Canadian Citizenship

TO the person who has been born and raised in Canada, the term Canadian citizenship may sound peculiar. Such a person has considered himself or herself a Canadian. This is rightly so because that person has known no other country. Actually for years past such persons have been listed under the nationality of their fathers at the various times the census has been taken. Thus hyphenated descriptions have been given to various citizens such as French-Canadian, English-Canadian, Irish-Canadian and so on. The one most predominately used has been French-Canadian. Such descriptions have tended to set these people apart from their neighbors as something different and have had a bad effect on the national spirit and enterprise.

The Federal government is at the moment taking into consideration the clauses of a bill to set up a status of Canadian citizenship which will give all who qualify the right to call themselves Canadians. There is also a move to establish a design for a Canadian flag and with these two things becoming law, Canada should be well on the way to becoming nationalized. If the Provincial problems can be settled amicably and a unified basis of operations in this direction can be worked out, this Dominion should be able to progress rapidly in the world among other nations.

Before Canada can progress as a nation, there is much to be worked out domestically. One of the first steps is to discard the use of hyphenated names mentioned in the foregoing. We must be Canadians all of us, there must be no distinction between one so called group and the other. In this we can take a lesson from our neighbour, the United States. We must become a united Canada, a nation of people working for the good of the country and for all. In a sense we shall become of age and be on our responsibility. Whatever decisions we make will have to be backed by all the people and there is no use of one province or one group of people standing out against the country as a whole. If we divide ourselves off into groups, there will be weakness in our set-up and our decisions cannot be solid.

Too many times in the past concessions have been made to groups of people coming to this Dominion, which have worked to the detriment of the country rather than to its benefit. Under the new form of citizenship each will have definite obligations to live up to and each will be required to take oath that they will abide by the law and its requirements. Among such requirements will be that of serving the country in time of danger such as war and so forth. In certain cases specified religious groups have been granted exemption from military duty because of their religious beliefs and because they came here from another country and that was one of the stipulations. Such will have to cease if Canada is to become united as a nation. There must be no special favour in which only small groups can share, the law must be fair to all.

There is no doubt that during the past war Canada has earned the right to nationhood and her people have shown that they are capable of coping with problems of all kinds and of being able to manage their affairs with other nations of the world. In fact other nations are now calling upon Canada to assist them in their efforts to re-establish themselves. This being the case it shows the status in world affairs that this Dominion has gained for itself. It has its own ambassadors and is recognized as a nation even before the government has granted such a status. A national status need not affect relations with the mother country, as the decisions made by Canada have been her own for many years past. Oftentimes decisions were made that went against Old Country opinions and worked in an adverse way to plans of England. Always in times of trouble or stress England could depend upon the help of Canada and we believe this same state will remain after full citizenship has been granted.

It is quite possible that immigration lanes will be opened for desirable citizens of other countries to enter Canada and settle, as was the case in the past. When this happens the new laws of citizenship will prevail for these people if they wish to become naturalized as citizens of Canada. Care must be taken in the future that only the right type of people are allowed to enter this country and there must be a specified time in which they must make up their minds as to naturalization. The system has worked well in the States and the people who emigrated there have become fast and loyal citizens of that country. No matter from whence they came they are all Americans, and that is how it should be if the country is to prosper and to succeed. No one can say that the States has not prospered under this plan. It is one of the most wealthy nations in the world. It has one flag, one language and one law for all—there are no concessions that are not written into the American Constitution. Under such circumstances there can be no dissatisfaction. Each individual is entitled to the same privileges and rights. Such a plan is building a solid nation and that is what Canada needs.

The hope of the future lies not in better human inventions, but in better human relations.

Different races do not clash so long as they run side by side towards one goal.

A Good Move

IN checking over the reports of Council meetings, it was noticed that Ormstown Council has passed two by-laws—one dealing with pasteurization of milk and butter products, the other with regulations regarding taxis. In a dairy country such as this is and with the milk producers taking all possible precautions to deliver clean, safe milk and products, it is only right that other precautions be taken to ensure that the consumer gets the benefit all the way through. There are arguments against pasteurization of milk and milk products, but there is no doubt that worked under proper conditions, pasteurization will benefit the consumer as much as tests for other things. Under the by-law it will not be possible for other than pasteurized milk and products to be sold in the Village of Ormstown. Like other towns, Ormstown has been bothered by high bacteria content in the milk and measures have been taken to ensure clean milk being delivered to the consumer. It has finally been decided that it would be better to have only pasteurized milk sold.

The other by-law affects taxis operated in Ormstown and requires that taxi owners take out Public Liability Insurance and Property Damage coverage for the protection of the public. This is another protection that the users of taxis should be entitled to when they entrust themselves as passengers to taxi drivers. It also provides the taxi owner with a sense of security should his cars meet with an accident involving loss of life or damage to property. Ormstown Council is to be congratulated on making these moves in order to protect the public and it shows that they are alive to their responsibilities.

It is noticed of late that there are a number of taxis operating in Huntingdon and it has occurred to us as to whether there is any law regarding the operation of these taxis in Huntingdon. Are the owners fully insured to cover the risks of their business? It has been remarked in some quarters that some of the taxis are not kept as clean as they should be for a public type of conveyance. If this is the case it seems that some regulations should be put into effect by the Town Council in order to bring these public vehicles under a measure of control and for the protection of the public using the conveyances. If the taxi owner is studying his business, he should take a pride in his vehicle or vehicles to see that they are in good mechanical condition and that they are kept clean at all times. As far as possible taxis should be kept in first class mechanical conditions and defects should be remedied at once as soon as detected. This is in the interest of the owner as well as the public. A run down vehicle will cause unnecessary delays and be a menace to public safety.

While Huntingdon has a pasteurization service and an up-to-date pasteurization plant is in the course of completion, it is not compulsory for only pasteurized milk to be sold in this town. Since the investigation into the conditions that prevailed some time ago, the bacteria content of milk sold in Huntingdon has greatly decreased. It still has its lapses and the bacteria content goes quite high on occasions, but for all that the conditions are greatly improved from the time that the matter was investigated and an inspector appointed. It is quite possible that a by-law for pasteurization of all milk sold in Huntingdon would still further improve the conditions. However, the pasteurized milk sold in Huntingdon does not always secure the record for low bacteria content. With the opening of the new plant it is hoped that this condition will be overcome and the bacteria content will be more consistent. Meantime we believe the above matters would be well worth the consideration of the Huntingdon Town Council.

People, like boats, toot loudest when they're in a fog.

If we listened to our better selves, we'd be true to our better halves.

The Campaign For The Churches

WE are glad to note that the campaign for funds for the three Protestant Churches—United, Presbyterian and Anglican—is meeting with very good success in all cases. It goes to show that the people are quite sympathetic toward the cause and realize that their support both financially and morally is absolutely necessary. The first of the three, locally, to reach its objective and pass it is St. John's Church, the objective being exceeded by well over $200.00. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church campaign is going along very nicely and it is hoped to report success next week. Meanwhile it is very necessary that all members and adherents get in their contributions as quickly as possible in order that the drive can be closed off. The United Church is making steady progress toward the meeting of its objective although the returns are still not complete.

