AGED WOMEN AND CHILD ARE ASPHYXIATED HERE

World News In Brief

Ottawa, March 15.—(P)—Indicating a possible break in the automobile market, the sale of new cars in Canada in January was at the lowest monthly figure since August, 1946, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

Passenger cars sold during the month numbered 6,216 compared with 9,324 a year earlier and with 18,840 in December of 1948. There was sizable reduction in all provinces except Ontario where the number fell only seven per cent.

London, March 15.—(P)—Elizabeth's baby may be Prince Charles to the rest of the world, but to his father he is just "plum pudding." This is the pet name the Duke gaily uses when discussing Charles with his friends. It is a tribute to the way the baby thrives on powdered milk — the diet he received when Princess Elizabeth was separated from him for two weeks with an attack of measles.

Los Angeles, March 15.—(P)—The government yesterday sued film actress Bette Davis for $80,820.59 in additional taxes for 1942 and 1943. Government officials said the suit was based on relinquishment of her former husband, the late Arthur A. Farnsworth, of all his community rights to any of her earnings during the two years.

London, March 15.—(Reuters)—A bulletin signed by six doctors issued from Buckingham Palace today said the King "continues to make satisfactory progress after his operation." The King had an operation of lumbar sympathectomy Saturday to improve the blood circulation in his leg.

Joe LaFlamme's Muskeg Is Dead

Montreal, March 15.—(P)—Muskeg the moose is dead and old Joe LaFlamme, bearded man of the outdoors who has started crowds in downtown Toronto, New York and other cities when he and Muskeg roamed the streets together, is inconsolable.

Joe had Muskeg in Montreal for the last several days, along with some other animals, getting ready for an appearance at the Montreal Sportsman's exhibition which opens Thursday.

Last Saturday Muskeg took sick. Late Sunday night Muskeg breathed his last.

Muskeg paid his first visit to Sherbrooke last summer and was one of the greatest attractions at the Sherbrooke Fair.

Mrs. Joseph Gaulin And Carmen Pelletier Found Dead In West Ward Home

Autopsy Will Be Performed This Afternoon—Mrs. Gaulin Was Grandmother of Child Victim.

Lying side by side, a 73-year-old woman and her infant granddaughter died of asphyxiation yesterday afternoon in the small apartment of the child's parents at 302-B McManamy street.

Mrs. Joseph Gaulin, 73, and her granddaughter, Carmen Pelletier, 3, were pronounced dead by Dr. Leo Blais after continuous efforts of the Sherbrooke Fire Department's Salvage squad failed to revive them. The aged woman was found lying on the floor alongside the tiny crib where the child had died fully clothed.

Although no foul play is in evidence, the cause of death still remains officially unknown. Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico-legal expert of the Provincial Police, has been summoned from Montreal to perform an autopsy this afternoon. It is expected that the findings will be released tomorrow.

First suspicions of irregularities in the Pelletier household were aroused in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvia Boucher, next door neighbors. Both families lived in the upper storey of the building. The parents of little Carmen, Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Pelletier, both employed at the Dominion Textile Company, leave for work every morning at 7 o'clock and do not return until 5:30 in the afternoon. It was the grandmother's usual practice to allow Carmen to play during the day with the Boucher's youngest, Andre.

Yesterday morning, however, the Bouchers did not hear the usual noises the child made when she awoke. The other apartment was completely silent and the little girl did not come over to call for Andre.

Shortly after 1:30, Mrs. Boucher was prompted to investigate the odd conditions. She entered through the rear door, connected to her home by a small balcony, and found the bodies of the old lady and the child.

Mr. Boucher immediately summoned the police and a doctor. The police radio squad on arrival called for the Fire Department salvage squad. The latter arrived at 1:50. Under the direction of Lt. Leopold Lessard, the salvage squad applied life-giving oxygen and various other artificial respiration measures to the couple. The men worked over the victims for almost three quarters of an hour until Dr.

Asbestos-Danville Railway Line Dynamited Last Night

Asbestos, March 15.—The Canadian John-Manville Company's railway line between Asbestos and Danville was dynamited at about 11 p.m. last night, a company spokesman said today.

The dynamiting was discovered this morning when a locomotive and plow went over the 3 1/2-mile line, which carries company freight to the main C.N.R. line at Danville, to clear the snow. "Pieces of rail two and three feet long had been taken out on either side of the track," the spokesman said. "Had the locomotive and plow been travelling at normal speed the results might have been serious."

Royal Canadian Mounted Police are investigating the dynamiting which is a Federal offence. Repairs will be made when the investigation has been completed. The dynamiting was just outside Danville. The Canadian John-Manville mine has been strike-bound since February 13 when its 2,200 employees left their jobs with other district asbestos workers. Although some 5,000 miners are idle in the Townships, here and in the Theford Mines area.

Major wage demand of the strikers is a 15 cents an hour increase to $1.00 an hour. The strike has been declared illegal by the Provincial Labor Department and Labor Minister Barrette has offered his services as mediator on condition the strikers return to their jobs.

Some men have gone back at the John-Manville mine but the number is negligible and the strike, affecting close to 85 per cent of the world's asbestos production, is still deadlocked. The asbestos workers' syndicate, the Canadian and Labor-Union Confederation of Labor, which represents the workers has had its certification cancelled as a result of the strike.

Russia Makes West Europe More Changes In Leaders

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, March 15.—(P)—New ramifications in the shake-up of Soviet Russia's high command were revealed and approved at a closing session last night of the supreme Soviet, national parliamentary body.

The new shifts extended into the presidium of the supreme Soviet, which serves as the interim national executive body when the supreme Soviet is not in session. Nikifor Natalievich and Georgi Sturua were relieved as vice-presidents of the presidium, and replaced by Vasily Kozlov and Vasily Gogla.

Kozlov was promoted from chairman of the presidium of the supreme Soviet of the White Russian republic, and Gogla from chairman of the presidium of the Georgian republic. The 1949 budget, calling for military expenditures of 79,000,000,000 rubles ($15,000,000,000) was also approved by the supreme Soviet. The figure is nearly 20 per cent higher than for 1948.

The budget provides for expenditures of 415,355,000,000 rubles for all purposes, compared with revenues of 455,208,000,000 rubles. The 1948 all-purpose expenditure figure was 368,800,000,000 rubles with revenues announced at 408,400,000,000 rubles. Reasons behind the series of top-level shifts remained the government's own secret. The supreme Soviet confirmed the changes, but adjourned without a public explanation of their significance.

In addition to the presidium changes, the appointment of new chairman of the important state planning commission and a new president of the supreme court of the U.S.S.R. were announced and confirmed. Nikolai A. Voznesensky was relieved of duties as planning commission chairman and also as a deputy prime minister. No mention was made of any change in his status as a member of the all-powerful politburo, the Communist party executive. Maxim Z. Saburov, vice-chairman of the planning commission and one of a dozen deputy prime ministers in the government, succeeds Voznesensky in the chairmanship. The other change relieved Ivan T. Golyakov as president of the supreme court, naming A. A. Volin to succeed him. In another action, the supreme Soviet approved the appointment

Bradley And Fiset Get Acclamations

Two retiring members of the Sherbrooke City Council were returned to office for another three-year term by acclamation this morning but two of their confreres are facing opposition in their bid for re-election. When the nominations closed officially at eleven o'clock today, Ald. Armand Fiset, dean of the Council and representative for Seat No. 2 of the West Ward, and Ald. Wesley H. Bradley, holder of Seat No. 2 of the North Ward, had been accorded acclamations.

In the second seats of the East and South Wards, contests were provided. Across the river, the fight will be between retiring Alderman Ovide Deziel and Felix Thibault, a garage owner, while in the South Ward Carl Camirand has entered the race against Ald. Norbert Bergeron.

For Ald. Fiset, today's acclamation means the start of his fourth term as a member of the Sherbrooke City Council. He was first elected for the West Ward seat in 1949 and was returned in 1953 and 1946. During his term of office, he has occupied the presidency of every committee, serving for the past two years as chairman of the General Administration Committee, a post which actually gives him the Council leadership, as most important projects must arise in this body.

Ald. Bradley has completed one full term on the Council, being named first in 1946 when he succeeded J. G. D. Bryant who had been elected to the majority. In recent months he has been serving as chairman of the Town Planning, Transport and Industrial Relations Committee.

The first appearance of Ald. Deziel in the Council Chambers came in 1942, when he was returned in a by-election. During his occupancy of the East Ward seat, he has held various chairmanships, including waterworks and electricity and presently he is charged with the administration of the Public Works department.

Today Ald. Bergeron is seeking his first full term, being a member of the Council for only one year. He was elected for the Centre Ward seat in March, 1948, to complete the term of Alphonse Trudeau who was elected mayor.

Both Felix Thibault and Carl Camirand are newcomers to active municipal political circles although both have been prominent in various fields of political activity.

Quebec Coliseum Razed In $1,000,000 Fire; Hockey Playoffs Start Thursday

Quebec, March 15.—(P)—Quebec's Coliseum, large city recreation centre and home of local Junior and Senior Hockey League teams, was a smoking ruin today after a spectacular three-alarm blaze that drew the full fire-fighting force of the city. Loss is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

In another morning two-alarm blaze in a downtown shoe store, estimate of losses was not immediately available. The huge brick Coliseum, located in the northwest district of St. Francois D'Assise, was burning fiercely when firemen were called by a phone call at 2:30 a.m.

No one was reported injured in the two fires. The loss of the Coliseum was regarded as serious in Quebec sports circles. Losses in business alone will run into the hundreds of thousands.

Immediate effect of the loss was a change in playoff arrangements for games between Quebec Aces and Sherbrooke Saints of the Quebec Senior Hockey League. It was announced late this morning that all games of the series will be played in Sherbrooke and that the first game will take place on Thursday instead of tonight as originally scheduled.

The Quebec team lost all its equipment. There is no structure left in Quebec where an artificial ice rink can be installed.

Three alarms, sounded at Quebec, brought out enough men to surround the rectangular three-storey structure and prevent the fire from spreading to adjoining Exposition Ground buildings.

