W. A. Hunter President of Local Bible Society.

Sunday evening the Rev. G. A. MacLennan, district secretary of the Montreal Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society paid his annual visit to Huntingdon. A united congregation assembled in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church to hear the inspiring address of Rev. Mr. MacLennan on the work of the Society in the North West of Canada. His address was illustrated by slides. Mr. MacLennan announced that this might possibly be his last official visit in behalf of the society, as he was about the age to be superannuated. When it came to the appointment of officers for the Huntingdon Branch of the Bible Society, Mr. W. A. Hunter was made president, and Mr. J. T. Ewart was re-elected secretary-treasurer. It was decided to hold the annual meeting next year at St. John's Church of England. The treasurer's report showed that Huntingdon had subscribed $105 during the summer canvass for the Bible Society work.

Badminton Tournament.

A friendly badminton tournament was played in O'Connor Hall Wednesday night with visitors from Valleyfield. The visitors won by a five point margin.

Mr. W. J. W. Smith Promoted.

Mr. W. J. W. Smith, in charge of the local Beauharnois Electric offices for the past year, has been transferred to the head office in Montreal where he has been appointed assistant to the industrial engineer. The appointment is quite a promotion and Mr. Smith's friends here congratulate him on the deserved confidence which has been placed in his ability, while at the same time they regret his departure.

The position which Mr. Smith occupied here will remain vacant, at least for the time being.

An error was made last week in the report of the W. C. T. U. Temperance essay winners. The Junior girls (10 to 11 years) prize was won by Audrey George and not by Audrey Cook as we erroneously reported.

Miss Estelle Lefebvre of Montreal, is spending a month at her home here.

LOCAL TEAM TO SARANAC

Huntingdon Seniors Played Tie Game on Sunday Afternoon

The Huntingdon Hockey team journeyed to Saranac Lake, N. Y., on Sunday afternoon where they played a game.

A number of supporters accompanied the players. The game was played on Moody Pond. At the end of the third period the score was three all. In ten minutes overtime neither team was successful in scoring. The boys enjoyed their outing very much. Scores for Huntingdon were made by Luman, 1, and Cecil Tedstone, 2; for Saranac Lake, Norman, 2, and Shy, 1.

Huntingdon—Brault, goal; Cappellio, Fortune and Falie, defence; Chambers and Luman, centre; Kirby, Beaudin, C. Tedstone and E. Tedstone, forwards.

Saranac Lake—Hiter, goal; Miron and Leroux, defence; Saumier, centre; Norman and Shy, forwards; Cantwell, Mace, Smith, Saumier, Bishop, and Green, subs.

Those who accompanied the players were Leo Cappellio, manager, Mrs. John Chambers, Mrs. Arthur C. Paul Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. Brunelle, Lindsay Chambers, Tomlinson, John Henderson, Russell Hay, and Dave Ross.

Huntingdon No. 2

Mrs. James Hanna of Rawdon is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rutherford and Mr. and Mrs. George Patton.

Several young people from this vicinity attended the Firemen's Ball in Fort Covington Friday night.

Mrs. Baehus of Toronto is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Patton.

Mr. W. L. Carr is attending the Annual Meeting of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada in Toronto.

Women's Institute Meeting.

The Huntingdon W.I. met on Saturday, Feb. 4th, at the home of Miss Mary Bruce, with a good attendance of members and friends. A humorous story, "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party," read by Mrs. T. S. Miller, was much enjoyed. A Nominating Committee consisting of Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. Goudy and Mrs. McEwen was appointed and Mrs. Antoine was named auditor.

All conveners were requested to have their reports completed for the Annual meeting to be held March 7th and considerable progress was reported by the Programme Committee.

A delicious tea was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. T. S. Miller and Miss Alice Goodfellow.

The new Huntingdon Town Council met on Monday evening but immediately adjourned out of sympathy for the late Mr. De Schie at the loss of his wife. They then proceeded to the home of the deceased to offer their sympathy.

Mr. F. H. Manter, of Listers Inc., New York City, visited the local office of that company on Tuesday. Mr. Manter expressed himself as well satisfied with Canadian business and said that the Huntingdon office was one of the very few in their organization which was a financial success at the present time.

Ladies' Guild Meeting.

Wednesday afternoon the Ladies' Guild of St. John's Church met at the home of Mrs. Paul Baldwin. Being the annual meeting the election of officers took place. Mrs. Hatcher being made the Honorary President; Mrs. J. W. McGill, President; Mrs. Bert Rankin, Vice-President; Mrs. Allan Dawson, Secretary and Mrs. Paul Baldwin, Treasurer. After the meeting a social hour was spent and dainty refreshments served.

Rev. J. H. Miller, N. W. Sparrow, E. C. MacKay and A. Luman were in Montreal yesterday attending the funeral of the late Rev. Isaac Norman, a former pastor of Huntingdon.

Mrs. J. A. McCracken was the successful player at the Lady Curriers' Bridge held in the rink on Friday afternoon, when seven tables of players participated.

On Saturday evening two rinks of lady curlers journeyed to Aubrey to compete in the Mercier Cup but were not successful in registering a win.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zabitsky and family spent the week-end in Notre Dame de Grace.

CHAS. MASSE FOUND DEAD

Idea That Watchman Had Been Murdered Was Cleared at Inquest

Residents of Valleyfield were agog with excitement on Monday morning when a report, substantiated by certain facts, went about to the effect that a man had been murdered.

When Joseph Daignault, manager of the Quebec Liquor Commission store entered the premises on Monday morning he found the body of Charles Masse, 65, lying on the floor bathed in blood. He immediately notified the police and coroner who rushed to the scene.

A. The inquest a verdict of death from apoplexy was rendered. It was found that Masse had died from apoplexy and that at the time of the stroke he fell from a couch on which he was lying to the floor. In the fall he fractured his nose which caused a hemorrhage.

Dewittville

Mrs. Margaret Peddie recently visited her niece, Mrs. Jas. Ferns, Jr.

Mrs. F. E. Monique attended the funeral of her aunt, the late Mrs. A. Leduc at Valleyfield on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Amasa Gale of Potsdam spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ritchie. Miss Margaret Gordon spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon.

There was no service in the church on Sunday, there having been special services in Huntingdon.

The Misses Grace Rabidoux and Beatrice Doucet of Montreal spent from Saturday until Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rabidoux.

Mrs. (Dr.) Stockwell and Miss Kathleen Ha-kness of Montreal spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harkness.

Mr. Arthur McClatchie attended the funeral of his nephew, Mr. Warren McClatchie, at Saranac Lake on Saturday.

Warren McClatchie of Saranac Lake and Mrs. Arthur C. Paul Smith met with an untimely death when the car in which they were riding broke through the ice and they were drowned. Mr. McClatchie is related to a number of people in this community. The funerals were largely attended on Saturday.

The Busy Bee

Like a bee flitting from flower to flower, the little woman passed along the shabby street, pausing at every open door for a few words with the occupant.

Green watched her for a while, and then said to Mrs. Brown—"Busy little woman, ain't she? Always running up and down."

"You're right," replied Mrs. Brown, sadly. "What with running up hills and running down the neighbors, she don't have much spare time."

TWO HOCKEY GAMES FRIDAY

Huntingdon Seniors Defeat Caughnawaga Indians in Evenly Contested Match

SCORE WAS 5-4

Combined Banks Team Won From Chateau 10-3

The Huntingdon hockey team played their best game of the season on Friday when they met and defeated a team made up of the Caughnawaga Indians and seniors. The attendance was good there being a very representative gathering from Malone and vicinity. The ice was in perfect condition.

In the opening stages things looked somewhat bad for Huntingdon due to poor combination tactics but half way through the first period Huntingdon scored by Cecil Tedstone. Shortly after the team pepped up and the game developed into a real thriller. In the final of this period French, of Caughnawaga, scored when he got a loose puck.

The game was real exciting in the second stanza with five scores having been made. Early in this period Chambers scored for Huntingdon with French to retaliate a minute later. In a scramble in front of the opposition nets, Delisle scored for Caughnawaga and Jacobs shortly after from a shot at centre ice when he secured a loose puck. Ferry scored for Huntingdon making the game 4-3 for the visitors.

Both teams worked with very determined efforts in the final period but the locals showed their superiority by tallying twice and then playing such a defensive game to hold their opponents from scoring. The scores in this contest were made by Bret Luman and Earl Tedstone.

The visitors made a mistake in the road which held up the game considerably but spectators were well repaid with a close match and a clean one as it was not necessary to mete out any penalties. C. M. Oney refereed.

SID STEWART, HOWICK, WINS THE CHATEAU TROPHY H'DON BONSPIEL

Board of Trade Trophy Again Goes to Ormstown Club—McGerrige Winning From Gruet of Aubrey—Mill Trophy Donated Through J. P. Harvey Won by Ray Reddick, Aubrey, by 13-1 Score Over Brunet of Ormstown

The continuation of the Huntingdon Curling Bonspiel that had to be postponed on account of mild weather, took place on Monday and Tuesday. Tuesday saw the ice again getting soft and the final games saw very heavy playing.

Sid Stewart of Howick, the original team entered from the club turned out to be the strong four in competition for the Huntingdon Chateau Trophy. The games in this competition were played with granite. David Greig of Ormstown played Sid Stewart in the finals.

The Board of Trade competition was played with iron. W. G. McGerrige upheld the fame of Ormstown as curlers and again won the trophy for that club. Jack Gruet of Aubrey was defeated by McGerrige in the finals.

The Mill Trophy donated by J. P. Harvey won for competition amongst the curlers in both granite and iron competitions that were eliminated in the first two rounds. The Mill Trophy is a handsome cup similar in style to that presented by the Chateau.

The games in this competition are played with granite. Ray Reddick of Aubrey defeated Pierre Brunet of Ormstown in the finals 13 to 1.

The games were finished by midnight and after refreshments were served in the Club Rooms the silverware and individual prizes of silverware were presented to the respective winners. The recipients expressed their pleasure in partaking in this bonspiel and voiced it as one of the finest curling events of the season.

Ormstown Wins Over

Huntingdon in Governor General's Competition

The Governor General's trophy games between Huntingdon and Ormstown were played on the local ice on Friday. The game resulted in a win for Ormstown who in turn were to play Aubrey to decide which club would go to Montreal.

On Monday night the trophy game between the two clubs resulted in a draw 14-14. Mr. George Baird skipped the Ormstown Club to a victory by winning from Cecil Stark by 18 to 8. The rinks were:

Ormstown: John Graham, W. E. McNair, H. Chambers, J. A. Ross Jr., W. G. McGerrige, E. C. Cunningham (Skip)—14

Huntingdon: S. Cottingham, E. C. Martin, D. Greig, D. L. Kelly, R. Bourdon, J. L. Cluff, Geo. Baird, C. C. Stark (Skip)—18

On account of the Huntingdon Bonspiel having to be postponed on account of weather, Aubrey defaulted to Ormstown in order that they might continue their games in the Huntingdon Bonspiel.

The Gore

On February 2nd the groundhog turned over in his burrow, and stretches after his long winter sleep and crawls cautiously to his door to see if it is time to get up. If the sun shines very brightly, he is tempted to come clear outside, in which case he sees his shadow, is badly scared and shoots back to bed for six more weeks of stormy weather. Let us hope Groundhog Day this year he was not out at 7.15 a.m. when the sun made its appearance for a few minutes, and the little beast will decide it is safe to stay awake.

Miss B. Fraser was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Maithier, Brookline.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Boyd and granddaughter, little Miss Shirley Merkle, Ormstown, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coulter.

Miss Edna Todd of Beauharnois was the week-end guest of her mother, Mrs. Jas. Todd.

Health Protection

The health record of the Chateauguy Valley is commendable, and to a very considerable extent this district has a right to claim credit for the reduction of the death rate in the city of Montreal, especially caused by tuberculosis. Bovine tuberculosis is caused by milk from cattle affected with that disease. Our entire district came under the Free Area plan in 1924. At that time every animal was inspected by the veterinary surgeons employed by the Federal Government, Dept. of Agriculture.

Approximately 65,000 head of cattle come under this inspection in this area. Those that are in any way affected by T. B. are confiscated. The Free Area was extended to the Richelieu River, and likewise the La-chute district. With such a tremendous area under the T. B. test it made it that the milk supplied to Montreal was a great deal better than was supplied in the previous years. With the principal cause of T. B. amongst little children removed, it was but natural that the death rate amongst juveniles should be reduced.

In a country town as is Huntingdon, one would hardly think it necessary to resort to having the milk supplied the town being specially tested or pasteurized. Between the tests made upon the cattle in this free area a considerable lapse of time takes place, and consequently a number of cattle go down in each test. The cattle supplying milk to Huntingdon should certainly come under the "Accredited Herd Plan" for in this system every animal is tested yearly.

During the regime of the past town council ex-Alderman Kelly had a by-law prepared in regards to the milk supply for Huntingdon. Had that by-law been passed the milk coming to Huntingdon would have been carefully tested and certainly not have come from animals infected with T. B. Furthermore the proposed by-law demanded that the milk be bottled in a scrupulous manner. Our town cannot afford taking chances of again receiving milk from an infected herd of cattle, therefore we feel it will be advisable for our council to dig up the proposed milk by-law of ex-Ald. Kelly and have it duly passed.

