VOL. XII, No. 37 WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1941 PRICE:—TWO CENTS

WESTMOUNT TO SUPPORT FEDERAL REQUEST FOR ALL AVAILABLE PAPER

City Sets Mark of 12,000 Lbs.—This Amount Pledged For National Effort—Demands Throughout The Dominion For Waste Paper—Urgent War Commodity That Has to Be Harvested And Placed in Productive Channels

In response to a letter from Mr. William Knightly, Supervisor of the National Salvage Campaign, the Westmount civic authorities have pledged this week to the salvage of waste paper, and the objective set is for 12,000 lbs.

The call for waste paper is an urgent one, and facts can be gleaned from 1939, when Canada found it necessary to import a third of her requirements.

The needs of industry have greatly increased since then, and this valuable commodity has got to be conserved at all costs, if not, Canadian Foreign Exchange will have to be expended to meet this emergency.

It should not be hard to collect this product, for in every Canadian home, waste paper by the ton is used up monthly. Burnt, thrown out, or left lying around to accumulate at random, this is the paper that is in such great demand today. This paper has got to be collected and placed in the right channels, for so much depends upon it.

Food containers, shell cases, rifle cases, are but a few of the items for Canadian war needs, and to make these very important requisites, paper is the dominant factor in their production. It is most encouraging to know that the schools are offering their fullest cooperation in this matter, and all pupils are joining in the hunt.

If the youngsters can offer this example, there is not a doubt that parents can encourage and aid them in their efforts.

The call for waste paper is a Federal request, and one that will be given the greatest support in Westmount. When city residents have stored all their old magazines, news papers, cardboard cartons, wrappings, etc., in a place that is easily accessible, just call the city hall and ask for "salvage service" and your waste will be immediately taken care of.

CADETS EXPAND, SCHOOLS HELP CORPS DEVELOP

Intensive Training Under Wartime Conditions — Fast Becoming Machine Experts—Practice From Aerial Turrets

With the opening of the schools the Air Cadets should make rapid progress.

For boys wishing to enlist, this is the time, and registration can be put into effect at any Y.M.C.A.

It is to be remembered that it requires a group of fifty boys to form a unit, and as soon as this number of boys are enrolled at any one point, the Air Force Veterans Association is prepared to send a number out to assist in the forming of a proper organization that will function under Air Cadet League regulations.

The summer flight of No. 1 Westmount Squadron have completed their 24th parade to the Wireless School on Queen Mary road. At the school, they have taken a course in armament, under the direction of the Armament Section of the R.C.A.F.

They have become very proficient with the Browning machine gun, and this speaks well for the interest and enthusiasm shown by these pupils.

Two weeks ago they were fortunate enough to have access to the Fraser Nash Gun Turrets, which provide all the thrills of actual machine gun firing from the air.

It is hoped that hundreds of boys will register in the course of the next two weeks, and take advantage of the splendid training offered them.

'MET' OPERA TO PERFORM IN MONTREAL

Famous Group To Appear At Saint-Denis Theatre — Wilfrid Pelletier Is Musical Director—Many Great Singers With Company

With a short but brilliant opera season scheduled to open at the Saint-Denis Theatre, Sept. 26th to 30th, Westmounters will have the opportunity to see and hear the greatest singers in the world.

This is an unusual event, and one that will find a ready response in this community.

Opera has always been presented by those perennial favorites, the San Carlo Co., but for this occasion a complete Metropolitan cast will "tread the boards" and the musical director will be none other than the noted maestro, Wilfrid Pelletier.

Seven masterpieces of the operatic repertoire will be sung, and these include, "Aida," "Mignon," "La Boheme," "Faust," "Manon," "Butterfly," and "Carmen."

Singers include the grand Italian tenor, Giovanni Martinelli, one of the truly "Greats" of the Metropolitan Opera company, the magnificent Richard Crooks, (the dashing Des Grieux of Manon), and the sensational French-Canadian tenor, Raoul Jobin, rated as the "find" of a decade.

These are but a few of the male artists that will appear, and the female roster includes the scintillating voices of Helen Jepson, Rose Hampton, Anna Kaskas, Jean Dickenson, and Marcelle Denya.

With such a galaxy of "stars" to render world famous arias, Westmount opera devotees will enjoy their favorites in a perfect Metropolitan atmosphere.

PREPARE PLAN FOR FALL 'HOP'

Last Monday evening the Westmount Hi-Y Grads held their first meeting of the season, and plans for the Opening Fall Informal were discussed and settled. There was a much larger turnout of the old members than was expected, and the club anticipates a very exceptional season.

At the next meeting to be held on Monday, Sept. 15, a vice-president will be elected, since that office was vacated when Marc Hanington joined up in the army. The Executive will hold a meeting before then, and some definite plans for the season will be presented to the club next Monday. Among the special events planned during the whole year are: Halloween Party, Fathers' Night, Sleigh Drive, Girls' Grads Night, as well as several others which have not been definitely settled as yet.

At the present, however, the important thing to us is the success of the Fall Informal, and the major part of the next few meetings will be spent in its planning and promotion.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID LATE MRS. J. WATSON

One of City's Oldest Residents Laid to Rest — Sadly Missed By All Who Knew Her

Services for the late Mrs. John Watson took place Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 p.m., at the D. A. Collins funeral home, 5610 Sherbrooke street west.

Dr. T. W. Jones of Calvary Church officiated at the last rites, and interment took place at Mount Royal cemetery.

Mrs. Jones was a resident of Westmount for over half a century, and was the wife of the late John Watson, one of the most prominent business men in the city, who established the John Watson Company, Plumbing and Heating Contractors. This business was first brought into being in the year 1888, and is now located at 1359 Greene avenue.

The late Mrs. Watson was an ardent war worker, and up to the time of her death, was actively engaged in knitting for overseas troops, and in the first World War, took a very prominent part in war services.

The chief mourners were, Miss Gladys Watson, Mrs. Herbert A. Parsons, both daughters of the deceased, Mr. Herbert A. Parsons, son-in-law, and her son, Mr. Charles Watson, and Mrs. Charles Watson, daughter-in-law.

One of the two grand-daughters was present at the funeral, Miss Edna Watson, but owing to ill health, Miss Ruth Parsons was unable to attend.

NEWS VENDER HAS TOUGH ARMY CAREER

Veteran of the Sea — Wounded Veteran of the Last War — Grumbles Because He Can't Make 'Grade' for This One

"I kin fight, but they won't let me," was the complaint of grizzled, weather beaten old Levi Rogers as he sucked discontentedly at a cigarette this writer had given him. The locale was the corner of Victoria and Sherbrooke and the little fellow was hunched on his stool at the news stand where he earns a meagre living.

This statement seems rather ironic as a closer investigation revealed that this elderly gentleman has led a most hectic life. He was born at St. John's, Newfoundland, 56 years ago, and at the tender age of 17 shipped in a windjammer to the devil knows where, and these were the days when sailing the seven seas demanded a little of what it "takes."

From a deck hand our hero graduated to be the ship's cook, and in that capacity sailed out of New York on one of the first steamers.

The sea-hawk was getting a bit fed up with a rover's life and decided that "life on the ocean wave" was no more for him. Mr. Rogers settled in Montreal to pursue a peaceful life, this was in 1912, but two years later he was in the uniform of the 24th battalion of the R.M.R.

April 1915 found Levi Rogers in France, where he was wounded at the battle of Festubert and gassed at Ypres.