The main thing is that the response has been splendid in all cases and shows that Protestants are solidly behind their churches when assistance of any kind is needed. It is vitally important in these times that this spirit be manifest on all occasions. It is just as necessary that interest be taken in the work of the various churches by the members and adherents in order that the church may carry on its work and further the spread of the faith. The drive which has been carried on has been intended as much for making individual contact with the various people as for raising funds to carry on the work. The people are used to visits from their respective ministers, but they are not so used to visits of the laymen. The drive provided such an opportunity and has to a great extent fostered a revival of interest among the people in their respective churches. Such interest is vitally necessary if the churches are to do their work of creating a world brotherhood that will bring better relations among the peoples of the earth, such relationship will do much to prevent war and bloodshed in the future. It will do much to prevent the restlessness and greed that has prevailed in the world and which is a prelude to war among the peoples.

The authorities of the churches are looking for a greater faith among the peoples as a result of these campaigns and they are going forward with a renewed hope that their efforts will bring the desired success.

Do High Wage Rates Bring Prosperity?

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

"Does the raising of hourly wage rates produce greater annual wages, incomes and rising employment?" That, says Allen W. Rucker of Cambridge, Mass., is the "greatest of all sixty-four dollar questions." In an attempt to answer this question, Mr. Rucker has consulted the records of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, and what he found is exceedingly interesting.

In his fact-finding search Mr. Rucker discovered that the average hourly wage rates in manufacturing industry were 52 cents in 1923, shortly after the First World War. From that point wage rates rose to 56.6 cents in 1929, and advanced to 63.3 cents by the year 1939. In other words, between 1923 and 1939, wage rates were lifted by 22 per cent.

Now, according to the theory popular with many labor leaders, annual income of factory workers should in that time have increased by the same proportion—22 per cent, but, instead, there was an actual decrease. Here are the figures: Average annual earnings per worker in 1923 were $1,239; in 1929 they were $1,201 (an increase of 5 per cent against a wage rate increase of 9 per cent); but by 1939 average annual earnings had dropped to $1,153, which was 7 per cent less than they were in 1923.

"In other words," says Mr. Rucker, "after seventeen years of following the attractive theory of higher wages for more purchasing-power, after raising wage rates by 22 per cent, the average factory worker made $6 less per year than he did in 1923. Instead of more purchasing power, factory workers had actually less purchasing power."

These are official figures of what really happened, compiled by a government fact-finding organization, and they permit of only one conclusion, that the prosperity-through-higher-wage-rates did not work out in practice. "To be sure," says Mr. Rucker, "some factory employees in the higher seniority brackets, and hence with fewer layoffs, got more income than before. But they got it from other and less fortunate workers, who were paid less; so much less that the average income for all factory labor was $6 less than in 1923, despite an increase in hourly wage rates of 22 per cent. And, of course, the theory is supposed to benefit all labor, not merely a favored few."

This same theory, which has been the cause of so many labor disputes and strikes, holding up production and postwar industrial recovery, is supposed to be the "open sesame" to greater demand for goods and more employment. In order to discover if it did that, Mr. Rucker consulted the United States Census of Manufacturers. He found that in 1923, when wage rates started upward, Manufacturing Industry employed 8,194,170 persons as wage-earners. Seventeen years later, in 1939, after 22 per cent increase in hourly wage rates, many more people should have been employed if the theory were correct. Instead, the Census reported only 7,886,567 people employed. This is 307,603 fewer workers than in 1923.

"In short," says Mr. Rucker, "unemployment, not increased employment, was the outcome of the seventeen-year test of the theory. But even that, as bad as it is, does not tell the full story of unemployment. The population of the United States is steadily increasing; every year between 750,000 and one million young people come of age and need jobs. In 1939 there were actually ten million more persons in the labor force of the United States than in 1923. Had the normal expansion of manufacturing taken place, nearly 19 per cent of these seventeen-year test of the theory should have found jobs in industry. So that by 1939, there should have been employed in manufacturing 1,900,000 more people than in 1923. But, instead, we had 307,603 fewer employed."

So much for the "prosperity-through-higher-wage-rates" theory. Mr. Rucker backs his statements with official government charts from both the United States and Canadian government statistical departments.

MUST HOUSE LABORERS

Employment opportunities will be plentiful, but many businesses and small industries cannot bring men into town because of the acute housing shortage. More accommodation is urgently needed to help meet this demand.—Altona (Man.) Echo.

DISCRIMINATION
 Canada and the United States were urged yesterday by F. H. LaGuardia, director-general of UNRRA, to open their doors to some of the 1,400,000 displaced persons in Europe, many of whom are persecuted Jews.

Yet in Toronto a Jewish lad, veteran of four years in the army and ten months of fighting on the continent, lost his job in a hardware store because shoppers complained to the owner that they didn't want to be waited on by a Jew.

The world offers advice, freely and with high-sounding phrases of democracy and freedom, to England, admitting 100,000 Jews to Palestine with the eventual aim of setting up there a national state for the one group of mankind without a state.

Yet last week a St. Catharines boy, just discharged from the service, was refused a job in Toronto because he was a Jew. Prospects for the job looked good until he went for an interview and his religion was discovered. Then he was told that because the firm was going to move its office, there would be no job for him.

Before and during the war, Hitler's treatment of the Jews was given as one reason for going to war. Such religious and racial discrimination must not exist, the world said in outraged terms. Yet the world fails to come to grips with the problem and continues to allow persecution of Jews, even though it be on a moral rather than a Nazi physical basis.

The world is heavily in support of freeing the Jews from persecution and providing them with the freedom guaranteed to all minorities—just so long as it can all be settled some place far away. Until we put our own houses in order and stamp out all signs of discrimination, wherever they may appear, we can say little about what other people do.—St. Catharines, (Ont.), Standard.

QUEBEC — (CP) — French industrialists are interested in bringing capital into Quebec province for production of pulp and newspaper and negotiations have been going on between them and members of the provincial government.

Premier Maurice Duplessis told a press conference last week that he had conferred with some French industrialists "who had some interesting suggestions to make regarding the establishment of new industries in Chicoutimi." Roads minister Talbot, who represents Chicoutimi in the legislature, took part in the discussions.

The French officials were interested in the Quebec Pulp and Paper company mill at Chicoutimi. Mr. Duplessis said, and proposals being studied "will concern pulp and paper and their various by-products." The premier did not amplify his remarks.

On the other hand it was learned unofficially that some United States companies also are interested in the Chicoutimi mill and its forestry concessions.

The mill has been closed for 16 years and the company went into bankruptcy in 1942 as a result of a $2,000,000 claim against it by the provincial government. The firm's common stock, originally owned jointly by Price Brothers and Company and Consolidated Paper Corporation, was turned over to the government some time ago. There are approximately 70,000 shares of preferred stock on the market.

Approximately 500 delegates from the United States, Canada, Mexico and Hawaii were in Quebec last week for the first peacetime meeting of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, Incorporated—a women's body engaged in social welfare and the care of children. They met under the chairmanship of Miss Cecil Lester Jones of Washington, president, and devoted five days to discussions relating to the various sections of their work.

