

Committee says Le Dain report permissive

MONTREAL (CP) — A committee of prominent doctors objected Thursday to any legalization of marijuana and criticized the Le Dain commission for publishing a "highly permissive, fact-hiding and vacillating" interim report last year.

In a statement to a news conference, the committee of 10 doctors from six provinces also described as inexcusable a claim by the federal government's commission on youth that "soft drugs are relatively harmless, or at least, so they seem in the absence of any conclusive medical evidence to the contrary."

The Le Dain report had recommended that marijuana and hashish should be under the control of the food and drug directorate and that possession should not be a criminal offence. The youth commission report, presented to State Secretary Gerard Pelletier in July, was in favor of legalizing marijuana.

Dr. Frank A. Dunsworth, a Halifax psychiatrist, read the statement and said the group had been formed because of what the doctors saw as a lack of reaction from professional groups to drug abuse in Canada.

At the news conference with Dr. Dunsworth, a past president of the Canadian Psychiatric Association, were Dr. Fred Lundell, associate professor of psychiatry at McGill University, Dr. Robert Duguay, associate professor of clinical psychiatry at University of Montreal, and Dr. Charles Brown, a Charlottetown, P.E.I. pediatrician.

SAW BAD REACTIONS

Dr. Lundell, a practising psychiatrist, said he had seen enough evidence of adverse reactions to marijuana, hashish and mescaline in his patients to warrant a growing concern.

The committee said their most "immediate and grave" concern was the possibility that the final report of the Le Dain Commission, expected in December, will be similar to the interim report.

In the interim report, the statement said, the Le Dain commission showed "both bias and social and scientific irresponsibility."

Used as an example of irresponsibility was the publishing of 25 unsigned letters, "unqualified, and completely unscientific, 22 of which extol the so-called 'delights' of using marijuana."

The committee said that the evidence of the harmful effects of marijuana was buried among hundreds of pages so that "no clear warning could be derived by an uncritical reader."

The committee said that in the last year new convincing evidence had been seen which it believed clearly indicated that marijuana should not be legalized or made more available for general use, unless additional research over the years alters these findings.

EVIDENCE NOT NEW

However, when questioned by reporters to pinpoint this "new evidence," the four doctors referred to their clinical work, studies and observations and finally acknowledged that the evidence was not new.

Isolated cases or a sign of the times

MONTREAL (CP) — Guy Gagnon, 42, city manager of suburban Verdun, underwent emergency surgery Thursday after being shot three times by a man said to have been dismissed from his job two months ago.

Police Chief Roger Dulude of Verdun said Mr. Gagnon was the shot twice in the abdomen and once in the shoulder as he was getting into his car outside his Beauty Street house.

A man was taken into custody by police and a .22-calibre weapon was recovered.

The shooting occurred about 2 p.m. as a car drove past Mr. Gagnon's home and a man opened fire.

It came a week after three DuPont of Canada Ltd. executives were fatally shot in their downtown Dorchester Boulevard offices in Montreal by a man who sought re-employment in the company.

Vincent Meloche, 27, has been charged with three counts of murder in the Du Pont shootings.

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Alleged cop killer appears

St. JEROME, Que. (CP) — Real Chartrand, 25, appeared briefly before Jean-Louis Taillon, St. Jerome district coroner, and was ordered held for eight days on a warrant naming him as a material witness in the killing of Scontable Gabriel Labelle.

Crown prosecutor Charles Cliehe said Chartrand would be brought before the coroner again next week and another warrant would be issued to hold him for another eight days if a police investigation into the death was not completed by that time.

No date was set for an inquest into the death of Const. Labelle, who was shot to death Wednesday in the nearby community of Ste. Therese pursuing a suspected bank robber.

Gendron mandate extended

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has extended the mandate of the Gendron commission until the end of 1972 when it will present its report, Francois Cloutier, Quebec cultural affairs minister, said Thursday.

In a recent meeting with Premier Robert Bourassa, the commission members, headed by Jean-Denis Gendron, said it would not be able to publish a complete report this fall due to delays in research requested by the commission.

This is the third time the commission, which is studying the status of the French language in Quebec, has had its mandate extended since its creation in 1968.

The first extension was in 1969 and the second in 1970.

Scotch pinched, recovered

MONTREAL (CP) — A shipment of $100,000 worth of scotch whiskey stolen from the Montreal harbor area recently was recovered in a warehouse in suburban Laval Thursday by Quebec Provincial Police.

One man was also arrested in the haul, which netted police two 17-ton containers of liquor destined for the Quebec Liquor Board as part of their Christmas stock.

The liquor was stolen Oct. 2, after six men armed with machine guns broke into the city harbor's east-end gate and overpowered the security guard. They then stole the guard's keys and loaded the liquor on to a flat-bed trailer truck with the help of a nearby crane.

The guard was taken to hospital with head injuries.

Firemen ordered back

MONTREAL (CP) — The executive of the Montreal Firemen's Association ordered the city's fire-fighting force to return to work late Thursday after a court injunction was issued demanding an end to the one-day walkout.

The association executive, headed by Jacques Morin, issued the order after a closed meeting to discuss the injunction, presented to the executive by city clerks earlier in the evening.

Benson's quasi-budget

Tax cuts may cause inflation, jobs

OTTAWA (CP) — Tax cuts and expanded spending announced Thursday night might generate inflationary pressures — as well as the jobs hoped for — and prompt another try at controlling the advance of prices and incomes.

The near-budget by Finance Minister E. J. Benson is designed to pump more money into the economy to stimulate demand for goods, productive activity and jobs.

But the pronounced shift of gears might also put upward pressure on prices.

That would be the opposite of the trap the government found itself in 1969 and 1970. Then, it was clamping down on spending to beat inflation but found that jobs were also diminishing.

The federal prices and incomes commission was set up to attempt to win voluntary compliance to restrain pay rates and prices. But the plan fell through last year.

LIFE EXTENDED

The commission's life has been extended, however, to next June and the government has worked out new restraint plans.

Mr. Benson said Thursday night that if his new financial measures prove inflationary, the government is ready to take appropriate counter-action.

He reiterated that the government will use some form of pay and price restraints if necessary.

Labor Minister Bryce Mackaseh said budgetary measures are inadequate in maintaining economic stability. Selective pay and price controls might be necessary, he added, but he hoped not.

Within less than two years, federal money managers have switched away from collecting more than they spend to a budget in which they will outspend income by $1 billion — the biggest budget deficit in a quarter-century.

Nineteen months ago, Mr. Benson was budgeting for a surplus in the financial year that ended last March 31, although less than half the $380 million surplus in the previous financial year.

But by the summer of 1970, the government began to shift away from surplus budgeting — used to fight price inflation — towards deficit financing, designed as a cure for unemployment.

CHANGES ESTIMATE

By last December, in a free-spending budget, Mr. Benson had turned his original estimate of a surplus for 1970-71 into a deficit of more than $400 million.

Citizens' inquiry

Business man says Canada still free

MONTREAL (CP) — The citizens' commission of inquiry into the War Measures Act heard submissions Thursday from lawyers, students, people who were imprisoned under the act and a businessman who said, "despite our failures, Canada is still a free country."

The businessman was George Wesley, born in Czechoslovakia, who has lived in Montreal for 20 years. Mr. Wesley was a founding member of the Human Rights League in Montreal and was a director of the organization for three years.

"Is there more freedom in Europe, in Russia, in the so-called socialist countries, in Japan, in India or Pakistan?" Mr. Wesley asked.

"The fact that you have constituted a citizens' committee sitting with complete freedom, supported by the press and information media without fear of reprisal, is living proof that despite all the weaknesses of a parliamentary democracy we enjoy liberties which unfortunately do not exist anywhere else in the world."

RECALLS HOT WORDS
Before the committee made up its mind about the motives of the government in invoking the War Measures Act, Mr. Wesley said, they should consider the number of speeches made in the province urging the public to resort to violence and revolution.

"You are aware that the governments offered compensation to innocent victims. Even if this was minimal, it was a unique gesture which few governments would ever imitate."

In other testimony at the hearings Thursday, lawyer Claude Filion said that the War Measures Act was imperfect and imprecise, and said that insurrection was adequately dealt with under the Criminal Code.

Lawyer Michel Lamarre said the committee should consider how useful the War Measures Act was in terms of its over-all effect.

Benson cuts income taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — The three-per-cent income-tax cut announced by Finance Minister E.J. Benson will hit Canadians like wine. The bouquet can be sniffed now but the effect won't be felt for a while.

The reduction already is of 3½ months vintage—it is retroactively effective last July 1.

But deductions from pay cheques won't begin until the new year, when new tax schedules have been made up. Mr. Benson said people will be receiving refunds during the winter months.

For non-salaried people who pay their income tax quarterly, the decrease will be felt immediately, or at least as soon as they pay their final installment for this year.

Mr. Benson's announcement doesn't mean everyone will pay three per cent less income tax, because he is in charge only of federal income tax. Provinces also charge income tax, which is collected by the federal government except in Quebec.

Mr. Benson said his proposed tax measures would not reduce provincial revenues from corporate or personal income tax.

The tax cut means that Canadians will have had a six per cent tax reduction this year, effective last July 1.

In his June 18 budget, Mr. Benson announced removal of the three-per-cent surtax as of Last July 1. The surtax had been in effect since 1968.

There are also provisions in the government's tax-change bill, now being studied in committee of the whole Commons, that would remove 750,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls.

Unemployment won't change

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's rate of unemployment has run at an average 4.8 per cent of the labor force since the Liberals took power in 1963 and will continue to do so under present geographical conditions, Labor Minister Bryce Mackaseh said Thursday night.

Speaking in Commons debate on Finance Minister E. J. Benson's new economic measures, Mr. Mackaseh said no rate of unemployment was acceptable. But there were practical considerations as to how low the unemployment rate could go.

When the Conservatives had been in power between 1958 and 1962 the rate had been about six per cent, he said. Since the Liberals had been in power, 4.8 per cent had been "the recorded history of the country," and would continue to be so under current conditions of geography, climate and under population, he said.

Mr. Mackaseh was the only minister to give an estimate on future employment possibilities. Mr. Benson and Manpower Minister Otto Lang had refused earlier at a news conference.

The unemployment rate for September was five per cent.

The minister also said Canada can never again tackle inflation with the "blunt instruments of fiscal and monetary policy." Efforts to do that had been a failure, he said.

Cloud Jungles: An experience

LENNOXVILLE — "Cloud Jungles of Central America!" What's the approach?

Documentary wildlife photography, in color of course, with narration by Drs. Lorus and Margery Milne of the University of New Hampshire. First quarterly entertainment for the general public and an educational experience at the same time.

For those who know the series, the guarantee of quality is that Cloud Jungles is the subject of the 18th Annual Bird and Wildlife Revue, sponsored by the St. Francis Valley Naturalists' Club. This Club evolved from the more narrowly based St. Francis-Massawippi Bird Club and broadened its interest considerably, placing the emphasis more on habitat and ecology.

To those who don't know this series of wildlife programs, and particularly to those with young children who will soon face environmental problems in a more mature way, the Club issues an invitation to participate not only in this major, once-a-year program but in other Club activities designed to increase the awareness of the public concerning the quality of our environment.

The Milnes are outstandingly well qualified to heighten our awareness of nature and love of its manifestations. They are animal ecologists, eminent in their field, a husband and wife team, prolific writers, world-wide travellers, observers, photographers and interpreters of the diversity of life. Alternating between teaching and travelling, they have logged three-quarters of a million miles in their journeys.

DR. AND MRS. LORUS J. MILNE

After their book, Water and Life, was made into a TV color film, the Milnes were invited by the National Geographic Society to travel further "to study the uses of water by peoples throughout the world." At present, they are working on a National Geographic project related to their book, The Senses of Animals and Man.

They have written or co-authored more than 30 books, some selected for the permanent White House library. Some of their books are textbooks, but the majority are for the general public.

Translations have been made to French, Dutch and German. The Nature of Life was a 1970 Literary Guild selection. Life's Nature Library features the Milnes in the volume The Mountains.

From Honduras to Costa Rica, the peaks of Central America wring moisture from the trade winds. Like islands wreathed in swirling mists, they remain remote from one another. Too wet for cultivation, these mountain crests have been spared by man, serving still as natural sanctuaries.

Among their delicate orchids and tree ferns hide many tropical animals, including ocelots and the elusive quetzal bird — symbol of freedom. In their central American travels to study these dripping "cloud jungles" the Milnes encountered a tremendous diversity of living things, plant and animal.

The fruits of this trip make the program for the general public in the auditorium of Alexander Galt Regional High School Saturday, Oct. 23, at 8:15 p.m.

The Milnes will be in the area from Oct. 17-26, appearing in schools and universities here and as far away as Montreal and Quebec, all under the auspices of the Naturalists' Club, and with a variety of programs. Their final program will be in the Centennial Theatre of Bishop's University at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 26. Although this program is primarily for Bishop's University students the general public may purchase tickets for this second program, Down Under — Australia, New Zealand and Fiji, to the extent that space is available.

ACW to hold Scotch Auction Nov. 3

NORTH HATLEY — A meeting of the ACW was held in the Community Hall, North Hatley, at 2:30 p.m. on Wed. Oct. 6, at which 16 members were present. With Mrs. Charles Coleman, President, in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, after which Mrs. Grant LeBaron, in the absence of Mrs. Detchon, gave the financial statement, showing $1,264.62 in the general account and $1,836.80 in the Memorial Fund.

Mrs. Stanton and Miss Gillies donated some good woolen clothing for shipment to Schefferville when the next bale is ready. Mrs. Carl Reed and Mrs. Chas. Coleman both hold keys to the cupboard in the Church basement for storage of such items.

Mrs. Whelton read a report from Mrs. Springings of the Deanery Meeting in Sherbrooke, on Sat. Oct. 2, after which Mrs. Eke gave a detailed talk on the financial state of the Deanery - some discussion followed as to the best way of raising funds towards this work, and it was decided to hold a Scotch Auction, with the proceeds to go to the Deanery Funds. The Scotch Auction will take place on Nov. 3rd and it was suggested that all Associate members and absentees from the regular meeting be contacted to attend this affair.

Members were asked to bring a gift on Oct. 20 for the Gift Table at the Fall Tea, to be held on Nov. 17. Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. Styan will convene this tea along with representatives from the UCV who will share this Tea with us. Mrs. Walter Sutherland, Mrs. Arthur Eke and Miss Hazel Ireland will be in charge of the gift table.

Thanksgiving Services were held on Sunday, Oct. 10 and members were asked to help in the decorating of the church for this service. Mrs. Hargreaves, Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. V. Plow were in charge of this work.

Miss Ireland reported that the calendars will be the same price as last year - .75 each - and asked each member to take one or two.

Mrs. Carroll Cate and Mrs. Arthur Eke served tea to the residents of Connaught Home on Oct. 13.

Mrs. Styan asked that Thank Offering Boxes be brought to the Corporate Communion on Tuesday, Nov. 30.

The Opening Prayers at the next meeting will be taken by Dr. Gillard, in the absence of the President.

On motion made by Mrs. Whelton, the meeting then adjourned.

CCH & M Society meet in Museum

COOKSHIRE — The executive of the CCH & M Society held a meeting in the Museum recently, with the president, Mr. Duncan McLeod in the chair.

Routine business was conducted, and final plans were made for the annual meeting held on Sept. 25. Mrs. Perkins was in charge of the refreshments to be served.

The president is to look at a large stone on the Nugent farm, to see if it could be moved and used at the Museum.

Some of the members will meet to re-arrange and clean up the upstairs of the building on Oct. 4.

Milan

Mr. Vernon Nicholson, Victoria B.C. and Mr. Toivo Laurila, Nipigon, Ont., spent a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Nicholson. Other recent visitors at the Nicholson home were Mr. Wesley Nicholson, Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Farrell, Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Dearborn, Mich., and Mrs. J. E. Macdonald, Scotstown.

It was stated that the next Eastern Townships Historical Society meeting would be on Monday, Sept. 27, in Sherbrooke; representatives from this society will attend.

It was decided to have a cavalcade in the spring instead of this fall, possibly to Megantic County and Lysander Falls.

Mrs. Stanley Bishop was appointed convener of a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers to the annual meeting, for the ensuing year.

Quite a lengthy discussion was held on the filing of information of the remaining cemeteries in the district.

Historial Society pilgrimage

STANSTEAD — The annual autumn pilgrimage of the Stanstead Historical Society was held on Saturday, Sept. 18 when approximately 100 persons assembled at Hackett Park in Stanstead to begin the pilgrimage into Vermont.

Historical Society, Edward Alexander of Barton.

Here all ate their picnic lunches, then members of the Historical Society guided the visitors on a tour of their museum at the Old Stone House.

The trip was planned by E. J. Struthers of Stanstead who prepared an excellent itinerary. Places of interest in Stanstead village were pointed out then the trip began by passing through Customs on 91 highway, taking exit 24, viewing the scenic area of mountains, lakes and woods.

According to Mr. Struthers, history relates that the school established in the Old Stone House became a powerful influence in the life of Orleans County and the Eastern Townships. The itinerary told a fascinating tale of its history. Needless to say everyone enjoyed the museum visit and seeing how rooms are depicting yesteryears.

Points at Newport to Coventry, an early pioneer community that has much history, to Orleans, settled as Barton Landing in 1821 renamed in 1909 to Brownington where the cavalcade were met by the President of the Orleans County

The return trip was by the Hinman road to Derby, Derby Line, Rock Island and Stanstead thus bringing to an end another successful pilgrimage.

Church groups hold meetings

Services in Bethany Presbyterian Church during the month of September have been in charge of Mr. James Matheson, Montreal, while Rev. and Mrs. Ross Davidson and family were away on holidays.

NORTH HATLEY — The first meeting of the Anglican Church Women of St. Barnabas Church since the summer recess, was held in the Community Hall with Mrs. C. Styan and Mrs. V. Wilson as hostesses.

at the home of Mrs. R.E. Allworth. Nine members were present.

Mrs. Ronald Olson took the Devotions and read a story from the Observer and said a short prayer.

Mrs. Agnes Welch, Virden, Man., and Miss Ruth Welch Rivers, Man., who have been visiting relatives and friends in this area and in Vermont have returned home. They were accompanied back by Mr. and Mrs. Murdo E. Murray, Virden, who had been guests of Mr. Leslie and Miss Mary MacLeod for a few days and also visiting relatives and friends in the Townships.

Mrs. C. Coleman, president, conducted the meeting.

Several ladies attended the Deanery meeting held at St. Peter's Church in Sherbrooke on October 2.

The Christmas Sale and Tea will be held jointly with the United Church Women on November 17, in the Community Hall.

As the program, Mrs. George Cheal, gave her report as the representative at Summer School, held at Macdonald College. She gave the highlights of the meetings and was greatly impressed by the guest speaker and the visit of the Moderator of the United Church of Canada, Doctor B.B. Moore.

Miss Doris McLeod, Montreal, is spending two weeks holidays at her home here.

Three names are to be added to the Memorial Book—Melissa Bowen Rohden, Edward E. Spice and Harold Edgar.

The treasurer's report was very gratifying and showed a good balance as the result of the summer activities.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Stewart were Mr. and Mrs. R. Leavitt and family, Montreal.

UNITED CHURCH WOMEN

The North Hatley United Church Women held their opening meeting of the fall season on September 20 at 2 p.m.

It was decided that eight members would attend the Fall Rally at Hatley on September 28. Tea was served by the hostess, Mrs. R.E. Allworth.

Major and Mrs. Walter Murray, Montreal, spent the week-end at their summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold MacIver and family of Loo Lake, Sask., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McLeod. Other recent callers at the McLeod home were Mrs. Malcolm Martin and Miss Jean Martin, Carrying Place, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. William Cork Sawyerville, Mrs. Ivan Cork, Cookshire, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Westgate, Plymouth, N.H.

Miss Mary MacLeod accompanied Mrs. Herbert Mayhew, Lennoxville, to Ottawa where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osler for three days.

Miss Doris McLeod, Montreal, is spending two weeks holidays at her home here.

Highwater Dunkin

Mrs. Carl Merriam, North Troy, recently spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Aiken and at the Aiken-Macey home.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Barnett, Cromwell, Conn., spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilkins, while in Canada, they called on a number of relatives and friends.