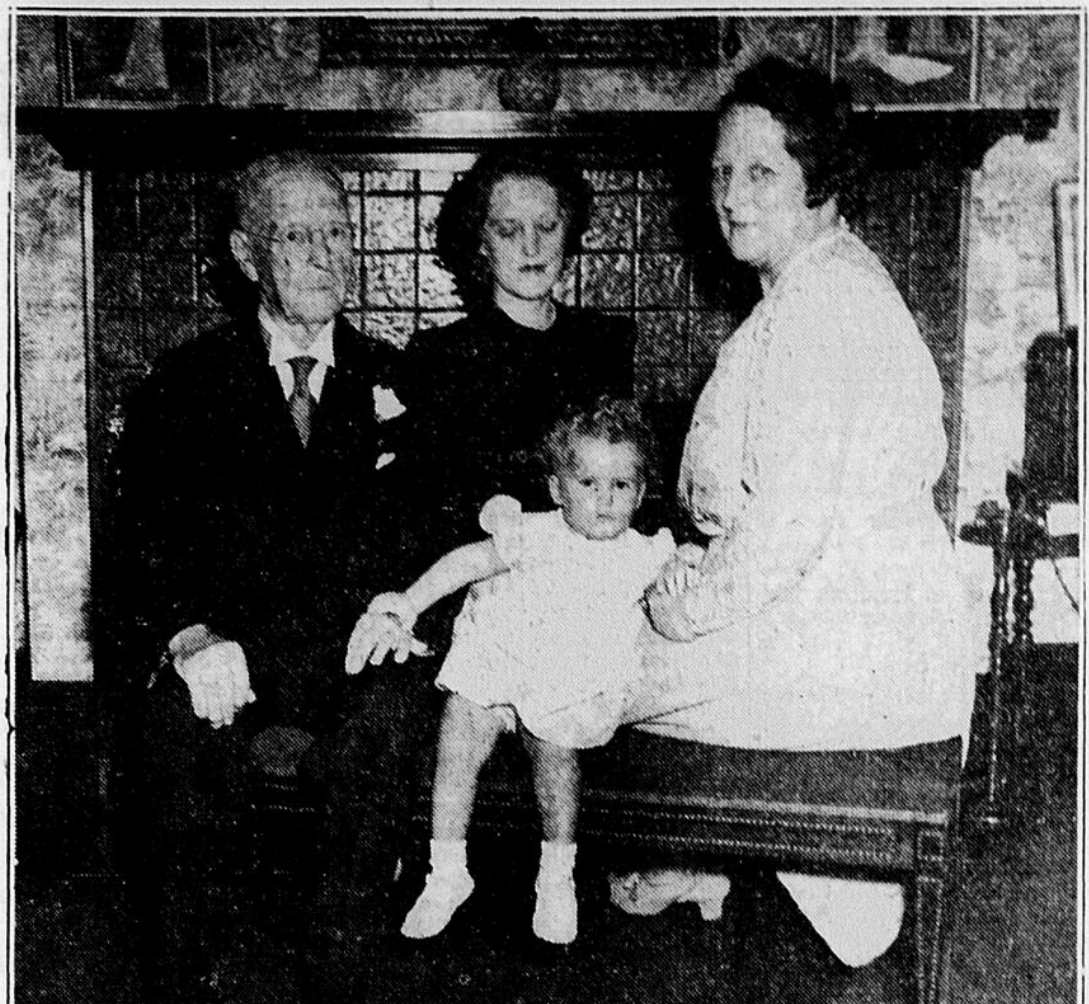

In hospital at Le Havre during the time of King George V visit, he was invalided home a few months before the armistice and has been pottering around ever since.

But at the outbreak of this war, the old warrior figured he was as good as ever and promptly took himself down to a recruiting depot to enlist.

It took a long time for the authorities to persuade him that he was not "quite" as good as he used to be, and today, although somewhat dejectedly, he admits, that "maybe" they know better than him.

Small wonder that there "will always be an England," with men like Levi Rogers around.

FORMER BELL PRESIDENT LEWIS B. MCFARLANE PAID GREAT TRIBUTE

"Grand Old Gentleman" Honored On Occasion Of 90th Birthday—Congratulations Pour In From All Over Dominion—Presented With Book Of Remembrance—Life Story "Eclipses" All Fiction

A charming reception was held on Monday at the McFarlane home, 400 Mount Pleasant, in honor of Mr. L. B. McFarlane, who was celebrating his 90th birthday. Between four o'clock in the afternoon and seven o'clock in the evening a steady stream of visitors arrived to pay homage to "the grand old gentleman."

A large number of those who called on the former president and chairman of the board of directors of The Bell Telephone Company of Canada were former fellow-workers with Mr. McFarlane in the telephone industry. Saturday this week will mark the 76th anniversary of September 13, 1865 when Mr. McFarlane began his communications career in Montreal.

C. F. Sise, president of the Bell Company, presented the dean of Canadian Telephone Pioneers with a book of remembrance, beautifully bound in blue Morocco, containing the signatures of hundreds of his former fellow-workers. Mr. McFarlane's signature is inscribed in gold on the cover of the book above the years 1861-1941. The book is lined with fine blue Morocco and the pages are hand made.

Prior to the reception a telephone hook-up was established extending from Halifax to Vancouver, to enable representatives of telephone workers throughout the Dominion to congratulate the beloved pioneer personally. At 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, R. W. Dickson, secretary, Trans-Canada Telephone System, in his office in the Beaver Hall Building, called Mr. McFarlane by telephone. After conveying the warm affection and congratulations of Mr. McFarlane's many telephone friends in Quebec and Ontario, Mr. Dickson introduced the various representatives of the Trans-Canada Telephone System who were on the line waiting to greet the dean of telephone pioneers.

J. H. Winfield, president Maritime Telephone & Telegraph Company, in Halifax, was the first to speak. He was followed in turn by H. P. Robinson, vice-president New Brunswick Telephone Company, in Saint John; J. D. Baker, deputy minister, Alberta Government Telephones, in Edmonton; W. J. Patterson, minister of telephones and W. H. Warren, deputy minister, Saskatchewan Department of Telephones, in Regina; J. E. Lowrey, commissioner, Manitoba Telephone System, in Winnipeg; Gordon Farrell, president, and James Hamilton, vice-president and general manager, British Columbia Telephone Company in Vancouver.

In 1939, when Mr. McFarlane resigned as chairman of the board of directors of the Bell Company and retired on pension, he had completed 53 years of service in the telephone industry.

Lewis Brown McFarlane's life story reads like a schoolboy success yarn. Born in Montreal on September 8, 1861, he rose from a messenger boy to become president of the Dominion's largest telephone company. Five days after his 14th birthday, young McFarlane became a telegraph messenger at a wage of one cent per message delivered. An introduction to W. J. Graham, then local manager of the old Montreal Telegraph Company, by Charles Sims, an old friend of the McFarlane family, secured the humble position for the young lad.

From messenger he became a clerk and then spent his spare time learning telegraph operating. Soon he was on the Canadian end of the Montreal-Ogdensburg wire, charged with the supervision of the operators on the line including one named Charles R. Hosmer who afterwards became General Manager of the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs and later a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway and of other great Canadian enterprises. For a time Mr. McFarlane saw service as a brass key pounder at l'Abord-A-Plouffe. His chief work was to maintain communication between the sawmills on the Ottawa River and the woods operations. Two of his successors as operators at l'Abord-A-Plouffe also became widely known, James Cochrane, one-time Mayor of Montreal, and William Henry Drummond, who later

WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1941

THE OLD LYALL PLANT

The demolition of the old Peter Lyall plant on Claremont avenue will revive memories among local residents who were here during the years of the last war. In that conflict Canada's principal contribution to the Allied cause was men and munitions, and the old Lyall plant went full blast, night and day, turning out shells. Many local boys, not old enough to join the army, worked under its blazing lights. Some of these lads went to school during the day, and after supper joined their elders for a few hours, working on a piece basis. They made big money; but they needed it, and their families needed it, for in the last war there was no Wartime Prices Board and sugar went as high as twenty-five cents a pound while a boy's suit cost thirty or more dollars. In spite of school and their work, however, these lads found time for an occasional game of baseball or hockey, and managed to get their home lessons done, after a fashion. It was a strenuous life, but they had the satisfaction of knowing that theirs was a patriotic endeavour. And it was exciting. It's a far throw from that busy, screaming, blazing plant, to the gaunt skeleton of rusty steel beams and piles of broken brick that stands there today. But it is only a matter of time now until that steel will be converted into another roaring plant engaged in a second grim and vital task of turning out machines to beat another and vastly more terrible German war machine.

