Madeline Lemire aiming to inspire

By Gordon Lambie

From the street, the building at 60 Principale North in Richmond still looks like it is the National Bank, so long as one ignores the “for sale” sign posted near the door. Inside, once you get past the still-functional ATM, the space has been transformed by artist Madeleine Lemire into a pop-up art gallery that is the focal point for some high hopes about the neighbourhood.

Lemire said she was originally drawn to the community by the desire to get out of Montreal and by her surprise at the fact that Richmond has its own arts centre where she could set up a studio. It is only in the last three years or so that she has begun to see the community as a place where things are happening.

“I see only good things to come,” she said.

That optimism is something Laurent Frey, President of the Townships Trail and a member of several local citizens’ groups including Heritage Val-Saint-François, which focuses on the preservation and promotion of local heritage, said he wants to try to inspire in others through the gallery space.

Open house on Quebec farms

Record Staff

The owners of eleven farms in the Eastern Townships invite the public to visit their farm on Sept. 8 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., for the 17th edition of the Open House on Quebec Farms organized by the Quebec Farmers' Union (UPA).

Although producers' methods products have been at the centre of the annual event, an additional effort will be made this year to explain how agricultural and forestry producers are increasingly trying to protect their environment.

After all, it is their working and living environment. The sustainability of their land depends on it.

The theme for this year will be, 'Environment, it is in our culture'.

"Agricultural producers work hard to implement good agri-environmental practices in their production, regardless of their specialty. Come and meet the farmers from the Eastern Townships landscape, who will continue to surprise you," commented François Bourassa, a dairy and maple syrup producer from Valcourt and president of the UPA.

The participating Townships farms are concentrated in the Coaticook, Haut-Saint-François and Granit MRCs.

The farm open house is a free event for the whole family, which will be held rain or shine. All participating farms in Quebec are listed by region or specialty on the site www.portesouvertes.upa.qc.ca. Directions to get to the farms are also easy to find.

The event will stimulate the five senses with entertainment, demonstrations, free tastings of regional products and animals, some of which can be approached and played with. Bring your cooler and stock up on products from the various exhibitors gathered for the occasion on each farm.

the hope that comes in beauty," he said, adding that, "there is a lot of energy going into the question of how to reinvent the main street."

According to Lemire, the pop-up gallery has become the first concrete manifestation of a local initiative to "wake up" the town centre and make it a place where people can gather and enjoy themselves.

"People come out of here saying change is possible" he said, with Lemire adding that part of the point of the project is to get the area out of what is perceived as a funk and bring it back to life as the heart of the community. "What we want to do is show that the entire Richmond region can become a tourist destination," he continued, using the term "le pays de l'ardoise" or "Slate country" as a kind of buzz word for the region.

In an effort to get people in the community dreaming in the same way, Frey said that the gallery space has been hosting gatherings, but he also pointed out that even the people living and working in Richmond who haven't been by to visit are likely familiar with Lemire's work at this point because it is the subject of the new artistic banners that have been put up by the town.

"The town wanted an artist from Richmond to create the banners that can be seen around town," the painter said, explaining that there was a desire on the part of the municipal council to keep colourful flowers in the downtown without the cost of maintaining actual flower pots every summer.

The artist said that she was approached about creating the banners after she was featured in a project booklet put together by Frey having to do with making the community friendly to seniors.

"I'm pleased," she added.

Lemire's current exhibition continues until September 15, but she shared that as long as the building remains available another group of local artists is due to set up in the gallery space in October. In the long term, she said, the dream is to be able to open up some kind of full-time gallery space in Richmond so that the artistic spirit of the community can continue to have a space to offer inspiration to others.

"We're starting small," she said, "and we're open to suggestions."

From 11 to 14 October 2019 at the Bedford Lofts

The artistic event not to be missed this fall!

From October 11 to 14, the municipality of Bedford will host, for a 4th edition, the Artists' Open House at the Bedford Lofts. The artist sculptor and glassmaker Gilles Payette will be the spokesperson for this fourth edition, which will bring together some thirty creators.

