has enormous, quick strength in his wrists and forearms."

Cooper runs a flesh reducing plant in W. 47th street much frequented by the jaded people of society. He had been patting various members of the Barbour family through courses of sprouts when young Warren Barbour, aged seventeen, then weighing 235 pounds, went to Princeton and applied for a place on the football team.

The captain liked his looks, but one trial convinced him the young Titan wouldn't do. He was soft as putty and suffering from over-growth.

So his father took him from college and gave him a place in the office of the tread works, and his mother put him into Jack Cooper's gymnasium. Cooper first "took the stomach off him" and then suggested he take up boxing. One lesson was enough.

"He was a natural fighter," said Cooper. "It was just nature for him to box. He was a good boxer at the end of the first lesson."

He became what Cooper calls a "cagey" boxer—a man so shifty as to be hard to touch, and full of tricks of his own. Soon he wanted to go after the amateur heavyweight championship at Boston.

Several professional pugilists were called in to help him with his training. One after another of these went punching bags off by the society giant. They said they would rather fight regular matches for a purse.

Jeffries boxed with him, and then begged Barbour to join the training camp in California. In all these bouts the gallery of Coope's gym was filled with society folks cheering Barbour.

Cooper took Barbour and a big party to Boston, where Barbour had to go up against the amateur champion, Joe Burke, of Boston, a wild fighting Irishman, "with a knockout in either hand."

It was a hard fought battle. Burke was a rusher, Barbour a sidestepper.

It was slap bang for a few rounds. Then came the finish. Burke swung with his right to the jaw. Barbour knocked the fist over his head and put a straight left into Burke's ribs that felled him. Burke came back for more. Barbour knocked him down with a right and left on the jaw.

Burke was a beaten man, but he struggled to his feet. The knockout blow was a terrific left that landed almost on top of Burke's head. The champion went down like a dog, and his seconds and doctors were 20 minutes bringing him around.

Charlie White, the referee, and Jack (Twin) Sullivan both watched the match and both accused Cooper of having entered a ringer.

"Millionaire boxer nothing," said Sullivan. "This fellow's a professional."

It took a long argument to convince them.

NO MORE SHORT INNINGS THE RULE.

Cincinnati, July 25—No more National league games will be called at a fixed time to enable a team to catch a train. President Lynch made this announcement here yesterday.

"I am sure there will be no more complaints of that character made," said President Lynch. "I have instructed my umpires to make it impossible for anything like that to happen again. If an inning is completed within a few minutes of the time limit fixed upon, and the umpires feel it will be impossible for the teams to play another inning they will call the game at once. But if an inning is started the clubs will have to go through with it, no matter how long it lasts."

"The American league has a system by which it is enabled to hold trains for ball clubs. One man makes all the travelling arrangements for all the clubs. In the National league each club looks after its own travelling arrangements, and therefore it is not possible to arrange matters with the railroads."

Manager Griffith, of the Cincinnati Club, has accepted the defn of Umpire Rigler, of the National league. Griffith registered an official protest through President Herrmann, of the National Baseball Commission, and as President Lynch, of the National league, is here, it didn't take Herrmann long to talk the matter over with the head of the league.

"I have never made a protest against an umpire before, and did not care to make one against Rigler," said Griffith, "but he has carried things too far."

SCHOOL MARM FURNISHED SURPRISE AT EMPIRE TRACK

Empire City Race Track, N.Y., July 25—School Marm, at 12 to 1, proved a big surprise when she won the Knickerbocker handicap, 6 furlongs, from a good class of sprinters here to-day. School Marm was practically neglected in the betting in spite of the fact that her recent races have been excellent. Jockey Archibald was overcome by the heat to-day and had to cancel his mounts. He rode in the first race.

SAM CRANE'S BEST BALL TEAM

Choice of Players According to the Opinion of the Veteran Writer.

Sam Crane, the veteran baseball player, writer and authority on the game, has a comparison in Pearson for August comparing the men in the leagues and keeping the men in each position. In part, he says:

"The baseball player of to-day is the has been of to-morrow."