During the war years the 4,000 league members were active in one form of war work or another and an imposing record of their contribution was presented to the meeting.

This was the third time the association had met in Canada which has leagues in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Ont., Winnipeg and Vancouver with a total membership of 1,500. Mrs. J. A. Hodgson of Montreal is Canadian representative on the board of directors.

Coinciding with the women's meeting in Quebec was a meeting at nearby Lac Beauport of the Navy League of Canada. Approximately 50 delegates from across Canada attended this meeting at which plans were made for the postwar program of the league, with special emphasis placed on the Sea Cadet movement.

The busy convention period continues here this week when delegates from all across Canada are attending the Canadian Legion's national convention. Viscount Alexander will pay his first vice-regal visit to Quebec at the same time and will be present at opening sessions of the convention.

One year has passed since the close of the European war, and to many it has been a most disappointing year. Thousands of men and women are grateful that they are home again, thankful to be civilians, but they find it difficult to understand the transformation which has taken place in Canada and in the United States, and they look with despair upon the turmoil throughout the world which supposedly they helped to free.—Fort Frances (Ont.) Rats are smart. They just won't eat anything that tastes as if it might be poison. Now man is going after them with a new chemical called ANTU, so potent that a millionth of a pound can kill a rat, and the rats don't seem to notice the taste.

Now we're set to give Poison Ivy and Poison Oak, so long scourges to the unwary, a dose of their own medicine! They'll be poisoned with AMMATE, a new and powerful chemical poison that makes them wither up and die. One or two lbs. of AMMATE will clear a patch 100 square feet in area.

Remember CEL-O-GLASS... the flexible cellulose-acetate glass substitute which many farmers used before the war, to get egg-producing ultraviolet rays into their hen-houses? Well, it's coming back soon to civilian life, complete with a 5-year performance guarantee. CEL-O-GLASS not only brings in sun and keeps out cold. It eliminates breakage costs as well.

Someone might well coin the phrase, "a ditch in time saves nine men's time", or words to that effect, especially since ditching with dynamite has now become a science. Farmers, as well as explosives engineers, are putting explosives to work in this way more and more. And in doing it they save labour, time and expense.

RECIPES

ASPARAGUS

Asparagus shoots are now appearing in the garden plot and are a pleasant reminder that other fresh vegetables will soon be ready too. Asparagus should be cut below the bed. When cut stalks are showing it looks bad and is bad for the asparagus.

The women of to-day appreciate the asparagus just as much as the early Romans did. They wrote about asparagus with much enthusiasm and it has been valued through the years, first as a medicine, like a spring tonic, then later as a vegetable.

If the asparagus bed is a large one the homemaker will want to can as much as possible of this aristocrat of vegetables. This naturally will come after the family has had asparagus dishes to its hearts content. Asparagus may be served whole, cut up in pieces, in casserole dishes, in soups, muffins, shortcakes and salads.

When asparagus is to be served in pieces, cut off the tips and serve them. Cook the lower ends of the stalks for 10 minutes, then add the tips and cook 5 minutes longer. This cut asparagus is excellent served with a cream sauce.

Asparagus stalks that are to be served whole should be cooked in an upright position. The small amount of boiling salted water. This way, the tips, which require very little cooking will be steamed rather than boiled. A narrow and rather tall container that will hold the asparagus in an upright position will do very well. The bottom of the pot and the upper part of the double-boiler are most suitable.

No method of cooking will make asparagus appetizing if it is not washed carefully so that all sand and soil are removed. Before washing, scrape off the little scales with melted fat and sprinkle lightly with bread crumbs. Bake in a hot oven, 400° F. until golden brown. Six servings.

1/2 cup bread crumbs
3 tablespoons mild flavoured fat

WHOSE COOL BRAVERY SAVED TWO YOUNG LIVES

THE DOW AWARD

is a citation presented for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $1000 Victory Bond. Winners are selected by The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Montreal daily papers.

A violent storm was raging on Lake Muskoka, Ontario. Robert Fairhead, noticing an upturned canoe, sensed that someone's life was in danger and sped to the rescue in a launch.

Two people were clinging to the canoe... a young girl and her brother. Just as the launch came alongside, the girl lost her hold and sank. Diving in immediately, Fairhead brought her to the surface... but the launch had drifted away... and he had to swim a considerable distance with the unconscious girl before he finally managed to get her on board. He was then able to rescue her brother, who was still clinging to the canoe.

Robert Fairhead has already received a testimonial from the Royal Canadian Humane Association.

We are proud to pay him further tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award.

SWING TO THE RIGHT

"MICKY", our Spitz dog, is more human than some people might like to admit. Yes, even a little white dog may occasionally be tempted to take the easy way out. Mickey was, anyway.

He was early taught, along with other simple tricks, to jump through a tire swing hanging in our back yard. It was his favorite accomplishment, and he had been seen jumping back and forth just for the fun of it. That was when he was in the mood. There were times, however, when he was not. So accustomed were we to his cheerful obedience in jumping through his "hoop" that we often asked him to do it even when we were far from the vicinity of the swing. At each request, he reacted obediently, trotting around the house to the back yard and returning in a few moments for the expected pats and praise. This went on satisfactorily for some time, until we noticed that it took him less and less time to make the trip. At last, suspicions overcame my faith, and I decided to check up on my canine. Instead of going with him, or of simply waiting for him to return, I slipped around the other side of the house and saw him as he reached a point just out of sight of possible watchers. Unaware of my spying, Mickey stopped in his tracks, hesitated for what must have seemed an appreciable moment to him, and then bounded hopefully back. He had not so much as glanced at the swing.

Did I say that dogs were very much like people? Excuse me, Mickey didn't even have the grace to blush. But I know he would have like to! His abashed droop and humiliated glance before my reproaches made his guilt painfully evident.

I had been told that friends could endure themselves by their very weakness. That day, I learned that it was true.

Lady Alexander Becomes Honorary President

Her Excellency, Lady Alexander, has consented to become Honorary President of the National Women's Council of the Canadian Cancer Society. It was announced recently by Mrs. W. P. M. Kennedy, President of the National Women's Council. "The knowledge of Lady Alexander's interest and patronage will be a great incentive to Canadian women," stated Mrs. Kennedy. "The National Council is composed of the Presidents of many of the women's national societies in Canada, and in accepting an honorary place on the Council, they have pledged themselves to a year-round fight against what has now become our greatest enemy. Cancer deaths in women account for more than one-sixth of the total cancer mortality; one-third of these are in an accessible location and are possible to cure by known methods, if recognized and treated in time. It is possible.

through education, for women to bring about among themselves a substantial reduction in cancer mortality.

Spread Accurate Knowledge
"There are in Canada three million women between the ages of 16 and 60," said Mrs. Kennedy. "One-half of these belong to church or service organizations. We are asking all such organizations to associate themselves with us in our endeavor to spread accurate knowledge of cancer, its signs and symptoms and the necessity of early treatment."

Amongst those organizations represented on the National Council are: The Catholic Women's League, Victorian Order of Nurses, Canadian Federation of University Women, Hadassah Organization of Canada, National Council of Women, Federated Women's Institutes, Women's Baptist Missionary Societies, National Council of Jewish Women, Canadian Nurses' Association, Women's Auxiliary Missionary Societies Church of England, Y.W.C.A., Women's Missionary Society United Church of Canada, Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association of British America, Canadian Women's Press Clubs, etc.