During the Thanksgiving weekend, the former Bedford plant, converted into a space of collective work, will be transformed into an art gallery. More than thirty artists and craftsmen will take part in by storming the building to present their approach and works to the public, who will then be able to exchange with them in all simplicity.

Sculptor and glassmaker Gilles Payette will be the guest artist and spokesperson for the 2019 edition.

Winner of numerous awards, he exhibits his creations in various galleries in America and regularly promotes his work through exhibitions. Visitors will be able to admire his glass sculptures cast in sand moulds, the result of a particular technique allowing him to play with transparency and colour.

The Artists' Open House is a unique opportunity to discover Bedford under a new day and wander through one of Brome-Missisquoi's creative hearts. Enjoying locally of a high profile, this year the event can count on the support of the CLD Brome-Missisquoi, Caisse Desjardins La Pommeraiie and Bedford Lofts. A recognition which allowed the organizing committee to expand its territory and invite thirteen new artists!

Want to know more? Stay tuned, as we will be publishing a individual portraits of artists and photos representative of their respective work on our page Facebook.

Since his graduation from Limoilou College in 1998, Christian Roy has turned the pieces of many craftsmen. He worked with Dianne Marier and then for renowned Quebec ceramics artists such as Evelyne Rivest-Savignac, Marie-Joël Turgeon and Pascale Girardin.

Roy turns and engraves each of his pieces by hand. His hard canes and chevrons are the flagship designs of his collection. Come and discover Roy's unique and pleasant to use black and white sandstone pieces, which you can enjoy collecting. (Pictures courtesy)

A multidisciplinary artist, passionate about wild flora and gardening, Francine Potvin is a lecturer at Concordia University (Montreal) where she teaches ceramics.

The artist observes the weeds and small mammals that inhabit her yard.

Her work is a tribute to the remarkable forgotten members of our natural heritage. It is a celebration of animal and plant life, a testimony to our fragile, tenuous, stealthy and yet inseparable relationship with local flora and fauna.

Francine Potvin's formal research focuses simultaneously on ceramics, etching, cyanotype - an ancient photographic process - and more recently, klecksography, a process of creating images from ink spots.

Since she was a child, Julie Mineau has loved creating little things. She no longer counts the hours spent in the basement of the family home assembling, building and butting branches, leaves and fabrics. It was only natural that she joined the École de joaillerie de Montréal and turned her passion into a career.

When she is not playing with her daughter and cat Maurice, Julie devotes herself to creating jewelry and 3D paintings. She works from sterling silver, tin, brass and (resin) copper to create unique and delicate handcrafted pieces, sometimes adorned with fine stones and natural pearls, sometimes with (leather) felt and pebble.

Bury Historical and Heritage Society presents food history festival

By Taylor McClure
Special to The Record

Food. Just the word food makes you feel warm inside doesn't it? We all love to indulge from time to time in the delicious foods we have come to know and love. On Aug. 31 you can give in to your cravings by attending the Festival de l'histoire de la cuisine en Estrie in Bury.

The festival, which is organized by the Bury Historical and Heritage Society, is celebrating 150 years of cooking in the Eastern Townships region up until 1950.

In partnership with the Townshipers' Association, le Réseau du patrimoine anglophone du Québec, The Eaton Corner Museum, IGA-Cookshire, le bureau de la ministre Bibeau, the Town of Bury et l'Image de Bury, the Bury Historical Society brings attendees on a trip back in time while filling up their stomachs along the way.

Festivalgoers will have the chance to discover the traditional dishes of the past with tastings taking place throughout the day.

Six speakers will be taking the stage to discuss these traditional dishes. Smoked trout and wild turkey are some examples, offering visitors a taste of the past.

In the Bury park and the Armoury community centre, where the festival is taking place, located at 563 rue Main, there will be local vendors set up where you can try different vegetables, meats, breads, and drinks, available for purchase on site.

A recipe book put together by the Bury Historical Society will also be available for purchase. It includes 11 local recipes from the past and they are written in both French and English.

Different expositions will also be taking place throughout the day. Visitors will be informed about the different wild plants that are edible, the different cooking tools that exist, and gardening in the past.

