Closure announcement leaves House howling

OTTAWA (CP) — The government brought the opposition howling to its feet Tuesday with the announcement that it will use closure to bring the protracted debate on a new time-allocation rule to an end by 1 a.m. Thursday.

The contentious rule 75C recommended by the Commons procedure committee would give the government the power unilaterally to set limits for debate where agreement on time allocation cannot be reached with the opposition parties.

Passage of the motion to concur in the committee's report would make the rules proposals part of Commons standing orders.

Government House Leader Donald Macdonald's announcement, after a last-ditch meeting with opposition spokesmen to find a solution to the dispute, said he will move for closure at 2 p.m. EDT today.

The result was the ugliest parliamentary scene of the first session of the Trudeau administration.

PM IS BOOED

Cat-calls, jeers and tossed papers greeted the announcement that closure was to be invoked for the first time since the 1964 debate over a new flag for Canada. Prime Minister Trudeau was booed as he left the House after the announcement.

Frank Howard, in a harshly personal speech later, said the prime minister appears to have fascist tendencies and wants to run the House like a computer. The NDP member for Skeena called Liberal MPs "lackeys, bootleggers and finks" and said Mr. Macdonald is their gauleiter—a gauleiter was a Nazi district political administrator.

As the burly MP referred to absent Ray Perrault (L—Burnaby-Seymour) as "the honorable that empty barrel from Burnaby-Seymour," Speaker Lucien Lamoureux interrupted him.

"Even if honorable members take part in this debate with feeling and passion some respect for certain values should still be maintained," the Speaker said.

"... If this is the kind of debate we are going to have today, tomorrow or Thursday or on other days, I wonder how long the House of Commons will survive."

SPOKE WITH STRAIN

Speaker Lamoureux, usually a model of understatement and tact, spoke with some strain.

Mr. Howard said he wished the Speaker had some influence in the cabinet. If the Liberals wanted to operate by the law of the jungle, the opposition would try to accommodate them.

Outside the House, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said the closure move will destroy "the atmosphere of co-operation which has existed here for almost a year." A rule to be effective had to be accepted by all MPs.

Prime Minister Trudeau, speaking to reporters, said Parliament had become in the popular view an irrelevant place where people talked and talked and did nothing. The rules change would restore Parliament's relevancy in the public eye. "We can't just talk all year round," he said.

Additional charges pondered for Teddy

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — A special Dukes County prosecutor says he is considering whether charges of driving to endanger and driving under the influence of alcohol might be placed against Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

Walter Steele told a news conference Tuesday the additional charges were under consideration as an investigation continued into the accident early Saturday in which a young secretary riding in Kennedy's car was drowned.

Kennedy already is charged with leaving the scene of the accident.

"These have all been considered and have not been ruled out," Steele said of the possible additional charges.

He said there is no material evidence to indicate that the car in which Mary Jo Kopechne died was operated in a manner to endanger.

Steele said he hopes to determine whether there had been drinking—or heavy drinking—at the party attended by Miss Kopechne the night she died.

"I can't say specifically that we are making an investigation into heavy drinking," Steele said. "The investigation is continuing to determine whether other complaints should be sought and the consumption of alcohol will be investigated."

'It's nice to get home' — a spaceman

HOUSTON (AP) — Apollo 11's moon explorers, yearning for home, streaked ever faster toward earth today on a perfect course that is to land them in the Pacific Thursday.

"No matter where you travel, it's nice to get home," Edwin Aldrin said as the astronauts beamed a television picture of earth from more than 180,000 miles away Tuesday night.

"It's getting appreciably larger now," said Michael Collins. "It's looking more like a world."

And, looking ahead to splashdown, Apollo 11 commander Neil Armstrong asked about the weather in the recovery area.

"It looks real good out there," mission control told him. "The forecast is for scattered clouds at 3,000 feet and a visibility of 10 miles. So it looks real good for recovery."

Apollo 11 is to land at 12:49 p.m. EDT Thursday about 1,200 miles southwest of Hawaii.

The astronauts set their course Tuesday by firing a short engine burst to steer onto a precise path intended to land them near the aircraft carrier Hornet. They ended their historic exploration of the moon early Tuesday by shooting themselves out of lunar orbit and gradually gained speed as they raced deeper into the grip of earth's gravity. The TV show was the highlight of an otherwise quiet day.

It started like a comedy show. When a picture of the moon flashed on the monitor in mission control, the capsule communicator, astronaut Charles Duke, commented: "We see the earth in the centre of the screen."

After a pause, Aldrin corrected him with: "Believe that's where we just came from."

"It is, huh? Well I'm really looking at a bad, screen here," Duke said. "Stand by one.

Hey, you're right!"

Later, when a picture of the earth was shown, Duke said: "I refuse to bite on this one. You tell us."

"You'll have some fun at the press conference at this shift," Collins kidded him. "It's 2:30 a.m.," Duke countered. "Everybody'll be asleep. I'm gonna sneak off through the back way."

Armstrong showed viewers two sealed boxes in which are packed precious bits of soil and rock that he and Aldrin collected during their momentous two-hour walk on the moon Sunday.

Power for the planets

To go further, only invention needed

HOUSTON (AP) — The moon now. The planets next. But where will man, the intrepid adventurer, find the power to carry spaceships to the stars so he may probe the galaxies?

The energy, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official says, will come from the mysterious nucleus of the atom.

"We at least know in principle what the source of energy could be, and it requires only an invention to make it available," said Dr. George Mueller, NASA's associate administrator for manned space flight.

"That source of energy, of course, that I'm referring to is the same one that fuels the sun—fusion of hydrogen to make helium."

Mueller referred to nuclear fusion—bringing together at high temperature and pressure the nuclei of two atoms until they fuse and release vast amounts of energy.

ENERGY FOR BOMB

Uncontrolled nuclear fusion already has been achieved. It is the source of energy for the hydrogen bomb.

Controlled fusion, in theory at least, would make the same amount of energy available, but in small quantities as needed. A rocket fuelled with just a few ounces of deuterium or tritium, heavy atoms of hydrogen, could travel for years.

Released as heat, fusion energy could be converted to propel a spacecraft, generate electricity or even manufacture life-giving oxygen through some yet undefined chemical process.

Under development but not yet flown in space is a rocket engine using another nuclear reaction, called fission.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE — The more machinery a church government has, the less water it uses!

Don't try it here, kiddies

HOUSTON (AP) — No, children. Drinking milk from a spoon is a no-no, even if astronaut Michael Collins does it. And that big yellow circle in the sky is the moon—even if mission control thinks it's earth.

And if you pick up a hundred or so pounds of rocks and put them in your closet like Neil Armstrong, mommy will spank. And if you try to float a slice of bread like Edwin Aldrin did it will fall smack-dab on its ham spread.

In other words, Tuesday night's exercise in educational television from that big Apollo studio in the sky, has to be put in proper context.

Opening shot—a pale moon 61,000 miles back. "We see earth in the centre of the screen," said Charles Duke on the ground, talking to the spacecraft. "It's very hazy at this time."

"Believe that's where we just came from," said Aldrin finally. Embarrassed silence from the ground.

"It is, huh?" said Duke. "Well, I'm really looking at a bad, at a bad screen here. Stand by one minute." Then: "Hey, you're right."

'Jockey Strap Itch' Is Form of Ringworm

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—How contagious is jockey strap itch? Can it be spread by sexual contact? How can it be cured?

A—This is a form of ringworm. It can be transmitted by close contact but contagion depends on such factors as individual susceptibility and the degree of moisture of the exposed skin.

Q—What is the cause and treatment of mycosis fungoides? Is it a form of cancer?

A—The cause of this slowly evolving disease is not known. It is characterized by multiple tumors of widely varied appearance. It is a form of cancer but, being superficial, it can often be cured if it is recognized early in its course and treated promptly. Although still experimental, taking radio-active sulfur by mouth has given promising results. Other beneficial treatments are the local application of fluorocortone acetone (Synalar) and nitrogen mustard.

Q—Is there any known way of changing the color of the iris other than using tinted contact lenses?

A—No, but some minor changes in color may occur with age.

Q—I have a dark spot on my leg which my doctor says is a blood tumor. It gets bigger and redder each time I menstruate. Will it become malignant? What is the best treatment?

A—Strictly speaking, a blood tumor or hematoma is a collection of blood in the tissues due to an injury. In time it is absorbed. What you have is probably a hemangioma or vascular mole. These may be treated by injecting a coagulating agent. In some clinics they are now treated with a laser beam. The type of treatment would depend on the size of the lesion and the surgeon's preference.

Q—What is the cause of intestinal gangrene? If X rays and other tests were made two months prior to death would they show that the intestines were diseased? In an elderly person, could an operation correct this condition?

A—Gangrene of the bowel may be caused by a strangulated hernia, kinking of the bowel or a clot obstructing the blood supply. An X-ray examination would give evidence of these diseases if they were present. They all constitute a surgical emergency and, unless the elderly victim were in a very weakened condition, operation would offer the best chance of recovery.

good hearts, he would have opened the bidding. A Count of winners and losers shows South that one club, plus six diamonds, plus four spades, represents 11 tricks but that he is likely to have trouble making four spades if spades and diamonds both fail to break. Then he sees an extra chance in How can I make this contract?

He immediately leads a club toward dummy. West ducks but South plays the king and leads a second club to put East in with the queen. East would do well to play a trump at this stage of the proceedings but he leads another heart. South is careful to ruff with the ace of trumps. Then he leads his five of trumps to dummy's eight, ruffs a club with the king of diamonds, enters dummy with a spade, ruffs dummy's last club with the queen of diamonds, leads his nine of diamonds to dummy's 10, pulls West's last trump with the jack while discarding his fourth spade, and makes the last tricks with high spades. This play, which is known as a dummy reversal, had given him seven trump tricks instead of only six. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

About television

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP)—The great potential for space was ably demonstrated by Apollo 11—and so was the great potential for global television.

For one shining moment as Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin walked the lunar surface, the world was bound together.

The television commentator mentioned only in passing that the greatest audience ever to witness a historic event saw the moonwalk.

It was easy to take television's role for granted amid the drama. You build a camera, load it aboard, and it works. Television is so much a part of our common experience. We watch it, we are enthralled by it, so often we are disappointed by it. Those ghostly images from another planet made it all worthwhile.

When world leaders get around to discussing ways the space program can promote peace and tranquility, perhaps some thought can be given to using the communications satellite network. What a potential it has for global understanding.

Maybe some way can be found to get Russia and China to participate. They were the only major nations which did not carry television of the moon walk. The Soviet Union showed taped sequences of the lunar walk Monday.

MARATHON OVER
Meanwhile, the networks ended their marathon coverage of the lunar phase of the Apollo mission and prepared for live coverage of the splashdown in the Pacific Thursday.

The liftoff from the moon and the rendezvous Monday afternoon went smoothly and there was little for television to do other than present the facts and demonstrate it as best they could with models and animation.

After Sunday night's thrilling pictures it apparently was anticlimactic to many people and audiences were down considerably.

There were many highlights of the long coverage, but here are a few which we will remember:—Walter Cronkite rubbing his hands in great relief and exclaiming, "Wow!" at the safe landing of the Eagle on the Sea of Tranquility.

—Julius Bergman's informed comments on every step of the critical operation.

—David Brinkley's way of wringing profound meanings out of a few and simple words. After all the scientific explanation of Eagle's liftoff from the moon he commented, "They're up and that's the important thing."

—Harry Reasoner's wry way of putting things in perspective when we are most in danger of taking them too seriously. In an essay, he said disenchantment with the moon had already set in and observed that as a symbol it had inspired "a lot of good songs and bad poetry."

Next: A live color transmission from the returning Apollo is scheduled for 7:02-7:17 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

Cookshire holds final meeting of the group

COOKSHIRE — Miss Esther Farnsworth entertained some of the WI members at her home recently, and showed a number of pictures which she had taken on her trip to Spain and Morocco.

A number of thank you notes were read from recipients of gifts from the society and thanks was received from the Cookshire Cemetery Society for the $500 bond.

Mrs. Heatherington pinned a life-membership pin on Mrs. Gloria Bellam, who had been absent when some others had been given out. Mrs. O. C. Farnsworth presented a copy of a Heritage of Canadian Handicrafts, edited by Gordon Green, to Mrs. R. B. Learned for her many years of service as president.

A letter was read from Mrs. Frances Taylor, the National WI secretary, in which she expressed her best wishes to Mrs. Learned and to all the members, also her regrets that it was felt necessary for this group to disband.

There was a note of sadness due to this being the last meeting of the group who had worked together for many years for the good of the community.

The ladies made tentative plans for a trip in the very near future.

Mrs. Heatherington read a letter from her WI pen pal in England and also a newspaper clipping telling of their winning prize in a singing festival. She also showed a picture of her pen pal, making her seem more real to the members.

Following adjournment the hostess served refreshments, assisted in serving by Miss Hazel McVetty.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mackie, Jr., and family, Montreal, were guests during their vacation of Mr. and Mrs. George Cruden, they also visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Mackie, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Coburn and family, Ottawa, Ont., spent several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Coburn.

Mrs. Gerald Martin and friends, Hardwick, Vt., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Woodard. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Woodard, who spent two days with her sister, Mrs. G. Martin and Mr. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. George MacRitchie and Mrs. John C. Morrison are sorry to hear of the death of their sister Mrs. Mary Brown, Toronto, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. MacRitchie and Mrs. Morrison went to Toronto and were there at the time of her death and burial. Sympathy is being extended to the members of the family at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Perkins and sons entertained their guests, Mr. Gordon Sells, Mrs. Perkins' brothers, Ivan, Robert and Russel Frost, her sister, Miss Margaret Frost and Debbie. A barbecue supper was served. On July 17 a great sorrow came to Ivan's family, when he was electrocuted while working in his brother Robert's barn.

Rev. Charles H. Sells, Boissevain, Man., recently visited relatives and friends here.

Miss Nancy I. Blake spent two weeks camping at Quebec Lodge.

Says improvement needed

Fabi is eager to clean up administration system

Sherbrooke's new municipal manager, Pierre Fabi, said yesterday he would start cleaning up the administrative system immediately.

Asked about the effectiveness his new position is supposed to provide, Mr. Fabi answered it was an improvement over the present structure.

He said today's requirements could no longer be provided by the system employed by the city.