Country Women of the World Meet in New York

The first meeting of the Associated Country Women of the World, whose headquarters are in London, is taking place this week in the city of New York for the first time since 1939. Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.A., M.B.E., of Montreal, is the President.

Besides Canada, France, Belgium, Great Britain, United States, Norway, Australia, Kenya, South Africa have representatives on the Board of Directors.

This convention is being held following an invitation from the International Council of Women of the United States and it is being attended by delegates from most countries of North and South America and also from a few European countries.

At this important convention, the Quebec Department of Agriculture has sent a special representative of the Cercles de Fermiers of the Province, Mrs. P. Lebeau, Secretary of the Home Economics Service. Mrs. A. Dow and Grace A. Kuhring represent the Canadian Women's Institutes. During four days the Convention will study various problems pertaining to the intellectual, social and economic progress of the rural women.

The Quebec delegate will present a report on the organization and work of the 850 Cercles de Fermiers, which include 50,000 members and this constitutes one of the most powerful groups affiliated with the World Association.

The main speakers at the meeting will be Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt and Baroness de Pol, of Belgium.

Fined For Littering

Before Justice of Peace Faubert appeared two young men, one from Elgin Township and the other from Godmanchester Township, charged with being intoxicated and littering on Chateaugay St. on Monday, thereby causing an infraction of Town By-Law 228. The accused both pleaded guilty and were cautioned by Justice of the Peace Faubert that they should not break the Town By-Laws because such infractions were not only injurious to the Town of Huntingdon, but to themselves. A fine of $5. and costs was imposed upon the accused. The accused assured Justice of the Peace Faubert that they regretted their actions and hoped never to be so accused again. The accused were taken in custody by the Town Police John Macrow and placed in the Town Lock-up for the night, which in itself was perhaps a more severe penalty than the fine with costs.

Leach Textiles Ltd. Building

Monday afternoon Leach Textiles Limited started operations for the building of an addition to their mill which will give them an additional 1,000 square feet of floor space. The addition to the mill measures 70 feet frontage and 150 feet depth. The new addition will face the Atholway road. When this building is ready for occupancy the burling and mending department will be installed therein.

Wins Judgement

Mr. Justice Fabre Survear has handed down a judgement that is of interest to people in Huntingdon, as well as the really interested parties. The case was that of F. G. Braithwaite vs. the Dominion Fire Insurance Co. When the Braithwaite Building was burned on December 18, 1942, the fire was caused when naphtha was being put into a container and an explosion took place. This insurance company did not feel disposed to pay the insured. Braithwaite, for the loss sustained. In reading the judgement it would appear that the insurance company felt the policy was not being lived up to and that more than the legal five gallons of inflammable liquids were in the store. The evidence produced showed that the naphtha and coal oil was stored in tanks many feet away from the building and that such liquids were brought into the store by pipe and through the use of pumps. The fluid in the pumps and pipe was well within the amount of such liquids permissible within the store. Judgement was given in favour of Mr. Braithwaite. The amount of the judgement is for the amount of the policy viz $5,470, plus interest and date of fire. The court costs will be of course have to be paid by the defendant, Dominion Fire Insurance Company.

ASSISTING THE REFUGEE

A refugee from a war-torn village in the south of Albania. She lives with her family in Central Albania in an American army tent, brought in by UNRRA. UNRRA bread keeps her alive, and she is now waiting patiently outside the Social Assistance office to get the parcel of UNRRA clothes for her family, which includes a warm dress to replace her own rag and perhaps even a pair of shoes.

More reports were brought in. That of Moral Education and Anti-Gambling was by Mrs. Greig. An effort is being made to legalize lotteries and sweepstakes. Our members should watch the business of worker in a good cause, by pointing out only the difficulties, as did the spies who were sent out to see the land of Canaan, and reported only the strength of the enemy. But there is also another word—ENCOURAGE. How grateful we are to those who encourage us, so let us ever be ready by a word, by a deed, or a prayer, or even a smile, to help some one else. Mrs. Dobson led in prayer.

To Hold Rally
After discussion, it was decided to hold a rally, or school of methods, this autumn, preferably in Dewittville, as the most central place in the diocese. The members were left in the hands of the president.

The Educational Campaign will be carried on this year as usual, and a grant of $25.00 was made by the County prizes. Poster work will also be carried on. Reports of last year's work have already been given in the press, and were very gratifying to the workers and to the children who took part.

Mrs. Greer reported the voting strength of the convention to be 27—7 officers, 20 delegates and superintendents. All of last year's officers were re-elected. Mrs. Reese thanked the members for again choosing her for their president. Mrs. Dobson led in prayer for the officers, that their lives may be consecrated to the work to which they have pledged themselves.

Reports of the Plan of Work and Resolution of the Convention were brought in by their respective conveners. It was decided to have these published in this report, and that members be asked to study them carefully and to carry out their suggestions in their own homes. We must not just listen to them at convention, and then forget about them.

Miss Bazin wishes that the names of superintendents of all Unions be printed in the Provincial Report Book, so that County Superintendents may know to whom to apply for information for the year being constructed; when, more than ever before, there is need for spiritual regeneration, we urge upon our members to make spiritual fitness the basis of all our work, and that a devotion to the perfect will open all our meetings and conventions. Also that every member continue to keep the noon-tide watch.

Memorial Service
An impressive memorial service was conducted by Mrs. John Greig, assisted by Mrs. M. McClenaghan, for the members who were called to higher service during the year. As each name was called, a flower was placed in her memory, and words of loving tribute were spoken—for Mrs. John Ross by Mrs. Reese; for Mrs. Arthur Cunningham by Mrs. Cowan; for Mrs. Price by Mrs. Allan English, and for Mrs. Logan by Mrs. J. A. McNeill. A solo, "No Night There," was beautifully sung by Mrs. Reese, who was accompanied by Mrs. Chester Orr. Mrs. Dobson led in prayer.

Guest speaker for the convention was Mrs. Dobson, wife of Rev. J. R. Dobson, a minister of the United Church, now retired and living in Montreal. Mrs. Dobson gave the title of her address, "Four Magic Letters." These letters are "C. T. U." All letters of the alphabet she said, which help to open the doors of knowledge, learning, literature, acquaintance with the world, are really magic letters. While each letter, of itself W.C.T.U., is not particularly outstanding, together they represent the most wonderful woman's social organization in the world. It was the first formed, it is the largest, it has a world-wide outlook and compass of program; it is most unselfish, looking only for the good of others. Man was the crown of God's creation, but God saw that he could not get along alone, so God created woman to be his helpmate. And so she has been all down through the world's history. Mrs. Dobson referred to several outstanding women, among them Frances Willard, who, having made a tour of the East, and noted the low status of women, returned to devote herself to the raising of that standard, and with such marked success.

Then the word "Christian," follower of the lowly Jesus. The whole movement is cradled in prayer. Jesus is our captain, under His banner we serve, and we take our orders from Him. Every man who is under His direction, and prayer is our strongest weapon.

