RUSSIAN PRESSURE PLACED ON FRANCE

World News In Brief

Washington — (P) — Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican national committee, said Thursday his own survey of key Republican leaders around the country has convinced him that President Eisenhower will benefit from the attack made on him by Senator Joseph McCarthy.

Hall said in a statement that the President will find "even greater unity and support" among Republican members of Congress in the next two years.

Rochester, N.Y. — (P) — A 15-square-foot section of the ceiling of the Eastman Theatre here tore loose late Thursday and fell about 40 feet to the seats. Approximately 150 students from the Eastman school were on the stage rehearsing a musical number, but none was injured.

Cologne, Germany — (Reuters) — Peter Wegener, self-appointed leader of an extreme rightist youth group, the German Reichs Youth, was sent to prison Thursday for five months for forming an unconstitutional organization in 1951. The court found that Wegener and his 400 followers had taken over certain principles from the Nazi Hitler Youth organization.

London — (Reuters) — Sir Godfrey Huggins, prime minister of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, has been invited to join the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference beginning here at the end of January, Douglas Dods-Parker Commonwealth relations parliamentary undersecretary, said in the House of Commons Thursday.

Pusan, Korea — (P) — A fast-moving fire was brought under control after a three-hour battle today after it destroyed 700 Korean dwellings, a school, church, and several huts belonging to the Korean Marine Corps. Some 5,000 persons were made homeless. Most had been living in refugee shacks.

Los Angeles — (P) — CIO president Walter Reuther has accused President Eisenhower of practising "political fraud" by failing to back up labor secretary James P. Mitchell.

Reuther Thursday told the CIO convention Mitchell lacked the standing in Eisenhower's cabinet enjoyed by Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks.

Mitchell had told the convention in a speech here Tuesday that he condemned "categorically" laws now in effect in 17 states prohibiting unions and employers from negotiating contract clauses to require workers to become union members.

Tough French Assembly Fight Seen On Treaties

Paris — (Reuters) — The influential foreign affairs committee of the French National Assembly today recommended by a single-vote majority ratification of the Paris agreements on rearming West Germany for Western defence.

Sixteen committeemen voted for ratification and 15 against. There were 11 abstentions and two deputies were absent.

The committee approved agreement to restore West Germany's sovereignty by a larger margin—24 to 15 with three abstentions. The Franco-German agreement for a European statute for the disputed border territory of the Saar was approved by 24 to 6 with 12 abstentions.

The one-vote majority in favor of German rearmament indicates that Prime Minister Mendes-France will be faced with considerable opposition when the National Assembly opens the ratification debate Dec. 20.

But political quarters here still believe that when it comes to the crucial vote Dec. 23 or 24 there will be a slim majority for Germany's entry into the Western defence system.

Current Delays Completion Of C.B. Causeway

By DON MACKENZIE
Canadian Press Correspondent
Port Hastings, N.S. — (P) — A strong current swirling through the narrow remaining gap today and delayed expected completion of the rock fill for the Canso causeway.

Earlier, engineers had expected the last load might be dumped this morning. But after several hours of work they said the final link-up of mainland Nova Scotia and the neighboring island of Cape Breton might be delayed until this afternoon.

Work on the rock span across the Strait of Canso started 27 months ago. When completed the causeway will have cost an estimated $20,000,000.

A battery of reporters, photographers and newsreel cameras waited patiently for the final load to be dropped.

Hundreds of other spectators up and down the island shore strained for a glimpse of the last of innumerable thousands of loads of rock fill it took to fashion the 4,200-foot overwater section of the causeway on which work began nearly 2½ years ago.

The crowd had ebbed and flowed since late Wednesday when the end of the causeway crept close enough to the shore that construction engineers were able to forecast almost to the hour when the strait would be cut off.

Much remains to be done on the $20,000,000 project. A swing bridge and locks to permit ships through the strait have yet to be installed and the formal opening for traffic is not expected until next spring.

The causeway will fill an urgent transportation need for Cape Breton whose open hearth furnaces and rolling mills turn out one-quarter of Canada's steel and whose coal mines employ 11,000 men.

But it wrecks the strait for which Cape Bretoners claimed they gave prayerful thanks because it protected their blissful isolation from "foreigners." For foreigners were anybody not from Cape Breton.

Oldtimers recall with relish the not-so-long-ago times when Cape Breton trumpeted secession as vengeance for real or imagined injustices.

One grizzled Scot in the crowd on shore Thursday spat into the dirt at his feet and said he guessed the causeway's completion would finally see "confederation."

Cape Breton island actually was a separate British colony at one point in her history, and her proud Scots and French-descended inhabitants never lost their sense of fierce independence even after they were incorporated into Nova Scotia.

One outburst of secession demands in the early 1930s saw the birth of what came to be known as the "Snell Plan," a British Press Convinced Reds Seeking To Raise French Opposition To German Pact.

London — (Reuters) — The latest Russian note to the Western powers is seen by some commentators in today's British newspapers as aimed at turning French opinion against the ratification of the Paris agreements.

The Times' diplomatic correspondent writes that the note is undoubtedly an expression of policy and intention and has to be read seriously as such, "but it is also a last attempt to prevent the ratification of the Paris agreements in France and Germany."

"There may be an increase of international tension for a time," The Times says, "but the Western governments remain convinced that peace is served by stability, and that — so long as the four powers cannot agree on all-German elections that could create a unified Germany — the only means of establishing stability in Europe is by bringing federal Germany into the Western European Union."

United Nations, N.Y. — (P) — The United Nations General Assembly pushed for a vote today on demands by the United States and its 15 allies of the Korean war that Red China yield up 11 American airmen held as spies. Western diplomats predicted at least 45 of the 60 members states would rally behind the call.

Weary delegates prepared to resume debate on the resolution after two meetings Thursday, the second lasting until nearly midnight. Hopeful of clearing up the item before the assembly goes into its final scheduled week, they plan to remain in session until they reach a ballot on the 16-power resolution condemning imprisonment of the men and calling on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld to work for their release.

As the general debate neared a close, delegates anticipated that the resolution would encounter opposition only from the five-power Soviet bloc, which fought it bitterly every step of the way. A scattering of Arab-Asian states were expected to abstain.

Observers say the resolution could have mustered 55 favorable votes if it had not included condemnation of Red China. This caused apprehension among the Arab-Asian states with little desire to go on record denouncing Peking.

Russia's Jacob Malik spearheaded the bitter Soviet bloc attack on the resolution. Malik angrily denounced the complaint as "shameful" and declared the assembly had no right to try to intervene in Chinese justice. He hinted that the Communists would ignore any action the UN might take in the matter.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. chief delegate, accused Malik of making misleading statements in charging the airmen were spies. He declared the plane was on a legitimate mission and that the men, as uniformed military personnel, should be handed over at once under the terms of the Korean armistice.

Both Britain's Anthony Nutting and France's Henri Hoppenot firmly backed Lodge's stand. Nutting said he pitied Malik for having to come before the assembly with such a weak case and for being placed in the position of palpable falsehoods. The Briton declared the free world looks for the assembly to "bend every effort to the release of these men."

Vic Obeck To Manage Alouettes

Montreal — (P) — Vic Obeck today announced he will resign as director of athletics at McGill University to take a post with the reorganized Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football League.

Obeck will become an active shareholder and vice-president of the Alouettes, which this week changed hands. The team was purchased by Leo Dandurand and Ted Workman from Roy Robertson, Fred Skelcher and Charlie Stone.

Resignation of Lew Hayman, general manager of the club from 1951, was announced Thursday night.

Baltimore — (P) — Henry Zlotak, 40, a grocer, told police his eight-week-old boxer puppy bit him on the right forearm Thursday night — and then fell dead.

Four Seized In Vancouver Crime Wave

Vancouver — (P) — Four men were held for questioning today in what police said is the first major break in the crime wave plaguing Canada's third largest city.

One was arrested Thursday in Los Angeles, where, detectives said, he admitted robbing a Bank of Nova Scotia branch here of $3,400 on Nov. 8.

The other three were picked up on city streets and in a downtown hotel room and with them police seized $2,000 in cash.

Arrested in the U.S. was Bruce Teetzel, Canadian-born ex-convict, picked up for carrying a gun.

A warrant was being prepared for him here and, Police Chief Walter Mulligan said, a detective would go to Los Angeles to bring him back.

Two of the others arrested were suspected in the Dec. 3 holdup of a Royal Bank of Canada branch in nearby Park Royal. Two gunmen in that holdup swept up $7,500, called "Merry Christmas," and made their getaway.

Police said one of the two picked up was a truck driver, the other a tractor operator. Each was 39 years old.

The fourth man was picked up by constables who recognized him from a pickup order. He was identified in a line-up in connection with the downtown branch of the Bank of Montreal in which a lone bandit netted $1,500.

Chief Mulligan, under heavy criticism during the robbery wave, praised the men who made the captures. He said no charges would be laid for 24 hours.

"This didn't all happen overnight," he said of the arrests. "It is the result of good, patient detective work."

London — (Reuters) — Pretty Mary Malcolm, BBC television announcer, lost an earring during a program Thursday night but didn't realize it until viewers telephoned the studio. Next time she appeared on the screen she announced that she had found the earring on the floor, and expressed her thanks to watching fans.

Dublin Resuming Normal Life After Severe Flood

Dublin — (P) — Thousands of homeless moved back into their damaged and mud-covered houses today after Dublin's worst flood in living memory receded during the night.