Origin of the fire was not known but it appeared to have started in the roof of the building. Only half an hour after firemen arrived the upper structure of the building, and the roof, crashed inside the building.

The Coliseum was built in 1931 for the first provincial exhibition. It became a winter sports centre after the old Quebec arena burned down in 1942.

It was generally known that plans to enlarge the Coliseum had been made by the city because its seating capacity was too restricted. Its capacity was 5,162 seats, and about 3,900 standees.

Oakland, Calif., March 15.—(P)—A raging waterfront fire today destroyed one of the United States' largest west-coast docks and warehouses. Flames shot 700 feet into the air.

Britain Still Faces The Bogy Of Dollar Deficits

London, March 15.—(Reuters)—Britain, in her battle for recovery, has balanced her trade account with the rest of the world as a whole—but still faces a vast dollar deficit.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said in an economic survey released today that Britain has surprised even her own economists by balancing her world account.

But within this over-all squaring lies the bogy of the dollar deficit. The squaring is the result of non-dollar trading.

Sir Stafford described the dollar problem as "the worst danger spot in the economy."

His 63-page survey reveals that Britain is expected to have a surplus of $15,000,000 ($60,000,000) in her balance of external payments for the 12 months ending next June.

Britain expects to retain a balance with the world, the survey says. "The outstanding fact is that despite the assumption of a considerable increase in imports our payments are expected to remain approximately in balance," it adds. But it sounds this sobering note on general prospects: "It is impossible to expect that 1949 will improve on 1948 as markedly as did 1948 on 1947."

It describes Britain's feat in balancing her world account as a "noteworthy achievement," comparing it with the huge deficit of

Canada's 1949-50 Defence Bill Will Establish Record

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, March 15.—(P)—Canada's defence bill is going to zoom to at least a record $421,000,000 in the 1949-50 fiscal year starting April 1, it was apparent today.

A few days before the terms—but not the tangible obligations—of the Atlantic pact are placed before Parliament, Finance Minister Abbott yesterday tabled in the Commons the traditional blue book with its main estimates for 1949-50. They figured the country will spend at least $2,217,678,183 through its Federal treasury, or $27,114,700 more than in this waning fiscal year.

The total is something like $500,000,000 less than probable Federal revenues for 1948-49, and therefore, quite in keeping with the cabinet hints of early 1949. But at best it is only a tentative estimate even though it does represent the great bulk of what it will cost the country for her multitude of national functions.

The dominant feature of the blue book is defence. Actual Defence Department estimates run to $373,000,000 compared to $251,000,000 this year. But there is at least $46,000,000 in items tucked neatly away in other departments, including $40,000,000 for married quarters under the Reconstruction Department, $1,500,000 for jet engine development,

"Bureaucratic" Leadership Is Assailed By P.C. Leader

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, March 15.—(P)—A bitter denunciation of Prime Minister St. Laurent as Canada's "No. 1 bureaucrat," a one-time servant of the "big interests" and a wielder of the "tools of the Communists" was inscribed on the Parliamentary record yesterday.

It was placed there by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, when he opened a hammer-and-tongs attack on the Prime Minister in a Commons control debate and charged that he had used his personal power for "political purposes."

The opposition leader swung back to the Hong Kong controversy, which started seven years ago, and repeated his statement that Mr. St. Laurent, as Justice Minister, had used his "power of censorship" to screen Mr. Drew's criticism of the government for sending an ill-equipped detachment to Hong Kong.

He said Mr. St. Laurent had been guilty of Communist tactics when he told a meeting in Montreal recently that the Progressive Conservative party was under the control of "financial interests."

The Prime Minister himself, Mr. Drew told the Chamber, had been a "great corporation lawyer" who had "served the big interests" before he entered the House in 1941 as well as being a director of a bank, a trust company and a bank firm.

WASHING HANDS OF PALMISTRY, VARGA TAKES UP LEG-READING

Hollywood.—Wait a minute, lady! Your husband isn't leering at that blonde's legs. He's just giving her a character analysis.

Not palmistry, but leg-istry—leg reading.

"Really, a girl's legs are the truest key to character and for revealing the traits which shape your destiny. They have the lines of the hand beat all hollow."

Well, anyway, that's what the man said. Fellow by the name of Alberto Varga, the artist glorifier of feminine pulchritude and creator of the famed "Varga Girl."

Varga has been looking at legs with a professional eye for years. He has a theory that the secret of a girl's character and personality lies in the contour of her limbs.

Recent Reading
I asked him if he'd read any good legs lately.

"Quite a few," he said.

Rita Hayworth's, for example. Very nice reading. "Rita's legs," said Varga, "have a high, sweeping instep indicating a love of travel and excitement. The curve of her arch shows an impulsive nature ruled by her heart."

Mmmmm.

"Betty Grable has a less passionate instep, a gradually sloping line that reveals a love of home life, family and security."

Maybe you haven't noticed them either, but Jane Russell's legs are among the finest in Hollywood from Varga's leg-istry point of view. (What a view!) "Jane," he said, "has the long, efficient foreleg which shows a love of outdoors, physical activity and nature. Her slim ankles show a deep appreciation of music."

In case you'd like to read some legs, men, Varga generalizes: Knock knees are an indication of a basically selfish nature, thriftiness bordering on frugality, and a preoccupation with the tiny things of life. But a girl with knock knees makes a good housekeeper.

How legs indicate a high-strung temperament. "Girls with bow legs," said Varga, "laugh a lot, lean to lighter music, dancing and outdoor sports and have a terrible time saving money."

What about men's legs? I asked him. How does the science of leg-istry apply to them?

Varga sniffed. "Men's legs? Who ever looks at men's legs?"

Chester Morris is deserting Hollywood for New York as soon as he sells his Beverly Hills home. His family will accompany him. Prediction: "Champion" will put Kirk Douglas in the top star bracket. What a picture! It's what "Body and Soul" should have been.

Optimist Club Will Hold Raffle To Raise Funds For Operations Of Club

Preparations for the city-wide fund-raising raffle, that is to be drawn in the early part of June, highlighted the weekly meeting of the Sherbrooke Optimist Club at the LaSalle Hotel last night. Present at the meeting was Jim Fullerton, a member of the Montreal Optimist Club, who gave a short talk.

Raffle books were distributed to all the members present for sale throughout the city. Various teams were appointed to carry out the distribution problems in the club itself.

Prizes for the raffle include a G.M. Frigidaire as first prize, a G.M. washing machine as second, and a Sunbeam Mixer as third.

Reports were heard from the chairmen of several committees on the raffle plans. Paul Lefebvre, chairman of the membership committee, told members that the success of the raffle affected the work of his group greatly. Don Clowery, chairman of the finance committee, informed those present that the outcome of the raffle would seriously affect the finances of the club. Mrs. D. J. Salls Died Today

The many friends of Mrs. D. J. Salls, the former Eveline Poyer, will be shocked to hear of her sudden passing at the Sherbrooke Hospital early this morning, following an illness of ten days.

Mrs. Salls, who was in her 67th year, was born in St. Georges de Beauve, November 20, 1882, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Poyer. She attended the convent in St. Georges, and later was a student at King's Hall, Compton, which was then known as Compton Ladies' College.

In 1906 she married D. J. Salls and came to live in Sherbrooke in 1910.

Mrs. Salls was keenly interested for many years in various organizations such as the Y.W.C.A., the Canadian Red Cross, of which she was a life member, the Child Welfare Clinic and the Victorian Order of Nurses. She was a patron of the Wales Home and of the Sherbrooke Curling Club and a life member of the Sherbrooke County Club.

Her death is a severe loss to her family, her host of friends, and to the community in general.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, two sisters, Mrs. D. P. Wyatt of Montreal, and Mrs. M. T. J. McKee, of Richmond; one daughter, Mrs. Edna MacIntyre, and three grandchildren, David, Margaret and Stephen, of Sherbrooke, as well as two brothers-in-law, M. T. J. McKee, of Richmond, and D. M. Rowat, of Montreal, and several nephews and nieces. One sister, Mrs. D. M. Rowat, and a brother, Charles, predeceased her.

The remains are resting at her late residence, 98 Ontario street, where prayers will be held on Thursday, March 17, at 2 p.m., followed by service in St. Peter's Church at 2:30. Rev. Canon Russell F. Brown officiating. Interment will be in Elmwood Cemetery.

In Hospital

The annual financial statement showed that although revenue reached an all-time high, mounting expenses were so great that there was a net deficit of $36,402 on the year's operations.

H. C. Almut, appointed Administrative Superintendent in August, pointed out that although improvements have been made, the present hospital is practically obsolete.

"We have been able to effect certain controls," Mr. Almut said. "As many supplies as possible the being transferred to the store-room and thanks to the herculean efforts of Miss Vera Graham, there is now a central linen room, under the control of the house-keeper, Mrs. Singleton.

"The next step is the setting-up of a central supply or service room. This may not be possible until the nursing staff is housed in the new residence but every effort will be made to institute it as soon as we can. Its importance in terms of service, of time saving for both professional and lay staff and keeping our equipment in proper condition, cannot be over-stressed.

"These measures are an integral part of a hospital's complex organization and adequate space has been provided for them in the new building.

"It might be as well briefly to summarize the recommended program, 1. centralization; 2. standardization; 3. some not too elaborate a system of cost accounting; 4. the preparation of a budget; 5. bulk, competitive and in some instances, co-operative purchasing.

"These five, none of which can be properly implemented until we are in the new building, will permit us to run the hospital as economically as possible, but it must be remembered that everything else being equal, the largest single determining factor in the size of a hospital's deficit is the percentage of occupancy.

"No one will deny the concept of hospital care has undergone and is still undergoing a radical change. It has therefore become part of our task to attempt to anticipate any changes, not only for the benefit of our patients and medical staff, but also because no voluntary hospital can hope to survive for long as such, unless it takes cognizance of them.

"We must always also bear in mind that additional services cost money and not all are self-supporting when once inaugurated. A partial solution would appear to be that hospitals become as much a part of community life as church and school, that they interest themselves in preventive as well as curative medicine and stress the important part hospitals play as an investment in health. Every effort should be made to co-ordinate the work of Sherbrooke's three hospitals and the municipal health authorities, in order to make the city a medical centre for the whole of the Eastern Townships to an even greater extent than heretofore.