He feels the important facet of a municipal manager's functions was promoting efficiency at all levels.

On this point, Mr. Fabi indicated it was becoming more evident everyday there was decay.

Manager Richard Fabi said he would visit the municipalities in the province of Quebec that had a manager and ask them for advice in procedures.

He added he would ask them about their problems in general and try to squeeze what he could out of their experience and knowledge.

Basically, the men at city hall and in the departments are good, noted Mr. Fabi, but they need up-dating.

Asked where he would stand in regard to city council, Manager Fabi said he was under its jurisdiction, and that he, as manager, would endeavor to carry out their recommendations with a firm hand.

Re-structuring the departments will be the new manager's main concern within the next months, he indicated.

"It will be done department by department," he said.

On his participation as a non-voting member of council, Mr. Fabi said his new duties would consist of discussing projects with council members and making his recommendations.

Every subject on the agenda is open to the manager's appraisal, Mr. Fabi pointed out.

Following the programs brought about by council is also part of the functions of municipal manager, Mr. Fabi said, including the implementation of ideas prescribed by council.

The new manager, Richard Fabi, indicated he would try to settle his functions as assistant-treasurer before engaging in the new and challenging position of city manager.

Aldermen glow with hopes for manager

The introduction of a city manager into municipal politics Monday has created a move of optimism and satisfaction for city aldermen.

Speaking on behalf of the Civic Action League — last night, Alderman Gerard Deziel said his group was glad it had been able to push the motion through.

"Sherbrooke is a developing city," said the alderman, and economic promotion is coming from the proposed urban renewal plan.

Mr. Deziel agreed that the complexity of the managerial procedures at city hall had made it necessary to hire a municipal manager.

But that is not the only reason why the aldermen of the CAL are happy said Mr. Deziel, because the manager will be affected with important projects vital to the development of the city.

Mr. Deziel added the deficiency attributed to the different service departments had also prompted council to take measures aimed at restoring the original pattern of these departments.

"The service departments are thirsty for co-ordination, confessed the alderman, and the arrival of a municipal manager may well satisfy the need.

Alderman Deziel prophesized a change of pace and attitude with the advent of a new manager.

He continued that he had great confidence in the man council chose to fill the post, assistant-treasurer Richard Fabi.

"I am sure this young man's experience and eagerness for good will be most beneficial to the population of Sherbrooke," commented Alderman Gerard Deziel.

Stating the CAL as an example, Mr. Deziel added "this is team work," with every man functioning as a group.

Mr. Deziel went so far as to make a prediction and said "With the use of the right man now, things will change in Sherbrooke, and at a pace yet to be seen."

The hiring of a municipal manager will eliminate the petty politics going on within city hall, noted Mr. Deziel.

The important contribution of a municipal manager is that he is under the jurisdiction of city council, Mr. Deziel said.

Another man is run down on King Street

A 66-year-old man, Donat Blouin, of 23 Peel Street, in Sherbrooke, was injured yesterday afternoon after being struck by a car on King Street West.

The accident occurred at the intersection of King Street West and Couture at about 1:23 p.m.

The car was driven by 22-year-old Andre Ouellette of 570 Dufferin Street, Sherbrooke.

Mr. Ouellette told police he was traveling west on King. He was blinded by the sun, tried to stop his car, but struck Mr. Blouin as he was crossing the street.

Police report the victim suffered a fractured shoulder. He was transported to the Sherbrooke Medical Center by a Security Corps of Quebec ambulance.

Recently three persons have been killed in traffic accidents on King Street, the last being a 6-year-old boy.

Magog tax-break protest goes to court

By CHARLES CATCHPAUGH (Record Staff)

MAGOG (Special) — A court order was served against the city of Magog last Friday afternoon, petitioning withdrawal of the resolution which called for the cancellation of $19,957.47 in back taxes held against the Madajo Corporation, holders of the Mortgage, who took over the factory site previously operated by the Industrial Specialty Manufacturing Company, which went into bankruptcy last December.

Plaintiff is Pierre Paul Landreville, a Magog businessman, who said the action taken by Mayor Maurice Theroux and four of his six councillors was illegal, and detrimental to good of the community.

The Madajo Corporation hold a $50,000 mortgage against the factory site, which draws a 24 per cent annual interest. Municipal valuation of the property is over $350,000 and Magog held a claim for back taxes, electrical and water services amounting to $34,959. When Panier-Ceramique offered to buy the factory from the Madajo Corporation, they asked for concessions, and Magog passed a resolution to cancel over half of the amount owed in order to gain a new industry.

Mr. Landreville said the mayor and councillors' action is unprecedented, and definitely unjustified. He said the city would have been justified to demand the taxes and services charges owed, as Magog held a privilege claim in the Industrial Specialty bankruptcy.

"Magog would have been legally justified to take over the property for back taxes," Mr. Landreville said, adding that they would then have obtained a building sufficiently large to accommodate new industry. The ceramic firm, he noted, has not given any guarantees to Magog, and in waiving back taxes allowing Madajo to sell, the city also bypassed local interests, which saw Magog businessmen refused the right to purchase the site, and reimburse the city taxes owed.

Part of article 517 in the Quebec Cities and Towns act, subject $79 remittance to poor, says: "Neither the municipal council nor its officers may remit any taxes, or the interest thereon." According to this regulation, there is no way to waive taxes, which is basis for Mr. Landreville's action.

Asked about the court action, Mayor Theroux said the procedure was ridiculous. He said he and his aldermen acted in the interest of the city, and were not about to be dictated to by a few who would take over control of the administration.

"Our prime interest is to gain industry for Magog," the city's chief magistrate said, adding that the Industrial Specialty went into bankruptcy because of financial burdens far more serious than the back taxes and services charges owed to Magog.

T. F. Denis, former general manager of the Industrial Specialty re-established his operation in Danville, following the December closing, claiming he could not obtain concessions from Magog to reopen here. Presently Mr. Denis' mill employs between 35 and 40 persons, and is reported to be thriving.

A check with the Stansard registry office Friday, showed that the Madajo Corporation legally took possession of the Magog factory building and land July 5, and have not as yet, transferred it to the ceramic firm.

The Magog council meets in caucus Thursday evening.

MRS. CLAIRE HEBERT — She feels the restriction on carts is causing a lot of shoppers pain when it comes to transferring the packages to the car.

MRS. MARY KACZKOWSKI — Mrs. Kaczowski said she was an occasional customer of the store, but noted the inconvenience she encountered

MRS. J. ROBITAILLE — Mrs. Robitaille pointed out the awkwardness she suffered from when she attempted to carry all of her packages out to the car.

MRS. DONNA HODGE — Mrs. Hodge, like the rest of the persons involved in the article, admitted transporting her bags to the car was troublesome.

Customers carp on curtailed carts

Steinberg's policy to disallow shopping carts out of the store is irking many customers.

A spokesman for the Belvedere Shopping Center store said recently increased damages and careless use of the carts by the public prompted the decision.

The policy has been in effect since last March, the spokesman said.

Many carts were found on the streets near Steinberg's on Belvedere damaged in many cases, he continued.

Commenting on the average weekly cost repairs the spokesman specified they ranged around $75.

The restriction imposed by the store is causing many customers to resort to their imagination to carry their supplies to the car.

Complaints are as varied as the people who made them, but one aspect is commonplace, the restriction of the use of carts is a burden to the person shopping at the store.

The problem becomes a burden when a person with an array of purchases is confronted with the way she will transfer her groceries from the store to the car.

One lady said she used the carts regardless of the restriction. She added that after she has used it, she brought it back.

In a move towards practicality, one woman said she used available carts at the nearby Miracle Mart store to transport her purchases to the parking lot downstairs.

A number of persons said they used the system described above.

Some manifested their discontent about the restriction by threatening to stop shopping at Steinberg's.

Again, repeated opinions pointed out the inconvenience of not having carts to move their grocery around.

Another woman said the removal of the cart service outside the store prompted her to buy less than usual.

Your new Record

With this issue, the Record is introducing a number of changes in style and content, all designed to improve our service to our readers and the community at large, and to make the Record a better newspaper. Further improvements will be made as time goes on, and we would appreciate the comments and suggestions of our readers as to what you would like to see in your daily paper. A questionnaire is provided for this purpose elsewhere in this issue, but please feel welcome to write to us at any time with your comments and ideas.

The Record is the third largest English-language daily in the province of Quebec, and we are fully conscious of our obligations towards the English-speaking residents of the Eastern Townships and particularly towards our many subscribers — perhaps the most faithful of any in Canada. We are also very much aware of the great opportunities open to us in the present situation in Quebec to play the role of interpreter of one group to the other, to provide a measure of leadership to the English-speaking community, and where necessary to be the champion of our human and civil rights wherever they are threatened.

We are full citizens of Quebec, and we intend to participate fully and impartially in all aspects of life in our province and our beloved Townships.

In exchange, we invite our readers to participate fully in all aspects of the Record, by sending us news, pictures, suggestions, letters and even guest editorials. Drop in to see us. The Record is your newspaper and with your help we intend to make it the best damn newspaper in the province.

Ring the church bells

As the world waits for the return of Apollo 11 from its spectacular journey to the moon, cities, towns and villages throughout the country might well follow the example offered by the town of Brampton in Ontario where it has been agreed that five-minute carillons will be pealed by the churches at the exact moment the recovery of the spaceship and its crew is announced.

The peeling of church bells to mark the safe completion of some dangerous journey is not new. It goes far back into the history of exploration.

By popular tradition, probably based on fact, says that the churches of St. Malo in France rang their bells for an extended period when Jacques Cartier and his crewmen returned from their journeys to the virtually unknown new world. And the coastal towns of England also registered their joy at the return of their native sons from lengthy and hazardous voyages. Similar customs prevailed in other countries at other times.

Before the advent of systems of instantaneous communication, the ringing of the church bells was often the means by which the happy news was spread. The churches of the town in which the seafarers landed would start the chimes which were taken up by nearby communities, the joyful word being spread from one town to another until the entire region, and perhaps the country, was covered.

Surely when three men return safely from the greatest journey in the history of man it would be fitting to revive this ages-old practice as a sign of rejoicing and thanksgiving.

Our Girl Friday says she lost her mind over a new boy friend and we're not surprised, because such a small thing is mighty easy to lose.

1783 — The Lachine Canal, Canada's first step towards opening up the Great Lakes for salt-water ships, was completed 144 years ago today—in 1825—after four years of work. The Canal bypasses the rapids immediately upstream of Montreal in the St. Lawrence and was first planned by the French in 1700. A shallow canal at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was dug in 1798 and in 1841, immediately after the union of Upper and Lower Canada, the Welland Canal past Niagara Falls was improved. By 1855, steamers drawing 11 feet of water could move up from the sea to Lake Superior.

The Little Man Who Wasn't There?

Receives Papal visit

Uganda lives up to popular conception of deepest Africa

KAMPALA (AP) — Uganda, chosen by Pope Paul for the first papal visit to the African continent, lives up to the image of deepest Africa.

This picturesque land north of Lake Victoria provides a heady potion for pilgrim, historian, investor, nature lover or old Tarzan fan.

Large forest gorillas live on the slopes of 11,000-foot volcanoes. Pygmies inhabit the snow-capped Ruwenzori Mountains, known as the Mountains of the Moon.

Crocodiles slide off sunbaked sandbars into the murky Nile as four boats pass a few feet from shore. Elephants have the right of way in national parks. River perch are so big you throw them back in if they weigh under 25 pounds.

People live a simple life, many in mud huts, raising bananas and longhorn cattle and bartering for brides.

The Pope, who comes here July 31, is portrayed in front of the Mountains of the Moon on Uganda's newest postage stamp. Hundreds of thousands of pilgrims will be here to see the pontiff.

CHRISTIANS MARTYRED
In this area some of Africa's early Christians were born, educated, baptized and put to death for their beliefs. Twenty-two of them became Black Africa's first saints when Pope Paul canonized them in 1964. He will honor them during the visit.

A proud, friendly people, Ugandans trace their heritage from one of the country's four traditional kingdoms. English is the official language but the government radio broadcasts in 17 tongues.

Unlike its neighbors, Uganda was never a European colony and European settlers were few, although it was a British protectorate for some 60 years before gaining independence in 1962. It is still a member of the British Commonwealth.

Women of Buganda, largest and wealthiest of the old kingdoms of Uganda, still wear long, bustle-style "busuti," a Victorian dress introduced by missionaries to keep the girls modestly covered.

The real European infiltration did not begin until Henry Morton Stanley — the Stanley of "Dr. Livingstone, I presume" — wrote a letter to the London Daily Telegraph appealing to Christendom to evangelize Buganda. Within eight days of its publication, England's Church Missionary Society decided to send missionaries.

CONVERTS KILLED
The first Protestants arrived in 1877. Roman Catholic missionaries followed two years later. Islam, introduced by the Arabs, was already present and some 70 Islamic converts had been burned alive for following their religion and refusing to eat meat butchered by a pagan butcher.

Religion was spread from the top, among court followers, as missionaries sought favor and support of the Kabaka or king. Mission schools spread their separate approaches to education across the land.

As recently as the 1962 elections, the Democratic party was known as "dini ya Papa" or religion of the Pope, and the Uganda People's Congress as "United Protestants of Canterbury."

Roman Catholics and Protestants make up about three-fourths of the country's 8,000,000 population.

Catholic, Protestant, Islamic and Hindu houses of worship crown Uganda's hills. President Milton Obote, a Protestant, has a sister who is a Roman Catholic nun and another close relative who is a devout Moslem.

In contrast to the turbulence in much of Africa, Uganda has been relatively peaceful.

Four years after the country became independent Obote overthrew Uganda's first president, Sir Edward Mutes, abolished hereditary kingdoms and replaced them with a republican constitution.

Parliament has maintained a state of emergency — permitting arrest and indefinite detention without trial — in Buganda ever since the revolution.

PLOTTERS TRIED

Last year six men and a woman were tried on charges of plotting to overthrow Obote's government. The High Court was told they planned to kill Obote and put his body on public display in a zoo.

One man was sentenced to life in prison, two others to eight years each and the others acquitted, only to be rearrested under Buganda's emergency laws.

Obote, a one-time herdsman, was the country's first prime minister when he overthrew the Kabaka. He wins high marks among friend and foe for his political astuteness. Quiet, pipe-smoking, well read and a beer drinker, Obote keeps somewhat remote.