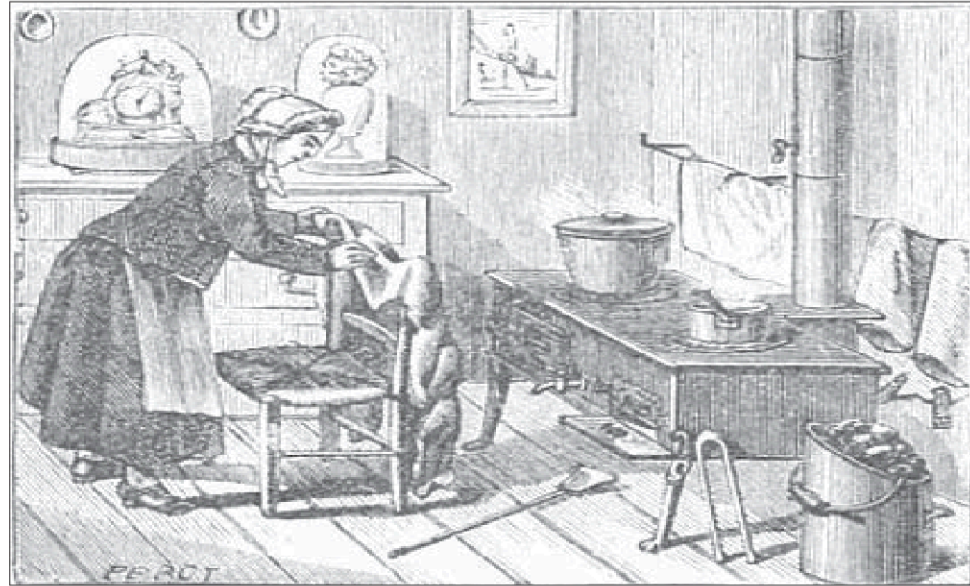

It wouldn't be a festival without music. As you make your way through the park, you will enjoy the sounds of Janice LaDuke & Dave Gillies and France Thibault & Laurent Hubert. Their old fashioned music will set the scene for this historical adventure.

The best part about the festival is that visitors have the chance to discover and get involved. John Mackley, Archivist for the Bury Historical and Heritage Society, has invited festivalgoers to approach him with their old cooking tools and utensils and he would identify them and their purpose.

The festival is taking place this Saturday from 12 p.m. to 6 p.m. and anyone is invited to enjoy this fun and yummy day! Now who would pass up food?

GLIMPSES OF THE PAST

Subsequent to the French colonization of Africa in the 19th century, France tried to introduce Parisian culture into the major cities it possessed. Thus, in major urban centres in the south, European-style administrative buildings, banks, and magnificent hotels appeared. This photograph is a good example of this mixture of western and eastern cultures: French authorities transformed the Boulevard de la République in Algiers (currently known as Boulevard Che-Guevara) into a luxurious promenade providing a view of

Traveling bug exhibit coming to Sherbrooke

Record Staff

After 5 successful editions of the Insect Festival at the Aquarium de Québec, La Bibitte Mobile is packing its bags and heading on a tour of the region.

The travelling exhibit, whose objective is to make the world of insects accessible to the general public will offer a multitude of fun activities on Sept. 7 and 8 at Domaine Howard, in conjunction with Rendez-vous Howard events.

Since 2012, the mission of Bibitte Mobile has been to organize educational, awareness-raising and activities on entomology in schools.

The mobile insect exhibit tour hopes to awaken the public to the indispensable role of insects in nature and our daily lives.

The exhibit includes the largest exhibition of insects in North America, a multitude of interactive booths, as well as hundreds of live specimens, many of which can be touched or held.

Scorpions, tarantulas, giant centipedes and praying mantis are just a few of the live insects available to get up close and touch.

A jewelry workshop on site will allow participants to create insect inspired work that can be worn, including beautiful insect wings.

Chris Curtis has music in the blood

COUNTRY CONNECTION

JESSIE PELLETIER

The Curtis family is all about tradition in more ways than one. Whether it is country living or country music, father and son are all for it. Chris Curtis (Brian's son) is now getting ready to move back to Stanstead where he grew up.