Too Lazy to Work

Many a young man has been asked to work, perhaps on a farm or go out ice, wood or some other job. Quite often these sons of rest scorn the idea of being offered employment and they then show more alacrity than ever before; they are working their brains fast to see what they can say to get out of work. These fellows hang around tobacco stores as a rule, and clutter up the floor space so that the proprietor can hardly wait upon a cash customer who wishes to do a little trading. Huntingdon has its share of this fry, but they are not the class the Christmas Tree League endeavors to help. It is the aged widows, sick, children and mothers with families that are to suffer for the lack of food and raiment. It is true we have good for nothing men in the back town area that never could earn their salt in winter, and we still have them. A few of these individuals have to be helped, else they will starve and that would be a black mark against the town, therefore, that must not happen. Not long ago mention was made of a young man suffering from T. B. and diabetes. He has been cared for to a considerable extent through the good graces of Dr. Clouston, with some assistance in the way of food from the Christmas Tree League and other friends. A remarkable change in his physical appearance has taken place; and that change has been for the better.

The Christmas Tree League supplied milk and bread to 15 families during January. A few loads of wood and a quantity of vegetables were delivered. For the month of February this work will be continued, but sufficient funds are not presently available to continue the good work. The funds will have to be raised in some manner or other. Up to the present the League work has been financed by free will contributions, so if you feel so inclined as to donate $1.00 or 50c to the cause, your contribution, whether it be money, clothing, food, vegetables or wood, will be appreciated, and will go a long way towards preventing suffering amongst our local needy.

Sticking Together

We have heard a great deal of co-operatives, buying groups and all kinds of organizations being formed in order to put forth a united effort. These organizations usually perform a useful service but how often it happens that they do not get a 100% of the people behind them to make the objective with greatest of ease. Too often a few individuals want to be on the outside looking in and still reap the benefits of an organization.

Here is a sample of what 100% backing achieved for a farmer at Bowling Green, Ohio. It is quite apparent that a Finance Corporation was exercising its mortgage on the farm. It would appear by the report in the New York Times that the mortgage company was acting a little fast and perhaps without all due fairness to the farmer under the present world conditions. The mortgagee was having the property auctioned off. Farmers flocked to the farm and as the farm machines and stock were put on the block they would bid 5c or 10c for a horse or machine. As a result of the sale the whole totalled $14. The mortgagee lost out and the friends of the farmer who did the purchasing returned him his goods on a 99 year lease.

Now the Gleaner is not recommending to farmers to go and do likewise about any farm that might go up for sale, but we write this with a view to cautioning people holding farm mortgages that they be not grasping under the present world conditions but be lenient and give Mr. Farmer every opportunity to succeed. It is fair enough to put him off the farm but use discretion as to how severe he is to be treated when performing the task.

Go and Get 'Em

It is sometimes wondered by those interested in the welfare of the community if merchants are not passing up opportunities to increase their sales. Business is prone to let thoughts of the depression over-ride their usual business instincts. They sit back and excuse their inactivity by growling to themselves that there is no business anywhere. The depression has knocked business for a couple of loops, they murmur, so what's the use? Maybe there was, and is, and will be a depression, but isn't that the time for original ideas; for methods that did not need to be followed in the good old boom days. Isn't old man depression throwing down the gauntlet to the merchant forcing him to fight for business and to use all his merchandising powers to ring the bell on the cash register. We think so, maybe we're wrong, but we still think so. Chair-warmers and crepe-hangers never did climb anywhere but to the bottom floor of the success elevator, so a little prod to the languid merchant won't do him any harm. Suggestions for the increase of business are always in order, whether from the ignorant or the high-falutin'est of the herd. Why not get in personal touch with prospective buyers? They may want something that has slipped their mind, and your call, either personally, in your newspaper or on the 'phone, will jog their memory. Baby wants a new pair of shoes, and if you tell the head man about the splendid array of shoes you have in stock maybe he'll buy them for the poor kid. Clothes, groceries, drugs, things to improve the appearance of your home as well as yourself, any kind of merchandise you have to sell will disappear quicker from your shelves if you get the personal touch. Draw the buyer into your store by exerting your personality and sell him by displaying your goods to the best advantage. The word "go-getter" is becoming passe in the best circles, but it is still a good word and a good thought. Don't loll back on your cushioned arm chair and let the depression stare you in the face. Stand up and send it into fade-out by creating a buying instinct with new ideas. We know one town where the merchants have been able to agree and co-operate for the first time since the town was built. They realized business was slipping, launched a community sale to which buyers of town and country were invited. It was such a success they repeated and are now organizing for the third. Lucky number prizes are given as an added attraction, and the way the sales have been stimulated in their particular district is an incentive to merchants in other communities to follow their lead. Co-operate and go get 'em.

Didn't Want the Bounty

Somebody shot a wolf at Marksstay, Ont., and because he didn't know, left $25 lying right on the road. Shot three times through the breast, Lupus was found dead on the highway by John Green. Mr. Green promptly applied for the $25 bounty, and as nothing is known of the person who shot the wolf, he may collect.

Lived on Barter 10 Years

There's nothing new for Mrs. Evelyn Harris, a Kent county widow of Chestertown, Md., in this talk about barter. For 10 years, ever since her husband died, she has supported her family by swapping products from her farm for other necessities. When the children needed haircuts, she swapped a basket of potatoes for the barber's labor. Logs from her walnut forest were exchanged for fertilizer. She once had a serious operation performed in Baltimore in exchange for a two weeks' vacation on her farm for the surgeon.

Dies in Sanctuary

Collapsing as he was mounting the sanctuary steps to say mass, Father Georges Robichaud, a well-known Jesuit and parish priest of Immaculate Conception Church, Montreal, died a few feet from the tabernacle. Another priest who was attending mass administered the last rites of the church and a hastily summoned physician pronounced Father Robichaud dead. He was 57 years of age.

Practising Physician 100 Years Old

Dr. Merritt H. Eddy, America's oldest practising physician, celebrated his 100th birthday at Middlebury, Vt. Since 1865 Dr. Eddy has cared for the wants of a host of patients in the surrounding countryside. He has shaken sleep from his eyes to trudge through snow-blanketed roads to a sufferer's side and he has driven his horse and carriage through flooded streams to usher a new baby into the world. The feebleness of age upon him, he advises his patients from his bed. Dr. Eddy charged 56 cents for his first call after becoming a doctor. He probably has ushered more babies into the world than any other doctor in New England. He lost count some years ago, but the number would run considerably over 2,000.

Plans Upset

A spurt of flame in Arthur Binley's garage upset plans for an elaborate ceremony inaugurating Glens Falls, N. Y., new automobile telephone system, over which Mayor Earle H. Stuckney was to have made the first call. As the mayor lifted the receiver and dialed a number, fire engines clattered down the street. Binley, jumping to his own 'phone at the sight of his garage on fire, had beat the mayor to the first call. The garage was saved.

Fortune in Trunk

Carefully done up in packages, money totalling $49,000 and liberty bonds valued at $28,000 were found hidden in a trunk in the furnished room of Zumbel Rosman, 77, retired clothing merchant of Leroy, N. Y., and virtual recluse for the last twenty years, by relatives searching his effects for a will. Rosman, one of the charter stockholders of the Leroy National Bank and a director for many years, had deposits in various banks which indicated that within the last two years his fortune amounted to a quarter of a million dollars.

Old Car For Chief

Hereafter Fire Chief James H. Golden, of Cohoes, N. Y., will answer alarms in a second-hand automobile. In the interest of economy, the city now is looking for an inexpensive car for the chief to use. The board of estimate and apportionment decided that an expensive official automobile is not in the picture this year, and specified for Chief Golden a used car to cost not more than $375.

Heap Big Injun

St. Paul, Minn., is going to have a heap big Indian. Cast of solid glass, and 35 feet high, the Indian will stand in the concourse of the new St. Paul city hall and county court house. Designed as a war memorial, the statue will portray an Indian along modernistic lines, smoking a pipe of peace. Around the base of the main figure are smaller figures of Indians, also in the peace motif. The cost is estimated between $45,000 and $60,000.

Hound For Puzzlers

Harry Gantz, of Alliance, Neb., lays claim to the original jig saw puzzle hound. The Gantz family spent the entire evening working on a jig saw puzzle. They completed it except for one piece. They searched the house high and low, while Topper, their fox terrier watched with interest, but the missing puzzle-piece could not be found. Two days later Topper appeared slightly ill. He choked a time or two and then coughed up the missing piece.

Costs $1,244 For 'Foolishness'

"Just in fun," Jean Lamarche and Adrian Lamarche converted Alexandre Duperron of Montreal, into a living torch. The "fun" cost them $1,244 under a Superior Court judgment. Duperron, drenched with gasoline to which a match was applied, was in hospital for more than a month. His two ears were burned, his face and neck and his body from the throat to the abdomen, his two arm pits and his left wrist all suffered from burns. "The court," declared Mr. Justice Lane in rendering judgment, "does not for a moment consider that it was done otherwise than in foolish play, yet defendants are responsible for the result of their foolishness and fault in indulging in the sort of play they did."

Why Cattle Died

After John Talkenhorst, a rancher near Meade, Kan., lost 14 head of cattle from a strange disease, the local veterinarian declared some chemical poison was to blame. Making a search, Talkenhorst found in his junk pile two old uncovered sacks of poisoned bran he had used for grasshoppers. The cattle had feasted upon it before their death.

Freed From Jail to Take Seat

A Communist member had to be freed from jail by a vote of the Belgian Parliament so he could take his seat in the Chamber of Deputies. He was in prison when elected, having been condemned for an article attacking the royal family in connection with a visit to the victims of a mine explosion. The industrial city of Charleroi gave him a 13,000 majority. There are two other Communists in the new Chamber. Almost half the new Chamber are lawyers, who number 79 out of a total of 187. There are 17 journalists, 10 teachers, six physicians, one veterinarian, one chemist, two brewers and one professor. The rest, mostly Socialists, are largely laborers.

43 Officers to Evict Family

Joseph Pizzato and his family were evicted from their Park Road home in North York, Ont., when eight sheriff's officers, backed by 35 policemen from North York, York Township and York County appeared to carry out the order in the face of some 30 Pizzato sympathizers grouped in the house. The only show of resistance came from Mrs. Pizzato who armed herself with a broom and screamed defiance. She was taken from the house forcibly. Her husband had to be "pushed." Pizzato claimed the house, which he was buying, was worth $1,700 and that he already had paid almost $1,000.

25-Rib Men

Certain Eskimo males of the far north, it has been discovered by the Smithsonian institution, have 25 instead of the customary 24 ribs. Dr. T. D. Stewart, of the Smithsonian, has discovered this extra rib in about 12 per cent of 200 Eskimo skeletons examined in Alaska. Whether the extra rib is a product of evolution since the time of Adam and Eve or whether a certain per cent of these Eskimos always have had it is still to be learned. No other race has been discovered so far having 25 ribs since Adam lost one of his.

Dollars in Curiosity

Near Natchez, Miss., Miss Jane Merrill, an aged recluse of 72, once the belle of southern society, was murdered. She had lived alone in the old plantation home, rarely receiving visitors except an aged couple nearby also living on past glories in an ancient castle. The old couple have been accused of the crime but proof is lacking. The old man is said to have been one of her many suitors in their youth. So much publicity has been given to this case curiosity seekers by the thousands have visited the two plantations since the crime. The railroad has built a special siding to the spot to handle the crowds. Admission is being charged at the gate of the plantation of the old couple accused of the murder and is proving to be the best source of income the old farm has had in years. Meanwhile, the old man, a pianist of ability in his youth, is giving concerts, well advertised, and turned into added cash.

Modern Crusoe

When a German cruiser was sunk during the World War in mid-Pacific one of its officers, Hugo Weber, with other members of the crew, found a refuge on Easter Island. So impressed was Weber with this tropical isle that he returned to it after the war and has made his home there since. Recently he had his sweetheart, Fraulein Hani Stade, come to Valparaiso, Chile, nearest port, where Weber met her. They were married and set sail for their island home in a fishing boat, turning their backs on modern civilization and declaring they never would return to it.

Car Drops Through Ice

On Little Wolf Lake, one mile from Faust, N. Y., eight people miraculously escaped drowning when an automobile broke through where ice harvesters had been working. A heavy snowfall had obscured the dangerous points on the lake. The young people in the party had planned an exciting "hitch" ride about the lake and were to use toboggans and skis to be hauled over the ice by attaching to the rear of the auto. They had proceeded only fifty feet from shore when the ice gave way and the car and eight people riding inside and on the running-board were plunged into the water when the thin ice gave way. The car sank so deeply in the icy water that only three inches of the top was clear. Those on the running-board managed to climb to safety on firm ice. The driver of the car smashed out the rear window and the interior occupants were hauled to safety over bridges improvised from the toboggan and skis which had been piled on the auto top. The drenched and chilled members of the party were taken to Percy Forkeys' camp on the nearby lake shore. A roaring fire and dry clothing were provided at the camp and the party of prospective merry makers were soon comfortable after a narrow escape from an icy death. An auto truck and a team of horses from Faust salvaged the submerged automobile after two hours of strenuous labor.