"Rigid economy of administration has become a necessity; but personnel should not be exploited and in our zeal for efficiency we must not forget that we are a hospital and not a business. Our institution can be justly proud of its excellent patient-staff relationship and nothing must be done to destroy this incalculable asset.

"That the situation is serious cannot be denied, but we have an excellent medical staff and no hospital can be better than its doctors; the ground the school of nursing has lost will be regained in time; before many months have elapsed we shall have a modern physical plant in which to operate, and last, but by no means least, there is a group of men and women supporting the hospital, who have demonstrated to the full their inexhaustible capacity for hard work."

J. G. Armitage Re-Elected President Of Sherbrooke Hospital For 1949

Officers were elected and reports reviewed at the past year's activities, were presented at the 33rd annual meeting of the Governors of the Sherbrooke Hospital held in the City Hall last evening.

J. G. Armitage was re-elected president and D. J. Salls was elected Honorary president replacing the late Harry A. Norton. Dr. G. B. Loomis was appointed to the board of Governors.

J. G. Armitage reported that the matter of increasing operating costs and resulting deficits is "of grave concern to the governors and there seems to be no solution whereby we can hope to eliminate same."

"We are not alone in this respect. Every hospital in the country is experiencing the same difficulty," he continued.

"Ward rates have been increased, and we are getting increased revenues from all departments, but there is a limit beyond which we cannot go. In the meantime, we must keep up the services to meet the ever-increasing demands, which mean increased expenses, as the cost of supplies and labor have both doubled within the last five years.

"We would also point out that we are investing in the future to some extent, by re-organizing the plant and personnel to form the nucleus of an organization capable of stepping into the new hospital, with, at least, a semblance of preparedness. This will mean a gradual increase in all departments, and extra expense, beyond the present needs.

"The loss of Harry A. Norton, who passed away on December 21, 1948, a governor, life member and honorary president of the hospital, will be keenly felt. Mr. Norton had shown a great interest in the hospital by his generous donations and his willing service in connection with the hospital's various activities.

"It is with regret, that we also record the loss by death of J. E. Smith, D. J. McManany and Mrs. A. R. Wilson, life members, all good supporters of the hospital, continued President Armitage.

"At the meeting of Governors, held February 8th, 1949, Col. A. A. Munster, chairman of general committee, in charge of building operations of the new hospital, reported as follows: Contracts for the new hospital have been let and the work is now under way. The estimated cost of the nurses home when completed, will be about $400,000 and it is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy early next autumn.

"Plans for the new hospital are now completed, and tenders have been invited from leading contractors, which will be opened on March 16th, 1949, and it is expected that contract will be awarded at that time, and work started immediately.

"The annual report of the executive committee was given by B. D. Lyon due to the absence of C. L. Campbell, chairman of the executive committee.

"Our revenue from patients from all departments, including allowances from Quebec Public Charity Department, amounted to $188,626.07, an all-time high," this report said. "Expenses, however, due to increased cost of salaries and wages and supplies more than offset the increased revenue, and resulted in an operating deficit of $54,226.85. This was partially reduced by campaign receipts, interest from investments, Governors' fees, and sundry non-operative receipts to the extent of $25,304.41, which with the addition of depreciation on fixed assets, leaves a net deficit for the year of $36,402.15.

"The total number of patients for the year was 2,174. The average of patients per day was 76.0. The cost per patient per day was $10.05 as compared with $8.56 for 1947 as $4.79 for 1945."

Miss Vera L. Graham, superintendent of nurses, gave the census of the nursing department on December 31, 1948, as follows: senior staff—15, General staff—14, student nurses—33, making a total of

Erna Sack Gave Fine Recital At Granada

By MARGARET DOHERTY
Sherbrooke Record Staff Writer

Another laurel was added to Madame Erna Sack's artistic crown last evening when, appearing in her second recital at the Granada, she gave a beautiful and finished performance.

Those who heard the coloratura soprano last year were much impressed with her expert handling of an extraordinary voice. Those who heard her again last night could not help but thrill to the truly phenomenal gift which is hers and which doubtless seem to grow any less with passing years. If anything, this last recital was even more startling.

Madame Sack, whose first teacher pronounced her a mezzo-soprano, has a range as high as the C above high C and is acclaimed as the world's highest soprano.

Added to this remarkable range she has the true coloratura qualities for handling vocal difficulties and gradations of tone color with ease and grace. This was particularly evident in the famous test piece, "Bell Song" from Lakme, to which she added even more intricate cadenzas.

Her tones in the higher register have a sweet, birdlike quality, and seem to flow from her throat without the least effort. She also has definite audience appeal and from her first appearance had the rapt and undivided attention of her listeners.

An English selection or two would have been appreciated but as music speaks a universal language that is a detail which could be overlooked. The artist has certainly made great progress in French since her last recital in Sherbrooke and will no doubt master the English language as well.

Her entire program was excellent and it is somewhat difficult to single out any one selection. Benedict's "Carnival of Venice" and the well known Strauss "Voices of Spring" gave ample scope for her extraordinary vocal acrobatics, yet the Schumann numbers, particularly "Moonlight" and the "Aut Tread" were breathtaking in their beauty.

Madame Sack is perfectly at home in lieder to which she gives an authentic interpretation yet adds a distinctive quality all her own.

She responded to the insistent applause with several encores, among them the ever popular "Berceuse" of Godard, the tuneful "Funiculi, Funicula," and an amusing little number "A la Kermesse" (At the Fair).

Gilbert Hill, recent winner of the Joseph Bonnet Gold Medal for highest achievement in advanced organ class at the Provincial Conservatory, was an excellent accompanist, completely in harmony with the soloist and adding greatly to the success of a truly artistic program.

Better Handling Of Physical, Mental Problems Of School Children Urged

"The success of our teaching depends on a greater knowledge of and a better handling of the physical and mental problems of our pupils," Rev. Errol C. Annon, principal of Stanstead College, told members of the Home and School Association at a meeting in the Sherbrooke High School last evening.

Speaking on "Health and Recreation in the School," he said he believed that the curing of physical ailments probably rests with the home, but it is up to the school to discover the physical defects to a lesser degree as possible prevention.

In addition to the standard medical examination given at least once a year, he referred to prevention of further injury or damage in the case of the individual and the prevention of the spread of disease from one individual to others. For example, steps should be taken to limit the amount of stair climbing for a child with a bad heart, certain steps should be taken for a child with poor eye sight, a proper understanding of problems which are peculiar to girl students is necessary, and so on.

"Another phase of the health question is the educational side of it," he added. "The school can do much and does do much by way of teaching the children rules of health. The Junior Red Cross through its program, particularly in the lower grades, makes a fine contribution here. The health and hygiene courses also contribute to this end, as do the nutritional courses in domestic science, and the athletic program."

Among children who are having trouble with their work, he continued, more often than the teachers suspect they are working against a defect which they do not observe or which they do not understand. "Left-reading" falls under this category and such children, because they have an inverted sight, see things left to

Sherbrooke Girl Joins Ice Cycles

Miss Monique Metivier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Metivier, 88 5th Avenue, Sherbrooke, yesterday was signed to a four-year optional contract with the Ice Cycles, according to a statement made by Phil Taylor, company manager, last night.

Miss Metivier was one of several local boys and girls who participated in the auditions for a chance with the travelling ice show, and she was the only one signed up. She leaves with the company today, for Halifax, and will possibly go to England with the unit late in April.

Member of the Sherbrooke Winter Club for the past four years, Miss Metivier was scheduled to star in the lead role in this year's production, set for April 9th. She has been doing figure skating for the past five years, and will be greatly missed in local skating circles, but goes to her professional

SHADES OF THE PAST

The story of a train robbery in the mountain district of West Virginia revived for a brief period the days of this continent's history when such crimes were one of the chief forms of banditry. The Virginia robbery of a Baltimore-Detroit de luxe passenger train followed the old pattern faithfully until such time as the police began their pursuit. Then it became obvious that the modern bandit has less chance than his confrere of eight decades ago of lasting any considerable length of time.

The real era of the train robber reached its peak shortly after the end of the United States Civil War and was most predominant in the areas over which the forces of the Union and the Confederacy had carried on their campaigns. It was an unsettled time, with groups of armed men, unattached, hating and hated, roaming the country.

When such bands as Quantrell's Guerrillas—whose massacres in Kansas and adjoining territory have been recorded in history—were broken up by force of circumstances, they disintegrated into smaller gangs bent on lawlessness.

This was the period which produced the James Brothers, Cole Younger, the Daltons and many others. It was the period that saw the full opening of the great western plains of the United States, when "Colt Law" was the only one generally recognized. These were the times of Wild Bill Hickok and Billy the Kid, when police were scarce and communications difficult—when train robbers had at least an even chance of getting away after committing their crime.

But law enforcement has progressed. The Pinkerton agents who used to be the big boys who brought vengeance to the train-robbers have been replaced by Edgar Hoover and the FBI operatives, the latter being charged with running down thefts against interstate commerce. The speed with which the imitation desperadoes were run down makes it improbable that there will be many more of these incidents in the future. The old-type crime might be spectacular but it has to meet modern crime battling methods.

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

One of the essential factors in the holding of a free and democratic election is the provision of adequate channels of information for the people who must make the final decision on the actions of the government for the past four or five years. The ordinary citizen does not go to the polls and cast his ballot on the basis of information he acquired during the last five or ten minutes. In actual practice, either consciously or unconsciously, he has been examining the government during its term of office and his decision represents a considered balancing of those features which he believes favorable against those features he holds less desirable. But the provision of this clear source of information requires that all available means of communicating current events, and especially the radio and the press be free from all government information.

Although the Government of Canada subscribes to this doctrine in theory, and especially when it takes part in international conferences, there are disturbing indications that its radio policies are far removed from the principles it so loudly supports. Under the present system every word spoken over radio stations is liable to prior censorship by the Government through the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Non-CBC—that is, non-Government—stations can be seized at any time and required to operate under such terms as the Government may dictate. Private broadcasting licenses may be cancelled at any time, without cause, by a Minister of the Crown.

