

NEWS.

TRANSATLANTIC.

The cabinet of Aberdeen have struck and not a cab in the city is running.

The Italian Government is buying a large number of cavalry horses in Germany and Austria.

The Duchess of Sparta, wife of the Crown Prince of Greece, and sister of the Emperor William, has given birth to a son.

H.M.S. "Stork" has launched at the mouth of the Zambesi river two stern-wheel gunboats for service on the Shire river.

The Serbian synod has rejected the petition of ex-Queen Natalie to reconsider the legality of her divorce from ex-King Milan.

According to advices received at Cairo the Mahdi has determined to make another advance, and has summoned the Emirs to a council of war. It is reported that Osman Digna is at Omdurman and that his followers have returned to Tokar. Osman, it is said, lost 400 men by famine and sickness.

German critics say the French army never appeared to so great advantage as on July 14 at the celebration of the fall of the Bastille. They especially praise the artillery.

The expedition sent out by the Sultan of Morocco against the Zemmour tribe, which recently raided the camp of the Sultan's son, has completely routed the enemy.

Reports just published show that the wheat crop in Hungary is good as regards both quantity and quality. Rye and barley are satisfactory, but the crop of oats is poor.

A despatch from Constantinople says: "Failing joint intervention by England and Russia, the Armenians on both sides of the frontier will combine and ask the Czar's aid."

The question of Prince Bismarck's right to divorce, directly or indirectly, through interviews, his knowledge of state affairs acquired while he was a minister, will be decided immediately upon the Emperor's return to Berlin.

The Emperor William will arrive at Osborne House on August 2nd, and will leave on August 7th. He will visit the Forts while in England. It has been ordered that his stay shall be devoid of ceremony.

The Austrians, Gerson and Major, recently seized by brigands near Ismid, have been released.

SECRET SOCIETIES DENOUNCED.
DUBLIN, July 20.—In his sermon in the cathedral at Armagh to-day the Rev. Mr. McNeenan denounced secret societies. He referred especially to the Ancient Order of Hibernians. He said this society, which was founded in America, was seeking new members in Ireland, and he warned all Roman Catholics against having anything to do with the organization.

FINANCIAL CRISIS IN MONTEVIDEO.
LOSDON, July 20.—Cable despatches from Montevideo say the Government contemplates the creation of an international debt at 10 percent interest in order to withdraw from circulation the national bank notes. The merchants and foreign bankers have signed an agreement to refuse forced paper money in settling gold transactions.

LOST IN THE DESERT.
The Chinese Government stopped a party of Russian explorers in Tibet, led by Captain Grombchevsky, at Pöla, on the border of the Tibetan desert, and ordered them to return to Kashgar. The Russians refused, and the whole party left Pöla in the night and disappeared in the desert.

ALEXANDER'S PROMISE TO FERDINAND.
BERLIN, July 19.—At a recent meeting of Prince Alexander of Battenberg and Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, at Egger, Bohemia, Ferdinand asked for explicit assurance that Alexander would not return to Bulgaria. He also asked what meaning was to be attached to the adoption of Major Panitz's child. He said he felt it to be useless to continue his struggle to maintain himself as ruler of Sofia if Alexander was to be his rival. Alexander protested he had no ambition to return to Bulgaria. Panitz's boy, he explained, was his godson. He advised Ferdinand to return, to govern constitutionally, and promised if he should break out he would serve in the Bulgarian army in any capacity.

AUSTRALIA WANTS RAILWAYS.
MELBOURNE, July 20.—The Premier has introduced in Parliament a railway bill providing for the construction of 1,077 miles of country lines and thirty-nine miles of suburban lines, the whole to cost £12,500,000, besides a grant from the treasury of two million pounds. He said the scheme was necessary in order to meet the growth of the population which, as the census proved, was increasing faster than the population of America. The bill was well received.

FRANCE AND THE MCKINLEY BILL.
PARIS, July 19.—The American consulate here is overrun with French merchants making enquiries and complaining of the effects of the American customs administration bill. The president of the French budget committee advocates a commercial treaty with the United States, to take effect in 1892, when France will have regained her economic liberty. The Chamber of Commerce has sent a petition to the Government asking that it try to secure a delay of two months in the time of enforcing the provisions also of the Customs administration. The petition requests the Government to open negotiations with the other European powers for the holding of a congress to adopt measures for the protection of the export trade of Europe against the provisions of the bill.

THE PARTITION OF AFRICA.
FRANCE BECOMING MOLLIENED.
BERLIN, July 19.—The opposition of France to the Anglo-German agreement abates under the prospective arrangement in which the Foreign Office here acquiesces. The French claims to a sphere of influence from Senegal to Lake Tchad will be submitted to a commission on delimitation, composed of German, English and French officials. M. Ribot, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, objected to German representation on the commission on the ground that the disputed territories, from the Niger to Lake Tchad, did not touch German interests. Chancellor von Caprivi and Lord Salisbury declining thus to cancel an article of the agreement dealing with the Anglo-German trade in the countries drained by the Niger, M. Ribot was constrained to assent. The German Chancellor's official memorandum on the agreement is ready for issue as soon as the English Parliament ratifies the cession of Heligoland. It declares that the Government sympathizes with the German efforts in East Africa. At the same time it maintains that the importance of Zanzibar is exaggerated and cannot compare with Heligoland. Germany has long coveted the island, and there have been ceaseless appeals made to the Government to acquire it, as the archives of the chancellerie show. It concludes with the statement that the convention is based on a just regard for the pretensions and aspirations of both countries.

ROME, July 20.—There are persistent rumors here that a convention has been signed by England which grants Italy the sole authority in the Northern Jubba territory in East Africa.

LONDON, July 21.—A Paris despatch says:

The negotiations relative to Zanzibar are concluded. The Ministerialists consider the French Minister of Foreign Affairs has secured a distinct diplomatic triumph.

THE WAR CLOUD IN THE EAST.
THE GERMAN WAR LORD TO TAKE PART IN DISPELLING IT.

BERLIN, July 19.—The Emperor William has announced that he will return to Wilhelmshaven from his trip in Norwegian waters on July 20th. Gen. Du Vernois and Herr Miquel will meet him there. The Reichsanzeiger last night declared that the Emperor's plans for his trip had not been altered owing to the political situation, but the facts contradict the official statement. Arrangements were made for his voyage to extend a week longer. Affairs in the East are hastening to a crisis, and have caused the Emperor William to advance the date for his conference with the Czar. Count von Schouvaloff, the Russian ambassador to Berlin, who is now in St. Petersburg, has sent Chancellor von Caprivi a formal intimation that the Czar will receive the Emperor William on August 10th. The great manoeuvres to which the Emperor William has been invited will begin on August 7th, and last for two weeks.

OBITUARY.
URICA, N.Y., July 19.—Christian Henry F. Peters, director of the Litchfield Observatory and professor of astronomy of Hamilton College, was found dead this morning. An assistant janitor of the college was making his usual morning rounds about 7 o'clock and discovered Dr. Peters lying on the first step of the lower steps leading into one of the halls. On his head was the little cap he usually wore when taking observations, and in the fingers of his left hand, lying on his breast, was a half-burned cigar. Death had resulted from apoplexy. He was in his usual health yesterday, and the night being a clear and fine one he had his astronomical apparatus arranged for the purpose of taking observations through the night.

