

SIoux OF THE WARPATH.

A Party of Crow Indians Killed—Two Killed and Three Wounded. Custer, M. T., October 25.—An army officer, just arrived from Fort Custer, states that at three P. M. on Saturday night, Crow Indians rode hurriedly into the post and reported that they had been attacked by a war party of Sioux near the mouth of the Little Horn River, and in the morning followed two of their number to the scene of the attack. A Crow for commander, immediately ordered the garrison under arms, and in a short time two Crow Indians dead and three more wounded, while the Sioux had two of their warriors dead on the field, evidently owing to the rapid advance of the garrison.

HELIOGRAPH OF A LOST TRIBE.

Opening the Graves of Red Men Whom the Whites Exterminated. St. John's, N. F., October 25.—Relics of the extinct race of Indians who were the aboriginal inhabitants of Newfoundland were recently discovered on the island of Notre Dame Bay. The relics are very interesting. Very few remains of the vanished race have been preserved. There are a few in private hands, and the Newfoundland Museum contains a small collection of arrow heads, axes, gouges, and other stone implements. In the recent excavation one of the graves was found to contain the skull of an adult in an excellent state of preservation. The skull was found to be that of a man, and it is well shaped and pretty well developed in the intellectual part. The bones were by no means of a low type. Only three bones of the skeleton were found along with the skull. The skull was probably carried off by the whites. The greatest curiosity, however, is the other skeleton, which, with the exception of the jawbone, is perfect. Apparently, it is the skeleton of a young Indian 9 or 10 years of age. The skull is well shaped, and the jawbone is perfect. The bones are well preserved, and it has somewhat the appearance of a mummy. The skull is detached from the body, and the jawbone is removed, and it has somewhat the appearance of a mummy. A DUBLIN CLERICAL SCANDAL.

Career of an Importer Who has Shocked Clerical and Laymen in the United Kingdom. New York, October 25.—A special from London says that religious society is terribly shocked at a scandal which is ringing with the details of the London clerical case. Rev. Dr. Whateley, who is reported to be about 60, of slight build, and middle height, sailor complexion, with a high forehead, and a receding hair, and a decidedly Jewish cast, arrived in Dublin early last summer and immediately assumed the duties of a curate of one of the leading churches of the city. He is a native of London, and speaks four modern languages fluently and rapidly acquired. The Springfield Republican is paying considerable attention to Canadian affairs.

It takes, perhaps, a more gloomy view than is warranted of Sir John's chances in the approaching general election.

and says that there are certainly strong indications that Canada's great politician is not a statesman as well.

The Repeal cry and the Riel agitation are, however, in our contemporary's opinion, strong points in his favor, and he may still expect to make a strong fight upon the platform of a national government and industrial development of the Dominion.

The citizens of Montreal are not by any means alone in their payment of high prices for gas.

Other large cities are having the same troubles and the latest instance is the city of Philadelphia where a syndicate of capitalists offers to pay $1,250,000 a year for a twenty-five years lease of the city's gas works and to spend $300,000 in improving the plant.

In other words the syndicate will pay the sum mentioned for the privilege of monopolizing the supply and exacting $1.50 per thousand cubic feet for gas.

The experience of all cities has shown that speculators make handsomely out of such an arrangement and that it would be a much lighter tax on the pockets of the people if the city itself undertook the supply and saved the profits.

THE MEANING OF A LIBERAL VICTORY.

The Ottawa Free Press compares the position of the Ross Government in Quebec with that of the Gladstone Government in Britain after the success of the Unionist combination of Conservatives and Liberals.

Mr. Gladstone resigned. Therefore, it says, Mr. Ross should resign. "Mr. Gladstone," it says, "did not say as the Tory papers urge Mr. Ross to say: 'I will withdraw from Parliament and meet and see if these Liberal Unionists will vote against me,' but like an honorable statesman he admitted his defeat and quietly transferred the seals of office to the leaders of a minority party."