"I have formed my judgment and made careful comparisons of the respective abilities of players in the National and American leagues, based on my experience of thirty years, during which I have seen star players flash with startling brilliancy for a long or short period, only to splutter and die out and be forgotten."

"If there is one department where the National is superior to the American league it is in the catchers. I cannot see where the younger league has a catcher up to the class I consider Kling, Gibson and Bresnahan to have established. Stange, of Detroit, comes nearer the mark than any other."

"I rank the catchers as follows: Kling, Gibson, Bresnahan, Doolin, Stange, Street, Thomas, Sweeney, Bergen, Carrigan, Meyers, Clark, Graham, Stephens, Payne, McLean."

"Comparing the pitchers I want to say that Christy Mathewson is not only the best pitcher now, but the best baseball ever produced. I have seen them all, but none in my estimation approached Mathewson."

"The pitching staff Connie Mack now has is the strongest in either league. In Bender, Coombs, Dygert and Morgan he has a formidable quartette of right handers, and in Plank and Krause two left handers that cannot be excelled. Young and Joss are two of the real stars of the American league."

"I place the pitchers as follows: Mathewson, Bender, Plank, Ford, Coombs, Drucke, Vaughn, Joss, Mulren, Overall, Wadsh, Moren, Adams, Donovan, Rucker, Moore."

"Hal Chase is prince of first basemen. There is no comparison between him and the next best. Chance, perhaps, comes nearest Prince Hal, although I consider Konetchy as giving Chance the race of his life. Konetchy is a right-handed thrower and on that account he cannot hope to attain the standard set by Chase. No right-hander ever will."

"I rank the first basemen as follows: Chase, Konetchy, Chance, Flynn, Davis, Hoblitzel, Bransfield, Jones, Merkle, Unglaub, Daubert, Stovall, Sharpe, Stahl, Gondil and Abstein."

"Now we come to a difficult proposition. There are so many first-class guardians of the keystone sack that it is a puzzle to select the best. There is not a weak player in the sixteen. I must give the palm to Evers, and I have close in mind Collins and Lajoie. To take the premier's away from Lajoie will cause fans to throw different kinds of fits, but I place both Evers and Collins ahead of possibly the best mechanical player that ever wore shoe plates. But good as he is, and notwithstanding his batting ability, Lajoie has never played on a championship team, and therefore I am forced to conclude that he is not up to the class mentally of either Evers or Collins. I think Evers is the best intuitive player in the game. He is, therefore, a natural player, and they invariably make the best."

"I place the second basemen this way:—Evers, Collins, Lajoie, Doyle, Miller, Egan, Hummel, Gardner, Huggins, McConnell, Knabe, Delehanity, Shean, Zeider, Griggs, Schaffer."

"It is not easy to pick the best third baseman. There are four, in Devlin, Lord, Grant and Baker, who outclass the rest. But the other twelve are not far behind. A perfect pair of hands and the ability to have them in the right place at the right time are the prime requisites for the position, which is probably the most difficult to play of any."

"I rank the third basemen like this:—Devlin, Lord, Grant, Baker, Bradley, Byrne, Lennox, Steinfield, Austin, Robert, Mowrey, Wallace, Herzog, Morarity, Purtell, Conroy."

"There is only one Hans Wagner and for all round work he is the player par excellence for his team. The big German is a whole team in himself and no player ever lived who by his individual effort kept any team fighting for the pennant up to the last ditch as Wagner did the Pirates, year after year."

"Bush I place next to Wagner, and then Turner, who has a shade on Bridewell, of the Giants. I pick the shortstops thus:—Wagner, Bush, Turner, Bridwell, Tinker, Doolin, Wagner (Boston), Hauser, Downey, Hartsell, T. Smith, Blackburn."

"I place the left fielders in this order:—Wheat, Bescher, De Vere, Bates, Clarke, Ellis, Sheppard, Cree, McIntyre, Hartsell, Lelivelt, Dougherty, Krueger, Collins, Stone, Niles."