Canadian Brewers Geared To Meet Demands Of Army

As a part of the general effort to maintain the physical condition and morale of the British fighting forces in the Near East at the highest level the British Government has been supplying quantities of beer to these troops. Owing to shortage of maling barley and bottles and because of the demand for home consumption by those engaged in essential war industries in Britain, the Government has appealed to Canada and the United States to assist in forwarding supplies of both ale and lager beer. The brewers of Canada have responded to this appeal and the entire industry is gearing itself to meet this unexpected demand apparently so valuable to the Empire's War Effort.

The importance of beer as a beverage for the troops was discovered during the last war. At that time Lord Allenby, Commanding the British fighting forces in the Near East, whose brilliant campaign brought such a large section within the sphere of British influence, ordered large quantities of beer to be shipped to his troops in Palestine. Exposed to the burning heat of the semi-tropical terrain over which they were forced to fight it was noticed that there was an appreciable lowering of physical resistance and morale owing to the trying climatic conditions. It was not long after the arrival of the first shipments of beer that a marked improvement was noted in the general condition and morale of the troops. Profiting by this experience beer is now being made a regular part of the rations of the armies in the East and in Northern Africa.

Westmount Baptist Church Notes

At the morning service in Westmount Baptist Church, Rev. J. A. Johnston will speak on the subject: "Withholding Part of the Price." Under the leadership of Mr. Hibbert Troop, the choir will contribute an inspiring ministry of music. Congregational singing plays a vital part in "Westmount" worship.

At the evening service the sermon will be entitled, "The Knock at the Door." In the period given to a discussion of war-time questions, the question which Dr. Johnston will discuss will be: "Should the U.S. enter the War without delay?" Visitors are cordially invited to share in the inspiration and challenge of these services.

THE FORUM

Conducted by HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C., D.C.L.

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them.

Asserting that under the slogan of national defence the living standards of the American people are being forced to lower levels, the United Conference on the High Cost of Living is waging war on the three increases in the cost of milk in Chicago since last September. The conference shows that Chicago milk distributors through the depression steadily earned a net profit of 25 per cent, or more than $23,000,000 per year on a $90,000,000 investment. It is pointed out that 40 per cent of the men and boys called in the draft up to Jan. 31, 1941, were rejected for physical defects, most of which are connected with malnutrition and that two thirds of America's families must get along on an income of $69 per month. The conference represents affiliated groups with over 250,000 members in Chicago.

The project of mobilizing Canada's 45,000,000 hens for active service is a dramatic means of focusing attention on the increased demand for Canadian eggs if local and British needs are to be met. Judging by Western newspapers find it difficult to understand why industrial plants get cost plus for what they produce leaving farmers to the tender mercies of that very unscientific law of supply and demand. If, say the farmers, prices are fixed for labor and industry, we have an equal claim.

In Tasker Homes, new United States Government housing project in Philadelphia, cats and dogs are not permitted. Among other regulations are: Each tenant's belongings must be fumigated before moving in at a cost to the tenant of three or four dollars. Tenants must make a "security deposit" of $5.00 against damage to premises. Failure to "clean and wash" their premises before moving in will forfeit the deposit. Relatives may crowd in on week-ends or holidays but at other times a maximum of three persons to three rooms or eight persons to six rooms is permitted. An excess of pictures is frowned upon. The suggestion is, "Do not attempt to cover your walls with too many pictures, as it is generally considered more attractive to hang just a few in carefully chosen locations. The tenant must keep his ground free from paper and rubbish.

Another suggestion is "Don't shake your mop out of the window. You don't want anybody else's dirt, and nobody wants yours." "No radio should be kept going at full volume. Parking space is allotted for tenants' automobiles but not for old abandoned cars," and each tenant must remove the oil and grease drippings from his car.

Omitting the Communist International from the allied anthems played daily by the British Broadcasting Corporation caused so much embarrassment that the government dropped all the anthems rather than add the Red hymn. Before this was done the Evening Standard of London had suggested that B.B.C. substitute for the International the one-time popular song, "You Made Me Love You; I Didn't Want To Do It."

Switzerland never had diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and recently dissolved the Swiss Socialist Federation because of its Soviet connections, as shortly before she had dissolved the Fascist Swiss National Movement.

The position taken by most of the people of Switzerland, according to a newspaper man writing from Geneva, can be summarized as follows: No slackening against national socialism, but no compromise with communism!

A deficit of $716,146 was discovered in the books of the University of Vermont instead of the surplus which the President had certified so it will be necessary for the legislature to appropriate at least $250,000 for each of the next two years. The President was also comptroller of the University from 1920 to 1940. The University's interest in the Willbur Timber Company of British forms the foundations of our own legal system. Throughout the centuries there has been a constant struggle between labor and capital. The government of the day attempted to keep an even keel between them, now coming to the aid of one, and now to the aid of the other.

The Legion of Mary has been preparing for the past two and a half years to revive the Roman Catholic Church in Russia, the prospects for which are considered good in Catholic circles in London. Units of the Legion of Mary have been formed among Russian émigrés attached to the Jesuit mission of the Slavonic rite established on the Estonian border for the purpose of working for the conversion of Russia. Legion of Mary propaganda has also been carried out for the same purpose in various parts of Asia where there were Russian communities.

This spectacle of some men growing monstrously rich on the one hand and on the other great masses reduced to abject conditions gave rise to much speculation as to the cause and cure. It is futile here even to mention the various proposals to abolish this paradox. They actually resolve into two philosophies; collectivism, with various degrees and forms of arbitrary planning by overhead control, and individualism, with free enterprise, equal rights and an extension of the market. The modern practical demonstrations of the former totalitarian method of have disillusionsed so many people that now at last the pendulum of attention is swinging over and the philosophy of individualism is receiving increasing consideration. Men at last suspect they cannot retain their liberties by giving them up.—Donald Werhiser in The Open Road.

Former Bell President ...

became famous as the author of "The Habitant" and other poetical works about French Canada.

Young McFarlane journeyed far, operating keys in New Orleans, Nashville, and Detroit and visited telephone offices in many other United States cities where he learned advanced methods in telephony. In Detroit, in 1871, he operated the Associated Press wire in the old Western Union office. At adjoining keys at W. A. Jackson and W. A. Forbes, each of these three men became presidents of telephone companies: McFarlane of the Bell of Canada; Jackson of the Michigan District Telephone Company, and Forbes of the Michigan State Telephone Company, which succeeded the former organization.

Lewis McFarlane came back to Canada after his wanderings and settled for a few years in Toronto as assistant to Thomas Swinyard, general manager of the Dominion Telegraph Company.

It was while with the Dominion Company that Mr. McFarlane paved the way for Alexander Graham Bell to use the telephone line between Brantford and Paris on August 19, 1876, for a history-making experiment, which was successful and resulted in the world's first long distance telephone call.

The Telegraph Company, as a result of this amazing, eight mile, one-way call, became interested in Bell's invention and Mr. McFarlane was appointed in charge of the new department. At the age of 28 he found himself in charge of the Eastern Canada division of the newly-formed Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

In 1906 Mr. McFarlane was appointed general manager of the Bell Company, five years later was raised to the post of managing director, and in 1915 became president. In 1925 Mr. McFarlane resigned as president and was appointed chairman of the board of directors. In 1927 he completed 50 years in the telephone industry and when he retired on pension in 1930 he had completed 65 years in the communications business.

Among those who called during the afternoon to congratulate Mr. McFarlane were:

Dr. Francis O. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bann, Capt. and Mrs. G. A. Bartlett-Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Boronow, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brace, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. WOMEN'S CLUB PLAY 'HOST'

Australian - New Zealand 'Eaglets' Entertained by Westmount Group - Outstanding Artists Presented in Well Balanced Program

The War-Work Committee of the Westmount Women's Club under the chairmanship of Mr. Harold Mills with Mrs. C. Holland and her efficient committee, entertained over a hundred guests at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. on Sunday. Most of the boys in uniform were of the Australian and New Zealand Air Force, while others were of the Canadian forces and the Mercantile Marine.

