Mrs. Alex Hurry Spoke At Rotary Lunch Wednesday

"Crime Prevention Among 'Teen Aged Girls" Topic of President of Big Sister Association—Annual Golf Party to be Held June 23rd—Miss Norma McLean and Rotarians Rovery and Cuthbert Entertained

Wives, mothers and sweethearts swelled the ranks of the Westmount Rotary Club on Wednesday in Victoria Hall, the regular weekly luncheon meeting being observed as annual "Ladies' Day." Nearly one hundred attended the event, which was colourful and interesting.

The ladies were welcomed by President J. K. Carver, who thanked them for their co-operation in many phases of Rotary work, and for attending the luncheon. He also reminded the Rotarians of the forthcoming annual golf party, to be held following the regular weekly luncheon on June 23rd. Marlborough Golf Club will be the probable locale. Further details would be given at a later date, stated the president.

Entertainment was fursished by Miss Norma McLean, violinist, who played two interesting solos, and Rotarians John Rovery and S. B. Cuthbert, who sang a duet, "Watchman, What of The Night?" Mr. Rovery sang "No Rose in All the World" as an encore number. All three artists were given hearty applause. Rotarian Percy French presided at the piano.

The speaker was Mrs. Alex Hurry, president of the Big Sisters' Association, and her subject was "Crime Prevention in the 'teen aged Girl." Mrs. Hurry spoke with authority, having had many years' experience in social service work of this sort, and gave many interesting instances which showed the importance of this phase of welfare activity.

The greatest need of today, thought Mrs. Hurry, was to organize groups to give 'teen aged girls the support and help that has already been given to boys of like age, and she stated that service clubs, such as Rotary, could readily appreciate that this work is most effective when done for both girls and boys.

She outlined the work of the Big Sister Association, stating that it is one of the agencies of the Federated Charities, and that more than 1300 individual cases had been investigated and undertaken during the past year.

'Teen aged girls will tend to be delinquent when not attached to organized recreational and occupational groups, declared Mrs. Hurry. Hence the solution is to form groups for these girls, so that their spare time may be utilized in useful pursuits instead of idleness. She cited some cases to show that delinquency is not confined to girls from underprivileged families, but is quite common even in the west end of the city.

When girls have no one with whom to talk over their problems, they often seek diversion in pursuits that lead to delinquency, went on the speaker. It is here that the Big Sister Association steps in; the genuine atmosphere of friendliness found at headquarters is a big help in getting girls to discuss their problems, she stated.

To keep girls from being malcontents, they must be kept busy said Mrs. Hurry. There are three ways in which to do this: (1) find employment, (2) train them for certain kinds of work, such as

Quiet Week Is Passed By Local Force

Minor Mishaps, Few Cases of Loitering and Begging Make Up the List at Stanton Street

A quiet week has been passed by the local police department, a few cases of loitering and begging and two or three minor motor smashes being the most disturbing cases during the past few days.

On Monday evening at nine o'clock, opposite 4134 Dorchester street, a car turning west on Dorchester from Gladstone avenue collided with a car travelling east on Dorchester. Sidney Wood, driver of the struck car, stated that the other vehicle had made rather a wide turn. This was admitted by Mrs. A. Barry, driver of the second vehicle. Constable Lauzon investigated.

On Tuesday a 2 p.m. opposite 4409 St. Catherine street, a truck and auto locked horns, the truck as usual coming out on top. Lieutenant Byford, who investigated, learned that the truck driver, Arthur Quesnel, had turned into a lane there and after getting into it, noticed that it was a one-way thoroughfare and that he was going the wrong way. Accordingly he backed out, but failed to see Alex Vallance's Buick stopped on north side of St. Catherine street, and backed into it.

The Buick suffered a large dent in the lower part of the door on the left side, while the truck seemed to be undamaged.

Local Student Wins Honours

Clifford F. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Brown, 642 Lansdowne avenue, obtained his Bachelor of Commerce degree at the McGill convocation held recently, and was awarded the Lieut-Governor's Medal and the F. W. Sharpe prize for accountancy.

Mr. Brown leaves for St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea on the twenty first of the month, and on his return in the fall will join P. S. Ross and Sons, Chartered Accountants. He will resume studies at the same time, and will prepare for a Chartered Accountant's degree.

Mr. E. P. Brown is in the Electric Light department at the City Hall.

Mr. R---Has Real Fish Story But Admits That It Is A Lie

Here is a story that you may not believe. As a matter of fact, Mr. R.—, who tells it, admits first of all that it is a lie. But anyway, here goes.

Back in 1906, Mr. R—and his wife were out fishing on Lake St. Louis (at Bellevue, if you must know). Tempus was fugiting, as it does, and Mr. R—'s inner man decided that it must be nearly lunchtime. Perhaps the thought of baked fish for lunch hastened the idea.

So Mr. R— took out his gold watch to see what time it was, carelessly holding his rod in the other hand very loosely. And just at that moment a fish bit at his line. Up went Mr. R—'s hand to grab the rod, and his watch slipped out and fell into the water. (This was just 12.35, by the way.)

The watch could not be retrieved, so Mr. R—and his wife went home very sadly, as the watch was a present from Mrs. R—.

Tempus fugited again until a year went by. And on Dominion Day, 1907, Mr. and Mrs. R—were out fishing again, this time with an eye for bass. And it wasn't long before Mr. R—got a bite that proved to be a beauty; a big black bass was landed in the boat.

"What's that sound?" demanded Mr. R—. listening. (You've guessed it!) A steady tick-tick-tick.

In haste Mr. R—took his knife and ripped open Mr. Fish. And there, in the fish's air-bladder he found his watch—still ticking and indicating exactly 12.35.

Mr. R—says that a McGill scientist explains it this way: the digestive action of the fish's muscles kept a watch wound for a whole year. Another scientist thought that the fish had a tapeworm, which wound round the stem of the watch and wound it up every time it slipped a cog.

Your own explanation is as good as any.

Mr. R—says in the first place that it is a lie! But he has a reputation for tall stories, and so if he says it's a lie there's just the possibility that it may be true.

R. L. Calder Speaker At CCF Meeting

Large Audience Heard Noted Lawyer Denounce 'Padlock Law' and Complications

A large audience attended the open meeting held by the Westmount C.C.F. Club on Friday night in Victoria Hall when R. L. Calder, K.C., bitterly denounced the Duplessis "padlock law" and reiterated his promise to defend free of charge anyone who might run afoul of that legislation.

"It is an issue that must be taken to court," he declared, "and I'll do all I can, all a lawyer can do, to defeat this law without a fee whatever. I believe in the British tradition that the fundamental principle of our Constitution is that every man has the right to think and to express his thoughts."

A tendency to suppress free speech was found in the recently enacted legislature. The speaker scoffed at the law he said provided up to 13 months' imprisonment for "propagating or tending to propagate Communism or Bolshevism," definitions of which had been retained by the Premier. The Premier would decide whenever necessary what the two words were supposed to define exactly.

Mr. Calder wondered how many books would be banned from the Province. How many books in the McGill Library would not be allowed to be used in this province? And who, he went on, was to be the judge of the so-called "subversive literature," to decide whether it was Communistic or not? The judge in court? Certainly not. Rather the "intelligent" constable or police officer.

Suggesting rightful agitation as the cornerstone of British politics, Mr. Calder said the "padlock law" was a bad one because it prevented practice of that agitation. "How," he asked, "can you tell whether an idea is good or bad unless you have listened to both sides?" It was not a good law, the speaker said, because it did not permit agitation even of the "infra-red" color, and was the only bill he knew of that had passed a British Legislature without useful discussion.

It had been voted by both the Upper and Lower House. None of the members had voted against it nor had any one of them spoken sensibly of it.

W. E. Walsh, president of the Westmount C.C.F. Club, was in the chair. Mr. Calder was thanked by Dr. J. S. Allan, president of the N.D.G. C.C.F. Club.

Librarians Met Monday

Miss K. R. Jenkins Presided at Meeting of Quebec Library Association; Officers Named

Miss Kathleen Jenkins, librarian of the Westmount Library, presided at a meeting of the Quebec Library Association held Monday evening in the University Women's Club, Peel Street. Miss Jenkins acted as president of the Library Association during the past year, but was succeeded for the ensuing year by Miss A. Chene, of the Montreal Civic Library.

Miss Jenkins gave an informal report of the joint meeting held in Ottawa over the week end, which 38 librarians from Montreal and district attended.

Other members of the executive chosen include: Miss H. Haltain, vice-president; Miss Agnes Coffey, secretary; Miss S. Grimson, treasurer; and the Misses J. Chabot, M. E. Hibbard, C. S. Houston. A. G. McDougall and Dr. W. W. Francis, councillors. All the above are actively associated with Library work in Montreal and district.