House Fish New Fad

Newest fads in household pets in homes of the wealthy are outlandish fish of all kinds. New York pet stores are sending to all parts of the world for new specimens and the more gruesome or bizarre they are, the better they will sell. Some stores keep 25 to 30 new varieties unknown a year ago. In keeping with this fad, all kinds of fancy globes and tanks are replacing the homely old fish bowl. These fish fanciers must have glittering cases in chromium and onyx, indirectly lighted and set upon impressive pedestals. All department stores have counters devoted to nothing but fish bowls, and Fifth Avenue is dotted with windows displaying them. They are designed to hang from the ceiling and to jut from the wall. Some are in the form of immense cylinders, and some have magnifying glass to render the inmates even more terrifying, with their stripes and horns and beaks.

Run on Alcohol

Driving to Pana, Ill., from Springfield, Dr. H. H. Cole was stopped by the frantic signalling of two women in a car stalled at the roadside. The car had run out of gas. A large glass jar containing a human heart embalmed in alcohol in his car, which he uses in his lectures, gave the doctor an idea. With a stethoscope tube he siphoned this alcohol into the tank of the stalled car. The women "stepped on the gas," the motor responded, and they managed to get to Taylorville, where their tank was replenished with real gas.

Howick

Miss M. S. Clark spent the week-end in Montreal. Dr. A. R. Younie, of St. Catharines, Ont., spent the week-end at the home of his father, Mr. Alex. Younie, who is seriously ill.

Congratulations to the rink of lady curlers, skipped by Mrs. S. Stewart, who played in the finals for the Consolation prize in Montreal last week. Mr. Rowland Ness, of DeWinton Alta., spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Ness. Mr. Douglas Ness left on Saturday on a business trip to the Old Country, sailing on the "Montcalm" from Halifax. Mr. Ness expects to be away about five weeks.

Miss Price of Montreal was a Sunday visitor at the home of Mrs. Wm. Brown.

Mrs. Jas. Crawford's friends will be sorry to hear that she is still confined to her bed following an attack of influenza. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hunter is in attendance.

Our school hockey team journeyed to Ormstown on Saturday afternoon to play the Gault Institute team. As there is no rink at Howick, the game had to be played on rented ice. The score was 3-1 in favor of Valleyfield but our School Board should see to it that our boys have a chance to compete in these games by furnishing them with a good rink. Mrs. Robt. Roy and Miss Betty Roy spent the week-end in the city.

Challenge to Science

Although fully dated and fully represented by portrait statues of priests and rulers, the brilliant civilization called the first empire of the Mayas which flourished in Yucatan and adjacent parts of Mexico, Guatemala and Honduras during the first six centuries of the Christian era is almost a complete mystery, and it will remain so until we learn to read Maya hieroglyphs to a much greater extent than now.

The amount of knowledge of the Mayan language and writings is really very limited, although scientists have given the subject much attention for many years. There seems to be plenty of material in the shape of monuments of one kind or another, but it has been almost impossible to find any key or clew which might lead to the desired explanation.

St. Agnes de Dundee

Mrs. Alcide Leblanc and daughter Idvilda, who spent a few weeks in St. Telesphore, returned home last week. Miss Agnes Quenneville of the Alice Hyde Hospital, Malone N. Y., was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Alex. Quenneville on Thursday.

Miss Madeline Michaud was the guest of her friend, Miss Emma Leblanc on Thursday. Miss Louise Caza spent a week visiting her uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Leblanc.

Local Wedding.—On Jan. the 24th in Ste. Agnes Church, Rev. Father J. A. David officiated at the wedding of Cecile Leblanc, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leblanc of Trout River, and Mrs. Alexis Quenneville of Ste. Agnes. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a coat of navy blue French crepe, with hat, shoes, gloves, and purse to match. She carried a bouquet of pale roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home attended by relatives and friends. On their return from a short wedding trip a reception was given at the groom's home. Those from a distance who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Josephat Leblanc, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leblanc of Fort Covington, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Hector Carriere and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leblanc, St. Amet, Miss Eugenie Maher and friend of St. Louis, Mr. Robert Levac of Montreal, and Mr. John Cartier of Ormstown.

Always Tired, Sluggish

Mrs. Hartwell's Run-Down Health Restored by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, She States

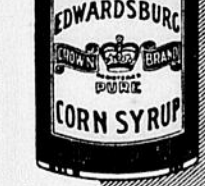

"I have derived great benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," writes Mrs. Lorne Hartwell, Osnabrock Centre, Ont. "My health feels fine now."

got poor; indigestion followed, and I was nervous and irritable. My heart was also bad. I got up in the morning more tired than when I went to bed. My weight was reduced, my ambition shattered, my memory uncertain. I was unable to do my housework and I was so discouraged that life was a burden. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. While taking the first box my appetite revived. The daily use of the Pills for a time restored my health. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills earn high praise from benefited users because they actually rebuild health by enriching the blood. Nervous, run-down conditions yield to their blood-building properties. Young girls are wonderfully helped in their growth and development. At your druggists in the new protective glass vials. Try them. 50c package.

ESTIMATES CUT BY $11,862,163

Laguerre Drainage Canal and Customs Building at Trout River, in Estimates

Despite the prospects for a deficit in the current fiscal year of at least $50,000,000 exclusive of the Canadian National Railways, the main estimates for the next fiscal year tabled in the House Wednesday afternoon by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, disclosed a net saving in controllable expenditures over the main and supplementary estimates for the present fiscal year of only $11,862,163.

One of the largest single items of controllable expenditures in which there is an increase is the sum asked for the work of the newly formed Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission. The vote last year was $400,000; this year Parliament is asked to vote $1,000,000. Another large single item is $2,000,000 asked to provide for payment in connection with the movements of coal to the central provinces from the Maritime Provinces and from the western provinces. This represents an increase over the previous year of $250,000. There is an increase, too, of $375,000, in the amount asked for unemployment relief, an increase of $150,000 for war veterans' allowances, an increase of $141,000 in the sum required to pay to the province of Quebec on account of surrendered Indian lands in that province, an increase of $94,975.80 in subsidies to the provinces by reason of the last census, an increase of $248,350 for work in the St. Lawrence ship channel. Another item, which is new, is the sum of $100,000 for subsidizing a steamship service between British Columbia and South Africa and arising out of the trade agreement of last summer.

The total amount of the main estimates for the next fiscal year is $258,656,488.11, as compared with $264,884,224.04, or a decrease of $6,227,735.93, but when consideration is given to the fact that the sum of $1,000,000 is asked to pay $4,694,188 increased interest on debt and the increase of $94,975.80 in subsidies to the provinces as a result of the 1931 census, the real saving is a little less than $12,000,000.

Montreal Real Estate
The sum of $500,000 is included again in the estimates for the construction of a new postal terminal building in Montreal, also $13,000 as payment of instalment of the purchase of the armory in Westmount. The total amount for public works in Quebec Province is $681,140, as compared with $766,140 in the previous year. There is a round sum of $120,000 for improvements and repairs to public buildings in Quebec Province, the sum of $15,140 as payment of instalment on purchase of the Montreal armory, and $14,500 for the immigration and customs building at Trout River.

Another large sum of money is asked for to take care of operations of the Montreal Harbor Commission bridge, the amount this year with interest to be advanced by way of loan to the Harbor Commission being $11,100, a decrease of $17,400 from the previous year.

For harbors and rivers in Quebec Province a total sum of $729,750 is asked, as compared with $789,500 in the previous year.

Under contract—
1933-4 1932-3
Riviere la Guerre, contribution towards dredging (Province of Quebec to bear a like amount)$23,000 $32,000
Included in the list of items in the estimates in which substantial reductions are proposed are the following:
A cut of $255,797 in the Health of Animals Act and Contagious Diseases Act; a decrease of $674,653 for soldier and general land settlement; a cut of $3,000,000 in pensions on account of the great war; a cut of $150,000 for aviation; a drop of $800,156 for the Hudson Bay Railway and terminal as the enterprise is now about completed; a cut of $61,000 in the amount for conservation and development of deep sea fisheries; a reduction of about $80,000 for Indian affairs; a cut of $524,753 for the Department of Pensions and National Health; a reduction of over $1,000,000 required for the outside service of the Post Office; a cut of $460,000 in the railway mail service and a cut of nearly $200,000 in the administration of the Canada Grain Act.

Among the miscellaneous items is $8,560 for the new historic "Imogene" arbitration expenses at Washington. The usual special subsidy grants to the Maritime Provinces are again provided and are as follows: Nova Scotia, $875,000; New Brunswick, $600,000; Prince Edward Island, $125,000. A large item is $1,741,148 for the controller of the treasury and provides for the continuance and expansion of the new accounting system. There is an accompanying drop in treasury expenditures because of this change amounting to $243,736.

Under the new subsidy arrangement with the provinces, arising out of the last decennial census the new payments to the provinces will be as follows: Quebec, $2,592,013.08; increase of $355,593.80; Ontario, $2,941,424.28; increase of $298,812.60; Nova Scotia, $653,048.28; decrease of $8,793; New Brunswick, $693,040.16; increase of $26,744.40; Manitoba, $1,694,195.38; increase of $32,111.59; Saskatchewan, $2,112,802.37; decrease of $49,506; Alberta, $1,743,159; increase of $72,724; British Columbia, $874,561.46; increase of $135,744.80; Prince Edward Island, $361,931.88 unchanged.

Wedding Anniversary—
On Wednesday evening, Feb. 1st, a surprise party was given Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cameron by 165 of their neighbors and friends on the occasion of the 24th anniversary of their marriage. Dancing was engaged in till midnight, when a bountiful lunch was served to all present.

Mr. Wm. Duncan, Kensington, then called the gathering to order, and in his usual capable and humorous manner, spoke words of appreciation. He said, it was with great pleasure, that we, the assembled community offer you our congratulations and we only have to look at this beautiful home to know, you have made good, and that life together had been worth while; he then presented Mr. and Mrs. H. Cameron with a purse of $15, as a token of remembrance of the event. Although completely taken by surprise Mr. Cameron thanked the friends for this unexpected kindness and generosity. All joining and singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Dancing and card playing continued until the morning hours, when all dispersed, thanking the host and hostess for their hospitality and wishing them many more years of happy wedded life. Music was furnished by Messrs. John McPhee, Adela Demers, Duncan McNeil, Wm. Duncan, Ernest Watterson, Chas. Fraser, Albert Fraser, Cecil McNeil, Norman Smithers, Glen Cruickshanks, Lyle Watterson.

The heart-felt sympathy of this community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McArthur and Miss Jessie McArthur, Lawrence, Mass. (formerly of this place) in the death of their beloved sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Clarke, on Jan. 25th, and nephew Mr. C. Milan Morse on Jan. 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Platt, Messrs. C. Platt and P. Valley were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Helm, Athelstan, on Friday.

Miss Rieta McCartney left Saturday for Valleyfield, where she has secured a position.

Mr. Hugh Cameron is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kerr and son, Cote des Neiges, this week.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Thomson on Sunday were Mrs. J. S. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Len Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Carlen and two children, all of Massena, N. Y.

Mrs. Andrew McDonald, Laguerre, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. James Leslie for a few weeks.

Mrs. Agnes McLaughlin left Monday for her home in Minneapolis, having spent the past three years with relatives in Quebec Province. During her stay she made a large circle of friends, to whom she endeared herself by her bright and cheerful disposition.

The young wife was in tears when she opened the door for her husband. "I've been insulted," she sobbed. "Your mother insulted me."

"My mother!" he exclaimed. "But she's miles away."

"I know, but a letter came for you this morning and I opened it."

He looked stern. "I see, but where does the insult come in?"

"In the postscript," she answered. "It said: 'Dear Alice, don't forget to give this letter to George.'"

If You Are Planning To Give A Valentine Party

In preparing for a Valentine party the table is a very important thing to consider. The one described can be trimmed easily and inexpensively. A Valentine crepe paper lunch set furnishes table cover, plates, doliies and napkins all of the same design.

The cupid centerpiece, or "Jack Horner Pie," is quickly fashioned from the following materials: one fold of leaf green crepe paper, one fold of decorated crepe paper—cupid design, one box of gummed hearts, two sheets of mat stock and some red ribbon.

A tin pan covered with green crepe paper and filled with the paper festoon as grass, forms the base. The cupids are cut from decorated crepe paper and mounted on mat stock. The ribbon, with the gummed hearts attached, is joined to the hands of the cupids. Favors can be hidden under the festoon grass and drawn forth by the guests with the ribbons which extend to their plates. Heart bonbon boxes, cupid nut boxes and place cards complete the decorations of the table.

Fortune Telling
This description of a Valentine entertainment will be welcomed by those who desire novel and original ideas.

We were received in a room decorated with wreaths of green, hung in festoons caught up at regular intervals by ribbon streamers. From the centre of each wreath hung hearts of parchment paper, tinted in blue and lettered in gold, each bearing a number and a fate or fortune.

Suspended from a portiere rod between the hall and the reception room were three hearts formed of heavy wire and carefully entwined with evergreen; above each one was a jingle. The first said:
Blow your bubble through here
And you'll be married before another year.

Above the second was:
To be engaged this very week
Number two is the one to take.