Mrs. John Barnett spent a few days in St. Basile-le-Grand where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Maxwell and family.

Miss Helen Cousins, Montreal, spent a day recently with Mrs. Ben Barnett. Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Barnett were Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Thompson, Ayer's Cliff.

Cowansville Pastoral Charge establishes team ministry

COWANSVILLE — The Cowansville Area Pastoral Charge of the United Church of Canada has established a team ministry. The Charge, which includes churches in Brigham, Cowansville, East Farnham and Farnham, will now be served by two ministers, the present pastor, the Rev. J. D. McCord and the Rev. James H. Sinclair.

The arrival of Mr. Sinclair is one of the final steps in the development of this larger parish. Brigham and Farnham have been without a full-time pastor for two years. During that time both congregations were under the supervision of Mr. McCord, the minister of Emmanuel United Church (Cowansville) and the East Farnham congregation. He was assisted in his responsibilities by members of each church as well as visiting laymen and clergy.

The new parish structure grew out of that arrangement. Though each congregation retains its own identity it is now a member of the larger pastoral charge with a central office in Cowansville at 203 Main St.

The new body will be formally inaugurated on Wednesday, November 17, during a visit her by the Moderator of the United Church of Canada, the Rev. Dr. A. B. B. Moore.

Under the team set-up Mr. McCord's primary responsibility will be his role as the Protestant Chaplain at the Cowansville Federal Penitentiary. Mr. Sinclair's work will include administration, hospital visitation, weddings and funerals. Each man will share in the leadership of worship, programing and individual and group counseling.

This Sunday evening, October 17 at 8 p.m. an induction service for Mr. Sinclair will be held at Emmanuel Church by the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery.

Mr. McCord has lived in Cowansville since 1962. He previously served pastorates in Knowlton and Toronto. He and Mrs. McCord have two sons. Mr. Sinclair was the United Church minister in Schefferville, Quebec, from 1967 to 1969. For the past two years he has been doing graduate work in psychotherapy and clinical pastoral education while working for hospitals and a mental hygiene clinic in Pennsylvania and Delaware. He and his wife Donna have one son.

New England wants end to oil quotas

BOSTON (AP) — Three United States senators called Thursday for an end to import quotas on oil, especially on Canadian oil, charging that the quotas were making New England residents pay an excess of $145 million a year for heating bills.

Senator Edward M. Kennedy (Dem. Mass.) was the opening witness at a hearing of the U.S. Senate subcommittee on small business which opened a twoday session on the oil situation in the area.

Senator Thomas J. McIntyre (Dem. N.H.) is chairman of the subcommittee, and Senator Edward W. Brooke (Rep. Mass.) is the ranking Republican on it.

Kennedy said that the debate over oil imports "has been one of callous disregard for the health, comfort, and pocketbooks of the consumers, homeowners, and small businessmen of this Commonwealth (Massachusetts) and all of New England."

Kennedy said that a cabinet force which studied the oil import quota system found critical faults in every area of the system.

"In short, the oil import program is a failure in theory and fact," Kennedy said.

"In summary the oil import program is a multi-million-dollar boondoggle that provides profits for the few at the expense of the many, that keeps petroleum prices at artificially high levels that fails in its stated security goals, and that wastes our natural resources."

Brooke, in an opening statement, said that New England is the only area of the country "where more heating oil is consumed than gasoline."

Brooke called for free importation of residual fuel oil, complete de-control of imports of No. 2 fuel oil, which is the kind used for households, and elimination of import restrictions on all finished oil products from Canada.

McIntyre called for total de-control of the oil import system or substantial alteration of it.

BRIEFLETS

KIRKDALE — Afternoon tea and sale, Wednesday, October 20 in the Parish Hall, Kirkdale starting at 3:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

SHERBROOKE — Dr. M. Salvas wishes to announce that his dental office is now located at 230 King St. West, Suite 202.

"While the national per capita cost of the oil import program was $24 in 1969, the cost to consumers in Massachusetts was $35 a person, in New Hampshire $39, in Maine $41 and in Vermont, $45," McIntyre said.

A Thomas Easley, executive president of the New England Council for Economic Development, told the hearing that the unfair high price was "particularly galling to New Englanders who are aware of the fact that their neighbors to the north in Montreal and the province of Quebec, where there are no restrictions on imports from lower-cost world sources, pay 24 cents in U.S. funds per U.S. gallon less than consumers in major New England markets."

City council to discuss pollution

SHERBROOKE (BSL) — The topic of Monday night's council meeting will be that infamous problem — pollution.

News of the meeting on Tuesday was officially confirmed through a press release yesterday. The release states that a series of exchanges between the city and the Front Communit Anti-pollution that ended on September 7, and an interim report conducted by engineer Jean Guy Grondin, responsible for the city's sanitary engineering department, and Aurele Deneault of the city's health department will be the main topics of discussion at the meeting.

Women jailed for shoplifting

SHERBROOKE (BSL) — Lise Vachon, 21, and Normande Blanchette, 18, both of Sherbrooke were each sentenced to one day in jail for shoplifting, Wednesday, by Sessions Court Judge Benoit Turmel.

Lise Vachon was found in the possession of five pairs of panties, valued at $5, stolen from the Steinberg's Miracle Mart on Belvedere Street. Crown Prosecutor Mignonne L. Tessier told the court that the accused had been apprehended in connection with a similar offence but that she had not been prosecuted.

Miss Blanchette was accused of stealing two wigs, one pair of pants, two cassette recordings, and a battery, totalling more than $80.

According to the law a person found guilty of stealing merchandise valuing less than $50 is liable to a maximum of two years in prison, a theft of more than $50 is liable to a maximum of 10 years in prison.

Judge Turmel mentioned that shop lifting had reached epidemic proportions in the region. He said that many people went before the courts each year on shoplifting charges. Statistics show that most of the stealing is done by women and young girls. Judge Turmel also sentenced two other offenders to a fine of $25 or eight days in jail for the same offence and also issued summonses against three people who were to face charges of shoplifting but were not present at court.

Hockey registration day

By DON MONTGOMERY

Hockey registration day in Lennoxville is this Sunday, from 1:00-3:00 p.m. at the Lennoxville Optimist Park. Parents are urged to bring their children to register, as they have to sign the registration form allowing their son to participate in the hockey program. A registration fee of $10 is required to cover the cost of the referees, entrance to the league and other additional expenses such as tournaments. More information may be acquired from the personnel at registration.

The hockey teams will be chosen by the coaches on October 23. All boys who register will be able to actively participate in the winter program. Registration is open to boys 6-14-years-old.

Once again it is that time of the year when boys of all ages are sorting out their hockey equipment, getting ready for another season of their favorite winter sport.

It is not unusual to see a boy fighting the cold early morning air, armed with whatever equipment he may have and carrying his only weapon, the hockey stick, on his way to the local hockey rink.

He is encouraged by his dedicated love for the sport, the famous National League player or players that he idolizes and on the occasion by the mother or father who will accompany him on his journey.

Why don't more parents take an active interest in what their children are doing?

Maybe we are wrong when we speak of a career and possibly fame to a six-year-old boy, for each game he plays he seems to be in his own glory and he is proud of every feat that he has accomplished in the game.

From a spectators point of view, nothing can be more exciting than to watch a youngster as he scrambles for the puck and often over-shooting or over-skating it. Every game is a challenge for your son and he honors this challenge whether he wins or loses.

Why don't you as a parent, try to accept this challenge alongside your son this coming season, by accompanying him to the local rink, to cheer him on.

Gervais appointed committee president

SHERBROOKE (BSL) — Paul Gervais, Liberal MP for Sherbrooke was appointed president of the Justice and Legal Affairs committee of the House of Commons yesterday.

Mr. Gervais will replace outgoing president Donald Tolmie MP (Welland-Ontario).

The Justice and Legal Affairs Committee is one of the most important parliamentary committees which exist. It handles most bills which have a predominantly legal aspect. One of the bills scheduled for discussion in the near future by the committee is the law on capital punishment, another that touches subject of public privacy and eavesdropping.

Mr. Gervais says that he is very pleased with his appointment. "It is a very important and prestigious committee that handles many serious bills and I am very pleased to act as its president."

Hard facts

Like baseball's .210 hitter and hockey's 10-goal scorer, Prime Minister Trudeau is today agonizing — at least one would hope he is — over the cold, hard statistics that tell of his failure.

Canada's adjusted unemployment rate scaled heights it had not reached since 1961 in September and camped at a scandalous 7.1 per cent. This represents a 6 increase from August, a large enough rise under any conditions but especially damaging in view of the government's promises that the figure would drop steadily throughout 1971.

In fact, it worsened in one month in no fewer than five provinces, including two of the big three. Quebec and British Columbia rates went up, as did those of Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan. The trend was national in scope.

Even more alarming, the rate was higher in September, 1971, than the same month a year ago in all but two provinces, Prince Edward Island and British Columbia.

Quebec's adjusted unemployment figure rose from 8.2 to 9.3 per cent from August to September, and there were 14,000 more Quebecers unemployed in the ninth month of this year than in that of 1970.

Such a dramatic change in the figures in one month could hardly have been expected, but the magnitude of the increase is only rendered that much more emphatic thereby.

Mr. Trudeau, after, one suspects, a preview look at the figures, Wednesday attempted to blame United States President Nixon's economic policies for Canada's hardship, saying the import surcharge imposed by the Americans was hurting badly. The fact is that Canadian exports to the U.S. went up in volume in September from August.

It will do no good, Mr. Trudeau, to point a suntanned finger toward our neighbor to the south and blame our ills on men there, men who have their own problems — and it seems, something you lack: solutions.

You promised us in 1968 a Just Society. We are discovering more every day what you meant — Just Plain Awful.

You would have a difficult time now, Mr. Trudeau, in calling an election this year. And next spring, from all indications, things will be worse.

It must have been nice while it lasted, that jet-setting to the Caribbean and Europe, pursued by a mob of reporters and thrill-seekers intent on being close to the action stimulated first by the world's most prominent political swinger and then by a glamorous political couple. But the end would appear to be in sight.

The Canadian people are ready to say enough so we can Just Undo The Damage.

French press opinion

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal Le Devoir: If it was only a question of agreeing to a program that would favor the growth of the cultural values which some five million citizens of non-English, non-French extraction represent to Canada, the measures announced by Mr. Trudeau would be greeted with satisfaction in all parts of the country.

In Saskatchewan and Manitoba, the proportion of Canadians of non-English and non-French background is greater than the proportion of citizens with an English or French background.

In Ontario, they constitute 35 per cent of the population in British Columbia 35 per cent. In Montreal, even, there are probably more than 300,000. Why not recognize this fact in the cultural policy of governments?

A great number of new Canadians, even if they tend by their way of life and their culture to integrate into one or the other of the "two societies" of which the B and B commission spoke, still maintain their original heritage. They have demanded on many occasions more explicit support from governments to this end.

The B and B commission recommended in the fourth volume that the government respect the cultural values of the "third group" in Canadian life. To deny the existence of these groups, the commission correctly stated, "would be to deny the Canadian reality."

We do not know how to subscribe to Mr. Trudeau's theory that there is no official culture in Canada, and that we must be satisfied with a "policy of multiculturalism within a bilingual framework."

In separating language and culture, Mr. Trudeau minimizes the close link which binds one to the other.

Canada's two official languages, far from existing as simple subjects of legal definitions, are the expression of two cultures, of two peoples, the two societies which give Canada its original form.

The commission clearly explained the vital link between language and culture. It made this reality the cornerstone without which all its recommendations on language have little justification.

"The immigrant," wrote the commission, "must know that the country recognizes two official languages and two principal cultures."

The most elementary realism demands that citizens of diverse origins accept to integrate fully, after a certain length of time and without renouncing their heritage, into one of the two societies which form Canada. Any plan to develop their cultural riches which does not rest on this assumption would be a source of serious misunderstanding.

Mr. Trudeau no doubt is interested in winning the votes in the West which have been escaping him by the thousands for several years. His plans will help him. On the other hand they will scarcely contribute to a better understanding of certain fundamental realities without which this country hardly makes sense any more. — Claude Ryan (Oct. 9)

Montreal La Presse: The solicitor-general of Canada, Jean-Pierre Goyer, has unveiled a program to reform and liberalize the penitentiary system in the country.

Among other things, prisoners will henceforth be able to benefit more often from holidays — be paid for their work, take part in community activities, study and participate in the organization of prison life.

The minister maintained it is necessary to make life inside prison resemble normal life as much as possible. Mr. Goyer favors parole—even if 80 per cent of the prisoners in Canada are repeat offenders.

It would be premature to make a final judgment in the program since the solicitor-general gave only a brief glimpse in the Commons. May we be permitted, however, to note that such a program will give prisoners advantages that many Canadian citizens would like to have.

That is why it risks being rather unpopular in a society which already has to pay $10,400 a year to keep an individual in prison.

To state that 80 per cent of prisoners can be rehabilitated when 80 per cent of those in jail are repeaters is proof of a lot of optimism. To state that the rehabilitation of delinquents remains one of the major problems of our time is to forget the problems of our time. To state that the accent will be put on rehabilitation rather than on the protection of society is to multiply the blunders.

Of all the leaders of other parties only Real Caouette denounced the federal government's plan. Mr. Caouette wanted to be frank; he was brutal. But he showed himself to be a much better politician than Mr. Goyer.

To make yourself the defender of the "poor prisoner" in this time of economic difficulties and social ills is to overestimate the powers of persuasion. That is why Mr. Goyer should hasten to display his complete program for prison reform. We can then analyze facts, not intentions. — Claude Gravel (Oct. 9)

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: A real coup de theatre happened in Montreal when Marcel Pepin decided to remain at his post.

The president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions had tendered his resignation several weeks ago, to general surprise, when he had completed less than half his mandate.

Mr. Pepin had explained that his resignation was good for the CNTU, that new blood would give new drive to the labor movement. But it was clearly felt that these were weak reasons and that basically the gesture reflected profound dissension within the executive of the CNTU.

The about-face of the CNTU president justifies that view, as paradoxical as that may appear.

The executive meeting last week was to find a successor to Mr. Pepin or to decide on a special convention to choose a successor.

It seems a fact that the executive council was deeply divided on the question. The leftist elements of the movement hoped for a special convention, especially since the only announced candidate to replace Mr. Pepin, Paul-Ernie Dalpe, belonged to the right wing.

The election of Mr. Dalpe would not have improved things.

Mr. Pepin has always been a man of compromise. We believe these recent events will improve his position.

We are led to believe that Mr. Pepin will be able next June to renew his mandate, as well as have his own team elected.

At its meeting the executive council presented a document in which it says squarely that it is by "socialist planning that the workers will become owners of their own jobs and will be able to share in the full profits themselves."

Is the CNTU transforming itself into a political party? We do not know.

However, one thing is certain: The labor movement is ill. We will certainly have to find fast solutions. Perhaps before changing the whole system, one has to change a mentality, and that would be much easier for a start. — Sylvio Saint-Amant (Oct. 8)

Quebec Le Soleil: The Gray report on foreign ownership was the centre of controversy before it was even born. People are wondering whether or not it is still relevant in one way or another.

There is a point in asking for Aug. 15 changed a lot of perspectives.

In the last several weeks many things have changed.

From the moment that Canada, France, Britain, Sweden, Germany feel it is their right to practise economic nationalism on a certain scale, in other words protectionism, it is difficult to see how any country can reproach the U.S. for doing as much.

The task of governments is certainly not an easy one. Wherever it comes from, capital brings with it a way of life and a manner of thinking.

The Gray report was to attempt to determine how far an enterprise could go with foreign capital.

One might think that the United States will facilitate the task for the authors of such reports. In restraining the outflow of capital, the Americans will domesticate it. How will the Gray report be able to say we must restrain American capital to protect our economy when the capital is already restrained?

It remains to be seen. It will also be said that the Gray report is more relevant than ever, since Nixonism makes us understand more than ever that it is not good to put all our eggs in one basket, and that Canada must be protected from all future Aug. 15ths.

We will have to wait until capital from other sources becomes cumbersome. But for the moment, it is still necessary to conclude that foreign investment is still needed and the alleged American threat of taking over our economy has lost its teeth.

Uncle Sam's eagle returns to its nest to fly to other skies. — A. Tremblay (Oct. 7)

Missed point

Dear Sir,
The "miss" from Lennoxville certainly read a lot into my letter which just wasn't there.
First of all, I'm bilingual and do not feel at all contaminated speaking French daily on the job, where it's 85 per cent French. Nor do I feel contaminated speaking it to my in-laws—you see, I married into a French family.
One other small point. Indeed I have gone "hungrily" to see each and every movie in English at the Granada—but can remember long stretches (one was nine months) when there was none. We'd say "Let's take in a movie. Newport or Montreal?"
She has a right to her opinion, but missed my point entirely.

Precautionary explanation

Dear Sir,
With reference to a letter by Mr. E. F. Molony to your paper as a result of your article on the Stanstead College Hunter Safety Group, I would like to make it absolutely clear that the words "small birds" should have read "small game" (i.e. duck, partridge, woodchuck).
The theoretical part of my course, recognised by the Quebec Government, includes matters of conservation and hunting law. Under no circumstances will song birds, or other "protected" species, be hunted. In fact this type of training and education is aimed at the prevention of such senseless and brutal killing.
Unless our youth is educated to recognise the importance of hunting rules and civilized behavior in the forest, the existence of any wildlife in the future is very doubtful. Properly controlled hunting of selected species, with the licence money used for research and conservation purposes, is one way of guaranteeing their survival. The survival of all species of wildlife is a matter of as much concern to the hunter as it is to Mr. Molony.
To avoid further misunderstanding, I would be grateful if you would forward this letter to Mr. Molony whether you print his letter or not.
Yours faithfully,
Captain P. G. G. Howard

Is it Prime Minister Trudeau's intention to entrench his power? We have seen a proliferation of nominations which has swollen the ranks of deputy ministers in the federal government. Virtually two out of three MPs now have some title or other. Of 151 Liberal members, 30 are ministers, 39 are either presidents or vice-presidents of committees and 28 hold the position of parliamentary secretary. To this number we must add recent nominations to the posts of whip and assistant whip.

What is the underlying reason for this series of rewards handed out three and a half years after the Liberal rise to power? It appears that more and more backbenchers, becoming increasingly conscious of the failures of the economic and monetary policies of the present government, have begun to pose probing questions about the resulting chaos. Moreover, they are worried about the declining popularity of their leader nationally, with the possible exception of Quebec. They are gritting their teeth. What then is the best method of dealing with such an incipient mutiny if not to award a modest medal in the form of a title and accompanying increase in salary? The nascent spoiler may then return, a near-celebrity, to his constituents with that much more prestige.

The discouraging thing is that this policy may not necessarily hurt the party's chances in the next election. Times have changed.

Who doesn't remember the patronage attributed to Maurice Duplessis in his days as Quebec's premier, matters like the distribution of refrigerators at election time?

Today, however, everything is much more subtle: formation of the Company of Young Canadians; the Youth Commission study whose greatest accomplishment was the recommendation that marijuana be legalized after the group, taking themselves for experts in the field of drugs, had interviewed a couple of thousand young people; winter works programs, manpower retraining programs. If these instruments of Liberal policy have presented anybody at all with something tangible, they represent an extremely small minority.

Those who have benefited most are several contractors and party faithful. What the people who are not "in" with Mr. Trudeau want are jobs, not charity from their government. Winter works programs and other like projects are nothing more than palliatives, mush to be eaten today with promises of steak tomorrow.

The official Opposition has for some time been proposing, albeit to deaf government ears, constructive measures to meet our sorry situation: tax cuts, abolition of the 11 per cent tax on building materials, interest rate reductions.

These suggestions are the foundation for the building of a strong, expansionist economy amid the atmosphere of confidence which accompanies such a program, one in which the investor, Canadian or foreign, knows what to expect as a return on his investment. He has a right to expect a fair return on the use of his money without fear that whatever profit he realizes will be cut in half by a confiscatory government.

The present government has created a climate of uncertainty with its proposals contained in Mr. Benson's white paper and fiscal reform measures. These are not reforms derived from liberal inspiration but are straight socialist in nature.

There is in addition such an indescribable jumble in this proposed legislation that Judge Pigeon of the Supreme Court recently declared certain passages to be incomprehensible. Thus we have the situation in which a major piece of legislation is open solely, to all intents and purposes, to the interpretation of the minister who authored it—a sword hanging over the head of the taxpayer.