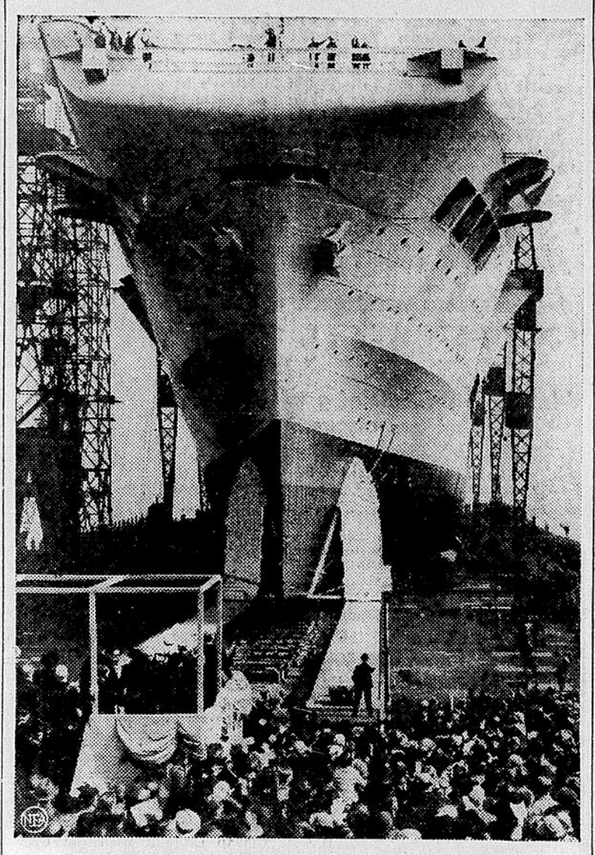
English Scholar Here On Visit To Library

Dr. Richard Offer, of the staff of the University of Leeds, England paid a visit to the Westmount Library last week.

The noted scholar had been on a tour of Canadian libraries, studying architecture and design of these institutions, and had heard so much of the Westmount Library that he included it in his itinerary.

Dr. Offer sailed for home shortly after his visit to Westmount.

BRITISH WAR ARK LAUNCHED



Christened Ark Royal, the first of Britain's new aircraft carriers is pictured above as it slid majestically into the sea at Merseyside. The ship displaces 22,000 tons, will carry 70 airplanes, cost $15,000,000 and represented England's first move in a two-billion-dollar-a-year armament program.

Thoughtless Pedestrians Scored For Crossing Lawns

By MELVILLE SINN

The citizens of Westmount are proud of their city, and they have every reason to feel that way. Visitors are loud in their praise of the general beauty of Westmount and do not hesitate to express the opinion that it is one of the cleanest and best kept cities on the continent. Not only do our civic officials see to it that Westmount is well looked after as to clean and well lighted streets, inviting and beautiful parks, but every encouragement is given to householders to beautify their grounds whether large or small.

While much money and time are spent by citizens in keeping their lawns in condition there is unfortunately a certain class of people who appear to be quite indifferent as to whether or not lawns, shrubbery or flowers decorate the avenues, or whether well-defined paths cut the corners of every lawn. These "grasshoppers," as they are commonly called, prey particularly on the landowner who is endeavouring to cultivate a lawn on the corner of an avenue. This is practically an impossibility as every second person wishing to round the corner will cut in a few feet and thereby save the four strides that would have been necessary to navigate the pavement.

These grasshoppers may be divided into three classes. The "Give your dogs a break," class and, "As the crow flies," class are probably the worst offenders. The former firmly believe that whoever originated cement had no thought whatsoever for the wear and tear on one's feet, and therefore on the disappearance of the snow he avoids the sidewalks entirely, and giving his "dogs a break," migrates to the soft turf where, by the continual tramping of his group a path is soon formed on which no grass will grow, parallel to the sidewalk.

The second, or "as the crow flies group" is the one that probably causes more aggravation among Westmount's amateur gardeners than the annual income tax blank. These tardy individuals see no reason for wasting energy or time and are of the opinion that one should arrive at one's destination "as the crow flies." Hence unless a broad flower bed or thick hedge retards their progress, the members of this group saunter unconcernedly across the heart of the lawn, the existing condition of the grass and the damage they may cause being thoughts farthermost from their minds.

Civic authorities report that the landscaping in the vicinity of the schools suffers most, as the inmates of these institutions seem at times to delight in jumping hedges and taking short cuts when no limit of time is at their disposal.

The "branch carrier" members of the third group do not cause the damage of the first two classes but are just as annoying. The members of this class, try as they may, cannot pass the branches, placed on a lawn for the benefit of the first two groups, without the urge swelling within them to catch half of a branch and drag in along onto the next lawn, or pull it out of place anyway. Fortunately there are comparatively few in this class, but three or four trips daily after his branches is quite sufficient to ruffle the feathers of the most placid Westmount taxpayer.

There is nothing much one can do to curb the activities of these grasshoppers, but when one is nursing along a reluctant plot of tender young grass, about the only living thing one wishes to see stamping down the blades is a Robin or maybe a sparrow or two.

Col. Price Addressed Kiwanians

'Defence Forces in National Life of Canada' Topic of Former Alderman Tuesday

Self-respect, discipline, loyalty and a sense of duty are the factors which constitute a soldierly spirit, contended Col. C. B. Price, D.S.O., D.C.M., V.D., A.D.C., addressing the St. Lawrence Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon meeting in the Queen's Hotel Tuesday. The development of this spirit is the underlying motive of the Canadian militia, he went on, and held that the spirit of militarism is not animating the movement. His subject was 'The Defence Forces in The National Life of Canada."

Reviewing the military history of the Dominion since 1649, the speaker suggested that in many respects the history of the armed forces of Canada was the history of the country itself. Recent world events revealed the comparative sense of security which Canada enjoyed in comparison with many other countries, he continued, but it must not be forgotten that the security of Canada had been purchased at the price of great sacrifices and great loyalties and devotion to duty. The Canadian militia has turned out to face wars and alarums of wars on an average of one every 15 years since 1649 and in spite of neglect in times of peace and security it had never yet failed the country.

Stating that no history of the Defence Forces of Canada was complete without reference to the splendid part played by British regulars who built the first roads and canals and were among the earliest settlers, Col. Price went on to say that it was their spirit of loyalty and devotion which present-day militiamen liked to think animated the modern Canadian forces.

"I think that in the past few years Great Britain has demonstrated that character in a nation is just as important as character in an individual—respect for authority, loyalty, traditions, discipline and sane moderation" he added.

'Outside its functions as a military force the militia helps to build up such qualities in the youth of the country. These might be summed up in the term, 'soldierly spirit', and they comprise self-respect, discipline, loyalty and duty. If we can inculcate these qualities into our national life the country will, undoubtedly, be enriched thereby. I feel that the militia does that for our country today."

Schoolgirl Hurt Monday

Esther Goldenberg Bruised After Mishap With Bicycle—Driver Says He Was Driving Slowly

When a bicycle driven by Ernest Bolduc, 14, of 100 Abbott avenue, collided with Esther Goldenberg, 16, of 417 Mount Stephen avenue, on Monday on Academy road, the little girl suffered injuries to her elbow, a bruise on the calf of her right leg, and complained of a pain in her spine. Following the mishap which occurred at about 12.10 opposite the Girls' door of Westmount High School, the girl was driven home in an atuo by Miss Shearing, one of the teachers.

The girl claimed that the driver of the bicycle failed to give her his name after the collision, but she succeeded in getting his license number. This was traced to Ernest Bolduc, it is understood, who is said to have admitted striking the girl. He claimed she came from between two parked cars and walked into the side of his machine, which he said he was driving at a slow rate of speed.

Lieutenant Byford investigated.

Library To Close Saturdays During July And August

New Departure Felt Advisable Because of Reduced Patronage in Summer Months—Hours to be Shortened Also—Children's Classes Now Finished For Season—Reading List is Issued

For the first time in its history, Westmount Public Library will close on Saturdays during the months of July and August, it was announced by Miss Kathleen Jenkins, Librarian, to The Examiner yesterday. The library will also be closed on Saturday, September 4th, the Saturday previous to Labour Day.

It is felt that during the summer, when a good percentage of Westmount residents are away, the number of persons using the library is not sufficient to warrant its being kept open every day in the week. Patronage has fallen off considerably during the past week or so, as is usual during the hot weather.

Commencing July 1st, library hours will be shortened by half an hour, it was also stated. Adults will have access to the building from 10 a.m. to 9.30 p.m., instead of 10 p.m. as at present, and children's hours will be from 2 till 6 p.m.

The series of children's classes, wherein groups of scholars from Westmount schools visited the Library during school hours for educational periods, has now been drawn to a close for the season. The venture was highly successful, and plans are entertained for a similar project to be followed next fall and winter.

Reading List

The second reading list, being a guide to current literature in the fields of fiction, travel, biography, etc., has been issued. Most of the new books received by the library are included, but the aim is to provide a comprehensive index of reading matter. The list follows:

Police, Fire To Organize Rifle Club

Small Bore Shooting to be Object of Rumoured Project by Local Athletic Association

Westmount Police and Fire Amateur Athletic Association plans to form a small bore rifle club among its members in the near future, it was learned this week, thus adding shooting to its many activities.

Discussion of the matter has been under way unofficially for the past few weeks, and within a week or two a meeting will be held to get the project organized and to determine the possibilities and advantages of such a group.

Many of the members of the two departments are former army and navy men, and have had some experience in marksmanship outside local routine training. The formation of such a club would prove of great interest to the men, and would be assured hearty support.

It is understood that actual shooting will not be commenced until the fall of the year.

There is a strong possibility that teams will be chosen from among the members of the local force to compete in the provincial and dominion rifle meets held every year at Pointe-aux-Trembles and Ottawa once the rifle club here gets properly organized.

Small bore rifle clubs have been gaining in popularity throughout Canada during the past few years, and it was more or less to be expected that the local forces would sooner or later make plans to organize a body of this sort.

No date for the official meeting has been set, but it is understood that it will be within the next two weeks.