"I was the sixth generation Curtis raised on the family farm in Stanstead East. I currently live in Hatley with my wife, and two daughters. We are in the process of moving to the family farm," said Chris Curtis in an interview.

He is in his 19th year working at Everest Equipment in Ayer's Cliff, where he started a job as a student at 16. He also cuts lumber in his spare time but his true passion is music, something he shares with his father as they both play in the same band.

Music is also part of the tradition since his grandfather on his mom's side played a little guitar and loved music. His great-grandfather on his dad's side was Swedish and played guitar and loved to sing. His sisters were opera singers in Sweden.

"I am extremely fortunate to have a father heavily involved in music. He was playing in bands before I was born, and as a child I remember admiring him and his band at the time, "Silver Eagles", playing at local dance halls on Saturday nights," he explained.

He remembers how he was drawn right to the drums. He was also the typical kid playing on buckets and whatever he could find to use as a drum set, playing along to the Silver Eagles recordings.

"I had very supportive parents growing up that never ever forced me into playing a particular instrument or following a particular genre of music. They gave me the time to practice and were always willing to drive me around for practices or gigs," he said thankfully.

Curtis realizes now how his parents were attentive to his love of music as well as the wisdom of his father guiding him towards the right choices for a bright future.

"Right from the age of about five it was all about drums. But around the age of 9, my father made a deal with me. If I did a few years of piano lessons to learn timing and the basics of music, he would get me a drum set," he reminisced.