It is clearly time to junk the economic and monetary philosophy which has propelled this country to the brink of ruin.

Melbourne Unit UCW begins new season

RICHMOND — The Melbourne Unit of the Richmond-Melbourne United Church UCW met on Wed. Sept. 15, being the first meeting following the summer recess, at the home of Mrs. F. A. Fleck, with Mrs. A. Mallette and Mrs. John Wilkins as assisting hostesses.

The captain, Mrs. Mallette opened the meeting by observing a minute silence in memory of a devoted member Mrs. Carl Spence whose death came as a great shock to her many friends.

Mrs. Mallette welcomed the members and one visitor Mrs. Harold McKenzie. The devotions were conducted by Miss T. Mills by repeating Psalm 23 in unison and prayer with the thought Trust in God despite trouble after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated by all. The hymn, My times are in Thy hand was sung with Miss Marion Kerr at the organ.

The roll call was answered by the members reporting 117 Wales Home calls and 41 local ones made since the last meeting.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary Miss Mills and were approved as read and the treasurer Mrs. W. Moreland gave a very satisfactory report.

The correspondence consisted of four letters. One letter concerning sponsorship of Foster Child and one from Foster Child thanking the members for their help, and two letters acknowledging thank-you cards.

Mrs. Mallette expressed thanks to all those who placed flowers in the church, supervised kitchen, cared for the communion glasses and visited the Wales Home. Also Mrs. Dapp for donating flowers.

A donation of $15.00 was given towards the Richmond-Melbourne UCW Memorial book. A letter of thanks was to be sent Mr. Chester Rodgers for making posters.

Several members gave donations in lieu of the church supper, and a number agreed to solicit money from the supplementary members.

Several members expressed interest in attending the UCW Rally held in Windsor on September 23.

The date for the general UCW meeting has been arranged to take place on Wed. Oct. 13, so as not to conflict with the Field Day at the Wales Home. The hostesses for the October meeting are Mrs. E. Hutchings, Mrs. C. Osborne, Miss A. Stevens and Mrs. D. J. Stevens.

Get-well cards were signed by the members to be sent to three members Miss Nellie Burrill, Mrs. Arthur Galbraith and Mrs. Stafford Husk.

The hostesses were thanked as was Mrs. Fleck for the use of her home.

Following the benediction refreshments were served. Rev. R. A. Cameron was a guest at the lunch hour.

Legion Ladies plan Harvest supper

RICHMOND — The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 15 held their regular monthly meeting which was opened in the usual manner by Pres. Cde. Joyce Lemoine. She thanked all Auxiliary members who helped in any way for the Street Fair.

Cards and rose bows were reported sent to the sick members.

Plans were made for a Harvest Supper to be held on Tuesday, October 19th at 5 p.m. Admission adults $1.75 and children under 12, 75¢ when turkey, ham, salads, and a variety of pies will be served.

The meeting was then adjourned and a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses Cdes. E. Hampton, L. Cunningham and E. Roberts.

The next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, Oct. 21, when all members, it is hoped, will be present.

Thereafter my wife searched systematically for the food that might be the cause of her misery. She did find it; it was yeast. Any foods containing yeast caused recurrence of the headaches.

Do you have any clue as to what substance in the yeast might be the cause of the allergy? Is there anything that a person can add to homemade bread, for instance, that might neutralize the allergy-producing effect? My wife can eat baking-powder biscuits, soda bread, etc. that are made without yeast.

Dear Reader — Your wife was very clever to find out

Woman discovers own allergy

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Dear Dr. Lamb — From 1954 to about 1959 my wife suffered from severe sinus headaches, sometimes accompanied by infections of the posterior ethmoids and sphenoid. An M.D. suspected an allergy and prescribed capsules which relieved the headaches. She continued to take this medicine and I began to worry about the continued use of it. A visit to another doctor produced the familiar, "Mmmmm — nothing we can do. Just continue with the medicine. I'll send my bill."

There is nothing your wife could put in the bread. Of course, she could take an antihistaminic with the bread but that is essentially what your doctor did for her and apparently she wanted to avoid that. On the practical side, why doesn't she now go to an allergist and see if she could undergo desensitization? That might solve her problem.

HERE IS GOOD NEWS for people who have lost their voice because of cancer of the larynx. The American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology has announced that Drs. J. Simon McGrail and David L. Oldfield, Toronto Medical School and Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, have developed an operation that provides a good quality voice. Their method fashions a voice box from the patient's own skin. It can be put in place at the time the cancerous voice box is removed or later. It is reported to be superior to artificial voice boxes that have been used in the past. Some patients have been trained to use "esophageal speech" by burping up gas, which has not been as effective as one might wish. In 15 cases with removal of the voice box and fashioning a new one at one operation the patients were all able to talk in three to four weeks after the operation.

County meeting report given at WI

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Women's Institute met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Healy on Oct. 2nd for their annual Pot Luck supper. Several members, husbands and children attended this pleasant event.

Following supper, the regular meeting was held with the president, Mrs. K. Stevens, in the chair. The motto being Take time to read, it is the fountain of wisdom. Roll call: What Canadian magazine do you consider educational?

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Royce Taylor.

Mrs. Gordon Healy, treasurer, gave her report. She reported that $28.75 had been realized from the cooker, donated to the branch by Mrs. Gladys Perkins. Mr. G. Chady held the winning ticket.

Mrs. Kenneth Stevens gave her report of the County meeting. The think-in will be held at St. Francis Elementary school Oct. 16 at 10:30. Food was solicited for the lunch.

Melbourne Ridge chose the inter-branch competition — a child's poncho crocheted with Savelle.

It was decided to purchase a wreath for the Cenotaph and that poppies will be available at the next meeting.

An apron contest — made from one yard of material will be held at the November meeting. These will be sold at a later meeting.

The regular drawing donated by Mrs. L. Eastman was won by Mrs. C. Pease. Mrs. Russell Sloane will have the next meeting at her home.

Ulverton

Miss Susan Lowen of Montreal spent the week end at her home here. Miss A. Morrill of Bury was a guest of Miss Lowen.

Mr. and Mrs. Findlay were dinner guests of Mrs. A. P. R. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smart of Westmount who were also guests at the same home accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Findlay back to Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Beattie of St. Jovite Station were guests of Mrs. M.L. Brady.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) — Grab the chance to make some extra cash even though you have to bypass interesting pleasure pursuits.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Charity work may seem thankless and time-consuming, but intangible rewards are worth all the effort it takes.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Keep a pencil and pad of paper at your bedside to jot down ideas you don't want to forget tomorrow.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) — Your air of mystery intrigues someone who hadn't really noticed you before. You enjoy every minute.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) — Emphasis is on personality and charm of Leo natives. Romance is under fine configurations now.

VERGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — A confusing day. You can't seem to figure out what is expected of you. Don't know how to proceed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Your love life is no longer at a standstill and you have a new sense of vitality. Age is no deterrent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You seem to be bogged down in red tape and may need professional assistance to get straightened out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — At long last, you'll be able to impress someone whose attention you've been trying to attract.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A night of fun and flirtation. Don't waste time moping around the house. Get out where the action is.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Yesterday's grouchy mood wanes and you feel more sociable than you expected to. Get some rest just the same.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — A restless day. You actually feel better when you are working but we all need to relax every now and then.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) — Watch security factors more closely during these weeks ahead. Some drastic changes may be necessary.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Minor irritants annoy you unduly. Tension may be due to overwork so take it easy today while you can.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Attend to usual routine, then try to take in a sports event or some sort of entertainment.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) — Not the right time to speak your mind. If you can't restrain yourself, at least be diplomatic.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Keep your sense of humor handy as you may need it before this day ends! Tempers flare easily.

VERGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You may enjoy a drive in the country all by your lonesome. Enjoy the beauties of nature.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Lucrative leads may be found in today's newspaper. Read carefully and selectively. Be ready for action Monday.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A fine day. Relax with TV, books, papers and family activities. It's back to the rat race tomorrow!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Some social rivalry denoted. Don't become involved in competitive enterprise. You've already made your point.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Some romantic highlinks highlight the day. You may have a surprise caller so look your best at all times.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Deception, even in minor matters, should be watched for on this negatively aspected day. Check valuables.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Don't get involved with strangers in any way. Under no circumstances pick up anyone along the highway.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) — Don't turn down chance to make an unexpected trip with a friend or relative. You'll have a great time.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — If you push ahead with vigor, you can't help but make progress under current benefic planetary rays.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Don't be so demanding of others. Not everyone has the stamina of the Gemini-born, you know.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) — Exert yourself to the utmost. There's much to be done and much to be gained in the doing.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Don't get involved in dubious affairs. It could spoil your chances when the real thing comes along.

VERGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Friend tries a little match-making but it isn't apt to work out under today's lunars.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You'll be the one who gives in the long run, so might as well do it now instead of struggling.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Someone may mistakenly take you for an easy mark and be surprised when you turn down his or her request.

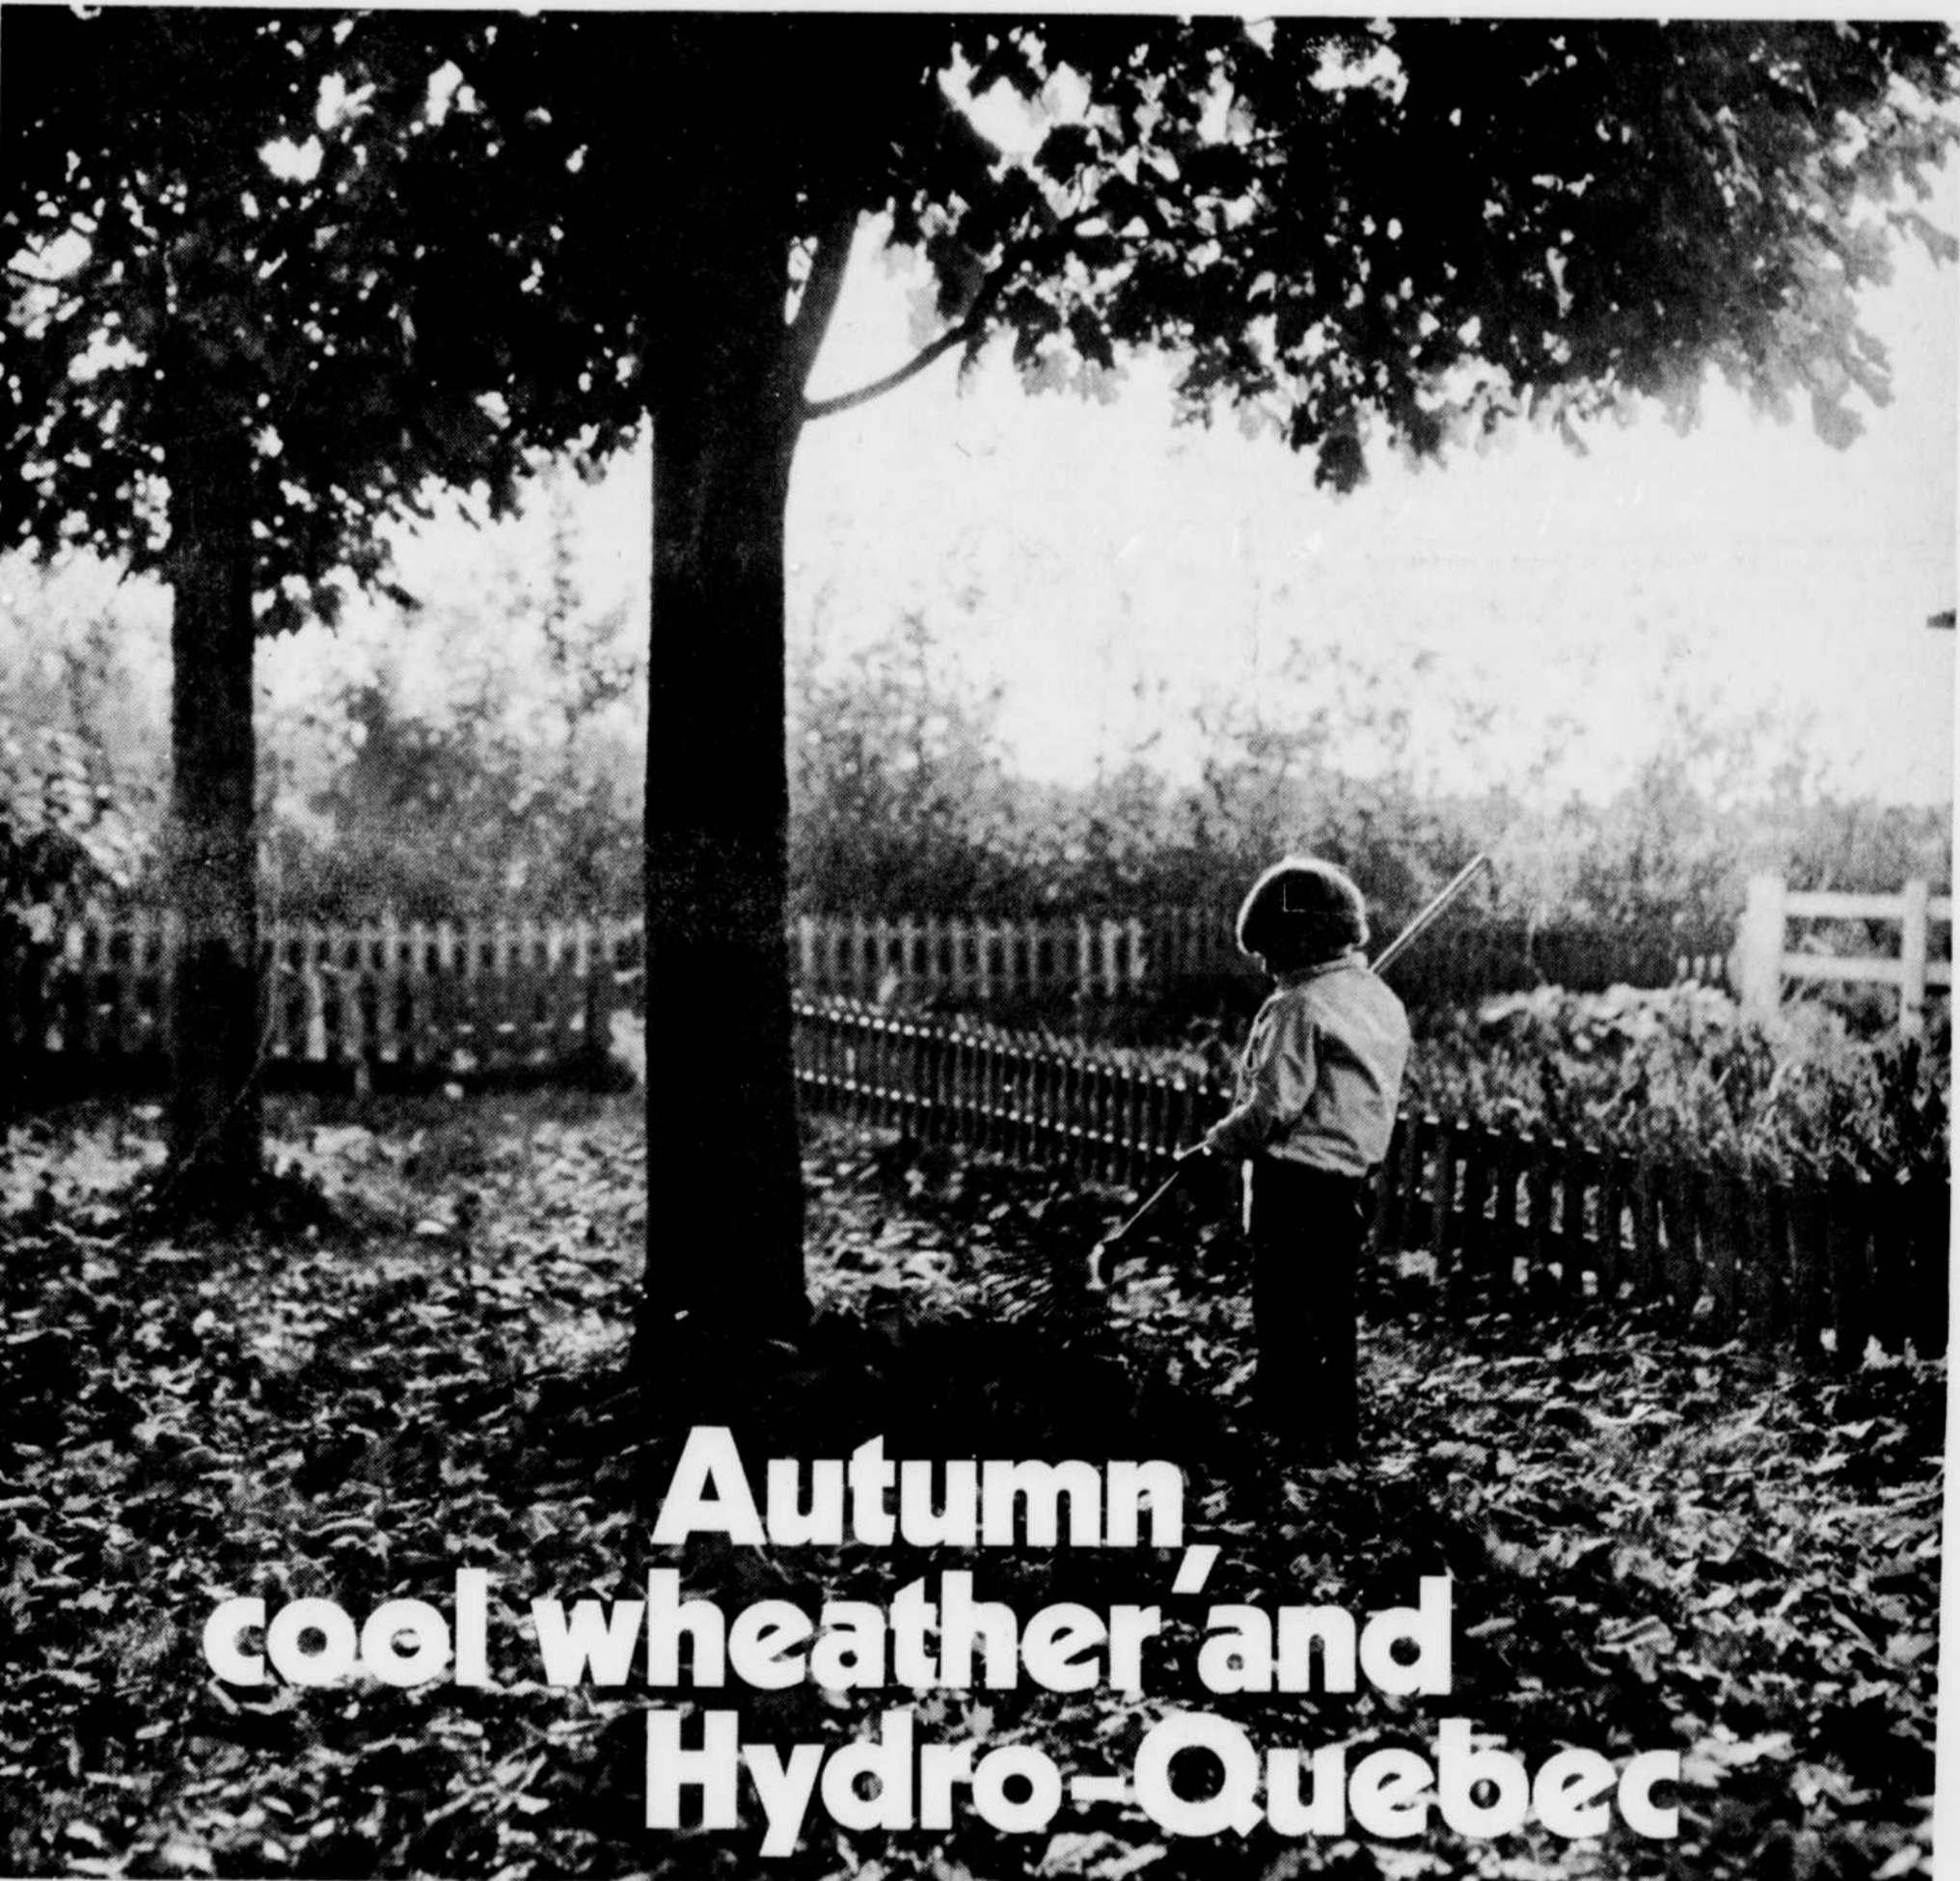

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Business picks up now and balance of year looks good. If taking a winter vacation, make reservations now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You can make some plans that may go askew late in day. Pick up the pieces and start again.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Do more listening than talking and you can pick up some tips that might prove profitable before long.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — If you've reached the point where you just don't know the answer, admit it and ask for help and/or advice.