LONDON, July 19.—Lydia Becker, leader of the Woman's Suffrage movement, died to-day in Geneva, of diphtheria.

Sir Alfred Slade, chief of the inland revenue department died to-day.

NEW YORK, July 20.—J. W. Watson, a well-known literary man, claiming to be author of "Beautiful Snow," died here yesterday, aged sixty-eight.

LONDON, July 20.—Sir Richard Wallace, formerly a member of the House of Commons, is dead.

RAILWAY PASSENGER RATES.
CHICAGO, Ill., July 19.—Chairman Goddard, of the Western Passenger Association, has used his authority, and to-day peremptorily ordered all lines to advance the present $16.70 round trip rate between Kansas City and Chicago to the old figure of $20, effective July 25th. With this exception there is at present no trouble in regular passenger rates in the West. The "So" line has, however, kicked up a disturbance by quoting from Sioux City via St. Paul to the Grand Army encampment in Boston a $45 round trip rate, including sleeping car, as against a $47.75 rate, including sleeper, via Chicago. The "So" route is nearly 500 miles longer, but it offers in addition a bonus of $500 a train to the Grand Army veterans. This will cause serious trouble, as the rate must be met via Chicago.

FIRE.
PATERSON, N. J., July 20.—The extensive machine works here of J. C. Todd were burned this morning. Loss $100,000. Several firemen were overcome by smoke and had to be carried from beneath the falling walls. The fire is believed to have been incendiary.

URICA, N.Y., July 20.—A serious fire occurred in Fort Plain, a thriving village in Montgomery county, this morning about two o'clock. It started in Smith & Meyer's block, Kellogg street, burned that and eight wooden dwellings and rendered six families homeless. Loss, $10,000.

LONDON, Ont., July 19.—Fire broke out about eleven o'clock to-night in W. Y. Brunton & Sons' dry goods store. The damage will amount to several thousand dollars, but it is fully covered by insurance.

PEACE OF MIND.
In the time of prevailing sickness, or an epidemic, it is of great importance that the mind should be kept calm. Anxiety and fear should be banished, as they are predisposing causes. In one state of the system a person may be exposed without danger to a contagious disease, which in another state of the system he would certainly imbibe. Imagination often produces in persons of an extremely nervous temperament symptoms akin to those of the prevailing malady, and thus invites or precipitates an attack of the disease itself.

Fortunately, our Dominion has not suffered much from epidemics in the past, but who can tell what a month or two may bring forth. It, therefore, behooves men and women of every station in life to see that they are in such a state of health as to enable them to remain calm, and rest in quiet during times of epidemics.

The most common ailment prevalent to-day in Canada is Nervousness, from which trouble results many serious complications. The nervous, irritable individual, who is troubled with Insomnia, Headache, Languor and Dizziness, is the most susceptible to any prevailing epidemic, and is usually carried off by it.

Peace of mind and a sound, strong nerve system is what is required by all who would avoid the passing pestilence.

There is one remedy that makes strong the weak and nervous, and gives the body strength, as well as peace and tranquility to the mind—it is Paine's Celery Compound.

There is no other remedy known to science that has conferred such benefits on humanity when fevers and other diseases were epidemic.

It acts as a complete bodily renewer, and acts like a charm in producing a calm and peaceful mind.

Paine's Celery Compound stands alone in this field of work, and its value is fully recognized by the best physicians.

THE WANDERING JEW.

EUGENE SUE'S
GREAT TALE OF THE JESUITS
AND LABOR REFORM.

(Condensed for the "Witness")

PART THIRD.—THE REDEMPTION.

CHAPTER X.
THE EXECUTION.

Rodin entered. A rapid glance at Mdle. de Cardoville and M. de Montbrun, told him at once that he was in a dilemma. In fact, nothing could be less encouraging than the face of Adrienne and the count.

The latter, when he disliked people, exhibited his antipathy by an impertinently aggressive manner, which had before now occasioned a good number of duels. At sight of Rodin, his countenance at once assumed a harsh and insolent expression; resting his elbow on the chimney-piece, and conversing with Adrienne, he looked disdainfully over his shoulder, without taking the least notice of the Jesuit's low bow.

On the other hand, at sight of this man, Mdle. de Cardoville almost felt surprise that she should experience no movement of anger or hatred. The brilliant flame which burned in her heart, purified it from every vindictive sentiment. She smiled, on the contrary; for she asked herself what two beings, so young, and fair, and free, and loving could have to fear from this old, sordid man, with his ignoble and base countenance, now advancing towards her, with the writhing of a reptile. In a word, far from feeling anger or aversion with regard to Rodin, the young lady seemed full of the spirit of mocking gaiety, and her large eyes already lighted up with happiness, now sparkled with irony and mischief.

Rodin felt himself ill at ease. People of his stamp generally prefer violent to mocking enemies. They can encounter bursts of rage—sometimes by falling on their knees, weeping, groaning, and beating their breasts—sometimes by turning on their adversary, armed and implacable. But they are easily disconcerted by biting raillery; and thus it was with Rodin. He saw that, between Adrienne de Cardoville and M. de Montbrun he was about to be placed in what is vulgarly termed a "regular fix."

The count opened the fire; still glancing over his shoulder, he said to Rodin: "Ah! you are here, my benevolent gentleman!" "Pray, sir, draw a little nearer," said Adrienne, with a mocking smile. "Best of friends, and model of philosophers—as well as declared enemy of all fraud and falsehood—I have to pay you a thousand compliments."

"I accept anything from you, my dear young lady, even though undeserved," said the Jesuit, trying to smile, and thus exposing his vile yellow teeth; "but may I be informed how I have earned these compliments?"

"Your penetration, sir, which is rare—" replied Adrienne.

"And your veracity, sir," said the count, "which is perhaps no less rare—"

"In what have I exhibited my penetration, my dear young lady?" said Rodin, coldly.

"In what my veracity?" added he, turning towards M. de Montbrun.

"In what, sir?" said Adrienne. "Why you have guessed a secret surrounded by difficulties and mystery. In a word, you have known how to read the depths of a woman's heart."

"I, my dear young lady?"

"You, sir! rejoice at it, for your penetration has had the most fortunate results."

"And your veracity has worked wonders," added the count.

"It is pleasant to do good, even without knowing it," said Rodin, still acting on the defensive, and throwing side glances by turns on the count and Adrienne; "but will you inform me what it is that deserves this praise?"

"Gratitude obliges me to inform you of it," said Adrienne, maliciously; "you have discovered, and told Prince Djalma, that I was passionately in love. Well! I admire your penetration it was true."

"You have also discovered, and told this lady, that Prince Djalma was passionately in love," resumed the count. "Well! I admire your penetration, my dear sir; it was true."

Rodin looked confused, and at a loss for a reply.

"The person that I loved so passionately," said the Adrienne, "was the prince."

"The person that the prince loved so passionately," resumed the count, "was this lady."

These revelations, so sudden and alarming, almost stunned Rodin; he remained mute and terrified, thinking of the future.

"Do you understand now, sir, the extent of our gratitude towards you?" resumed Adrienne, in a still more mocking tone. "Thanks to your sagacity, thanks to the touching interest you take in us, the prince and I are indebted to you for the knowledge of our mutual sentiments."