Rev. T. W. Jones At Conference

Rev. T. W. Jones, of Calvary United Church, preached at Stewarton United Church in Ottawa on Sunday, the occasion being the fiftieth anniversary of that congregation. His pulpit here was taken by Rev. Frederick S. Milliken, of Stewarton Church.

Mr. Jones returned to the city to attend the session of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference of the United Church held here this week, at which he delivered the opening address on Wednesday.

Many Things Point To Summer; Dearth Of News Most Important

In the park, we know its summer because of the flowers in bloom, the boidies in the trees and the earthworms crawling over the paths; in the country, we know it's summer because of the butterflies, the sunshine and the mosquitoes; and in the city we know it's summer because of the hot sidewalks, cold drink vendors in the street and because the street cleaners have changed over from shovels to brushes.

But in the editorial department, we know it is summer because there is a dearth of news. We are beginning to think that Westmount is something like Grand Hotel—nothing ever happens. A few routine things, like a lecture at Victoria Hall, a council meeting, or a few minor motor smashes, make up the bulk of the week's happenings; and your editor, reporter, rewrite man, headline writer and chief stooge (all rolled into one) is having a tough time to find enough material with which to fill this page one.

We send out a heart-felt plea to all local residents: if you have any items of interest, let's have 'em! This of course applies at all times of the year, but during the summer months more than ever.

We've worked hard for three years to make The Examiner interesting and useful in the community; and it really breaks our heart to have to continue working hard in hot weather in order to keep up what we've started. If you've any mercy at all, help us out! Let us have your news items, no matter how small or seemingly unimportant.

If you don't, we'll have to write more stories like this to fill space.

WESTMOUNT, FRIDAY, JUNE 4, 1937

A GESTURE TO EMPLOYEES

The action of the Dominion Stores in declaring every Wednesday afternoon a half holiday throughout the summer months is one that will be greatly appreciated by the employees and indeed by the public, and is an example that should be followed by others. The Dominion Store management would naturally have liked to close down Saturday afternoons, along with many other big businesses, but service to the customer had to be considered along with service to the employees, for practically all week-end shopping is done on Saturday. Until the present time, the half-holiday question has been dismissed by chain grocery and meat stores as impracticable; but the Dominion Stores, continually trying to improve the lot of its employees, have decided to grant a half holiday in the middle of the week. It is a move that will undoubtedly be sympathetically received by the company's customers, and acclaimed by the public at large.

WHEN WILL IT BE STARTED?

Local residents who have recently had occasion to traverse the stretch of highway from the Curtiss-Reid airport to Cartierville recall wistfully that last winter the provincial government offered to cooperate with the City of Montreal in widening and resurfacing the roadway on the island of Montreal. But no progress was made—nothing whatever has been done—and the road is in the worst condition in years with bumps and holes everywhere. With a fine, modern highway from St. Laurent to the Curtiss-Reid airport, and an equally fine road from Belmont Park to St. Rose, it is ridiculous that traffic should be bottle-necked on the comparatively short stretch of bad road. It has been reported that the Town of Cartierville has objected to the widening of the road on the ground that the present narrow and bumpy stretch serves the useful purpose of slowing down traffic as it passes through the village. It is undoubtedly desirable to slow down traffic going through the town, but it is not necessary to tolerate a bad and dangerous road to do that. A "20-mile an hour" sign at the town's limits, and a couple of good traffic cops who would really bring offenders —all offenders—to time, would slow down traffic just as effectively as a roadway that bounces motorists around.

PERSECUTION IN POLAND

The way human emotions work is hard to figure out, sometimes.

For many years Poland was a conquered province of the old Russian empire. Its people suffered long-continued oppression and injustice. The hand of the czars lay heavily on their backs, and men looked forward with hopeless longing to the day of freedom.

Freedom came, at last. Poland regained its independence. And one would suppose that Poland, of all nations, would be scrupulous about treating minorities with decency and justice.

Yet anti-semitism is flaming all across Poland today. Pogroms as cruel and bloody as any the czar's minions unloosed are taking place. The people who suffered persecution for years are now persecuting in their turn. How explain the riddle of an emotional shift like that?

BASIS OF PROSPERITY

If price declines and gloomy predictions emanating from the stock market have worried you, of late, you might draw comfort from the current Business Bulletin of the Cleveland Trust Company.

This bulletin points out that all the figures of production and profits point to continued prosperity. Iron and steel mills are running close to capacity. The auto industry is having a big year. Construction is improving. The railroads are carrying more freight and making more money. Retail trade is improving. And as long as these fundamentals go on in this way, no one need be afraid.

"Probably the chief cause of our worries," remarks the Bulletin, "is that most of us had forgotten that even during recoveries there are no such things as continuously rising markets."

"Arctic Supply Plane Hits Polar Base on the Dot." With nothing on all sides by south, that's flying!

"Greatest Need is More Careful Drivers." Yes, or fewer of the other kind.

Paul Blanshard, Commissioner of Accounts of New York City, finds that 3 per cent of the city employees are paying $900,000,000 a year in garnishments on their salaries. They can borrow from the Municipal Credit Union and National City Bank at 5.7 per cent; from other Banks at 9 to 11 per cent; from the Morris Plan at 16 per cent; from Personal Finance Corporation at 24 per cent and from those lending money on jewelry at 200 per cent . . . There appears to be no sound reason why one third of the maple trees in Canada should not be brought into production. Dominion Fruit Branch officials say this should soon be changed if the public would realize that maple syrup and maple sugar are not merely seasonal products but good all the year round. Neither deteriorates by time in any way if kept properly sealed or covered and in cool storage. Eighty per cent of the trees in the U.S.A. are tapped each year. If Canadian trees were tapped in the same way our crop would exceed 60,000,000 dollars in an average year.

The Gleaner is one of the leading weeklies in Canada and goes to the homes of many of the most successful dairy farmers and breeders of high class horses and cattle in Canada. An interesting feature of the Gleaner is the weekly contribution of Paula Dicks entitled "What's in the Wind." The writer is the wife of one of the leading milk producers in the district and before her marriage was secretary to a number of well-known business men in Toronto and Ottawa. She now writes with a good knowledge of the inside of big business and a thorough knowledge of the duties of a wife and mother on one of the quite large dairy farms of the district. Her husband also has a good knowledge of business of all sorts as he practised law for a number of years before establishing himself as a dairy farmer. Probably one day we will hear more of Paula Dicks and let us hope she will find the time in her very busy life to write a book or two which are probably germinating in her active and observant mind.

With the beginning of the Reuter news agency in 1847, the press association came into being and the modern newspaper era began. Canada's first newspaper was the Halifax Gazette which was established in 1752 by John Bushel.

Many printers and others who had a knowledge of newspaper work came to Canada with the United Empire Loyalists and from that time on the business of gathering and distributing news in Canada has progressed quickly. Latest figures show that there are 1,100 newspapers in Canada either daily, semi-weekly, weekly, or tri-weekly.

A five-mile "horror parade"—a warning to careless motorists—has been staged at Jacksonville, Florida. It consisted of a long procession of wrecked cars, ambulances, hearses and tableaux of the "dead and dying," which wound slowly through the city streets. After the parade the city's prison was thrown open to visitors.

As a tile contractor in Milwaukee, Paul Senn lays tile himself. The Tile Layers' union declares this is against its rules and has tried to stop him by picketing at his home as well as on the job. Senn appealed to the courts for relief and for his right to work. His case has been carried up to the U.S. Supreme Court and a history-making decision will be the result.

If an invention perfected by Dr. Neville M. Hopkins turns out to be all that is claimed for it, radio listeners, disgusted with a programme, will be able to snap off their radios and have it register in the broadcasting studios to which it is tuned.

International meetings of cement producers have recently been held in London and Brussels. The meetings studied the conditions of export in Non-European countries which are not themselves producers, and came to certain decisions with a view to remedying the position of exaggerated competition prevailing on these markets. The results of the meetings have been communicated to the various interested countries, and it is anticipated that agreements will shortly be reached between them. The countries chiefly concerned are Belgium, Great Britain, Germany, Yugoslavia, France and the Scandinavian countries. If they succeed maybe wheat producers will have another try. —The Western Producer.

The experiments of Dr. W. F. Gericke, of the University of California, of growing various vegetables and fruits in vats of chemically-treated water without soil are arousing much interest. Gericke's work has given a variety of names such as "soilless" and "dirtless" farming. Now this scientist has coined the name of "hydroponics" to designate his system of crop production. The term is a combination of two words of Greek origin, "hydro" for water and "ponics" a synonym for work.

Unable to collect a bill of long standing due him, Irwin M. Forbush, Ileon, N.Y., wrote a very "personal" letter to his debtor demanding prompt payment. Back came this reply from the man to Forbush. "Every Saturday night I make out a separate slip for the amount I owe each of my creditors. These I put in a hat and draw out one slip. That bill I pay immediately. So, one more letter out of you like the last one and I take you out of my Saturday night raffle."

Hon. David Croll, who by many was thought to be the most popular member of the Hepburn Cabinet was born at Moscow in 1900 and came to Canada in 1906 with his parents, who were Russian Jews. Educated at Windsor, Ontario, in the public schools, graduated later at Osgoode Hall, he was a practising barrister in his home town until elected to the Legislature on the Liberal wave that swept the Province in 1934. He was Mayor of Windsor from 1932 to 1935. A man of remarkable ability, he is admired and respected quite as much by his opponents as by his supporters.