After a splendid supper, Betty Speirs as chairman of the entertainment Committee, presented some of Montreal's best known artists in a well balanced program. J. B. Speirs, Mtl. High School's popular Music Master, was at the piano and in addition to leading the boys in community singing, did a splendid job as accompanist for the artists. Mrs. Gillespie, contralto soloist of the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, was heard to advantage in two lovely solos, while Mrs. Drummond was encoered for her rendition of four numbers of her own composition. Peter Miller was in his element, especially in three of his songs where the boys joined in the singing. Several of the boys contributed solos to the program which was greatly appreciated by the enthusiastic audience.

"APTITUDE TESTS NEEDED" TO STRENGTHEN INDUSTRY SAYS NOTED PSYCHOLOGIST

Dr. Webster Insists That Business Suffers Through Lack of Trained Men—Suggests That to Remedy Evil, Care Should Be Taken to Develop Employees Along the Right Lines—Let Them 'Find' Themselves

"Today, psychologists are being put to the test" was the frank statement made by Dr. Edward C. Webster, internationally known psychologist, as he addressed members of the Westmount Rotary Club in Victoria Hall Wednesday afternoon.

Said Dr. Webster, "I might suggest another title for our business problems, but, bringing together the man and the job is suitable enough."

Continued the speaker, "usual hiring methods are weak at their best, and the reason for this, is the fact that certain people have a much more dominant personality than others, and in consequence, employers are more apt to be influenced in their decisions."

"A man is only a failure in a position when the individual is totally unsuited for that particular job, and today we have men and women holding down certain types of work for which they are totally unprepared."

"Somebody is bound to be the loser, and more often than not, it is the employer, and all because the employment staff will not take the proper psychological care in the selection of applicants."

Continued the speaker, "it is the job of us fellows to try and remedy these evils, and no small effort is required."

"Personality and interest factors in the business world are always associated with prospective employees, and with this thought in mind, the experiments of former psychology tests have been of sound value to business and essential to industrial improvement."

The speaker proceeded, "In any

Noted Performers Entertain Airmen

Air Force Men in the No. 1 Wireless School Hospital, Queen Mary road, were entertained by cabaret and radio performers of Montreal on Friday evening.

Heading the bill was Willie Eckstein, Canadian pianist, who presented several selections including his latest composition the "V" song. He was assisted by Eddie Green, "percussionist" of Eckstein's orchestra.

Others on the bill included Karl Roleo, tap dancer, Howard Wyness, impersonator, and Emilia Heyman, accordionist, who made a definite "hit" with her renditions of popular and patriotic songs.

and all fields of endeavor, the mental faculties are those which decide how well a job can be done, but if those brains and mental reaction are not allowed to expand and groove themselves to which they are most suited, production and supervision is bound to fall off, so it is to the benefit of all employers to find trained men, for trained positions, and failing in this respect, grade and encourage employees in what ever channels they desire to follow."

Concluded Dr. Webster, "aptitude tests are what count, and the more that are conducted, the greater progress business will make."

The speaker was introduced by vice president F. C. Whitaker, and thanked for a most interesting talk by Rotarian C. T. Medlar.

Re-Consecration Pledge

At this time of peril for my country, in this fight against the evil powers which threaten to engulf the earth, conscious of my duty toward Canada and toward my fellow man, I solemnly pledge before Almighty God that I shall do all that lies within my power, and deem no sacrifice too great, to bring about the victory of our arms, that right may triumph, that justice may prevail and that a righteous peace may reign throughout the world; to this end I re-consecrate myself, with faith, with courage and with the knowledge that, though the path be hard and the day be dark, our efforts can not fail.

RHYTHM BAND STARTS SEASON

New Members Welcomed To Organization—Heavy Winter Program Expected—New Musical Variations to Be Rehearsed

The Westmount Orchestral Rhythm Band, winners of all bands up to sixteen years of age in the last Quebec Musical Competition Festival and with added first prizes won through last winter, will welcome new members at its reopening after the summer holidays. A feature attracting much attention last winter was the sparkling and rhythmic piano playing of different members, accompanied by other members on glockenspiel, xylophone, bass drum, etc., the band in this way being entirely on its own and without assistance.

This band work, not confined to percussion instruments but including melody instruments as well, has proved invaluable in developing feeling for rhythm, phrasing, and musical ability in playing for and with others. Its work is directed by Catherine H. Smith, pianist, 451 Grosvenor Avenue, Westmount. Conducting, drums, etc., are taught by Larche Paul, violinist.

On Sunday morning, September 14th, registration will open in the Sunday School. All pupils have been asked to report at 10 a.m. For children of pre-School age, ranging from 2 to 5, there is a Nursery School which meets on Week-days from 9 to 12. Hilda Galt Dance Studio Will Re-Open On Monday

The re-opening of the Hilda Galt Dance Studio for the 1941-42 season takes place Monday, Sept. 15th. It has been announced by the talented young teacher who has just returned from New York where she received her seventh Post Graduate Certificate from the Ned Wayburn Institute of Dancing. Miss Galt also attended the International Dance Congress at Tudor City, New York.

Miss Galt who is the exclusive exponent of the Ned Wayburn Method in this city, is a young lady who is very untiring in her efforts seeing that each and every individual pupil gets her personal attention—doing all her own teaching. Those who have been fortunate enough to see her last five revues entitled "One Night of Rhythm" (in which only pupils of the school appear) have realized the benefits of the Ned Wayburn Method and the ability of this young teacher to impart her knowledge to her pupils.

The Hilda Galt Concert Unit, which is a complete two-hour variety song and dance show, are being well received by the men in uniform for whom they perform on an average of twice weekly, some of the places that Hilda Galt pupils have danced since the school's re-opening on April 3rd are: at the N.D.G. Chatfield's Grocery Store Marks Sixth Anniversary

Marking the completion of six years in business in Westmount during which time its turnover has tripled, the Walter J. Chatfield grocery store, 4972 Sherbrooke street, at the corner of Claremont, is currently offering many lines of groceries, vegetables and cooked meats at exceptionally low prices in an anniversary sale.

Opened by Mr. Chatfield, who has served food supplies to local residents for nearly 30 years, in September, 1935, the store was widely patronized from the start. However, as the quality of its foods, reasonable prices, and courteous attention became more widely known, its list of customers correspondingly increased, until today its turnover is three times that of six years ago. Its personnel, also, has been enlarged to cope with the increasing trade.

known to a great many residents during the 20 odd years he served as clerk in another store here, is associated in his present venture by his two sons, W. Duncan Chatfield, presently serving in R.C.N., and Frank J. Chatfield.

He has built up his present business on a policy of selling only the highest quality goods at reasonable prices. The store carries a complete line of groceries, vegetables and cooked meats and provides a rapid, free, delivery service. It specializes in a particularly wide assortment of fancy groceries and superior quality cooked meats.

Phone orders receive particular attention and will be promptly delivered upon a call to WALNUT 2766.

BETTY SPEIRS SCHOOL

One of the very young classes for which the Betty Speirs School is well known. N.D.G. and Westmount children are looking forward to next week when the Speirs-Miller Studios commence another season.

CHURCH SODALITY TO OPEN SEASON WITH MEETING ON MONDAY

The Young Ladies' Sodality of Ascension Parish, Westmount, will hold its first meeting of the season on Monday evening, September 15 at 7.30 p.m. at St. Paul's Academy, Clarke Avenue. The sodality is an organization for the unmarried ladies in the parish and has an excellent record of accomplishment since its inauguration five years ago.

The primary aims of the sodality are: 1) Devotion to the Blessed Virgin; 2) Sanctification of Self and neighbor; and 3) Defense of the Church. These aims are accomplished through the medium of six committees: Our Lady's Committee, Eucharistic Committee, Catholic Truth Committee, Social Life Committee, Apostolic Committee and Publicity Committee. Each committee has its own program to carry out, but there are projects in which the whole sodality joins.

Apart from its apostolic and spiritual side, the sodality has many social functions and entertainments during the year. Another interesting and entertaining year is being planned for the sodalists, and all young ladies in the parish are cordially invited to attend.