"I tell you what, my good sir!" replied the count, disdainfully; "you force me to remind you that there are more ways than one of chastising impudent rogues."

"My dear count!" said Adrienne to M. de Montbrun, with an air of reproach.

With perfect coolness, Rodin replied: "I do not exactly see, sir, first what courage is shown by threatening a poor old man like myself; and, secondly—"

"M. Rodin," said the count, interrupting the Jesuit, "first, a poor old man like you, who does evil under the shelter of the age, and dishonors, is both cowardly and wicked, and deserves a double chastisement; secondly, with regard to this question of age, I am not aware that gamekeepers or policemen bow respectfully to the grey coats of old wolves, and the grey hairs of old thieves. What do you think, my good sir?"

Still impassible, Rodin raised his flabby eyelids, fixed for hardly a second his little reptile eye upon the count, and darted at him one of his rapid, cold, and piercing glances—and then the livid eyelid again covered the dull eye of that corpse-like face.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

A STEP ASIDE.

(By Sydney Dayre in New York Observer.)

PART I.

"Pretty dull work, isn't it?"

One of the clerks in the large store had taken advantage of a lull in business to speak to Phil Pierce, a boy younger than himself, who stood at the next counter.

"Rather," said Phil. "I don't have much time to think of that, though, only I get a little tired as night comes on."

"Tired, I should say," said the other, whom all the clerks called Lane. "What do you do evenings?"

"Oh, not much of anything," said Phil; "I read a little and go to bed pretty early. I'm a good deal of a stranger here, and as yet hardly know where to spend my evenings."

"Yes, well, the best way to get acquainted is to go among folks. Come down here this evening and have a little fun."

"Down here?"

"Yes, to the store."

"But I thought it was always shut up."

"So most folks think. But Gray has a key to a back door, and, see that counter facing the window?"—he pointed to a high display-counter facing the window between the two side counters. "The gas is always burning here at night, and some of us fellows come and have a good time here and no one is any the worse for it."

Which last statement might have been questioned, but the chance of a little fun sounded very attractive to the country boy, who was more homesick than he would have been willing to own to anybody.

In company with Lane he took his way, at about his usual hour for seeking the rest necessary to the faithful performance of his duties, to the back door of the store, which opened in answer to a peculiar tap given by his companion.

"All right," asked Lane.

"All serene," was the response.

Phil was received with a rollicking welcome as he went forward to join the company of about a dozen boys, or young men, as they would, perhaps, prefer to be styled. The fully turned-on gas jet just above the high counter turned everything within quite a circle into brilliancy. Close behind it, concealed from the watchman as he made his rounds, were the preparations for the evening festivities. Some chairs were there and several dry goods boxes, brought for the occasion from a packing room in the rear of the store. Upon one of these were crackers, nuts and oranges disposed in a Bohemian style very agreeable to the tastes of boys.

After a few moments of conversation, lively enough, but carried on in suppressed tones, several packs of cards were produced, and the company gathered around the boxes.

"Is this what you do here?" asked Phil, in some surprise.

"Yes. Perhaps you don't play cards?" said Lane.

"No; I never learned," said Phil, hesitatingly.

"That's all right," said Lane, good-naturedly. "A great many people think it's wrong, and of course they have a right to their own opinion on the matter. Anybody who thinks so had better let them alone. Do you play checkers?"

"Yes."

"Perhaps you have played authors?"

"Yes," repeated Phil.

"Well, some folks pretend to see a great deal of difference in the look of different kinds of bits of pasteboard. I don't find a particle of fault with them, you know, for making it a matter of life or death whether there's a picture of Bryant or Lowell on them, or a fancy picture of a king or queen. But I must confess, I can't see any difference myself, except that it's a great deal more fun to play with the ones which are such a horror in the eyes of good old ladies and prosy old deacons."

That was very fair, surely. If Lane had turned him into ridicule for not knowing how to play, and had then strongly urged him to learn, Phil might have taken the alarm and possibly have called up all his moral courage to aid him in avoiding a temptation. But he forgot that Satan often lures by placing his snares in their most innocent guise.

FOLLOWING CHRIST.

Dr. PIERSON estimates the money annually raised for carrying on Protestant foreign missions as a little short of $11,250,000, or an average of thirty-seven and a half cents per year for each Evangelical church member. According to the Missionary Herald figures, the amount of money contributed for Evangelical work last year by the native communicants, at the various missions stations of the Board, amounts to $124,274, which the editor considers more than equivalent to the money contributed to the Board by the American churches, when the value of a day's work in foreign lands is contrasted with the proceeds of the same length of time in this country. This speaks much for the liberality of the native converts, though it reflects sadly upon their brethren in Christian lands.

TRAGEDY ON A TRAIN.

A SINGULAR STORY.

VANWERT, Ohio, July 19.—A bold attempt at train robbery was made last night on the Cincinnati, Jackson & Michigan Railway. Three men boarded the engine of the north-bound passenger train at Enterprise, Ohio, and attacked Engineer Vanderventer and his fireman with hammers and coupling pins, knocking both senseless. They did not succeed in stopping the train, however, owing probably to the plucky fight made by a trainman, and jumped off before reaching Vanwert. The engineer and fireman were both lying senseless in the cab of the locomotive, and the train, which should have stopped at Vanwert station, rushed through the yard at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour. Here it collided with a switch engine, and Engineer Vanderventer was found dead in the wreck. The fireman is still unconscious, and it cannot be learned whether the engineer was killed by the robbers or in the collision. None of the passengers were seriously injured.

VANWERT, Ohio, July 20.—Fireman Sam Roadhouse, who was on the engine with Engineer Vanderventer when the latter was fatally assaulted on Friday night, made a statement yesterday. He said that when a short distance this side of Stumps, a small station south of this city, he thought he heard a noise and turned to see the cause, when he was struck several blows upon the head, which felled him to the feet of an unknown assassin. Roadhouse was found lying unconscious near the fire box, the heat of which terribly burned his face and hands. Inspection of the engine cab revealed spatters of blood over the boxes, windows, etc., and showed the blows must have been struck with a terrible force. A soft copper hammer belonging to the engineer was found in the cab covered with clotted blood and hair. The passengers on the train say the usual signal was given at Stumps, and that one whistle was sounded after that, when the train slackened its speed to about six or eight miles an hour, which it kept up until the collision with the other engine. As the train carried no valuables, the idea of robbery is out of the question. Roadhouse was to-day arrested, charged with killing Vanderventer. He protests his innocence. The men were known to have been quarrelling for several days, and the detective's theory is that Vanderventer knocked Roadhouse down, injuring his head horribly on the coal in the tender. Roadhouse then waited his opportunity and struck the engineer with a hammer. Officers are also searching for Blair Mock, the convict who swore he would kill Vanderventer. It is known a man answering Mock's description escaped if Vanderventer was on the train.

THE FUNNEL SHAPED CLOUD AGAIN,
ITS TERRIBLE WORK AND FRIGHTFUL APPEARANCE.