HUSBANDS

We were hoping that we wouldn't be obliged to do a column this week, what with the hot weather and all, relying on letters from angry wives (readers of last week's effort) to fill the space, thus obviating the necessity of doing any work. But something slipped somewhere; we didn't get any letters! (Can it be possible that we have no readers?)

* * *

So here goes, and we'll tell all about husbands, or as much as we can and dare. Being masculine, we expect to be a husband ourselves some day, so we won't be as hard on them as we were on wives last week. (do we hear the ladies complaining, eh?)

* * *

Husbands are those ethereal, angelic beings without whom the world just couldn't get along. Hubby it is who brings home the bacon, makes life sweet for everyone with whom he comes in contact, and generally is the centre-pin of the universe.

* * *

Just what women would do without husbands to wear holes in socks, be hard on their clothing and make meals necessary, we don't know. Husbands really perform a great service to the world in keeping their wives well supplied with holy socks, buttons to be put on, and dishes to wash. We don't know what the women would do without 'em. (Any suggestions, girls?)

* * *

Husbands are truly economical things to have. Without husbands women would spend all their money on doo-dads for themselves, which would be downright wasteful. Husbands make other expenses necessary, such as shirts, suits, extra food, etc., so that the women can't be extravagant with their ready cash. So you see, it really saves money in the long run, doesn't it, ladies?

HINTS TO HUSBANDS

How to be a good husband: Promptly at six every morning push wifey out of bed. Doze restfully till about eight ,then when she has drawn a bath for you, get up and take it. After that go downstairs and eat a hearty breakfast—the more you eat the better she likes it. Be sure to dirty lots of dishes too, as this will make sure that she stays at home all morning. Then go to the office. At about ten phone home and tell your wife that you are too busy to get home for lunch—then take your secretary to the nearest restaurant. At supper time, phone that you can't get home for supper, and go to your club. Around midnight roll into a taxi and have the driver help you up the stairs when you get home. Take a five dollar bill out of wifey's purse to pay the bill, and if you are too tired to get up the are too tired to get up the stairs, sleep in the living room. Wifey won't mind. And just a parting thought:— wives are sensitive about little things, so be sure to give her a present every so often. (suggestions: a mop, broom, a new dishpan, package of floor wax and polisher. Please patronize our advertisers.)

A husband is that without which any woman is unlucky; when she has one she has absolutely nothing to ask for. But some of them have their bad points, although it is hard to believe. Some of them are forgetful, and forget to give wifey a beating once a week; some are too indulgent—this is a fault with most of them; and many are not sufficiently insistent that the man is boss of the house. Outside of these minor faults, they are usually pretty satisfactory.

* * *

And now that will be all for this week. It's too hot to work, but not half as hot as it will be in a few days when this column has been circulated, and some angry husbands come in yelling that they have not been given a fair deal. To them we say: we must consider our womenfolks —that's why we have been so impartial. (By the way, we're still a bachelor, girls, just a gentle hint!)

Next week: — Mainly about toads.

SAILED TO ENGLAND

The Rev. H. M. Little, rector of the Church of the Advent, Westmount, sailed by the Ausonia for England, and will be away until the middle of August.

W. Walkley Is Mourned

Victoria Avenue Resident Died Suddenly at His Home on Thursday—Many at Funeral

Many friends and former business associates joined relatives Saturday in St. Matthias Church in paying final tribute to William Henry Walkley, Victoria avenue resident, who died suddenly on Thursday at his home. Rev. Gilbert Oliver officiated at the service, and Mr. Walkley's brother, John M. Walkley, played the organ.

The chief mourners were his wife, formerly Isabella J. Fetherston; a sister, Miss Edith Walkley; another brother Alexander Joseph, and a nephew, John M. Walkley junior.

Among those present were: J. F. Fetherston, Norman Wight, Frederick G. Franckum, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bell, Mrs. A. W. Hugman, John A. Grant, P. J. McCrory, Clare Macfarlane, C. B. Hugman, C. G. Mussell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, S. W. Stevenson, Mrs. C. D. Hislop, A. H. Burton, E. S. Bushell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Jarand, W. H. Tees, H. E. Hurtubise, J. P. Harrison, L. Jaques, A D. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Mead Clark, of Ottawa, J. P. Lovell, H. Jaques, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Auerbach, Robert McGillivray, E. C. Cole, Miss C. Morton, Miss B. Morton, Henry Aitken, W. E. Rhodes, H. E. A. Rose and R. J. Williamson.

Resident Bereaved By Death of Mother

Burial took place at Barbados, British West Indies, of Mary Elizabeth Bourne, mother of Dr. Wesley Bourne of Westmount. She was 88 years of age, and had been ill only a short time previous to her death.

Daughter of William Harding, M.A., an English schoolmaster, she spent most of her life in Barbados where her husband, James Thomas Bourne was a planter. Mr. Bourne predeceased her some years ago, and Dr. Wesley Bourne, another son Henry and a daughter, Mrs. Danell Greenidge both of Barbados, survive.

Brewery Drivers Given Safety Awards

The soundness of the policy of the National Breweries Limited to make sure that their drivers are in perfect health, and their trucks in good condition, was demonstrated on May 26th when 63 of their 106 drivers were presented with "no-accident" medals by the Province of Quebec Safety League.

Covering the entire Province in the delivery of Dawes, Dow, Frontenac and Boswell brewery products, these trucks, driving under all conditions, were on the road in the City of Montreal alone during the year 1936 for a total of 270,570 hours.

The Company's definition of an accident is—"Any collision, however slight and no matter with what, shall be classed as an accident if our truck is in motion." Despite this ruling and the tremendous mileage covered by the trucks, the number of accidents per chauffeur worked out only 1.5.

The medals presented were for "no-accident" records of from one to five years and the Company is to be congratulated on its splendid showing.

An average of three hundred and fifty people are killed annually and 5,700 injured as a direct result of automobile accidents in the Province of Quebec. Eight thousand eight hundred automobile accidents (commercial and private) causing damage is the annual toll of reckless and careless driving, and the annual property damage and cost of injuries in the entire Dominion reaches the astounding figure of $70,000,000,00 or $55.00 per accident, exclusive of legal costs. When these figures are borne in mind, they demonstrate even more definitely the value of the "safe-driving" policy so emphatically endorsed by the National Breweries Limited.

Chinese Makes Sure Savings Are In Safety

Vancouver, B.C. — A Chinese walked into a Mount Pleasant bank, asked to withdraw his savings of $7400.

A puzzled teller spent 15 minutes counting the money, handed it to the silent Chinese who stood at the counter for half an hour counting it over again.

Then the Chinese handed the money back to the teller, muttered: "I leave him wit' you. You gottum all O.K."

The Chinese then revealed he was just checking up on the statement of some friend who told him his money wasn't there.

Nickel To Ring Bell Keeps Peddlers Away

Tired of going to the door for agents, Conant Wait, Los Angeles, has invented a metred doorbell on which he has received a patent. The bell will not ring unless a nickel is put into the slot device. When the nickel is inserted it remains half out of the slot but establishes an electrical contact which sets off the bell.

If there is no one at home the depositor can take the coin out. When the door opens, however, a switch trips a lever that drops the nickel into a box inside the house. When friends call at the Wait home their nickels are returned.

Westmount Represented At Toronto

First Boys' Brigade Dominion Council Held in Queen City Over Week End

The First Westmount Company of the B.B. were represented at the first meeting of th Dominion Council, held in Toronto on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. It was the first opportunity offered the B.B. in Canada of interchanging boys and Officers.

Friday evening, they accompanied the Captain to the Inspection of the seventh Company (Toronto) in Rhodes Ave. United Church, and there witnessed a display of various phases of B.B. work. The Chairman, the Rev. W. Christie spoke briefly.

Saturday afternoon on the University of Toronto Campus, the Toronto Battalion held their annual Revue, and the visiting Officers and boys joined in the programme.

Saturday evening, in St. Barnabas Church Hall, the Officers met for fellowship at a banquet in their honour, tendered by the Parish. The speakers of the evening emphasized the fact that the B.B. had now become deeply rooted in Canada and would continue to develop providing the Officers adhered to the high standards set by the Founder. They lauded the Executive of Montreal and Toronto for their splendid co-operation in bringing the Dominion Council into being.

At the close of the addresses, a film showing the scenes of the Jubilee year of the B.B. in Glasgow (1933) were shown. The picture was appreciated by those present, and will be available in Montreal during the early fall. This was followed by the Election of officers, and Mr. John A. Gair of Toronto was elected President. Montreal chose 4 Councillors for the executive Dominion Council, Messrs. J. Howard Richardson, Gibson Smith, Robert Kidd and Fred Guest. On Sunday in Calvin Church, these Officers were dedicated to their offices by the Rev. Jos. Wasson.

Sunday afternoon a battalion parade exceeding 1000 boys and officers took place and all Montreal visitors paraded with the Toronto Battalion, to St. Barnabas Anglican Church.

After the parade the boys were dismissed in the park on Danforth Avenue, following a march past the Brigade Dominion president.

The First Company of Westmount representatives returned, feeling that this trip had been one of the most inspirational week-ends ever spent, and one that would help them in the preparation of their work in the fall.

BOY SCOUTS AVERT PANIC AMID 5000

Calgary, Alta., — Panic and possible injury to many children was averted by quick-thinking Boy Scouts when a blazing truck tire rolled into a section of a crowd of 5000 persons watching a coronation celebration.