EMPRESS DEFEATED ROSS RIFLE F.C.

After Close Game by 5 to 2—
Ross Men at Top of Their Form.

After a well-contested and exciting match the Empress A. F. C. defeated the Ross Rifle men yesterday evening by securing five goals to the home-sters' three. The score is a fair indication of the game, as although the Ross forwards were unlucky and did much of the pressing in the second half, their own was saved from disaster on four or five occasions only by the good clearing of Power, who, after a few moments of unsteadiness at the beginning, proved a tower of defence throughout the rest of the game. The Empress should have increased their score since they were awarded two penalties, but on both occasions the forward taking them shot too high. Both teams played well, the forward lines especially distinguishing themselves and if the Ross back division had been up to the standard of their opponents, there would have been little to choose between the eleven. In Perry and Jarvis the winners possess two outsiders who can get away with the ball, and can both shoot and centre. The Ross forwards have now got together and their passing and combination leaves little to be desired. The game started with the Empress playing down hill and they took the first goal within a few seconds, the second following almost directly after, and a third being headed in cleverly by their left wing, all within a space of ten minutes or so. Things looked as if it would be a runaway at this time and for a while the visitors continued to attack, their outside right bringing off some sensational runs and endangering the home goal with a succession of shots, some of which were effective although they were very close to the target. The Ross forwards now worked the ball up the field and put in a good shot, but the range was too far for the ball to have much sting in it when it reached the goalkeeper and Neil had little difficulty in clearing.

Play was quickly transferred to the other end where Power saved a stinger from the right wing and the home forwards getting hold of the ball took it up by pretty combination on the left, Spry scoring the first point for the Ross Rifle. The Empress, however, immediately retaliated and half time found the score 4 to 1 in their favor.

The second half was much more equal, each side scoring one goal and the Ross men trying hard to catch up and putting more spirit into their attack. At the outset a penalty was given against them and it looked bad for them, but the ball was put over the bar. The fifth and last goal scored by the Empress followed shortly and then the Ross got going and putting up a hard fight gave Neil some work. Another penalty was given against them, but Power saved by conceding a corner. Exchanges were pretty even for a while until the second goal was put through by the sharpshooters. The Empress then made determined efforts to increase their lead, and their outside left, who was most conspicuous during the half, made some brilliant runs and eq. at brilliant shots, but Power was superior to the occasion and saved almost certain goals time after time. The match was keenly fought out to the last minute and ended, as mentioned above, with the score 5 to 2 in favor of the visitors.

QUEBEC PULPWOOD IS PLENTIFUL

No Shortage Says Consul in Report to Washington.

Washington, July 25.—Denial that there was a shortage of pulpwood in Quebec such as to justify an increase in the price of paper was made by United States Consul Willrich at Quebec, in an official report to the Department of State. The following summary of the report was made by officials of the department: "The Consul states that there is not likely to be a shortage in the future supply of the market in the United States because of the restrictions placed by the provincial authorities upon the exportation of pulpwood cut on Crown lands. He states that despite the prohibition of exportation of pulpwood from Crown lands subsequent to May 1 last, the supply on hand, and which may be secured from private lands in the future, will be entirely adequate in the demand and there need be no application of shortage.

"The market for pulpwood has been poor, which shows a lack of demand on part of buyers in the United States. There are hundreds of thousands of cords of pulpwood available for exportation this time. While the percentage of pulpwood cut from Crown lands has not been large, it has been sufficient to prevent the sale at fair prices of great quantities of such wood cut on private lands. This has accumulated, and in many cases has remained stacked up along railroad sidings in enormous quantities without finding a purchaser. It is estimated that a number of concerns have sought to create the impression of an impending shortage of pulpwood so as to justify an increase in the price of paper, but nothing in the situation in Quebec warrants such an assumption."

URGENT NEED FOR A NEW DRY DOCK

Letter Forwarded to the Ministers of Public Works and of Marine.