EXPERT HORSEMAN

Joel McCrea, who rides frequently in "The Great Man's Lady," learned to ride cowboy style when only 9 years old.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a gown of white crepe, modelled on Grecian lines, trimmed with silver embroidery in leaf design, the train falling from the waist. A wreath of silver leaves held her long veil of tulle illusion, and she carried white gladioli blossoms tied with silver ribbons.

The bridal attendants, Miss Joan Daves, as maid of honor for her cousin, Miss Katherine Laws, sister of the groom, and Miss Barbara McCombe, were gowned alike, wearing frocks of turquoise blue crepe modelled on similar lines to that worn by the bride, and trimmed with an embroidered design of silver leaves. They wore silver leaves in their hair and carried bouquets of white gladioli blossoms tied with silver ribbons.

Mr. Edward Fisk, of Abbotsford, Que., was best man for flying Officer Laws, and the ushers were Lieutenant William Ewing, The Black Watch (R.H.R.) of Canada, Mr. Keith Russell, cousin of the bride, Lance-Corporal William McLean, 1st Battalion, The Black Watch (R.H.R.) of Canada, and the Reverend Hugh Mortimer, cousin of the bridegroom.

SPEIRS STUDIO OPENS CLASSES

Popular Dance School Expects Banner Year - Capable Faculty

Announcement of Betty Speirs-Peter Miller Dance Studios indicate that this will be a banner year for this popular West End Institution. The Faculty will again be up to its usual high standard, with Miss Speirs again conducting the younger baby classes assisted by Jean Barnes, the prominent young N.D.G. dancer who is graduating as teacher of dancing after 10 years study under Miss Speirs.

The advances Ballet and also the senior ballet group and the ballet group of the business girls will be under the direction of Margaret Robertson whose brilliant technique is so unanimously recognized both here and in California.

Peter Miller will again teach advanced "Tap," using material from such New York celebrities as Johnnie Mattison, Edward Sinclair, Bill Pillock, Dan Dally, augmented by numerous of his own routines with which he has had such success recently. Two of his routines which are now enjoying considerable success with New York Schools, being Me and My Shadow, and Three Shades of Rhythm were scored in Montreal with Nancy Telfer and Peggy Cooper.

Unusual Materials Being Used As Frames

Mirror and bamboo frames are different and distinctive. Broad wood frames covered in velvet or brocade have charm. Feather and plastic frames are exotic and new. Hang important pictures alone on walls that set them off to best advantage . . . they can be flanked by a pair of wall brackets holding plants or figurines or occasionally by smaller pictures. Incidental pictures should be hung in groups - in twos, threes or by the dozen . . . sometimes grouped around one larger picture, sometimes in a symmetrical balance. Be sure that the frames either match or harmonize. Sometimes it's amusing to hang them in tiers on a broad velvet ribbon with a bow at the top. Sometimes you can hang a group of small pictures on an interesting length of fabric - or frame them with wattle mat, in one large frame.

BARKERS GET WORK

Four carnival side-shows won roles in Paramount's "New York Town," when Director Charles Victor included scenes of a freak show and amusement center in the picture. Merry Martin, Fred MacMurray and Robert Preston have the top roles.

VIENNESE REFUGEES TEACH LACE MAKING

Vienna, once famous for its handmade tapestries, exquisite petit point and gobeline, hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of which were exported to North America and England, is finding new roots in Northern Ireland where hundreds of peasant women who formerly devoted their spare time to knitting, have been trained by Viennese refugees in the art of these fine needle works.

A valuable new export business, once exclusively Viennese, is thus being set up, for Irish women, long famous for their laces, embroideries and fine linens, are proving their skill is equal to the task of the difficult but well-paid needlework.

Designing is as important a part of their training as the mounting of these tapestries for dressing table sets, handbags and powder boxes, the mounts and frames of which, once made in Vienna, are now being manufactured in England.

The newly adopted craft is providing valuable exports to the United States and the Dominions.

phenson, Mrs. E. E. Shaw, Miss M. E. Orr, Mrs. C. R. Tossaw, Mrs. I. Trudeau, Mrs. H. A. Thomas, Mrs. P. R. Thomas, Mrs. E. R. Viberg, Mrs. H. G. Vennor, Mrs. W. E. Wesley.

Citizens Requested To Decorate Homes

As part of the observation of Reconciliation Week, citizens are asked by the National Committee to fly flags and decorate their homes and business premises from September 10th to 17th. The second anniversary of Canada's entry into the war is being observed throughout the Dominion to pay national honor to those who, on land, sea, and in the air are the defenders of our country and in proud memory of those fallen for our common freedom.

NEWS OF THE THEATRE WORLD

Theatrical
AttractionsGreat American Broadcast
Comes To Kent Saturday

Against a background of tuneful melodies, "The Great American Broadcast" unfolds the gay, fascinating story of the courageous, talented people who first filled the air waves with song and laughter.

From the same studio which produced "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Tin Pan Alley" and others, the film "The Great American Broadcast," starring Alice Faye, John Payne, Jack Oakie, and Cesar Romero, opens at the Kent Theatre.

Year of Research
Mindful of the fact that it is more difficult to reproduce the recent past on the screen to the satisfaction of all potential movie-goers, one year of research was spent before a single line of script was written. People familiar with the styles, customs and trends of 1919 and the years immediately following, will find "The Great American Broadcast" historically accurate, but in a most gay, entertaining way.

Those were the days of the crystal set, so every available crystal set west of the Rockies was purchased, and in addition, others were built to supplement these.

Celluloid collars, and high, wide and hard straw hats were other items necessary for the accurate reconstruction of the recent past. The collars were supplied by a midwestern dealer who thought he had been stuck with an over-supply—and stuck he was until 20th Century-Fox bought his entire stock at a fancy price. On the matter of the straw hats, the studio was more fortunate.

Several years ago the purchasing department picked up 200 of these snappy pieces at a bargain price, and now they are not only used in 20th Century-Fox films, but also rented to other studios often enough to have covered the original investment five-fold.

The songs sung by Alice Faye in "The Great American Broadcast" were written by those master tunesmiths Mack Gordon and Harry Warren. For "The Great American Broadcast" they prepared "Long Ago Last Night," "Rain Little Rain Drop, Run," "I Take To You," "I've Got a Boze To Pick With You," "The Great American Broadcast," "Where You Are," and "It's All in a Lifetime."

The featured cast includes Mary Beth Hughes and many other outstanding performers.

FINE PICTURE

"Shining Victory" Written
By Cronin Is First Rate
Entertainment

A truly fine motion picture is the current tenant at the York United Theatre, and judging from the reception which it was accorded by last night's audience it is first-rate entertainment. "Shining Victory," written by A. J. Cronin, one of the world's most famous novelists, is a tightly-knit drama with a brand-new theme.

James Stephenson, whose performance in "The Letter" brought him such wide acclaim, and Geraldine Fitzgerald, the lovely Irish actress who attained screen celebrity through her roles in "Wuthering Heights" and "Dark Victory," are the stars of the film.

With boldly masterful strokes, author Cronin has fashioned his story around the mysteries of psychiatry, unravelling these mysteries to provide drama which grips the complete attention of its audiences. Briefly summarized, the story is that of a young British research psychiatrist, who is on the verge of discovering a great cure for mental ailments in a Budapest laboratory. He is deprived of all his records and thrown out of the country because the powerful head of the research institution wishes to take full credit for the discovery himself. An invitation to join the staff of a sanatorium in Scotland gives him the opportunity to continue his research. He is at first infuriated when a young woman doctor is assigned to him as his assistant, but she soon makes herself indispensable.

At the sanatorium, the middle-aged secretary to the head doctor has fastened her repressed affections on the psychiatrist and she is furiously jealous of the growing rapport between him and his pretty assistant. When she learns that they are to be married she is furious and determined to avenge herself. She finds her opportunity when the doctor performs an illegal post-mortem on one of his patients in an endeavor to establish clinching evidence for his new method of brain treatment. She threatens to expose him publicly unless he breaks his engagement. When he ignores her threat and tells her that she is herself a mental case, she wreaks her vengeance by setting fire to his lab, where all his precious records are kept.