He learned politics under Jomo Kenyatta in the old days, quitting Kenyatta's Kenya African Union only when it was proscribed at the start of the Mau Mau emergency in the early 1950s.

Sir Edward now lives in London. But the other ex-kings of Uganda live in Uganda in peace, in their old kingdoms, as private citizens. Two palaces are being converted by the government into tourist hotels.

The Nile begins its 4,000-mile sojourn to the Mediterranean Sea in Uganda and, by dropping 2,000 feet within the country, offers Uganda perhaps the greatest electrical potential in Africa.

OLD MAP ACCURATE

The geographer Ptolemy in the second century AD thought that the Nile came from the Mountains of the Moon. He did a map, possibly from travellers' tales, which fascinated explorers for centuries and turned out to be accurate in a general way.

Straddling the Equator and well above sea level, Uganda has what tourist brochures call a perpetual Mediterranean summer. The sun always rises at 7 a.m. and sets at 7 p.m.

Dugout canoes or the modern metal ones of the same shape glide noiselessly by on the three-hour, $4.20 boat trip in either Murchison or Queen Elizabeth National Park.

On either trip tourists are likely to see dozens of lumbering elephants, scores of snorting hippos, dark, dubious water buffalo and hundreds of birds — all within easy range of a camera.

Covering 91,000 square miles, Uganda is the biggest coffee producer in the British Commonwealth and one of the biggest cotton producers in Africa.

FIGHT OVER CATTLE
Longhorn cattle are the object of raids, particularly in the northwest where the people of Karamoja still fight over cattle with spear and arrow.

An abundant rainfall over much of the land provides for luxuriant banana plants — a dietary staple and, with their big leaves, a source of shade and privacy around the mud huts with straw or metal roofs that dot the rolling green countryside.

Kampala, the capital city, is like Rome, built on seven hills. It is 4½ miles from the shores of Lake Victoria — second largest fresh-water lake in the world, after Lake Superior.

A single-track, 829-mile railroad, connecting Kampala with the Indian Ocean port of Mombasa, is the country's economic lifeline.

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

Red tape principal Ottawa production

BY RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Ever think of Ottawa as a manufacturing city?

Certain it always has been, and ever may be, that the National Capital is a "one-industry town" of civil servants, even a "company town" with the federal government, of course, playing the part of the dominating corporate giant.

But a manufacturing centre? A factory city? Yep, manufacturer of a very specialized product — red tape — rules. regulations. Every businessman knows just how needless the irritating miles of red tape can be, every private enterpriser from the chairman of the board of the largest corporation to the proprietor of the smallest operation.

How's that? As small as the young ferryman who, like his father, grandfather and great grandfather, runs a six-seater rowboat "ferry" across the Ottawa River on Sundays between suburban Rockcliffe Park on the Ontario side and Gatineau Point on the Quebec shore.

The four generations have charged a nickel for the half-mile ride.

FUN AND GAMES:

But why would anyone want to go, of a Sunday afternoon, from an Ottawa suburb across a wide river by rowboat to an undistinguished Quebec village? Well, perhaps for the cool ride on a hot day, but mostly for a few beers, gins and tonics, Cuba Libres, Scotch-on-the-rocks, or what-will-you-have.

For Gatineau Point, like Hull and "The Strip" along the Aylmer Road, historically has been an after-dark and weekend watering hole. All three places swing and sway or rock and roll with night spots from posh pleasure palaces offering such Broadway, Las Vegas or television stars as Jack Carter, Schecky Greene, Louis Armstrong and Shelly Berman to joints with strippers.

In Gatineau Point, though, they don't wait for the sun to go down — the fun starts early Sunday afternoon.

And while you can get over to the Quebec shore by four different bridges, there are types who prefer, perhaps for the change of pace of it, the water route.

So the ferryman, his dad, grandpappy and great grandpappy have been obliging these many years at a nickel a ride.

Then along came inflation, and the fourth generation ferryman figured the ride was worth a dime.

That was when he discovered what a tangle red tape can be.

He had to apply, just like Air Canada or Canadian Pacific, to the Transport Commission for permission to change his rates.

The Commission required him to clear it with the Ontario government and the Quebec administration, the Ottawa River being an inter provincial stream.

GET OUT THE SCISSORS:

The Quebec government wanted to know if he had cleared it with Gatineau Point Council, the Township of Gatineau and the County of Hull. And Ontario, of course, required him to clear it with Rockcliffe Village Council the township of Gloucester, the city of Ottawa and the new Regional Carleton-Russell administration.

The as an after-thought, they all wondered if he had cleared it with the National Capital Commission.

The ferryman sensibly is charging the dime, and figures that his grandson, with luck, might be able to finish up the mountain of paper-work making it all tidily legal according to the rules, regulations and endless miles of red tape of the multiplicity of governments at multi-levels butting into his business.

But he not without hope. There may be a turn for the better in the long long trail of red tape awaiting.

Justice Minister John Turner, that white knight in shining armor, may ride to the rescue of the taxpayers.

"He has let it be known that "something must be done" about those ever-multiplying hordes of "faceless men" of the bureaucracy who run what he calls the "always-expanding and increasingly remote machine called government."

A way must be found, says John Turner, to protect citizens from "bureaucratic trespassing against their rights and provide redress from red tape wrongs."

It could be done, he suggests, through reorganization of the Federal Exchequer Court, setting it up as a sort of "Ombudsman of the Bench."

The justice minister is working on it, and as he is the kind of man who usually gets things done, something good could be happening.

Long-awaited economic slowdown developing

NEW YORK (AP) — Slowly, the long-awaited slowdown in the United States economy appears to be approaching. Nobody can say with certainty that it is coming, because the signs could be only fluctuations. But a pattern could be developing.

The extent of any slowdown cannot be forecast accurately even by the finest government devices. Many statistics, in fact, indicate months of advance still are ahead. And some economists foresee years of moderate inflation.

But, there are these first faint signs that a reduction in the flow of money to the economy — a direct result of the Federal Reserve turning off the spigot — is having some effects: —The rate at which the country's production of goods and services is growing has been halved in the last year.

—The barometer of consumer sentiment, as measured by the University of Michigan, has begun to show a slight drop, indicating that buyers will be a bit less inclined to purchase certain goods.

—Gains in personal income have begun to show evidence of levelling. Still rising, of course, but not with much energy.

—For the second straight month, retail sales in June failed to advance.

—Home building, which was crawling along at a pace far below the country's needs, has begun to drop off again in reaction to tight money and the high costs of mortgages.

PROGRAM DELAYED

—The Chrysler Corp., among others, has begun retrenching. A big expansion program has been delayed because of a belief that the anti-inflation drive will, indeed, slow the economy and perhaps reduce demand for automobiles.

—A few wholesale price reductions have shown up here and there. And the asking prices of some homes are dropping because potential buyers can't get up the down payments or meet mortgage terms.

None of these indicators can be relied upon as infallible, but they are the best criterions available.

If the economy does cool off, and if inflation is brought down from its current seven-per-cent rate to something else than one-half that, will it mean that the economy has finally stabilized?

Not at all. In fact, in steering anything as ponderously large as the U.S. economy, especially when the response lags behind the signal by six months or more, the danger always exists that the wheel will be turned too far.

The consequences of such a miscalculation would be recession. As of now, the probability is small. It is there, however, for the government is purposely driving the economy in that direction.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Children are reluctant to eat spinach even when told it has vitamin C, calcium and the most iron and vitamin A of all popular vegetables. The World Almanac notes. Kids' war on spinach and the stratagems parents have used to get them to eat it are portrayed in Carl Rose's famous 1928 New Yorker cartoon where mother and child exchange this dialogue: "It's broccoli, dear." "I say it's spinach, I say the hell with it."

'...but not because of the accident'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Leader Mike Mansfield says he thinks Edward M. Kennedy will pass any attempt for the presidency in 1972, but not because of the auto accident in which a woman riding in the Massachusetts senator's car was killed.

Mansfield had told colleagues for sometime before the weekend accident that Kennedy, the Senate's No. 2 Democratic leader, would delay any bid for the White House until 1976 or beyond.

Doubts about Kennedy's political future were sounded after his car plunged off a bridge in Chappaquiddick Island, Mass., and the passenger, Mary J. Kopechne, was drowned. Kennedy did not report the accident to police for nine hours, saying he suffered from shock and exhaustion.

Mansfield said Monday he supposes some people will say that Kennedy's political prospects have been damaged by leaving the scene of the accident "but I do not agree."

"Even politicians are human and this could happen to anybody," Mansfield said. "His statement that he dived into the water several times supports his report that he was dazed and shocked."

"He has been going around with a back brace for several years since he was almost killed in an airplane accident. It would have been directly against his doctors' orders to dive into the water. This could have contributed to his exhaustion and shock."

"It is quite understandable that Senator Kennedy could have been stunned and might not have known what he was doing for several hours after the accident and the physical strain of having dived several times in search of the car."

TOOK CLOSE LOOK

Mansfield said his belief that Kennedy will not try for the 1972 nomination has been based on his observations of the Massachusetts Senator's personality and the latter's operations as his assistant.

"My conclusion is based on several factors," Mansfield said. "One important one is that he likes the work here in the Senate far more than his brothers did." This was an allusion to the late President John F. Kennedy and the late Robert F. Kennedy.

"A lot of people have been trying to push him into going after the nomination. The Republicans are trying to set him up as a clay pigeon. But he is an old pro in politics at 37. He can afford to wait if he wants to. He has a mind of his own and he will make it up in his own good time."

Other political observers didn't take the same view of the accident's effect on Kennedy's career.

"It's a disaster," for Kennedy's presidential aspirations, said one of the highest political advisers of the AFL-CIO—traditionally strong support of Democratic presidential candidates.

Approximately 100 officials of the AFL-CIO's political arm, the Committee on Political Education—COPE—opened a major meeting at Piney Point, Md., to discuss state-by-state congressional races next year, including Kennedy's expected bid for re-election.

The consensus appeared to be Kennedy could win re-election to the Senate despite the auto accident, but was virtually rules out of the presidential race in 1972.

They fight because they want to

Tens of thousands of neolithic warrior farmers live in the central mountain fastnesses of West New Guinea. The Dani are ritual warriors. They fight because they want to and because it is necessary. They do not enter a battle in order to put an end to fighting. To them, there is no end in sight. They have been warriors since boyhood, ready to fight whenever their leaders decide to do so. Political arguments, sentimental or patriotic feelings do not enter into the matter. Along with agriculture and pig raising, war is one of the paramount institutions of Dani life. These photos are from "Gardens of War," by Robert Gardner and Karl G. Heider, who spent months with the stone-age tribe.

AMUSED by a joke, a Dani warrior carries his stone ax on a shoulder scarred by an old arrow wound.

A DANI BATTLE, part of their ritual wars, is in progress. One of the primary reasons the Dani engage in war is because of their belief in ghosts that demand satisfaction through the killing of enemies.

CLARINET IN CONCERT — Jean Laurendeau, clarinetist will join the Orford String Quartet this Saturday in a concert of classical chamber music. Mr. Laurendeau is a member of the teaching staff of the Orford Arts Centre.

Orford Arts Centre

A concert of classical chamber music

Saturday July 26 at 8:30 p.m. — THE ORFORD QUARTET; soloists: RONALD TURINI, pianist and JEAN LAURENDEAU, clarinetist.

Two masterpieces of the classical chamber music repertoire will be presented in the JMC Concert Hall next Saturday evening. The ORFORD STRING QUARTET will be joined by pianist RONALD TURINI in the Schumann Quintet and by clarinetist JEAN LAURENDEAU in the Brahms Quintet. The members of the Orford Quartet — Andrew Dawes, Kenneth Perkins, Terence Helmer and Marcel Saint Cyr — are spending six weeks at Orford this summer as quartet-in-residence. In August the Quartet will perform at the Stratford Festival. Future engagements include a visit to Puerto Rico in the autumn and in January 1970 tours for Jeunesses Musicales centres in Belgium and in Austria.

This will be Montreal pianist RONALD TURINI's first appearance with the Orford Quartet and one of his rare chamber music performances. Since his 1961 Carnegie Hall debut, Turini's career has moved steadily forward. Here are some important highlights: an RCA Victor Recording contract; three New York recitals; a European tour with the Montreal Symphony Orchestra; 14 engagements with the CBC; a tour with the Toronto Symphony; a tour with the Washington National Symphony; three tours of the Soviet Union; three tours of South America; five tours of Europe. Last heard at Orford in 1965, Ronald Turini gives over 200 performances each season.

Currently a member of the teaching faculty at the Orford Arts Centre, JEAN LAURENDEAU is well-known to Canadian JMC audiences as the foremost exponent of the 20th Century electronic instrument known as the "Ondes Martenot".

Sunday July 27 at 8:30 p.m. — JACQUELINE SCHWEITZER, pianist.

French pianist JACQUELINE SCHWEITZER who is, according to the New York Times "Ambassador of the French school of piano playing" will present a varied program in her piano recital at Mount Orford next Sunday evening. Short works by SCARLATTI, DAGINCOURT, DANDRIEUX, DAQUIN and COUPERIN will be followed by the 32 Variations in C minor by BEETHOVEN and the G minor Sonata opus 22 by SCHUMANN. The program will end with CHOPIN'S fourth Ballade, LISZT'S Jeux d'eaux, two Images by DEBUSSY and an Etude de concert by G. PIERNE.

Tuesday July 29 at 8:30 p.m. — Lecture-recital on Charles Ives by American pianist JOSEPH BLOOM.

The Tuesday evening lecture-recital series will continue with an appearance by American pianist JOSEPH BLOOM. This lecture will certainly interest all those interested in contemporary music. American composer CHARLES IVES, who died in 1954 began experimenting with new forms of music before the turn of the Century. His most famous composition is the "Concord Sonata" for piano.

Wednesday July 30 at 8:30 p.m. — LE GROUPE BAROQUE under the direction of TARAS GABORA

The next CBC summer festival concert will feature four singers: GAELYNE GABORA, soprano; JOAN MAXWELL, contralto; GASTON GERMAIN, bass; and ALBERG HUIBERF, tenor, accompanied by six musicians under the direction of TARAS GABORA. This concert, which will be recorded for re-broadcast by the CBC will include works by MONTEVERDI, K.P.E. BACH, J.S. BACH and HINDEMITH.