The following letter has been forwarded by the Harbor Commission to the Minister of Public Works and of Marine:—

QUEBEC HARBOR COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE,
July 23rd, 1910.

To the Honorable Wm. Pugsley, M. P., P.C., Minister of Public Works, Ottawa.

Sir,—I have been directed by the Commissioners to again respectfully call your attention to the urgent need of a modern dry-dock at Quebec.

There are about twenty steamers trading to the St. Lawrence too large to be admitted in the Levis Graving Dock, and should an accident happen to any of these large vessels, they may become total wrecks for the lack of suitable docking accommodation on the St. Lawrence.

The increasing trade to the St. Lawrence, and the tendency of modern shipbuilding which goes on increasing constantly the size and draft of vessels for the St. Lawrence route, so as to enable them to advantageously compete with the American ports, make it imperative that a graving dock of a greater capacity be provided.

The Canadian Pacific, the Allans, the White Star-Dominion, the Canadian Northern and other steamship companies are, I understand, contemplating building larger steamers than any now on the St. Lawrence route, and, no doubt, other companies will follow their example, as the trade of the country and the passenger business are so rapidly increasing.

The two last accidents on the St. Lawrence, that of the ss Prinz Oskar, and the ss Aotea, happened almost simultaneously, and the consequence is that, owing to the Graving Dock being occupied by the Prinz Oskar, the Aotea is unable to have permanent repairs made in Quebec. It was thought for some time, to send her to New York for repairs. Should another steamer become a total wreck, as was the case with the Allan steamer Bavarian, which was floated, but was too large to be docked, there is no doubt that the Underwriters will assuredly take advantage of the mishap to increase the rates of insurance on the St. Lawrence route, which are now higher than to New York.

For all these reasons, which are of momentous importance to the Canadian trade and to the good reputation of the St. Lawrence route, the Commissioners hope that the Government will take the necessary steps towards the construction, with the least delay possible, of a modern dry-dock capable of receiving any of the steamers now afloat, or likely to be afloat for years to come.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
(Signed) RAOUL RENAULT,
Secretary-Treasurer.
Quebec, 21st July, 1910.

THE QUESTION OF FREIGHT RATES

Is Being Closely Followed Up—Letter From Allans to the Grocers' Exchange.

The Grocers' Exchange, now that it has with the aid of the Harbor Commission succeeded in securing the abolition of the extra charge of 80 cents on freight coming to the port of Quebec in the case of the Empresses, has been following up the matter by writing to the other lines with the object of doing away with the handicap in their case also. The following letter has been received from the Allan Line in answer:—

"Quebec Wholesale Grocers' Association, Quebec, P. Q.:

Dear Sirs,—We have your favor of the 20th instant. Notwithstanding that we have a great desire to carry as much freight as possible by our steamers from London, Liverpool and Glasgow to the port of Quebec, and although we have our own wharf at Quebec, we have felt for years past that we could not carry cargo destined locally to Quebec on the same basis of rates as to the Port of Montreal, because the cost of handling cargo at your port is very much greater than at the port of Montreal. However, this may be, we have recently ascertained that it is the intention of the C.P.R. S.S. lines to carry goods by their Empress steamers to Quebec on the basis of the Montreal rates, and we have cabled our agents in Liverpool advising them of this fact and asking for their instructions and advice concerning the matter. Up to the time of writing, however, we have not received any reply to our cable message, so that we are not in a position at present to advise you what we are prepared to do regarding the matter. We have expressed above our desire to do business at the Port of Quebec, and we wish to render to the merchants of Quebec a satisfactory service on a business basis. We would suggest, however, that some of the merchants of Quebec should take part in the general endeavor to make the rates of remuneration to the Quebec wharf laborers the same as they are in Montreal, and when this is done we feel that the steamship lines would be in a position to carry goods to Quebec at the same rates as to Montreal. We do not wish you to imply from the remarks set forth above that we are not prepared to full in with your suggestions, but we desire to hear from our Liverpool agents before reaching a decision. Yours truly,

H. & A. ALLAN."

TWO SISTERS AND ESCORT DROWNED

Third Girl Had Narrow Escape—Tragic Ending of Camping Party.