CORONEL, BLUFFS, Ia., July 20.—A special from Pacific Junction, sixteen miles south of here, gives news of a cyclone which struck that place at 2:15 o'clock on Saturday morning. During the night a severe electric storm prevailed. In addition the rain fell in torrents. The atmosphere about midnight became remarkably still and dense. It was difficult for one to breathe. Egyptian darkness prevailed, dispelled only by a vivid flash of lightning, when, without warning, a large, funnel-shaped cloud descended from the heavens, like an arrow, with a roar that terrified the entire city. The cloud struck the ground about 500 feet from the Burlington depot and in a moment two business blocks, a grocery store, a feed store, and three other residences were torn to pieces as if made of paper. The timbers were carried up into the air and lost sight of. The cloud, after travelling about 300 feet on the ground, rose into the air only to alight again within a block's distance. It struck the second time a bridge to the west of the city, Burlington, and Quincy depot and hurled a passenger coach belonging to the C. & Q. into a ditch and badly damaged it. A conductor sleeping in the coach was terribly bruised and cut and may die. After wrecking the coach the cloud flew upward and vanished.

A BATTLE IN SAN SALVADOR.

THE GUATEMALANS SEVERELY DEFEATED.
CITY OF MEXICO, July 20.—El Universal publishes an account of a battle between Guatemalans and San Salvadorians in San Salvador, in which the former were defeated with heavy loss. The Guatemalan force numbered 9,000. General Barrundia, the Guatemalan refugee, has left Oaxaca to take part in the war. He will probably raise the standard of revolt in Guatemala. Private telegrams from San Salvador say the San Salvadorians captured the Guatemalan artillery in the battle which took place on Thursday. It is rumored that President Barrios, of Guatemala, talks of resigning.

THE MEANEST SWINDLER IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Bernard Aronson, who carries on a banking establishment on Canal street, was remanded to day in the Police Court on the charge of swindling money from poor people who have been sending money and tickets to Europe. More than three hundred poor foreigners were complainants and they crowded the capacity of the court room. Yesterday there was a lively scene at the banking establishment where a crowd of people, who had been swindled, broke into the place and used the banker and his clerk very roughly. Mrs. Annie Joseph told a story yesterday. She had sent to the bankers $75 to be forwarded for a ticket to her sister and children in Poland. After her sister travelled three hundred miles to the steamer pier she found her ticket was no good. There were one hundred people in the same fix and the scene of misery was pitiable.

MONDAY, JULY 21, 1890.

THAT THE DUTCH HAVE TAKEN HOLLAND is not older news than that the sea has taken most of what was once Sable Island, and is with comparative rapidity taking the remainder. Sable Island has been, during the last two centuries, the scene of more shipwrecks probably than any other piece of coast of the same size in the world.

AN EXPEDITION AGAINST Upper Egypt from Khartoum by the Mahdists is very unlikely. The most successful military leader of the Arabs has been killed and the rest have been so often defeated that even the brave fanatical spearmen are hopeless. Besides, the whole people of the Soudan are suffering from starvation. If any raid is made it will be by one of the famine stricken tribes for food. The British are distributing large quantities of food daily among formerly hostile peoples at Suakin on the Red Sea, and at Wady Halfa on the Nile, and it is probable that an effort will be made to carry provisions to Berbera and Khartoum. An expedition against an enemy with provisions for ammunition would be as effectual, probably, as novel and would be cheaper than one with gunpowder. It is to be hoped that the scheme to win the Soudan after this new fashion will be carried out.

WE ARE ASSURED that the indifference of the people of Cote St. Antoine in the election of school trustees is far from being unusual. Ontario is a Province which takes great pride and no little interest in her educational system, yet it is said that outside of the rural districts where the ratepayers are very keen economists there is hardly ever an election for school trustees. The trustee who is about to retire consults with his fellow members of the board, a successor is chosen, and when the election day comes, as it does every year, a couple of voters are induced to appear to nominate and duly elect the new trustee. A re-election is an even simpler process. If a couple of voters do not happen to pass the schoolhouse where the "election" is held, within the proper time, the would-be trustee has to go to the nearest house, office or workshop and induce a couple to come and "see him through." The curious thing about all this is, that the school trustees are, as a general rule, of a better type than are the town or village councillors, and who are elected with so much emulation and heartburning and at so much expense, that they do their work well and economically, and that they dispose of large sums of public money yearly without any suspicion of jobbery.

THE AFRICAN BUBBLE.

The partition of the world goes on. Already both Germany and Great Britain were rejoicing in diplomatic victories over each other in the matter of the African treaty, and now France is singing paeans over a diplomatic victory over them both. Italy also is rejoicing in her big share of the spoil. France may well be pleased with the visions she has opened to herself. In imagination she has extended her little Senegambian possession on Africa's westernmost curve back and back as far as Lake Tchad. Obviously that lake is not meant as a boundary line but as being the only known landmark short of the Egyptian Soudan to which they can conveniently refer as the goal of their ambition. The next thing after getting Lake Tchad within their "sphere of influence" would necessarily be a delimitation commission to draw a boundary between them and the British sphere on the Nile. The French do not, of course, recognize England's right, as protector of Egypt, of succession to the Egyptian claims in the Soudan, but France would probably not have the face to prefer any claims of her own to the Empire of Gordon. To possess the whole of the Soudan, from the Atlantic to Darfur, is evidently not the whole of France's dream. From her base at Algiers she has been encroaching westward on Morocco and she has added Tunis on the east. With the country both north and south of the Sahara in her hands the whole of that vast region would have to be painted in French colors on the maps. Further still, she has a port at Whydah, just west of the mouths of the Niger, from which she has been recently making aggressions northward, though without pronounced success. Italy may well be pleased with her share for she has got more in proportion to cost and to her European prestige than any of the others. She has, however, been made policeman over the most dangerous part of Africa, and she will yet have to pay well for her whistle. England's policy in all such matters seems to be to give to other countries all they choose to claim, excepting only regions where British interests are so great as to require her own protection and suzerainty. She does not ask that France or Italy or Germany shall have a similar basis for their claims. Enough for her that they desire to take the responsibility of governing an uncivilized territory. She is only too glad to have them do so. The question will remain how far they can accomplish the task they undertake. Portugal has never been able to make good her power in the inland country which she now claims. Far from doing anything for it, she has spread blight and devastation all through the interior by setting the various tribes at war catching slaves from each other. Almost contemporaneous with the news of France's diplomatic victory at Berlin, comes one of her defeat at her back door in Senegambia, a thousand miles short of Lake Tchad. There is no need to believe this story, but things like that are possible. Africa has before this been divided up among the European nations upon altogether different lines, but their failures to do anything permanent within their respective spheres of influence were so complete that even the recollection of these divisions had passed away. It was not until an old diplomatist, who had taken part in the surrender of Portugal's pretensions to the whole east coast of Africa, remembered the contents of the great mass of Dutch and Portuguese documents which had passed through his hands that former totally unsuccessful attempts to divide Africa and develop commerce were recalled. The present "African bubble," as this diplomat calls it, will, he thinks, burst as others have done, and then African protectorates will go begging.

THE GARRISON ARTILLERY.

"HONOR TO THE OLD BRIGADE AND MYSELF AS YOUR COMMANDER."

The Garrison Artillery passed a very creditable infantry inspection on the Champ de Mars on Saturday. Lieut.-Col. Turnbull was in command, and the other officers in parade were: Major Cole, Captain J. A. Adams, Adjutant Howard, Captains Ogilvy, Brissette, Finlayson and Crahan, Lieut. Reid, Captain and Paymaster Trotter, Captain and Quartermaster Maxwell, Surgeon Finley and Assistant Surgeon Elder.