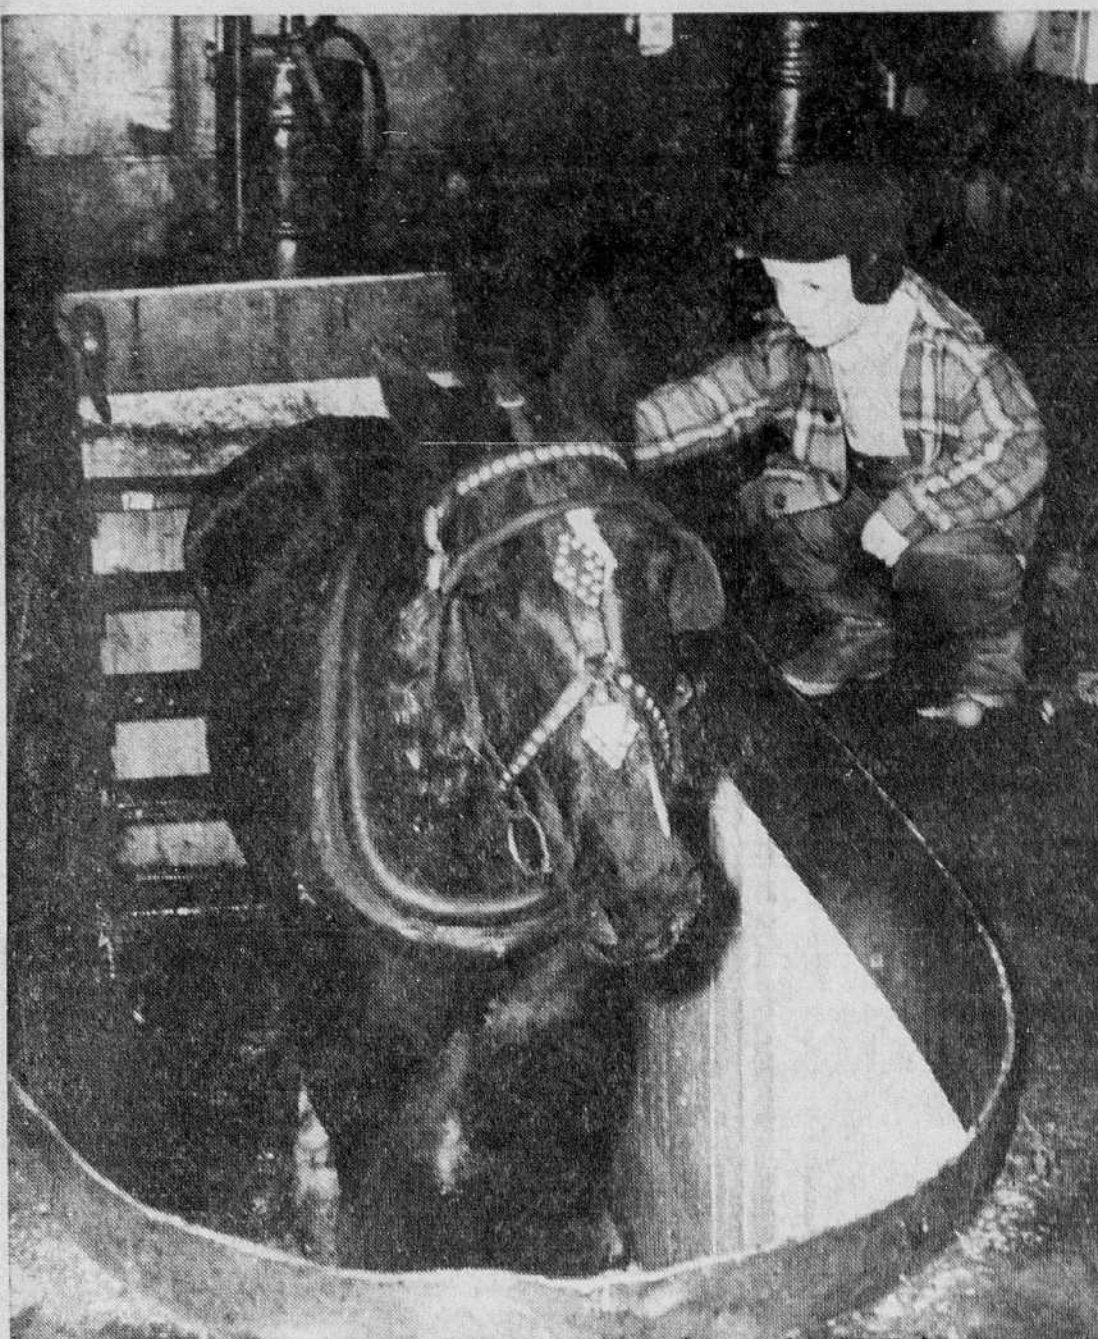

The falling waters uncovered the first known fatality of the flood. Rescue workers found the body of a 70-year-old woman drowned in her bed in a lower-floor room.

At first light today the stricken northern city area was a weird sight. Boats and small yachts used in rescue work lay stranded alongside abandoned cars.

City officials warned against the possibility of contaminated drinking water.

Streets that were rivers at midnight dried out at dawn. Lord Mayor Alfred Byrne announced: "The peak point of fear is over."

Caretaker Jap Cabinet Is Selected

By JIM BECKER
Tokyo — (P) — Japan's new conservative Prime Minister today named peg-legged Mamoru Shigemitsu, wartime Foreign Minister, to the top post in his "caretaker" cabinet.

Shigemitsu was named Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister by Eichi Hatoyama, conservative Democrat who was elected Prime Minister Thursday. The cabinet, which will rule only until national elections in March, was announced after a day of wrangling over several cabinet posts. Ten of the 17 new cabinet members, including Hatoyama, were purged from public life by the occupation.

Like Hatoyama, the 65-year-old Foreign Minister, who served a term as a war criminal, favors more trade with Red China, but said in an interview that he hopes to improve Japanese-American relations.

"We are definitely in the democratic camp," he added.

The key post of Finance Minister went to Hisato Ichimada, governor of the Bank of Japan. His choice makes it certain that Japan will follow its current "austerity" program to increase its foreign trade holdings.

Ichimada played a key role in boosting Japan's exports and shrinking her imports during the war.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington — (AP) — The United States, Britain and France will consult soon on a reply to Russia's latest note warning of a buildup in Communist military power to counter the proposed rearmament of West Germany.

Washington officials are taking the view that the note does not really foreshadow a new Red military buildup but that it has some propaganda purposes.

The note, given to the three western powers in Moscow Thursday night, said "the Soviet Union and other peace-loving countries will carry out all necessary measures to step up their armaments and to safeguard their security."

It also said that making West Germany a partner in the Western European defence system and a member of the North Atlantic alliance would render the unification of Germany impossible.

Both statements reflect the standard Soviet policy line which was developed almost a year ago at the Berlin Big Four conference and in a subsequent series of notes to Washington, London and Paris.

The Western powers have consistently presented a solid front in their replies to the Soviet Union, and officials signified practice of joint consultation which has been followed in the past will be employed again this time.

For propaganda purposes, the new Soviet warning is assumed here to be aimed at creating popular uneasiness and political division over the German rearmament issue in both France and West Germany. It holds out the threat of a permanently divided Germany, and alleges new dangers of war by referring to "the growing armed forces of the aggressive states threatening the maintenance of peace."

As to an increase in the strength of eastern European forces, it has always been assumed here that the forces in being are about as large as the Communist can maintain, and far greater than they need for purely defensive purposes.

Moscow's warning, therefore, is not regarded as foreshadowing any real change in the balance of power as between the Atlantic alliance and the Communist bloc.

And the belief of officials here is that Soviet government leaders are resigned to the rearmament of West Germany and that they will not in fact take any radical new measures either to oppose it or to try to offset its effect once it is actually achieved.

These officials believe that what is happening in the broad picture is the hardening of a kind of military statement between East and West. They think this

Big Damage In Quebec Explosion

Ste. Foy, Que. — (P) — A dynamite explosion rocked this Quebec suburb Thursday causing $50,000 damage. The blast wrecked doors from their frames and shattered windows within a mile radius.

No one was killed, but 15 persons required hospital treatment and 30 more received aid at the scene. Eight men fled in time when one spotted the dynamite shack ablaze and warned his buddies.

The shack was used to store explosives for construction work. Police said they believe there may have been five cases of dynamite and 10 cases of dynamite caps in the building when it caught fire.

Furniture in 10 nearby houses was strewn across rooms by the impact but no homes were threatened by fire. Police sent in a special 10-man detail to guard against looting.

The shack was obliterated; all that was left at the site was a rock-filled hole.

The owners—a company building a sewage system in the locality—said the blast was touched off after a stove exploded and set the shack on fire.

Most injuries were caused by shock and flying glass.

One woman, Mrs. Leonidas Pelchat, said the explosion blew in doors and windows and ripped a Vancouver — (P) — A Canadian fighter ace, the horrors of two years in a Communist prison camp behind him, was ready to set off on the second happiest flight of his life today accompanied by his wife who for two years had been hoping for his safe return.

Squad. Ldr. A. R. (Andy) MacKenzie's happiest flight ended here Thursday as he stepped from a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane into the waiting arms of his sobbing, but overjoyed, wife Joyce.

Later today the couple, together for the first time since the veteran RCAF pilot was shot down over North Korea, will board an RCAF plane for Edmonton and Montreal.

The couple will stay overnight in Edmonton and proceed to Montreal early Saturday.

At Montreal the tall, slim flier, who was serving as an exchange flier with the United States Air Force when he was shot down near the Yalu river, will again meet his two young sons and two

No Divorce Talk Claims Sheppard

Cleveland — (P) — Dr. Samuel Sheppard was scheduled to go back to the witness stand today to tell his story of the night of July 4, when the wind howled outside his home and a killer walked within.

It was the climax of his long trial on a charge of murdering his wife, Marilyn Reese Sheppard.

His life could depend on what he said today, and how he said it, and the effect of his words on the jury.

Three state's attorneys waited to cross-examine him, to attack his story. The prosecution alleges that Sheppard killed his wife, and that his affairs with other women impelled him to the crime.

Sheppard says it was a prowler who battered Marilyn to death and that the killer, lurking in the dark, struck him down when he heard her screaming and rushed into her bedroom.

Moreover, he told a story of love and romance going all the way back to the time when he and Marilyn were high school sweethearts.

Sheppard is a slim, dark-haired osteopath, and will be 31 next December 29. He still has the trim, graceful figure of an athlete.

When he stepped up to the witness stand Thursday, a woman spectator murmured, "He's a doll."

The tiny courtroom was packed tight. The jurors, some of whom have been heavy-eyed heretofore in the afternoons, leaned forward intently.

Sheppard testified in a high-pitched, slightly nasal voice. He gave every evidence of marble calm.

Sheppard seemed eager, anxious to talk. Judge Edward Glynn admonished him against giving "too many of these details."

Defence Counsel J. Corrigan pushed into areas which the prosecution has emphasized. He asked:

"Did you tell your wife that you had bought Susan Hayes the watch?"

Susan Hayes, the state contends, was the "other woman." She is 24 years old, a former laboratory technician in the hospital where Sheppard worked. She has admitted intimacies with him that extended over some 15 months. Sheppard bought her a watch in California last spring after she lost her own.