Thursday July 31 at 8:30 p.m. — CONCERT BY ORFORD PARTICIPANTS

A free concert presented by advanced students at the Orford Arts Centre will be presented next Thursday evening. Names of the artists and of the works to be performed will be announced from the stage.

ART EXHIBITION: At the Art gallery of the Concert Hall, until August 2: Exhibition of works by PETER GNASS, JEAN NOEL and SERGE TOUSIGNANT.

Search for peace

HANOI DIARY, by Abraham L. Feinberg, Longmans Canada Limited; 258 pages; cloth $5.25, Paper $1.25

Early in 1967, Toronto's Rabbi Abraham Feinberg, accompanied by the late Reverend A. J. Muste from the United States, a retired Presbyterian minister, and the Right Reverend Ambrose Reeves, former Bishop of Johannesburg, travelled to Hanoi on a fact-finding mission of peace.

Relevancy of a contemporary war and the immediacy of a diary. These two qualities make Rabbi Feinberg's HANOI DIARY a "must" for all who are concerned about the Viet Nam struggle.

Rabbi Feinberg gives a very detailed account of his own actions and those of the clergymen who accompanied him, from December 25, 1966, when he left New York, to January 28, 1967, when he returned. He describes the hotel rooms and the airports, the people with whom he talked; he mentions his own doubts as to how to interpret some of his observations, and his speculations about the motives of government officials and other people with whom he made contact.

He describes the North Vietnamese who have been gravely wounded by anti-personnel weapons such as the Lazy Dog which, on explosion, shoots thousands of steel pellets in every direction, and of those who have been terribly burned by Napalm to justify his denunciation of the Viet Nam war as indefensible inhumanity.

The Rabbi writes in the Foreword that he kept a diary of his experiences from the day of his departure until the conclusion of his visit. He writes: "I kept a daily record, writing 'blind'

(because of impaired eyesight) in hotel rooms during the small hours, with the help of a flashlight - battery magnifier, or jotting down quick notes "on the run," everywhere, any time about the things that were happening around and within us, what the "old clergymen" saw, heard, "smelled," learned, and the response kindled in my mind?" The highlight of the peace mission was the interview with President Ho Chi Minh and Prime Minister Pham Van Dong. This encounter with these two powerful men, Feinberg records in detail.

Then came the famous invitation around the world: "I invite Mr. Johnson to come to Hanoi as our guest and sit where you are now. With his wife and daughters, his doctor, his secretary, his cook."

HANOI DIARY is written with a sense of deep compassion and concern by a man who was not afraid to become involved. The reader may not always agree with the writer's evaluation of some of the events in which he shared. Nevertheless he will find the book well worth the time it takes to read.

REV. A. B. LOVELACE
Lennoxville

When Sir Hans Sloane left his "Cabinet of Curiosities" to the nation in 1753, the British Museum, the first of the great metropolitan museums, came into being. The World Almanac notes, The Magna Carta, Shakespeare's autograph, over seven million books, the world's largest stamp collection, the Rosetta Stone and the Elgin Marbles taken from the Parthenon are a few of the items in the museum's collections.

Newly-developed instrument removes birthmarks

One of the minor medical mysteries is the cause of the port wine stain birthmark. Doctors know that reddish-purple discolorations are caused by an accumulation of blood vessels in the superficial skin of the face and neck. They know that these excess blood vessels serve no useful purpose, but they don't know what causes them to accumulate nor do they know how to prevent them.

The port wine stain birthmark can range in size from the equivalent of a 25 cent piece to a vivid blotch covering the entire face. There is no completely satisfactory method of eradication since there is rarely any abnormality of skin contour or texture. Plastic surgeons have found that any treatment other than by changing color adds both a contour and texture variation, thus creating a secondary problem greater than the primary one.

There are two methods of changing color. Proprietary cosmetics have long been used to provide a temporary color match with normal skin surrounding the stain area. A more permanent solution has been attempted using color matching through intra-dermal injection of pigmentation mixtures. In the latter procedure, an instrument designed by engineers of the National Research Council of Canada is now being used in a program of experimental surgery, by a Toronto plastic surgeon, that holds out new hope for those unfortunate enough to be born with this disfigurement.

This procedure, similar to tattooing, was pioneered in the 1940's by a New York surgeon, Dr. Herbert Conway. It involves injection of pigments - primarily whites and greens - to combine with the reds of the stain to form a color tone that, ideally, would blend perfectly into normal skin surrounding the stain area.

Unfortunately, the procedure does not produce satisfactory resolution of three main problems: how to insert an adequate volume of pigment at the time of the operation; how to prevent leaching away of the pigment particles; and how to obtain a color match of the pigment to the patient.

By 1960, this technique had fallen into disrepute and was all but abandoned by plastic surgeons in North America. At this time, in Toronto, Dr. H. G. Thomson undertook research in an effort to refine the technique.

The initial work was conducted on pigs in order to develop some "philosophies of technique" that should be built into a machine. Simultaneously, clinical research was undertaken in cooperation with a medical artist to determine the best way to achieve color matching.

Five years ago, the first of 70 children was treated in a continuing research program at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

Research started with the original cable-driven Dermajector and then continued with a regular tattoo artist's machine.

It was established that small punctures rather than large ones permitted more pigment to be inserted with less associated burning, less dermis loss and less external loss of pigment. It was also found that the higher the frequency of injection, the greater was the amount of pigment inserted, giving the advantage of being able to inject a large amount of pigment prior to the start of profuse bleeding.

This finding led to adaption of a high speed air turbine motor to provide the desired high frequency of puncture. Initial designs were plagued with troubles and, in 1967, the project was turned over to S. H. G. Connock, Head of the Instruments Section of NRC's Division of Mechanical Engineering.

Three prototype instruments were developed. The final one provides for combinations of 10, 20 and 26 needles held in "needle carriers". The operating frequency of the needles is about 20,000 to 22,000 cycles per minute.

The needles have an adjustable depth of penetration from zero to three millimetres. A "foot" on the instrument rests on the skin. It controls the depth of penetration and also positions the needle carrier correctly in relation to the skin surface.

Use of new machine for treatment of the port wine birthmark is demonstrated with model.

fall and will base my future actions on the outcome of this vote," he replied.

He expressed doubts that the outcome of the three by-elections scheduled for this fall would affect his position as party leader.

"After all, two of the three seats were held by Union Nationale supporters and it is difficult to dislodge a government candidate at a by-election," he said. "But if the Liberals register a net gain or even one seat, you can be assured there will be no early election."

On the question of economic decentralization, the Liberal leader said that when in power his government had started to move in this direction with the plan to establish a steel mill in the Becancour area.

But instead of going ahead with the project the Union Nationale government had concluded the purchase of an outdated steel mill in the Montreal area, thus reversing the policies formulated by the Liberals.

Asked where his party stood on the problem of unemployment in the textile industry, Mr. Lesage said that a motion made by his party in the National Assembly to have the federal government formulate a long-range policy on the industry had been defeated.

"But, actually," he said, "what this province needs is more dynamic industry. The textile industry has limited opportunities for expansion. We need growing industries, especially in the field of electronics. But the policies of the present administration are discouraging these firms to establish here."

Discussing the demand for reduced tolls on the Eastern Townships autoroute, he commented:

"When the people of this district came to my Government and asked us to construct the autoroute they promised they would never ask us for a reduction in the tolls. They believed the improved transportation facilities would compensate for the toll charges."

And pressed further, he said:

"I do not believe the tolls at their present level are hampering the economic development of the Eastern Townships. A reduction would only place an added burden on the provincial treasury without producing any substantial benefits."

Later in the evening the Liberal leader was the guest of honor at a dinner organized by district Liberal partisans.

Debate-choking closure rule first in 1913; then on flag

OTTAWA (CP) — Closure, a without debate or amendment. Since the Liberals have 154 members in the 264-seat Commons and few, if any, will bolt white national flag, is being moved in the Commons today to end a protracted rules debate.

end at 1 a.m. EDT Thursday. Again, with the government's majority, the House will vote to concur in recommendations that the Commons rules include three new debate-limiting clauses.

Donald S. Macdonald, president of the Privy Council and government House leader, will move for closure when the Commons moves into its 10th day of debating concurrence in a committee recommendation for new rules.

Closure is a throttling of debate which has roused opposition indignation and some public outcry ever since its inception. And though opposition leaders have promised to abolish it once they have become prime minister—as John Diefenbaker promised—the rule remains essentially unchanged.

Once Mr. Macdonald's motion is passed, the rules debate must which ran 16 days and involved 70 votes, ended an ear of gentlemanliness in Commons debate that has not yet been restored. It brought the collapse of the promising career of Speaker Rene Beaudoin, branded Mr. Howe as a power-hungry dictator and took the spark out of former prime minister Louis St. Laurent's leadership.

It brought Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) forward as the Commons' foremost rules expert—an honor he still enjoys.

John Diefenbaker came to power in the subsequent general election of 1957 on a campaign to restore the rights of Parliament. Though he promised to abolish closure and did not use it during his term in office, it remains as Standing Order 33 of the Commons.

It was last used by former prime minister Lester B. Pearson in December, 1964, cutting off 33 days of emotional debate on the flag. He was invited to do so by Leon Balcer, then the Conservatives' Quebec leader and MP for Trois-Rivieres, who later left the party to sit as an independent.

While many political analysts attributed Mr. Howe's use of closure as a factor in the defeat of the Liberals after 22 years in power, Mr. Pearson's use of it in 1964 had no such dramatic consequences.

Granby drive to overpower Als Tuesday Drummondville continues to move ahead

The Thetford Miners, limited to three hits by John Wheeler and Robert Nauman, suffered their third straight defeat at the hands of the Drummondville Royals last night in their home ball park. Final score was 2-0.

A single by Chuck Hughes allowed Tom Callen to score the winning run, while Rich Emond crossed over the insurance tally to make it a 2-0 drama.

The Royals scored their pair of runs against Ricardo Quiroz who had relieved Bryant York in the eleventh inning. York and Wheeler, the Royals' starting pitcher, were engaged in a hurling duel for the first ten innings.

In other League action last night, the Plessisville Braves took both ends of a doubleheader from the Quebec Indians, 6-2 and 3-2. This double victory enabled the Braves to lift themselves into sole possession of second place.

In Granby, the Cardinals erupted for a seven-run outburst to earn a victory over the Sherbrooke Alouettes in an 11-9 scrap.

In the Plessisville sweep, Braves' starter Rolando Rivas scattered six hits to win his eighth game of the season as against four defeats. Rivas got early support from his teammates who scored three runs in the first inning and notched two more in the second. Indians' starter Eduardo Acosta

Commercial Breeder Earns Million plus

Leslie Combs II, the world's largest commercial thoroughbred breeder, earned more than $1,000,000 at a sale Monday night. Combs, who two years ago sold 1969 Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner, Majestic Prince, this year sold 30 yearlings for $1,260,000.

His top sale was $135,000 paid by Charles Engelhard, known as the world's platinum king, for a roan son of Ribot.

Engelhard, of Far Hills, N.J., was acquiring a son of the same sire who gave him European racing stars Ribocco, Ribero, and Ribofilio, all purchased at the Keeneland sale.

Another of Combs' horses went for $100,000 to Frank McMahon, who in 1967 paid $250,000 for Majestic Prince.

McMahon, a Vancouver businessman, went to six figures this time for a son of Never Bend—Triple Orbit.

With 72 yearlings selling for more than $2,000,000 during the evening session, the two-day sale passed its halfway mark with 148 head bringing a total of $3,470,000.

Arnold Winnick, who operates the Dell Ray Training Centre at Ocala, Fla., paid $90,000 for a Never Bend colt from the consignment of Barberry Farm, and McMahon went to $80,000 for one of Combs' Nashua colts.

Sher-Lenn all-stars shut out Cowansville 6-0

Sher-Lenn Little League All-Stars played their third game in the Regional Play-Offs against the Cowansville All Stars last night, at Cowansville. They had it tough for four innings and at this stage of the game had only a narrow 1-0 lead. A big fifth, four-run inning sent them on their way to a 6-0 win.

The Cowansville team showing lots of improvement over teams that represented the region in former years put up a good fight before going to defeat. Credit for their showing in the play-offs this season goes to Art Stocks who has been the leading personality in the league for a number of years. He has built the league up to be contender in the play-offs.

place this evening at Valleyfield. The loser of this game will play Sher-Lenn on Friday evening in Sherbrooke.

Cowansville started Alain Guinnett on the mound and in the four innings he pitched he held the Sher-Lenn squad to four scattered hits. Michel Murray on the mound for the Sher-Lenners, though not as steady as he usually is, kept the Cowansville team to three hits. He was bothered at times by playing on a grassless field and this affected his control.

Top of the first inning, Sher-Lenn took a one run lead. A base on balls coupled with a hit by pitch and singles from Marco Roby and Daniel Denault sending in the run. Michel Murray put the Cowansville boys down in order in their part of the first. He struck out one man in this inning.

Hits from Jacques Lambert and Daniel Auger in the top of the second seemed to give the Sher-Lenn the opportunity to increase their lead but Guinnett stopped the threat with infield out. Jacques Gagnon first man up for Cowansville in the last of the second inning got Cowansville's first hit. E. Jodin the next batter was issued a walk but Michel Murray struckout the next three men to face him to end the threat.

Two strikeouts in the top of the third by Alain Guinnett put down the Sher-Lenn boys. Cowansville again threatened in their part of the third. A base on balls and a single by Guinnett put two men on but again with two strike outs by Murray killed the threat.

In each part of the fourth the teams went down in order. Sher-Lenn's big inning came up in the top of the fifth. Ten men went to bat in the inning, Michel Benoit first man up was issued a walk as was Jacques Lambert the next batter. Daniel Denault with a single loaded the bases and Guy Gregoire also singled. This sent in two runs. Marco Roby then doubled to send in two more runs. All this gave the Sher-Lenn squad a 5-0 lead.

Murray with two infield outs and a strikeout stopped Cowansville in their part of the fifth. Hits from Jacques Lambert and Daniel Denault in the top of the sixth sent in the Sher-Lenn's sixth run. A single by Bruno Gaboriault was all for Cowansville. Sher-Lenn taking the game by a 6-0 score.