The inspecting officer was Lieut.-Col. Houghton, who was accompanied by Lieut.-Col. Montanari, Assistant Inspector of Artillery. After the men had marched into their armory, Col. Turnbull addressed them, denouncing what he called the lies that had been published about them in some Montreal papers. "Bah," he continued, "notwithstanding these lies that have been published about us, you have shown to-day that you can do honor to the old brigade and myself as your commander."

MR. GEORGE BLAICKLOCK'S VISIT.

He was born in London in 1850 and his father was born near Lake Simcoe, Ontario. Mr. Blaicklock has been a temperance worker since 1874. He has travelled in the United States and Canada, lecturing on several occasions, and by pen as well as by voice has done good service for temperance. Mr. Blaicklock has lectured in Victoria, New Zealand, and elsewhere, and his talents have been recognized there most suitably.

BEHRING SEA JINGOISM.

The Republican organ of this city taunts those who urge the adjustment of the Behring Sea controversy, with a base commercial spirit. It insinuates that their attitude is one of mere calculation between the money value of seals and the money cost of war. In fact, no such consideration is entertained. The objection to a course which threatens to involve us in war is that we should be in the wrong in any such war, because we are in the wrong in the controversy out of which the war would grow. There should be no confusion of mind in this matter. This administration has set up an utterly preposterous claim of right to close a sea whose mouth is a thousand miles wide and only one of whose shores is under our jurisdiction. That claim is made upon a fictitious pretence that the closure of the sea is necessary to prevent the extermination of the seals. It is really and manifestly made for the sake of the protection of a corporate monopoly. The seals could be better protected by international agreement as to closed seasons. Having made this claim, the administration is asserting by a threat of force and in ways directly provocative of trouble. Its course imperils the peace between this country and Great Britain upon an issue on our side of which cannot be maintained in the court of conscience. It is against this wrong-doing that patriotic men protest. They insist, not that it would not pay to go to war for the seals—though that would be a grotesquely absurd and criminal act—but that our attitude in the quarrel is wrong, and that it invites war where we have no just right of position, not the abandonment of any principle or any right. Their objection is to jingoism in the interest of a seal monopoly, not to the dignified assertion of national rights. Their complaint is that the peace of the country is needlessly and wickedly placed in peril. And that complaint is just.—New York World.

"WOLF" AND "EAGLE" FIGHT.

The true inwardness of the libel suits in London between Mr. Nicholas Flood Davis, M.P., the proprietor of the Leader, and Mr. C. J. Atkinson, the editor of the rival paper, the Journal, reveals a deplorable state of affairs. Mr. Atkinson, it appears, called Mr. Davis a bald-headed eagle, whereupon Mr. Davis called Mr. Atkinson a wolf. Mr. Davis in pleading his own case before the jury said, "This man, the plaintiff, complains that we call him a wolf. But we did not do that. But suppose we did? What is a bald-headed eagle? A bird of prey, which kills and sometimes stoops on carrion. What is a wolf? A beast of prey on four legs which sometimes eats carrion too. Should I not be justified in calling a man, who called me a bald-headed eagle, an elephant or a hippopotamus?" The jury's verdict of $200 damages in favor of Atkinson against Davis, and of $250 damages in favor of Davis against Atkinson, reveals a genuine Western humor.—Ottawa Journal.

THE SHAMROCKS WIN.

SEVEN GAMES TO ONE—THE OTTAWA MEN EASILY BEATEN.

Seven to one! Let the band play that heroic classic, "See the conquering hero come."

The Shamrocks have won a match! Let the town be freshly painted, the lugubrious "nought" in the schedule is changed to the cheerful "one."

Let every rag of bunting in the town be unfurled; Victory, so long deaf to effort and beseechment, has perched upon the green crest of the Shamrocks!

Pass the blushing news—the team that was thrashed by the Montreals has thrashed the team that thrashed the Montreals!

The uncertainty of lacrosse is at once the pungent spice and the perplexity of the national game. The bloodless excitement of baseball would kill lacrosse in a week. The element of doubt keeps feeling on the heels of the players, and this is the philosophy of the big "cats" that make the secretaries smile when the goals are reckoned up.

The result of the play on Saturday was a surprise—of those shocks that titillate and keep the common-place thrill out of doors. That was a crafty crowd that returned to the capital in the evening. It was at once and empty, for the Ottawa admirers, blindly ignoring the growing magnitude of the disaster, backed the team till the tragic moment of culminating catastrophe. Hopes were trampled in the dust. Kopecks were gone. Dark clouds of sorrow and of doom settled upon the devoted heads of the dispirited band from the classic capital of sawdust and boodie. Seven to one! And this was

THE TEAM THAT BEAT THE MONTREALERS.

The Shamrocks are so unused to victory that the size of it must have embarrassed them. In the seventh game there was some talk of putting off an Ottawa man for fooling. "No," said Mr. Stafford with an alacrity that was almost of magnanimity, considering that the match was won. "No; we don't want to beat eleven men; we want to beat twelve." The Shamrock admirers walked upon air. "What do you think of that?" "That's how we play lacrosse when we like." Aren't they dandies?

The Shamrocks were the match by prompt and intelligent combination, strategic concentration in vitally exigent moments, superior powers of catching, passing, throwing, covering, and above all, by the daring and persistence of a home whose skill and unity of purpose have not been met with in any field this season.

Slighter than their opponents, the Shamrocks made up for the inequality of weight by a speed and suppleness, and ready skill and daring that scorned risks, that demonstrated the deficiencies of the Ottawas in a glaringly conspicuous way.

The stimulus of a friendly crowd, the familiarity of grounds and home associations, the spur of first blood in the early games, provoked every man of the Shamrocks to best effort. The defence was level-headed, intelligent and solid; the field was nimble and brilliant; the home was elastic, but splendidly cohesive, and by its skill and burning eagerness, in happy adroitness, it won the match.

The Shamrocks play a winning game well. They went from success to success with easy confidence. An intelligent purpose ran through their play. To overwhelm their opponents by a succession of rapid scores; to buffet them by a team play which they could not resist; to thwart every movement by remorseless pursuit; to demoralize them by hitting the home upon their defence with such skill as to cut off each man in detail, and rush the ball through with dazzling rapidity—these were the tactics that were successfully employed.

In several of the games there was no play. The seventh was the best game of the match. After the fourth game interest grew sluggish. The Ottawas were not so much in the play. They knew they were beaten and they took to the rapidity of the scoring was dazzling but disappointing, and the only pretence of play which was sufficiently balanced to rekindle a flagging interest was in the seventh game, when the Ottawas put on a splendid spirit, and for the first time, combined with a skill and power which could have only been maintained throughout the match, must have vitally affected the result.

As a permanent feature of the game the Ottawas had no consolation. They had individual energy and brilliancy.

WHEN HOME WAS POOR, vacillating, and ragged. It got the ball but seldom, and then it could not use it with advantage. It had, however, the fortitude of despair. To the last it stuck to the game, and the reason on the defence. But its work had neither directness enough, nor skill, nor cohesiveness, and really fine energies were fruitlessly wasted. It could neither score with the ball nor keep it. When the rubber reached mid field the Shamrocks were then with superior speed and dash, and rushed the rubber to the home. Here it passed in and out amongst the defence; here the exciting struggle of the match was centred; here the Shamrock tactics were made manifest; here the visitors' defence were enticed out from goals, which, left momentarily unprotected, were captured in a succession which became at last monotonous.