A sad, an awful fate awaits the one who seeks me.

For he or she will ever a spinster or bachelor be.

On a small table near by was an immense bowl filled with sparkling confetti, and also clay pipes decorated with little blue hearts.

We first threw the bubbles off the pipes and then tried to blow them through the hearts with pretty little fans which were presented to us.

It was lots of fun, even if after all our efforts we saw our bubble float through number three instead of one or two, where we meant it to go.

Merry Games
After this came a skillier merrier game. A low scrap-board was placed in the centre of the room, and the company arranged into opposing parties, forming two half circles around the board. Cardboard hearts in two different colors were given the sides, and a number was chosen. We were then requested to try to throw them in the basket, and all endeavored to do so, but found they had a tantalizing way of landing on the floor.

When we had exhausted our cards those in the basket were counted, and the side having the larger number of its own color won the game.

After this a small blackboard was placed on an easel at one end of the room, and we were each in turn blindfolded, and handed a piece of chalk with which to draw an outline of a heart, and to write our name in the centre; the one doing the best to have a prize of a large candy heart.

Choosing Partners
The partners for supper were chosen in a novel manner, the men being numbered, and the names of the girls written on slips of paper, rolled in clay in little pellets, then dropped in to a bowl of water; the one to rise first belonging to the young man numbered one, and so on until each had his valentine.

A "good luck" supper was served in an adjoining room. Directly over the table, suspended from the chandelier, hung a floral horseshoe. In the centre of the table and at each end were fairly lamps surrounded by smaller horseshoes. The guest-cards were square envelopes, at one side a painted horseshoe, and below, "When Good Luck knocks at the door let him in and keep him there." The souvenirs were clover-leaf stockings and everything connected with the supper bore a symbol of good luck, the bonbons, cakes and sandwiches taking the forms of either a clover leaf or a horseshoe.

Cut opening the envelope, we found an amusing valentine illustrated by a pen-and-ink sketch, showing the artistic skill of one of the members of the family.

After supper a tray, containing as many numbers as there were guests, was passed, and we each took a heart with a corresponding number from the decorations on the wall and read aloud the fortune found there. There were very clever and some surprisingly appropriate.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. Wilson. The devotional period was conducted by the president, topic being based on the words found in Job 26:7. After discussion on different departments of the work, a most excellent paper was given by Mrs. E. C. Boyce on the "Life of Frances Willard." The net meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. A. McHardy.

Rev. G. A. MacLennan preached Sunday afternoon at the United Church service, in the interest of the Bible Society, taking as his subject of address, Canada, land of promise, abounding natural resources; land of light and freedom. Canada, my home. His address was most interesting. Mr. E. E. Wells, local secretary presented the report, the collection did not measure up to the usual savings of other years, yet were good in spite of the times.

The Wide Awake Club was entertained on Wednesday evening by Miss Anne Wilson. The devotional and business meeting was in charge of the vice-president, Albert Mack. It was arranged to hold a debate at the next meeting. Games provided by the committee were much enjoyed. Refreshments were served. The decorations were in keeping with the spirit of St. Valentine.

Miss Peryl Moore of Ormstown, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hutchings and family, and Mrs. Saunders motored to St. Lambert and spent the week-end with Mr. Kenneth Chalmers and family.

Brooklet

W. A. Meets—

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Association of Rennie's United Church met at the home of Mrs. Murdoch Rosewater on Wednesday afternoon, February 1st, with a good attendance of members and visitors. The president, Mrs. Massey, conducted the meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. W. J. McCracken gave a satisfactory report of the past year's work. A debate and oyster supper was discussed but nothing definite was done, it being left to the next meeting to decide. At the close of the meeting a hot supper was served by the hostess.

Miss Bernice Fraser spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Maitland. Mr. Ira Douglas had the misfortune to lose a good young milch cow last week from pneumonia.

"And you say you did not strike the plaintiff until he became abusive?"
"That's it, your worship."

"Tell the court what he said."

"He called me a thief."

"That won't excuse your conduct. A man might call me a thief all day, but—"

"Yes," interrupted the defendant, "but perhaps you've never been one, your worship, and you don't know how it roused me."

HEALTH
by
SUNLIGHT
Light means life. If it were not for the light and heat of the sun, life, as we know it, could not exist on the earth. No wonder that the ancients worshipped the sun as a god, for even they recognized the power of this great planet.

Light is made up of a number of light waves of different lengths, having different properties. While light can be broken up into different colors, as is seen in the rainbow; red forms a band at one edge, and violet a band at the other edge. Beyond these bands there exist rays of light which we cannot see and which are called infra-red and ultra-violet.

The different rays produce different effects upon the body. It is difficult to say just what are the effects of sunlight upon the body as distinct from other climatic factors, such as fresh air, wind, temperature and humidity.

Following upon an unusual exposure of the skin to sunlight, reddening occurs quickly as a result of the warmth of the sun's rays. This is followed by an inflammatory reaction, further reddening and subsequent tanning caused by the ultra-violet rays. The extent to which this occurs depends upon the length of the exposure and upon the individual himself. Individuals vary in their response to sunlight. Sunlight is powerful and we cannot all stand the same amount of exposure to its rays.

The effects of sunlight, whether natural or artificial, are not limited to the skin. Light and air influence metabolism, by which is meant the entire functioning of the body. By stimulating metabolism, a general sense of well-being is produced, and, in this way, the mind and the body are both affected. We know very little about any definite values of sunlight; what is known is the common experience of a feeling of greater energy after exposure to sunlight and air.

While small doses of light may be good, larger doses may be harmful, if not destructive. What is good for the normal healthy person may be harmful for the sick. Because sunlight is helpful in one form of tuberculosis, it does not follow that its effect is beneficial in all forms of the disease.

Ultra-violet rays are successfully used in the treatment of one form of skin disease; in others they appear to be helpful, while in others still, they have injurious effects.

As far as normal persons are concerned, there is no conclusive proof of the many specific beneficial effects which are claimed for sunlight. As a treatment for disease, sunlight should be regarded as a powerful agent to be used according to the directions of someone who is qualified to prescribe treatment, this being particularly true as regards any form of artificial light treatment.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

A Surplus of Husbands

The Simon Commission in its report mentioned that there were 222 languages in India. The new census of 1931 has discovered three more, and tells us that "there are some 225 languages, exclusive of dialects, spoken in the Indian Empire, about 150 of which are confined to Assam and Burma"—one of the smallest, and the other by far the largest, of the British Indian provinces. The census abstract sets out the languages in groups of allied tongues, two million people or so speaking the languages of each group. Only twenty different scripts, on the other hand, are used in the writing of these 225 languages—some of which are possibly never written at all—and the five most common scripts are Urdu, Nagari, Bengali, Telugu, and Tamil. It is odd that there should be 319,000 who ordinarily use English as their mother tongue when there are about 13,000 fewer Europeans and Anglo-Indians; but perhaps the difference is made up of English-speaking Parsis together with a few who make the claim from motives of vanity.

Only 9.6 per cent of the country's total population is over the age of 50, while 39.9 per cent are under 15 and 59.5 per cent are between 15 and 50. There must be a vast deal of guesswork in compiling these statistics, for few Indians are at all certain of their own ages, and most of them have to be content with whatever information they can get from unimpeachable memories or hardly more reliable horoscopes.

The Marriage Figures

It is commonly supposed that the vast majority of India's people, from adolescence upwards, are or have been married. The census figures state that 46.7 per cent of the males are married and that 5.4 per cent are widowers, and that 49.3 per cent of females are married and 15.4 per cent are widows. These proportions are almost as difficult to understand as the census surplus of husbands. This is an oddity which has already provoked some comment. The table shows that there are 601,244 more married males than married women in India. The discrepancy suggests an unsuspected incidence of polygamy. Yet everything else points to a vastly greater amount of lawful bigamy and polygamy in India. There are polyandrous communities in several hill areas of the frontiers between, say, Kashmir and Burma. The Todas of the Nilgiris have the same custom, but there are less than a thousand of them in all. The splendid Nairs of Travancore, Malabar, and thereabouts used to be polyandrous, and the consequent dominance of the women among them may be taken to account in part for Travancore's present leadership in social progress and general welfare. But there is little polyandry among them now. Even if one supposes that there is more polyandry in the villages of backward tracts than has ever been officially acknowledged one must still set against these the obvious fact that vast numbers of men have two or more wives apiece. The surplus of husbands over wives is probably largely due to the migration of unaccompanied husbands from villages where the census-taking was neither strict nor complete to the towns where it is. Nevertheless, the existence of much polygamy still leaves the great disparity a little mysterious.

In 1881 81 males and three females were able to read and write in English. Last year the corresponding figures were 150 and 29 respectively. There are 28,131,315 literates today in a total population of 352,837,778. The proportion literate in English, the country's only lingua franca, is 28 per thousand people twenty years and over.

The proportion of the working population in agriculture is 66.4 per cent in trade 5.13 per cent, in industry 9.95 per cent, and in transport 1 per cent.

Her BACKACHES have GONE

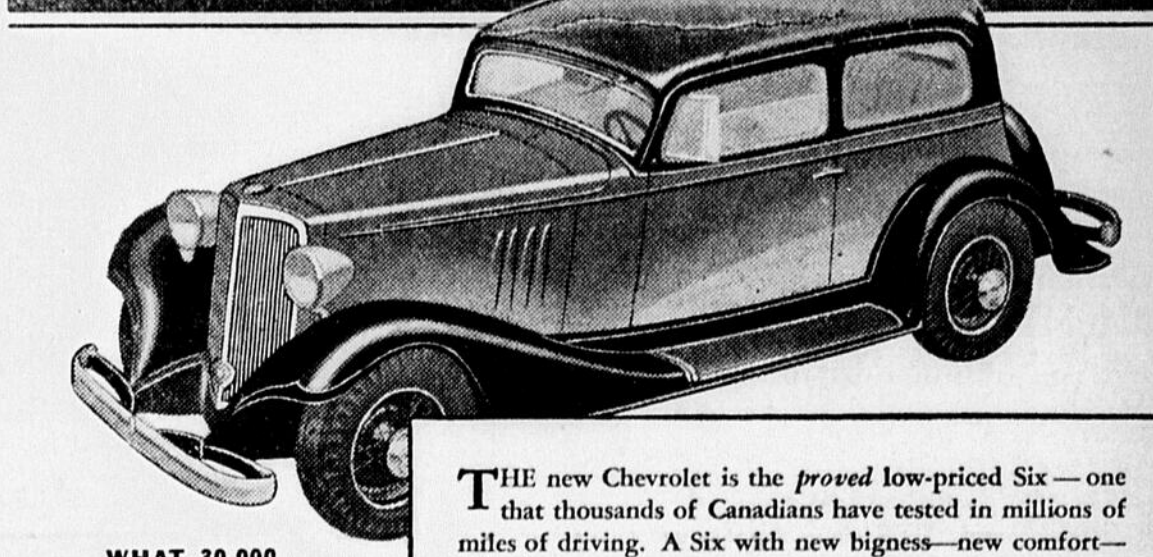

Quick, sure relief with Fruit-a-tive.

"Your spleen recently acted like a tonic to my system. I can't tell you what I suffered from backaches due to kidney derangement. When I would be down it seemed that I couldn't straighten again. I was continually awakened at night from the same cause. Drury, sick headed and a weak stomach made me feel perfect wretched. Now thanks to your wonderful Fruit-a-tive, I am enjoying life again."

A NEW MYSTERY CAKE . . . another $1000.00

First Prize $250 • Second Prize $100 • Third Prize $50 • 60 Prizes of $10 each

Find a name for Miss Ethel Chapman's MAGIC MYSTERY CAKE

MISS ETHEL CHAPMAN, well-known cookery authority of the Ontario Farmer, says: "My advice to all housewives is: Use Magic Baking Powder. Then there is no uncertainty about your baking." Canadian home makers will do well to follow Miss Chapman's advice. It is always practical.

Here's Miss Chapman's Recipe. Can you name it?

5 1/2 cup butter
1 cup fine granulated sugar
1/4 cup boiling water
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
Yolks of 2 eggs
white of 1 egg

1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 cups pastry flour or 1 cup bread flour
2 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
white of 1 egg

Sift together three times the flour, Magic Baking Powder and salt. Beat egg yolks and 1 white (saving 1 white for frosting). Put butter into mixing bowl, add sugar; pour boiling water on the shaved chocolate; stir quickly, and when melted add to butter mixture; add beaten eggs, then dry ingredients alternately with milk, add vanilla; beat all together. Pour into a greased cake tin and bake in moderate oven.

FROSTING: Beat 1 cup sugar and 1/2 cup boiling water together until syrupy threads when dropped from tip of spoon. Beat white of 1 egg stiff. Pour syrup gradually on beaten egg, beating constantly until of consistency to spread. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla (or 1/2 tablespoon lemon juice) and spread over cake. Sprinkle 1/2 cup broken walnut meats or almonds, blanched and split, on top.

If marshmallows are preferred in frosting, stir 3 into the hot syrup just before pouring into beaten egg white. Beat to a smooth fluff, allow it to "set" for a few minutes, then spread on cake. Nut meats are not used with the marshmallow icing.