New Brunswick, N. J., July 25.—The treacherous undercurrents of Raritan Bay swept down two young sisters to their death this afternoon, outbattled their escort when he tried to fight his way to their rescue and exhausted a third girl of the party. The dead: Anna Hill, 21 years old, Highland Park, N. J.; Edith Hill, 19, Highland Park; Gordon Silverthorne, 22, Newark, N. J. The rescued girl was Helen White, 20, of New Brunswick.

The young people were camping out near here and rowed out for an afternoon's swim. A hundred yards out they dived overboard together. Silverthorne had not gone far when he heard Anna Hill scream for help. She went down before he could reach her. Silverthorne then seemed to slacken his strokes and was soon splashing wildly. Meanwhile Harry Bloodgood put out from shore in another rowboat and got Edith Hill and Miss White aboard, but not before Silverthorne sank. He was unconscious when hauled into the boat. Physicians worked over all three, but only Miss White was revived.

An epidemic of disease is feared as a result of conditions caused by the heavy rains. Owing to the scarcity of prepared foods the relief committee has been compelled to reduce the allowance. Hundreds of men, women and children flocked round the relief station to-day imploring aid. Their condition is pitiable, and the situation seems to have got beyond the grasp of the relief committee.

RASH APPEARS AGAIN.
Summer Eczema and Hot Weather Skin Troubles Demand Prompt Treatment with Poslam.
All skin troubles which are prevalent in hot weather—rashes, inflammations, so-called summer eczema, itching spots, hives, pimples, etc. demand the use of poslam for their prompt eradication. Their causes are found in overheated blood, skin irritation, digestive disorders, etc. In some persons the eating of fish or berries in certain months always brings them on. For clearing the complexion, red or inflamed noses, sunburn, mosquito bites, burns, etc., poslam should be used in preference to aught else, surprising results being noted after a single application.
The readiness with which poslam heals small surfaces and minor troubles is but an indication of its rapid action in curing eczema, tetter, scabies, itch, etc., on hands, limbs, scalp or any part of the body.
A special 50-cent package of poslam is prepared for minor uses, and this as well as the regular $2 jar, is on sale by all druggists, particularly Henry Willis, 4 St. John street.
But a free sample, which will afford a convincing test, may be obtained by mail, by writing to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th street, New York City.

WILDING WORLD'S GREATEST PLAYER

Australian Has Great Record at Tennis, Having Defeated Many.

Because he will be one of America's opponents in the next Davis cup matches in December, Anthony Frederick Wilding, who has won the all-English series, is one of the most important personages in the tennis world to-day. His defeat of A. W. Gore, holder of the title in the challenge round, and his win over Beals C. Wright in the final, means that Wilding has improved his game of late. In 1908 when the American team went to Melbourne after the Davis cup, Wright beat Wilding by three sets to one, the score then being 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1.
It is only natural that Wilding should beat Gore, for the New Zealander is only 27 years off age while the Englishman is 42. With Wilding it is a case of the game being in the blood, for his father, Frederick Wilding, seven times made one of the doubles which won the New Zealand championships. In his early days Anthony was coached by his father and when 16 won a handicap singles at the New Zealand championship tourney. The following year he won the championship of Canterbury. Then he went to Cambridge University and played against Oxford in 1904.
In 1903 he won many prizes in open tournaments. He won the Scottish championship in 1904 and the same year he captured the singles at Reading, Sheffield, Epsom, Shrewsbury, Eastbourne and Queen's autumn meeting, at Cannes, Barcelona, Paris, Wiesbaden, Hamburg, Baden-Baden, and Prague. In 1905 he won the South of France championship and all three-cornered championships at the Queen's Club. With Norman E. Brooks he won the doubles championship at Wimbledon in 1907 and with Major J. C. Ritchie the doubles in 1908 at Wimbledon, and the same year he covered courts doubles, mixed doubles, South of France championship singles, the Cannes cup, singles at Wiesbaden, Baden, Dieppe and numerous other prizes. Wilding made one of the doubles champions of Europe at Hamburg in 1908 and with Norman E. Brooks represented Australia against America in the Davis cup matches, when he won the fifth and deciding match from Frederick B. Alexander.
Wilding also represented Australia in the Davis cup matches of 1905 and last year. He won the championship of New Zealand in 1906 and 1908 and the championship of Victoria last year, defeating Norman E. Brooks. Wilding won the International singles at Brussels this year. He was formerly a lieutenant in the King's Colonials, and along with being a good cricketer is a keen motorcyclist.