"Yes, sir, I did," Sheppard replied. "The only difficulty was that she (Mrs. Sheppard) insisted that I don't put it on my expense account and make my brothers pay for it. I thought I should."

"When you got back home in March was there any difference in the life that you look up after March than there had been before?"

A. "My wife and I hoped that she was pregnant, and we were happy for that reason."

A maid in the Sheppard home testified earlier that when they returned from California last March, they began sleeping in separate beds.

Q. "Now there was some information given to the jury about talk of divorce between you and Marilyn . . . will you tell the jury whether there was any talk of divorce?"

A. "No, sir, there wasn't."

Crawfish House
By WESLEY DAVIS

Yesterday I told you how Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, went fishing for crawfish with Uncle Bunkum from the zoo. A crawfish, you know, has legs that wiggle and kick. He has arms with pinchers for hands. The pinchers can catch hold of things and pinch, if the crawfish wants them to do it. And he often wants them to do it. Mugwump had a wonderful time with Uncle Bunkum, catching the crawfish down at the creek. They put the crawfish in the bottom of a bucket where the crawfish wiggled and kicked and scratched around with its pinchers. Said Uncle Bunkum: "Well, we'll take it home to keep at the monkey house tonight." They carried the crawfish in the bucket on back to the monkey house. They put the bucket underneath the bed where Mugwump slept. They didn't tell anyone about it,

Waterloo Kiwanis Club Plans Party For Children's Home In Bondville

Waterloo, Dec. 10. — The regular meeting of the Waterloo Kiwanis Club was held on Tuesday night in the Canadian Legion Hall.

A very good turn out of members was on hand to enjoy the two films provided by Kiwanian Armand Russell, through the John Deere Company. Mr. Bill Russell was a guest at the meeting.

Many items were discussed, and one in particular had to do with the distribution of milk to the needy children in town. At this time, thirty-seven children in school are receiving milk daily, and six families in Waterloo, with a total of forty-two children, are receiving milk every day. This service is made possible through the sale of Christmas seals, and as the milk inspection as carried on at this time is satisfactory to the club directorate, the members are again distributing milk where they feel it is most needed.

A donation of ten dollars was made to the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of Canada.

President, Roger McKergow, announced that the sympathy of the club goes out to secretary Ken Lee, on the sudden death of his father, at his home in Baie Comeau.

Two resignations were read at the director's meetings, Kiwanians Duncan Dalton and Garret Chapman have had to resign from the club, one through pressure of work and the other as he is moving out of town.

Immediate past president, Butch Bouchard, reported on the St. George Kiwanis Club's anniversary meeting, which he and his wife attended.

Plans are well underway for the Christmas party to be held on December 21, when the children of the Flambeau Home in Bondville will be the guests of the Kiwanians. A complete evening's entertainment will be provided including a meal, Christmas tree, presents, carol singing and games.

Next week's meeting will be held at the Canada Hotel when the guest speaker will be Mr. Orrin B. Rexford, whose subject will be on early history of the Eastern Townships. This talk should prove to be most interesting to all Kiwanians and their guests.

Trek Starts Again

640 Contestants Miss Right Clues

And so, we start our long trek up the winless ladder again.

Last week, as you remember, we had six winners and over 2,000 answers to our contest. This week, we have 640 answers and no winners. It is no surprise though, for we really expected a big drop, for to misquote an old expression it is "the calm after the storm."

As an aftermath of last week's winning puzzles, we have received a couple of letters from some of the six winners, in which we were thanked for giving them the money. We are glad to know they appreciate receiving the cash, but we don't want to take unjustly the credit for something they did. After all, it was only because they were smart enough to get the right answers that we were able to give them the reward. So, all the credit goes to our winners, not to us.

Looking around in the old files of the Record the other day, we came across an item that might be of interest to you puzzle-doers. We found it quite interesting, so thought you might like to have it passed on to you. It seems as though you learn something every day, doesn't it?

"Have you been introduced to the Crossword puzzle? It is a new interest that has come into the homes of newspaper readers. One of the Crossword Puzzles appears on another page of this issue.

They will be published daily. The solution of today's puzzle will appear in tomorrow's paper. See if you can solve it.

"Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a blank square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if below it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill in the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the forms. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner until the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions."

Perhaps you never thought you would have to be told how to do crossword puzzles, but the people who read that newspaper many years ago had to be told. You see, this quotation was taken from a Sherbrooke Daily Record, issued on Nov. 24, 1924. That was thirty whole years ago, the time when crossword puzzles first originated.

great number of people who will shrivel off, but not me. It will give me a better chance.

"But, I must admit, I must be dumb, and I'm not alone. Yes, $10 will be alright, for it will cover more than my postage. So here's hoping again."

That letter is signed a Good Old Sport, and we know from reading these letters in the past that she really is a good sport too, and one of our most faithful ones, at that.

So, you puzzle-doers there, as you can see, there are some people who are still plodding along behind their dictionaries, pencils and Sherbrooke Record Crossword Puzzles to see if they can't win the jackpot, even if it is only $10. And next week, it goes up to $20, or $40 with a slip from Au Bon Marché. Actually $40 is nothing to be sneezed at, and we don't think very many of you would turn down even twenty dollars if it was given to you, would you?

Since the Record is willing to give it away, we feel it is a pretty good chance for you to increase your green-backed equipment in your wallet. As one of our winners said in her letter of acknowledgment this week, "It certainly would come in handy for Christmas shopping, and would make Santa's pack bigger for some people, if they're lucky enough."

CELEBRATES QUARTER-CENTURY OF SERVICE — Ven. Archdeacon Albert Jones (second from right) receives a purse of money in honor of his 25th anniversary as rector of St. George's Church, Lennoxville, at a reception in the church hall last night. Archdeacon Albert Jones Honored By Parishioners Of St. George's

Members of St. George's Anglican Church, Lennoxville, held a reception last night in honor of their rector, the Ven. Archdeacon Albert Jones, who is marking the twenty-fifth year of his ministry in Lennoxville this year.

To celebrate the occasion, Kenneth Herring, people's warden of the church, presented Archdeacon Jones with a purse of money, and a large bouquet of 25 pink carnations to Mrs. Jones.

A Christmas atmosphere pervaded the church hall as Yule trees decorated the corners and the platform, and green boughs sparked with bits of red foil and holly decorated the walls. Graydon Woollerton played background music on the Hammond organ during the reception.

Receiving guests into the hall were Archdeacon and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. R. S. Pearson, president of St. George's Guild, Mrs. N. Hunting, president of St. Monica's Guild, H. A. Woollerton, rector's warden, and Kenneth Herring, people's warden. Special guests included clergymen from churches in both Lennoxville and Sherbrooke as well as from Bishop's University.

In making the presentation to the Archdeacon, Mr. Herring congratulated him on the twenty-five successful years during which he has ministered to the Lennoxville parish and also on the 17 years he has been Archdeacon of the diocese.

The Archdeacon extended his thanks to members of the church and gave a brief resume of the history of St. George's. He pointed out that it was first founded in 1822 as part of the Sherbrooke mission during the time of Bishop Jacob Mountain, the noted clergyman whose enterprise and energy contributed much to the diocese of Quebec.

Sherbrooke and Lennoxville were united until 1844, stated Archdeacon Jones, and with the separation of the two churches began the ministry of Rev. Lucius Doolittle, now a legend around Lennoxville for the many contributions in every field that he made to the town and its various institutions. He founded Bishop's College School and was one of the co-founders of the University. The speaker mentioned the other rectors who followed and regaled his listeners with tales told by and about different ones. He went on to thank his parishioners for the sympathy, co-operation and loyalty they have extended to Mrs. Jones and himself, and for the quiet acts of service which mean so much to every rector.

Three Stories Well Presented By S. H. S. Group

The Valiant, by Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemass; A Marriage Proposal, by Anton Chekhov; and The Ghost Story, by Booth Tarkington were the three one-act plays presented by the students of Sherbrooke High School last night in the Mitchell School Auditorium, on the opening night of their two-night performances.

A large crowd, mostly made up of students, and parents of the school, was on hand to watch the two-hour long performance. Although the spectators did show appreciation of the efforts of the young actors, there were several late arrivals, who disrupted the trend of the first play, and the audience seemed unfair to the actors by taking a long time to settle down.

The three casts themselves did a good job of presenting their respective characters, a lot of the credit of which must go to their capable director, Royce Gail. The scenery, different for each play, was exceptionally well done, with the difficult last scene of the Valiant well depicted. Costumes, all in a modern trend, were well represented, especially in the comic Russian play.

The Valiant, the often times overworked high school play, was the first one on the program. This, a difficult play to present, was especially well done by the actors. The only marked criticism of this act was that at first the dialogue was a bit hard to understand, mostly because of the noise in the audience. The closing minutes of the play were the best example of naturalness during the whole evening's performance.

The three main characters of The Valiant all did a good job of presenting their respective

Hunters Rewarded In Lucky - $ Chase

CHECKING HER CHANGE from grocery shopping brought this unexpected ten dollars to Miss Ivy Watson, who found Lucky Dollar B/A 6219167, and brought it to the Record office for the reward.

Another winner today. In fact, we have two, but we are going to tell you about only one of them, and keep the other until tomorrow.

We told you yesterday about the rumors we had heard. Well, today, those rumors have become facts. Lucky Dollar B/A 6219167 turned up yesterday afternoon in the hands of Miss Ivy Watson, of 379 King Street East in Sherbrooke.

She isn't certain where she found the dollar, but thinks it was either in an A & P or Thrift Store, when she did her shopping Tuesday afternoon. Incidentally, that particular dollar was spent in Pariseau's Restaurant two weeks ago today, so it must have done a bit of travelling to be found in another part of the city.

How she found it was quite by accident. Miss Watson claims she took the change from her purse Tuesday night and left it on a table in her home. When she returned from work Wednesday night, she happened to notice the dollar bill and just out of curiosity checked it with her Record — and there she had a winner.

She said she very seldom checks the dollars, as we imagine must be the case with lots of people. Taking this as an example, it might be a good idea if one always checks, for you never know when you might miss a chance to collect ten dollars. By the way, just as anyone would do this time of year, Miss Watson will use that $10 to go towards some of her Christmas shopping.

Houle Case Jury Pays Visit To Accident Scene

The Court of Queen's Bench jury hearing the case of Lucien Houle, of Victoriaville, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Onil Garand, also of Victoriaville, in an accident near Windsor Mills last May, spent most of this morning in making a visit to the scene of the accident.