THE OTTAWA DEFENCE had material enough, but it was never used to steady, combined purpose, and energies which could have had their legitimate reward round goals were unsuccessfully expended. The Ottawas were hardly ever able to insist upon being taken seriously. They got the ball, to be sure, now and then, they made brilliant individual runs, the home made shots for goal, but, having intended to make a dash of skill, or dash, or grace on the part of Crown or Blonnette, or Kent, the team never rose above the feeble compromise, and the Shamrocks were able to beat them too easily to be interesting. In fact, the Shamrocks played a uniformly

SWIFT, SKILLFUL AND NIMBLE GAME, with which the visitors were totally unable to cope. The medicine of defeat was bitter, but they took it with a good grace, and played to the end with cheerful submission.

The Shamrock defence acquitted itself admirably. Barry was its inspiration. He stood in goals as impenetrable as a piece of granite. His throws are of steel. He was prompt, and resolute. His body saved the game as often as his stick. Nevertheless, that old trick of his tauntingly showing the ball to his opponent is at once mean, vulgar and cowardly. No gentlemanly player would be so guilty of it. Barry is a light but agile and, though frequently overpowered, he played a spirited game. Duggan was in capital form and did the needful at the right moment. Dwyer played a well-powered and intelligent game. He made a fine defence field, and Moore at centre, rendered valuable and brilliant service. Of the home, McKenna was the leading spirit. He was probably the most intelligent player on the field. Tall and slight, elastic as an india-rubber, with a fine forward rush, and with equal grace, judgment and resolution. He inspired the tactics which crowned the team with victory. Baffled, he renewed the attack; pursued, he passed with admirable coolness. He scored by direct shots and equally well by indirect ones. McKenna was the prime favorite with the crowd. Neither his intelligence nor his courteous bearing towards his opponents detracted him for a moment. It is safe to say that to the masterly manner in which he led and animated the home was largely due the magnificent victory which crowned the play. Caffery played with extraordinary energy. Throughout the match he buoyed to score. He realized his desire. Rowan and McVey were valuable acquisitions to the home.

FOR THE VISITORS

Blonnette, Crown, Popham and Kent played a fitfully brilliant game. The balance of the team were conscientious but unimpressive. The first game lasted six minutes. The Ottawas made a capital showing in the first part of this game, compelling the Shamrocks to play defence, and encouraging their friends to hope for the best result. But the Shamrock defence made a terrific which watered the home, and sent the rubber to the other end. It did not always remain there, but after this the danger to the home team was never imminent. McKenna scored the first goal.

The second game lasted two minutes. The play had no character. The ball went to the Ottawa goal, and the Shamrock home, by a piece of rapid combination, baffled the defence, made an opening, and took the game, through the immediate agency of Caffery.

The third game lasted eight minutes, allowing for stops. The play was hard and fast. The Ottawas made spurts, but they could not use opportunities. The game was largely defence for the visitors, though bursts of speed, and individual exhibitions of skill were not lacking. Towards the close the Ottawas got the ball, and after a very pretty piece of play Crown managed to score.

The fourth game lasted three minutes. The Shamrocks made a capital showing, and a long, beautiful throw from centre field, and Caffery, speeding the rubber on its victorious course, put it through. The visitors' defence was sadly at fault. Not a man was in goal.

THE FIFTH GAME LASTED ONE MINUTE.

No play. Caffery scored, but McKenna, to make assurance doubly sure, put it through again. To this complete victory the visitors came at last!

Rowan scored the sixth game for the Shamrocks after four minutes' play. The one-sidedness of the whole business was now becoming wretchedly monotonous.

The seventh game lasted sixteen minutes. It was the best of the match. The grand stand now witnessed some lacrosse. Let credit be given where it is due. The Ottawas were now soundly beaten. Nothing that they could do could retrieve defeat. Yet in the first part of this game they grandly pulled themselves together, and distinctly outplayed their opponents. Even the Shamrock men could not without their aid of praise. The ball and the home kept the ball well within the area of the Shamrock defence. The latter was put to its best effort, and even then could do no more than stoutly defend their flag. What a pity it was that this play could not have been offered in the earlier game, which would thus have had the wanted rest of a championship match! The ball went east, and round the Ottawa goals the most exciting and skillful struggle of the match took place. The defence held out with admirable fortitude. The Shamrock home, repelled at one point, attacked another. The rubber never went back to centre field. The red and the green were indistinguishably mixed; the green passed and assaulted; the red crowded round goal and related with all their force; the crowd cheered and yelled. This was lacrosse. The end came all too soon. Caffery scored for the Shamrocks.

The eighth game was scored for the Shamrocks in half a minute by McKenna.

The teams were:—Shamrock—Barry, goal; Brophy, Duggan, Dwyer, Devine, Murray, Moore, Neville, McVey, Rowan, McKenna, Caffery.

Ottawa—McConchey, goal; Druhan, Popham, Clonidine, Desautels, Coulson, Blonnette, Dalglis, Young, Crown, Carson, Kent.

Captains, C. J. Maguire and J. C. Grant. Referee, W. Pollock (of Cornwall). Umpires, F. Nelson and F. Larmouth (of Montreal).

The Ottawas protested against Devine, on the ground of change of residence, and the Shamrocks retorted by protesting Crown on the ground that he had played with the Brooklyn Club. The Shamrock home, this was a sort of preliminary to the game, before the play commenced. It won't amount to anything.

CANADA'S STRONG BOX.

The new repository for Canada's spare cash, says the Ottawa Citizen, in the Eastern Departmental block, will, when finished, be the biggest safe in the whole Dominion. Its exact dimensions are: Length, 22 feet 6 in.; breadth, 17 feet 9 in.; height, 15 feet 3 in.—a pretty large chamber, truly. Eighty of a dozen metal steps on either side of the safe door lead to a wrought iron gallery which runs around three sides of the vault, about eight feet from the floor. Visions of the wealth this gloomy cavern is destined to hold, wild guesses at the mighty sums it could contain if stuffed full of gold, or even silver, and a hundred other fancies of the sort are conjured up as the appliances for protection are observed. Marvellous pieces of mechanism are the locks which secure these great masses of iron against eccentric hinges. When the doors are locked each is fastened with twenty-two bolts of steel an inch and three quarters in diameter. The combination and time-locks which work these bolts will be the last things put on before the safe is turned over in its completed state to the officials of the Finance Department. Briefly explained, a clock on the inside of the door at a certain set time pushes aside an iron block which otherwise prevents the bolts from sliding back. Then a person having the "combination" may open the safe; but only during the hour to which the clockwork is set can the ponderous outer door of the vault be opened. The safe is made of exactly one hundred and forty-two tons of steel and iron, without counting the weight of the 18,000 steel screws with which it is fastened. The walls are composed of seven layers of steel plate each half an inch thick, while the doors, of which there are two, an outer and inner, are each seven inches in thickness. The foundation upon which the safe rests is a solid mass of broken stone and cement, extending to a depth of twenty-five feet, where it is imbedded in the solid rock formation of the hill.

