Ryan Reynolds, Mordecai Richler among inductees into Canada's Walk of Fame

By Melissa Leong
Postmedia News

Green Lantern star Ryan Reynolds, comedian Russell Peters and the late, celebrated author Mordecai Richler will join an elite list of luminaries on Canada's Walk of Fame.

"Ryan Reynolds started when he was eight years old and is now in his mid-30s; his list of accomplishments that he's had over the years is extraordinary," said Peter Soumalias, founding director of Canada's Walk of Fame. "This year, there is no doubt that the success of (the film) Barney's Version stimulated Canadians to nominate Mordecai Richler."

Seven inductees were announced at a luncheon Tuesday in Toronto, which featured clips of Reynolds flying as the DC superhero Green Lantern and Peters famously imitating his father ("Somebody gonna get a hurt real bad").

The 2011 inductees also include Dr. Roberta Bondar, the first Canadian woman and neurologist in space, and Burton Cummings, lead singer and songwriter of The Guess Who. The rock legend already has six Juno Awards, the Order of Canada and some 80 platinum and gold record awards for such hits as American Woman and These Eyes.

"Burton Cummings has been doing this for 40 years," Soumalias said. "We did honour The Guess Who a number of years ago, but he's also had a very successful solo career."

Tennis star Daniel Nestor, who has won seven Grand Slam events, and award-winning actress Sandra Oh, who starred in the Oscar-winning film Sideways and plays Dr. Christina Yang on ABC's Grey's Anatomy, will also receive sidewalk stars in Toronto's theatre district.

"(Nestor) is not as widely known in Canada for his accomplishments as he is internationally... but he has won over 800 matches," Soumalias said.

Jim Flaherty, federal Minister of Finance, announced

Canada's Walk of Fame

$500,000 in funding for Canada's Walk of Fame Festival in Toronto. The second annual celebration, which takes place from Sept. 29 to Oct. 2, features performances by singer-songwriter Chantal Kreviazuk and a comedy night hosted by comedian Jon Dore.

"The key is that the festival grows and attracts tourism to Canada and emphasizes our country," Flaherty said.

The idea of the festival came from Avatar director James Cameron, Soumalias said. When Cameron was inducted into the Walk of Fame in 2008, he told Soumalias that he had missed an opportunity.

"He said, 'I'm working on this film called Avatar. In the last five years, I've had six days off: three days to spend Christmas with my family and three days to come here. . . . You should have sent me to Ryerson (University), you should have sent me to Sheridan College. That's where I could have best done the job for today's students, letting them know what it takes to be a filmmaker,'" Soumalias told the crowd.

"That's where the idea began to germinate of Canada's Walk of Fame Festival, of trying to put accomplished Canadians together with emerging artists. It's all about the opportunity to be seen and be heard and catch a break. Sometimes that break happens right here."