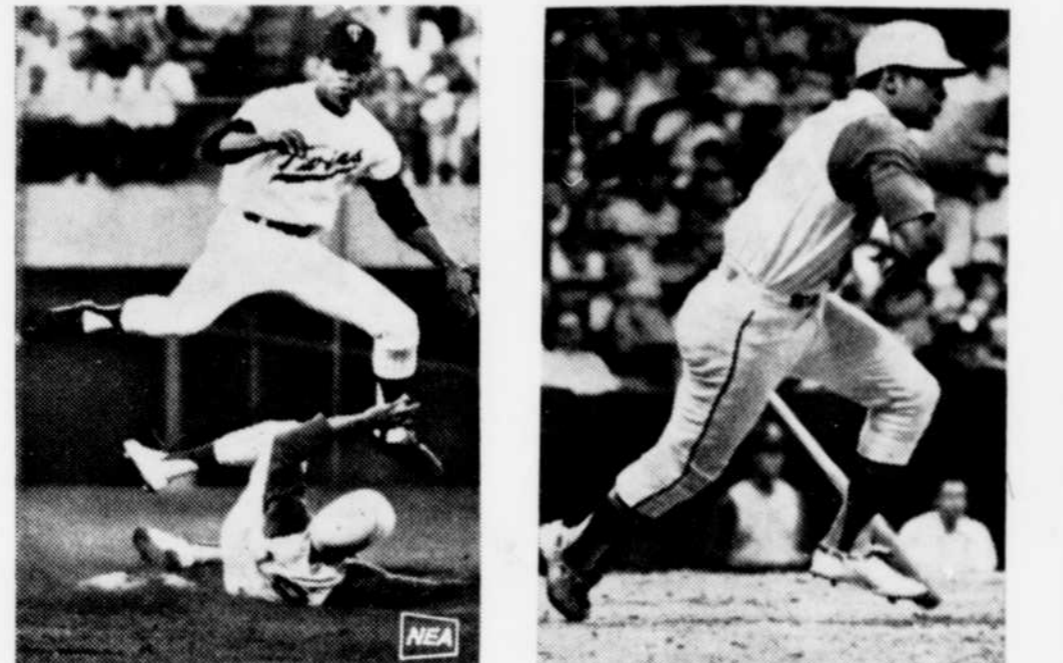

Starting in the Sher-Lenn win along with Michel Murray were Jacques Lambert with two hits Daniel Denault and Marco Roby each also with two hits, B. Gaboriault and B. St. Martin starred for Cowansville. One game only will be played this evening in the Sher-Lenn League. White Sox meet the Tigers at the Parade Ground.

All-stars postponed re-scheduled for to-day

WASHINGTON (AP)—Denny McLain is flying back from Detroit to throw the first pitch in today's rescheduled all-star game.

But President Nixon won't be on hand.

That set of circumstances came about Tuesday night when a storm forced postponement of the all-star game until 1:45 p.m. EDT, today, weather permitting.

McLain expects to be on hand when it's time to throw the first pitch before an expected 45,000. He flew to Detroit to keep an 8 a.m. dental appointment to have his teeth capped.

Nixon left for Thursday's splashdown of Apollo 11 in the Pacific and was replaced by Vice-President Spiro Agnew.

The postponement pleased Ernie Banks of the National League team and Chicago Cub veteran.

"I want to play in the daytime anyway," Banks said.

"Here we are two guys 39 years old and we'll be able to play in the daytime," Banks said to Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants. "You know—we'll be able to see the ball better in the daytime."

MORE RAIN FORECAST

A daytime game was no certainty. The weather forecast for today called for showers later in the afternoon. An early rain could delay the start.

No plans have been made beyond today. If the game cannot be played, baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn said the decision over whether to postpone the game to another date or cancel it would be made at that time.

The postponement Tuesday night was the first in all-star history.

Two previous games were halted by rain. The 1952 game in Philadelphia was shortened to five innings and the 1961 game in Boston was washed out after nine innings of a 1-1 tie.

McLain was scheduled to be opposed by Steve Carlton as the American League sought to end a six-game losing streak.

They were counting heavily on a homer-hitting lineup that included Oakland Athletics' Reggie Jackson and Washington Senators' Frank Howard.

Jackson is the major league home-run leader with 37 while Howard has 34. The eight AL starters had a total of 179 homers to 105 for the eight NL starters.

NL manager Red Schoendienst was expected to follow Carlton on the mound with either San Francisco's Juan Marichal or Bill Singer of Los Angeles Dodgers.

AL manager Mayo Smith said his second pitcher would be Mel Stottlemyre of New York Yankees. Sam McDowell of Cleveland Indians or John (Blue Moon) Odum of Oakland.

Ottawa Riders use the breaks and clobber Saskatchewan 39-8

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders used the breaks and a saturation passing attack to defeat Saskatchewan Roughriders 39-8 in a Canadian Football League exhibition game Tuesday night.

Neither team managed to muster a strong ground game.

Ottawa's best running came from halfback Vic Washington. His best run was a third-quarter gallop from the Ottawa goal-line to the Saskatchewan 37.

Washington carried nine times for a total of 110 yards.

End Ron Francis led the Saskatchewan attack, gaining 100 yards on three passes, including a fourth-quarter touchdown.

Ottawa held a 6-0 lead early in the second quarter after two field goals by Don Sutherland.

Barry Arden, an Ottawa defensive back, set up the first Ottawa touchdown midway in the second quarter grabbing a fumble by Saskatchewan rookie quarterback Bubba Wyche on the Saskatchewan 45 yard line.

WASHINGTON SCORES

Four plays later, Washington grabbed a 24-yard pass from Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson for the touchdown. Sutherland missed the convert making the score 12-0.

Saskatchewan's Jack Abend-schan missed a field goal attempt and Ottawa conceded a single point putting Saskatchewan on the scoreboard for the first time at 10-9.

A 39-yard pass from Jackson to flanker Whit Tucker at 12:35 put Ottawa ahead 18-1.

The convert and a subsequent field goal by Sutherland brought the score at half-time to 22-1.

SUTHERIN KICK WIDE

A Sutherland field goal midway in the third quarter was wide, going for a single point.

KNUDSON TEES OFF — George Knudson will be one of our Canadian hopefuls entered in the Open Thursday.

Golfers will be swinging for $125,000 in prize money — $25,000 to the winner when the Canadian Open from Pine Grove Golf and Country Club in St. Luc, Quebec opens tomorrow and concludes Sunday.

The 65th annual Canadian championship will be host to many of the top-flight professional golfers on the circuit today. The top three finishers in this year's British Open, including the winner, Tony Jacklin of Great Britain will be present. The other two are Bob Charles, the New Zealand southpaw who took away the title last year, and consistent Roberto de Vicenzo from Argentina. Other golfers who will be competing include Billy Casper, probably the steadiest golfer on the pro tour, ageless Sam Snead, colorful Doug Sanders, Kel

Nagle and Bruce Devlin both of Australia.

During the Open's history, some of the greatest names in golf have had their names inscribed on the Seagram Gold Cup, emblematic of the championship. Snead has won the trophy three times as did Arnold Palmer in 1955, Doug Sanders in 1966, Jacky Cupit (1961) and Billy Casper in 1961.

The Canadian Open has become a national sports classic and has been termed "one of the most prestigious golf events in the world, a tremendous sports spectacle of which Canada should be extremely proud," according to Jack Tuthill, tournament director of the PGA of America.

George Knudson and Al Balding, both of Toronto

Mann wins

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carol Mann's $3,000 victory in the Lady Carling tournament at Danbury, Conn. Sunday again moved her into second place in Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament tour winnings.

The LPGA headquarters here said Miss Mann's third tournament victory of the tour boosted her winnings to $22,322. That again put her ahead of Sandra Haynie, who won only $363 at Danbury and now has a tour total of $22,124.

represent the hope that this year's Open will be won by a Canadian. Not since 1964 when Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon won, has a Canadian captured the Open.

Luc Brien, the Pinegrove pro, calls the layout a driver's course. "Traps come into play on virtually every tee shot," he says. "If you can hit it long and straight you're going to have an advantage."

The course plays 7,031 yards to a par 72 for this year's Open. It was par 71 for the 1964 tournament at the same layout, but the tee has been moved back on the 18th to make it a 467-yard par five, instead of a four.

The move will probably mean plenty of birdies coming home. Brien expects the winning score to be three strokes better than Kel Nagle's 277 back in 1964, conditions being equal.

"Today's players are just that much better," he says.

"And the course is more mature. You won't get as many tight lies."

All-Time Ball Team chosen

WASHINGTON (AP) — "It doesn't matter how far you hit 'em," Joe DiMaggio likes to tell Oakland's young fence busters. "You can only tag four bases."

DiMaggio, the Yankee Clipper of bygone days, Monday night shared the spotlight with the immortal Babe Ruth at a gala awards banquet honoring the greatest players in professional baseball's first 100 years.

Ruth, the home run king of New York Yankees' first Golden Era, was named the Greatest Player Ever in a poll of U.S. baseball writers and broadcasters. He hit 714 home runs.

DiMaggio, who has returned to the game as a vice-president and coach of the Athletics, was named the Greatest Living Player and best centre fielder in history.

DiMaggio was one of three living players selected to the all-time team—and the only one active in the last 25 years.

Third baseman Pie Traynor and pitcher Lefty Grove, both 69, also accepted their awards before an applauding crowd which included former Apollo astronaut Frank Borman.

WIDOW ACCEPTS

Ruth, whose widow, Claire, accepted his award, and Ty Cobb, were the other outfielders on the all-time team, which also included right-handed pitcher Walter Johnson, catcher Mickey Cochrane, first baseman Lou Gehrig—also a Yankee—second baseman Rogers Hornsby and shortstop Honus Wagner.

Right hander Bob Feller and Grove were the pitchers and Bill Dickey the catcher on the honor roll of living players. Stan Musial and George Sisler tied for the first base spot, Charlie Gehringer was named at second, Traynor at third, Joe Cronin at short and Ted Williams and Willie Mays in the outfield along with DiMaggio.

The late John McGraw was named Greatest Manager Ever and Casey Stengel, Greatest Living Manager.

The tipoff to DiMaggio's sweep of centre field honors came when Mays was picked as one of the Greatest Living Players—as a right fielder.

"Isn't this something here?" mused the San Francisco centre fielder while accepting his trophy.

"I've played right field maybe two or three days in my life. Centre field must be reserved for my idol, Joe D."

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

Joe Louis was refused an application for a wrestling licence 13 years ago today—in 1956—by the Illinois Athletic Commission, because of a damaged heart muscle. The Brown Bomber retired undefeated in 1949 after 11 years 8 months as world heavyweight boxing champion and made an unsuccessful comeback in 1951.

Lennoxville Parks Schedule

The Lennoxville Recreation Association's planned weekly trip leaves this Thursday to the Grandy Zoo. The bus leaves the Lennoxville Optimist Park at 9:30 a.m. and returns home approximately at 4:00 p.m. For further information it is advisable to contact Joe Dougherty—567-1207.

The weekly park schedule from July 28 to 31 runs as follows:

Lennoxville Pony League—Lenn. vs Atto Beaver, July 29 at 6:30 p.m. East Hatley vs. Atto Beaver, July 30 at 6:30 p.m.

Men's Softball League—Combustion vs. Shell, July 28 at 6:30 p.m.

Ladies' Softball League—Ascot vs. Rand, July 28 at 8:30 p.m. Hospital vs. Lenn., July 29 at 8:30 p.m. Clark's vs. Rand, July 30 at 8:30 p.m.

Little League—Red Sox vs. Yankees, July 31 at 6:30 p.m.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

5-Middle Irons

The leading money-winner on the first half of this year's tour was not Nicklaus or Palmer or Casper. No, the first man to win $100,000 was Gene Littler.

Littler's distance is more than adequate, of course, but the thing that wins for him is his accuracy and consistency with the irons.

Gene agrees with most of us that low scores and birdies come as a result of mastering the middle irons. Accuracy with any club does not come by chance and Littler never relies on chance for his accuracy. His stance assures it.

In taking his stance, Gene places his right foot at a right angle to the imaginary line of flight which runs through the ball and points to the target area. Gene uses the "square" stance for the middle irons, which means the toes of both feet will be touching another imaginary line running parallel to the line of flight.

The weight is equally divided between the feet and the ball is played slightly to the left of center. Gene keeps the upper part of his arms in close to his chest, with the right elbow relaxed and pointing to the right hip.

Once he is comfortable over the ball, Littler readies himself for the backswing by wagging. Then he's ready.

Club selection is another matter. Every golfer, due to a difference in build and strength, will hit the ball various distances. The practice tee will help you determine how far you are capable of hitting each club and this is very important with the middle irons.

SURE FOOTED as a WILDCAT

PREMIUM QUALITY NYLON TURNPIKE SAFETY '4'

Safety '4' Wildcat has a lot going for it. Much more than you'd expect to find in medium-priced nylons. Where else would you get the tenacious grip of a great cat, the racy look of a Grand Prix tire? Yet that continental look runs more than skin-deep. Built to set your car closer to the road, Safety '4' has the high-speed stability and easy handling that take highway problems in stride. Like a Wildcat, it has the instinct for swifter stops, faster take-offs. Its inner strength and stamina spring from a Dupont Nylon 4-ply cord body that measures up to the toughest road tests. A great tire—a great value! And it's not alone. If long mileage is on your mind, take a look at its running-mate—Turnpike '78' Nylon. This one has the low, wide proportions of tires you'll soon be seeing on the new 1970 high-performance cars. And it's a Whitewall at only $2.50 more than the regular Safety '4' Blackwall.

*Manufacturers' List Price—If you're confused about this term, here's the gen: Each manufacturer publishes a list of prices. Generally speaking, for similar grades, these prices are pretty much the same. Newspaper advertised sale prices may cut these list prices 15% to 25%. By contrast, Canadian Tire cuts list prices by more than 50%. Come in—compare—and see for yourself!

They go to dance, talk and play but mostly to do their own thing

MOVIN' 'GROOVIN' — Eastern Friday night at CKTS Birchton and the beat is on it is probably Townships teens groove every dances. When the music gets hot the best exercise they can get.

They go to dance or talk, to play games and meet one another. It's a place where kids can do their own thing.