Admittedly these provisions have been so far applied with restraint, but the fact does remain that at the best freedom of the air is only enjoyed in Canada by kind permission of the Government. The rules nullifying it are there, but the Government, like an indulgent father, overlooks enforcing them. Obviously this is no proper foundation for freedom of the air. It relies on what is actually an unreasonable assumption—that no Government, now or in the future, will ever do that which it has a legal right to do at any time, seize all private stations and operate them in its own interest.

Press Comments

LOOK WHO'S TALKING

Toronto Globe and Mail
 Speaking to a dinner audience in Montreal last Saturday (March 5) Prime Minister St. Laurent set forth the proposition that his was the only party which could apply "the just principle of social justice." When scoring those who would set one section of the population against another, he was quoted by the Montreal Star as saying:

To deliver a country, a province or even a municipality, tied hand and foot to big finance, is as dangerous as to deliver it to communism, because the result is the same. Our parties of the left would be much nearer power if the country was in the hands of the Conservatives, because the extreme left parties would benefit from a popular reaction.

Mr. St. Laurent's meaning is clear. "Big finance" and the Progressive Conservative Party are synonymous. To vote for one is to "tie" the country "hand and foot" to the other. That is a demagogic appeal to class if we ever heard one.

Slurs on "big finance" and the "priests of high finance" are not new to our political platform. Socialists and others have been hounding them for years in their efforts to fan class animosities. But coming from the Prime Minister, who has the reputation of being a man of great integrity and high principles, it is strange fare indeed.

With that reputation it may be assumed Mr. St. Laurent would not have in business life associations which, in politics, he believed to be disreputable. But let us look at the record.

Mr. St. Laurent entered public life on his appointment as Minister of Justice in 1941. Where did he come from? What had been his associations? He was head of the legal firm of St. Laurent, Gagne, Devlin and Taschereau. Ranked among the most eminent corporation lawyers, his practice was one of the largest in the country.

Beyond this profitable connection with "big finance," Mr. St. Laurent was a director of the Bank of Montreal, the Metropolitan Life Assurance Co. of New York and the Gatineau Power Co., to mention only three of a list of nine or ten directorates he once held. All are large, successful enterprises, well within the compass of his disparaging term.

The Prime Minister was not ashamed of these connections. Why should others be? We do not imagine he thinks ill of that long list of Liberal Cabinet Ministers, including former Finance Ministers Halsey, Dunning and the late Col. Ralston, who quit public life to become associated with "big finance." Yet Mr. St. Laurent urges that the Progressive Conservative Party be shunned because, he says, it would tie the country hand and foot to such men and interests.

Let us look at the Progressive Conservative leader's background. Where did he come from? What have been his associations? On returning from service in the First World War, Mr. Drew finished his legal education and began practice in his native Guelph. Almost immediately he won election to the City Council, later became mayor of that city and moved to Toronto as Assistant Master of the Supreme Court of Ontario. He became Master, and later chairman of the Securities Commission. He achieved no list of directorates.

Clearly Mr. St. Laurent should leave the "class baiting" to the demagogues. There will come a day when he may regret having "fouled the nest." When his term runs out and the Government is defeated—as it will be—he may wish to return to business. And business men, even those in the lofty reaches of high finance, have their feelings—and their pride.

BUSTING FILIBUSTERS

Washington's Senatorial Filibuster is all the more dramatic in that it may be the final act in a long play. The United States Senate must be one of the last legislative bodies in the world to attempt to carry on its business without some form of closure.

This means that almost any group of senators, and sometimes stout-hearted individuals, can block a measure indefinitely merely by continuous talking. The record was established by the late Louisiana Kingfish, Huey Long, who harangued the Senate for 15 hours and 35 minutes without interruption. But plenty of others have done almost as well—or badly.

The U.S. Senate is a peculiar institution, regarding itself as the custodian of states rights. The result is that its members feel that any measure which is drastically opposed by their particular states should not pass, even if it commands a considerable majority support in the Senate. Southern senators have been particularly vehement in their filibustering.

Now it is proposed, that limitations on debate be adopted, and it is against this that the filibuster is directed. If the measure goes through there will be no more filibusters, and senators will have to depend on the strength rather than the length of their arguments. But it hasn't passed yet.

There has been strong opposition from quarters having no sympathy with the aims of Southern senators. These feel that the principle of "concurrent majorities" demands the continuation of the right to filibuster. It is the same problem the United Nations faces over the use of the veto.

OUT THE WINDOW

W. L. Clark, in Windsor Star
 Talking to a man who told us he had been with his company for 30 years, we mentioned that he should have a lot of seniority and that he would be building up a good pension.

He smiled grimly and asked if we did not remember the strike of eight years ago? We recalled it and he said that we might recall that he was one of the 30 people who went on strike. We remembered it. When he went on strike, and it lasted about three weeks, he threw all his seniority and all his pension rights out the window. He had to start again from scratch.

We told him we had never understood that strike and he said he had never understood it either, but the leaders had said it was a good thing to do and so they struck. He added that the leaders were not employed by his company and so they lost neither seniority nor pension rights.

DECLARER OUTSMARTS HIMSELF, GETS SET

When you look today's hand over, you may say that it is very simple, yet I think I could write several articles about it. It was played by four of the greatest players in the country. The defenders were Samuel Stayman of New York City in the West, and George Rapee, also of New York City, in the East. Rapee had just won the world championship masters individual tournament.

The bidding shown is exactly the way it occurred at the table. West cashed the king and ace of hearts, then led the third heart which declarer ruffed with the three of spades. South then led a small diamond to dummy's king, led the jack of spades and Rapee covered with the king. Declarer won the trick with the ace and cashed the queen of spades.

Now you might say that all declarer had to do was to cash the ten of spades, picking up both of the defenders' remaining trumps, and you would be right. But suppose that the spades were divided 4-2—that is what the expert figures on.

If the spades had been divided 4-2, declarer would have made his contract; but as it was, it took one of the greatest defensive plays it has been my privilege to see to set the contract.

South did not take the third round of trumps. Instead, he led a club to dummy's ace, came back

Letters To The Editor

SUPPORTER OF THE RURAL SCHOOL

The Editor.
 Sir:—May I be allowed to add my share of interest to those persons who are seeking to retain the Rural School.

I feel the voice of every parent interested should be heard in the discussion. Although I cannot claim the privilege of speech as a parent of a child attending school, I feel so deeply the hardships and danger to young children leaving home on winter mornings at daylight to spend one or more hours huddled in an unsupervised school bus, heated or unheated in a crowd of children that as we all know are many times boisterous and unruly.

We cherish so much the freshness, daintiness, manners and health of our small children and yet subject them to this atmosphere, and so many hours of loss of home environment for a questionable higher level of teaching methods.

Thanking you,
 Yours very truly,
 "A LOVER OF CHILDREN," Sherbrooke,
 March 9, 1949.

FAVORS CENTRALIZED SCHOOLING

The Editor.
 Sir:—In answer to the letter in the Record, February 25, from "Just a Parent of Brome County," I am quite sure some of the members of the Brome County Central School Board, if not all, attended a rural school, and I think they all have a heart. Just how much pleasure did they receive, compared to the pleasure the children of today are receiving? I think they can truthfully say Central Schooling is far ahead of the rural school. The children that have to walk to meet a nice heated bus have no farther, and not so far in most cases, as they did to the old rural school. When they get to the Knowlton High School they do not have to huddle around an old box stove half a day to get warm.

I know what it was like, as I attended a rural school myself. Most of the children that had to walk one or two miles to school, step right on the bus at their own door. Of course a few that live on cross roads have to walk to the bus just the same as they did to the rural school, but just stop and think of the wonderful school they are going to. I have three children going to K. H. S., two have been going ever since the school opened. One just started this fall. They never come home sick nor exhausted from their twenty-mile ride on the bus. They are full of pep after a good hot dinner served at the school that costs less than I can prepare it at home, also good milk and their vitamin tablet.

Our rural teachers did a wonderful job considering what they had to do with. No teacher can do justice with twenty-five or thirty pupils with grades from one to seven. What is wrong with the rural schools? Plenty. Just go and visit K. H. S., then go to your rural school and see the difference.

Did "Brome County Parent" have the pleasure of attending the H.M.S. Pinafore, put on by the K. H. S. pupils? If not he cannot realize what Miss Drake is doing. I hear she is planning another grand play in May. We just hope she is. In regard to the bus drivers, I think they are doing a splendid job.

"Brome Parent" says he cannot afford to send his children to Knowlton to be exposed to all Brome County diseases, what ever they may be. Well, Brome County diseases are just as cheap as rural school diseases. I do not see any difference. They are the same old measles, mumps, etc. I notice that children have the habit of picking them up at rural schools just as easy, at least mine did. K. H. S. has a nurse to look after any sick child. She sees that he gets home safe. He does not have to walk a mile or two sick and alone. She calls his parents, makes arrangements for him to go home. If you have never visited K. H. S. by all means do so, talk with the teachers, someone will be glad to show you the school from top to bottom and explain everything to you. I am sure you will enjoy every minute you are there, and you will go home feeling much better and happier about the school.

You asked what time they leave home. The bus is always at my house at 8:15 a.m. and here again at 4 p.m.

I hope we will hear from some of the B. C. C. S. members. I think they can explain everything.

Thanks for the space in this valuable paper.

The Record Short Story

A REASON FOR JERRY

By ARTHUR ROWLAND

There was a lot of talk about it before the kid came, so I knew his father and Dad were together in the war and that his father didn't come back, and how when his mother died last year and he had no relatives to go to, Dad wrote to a lawyer back East and arranged for the kid to be sent to California. When I got home from school the day Dad brought him from the railway station, there he stood in the kitchen, a skinny squirt two years younger than me, wearing a funny suit and looking scared. Mom told me who he was, as if I wouldn't know a couple of miles off, and she went on chattering, like she does, "Jerome, you must be about famished, and it's hours before supper. How about a glass of cool milk and a nice snail?"