The latest statistics give Montreal a population of 550,000. Thus her population has doubled in the past ten years. The value of her taxable property in the same time has increased from $235,000,000 to $270,000,000 and her annual revenue from $3,000,000 to over $5,000,000. In bank clearings she is seventh among the cities of the continent, in shipping she is second, but is crowding New York hard for first place. Three great transportation companies are planning to spend many millions on new terminals, hotels, etc., and three underground railroads are clamoring for the right to spend more millions. Despite its premier position among the cities of Canada, real estate values in the heart of the city are lower than in Toronto or even Vancouver. It looks very much as if they were selling below their proper value.

MR. BALFOUR ON PREFERENCE
The Asquith Government was not persuaded by Mr. Balfour's appeal in behalf of Imperial trade preference. It was not with any hope of overcoming Ministers' adhesion to free trade that the leader of the Opposition made that appeal. He could not expect the premier and his colleagues to capitulate to the Tariff Reformers as soon after an election campaign in which their free trade budget was the paramount issue. Nothing could be more uncompromising than has been their attitude on the question of trade policy. They have never wavered from the Cobden principle.

TOPICS OF THE DAY
Mr. Balfour's urgent call to them to yet depart from that principle and make the policy of Imperial preference one upon which all parties agree was evidently for the purpose of giving tariff reform its one prominence in a parliament that has the promise of but a short life and gives little opportunity for other business than the discussion of proposals affecting the House of Lords. There was danger that this parliament might run its brief and exciting course without affording an opportunity to bring forward the trade policy towards which the bulk of the nation is fast turning and to which the over-sea dominions are committed. Next year the Imperial conference will meet, and it was in the highest degree important that the chief question that conference will have to deal with should engage the attention of Parliament in its present session. Apparently the Government was inclined to leave Parliament out of account in the business of preparing for the conference, and had it not been for the enquiries made in the Commons the other day, and for the notable speech delivered there by Mr. Lyttelton, the House might have heard nothing on that subject. The present session will soon end. There will be an Autumn session, and if the pending conference on the veto legislation should prove fruitless, that session will probably be the last one of the present Parliament. As the Autumn session is to be taken up with highly contentious business, there will be small chance for attention to Imperial policy. It was therefore in good season that Mr. Balfour bought up the question of preference. In doing so he gave satisfaction to an immense body of public opinion in the United Kingdom, and, as we have already said, reminded the House of what was due from Parliament by way of attention to the coming Imperial Conference. Further, his speech is a notification to the British public that Tariff Reform and Preference will be the slogan of the Unionists in the next election. As to the British public's interest in the Tariff question, there is reason to believe that it probably preponderates over British public interest in any other trade question at the present time. In the last general elections a majority adverse to the Lloyd-George budget was returned, for the Nationalists were strongly opposed to several features of that scheme of taxation. The tremendous reduction in the strength of the Government, a reduction, that leaves it absolutely dependent upon the Nationalists, was undoubtedly due in part to the reaction against free trade, its economic fruits, and the fiscal extremes to which it has driven the Government. As Mr. Balfour says, the Imperial aspect of the question increases in gravity no less rapidly than does the national aspect. While British producers are being beset by foreign competitors in the home market, the Governments by which these foreign competitors are fostered are allowed to make reciprocal arrangements with the full-grown young communities of the Empire, whose trade practically is towards the Mother Country.