During the continuation of hearings yesterday afternoon, only three witnesses were called by Crown Prosecutor Roland Dugre. They were a garage keeper, Donald Bruneau, who was called for the second time and was on the witness stand for an hour and a half. The other two were Bernard Leblanc and Louis Georges Marcotte, a victim in the accident which took the life of his companion Onil Garand, of Victoriaville.

Bruneau was questioned extensively by Paul Emile Brazeau, attorney for Lucien Houle, about certain photographs which were admitted as evidence and produced by Det. Gerard Bessette, as the first witness called yesterday morning. The defense claims that Det. Bessette was not present at the time the pictures were taken.

Leblanc, also of Victoriaville, told of his actions during the day of May 17. His testimony drew several laughs from the jurymen as he told of his escapades during what may be termed as an "all day bender." The witness yesterday in his own terms said that he was not a competent witness to tell accurately of the events during that day.

Louis Georges Marcotte, who besides Houle, is the only living person that was in the accident, told how he met Leblanc at a hotel in Victoriaville and together with Houle and Garand set out to take a "ride" before going to bed. Leblanc said he would go if he was permitted to pay for the gas. When the quartet stopped at a garage Leblanc tried to pass a cheque as payment for the gas. The garage owner did not accept it and Garand ended up by paying the $2 bill. The owner also insisted that Leblanc stay at his place as he was in no condition to know what he was doing. Thus Leblanc avoided an

If All Of Us Were Honest

If all of us were honest financially what would be some of the surface results?

The cost of the administration of justice would be cut to a tithe of its present amount; lawyers would be needed only for the adjustment of honest misunderstandings and cases involving the emotions. Police forces would be required to handle accidents, emotional outbursts, emergencies; their work would be a small part of what it is today.

Banks would be able to cash all cheques on presentation without a word of questioning. There would be no need for credit agencies. Government tax-collecting would be greatly simplified; collection staffs only a skeleton of what they are. Doctors would be able to cut their fees.

The cost of living would be reduced. Life would be far simpler and far more enjoyable.

Insufficiency and greed, the parents of dishonesty, have been with us for a long time. But as social conditions are improving, as true understanding is growing, they are gradually becoming less and less.

Whether a person is honest or dishonest, financially, depends largely upon his background and his degree of need. There are an increasing number who would not steal a million if they could "get away with it" and the fact never became known.

Most of these persons would not steal a million because of the realization that it would confer no solid or durable advantage; because of the knowledge that they would lose more in the long-run than they would gain. Some few have the moral sense developed so highly that they would not take it even if they thought it would confer durable advantages.

Social progress will do away with insufficiency. Education will temper greed. The time will come when our descendants will marvel that men and women stole from one another as we marvel at some of the glaring unfairnesses and cruelties of yesterday.

A Friend And New Pastures

The Alley sisters, Pamela and Betty, blonde twins who came to Canada from Edinburgh in May, are of the kind who don't need to go to New Zealand where there is a shortage of marriageable women between the ages of twenty and thirty-five. One good friend in Canada proved just as good as a trip to the Antipodes.

The girls, in the British forces during the war, first came to Hamilton, Ontario, to live with an aunt. Then they went on to Victoria, B.C., on the invitation of Mrs. Douglas Gent, Scottish war bride who was in uniform with them.

It says something for Mrs. Gent as hostess and friend that both the twins are now married, five weeks and a few days after their arrival in Victoria. Almost needless to say, they met their present husbands under the Gent aegis.

Canadian girls may consider themselves fast workers but it is evident that a little Scottish team work can turn up speedy results. Not that this needed proving; many a Canadian soldier who crossed the Tweed for a holiday during the war found there had also been a crossing of the Rubicon.

The Alley experience brings the thought once more that there's nothing like a good friend and new pastures for a girl who hasn't given up hope but finds the foraging in the old pastures thin.

New Era Ahead In Health

There were a few hours in England within the last few days when traffic disappeared strangely from section after section of a road stretch of 180 miles. Children huddled in cars on side roads; other children wondered why they were not allowed out to play. It was as though the Black Death had suddenly appeared.

It was not the Black Death but a forerunner of what may be a new life — a new life which many of those children may live to see.

Radioactive chlorine was being rushed from Britain's atomic pile at Harwell to help in the diagnosis of the case of a woman patient in a hospital at Leeds. The race against time came about because the effective strength of such chlorine is halved every 27 minutes; hence it had been needed twenty times stronger than needed at the time of its employment.

The automobile used had been constructed specially to protect the driver and those it passed from the effects of radiation. Police, speeding ahead, warned traffic off the roads.

Here is afforded a tiny preview of the benefits which may accrue to medicine and its beneficiaries, the public, when the atomic age gets into its peace-time stride. The war potential of nuclear research has been emphasized so often that the very thought of the atom's splitting has been invested with something of horror in the public mind. But history may record that this and other discoveries of the same period opened a new era in the health of mankind.

The unidentified patient, incidentally, may have benefitted from the use of Canadian uranium. This is a thought which puts a new complexion on the mining of No. 92.

No Holiday For Heartbreak

Reds Hold More U.S. GIs Captive

By FRED SPARKS

Tokyo—(NEA)—The Chinese Communists still keep several hundred American soldiers, sailors and aviators—captured during the Korean conflict—in primitive, Oriental prisons. They are estimated to number 526.

In the proven tradition of Marx, Malenkov and Mao, wardens are abusing the bodies of these young men — better to wash their brains.

From time to time in the future, Peiping again may slap the United States in the face (what little face we have left in Asia) and announce the "trial" of more servicemen for "spying" and their sentences: further rotting years behind bamboo bars.

These are the facts and calculated opinions of bitter officers in the United Nations, command who have followed, so far as humanly possible, every allied soldier captured in Korea.

The recent revelation that 11 fliers and two civilians were convicted of spying has established a pattern for tomorrow that will allow no holiday for heartbreak in countless American homes.

Having gone to captivity on routine military missions, with perhaps a capitalistic comic book in their jeans, the 11 airmen know as much about "spying" and "espionage" as Liberace.

This correspondent, who covered the Panmunjom truce talks and interviewed misty-eyed GIs released from Red compounds, wrote during "Operation Big Switch":

"As we move from military truce to political parley the ghosts of the missing Americans will tap, tap, tap on the shoulders of UN diplomats."

Eighteen months later they are still tapping.

The Command insists 2840 captured men—including 526 Americans—have never been properly accounted for by the Communists.

(General Mark Clark, former commander here, recently said the Reds are holding 1000 Yanks as "hostages," perhaps to get a seat for Red China in the UN.)

A competent team of personnel experts reached the 526 figure by these five methods:

(1) Collaborating statements by released GIs who said they saw buddies alive and well at the time of "Big Switch." If one soldier said: "I saw 'Joe Doe' in our camp," that's not sufficient; there must have been several witnesses.

(2) Letters written by missing men to families from POW camps.

(3) Photographs of missing men issued by Communist press agencies—usually showing the POWs, healthy chests exposed, enjoying the "delights" of their

What Other Papers Say

LOGIC IN WONDERLAND

(Christian Science Monitor)

Britons have long laughed at themselves for such expressions of their point of view as occurred long ago when a storm cut off all communication between the continent of Europe and the island off its coast called Britain. Of this situation a British headline stated, "The continent is isolated."

The attitude so eloquently voiced has usually been thought to be the Briton's attitude toward all peoples and things non-British. It has been regarded as just another facet of British "superiority" and insularity toward the rest of the world. But it is not to be explained so easily, as we are warned by the following quotation which the New Statesman and Nation has reprinted from a report of a British labor leader's statement:

"Mr. Tom Williamson, the general secretary of the National Union of General and Municipal Workers, denied the charge that trade-union leaders were out of touch with the rank and file, and said it was the rank and file which was out of touch with the leadership."

Apparently the British apply this sort of thinking to each other as well as to outsiders. This is a comfort. But it will leave most outsiders still awestruck by the unfathomable and unexplorable reaches of the British mind.

ADIEU TO THE FARTHING?

(Brandon Sun)

There has been talk of late that the British may soon abandon the farthing, that old and familiar coin. It would be listed as still another victim of inflation.

Logic is certainly on the side of abandonment. Valued at only 1/4 of a cent, it costs more to mint than it is worth. And what can you buy for 1/4 of a cent? We haven't the foggiest notion.

It hasn't always been that way. The farthing dates from the reign of Edward I. Back there in the 1200s it was a most respected piece of silver. In times when tallow came very high, it would even buy a precious candle. In Victorian England the farthing became the favorite gift of a doting relative, along with a smile, a pat and the charges: "Now run along and buy yourself a sweet."

Dickens, Shakespeare and Charles Lamb, among countless others, gave it a special place in our literature. And more than one stunned relative learned that some old curmudgeon had cut him off "without a farthing." Yes, they may some day drive the farthing from the marketplace, but it will take some real doing to drive it from fond memory.

METEOROLOGICAL MYSTERY

(Edmonton Journal)

A meteorologist notes that temperatures in the suburbs are often 15 degrees lower than those in the centre of town. Still unexplained is why bus stops are at least 25 degrees colder still.

residence like Boy Scouts on summer encampment.

(4) Red Radio broadcasts featuring identified voices of still missing men, often "commercial" (obtained under what pressure?) urging the Free World to run out and buy a party line.

(5) Missing men whom the Communists once admitted holding, now say they never heard of.

The last futile protest was made at a Panmunjom Armistice Commission meeting in late August by a UN spokesman who said: "We present to you a list of UNC personnel who were held by your side preceding the end of hostilities, who were not returned to our side. . . (the 2840 — 526 Americans, 2264 ROKs, 50 others.)"

The commie spokesman, addressing the allied officers as it were at a Red Square rally, shrieked: "This openly fabricated roster. . . an attempt to slander our side. . . there are no captured personnel of your side for who our side has to do additional accounting. . ."

This lie was later nailed when the Reds advertised the "trail" of the 11 airmen. Perhaps in future "trails" they'll also deny anyone involved was seized as a simple soldier—but as a super-spy. A scabble game with human beings.

Allowing for occasional faulty identity in the confusion of prison—ship and for some deaths from disease, accident and treatment—it is conservatively assumed that many of the 526 are still alive, waiting to be used when it serves Peiping's fancy.