Temperance—This word seems to have lost its significance; it is now called "moderation." Liquor interests claim to be very patriotic. They advocate moderation. Yet their whole scheme is the extension of the sale of liquor and greater profits for themselves. Their aim is to lure you by the camouflage of moderation, knowing full well that this soon leads to excess. The pledge of the W.C.T.U. is total abstinence, with no concessions to this greatest of all evils, the use of alcohol.

Union—Not Society, or Organization. Union is strength. Let us all stand together against this terrible and growing menace. What Christian women can do: 1. Abstain ourselves; 2. Banish liquor from our homes; 3. Train our young people; 4. Add your strength to the W.C.T.U.; 5. Influence others; 6. Help change social customs.

Mr. Lang says: "It is not drunkards who are commending the liquor traffic today, but thoughtful church members who are lending their approval and influence on the side of social drinking." Things seem to be going against us now, but hold firm, the tide will turn. Reaction will set in. Prof. Rogers says he expects soon a nationwide revolution against excess drinking.

The president thanked Mrs. Dobson for her interesting and inspiring address.

White Ribboners
At this time the babies to be made Little White Ribboners were brought in. These were: John Nussey, Earl Craig, Brenda McGill, Rodney Redick, Norma Robertson, Patricia Redick, Donna Templeton and John Greer. Mrs. Gordon McWhinnie tied the White Ribbon on each little arm, and gave a card to the mother for her signature, also the name of the baby. This is all in our power to preserve the sanctity of the Sabbath, both as individuals and as an organization, and that we urge upon the churches the duty resting upon them as a body, to present to the evil of the liquor traffic by their congregations frequently, and that strong protests be directed to the proper authorities, the Government, and send protests against all such legislation.

Miss Bazin received no reports on World's Missionary Work. Money received for this fund is used to make a World's Life Member, and then goes for the support of a missionary, Miss Stella Dawson.

Mrs. Munro reported good work done in Missionary Societies, particularly in Ormstown.

Miss Lydia Bazin reported 54 copies of the White Ribbon Tidings taken in the county, and much literature on hand for distribution.

Splendid Report
A splendid report on International Relations was sent by Miss Maude Welch. Miss Taylor's report on Evangelism was also good. Dewittville reported 95 cards and letters of sympathy written and 60 calls made. Ormstown wrote many letters, keeps a sick-visiting committee which visits the hospital, calls on new-comers, sick or shut-ins. All meetings of Unions open with a devotional period.

A very pleasing feature of convention was the presentation of two County Life Memberships. Mrs. Reese, on behalf of the Union, presented to Mrs. Carr, their pastor's wife, a life membership pin in appreciation of her work in the Union, and because of their regret that she is soon to leave them for a new field of labor. Mrs. Carr was much surprised and pleased.

The County had decided to make a life member, the choice of the recipient to be made at convention. There were two nominations, Mrs. Gentle and Mrs. VanVleet. Mrs. Gentle was chosen for the nomination, and Mrs. VanVleet was chosen for the corresponding secretary. It has been 22 years. Mrs. VanVleet was surprised and deeply appreciative.

After singing the National Anthem and repeating in unison the Ave benedictus, Mrs. Reese declared the convention closed.

Plan of Work
1. At this time in our national history when the need for spiritual regeneration, we urge upon our members to make spiritual fitness the basis of all our work, and that a devotion to the perfect will open all our meetings and conventions. Also that every member continue to keep the noon-tide watch.

2. We recommend that each Province instruct its Unions to take up the teaching of Scientific Temperance, and that each Union offer suitable prizes for Essay and Poster work, based on the plan sent out by the S. T. I. Department.

3. At this time, where juvenile delinquency is on the increase, and in some cases fostered by the highly-colored articles, bought on the news stand, and seen at the movies, we recommend a more thorough censorship of magazines, literature, and movies, and that our executive send this recommendation to the proper authorities.

4. Whereas an appeal has been made by the World's W. C. T. U. for help in supporting a Missionary, we will plan to continue this work by making World's Life members.

5. A Recommended that each Superintendent keep memos of work done, a report completed and presented at Annual meeting, there forwarded immediately to higher Superintendents.

6. Also that we prepare a list of Superintendents to be printed in the Year Book.

7. A Whereas the Woman's Christian Temperance Unions in rural areas, find it difficult to get suitable program material for their meetings, we recommend that use be made of the suggested programs printed in White Ribbon Tidings.

8. Also we recommend that each Union repeat the pledge in unison at some time during each regular meeting.

9. That we try to organize an L. T. L. in every group, as we feel that is a very great work.

10. That an effort be made to raise the finance of a $25,000.00 fund for the Sarah Rowell Wright endowment fund, before the next biennial convention, so that the interest from the full amount may be available for extension work.

Large Attendance at Grand Lodge Session of I.O.O.F.

Rebekahs and Oddfellows Attend Meeting Held in Valleyfield

The 66th session of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, Grand Lodge of Quebec, was held in the city of Salaberry-of-Valleyfield on Friday and Saturday with delegates from all centers of this province in attendance.

It is estimated that more than 400 members of the Oddfellows took an active part in the annual gathering and thus assured the success of the event. A large number from Huntingdon were present for the gathering.

On Friday morning the visitors to Valleyfield were welcomed at the City Hall by His Worship, Mayor Robert Cauchon, who, on behalf of the City wished the members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows a pleasant and fruitful stay in this City. Immediately following this gathering, the visitors journeyed to the Cenotaph where an imposing ceremony was held. After donning wreaths, the meeting disbanded until evening when a sumptuous banquet was served in the spacious Valleyfield Arena to some 400 members and their guests.

The 66th business Session was

THE CLOCK OF LIFE

The clock of life is wound but And no man has the power To tell just when the hand will stop. At late or early hour, Now is the only time you own; Live, love, toil with a will.

Plan no faith in the morrow, for The clock may then be still. Wear to-day a cheerful face In everything you do, The sunshine that you radiate Will shine right back at you. Speak to-day a word of hope To someone in distress. When you lift another load You make your burden less. Do to-day a gracious deed, And do it with a smile; It's little daily acts like these That make your life worthwhile.

CANNED CHICKEN DINNER

QUALITY IS REFINED
Standardization of contents and adjustment in prices of chicken dinners and other canned meat products are covered in an order issued by the War-time Prices and Trade Board. A canned chicken dinner, according to the new order, must contain at least two ounces of non-communited cooked boneless poultry meat for 16-ounce container, and the poultry meat permitted shall not include any liver, giblets or skin. This will generally raise the quality of the product.

SCHOOL NOTES

Howick High Features Successful Concert and Exhibition
The students of Howick High School were greatly encouraged by the splendid attendance at their Monday evening entertainment.

The occasion marked the close of "Student Night" and featured a display of the work accomplished by the various classes.

Parents spent considerable time examining exhibits in Handicraft, Woodworking, Agriculture, Science and Primary Work. An additional display which proved of interest was that of new Encyclopaedia and reference books which have been donated since the fire.