He shook his head as though he thought she said rat poison, but when he saw what she put on the plate, he grinned. "Oh, it's a roll!" I guess he expected the snail would be the kind with a shell on its back. Right there, I voted him a dumb hombre. With her hand on the cookie jar, Mom said, "I do not like people swiping from the refrigerator, Jerome, but you are welcome to whatever you may find in this jar. So help yourself, any time."

She went to school with us next morning. All the kids in the yard could see it was my mother leading a 10-year-old knee britches, so I sprinted on ahead hoping nobody would think it was any relation of mine. The next Saturday Mom took him down town and bought some civilized food.

He was sure dense. It was December and when he saw the olives on the tree in our back yard, he asked, "When do our trees ripen?" "They're ripe right now," I told him, disgusted.

"I always thought olives were green with red middles," he said. "And it's a funny time of year for fruit to ripe."

"What's so funny about it?" I asked. "Try one."

He didn't want to, but I got him to take a big black one. As soon as he bit into it, his face screwed up and he coughed and spit like a jet plane till I nearly croaked from laughing. He didn't even know that olives off a tree are worse than castor oil.

One night Dad said everything had been fixed legally and now, if Jerry chose to, he could go by the name of Kennedy. I could tell from the kid's grin that he'd choose Kennedy and I told myself this little squirt from New Jersey was no brother of mine and that I didn't like him and never would.

I covered him outside later and got hold of his neck. "I'll smack you down," I promised, "the very first time I ever hear you call my first-er Dad or my mother Mom. See?" "Ye - - - yes," he said.

We didn't get into any real fights, though, because he wouldn't try too much to tag along after me and Spud Green. But it wasn't so easy to shake him when swimming time came. Mom would give us each 15 cents to go to a city pool, but I'd make him go on ahead and he never could figure out what became of me and Spud. He was too dumb to guess we sneaked off to a swell spot in the Sacramento River, because we both were good swimmers and not afraid of the undertow, and we saved our money for sodas. One day before I got rid of him, Spud came along and shouted about how he'd hold of his neck. "I'll smack you today, so the kid could easy figure where we were heading, dense as he was. We decided we'd take him along, because that way, he wouldn't dare tell where we went, for fear of getting punished himself."

When we got there, he stood looking at the water as if he was house at 8:15 a.m. and here again at 4 p.m.

I hope we will hear from some of the B. C. C. S. members. I think they can explain everything.

Q—How did the sport of roller skating originate?
 A—The sport was started early in the 18th century by an unknown Hollander. One summer, unwilling to wait until the canals froze, he nailed crude wooden spools to strips of wood attached to his shoes and off he bumped along the roads to Holland. In the next century the sport spread slowly through England, France and Germany.

Q—Which chief justice administered the oath of office to United States presidents the greatest number of times?
 A—Chief Justice John Marshall administered the inaugural oath to Thomas Jefferson. This was the first of nine oaths Marshall was to administer over 32 years.

Q—In a striking clock, does the first or last stroke mark the exact hour?
 A—The customary practice is to have the first stroke come precisely at the hour.

This disability although infrequent is not rare, and it is up to the school to discover such disabilities as early as possible so that it may begin remedial work early when it has the best chance of being successful.

The speaker also stressed the importance of mental hygiene and said that as pupils "run all the way from the deeply repressed to the loud, assertive extroverts," it is the duty of the teachers to help them by directing their thinking and their activities along more normal lines.

Railways Affected

By the end of the week some 62,000 railroads will be idle, joining the 463,000 miners who stayed home yesterday.

The steel industry showed no sign of cutting operations. Blast furnaces roared toward record production. The American Steel and Iron Institute said this week's output of steel ingots and castings is expected to total 1,880,400 net tons.

However, Bethlehem Steel said it had enough coal on hand for only a few weeks. The national coal stock pile of 70,000,000 tons is expected to be reduced to 20,000,000 tons by March 28, the day the miners are scheduled to resume digging.

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED

BRINGING UP FATHER

OBITUARIES

MRS. ERNEST J. NEWELL, OF RICHMOND Richmond, March 15.—The bereaved family of Mrs. Ernest J. Newell, nee Hilda H. Beers, at the age of forty-three years.

Daughter of the late N. H. Beers and Mrs. Helena Beers, of Melbourn, she was born at nearby Melbourn Ridge and spent her entire life in this community. She attended school at Melbourn Ridge, Kingsbury, St. Francis College, Richmond, and Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, where she obtained her teacher's diploma, after which she followed the teacher's profession in Melbourn Ridge, Elvinton and St. Francis College High School.

In 1932 she was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest J. Newell, son of the late James Newell and Mrs. Newell, of Richmond. Mrs. Newell suffered a stroke on Sunday, February 20, from which she never completely regained consciousness and passed away on Wednesday morning, February 25.

A member of St. Anne's Church, she was one of the most devoted and faithful workers. She was an active member of, and at various times held responsible offices in St. Anne's Guild, the Evening Guild and the King's Daughters. She taught in the Sunday School, and for two years previous to her death had acted as envelope secretary.

She will always be especially remembered by the girls of the Junior W.A., whose able and beloved leader she was for some years. As long as her health permitted she was a ready participant in community causes, and during the war years was a regular worker for the Red Cross Society.

Her warm, friendly manner and her depth of character made friends for her among all who knew her, and her death brings to each a keen sense of personal loss. Prayers were said at her late residence on Friday, February 25, and the funeral was held at St. Anne's Church, The Rev. George Harrison conducted the service and spoke words of comfort to the bereaved ones.

The hymns sung by the choir were "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." Mrs. John Williams rendered a beautiful solo, "It is Well With My Soul." The bearers were Messrs. W. A. Bon, J. H. Coles, W. Coles, Lloyd Sommerville, C. D'Almaine and George Walker.

Interment was made in St. Anne's Cemetery. Heats of beautiful flowers were tokens of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, Ernest J. Newell; her mother, Mrs. H. Beers, of Melbourn; two brothers, Elsworth, of Barrie, Ont., and Winston, of Three Hills, Alta.; mother-in-law, Mrs. C. M. Newell, of Richmond; sisters-in-law, Mrs. Elsworth, of Barrie, Ont.; Mrs. Winston, Beers, of Three Hills, Alta.; Mrs. Fred J. Newell, of Melbourn; Mrs. C. O. Buzzell, of Magog; Mrs. Gordon McCourt, of Sherbrooke; Miss Dorothy Newell, of Richmond; brothers-in-law, Fred J. Newell, C. O. Buzzell and Gordon McCourt; four nieces, Beverly and Barbara Beers, and Priscilla Jean and Louise McCourt; two nephews, Robbie and Norman Beers; as well as aunts and cousins.

Those from a distance attending the funeral were Mr. Elsworth, Beers, of Barrie, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Buzzell, of Magog; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCourt, of Sherbrooke; Mr. John and Miss Muriel Nixon, of Leachville; Mr. and Mrs. F. German Revival No Way To Meet Russian Menace

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Halifax, March 15.—Where does a man like Otto Strasser fit in the east-west cold war?

Strasser, the former Nazi living in exile in Nova Scotia for five years, broke with Hitler in the early '30s and fled Germany. Now he wants to go back to lead a party that he calls "The League for Germany's Revival."

What kind of a revival? Perhaps this is a clue:

In a recent speech in the Annapolis Valley town of Kentville, Strasser urged establishment of a German defence force of 100 divisions—nearly 2,000,000 men—to protect the western zones of Germany against what he termed an imminent Russian onslaught. He said Russia would attack western Europe in three months. (In July, 1947, Strasser told The Canadian Press Russia would attack Europe in seven months.)

A man who knows Europe well, Dr. George Adamkiewicz was quick to take issue with Strasser. Dr. Adamkiewicz is a Pole, worked for five years for the Polish government in London and now is professor of political science at St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, N. S.

Time Well Chosen

In a letter to the editor of the weekly Antigonish Casket, he said: "The psychological moment for this (Strasser's) suggestion for a defence force) would call for a military alliance with a resurgent Germany; that is to say, it would involve recognition, by the Western powers, of an independent, remilitarized and intrinsically nationalistic German State."

"The stage would thus be set for the reinstatement of that unholy union of nationalism, militarism and dictatorial government so symptomatic of Germany's power politics, whenever she felt herself in the saddle."

Dr. Adamkiewicz scoffs at Strasser's suggestion that the west could sit back and feel itself safe from Russian aggression behind the protecting wall of a strong German army. The story of modern Germany, the professor adds, "speaks quite a different language."

Dr. Adamkiewicz hints strongly that Strasser is using the east-west split to drive in the wedge of a remilitarized Germany. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor in Germany, has branded Strasser's league as "infamous."

But does the real danger lie in Strasser and his followers?

Other Views

Others believe Strasser is on the fringe, a talker who possesses no real authority but serves as a useful cover for Germans who would like to see Germany re-established on its 1940 pinnacle of power.

The influential British magazine New Statesman and Nation, for instance, recently recalled that late in 1920 Lord d'Abernon, British ambassador in Berlin, said the French attempt to have militarist formations in Germany disbanded was "almost insane." The New Statesman says it was from those militarist formations that the army of the United States' navy and military bases on the islands stretching across the Pacific from Honolulu to China.

Canberra is closely watching the situation which would be the most important strategic development in the Pacific since the war. Defence authorities, however, believe the U.S. will keep powerful forces based on Okinawa in the Ryukyus, Guam, and the Philippines. They cannot foresee the Americans giving up the Pacific altogether.

But the reports have given stimulus to this country's defence preparations.

Since the war the defence department has concentrated much of its time and energy on the rocket-testing range on the Central Australian desert at Mt. Echo and has allowed other defences to go downhill.

Sticks To Platform

The Chifley Labor government refuses to break the Labor party platform and order compulsory military training, despite the fact that recruiting has produced less than half the required number of volunteers.

Total volunteers for all services number 46,376—a figure well below the 96,845 called for in the defence plans.

Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander-in-chief of Australia throughout the Second World War, alleges that the overall defence position today is worse than at any time during the last 50 years.

On the other hand, Defence Minister John J. Dedman just as vigorously claims that Australia is in a better position today than she was in 1929.