Contest Rules

Read Carefully

- 1 All you do is name the mystery cake. Only one name from each person.
- 2 PRINT at the top of your paper in ink (or typewrite) "Miss Chapman's Mystery Cake." Under this, print your suggestion for a name. Then, in the lower right-hand corner, print your own name and address, clearly and neatly. Do not use pencil.
- 3 Do not send the cake itself—just the name and your own name and address. It is not essential to bake the cake to enter the contest.
- 4 Members of our own organization or their relatives are not eligible to take part in this contest.
- 5 Contest closes FEBRUARY 28, 1933. No entries considered if postmarked later than February 28 midnight. No entries considered if forwarded with insufficient postage.
- 6 Judges: Winning names will be selected by a committee of three impartial judges. The decision of these judges will be final.
- 7 Prize winners will be announced to all entrants within one month after contest closes.
- 8 In case of a tie, the full amount of the prize money will be paid to each tying contestant.
- 9 Where to send entries: Address your entries to Contest Editor, Gillett Products, Fraser Avenue, Toronto 2.

NOTE: Other Magic Mystery Cakes coming! Watch for them in later issues of this newspaper.

Here's good news for everybody—Canada's Greatest Cough and Cold Remedy, obtainable at any Drug Store, clears up Coughs, Colds, Flu or Bronchitis like a flash—a single sip proves it.

Yes! In Canada where coughs are common and colds are so mean and tough and dangerous that only a powerful efficient remedy can tame and subdue them—Buckley's Mixture—is the one real safe medicine that completely puts them out of business.

And 70% of the people of Canada know all this and put their faith in and swear by Buckley's Mixture.

Get a bottle at any drugist anywhere—keep it on hand for the sake of the kiddies—often one sip will stop a simple cough.

For your health's sake—demand Buckley's for cheap imitations are numerous.

Aubrey

The Aubrey-Riverfield W. I. held their January meeting at the home of Mrs. A. A. Allen with sixteen ladies present. The response to the roll call was a "Valentine verse." A letter of thanks had been received from Miss Clark thanking the W. I. for the couch cover donated to the Howick Consolidated School by the Institute. A letter from Miss A. M. Stewart was also read thanking the W. I. for donation of quilts and clothing for the poor in Verdun. A short history of St. Valentine was read by Mrs. J. C. Gruer. Current events by each convener and a short poem by Mrs. Bruce completed the program. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. MacFarlane, Miss L. Robinson and Mrs. A. A. Allen at a social hour spent. The program committee met after the meeting and partially drafted the programme for the coming year.

Hemmingford

Miss Marjory McClellan spent Saturday in Montreal.

Miss Aileen Miller was a visitor in Montreal over the week-end.

It is gratifying to report Mrs. Semerville able to be out again after her recent illness.

The regular meeting of the W.I. was held on Friday afternoon with a good attendance. An interesting program followed the business meeting.

Rev. H. P. Mailand was present and gave two readings from "Rough Rhymes of a Padre" which were much enjoyed.

Mrs. J. P. Simpson had a splendid paper on "Citizenship." The Question Box was a source of discussion and information.

Following the program Mrs. A. A. Clayland and Mrs. W. C. Collings served refreshments.

The Progressive Euchre held in the Parish Hall Wednesday evening was not as well patronized as the one previously given.

Cards were played at 11 tables and prizes won as follows: Lady's 1st, Mrs. Walter Keddy; 2nd, Miss Doris McClelland; Lady's Consolation, Miss Susie Brown.

Gent's 1st, Mr. McBurnie Sample; 2nd, Mr. Jas. McCaule; Gent's Consolation, Mr. Ralph McClelland.

The next euchre will be held on Feb. 15.

The Young People's Society of the United Church has been decided to present their play on Feb. 21st.

Mr. Ingvalley who has been quite ill, suffering from a shock is improving rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Lytle left the past week to spend the remainder of the winter in Florida.

Mr. Ralph Hayden was a business visitor in Montreal the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Winterbottom visited friends here Sunday. Miss Lillian Marlin returned to Beekmantown with them where she will remain for a short visit.

Sunday visitors at Mr. Hiram English's were Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Mrs. and Mrs. Auger, Mr. and Mrs. Brennan, Mr. Driver, Mrs. Pink and Mr. P. Dawson all of Montreal.

Mr. Willie Bennett of Barrington was called to act on the jury at Valleyfield.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Baskin spent Thursday at Valleyfield.

Dundee

Sunday School News.

Presentation was made on Sunday of the gifts which had been forwarded to the Secretary, Mr. H. Fraser, by the W.C.T.U. County executive, to those who wrote the examination papers in the recent Temperance Educational Course.

The recipients of prizes were Elva, J. Fraser, Howard C. Fraser and Janet. Mr. Fraser, an excellent opportunity is afforded the young people of learning of the harmful effects of alcohol.

Drinks through these Temperance Educational courses have helped towards this Canada of ours. His life was lived in a very simple manner, and yet he was always quite contented about him which endeared him to his friends even where others might be the opposite.

In his home life he was a loving father and made that home of a like nature. To his many relatives and friends, the sympathy of this community is extended.

Mr. McLaughlin visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon McCaffrey recently.

Miss Lella Cameron, R.N. returned to Malone on Wednesday of last week after spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Fournier and family of Coena spent the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Fournier.

Cedar Point Bay is always a favorite fishing resort but this winter it has excelled in popularity with a collection of 18 or 20 fishing shacks on it affording shelter to twice that number of fishermen. Others not having shacks fish in the open.

An open air skating rink is being prepared on the Salmon River at Dundee Lines, and it is evident that this district has promising athletes who at a future date will play a challenge hockey game with their cousins of Coena. It sports! May good fortune attend you.

The members of the Y. Society were entertained on Friday evening Feb. 5th, at the hospitable home of Mr. Hugh Cameron, Dundee.

Though the number present was not as large as usual those in attendance spent a very enjoyable evening and much credit is due Miss Marjorie Salter and Mr. Charles Fraser for the programme of games they provided.

After lunch a vote of thanks was tendered the Cameron family and at the close of the meeting all joined hands in singing Auld Lang Syne.

Havelock

The members of the Huntingdon Agricultural Society, Division B, held their annual meeting in the Town Hall, Havelock, Saturday afternoon, Feb. 4th. A very satisfactory report was given by the secretary, Mr. W. P. Fisher, showing a balance on hand, which is very gratifying to the members of the board. Various business matters were discussed after which all the old officers were re-elected for the coming year.

Miss Isabel McKee spent the week-end with Miss Mabel Waddell.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Robinson, Myrie and Muriel, visited friends in Lacolle on Saturday.

Mr. Geo. McKee spent a few days the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brooks, Franklin Centre.

The Ladies' Aid of Russelltown United Church met at the home of Mrs. Wilford Robinson's on Wednesday, ten ladies were present, it being an all day meeting quite a lot of work was done. A delicious dinner and tea was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. B. Douglas.

Obituary

The late Robert Ewart

Funeral took place at St. John's Church on February 7th of Robert Ewart, the oldest man of the district. He was born ninety-five years ago in the year 1838. The respect in which he was held could be seen by the large crowd which attended his funeral. He was one of the many pioneers of this district, who by sheer hard work and energy have helped towards this Canada of ours. His life was lived in a very simple manner, and yet he was always quite contented about him which endeared him to his friends even where others might be the opposite.

In his home life he was a loving father and made that home of a like nature. To his many relatives and friends, the sympathy of this community is extended.

Obituary

The death occurred of Mr. Wm. H. Fosburgh at his home on Thursday morning, Feb. 2nd, in his 88th year.

Mr. Fosburgh contracted a cold a few weeks ago which developed into pneumonia. Mr. Fosburgh was one of Havelock's oldest and respected citizens, he always lived on the farm on which he died, and was always interested in farm work and was a model farmer. Mr. Fosburgh always kept a herd of purebred Ayrshire cattle that were hard to beat. He was a member of the Fenian Raid veterans, and a member of the L. O. L. No. 41, and in politics was a staunch Conservative. He lived alone, his wife

Following the decision reached at the last meeting of the Federal Medical Commission and recent medical examinations taken in Ottawa, nine University of Montreal students not only are entitled to practise medicine in the entire Dominion but the group also obtained the highest average among aspirants from all Canadian universities.

This announcement was made by Dr. J. T. Z. Parizeau, director of the university's medical school and assistant dean of the faculty of science while commenting upon the official report of the examinations received from Ottawa.

Friday

Nine women psychopathic patients who fled in panic before flames that destroyed a dormitory at Ridgely Sanatorium in Cleveland early today were burned to death despite heroic efforts of nurses to rescue them.

All of the bodies had been recovered eight hours after the fire broke out, but most were charred beyond recognition. The ruins were still smoldering when Dr. William Glendinning, husband of the sanatorium's superintendent and a staff physician, branded the fire as incendiary origin. At his request police and fire marshals took into custody for questioning a Chardon farmer with whom he said hospital physicians had been in dispute.

Dr. Glendinning asserted the farmer had threatened his wife with death and yesterday telephoned the institution's office and said: "I'll get even if it kills me."

The shrieks of the terror-stricken women, all suffering from nervous or mental disorders, rent the chill night air as the flames ate rapidly through the frame dwelling. The smoke and heat soon became so intense that entrance to the cottage, in which twenty-four women patients and three sanatorium employees slept, became impossible.

The Week-end

The League of Nations Committee of Nineteen rejected Japan's conciliation offer Saturday morning as falling far short of the basis deemed necessary for a friendly settlement of the China-Japanese conflict.

It continued then the work of drafting a final report by opening general discussion on its latest and gravest chapter, giving the League's recommendations for settlement of the conflict if conciliation fails. It will continue, as no decisions were reached and none of the great powers participated in this exchange of views or otherwise unveiled their hands.

The discussions revealed these tendencies among the small powers: To divide the recommendations into those for the parties to the dispute and those for other League members, to base the former on Chapter 9 of the League report. They also wanted to include the latter an injunction not to recognize Manchukuo and an invitation to the United States and Russia to consult with the League Assembly, as Kellogg-Briand peace pact signatories, on the situation which would be created by the Assembly's adoption of this report, particularly if Japan rejects it, as is expected.

Three persons—a Nazi leader and two Reichsbannermen—were killed and about 30 were injured Sunday in political fights in several parts of Germany.

Their deaths brought to more than 20 the number of fatalities in Nazi Communist knife and gun battles since Adolf Hitler became chancellor last Monday. Nearly 100 others have been wounded, not a few seriously.

And while these skirmishes were going on, executives of various parties were laying plans for pre-election campaigns. Herr Hitler was on his way to Munich to organize a campaign.

Encouraging figures for the dairy industry in the province of Quebec during the first 11 months of 1932 are given today by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, the figures being those of their own statistics section.

This branch, established by Hon. Adélard Godbout, gives figures far in advance of those available under the old system, and the service is a monthly one.

For the 11 months of 1932, 29,135,369 pounds of cheese were produced as against 25,708,731 pounds made for the same 11 months of 1931, while there is a drop in butter production the production for the same period being 58,652,252 pounds in 1932 and 62,213,926 in 1931, an increase of 13.3 per cent in cheese production and a decrease of 5.7 per cent in butter.

The November production was 513,247 pounds of cheese as against 1,240,253 pounds for the same month in 1931, and 3,813,301 pounds of butter as against 3,711,206 pounds for November of 1931.

The butter figures do not show a production of 3,384,171 pounds produced in Montreal for which no butter-fat statistics are available.

While the French plan for disarmament was being abandoned by some of its best friends, Maxim Litvinoff, soviet delegate to the World Disarmament Conference, today proposed to amend it by incorporating a sweeping definition of an aggressor. So strict was the definition that an invader or attacker under any pretext whatever would be subjected to international penalties.

The soviet representative offered a contribution toward security a declaration of aggression which would place blame upon a state which had used armed forces against another country under almost any conceivable circumstances.

Backwardness, maladministration, danger to life or property of foreign residents, internal disorders, boycott, repudiation of debts, the presence of different political, economic or social order—none of these conditions would justify a military attack according to the programme the Russian suggested.

He asked the general commission to adopt a declaration embodying this definition.

M. Litvinoff's declaration for a moment startled the conference inasmuch as his definition of an aggressor in many respects paralleled that of Japan in Manchuria.

Detailing his definition, the soviet member said that any nation that declared war against another state, invaded another state without declaring war, bombarded the territory of another state, or established a naval blockade of another state should be termed an aggressor.

The last remnants of Prussia's autonomous rights as a federal state were decreed away by President von Hindenburg today when he vested Vice-Chancellor von Papen, as Reich Commissioner for Prussia, with complete ministerial powers. This enabled Colonel von Papen to cast his vote which today resulted in the dissolution of the Prussian Diet.

Colonel von Papen lost no time in summoning Hans Kerrl, National Socialist president of the Prussian Diet, and Dr. Conrad Adenauer, president of the Prussian Council of State, as third member of the group which he constituted authority to dissolve the Diet. Dr. Adenauer declined to respond to the summons, as he regarded President von Hindenburg's decree as unconstitutional. Col. von Papen and Kerrl, thereupon voted for dissolution and ordered Diet elections on March 5, the date of the Reichstag balloting. Today's decree virtually over-rides the ruling handed down by the Federal High Court on October 25, 1932, which gave the deposed Braun-Severing ministry in Prussia rights of representation at federal elections.