Autumn, cool weather and Hydro-Quebec

Autumn is here with its cooler weather and shorter days. Time to install the double windows and turn up the thermostat. And hunters are getting their guns ready. Unfortunately, some of these hunters will use electrical insulators for target practice. Every year, this mindless practice of shooting insulators deprives Quebec communities of electricity and endangers people whose very lives may depend on electricity. In the fall, electricity is even more vital to the people of Quebec. Lights go on earlier and heat turned on to take the chill out of autumn nights. In all seasons, you can count on Hydro-Quebec to provide you with clean power. Hydro-Quebec - power that comes clean.

Youth Opportunities program reversed

OTTAWA (CP) — A $100-million successor to the summer-time Opportunities for Youth program—this time for adults, too—is the main contribution of the federal manpower department to the winter campaign against unemployment.

The local-initiatives program was listed among the measures announced Thursday in a Commons statement by Finance Minister E.J. Benson.

Some details were supplied later in a statement by Manpower Minister Otto Lang.

The money is to finance job-generating projects to be submitted to the manpower department before Jan. 1, 1972, by municipalities, community organizations and private groups.

As with the youth program, launched last spring to cope with student unemployment, the local-initiatives plan is to be "weighted in favor of those regions and sub-regions where unemployment is most serious."

Half the money is to go to the municipalities after consultation with provincial authorities. The balance is reserved for projects submitted by local groups.

EXPECT DETAILS

The requirements for proposed projects will have to meet for approval are to be announced by the manpower department in the next few days, the minister's statement said.

Opportunities for Youth, administered by the secretary of state department, provided $24.6 million for non-profit projects conceived by students and community groups.

The main criticism it encountered was that it was announced too late in the year, and that some of the projects were poorly planned or merely opportunistic.

Mr. Lang's statement described the new program as being intended to "do the best possible good for communities while putting the greatest number of people to work."

Mr. Lang is also to be responsible for a $20-million program to provide on-the-job training for young people who do not qualify for living grants and manpower-retraining courses.

Rossillon returns to Quebec after unceremonious leaving

QUEBEC (CP) — Philippe Rossillon, a French government official, has found himself in the unique position of returning on official business to a country which he unceremoniously left a few years ago after being called "more or less a secret agent."

Mr. Rossillon entered Canada earlier in the week as a delegate to the second conference of the International Agency for Technical and Cultural Co-operation, which met first in Ottawa and concludes two days of meetings in Quebec City today.

On Sept. 11, 1968, Prime Minister Trudeau affixed the title of secret agent to Mr. Rossillon, in a denunciation of a French cultural mission to Manitoba, of which Mr. Rossillon was a member.

The mission had entered Canada without the consent or approval of the Canadian government and while memory was still fresh of the 1967 visit of French president de Gaulle, in which he issued the separatist cry "Vive le Quebec Libre" in a Montreal speech.

Following Mr. Trudeau's criticism, Mr. Rossillon returned quietly to France and the "Rossillon Affair" was all but forgotten.

Mr. Rossillon, now a secretary-general of the French high-commission for the defence and expansion of the French language, met reporters Thursday.

When questioned by one reporter about the 1968 incident, Mr. Rossillon replied, "I regret to deceive you, but I do not have my 635-millimetre pistol in my pocket."

BOY SCOUTS IN ACTION

By REG CHILVERS

3RD SHERBROOKE SCOUT TROOP "NORTH WARD"

The regular meeting of the troop held on Friday, October 8, began with the traditional horseshoe followed by patrol inspection.

Badgework got underway with instruction given by Ansel O'Connor S.M. for the Arrowhead Badge and by Bob Richardson A.S.M. for the Scoutcraft Badge. Instruction for the new scouts recently welcomed into the troop was given by Gordon Brown, Counselor and David Lyon, Leader-in-Training.

Due to the inclement weather, the three-day Fall Camp which was planned for the weekend of October 9, 10, 11 had to be cancelled. It is hoped that a one-day hike will be held before winter.

The annual "Boy Scout Apple Day" will be held tomorrow. The scouts are reminded that in place of this week's regular meeting, they are requested to meet in Plymouth-Trinity Church Hall to polish apples and finalize plans for "Apply Day."

In order to assure success of this venture, parents who are willing to assist the Scouts on "Boy Scout Apple Day" by providing necessary transportation are requested to present themselves at the Plymouth Trinity Church Hall on Dufferin St. at 9 a.m. on Saturday where they will be assigned a group of scouts and an area for door-to-door sales.

It is hoped that the general public will give a warm welcome to the Scouts if called upon on "Apple Day" and will be generous in their response.

3rd Sherbrooke Cub Pack "NORTH WARD"

On Friday evening, October 8, the regular meeting of the Cub Pack got underway with the Grand Howl taken by "Akela" Deborah Chilvers.

Points for inspection for this meeting were: Green, Grey and White 19; Blue and Red 17; and Tawny 16.

During the games period, Marble Toss and Bean Bag were enjoyed by all.

The pack instruction was given as follows: New chums — "Akela" Deborah Chilvers; Carpentry — "Bagheera" Heine Sorensen; Handicrafts — "Baloo" Mike Knudsen and Drawing Art — "Grey Brother" Ted Wright and Mrs. E. G. Fortin.

The following badges have been awarded: Athlete — Dennis Ladouceur; First Aider — Stephane Thibodeau; House Orderly — Pierre Fortin; Personal Fitness — Philip Blouin; Pet Keeper — Danny Begin; Reader — Danny Begin; Religion-in-Life (Stage 1) — Stephane Thibodeau and Marc Thibodeau.

Parents are requested to return the "Parent Talent Survey" forms and to forward cub registration fees as soon as possible.

7TH SHERBROOKE CUB PACK "WEST WARD"

The pack was divided into six different sections called sixes. These are: Blue: Jim Leonard (sixer), Bruce Mayhew (second), John Hayes, Brian Redway and Russel Sangster.

Brown: Charles Leveques (sixer), Marc Bourke (second), Pascal Baldini, Peter Desharnais, and Philippe Dunnigan.

Green: John Curphey (sixer), Michel Godbout (second), Daniel Begin, Danny Lapierre and Deepack Naki.

Tawny: Bert Perrey (sixer), Fred Chinn (second), Bob Bougie, Toni Bedi and Mark Leonard.

White: Paul Dunnigan (sixer), Jim Richardson (second), Sunjay Bedi, Denis Godbout, and Tim Lapierre.

The new sixers and seconders were presented their gold and silver woggles.

Instruction for the evening included tenderpad for the newcomers and a review of how to properly fold a flag for "breaking." The latter should prove to be very useful in the future.

AROUND THE WORLD

The 14th World Jamboree-on-the-Air will be held this year over this weekend. Scouts from over 100 countries around the world will participate in this mammoth event which is designed not as a contest but as an opportunity for boys to meet and talk to brother Scouts throughout the world. Ham stations in Quebec will operate from midnight tonight until midnight Sunday — a period of 48 hours.

The World Bureau stations in Geneva, Switzerland HB88 and in Costa Rica, T12CIE, will both operate for the full period of the 14th Jamboree-on-the-Air. Why not plan now to get your group or district on the air and participate in the fun. Additional information is available at the Scout Centre or in the September issue of the Canadian Leader magazine.

PROVINCIAL EMBLEM

The new Provincial emblem for uniform wear is now on sale at the Scout Centre. It is fully embroidered and is blue and white in color. These emblems sell for 15 cents each and all boys and leaders in Quebec should wear them.

The annual registration is the manner in which all boys and adults become "official members" of Boy Scouts of Canada. All groups or sections must register by October 31. Additional boys or adults who join later or as new sections are formed, are registered separately.

Commencing this registration year, each uniformed boy member and adult program leader (Scouter) will receive a membership badge along with the membership card. This badge, showing "71-72" is to be worn over the left breast pocket (or equivalent position) by both boy and adult member. It is not to be worn on the Scout Sash. This will serve as a form of visual indication for the committee, the Scouters or any other person that each member is properly registered.

PROGRAM PLANNING

The Scout Shop at the Scout Centre now has the new Troop Scouters' Program Planning Guide available. This 24 page booklet is a most valuable planning aid for Scouters, committee personnel and patrol leaders. The book contains articles and ideas on setting program goals and objectives, program flexibility, Scoutcraft skills, Scout-Guide Week ideas, troop meetings, special events, fund raising ideas and a handy pull-out troop planning wall chart.

SCOUT SHOP

Leaders and committee personnel will be pleased to note that the new "By-Laws, Policies and Procedures" book has arrived and is now on sale at 40 cents per copy in the Scout Shop.

CERTIFICATE OF APPRECIATION

The Quebec Provincial Council has completed the production of a standard "Certificate of Appreciation." These are designed for group, district or council use and are available through the Scout Shop at the Scout Centre in Dorval. The certificates can be presented to friends of Scouting in your community and are suitable for framing. Ample space is available for signatures and group identification. These certificates are priced moderately to encourage their use. Please order from the Scout Shop, 2001 Trans-Canada Highway-Dorval, Quebec.

GEORGE HENRY CARR

George Carr passes away

GEORGE HENRY CARR of Montreal

George Henry Carr of Montreal passed away suddenly at the Ross Pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital on Tuesday, Sept. 7, 1971.

Born in Providence, R. I., Mr. Carr graduated from Brown University and Blackstone College of Law.

His education was interrupted temporarily when he served in the First World War with the U. S. Ambulance Service in Italy. He was awarded the War Cross by the Italian Government.

Mr. Carr's early training helped to prepare him for the field of Industrial Engineering and he became a Student Industrial Engineer, to Superintendent of production at the Sayles Finishing Plant in Saylesville, R. I., later he practised as Industrial Engineer.

In 1937 Mr. Carr came to Canada to join the Julius Kayser Co. Ltd. in Sherbrooke, Quebec, as Assistant General Manager. Promotions came quickly and he became Vice-President and Director, and in 1952 was elected President of the Company. In 1955 he terminated his career with the Textile Industry.

In 1956 Mr. Carr accepted a new challenge and moved to Vancouver, B. C. where he joined the company of Balfour Guthrie Canada Ltd., Exporters and Importers. He served as Vice-Pres. and Managing Director and a year later became President.

In 1967 Mr. Carr semi-retired and in 1968 moved to Montreal, but maintained an active interest in the company as Board Chairman and was Director at the time of his death.

Mr. Carr was well known by his associates for his high principles in business ethics and the driving energy he possessed. He was not only believed in putting forth extra effort for the company he served but also actively participated in the community where he lived.

He was Past President of the YMCA, Sherbrooke, The Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce, The Canadian Textile Industry, The Canadian Wollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Assoc., The Canadian Manufacturers Association and Past Chairman of the Full Fashioned Hosiery Industry. He was a member of the Vancouver Board of Trade and the Better Business Bureau.

Mr. Carr was a long time member of St. George's Club, Sherbrooke, The Engineers Club and Kanawaki Golf Club, Montreal, Brown Club, New York, also a member of the Vancouver Club and the University Club, Vancouver.

He was a member of the Sigma Chi Fraternity and Masonic Lodges, Karnak Temple (Shrine), Corinthian Lodge No. 27, F. & A. M., R. I., Kane Council No. 2, New Jersey, and Sussex Preceptory No. 9, Sherbrooke.

In 1970 The Grand Royal Arch Chapter of the State of New Jersey, Harmony Chapter No. 9 presented Mr. Carr with a medal and certificate honouring the 50 year membership with the Chapter.

Mr. Carr's favourite recreation was golf and in earlier years curling. He was an avid reader.

Mr. Carr is survived by his second wife the former Kay B. McDonald, a son Prescott R. by the late Mary Rhodes Carr, a daughter-in-law, Joan, and four grandchildren, David, Carol, Mary, and Scott, also one brother, Harold, of Buffalo, N. Y. and Mrs. Harold Carr.

Funeral service was from the Chapel in the Wray Walton Wray Funeral Home, 1234 Mountain St. Mr. Heron of Montreal officiated.

War fever mounting

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — War fever is mounting along the border between West Pakistan and India.

Motorists in Pakistan are decorating their cars with signs saying "Crush India." Bank officials say many people are withdrawing their money or transferring their accounts to other cities, and businessmen are sending away their families or making plans to do so. Peasant families are leaving their homes near the border.

President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan, who heads Pakistan's military government, has said publicly that war with India is inevitable if the Indians continue to back Bengali rebels in East Pakistan with arms, training and sanctuary.

If a war is to be fought, military observers say, the time is right for Pakistan.

CAN MOVE TROOPS — Its Chinese allies can still move troops through the passes in the Himalayas, which will begin filling with snow in November. The Pakistanis believe the threat of Chinese military pressure on India led to the halt of the last war between the two countries, which ended in stalemate in 1965 on the fields around Lahore.

The observers say Pakistan now has time to concentrate its troops for a war in the west while receding monsoon flood waters prevent a continued crackdown on the rebels in the East Pakistan, 1,000 miles across India from West Pakistan.

The Pakistanis claim India has stationed 200,000 troops around East Pakistan and are building up along the western border with a number of mechanized units.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi accused Pakistan Thursday of threatening to go to war with India and said Indians should be prepared for it.

"We will do everything to prevent a conflict, but at the same time the country must be prepared," she told reporters in the south Indian town of Belgaum during a short visit.

One leg in handicap

RICHMOND, Va. (CP) — To eight-year-old Jonathan Manley of Powhatan, Va., having one leg is no handicap, even when it comes to sport.

Jonathan, who was born with one leg, loves sport and takes part in competition a lot of kids with two legs don't do at all well. For instance, he recently entered the punt-pass contest, a United States football competition for youngsters, and placed second in his age group.

"He's tough as shoe leather," says Jonathan's mother, Mrs. James D. Manley. "The other kids adore him. "In the first grade, they liked to play with his crutches so much that at times when he needed them he couldn't use them. Somebody was off playing with them."

Jonathan has not let his handicap doom him to the role of a spectator in sports. He also plays little league baseball, is an accomplished swimmer, rides a bike and bowls.

"We've tried so hard to give him the right attitude," said Mrs. Manley. "He never questions his handicap."

Refuse to limit ship size

LONDON (AP) — The world's major shipping countries refused Thursday night to limit the size of oil compartments in mammoth tankers, dealing a severe setback to United States hopes of clearing the seas of oil pollution by the mid-1970s.

The General Assembly of the United Nations Intergovernmental Maritime Organization voted on a proposal to limit the compartments to 30,000 cubic feet no matter how big the tanker.

The proposal, from the organization's maritime safety committee, needed a two-thirds majority to carry. Of the 56 countries represented, 37 voted for the limit, one short of the necessary majority.

Three, Morocco, France and Brazil, voted against the measure, and the Soviet Union, Belgium and Greece led the 16 countries which abstained.

Behind the measure lay hope that limiting the oil compartments would mean less oil gushing into the sea if a giant tanker should wreck. Some of the compartments stood a chance of remaining intact, the thinking went.

PLASTIC WORLD — Union Carbide Canada Ltd. has completed a $5.5 million expansion at its Montreal East petrochemicals complex. The project includes new facilities for the refining of propylene at rates in excess of 100 million pounds a year and permits an expansion of the plant's existing polyethylene capacity by 50 million pounds to 200 million pounds annually. Propylene is used in the production of oxo-alcohol chemicals. Polyethylene plastic has found broad use in packaging and in such products as construction and agricultural films, wire and cable, toys and housewares. The new facilities enable the Montreal East plant to produce a wider range of polyethylene resin grades.

Integration fight produces new allies

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — The battle lines seem more ragged and the issues more clouded than ever before this year as the annual fight resumes over racial integration in United States schools.

The opposing sides can no longer be conveniently described as "Southern segregationists" versus "the rest."

As the Southern states have surged past the Northern and Western states in the pace of racial mixing in their schools, the die-hards of the Old Confederacy have found allies among black nationalists, left-wing radicals and uncertain liberals, ethnic minorities and numbers of white parents fearful for the quality of their children's education.

Few Americans even seem sure these days whether the fight is about education or integration, schools or race.

Acting under Supreme Court prodding, lower courts throughout the U.S. — but particularly in the South — have ordered widespread use of school buses to break down old patterns of segregation.

While more than half of the Negro children in a state like North Carolina will be in schools this year where the majority of pupils are white, most Northern states still have an average of three black children out of four in predominantly black schools. Southern integration has raced ahead while Northern integration has made virtually no progress in recent years.

SHIFT TO NORTH

Now the pressure of court rulings and publicity has begun to shift in earnest to the Northern cities, with their increasingly black cores and overwhelmingly white suburbs.

White parents in the North who once supported or accepted integrating in theory, when it was confined to the South, seem decidedly less enthusiastic when told their children will have to be "bused" outside the neighborhood or will have to share classrooms with ghetto youngsters.

Their opposition to court-ordered busing has been joined by black-power advocates, who want all-black schools to develop racial awareness, as well as radicals, who once marched for integration but see it now as a means of spreading middle-class values among the Negro poor.

There also has been increasing opposition from militant Italian, Chinese and other ethnic groups, who are borrowing page from black nationalists and asserting their own community values.

The confusion and controversy about aims and methods seems to have been augmented by the statements of public leaders.

President Nixon has stated a flat opposition to the "busing of our nation's schoolchildren to achieve racial balance" and ordered government officials to enforce only the "minimum busing" required by law.

MUSKIE LUKEWARM

Even those who have a more outspoken commitment to racial integration than the president, such as Democratic Senator Edmund Muskie, have been lukewarm to busing as a solution to racial division.

Given the South's record on integration, it was not altogether surprising that one of the most forthright statements about the issue should have come from one of the "new-look" Southern leaders, Governor Reubin Askew of Florida.

Describing busing as an "artificial and inadequate instrument of change" in American society, Askew told a University of Florida audience recently the alternative is to take "meaningful steps" to end segregation in the whole community and thus make busing unnecessary.

"Only in this way will we put the divisive and self-defeating issue of race behind us once and for all," Askew said. "If there is another answer, I have yet to hear it."

Hottest tickets "selling" fast

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The hottest tickets in Hollywood are free, those small printed cardboard rectangles admitting the public to the taping of a handful of network programs, mostly variety and game shows.

At NBC's Burbank studios, most requests are received for The Dean Martin Show and The Flip Wilson Show. CBS, at its Television City development, receives most ticket requests for The Glen Campbell Show, The Carol Burnett Show, and All in the Family.

The small "guest relations" staffs at each network, in charge of parcelling out the tickets, don't need to check the Nielsen ratings to find out how their programs are doing; ticket requests tell them. When The Dean Martin Show had been on the air for a short time, NBC found it had built up a seven-year waiting list for tickets — and changed its method of handling requests.

About a year ago, the staff was scratching around for bodies to fill the small studio theatre where the new Flip Wilson Show was being turned out. Three weeks after the series started, the show was "sold out" for the entire season.

MERV MADE IT

When CBS's Merv Griffin changed the format of his late night talk show to definite themes instead of casual talk larded with music, there was an upsurge in ticket requests—certain evidence, they felt, that the folks out there in television land appreciated the revision.

Jay Michelis, NBC's west coast manager of guest relations, said his office receives literally millions of letters and telephone calls each year asking for tickets, including many for programs not seen on his network and for filmed programs which are made like motion pictures, without an audience.

"Our system is to fill requests, if possible, by sending tickets for a specific date to people who live within about 100 miles of Burbank," Michelis explained.

"The others receive 'guest cards' and we try to get them into the shows of their choice when they get here."

SOME ARE REGULARS

Stars hate empty seats in the audience. One performer flatly refused to go on stage to start his live-on-tape show one night when he counted 36 empty seats around the bleachers.

The harried head of guest relations hurriedly rounded up enough staff to fill the empty seats, but not before the furious entertainer had put in long-distance calls to the network president and a string of vice-presidents.

All the shows have devoted fans, and there are "regulars" who make a career of attending tapings.