One of a chain across Canada, Calgary Boy Scouts on coronation night lit a beacon on a hill. The fire, 20 feet square, its flames roaring 25 feet high, had started to settle when shifting timber loosened the tire.

Blazing around its entire circumference, the tire rolled down hill and Scouts on guard around the crowd, acting on the quick commands of their officers, forced a lane in a section of the big crowd as the tire, rolling like a meteor, flashed past.

domestic service, and (3) recreational activities. She mentioned here that the Big Sister Association operated hockey, softball, dramatics, sewing, and knitting groups to further this latter end.

In conclusion, Mrs. Hurry said that the 1300 hundred cases handled last year were merely on the fringe of what must be done. Further efforts in the direction of organized groups for study and recreation for these girls must be made, she said, and asked why, since crime costs money, some of it could not be diverted to further preventive work. "Prepare, rather than repair," she urged. She asked the members to give serious thought and support to programmes calling for preventive work among 'teen aged girls.

She was introduced by past-president Henry F. King, and thanked by Rotarian Wilf H. Spearman. President J. K. Carver was in the chair.

ANDY DEVINE WINDING UP A MEAL

Even Andy Devine's wife was a little overwhelmed at the spectacle of the film comedian's two-fisted convoying of spaghetti from his plate to his mouth as the above picture of the couple was taken. The lemon meringue-voiced actor and Mrs. Devine were attending the opening of a new Hollywood cafe. Andy just "strung along" with his food, he said.

BOWLERS' HELD TEA

The Ladies' Branch of the Westmount Lawn Bowling Club held their opening tea on Wednesday afternoon. The tea was preceded by a rink match, president vs. vice-president.

Garden Plots Now Available For Residents

As part of the comprehensive recreational programme undertaken by the City of Westmount for the benefit of its younger residents, gardeninng will again be under way this summer, making the third consecutive season that this hobby has been included on the local list.

A number of garden plots are available back of the Athletic Grounds, about thirty being ready for use. Boys and girls of the city wishing to tend a garden this summer on one of these plots should apply at the Athletic Grounds immediately, as it is hoped to have planting under way by Monday or Tuesday.

Gardening is a hobby that has gained considerable popularity in recent years, especially among younger folk, and in providing these plots for local enthusiasts the city is taking a step in the right direction.

In the two previous years the plots were located on vacant lots. It is felt, however, that the new location will prove more satisfactory, being more central.

Another important branch of the recreational programme is the Westmount Model Yacht Club, which meets every Friday night at the pond in Westmount Park.

Many persons attend the weekly Flycasting and Baiting instruction periods on Tuesday evenings at Murray Park, when experts in these two branches of fishing technique are present to give all in formation needed in this line. About 100 persons were present this week.

Richmond Park Gets 1863 Cannon

Richmond — The first cannon positively identified with the siege of Vicksburg will be mounted for display at the National Military Park, which embraces the ground where Grant's army struggled with Confederate defenders under Pemberton for control of the river port, according to the National Park Service.

A 10-inch columbiad, a huge siege piece weighing fourteen tons, is receiving preservative treatment preparatory to its installation as a permanent exhibit in front of the newly completed museum and administration building.

The gun, which had lain for many years on the property of a Vicksburg resident, was buried with ceremonies in 1900. It was unearthed last Summer and donated to the park. In the barrel of the cannon a bottle was found containing its history, written by Miss Lelia A. Lum, head of the Vicksburg chapter of the United Daughters of Confederacy.

Her researches indicated the columbiad to be the famous "Whistling Dick" whose fire sank the Union gunboat Cincinnati in the Mississippi River nearly seventy-four years ago. The record described how the gun was added to the armament of a fort built by Grant's soldiers after the capitulation of Vicksburg in July, 1863, when the town's supplies were exhausted. The cannon was buried on the fort site.

Safe Moving Proves Hard Job For Men

2,500 Pound Vault Requires Many Able-Bodied Persons to Effect its Removal

New Ashford, Mass. — When able-bodied men of this town responded to an S O S call sent out the other night by the selectmen and installed a 2,500-pound safe in the Beach Hill home of Mrs. Alfred S. Beach, town clerk, she was practically elected to the office for life.

"Only once in a lifetime," was the unanimous verdict of the hardy farmers who tugged and hauled for three solid hours. It was reported that one town official, whose name could not be learned, said "damn!"

Ever since Aug. 16, 1909, when Town Treasurer William J. Roberts died of diphtheria, State officials have urged New Ashford selectmen to buy a combination safe in which to store the records of the Town Clerk, who is custodian of the town's historical documents. Records of the selectmen are in a vault at the school house.

After Town Treasurer Roberts died no one could be found who knew the combination of his safe. When the need of papers in it became urgent a locksmith was summoned from Pittsfield. He took the dynamite route and was successful.

Though crippled, the old safe has been in service for twenty-eight years without a burglar or fire-test. When Selectman Harley P. Phelps heard of one for sale cheap at Pittsfield he bought it for the town. It is 4 feet high, 3 feet wide and 30 inches deep of steel, with combination lock. It has a landscape picture on the front door.

Cattle Follow Salt On Range

Federated Specialists Solve the Problem of Overgrazing Near Water Supplies

Because of the far reaches between watering places in some parts of the range country, cattlemen face a real problem of managing so that the range will be grazed evenly. They need a way to prevent overgrazing near the water supplies and undergrazing and waste of forage in the "in-between" areas. Forage specialists of the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, have found a simple solution that makes it possible to use good pasturage, which, because of the distance from water, has been going to waste when the range as a whole was stocked on the basis of its grazing capacity.

Part of the new idea is directly opposed to old beliefs. Cattlemen have been placing blocks of rock salt near the watering place on the theory that the cattle wanted a drink after consuming salt. The specialists have proved, however, that cattle will often take salt and then graze away from the water hole.

On this information the salting blocks were removed from the watering places and it was found that the cattle would effectively range a greater distance as a result. Cattle ordinarily will not graze more than two and one-half miles away from water, even in level country, unless forced to do so by lack of feed.

Moving the salt blocks made it possible to keep the cattle on the part of the range that was best to use at a particular season of the year. In addition to a partial rotation in grazing, this shifting of the salt supply also kept the cattle beter distributed over the range and proved an inexpensive means of controlling cattle drift. Less fencing was necessary.

STAR'S SWEEPING STRIKE STROKE

It was a Holm-maid job, but it did lend a homey touch to a really striking picture when the photographer caught Eleanor Holm (need we say Jarrett?), cleaning up a bit around her own room when a strike called out employes of a Cleveland hotel at which she was living. The former Olympic star said it would get her in shape for her starring aquatic job with the Cleveland Exposition this year.

AIDS STRIKE IN CANADIAN CAFE

Moose Jaw, Sask. — Now it's the "sip-down strike."

When employees of a Moose Jaw cafe went on strike for higher wages, 30 union sympathizers crowded into the cafe at the noon hour, occupied all the booths, ord red coffee, then proceeded to sit and sip, while regular customers were forced to seek other places for dinner.

Councillors Name Grigg As Recorder

Lawyer's Appointment Formally Made, Succeeding J. Robinson; $10,448 For Unemployment Relief

At its regular meeting Monday night, City Council confirmed the appointment of Alec P. Grigg as deputy recorder for Westmount. Alderman W. B. Scott was in the chair, in the absence of Pro-Mayor George S. Currie.

Mr. Grigg succeeds Jonathan Robinson, K.C., who occupied the position for nearly five years. Mr. Robinson, who is member of the Quebec Legislature for Brome, P. Q., tendered his resignation on the grounds that his many duties in the interests of his constituency made heavy demands upon his time. Mr. Robinson's resignation was accepted by the councillor's at Monday's meeting.

Council also approved the usual expenditures, incurred in the running of the city, for February, March and April, amounting in all to $286,855.

This figure included the amount of $10,448 for unemployment relief.

SEE FILMS

Pupils of Westmount Schools have been attending a down-town theatre this week to see films taken at the Coronation procession and ceremony in London last month. The visits to the theatre have been made during school hours (thus winning the approval of the pupils.)

Returns Volume After 50 Years

Columbia, Mo., — When a book Germania Kalendar, was checked out of the University of Missouri library in 1884, the student forgot to return the volume.

The name of the borrower was destroyed when the main building of the university burned in 1892. The long-missing book recently was found in St. Louis and was returned to the library last month.

The librarian figures that overdue fines on the book would total $945, but no effort will be made to collect.

Cake Of Almond And Chocolate

Here is a cake that promises to be a hit this season and many other seasons too. It's a new and entirely different cake, and, of course, you want to be the first in your crowd to serve it. But it won't be your exclusive recipe very long because everyone else will want to try it and after serving this cake once, it will become an outstanding favourite. Now, however, is your chance to make a name for yourself by being the first to serve this delicious chocolate almond cake.

Because it is so good and for fear someone may not get a slice, the proportions given you will make an extra large cake and you will appreciate that when the cake begins to disappear. It will prove ideal as your contribution towards a supper club, a church social or at your own bridge party.

It's an elegant looking cake too and the combination of flavours—chocolate and almond—and the rich brown and cream colours will please everyone.

Chocolate Almond Cake

2½ cups sifted cake flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups sugar, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted; 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 cup butter or other shortening, 1 teaspoon soda, 5 eggs, well beaten, 1 cup sour milk, or buttermilk.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift together 3 times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well, then chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased loaf pan, 15 x 9 x 2 inches, in slow oven (325 degrees F.) 50 minutes, or until done. Remove cake from pan, cut in halves crosswise and trim to straighten edges. Put together with toasted almond filling between layers and mocha chocolate frosting on top and sides of cake. Decorate top with shredded toasted almonds, if desired.