Valleyfield

On Friday evening last, Mrs. Arthur Lalumière entertained in honor of her son, Gerald. Cards were played at five tables, Miss Margaret McDonald and John Greig winning first prizes, Miss Winnie Craven and Harry Buttress the consolation prizes. Refreshments were served. Dancing was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Lucien Faubert and L. Bonhomme have returned home after spending several weeks in Europe.

Mr. David Boyd and Miss Catherine Boyd spent the week-end in Montreal.

Annual Congregational Meeting.—The annual meeting of Valleyfield United Church congregation was held in the church on Tuesday evening, Jan. 31st. A large number were present, and listened with interest to the reports given by the various branches. The Session report was presented by Mr. J. A. McDonald, 22 new members were received during the past year, 11 children baptized; 3 marriages celebrated, and 7 funeral services conducted. The report of the Board of Management showed a good financial year, with an increase of giving over last year.

The report of the Sabbath School was most encouraging, the attendance gradually increasing in number. Report of Missionary Committee given by Mr. T. Martt showed an increase for the past year.

The report of the Women's Missionary Society showed that they had oversubscribed their allocation by $24. Two bales of goods, valued at $92, were collected and shipped to needy areas in the west; the sum of $268, was also raised by the ladies during the past year.

The Women's Association passed a good year, both financially and otherwise, under the able leadership of Mrs. W. Shannon. The sum of $564, was raised during the past year. The spirit of the meeting was hopeful, anticipating better things in the near future.

Valleyfield Council did not meet on Wednesday, a quorum not being formed.

St. Mark's Ladies' Guild held a Bridge and "500" in the Church Hall on Friday afternoon last, eight tables being played altogether. There were six tables of Bridge and two tables of "500". Mrs. C. Potter took first prize in Bridge, and Mrs. A. B. Ross the second prize. Mrs. G. Amos won first prize in "500", and Mrs. G. Caton second. About $15 was realized.

Mr. T. Houghton has returned from New Bedford where he spent several weeks with relatives. He is at present staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilkinson.

After faithfully preaching the gospel for over seven and one-half years in the Valleyfield Presbyterian Church, the Rev. C. Younger-Lewis has resigned his position, and his leaving will be deeply regretted. Mr. Younger-Lewis preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening last, although his term of ministry here does not expire until February 16th. In his address he based his remarks on the text, "Lay Hold; Hold Fast." It is not yet definitely known as to how long he will occupy the pulpit on Sunday next. Mr. Lewis is expected to leave for another church soon.

Ormstown Concessions

The Associate Helpers of the United Church held their monthly meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 8th, at the home of Mrs. George Cavers. There were 13 ladies present. Mrs. Robert MacDougall took charge of the devotional exercises. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in sewing. Mr. George C. Potter presided at the luncheon which was served by the hostess assisted by Miss Ethel Cavers.

Miss Mary Tate, nurse-in-training at the Royal Victoria Hospital is at present with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Tate.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Hooker, Heather and Don visited on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Greig, Allans Corners.

Mrs. George Hooker has returned home after spending three weeks with her sister, Mrs. Wm. Perry, Cowyville Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Brown and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kerr, Parité Creek.

Misses Nora Miller and Margaret Rennie visited on Saturday with Misses Lyla and Jessie Ovens.

Mrs. Thomas Helm, son Edgar, and daughter, Grace, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sproule.

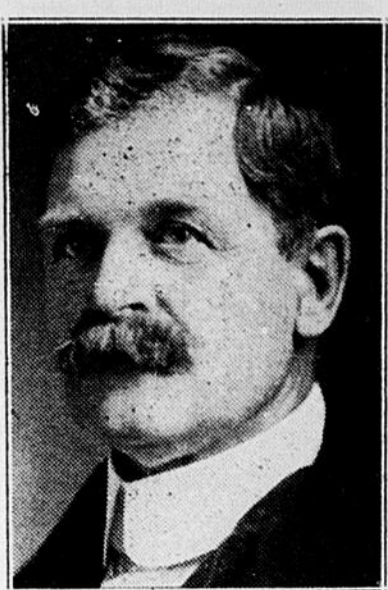

"What kind of a car has Tom?" "Well, he'd feel tremendously flattered if you called it secondhand."

Howick Village

The Y.P.S. of the United Church and the C.G.I.F. group who were their guests, enjoyed a skating party on Monday night, Feb. 6th. About 35 young people gathered at the church around 8 o'clock, then went to St. Martin's in cars and enjoyed a couple of hours skating. The night was an ideal one, and on their return, they thoroughly enjoyed the hot lunch prepared for them.

Miss Florence Cameron went to the city on Tuesday afternoon and expects to spend a few days there with her sister, Miss Christina Cameron.

Ormstown Village

Ormstown Defeats Gault Institute

5-3 Score.

On Friday, Feb. 3rd, a double-header hockey game was played between Gault Institute and local High boys and girls. The teams were welcomed by a large attendance and to show their appreciation played one of the fastest and cleanest games of hockey seen in this rink for several seasons. The girls' game was the opening feature, with a one minute silence observed in memory of the late Marjorie Hamilton, who was last year's goalie. The crowded arena was in perfect silence the girls in uniform on the ice at the alert as a token to show how she is sadly missed by both friends and team-mates.

The girls' game was exciting and interesting, full of thrills and spills. The game ended in a tie 1-1 but no overtime was played as the girls had already been fatigued. Bernice McCarty got Ormstown's only goal but all the girls played well, not forgetting Pat Hawley who held Valleyfield to a tie by defending the local nets.

From the first minute of the boys' game through the one hour and twenty minutes a splendid exhibition of speed skating and stick handling was witnessed by the enthusiastic supporters.

Valleyfield opened the scoring in the first period by notching two quick goals but Johnnie Campbell was on his game, scoring twice before the period closed. The second period saw the purple and white and the maroon and white fight for 20 minutes of scoreless hockey. After about seven minutes of flashing hockey in the 3rd period, Merrill Smith scored, giving the locals a lead of one goal. This one goal lead was only held a few minutes before Valleyfield tied the score and the game went on until the final bell necessitating an overtime, called for by the league rules. Five, ten and fifteen minutes of overtime was played before the tie was broken by Campbell again giving Ormstown the lead 3-2. Then Merrill Smith who had been trying his "long shots" all evening made it effective following Campbell's goal. The score being then 5-3 where it remained until the close of the game.

The defence strong and John Smith proved dangerous to Valleyfield several times. Much credit must be given to Harold "Mick" McLean who guarded the home twine. He played well, making one spectacular save after another, long shots, close in shots, and numerous rebounds. He was patted at from all angles, especially in the overtime session, but never once allowed the puck to touch his hands. Winning this hard fought game means much to O.H.S. as they are now tied for first place in the league with Valleyfield. It is expected that the play-off game will be staged on neutral ice later on in the season.

The members of the High School teams wish to thank all the staunch supporters whom they appreciated seeing on all sides of the arena and are sure they enjoyed the clean, fast hockey by the "Young Hopefuls." The line-up was:

Buckingham Curlers Gain Quebec Challenge Cup from Ormstown.

Ormstown curlers failed on Saturday to tie the record of the Quebec Curling Club when they lost the Quebec Challenge Trophy to Buckingham curlers who piled up a 37-30 score and took the famous old mug back to Buckingham.

Ormstown had won 18 matches 16 when they last held it, up till the season of 1903, and 2 this season and had held it against Buckingham would have equalled Quebec's 19 victories. Quebec presented the cup in 1874 for play among the iron curling clubs of Canada and the cup has been around almost all this region before coming under the jurisdiction of the Canadian Branch.

Ormstown had not been able to hold a match since they played at Caledonia on January 6th on that occasion defeating Quebec 37-23. Play in the local rink was delayed by mild weather and Saturday's match began on good ice which grew soft before the 1st and 2nd ends were done.

Play in the early ends was close and interesting with Baird and his rink capturing both the first and second ends with single shot margins. However, R. M. Kenny's quartette replied by winning the third end with a two-shot count and thus the score was deadlocked at 2 all.

Kenny again counted in fourth, with Baird to force ahead again at the fifth end when they chalked up a two-shot count and thus led their opponents by 1, with one count turn about until Kenny in the tenth round succeeded in a three. Baird replied with single counts each in the 11th and 12th, the score was deadlocked 8 all in the 12th end, in the 14th, 15th and 16th and 17th ends Baird's steady count of 3-4-3-2 made a total of 20-10. The McGerrigle quartette had very uphill work, with a 3 count in the 1st and 2nd ends they were not able to count again until they marked up a 2 shot in the 9th and 3 in the 11th. The score was then 13-8 in skip Bission's favor. In the 12th and 13th he made 3 counts each. McGerrigle were able to count only a single shot in the 14th and 15th ends and had to bow in defeat by a score of 27-10 which offset the 20-10 victory by Baird, leaving Buckingham 7 shots to the goal.

The players and scores were:

The Buckingham Curlers, on their arrival at the club were entertained to a sumptuous dinner provided by the ladies of Club, and immediately following the game the Cup was presented by H. H. Chambers, President of the Ormstown Club to Senator Albert McLaren, President of the Buckingham Club who accompanied the team to Ormstown.

W.C.T.U.—The regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held at the home of the President, Mrs. W. G. McGerrigle, on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 2nd. Mrs. McGerrigle presided and Mrs. Harold Parkinson had charge of the devotional exercises. Miss L. Bazin gave the financial reports. The minutes of the January meeting were read and approved. Among completed business arrangements were made regarding the special meeting on the 17th, to which all members of local unions are invited and to which the public is welcome. A letter of thanks for sympathy was received. Mrs. Cunningham gave an excellent paper on anti-narcotics. Prayer meeting on the 13th at the home of Miss Margaret McNeil. The meeting closed with the W.C.T.U. benediction. Sick visiting committee: Mrs. A. Ross, Mrs. W. Roberts, Mrs. A. Rodger, Mrs. P. S. Rugar, Mrs. Standage and Miss A. Stevenson.

"Busy Bees" Mission Band Membership Meeting.—On Friday afternoon in McDougall Hall, the Membership Meeting of "The Busy Bees" Mission Band, St. Paul's United was held. There was a good attendance of members and visitors. Ten new members were added to the roll and games were enjoyed. The W.M.S. served tea.

Surprise Party.—A pleasant surprise party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harper on Friday evening by a number of friends and relatives, the occasion being their thirteenth wedding anniversary. Cards and dancing were enjoyed by those present. Refreshments were served and all good wishes extended to the "Bride and Groom" for many more anniversaries of the happy occasion.

Mr. George Cottingham of Rock Island is spending a few days leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cottingham, Tullochgorum.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bryson and family were Sunday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cameron, River Outarde.

Zouaves of Valleyfield vs. Ormstown Canadians.

Last Wednesday evening Feb. 1st the Ormstown Canadians hockey team was visited by the "Zouaves" of Valleyfield and one of the lead teams of the town leagues over there. The Ormstown players put up a very strong battle against their opponents who had a little margin on the game in their favor. In the first period, the home boys had the best of the play, Emile Cartier got credit for his first encounter, which came half way through the period, and the second goal was by Roger Cartier, a couple of minutes later. The second period opened up with some fine stick handling by the two teams. Johnnie Campbell scored the three counter almost at the face off, when taking a perfect pass in front of the goal and beating the goalie clean. That period ended 3 to 0 for Ormstown. The last period was in Valleyfield's favor, with only a few minutes left to play V. Polier got the first goal, the second was got by one of the Ormstown players on a mistake. The hockey players of the Ormstown Canadians wish to thank all those who turned out to see the game. The line-up of the players: Ormstown: Jules Cartier, goal; Spike Kearney, defence; Laufer Forget, defence; Johnnie Campbell, centre; John Smith, left wing; M. Smith, right wing; subs R. Legault, E. Legault, Leo Desjardins, E. Cartier, B. Byrnes, B. Cartier.

Miss Isobel Anderson of Montreal, is the guest of her grandmother Mrs. E. F. McCartney.

Mr. George Cottingham of the Bank of Commerce staff at Rock Island is spending three weeks' vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Cottingham.

Mrs. Geo. Murphy returned home on Sunday after spending two months with her daughter, Mrs. Phil Connors, Lowell, Mass.

Miss Ola Roberts who is attending Gault Institute, Valleyfield, spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. Robert Cullen of Montreal is spending a few weeks at the home of his sister, Mrs. D. Gruen.

Dr. A. R. Younie of St. Catharines, Ont. spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Younie, Tullochgorum.

CHAPTER XXIII

Dan grinned down at her. "I'll give you three guesses," he announced. "What do you think I have?"

"Is it something for me?" Cherry asked.

"But I haven't the slightest idea."

"You can guess, can't you?" Dan insisted. "What would you think it's likely to be—a Rolls-Royce or the crown jewels of England or—"

A faint cry, plaintive and high-pitched, interrupted him. It came from Dan's coat pocket. It was repeated, this time louder. An unmistakably kittenish "Meow!"

"A kitten! Oh! let me see it!" Cherry cried. "Where did you get it?"

"Oh, you little darling, you—!" Dan's Oh, you little darling, you—!