Stephenson, in the role of the psychiatrist, gives a sterling and intelligent performance that more than justifies his recent promotion to stardom. He proves himself more than capable in carrying the chief role of the drama, and his brilliantly subtle interpretation of the character marks him as one of the screen's truly accomplished actors. Miss Fitzgerald, as his assistant, fulfills all the promise she gave in her earlier performances. She is a beautifully restrained actress, and her characterization is delicate but deeply etched. In the difficult role of the mentally twisted secretary, Barbara O'Neil does a really superb job, and vying with her for top honors in the supporting cast is veteran actor Donald Crisp. Others who contribute

FRENCH COMEDY AT THE SNOWDON

Above is a scene from "The Baker's Wife," (La Femme du Boulanger) which has been titled in English. Raimu, France's greatest comedian, is starred in Jean Giono's story, which Marcel Pagnol has directed. The dialogue titles in English are by the celebrated American novelist and wit, John Erskine. The film is now playing at the Snowdon United Theatre until Saturday night.

HILARIOUS FILM
AT MONKLAND

Last night, Bob Hope landed right in the middle of Uncle Sam's armament program in "Caught in the Draft." Paramount's all-out comedy now playing at the Monkland United Theatre until Saturday night. You can be sure there were plenty of fireworks—the kind that's filled with laughing gags.

One minute after Bob fired the opening gun, the whole theatre was thrown into an uproar. For Bob, taking the part of a movie actor engaged in making a war picture, had given the "Over the top!" signal to his men and then screamed frantically when he discovered that his pistol was really loaded.

The gup-shy actor next creates a laugh-riot when he finds himself in the army as the result of a practical joke which backfires on himself. "Caught in the Draft" may not be a true version of everything the army has to offer its rookies, but Bob Hope and his comedy crowd certainly manage to give army life a new twist—the kind even the draftees will enjoy.

There are parachute drops that will make your stomach power dive with hilarity; crazy tank chases; pretty nurses; and "selective service" duties in cluding peeling potatoes and softening a hard-boiled "sarge."

Dorothy Lamour, who co-stars with the popular screen and radio gagmaster, is in love with Buck Private Hope but she can't marry him until her father, the colonel, is convinced that something besides trouble flows through her hero's veins. The rookie is caught between the cross-fire of Dotty's sarcasm and the colonel's fury as he slides out of one tight spot into another.

Lynne Overman and Eddie Bracken keep Bob company during these wacky escapades which almost cause total disaster. But Hope emerges as a hero during some exciting war games at the climax of film. He turns disaster to laughter by a master stroke of strategy which saves the army from his teammate's brain-storm military trap.

The recruit gets his beauty and a corpsmanship to boot. Don't miss it!

ELEPHANT A. R. P.?

Bright idea just put forward is that circus elephants should be called up for fire-fighting.

Some years ago elephants belonging to Sanger's Circus were taught to act as firemen, filling their trunks with water, which they discharged on the flames. But elephant fire-fighting needn't stop at this. It's suggested that if Jumbo wore asbestos pants he could put out incendiary bombs just by sitting on them.

You doubt it? This would work? The reply must be: "Weight and see."

brilliantly to the finely acted film are Montagu Love, Sig Ruman, George F. Huntley, Jr., and many more.

"Shining Victory" marks the debut of Irving Rapper, talented young dialogue director, as a full-fledged director and his remarkably fine work indicates that we may expect many more excellent films from this source. A. J. Cronin's play was adapted for the screen by Howard Koch and Anne Froelich.

"BAKER'S WIFE"
IS AT SNOWDON

Celebrated French Film
Playing at Local Theatre

Dorothy Thompson, who seldom takes time out from her political writings and her travels to all points of the globe to even give motion pictures a second thought, recently devoted her entire column to a discussion of the celebrated French film, "The Baker's Wife," which took New York by storm and which is now playing at the Snowdon United Theatre until Saturday night. On the "Record," syndicated through out America, she said, in part:

"Once in a blue moon one sees a motion picture which is written, produced and acted for adult human beings, and which has the power to give those who view it that unique and distinguished intellectual experience associated with the word 'art.' 'The Baker's Wife' is a picture that I cannot forget. I cannot forget it because of its luminous and humane reality, and because of its very great actor, Raimu, who has a quality that has not been seen since Charlie Chaplin at his best."

"The Baker's Wife" is a love story. It is a story about a great lover. He is not a great lover because he is handsome and glamorous. He is a great lover because of his capacity to love, and for that reason and no other. He is fat and middle-aged and often quite absurd. He is a comic figure as true lovers always are, for love makes men terrible and terribly vulnerable. He is in love with his wife. That, in itself, is prosaic. From the general standpoint, and his wife, who is pretty, rather sultry and half his age, is a worthless little creature who runs away with a shepherd, a French village version of Pan. This is a ridiculous situation. The deceived husband is an eternally ridiculous figure. He knows he is ridiculous and the sense of his own indignity is half his tragedy.

"But more than this, the film is a comment on human society. It has that lucid and humane realism which is what makes France worth saving yesterday, today and forever. In short, it is a film of honesty, simplicity, truth and immense talent."

Bing Crosby buys his caddy a suit of clothes each time he breaks 70.

of him, Victor Schertzinger directed "Kiss the Boys Goodbye." What is more, not only did he direct the picture, but also wrote the music, to Frank Loesser's lyrics, for the five swell new tunes that caused a buoyant baskinade among the audience.

The quintette of new tunes, which you must have been hearing on the radio and dancing to lately, are "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," "Sand in My Shoes," "My Start," "Find Yourself a Melody" and "I'll Never Let a Day Pass By."

Sharp-edged and sly, the story concerns an impish Southern girl with stage ambitions who can't get a break on Broadway, until she returns to the South to await the coming of a director who is looking for Southland's fairest girl to play the lead in his new show. As Cindy Lou Bethany, the Southern girl, Mary Martin is just about perfect, and Don Ameche, with his performance as Lloyd Lloyd, the stage director who finds her in his search for talent, will win many new admirers. Oscar Levant, as the wise-cracking composer, who helps Mary slip a fast one over on Ameche, is a complete joy, with his fresh, natural behaviour.

Connie Boswell's singing and Rochester's raspy-voiced singing and nimble-dancing, and a large assemblage of extremely pretty girls, round out a flippancy and well-acted story.

Others in the exceptionally good featured cast, who deserve plaudits for their in-the-groove acting are Virginia Dale, Barbara Allen, Elizabeth Patterson and Jerome Cowan.

Westmount, Outremount, Police Game Raises $108

EXHIBITION SOFTBALL GAME PLAYED AT ROCKLAND PARK TO AID RED CROSS WORK

Enthusiastic Crowd on Hand to See Rival Police Factions "Fight It Out"—Crowd in Uproar As They Are Treated to Some "Hefty" Slugging—Westmount Take "Honors" Over Outremount

Four thousand yelling, excited, softball fans jammed Rockland Park to witness a fast, scrappy game between the old rivals, Westmount Police and Fire department, and the Outremount brigade. The first ball was pitched by Alderman Hannaford, chairman of the Outremount Police Committee, and caught by Chief Gough of Westmount, and then the crowd settled down to serious business.

The Westmount squad were the first to bat, and they went to town in a big way, blasting the Outremount pitching all over the lot, but it was the "siege guns" of Doucet and Lawson that played havoc most, the former belted 5 homers, and not to be outdone, constable Lawson whacked 4 more.

RUGBY SQUADS IN WORK-OUT

Summer Activities Draw To Close—Staynor Park To Stage Fall Exhibition

The children in the Summer Schools at Staynor and Westmount Parks are putting the finishing touches to their Summer's work with the annual Fall exhibition in mind.

Many smart exhibits will be shown, as the children in both parks have done some exceptional work this season.

Westmount Park is a busy place these days with the various Schools using the fields for rugby practices. Westmount High, Westmount Intermediate School and St. Leo's have all held workouts so far.

Two series of boat races were held last Saturday in King George Park. The first series was won by Peter Maag with 13 points. Robin Mathewson took second place with 11 points while Robert Hull was third with 9 points.

The second series was won by Robin Mathewson who scored 10 points. Peter Maag came second and Robert Hull third.