Old Restrictions Being Removed Against Women

Mohammed ordained—the Koran implies that he did so regretfully—that a man might marry four wives provided he treated them all impartially and fairly. President Ataturk of Turkey has cut the number to one in his country and has encouraged a feminist movement, which is now spreading to neighbouring regions where Islam and the harem still obtain. Major C. S. Jarvis, Governor of the Sinai Peninsula, 1923-36, tells of the position of woman there, in The Observer of London, as follows:

"So far as the upper and middle classes of Egypt, Palestine and Syria are concerned, polygamy has to a large extent died out, but what is more remarkable, taking into account the conservatism of the East, is the very great change that has taken place during the last fifteen years in the position of girls and young wives.

"The wearing of the yashmak (veil) is nov entirely out of date, and so far as dress is concerned, there is nothing to distinguish the young Moslem girl from her Christian or Jewish sisters. She has also achieved her freedom to a very large extent, and, instead of going out for carriage exercise or a walk with a huge black eunuch in charge, she now attends cinemas and theatres with her boy friends, plays tennis in mixed parties, and has become a football fan.

"Considering the very rigid and jealous laws that have guarded the Moslem female for the last sixteen hundred years, the freedom secured by the young woman of today, in little more than a decade, is remarkable and so far as one can see she has received no encouragement whatsoever from her parents and relatives.

"It is entirely a youth movement, and a more or less spontaneous one, for the various feminist organizations have as their aim a more moderate form of independence and are more concerned with marriage laws than the life of the young spinster.

"This mixing of the sexes occurs also in family life, and it is now quite a common occurrence to be entertained by a young Egyptian, with his wife presiding at the table with complete confidence and savoir faire. This, only fifteen years ago, would have been struck off every visiting list as a woman of loose character, and the husband as a man lost to all sense of decency.

"The movement, however, is so far confined to the upper classes and certain of the middle class in official circles in the large towns and cities. The woman of the fellah (cultivator) is quite unaffected by the change, and any attempt to gain her freedom will be most strenuously resisted by her men-folk. She is, as she has always been, a chattel to be married and discarded at will."

Examiner Radio Columnist Leaves For Hollywood

Second Annual Tour Will Bring Wealth Of News To Radio And Picture Fans

Tour Includes Sweep South to New Orleans Then West — Mammoth Program Rumored for Fall — Air Headliners 'Off' for Summer — Amos 'n' Andy Give Up Toothpaste

By JACK HIRSHBERG

Simultaneous with the transformation, as if by magic, of these typewritten symbols into lead-lettered slugs, and their ultimate multiplication upon the printed pages of three regional newspapers, your correspondent will throw in the clutch of his horseless-carriage and head due south—embarking upon his second annual picnic to lands and parts unknown.

It is not yet a year since he piled bathing trunks, a spare shirt and the customary dose of Mothersill's into a valise and boarded the "Ausonia" for Europe and the Isles. Europe,—such as was seen—proved interesting: the Isles provided material for several columns; but the strip of water 'twixt here and there heaved its mighty chest in ceaseless and most unfriendly fashion. Your reporter crawled abed at Quebec, downed an egg-nog at Father Point, became frightfully sorry for himself at the tip of Newfoundland—and groaned his way into Plymouth eight days later.

They said it was a lovely voyage. Your reporter really wouldn't know!

SEASONED AIR

European air proved almost as disconcerting as its watery border. Truth was not to be found. A network of Nazi stations filled the air with its gospel of hate, interrupted periodically by the wail of a jazz anthem from Florence. Fascistically - inclined transmitters lined up behind Franco's forces in the Spanish slaughter, radiating news of crushing Rebel victories; posts in France, Britain and Russia transmitted reports of overwhelming Insurgent defeats.

It was all very biased, very obvious, very crude. Half a dozen versions of the same incident were available to any receiver in practically any country; tuners-in merely twisted dials until they stumbled upon the report best-suited to their tastes and interests.

Continental kilocycles sped upon their way on wings of hate. Europe carried on beneath a lair of seasoned air.

SEE AMERICA SECOND

This year your reporter forsakes a cabin for a car, wine for water, bias for truth,—Europe for America. As these journals roll off the rotary and into awaiting delivery trucks, your faithful servant is probably chugging hopefully along a northern New York highway. First stop on our journey is Rochester, home of symphony and kodaks.

Cleveland and Cincinnati follow in that order with a subsequent halt at Louisville, Kentucky. It will be peach time in Tennessee when we hit Nashville, the City of Rocks, with its Vanderbilt and Fisk Universities, its great coloured community, its fried chicken, its cotton pickers.

Next comes New Orleans, the Crescent City, a bloom from French Canada transplanted to the American southland—Then, due west to Movieland, where we shall pitch camp for several weeks to reconnoitre 'neath the Kleig Lights and survey the celluloid scene.

This, briefly, is our programme for the weeks to come.

BIG STUFF DUE FOR FALL

From Bert Randall, stationed temporarily at Manhattan's Hotel McAlpin, comes a note with news for autumn. "Busy as Hades on a new program for the national networks," writes Bert, "which we hope to pipe to Montreal in the fall. It's to be a mammoth show sponsored by a huge merchandising group, and we're to spend plenty of dough. You are at full liberty to mention it in your column; it will be a real scoop." . . . "In fact," rambles Randall," you might blow it up and give it a real plug. I won't mind in the least." . . . L. S. B. Shapiro, off the networks temporarily, plans a possible return next autumn, though arrangements for any definite series are as yet rumoured vague. "Shap", as he is popularly known, is one of the most likeable fellows currently tapping a keyboard . . . Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra graces the Magic Key Sunday afternoon at 2, with Giovanni Martinelli and William Primrose in support. It is a show well worth any man's time . . .

AIR SCHMELLING . . .!

Max Schmelling set some sort of record this week by winding up training activities for his phantom fight trading repartee with Rudy Vallee during the batoneer's usual Thursday eve airing . . . "Universal Rhythm," with Rex (Goldthwaite) Chandler's orchestra, Alex Templeton, Richard Bonelli, and a huge supporting cast, replaces the Ford Sunday evening hour June 20 and will continue throughout the summer months . . Other air headliners retiring for a three-month vacation include Jack Oakie, Eddie Cantor, Jack Benny, Fred Astaire and Charlie Butterworth—all scheduled for return engagements next fall . . . "Amos 'n' Andy" end a nine-year association with one sponsor several months hence when they switch sponsorship and possibly networks. On the surface such a move appears foolish—"Amos 'n' Andy" and Pepsodent are almost similes. Such an association is hard to kill . . .

HINT

Pat was quitting a week after taking a new job.

Foreman: "I'm sorry to see you go. Aren't the wages satisfactory?

Pat: "The wages are all right, but I have a guilty feeling all the time I am working."

Foreman: "A guilty feeling? About what?"

Pat: "I'm all the time thinking that I am cheating a strong mule out of a job."

STALE

Driving a new car, a lady halted at a gas station and was given a supply of gas and oil.

She then demanded that the car's tires should be let down and blown up again.

When the garage hand timorously asked for a reason, she replied, "It's six weeks since that air was put in; it's bound to be bad; I like fresh air in my tires.

Reader Writes Re: Radio Column

Editor,
The Examiner.
Dear Sir:

I am a "constant reader" of your Radio Column. I find it intriguing. I note with interest that Christopher Ellis has been "pinch-hitting" for Jack Hirschberg. I like Mr. Ellis. His straight-from-the-shoulder, man-to-man style is SUCH a relief from the unctuous, butter-wouldn't - melt - in their mouths manner of some of the announcers that, to me anyway, he is a highly welcome mental tonic. However, 'tis said none of us are perfect. And Mr. Ellis last week made a statement, according to your published report, which, I imagine, is not well thought out. I have seen the same statement made before. I find myself, therefore, labouring under an irresistible impulse to endeavour to refute it. I was ever of an analytical turn of mind. "Sometimes I think," says Mr. Ellis, again according to your published report, "that radio entertainment is provided too cheaply. For TWO DOLLARS A YEAR we hear the mightiest symphonies—the greatest comedians,—the finest orators—the most splendid pageants —the most spectacular news stories—the most thrilling sporting events" and so on. That "two dollars a year" has reference, of course, to the licence. And the argument is to my mind as unsound as if he were to contend that all the advantages of driving around in a Rolls Royce were to be had by simply turning over the annual automobile levy of twenty odd dollars and change to the Province of Quebec. TWO DOLLARS! Oh, No. It's not nearly so simple as that. In order to have a licence —that's of any use—one first of all must have a radio. And then there are tubes, and depreciation, and repairs, and allocation of insurance and house rent, and—Oh! a lot of incidentals. I feel that if Mr. Ellis adds up the cost of his own radio he will find it reaches pretty close to the TWO HUNDRED instead of the TWO DOLLAR mark. Let's be conservative and call it a hundred. Well, I can get a lot of entertainment for a hundred dollars—and get it when and as I like it—choose for myself, as it were—and not let other fellows do the choosing.

I am committing the apparently unpardonable error of writing this under a nom de plume—but am actuated by business motives, not through cowardice. I am also trying to correct what I believe to be an erroneous impression which might become accepted as fact. And a lot of us would seem NOT to be satisfied with the vast bulk of the radio programmes—vi'de the letters—columns of them—in a weekly newspaper of recent dates.