Muriel Horner, who heads the CBS ticket distribution, knows the CBS regulars. She was particularly concerned when she learned from the security men that one Merv Griffin fan who was in the ticket line daily was actually living in her automobile in the studio's guest-parking lot. Ordered off the lot, the woman moved over to a nearby supermarket parking lot. Ousted from there, she drifted away.

"I don't know how she managed," Miss Horner said. "She was neat and clean and she looked well fed."

Look for this new design of Government of Canada cheques

If you're one of the thousands of Canadians who receive cheques from the Canadian Government, look for a change in design.

The changes were made for some very good reasons. The new cheques are designed in a way that will make them extremely difficult for an unqualified recipient to cash.

The new design also bears the new Government of Canada symbol and is part of a program to standardize all Federal Government cheques.

We're telling you now, in advance of this change, so that all recipients will be certain to recognize the new cheque forms when they come into use this month.

SPORTS AT BISHOP'S

Comment by Bryden Murray

Saturday afternoon, the Bishop's Gaiters meet the Sir George Williams Georgians in Lennoxville. This game has been built up as the probably climax to the Quebec Conference season. The Georgians have dropped one contest to McGill. Should the Gaiters take the game, they will have to win but one more game against R.M.C. to clinch their title.

For the Gaiters, there is more at stake. The Gaiters have recently been the subject of abuse from the Sir George sources. Their school newspaper stated that the Gaiter's star Larry Smith was only sticking around for a pro-contract and that — of all things — Bishop's was playing computerized turf.

This stand is a little ironic in light of Bishop's University's position on athletic scholarships and other related matters. This year, Bruce Coulter was allowed to invite 50 hopefuls to early training camp — 10 more than last year. This is puny in comparison to the camps of the Montreal teams. Loyola had 108. Further, Sir George has been praised in Montreal newspapers for the excellent job they have done in recruiting junior hockey players. This will undoubtedly bring up the calibre of the division and make for a tighter competition for league supremacy. But how can a school with this type of athletic recruiting policy possibly criticize that of Bishop's. If the Georgian athletic department saw Bishop's meagre budget, they would laugh.

Another frequent criticism has been that the football schedule favors the Bishop's Gaiters. Some people apparently feel that the games should have been allocated to favor weaker teams.

In this case, the observation is correct, but the deduction faulty. The policy of the Quebec conference, regardless of name, changes, and face lifting, has been to make sure that this schedule advantage be neutralized every second year. For example, while Gaiters host Sir George this year, they were forced to play them on Georgian turf last year. Very few people screamed 'foul' last year when Bishop's had but two home games. Both of them were against weak teams. No one yelled because that's the way the league runs. As a result, many local football interests have their backs up. For the first time since the 1967 basketball season, Gaiter fans could be yelling for a 100 points. If the Gaiters themselves are anywhere near as upset about this harsh treatment as their fans are, it should be some ball game.

National ski team building

CALGARY (CP) — The national ski team is building muscle-by-muscle to develop a contender for the Winter Olympics next February in Sapporo, Japan.

Conditioning is receiving particular emphasis this year with certain muscle getting added attention.

Lee Coyne, a physical education professor at the University of Calgary, has been conducting fitness tests on the 20-member squad and hopes for a program to improve those muscles used in skiing.

Before, a great deal of time and effort was wasted in general conditioning, he said. A specific program would be cheaper and of more interest to the skiers.

The team, 12 men and eight women, is currently under intensive training at Banff, Alta., and just previously completed a two-week, dry-land course at Vancouver.

During the summer, they were in Chile where their downhill and giant slalom times compared well with those of skiers from France and Switzerland.

Pirates win 4-0

Briles silences Orioles

...But it isn't over

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates, poised on the threshold of World Series history, head for Baltimore hoping to deliver the knockout blow to the suddenly-staggering Orioles as quickly as possible.

The Pirates took command of the series by sweeping three straight games on the artificial tartan turf of Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium. They are set to go for the title in Saturday's sixth game with Bob Moose, another member of their nondescript pitching staff that has suddenly stilled the Baltimore bats.

It was Nelson Briles' turn in Thursday's crucial fifth game and the veteran right-hander responded with a brilliant two-hitter that gave the Pirates a 4-0 victory and left them one game away from their first title since 1960.

Suddenly, the series that seemed a mismatch when Baltimore won the first two games has turned around and the world champion Orioles are the team in trouble.

If the Pirates beat the Birds Saturday, they will become the first team in series history to win four straight after dropping the first two games.

Four other teams have won the title in seven games after dropping the first two. But no team has come back from that deficit to win the classic in six.

"We'll see what kind of club this is on Saturday," said Frank Robinson in the sombre Baltimore dressing room. "We can still win if we want to win."

Briles called his fifth-game victory, "the culmination of everything I've worked for in the last two years."

"They've been two hard years with a lot of work and not too much success," he said.

HELPED CARDS

Briles was a mainstay of the St. Louis Cardinal pitching staff with 48 victories in three seasons before slumping to a 6-7 record last year. The Cards swapped him to Pittsburgh in a four-player trade last winter.

"We figured on him as a spot starter and long man out of the bullpen," said Danny Murtaugh, manager of the Pirates. Used both ways, Briles was 8-4 with a 3.04 earned-run average. He managed just four complete games.

But Murtaugh planned to start him in the third game of the National League playoffs against San Francisco Giants.

Then, a few minutes before game time, he came up with a pulled groin muscle and the start went to Bob Johnson instead. The Pirates won the game but Briles felt lost.

"It was a low point in my career," he said.

MURTAUGH LIKES HIM

But Murtaugh didn't quit on the veteran right-hander and gave him the start in the pivotal fifth World Series game. This time, Briles was ready.

He needed only 99 pitches to dispose of the Orioles and feed just 29 batters—two over the minimum.

He was in command from the start and got the only run he needed when Bob Robertson rocked Dave McNally's first pitch for a lead-off homer in the second inning.

Briles drove in a second run with a timely single and then the Pirates added two more—one without a hit when they capitalized on Gene Clines' triple and Roberto Clemente's single in the fifth.

Briles finished the Orioles off in the ninth despite a momentary lapse when he walked Don Buford with two out. When he got the final batter on a forceplay grounder, he was mobbed by his team-mates.

"Today meant more to me than any game I ever pitched," Briles said.

Baltimore manager Earl Weaver now has to figure out a way to restore some punch to the Oriole lineup. The Birds collected 16 runs and 24 hits in the first two games of the series but just nine hits in the three games at Pittsburgh.

"I wish I knew what I could do," said Weaver.

AND ALL WITHOUT MUSIC! — Like puppets on a string, the senior soccer teams of Bishop's College School and Richmond Regional High School fight for the ball during yesterday's clash which BCS won 1-0.

Detroit gets cream of Heisman winners

Heisman Trophy winners have a knack for not living up to expectations in the National Football League—except those that wind up with Detroit Lions.

The Lions have had their share of top intercollegiate choices over the years—Frank Sinkwich of Georgia, Deak Walker of Southern Methodist, Leon Hart of Notre Dame and Howard Cassady of Ohio State.

Sinkwich, Walker and Hart developed into all-NFL stars and Detroit's latest Heisman catch, Steve Owens, may be ready to follow in their footsteps after coming through an injury-plagued rookie season.

The Oklahoma Sooner fullback missed the Lions' first seven games of the 1970 season with a shoulder injury and showed no signs of greatness until the 13th game when an injury to Mel Farr earned him a running berth. The 23-year-old, 220-pounder responded, rushing for 66 yards and two touchdowns in a 28-21 win over Los Angeles Rams.

After the Lions opened 1971 with a loss to Minnesota Vikings, Owens became a starter and Detroit won three consecutive games with Owens the workhorse, spinning out 80 yards against New England Patriots, 98 against Atlanta Falcons and 87 over Green Bay Packers.

His 310-yard rushing total has moved him into the lead in the National Conference rushing department, two yards ahead of Rams' Willie Ellison.

Vic Washington, one-time Ottawa Rough Rider and British Columbia Lions, continues to top the NFC's rushers, picking up an average 6.5 yards every time he handles the ball for San Francisco 49ers. He has rushed 221 yards on 34 carries, half the number of times Owen has handled the ball.

Placekicker Curt Knight of Washington's unbeaten Redskins took over the NFC's scoring leadership with 42 points, six ahead of Dallas Cowboys' Calvin Hill.

The American Conference scoring race is even closer with the new leader, placekicking Jim O'Brien of Baltimore Colts, holding a three-point margin on Cleveland Browns' running back, Leroy Kelly, the previous week's leader, and kicker Garo Yepremian of Miami Dolphins, each with 36 points.

Roy Gerela, Pittsburgh Steelers' placekicker from Powell River, B.C., stands ninth in the AFC with 20 points.

Another former Ottawa star, Cleveland's Bo Scott, moved ahead of team-mate Kelly in the AFC's rushing. His 269 yards leaves him in sixth place, 50 yards behind the leader, Larry Csonka of Miami.

Penalty shot stalls Habs

Boston bounces into first place

Class will tell, they say. This was never more apparent than Thursday night when Boston Bruins belted Buffalo Sabres 6-2 to take first place in the National Hockey League.

After a glum exhibition series, Boston now has won two of its three starts for four points, one more than Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers. The runner-up Leafs and Rangers were idle Thursday.

At Minnesota, The North Stars capitalized on a penalty shot, the first of the 1971-72 campaign, to tie Montreal Canadiens, Stanley Cup defending champions, 1-1.

A ban on extra-curricular activities may be partly responsible for spurring the Bruins to a point where they look like the team that made them a runaway of the league last year.

Stung by a 3-6-1 exhibition record and a 4-1 loss to the Rangers in their NHL opener Sunday, general manager Milt Schmidt and coach Tom Johnson imposed a "no moonlighting" edict on the players.

The Bruins, sweating under criticism from the news media, rebounded with a 6-1 victory over Rangers Wednesday.

Then they followed up with their decisive triumph over the Sabres Thursday.

"I think a couple of days—Monday and Tuesday—got us into condition in a hurry," Johnson said. "I'm very satisfied with the progress since Sunday. That loss to the Rangers really shook them up."

Commenting on the curtailment of outside activities, such as personal appearances at banks, stores and banquets, Johnson said: "It's too early to tell whether it will help overall."

"The players never seemed to have any free time, they always were going somewhere. That's all over now. Maybe the restrictions won't last for the entire season, we'll see what happens."

Right winger Ken Hodge was inclined to agree with his coach.

"Last Sunday against New York we played as 19 individuals instead of a unit. But now we're starting to play as a team. Everything is going to be all right."

Hodge produced four assists against the Sabres, while Phil Esposito and Wayne Cashman supplied two goals each. Bobby Orr and Johnny Bucyk scored the others.

The Esposito-Cashman-Hodge line set an NHL scoring record last season with 140 goals and 336 points. Espo, the skilled centerman, who also collected three assists Thursday, had 152 points last season—an NHL record.

Gil Perreault, 1970-71 Rookie of the Year, broke Ed Johnston's shutout on a screened shot in the second period and Mike Robitaille provided Buffalo's second goal in the final period.

Team captain Henri Richard scored for the Canadiens at Minnesota in the first period. The North Stars protested vehemently, but referee Bruce Hood signalled that the puck went past goalie Gump Worsley, even though the goal judge did not flash his light.

There was no further scoring until 11 minutes remained in the game, when Minnesota's hefty defenceman Tim Reid beat Montreal goalie Ken Dryden with a low liner on the penalty shot.

REID TRIPPED

North Stars were awarded the free shot after Reid was tripped by Guy Lapointe as he broke into the clear over the Montreal blueline.

The Canadiens fired 33 shots at Worsley while Dryden handled a 40-shot barrage before a record Minnesota opening-night crowd of 15,230.

Leafs, who have lost the services of captain Dave Keon for at least 10 days, suffered another blow Thursday when they found that goalie Bernie Parent will miss two weekend games because of injuries he received in an auto accident Wednesday.

Parent, a passenger in a car driven by team-mate Denis Dupere, was cut on the face and has a bruised shoulder and hip. Because of the face cuts he will be unable to wear a mask.

Dupere was only slightly injured and is expected to play in games against New York and Boston.

Herron carrying on for little men

WINNIPEG (CP) — Football is a game of giants, men who tower over the average individual. Seldom do they allow a midget to invade their domain.

Halfback Ron Stewart cracked the barrier for the Ottawa Rough Riders and went on to an illustrious career in the Eastern Football Conference.

Now, it appears, it is the turn of the Western Football Conference and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The Bombers, who have been unable to make the WFC playoffs the last five seasons, went into training camp with a number of big backs like Charlie Bryant, Dick Smith, Paul Williams, Amos Van Pelt and Canadian Clayton McEvoy.

Hidden around their kneecaps was little Mack Herron, all five-foot-five, 175 pounds of him.

Herron, a 25-year-old former Kansas State star, has fought, scratched and hustled his way into the No. 1 spot in the Bomber backfield, despite suspicions the giants would mangle his seemingly fragile frame.

SIZE HAS ADVANTAGE

"I'm only five-foot-five, but really I have the frame of a six-foot man and I feel I'm durable," he says after a half-season in the WFC.

"I've never really been injured enough to keep me out of a game since high school.

PRO FOOTBALL'S BRUISING ACTION DISCOURAGES MOST LITTLE MEN

The tact I'm running so close to the ground works in my favor, since it's not easy to hit me around the knees."

Instantly dubbed "Mighty Ma" by Bombers fans, Herron once dreamed of being six-foot-four but he quit growing 11 years ago.

"I knew then I wasn't going to grow any more, so I just stopped thinking about it. I knew no miracles were about to happen."

The son of a construction worker, brought up in Chicago's west-side ghetto, Herron is one of the main reasons Bombers are playoff contenders this year.

Despite his size, he has been the club's workhorse, averaging about 17 carries a game in the Bombers' first nine appearances this season. His work load has some fans worried, but Herron disagrees, saying a back needs about a dozen carries just to get the feel of the game.

"I think it looks different to the fans because all they see is the contact, and some big dudes falling on top of me. It's not like that at all. Sure I get hit hard sometimes, because I run hard."

HARD TO SEE

While running is Herron's main concern, he has also developed into a solid blocker and pass receiver. But he uses his size to best advantage on running plays.

"Most linemen react by standing up straight, and they have a hard time seeing me over the other linemen. It kind of provides a shield at times."

"The one handicap is the quarterback has a hard time picking me up behind a line-backer when I'm running a pass pattern."

Herron's size, or lack of it, is the main reason he is with the Blue Bombers. He refused to sign last year with the National Football League Atlanta Falcons, who drafted him, because he suspected his stature would leave him as the club's fifth or sixth running back.

A social worker when he isn't playing football, Herron has a vital interest in young people.

"I feel I can tune in on the same wave length as today's youth," he says.

"I've had the experience of being brought up in a ghetto. We were poor," he explains of his family of eight.

49ers: struck it rich

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For Vic Washington, an extremely well-travelled young athlete, the National Football League was a point of no return.

The 5-foot-10 player, who already has been called the San Francisco 49ers most exciting running back since Hugh McElhenny joined the team this summer after playing in the Canadian Football League.

"I wouldn't have gone back to Canada if I didn't make it here," he said. "It would have been mostly a matter of pride."

"Sure he's going to fumble," quarterback John Brodie said in defence of the rookie. "Vic figures he can get into the end zone every time. He does a lot of spinning. I'll tell you though, he makes things happen."

Washington is from Plainfield, N.J., where he played high school football against current 49ers cornerback Bruce Taylor.

He played two varsity seasons at Wyoming before flunking out. Since he had a year to wait before becoming eligible for the NFL draft, he joined Ottawa Rough Riders of the CFL.

His backfield running mate the first season with the Rough Riders was Bo Scott, now with the Cleveland Browns. Scott had left Ohio State after his freshman year.

Sunday Sermon Subject for October 17, 1971

What practical meaning does the life of Christ Jesus have for people in today's world? An answer to this question will be given Sunday at Christian Science church services in a Lesson-Sermon entitled "Doctrine of Atonement." Relevant Scripture will be highlighted by this text: "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read: "Jesus aided in reconciling man to God by giving man a truer sense of Love, the divine Principle of Jesus' teachings, and this truer sense of Love redeems man from the law of matter, sin, and death by the law of Spirit, — the law of divine Love."

Neighbours Birthday Club

BEEBE — The Neighbours birthday club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Hazel Westover, with Mrs. Marjorie Davis assisting.

Eleven members with Mrs. Arlene Ingalls of Beebe, Vt. and Mrs. Gail Weilder of Ayer's Cliff were welcomed.

The evening was spent playing games and visiting marathon winners were Mrs. Nancy Rediker and Mrs. Gail Weilder.

Mrs. Vivian Warner was the celebrant, she was presented with a gift and a cake made and decorated by Mrs. G. Weilder.

Lunch was served by the hostesses at the close of a very pleasant evening.

Jolly Twelve Club

AYER'S CLIFF — Mrs. Ritchie Harrison of Libbytown was hostess for the September meeting of the Jolly Twelve Club.

Five hundred was played at three tables. Mrs. Elsie Whitcomb was winner of the first prize. Second prize was won by Mrs. K. Kennedy and consolation prize went to Mrs. D. Sloggett. Mrs. Ernest Bouffard won a special floating prize.

After the card games, refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by members in the club.

Guests of the club for the evening were Mrs. Elsie Whitcomb and Miss Rachel Bouffard.

Mansonville

The first meeting of the fall season of the Mansonville U.C.W. was held on Thursday afternoon Sept. 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bradley, with 17 members present.

Many interesting committee reports were given as a result of the activities during the summer, as well as plans being arranged for the District Rally held in the United Church Hall, all day Tuesday Sept. 21, and the next general meeting with the Vale Perkins Unit on October 7.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Bradley assisted by her niece, Mrs. Della Mae Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ruiz and little son, Ricky were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Paul Brulotte and family Mr. and Mrs. Ruiz attended the Paige-St. Onge wedding held in the United Church on Saturday.

Weekend visitors at the Eldridge-Kilpatrick home were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kilpatrick and family of Rawdon, Mr. Rodney Kilpatrick, Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray of Picton, Ont., who have been guests of their uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bradley, have returned home.

Mr. Alton Russell, Auburn, Me., spent a week with Mrs. R. Lamoureux.

BRETT KELLY — 16-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Coope of South Durham, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. U. C. Massey of Melbourne, Que.

Christening held

On Sunday, October 3, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lee was christened by the Rev. Carl J. Gustafson in the United Church of Canada at Mansonville. The little girl received the names, Crystal Victoria.

Following the ceremony, a buffet lunch was served in the church basement, with approximately 40 relatives and friends present. The table was very prettily decorated, centred with the christening cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Ross McNeil.

The flowers for the occasion were furnished by Mrs. Betty Klopfer.

Guests were present from Montreal, Georgeville, Magog, Orford Lake, Highwater and Dunkin.

Five generations were represented on the paternal side; Mrs. Ruth Desrochers — great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Lillian Cochrane — great grandmother; Mrs. Douglas Lee — grandmother, Michael Lee — father; and baby Crystal. Also on the paternal side were Mrs. Grace Lee — great grandmother; and Mr. Douglas Lee — grandfather.

On the maternal side, four generations were represented; Mrs. Wallace Aiken — great-grandmother; Mrs. Jerry Cabana — grandmother; Mrs. Michael Lee — mother, her other grandfather, Jerry Cabana and her only great grandfather — Wallace Aiken were also present.

Little Crystal received many gifts, for which her parents expressed their thanks.

Migrant workers are untouchables

America, like India, has its own 'untouchables.' Almost outcasts, our migrant farm workers today are among the most neglected minority groups in the country.

But the children of these workers probably suffer most. Malnutrition stalks their lives, often with appalling severity.

"Actually, malnutrition among migrant children is serious enough to stunt their growth and possibly to retard their mental development," reports H. Peter Chase, M.D., of the University of Colorado Medical Center in Denver. "You see babies with graying hair, young children with diseases of the eyes, nose, ears, skin, ribs and liver. Two of the great lacks are vitamin A and enough protein in the food they eat."

Underlying these physical hazards, are ignorance of English (many are Mexican Americans), the low-pay and grueling stoop labor of the parents and the frequent movements about the country.

"We must get these children, all future Americans, out of the rut of malnutrition and lack of education."

Many of the towns in which they work during the harvest season ignore them, don't want their children in school.