At nine o'clock the guests proceeded to the Temperance Hall to see the second part of the programme. Among the items presented were sections by the Girls' Choir directed by Mr. W. P. Welsh, gymnastic displays by the High School Girl Cadets and Student Night Gymnastics Class.

The Dramatics class provided a half-hour of hysteria when it presented A Happy Journey from Howick to Huntingdon, a comedy ably directed by Mrs. Andrew MacFarlane.

Miss Marian Craig, pianist for the Girls' Choir, showed promising talent in her rendition of two musical compositions.

During the course of the evening Reverend Mr. Bingham delivered a brief but forceful address in which he stressed the great need for Home or School cooperation and urged parents to acquaint themselves with the newly formed Home-School Association in Howick, its aims and functions, so that by united effort, citizens of Howick could make a real force in furthering the educational welfare of its rising generation.

Miss May Anderson, president of the Student Night Committee presented a picture of student activities at Howick High, reviewed the year's activities at Student Night, and expressed the sincere thanks of all concerned to the citizens who had done so much to make their project such a success.

against the desecration of the Lord's Day.

9. Resolved, that an earnest effort be made to increase the number of subscribers to "Tidings".

10. Resolved, that the members of this Union, feel very strongly that in a world in which so many people are facing starvation, no precious grain should be used to manufacture alcoholic liquor.

11. Resolved, that where we note that the Government has increased the ration on gin and rum, we request that they do not continue the policy in regard to other alcoholic liquors.

12. Resolved, that our heartfelt thanks are due to the session of Riverfield Church, Riverfield, for the use of their building; to the hostesses, for their gracious hospitality and kindness; to the guest speaker Mrs. Dobson, for her interesting and helpful address; and to all who helped in any way to make this convention a success.

TORELLE'S CIRCUS AT ORMSTOWN SHOW

A comedy bucking mule provides jockeys they alternately ride the one of the many interesting high-ponies and the dogs. The complete unit will be presented at the Ormstown Exhibition on June 5-6-7-8, as a featured presentation in front of the grand-stand. The whole performance is presented with clock-like precision and is all the more enjoyable because of this.

This modern one-run unit, complete in colorful trappings and numerous "props" necessary in the presentation of the act, has appeared at most of the better known amusement centres throughout the country. In addition to the bucking mule, there are also five dogs, two monkeys and four ponies. These clever animals through their fine training were secured by the fair management through appealing for the plaudits of the George A. Hamid of New York, the crowd and in Torelli's Circus they are given a conspicuous part. Like outdoor entertainment.

Money received from the Exchange Table amounted to $270.95. The Rehabilitation Fund, sponsored by the Quebec Rebekah Lodges during the past year, amounted to $479.34.

Canada Confers

Great interest is shown by people in all parts of Canada in the discussions between Prime Minister King and leaders of other nations of the commonwealth, now in London. While reluctant to leave Canada at this time, because of the importance and even urgency of the "important questions concerning the discussion of relations between the provinces and ourselves coming up as well as other important matters", Mr. King felt that "there are reasons why consultation... is advisable". Questions being discussed include matters of defence and the various problems of trade—tariffs, preferences, etc.—which closely affect the lives of all Canadians and the Prime Minister assured the House that he would not commit Canada without advice and consultation with the ministers of the different departments who would consider the opinions of the experts in their departments.

Mr. King's Service

A crowd of well-wishers saw Mr. King off to Europe on May 12, extending congratulations to him on having that day equalled the political record of the younger Pitt of England, having served Canada as Prime Minister for 18 years, 11 months and 3 days.

From One Worker to Another

Labour Minister Humphrey Mitchell, electrical operator by trade, who himself experienced all the difficulties of a labourer, has issued a letter to Canadian workers. Pointing out the necessary connection between the stabilization of wages and prices, Mr. Mitchell outlined the effective way to obtain any justified wage increase. War labour boards are still active and they will direct any employer to raise wages if it can be shown that he is paying less than the going wages for similar work in his own or comparable locality. The board may also authorize an employer to raise wages on any other reasonable basis provided he can continue to sell his goods or services without raising prices. Mr. Mitchell further claimed that the labour policy of the Canadian Government has benefited and will continue to benefit Canadian workers by protecting their living standards and avoiding inflationary rises in price which would cancel the advantage gained by an increase in real wages during the war years and since.

Inflation Results

The Windsor Star, Windsor, Ontario, situated a few minutes walk from Detroit in the United States has been comparing prices in the two cities. The results show how the removal of controls would eat up the worker's dollar:

	Windsor	Detroit
Soft drinks	.07	.10-.15
Hamburgers and hot dogs	.10	.21
Average good meal	.75	1.75
Downtown movie	.48	.85
Shortening	.19	.27
Average Family Electricity Bill:
Windsor, $3.00 monthly; Detroit, $8.00 monthly.

Comparison between prices paid for essential goods now compared with prices paid one year after the first world war are startling:

Today	1920
Sugar	8.6c per lb. 25.0
Milk	10c per qt. 15c
Bread	6.7c per lb. 9.7

The Canadian system of price and wage stabilization would seem to have earned the fighting support of all Canadian workers.

New Zealand Government shocked

When a constituency, formerly solidly for the Labour Government of New Zealand, turned against the socialist policies of that government "The Southern Cross" a new labour daily paper said, "The result as it stood came as a complete surprise to Labour voters."

Manslaughter Charge Against Chateaugay, N.Y., Man

John J. Hartnett, 23, of Chateaugay, N.Y., son of former Malone Fire Chief Harry Hartnett, waived examination before Police Justice J. M. Boomhower on Monday morning and is now in Franklin County jail awaiting Grand Jury action on a charge of first degree manslaughter in the death of Leon Langlois, 32, of Burke, N.Y.

The Chateaugay youth is alleged to have struck Langlois in an altercation in front of the Star Restaurant, 114 East Main Street, Malone, at about 2:30 a.m. Sunday. Langlois died about 15 minutes later of a skull fracture received when his head struck the cement pavement.

Listed for Current Term

District Attorney E. N. Lawrence said that Hartnett's case would be scheduled for the Grand Jury at the May term of Supreme Court, which opened at 1:30 Monday afternoon.

The manslaughter charge was placed against Hartnett by Malone Village Patrolman William C. Henry, on the scene a few moments after the blow was struck. Arraigned before Judge Boomhower at 7 a.m. Sunday the youth asked an adjournment without entering a plea.

According to village police, Langlois and Hartnett were said by witnesses to have had an argument over an automobile ride about 1 a.m. Sunday outside a grill on the Chateaugay Road, a few miles east of Malone.

Patrolman Henry says that as he ran across the street he heard a blow struck, and that when he reached the two men Langlois was lying on the sidewalk. Patrolman Trembley Trombley, walking a distance behind Henry, said he saw the first policeman running across the street and followed him. Trombley added that he saw Hartnett strike the victim after making a remark: "You went by me 75 miles an hour," as he recalls it.

Henry said that he placed Hartnett in the police car and that he was taken to the police station and placed in a cell. Then Langlois was taken to the hospital in the prowl car. Garceau said Langlois' pulse indicated he was alive when they picked him up. When the doctor reached him at the hospital he was dead.