Yours faithfully,
"SPOT."

CLAIM BUFFALO BILL

An Italian newspaper in Bologna has just discovered that William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," was really an Italian, born in Barbigarezzo, Italy, about 1840. His name at birth was Giovannia Tambini, but he soon emigrated to the United States and became Americanized, says this paper, which comments farther that "this great hero now is proved to have been a typical Italian—who was full of Fascist courage and daring." We are sorry to be obliged to correct this Italian editor, but William F. Cody was born on a farm in Scott county, Ia., in 1846.

Fine Recital By Pupils Of The Fuller School

The public has come to expect something of high artistic value from the pupils of the Fuller School of Dancing, Singing and Dramatic Art, and Wednesday's Recital at Trinity Memorial Church proved conclusively that the School has now reached an exceptionally high standard in all its branches.

Two scenes from Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" opened the program. The cast was drawn from the Children's Dramatic Class; and the diction of these very young people in Shakespeare's difficult blank verse was surprisingly good, and their acting was so natural as to lend an air of spontaneity and reality to this fantastic comedy; a real achievement. In a very level cast, little Sylvia Hedley made a graceful and dainty Titania, delivering her long speeches with great intelligence. In the quarrel scene with Oberon, she was especially telling. Gertrude Batchelor was suitably sinister and vindictive as Oberon, and her delivery of the lines was clear and expressive throughout. Marion MacGibbon, from inside a huge asses head, made as droll a Nick Bottom as one could wish. Marilyn Rankin and Linda Pascoe did good work as Puck and First Fairy respectively. Three very small Elves, Joan Boyle, Joyce McCoubrey, and Eileen Major danced a charming welcome to Oberon at his first entrance. This was a real dance, not the aimless skipping which usually passes for dancing in beginners of from four to six years of age—a fact which the audience was not slow to appreciate. Titania's escort of Fairies also danced charmingly for the Queen's entertainment. These were Joan Eberwein, Ruth Coen, Wilifred Cook and Joan Humphreys. The tastefully decorative costumes, which showed to great advantage in the pretty woodland scene, deserve special mention.

Dances, Songs

Groups of dances, recitations and songs followed. Outstanding among the dances was a toe solo "Mademoiselle Coquette" executed with grace and precision by Dorothy Pering, who also contributed a stylish tap number. Versatile Maybell Roberts was seen to advantage in a Gypsy dance, a clever character sketch and an up-to-date tap solo. An uncannily flexible young lady, Barbara French, executed an intricate acrobatic number in Chinese costume, and a smart tap ensemble was contributed by Barbara and Jacqueline Cote, Ruth Coen, Winifred Cook, Joan Eberwein and Joan Humphreys.

Vocalists

The work of the vocalists was of a high standard, Helene O'Donnell displaying a sporano voice which combines great flexibility with considerable power and purity of tone in dell'Acqua's florid "Chanson Provencale." Norman Estall rendered Martin Shaw's "The Knight's Song" in fine style, and was heard with Helene O'Donnell in a duet from "The Magic Flute" by Mozart. Madeline Dalgleish was heard to advantage in the well-known soprano aria from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," and Nancy Jotcham showed considerable promise in Horn's familiar "Cherry Ripe." Rexford Buckland, a tenor of unusual power and quality was deservedly applauded for his spirited rendering of "Quest' o Quella" from Verdi's "Rigoletto."

Amusing recitations were given by Marion MacGibbon and Janet Willetts, and Lois le Marquand showed herself to be a young diseuse of great promise in a clever character sketch, "Spreading the News." One of the highlights of the evening was Cecil Baring's brilliant little comedy "Catherine Parr," in which Peggy Henderson gave a convincingly spirited performance as the Queen. Billy Wells contributing a no less admirable study of the coarse and irascible Henry VIII. Rexford Buckland played the small part of the Page.

One-Act Play

A one-act play by members of the Adults' Dramatic Class concluded the program. This was a well-constructed little drama by Dan Totheroh, entitled "Good Vintage," chiefly notable, in this instance, for consistent and sharply-drawn character work on the part of the actors, and for swift movement and remarkable smoothness in production. Outstanding in a cast, each member of which can be said to have played his or her part to the life, was Louis Crepeau as the Italian immigrant head of the Garcia Family. This actor managed the swift changes of mood and emotion which the role demands with consummate skill. Helene O'Donnell as Mamma Garcia and Madeline Dalgleish as the merry Aunt Annie kept things moving at a lively pace, and Eugenie Clément as the tearful Aunt Rose, revelling in her sorrow, added a touch of real character. The other parts were capably handled by Billy Wels, Maybell Roberts, lois le Marquand and Peggy Henderson, the latter, with Louis Crépeau, Helene O'Donnell and Eugenie Clément managing the difficult closing scene most convincingly.

OPENING SUNDAY AT THE WESTMOUNT

In a scene from the romantic "Maid of Salem," which is now at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night, opening at the Seville Sunday for the first half of the week.

Many Entertaining Items Showing At Belmont Park

A perpetual, all-summer outdoor circus, Belmont Park at Cartierville is now on its full summer schedule, Aerial artists, monkeys, pink lemonade and all the attractions of an old-time tent show are part of Belmont's ever-changing features and, in addition, there are dozens of attractions no tent show in the world can offer.

There are, for instance, the ever-popular roller coasts, midget motor cars for young and old, cautious and daring; mysterious "13 Spook Street", the wierdest, spookiest side-show in existance; thrilling rides like Tilt-a-Whirl, games and amusements. Surrounding the whole are wide park areas, ideal for picnics and family outings, and every evening in the Riverside pavilion Gene Fritzley and his international orchestra provide the music for dancing.

Billed as "Lords of Laugh," Will Morris and Bobby, new at Belmont are said to be the most fun-provoking eccentric comedians at large. In New York they were listed as a two-man insane asylum; in Los Angeles they were judged supreme in madcap tomfoolery; in San Francisco they were acclaimed as perfect artists of pantomine; and in Chicago they were the premier attraction at an amusement park for weeks. For weeks they played at the London Palladium and were one of the Empire capital's most popular attractions. Their visit to Belmont marks a high point in this park's entertainment program.

Hilda Galt To Dance In Revue In New York

Joins New Wayburn Unit, Held Closing Party For Pupils Saturday

Saturday afternoon, the Hilda Galt Studio at Greene and St. Catherine was the scene of a party in which all her pupils enjoyed a floor show by some of the soloists of the school, new games were played for which prizes were awarded and there were plenty of refreshments to round out a well spent afternoon.

Miss Hilda Galt leaves shortly for New York where she will prepare to appear in New Wayburn's Revue on the 20th of June and then resume her studies at the Ned Wayburn Studios. Before the summer season is over Miss Galt will have had a holiday at Atlantic City and return fresh and fit to her studios to prepare for enrollment for next season which starts Sept. 7.

Many pupils have already enrolled for the coming season among whom will be many new faces, all who will add considerably towards making her Dancing Studio more prominent than ever. Miss Galt will have many added attractions in her dancing studio and the necessary assistance which will enable her to offer her pupils every comfort and attention.

From the many requests received by Miss Galt for a repeat performance of "One Night of Rhythm" we hope that this will be arranged in the Fall soon after classes open at one of the leading theatres in the city.

The Monitor takes this opportunity of joining the many Montreal newspapers in wishing Hilda Galt every success with the continuation in her future studies and the part she has been assigned in the Ned Wayburn Revue, and a most enjoyable vacation in Atlantic City.

CORONATION SOUVENIR

Regina, Sasks., — Strange souvenir of another coronation is owned by C. R. Paintin, Kronau, Sask. It is a billy, hand-painted with a picture of the royal crown, fashioned for police constables of Eastgarston, England, during the coronation of William IV, 107 years ago.

Pair Makes Film Bow In New Picture

Two motion picture performers of whom great things are expected in the near future make their screen debuts in "John Meade's Woman," a powerful love drama which begins on Sunday at the Westmount United Theatre.

The first is Francine Larrimore, noted stage star, who comes to the screen already known to millions as a result of her stage work. The second is John Trent, erstwhile TWA transport plane flyer, who was "discovered" on a recent trip by B. P. Schulberg, producer, and given a "bid" to enter films.

Miss Larrimore's first appearance is considered unusual in that she is given star billing, along with Edward Arnold, who carries the male romantic lead in the film. This is a rarity in Hollywood. She plays the role of a country girl, somewhat on the tough side, who comes to the big city to make good. She meets Arnold, financial tycoon, who is amused with her frankness. Arnold is engaged to marry Gail Patrick, a society belle, and when he discovers she is untrue to him, he marries the little farm girl just to humiliate her. He confidently believes he can buy the girl off later but discovers to his amazement that money cannot pay her for her broken heart. The girl leaves him. Her love turns to hate, and it is when Nature conspires with the scorn in her heart to ruin him that the thrilling climax arrives. The girl discovers she cannot hate the man and he awakens to the truth that there are women to whom love is more than life itself.

Trent plays the role of Arnold's chauffeur who, when the girl leaves his master, tries to show her his affection. He has great charm, and Hollywood is confident that he is star material in the making.

MacMurray Portrays First Historical Role

Handsome Fred MacMurray, who has played roles as a newspaperman, Texas Ranger, band leader, society boy, engineer and whatnot, comes to the screen as a dashing Virginia cavalier in "Maid of Salem," a tender romance of Seventeenth Century America, in which he is co-starred with Claudette Colbert and which plays at the Westmount today until Saturday opening Sunday for three days at the Seville.