THE SS. "CANOPUS."

We have been requested to publish the following letter, which has already appeared in the Quebec Morning Chronicle:—
SIR,—Referring to the controversy that has engaged public attention here about the seaworthiness of the "Canopus," and the disparaging remarks which have been made about the surveyors, who have certified that my vessel was seaworthy, viz.: Messrs. Brunell, Samson, and Tweddell, I beg to say that from practical experience I can state that Lloyd's surveyors in England for iron ship's hulls are all experienced shipmasters and mechanical engineers, not shipwrights. Those in this community who are acquainted with the men that I employed, know full well that Messrs. Brunell, Samson and Tweddell are men whose character and ability require no recommendation from me.
If I may be allowed to make a remark with reference to Captain Haselton, who has been described by Mr. Simons in terms more forcible than polite, as "the big fat captain," I beg to say that he is a respectable and experienced shipmaster, as well as a registered British shipowner, who has been trading to this port and the port of Montreal for the past thirty years. He has also had large experience in iron shipbuilding, and has superintended the building of four iron steamers and one iron sailing ship from the keel up.
In my limited judgment I fail to see where better men could be had to act as surveyors than those above named.
I desire to add that Mr. Shaw, Port Warden of Montreal, when he recently, paid a visit to my ship at the time the repairs on the starboard side were in progress, and to myself and my surveyors, he said, referring to the repairs, "On these repairs I should not hesitate to grant a certificate for any cargo that the ship could take from Montreal."
Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the fair and impartial way in which you have treated my case, and that of my ship, I wish again to state that from my experience I am prepared to declare that there is not a ship that could float in the St. Lawrence that cannot in all safety be repaired, from the top of keel up, at Wolfe's Cove. I remain, sir, yours obediently,
WILLIAM EASTERBROOK, Master.
Quebec, 14th July, 1890.

FIRES AND ALARMS.

Messrs. J. and G. Glover, 7 and 9 St. Peter street, had their premises slightly damaged by fire on Saturday evening. During the night the brigade were called out by two false alarms.

A VERY LIGHT SENTENCE FOR A DASTARDLY CRIME.

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., July 19.—Thomas Byron and Francis John O'Donnell were found guilty at the assizes to day of causing the death of Wm. O'Donnell by drowning and were sentenced to three months' imprisonment. The deceased could not swim, but, supported by a plank, ventured into deep water with the prisoners, who withdrew his support from him so often that he became exhausted and sank.

CRIMES AND ACCIDENTS.

A FRAUDULENT CONSUL.
VIENNA, July 20.—Alfred Von Kendler, a banker, formerly Swedish consul in this city, has been convicted here of fraud and embezzlement and sentenced to four years' penal servitude and the loss of all his titles.

A SCULLER DROWNED.
St. JOHN, N.B., July 20.—Peter Day, a well known local sculler, was drowned in Bedford basin last night. He was in a boat with two others fishing, when one of them stood on the gunwale and upset the craft, and Day, who was unable to swim, caught hold of the whiskers of one of his companions, who had to push him away. The other two reached the shore, only a short distance away, but Day was drowned.

$4,000 MISSING.
HALIFAX, N. S., July 20.—A telegram to Mr. Fyche, cashier of the Bank of Nova Scotia, from the agent at Woodstock, N. B., states that a parcel of $1,000 was missed yesterday from the funds. The money had evidently just been abstracted and suspicion pointed to Robert G. Saunders, the teller. Mr. Fyche has telegraphed ordering his arrest. Detective Power has left to ferret out the money, if possible. It is thought that there was more than one engaged in the steal. Saunders is 21 years of age, has been four years in the bank and is a native of Yarmouth. He has been committed to goal for examination.

A TEXAS STORY.
COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., July 20.—Three weeks ago B. P. Spinnay, a business man of this place and a ranch owner in South Park, was kidnapped and taken into the mountains by a Texan named Harris, who claimed Spinnay owed him $2,000 for cattle he had purchased of him. Since that time nothing has been heard of Spinnay. Mr. Harrington, a brother-in-law of Spinnay, raised the requisite sum recently and went into the mountains to pay the ransom, but he, too, had disappeared. The Texan said he would hold Spinnay ten days, and if the money was not forthcoming in that time he would kill him. It is feared he has carried out his threat.

TALK ABOUT TALK.

WHAT CAN IT DO?

Shylock made a point when he told the other fellow that he could not "rail the seal from off his bond." You can't talk quality out of an article, and you can't talk quality into it. The value of what is said about a person or thing is usually dependent on

WHO SAID IT.

If the person is known to be reputable and reliable, what he says is listened to with belief. We concede that any mushroom merchant may out-talk us, as far as words go, but we count on our reputation as tried men of business to give value to our word when we say

WE HAVE THE LARGEST STOCK

—OF—

CLOTHING FOR MEN AND BOYS.

We want it understood that one glance through our warehouse will prove our assertions to be correct. There's no string to our statements. We claim the best as well as the largest stock in the city, and know that we pay prices that buy quality. All this is talk, too, but lack of it we stand with the proof in

The patents for Germany, England, Austria-Hungary, and United States of America on a mechanism to the mounting of case as well start-learned by safety machines with mechanism to close the stopper (put on the brake) are to sell under a moderate price resp. to forgive license for their execution, because the inventors themselves cannot sufficiently make use of the same. A very great profit of this fabrication is certainly expected. Kindly Offers sub. S. D. to the expectation of our gazette are requested.—The patents for Germany, Austria-Hungary, and England for a fire-escape which is marked out by a very simple management, a displacing fastening according to the walling, as by other constructions and therefore can be recommended to every fire brigade for higher stories, to families, masons, carpenters, etc., are to sell under a very cheap price. The patents for Austria-Hungary, Great Britain and the United States of America for a beer-cooler, which because of his excellent qualities and thereby of a proportionately cheap furnishing place has easily been introduced in Germany and already found there a great market, are to sell under a moderate price.—Advertisements in the Deutscher Patent Anzeiger Dresden.

THE MARRIAGE OF A SMALL TOWN on the frontier of France was very polite, particularly toward what is called the gentler sex. One day a lady with whom he was well acquainted called on him, officially, to write out her passport. Although she abounded in physical discrepancies she was vain to excess. Our Maire wrote out the requisite description of her personal appearance, and when it came to describing her eyes he wrote—"Eyes, dark, beautiful and full of expression—only one of them missing."—Texas Siftings.

THE CONGREGATIONAL UNION.

MEETING AT ST. JOHN, N.B.—CHERRING REPORTS OF THE YEAR'S PROGRESS—RESOLUTIONS ON THE DRINK TRAFFIC AND PRECEDENCE.

(Correspondence of the Witness.)

A grand rally of the Congregational forces at St. John on the morning of Saturday, the 5th inst., took the steamer up the river St. John, for Sheffield. A union meeting might have been held on the steamer, but the delegates were busy enjoying the scenery and renewing the friendships of former unions. On arrival at Sheffield, the Union assembled in the old historic church whose history and picture appeared in the Witness some time ago. The election of committees then commenced and letters from the Congregational Union of Wales were read, thanking this Union for its resolutions of sympathy on the title question. The delegates were then heartily welcomed by the people, and no man can express the kindness and good-will shown by all. The evening before a very enjoyable cantata, "The Pilgrims of Plymouth and Sheffield," written by the Rev. F. Flannih, had been given to a full house. On meeting again in the evening, the Rev. W. H. Watson, the retiring chairman, gave an admirable address, encouraging and helpful, showing in spite of the continual supply of members to the churches in the United States that prospects at home were very bright, dwelling also on the value of family worship and a consecrated church membership.