There is a very important difference between the position of the Ross Government and that of the Gladstone Government after the victory. The split in the Liberal party of Great Britain was caused by a difference of opinion regarding future policy while the cause of the split in the Quebec Conservative ranks was a difference of opinion regarding an action of the past that cannot be undone and has no place in the future.

Mr. Gladstone had a scheme of Irish Home Rule to present to the House when it met. The Unionist Liberals were opposed to that scheme and Mr. Gladstone refused to abandon it. It was determined to make the accomplishment of Home Rule the chief aim of the remainder of his political career.

Here was a radical difference of opinion regarding future policy. But the so-called Conservative "Nationalists" only left their party because the Government refused to vote condemnation of Riel's execution.

The half-breeds have been granted the exclusive privileges they asked for and there are now no complaints of grievances. Every body in the North-West seems to be contented and happy.

The Government has power to take action in regard to half-breeds' past complaints, which they have not, there would remain nothing for them to do, so that there can be no possibility of continued disagreement between the two branches of the Conservative party.

But perhaps the Free Press is mistaken that the question presented to the electors of Quebec by these "Nationalists" meant more than condemnation of the execution of Riel and the Dominion Government's treatment of the half-breeds of the North-West.

Perhaps it is the real issue which will be raised by the Free Press is whether the French Canadian will stand and act as a unit against the English speaking people of all races and creeds?"

If the "Nationalist" movement is to be a permanent factor in politics, that is what it means. If it does not mean that, there can be no lasting difference between the Rielite Conservatives and the orthodox Conservatives. Such a programme is the only basis upon which there can be a permanent alliance between the Liberals and the Conservative "Nationalists" of this province.

If that is not the programme, the Liberals have not won a victory in this province. The Ottawa Free Press has admitted its columns give room to a French Canadian who over the great Liberal victory in Quebec.

Now let it tell its readers that if it is a Liberal victory it means that the French Canadians are to be united against all other Canadians whether of English, Scotch, Irish or German origin.

It means that they are to resist all the inroads of Canadianism by uniting in assisting to build up a great Canadian nation in which citizens of all origins and all religions may take equal pride and have equal rights they are to oppose the efforts of patriotic men in this direction.

Let the Ottawa Free Press tell its readers that and let it explain to them how the French Canadian people are to be benefited by pitting themselves against Canadians in general.

The Free Press is one of those Liberal papers which before the execution of Riel declared that he well deserved death as a rebel, a murderer, an inciter of Indian masses and afterward condemned the Government for allowing the law to take its course.

It dared to be inconsistent on that, but it will not dare to tell its readers what a "Liberal victory" means.

FRENCH PRESS.

Is it the system of Confederation which is bad in itself? We would not go so far as that, but we believe we state a fact which is not to be denied.

It is the fact that in those who have had the direction of Confederation since its foundation, in Sir John, the bad element of the system, the school of demoralization and political demagoguery.

"The people have today to choose between the system of the federal system as known and practised by Sir John or the system of the Hon. Edward Blake, and the equality of races and credits before the Crown, and economy in the administration of the provinces within their own spheres.

Dr. Ross declared at Champlain that if his candidate in the county was beaten he would be incontestable as a candidate. Dr. Ross' candidate was defeated. Are three precedents which justify a first Minister who would not resign?

La Journal de Quebec assures us that the Ross Government would be ready to-day to give all the necessary powers to a Minister not intervene to aid the Federal Ministers in their strictness.

This article, evidently intended to mark the event, it is cowardly, hypocritical and insincere.

It is a promise to make promises which you will not keep and to offer illusory guarantees. You wished to wipe out the name of the Unionist party, and you wish to suffer the consequences. It is to be a struggle and a struggle, we wish no more of it.

(Le Courrier de Canada.)

L'Electeur announces with emphasis that the Government will publish this rare paper in several days. We would like to see it. But we can affirm from this time on that it is absolutely impossible that thirty-five deputies are engaged by writing to the Government.

The majority of the House is undoubtedly Conservative. At present we would say this to the benefit of the Government, but we would say to the benefit of the Government, but we would say to the benefit of the Government.