In order to grant mothers, wives and other kinfolk the small compensation of survivor benefit, the Defense Department now lists all but 24 of the 526 POWs as "presumed dead."

Once again the air-conditioned glass house on Manhattan's East River houses a UN debate on how to force Red China's hand. And the ghosts of the missing Americans tap, tap, tap on the shoulders of UN diplomats.

Car Buyers Want More Power Plus Fancy Gadgets

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

Detroit—(NEA)—Next year's automobile will probably have a body stamped out of pure chromium and be powered by a 500 horsepower engine.

"That's if we follow the trend in customer demand," complains a prominent auto executive.

This year's new models again reflect the steady post-war trend in auto design toward fancier style and more powerful engines. According to the car makers, these two items in new cars are what the American car buyers want most. And the industry is dedicated to satisfying the buyer.

Increasing horsepower is probably the greatest anomaly of the industry today. The story is that this year's Ford engine is the one planned for next year's model. But when Ford heard that Chevrolet was coming out with a major horsepower jump in its new eight-cylinder engine, it rushed the '56 engine into production for '55.

Then when Chrysler heard what Ford and Chevy were doing, it jumped ahead a couple of years in its plans and came up with an engine for the new Plymouth powerful enough to compete with Ford and Chevy claims.

"I don't know where this horsepower race is going to end but we aren't stopping now and have tremendous research going on to get even more power out of our engines," says Charles A. Chayne, vice-president in charge of engineering staff for General Motors.

He insists that increased horsepower gives more fuel economy and that it's needed to power the elaborate array of automatic equipment on today's cars.

Ford engineers insist that it provides greater safety by giving the driver extra bursts of speed in emergencies on the road.

Independent auto safety experts, however, report that several states are considering putting legal limits on the horsepower of engines because excess power encourages speeding and increases the accident rate. Other engineers claim that added horsepower is already past the point of giving more fuel economy.

But regardless of the horsepower debate Americans want more of it and that's what they're going to get.

Same for styling. "After looking at these fancy new cars this year with all those power steering and power brake gadgets, you'd think they had gone about as far as possible in perfecting cars," a lady announced at a recent party here attended by several auto executives.

"Wait till next year," one of them told her, "we've just started improving cars."

New features of upcoming models are the most carefully guarded commercial secrets that exist. But even with the new models just out, rumors are around about what's coming in 1956.

Six-way powered seats is one innovation scheduled for next year. They will go up and down, backwards and forwards, and tilt. No kidding.

More extensive installation of air-conditioning in lower-priced cars is another thing due next year. All of the equipment for the air-conditioning except the cooling unit itself will be built into many models. The unit will continue to be optional equipment, it is expected.

Next year could also be the time when automatic transmissions, power brakes, power steering and perhaps power windows are installed as standard equipment on all but the lowest-priced lines.

A recent study showed that on 1954 models close to 100 per cent of all car buyers wanted radios and heaters, 57 per cent bought automatic transmissions, 42 per cent got power brakes, 37 per cent ordered power steering and 13 per cent took power windows.

These figures will increase on the 1955 models, it is predicted on the basis of early sales reports.

A look at some of the new stuff on today's new cars also gives an indication of what to expect on more cars next year.

Lincoln's powered lubrication system which operates by push button is one. The system is a master cylinder in the engine compartment from which nylon tubing extends to each front end chassis bearing.

In line with achieving more horsepower, dual exhausts are going to be built into more cars.

Many experts are predicting that the other firms will follow Chrysler's lead in putting the automatic shift level on the dashboard. Chrysler's safety pad across the dashboard is also an item of great interest.

In the non-functional, strictly styling department, the car designers are reported thinking in terms of more startling color combinations, racier lines, more luxurious interiors — and more chromium.

Ford claims to have a new theory it will begin putting into practice next year, which could steal a march on the industry. That is putting innovations in the lower-priced volume production cars right off the bat, perhaps as standard equipment.

The industry's practice up until now has been to start out with such things as air-conditioning, for example, as optional equipment on the top-priced cars.

DEFENSE WILL STOP MANY GOOD HANDS

Today's hand was overbid, to be sure, but South made his contract without the slightest trouble. He would not have done so well against a thoughtful defense.

West opened the jack of diamonds, reflecting comfortably that his partner had bid the suit and that he was making the normal safe lead. South won with the ace of diamonds and ruffed a low diamond in the dummy. He next cashed the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, and led another diamond towards the dummy.

West couldn't afford to discard, for then South would make 11 tricks. West stepped up with the ace of hearts and returned a trump. This allowed East to take the king of trumps and lead another trump, getting the trumps out of the dummy.

South still had a losing diamond in his hand and eventually had to give that up in addition to the two trump tricks already lost. He shed no tears, however, about losing the tricks, since he knew that his contract could have been defeated.

West had heard the dummy bid clubs, spades and hearts. It should have been perfectly clear that dummy was very short in diamonds. A trump lead is the standard defense when dummy has a short suit and a limited number of trumps. Hence West should have opened the ace of trumps instead of leading the jack of diamonds.

Having made a good start, West would continue with his remaining trump. East would win with the king of hearts, and dummy would then have only one trump. South would be able to ruff one diamond in the

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: South West North East 1 Club Pass 1 Diamond Pass ?

You, South, hold: Spades Q-8-6-3, Hearts A-J-5, Diamond 4, Clubs A-K-9-3. What do you do?

A—Bid one spade. North won't raise unless he has four-card support, in which case the spades will make a satisfactory trump suit. If North fails to raise spades, you can look for another contract without fearing that you've left any stone unturned.

THREE STORIES

edy, in typical Russian dress, was the best received play of the evening. A convincing play, with a small cast of three, it was very well done from all angles. Putting on a Russian accent, which might have been hard to get across to the audience, the three players took all in their stride and presented a very convincing act.

The characters in their early 20th century dress, each did an equally good job of their roles. Ronald Knapp, as Ivan Vassiliyitch Lomov, and Pauline Steinberg, as Natalia Stepanovna Tschubukov, were the two about whom the play revolved. Their constant arguing which was well presented, showed signs of latent talent in these kids and the audience gave them the laughs and applause they deserved. Gordon Vatch, as the peace-maker father, Stepan Stepanovich Tschubukov, although he was not on the stage as long as the other two, also put on a very amusing performance.

The final play of the evening, The Ghost Story, was set with present day teen agers in a modern living room. A cast of nine players here added life to the act, with continual fast progress, keeping a quick pace throughout. This play was the best acted as far as the dialogue was concerned. No obvious mistakes were made in the lines, nor was there any evidence of prompting assistance. The best example of effective lighting was found in this last play, when a good part of the scene was played with most of the lights out, to give the eerie effect of the 'ghost story'.

Bob Hill, as George, put in a very good performance. He suited the part to a T, and showed no strain at all of the many lines he had to speak during the act. Sally Billing, as his charming leading lady, Anna, also presented very convincingly the typically over-popular teen-aged girl.

The rest of the cast, who had not many lines to repeat, but contributed much to the lively action of the play, were also well-chosen. Seymour Steinman, as Lynn and Tony Amery, as Floyd, provided much mirth for the audience, when in their despair of finding something to do to entertain the group, put on a little skit of dancing across the stage.

The rest of the cast, and the roles which they played were: Ann Goode, as Mary, Doreen Hodge, as Grace, Cynthia Wells, as Lennie, Andrew Ellwood, as Fred, and Terry Murphy as Tom.

Nowhere during the evening did any of the actors seem to be a bit nervous, as might be expected of a first night performance. They seemed to be at complete ease and in control of themselves at all times. The stu-

Measure Approving Construction Of New Mental Hospital Passed By House

Quebec — The Legislative Assembly is scheduled to give its opinion today on a bill increasing from $55,000,000 to $65,000,000 the Quebec government's housing-aid fund set up in 1948.

Discussion of the measure began Thursday after the Assembly spent most of the afternoon arguing over a bill authorizing the government to borrow up to $20,000,000 for expropriating buildings or lands that could serve to establish administration, education and hospital centres.

Under the Quebec Housing Act prospective home builders borrow money from government-approved credit unions or companies at six per cent interest. The government pays half the interest, an average contribution of $1,983 per loan.

Mr. Duplessis said the provincial housing plans was considered the best kind because it encouraged individual initiative instead of placing the burden on the state. Discussion of the bill continues today.

Earlier the bill increasing the amount of money that may be borrowed by the government for expropriation or construction was approved by a vote against the bill on the grounds they could not get details from the government on what it intended to do with the money. They described the bill as a manoeuvre to get the Legislative Assembly to sign a "blank cheque" for the provincial cabinet.

Mr. Duplessis restated his government plans to establish mental hospitals, two in Montreal and another at Sherbrooke. Another mental hospital was also planned but he did not say where it would be built. Total cost of the program would be $40,000,000. He said the government would try to find suitable properties which could be converted into mental hospitals or buy lots and build them. Each hospital would have 1,500 beds.

Mr. Duplessis said Liberal demands for specific details could not be met because it was not good business practice to advertise abroad what the government intended to buy. This would only cause the price of suitable properties to rise.

The government was also looking for properties for other purposes. Already, under the former act, the government had bought the old St. Justine Hospital in Montreal for $3,000,000. It would eventually house government administrative services. The old Jeffery Hale's Hospital building in Quebec would also be purchased at a cost of $750,000.

Tomatoes Record Sharp Advance On Local Market

Local grown tomatoes are getting scarcer as winter sets in or so it seems with the marked jump of five cents a pound they took at the Lansdowne Market this morning.

There was a slight drop in the price of fowl in preparation for next week's jump when people start ordering Christmas turkeys. No definite price has yet been announced for turkeys but butchers at the market expected that they would be selling for between 58 and 62 cents a pound for birds under 18 pounds, and 50 to 52 cents for bigger turkeys.

Fruit prices remained about the same as last week with a slight rise in the price of bananas from 15 to 16 cents.

Detailed prices are as follows:

movement fostered by Sydney businessman Larry Snell. Snell argued at one point that since Ontario appeared to be boycotting Cape Breton coal, Cape Breton should refuse to buy any Ontario automobiles. The idea caught on so widely that one big car manufacturer despatched a representative to the island to buy four carloads of Cape Breton coal.

The cars were hitched to a train headed west and travelled all the way to Ontario with signs emblazoned on the sides proclaiming: "This is Cape Breton coal."

The Snell plan took several other forms before it finally petered out. But it seemed to work in every application.