This last was addressed to the wriggling ball of gray fur that had emerged from Dan's pocket. The kitten, balancing in Dan's two hands, looked about on this new world in which it found itself and emitted another "Meow!"

"Cute, isn't it?" Phillips asked.

Cherry had taken the kitten and was holding it nestled against her shoulder. The warm, soft fur touched her cheek. The girl's eyes were bright as a child's.

"It's adorable!" she told him. "Did you know I've always wanted a kitten? That's another thing I could never have at home. But where did you get it? Can we really keep it?"

"We can if you want to. I stopped at the drug store on the corner for cigarettes. There were four of the little fellows there with their mother. One was black and the others were sort of gray striped. I thought this one was the cutest and the man said he'd be glad to give it to us. It's not quite a month old yet."

The kitten seemed eminently content with its perch on Cherry's shoulder. It was purring now—a miniature sing-song that could barely be heard.

"Do you hear it?" Cherry demanded. "It's singing. Oh, of course, we'll keep it! And it was sweet of you to bring it, Dan." She began to laugh. The kitten had raised one paw and with experimental gestures was investigating Cherry's ear.

"Put it down," Dan suggested. "Let us see what it thinks of the place."

Cherry set the kitten on the floor. It was completely gray except for a white line down the centre of its forehead rounding out in a symmetrical arc of white about its nose and mouth. As though aware of their scrutiny the little animal backed slowly away from Cherry and Dan, stopped and gazed up at them.

"Well, I'll be darned!" laughed Dan. "Would you look at the little beggar giving us the once over?"

Cherry was down on her knees beside the kitten again. "I know what I'm going to call it," she announced. "Did you ever see anything so pink as that nose? I'm going to call it 'Pink'!"

"That's a swell name for a gray cat!"

"Why, I think it's a grand name—and anyhow that's what it's going to be."

Their own meal was forgotten in their interest in the new pet. Presently, however, the kitten was left curled up on a pillow on the floor and Cherry and Dan sat down to dinner.

Dan broke a roll and buttered it. "Well," he said, "I had a piece of welcome news today."

"What was it?"

"Your husband, madam, is the winner of the $5 bonus for the best written news story of the week."

"Oh, Dan, I'm glad!"

"Som I. That five bucks will help out considerably in our financial status. But that's not all. Two of the fellows who have been owing me the last six months kicked in with $12 more. I'd forgotten about both of them! Yes, it looks as though we can pay our bills and stay out of debtors' prison after all. My check Saturday will pay the rent for another month and this $17 will carry us over the week."

"It's worked out wonderfully, has it not?" Cherry asked. She said it so fervently that the young man across the table looked up.

"I—I had some news today too," the girl went on. She told Dan about the check from her mother and about sending it back. When she had finished Dan leaned across the table and took her hand. His eyes were troubled.

"You're sure you wanted to do that?" he asked. "Of course I could not have let you spend any of that money for our living expenses or for me but you might have bought something for yourself. Clothes maybe. Or—whatever girls buy."

Cherry laughed. "Of course not, silly. What could I be wanting? Oh, Dan, you and I do have so much! We ought to be so thankful!"

She told him about Miss Jamieson who had lived on the City Hospital. The recital of the story sobered both of them. For some time after the meal had ended they sat in silence.

All at once Cherry cried out. "It's the kitten! It must be hungry!"

Little Pink's paws were pressing against her ankle had startled the girl. She filled a saucer with milk but the kitten was not interested. Try as they would they could not make Pink drink until Dan filled a teaspoon and poured it down the kitten's throat. Pinky coughed, licked the milk from his whiskers and decided to try a gulp for himself.

The kitten's antics kept them amused most of the evening. It chased paper balls pushed to a string. It climbed into boxes and out of them and once, when Dan threw down a newspaper, the kitten crawled ed under it and had what must have been the most exciting adventure of its brief life getting out.

"It's going to be company for me when I'm here alone," Cherry said. "I don't see how I'll ever have a dull moment with that little rascal around."

"You'll probably wish that little rascal was 100 miles away a good many times!"

The girl was sure that she would not. The kitten finally went to sleep in her lap and Cherry transferred it to its pillow so gently that it did not awaken.

It had been an eventful day. She had sat in the window seat and looked out on the night. Moonlight streamed over the patch of ground below that by day was nothing more than a weed-grown space where laundry flapped in the breeze. To-night it might have been a garden. Ugly buildings took on grace from the black shadows. The faint scent of plum blossoms came from a tree across the alley.

Cherry put up a hand and touched Dan's cheek. "We've so much to be thankful for," she whispered.

It was the middle of the next morning and Cherry was frowning over the cookbook when there was a knock at the door. She rose and opened it.

"Oh—good morning!" Cherry said. "Won't you come in?"

Mrs. Moreau, from the floor above, stood in the hall.

"I haven't time to stop," she said. "But I thought you'd like to know Miss Jamieson is going to get well. I've just been talking to the janitor. He said the hospital found she had an aunt in Chicago and they got in touch with her. She's coming—the aunt I mean—and if she has money enough to do that it probably means she can take care of the girl and see her through."

"I'm so glad!" Cherry said fervently. "And thanks for telling me. I've been thinking about her all morning."

"It's bad business to be sick and alone in a city," Mrs. Moreau said, shaking her head. "Well, I must be getting upstairs—"

Bad business indeed! After she was alone again Cherry got out her purse and examined its contents. There was $2.75 inside.

On impulse she hurriedly changed to street clothes. Pinky, the kitten, was dozing on the window seat as Cherry softly closed the door behind her and went down the stairs.

She boarded a downtown car and rode to Twelfth street. Lawrence's flower shop in the corner of the Wellington Hotel was where Cherry had always bought flowers. She reached the shop and paused before the window display.

Tall, long-stemmed roses and exotic lilies filled three huge vases that stood on black velvet. They were beautiful roses. They must cost a great deal.

Turning, the girl walked down the street. There were other florists there. She would find one less expensive than Lawrence's. Cherry tramped for half an hour and finally she was satisfied. She came to a small shop flaunting price marks all over its windows. "Roses 75 cents," "Lilies 50 cents a bunch," "Iris 75 cents."

Cherry entered and paid 50 cents for a large bunch of lilies.

"We don't deliver," said the clerk told her. "That's extra. I'll cost 25 cents to have them delivered."

Cherry paid the extra quarter. She wrote Miss Jamieson's name on a white card and the address of the hospital. On a separate card to be enclosed with the flowers she wrote "Best Wishes from a Friend."

There was less than $2 in her purse (car fare had taken 10 cents) when she left the shop.

"That means we'll have eggs again for dinner," Cherry told herself. "Dan won't mind why it happened. Wonder whether he'd like 'em fried or in an omelet?"

She was considering this problem and had almost decided to undertake an omelet when she recognized a young man coming toward her. Cherry stopped. There was a stationery store ahead. In another moment she would have entered it but the young man called out her name.

"Well, Cherry!" he exclaimed. "This is certainly luck. Haven't seen you for days!"

"I—I've been shopping," she told him. "It's nice to see you again."

"You don't say that any too convincingly. Max Pearson laughed, 'but I've got a test. If you really mean it come and have lunch with me.'"

CHAPTER XXIV

Max Pearson studied the menu. "Like scallops?" he asked. "All the sea food is very good here."

How handsome he looked today. Cherry, meeting Pearson's eyes, glanced down again quickly at the card before her.

They were in a restaurant new to Cherry. It was an attractive place, obviously more expensive than the establishments she and Dan had patronized. Cherry looked about and noticed there were more men than women diners. All of them were fashionably, prosperous, dressed. The restaurant had a subdued, quiet air that was a relief from the street.

Pearson seemed thoroughly at home there. The waiter who took the order greeted him as an acquaintance of long standing.

"Now, then," Max said when the question of food had been settled. "Tell me what you've been doing?"

Just the usual things. Trying to remember to salt the potatoes and how to open a can without cutting myself. I'm still one of the world's worst cooks!"

"You are—Pearson began and then checked himself. He did not finish the sentence but said, "Where's that waiter? I want him to bring some matches."

He began talking of the office and Cherry was interested. The sense of warmth—the feeling that she must be on her guard with Pearson—left her. There was no use telling herself that she should not have been there. Cherry knew very well that she was enjoying this luncheon. It was pleasant to sit across the table from such an attractive, entertaining young man and it was certainly a treat to eat food that she had not herself prepared. Yes, she was enjoying the luncheon.

She told Max about the kitten, and he seemed amused at her description. Somehow Dan's name entered the conversation. Cherry had a sudden inspiration. She leaned forward.

"There's something I'd like to ask you," she said. "I've wanted to talk to you about it for a long time. I believe you're the person."

"Fire away!"

Pearson was holding a lighted match to the tip of his cigarette. His eyes, intent on the flame, did not waver.

"It's about Dan," the girl went on earnestly. "I want to know if you think he can write. I don't mean just things for newspapers. I mean do you think he might be able to write short stories or a novel? Dan says there is not any future for him in reporting. He wants to write for magazines—maybe books. Do you think he can do it? I don't mean right away but some time. Do you think he can do it if he works hard?"

The cigarette was glowing now. Pearson exhaled a cloud of smoke before he answered.

"That's a difficult question," he told her. "Hard to say. Practically every newspaper man in the country—woman too—is sure that he or she can turn out the great American novel. All they need is a little time. A chance to get away from the grind and write. They keep talking about it for years but somehow few of them ever get anything done. Oh, I'm not saying all this about Dan, understanding I'm talking about the great majority. You see, writing is hard work. I know because I've sold a few things myself."

He mentioned a couple of essays that had appeared in a magazine of high literary standing.

"They'd take more too," he went on. "But I just can't seem to get to work. Lazy, I guess."

"But about Dan—" Cherry persisted.

"He's clever," Pearson went on. "Dan's written some swell news stories. Has an original way to putting things. I don't honestly know if he'd ever get good at fiction, though. I did not know he'd ever tried it. The only way to find out if he can make the grade is to try. He'll have to be willing to work!"

Then, said Cherry slowly, "that will have to be my part. To help him work."

"It's discouraging business," Pearson warned. "Even the most successful authors get lots of their manuscripts back. When you're beginning you have to expect rejections."

The girl nodded. "I suppose so," she agreed. "I suppose so."

There was quiet between them interrupted by the appearance of the waiter. He placed ice before them and poured the coffee.

"Look here," said Pearson briskly when they were alone again. "I've just had an idea. Didn't Dan say the other evening that you like to drive a car?"

Cherry smiled. "I love it!"

"Then here's my idea. That bus of mine stands in the garage more than half the time. I never use it during the day except on Wednesdays. That is my day off from the office. I'll tell them at the garage they're to let you have it whenever you want it."

"Oh, but I couldn't—"

"Couldn't what? You could certainly drive it, and there isn't a reason in the world why you shouldn't. Dan's one of my best friends, you know. I'm sure he'd like to have you get out more."

"It's awfully kind of you," Cherry said. "But I really can't."

"You mean you don't want to?" Obviously he was hurt.

"I think I should."

"Oh, so you're the sort of girl who thinks appearances are more important than anything else? Well, what's wrong about you driving my car?"

What indeed? Somehow Cherry couldn't answer the argument. Pearson had just given her a delicious lunch. She could not offend him.

"I'll do it," she agreed. "It's—certainly very kind of you."

He told her the name of the garage and where it was located. "One of the boys will drive the car out for you," he assured her. "They're deputed obliging. That's the reason I keep it there. How about using it this afternoon?"

She told him she could not. She had left the apartment in a hurry and there were a dozen things to be done. Suddenly she thought of the kitten.

"Poor little Pinky!" she exclaimed. "He'll be starved. Oh, I'll have to go right away!"

Pearson looked at his watch. "Time for me to be getting back, too," he agreed.

They walked down the street a block together. Cherry thanked him for the luncheon and said goodbye. She was smiling as she boarded the street car.

"I was wrong about Max Pearson," she told herself. "He only wants to be friendly and helpful. Oh, it's going to be wonderful to have a car to drive again!"

True to prediction, Pinky was feeling neglected when Cherry arrived home. He came running toward her on his slightly unstable legs, meowing as loudly as his little lungs would allow. Cherry picked him up, filled a saucer with milk and watched the kitten's clumsy efforts to drink the milk and at the same time wade in it.

She told Dan that evening about lunching with Pearson and about his offer to loan her the roadster.

"Dan's nice old man," Dan told her. "Didn't I say Max is a prince?"

"But do you really think I should?"

"Why not? Max would be hurt if you refused. Of course it's all right."

Cherry was silent for a minute. Then she said, "He told me something else today. Max thinks you can write. I mean short stories—or a novel maybe."

"Dan said that?"

Cherry nodded eagerly. "I've been thinking about it all afternoon and I'm going to try to write something. I mean short stories—or a novel maybe."

Improvement Seen in Public Health During Past Year

Depression or not, the province of Quebec rode high for the year ended June 30 last in regard to the all-important matter of public health, the story being told in brief by Dr. Alphonse Lessard, director of the provincial Bureau of Health, in his report to Hon. Athanase David, Provincial Secretary, which report was tabled in the Legislative Assembly Thursday.