The place is the Birchton Dance Hall and the event is the weekly Friday night dance organized and run by Berl Dewar of CKTS fame.

The idea of a weekly social event for Eastern Townships teenagers became a reality last March when a couple of former CKTS announcers arranged to lease the Birchton site for a six week period. After a rather unsuccessful start the endeavor was taken over by Berl Dewar and since that time it has grown rapidly to its present weekly attendance of three hundred.

The site is a huge dance hall at the Camping Grounds at Birchton. The upper storey of the building is equipped with a dance floor and tables. The bottom section is equipped with a snack bar, and a games area.

The music is supplied by the CKTS station. The numbers are selected at the dance and are played by the technician at the radio studio. All the communications hook ups are run by telephone lines from Birchton to Sherbrooke.

The hall is also equipped with a system of psychedelic lights. A strobe light is now in operation and is a favorite with the youngsters, said Dewar. They have plans to buy a number of new light features. Among them is the new audio-visual system. It is a set of three colored lights which are designed to respond to the pitch of the music being played.

By RON TAYLOR and RICHARD SPALDING (Record Staff)

For example a red light may respond to the treble while a blue one is activated by the bass sounds. The vocal can then be

Townships. Special buses come from Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Stanstead and Rock Island. Many other youngsters arrive

NEVER TOO YOUNG — No one is too young to attend the Friday night affairs. Often young Eastern Townshippers 10 and 11 permission like there is at other dances.

The dance is patrolled by a security guard. This ensures that there is no drinking and as a further precaution the youths are not allowed to return to the dance once they have left.

"They call the kids the CKTS dancers," said Dewar. They select their own music from some 200 records. They can choose from Scott Davidson's Top 40 or Bob Bell's Country 30, or the easy listening charts as well as a number of other recordings that are popular among the young.

The kids are encouraged to participate in the event. It gives them a chance to learn to socialize with the opposite sex and to learn to get along with other people of their own age.

One of the big thrills of the evening is the opportunity for the kids to get their voices on the air. They are called upon to request the songs which they want to hear and at the same time they can make a dedication to anyone they want. There is only one restriction. Each teen can only make one request.

Mr. Dewar has a chair system to keep the youngsters under control when they are waiting to get on the air. They wait in pairs and are seated in chairs. There are three sets of chairs and as one group is called up to the microphone the others move one place up the chair line.

So far the kids have enjoyed the adventure and from the indications, they will continue to do so.

Golden weddings celebrated in the townships

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Doyle
KIRKDALE — Mr. and Mrs. Francis Doyle were at home to their friends and relatives on Saturday, June 21, on the 50th anniversary of their wedding.

The celebration was held at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Doyle, with Mr. and Mrs. Francis Doyle and Elton Doyle as joint hosts.

The guests of honor were met at the door by their grandson and granddaughter, Larry Doyle presented his grandmother with a corsage of yellow roses and Wendy Doyle gave her grandfather a white carnation boutonniere.

The rooms were decorated with yellow mums, pansies, oriental poppies and sprays as well as the numerous cards received by the couple.

The tea table, covered with a hand-woven cloth was centered with a three-tier wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with golden lilies on her mother and by their son. Mr. Reg Wallace who presented his father with a yellow rose boutonniere.

The three-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated in gold was on a lace covered table, flanked by gold candles and surrounded by mock orange blossoms.

Frank Wallace, formerly of Kingsbury and Rose Ellen (Nellie) Mason of Richmond were married July 3, 1919 by the Rev. Huxtable in Windsor Mills, Quebec. They had ten children, of whom seven daughters and one son survive.

Miss Agnes Wallace, Verdun; Mrs. Donald Whitley (Mary), Sherbrooke; Sister Evangelista (Irene), Hamilton, Ont. Mrs. Robert Allan (Dorothy), Melbourne; Mrs. Arthur Chen (Lois), Pittsburgh, Penna; and Mr. Reg Wallace, Calgary, Alberta were all present.

Greetings were received from two daughters who could not attend, Mrs. J. L. Ellingwood (Edna), St. John, N.B., and Miss Iris Wallace, Kingston, Ontario.

Also present were nineteen of the couple's twenty-four grandchildren.

MISS NATALIE LINCOLN founder of the House of Studies, Patterson Road, in Austin.

"Seek ye first the good things of the mind..."

People of all beliefs and nationalities have been gathering throughout the summer at the House of Studies, Patterson Road, in Austin since 1961.

"It's an opportunity to broaden their knowledge and deepen their faith," Miss Natalie Lincoln, founder, said in an interview this week. A centre where laymen, professors and advanced students can come and discuss their problems, related to philosophy and theology.

As many as 22 guests can be housed in the main building with additional families or groups occupying the five cottages nearby.

"Good wholesome country food starts a routine day with breakfast at 8:30." Guests are free to stroll the 300 acre estate. With 300 feet of frontage on Lake Memphremagog, swimming, waterskiing, boating and canoeing keep the body in trim.

Food for the mind is found in two or three lectures a week, offered by philosophers and theologians of international character. Ancient, medieval and contemporary themes, oriented toward the laymen is the general plan. "Questions and active discussion periods always follow," Miss Lincoln said.

In the last few years, Miss Lincoln said, she has encouraged greater ecumenical leanings. Clergymen from the Sherbrooke area, monks from nearby St. Benoit du Lac as well as Jewish people participate frequently. Many laymen from the community are regular visitors.

Miss Lincoln was born in Cincinnati, "and don't ask me when" she said. She spends the winter months in her Washington home and has lived off and on in Italy and France having just returned from another trip to Europe.

She returned to university as a "mature student" and got her BA from Catholic University of America in Washington. She received her licentiate in philosophy from Laval University in 1941 and speaks Italian as well as French and English. The idea of the House of Studies sprang from similar small get-togethers initiated by Miss Lincoln when she was at Georgetown University and lasted over a period of five years.

The House of Studies is bilingual in conception. Lectures in July are exclusively in French. And no politics is discussed.

Recreational facilities are available for the youth, but really most of the guests are middle aged, she said.

There is a 4,000 volume library, French and English and she is gradually collecting a fine library of ecumenical literature.

With some working the land, a part time secretary, cook, housekeeper and a student waitress make up the staff.

This summer's activities include:
July 24, 8 p.m.: Dom Lemieux, O.S.B. Movement for a Christian Life in Full Evolution.

July 28, 8 p.m.: Professor Alphonse St. Jacques, Philosophy Department, Laval University, Can a Materialistic History produce a Philosophy of History.

August 6, 8 p.m.: Rev. Ernest Fortin, A.A. Francis Bacon and the Origin of the Idea of Progress.

August 8, 8 p.m.: Rev. Ernest Fortin, A.A. German Idealism and Modern Idealism and the Modern Idea of Progress.

August 9, 11 a.m.: Rev. Ernest Fortin, A.A. St. Augustine and the Christian Idea of Progress. (Followed by buffet, $1.50).

August 16, 8 p.m.: Professor Warren Murray, Ph.D., Philosophy Department, Laval University, De Toqueville, Prophet of Democracy.

August 21, 8 p.m.: Dr. Albert Hamel, Department of Philosophy, University of Hartford, Progression, Progress, Autonomy. (A Philosophical Approach).

August 26, 8 p.m.: Professor Thomas De Koninck, Department of Philosophy, Laval University, God in Early Greek Philosophy.

Double ring ceremony

BROMPTON — The marriage of Marion Alice Robinson, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Robinson, Windsor, to David William Thomas Rattray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rattray, Richmond took place May 31 at Christ Church, Brompton.

Rev. Donald Eustace of Sherbrooke officiated at the double ring ceremony, which took place beneath an arch of evergreen trimmed with pink and white apple blossoms. Mrs. Irwin Robinson of Windsor provided the wedding music.

Baskets of tulips and narcissus decorated the chancel and the guest pews were marked with white ribbons and pink and white apple blossoms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length empire waist gown of taupe de soie with detachable train and featured a round neck with elbow length sleeves. Hamburg lace ran down the centre pleat, across the empire waist, and around the edge of the sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of tulle was held in place by a daisy crown of taupe de soie trimmed with sequins. Her jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings and a gold cross necklace. She carried a bouquet of wild daisies and yellow roses with streamers of yellow velvet ribbon.

Mrs. Percy Doyle, Lennoxville, matron of honor for her sister, wore a floor length gown of yellow dotted swiss organdy over taffeta, with empire waist, roll collar and full sleeves ending in a cuff below the elbow. She wore a matching halo with streamers in her hair and carried a ballerina bouquet of wild daisies and babies breath.

Miss Linda Howitt, Windsor, as bridesmaid wore an identical dress and headpiece of pale green. She too carried a bouquet of wild daisies and babies breath.

Charles Rattray, Richmond, brother of the groom was best man. Ushers were Denis Gleason, cousin of the groom, and Carl Robinson, cousin of the bride, both of Montreal.

The bride's mother chose an aqua light brocade dress with bone accessories and wore a corsage of pink miniature carnations.

The groom's mother wore an alic blue, silk knit suit with navy blue accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Bellevue Golf Club, where the bride's table was centered with a two layer wedding cake made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. Lillian Robinson, aunt of the bride.

Miss Lynn Osborne, Montreal, was in charge of the guest book. For travelling, the bride wore a gold wool suit with A line skirt and three quarter length coat. She chose camel and brown accessories and a corsage of green cymbidium. The couple honeymooned in Great Britain.

Mr. and Mrs. Rattray are residing at 610 Jacques Cartier Blvd. Sherbrooke.

Miscellaneous, kitchen showers Engagement

Miss Heather McLaughlin
WEST BOLTON — Miss Heather McLaughlin, an August bride-to-be, was pleasantly surprised on July 5 when around eighty relatives and friends gathered at the Brill Church in West Bolton to give her a miscellaneous shower.

She was met at the door by her bridesmaid-to-be, Miss Janice Bockus, who presented corsages to her and her mother, Mrs. May McLaughlin, and escorted them to prettily decorated chairs.

Her sister, Mrs. Norris and her little nephew, Donald Norris and Miss Bockus helped her in unwrapping the many gifts which were passed around and admired.

She graciously thanked all the people and also the ones who arranged the shower for her.

At the lunch hour, the immediate family, including Mr. Mario Graves from Granby, fiancé of Miss McLaughlin were seated and served by Mrs. Allan Dixon and Miss Janice Bockus. The table was laid with a white cloth, white candles, rose china and red roses.

Misses M. Mollie and Joyce George of South Stukely donated flowers and arranged them in cut glass bowls for the food tables.

At the request of the guest of honor, these flowers were sent to Mrs. Brooks of Duboyce Corner who is ill, and the other bouquet was used in memory of the late Mrs. David Badger. The beautifully decorated cake was made by Mrs. M. McPherson, Knowlton, and passed by Miss McLaughlin and Mr. Graves.

The guests were from Foster, Stukely, Magog, Knowlton, Montreal, Granby, Iron Hill and the Glen.

Canon and Mrs. S. A. Meade, Thetford Mines, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathryn Sarah, to Mr. Michael Garnet Morris Chappell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Chappell, Vancouver. The marriage is to take place on August 16, 1969, in St. John's Church, Thetford Mines.

PERSONALS

Friends of Mrs. Raymond Pelkie, Georgeville, are sorry to hear she is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, Room 214.

Miss Wendy Boright is enjoying her summer holidays in Peekskill, New York, as a guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peletier and family.

Shower

Miss Linda Somerville

RICHMOND — Miss Linda Somerville, Richmond, whose wedding took place July 12, was the guest of honor at a kitchen shower given by Mrs. William Brown at her home on July 5.

The bride-elect was greeted by relatives and friends as she entered. She was escorted to a specially decorated chair by the hostess who presented her with a corsage of useful kitchen items.

After the gifts had been opened by the guest of honor, assisted by her mother, Mrs. L. F. Somerville, they were arranged for all to see.

Miss Somerville expressed her thanks and appreciation for the gifts and to the hostess for the delightful shower.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Robert Bennett and Miss Lois Skillen.

Guests present were from Richmond, Lachine, South Durham, Lennoxville, Stanstead, Sherbrooke and Cobourg, Ont.

Mr. Barry Parson acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Philip Moore, brother of the bride and Mr. Karrol Lindsay, cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother wore an aqua blue dress with white accessories, and a corsage of orange delight roses.

Mrs. Hubert Nugent, sister of the groom, wore a green two piece suit with white accessories and a similar corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Sawyerville High school, where the evening was spent dancing to music supplied by Ward's orchestra. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake, made by the mother of the bride, topped with swans and lily of the valley. It was flanked by tall tapers, in silver holders.

Guests were present from St. Catharines, Barrie, Ottawa, Montreal, Ormstown, Richmond, St. Felix de Kingsey, Danville and the surrounding district of Sherbrooke.

The couple have taken up residence at St. Hyacinthe. Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Lake was honored at a tupperware shower by her attendants, a miscellaneous shower by her co-workers, and a miscellaneous shower by her Bulwer friends.

The Unisex trends

Madeleine Levason

Boys and girls will be going back to school this year wearing the same style clothes. The Unisex trend—or as some prefer to call it, "the equality look"—is most remarkable in fabrics used to create children's fall clothing.

Unisex fabrics in Canada include woven stripes, houndstooth, plaids, and checks of all types, twills, covert cloth and the newest "wet look" shiny cire nylon. There are still some fabrics that little boys are not wearing—the girls have the best of both worlds at last.

Fashion designers seem bent on equality in other ways. They create to make the young look sophisticated and the old look younger. They also use ideas from the past—peasant and country looks—as well as space age concepts like sleek jumpsuits in shiny metallic finish.

There is no such divergence in one aspect of children's clothing. The fabrics must not grow old and are universally easy care. Children's wear manufacturers demand the utmost in wrinkle shedding, durable wash and wear qualities in all fabrics, whether man-made or specially treated natural fibres.

Colors in children's wear for fall are to be darker than for last spring, but not quite as garish as in seasons past. Warm clear tones in reds, greens, navy and jewel tones are seen.

The big message in new children's coat styles is fake animal. The pile fabrics are big and they come in imitations of hamster, kidskin and sheepskins, in classic blazer or reefer styles for boys and girls. The kids dig the furry look of pile fabrics and also the smooth look of fake leather. Nylon cire fabrics create this space age leather look especially in gold, coppery or silver metallic finishes.