OBITUARIES

MR. ALAN S. PERKINS, OF FARNAM'S CORNER.

Farnam's Corner, Dec. 10. — This community was deeply saddened by the sudden passing of Alan S. Perkins at the hospital in Sweetsbury, on Tuesday, November 16 at the early age of 24 years.

Mr. Perkins was born at Farnam's Corner, where his happy and cheerful disposition endeared him to all. He attended school at Farnam's Corner and Sutton and was a steward of the United Church at the time of his death.

He was keenly interested in all sports and had been a valuable member of the Sutton Baseball Club.

On September 11, 1951, he was united in marriage to Olive Jewett, of Vale Perkins. One son, Hugh, was born to them.

The funeral service was held in the Farnam's Corner United Church on November 18 with Rev. Gerald Fee officiating, assisted by Rev. Edward White. Two hymns, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," were sung by the choir.

The many beautiful floral offerings were silent tokens of the regret and love he had won during his lifetime.

The bearers were Messrs. Ralph Perkins, Robert Childerhouse, Junior Harvey, Ethan Perkins, Keith Russell and Howard Jewett.

Those left to mourn his loss are his wife, Olive, and little son, Hugh; his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Perkins; two brothers, Douglas and Clare; a sister-in-law, Tacy, and a nephew, Donald, all of Farnam's Corner; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hooper, of Fordyce, and many relatives and friends.

Relatives and friends attending the funeral besides the immediate family were from Lefroy, Ont., Spencerville, Ont., Montgomery, Vt., Sutton, Cowansville, Mansonville, Waterloo, Dunham, Abbotsford and Sawyerville.

Bedford, Dec. 10.—Mrs. Edward Demers, aged 70 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Boucher, 31 Court street, Montpelier, Vt., on November 24, after an illness of several years.

A former resident of Bedford, where she was born on August 20, 1884, Mrs. Demers was the former Georgienne Boucher, daughter of the late Joseph Demers

You can't go ALL-OUT
If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.

Rev. Dr. E. H. Gray, of the United Church, officiated. Mr. Sweet was in his 86th year.

Mrs. Sweet, the former Miss Rosabella Johnston, predeceased her husband in 1921. MARRIAGES

TARRANT—MACCALDER

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 10. — A very pretty wedding took place recently in Halifax, N.S., when Miss Pearl Edna MacCaldar, daughter of the late Mr. MacCaldar and Mrs. N. A. MacCaldar, and Mr. James (Bud) Tarrant, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Tarrant, of Bury, Que., were united in marriage in St. John's Church, the Rev. R. W. Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. C. R. MacRae, the bride wore a strapless dress of satin and nylon net over which she wore a redingote of lace fashioned with a wing collar and long sleeves which came to points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of nylon net was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, lily-of-the-valley and white mums.

Miss Shirley Crowell, as bridesmaid, wore a dress of pale blue nylon net with lace bolero. Her tiara was of the same material trimmed with seed pearls and she wore matching mitts and carried a nosegay of yellow mums and blue ribbons.

Miss Elizabeth Blakey, niece of the bride, as her flower girl, wore a frock of gold taffeta with pale blue bandeau and she carried a nosegay of blue mums with yellow ribbons.

Mr. Walter Nickerson was best man and the ushers were Messrs. Everett Purcell and Reg Clarke.

The bride's mother wore a dress of amethyst blue with matching jacket, a white velours hat and a corsage of white carnations.

The reception was held at the home of the bride, Summit Street, where refreshments were served to about sixty guests. The bride's table was centered with the three-tier wedding cake, made by her sister, Mrs. Purcell.

For their wedding trip through the province, Mrs. Tarrant wore a pale blue suit with a pink blouse and hat, navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Previous to her marriage Mrs. Tarrant had been guest of honor at five showers.

Mr. and Mrs. Tarrant will reside in Halifax.

Build A Collapsible Doll's House

To buy or not to buy a doll house? That's the Christmas question when you have a daughter who is mothering her own family of little dolls.

Lack of space and lack of cash are two problems parents weigh against the obvious desire. Well, while we were weighing our decision, a bright friend of ours devised the answer: Collapsible rooms that can be folded flat when not in use.

What's more, creating the rooms is fascinating fun, and materials needed are mostly items you have around the house, so the cost is slight.

Two rooms, a living room and kitchen, that our clever friend made met with the charmed delight of our five-year-old and her little pals. Older girls, 10 to 12, immediately caught the method of manufacture and set to work on their own.

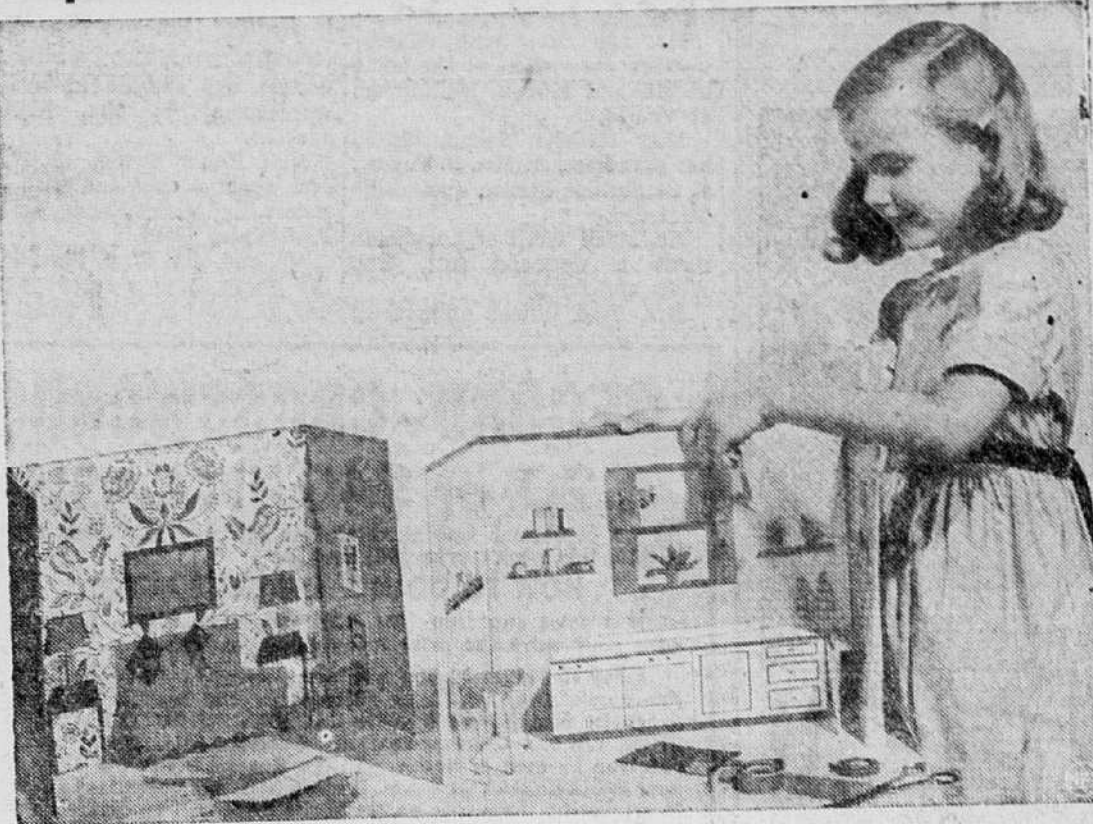

Here's the basic materials you need: Two sheets of stiff cardboard about 12 by 15 inches for each room, scraps of wallpaper, shelf paper, old magazines, colored construction paper, masking tape, transparent tape and colored gift wrap tapes.

Your ingenuity will suggest other trills—a bit of net ruffling for curtains or a tiny 10-cent-store Christmas tree to stand in the living room.

Use one sheet of cardboard for center wall of room. Cut second piece in half for side walls. Cover one side of each wall with paper of your choosing, wallpaper or shelf paper.

Secure the covering to the back of cardboard with strips of tape which, we find, makes a smoother "wall" than pasting paper to cardboard.

Place two side walls over center wall and attach together with a strip of masking tape along the outside edge to form a folder.

Besides providing dream quarters for a lucky doll, a doll house with collapsible rooms is fun to make, and easy on the budget, too.

We also covered the outside of the walls with red shelf paper and outlined doors and windows with green gift-wrap tape.

Inside windows can be draped with construction paper cut and pencil lined to ape real drapes and taped or pasted in place. Pictures cut from magazines may be "hung" on the wall and framed with narrow strips of tape. Or a small mirror from a handbag can also be secured on the wall in the very same way.

In the kitchen, shelves are simulated by taping a strip of blue rickrack to wall with red tape. Tiny pictures cut from food ads stock the shelves with familiar brands. Other colored pictures of utensils, plants, towels taped or pasted in position add realism.

Older girls enjoy designing and making three-dimensional fold-up paper furniture. But the younger ones, I find, prefer to furnish with blocks and dime-store plastic chairs, desks and so forth.

To make the folding furniture, draw the outline in proper perspective on paper. Kitchen cabinets, for example, are made three inches high, two inches deep. Lines are drawn across the outline at each measurement for making a straight fold. Allow an extra half inch at the top to make a tab for attaching piece to wall.

Before taping to wall, fold paper on the lines you've drawn. Drawers and stove outlines may be penciled in and outlined in color or, for a fancier effect, by narrow strips of colored tape.

FREE NATIONS vs. REDS—LINE-UP IN EUROPE — The inclusion of West Germany into NATO has given the free nations a huge lift. When fully armed she will be able to contribute 500,000 well-trained troops. But as far as manpower is concerned, the West is still far behind the Soviet Union and its satellites. Above Newsmag shows how nations line up and approximate military strength for each. Czechoslovakia and Austria don't have any standing army. Switzerland is neutral.

The concluding number was a march, "Blaze Away," by Holzman, played by the College band, which was under the direction of Professor S. Lynch.

SUCCESSFUL TEA AND SALE — The parish hall of Christ Church, Stanstead, was beautifully decorated with pine boughs and Christmas trim for a delightful social event of the season on Saturday afternoon, December 4, when the Guild entertained at the annual Christmas tea and sale. In one corner stood a stately fir tree, adorned with decorations.

The sales tables, home made food, beautiful handicrafts, aprons, home made candy and the handkerchief booth were attractively trimmed in keeping with the occasion and were well patronized.