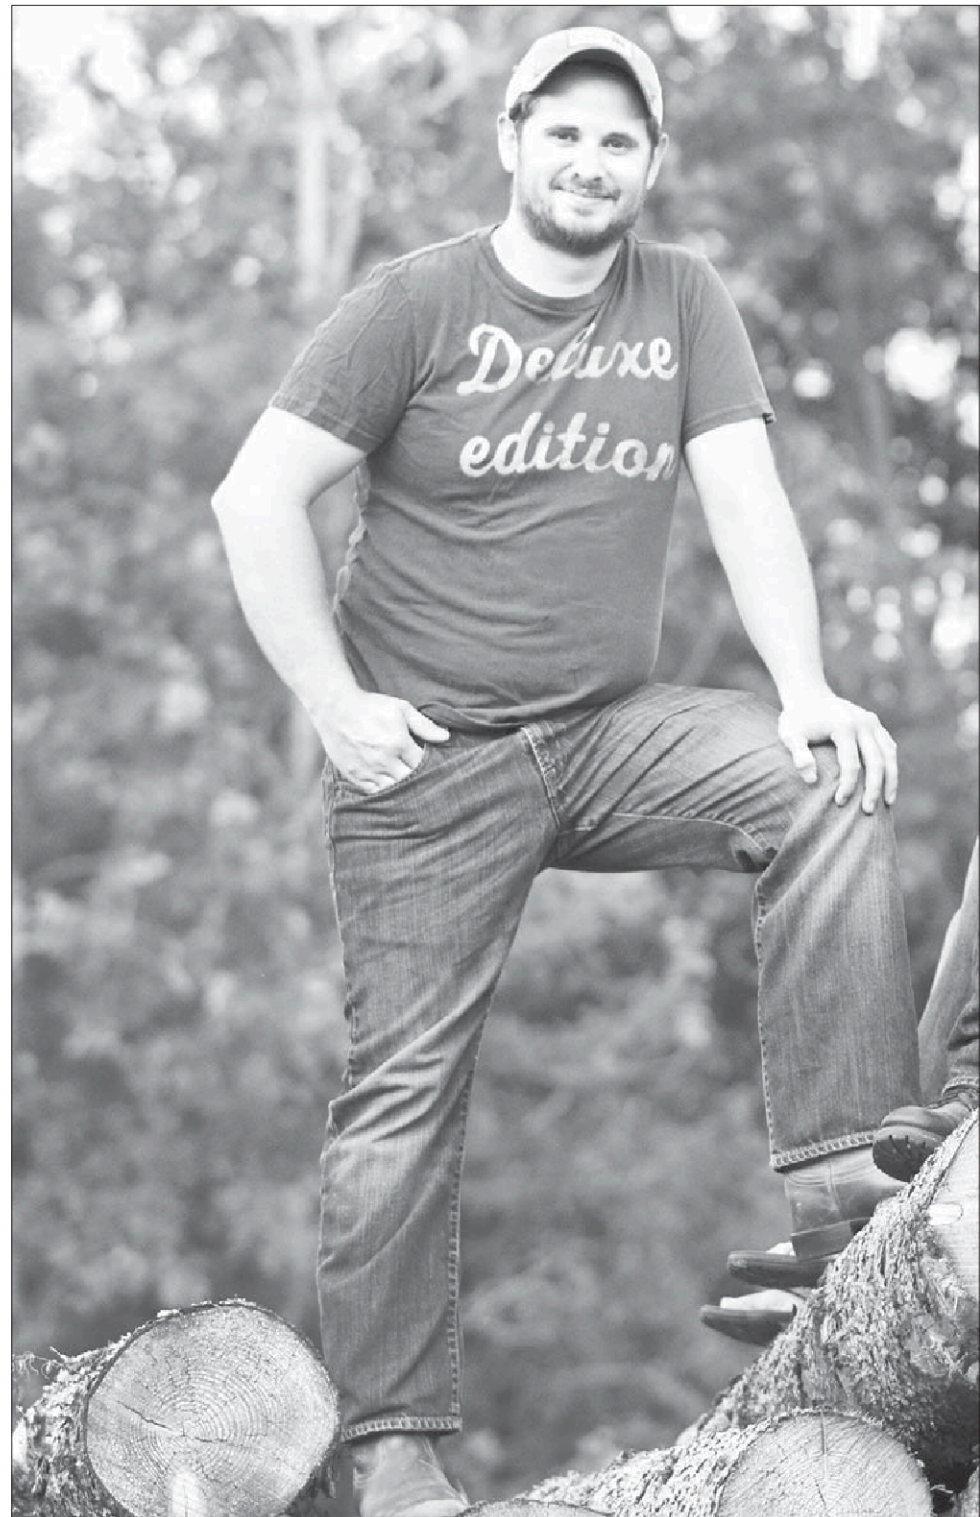

"I agreed and he held his word and bought me a set a few years later. I then began lessons with the former drummer of Silver Eagles, the man that I had looked up to my entire childhood. Around the age of 12 I started playing around with bass, and then guitar," he recalled.

The young man has since put his love of music to good use. Really talented, Curtis is still fairly young to have all these years of playing in bands under his belt. He is the kind of guy who is always appreciative for what life and music brings.

"I have been extremely fortunate to play with many great talented people over the years," he said. He first started playing drums in a band called Fluke in high school when he was 13. By the time he was 14, he started playing in a band called Mountain Dew with his father, which is now named Slightly Haggard.

"It's now been 20 years that I have been playing with that same group of guys. It seems very rare for a group of guys to play that long together. I'm very lucky to be part of that group."

Among other things, he played drums

Studio Georgeville exhibition on theme of wood

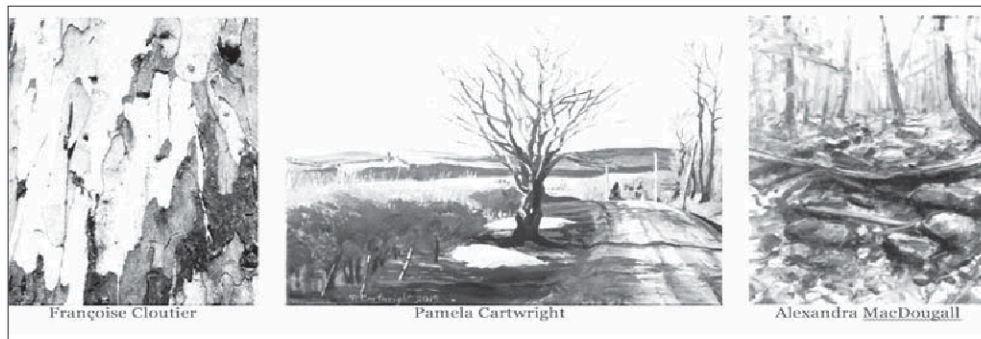

Record Staff

A Vernissage will be held on Saturday, Sept. 14, from 3 to 5 p.m. for a new exhibition, Out of the Woods, at Studio Georgeville on the theme of wood.