This is the 10th annual report of the bureau which Hon. Mr. David established, and which has been steadily pursuing its better health campaign with the result that, whereas the Province stood out somewhat like a sore finger among other provinces in some matters, notably as regards infantile mortality, that has now become a thing of the past.

With betterment of health, testified to by the lower death rates, there is to be noted the same trend elsewhere, namely, a small birth rate.

Credit for betterment, as far as the rural districts are concerned, is given to the establishment of the county health units, and Dr. Lessard, even in a time when the Government is sternly frowning upon any idea of additional expenditure, urges that these units be extended throughout the province.

With the report of the bureau on health conditions is also the report on demography, but this ends with the calendar year of 1931, and consequently is supplemented by the monthly bulletins which the bureau has been issuing since that time. "During the year ending June 20th, 1932," comments Dr. Lessard, "there was a marked improvement in the condition of the public health in this province, similar to that which has been noted in previous years. There was a time, not so long distant, when the losses from tuberculosis, infant mortality and infectious diseases were quite discouraging and neutralized, in large part, the advantage which accrued to us through our splendid birth rate. This birth rate, however, for several years has been decreasing, as has that of every country. The decrease was barely noticeable until two years ago but since 1930 it has been more pronounced and although the province of Quebec still enjoys the highest birth rate of any in the Dominion and still holds its place among the countries of the world with the greatest number of births in proportion to population, its birth rate has dropped to a figure of less than 30 per 1,000 a rate, never before recorded for this province.

Mortality Lowered
"On the other hand, however, the intensive campaign of health education waged throughout the province has resulted in an even greater proportional diminution in the general mortality and in the mortality from certain causes. Thus, tuberculosis is not the scourge among our people that it was, although we still have a long way to go before we arrive at the low rates of some of our Canadian provinces and states. The campaign of the campaign has been in progress for many years.

"The education of mothers, to which we have given very particular attention, has had the almost immediate effect of considerably lowering our infant death-rate. This rate, which, you may recall, reached the formidable figure of 142 per 1,000 living births six years ago, dropped to 112 in 1931, and the returns which we have in hand for the first nine months of 1932 lead me to believe that, this year, the province of Quebec, for the first time in its history, will have an infant mortality rate of less than 100 per 1,000. This trend in the infant death rate has had a marked effect on the general mortality which is now down almost to the level of that of our neighboring province of Ontario.

"To what may we attribute an improvement so marked and which has been attained in so short a time. Without a doubt to the county health units, the organization of which you instituted six years ago. Certain statistics show clearly that the most favorable features of the demography of the province as a whole are entirely the result of the improvement effected in those counties which are organized into health units and the cities where efficient health work is being done by competent hygienists.

Let us consider, for example, the mortality from diphtheria. The death rate for the whole province indicates a remarkable reduction in this mortality since 1927 and, whereas the rate for the unorganized rural districts and towns has remained about the same or even increased slightly, that for the counties organized into health units and for certain cities has been cut to half the former rate. The reason for this is that in these latter counties and cities, mass immunization of the children has been practised. To give you an idea of the extent of this work, I may state that, during the past eighteen months, over 125,000 children have been immunized by our medical health officers, against this terrible disease.

"The baby clinics, the demonstrations for mothers, the nutrition classes, all of which have been increasingly active in our twenty-eight health units, covering thirty-six counties of the province, are particularly responsible for the diminution in the infant mortality.

"In consequence, it is with a conviction more firmly established than ever before, that I consider these organizations to be the one and only means of properly protecting the public health of our people.

"These organizations are of little value, however, if they are not provided with competent personnel. In recognition of this requirement, the Provincial Bureau of Health has made a special effort to place them under the direction of graduate public health physicians, and it is my pleasure to inform you that practically all of our county health units are now in charge of medical officers so qualified, and provided with nurses of whose competence we have been assured by means of severe examinations.

"In view of the results which we, with the greatest satisfaction, shall presently place before you, I cannot refrain from submitting for your consideration the necessity, which I consider increasingly urgent, of extending throughout the province this system which has proved so beneficial to those countries which have adopted it.

"I understand the difficulties in which the present crisis has involved all activities of public administration; but if you will permit me to express an opinion which the experience of my duties has forced upon me, I believe the protection of the public health to be the last field in which restrictions due to economic difficulties, should be imposed. Public health, in fact, is the foundation on which rests the issue of all national effort; given a healthy people, the nation will resist to the utmost the destructive effects of economic hardship."

Sexual Labor Division That May Have Defects

"Men may be satisfied with their own superiority, but machines are not. They prefer girls." Thus spoke Sir Herbert Austin to a London (England) audience in the course of an address wherein it was lightly suggested that the ultimate division of labor might present the spectacle of more and more men making machines while more and more women were engaged to work them. The Manchester Guardian remarks that in some ways this suggests an arrangement as convenient as the one mentioned in the nursery rhyme—Jack Sprat can make the Machines while Mrs. Jack Sprat works and watches them, and between them the industrial platter will be kept clean and polished. But there is a more unfortunate side to reflections of this kind as applied to the modern world—what sort of labor will be left for men when he has made all the machines which are required for women to work?

Scientists May Be "Off" About Crocodile Tears

The phrase "crocodile tears" has been used for so long that it comes as a surprise to learn that, according to scientists, these reptiles cannot shed tears at all. According to scientists, the crocodiles possess lachrymal glands, but the secretion never reaches the eyeballs. It is believed that its function is digestive, to lubricate the animal's food. Some time ago, however, when experiments were carried out to ascertain whether crocodiles shed tears or not, the reptiles refused to oblige even when encouraged by a mixture of onion juice and salt.

The following incident which is offered as proof that crocodiles can cry, is related in London Answers:

"When a boat was steaming up the Indus, a crocodile was shot and brought aboard. As it was lying on deck—believed dead—the onlookers were astonished to see what looked like tears trickling from the reptile's eyes."

Gossip is due to the fact that the world contains more talkers than thinkers.

Salt Cure For Fish

A barrel or keg if not made of resinous wood or an earthen crock or jar will do for a container.

Medium coarse salt is the best, but any salt may be used. One pound of salt to a gallon container is a good proportion to use.

Directions for salting: 1—Prepare fish in the same manner as for cooking. 2—Place a layer of salt on the bottom of the container, and on this spread a layer of fish, one deep, skin side down, tail or narrow end toward the centre of the container. Cover with a layer of salt and add another layer of fish, repeating the process until the jar is full. 3—If there is not enough fish to fill the container at once, follow the same process with another fish, adding from time to time until the receptacle is full. 4—Place a board on top of fish, weighting it down so the brine will cover it. If sufficient brine does not form in five days to completely cover or if evaporation takes place later on add brine made by dissolving 2½ lbs. of salt in one gallon of water. 5—Cover the vessel tightly when full. 6—Leave fish in brine or solution until ready to use.

Creamed Fish
Soak fish in cold water till a sufficient amount of salt has been removed to give the preparation the right degree of salt. Boil, cut in pieces and serve in a medium thick white sauce. Peas may also be added to the white sauce. The creamed fish and peas served over new boiled potatoes makes a good supper or luncheon dish.

Fried Salt Fish
Soak in cold water to remove salt to make palatable. Remove skin and split in convenient size pieces. Dredge in flour, saute in butter or ham or bacon fat until nicely brown and cooked throughout. Serve with buttered carrots or beets.

Fish Balls
2 cups shredded fish, 2 cups mashed boiled potatoes, 4 lbs. melted butter or bacon fat, moisten to taste, 2 eggs, milk or cream to moisten, mixture to form into balls.

Soak fish in cold water to remove excess salt. Shred fish fine or run through food chopper. Mix fish, po-

Architectural Gem in Ancient City of India

The stone tower of the very isolated Temple of the Bayon stands in the jungle at the mathematical center of the ruined city of Angkor Thom in Cambodia. The temple was built by King Java Varman VII in the Twelfth century. Though originally planned as a Buddhist temple, it was later altered and devoted to the worship of Shiva the Destroyer and the Giver. Each of the towers carries on each of its four sides the head of the Bodhisatta Iokesvara—"He who looks down with compassion." Round the base of the towers are galleries filled with bas-reliefs recording incidents in Cambodian life and history, a most realistic one showing the Khmer people at their daily tasks. Angkor Thom was the residence of the Khmer kings for five and a half centuries. Near it is the Brahmin temple of Angkor Wat, one of the world's greatest architectural curiosities.

There Were Others
Jackson stamped angrily into the office and gripped his partner by the shoulder.

"Look here," he snapped, "was it you that said I was an infernal rascal?"

"Me!" exclaimed the other. "Of course not!" Jackson simmered down a bit.

"Who could it have been, then?" he asked.

"Really, old man," he replied, "I'm not the only man who knows you."

Kellogg Company of Canada plans Large Advertising Campaign for 1933

"Early in 1932," said Mr. Kellogg, "we determined upon an aggressive merchandising and advertising effort on a nation-wide scale to keep our plants in full operation. To this end we undertook the largest advertising campaign in the company's history. As a result our plants have operated full time throughout most of the year, with employment at the highest peak ever recorded.

"We are now entering 1933 with all our plans made to carry on with our merchandising and advertising activities upon the same scope and basis. Again we hope to give the retailer every possible assistance in increasing his sales of Kellogg products. Again we hope to keep all of our people employed.

"We have proved that, in our line of business, the aggressive use of newspaper advertising is a most effective means of producing results—even in times like these.

"So for 1933, our plans are to continue with newspapers as the backbone of our promotional efforts. Newspapers not only give the intensive aggressive coverage we need, but their flexibility, and splendid co-operation with our men in the field, enable us to take full advantage of every local possibility. This is a factor of great importance."

The Kellogg Company of Canada was a large user of Gleaner advertising in 1932.

They have increased their advertising contract for 1933.

THE GLEANER is delivered to 2648 homes out of 3047 that inhabit the Gleaner territory as indicated by the map below.

Tablets Aspirin

Throw OFF That COLD!

Some men and women fight colds all winter long. Others enjoy the protection of Aspirin. A tablet in time, and the first symptoms of a cold get no further. If a cold has caught you unawares, keep on with Aspirin until the cold is gone. Aspirin can't harm you. It does not depress the heart. If your throat is sore, dissolve several tablets in water and gargle. You will get instant relief. There's danger in a cold that hangs on for days. To say nothing of the pain and discomfort Aspirin might have spared you! All druggists; with proven directions for colds, headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism.

BABY CHICKS FOR SALE

The Co-operative Agricultural Society of Ormstown wishes to announce that the Hatchery in Ormstown will commence hatching operations on February the thirteenth for the season of 1933. Day old chicks from the two most popular breeds Barred Plymouth Rocks and Single Comb White Leghorns will be for sale throughout the season.

Every chick from the Ormstown Hatchery comes from Government supervised, blood-tested flocks. Carefully selected hatching eggs, each one averaging 24 ounces or over to the dozen, absolutely insure large, healthy chicks. One hundred percent safe arrival of chicks is guaranteed.

All flocks from which eggs are taken for hatching are mated with approved male birds, whilst some are using registered male birds, and others are using sons of registered male birds. This applies to chicks from the Barred Rock breed only.

Attractive prices are quoted for baby chicks from the following breeds:
Barred Rocks—March delivery, $15. per 100; April delivery, $14. per 100. From sons of registered males, March delivery, $14. per 100; April delivery, $13. per 100. From approved males, March delivery, $13. per 100; April delivery, $12. per 100.

Single Comb White Leghorns—March delivery, $13. per 100; April delivery, $12. per 100.

A good poultry flock on the farm has proved itself of great value in recent years and will continue to do so in the future. Buy early hatched chicks, they pay the highest returns for money. Get eggs when egg prices are highest. When you order chicks from the Ormstown Co-operative Hatchery at the above prices you are assured of good value for your money, and you patronize a local industry. Leave your orders for chicks now, at the

Pinedale Barred Rocks and Single Comb White Leghorns

The Pinedale Poultry Farm is offering chicks from the above breeds at the following prices:
Barred Rocks—March delivery, $15. per 100, $14. per 200 or over; April delivery, $14. per 100, $13. per 200 or over; May delivery, $13.00 per 100, $12. per 200 or over; June delivery, $10. per 100.

White Leghorns—March delivery, $13. per 100; April, $12. per 100; May, $10. per 100; June, $9. per 100.

This flock is government supervised, every bird is blood-tested for Pullorum Disease, with practically no reactors in the two years of testing work. Registered male birds have been used to head this flock for the last two years, with the result that it has become one of the highest winter egg producing flocks in the district. For January past, this flock of approximately 500 birds averaged 20 eggs per hen for the entire month.

Chicks from this flock have been developed, side by side, with chicks from the better known large hatcheries of Ontario and have outdistanced them in results. All hatching eggs used average 24 ounces to the dozen or over, and the greater percentage of the eggs used come from yearling hens. When you buy chicks from this flock you are assured of getting large, healthy chicks that will develop into heavy producers of good sized eggs.

A limited amount of custom hatching is done on this farm, at 3c per egg payable in advance.

In shipping chicks, 100% safe arrival is guaranteed. All chick orders require a 10% deposit, balance C.O.D.

Orders taken for Poultry Equipment, such as Brooder Stoves, Chick Feeders, etc.