50-year pot vet insists that it's safe

Dear Bill: You lose, but don't send the grass. I'm not interested.

I have said repeatedly that pot affects people differently, depending on what is smoked, how it is smoked, and the emotional stability and general physical condition of the smoker.

Some smokers feel nothing, some become completely disoriented and others experience a definite high. It is a well-known fact that some smokers get so stoned they are virtually paralyzed, while others remain functional and manage to keep their smoking a well-hidden secret from those with whom they work and live.

Apparently you can handle it. Dad, but don't assume everyone can. The psychiatrists with whom I consult are seeing increased numbers of potheads who have freaked and are now psychotic. Marijuana is not harmless for some people, and I am dead set against its legalization.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm your age, married about the same time you did (1939), and we have three children. My husband has changed jobs 33 times. One of our children is a schizophrenic.

He does fairly well when he's on medication but he has tried to kill us twice when he was off his medicine.

Six months ago my husband bought a 10-acre plot of ground about 30 miles from here. Although I've worked for 22 years, he did not consult me. When I learned of his financial commitment I was furious. He built a crude shack on the place and goes there every weekend. After putting in a 40-hour week I am not up to roughing it in a barn with no plumbing, no electricity — not to mention plenty of mice and flies.

Last week I learned that my young cousin has been going there with my husband. This has been driving me up the wall. When I confronted them they looked me straight in the face and insisted it's a brother-sister relationship.

Leaving him is impossible. What can I do? I want both him and my cousin to know I don't buy the brother-sister garbage. They read your column every day. Give me a hand, will you please? Thanks.

Dear You: Here it is. You're right and you're welcome.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been

Maple Copse IODE re-open season

The first meeting of Maple Copse Chapter after the summer break was held as usual on the fourth Monday in September. The Regent, Mrs. John French, was in the chair and led the members in prayer.

The financial statement, presented by the Treasurer, Mrs. D'Arcy M. Bennett, showed a satisfactory balance. Mrs. Bennett reported a gift of $25 from an interested friend and two contributions to the current marathon bridge from non-players. $10 had been given for the fish pond run by the Mothers' Auxiliary of the Girl Guides and Brownies at the Tombola and $10 to the IODE shipping fund.

Engagement

The engagement is announced of Isabel Irene, daughter of Mrs. John Wanzer of Bedford, and the late Mr. Wanzer, to Richard Fisk, son of Mr. Burnham Fisk of Everston, Illinois, and the late Mrs. Fisk. The marriage is to take place October 30, at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, in Chicago.

Miss Wanzer is a graduate of the School of Nursing at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital, Montreal, and a graduate of the Director of Nursing at the University of London, in London, Ont. She has been the director at Henrotin Hospital in Chicago for the last two years. Mr. Fisk has a banking career.

Beebe

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Braden, Toronto, Ont., were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rediker, where Mrs. Edwin Meyette, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Laberee were callers. Mrs. Braden being a cousin of Mrs. Rediker, Mrs. Meyette and Mrs. Laberee.

Mrs. E. Miller, Mrs. A. Myers, Mrs. J. Denney, Mrs. S. Bronson and Mrs. C. Aulis were in Hatley, where they attended the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbyterian fall rally, at the United Church.

Michael Choquette, U.S. Marines, spent a ten-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Choquette and family. He has returned to the Great Lakes, Ill. training base.

Mrs. Melvin Walker and her guest, Mrs. Myra Sprague of Dunville, Ont., were in Island Pond, Vt. to attend the funeral of a relative, Mr. Homer E. Walker.

Mrs. Eva Maxwell and Carmen Turcotte have returned after a vacation, when they spent visiting relatives and friends in New Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkinson, spent a very enjoyable vacation visiting points of interest in England and Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rediker, Derby, Vt., former residents of Beebe, received congratulations on their 60th wedding anniversary on October 2nd.

Mrs. D.E. Barnett, Educational Secretary, was voted a sum of money to be spent at her discretion at the Lennoxville Elementary School for educational and gym supplies as well as contribution to the lunch fund for needy children.

The Services Secretary, Mrs. George Sutherland, had sent a large amount of new and good used clothing to Provincial headquarters, given other garments locally and to the Dixville Home, a total value of $122.50.

Letters of thanks for flowers and cards were read, and the Secretary was asked to send a note of grateful appreciation to Miss Carol Taylor for help with the current bridge marathon.

Contributions were voted towards the IODE Commonwealth Relations fund and "Canadian Scene," and the treasurer's bill for calendars was presented for payment. Mrs. Bennett was asked to order a wreath for Remembrance Day.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. A. E. Roodhouse, who was the Chapter's delegate to the National Annual meeting held in St. John's, Nfld., in June, gave an interesting report on the proceedings and a description of parts of the old city which she had visited during her stay. She distributed copies of annual reports to the chapter's officers and convenors, and was sincerely thanked by the Regent for carrying the chapter's vote.

Mrs. French then closed the meeting, and tea was served by Mrs. Charles T. Herring and Mrs. George M. Sutherland. The hostess in October will be Mrs. A. E. Roodhouse.

The marathon prize winners were Mrs. Madge Miller, Miss Mary Lees, Mrs. Ina Wilson, Mrs. Maude Probert and a door prize was claimed by Mrs. Elsie Bronson.

Refreshments of delicious home made bread, pickles and cheese and a spice fruit cake made by Mrs. Arthur Bouchard was served.

Mrs. Ina Wilson will entertain the October 27 party.

Chit-Chats gather

ROCK ISLAND — Mrs. Alice Huntington of Rock Island entertained the September Chit-Chats party at her home where she was assisted by Mrs. George Lepine of Beebe.

The evening was pleasantly spent playing games and chatting and indulging in a few stories.

Mrs. Hattie Cowen was welcomed as a guest.

Mrs. Ina Wilson will entertain the October 27 party.

COLLEEN JANICE — 10-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keet of Fitch Bay, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson of Stanstead, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Keet of Georgeville.

The how-to's of buying and caring for carpets for your home

BEAUTIFUL BEDROOMS — Here a lush carved pattern sitting room area for beauty and warm comfort underfoot. Broadloom has been used throughout the sleeping and bed-

Follow these points when shopping for carpet

The surest way of being satisfied with your carpet purchase is to select a reliable retailer... a man who is proud of his store's reputation and the interlocking sales that satisfied customers bring him. Then, take the following steps:

1. Visit the showroom. Final selection of carpet is often best in the home but be sure you know your retailer's place of business. It tells a lot about him.
2. Select carpeting to suit your own decorative tastes. Don't accept substitute colors or textures if you are not completely pleased with them.
3. Carefully consider durability keeping in mind heavy wear areas and different carpet grades. Be realistic about cost. Remember that heavy traffic areas require better quality carpets which may cost more.
4. Know the total cost before making the purchase. It is called "installed cost" and should include any charges for delivery, installation, underpadding, etc. Make sure the underpadding being supplied is of a satisfactory quality and type.

5. Read and understand your contract with regard to your responsibilities as well as the dealer's. Understand the terms of any guarantees... what's covered and what isn't.
6. Your carpet sales slip should state the carpet name, color, quality number, manufacturer's name, unit price, total price and describe the carpet, i.e., "shag of nylon..."

7. Watch the installers at work in your home if the carpet is wall-to-wall. Check to see that the carpet is stretched properly and that seams are almost unnoticeable. When they're finished, keep any small pieces of carpet that are left over. They make useful color swatches when shopping for items to match the carpet at a later date. (Large left-over pieces can be trimmed, edged and used for door mats or in front of fireplaces).

Carpeting represents an investment. To make sure your investment gives you full returns in beauty, enjoyment and durability, carpet with care.

How to care for your carpet, regularly

New carpet at home? Looks nice, doesn't it? The nicest part is that a simple program of care will keep it looking that way for a long, long time.

Naturally, you'll want to remove spills as soon as they happen so that your carpet won't be permanently stained. And a daily routine of picking up lint and surface dirt with a light sweeping or vacuuming is almost automatic for most women.

Weekly Vacuuming

But, one of the most important activities to undertake on a regular basis is a weekly vacuuming. What type of vacuuming — and vacuum cleaner — depends on the type of carpeting you have... a felt-like carpet with fibres lying flat; a tufted or woven carpet with upright fibres; or one with extra-long pile yarns such as a shag. Each requires slightly different care.

Fibres Lying Flat

For a carpet with fibres lying flat, a thorough weekly vacuuming is needed using a vacuum cleaner that has a brush and beater bar. Canister type vacuums can be used, however, if extra care is taken to do a good vacuuming job.

Carpets with Upright Yarns

Plush, twist, loop-pile carpets should be vacuumed each week with a vacuum with brush and beater bar. (A canister vacuum will not do a satisfactory job, because it cannot agitate the pile to shake out abrasive dirt particles buried below the surface.)

Move the vacuum slowly to give the dirt time to be shaken loose and be picked up by the vacuum suction. If your vacuum has a height adjustment (to allow for different carpet pile heights), set the dial until you can feel a slight resistance to pushing and pulling the vacuum.

Long Pile Yarns

Suction only is recommended for shag carpets. An upright vacuum with a beater bar can be used if the drive belt to the beater is disconnected while cleaning the carpet. Or, use the attachment hose instead of the vacuum head. This is to avoid fraying the yarns with too much beating that could cause them to bloom out and lose the shag appearance.

Seasonal Care

After a certain period of time, even with regular vacuuming, the appearance of your carpet may be dulled by an accumulation of soil — oils, dust, dirt, pollution from the air — which is not readily removed. This effect will be more apparent in some areas than others and with delicate colors which may be masked or changed in hue by the accumulation of oil and very fine dirt particles.

You can often improve the appearance of a carpet by using home cleaning methods. These are not a substitute for a thorough professional cleaning but they do brighten the carpet surface.

Three Types.

- There are three types of home cleaning:
1. The dry method, using an absorbent powder-type cleaner.
 2. The wet method, using a water-and-detergent solution.
 3. Foam spray.

The Dry Method

There are a number of powder-type cleaners available for surface brightening of carpets in the home. Manufacturer's directions for using these materials should be followed carefully. Although this method will not clean the carpet as completely as the wet method, it does have the advantage of less texture distortion, better removal of greasy soil, no color bleeding and less drying time.

The Canadian Carpet Institute recommends this method for most homemakers.

The Wet Method

It is advisable to remove furniture from the room when using this method of cleaning. If it is impractical to do so, thick plastic film or aluminum foil should be placed under the legs of furniture until the carpet is dry to prevent rust or other stains.

Wet cleaning is suitable for all types of carpet but re-soiling problems can occur and most homemakers should follow directions explicitly or consult a professional cleaner for advice before using this method.

Foam Spray Method

A relatively new method now available for home cleaning of carpets is the foam spray. First you spray a thin layer of foam on the carpet, sponge in and then vacuum when dry. This is done working in small areas until the entire carpet has been cleaned. There is a certain danger that a streaky appearance will result when this method is applied without proper care or if it is used to clean a heavily soiled carpet.

In all of these home cleaning methods, the Canadian Carpet Institute advises that you strictly follow the instructions on the label of the cleaner used. Should problems occur, check with a professional carpet cleaner for advice.

Professional Cleaning

For a very thorough cleaning, about every 1-2 years, look to the services of a reliable carpet and rug cleaning firm. They will have the knowledge, experience and equipment to do the job.

Depending upon your type of carpet installation and other factors, your carpet can be cleaned either in your home or in the cleaner's plant. This last method is the most effective but it isn't always practical of course. (The one exception is wall-to-wall jute backed carpet which should be cleaned in the home to avoid shrinkage).

Regular Loving Care

New carpet at home? Remember — light daily care; regular weekly vacuuming; seasonal cleaning; professional cleaning every 1-2 years. That's it... the simple, easy program that will keep that carpet looking beautiful for a long, long time.

How to measure

How do you estimate how much carpet you need? Simply measure your room carefully in feet. Then multiply the length by the width which gives you the number of square feet. Then divide by 9 to find out the number of square yards you need. (Most carpet is sold by the square yard). Of course, this doesn't take into account any jogs or odd wall shapes you may have. So figure on about 10 percent more when estimating cost.

LUXURY — Here the luxury of carpet brings a modern recreation room to life. In addition to beauty and easy care, carpet greatly diminishes the noise level in any type of room.

To clean the small ones

Bath mats and area rugs up to 4' x 6' can be cleaned in your washing machine, except for those which have been cut from a larger rug and have a jute backing. The secret of restoring new beauty to small rugs is to wash them in neutral or mild detergent and then tumble dry. If tumbling action is not available, hang or spread rugs in the shade until they are dry. Then brush them lightly with a stiff brush. Forced air from a vacuum or fan is also helpful.

Because dyes and colors in floor-coverings, as in all types of furnishings material, have a tendency to bleed, classify colors before placing rugs in the washing machine. White and very light colors may be washed together while dark colors should be washed separately.

West Sutton

Mr. and Mrs. John Gendron and children of Sherbrooke have returned to their home after spending the summer at the Vonglasgow cottage here. Recent weekend guests calling on the Gendrons to say farewell were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Meyer, Mrs. Louise Gendron, Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Whitford, Mr. David Whitford, Montreal, Mrs. Pearl Grenier, Knowlton, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fortin and family, Waterloo.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Pelow, Oshawa, Ont., nee Lou Ann Marco, have been spending a week of their honeymoon here with her grandmother Mrs. Lena Marco, and aunt Mrs. Douglas Johnson, and family Mrs. Pelow is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earland Marco of Oshawa. Friends will remember Earland, second son of the late David and Mabel Marco.

Mr. James Robinson had the misfortune to lose two head of cattle in a recent electric storm. Mrs. Ethan Perkins, who underwent surgery at the R. V. Hospital, Montreal, is gaining nicely and will soon be home.

Miss Joy Perkins, Neil and Brian Perkins, accompanied their grandmother, Mrs. Marion Perkins, to Spencerville, Ont. where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Haslem Hooper. Miss Barbara Perkins, who had spent some time in Ontario with relatives, returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Jordan were in Cowansville, Sept. 5 to call on her mother Mrs. Blanch Miner, who was celebrating her birthday.

During the recent flood the past week, the bridge near the Gilbert farm on Route 3 was taken out. Work has begun on a new bridge to replace it.

The auction sale for Mr. and Mrs. J. Muhl that had to be cancelled was held Sept. 11 with a large attendance.

Stanbridge East

Mr. Murray Blinn, accompanied by Mr. Guy Martindale, attended the District of Bedford Masonic church service, held at Knowlton, on Sunday, Oct. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Scott of Frankford, Ont., were guests for several days of Mrs. George Tremblay. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lewis of Clarenceville were also dinner guests at the same home.

Mr. Alfred Gendreau and Mr. Alden Hadlock had the good fortune of obtaining two moose, while on a hunting trip to the North Woods.

Quebec: mineral abundance

Quebec is highly reputed for abundance and the variety of its natural resources. Mineral reserves, the real value of which remains to be established, promises a brilliant future for the mining industry. Intense activity prevails in settled areas as well as in the heart of New Quebec a territory which, for the most part, is still uninhabited.

During 1965 the value of the mineral production in Quebec attained a record $704 million representing an increase of nearly $300 million over the 1955 figure. Everything points to an acceleration of this tendency towards growth. Capital investments increase steadily and exploration and operation methods constantly.

In addition to being a world-leading asbestos producer, Quebec ranks as a major producer of iron ore, copper, zinc and gold.

Other minerals, such as lithium, columbium, selenium and tellurium, although produced in minor quantities, nevertheless are of tremendous use in industry. In fact Quebec is the only Canadian province producing columbium, lithium, titanium oxide, ochre, feldspar, and magnesian dolomite.

All told, some forty metallic and non-metallic substances are extracted from the Quebec subsoil, thus directly providing employment for nearly 34,000 workers, who receive more than $148 million in salaries each year from the mining industry.

Mineral Production

From 1955 to 1965 the value of Quebec's mineral production increased to $316 million. The increase registered during this period amounted to $217 million for metals, $53 million for industrial minerals and $47 million for building materials. Mineral production was maintained at a uniform level from 1956 to 1961 inclusive. However it showed a considerable decrease in 1958 when North America as a whole suffered a serious economic recession.

A Brief Analysis

Quebec mineral production soared from $542.1 million in 1963 to $704.7 million in 1965. This represents an increase of $162.6 million, or 29.9 per cent. The highest increase for the last ten years was registered in 1964 when the mineral production marked a spectacular raise of $145.5 million (26.8 per cent) over the preceding year.

On the national level, Quebec, during 1965, ranked second (after Ontario) for metallic substances; $432.3 million last year compared with $407.2 million in 1964.

Furthermore, in non-metallic substances, Quebec outranked all the other Canadian provinces with $158.7 million, compared with $164.8 million in 1964. The same can be said of industrial minerals. In order to attain the cumulative total of $704.7 million one must add the $113.5 million reported in 1965 for building materials. The production of building materials amounted to $115.3 million in 1964.

1965 Decline

The year 1965 saw a decline of the spectacular climb in iron ore production. Which in 1963 had outranked asbestos ($122.8 million as against $116.5 million) and had increased by a prodigious $39 million to attain $161.8 million during the following year. In 1965, still ahead of asbestos (the production of which dropped from $124.9 million to $119 million), iron ore went from $161.8 million to $141.5 million, thus registering a drop of $20.3 million.

This decrease was compensated, in the domain of metals, by a raise of $26.8 million for copper in 1965: $132.4 million as against $105.6 million in 1964.

As was the case for copper, zinc equally registered a new record. From $19 million in 1963 the production of this metal increased to $67 million in 1964 and to $83.2 million the following year.

IRON ORE — TITANIUM

In 1965 the Province of Quebec produced 14.8 million tons of iron ore, taking precedence over the rest of Canada in this field. Productionwise, however, Quebec with $141.4 million is second to Newfoundland, which produces iron ore values at $168.4 million. During this same period, the national production attained $419.3 million.

The North Shore, which has made giant strides in mining following important developments in New Quebec during the year under review, was further enriched by the construction of an iron ore pelletizing plant owned by Arnaud Pellets. This plant, located at Pointe-Noire in the vicinity of Sept-Iles, treats ore from the Wabush Lake mine situated in Labrador. Opened in July 1965, it has a production capacity of about 5,000,000 tons a year. This project was completed at a cost of $55 million. To date the plant shipped 2.01 million tons of pellets.

NICKEL

New records were attained in 1965 in the production and consumption of nickel in the free world. From year to year (1965: $435.3 million, representing $56 million over the 1964 figure) Canada contributes about 80 per cent of the world production of nickel with the exclusion of countries behind the iron curtain. These countries carefully keep secret their statistical figures in this domain.

The International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. (INCO) and Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd., alone, contribute 72 per cent of the Canadian production, which makes them the two largest nickel producers in the world.

In 1965 Quebec produced nickel for a total value of $5.5 million, $1.6 million over the 1964 figure. Two mines produced 6,610 pounds of this metal. The first, Lorraine Mining operating since March 1965, in the vicinity of Bellevue, has a plant with a daily capacity of 400 tons of ore.

This company delivers, in bulk, a nickel-copper concentrate at the INCO smelter situated at Copper Cliff, Ontario.

GOLD

In accordance with the tendency which persisted during all of the post-war period, gold production decreased in Canada in 1965. It dropped from $144.7 million in 1964 to $136.3 million in 1965.

Only ten of the fifty-four vein-gold mines in operation during 1965 did not prevail themselves of the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act. This Act aims to assist mines with a deficit by maintaining in existence present mining centres. This Act will remain in force until the end of 1967.

From $35.2 million in 1964, gold production in Quebec decreased during the following year by 2.2 per cent to $34.1 million. While vein-gold production increased, gold production as a by-product of base-metal mines registered a drop. In 1965 the number of producing vein-gold mines was 14, compared with 12 during the preceding year.

MOLYBDENUM-BISMUTH

For the sixth consecutive year an increase was registered in the Canadian production of molybdenum. From 1,200,000 pounds valued at $2,100,000 in 1964, the production of this metal mounted the following year to 10,200,000 pounds valued at $17.5 million.

The Molybdenite Corporation of Canada mine, operating a sintering plant with a 900-ton capacity, is situated at Lacorne, slightly north of Val-d'Or.