Superb Putting In Semi-Finals

The most successful putting tournament of the season was held last Thursday on the adult greens in King George Park. There was an entry list of twenty players and the competition was exceptionally keen. The thirty-six hole event saw Mr. Thompson and Mr. Holland card identical 82's to end up tied for first place, two strokes behind these two were Mr. R. Wilson-Smith and Mr. C. Harris with 84's.

The best putting of the season however, developed in the play-off for top honours between Mr. Holland and Mr. Thompson. Mr. Holland scored a 19 for nine holes, just one over par, to edge out Mr. Thompson who carded a 21.

Another tournament will be held this evening starting at eight o'clock, with a large attendance expected.

The round-robin tournament started last month is just about finished and players who have not played all their matches are asked to make an effort and finish them up this week coming.

ROYALS LOSE TO ST. JEROME

Local Team 'Nosed' Out By 2-1 Score By Laurentian Squad—Miss Hurling Of Connie Tudin

The local softball season sang its swan song last week-end, when the Royals, winners of the Westmount Municipal Senior Softball League title bowed out of the Province of Quebec Softball Tournament.

The Royals were eliminated by the St. Jerome club two games to one.

The locals took the first game 6-2 on the Charlevoix grounds a week from last Sunday.

Connie Tudin hurled for the Royals and did a good job.

In a second game billed as an exhibition affair "Smiley" Mero-nak shut-out the St. Jerome team 2-0.

The Royals visited the Laurentian town last week-end needing to win but one game to advance to the semi-finals of the tournament.

Unfortunately Connie Tudin who was scheduled to pitch the first game developed a bad cold and did not make an appearance so that the St. Jerome team turned up easy winners to even the series at one game apiece.

In the second game of the double-header which was the deciding game of the series the St. Jerome club nosed out the locals 2-1 in a nine inning tussle.

The Royals led 1-0 going into the eighth inning, but a passed ball on a hurried throw gave the St. Jerome team two runs, enough to win the game and series. "Smiley" Mero-nak turned in a brilliant pitching effort for the Westmounters, limiting the winners to two hits and no earned runs.

ANSWERING THE OCCASION

Bill Sturm, lead-off batter for New York Yankees, who is the answer to Joe McCarthy's prayer for a first baseman to fill the late Lou Gehrig's place. The Yanks have been woefully weak at the first corner since the retirement of Gehrig. Sturm replaced Joe Gordon who returned to second base.

Dimaggio 'Hit' Streak Commenced Wrong Time

There was just one thing wrong with Joe DiMaggio when he bearded that string of hits in 56 consecutive games. His timing was off. That, and a possible neglect in failing to do something about Ted Williams. Even taking some mild step, such as taking careful aim with a shooting iron at five paces or putting insect power in his soup.

There was nothing wrong with Joe's timing at the plate. His error was in putting on his show in mid-season and then retiring to the wings to allow the National league race, and that his-hog, Ted Williams, to take the stage.

Joe will want more money next year. How much more is open to argument, but he'll want more, as who doesn't? While he was stringing together his record the estimates ranged up to $80,000, and with the newspaper headlines filled with DiMaggio he had a pretty fair talking point for his winter debates with Ed Barrow.

But that was a month or so ago. Since then things have happened, and as matters now stand Mr. Barrow can feign a bobbed memory, scratch his head thoughtfully and reckon that maybe Joe DiMaggio did do something spectacular during the season but it was so far back he just can't recall the details.

Had Joe timed his hitting streak so its finish more or less coincided with the end of the season it would have remained fresh in everyone's memory during the winter months. As it is, the performance is growing colder by the day, and DiMaggio himself has added a little cracked ice by permitting his batting average to tailsip some 20 points, compiling a few reverse-English consecutive game hitting marks.

As for Ted Williams' place in the picture, the tall Boston lad has been getting up to the plate regularly in that careless, loose-as-sand way of his and pounding out his hits to keep his average well above the .400 mark.

When DiMag starts talking contracts this coming winter, Mr. Barrow will reach into his desk and pull out the case history of

FAVORED TEAM ENTERS FINAL AS PREDICTED

Take Match In Three Straight Sets — Will Meet Stern Opposition In Next Game

One of the favoured teams in the Men's Closed Doubles tennis tournament now under way on the Municipal courts, Dave Schwartz and Ken Green, came through up to expectations and are now in the final round. Schwartz and Green defeated Ross Miller and Buddy Cochrane without undue difficulty in three straight sets 6-1, 6-1, and 6-2, to enter the final bracket.

They now wait the winners of the Pick Quinton — Ed Spearing vs. A. Slick — Stan Morgan semi-final match.

Two of the best matches in the tournament saw the Ross brothers eliminate Eward Read and Bob Brennan 5-7, 6-2 and 6-3, and the Pick-Morgan pair edge out a three set 6-3, 3-6 and 6-3 win over Grant McLauchlan and John Pagnuolo.

Results of the tournament are as follows: First round: Bud Cochrane-Ross Miller defeated T. Carmichael and L. Carmichael 6-3, 3-6 and 6-4; Ross-Ross defeated Eward Read-Bob Brennan 5-7, 6-2 and 6-3; Grant McLauchlan-John Pagnuolo defeated Gordie Leach-Tom Mulligan 6-1, 6-2; A. Pick-Stan Morgan defeated C. J. Baller - C. Fitzrandolph 6-0, 6-4; R. Johnson-T. Shorrocks defeated Strachan-Harris by default; Green-Schwartz defeated Ross-Ross 6-2, 6-2; Pick Morgan defeated Pagnuolo - McLauchlan 6-3, 3-6, 6-3; Slick Quinton - Ed Spearing defeated Johnson-Shorrocks by default. Semifinals: Schwartz-Green defeated Cochrane-Miller 6-1, 6-1 and 6-2.

At the present time entry sheets are up for Mixed Doubles, boys' scholars and students, girls' scholars and students tournaments. These sheets will be taken down this evening.

one Ted Williams and remark casually:

"Humm, so you think you are worth (to be filled in by your own guess). Well, let's see now. On that basis I wonder how much this fellow Williams is worth."

Looking at it from the older side of the fence, if Joe does get a substantial raise, as he undoubtedly will, Williams can use that as a crutch to lean on when he starts negotiations concerning his own 1942 salary. For if Ted better DiMag in several departments he can expect a cheque at least equal to that of his Yankee rival. And he'd probably get it, as Tom Yawkey isn't a guy to quibble when salary is concerned.

The tournament committee was comprised of C. Carter, P. H. Bruneau, J. N. O'Halloran, Fred

Fly Casting Tournament Won By Bryse Clark

A large crowd of spectators watched the fourth annual casting tournament held under the joint sponsorship of the Anglers Association of Quebec and the Quebec Fly and Bait Casting Association.

The event was held in the Ravine Pond in Westmount Park where the Quebec Fly and Bait Casting Association held their weekly competitions.

The distance events were held on Westmount Park itself. Bryse Clark of the home club carried off top honours, winning the N. W. Crawford Cup emblematic of the all-round casting championship.

Mr. Clark averaged 224 feet in the three casts he made to win the bait casting title for distance which was exceptional under the tricky winds prevailing.

Howard Lettau another home club member won the Challenge Cup by taking the bait casting accuracy championship. Frier Guilline won the R. S. White Trophy emblematic of the all-round fly casting championship. Guilline averaged the good distance of 138 feet for his three casts in the Fly Casting event.

The tournament committee were deeply grateful to the Province of Quebec Safety League for donating the use of their sound equipment, which was used to keep the spectators and competitors well informed of what was going on.

The Quebec Fly and Bait Casting Association are looking forward to their Fall and Winter programme when they will be doing their casting indoors.

Last year the association used the Victoria School gymnasium. Negotiations are now under way to obtain a floor for this season.