It is understood that the victim is a brother-in-law to Mr. Lloyd Duhamel, of Huntingdon, Que.

and fairly stunned those most closely associated with the campaign on labour's behalf.

Premier Fraser himself took an active part in the by-election campaign and his government comes out of it with greatly weakened prestige. At every poll in the agricultural areas of the constituency the vote was more than 3 to 1 against the Labour Government. This has brought gloom to the socialist ranks as they view the prospects of the soon-coming general election in that Dominion.

LACHUTE LADIES SUPPORT FAIR IN OUTSTANDING WAY

No last minute workers are the ladies of Lachute. While last year's record-breaking fair was still on plans were being discussed for this, the 12th renewal which opens on June 12 with a record number of entries. The excellent ladies executive committee seen above includes: Front row, Mrs. George Mitchell, Mrs. George McGibbon, Mrs. P. Jamieson, Mrs. George Leggett, president; rear row, Miss McLeod, Mrs. Shearnsmith, Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Duncan.

LACHUTE—They say that behind the success of every man there is a woman, and it may well be said that behind the success of any fair there must be a committee of women who work quietly, diligently and often without fame or honor to "put over" the annual gathering. One organization which plans an important part in the success of a fair is the Lachute Women's Institute, and never are they called upon to assist without a ready response, often exceeding what is asked of them.

Obituary

The Late Mrs. Joseph T. Smythe—Widespread sorrow was occasioned by the death of the beloved wife of Joseph T. Smythe, which occurred at her home at Huntingdon, Que., on Thursday, May 16, 1946.

Mrs. Smythe, before her marriage was Ellen Catherine Courtney of Port Covington, N.Y. During the many years she lived in her present home, Mrs. Smythe endeared herself to a large circle of friends and acquaintances. This was truly testified by the crowds that came to her home to pay their last respects, by the floral offerings, the dozens of Mass cards and the funeral cortege of more than one hundred cars.

Her body was received at the door of St. Bridget's Church, Trout River, by Fr. Taylor, the Pastor, who celebrated the Pontifical High Mass, with Fr. Heslin as Deacon and Fr. Lynch as sub-deacon. Fr. Harold Murphy of Montreal acted as Master of Ceremonies. Other clergymen in the sanctuary were Fr. Jeannotte, Fr. Augustine and Brother James Fallon. Interment took place in the family lot in St. Agnes.

Mrs. Smythe was an ideal wife and her loved ones had looked forward with great anticipation to her golden wedding which they had hoped to celebrate with the devoted couple on October 6, 1946.

While deeply attached to her home and family, she was ever interested in the welfare of the community and was an ardent worker for the Red Cross and for all religious and social organizations. She enjoyed meeting her friends abroad and was most hospitable in her welcome to visitors to her home.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Howard Wilson of Vichy, N.Y.; three sons, James and William of Huntingdon, Que., and Raymond of Montreal; 9 grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Frank Cosgrove, of Port Covington, N.Y.; two brothers, John and William, of Vichy, N.Y.; and several nieces and nephews.

CARD OF THANKS

The Smythe family wish to express their appreciation and thanks to their neighbours and friends for the kindness shown them in their recent bereavement.

What's In The Wind

BIBLE STORY
Every radio listener has at some time tuned in to Amos 'n' Andy. The third man on the programme for sixteen years was the announcer Bill Hay. John Reese, writing in "The Woman" for May, gives a sketch of Bill Hay's career. States he is one of the best merchandisers in radio. Back in 1942, to coin a phrase, Bill stepped from the ridiculous to the sublime. He left "Amos 'n' Andy" to sell the Bible on the airwaves. His programme from Los Angeles is entitled:

"Bill Hay Reads the Bible"

"One of eight children in a musical family, Bill Hay was trained for a musical career in Scotland's famed Dumfries Academy. The Hays were good Presbyterians, but without the dogmatic so often associated with Scots. There was no prohibition against enjoying life, as long as they did it inside their incomes. Debt, not pleasure, was the symbol of godless corruption."

"Young Bill sang professionally in church choirs after he came to America. It was in Chicago's ritzy Edgewater Presbyterian Church that the young baritone met Elizabeth Webster, who has been Mrs. Hay for the past thirty years."

He first went on the air as a choir leader and soloist in the early days of radio. There was no reason to think that radio would support anyone and Bill Hay did well in the wholesale piano business. A venture into the retail end of it brought losses and to help out, he volunteered to assist the radio station in Hastings, Nebraska.

He got Mike fever during his first announcement, and his wife, listening at home, said she thought he never would get through sounding the "r's" in Nebraska.

Eventually he went to Chicago with Amos 'n' Andy.

A startling new programme was announced by WGN. Bill Hay commenced a Bible reading programme in 1927. The response was astonishing. There were no commercials for commercials but sponsors did get moral credit for backing the idea. When Amos 'n' Andy went to Los Angeles Bill went with them but under a contract that kept him from taking part in any other broadcasts.

Bill Hay was prosperous, bought a fine home at Palm Springs and found himself with a lot of free time. Time passed. Quoting from the article: "To only a few men, he realized, comes the call to preach the gospel. To most others, religion comes with middle age; in those middle years a man's friends begin to die, one by one, and the pursuit of success loses its savor. A man in his forties finds himself restless, disturbed, hungry for the times of his boyhood and newly alarmed at the brevity of life."

In June, 1942, Bill Hay broke his connection with Amos 'n' Andy. He went back on the air with the Bible program. On KFI in Los Angeles he secured an audience tuned in to seventy-eight stations of Mutual network. His mail became mountainous. A great many people, he realized, were uneasy, with a spiritual dissatisfaction, and the Bible gave them what they needed."

"Religious people are just ordinary people who think deeply," he gets letters from Catholics, Protestants and Jews. "You can't read three thousand weekly letters without being touched by the amount of raw suffering in the world," Bill Hay says. "Neither can you help seeing how much the Bible does to relieve it."

"Yet none of his friends think of him as a 'religious' man. He plays golf, he bowls, he smokes, he goes to movie picture shows. The important thing, he says, is that so do all those people who listen to him. 'If I never got any other reward,' Hay says now, 'the feeling at my time of life that I was helping all those people would be enough. It has eased my own restlessness and made me better satisfied with life.'"

Mrs. E. M. Wood of Powerscourt, is a sister of Bill Hay and shares his gift of song. Millions have listened to Bill Hay and have been amused, charmed or comforted. In this community thousands have both seen and heard his sister and been equally charmed, comforted and uplifted. This gifted brother and sister have each achieved fame in their own sphere. Radio offers the broader scope and the highest financial rewards. I feel personally indebted to Mrs. Wood for her generosity in contributing to entertainment on a non-profit basis. Indeed she has lavishly endowed this community in which she has lived for a quarter-century as a farmer's wife, an efficient housekeeper and mother of a family. But it delights me now to add to the astonishing record of Bill Hay the complimentary fact that the neighbors hereabouts think quite highly of his sister's talent also. No church festival or other song recital is ever complete without her presence, achieved often with hardship.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Orms town, May 18, 1946.