With the exception of "The Texas Rangers,' it is his first appearance in a historical film and he was selected for the part by Frank Lloyd, three-time Academy Award winner, because he is regarded as the ideal male romantic lead for Miss Colbert, with whom he appeared in "The Gilded Lily," his first motion picture, and "A Bride Comes Home."

MacMurray plays the role of Roger Coverman, a fugitive from Virginia, where he had dared question the king's prerogative. He takes refuge in old Salem, in the Massachusetts Colony. Fear of arrest makes it necessary for him to hide in his uncle's home and it is there that he meets the lovely Puritan maiden and the romance begins.

There are secret meetings in the forest, where he teaches her the graceful measures of the gavotte, and tells her of his love. Unknown to either, they are observed and, after he leaves, when the famous witch scare of 1692 breaks out, she is accused of having dealings with the devil.

When she tells her inquisitors that it was not the devil but a handsome young man with whom she danced in the woods, they insist upon her naming him. This she refuses to do, and she is condemned to die.

She is saved from the scaffold when MacMurray returns and awakens the fear-stricken populace to the folly of the hysteria which seized him. Many characters of old Salem are redrawn in "Maid of Salem," and the entire village, as it existed in 1692, was built from old maps for authenticity.

Miss Colbert and MacMurray are supported by a brilliant cast which includes Louise Dresser, Bennie Bartlett, Gale Sondergaard, E. E. Clive, Harvey Stephens, Bonita Granville, Virginia Weidler, Rosita Butler, Beulah Bondi, Edward Ellis, Donald Meek and many others.

Girls Softball Proves Popular With Residents

Girls softball at the Westmount Grounds is rapidly proving one of the ace attractions of the current sport season. The Major Ladies Softball League plays two games each Tuesday and Friday night at the local diamond and large crowds are attending.

Two games are scheduled for tonight and action is the key-note of all four teams in this loop. Maroons, at present on the top of the heap, have been the class of major ladies softball for many a season. Maple Leafs, in second place, are a peppy outfit, and only a few seasons ago were in the minor circuit, have shown that there is a definite place for them in senior company. Olympics are right up there with the rest.

The outstanding ladies softball stars of the city perform in this league, Dora Hives of Maple Leafs, Lee Quinn of Olympics, Thompson of Maroons, and a host of others are among the best to be found in the city.

A special event will be held on Sunday at Belmont Park when Maroons meet Trenholme Park Rangers of the Intermediate League in an exhibition contest. In this game Maroons will introduce to local softball fans a new pitching star in the person of Helen Perry of Brighton, Ontario. This game will start at 2.30.

Wanderers Meet Blues Here At 7

Westm't Wanderers after an absence of two years while competing in N.D.G. Softball League, returned to Westmount Municipal Softball League to open the season with a 10-2 victory over Hawks last Monday.

This year's Wanderers team is greatly changed, having lost no less than seven of last year's regulars among them pitcher Harold Maher and first baseman Jock MacIntyre, two top ranking players in the city at their respective positions. Maher is now with Trenholme Park of the N. D. G. Senior League, while MacIntyre is confining his attention to pitching for St. Ann's in the Montreal Intermediate Baseball League.

Manager Andy McGillis has filled the vacant positions with up and coming youngsters from the club and in their first start performed smartly.

Wanderers next game will be tonight at Westmount Park, against Y.M.C.A. Blues. Starting time is set for 7 p.m.

Plans For Caledonia Games Now Complete

The Caledonia Society of Montreal (Games Section) have made all arrangements for the 82nd annual Caledonia Games, to be held at the C.N. Recreation Grounds, Lachine, on Saturday, June 19, working in close co-operation with the various Scottish Societies in Montreal. The Games last year drew the largest crowd for many years and the Committee are leaving no stone unturned to make this year's event the outstanding one in the Dominion.

Many popular events are included on the programme, such as dancing in Highland costume, sword dances, Shean Trews, Highland flings; Piping, drumming and bugling; and field and track events. Prizes, cups and medals will be competed for in these events. There are 43 events and 138 prizes in all.

Kamloops, B.C. — On May 3, 1915, Gladys I. Malcolm was born in the Royal Inland Hospital. Following recent examinations, Miss Malcolm led the class of graduating nurses from the same hospital.

Log Sawyer In Training

Portland, Ore. — Myron Higbee of Idaho is in training here to conquer new worlds as a log sawyer at the opening of the Golden Gate bridge in San Francisco.

Higbee never had sawed a redwood log, so he imported two from California for training purposes. His practice time for the 36-inch diameter variety is 3 minutes and 30 seconds.

Asked if he figured to win the contest for a purse of $500, he replied:

"Don't know about that, but those other fellows will know there's some sawing going on."

Jobs Promised College Graduates At Colgate

Hamilton, N.Y. — "Every Colgate senior to be graduated this year can have a job if he wants it," says Dr. George H. Estabrooks, head of the placement bureau at the university, "but he must remember that the positions open are not vice presidencies."

Of the 200 seniors ten will teach, forty-five will enter graduate schools and the rest will be absorbed in the business world.

Dr. Estabrooks says that business concerns are looking for college graduates, as in no other year recently, but these men are started in low-salaried positions. One company, he notes, starts graduates as janitors, and the oil companies break in newcomers in service stations.

QUEER FISH

More than 1,000,000 exotic tropical fish are exported to Britain and other countries every year by a Chinese merchant in Singapore. Fighting fish and climbing perches are among his wares. Some of them cost $30 a pair.

NEWSPAPER IS A POWER FOR GOOD

Editor of Bowmanville Statesman Issues Booklet About the Weekly Journals; George James Expresses Himself Frankly, Truthfully

From the pen of George James, Editor, The Bowmanville Statesman, a handsome little booklet entitled, "Country Boys Make Good in a Big City," recently attracted our attention. The pages of this booklet contain the text of an address delivered by Mr. James before the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto, showing the power and influence of the weekly newspaper in the district from which it originates.

The Bowmanville Statesman, one of Canada's outstanding weeklies, has moulded public thought and opinion from generation to generation in Durham County. Among its friends are numbered some of this country's most outstanding citizens — men whose first impressions of the broader concept were acquired from the well-written and intelligently expressed ideas contained in the pages of The Statesman.

Too few, indeed, are the newspaper editors who express themselves so truthfully and frankly as Mr. James, with regard to the influence the local paper wields for the good of its own particular community. We take the liberty of presenting herewith gleanings from this valuable little booklet.

Some Gleanings

"I'm in favour of the printed word . . . providing you read it in a weekly newspaper."

"The reader interest of a weekly newspaper . . . this is not created in a day or a week, but requires years of far-sighted, constructive planning and interesting work during which several generations of readers grow up, and in our case, are reared on the good old Statesman."

"Reader interest in weekly newspapers centres around the three greatest institutions in any community . . . The Home . . . The School . . . The Church . . . resulting in good wholesome news and creating an intimacy and familiarity which just seems natural for the reader to speak of it as 'our paper' . . . In fact, a weekly newspaper is as much a part of the family it serves as the family cat or dog."

"Some newspapers inveigle the young, innocent and unsuspecting readers to them through the comic pages which amuse, but too often they give a false and ridiculous standard of life to the young mind. Not so with a weekly newspaper . . . which goes to the foundation of things right from the beginning.

"Every event, activity, or achievement of importance to the individual is recorded in the news columns of the weekly newspaper. This is why weekly publishers use the yardstick of intense human reader-interest in selling space to national advertisers . . . in preference to the cold, calculating, mathematical, mass production monstrosity called milline rate."

"It may sound altruistic, but there is downright, unadulterated joy of service a weekly editor gladly gives through his paper without thought of monetary consideration, but with the hope that when his obituary is written it may truthfully be said that 'through his efforts the weekly editor has left this community better than he found it.'"

Westmount Baptist Church Notes

Rev. J. A. Johnston continues the Sunday Morning Series of Addresses on:—"The Seven Churches of the Apocalypse." The second sermon is entitled:—"The Way Into This Treasury of Truth." Great interest is being shown in these Teaching Sermons on the most fascinating but least understood book of the Bible. Worshippers are urged to bring their own Bibles so that they may follow with closest attention and greatest profit the interpretation of this unveiling of truth.

On Sunday Evening, Mr. Johnston begins a Summer Sunday Evening Series entitled:—"What the Bible Says About—!" On Sunday the opening address will be:—"What the Bible Says About Fools, Ancestral and Contemporary." These are colourful and inspiring Services which are well attended.

On Sunday Evening an Instrumental Quartette from the Citadel Band will participate in the Service. The entire Band will present a Recital of Sacred Music at 8.45.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 6th, is "God the only cause and Creator."

The Golden Text is: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." (Genesis 1:1)

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"And the earth was without form and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said, Let there be light: and there was light." (Genesis 1: 2, 3.)

"There is but one creator and one creation. This creation consists of the unfolding of spiritual ideas and their identities, which are embraced in the infinite Mind and forever reflected. These ideas range from the infinitesimal to infinity, and the highest ideas are the sons and daughters of God." (Science and Health, pages 502, 503.)

SUITING SUSAN

Here lies the body of Susan Jones,
Resting beneath these polished stones,
Her name was Brown instead of Jones,
But Brown won't rhyme with polished stones,
And she won't know if it's Brown or Jones.