The guests were received by Mrs. Albert Young. Afternoon tea was served at small tables, attractive with dainty cloths and centered with Christmas motifs, and at each place were poinsettia serviettes.

The doll was won by Mrs. Harry Bacon, who had chosen the correct name of "Beth." The lovely afghan, made by Mrs. Richard Middleton, of Stanstead, from wools donated by the Guild members, was won by Mrs. C. Lee Jenkins for guessing the nearest correct answer of 1500 beans in a jar.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Roy Wells, of Rock Island. Also at this time a number of persons attending were privileged to meet the new pastor of the church, Rev. A. Salt, recently of Portneuf.

The event was highly successful, both socially and financially, as to date the receipts amount to around $300.

Three Provincial Administrations May Call Elections During Summer

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Ottawa — None of Canada's governments must go before the electors until 1956, but voters in three provinces probably will be called on to vote during 1955.

Contests are in prospect in Conservatives have been in power 11 years and in Liberal-held Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island.

Four more are likely in 1956. Another four mandates including that of the federal Liberal administration run into 1958, but all of these governments are expected to call elections by 1957.

A Canadian Press survey shows too, that voters in eight provinces will have the chance to make a choice among some new politicians who have emerged as leaders since their last general elections.

Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island will persist in the last voting. Six other provinces will offer seven new positions group leaders two in Manitoba.

In the federal field, there are no present signs of new leaders before the next election. Prime Minister St. Laurent, who will be 73 on Feb. 1, said recently he has given no thought to retirement. Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, has been ill with meningitis but is expected to make a full recovery. CCF leader M. J. Coldwell and Social Credit leader Solon Low are in office for as long as they want.

Possibility is that Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario will be the first to go to the country. His term runs until November, 1956, but it is expected he will call an election next year, perhaps in June.

The contest will bring into the campaign a new CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald who has never been in the legislature. He took over a year ago as Ontario leader of the party holding two of the 90 seats in the House.

Farquhar Oliver, who led the Liberals in the 1948 election and later resigned as leader, will again head the party after returning to the job last year. The Liberals, official Opposition, hold six seats against 79 for the Progressive Conservatives.

At the moment, the chief election issue in sight is the highways situation involving charges of maladministration in the highways department. A select committee of the legislature has investigated the department. Its report is expected at the 1955 session.

In Prince Edward Island, an expected 1955 election will bring Hon. Alex. W. Matheson, 51, before the people for the first time as premier. He took over the Liberal government last year when Hon. J. Walter Jones since dead-went to the Senate.

The Liberal's term runs until April, 1956, but general opinion is that Premier Matheson will go to the polls next year. His group holds 24 of the 30 seats in the house with the others occupied by the Progressive Conservatives under R. R. Bell, 52-year-old Charlottetown lawyer.

In Newfoundland, Liberal Premier J. R. Koe Smallwood may bring on next year the newest province's third general election since it entered Confederation in 1949.

The colorful little premier with the bow-tie trademark is comfortably in office until late 1956 with 22 of the 28 legislature seats, but he has an inclination to go to the electors often.

Another reason for calling a 1955 election-perhaps in the fall-would be to get electoral endorsement of a multi-million-dollar fishery development program now under way. An issue that likely will be heard in the campaign is the recent scandal involving Dr. Alfred Valdmanis, the Smallwood-selected former economic czar of the island.

The administration will be opposed by Progressive Conservatives under Malcolm Hollett, who holds five seats, and by the CCF, which has one member. The CCF in November chose as leader Sam Drover of White Bay, who was elected as a Liberal but switched this year to the Socialist party.

For 1956, elections appear probable for Quebec, New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Quebec's Union Nationale premier, Maurice Duplessis, last appealed to the voters in 1952 and could stay in office until the summer of 1957 but is expected to follow the general Quebec precedent of a contest every four years.

The province's big political issue of the moment is that of federal-provincial relations, but this is not seen as a factor to bring on an election ahead of schedule. However, that outlook could conceivably be changed by the outcome of current fiscal discussion between Quebec and Ottawa.

The 64-year-old premier, whose 21 years at the head of his party make him the dean of Canadian political chiefs, has been in office for the last 10 years and also headed the provincial government between 1936-39. He holds 66 of the legislature's 92 seats against 22 for the Liberals under Georges Lapalme.

In New Brunswick, Premier Hugh John Flemming, 55, whose Progressive Conservatives ended 17 years of Liberal rule in 1952, will be opposed by a new Liberal leader.

Austin Taylor, 51, former agriculture minister, was chosen Liberal leader in October to succeed former premier J. B. McNair. The Liberals have 16 House seats, against 34 for the government.

Saskatchewan's CCF Premier T. C. (Tommy) Douglas could wait until 1957 for an election but is expected to call one the year before, following the four-year tradition.

Premier since 1944, the 49-year-old Baptist minister holds 42 legislature seats against 10 Liberals and one Progressive Conservative.

Liberals recently elected A. H. MacDonald, a farmer and air force veteran, to succeed Walter Tucker, who went to Parliament in 1953. The Progressive Conservatives are led by Alvin Hamilton, 42, who does not sit in the legislature.

In Alberta, Premier E. C. Manning longer in consecutive office than any now in power is expected to lead Social Credit in 1956 in his fourth campaign as head of the party. He became premier in 1943. Holding 51 seats, he is opposed by the Liberals with four, Progressive Conservatives with three and the CCF with two.

J. Harper Prowse, 41, is expected again to lead the Alberta Liberals, despite rumors last summer of a party faction opposing him. Conservative chief is J. Percy Page, 67, retired school principal and organizer of the famed Edmonton Grads women's basketball team. CCF leader is Elmer Roper, 61-year-old head of a printing firm.

It looks like 1957 for the remaining three provinces—British Columbia, Manitoba and Nova Scotia.

Eagles Edge Paper Makers 7-5 In Hard Fought Battle

Win Creates Two-Way Tie For First Place In Loop; Two Games On Tap Sunday; Asbestos Opens At Home

Unleashing a scoring barrage in the second period to net four goals the Brompton Eagles ensured themselves of a close 7-5 victory over the Windsor Paper Makers in a regular fixture of the Massawippi Valley Hockey League last night at the Arena.

The win moved the Eagles into a two-way tie for first position in Mac Wilson's circuit with Sherbrooke. The local team holds a game in hand over the Brompton squad who have played three games to two played by Roger Roberge's outfit.

On Sunday afternoon two games are on tap in the loop with Sherbrooke making their first outing since ten days when they tallied with Windsor while the Meteors of Asbestos will be at home to Brompton. Both fixtures are afternoon affairs.

Gaudet got the jump on Lapierre when he tallied on the first rush to catch the Paper Makers' net minder off guard. The visitors came right back and evened the count but just before the end of the frame Jutras tallied on a solo rush to put the Eagles ahead.

In the middle session the teams swung into high gear and a total of seven goals were registered. Brompton moved ahead when G. Leblanc nad R. St. Cyr tallied for a 4-1 lead, however the Paper Makers kept fighting and within a space of four minutes had registered three goals to even the count.

Following this the Longpre squad seemed to drop into a lapse and within thirty-three seconds the Eagles were out in front 6-4 on two quick goals. In the final session each club divided a goal although both sides had plenty of good scoring opportunities but they failed to capitalize on them.

Windsor: Lapierre, Bachand, Abram, Couture, Juneau, Co-

Paulkner, Connie Broden, Fern Perreault and Ted Hodgson each contributed a goal and an assist. Steve Kachur had a goal and Gerry Desaulniers assisted on three.

At Quebec, Marius Groulx scored the winning goal late in the second period from a goal-mouth scramble. Before that the teams had alternated scoring with a goal each in the first period and two more in the second.

Ludger Tremblay, Jim Hay and Camille Henry each got one for Aces. It was Henry's first goal since coming from New York Rangers of the National Hockey League. Lou Smrke scored twice for the fourth-place Saguenéens and Norm Dussault netted the other.

Bill McGowan, Dean Of Umpires, Dies After Second Heart Attack; One Of Baseball's Outstanding Umps

Washington. — (AP) — Bill McGowan, the most durable umpire in major league history, died Thursday after suffering his second heart attack in less than a week. He was 58.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, saluted McGowan as "one of the all-time greats of his profession."

Clark Griffith, 85-year-old owner of Washington Senators, went a step further. He called McGowan "the greatest baseball umpire I've ever seen." Griffith recommended McGowan as a referee back in 1925.

Peppery little McGowan retired earlier this year after illness cut

Hoad, Rosewall Interested In Possible Pro Offer

Melbourne. — (AP) — Australian tennis "twins" Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall said Thursday night they were interested in a suggestion they should play professional tennis under the banner of American promoter Jack Kramer.

Kramer, who spirited away Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor after they had won the Davis Cup for Australia, is after new blood. He is on his way to Australia and appears certain to seek the services of Hoad and Rosewall, and Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas of the United States.

In Sydney, Hoad's father said his chunky, red-haired son would not turn professional for less than $67,500.

Seixas and Trabert, in Brisbane for the inter-zone matches with Sweden, said they had not been approached by Kramer but professed they were not ready to go into the money ranks.

Boros Leading Miami Open

Miami, Fla. — (AP) — Julius Boros, a husky young man who has better luck with golf clubs than shotguns and fishing gear, led a field of 161 into today's second round of the Miami open golf tournament.

The 35-year-old professional from Mid Pines, N.C., paced Thursday's opening round with a 4-under-par 66, one stroke under favorite Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N.Y., and Joe Brown of West Des Moines, Iowa.

The premature discharge of a shotgun last week caused a nasty cut at the base of Boros' right thumb, but Boros didn't seem hampered by the bad hand — or by the right leg he broke in July when he fell over some tree roots while fishing.

Langlois Asks For French Referee

San Francisco — (AP) — A spokesman for middleweight champion Bobo Olson said Thursday he does not believe it will be possible to grant a request made on behalf of Pierre Langlois for a French-Canadian referee when the two fighters meet here for a title bout next Wednesday night.

George Kanter, the American representative of the French fighter had airmailed a complaint about the officiating arrangements to Robert Christenberry, chairman of the World Boxing Federation and the New York athletic commission.

The letter complained that the San Francisco boxing commission would not budge from its stand against bringing in outside officials.

Dr. Roger Bannister, First Human To Run Four-Minute Mile, Announces Retirement From Active Competition

London. — (AP) — Dr. Roger Bannister, the first man to run the mile in less than four minutes, Thursday night announced his retirement from international competition.