Unisex school clothes include pants with dresses, pants with tunics, pants with vests, pants with coats, pants with jackets—pants and more pants flared wide, wider and widest. For the littlest girl or boy the outfits are carefully co-ordinated.

Canada is producing a nation of fashion conscious youngsters according to a children's wear buyer for a large retail store. One of the biggest selling items is a co-ordinate outfit of slacks, turtle neck sweater and mini dress for tiny babies which resembles pant outfits for grown-ups.

Day dresses for school-aged girls are neatly tailored and many other items are available for the layered look of related sweaters, skirts, blouses, jackets, scarves and neckties. Fall print fabrics are favored for the new interpretations of the shirtwaist classic. It will have long sleeves for fall, long-pointed collar and a tie neckline.

MR. AND MRS. GLEASON IRWIN LAKE who were married at St. George's Anglican Church, Lennoxville, on June 21. The bride is the former Sharon Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Moore, Johnville. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Lake, Sawyerville.

LAKE - MOORE WEDDING

A very pretty summer wedding was solemnized at St. George's Anglican Church, Lennoxville, on June 21, at 7:30 p.m. when Sharon Marcella, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Moore, Johnville, became the bride of Mr. Gleason Irwin Lake, St. Hyacinthe, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Lake, Sawyerville Archdeacon T. J. Matthews officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Morris Smith played the wedding music and accompanied Mr. Stuart Merrill, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The church was adorned with arrangements of shasta daisies and pink carnations. Large white satin bows marked the guest pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was gowned in a floor length A — line gown of white silk faille, with a high rolled collar and full length, lily point sleeves. The neckline was trimmed with a wide band of daisies and seed pearls, with a matching panel, extending to the hemline. Her train of the same material was attached at the shoulders and extended to the floor in a fan shape. The shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a diadem of organza flowers and seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses, gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Susan Mastine, maid of honor, was dressed in a floor length A — line gown of mauve nylon whipcord, styled with a back inverted pleat, edged with lace, threaded with velvet ribbon to match the dress. The trim extended up the back and around the neckline. Her diadem was of matching organza flowers.

Mrs. Raymond Mastine was bridesmaid for her sister and was dressed like the maid of honor, in lime green. They carried matching bouquets of summer flowers.

Mr. Barry Parson acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Philip Moore, brother of the bride and Mr. Karrol Lindsay, cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother wore an aqua blue dress with white accessories, and a corsage of orange delight roses.

Mrs. Hubert Nugent, sister of the groom, wore a green two piece suit with white accessories and a similar corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Sawyerville High school, where the evening was spent dancing to music supplied by Ward's orchestra. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake, made by the mother of the bride, topped with swans and lily of the valley. It was flanked by tall tapers, in silver holders.

Guests were present from St. Catharines, Barrie, Ottawa, Montreal, Ormstown, Richmond, St. Felix de Kingsey, Danville and the surrounding district of Sherbrooke.

The couple have taken up residence at St. Hyacinthe. Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Lake was honored at a tupperware shower by her attendants, a miscellaneous shower by her co-workers, and a miscellaneous shower by her Bulwer friends.

FADS THAT FLIPPED — FADS THAT FLOPPED

Fads can be as much fun as a hoola hoop, as frantic as stuffing collegians into a phone booth, or as fashionable as a fluffy fur. All a fad needs is followers. Can you believe that in the 20th century anyone would have believed the earth was flat? Well, more than 6,000 people did, and in the 20th century too. Or what about the raccoon coat of the twenties you thought was ridiculous? It's right back in style, and the rage today. When Dorothy Parker wrote, "Men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses," she was right. But today chic women like Princess Grace of Monaco sport specs all the time. Reminisce with the fads that were fancied and the fads that flopped.

OBITUARIES

WALTER R. SMITH OF BEEBE

BEEBE — The death of Walter Ralph Smith occurred at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Sherbrooke, on June 20, 1969, after suffering an attack of coronary thrombosis, followed by double pneumonia.

The deceased was born at Marsboro, Que., on May 27, 1914, youngest child of David Smith and his wife, Marion MacLeod where he spent his early years until the family moved to a farm on the Coaticook-Danville Road in 1929.

On November 17, 1934, he was married to Jessie Green, only daughter of Henry Green and Ellen Patterson and moved to a farm on Dixville Road where he resided until the farm was sold in 1947. Owing to ill health, he moved to Coaticook until he purchased a home in Beebe where he worked until 1951, when both he and his wife were employed by St. Rose Protestant School Board.

Upon Mrs. Smith's retirement in 1964, the deceased and family again resided in their home in Beebe.

The remains rested at Cass Funeral Home, Stanstead, prior to the funeral service in St. Stephen's Church, Coaticook, on June 23 at 2:30 p.m., which was largely attended by relatives and friends.

Officiating at the funeral service were Archdeacon T. J. Matthews of St. George's Anglican Church, Lennoxville, friend and former rector of St. Stephen's Church; Rev. Jervis Read, present rector of St. Stephen's and Rev. Roy Peirce, Stanstead. Hymns sung were

JAMES CAMERON OF MELBOURNE

MELBOURNE — The death took place at his home on June 14, 1969, Belmont Hill, Melbourne, of James Cameron, after a lingering illness of several years, having been hospitalized a number of times in the D.V.A. Queen Mary Road Hospital, and also in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

The deceased was born in Kincardine on the Forth, Scotland, and was the son of the late George Cameron and his wife the late Margaret Hepburn. He received his education at the local school and later went to Edinburgh where he graduated, then coming to Canada and entering the employ of the CPR.

While on leave of absence, he was returning to England when news was received that Great Britain and Germany were at war. Upon his arrival in London he immediately went to enlist. As he could not find a Scottish Regiment he joined the ranks of Royal Dublin Fusiliers, serving in various capacities and rose to the rank of Orderly Room Sergeant.

It was while serving with the R.D.F.'s that he was mentioned in Despatches on five occasions. The last Citation was for Gallant and Distinguished Services in the Field. This Citation was ordered by Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig and was signed by Winston Churchill, as Secretary of State for War. He was badly wounded in the Gallipoli Campaign. He received the Military Medal and the Mons Star.

Upon discharge March 3, 1920, he was employed in Edinburgh and in 1937 he married Mary Abide With Me, a favorite of the deceased and Peace Perfect Peace.

The bearers were all former neighbors and friends, Wyatt Johann, Avery Davis, William MacLeod, Ted Aldrich, Creighton Hanson and Olin Simons. Interment was in the family lot in Mount Forest Cemetery, Coaticook.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, a daughter, Peggy at home; a son, Allan, and three granddaughters, a brother, Alex, Detroit, Mich.; three sisters, Etta, Mrs. Angus Murray, Detroit, Christie, Mrs. J. Murray, London, Ont.; Catherine, Mrs. O. J. Mayfield, Charles City, Iowa; A brother, Angus, predeceased him.

Among the relatives who attended the funeral services were Mrs. Christie Murray, London, Ont.; Mrs. O. J. Mayfield, Charles City, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. John Smith, Drummondville; and many relatives, friends, and neighbors from Montreal, Strathmore, Hampstead, Rosemere, McMasterville, Scotts-town, Bury, Milan, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Ayer's Cliff, Dixville, Burlington, Vt., Essex Junction, Vt., West Burke, Vt., Barton, Vt., Newport, Vt., Plymouth, N.H., and the Three Villages and surrounding areas.

The Canadian Admiral Company, where the deceased's son is employed as office manager, was represented at the burial service by Mr. J. A. Reed, Regional vice-president and Mr. Gary Perkins, accountant.

REGIONAL - THE BIG QUESTION: WILL IT BE READY?

The contractor says 'Yes'. The Director-General J. Edward Perry says 'Yes'. The architects say 'Yes'.

The adjusted target date for completion of the $7,870,000 regional school at Lennoxville is September 15. Barring storm, fire, flood and other acts of God everyone involved in the project is determined that the date will be met.

At the present time work is halted on the school as Eastern Townships construction trades enjoy their annual two-week holiday. Work will resume on Monday, July 28. Between two and 300 men are involved in all aspects of the work.

Project Manager Claudio Boselli, of Longpre Construction Inc., Chomedey, stated yesterday that he is in desperate need of more tradesmen. At least 25 bricklayers and carpenters are needed. Despite pleas to the Lennoxville local of the CSN more men cannot be provided by the union.

Earlier in the summer Boselli brought in an additional 25 men from Montreal to bolster his work force. He ran afoul of local union regulations by so doing but negotiated a saw-off permitting him to import tradesmen if they would join the Lennoxville local. CNTU officials in Montreal refused to allow the transfer and threatened to disrupt work on the school if the contractor persisted in this line. The Lennoxville CSN was entirely cooperative, however.

As Townships residents have reason to know, there is not a strong spirit of cooperation between these two unions with regard to jurisdiction.

With resumption of work on Monday Mr. Boselli once again will attempt to negotiate on the matter of outside labor reinforcements. If possible the contractor will add a second shift to provide the extra push needed to meet the completion date. Prior to the holiday, work on the site was continuing up to 12 hours a day.

Architect agrees ....

The Lennoxville Regional School will be "in teaching condition" by September 15 the architect promises. David Bourke, a partner in the architectural firm which is responsible for the job, said yesterday that all interior work will be done on time.

Exterior work, particularly landscaping, will not be completed until late October. All paving will be completed by September 15 with the exception of one of the two access roads. One will be incomplete until provincial Roads Department crews can finish work.

LENNOXVILLE REGIONAL SCHOOL — nears completion. Aerial photograph taken last week shows progress of $7,870,000 school. Heavy rains have delayed completion to Sept. 15. Appropriately, the Record's photo was taken in the rain. (Record photo: Charles Catchpaugh)

Perry is sure

"At the worst we might have to begin with the Grade X's and XI's and phase the VII's, VIII's and IX's in as soon as possible." This statement from J. Edward Perry, Director-General of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board, "But I have every confidence in both our contractor and our architect to deliver the completed school by the new target date of September 15", Mr. Perry emphasized.

When similar completion problems were encountered at Richmond Regional School students could be accommodated in the old St. Francis High School. Double teaching shifts were employed.

"It's a big problem, though, with Lennoxville," Mr. Perry stated to the Record. Sherbrooke High School, St. Pat's and the old Mitchell School (now closed) would not be available for overflow students. Local boards need these buildings for primary school students. If unforeseen further delays occurred and the Lennoxville school could not be completed the E.T. Board would have to rely on outlying schools somehow. At the present time there is no detailed contingency plan to provide emergency classrooms for the 2,800 students expected to fill the new school.

However, Mr. Perry pointed out that every day past the completion date will cost the contractor money since he would be unable to fulfill other commitments elsewhere. "I don't think he plans to lose money and he is absolutely determined to get the building finished on time".

During the first week of school, prior to September 15, teachers will participate in an intensive orientation program. During this week they will discuss time tables, programs, etc. Pupils will not attend during this period. By September 15 it is assumed that construction will permit grades X and XI pupils to start classes with grades VII, VIII and IX being phased in as soon as possible.

Indications at present are that enrolment this year will be around 2,800 pupils, which is a hundred more than the number for which the school was designed. This, in itself, will pose additional problems.

Rumours flying about new school

Tapping in on the rumor factory around the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville area a number of inaccurate ideas emerge about the new regional school. The Record puts the record straight.

1. The rumor: "The English have been favored with respect to regional schools. That's why they have new schools at Richmond and Lennoxville, whereas no French regional schools are ready yet."

The facts: As was recognized by the Parent Commission in its report, English-language education in Quebec was often far ahead of French-language education in many respects. One of these was the concept that concentration of facilities would result in more efficient and better education for all students. Protestant educators have had many more years of experience in the planning of schools and programs of the type now being followed by regional schools. Consequently their Catholic counterparts have had a lot of catching up to do and this they have been doing.

However, struggles which Protestant educators went through in the late 40's and 50's, particularly in rural areas, still have to be fought by the Catholic boards. It is a fact that resistance to educational change in the rural ridings of the province helped bring about the downfall of the Lesage government in 1966. The Catholic boards are still faced with challenging successfully the generations-old resistance of rural Quebecers.

Catholic School Boards have already built regional schools in the province and more will be built. L'Estrie Regional School Board is still engaged in debate over such matters as the location of a new regional school for French-speaking Catholics of this area. Presumably, when such discussion is resolved progress will continue.

2. The rumor: "The E.T. Regional School Board is attempting to get control over Roman Catholic students at the primary school level."

The facts: Not so, according to both J. Edward Perry, Director-General of the E.T. Board and Lorne Campbell, Board Chairman. What is being attempted by the Sherbrooke Board. A Protestant Commission is to co-ordinate the curriculum of both Catholic and Protestant schools at the elementary level in order that children of both religions will have more or less the same preparation for entry to the Regional School. The regional school does provide instruction for both religions in the English language. There is provision for religious instruction of both groups; indeed, in the new Lennoxville school there is an office for a Roman Catholic cleric for this purpose.

3. The rumor: "The Lennoxville Regional School can't possibly be completed in time and the contractor will forfeit $250,000 under a penalty clause included in his contract."

The facts: There is no penalty clause in the construction contract nor is there an incentive clause. The Government of Quebec ruled against the inclusion of such clauses on the grounds that they do not work. It is the Government's claim that too many loopholes exist under which a contractor can claim that the terms of his contract have not been met — invalidating the penalty clause.

As to the completion date — see other stories this page.

4. The rumor: "Quebec, the E.T. Regional Board and the Sherbrooke branch of the Association of School Transport of Quebec are fighting over who shall operate school buses — the school board or private contractors."

The facts: This issue has been settled for the foreseeable future, at least. It is true that the E.T. Board wanted to own and operate all its own buses and that there was opposition to this by local bus operators.

A workable compromise has been achieved on this issue. This year, the E.T. Board has purchased 18 new school buses which it will operate. Another 8 to 10 buses will be operated under contract with a local firm Trans-Car of Sherbrooke. It is possible that this arrangement will be renegotiated at a later date.

5. The rumor: "There won't be any furniture in the new school when it opens."

The facts: There is a problem here. According to J. Edward Perry, Director-General of the E.T. Board, there have been conflicting decisions over furniture designs for the new school — particularly over color of desks, etc. The board wants different colors for school desks since walls of the new building will be neutral grey. They regard this as important to the creation of a suitable environment for students — something which most educational experts agree on. The desks will also seek to distinguish the various 'houses' within the school.