From Thetford Mines to Asbestos Hill, more than 1200 miles and $51,000,000 in prospecting and development for asbestos. A reserve of 18,738,000 tons has been located, enough to continue the production of asbestos for many years.

Analysis of the mineral deposits show that the quality of the asbestos is sufficient for world marketing, and an important part of the product will be destined to the fabrication of Asbestos cement.

Mining operations will commence in the summer of 1972 with an expected production of a million tons during the working season, March to October.

During the first eight years of operation mining will be the "open pit" method, for a 100,000 tons per year.

Asbestos shipping up

SHERBROOKE — Despite the sluggish level of business activity in North America throughout 1970, shipments from Canadian asbestos mines last year reached an all-time high of 1,659,084 tons, the value of which exceeded by a comfortable margin the $200-million mark for the first time.

There was a 3.9 per cent increase in tonnage shipped and a rise of more than 12 per cent in the value of asbestos shipments over the 1969 figures of 1,596,450 tons and $196,759,000 respectively, in keeping with the historical annual growth pattern of four to five per cent.

In the past decade, the Canadian asbestos industry experienced a growth of 42.7 per cent in production and an overall increase of 72 per cent in value.

The 1970 records were achieved despite the downturn of construction activity in North America and increased operating costs to the producers. Higher wages, greater depth of mining, increased prices for equipment, bags, electric power as well as for virtually all purchased materials, supplies and services, plus mounting property and other taxes, have all contributed to a marked increase in production costs.

In Canada, the asbestos-mining industry is concentrated mainly in the Eastern Townships, with producers also located in northern British Columbia, Yukon Territory, northwestern Newfoundland and northern Ontario.

The largest known asbestos deposits outside of the Soviet Union are those in the Eastern Townships where asbestos has been continuously mined since 1876. In a narrow belt stretching northeastward from Asbestos to East Broughton are 10 mines, eight open pit and two underground operations, operated by seven companies which produce approximately 82 per cent of Canadian fibre.

Shipments from these Quebec mines in 1970 totalled 1,367,057 tons, valued at $183,536,000.

Outside Quebec, Cassiar Asbestos Corporation is the principal Canadian producer. From its mining operations at Cassiar, B.C., and at Clinton Creek, Yukon Territory, total production amounted to more than 190,000 tons in 1970.

Shipments from Newfoundland and Northern Ontario last year totalled 101,750 tons.

Worldwide search on for asbestos

CHECKING THE LINE

SHERBROOKE — Canada accounts for approximately 35 per cent of the world's chrysotile asbestos production. Among other principal producing nations are the USSR, South Africa, Rhodesia, China, the USA and Italy. Asbestos is also found in Finland, Cyprus, India, Japan and Brazil.

Although official Soviet figures for that country's asbestos production in 1969 and 1970 are not available, it is reasonable to assume that output from the USSR is nearly 2,000,000 tons per annum. Production in 1966 was officially reported as 1,723,000 tons and the forecast for 1967 was 1,925,000 tons.

With the completion of an expansion program at Asbest in 1968 and anticipating the start-up of full-scale operations in 1969 at Aktovsk and at Dzhetigara, the USSR set a target of 2,750,000 tons production by 1970. It seems doubtful, however, if this objective has been achieved.

Indications are that exports of asbestos fibre from the USSR amount to less than 300,000 tons annually, justifying the assumption that demand for and utilization of asbestos within the Asian countries and in South America were good.

Asbestos-cement products continue to be the major market for asbestos fibre, accounting for more than 50 per cent of production, and it is in this sector that the greatest growth rate has occurred in the past and is expected to continue in the future. In the past year many countries, in the developing nations in particular, have increased their requirements for these products.

Asbestos-cement construction materials suit the needs of developing countries, and the plants for manufacturing them can be set up at relatively modest capital cost. Normally, local cement is readily available, and asbestos is the only material which must be imported.

Thus, finished products can be locally produced for industrial and low-cost housing construction in competition with, in many cases, comparable materials which, when imported, create or aggravate balance of payments difficulties.

The establishment of new manufacturing plants in developing countries has in recent years substantially increased the demand for Canadian asbestos. In the past 13 years, shipments from Quebec producers alone to these countries have increased by some 50 per cent, while 28 countries have been added to the list of the over 70 nations which now import Canadian fibre.

Acceptance of Canadian asbestos fibre by so broad a spectrum of international markets has resulted in a stabilizing of overall demand. A relatively soft economy in one part of the world, accompanied by an abnormally low demand for asbestos, is counterbalanced by a strong economy, with its associated high fibre demand, in another.

On the international market, the trend towards shipping asbestos in containers is expanding, even though in 1970 this method was virtually restricted to shipments to the United Kingdom and Continental Europe. Container shipments to these markets are expected to increase again in 1971, and, it is believed, container service will also be introduced, to the Australian and, perhaps, Japanese trades this year.

We are proud to be contributing to the development of our natural Mining Resources!

Richmond area UCW hold Fall rally

WINDSOR — The Richmond area UCW Fall Rally was held in St. Andrew's United Church on Thursday, Sept. 23.

Registration began at 9:30 in the morning with Mrs. Allan Sutherland of Danville in charge. Coffee was served by the home group. Miss Jean Pepler, of Richmond, was chairman for the day.

The roll call was to give the definition of love. Mrs. Baldwin, of Lennoxville, President of Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery attended and brought greetings from the Presbytery. During the morning session a sing song of hymns from the new hymn book was held under the direction of Mrs. Judson, of Bishop's University with Miss Marion Kerr at the organ.

Mrs. Pettis, of Ulverton, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Margaret Houston, of Montreal, who spoke on The Church of Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow.

Mrs. Cecil Johnston, of Melbourne Ridge, thanked the speaker for her most interesting and informative talk. The ladies then formed groups for a discussion session.

At the noon hour the ladies of Windsor UCW served luncheon to 47 ladies. Invited ACW members attending were Miss Norah Moorhead, of St. Anne's Church in Richmond, and Miss Kathleen Wheeler and Mrs. Grant Watson from St. George's Anglican Church.

Other UCW members present were from Drummondville, South Durham, Ulverton, Danville, Melbourne Ridge, Richmond and Melbourne. Mrs. Bernice Gunter of the Courtesy Committee thanked the Windsor ladies for the dinner and hospitality throughout the day.

Mrs. D. Dykeman, of Richmond, welcomed Drummondville into this area. The literature display was in charge of Mrs. Hoy, of Lennoxville.

Following lunch the ladies again gathered upstairs where the various session groups reported and Mrs. Houston gave a summary of their reports.

The offering was taken up by Mrs. Beatrice Rodgers and Mrs. Arnold Mallette of the Richmond Group. The ladies then engaged in another sing song.

Rev. Beaudon was in charge of the closing worship following which tea and cookies were served by the Windsor ladies.

... a legend in mining achievements that is resulting in widespread benefits to a large work force, Quebec Province and Canada!

Lake Asbestos of Quebec LIMITED

— the firm that moved a lake, to overcome mountainous obstacles that provided the Canadian asbestos mining industry with one additional important deposit, and a productive mineral resource that is contributing generously to regional, provincial and national economy. That was the story told with gusto over ten years past, when Lake Asbestos of Quebec Limited drained, dredged and began operations at Black Lake near Thetford Mines, Quebec. Still a vivid story in the annals of mining achievements, the account of this enormous undertaking unceasingly intrigues experts, stirs the imagination of investors, but in direct on-the-spot reality provides a flourishing livelihood for a large working force that thrives on earnings furnished on a stable basis. This is the account that was, is, and promises to remain as a legend to Canadian mining, and in particular Lake Asbestos of Quebec Limited.

Long story of continuing progress

SHERBROOKE — Multi-Manville's Jeffrey Mine at colored and multi-shaped bits of Asbestos. Attention to detail is a plastic play a major role in the operation of Canadian Johns-

Manville have, by weight, 98.5 per cent of waste material to obtain 1.5 per cent of finished product.

THE EARTH OFFERS UP HER RICHES TO INDUSTRIOUS SEEKERS

The mine produces chrysotile asbestos, the extremely light mineral with outstanding strength giving and insulating properties. The ore at Asbestos has been under development since 1881 and has progressed through hand steepling and cobbing, derricks and aerial cableways, spiral benches and truck haulage to an underground system. Since 1960, it is using a skipway in its open pit operations.

Today, the open pit is nearly 900 feet deep, and more than a mile across at its widest diameter. A tremendous fleet of equipment — rotary and percussion drills, hoes and dozers, loaders and graders, trucks and power shovels — is required to loosen and remove 40 million tons of material a year.

Of this tremendous volume, 12,700,000 tons is overburden, 17,700,000 tons is waste rock, and 9,600,000 tons is ore which is processed on-site to produce 600,000 tons of fibre. The plant produces approximately 125 grades or sub-grades of asbestos fibre.

The pit is in operation around the clock, six days a week, with a work force of about 450 men — about one-fifth of the total of 2,500 employees in the mine, mill, manufacturing plant (railroad brake shoes, textiles, and rubber rings for Transite pipe connections), maintenance and administration activities.

Nine miles of pit roadway must be maintained throughout the year in an area which averages 150 inches of winter snow, and heavy spring rains and thawing. Year-round pumping operations removes approximately one and a half million gallons of surface and drainage water from the pit each day.

Power shovels play an important role in the mine's production, particularly in the removal of overburden consisting of sand, silty clay and hardpan which ranges from 100 to 250 feet thick over the ore body. Sixteen electric shovels are in use, with bucket capacities ranging from six to 15 yards.

Behind the shovels is a fleet of 64 trucks with capacities ranging from 40 to 200 tons.

It has been only recently that the 15-yard shovels, and larger trucks, were added to the mine's equipment for more efficient removal of the overburden. Two of the newer shovels are Marion 191-M with 47-foot booms.

Canadian Johns-Manville welcomes visitors to its Jeffrey operation, even to the extent of providing an observation tower at the edge of the pit for visitors who arrive on a Sunday when the mine is not in operation.

For the week-day visitors, mine and plant tours are arranged, and with luck, they will witness the daily 4 p.m. blasting from a special platform above the skipway.

The casual visitor, perhaps a tourist, will be told that the big power shovels are capable of removing 1,000 tons of overburden per hour but, with normal delays in haul truck arrival, are really averaging about 600 to 700 tons per hour.

But CJ-M's engineering and maintenance departments work with more precise data.

The 191-Ms have been in operation for more than a year. One was started up in November, 1969, and the second in June, 1970. CJ-M's approach to the selection of the equipment, and its subsequent attention to service and maintenance details, are typical of the mine management's careful evaluation and follow-up on all capital equipment.

One CJ-M spokesman reported that the machines' productivity bore out the Engineering Department's forecast that a 15-yard machine would virtually double the production of a 10-yard machine in removing overburden.

"The Marion 15-yard machine will load a 100-ton truck in an average time of 2.08 minutes (three dig, lift, swing, dump, return cycles) and a 200-ton truck in 3.73 minutes (with six cycles)," he says. "This is slightly more than half the 3.41 minutes and 6.13 minutes, respectively, required by a 10-yard machine to do the same job."

He further explained that the machines met two other criteria established by CJ-M — versatility and compatibility with other equipment at the mine.

R. T. Young, superintendent of mechanical maintenance at Jeffrey, reports that the Marion 191-Ms are maintaining a satisfactory 80 to 85 per cent availability, and are "operating up to expectations."

"To continue to maintain this kind of performance, it will be necessary for both Marion and CJ-M to do their respective part," Mr. Young says.

"We will look to Marion, as we look to all our suppliers, for consultation with knowledgeable service representatives, good service, and 100 per cent renewal parts back-up, both from the parent company and its local supplier," he says.

Mr. Young indicated that, at the time the machines were installed, an inventory of wear items was established at both the mine site and with the local Marion distributor, Blackwood Hodge of Montreal.

"We have not been disappointed with Marion service. At the same time, we are doing our part," Mr. Young says.

This is where the multi-colored and multi-shaped bits of plastic come in.

In the office of Normand Chaperon, E and R general foreman, three walls are covered with peg boards studded with hundreds of plastic markers.

Each marker is a story unto itself, and together they form a composite picture of the needs of each machine in the open pit. As each machine accumulates operational hours, as recorded by self-contained hour meters, the plastic markers signal not only what maintenance must be performed, but when.

The position of the markers, rather than whim, determines when a machine must be taken out of production for maintenance, and what must be done.

In the case of the power shovels, efforts are made to coordinate the down-time so that both mechanical and electrical inspection, repair and replacement can be made. It is difficult to conduct mechanical repairs when power has been shut off for electrical maintenance.

"Our maintenance crews appreciate the spaciousness and accessibility afforded by the design of the Marion 191-M cab and deck," Mr. Chaperon says. "They can see, and get to, the parts that need attention."

Mr. Chaperon's concern for the high performance of CJ-M's equipment is reinforced by the fact that in his off-duty hours, he is an avid sports car enthusiast. The medallions on his high-powered sports car for participation in various rallies and slaloms attest to his personal concern with performance.

Another element in the successful performance of the Marion 191-M machines at CJ-M is high operator acceptance. Convenient, easily operated controls, plus a cab air-conditioning and air pressurization system enable an operator to meet production goals with a minimum of effort and discomfort.

And, according to Mr. Young, the 191-M's self-lubrication system is a pleasant bonus.

"If they wouldn't have come equipped with it, we would have added it here," he says. "We've done it to other machines for two reasons — to remove the element of human neglect, and to free the traditional 'oiler' for other duties such as relieving the machine operator."

The experience of CJ-M and Marion is upgrading equipment at CJ-M's Jeffrey Mine bears out two points.

First, no machine manufacturer, with today's technology, can produce a 100 per cent productivity, no-maintenance machine; but, second, with proper supplier-user relationships, the supplier can provide necessary back-up service and the user, through proper maintenance, can keep such back-up service to a minimum.

Asbestos: valuable through the ages

As the "magic mineral" of antiquity, and man's powerful ally today in fighting fire, weather and wear, asbestos has a fascinating story.

Resembling cotton or wool at first glance, asbestos is actually a fibre of stone. Yet, it is amazingly flexible. Its greatest renown rests on its resistance to heat. The fragile looking fibres are extremely strong. Many types of steel have less tensile strength and most strong chemicals leave the fibre unchanged. And it can be woven like any other fibre.

Originally, geologists believe, the mineral asbestos was simply rock. But trapped in the heart of prehistoric volcanoes, twisted and squeezed by irresistible forces and sprayed by super-heated volcanic steam, the rock changed in form. It took on a characteristic greenish-gold color. It became "serpentine" in structure—veins appeared, running in an irregular network of lines and looking something like gashes in the rock.

This "changed rock" is the mineral asbestos of today. The word "asbestos" is in itself a significant name. It comes from a Greek compound word meaning indestructible, incombustible, unburnable.

Nature distributed asbestos in seemingly haphazard fashion over many portions of the Globe. Deposits are found in South Africa, Russia, Italy, Cyprus, Finland, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Bolivia, Peru, Columbia, and in a few other countries. But by far the most important deposits, in both quantity and quality, are located in Canada in the Province of Quebec, where Johns-Manville owns and operates the largest known asbestos deposit in Canada.

Asbestos has been known for many centuries. The ancient Romans used lamp wicks of asbestos in the temples. Herodote records that before being placed on the funeral pyre, the bodies of the honored dead were wrapped in a cremation cloth of asbestos so that the ashes might be saved and deposited in a funeral urn.

In the literature of the Middle Age, we come across stories depicting the awe which the magic fire resistance of asbestos once inspired. Charlemagne the Great is said to have averted a war with the Moslem forces of Harun-al-Raschid, Emperor of the East, through asbestos "magic."

Calling the Moslem envoys for a parley, he proceeded to entertain them with a great banquet. After the board was cleared, Charlemagne swept up the soiled cloth from the table and threw it into a fire nearby. And when Charlemagne later withdrew the cloth, unburnt and cleaned snowy white, a great fear came over the astonished envoys, who quickly departed to warn their Emperor against warring with so potent a magician! Of course, the tablecloth was an asbestos one.

Similar stories might easily be cited. For, strange as it may seem, in these modern days of progress and invention, men continued for hundreds of years after Charlemagne to regard asbestos as merely a queer freak of nature.

Right here in the Province of Quebec, in the middle 1800's, the story goes, the crew of a lumber camp returning wet through after a rainy day's work, gathered around the hot stove in the bunkhouse to warm up.

As they drew off their wet shoes and soaking socks, one of the lumberjacks coolly tossed his socks into the roaring fire. A few moments later, to the amazement of the others, he withdrew the socks intact, clean and dry, and put them on his feet. It is said that his companions, who had never heard of the magic qualities of asbestos, avoided him thenceforth as they would the devil.

As late as 1870's, a storekeeper by the name of H. W. Johns was still able to amaze and excite his sophisticated city neighbors by handling glowing coals without injury, his hands enclosed in a pair of asbestos mittens he had somewhere found.

But to John himself, these asbestos mittens represented far more than a "side-show" for customers. In this fire-proof, practically indestructible fabric, he saw great future possibilities for creating products that would conquer man's traditional enemies — fire, weather, wear and the destructive heat of friction. He visualized asbestos in the form of fireproof roofings, insulations to conserve industrial power, packings that would stand up under the burning friction of whirling shafts.

All these things were possible, if asbestos could be mined in sufficient quantities to supply the demand and transported economically to the factories and mills where it could be processed.

At that time, in the 1870's, asbestos was imported from Italy.

Its cost put it beyond the possibility of broad economical use. However, Johns persisted in his experiments to develop useful asbestos products, all the while keeping an ear to the ground for clues which might lead to finding asbestos deposits nearer home where making and manufacturing could be carried on at low cost.

And then asbestos was discovered in Quebec on the farm of Charles Webb.

Outcroppings of a hard but peculiarly fibrous rock made a patchwork pattern of his fields and meadows. Much of the land was impossible to plough, being covered with a layer of dirt only deep enough to give root to grass and weeds. So Charles Webb resigned himself to making no use of these fields, except as pasture land for cattle.

But a miner named Evan Williams, from Wales, learned that this fibrous rocky substance was asbestos. Williams persuaded W. H. Jeffrey, a wealthy farmer to risk his savings by providing capital needed to develop the asbestos deposits on the old Webb farm. That was in 1881.

Mining in those days was quite primitive. Asbestos ore was blasted and dug out by hand chisels from three shallow pits. The pit boss called the men to work in the morning by clanging an old bell hung from the limb of a tree. The first derrick used to hoist the ore was powered by a single dejected horse that walked around and around. A diligent boy could sometimes pick enough asbestos fibre from the ore to fill as many as 12 bags each day. He earned 10 cents a bag or $1.20, making more than the pit men who got a dollar.

Such was the humble beginning of the pioneer Jeffrey Mine which today, as the Canadian Johns-Manville Mine, at Asbestos, Quebec, ranks as the largest operating mine anywhere in Canada.

History has always seemed to prove that every great discovery is always accompanied by the emergence of a man with the vision and energy required to push it at the fullest development. The new discovery of Quebec's rich asbestos resources was no exception. And H. W. Johns, the enterprising storekeeper, was the man.

Jeffrey operated the mine in primitive fashion for 14 years. Then came the money panic of 1895 and he was threatened with bankruptcy. Several other persons pooled their savings, took over the Jeffrey Mine and thus saved jobs for the men and kept the business going for 21 years. They struggled with production problems and learned more and more each year, that it takes a lot of capital — the savings of many people — to operate a business, provide the tools, machinery and plants to get more production at less cost, to compete with other businesses in the same field.

Following on the revelation of a convenient source of supply in Quebec and the proof of the practicability of asbestos roofing, H.W. Johns actively launched his long-dreamed-of-plans. The H.W. Johns Company grew rapidly and out of the returns from the roofing business, Johns constantly ploughed large sums back into research and experiments to discover new uses for the "magic mineral."

Meanwhile, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, another insulation venture was growing under the leadership of Thomas F. Manville, a salesman of superb ability. He owned, with his father and two brothers, the Manville Covering Company of Milwaukee, where pipe coverings, were made by combining sheep's wool and clay. These coverings, used as wrappings to conserve heat, were satisfactory up to a point. But when industry began to utilize higher temperature in plant processes, the wool-and-clay product would not do.

Mr. Manville, realizing that asbestos was the answer to this new problem, sought H. W. Johns as the leader in the asbestos field. A few years later the two companies merged to form the H. W. Johns-Manville Company.