Editor, Huntingdon Gleaner:

In last week's Gleaner I saw that our councillors have passed daylight saving time, or as it should be called, "daylight wasting time," and never asked the farmers, who are called upon to produce food and more food to feed the starving people. Now, how are we going to do that, when we lose one hour's work every day with our hired men? Every sensible-minded man knows that we have to work by the sun, and our men are away every night when the sun is high in the sky when we should be drawing in our crops, as we cannot start in the morning till the dew is off. When the war was on we were told it was to save electricity, which was not right as our war plants were running 24 hours a day.

Now what is it for—just to give the city man time to play golf and our young men time to attend the movies and dance halls three and four times a week, and perhaps fall asleep driving home—and we all know the result. Now it is time for us farmers to wake up and go on strike and not send our milk until they return to standard time. Just a few days would settle them.

A FARMER.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Big time golf, like most of the top-ranking sports, is undergoing a peacetime conversion in which a new competitive trend is breaking the monopoly of the few who made the tournaments a party all their own.

As a matter of fact the point has already been reached where the pitch and putt artists no longer practically concede the tourney, before they even start, to the man who became known during wartime, as the mechanical marvel of the links — Byron Nelson, of Toledo, Ohio.

No less a player than "Lord Byron" realizes that the keener competition which marks the story of professional golf today is going to make the boys who "play for pay" really bear down to maintain the reputations built during wartime. It will be even more so in the future as the former stars who have come out of the service regain the putting touch and as the youngsters on the way up polish their game.

Some of these younger players are already making the old standbys sit up and take notice. There's Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio; Harry Todd of Dallas, Texas; George Schneider of Ogden, Utah, and ex-Marine Peter Cooper of Gainesville, Fla.

Keiser, a par-busting former U.S. sailor, had never won a tournament until a few weeks ago when he captured the Augusta Masters event to start tongues wagging in praise. He edged out veteran Ben Hogan by one stroke to take his first tournament in more than 70 attempts.

Cooper is another up-and-comer who will probably attract a lot of attention in the future. Before Cooper joined the Marines, Gene Sarazen, whose judgment is not often wrong, said the lanky shot-maker was the most promising young pro on golf's winter circuit. Pete didn't compete in the Masters tournament, but the week before he shared second place with veterans Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret in the Charlotte, N.C., open. A few weeks earlier, Cooper took third place money in the Jacksonville, Fla. open. Pete started to show the stuff of which champs are made in 1940 when he took the Florida open and Southeastern P.G.A. tournament.

His game is similar to Slammin' Sammy Snead's. His drives get distance and his iron game, like Snead's, is considered outstanding. His main weakness is around the greens but already it's noticeable that even this part of his game is improving.

Lefty Gomez has departed from the major leagues and there's many a fan who misses the colorful pitcher's antics and quips. There is hardly a more amusing story about the former New York Yankee hurler than the one that is told concerning how he was tagged with the nickname "Goofy."

In his second big league starting assignment, Lefty faced the Detroit Tigers and he was especially warned about how to pitch to the Tiger's great second baseman, Charley Gehringer.

In the very first inning, Lefty was shocked when a Tiger player blast-

Brown were baptized during the early part of the service.

ed one of his best offerings for a home. Lefty decided to hold a conference with catcher Bill Dickey. Lefty said: "Be sure to tip me when Gehringer comes up so that I can be careful." Lefty was left flabbergasted by Dickey's reply: "Yeah? Well, that was Gehringer who just hit the homer."

Shower for bride-to-be

A delightfully arranged miscellaneous shower for Miss Evelyn Bannion was held at the home of Mrs. Emma McDonald on Saturday evening.

When the "bride-to-be" entered the room she was escorted to a chair tastefully decorated in pink and white. Overhead hung a watering can with white ribbons in the form of a shower. Little pink, white and blue parasols decorated the room.

Mrs. John Murphy and Mrs. Charles Grimshaw, both aunts of the bride-to-be were seated on either side and assisted in opening the many beautiful useful gifts which were passed around for all to admire. After finishing her delightful task Evelyn fittingly thanked one and all for their beautiful gifts. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess to over 60 guests. This brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

On Tuesday night previous a personal shower was also held at the home of Miss Roma Humberstone, Montreal, girl friend of Miss Evelyn Bannion.

Aubrey-Riverfield

On Friday afternoon, May 17, a very enjoyable afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. Ernest Robertson, when 16 young lads and lassies of Riverfield, accompanied by their mothers, celebrated Lorne Tanner's second birthday. The afternoon was spent by playing games after which supper was served. The table was gaily decorated with tulips and a three-tier birthday cake. Lorne was the recipient of many lovely gifts and when the young guests departed they left Lorne with best wishes for many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. Claire Bennett, of Montreal, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kipling. Mrs. Mary Harris has returned to her summer home in the Scotch Concession.

W.M.S. Meets

The W.M.S. met on Tuesday afternoon, May 14, in the church hall. The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer in unison, and Hymn 519, "He Leadeth Me." The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Finlay Milne, who gave a description of the Lord's Prayer, also known as the Shepherd's Song. This was based on the 23rd Psalm, which she also read; also John 14, which is called the Shepherd's Chapter. The "Glad Tidings" prayer was given by Mrs. Turner, and the roll call was responded to by a verse containing the word "courage." Minutes were read and approved. The current items from "Glad Tidings" were given by Mrs. Chester Orr, telling of the return of one of the missionaries, Miss Hermanen, to China; the clothing drive for allied relief; and an article on the Presbyterian Advance. Mrs. Janet Reddick read a very interesting account of the first 24 years of the life of Mary Slessor. A duet, "For You I am Praying" was rendered by Mrs. Robt. McClenaghan and Mrs. Wallace Craig. The meeting closed with hymn 419, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," and the Auxiliary prayer.

County Convention

The Annual County Convention of the W.C.T.U. was held in Riverfield Church Hall on Wednesday, with morning and afternoon sessions. The special speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. J. R. Dobson, of Montreal, who gave a very interesting address on "The Four Magic Letters—W.C.T.U." Another pleasing feature was the eight little children who were made Little White Ribboners, namely Norma Jean Robertson, Rodney Austin Reddick, Earl Willis Craig, John Kyrke Nussey, Patricia Anne Reddick, Donna Lee Templeton, Peter John Gruer, and Brenda Joyce McKell. Refreshments were served at the noon hour by the Howick Branch of the W.C.T.U.

The Hannah Sever Mission Band met on Sunday, May 19, at the close of the church service, with 15 members and two visitors present. In the absence of the president, the meeting was conducted by the vice-president, Aneta Milne, with Doris Reddick as secretary. The offering was taken up by Pamela Turner. The story for the day was read by Mrs. Janet Reddick, and was entitled "Resolutions." Four new members were added to the roll. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer in unison.

This Week at OTTAWA

By H. DENT HODGSON,

Canadian Press Staff Writer OTTAWA, (CP)—Canadians soon will be—Canadians. While few persons had any real doubt of this before, State Secretary Martin's citizenship bill which passed through the Commons last week definitely establishes and recognizes Canadian citizenship for the first time. Formerly the only definition of citizenship was found in the Immigration Act.

The change will be a welcome one to many Canadians travelling abroad who have been puzzled by their passports. In future, all Canadian passports will carry the words "Canadian Citizen."