Quebec, on the other hand, has not been so certain of the benefit of using color in this way. At the moment, the Province has approved a contract for colored desks. Recently, however, the Montreal furniture company which has the contract to make the desks claimed they could not produce them in color after all, but only in natural blonde wood. This issue is now resolved. Colored desks will be in place in the school by the target date.

The kids are the client-architect

"We think the new Lennoxville Regional School will be regarded everywhere as a bit of a breakthrough in school design". These are the confident words of David Bourke, M.Arch., M.R.A.I.C., of Dobush, Stewart, Bourke, Longpre, Marchand, Goudreau, architects.

The Montreal architect who also designed the regional school at Richmond plans to talk with Lennoxville students to find out how they like the new school. "They are the clients, after all," Mr. Bourke told the Record yesterday. "The objective here is to create an environment which will make education a happy experience for the students. It will be a new experience for rural students. We have tried to break up the oppressive feeling which is often present in large urban schools by linking five smaller buildings together. This will provide a protected feeling of enclosure within the inner courtyards between the buildings."

"We did not want to create a barren exposed structure standing on a hilltop," Mr. Bourke explained. He sees this as fundamental when providing for rural children not used to the inhibiting large schools in most urban areas. "We didn't want the student to lose his sense of identity. Happily, both the site and the curriculum objectives of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board combined to give us the scope we needed."

The new school is to operate six 'houses' of from 400-450 students each. The houses will provide a cross-section of the community in "schools within schools".

Architect Bourke reports great interest in the new concept as other educators learn of the Richmond and Lennoxville schools. At present his firm is beginning planning of a similar school for Ville LaSalle.

"It has been very exciting for us to follow through on the directives of the E.T. Regional Board. This doesn't always happen in client-architect relationships but in this case the Board has been particularly receptive to our ideas."

The architects plan to enter the school design in at least two architectural competitions probably in 1970 when the grounds will be in better shape. They are the Massey Medal Competition and the Canadian Educational Showplace Competition. These are national forums for the best work of Canadian architects.

NEW SCHOOL FEATURES being manufactured in Montreal COLOURED FURNITURE — for installation in the new Designs similar to these are regional school at Lennoxville. Six different colours will denote six 'houses' under the school's new system. About 400-450 pupils will attend each house. (Record photo: Studio Eclair)

Rain damaged school

Bad weather has delayed construction of the new Lennoxville Regional School. Torrential rains during the past two weeks have caused flooding and some damage to the incomplete structure.

Recently, as much as six feet of water has covered parts of the school property. Up to two feet of the wet stuff covered some areas of the building last week. Pumps are now installed and the building is dry once again.

The absence of workmen on the annual vacation period contributed to the flooding which was not noticed right away. Project Manager Claudio Boselli was unable to provide an estimate of the damage pending on-site inspection today. Originally, the Contractor's Schedule called for completion of the new school by July 1, 1969. Completion date is now set at September 15.

Bad weather has plagued architect and contractor alike from the beginning of the project. A portent of things to come, it was strictly umbrella-type weather even at the official turning of the sod ceremony on June 19, 1968. Heavy rain in the summer of 1968, an early winter and late spring with deluges of rain through the summer all have combined to cause delays, heartache and frustration.

Ontario corn boom causes concern

OTTAWA — The Ontario corn boom is causing marketing problems which could grow more serious unless action is taken to stem the trend.

That's the gist of a report by George Pearson, a Canada department of Agriculture economist.

Mr. Pearson outlines the trends in an article appearing in the current issue of Canadian Farm Economics.

"Ontario's corn marketing problems generally revolve around the lag in growth of marketing practices behind the growth in production capacity," says Mr. Pearson.

There is, in general, disorderly corn marketing and power in price determination.

Mr. Pearson says that a corn marketing board, despite drawbacks, could do much to solve corn marketing problems and maintain competitive pricing without resorting to restrictions on international trade.

If the current corn boom continues unchecked, Ontario will be producing about 137 million bushels by the mid 1970's. That compares to an average 49.1 million bushels between the 1962-63 and 1966-67 crops.

Mr. Pearson says the Ontario price structure is closely tied to the United States market.

At harvest time, Ontario corn growers move much of the crop to market quickly and can create a glut that forces Ontario prices lower than necessary in relation to United States corn prices.

Corn prices usually rally later in the season, but Mr. Pearson says the Ontario rally lags behind price increases south of the border, a fact that is symptomatic of underlying structural problems in the marketing of Ontario corn.

Under present trade arrangements, it would be difficult — although not impossible — for Canada to put more restrictions on United States corn imports, says Mr. Pearson, but this would further insulate the pricing of Ontario corn from the North American market.

He says that a marketing board could help to solve some of the marketing problems.

The board could control the movement of corn to market to minimize price fluctuations. It could encourage farmers to dry and store corn on their farms, and it could average prices for the entire season to stabilize farmers' incomes.

The marketing board could also negotiate contracts, not only with corn buyers, but with companies that could ship, dry and store the crop. The board could pass volume savings on to members.

The board could control the flow of corn out of the province and, because it enjoys a monopoly over Ontario-produced corn, could set up a pricing structure that would ask higher prices from some types of buyers — for example, more from whiskey distillers than livestock feed manufacturers.

The board might offer cash advances on the crop, giving farmers money they need to purchase drying and storage facilities so they can hold their crop for higher prices.

Mr. Pearson notes, however, that there are also drawbacks to marketing boards. Farmers lose some of their freedom, price pooling discourages efficiency and product pooling discourages attempts to aim for high quality. Buyer options are restricted and marketing boards can distort the demand and supply.

HARVESTING ONTARIO CORN

DO-IT-YOURSELF

DON'T GET HUNG UP BY A BARGAIN LADDER

By MR. FIX

Ladders are tools just like hammers, pliers, drills and all that other stuff in your workshop. A ladder should be chosen carefully, used properly and treated with care.

While this is true of every tool, it is especially true of a ladder since your life may depend on the way you handle it.

Buying a ladder is no time to look for a bargain. Buy good equipment. If you do not think the investment worth-while in terms of the short time you will use the ladder, then rent one.

If you are using an old ladder, check it over. Any ladder that has been exposed to the weather should be looked over carefully.

Place the ladder flat on the ground. Then step firmly on each rung. Supports that are loose should be tightened or replaced. Look for rotting or splitting. On metal ladders file off sharp edges that might cut an arm or leg.

When you place the ladder against a building, get the correct angle. If the angle is too great the ladder may break under your weight. Too small an angle with the bottom of the ladder too close to the house may cause it to tip backwards. The rule of thumb is to place the base of the ladder a distance equal to one-fourth its length. Thus the base of a 12-foot ladder should be about three feet away from the house.

If the ground is soft or asphalt covered, metal cleats installed in the base of the ladder will make it more secure.

On a stepladder, never work higher than the second step from the top. On a straight ladder, don't go higher than the third rung from the top.

You have two hands, but on a ladder you only have one to work with. The other is for hanging on. If you need two hands for long periods of time you should be working on a scaffold.

If you are using an extension ladder, never extend it to its full limit.

Keep both feet firmly planted and then don't paint beyond your normal reach with your feet in that position.

Lightweight ladders are great to carry around, but consider what can happen to one in a high wind. Don't work on a windy day, especially if you have a light ladder.

Keep away from power lines. Metal ladders and wet wooden ladders are excellent conductors of electricity.

Look around carefully for wasp nests and bee hives. They may be under the eaves of a house, in a gutter, almost anywhere. A sudden swarm of bees coming at you can frighten you right off the ladder.

If you suffer from vertigo you have no business on a ladder. But even if you don't you might get a sudden attack of panic or nausea. Don't rush down! Put your head against the rungs and drape your arms through. Just stand there quietly until the panic passes. Then come down slowly.

Border couple, for 39 years, is honored at farewell party

STANSTEAD — A happy and sad event took place on June 27 in the hall of Centenary Church when several friends assembled to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hackett, who are leaving Stanstead, after being residents here for 39 years when Mr. Hackett was a teacher at Stanstead College.

Rev. G. Joyce, pastor of the church, was Master of Ceremonies. He invited Mr. and Mrs. Hackett to sit at the head of a large circle of friends. Seated with Mr. and Mrs. Hackett were Douglas Ferguson, Lawrence Tilton, Sr. and Rev. Graham Barr, the latter from Sherbrooke.

Mr. Ferguson said, "this is one of those happy-sad occasions when friends gather to say au revoir and not goodbye, for we expect you to visit the Boundary often." Mr. Ferguson said that Mr. and Mrs. Hackett have contributed much to the life of these communities in a quiet, smiling instructive way.

He reminisced of the days at Stanstead College, paying the couple high tribute and spoke of their associations with Centenary Church. "You have given a great deal," he said, "we are proud of you and regret your departure to Ottawa," he invited them back often and said, "we hope you will always consider this your home."

Jay James sang a solo, How Great Thou Art, accompanied by Mrs. A. P. Gordon, at the piano.

The second speaker was Dr. Barr, a former student of Mr. Hackett at Stanstead College, and later a teaching associate. Dr. Barr paid tribute to the couple, of the deep wisdom and judgment of Mr. Hackett to see a little further ahead than "most of us." "He has been joined by a person of sterling quality, his wife," were the words of Dr. Barr. He concluded by saying "May God's blessing be with you in Ottawa, where you will be near your children."

Mrs. Barr played a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Gordon at the piano. Later in the program the two played two delightful classical selections.

Mr. Tilton, a member of the church board, presented Mr. and Mrs. Hackett with a gift of a desk set of pens, calendar, with a suitably engraved plaque. Mr. Tilton, also Mayor of Rock Island, on behalf of the church and the Town expressed regret at the departure of the couple and said, "we are going to miss you."

Mr. Joyce, speaking briefly, added his own words of tribute and made reference to the years Mr. Hackett has been clerk of sessions of the church board. He said the gift, small because it was so requested by Mr. Hackett, was accompanied by love and respect from all.

Mr. Hackett, speaking for himself and Mrs. Hackett, stated "it has been a wonderful evening for both of us." He extended words of appreciation, the association with this church and we feel this to be our home church, the friendships we have made, we shall cherish, we leave with regrets, but we shall be back from time to time.

Mr. Joyce thanked Mrs. Barr for her contribution to the evening's program. He also noted that Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gordon are this summer leaving the College family after 40 years of teaching and associations, and how pleased everyone is that for the present anyway. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon are going no further than Beebe and are continuing their association with the church. He presented both Mrs. Barr and Mrs. Gordon with a gift of red roses.

The excellent program concluded with prayer by Mr. Joyce. The hall was beautifully decorated with seasonal flowers. Buffet refreshments were served by women of the church from the lace-covered table, centered with a floral arrangement.

Home Extension Club seek new members

DERBY LINE — The South of the Border, Home Extension Club, Derby Line, met at the home of Mrs. Harold Bowen in the village rather than the Bowen cottage at the lake because of the inclement weather that evening.

There were 12 members and a guest, Mrs. Marion Buckland, the Orleans County agent attending.

The president, Mrs. Edith Provoncha presided and the meeting opened with the Home Makers creed. Routine reports were heard.

This Club is having problems due to decreased membership and lack of general interest in the Club. However, new officers were elected in May and at this meeting in June it was agreed to give it a try until the end of 1969. The newly elected officers, due to take over in September have agreed to carry on. There will be emphasis on membership and any women interested in these club activities should contact the president, Mrs. Rodney (Marilyn) Barrup for information. It was further voted to join with the Beebe Home Extension group who seem to be experiencing the same difficulties, thus the two would become one group.

The group were invited to cook or to donate money for the Boy Scouts food sale sponsored by the AUUW of the Universalist church.

This being the meeting when Mrs. Provoncha retired as president, she was presented with a gift from the Club by Mrs. Dolly Howe, who on behalf of the members thanked Mrs. Provoncha for a job well done. Mrs. Provoncha responded with words of appreciation for the gift and for the cooperation shown during her year in office.

The jitney was claimed by Mrs. Gwen Dow.

A pot luck supper was served to include a special chicken dish prepared by Mrs. Jean Moore and supplemented by casserole dishes, salads, rolls, and dessert.

The next meeting will be Sept. 22 at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Gilbar in Derby Line.

Gore WI conveners give their reports

GORE — The July meeting of the Gore WI was held at the home of Mrs. Myrlin Griffith on July 5 with Mrs. Wayne Griffith and Mrs. Hartley Gunter as hostesses. Twenty-two members were present and answered the roll call by donating a contest prize and giving a household hint. Present also were two visitors, one of whom, Mrs. Scott, is a WI member in England.

The minutes of the June meeting were approved. Correspondence consisted of a letter of thanks from Mrs. A. Coddington for an expression of sympathy received and one from the Save the Children Fund for ditty bags.

Citizenship convener, Mrs. Scott, reported having completed filling 18 ditty bags and delivering them to headquarters of Save the Children Fund in Montreal.

Home economics convener, Mrs. M. Hughes, read an article from the Consumer's Report warning people about some Maple Leaf Tartans which are not authentic, being on the market.

Publicity convener, read Mark Waldron's editorial in the June issue of the Macdonald Journal on For Home and Country. This was followed by an interesting discussion.

Mrs. Anna Scott, delegate to the provincial convention gave a splendid report. Members regretted to hear that the services of the MacLennan Travelling Library are to be discontinued due to lack of support. Our citizenship convener will try to get more information on this.

Branches wishing to have a demonstration on making paper flowers may apply to the Denison Manufacturing Company of Canada.

The picnic site will be supervised by Mrs. Myrlin Griffith and Mrs. Howard Gunter for July. Eighteen dollars was handed in from sale of cutters. An auction of braids, elastics and remnants was held.

The regular monthly drawing was won by Mrs. M. Hughes. The semi-annual county meeting will be held on July 18. Delegates appointed to attend are Mrs. F. Newell, Mrs. S. Husk, Miss M. Watt and Mrs. I. Falloon. Donating to the sales table will be Mrs. Mountain, Mrs. Newell and Mrs. Nixon.

It was suggested that we plan a tour for August and plans will be made at our next meeting.

The August meeting will be held early on July 29, at the home of Mrs. Rodney Duffy. The meeting closed and refreshments were served by the hostesses.