ASBESTOS, COMMUNITY ON THE MOVE

With a full scale town relocation and community planning program now being implemented, Asbestos promises to become one of Quebec Province's model communities, a delightful municipality to live and work in, and a choice location for firms seeking ideal manufacturing sites. Asbestos has a lot to offer, their principal benefits being:

- CAREFUL COMMUNITY PLANNING
- CONVENIENT INDUSTRIAL SITES
- AN ATTRACTIVE TAX STRUCTURE AND RATE
- GOOD TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES
- EXCELLENT COMMUNITY SERVICES for residential, commercial and industrial areas within the municipality.
- A CAPABLE AND WAITING WORK FORCE
- GOOD SCHOOLS, FINE CHURCHES and TOWN BENEFITS

For details on Asbestos' potential as an industrial location, write for information, attention of the Asbestos Industrial Commissioner, Mr. Fernand Rainville, Inc.

Trail Ride & Horse Show

SAWYERVILLE — Ideal morning weather and the gorgeous coloring of the trees combined to make the Lennoxville-North Hatley Riding and Driving Club trail ride on Oct. 3rd, a very enjoyable experience.

The riders met at George Loveland's place and proceeded out of town, North and East, on country roads for a 7 or 8 mile ride. Several who did not have horses, followed along in cars just to enjoy the drive on such a beautiful day. At one point they paused briefly at the Wilfred Grapes farm and were treated with apples fresh from the orchard.

Following lunch on their return, a horse show was held, with ribbons given to the winners.

Mr. G. Painter acted as Ring Master and J. Bellam judged the events. All in all, it was a day of fun for young and old.

UNICEF plans made at WI

INVERNESS — The October meeting of the Inverness Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. Wright on the evening of Oct. 6.

The president, Mrs. R. C. Muir, opened the meeting in the usual way and eight members answered the Roll Call. My Mother's favourite flower.

Plans were made to have a light installed at the Oddfellow's Hall and to have a cement step made at the kitchen door. Mrs. F. Cox was appointed to look after the matter.

It was decided to buy mugs, cups, saucers and plates for the Senior Citizens' Home in Kinneair's Mills. All members were pleased to note that a new resident has been installed in the Home.

The annual UNICEF party for the children is to be held in the IOOF Hall on Friday, October 29. The children will meet there after their usual UNICEF collection has been made.

Scholarship awarded

STANSTEAD — The Stanstead County Women's Institute Convener of Education, Mrs. R. Knight, has announced that Miss Madeleine Lauzier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lauzier of Kingscroft, is the winner of the Dr. C. L. Brown Memorial Scholarship, awarded for the first time this year.

This scholarship, established by the family and friends of the late Dr. Brown of Ayer's Cliff will be given annually to a student preparing for any branch of the medical profession.

Miss Lauzier is enrolled at the Sherbrooke CEGEP in technique infirmary. She studied previously at the Penitentiary Notre Dame de la Presentation.

There were several applications for the scholarship.

Obituaries

AUDREY JEAN TAYLOR of Trenholm

Neighbors and friends were shocked by the death of Audrey Mrs. Orin Taylor of Trenholm which occurred in the Sherbrooke Hospital on Sept. 14, 1971, in her 52nd year. Although in poor health for some time her death was unexpected.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband Orin, son Barry, grandson Michael, her father and mother Mr. and Mrs. William Knowles, brother Len, Ora and family, brother-in-law Orvis, Grace and family.

The funeral service, largely attended, was held in the Trenholm United Church on Friday, Sept. 17, conducted by Rev. R. A. Cameron. The Ladies Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 15 were in attendance.

Relatives and friends were many, also a number from a distance.

The bearers were Raymond Lampron, Donald Goodfellow, Rene Mimeault, Ross Bogie, Willie Sullivan and Walter Stevens.

Interment took place in the Trenholm Cemetery.

WILFRED L. LANCE of Montreal

Formerly of Richmond

There passed away at St. Sauveur des Monts on Sept. 15, 1971, a former well known and respected resident of Richmond, at the age of 78 years, Wilfred Laurier Lance, husband of the late Doris Dearden, formerly of Richmond and Montreal.

He is survived by a daughter Mrs. Wilfred Wood of St. Sauveur des Monts, a son Mr. Dearden Lance of Montreal, and a number of other relatives.

The remains rested at the Hebert and Trudel Funeral Home, St. Sauveur where the funeral service was held on Saturday Sept. 18 at 11:00 a.m. Interment took place at Morin Heights Cemetery.

BEATRICE W. EVANS of Mystic

The death took place on Sept. 3, 1971, at the Royal Victoria Hospital of Mrs. Beatrice Witts Evans, formerly of Mystic.

The funeral service was held on Sept. 6 at Dion's Funeral Home, Bedford, Rev. W. Lake officiating.

The bearers were Don and Leland Wilson, Art Hubbard, George Fuller, Rosby McCutcheon and Lawrence Page.

Interment at Mystic United Church Cemetery beside her eldest son Jim.

Mrs. Evans was born in England in 1891, daughter of the late James and Elizabeth Muir.

Her first husband, Thomas Witts, was killed in action in World War I.

Of this union three children were born. Jim, who predeceased her in 1964, Thomas Perley Aiken of Cowansville.

Before coming to Canada in 1927 she married John Evans. Of this union four daughters were born, Bea, Mrs. Basil Tweed of Abercorn, Lucy of Montreal, Gwen, Mrs. T. Wilson, West Brome and Agnes of Montreal.

In 1957 Mrs. Evans fell and broke her hip, since then she has spent a great deal of her time with her daughters Gwen, Lucy, and Agnes, also in several nursing homes.

Mrs. Evans leaves to mourn her loss one son, five daughters, eleven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, Cheryl of Winnipeg and Steven of Cowansville. Also her sons-in-law and one daughter-in-law.

MILLICENT MAY PUGH of Cowansville

On Monday September 20, 1971, after a lengthy illness, the death occurred at BMP Hospital, Cowansville, Que., of Miss Millicent May Pugh in her 51st year.

She was born in Cowansville on March 25, 1921, dearly beloved daughter of the late Henry Pugh. She attended school at Heroes Memorial High and Sweetsburg Elementary.

During her years as a resident in Cowansville she was well known for her interest in such activities as the Bible Society and Trinity Anglican Church, Canadian Red Cross and canvassing for various groups.

The funeral was held from Wilson and Son Funeral Home, Cowansville, for the service on Thursday morning August 23 at Trinity Anglican Church at 11:00 a.m. Rev. John Peacock officiated.

The bearers were Albert Cook, cousin, Henry Jones, uncle, William Burke, Stewart Carter, William Hawke and Claud Hunt.

Interment took place in Union Cemetery, Cowansville.

ALTON L. GOODENOUGH of Danville

The death of Alton Lewis Goodenough occurred on Sept. 16, 1971, at the age of 60 years and 26 days at the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Mr. Goodenough was the son of the late Herbert and Annie Goodenough. He was united in marriage to Pearl Lodge on June 21, 1942. They moved to the Goodenough farm in Sipton, and farmed there until his death.

He will be sadly missed by his family and the many beautiful floral offerings, donations to the Cancer Society and messages of sympathy received showed the high esteem in which he was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Wintle were overnight guests of their son, Mr. Ernest Wintle and Mrs. Wintle in Ayer's Cliff and accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Galen Vance and daughter Shirley, also of Ayer's Cliff, they attended the 50th wedding anniversary celebrations for Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Owen of East Hereford.

Guests at the home of Mrs. Alec Beaton and Mr. Douglas Beaton were Mr. Howard Taylor, Lachine, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Taylor, Ville La Salle, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hillis, Scotstown accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rossi and daughter Lynn of Brighton, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Duquette of Massachusetts.

Brookbury

Several of the North Shore students attending the Alexander Galt Regional School, are domiciled in various homes in this area. The four boys who are staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Coleman, are Samuel and Lloyd Keats of St. Paul's River and Roger and Terry Buckle of Old Fort Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Batley of Bury were Sunday guests of their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Dougherty and family, the occasion being the 50th anniversary of their marriage, their elder daughter (Phyllis), Mrs. Anthony Storcer of Calgary had also come to help them observe this memorable occasion. It was a quiet family gathering as Mr. and Mrs. Batley had previously requested that no special celebration with gifts be given to mark the event.

However they received many congratulatory cards, and good wishes from their many friends who could not let the occasion pass, without some expression of the esteem in which this worthy couple is held.

Mr. Sydney Coates has sold his property here to Mr. Morneau of Bury. An auction sale was held on Saturday September 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Forgrave attended the funeral of the former's grandmother, Mrs. Samuel Forgrave, at Sawyerville.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

A leopard can't change his spots. Neither can a bridge player, but the bridge player can pay close attention to them and get the most from them.

West began by cashing his four hearts. This started the defense in dormie position, since one more trick would set the contract. South discarded the three of diamonds from dummy and a careless South would have

Successful Affair

KNOWLTON — A most successful and first ever venture sponsored by the Brome County Historical Society called "A September Affair" was held in the Legion Hall on Saturday September 18, when exactly three hundred persons paid admission to attend the Affair.

Mrs. M. E. Nixon and Mr. R. H. Price were responsible for the arrangements and setting up all the necessary committees.

An auction sale was conducted by the well known local auctioneer Mr. Denis Dunn.

There was also a "grab bag sale", many door prizes, refreshments, and many other attractions that kept all the visitors busy for many hours of enjoyment, and helped considerably to swell the funds of the Historical Society, and also promoted considerable interest in the Society and the Centennial and Museum buildings which are owned and operated by the Society.

discarded a small club from his own hand. Not this South. He was a cat f 1 player and he let the jack of spades go.

This represented a potential trick, but it was an unimportant one. South needed to find the king of diamonds in the East hand to make his contract and the location of the spade queen was immaterial.

West shifted to the queen of spades and South was in. He cashed his ace and queen of clubs and now we see why he was wise to keep both small clubs in his own hand.

He was able to lead the seven of clubs to dummy's king. A successful finesse of the diamond queen followed. Then South led the four of spades to dummy's six in order to finesse diamonds a second time. He collected the rest of the tricks and won the rubber.

Program of coming events for ACW
BEDFORD - The opening meeting of the St. James ACW for the autumn was held on Wednesday evening in the parish hall. The president Mrs. Bruce Kirwin conducted the meeting, which was opened with prayer. The minutes were read by Mrs. Kerwin in the absence of the secretary Mrs. William Jackson and accepted as read. Twenty-two were present. Report was given of the successful area meeting held in June, at which 100 attended. A motion of thanks was made to Mrs. Roy Cook and the members of her committee, who looked after the luncheon and tea at the Area meeting. The date for the Christmas sale was set for November 12. Notice was given of tea and sale at the Nesbitt Residence, on September 25. In October the fall rummage sale will be held with Mrs. John Pope in charge.

Nixon watchers gratified, hopeful

Western Europe, confronted with President Nixon's plan for visiting Moscow as well as Peking next year, has reacted with a general sense of gratification and guarded hope.

The Nixon announcement Tuesday of the projected Moscow trip prompted some European observers to take note of the way Moscow is seemingly willing to deal directly with Washington despite any troubles the Soviets might be having with countries like Britain.

Communists in Britain allege that the planned Nixon trip, along with other exchanges of top-level visits between the Russians and various governments outside their orbit, makes London appear isolated from an increasingly prevalent world trend towards a policy of international reconciliation.

Prime Minister Heath, whose Conservative government recently expelled scores of Soviet diplomats for alleged spying activities, "is isolating Britain at the very moment when co-operation and trade are more important to our people than ever," says the Communist Morning Star.

But other London commentators apparently accept the official British contention that expulsion of the Russian envoys was meant only to clear the decks for an eventual new start towards radical improvement of Anglo-Soviet relations.

CAUTION IN EUROPE

On the other hand, there is caution in both Britain and such Continental countries as West Germany about Nixon's aspirations, mainly in view of his record in the 1940s and 1950s as a militant anti-Communist.

Moreover, a certain degree of apprehension is apparent in the remark by a business-oriented newspaper in London that, in trying to initiate a fresh move towards a significant East-West "detente," the Russians apparently prefer to deal directly with the Americans.

This choice of a direct Moscow-Washington line of contact was taken by some London circles to indicate more strongly than ever a need for Britain, France and other West European countries to fuse their various energies into a new multinational power—presumably beginning with expansion of the European Common Market beyond its present membership of six states.

One of the considerations preventing undue optimism in this respect is the suggestion from U.S. defence sources that Russia is stepping up its preparations for a possible future eruption of rocket warfare.

Contentions of this kind reflect as much on the Americans as they do on the Soviets and help to produce a relatively skeptical mood among observers all over the world who might otherwise be lured into excessive optimism about the results of top-level meetings such as those now being planned in Washington, Peking and Moscow.

THANKSGIVING "DUTY BIRD" — For most Canadian families the turkey was the "duty bird" for Thanksgiving Day, but for the switchboard operators at the 22nd NORAD Region's underground SAGE

Single cell may mean artery ill

SASKATOON (CP) — Hardening of the arteries may begin with damage to something as small as a single cell in the wall of the artery, an American pathologist said Wednesday.

Dr. W. A. Thomas, head of pathology at Albany Medical College, told a symposium on heart and artery disease that this may be the start of the sometimes-lengthy process in which arteries become obstructed.

Through the microscopic injury to the artery wall, fats carried in the blood stream leak into the surrounding smooth muscle tissue. This provokes a multiplication of the smooth muscle cells.

In time, the deposits begin to block the flow of blood to vital organs. The blood itself tries to stem the leakage by creating clots which, as they grow, aggravate the blockage.

With the passage of time, the growing blockage may so starve the heart muscle of nourishment and oxygen that a heart attack results; or it may stop the blood flow to a key area of the brain, producing a stroke, or pressure behind the blockage may cause a massive rupture of the artery wall at a weak point.

Dr. Thomas said recent research by him and others illustrates that at an early stage the start of multiplication of the smooth-muscle cells can be identified.

He now is studying what causes the "take-off" in smooth-muscle cell growth following minute injury, in hopes of it leading to some method of control.

Dr. Thomas appeared on a panel during a one-day symposium sponsored jointly by the Canadian Cardiovascular Society and the University of Saskatchewan, which is inaugurating a new basic sciences building for its medical school.

Dr. Paris Constantinides of Vancouver, a second panelist, said the chief culprit in the damage that follows cell-wall injury is cholesterol, a common ingredient of animal tissue found in egg yolk and animal oils and fats.

A high cholesterol level in the blood is one danger sign in artery disease.

FACTORS ARE MANY

Dr. Constantinides, professor of pathology at the University of British Columbia, said many things may cause cell-wall injury, including chemical, mechanical and genetic factors.

He said that until recently it had been thought that large fat cells passed continuously through artery walls or piled up along them where they were too thick to permit passage.

Now, he said, this should be modified on the basis of research which indicates only small cells can pass through the artery walls. Large ones must wait to go through the walls of smaller blood vessels called capillaries.

Only after injury of the artery wall has occurred is the door open for the large fat cells to penetrate and set off the thickening process that brings trouble.

Ok. Let's get down to facts.

Fact is we're the largest, most experienced snowmobile manufacturer in the world. Here's why!

FACT/ROTAX ENGINES:

Designed exclusively for each model of Ski-Doo snowmobile and winter proven to start even at forty below zero. Aluminium alloy cylinders, aluminium pistons, shrouded axial fan (two cylinder engines) and cooling fins get rid of heat fast to keep it running cool.

FACT/IDEAL BALANCE:

The power to weight ratio is just right. Even the position of the driver has been taken into account. Enough weight on the track to give you sure thrust traction and enough weight on the front for carving tighter turns.

FACT/QUALITY BUILT:

The keynote to each Ski-Doo snowmobile is quality. Each one is checked on the drawing board, test run in the factory and checked out by your dealer to insure the best possible performance for each particular model.

FACT/WIDEST CHOICE:

The economical, full-sized Elan* model at $595+... the fun-loving, sporty Olympiques... the zappy, TNT* trailbusters... and the swinger's choice, the luxury-laden Nordic* machines. Plus Alpine* Valmont* Blizzard* seven great series more than 24 models.

FACT/BEST SERVICE:

Our special factory approved service schools assure you quality maintenance. Your Ski-Doo dealer, one of more than 2,400 across North America, also offers you a dependable warranty, the most complete stock of genuine Ski-Doo parts, accessories and winter fashions.

These are just a few of the FACTS.

You've got a growing family,
a one-car garage and a one-car budget...

Plymouth's got the answer!

A new car for your family this year? It's a big decision.

You've got to pick one that's dependable, one that's comfortable, one that's going to last...one that's right for the kind of driving you do.

And let's be honest, you want one that is really new, too; one that looks good and performs well.

It's a tall order, but we think our new '72 Plymouth Fury fills the bill.

More than just a pretty face

There's more to Fury and its handsome new body than meets the eye. Body and chassis are, in fact, a single unitized structure, welded together for lasting strength, silence and solidity. And before it gets a spot of paint, it's thoroughly rustproofed. So it will last.

Room doesn't necessarily mean comfort.

Your growing family needs lots of room—and Fury provides it. But for real comfort you need a good suspension system, too. Fury uses torsion bars in front, leaf springs in the rear, to control "after-bump rebound", and swaying on corners.

Noise isn't comfortable, so Fury has a sound isolation system of special bushings, weatherstripping and sound-absorbing insulation to keep wind and road noise to a minimum.

What you really need is standard equipment.

Because you drive on highways with a full load of passengers and luggage, you need a V8 engine. So this year, we've made our smooth 318 V8 the standard Fury engine. And because both you and your wife drive in heavy traffic, we've made automatic transmissions and power steering standard equipment, too. Plymouth is concerned about the environment, too. All Fury engines are equipped with the latest emission control devices.

The big difference is quality.

This year's Fury is the product of Chrysler's quality engineering. The differences are in many little things that really count—like pre-tested wiring, smoother transmissions, more efficient alternators. The net result is a better car, more dependable than ever before. Before you put your family into one of our Fury models, we expect you to ask a lot of questions. We want you to be sure.

Your Plymouth dealer is at your disposal. He's in business to help you, so go see him soon.

Executive of M.C.H.S. meet at museum

BEDFORD — A meeting of the executive of the Missisquoi County Historical Society was held at the museum, Stanbridge East, with the president, Kenneth Tree presiding.

The minutes of the previous meeting held on July 16 were read by the secretary, Mrs. Richard Craighead and accepted as read.

Ways and means of selling the maps were discussed, the maps have been greatly improved with re-touching and re-printing and are most interesting, giving as they do names and places of the early settlers together with all businesses. A motion was made that W. Taylor look after the buying of the guarding rails at the museum's front door, not to exceed a cost of $100.00.

Three donations, one of $200.00, the others of $100.00 each have been received for the memorial fund.

The president reported that the brochure A memorial to the Past could not be placed at the custom offices at Philipsburg, as it is against regulations.

It was decided to postpone ordering of directional signs for the museum, as it is too late in the season. Messrs Tree and Taylor to look after the matter. It was decided to have two loads of gravel put on the museum's driveway, one this fall, the other next summer.

Mrs. Charles Jones, W. Taylor, K. Tree, Homer Bede and L. Dudsoff were appointed members of finance and advertising committee. It was announced that Mr. Cloutier, Minister of Cultural Affairs will visit the museum in the near future. A bill was ordered paid.

The museum will close on September 30, will reopen after that date by appointment only. Final closing on October 17.

A hearty vote of thanks was given Ashley Sheltus for his help and co-operation, regarding the visit of the Grenadier Guards.

Cancer Society meets October 27

DANVILLE — Two certificates of Merit are being presented at a meeting of the Danville Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society on Oct. 27 in St. Augustine's Parish Hall, Danville.

At this time films both French and English will be shown, and it is hoped that a physician will be present to answer any questions which the audience may wish to ask.

This is an excellent opportunity for the public to acquire information regarding cancer and its early detection.

Also people are made aware of the fact that early detection means the chance of early cure and it is hoped that the population will avail themselves of this opportunity of furthering their knowledge of the signs of this disease, as well as of the many ways in which cancer patients are helped. For several years now patients suffering from this disease have received help through small comforts from the Cancer Society's Gift Cupboard as well as dressings if the need arose.

Please reserve Wed. Oct. 27 at 8 p.m. - it is a date well worth keeping.