But Maj.-Gen. Clive Steele, former engineer-in-chief of the Australian army, summed up what most Australians are thinking about their defence problems by saying:

"All we can do is wish Mr. Calwell (the immigration minister) luck with his immigration program, and hope that the government of which he is a member will be nationally minded on such issues as compulsory military training."

The Doctor Says

KNOWLEDGE OF BLOOD PARTS AND USES HELPS SAVE MANY LIVES

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Jordan

A tremendous gain in knowledge about the value of whole blood transfusions and of blood preparations like plasma has occurred during and since the war. In accidents, severe hemorrhages, and in several different kinds of diseases, the giving of blood transfusions or of plasma often means the difference between life and death.

Whole blood, when it can be given, is more valuable than plasma or the other portions of the blood because it contains all of the elements required. It cannot be used in all cases, however, as in addition to the time limit on its preservation, it also requires "matching" with blood of the recipient or receiver in order to avoid undesirable reactions. When this matching is not possible then plasma is especially useful as the latter can be given without danger of reaction.

Separate Use Possible

Whole blood consists of plasma and red blood cells. When the plasma is prepared for special purposes the red blood cells are available for other use. The cells separated from the plasma may be resuspended or mixed with some other liquid and used for patients who do not have enough red cells but do have enough plasma. These resuspended red cells are particularly useful in certain kinds of anemia.

Plasma is a good emergency substitute for whole blood in the treatment of hemorrhage or severe bleeding; it is the best substance to use to replace the plasma lost from severe burns, and provides an already prepared protein for patients with acute illness requiring it.

Now plasma can be separated into its component or separate parts. It is possible to give the individual plasma proteins which serve particular purposes in comparatively pure form. These parts or fractions of plasma may eventually replace the use of whole plasma. In peacetime and with the aid of "blood banks," whole blood is, however, the greatest life saver of all.

Q—What makes the eyes smart constantly and the lids to become inflamed?

A—There may be some infection of the outer surface of the eye or of the eyelids which causes these symptoms. An examination is indicated since the eye are too important to neglect.

But Maj.-Gen. Clive Steele, former engineer-in-chief of the Australian army, summed up what most Australians are thinking about their defence problems by saying:

LE GARDEUR 1636

Pierre Le Gardeur came to Canada in 1636. He engaged in the fur trade and organized the Company of Habitants. In 1647 he was granted the Seigniories of Cournoyer and Repentigny. His brother Charles was made

Governor of Three Rivers in 1648 and afterwards a member of the Sovereign Council. Pierre's son, Jean Baptiste, was elected Mayor of Quebec in 1663. He later formed a new fur company to obtain greater returns for the colonists. Truly a distinguished pioneer Canadian family.

Great Families Create Great Nations

EARLY in the 17th Century, Calvert, head of the famous Calvert family, distinguished English statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, founded pioneer colonies in Newfoundland and Maryland.

Calvert's descendants encouraged their New World settlers to build and to work in harmony for the common good. They also fostered the principles of democratic freedom and religious tolerance which had previously been denied them.

The family is the corner-stone upon which great nations are built. Let each of us strive to promote within the great Canadian family the same concepts of freedom and tolerance pioneered by the Calvert family, over three hundred years ago.

DOROTHY DIX

Poor Young Couple

Husband-To-Be Shouldn't Object To Fiancee's Working After Marriage

Dear Miss Dix: I am engaged to a very wonderful girl and we are planning to be married very soon. My fiancee wishes to continue to work after we are married, but I seriously object to it. Of course, at present my salary is very small, but I feel that we can get along if we are willing to make sacrifices.

We wish above all to be truly happy and would appreciate any suggestions you could make about how to make our marriage a success. Both of us are very jealous.

JOHN AND MARY.

Answer: Inasmuch as you are a poor young couple starting out on a very limited income, I think you are wrong in objecting to your wife keeping on with her job after you are married, as she wishes to do. Let her work until the babies come, which will automatically settle the question.

A girl, who has been earning her own salary and being financially independent, is very apt to be dissatisfied and disgruntled when she finds herself with nothing to do except to stretch her husband's pay envelope farther than it will go, and to wander around the store and look at the things that she hasn't the money to buy.

NO REFLECTION

Try to see things from your sweetheart's point of view, and don't be old-fashioned enough to think that there is any reflection on you in your wife working after marriage.

But if you want your marriage to be a happy one, you must eliminate jealousy. That wrecks more homes than any other thing, for when suspicion enters the door, peace and happiness fly out of the window. So you and your wife must make up your minds to trust each other, and to believe the best of each other, not to always be on the lookout, each expecting the other to play some dirty little trick. There is nothing really so insulting as jealousy.

They say that there is no cure for jealousy, but I think that common-sense is a never-failing remedy for it. If, when you feel an attack coming on and perceive that you are getting green-eyed, you will take a large dose of good old hard horse sense, you will find that it will restore you to sanity and serenity.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a girl 18 years old. The other night my date, whom I had only met on one other occasion, asked me to go to the movies. On our way there he suggested that, instead of seeing a picture, we go to his apartment for a game of gin rummy.

When I refused he was very indignant and said that he considered me a prude. What do you think about it?

H. M.

Answer: I think you did the proper thing, and that the young man is either singularly unsophisticated or else a double-dyed villain to have proposed such a thing as visiting him in his rooms.

Certainly any girl to whom a man extends such an invitation has a right to feel that she has been grossly insulted, for he had asked her to do something that is beyond the pale of propriety, and that would smirch her good name if it were ever known.

Dear Miss Dix: Is there anything more to love than sex appeal?

A GROUP OF GIRLS.

Answer: Undoubtedly sex attraction is the inspiration of love and the beginning of love, but there is a lot more to it than that because we are not all flesh, but spirit and soul as well. And in real love, after passion is satisfied, there comes to take its place friendship and comradeship—the tenderest, the most understanding, the most unselfish that exists.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

MODERN MARRIAGE

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

When a young man marries, he ought to think about life insurance.

Any agent will tell you that, Mr. F., and several have undoubtedly done so already. So I'll answer your inquiry by mentioning two aspects that are often overlooked.

First is reassurance of your bride as to your physical health. Most states now require a blood test before marriage to ascertain freedom from syphilis. This is certainly important; and any man who suggests going out of the state for the marriage ceremony ought to be regarded with suspicion, no matter what plausible excuse he gives if this evasion also includes avoiding a Wassermann test.

But there are many other topics on which a bride is entitled to reassurance. She deserves to know that her fiancé has a sound heart and lungs, and so on. What easier and more graceful way to give her this assurance than to take-out a life insurance policy in her favor—even if it is only a small one, additional to other insurance? At least it means the man has passed a physical examination.

In the second place, however, a bride is entitled to reassurance as to your mental or emotional health. Mr. F. more important to her than to anyone else—is that you are weaned from your own mother. If you already have a policy of which your mother is beneficiary, take steps at once to change the beneficiary to your wife and let her know that you are doing so.

Many a young man, tied to his mother's apron strings, dares not do this. He is afraid mom won't be happy to think that his wife now comes first. If there is any doubt whatever about that in your own mind, Mrs. F., settle it immediately.

Young people planning marriage will do well to read my free leaflet, "Are You Sure It's Love?" Write to me in care of this newspaper and I will send you a self-addressed return envelope.

Questions and Answers Q—I'm 29 years old; mother says girls of my age have virtually no chance of finding husbands. True?

A—Census Bureau says one in 10 of all girls your age will marry within the next 12 months; and 29 per cent of all women aged 20 will marry eventually. Go to work intelligently and energetically to put yourself in that 60 per cent!

Q—Some of the problems of managing my family baffle me completely. A—Why not ask advice of your children? Psychiatrist Rudolf Dreikurs suggested, in a recent lecture, that children sometimes know more about what's going on in the family than do the parents and the latter could well afford to take the advice of their offspring. Try it.

Q—If I don't get a divorce, I'm afraid my child is going to be so upset that he'll fail in school. A—Is your child asking for the divorce? Dean Christian Ganes of Princeton University says the scholastic records of children from divorced homes are much inferior to those of pupils whose parents are happily married. Make the canape tray substantial with ripe olives, cheese and baby meat spreads.

By GAYNOR MADDOX Buffet and party service is making popular gains with the discovery that guests like to sink their teeth into something substantial, even at informals. So don't be surprised if you find yourself eating and liking sandwiches made from some of the versatile new baby meats. World Day Of Prayer Was Observed In St. Paul's, Marbleton, When Mrs. C. Weyland Gave Splendid Address

Marbleton, March 15.—The World Day of Prayer service was held in St. Paul's Church on Friday afternoon, March 4, and was under the leadership of Mrs. Clifford Weyland, with Mrs. H. O. N. Belford, the organist.

The service was preceded by a Call to Prayer.

Millions of women in seventy different countries knelt at the altar of God to pray. In a thousand different tongues prayers rose from a thousand different temples. Some prayed for bread, and some for clothing. All prayed for peace and a deeper communion with God.

The theme of the service was "The Lord Is Thy Keeper" and was divided into seven parts, the call to worship, adoration, penitence, assurance, thanksgiving, intercession and dedication. Each part had a special hymn.

Prayers were offered by Mrs. Edith Parsons, Mrs. Robert Elliott, Mrs. B. S. Gilbert, Mrs. A. Guille, Mrs. Walter Maskell, Mrs. William Hetherington and Miss Phyllis Bishop.

Mrs. Weyland gave a splendid address on the significance of the World Day of Prayer including some of the projects to which the offerings are given, the offerings are given.

She said that "To millions of women around the world, the first Friday in Lent has come to have one connotation; the "World Day of Prayer." They keep the day in the heart of Africa, in the frozen reaches of Baffin Land in the bustling part cities of Latin America, in isolated inland villages of the Orient, as well as in thousands of communities in the United States and Canada.

"Thus the World Day of Prayer has come over the years to be perhaps the greatest single unifying force among all Christian women everywhere."

"In 1920 for the first time the women of the different Protestant communities of Canada met together on the first Friday in Lent, for a day of prayer for missions."

"In 1922 they met on the same day, together with the women of United States."

"In 1936 women of more than fifty countries were observing the day with us in Canada. The movement has grown steadily and vigorously until in 1948, the World Day of Prayer was observed in

Oblique Angles Elaborate Trim Highlight Hats

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, March 15.—In London's spring hat shows the "side sweep" is top favorite.