In a quiet voice, the tall and lean physician made official a retirement that had been expected for several months.

Dr. Bannister, 25, made the announcement while attending a dinner at a London press club. His audience was the assembly at the annual Christmas meeting of the British Sports Writers Association.

The young physician, wearing a blue suit and obviously carrying something important on his mind, rose to speak as the first of six "honored" guests of the writers. With hardly any overture he said: "I have to refer to something which contains a very sad note; namely that I shall now be compelled to give up international athletics."

Last Race
Dr. Bannister's last race was his 1,500-metre-victory in Bern, Switzerland, Aug. 29 in the European games. Before he took the track that day he said his running schedule would be curtailed drastically. There was conjecture at the time that he would run no more.

Thursday night, Dr. Bannister recalled his Bern race: "Since the European games it has become increasingly difficult for me to train, and now that I am taking up a resident hospital appointment, I am afraid it will be impossible to combine competitive athletics with my work as I have tried to do in the past."

"I feel sure that everyone will understand that I could get little satisfaction now from a second-rate performance, and it would be wrong to produce second-rate performances when representing my country."

The fair-haired athlete indicated definitely that he has no plans whatever to run anywhere—in England or abroad. Any chances that he would go back into training and meet Australia's John Landy in the Olympic games at Melbourne in 1956 appeared now to be completely out of the question.

Memorable Moment
Last May, Dr. Bannister gave track and field one of its memorable moments — and possibly the sporting world its greatest moment of 1954—when he ran a mile in 3:59.4. For a decade before that run Sweden's Gunder Haegg's mark of 4:01.4 had stood unchallenged.

The historic Bannister race was run on Oxford's Iffley road track. It was a race against a clock instead of a race against another runner. Two friends of Bannister's acted as his paces.

Let another mile race which the shy, intellectual-type athlete stamped him as history's greatest competitive mile runner. During the British Empire Games at Vancouver in July, Bannister and Landy met for the first time.

Race of Century
Landy previously had broken Bannister's mile mark with history's second sub-four minute run. Landy's time was 3:58.0.

At Vancouver Landy took the lead and held it until there was less than half a lap to go. Then the flying Englishman turned on his famed "finishing kick." He shot past Landy on the outside and won the "mile of the century" going away in 3:58.8.

Landy's time was 3:59.6.

Vic Obeck Reported As New Manager Of Alouettes As Lew Hayman Turns Down Contract After Eight Years

Montreal. — (AP) — The Gazette says today that Vic Obeck, director of Athletics at McGill University, is reported to have been named as general manager of the Montreal Alouettes.

The report follows the resignation Thursday of Lew Hayman as managing director of the club.

"While neither Obeck nor the new owners of the Montreal Big Four club could be reached for comment early this morning, a source close to the Alouettes said that Vic has definitely accepted the job," The Gazette says.

WANTED FULL CONTROL

Hayman, one of the leading figures in Canadian football since coming to this country from Syracuse University in 1932, announced his resignation after a meeting with Ted Workman, who earlier this week joined veteran sportsman Leo Dandurand in buying control of the team.

"I would continue only if I could have the same authority and responsibility I have had since I helped to give birth to the club in 1946," Hayman said. "Mr. Workman wants to become an active part of the organization and curtail my responsibility and authority."

Both Workman and Dandurand expressed regret that Hayman had turned down a new contract.

Schmeling Denies Fight Fix Story

New York. — (AP) — Max Schmeling, one-time world heavyweight boxing champion, Thursday night called ridiculous a magazine story that he had won a fixed fight from Harry Thomas in New York Dec. 14, 1937.

The charge was made in Sports Illustrated by Thomas, who also said that James D. Norris, Jr., now president of the International Boxing Club, and Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's American manager, had conspired to fix the fight. Thomas listed Norris as his silent manager. His manager of record was Nate Lewis. Both Lewis and Jacobs now are dead.

Schmeling, speaking from his mink farm near Hamburg, Germany, said Thomas' charges were ridiculous and "illogical."

Norris, who termed the story "untrue, libelous and absurd," said he had turned the case over to his lawyers.

Leaky Valve Cause Of Postponement

Fredericton. — (AP) — A scheduled Atlantic Coast Senior Hockey League game here Thursday night was called off after a glass gauge of the freezing plant system exploded and ammonia fumes spread through York arena. The game between Amherst Ramblers and Fredericton Capitals was postponed to Saturday night.

Bev Bawn, the rink's assistant manager, suffered minor facial cuts and burns when the gauge exploded. His condition in hospital was reported not serious.

The teams had been on the ice only two minutes and three seconds, playing cautiously without scoring. When the accident occurred, it was attributed to a leaking valve.

As the fumes spread, the approximately 1,200 fans were asked to leave in orderly fashion and the building was evacuated. Later they returned but as the fumes remained strong it was decided to call off the game and "rain checks" were issued for the postponed contest.

Mask-wearing firemen shut off the leaking valve.

Andrews-Martinez Fight Tonight

New York. — (AP) — Al Andrews fanned the 2-1 odds favored Vince Martinez and predicted he would break the welterweight contender's victory streak in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The two meet over the 10-round route starting at 10 p.m. EST. The bout will be broadcast and telecast coast to coast.

"His style is more for me," said the 23-year-old Andrews. Martinez' long-range style of fighting has carried him to 12 straight victories, a 39-3 record, and a No. 5 ranking. He has no ranking — and not much skill — for fighting. Andrews, a fast puncher, intends to close in and wing away.

Sugar Jim Henry Returns To Lineup As Bruins Edge Hawks 2-1; Canucks Blank Leafs 2-0 As Wings Win 3-2

Sugar Jim Henry, shaken out of the National Hockey League by jumpy nerves, came back to Boston Bruins Thursday night. The 11-game rest was a success.

Henry and the Bruins stumped Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 in Boston to take over sole possession of fourth place in the league race.

Henry was steady as the Bruins grabbed their ninth victory in 25 starts. He got plenty of support from the unpredictable Bruins forward and allowed only Nick Mickoski to beat him, in the last period.

Canadiens Blank Leafs
In two other games Thursday night, the league-leading Montreal Canadiens, vengeful after a 3-1 licking at Toronto Wednesday, hung a 2-0 shutout on Maple Leafs before 14,013 delighted fans at Montreal Forum, and the third-place Red Wings edged New York Rangers 3-2 at Detroit.

Henry, 34-year-old native of Winnipeg, made several fine stops to turn back the last-place Hawks. Quick second-period goals by Cal Gardner and Doug Mohns gave him the victory. Mickoski's goal prevented him from gaining his first shutout of the season.

It was the Hawks' 17th defeat. They have only four victories and five deadlocks this year. Bruins started the game with only three centres. Team captain Milt Schmidt and Fleming Mackell were on the sideline with injuries. They lost centre Gus Bodnar in the first period when he pulled a leg muscle. Defenceman Hal Laycoe finished up as a pivot man.

Leclair Cut By Skate
Leftwinger Dickie Moore and rightwinger Floyd Curry fired the only goals in the hard-hitting Toronto-Montreal engagement. Canadiens moved into a four-point lead over the second-place Leafs but they picked up an injury.

Moore, 23-year-old 170-pounder plagued with injuries during his brief NHL career, was nursing a pulled shoulder muscle when he snapped a backhand past Toronto netminder Harry Lumley at 6:37 of the first period. Curry made it 2-0 at 13:36 of the second.

It was a big night for Charlie Hodge in the Montreal cage. He stopped 26 Leaf drives for his first shutout since he took over for the injured Jacques Plante 12 games ago.

Lumley handled 32 shots as Canadiens waltzed to their 17th victory in 29 starts.

Wings Win It Late
Leftwinger Ted Lindsay broke up the game at Detroit before 8,395 fans when he whipped the puck behind New York's Gump Worsley at 18:10 of the first period. It gave the Red Wings their 15th win in 26 games and moved them to within three points of Leafs.

Marty Pavelich and Alex Delvecchio scored the other Detroit goals.

Danny Lewicki and Wally Hergesheimer scored the Rangers goals. The Blue shirts slipped back to fifth place, two points behind Boston.

No games are scheduled tonight but all six teams have it hot and heavy during the weekend. It's Chicago at Toronto, Boston at Montreal and New York at Detroit Saturday night. On Sunday, Leafs visit New York. Red Wings go to Chicago and Canadiens meet the Bruins at Boston.

Lebaron Signs With Washington

Washington. — (AP) — Eddie Lebaron, one of the slickest T-formation ball handlers in the business, jumped back to Washington Redskins Thursday after a season of playing in Canada.

"I feel fine about coming back," the 24-year-old Lebaron said after signing his 1955 contract in the office of clubowner George Preston Marshall. "I feel sure I can help the Redskins."

Lebaron quarterbacked Calgary Stampede of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, whose brand of football, he said, isn't as "tough or rough" as the U.S. style.

Leclair Has Neck Arteries Severed

Montreal. — (CP) — Rookie Jackie Leclair of Montreal Canadiens suffered two severed arteries in the throat Thursday night when cut by Toronto defenceman Larry Cahan's skate in the first period of a National Hockey League game at the Forum.

Hospital officials said Leclair will be kept there at least two weeks.

The rookie centre was bleeding freely as he left the ice. The referee ruled the injury accidental and no penalty was called.

New York — Isaac Logart, 145, Havana, stopped Calvin Davis, 146½, New York, 2.

One Minute Views of JOHNS-MANVILLE

Push-Button Warrior

THE PUSH of a button can send this mighty USAF B-61 Martin Matador with deadly accuracy to any target within significant tactical range in defense of our country.

Designed for one shot, this surface-to-surface guided missile, which travels through space at close to the speed of sound, must be engineered for 100 percent reliability during its short life. Control of high temperature is a special problem in its operation. This is where Johns-Manville people enter the picture.

Special low-cost custom-built Thermoflex® blankets have been developed by J-M to protect the delicate electronic equipment and structural parts of the Matador against turbojet engine heats up to 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit.

Now, the aviation industry is aiming to develop a 3,000-mile-an-hour guided missile. Johns-Manville is constantly called upon to solve these increasingly complex insulation problems of supersonic flight. The J-M team—research scientists, engineers, production workers and salesmen—will continue to combine their talents in helping aviation reach this goal.

Such accomplishment is possible only when the men and women of a company—Johns-Manville or any other—cooperate to turn out a good product at reasonable cost for a fair profit.