"Tin Hat Revue" Entertains Army In Many Camps

Montreal Repertory Theatre's Popular Players to Give Public Performance in Ste Adele Saturday — None Of Company Receives Remuneration — Have Given 84 Shows Before 70,000 Soldiers

Having played to every military camp and training centre in M.D. No. 4, during the two years they have been in operation, and a number of camps outside the district, the M.R.T.'s Tin Hat Revue journeys to Ste. Adele this weekend, where they will stage the last public performance of the 1941 edition of their show in the Red Room of Ste. Adele Lodge on Saturday evening. Favorites of Canada's armed forces wherever they have appeared, the Tin Hats finance their efforts by occasional benefit performances such as this one, using the funds thus raised to present free entertainments to the troops. None in the company receives remuneration, but voluntarily contribute their services.

Since their inception at the outbreak of war, the Tin Hats have played to some 70,000 men at 84 performances. The content of the show is changed annually and already in production is some new material that will go into the 1942 edition.

Managing Director of the enterprise is Geoffrey Merrill, while Keith Handyside and Fred Gross are producing directors; Jack Clifford, master of ceremonies, and Frank Kavanagh, business manager. These five are responsible for the administration of the show that includes a total company of some 40 people and such well known performers as Frankie Hearn, Cortland MacNeil, Florence Jenkins, Isabelle Blaise, Robert Goodier, Lionel Merton and Eileen Clifford. There is also a quartet composed of Rodger Bourne, Gordon Nicholls, Derek Rhoades and Walter Laduke; and a dancing ensemble of ten personable young ladies under the competent direction of the well-known dancing instructor Norma Darling. The technical aspects of the show including scenery and costume designing, settings and lighting are in the hands of Louis Mulligan, while Paddy Creagan is stage manager, assisted by Jean McDonald, Hans Berends and Dorothy Hearn. All equipment, including the portable stage that is carried around the countryside and set up for every performance, has been designed and built in the M.R.T.'s own studio.

The Red Room benefit performance will begin at 8.15 p.m. Tickets are available in Montreal at H.A. 1660.

Montreal's Unique "Economics" School

Teachers Get No Pay and Pupils Attend Voluntarily Classes That Teach Cause and Cure of World Chaos

A school in Montreal where students attend voluntarily, pay no tuition and the teachers receive no compensation! One may feel inclined to doubt the truth of that statement under the assumption that "nobody gives anything away free these days." Strangely enough, however, there is such a school, operating successfully, drawing its students from all walks of life.

One may wonder what subject could be taught in this school which has for its student body a typical cross section of Canadian adults. They study what they consider a most absorbing and interesting subject and one with which everyone is directly concerned, although he may not realize it; the science of the production and distribution of the wealth of the country. In short it is an exposition of the facts and principles of that hitherto formidable little known subject, "Economics."

Again one may wonder what is required of a person who wishes to avail himself of such an opportunity to gain a clear workable knowledge of the facts and forces which tend to bring a country to such a precarious economic condition as that so widespread in the world today. All that the school asks of a prospective student is that he try to be open minded and free from prejudice, and that he be desirous to determine for himself just why unhealthy social conditions continue to exist.

Henry George School
A little more than eight years ago Prof. Oscar Geiger organized the Henry George School of Social Science; the first school of its kind in the world. He started in New York with an enrolment of eight students who became so enthusiastic over the common-sense economics, which they readily absorbed, that they helped organize and instruct additional classes until today the New York School is housed in a five-story building, and extension schools have been organized all over the country with a total graduation of more than thirty thousand.

The school's local headquarters are located at 1509 St. Catherine Street West. It was John Anderson, a prominent Montrealer, who organized the first class with an enrolment of twelve students, and from this humble beginning five years ago, the school now numbers over 300 graduates.

Other Centres Equipped
Montreal does not stand alone in having a school of this kind. In Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, Shawana, Vancouver, etc., as well as in more than 200 cities in the United States, students are congregating each night, and under able instruction are learning for themselves what causes world unrest and what can be done to remedy that cause.

Needless to say the mere desire to learn is not all that holds their attention. The school uses as its text-book "Progress and Poverty" considered the best work of the great philosopher Henry George. In this classic the author demonstrates clearly that there is no necessity for Communism, Fascism or Socialism in order to achieve the goal of prosperity for all.

New classes open to both men and women will begin in Montreal during the week of September 22nd. Those who are interested in an airplane view rather than a worm's eye view of economics, are invited to enroll in these classes. No educational credits are required of any person wanting to take this course.

The Henry George School of Social Science is chartered as an educational institution in Canada under the laws of the Province of Ontario, and in the United States by the University of the State of New York. It is maintained solely by voluntary contributions of people who are anxious to spread a knowledge of economic freedom in the hope that such knowledge may become general, and may thus bring about a world which will really be the best of all possible worlds.

Raiser by Prof. Dewey

Professor John Dewey, famous Columbia University educator and Honorary President of the School, was so impressed with this great work that he was moved to remark: "No man, no graduate of a higher educational institution has a right to regard himself as an educated man in social thought unless he has some first-hand acquaintance with the theoretical contribution of this great thinker."

Officers of the school are emphatic in pointing out the purely economic basis on which the school is operated, disassociated from all political philosophies and they are proud of the endorsement of eminent educators, public figures and scientists, such for example as the famous scientist Albert Einstein, who said "Men like Henry George are rare, unfortunately. One cannot imagine a more beautiful combination of intellectual keenness, artistic form and fervent love of justice. Every line is written as if for our generation. The spreading of these works is a really deserving cause, for our generation especially has many and important things to learn from Henry George."

SENIOR BALLET GROUP AT MARY BEETLES STUDIO

Mary Beetles Announces Opening Of Fall Classes

Miss Mary Beetles, principal of The Mary Beetles School, announces the opening of the fall classes in all types of dancing, physical culture, dramatics, classic and popular piano playing and kindergarten and nursery school.

This school holds a foremost position in Montreal which has been won by the untiring and sincere efforts of Miss Beetles and her staff of experienced teachers through many years of strict attention to the most modern methods of instruction in this field of art.

The teaching personnel this season will include Miss Jeanne Rodier, Miss Norma Darling, Miss Vera Hudspeth, Miss Yvette Naubert and George Erskine-Jones, all of whom have carved on excellent reputation for themselves both as artists and teachers.

Miss Rodier and Mr. Erskine-Jones have just returned from New York where they both studied the very latest types and styles in their respective branches.

Proof of the excellence of the training in this school is the fact that Miss Emmie Sharples, a pupil of the school for several years, has just been accepted by the Ballet Russe and is now on tour with them and will be in Montreal at the end of the month, and Miss Babs Heath, also a pupil for several years is with the Ballet Caravan now touring South America.

Added to the school Curriculum this year is Fashion Modelling — there is a great demand for well-trained models and Miss Beetles will recommend positions for those who wish for a career in this field.

An opening Recital will be held on September 27, at 2.30 p.m., at the Victoria Hall, Westmont. Early registration is recommended.

College Re-opens Night, Day Classes

The Westmont Business College situated at the corner of St. Catherine St. West and Greene Avenue in the centre of Westmont is now open for enrolling new pupils. This college is run along the same lines as a private school with the corresponding thoroughness and special attention given to each student with the result that its former graduates are holding positions with the very best Montreal business firms, including such offices as head office, Bank of Montreal; Royal Bank, Bank of Toronto, Shawinigan Water and Power; Canadian Industries Ltd., Northern Electric; Canadian Car & Foundry; Noorduyn Aviation; Canadian Pacific; Canadian National; Westmont City Hall; and many others.

Classes are held day and evening. Private lessons are also available for those desiring such tuition. Pupils may enter any time of the month as instruction in the classes is individual.

Stenographers are in demand. Requests for graduates of this school the last year far outnumbered the supply. Business men have been calling almost daily for additional office help.

For further particulars, telephone for an appointment with the principal, Miss R. Wood, WE. 1885.

MIXED UP

It was guest night in the mess, and the Irish colonel was telling an exciting story of an encounter with a wounded elephant which charged at him and bore him to the ground.

At the critical moment an orderly entered to say the colonel was wanted on the telephone.

He was absent for some minutes, and on his return had forgotten which of his favorite stories he had been telling.

"What happened, colonel?" asked one of the guests. "You were telling us of your dangerous situation."

"Oh, I kissed her," said the colonel airily. "She simply couldn't resist me, and we dined together that evening. Her husband never knew."