Carried in cloche, turban and other close-fitting styles, it raises from the moderate little side-swept brim to the "one-eyed" styles now prevalent in Paris. This is a wide, deep, tuckled, side brim drop; flowered or feathered, it generally covers one side of the face and hair.

Four Paris "one-eyed" styles were chosen by British hat manufacturers for reproduction here at modest prices. They are:

1. A deep-crowned pale green rough straw with folded front brim tucked back from the forehead and side sweep covered with green silk peonies, reproduced in cheaper straw with rayon flowers, machine-stitched instead of hand-made. It will sell for £3 ($12).
2. A Chinese baku straw in cornflower blue, its wide brim swathed with blue organdie and its side-sweep crowned with cornflowers, reproduced in sisal straw with hand-done trimming. Price £4.
3. A navy blue petersham or turban shape with high front brim folding back from the face and side-sweeping in two deep flutes, reproduced in plain felt for £2.
4. A deep, close-fitting crown with folded brim and deep, wide side sweep with narrow ribbon-loops decorating the attractive forward sweep. Made in white synthetic straw it will reproduce in the same material for four guineas ($16.80) or in a cheaper one for three guineas.

Suit Hats.

Cloche styles are popular in smooth baku straws and soft felts with small curling brims and slight side-sweeps. Mostly undecorated, except for brim contrast, they are an excellent combination for the slim lines of the new tailored suits.

Silk, linen and petersham are being used for brim covering usually to match a dress or suit.

Rougher straws and felts have big feather mounts, floral or fruit posies. The decorations, if any, are elaborate.

Hats are again being covered with silk or linen to match the ensemble—especially turban shapes—and tartan is used a lot in little hats with feather mounts intended for combination with matching accessories.

The "parachute-beret" in white light-weight felt—sunray pleated from centre crown—folds neatly into case or handbag.

Bonnets are back again. A black baku with no brim, its forward sweep accentuated by white lace trimming, its side decorated with two big camellias is a lovely finish to a black moire suit. A rough straw biscuit-colored bonnet has rough tan veiling—shoulder length behind, scarf length in front—finished with a wide ribbon for accentuation.

Watteau lines are still being used but worn with a side tilt, the rising sweep of the brim accentuated by silk or satin ribbon and finished with a single flower at one side, shepherdess style. The back brim is generally pleated.

The "flower-pot" hat is the latest teen-ager. A "flower-pot" of felt or straw is worn straight on the head, back from the face, and decorated only by side contrast ribbon.

the hall during the summer, and with this in mind a serious of card parties were planned. The first will be in the hall on March 19. It is to be hoped that a crowd will attend. All roads are open for cars.

As both the president, Mrs. S. Batley, and the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Leonard, asked to be relieved of office, the new officers and conveners were elected by acclamation as follows: Mrs. Aubrey Batley, Bishopton, President; Mrs. R. Stevenson, East Dudswell, first vice-president, and Mrs. Sydney Coates, Bury, second vice-president; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Stuart Joyce, Bishopton;

Conveners: Agriculture, Mrs. J. McKenzie, of Bishopton; Home Economics, Mrs. Osborne Doughterty, Bury; National and International Relations, Mrs. Ernest Bennett, Bishopton; Welfare and Health, Mrs. S. Batley, Bury; Education, Mrs. Aulden Clarke, Bishopton; Publicity, Mrs. Stuart Joyce, Bishopton; Blue Cross secretary, Mrs. Ernest Bennett; Flower and Fruit Committee, Mrs. J. McKenzie and Mrs. Marjorie Jenkinson.

The meeting closed by singing God Save the King.

Mrs. E. J. Weir invited the group to meet at her home on Friday, April 8. It was decided that each member would bring some lunch for the meetings during this season.

Afternoon tea was served before leaving for their homes.

Farm Forum.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Little entertained the Brookbury Farm Forum Group for the broadcast, "According to Worth."

There were 15 adults and one child present. Mr. Ibrey Batley was leader for the discussion on "Taxation." This group thought that income tax was the fairest method of taxation.

Cards were played at three tables followed by delicious refreshments served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Elsie Gagne and Mrs. R. H. Lebourveau.

The March 14th meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lebourveau.

16TH ANNUAL LENNOXVILLE CURLING CLUB BONSPIEL OPENS

Fifty-One Rinks Entered in Week-Long Competition; Club Celebrates 25th Anniversary Of Founding

The 16th annual Lennoxville Curling Club Bonspiel opened last night with fifteen matches being played.

Fifty-one rinks are entered in the 'Spiegel for the John Nichol Memorial and the Lennoxville Press trophies. Matches are scheduled every day for the balance of the week with the semi-finals slated for Saturday afternoon and the finals in the evening.

All rinks commence in the Nichol section with the losers dropping down to the Press division. Today's games are slated to start at 4:30 with the next shift at 6:45 and the final one at 9:00, at both the Sherbrooke and Lennoxville clubs.

On the early shift Wentworth Richardson and his Lennoxville quartet dinked Rus Neville's Sherbrooke rink 14-4. Leo Watson skipped his Lennoxville foursome to an 11-7 decision over F. Beaudry's local foursome. George McClelland's squad eked out a 10-4 verdict over L. Cleveland's Sherbrooke crew while Ernie Gibbey guided his squad to a 14-8 result over A. T. Spied's squad and D. Bolland piloted his rink to a 10-3 victory over Carl Skinner's team.

On the 6:45 slate G. Armitage's

Local Curlers Maintain Southern Canada Cup

The Sherbrooke Curling Club came through with two wins in the Southern Canada Power Trophy playoffs when they eked out a 27-22 win over Granby and then downed Sutton 39-17.

The next club on the list to challenge is St. Johns and they have two weeks in which to issue it.

The Granby rinks made a great bid for the trophy, which the local club took from them last season, but they fell short by five points on the gross score to cop the playoff. O. R. Jackman's rink dropped a close 14-10 verdict to Stew Roy's foursome and J. N. Fuller came through with a 13-10 decision over J. E. Isabelle's quartet.

Against Sutton, which was their initial appearance in the playoff, President Max Long skipped his rink to a 14-7 win over R. Jarvis' foursome and H. S. Armstrong came through with a 25-10 decision over D. H. Maples' squad. It was the first time that the newly organized Sutton club has taken part in any district competitions and should, with a little more time, give a good account of themselves.

Saints-Aces Series To Open Thursday Evening; All Games To Be Played At Local Arena

The series between the Quebec Aces and Sherbrooke Saints, scheduled to open this evening at the local arena has been postponed until Thursday evening, announced Forest Keene, business manager of the Sherbrooke team, this morning at a late hour.

The postponement was brought about owing to the fire that broke out this morning at the Quebec Coliseum and completely destroyed all the Aces' equipment. The building is a complete loss and the damage is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

All games in the series will be played in Sherbrooke with the following dates set. The other games will be played Saturday, Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday if necessary.

Old Age Creeping Up On Cardinals But Red Birds Still A Threat With Musial, Slaughter And Brecheen

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—Old age is creeping up on St. Louis Cardinals, but the Musial-slaughter punch, plus Harry Brecheen's pitching, make the Red Birds a pennant threat.

Manager Eddie Dyer has changed his mind about "the team to beat." For the last two years it has been Brooklyn. Now Eddie has switched to Boston, but:

"We can be better. The question is whether that improvement will be enough in a league where almost everybody should be stronger. Brooklyn will have a younger team that will come fast in mid-season like Branch Rickey's clubs usually do.

"Pittsburgh will be better—definitely. Murry Dickson, the fellow we sold them, will be a big help. So will Bob Muncie and Hugh Casey."

A replacement for outfielder Terry Moore, who retired to become a coach, is one of Dyer's most pressing problems. Then he has to be prepared to reshuffle his infield if third baseman Whitey Kurovski's comeback should backfire.

So far Whitey has done everything asked but he has yet to test his arm. Kurovski underwent an

Roy Conacher Heads Into Final Week With Two-Point Edge Over Linemate Doug Bentley In N.H.L. Scoring Race

Montreal, March 15.—(AP)—Rolling Roy Conacher enters the final week of the National Hockey League campaign still holding a two-point lead over his Chicago linemate, Doug Bentley, official statistics showed today.

Since the Black Hawk big guns announced their intention of dividing equally first and second-place money, each has gone pointless. Their records are the same as a week back; Conacher 66 points, Bentley 64.

No one else figures to have a chance to overhaul the puck-wise pair in the last three games before the playoffs, which incidentally, the Hawks won't be in. A pair of Detroit snipers, Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay, hold down third and fourth spots with 52 and 48 points respectively, while Chicago's Jim Conacher is fifth with 47.

Abel, having his best year in eight seasons under hockey's big top, tops the goal-getters with 26 markers, while Roy Conacher and Toronto's Harry Watson each have 25. Doug Bentley heads the assists department with 42.

Paul Ronty of Boston was the biggest gainer during the week, collecting five points on two goals and three assists, and he took over sixth place behind Jim Conacher.

Bill Durman, almost a lead-pipe cinch to capture his fifth Vezina Trophy in six years, is in a class by himself among the leads loop's goal-tenders. Big Bill, with 122 goals against, leads Detroit's Harry Lumley by 18 goals in the Vezina race. His goals-against average, 2.14 per game, is tops, and the amazing Montreal backstop leads in shutouts with 10.

Although he has been sidelined for more than a month with a leg injury, Wild Bill Ezink bids fair to walk off with badman honors. The Toronto winger has served 134 minutes in penalty time. Chicago's Bep Guidolin is next with 110 minutes.

Bobby Locke Arrives For Golf Tourneys

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Bobby Locke, the South African golf ace, arrived here last Friday from his homeland and leaves for Jacksonville, Fla., where, in the Jacksonville Open starting Friday, he hopes to resume the profitable tour of 1948, when he finished fourth among the tournament pros in money winnings.

Locke expects to remain in the United States until October, competing in the major tournaments for which he is eligible. He still has not heard whether he will be permitted to compete in the National P.G.A., from which he was barred last year.