THE ANNUAL SERMON WAS GIVEN on Sunday morning, by the Rev. R. B. Mills, who spoke powerfully from the 16th verse of the first chapter of Romans. In the afternoon a communion service was held, and in the evening evangelistic services. At the morning session the Monday delegates were made to feel the marked growth since that time. Delegates from the various churches then gave their reports, showing a steady holding firm, in spite of discouragements, in some and a great work in others. All along the line the spiritual condition of the churches was good, the work among the young people advancing rapidly and many spoke strongly of the value and usefulness of the Christian Endeavor Society. Sunday-schools were reported to be doing well and the general tone of the reports was bright, all looking forward with much hopefulness to the next year's work. Arrangements were made to supply the church in Truro until the arrival of a settled pastor. The Rev. B. McGraw, formerly of the Reformed Episcopal Church, was received as an honorary member of the Union.

CHERRING REPORTS.

At the afternoon session the report of the first union of these provinces was read, giving delegates an opportunity to see the marked growth since that time. Delegates from the various churches then gave their reports, showing a steady holding firm, in spite of discouragements, in some and a great work in others. All along the line the spiritual condition of the churches was good, the work among the young people advancing rapidly and many spoke strongly of the value and usefulness of the Christian Endeavor Society. Sunday-schools were reported to be doing well and the general tone of the reports was bright, all looking forward with much hopefulness to the next year's work. Arrangements were made to supply the church in Truro until the arrival of a settled pastor. The Rev. B. McGraw, formerly of the Reformed Episcopal Church, was received as an honorary member of the Union.

THE MISSIONARY MEETING OF THE UNION took place on Monday evening, and the church was crowded. Mr. W. T. Gunn spoke on behalf of the Canada Congregational Missionary Society, telling of work done by it and the need of thoroughly consecrated men, women and money. Mrs. Jenkins, of Chebogue, told of the work done by the Ladies' Home Missionary Society, of their desire to aid the weaker churches, to interest the ladies in active work, in giving and in personal visitation. Miss Dunlop, of Liverpool, N.S., read the Treasurer's report, showing six hundred and seventy-five dollars collected during last year. The Rev. W. McIntosh spoke for home missions, giving details of the home mission work and of the crying needs of some of the missions. He spoke of the Foreign and Home Mission work being done, the only question being how to accomplish more. Referring to the hardships and discouragements of the work at home in small settlements, he said that home missionaries deserved and should receive as much honor and encouragement as those who went to foreign fields.

Wednesday forenoon was taken up with routine work, but the following stirring resolutions were carried unanimously:

THIS DRINK CURSE.

Resolved:—"That in view of the great evils resulting from the widespread use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, the members and delegates of this Union earnestly recommend the principle of total abstinence to the members and adherents of our churches, and will approve of such well considered legislation as will tend toward the extermination of the liquor traffic or the curtailment thereof;" and further resolved, "That each minister be requested to preach one or more sermons in each year in approval of the principles of total abstinence."

THE QUESTION OF PRECEDENCE.

Also on the question of precedence, the following:

"In regard to the question of precedence on state occasions which is before the people of this Dominion, this Union considers it a matter of small importance to the ministers of this branch of the church of Christ, as they, with other ministers of the Gospel, are ambassadors of him who said that his kingdom is not of this world. Nevertheless as Congregationalists have ever stood in the forefront in the advocacy of equal rights for all, he is Resolved, That we, the members of this Union, protest against that portion of the order of precedence which gives pre-eminence to those who are the adherents of one system of church government; and our protest is not made on the ground of church returns, but on the principle that the people of this Dominion, irrespective of ecclesiastical preference, should be equal before the law, and in the repudiation of the pernicious principle of church and state connection, or even the semblance of it in this country."

STATISTICS.

In the afternoon the Rev. J. Shipperley read the statistical report, and after a discussion as to what constituted membership it was decided to have a column for absentees to cover those away on visits or voyages.

ORDINATION.

At the evening session the Rev. R. B. Mills, of Mayall, N.S., was ordained and the Rev. E. K. Black spoke on behalf of the Canada Congregational College, telling of its origin as the first theological college in Canada and its subsequent growth, and appealing for support in order to strengthen it still more.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following are the officers and committees for the ensuing year: Rev. S. Sykes, chairman; Rev. Dr. Watson, secretary; Rev. J. Shipperley, statistical secretary; Mr. James Woodrow, treasurer. These officers, with the following, will form the union committee: Rev. Messrs. W. McIntosh, W. Peacock, F. Flannih, and Messrs. E. Scott, Isaac N. Cox, A. K. Moore, A. Jenkins, Archibald Barker, J. W. Jewett, R. L. Phillips, W. E. Perry, C. H. Whitman, F. Fisher, J. M. O'Brien, Colin McLeod and Messrs. Burpee. The officers with the Rev. W. McIntosh to be the sub-committee for interim business.

A vote of thanks to the people of Sheffield for their kindness and to the officers of the Union were then passed and the Union closed, most of the members and delegates leaving by the boat for St. John, a few remaining for the evangelistic services on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

SEVERAL ACCIDENTS.

SOME FATAL, SOME REVERE, AND ONE VERY EXTRAORDINARY ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

A very sad fatality occurred yesterday morning to Mrs. Stephen Johnson, of 127 St. George Street. At about two o'clock Mrs. Johnson left her room to get a drink of water, and on her way back to her room she mistook, in the darkness, the door leading to the stairway for that of her room, with the result that she fell to the bottom of the stairs and received a terrible gash in the head. Her daughter rushed to her assistance and medical aid was at once summoned, but death was instantaneous. The body will be taken to St. Henri by train at 2:30 to-day for interment.

A six-year-old boy named Page, residing on Bleury Street, broke his ankle on Saturday while attempting to climb a fence. He was taken to his home where a doctor set the bone.

Gilbert Descares, the carpenter who fell off a C.P.R. freight car whilst repairing it, on Thursday last, and had his back severely injured, died at the Notre Dame Hospital early on Saturday morning. An inquest was held on Saturday afternoon, and a verdict of "accidental death" was returned.

Robert Kane, a sailor on the S.S. "Ashburn," was drowned early yesterday morning. He was boarding his ship and is supposed to have missed his footing and fallen into the river. The body has not yet been recovered.

Jas. Elliott, 35 years of age, boarding at 547 LaSalle Street, had a narrow escape from a violent death on Saturday afternoon. He was sitting in the bath-room window of his boarding-house, which is three stories high, when he lost his balance and fell backwards. When picked up in the yard beneath his nose was badly broken, and he was severely shaken up. Otherwise he sustained no serious injuries. He was taken to the General Hospital, where he was said this morning to be improving.

The Notre Dame ambulance was called out at noon to-day to the corner of Hibernian road and Charon Street for a carter named Wm. Strickland, of 51 Brock Street, who had his side badly injured by a box he was placing upon his cart falling on his side.