The exhibition will include works by Duff Armour, Sylvia Bertolini, Richard Bourassa, Françoise Cloutier, Dave Ecker, Alexandra MacDougall, John Murphy, Dawn Neander, Linda Peacock, Michel Villeneuve and co-op members.

The gallery is open Friday to Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

It is located at 20, carré Copp, Georgeville. For more information about the upcoming exhibition, call (819) 843-9992 or visit www.studiogeorgeville.com.

with Student Crossing. The band won a couple of local talent shows, which gave them the opportunity to record two studio albums. For the past 10 or so years Chris Curtis has also been playing guitar in a band that started out as Quart of Rye, and then changed to Classic Blvd some years back.

"I am now also playing bass in the band (Bandwagon) that will backup Amy Jones for the upcoming Country Music Appreciation Jam at Burroughs Falls," he added.

The multi-instrumentalist is always ready to live a new musical experience, to share his talent and to add another string to the bow of his artistry. So far his accomplishments are pretty impressive. Many different styles of music influenced the musician he is today.

"My influences are pretty broad. Ranging from Merle Haggard, to Dave Grohl. The list is far too long! If you've seen Slightly Haggard live, it's quite obvious that we are pretty big admirers of Merle Haggard".

For quite a few years now he has been a fan of the low key, unknown guys. Cody Jinks, Whitey Morgan, The Steelwoods and Blackberry Smoke; musicians that are more traditional country and rock.

"Though to this day I am still a fan of bands from my youth ranging from Foo Fighters to Pearl Jam and beyond. I have always admired a variety of genres," he said about his eclectic taste.

"With Slightly Haggard, we are fortunate to be asked to play all these amazing benefits and events. There are so many great people that come out to see us on a regular basis. It's really incredible. The music scene in this area seems to be dwindling at a fast rate" he explained.

"There are not many opportunities to play live with a group anymore. I am also grateful to be able to branch out on occasion to play guitar and bass. I just hope to be able to continue this journey."

Playing music can be difficult with a young family because it's hard to be away so much. So it is easily understandable when he said that he is a blessed guy to have a wife that supports him being gone on weekends.

Slightly Haggard and Classic Blvd just wrapped up playing Cookshire Fair and Ayer's Cliff Fair. With many gigs in store for the year to come, Chris Curtis is a lucky guy indeed but his luck came from hours of honing his skills and a great attitude towards life.

"My short musical career has had plenty of great and amusing times. Some rough times as well but mostly just great memories with awesome people. It's always been an enjoyable time to load up a bunch of guys in one vehicle with a trailer and head out to a gig. Always come home with a sore belly from all the laughs," he concluded.

You can catch him on Sept. 7 at the Burroughs Falls Dance Hall backing up country singer Amy Jones.

Connexions coming to Uplands

Record Staff

Uplands Cultural and Heritage Centre presents Connexions, the third and final component of our Art Bridge project that combines art and cultural mediation (funded by Heritage Canada). The Connexions exhibition aims to initiate, inspire, and gather the public around the works of eleven innovative artists. These artists from varied backgrounds all have a special relationship with the Eastern Townships. Meet them at our vernissage on Sunday, Sept. 8, from 2 to 4 p.m. at Uplands (9 Speid Street, Sherbrooke). Several related workshops and conferences will be offered at Uplands until the end of the exhibition on Dec. 15, 2019 (programme to follow).

- Eleven artists connecting:
- Kaitlyn Card, acrylic
- Maya Cashaback, lanterns
- Joanna Chelkowska, ink drawings
- Holly Fedida, painting
- Mira Doheny, painting
- Philip Dutton, pottery
- Karine Guyon, mixed media
- Trevor McKinven, painting
- Regine Neumann, sculpture
- Catherine Ostiguy, illustration
- Karl F. Ehrlich, photography (outdoor exhibit).

Uplands is open to the public Wednesday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on weekends from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Admission is free.