Since he left the United States last September Locke has completed in four South African tournaments, winning three of them. The other was a pro-amateur event.

There still is a vague chance that he will compete in the British Open in July.

After the Jacksonville tournament, Locke will compete in the Greater Greensboro Open starting March 31, the Masters at Augusta starting April 7, and the Cavalier Invitational at Virginia Beach starting April 14.

Oxford And Cambridge Ready For Rowing Race

London, March 15.—(AP)—Sixteen husky undergraduates of Oxford and Cambridge are approaching the climax in their training for the annual varsity boat race between the two universities.

For the last six months they have pulled racing shells on the wintry waters of the Cam and Isis rivers. Now they are ready for the final phase of preparation on the faster and trickier Thames River at London's suburban Putney.

The race will be held March 20 over a 4.14-mile course on the Thames. Cambridge won last year in a record 17 minutes, 50 seconds.

This engagement is a tradition more British than a cricket test match or a football cup final.

It all started in 1829 when "eight young gentlemen of the University of Oxford" challenged "eight young gentlemen of the University of Cambridge" to a rowing race.

At the moment, the Oxford crew is rated as a slight favorite because of its smoother rhythm.

Batters Really Tee Off In Florida's Populous Dade County, Now Gadgettown

Vero Beach, Fla., March 15.—(NEA)—Members of the multiple Brooklyn squads—parent and family—training at the war-time Naval Air Base here play cards, checkers, chess and dominos in the evening.

During the day the Dazy Dodgers—present and upcoming—strive earnestly to piece together, and make sense of, a gigantic jigsaw puzzle.

There are 180 players at this seaside resort or near the plate. Ten of 12 are hit. Iron Mike is what the regular and aspiring Brooks call the highly-formidable appearing Moshier pitching machine. This rubber-tired, three-wheeled contrivance is the spittin' image of a heavy machine gun from the Battlefields of Normandy.

While an electric wagon was repairing it, the changes and bounces, some puffing from the barrel, stopped action on all four fields. It looked more like a harmless device designed to give a baseball player batting practice. Iron Mike serves up curves and everything, depending on how the sense of the ball is placed in the fingers.

But like the Dick Porter machine or bazooka, the trouble with Iron Mike is that the ball comes up to the hitter too suddenly. All he can do is shove the bat out there and meet it. There is no way for him to follow anything corresponding to the pitcher's motion.

The bazooka, operated by compressed air, is excellent as a fungo hitter, however, and by shooting long ones puffing from the barrel, stopped action on all four fields. It looked more like a harmless device designed to give a baseball player batting practice. Iron Mike serves up curves and everything, depending on how the sense of the ball is placed in the fingers.

Dartmouth To Meet U Of M In Montreal

Boston, March 15.—(AP)—Dartmouth's hockey forces came from behind with four goals in the second period and went on to defeat Harvard 7-2 last night in a Pennington League playoff game for the Hebe Baker Memorial Trophy behind the 3,167 fans at the Arena.

The victory gave the speedy green six the right to meet University of Montreal at the Forum tonight for the Alexis Thompson Trophy, emblematic of the International Intercollegiate Championship.

Quebec Citadels Dump Nationales 7-3 To Enter Finals With Royals

Montreal, March 15.—(AP)—Quebec Citadels advanced to the finals in the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association playoffs here last night when they outclassed the defending champion Montreal Nationales 7-3 before 8,000 Forum fans in the deciding game of the best-of-five semi-final series. Jean Marc Pichette was the big gun for the winners, firing three goals.

Quebec now meet Montreal Royals in the first game of the best-of-seven final here Friday night, with the second contest slated for Quebec Sunday. Remaining dates will be announced later.

The Citadels were full value for their victory in the final game of the topsy-turvy series in which the teams took turns winning. Tonight it was Quebec's turn, and the breaks came their way.

Quebec got off to a fast start with three markers in the first 15 minutes of the initial frame, two by Pichette and another by Manny Frechette.

Nationales claimed the first counter, by Frechette at the 2:10 mark, was braced in when the Citadels forward had his stick over his shoulder. Coach Sylvio Mantha of Nationales announced starting the second period that his team was playing the game under protest. But after it was over Mantha said he wouldn't lodge a test because of Quebec's big margin of victory.

Trailing 6-1 going into the finale, the Nats staged a brief rally to cut the margin to 6-3, but their drive stalled and Quebec went on to a well-earned triumph.

Second scoring honors for the victors went to Frechette who fired a brace of markers, with Maurice Sinard and Spike Laliberte getting the others. Nationales marksmen were Aime Bourgie, Claude Dolbec and Danny Caduc.

Both goalies, Gaetan Desforges for the Nats and Jacques Plante for Quebec, played standout games as both teams went all out for goals.

Boston Olympics To Join E.H.L. Next Year

Boston, March 15.—(AP)—Boston Olympics will play in the reorganized Eastern Hockey League next season under the auspices of the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, Walter A. Brown, Boston Garden arena president, said last night.

He said the Eastern League already is certain of entries from Boston, New York, Washington and Baltimore.

The Olympics entered the Quebec Senior Hockey League this season but dropped out early in the schedule.

BASEBALL TRAINING CAMP NOTES

Boston Braves have several players on the bench with minor hurts. Listed as ailing among the National League's Champions are third baseman Bob Elliott with a sore throwing arm, catcher Bill Salkeid with a stiff back, Lefty Warren Spain with a heel blister, Nels Potter with a stiff shoulder which he says is "custardy in the spring," and Phil Masi with stiff leg muscles.

New York Giants are boasting of the speed of three of their rookie outfielders, Gal Henley, Bill Milne and Hal Bamberger.

However, they are confronted with a tough task in beating out Bobby Thomson, Willard Marshall and Whitey Lockman for regular berths.

Brooklyn Manager Barney Shotton is pleased with the showing of pitcher Harry Taylor. Shotton said yesterday that Taylor looks like the major-league pitcher he was before he hurt his arm two years ago.

Manager Eddie Sawyer of Philadelphia Phillies is mighty happy over the way his pitchers are performing.

The Phillies have won their first three exhibition games and already have whipped Detroit Tigers twice. In three games nine Phillies hurlers have given up only 16 hits and permitted six runs.

Grady Hatton, Cincinnati Reds' third-baseman, is still riding the bench. He has been mentioned in a trade with Brooklyn.

Phil Marchildon, pitcher from Penetanguishene, Ont., was scheduled to pitch three innings today for Philadelphia Athletics in an exhibition game against Brooklyn Dodgers. The Canadian is hoping to have a better season this year if his arm rounds into shape.

New Haven, Conn.—Teddy (Red Top) Davis, 195, New York, out-pitched Joey Angelo, 138, Providence, R. I. (8).

Boston—Al (Red) Priest, 157, Cambridge, Mass., outpitched Billy Daly, 154, Brookline, Mass. (10).

Lord Mildmay Is Rated On Inside With His Favorite Mount, Cromwell, To Cop Grand National At Aintree

London, March 11.—(AP)—A blue-blooded and scattering spectators and shattering a life-time ambition.

Mildmay had rotten luck again last year. He was well up with the leaders aboard Cromwell a mile from home when the recurrence of an old neck injury forced the rider's head down onto his chest. Mildmay couldn't see where he was going; he had to leave the straining colts alone.

Cromwell's pace slackened but he took the remaining fences flawlessly to carry his half-priced owner home in third place.

Cromwell hasn't gone too well in his outings over less severe courses this winter, but it's a racing adage that Aintree with its 30 incredible fences is a low to itself. Any horse that can place third one year will might win the next.

Lord Mildmay, in the course of 13 seasons' racing, has suffered fractured collarbones, ribs, an arm, a wrist and a skull. But he still rides at his fences as if they just weren't there.

Bobby Locke Arrives For Golf Tourneys

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Organized baseball was called on today to show cause why three of its exiles—Danny Gardella, Max Lanier and Freddie Martin—should not be allowed to play ball immediately.

Judge Edward Conger issued an order yesterday directing leaders of the game to show cause why Gardella, Fred New York Giants' outfielder, should not be reinstated at once. The hearing was scheduled for 11:30 a.m. AST. There was a similar request by Martin and Lanier, former St. Louis Cardinals' pitchers.

In the application, Lanier and Martin petitioned that organized baseball be directed to permit them to sign contracts which do not contain a reserve or termination clause.

The reserve clause is that part of the contract that binds a player to one club until he is released, sold or traded.

The pitchers' suits are directed against Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler; the National League president, Ford Frick; the American League president, Will Harridge; George Trautman, minor league head; and all 16 major league teams. Gardella's directors are Chandler, Frick, Harridge, Trautman and the Giants.

In addition, the three men, banned for five years for jumping to the Mexican League in 1946, are seeking a total of $2,800,000 in damages.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, March 15.—(AP)—Lee Eoren, a California fight manager, has come up with a young featherweight named Bobby Why. Too bad they can't match Why with Roger Wynnott of Halifax and let the broadcasters develop another "who's on first" act. . . . During the 1948-49 basketball season, the team from William and Mary scored exactly 1,949 points. . . . Dan Chambers, who plays some first-class basketball for Jefferson, Ind., lost his left arm in an accident when he was seven. . . . He balances the ball on his left shoulder and then shoots with his right hand. . . .

Take Me Out To Ball Game
If the Browns won't let the Cardinals use Sportsman's Park in St. Louis this season, Manager Eddie Dyer's numerous Texas friends will take care of him. . . . For instance, Eddie's brother-in-law, Cy Shaw, is building a new ball park in Tomball, Tex., (pop. 500) and the other day he invited the Cards to play their home games there. . . . "Tomball won't see the Cards without a ball park," says Cy.

Clean The Cuff
Branch Rickey will be the featured speaker at Cleveland Browns' High School and college football coaches clinic in May. And it won't be surprising if some of the coaches turn up in Dodger farm uniforms. . . . Howie Schultz, the tall first baseman, has informed Sacramento he's giving up baseball. . . . Maybe he just beat ball in favor of pro basketball at baseball to the punch.

Sydney, Australia—Jack Hasen, 134-1-4, Sydney, knocked out Pierre Montane, 134-1-4, France (10).
