KING NOT TO RESIGN BEFORE NEXT SESSION Rum Running Into U.S. Falls Into Hands Of Syndicates

Conservatives Cannot Now Secure A Clear Majority Over All In Next House

Practically Certain that Premier King Will Not Resign Before Next Meeting of Parliament—Has Still to Consider Situation With His Colleagues and Will Have Conference With Governor-General Before Making Any Public Pronouncement—In Circles Close to Ministry It Is Understood that Premier King Favors Challenging Vote of Non-Confidence in Parliament—If He Is Supported in Parliament, He Will Continue in Office, at Any Rate for Time Being.

Doubtful seats are one in Queens, P.E.I. where the vote is tied; Bow River and Peace River, Alberta, and Kindersley and Maple Creek in Saskatchewan.

SITUATION HAS RESULTED IN NEAREST APPROACH TO PARLIAMENTARY DEADLOCK IN HISTORY OF DOMINION

OTTAWA, October 31.—With 116 seats and only six still remaining in the doubtful column Conservatives cannot now secure a clear majority in the next House. In these circumstances, it is practically certain that Premier King will not resign before meeting Parliament. The Premier has still to consider the situation with his colleagues. He will have a conference with the Governor-General before making any public pronouncement. But in circles close to the ministry it is understood that he favors challenging a vote of non-confidence in Parliament. If he is supported in Parliament, he will continue in office, at any rate for the time being. If the House votes against him, his resignation will necessarily follow. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, according to usual practice, would then be called upon to form an administration. But it is not likely that he would continue in office long without another appeal to the country.

WILL NOT BE ANY SWEEPING LEGISLATION

In any event, next session of Parliament is not likely to see anything in the way of sweeping legislation. The situation has resulted in the nearest approach to a parliamentary deadlock in the history of the Dominion.

Premier King could only count on a majority with the help of Progressives, Labor and Independents, groups which although not included in the official Opposition, sat on the Opposition side in the last House. There is likely to be little beyond necessary money appropriations and essential legislation. At the same time, the situation will be one of constant uncertainties with party whips harassed day and night. At any moment a situation may arise—a surprise amendment perhaps with a few unpaired supporters away—which would turn out whatever Government happened to be in power.

NEXT PARLIAMENT WILL NOT BE OF LONG DURATION

Prominent Liberals feel that any motion calling for higher protection would ally Liberal, Progressive, Labor and Independent members, resulting in the Government securing a majority. They take the ground that, under the constitutional practice, a Government is in power until it fails to retain the confidence of Parliament, and that so long as it can secure a majority in Parliament it should retain office.

Nevertheless—whether Premier King retains office or not—the feeling in political circles generally is that Canada's fifteenth Parliament will not be of long duration.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen declines to make any statement on the situation at present.

NO CHANGE REPORTED IN QUEENS, P.E.I., TODAY

(Associated Press Despatch)
HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 31.—No change was reported today in the situation as regards Queens, P.E.I., where according to latest reports Hon. John E. Sinclair, minister without portfolio, is tied with D. MacKinnon in the race for the second seat. It is anticipated that the result will remain in doubt until declaration day, when the returning officer for the constituency will declare one or the other elected, preliminary to an official recount of the ballots.

OVERNIGHT RETURNS IN SASKATCHEWAN RIDINGS

(Associated Press Despatch)
WINNIPEG, Oct. 31.—Overnight returns in the Saskatchewan constituencies of Rosetown and Quappelle, virtually removed these constituencies from the doubtful list. The election of two Progressives, J. Millar, in Quappelle and J. Evans in Rosetown, was indicated. The standing of the parties in Saskatchewan is as follows: Liberals elected fourteen; Progressives

PLACE BLAME ON GERMANS' LOVE OF CHRISTMAS

Former Prussian War Minister
Testifies in "Stab-in-the-Back"
Trial at Munich.

(Associated Press Despatch)
MUNICH, Bavaria, Oct. 31.—The Germans love of Christmas festivities was blamed for the failure of Karl Liebknecht's Putsch in 1918 by General Groener, former Prussian war minister, testifying in the "stab-in-the-back" trial here. The trial, at which much of Germany's war time and post war history is being reviewed, hinges about a libel suit brought against Martin Gruber, editor of the Munich Post, for statements made while criticizing Professor Paul Gossman and his articles tending to show that the German army was "stabbed in the back" by Socialist intrigues. General Groener declared that even Liebknecht and his revolutionary sailors stopped long enough to celebrate Christmas in 1918, although by disregarding the holiday they might have elected President Ebert and the majority Socialist regime from power.

"This could have happened in no other country but sentimental Germany," the general laughingly commented.

The witness paid a feeling tribute to the late President Ebert, who, he said, had saved the country by joining with himself (General Groener) in wresting power from the hands of the workers' and soldiers' councils, but insisting that blood must not be shed.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE WON IN EAST LAMBTON

PETROLIA, Ont., Oct. 31.—A complete re-check of the figures in Thursday's East Lambton election made by Conservative riding headquarters gives J. E. Armstrong, Conservative, a forty-seven majority.

The Progressives conceded Mr. Armstrong's election, but placed the majority at thirty.

RESULTS IN THE YUKON

DAWSON, Y.T., Oct. 31.—Latest returns from Thursday's voting in the Yukon give George Black, Conservative, a majority of 235 over Robert Lowe, Liberal. The vote with five missing polls was: Black, 703; Lowe, 468.

The missing polls account for not more than one hundred votes and cannot change the result.

No Country Stands More To Gain By Ratification Of Locarno Treaty Than Does Germany

"Although British Opinion Unmistakably Accepts Locarno Treaty, It Would Be Idle to Disguise Fact that There Is a Genuine Apprehension Amongst a Considerable Number as to the Security Pact. There Is Fear that It Might Ultimately Involve Us in War Against Either Germany or France, Whether We Desire It or Not," Declares Lloyd George.

(Copyright 1925 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. Copyright in Great Britain by London Chronicle. Exclusive World Rights Held by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited. All Rights Reserved.)

LONDON, October 31.—(By Cable)—From Cannes to Locarno is a long way to go. In 1922 Aristide Briand was hurried out of office because he consented seriously to discuss the settlement of Europe on a basis of conciliation. But since then we have had the Ruhr fiasco and the plight of France. Hence Locarno. It is a notable advance on the road to peace.

The ministerial crisis in Germany over the Locarno conference must not be taken as a serious menace to its life. It implies that the Locarno pact is not yet out of the wood. But the pack that assails it in this Swabian forest, although hungering for its blood, will not assume the risk of attempting to tear down the steeds that are driving it through.

No country stands more to gain by ratification of this treaty than does Germany. The negotiations were initiated by the German Government in the now famous despatch proposing a four-power pact or guarantee. If it goes through she can proceed in tranquility of mind with the restoration of her shattered credit and commerce. There will be no more Ruhr invasions and subsidized insurrections to disturb her most important industrial areas of the Rhineland. The Cologne area will be immediately evacuated, and in all probability the numbers and consequently the expense of armies of occupation in other areas will be reduced. What is equally important—a totally new spirit will be introduced into the French dealings in Germany—whether over the control of armaments, the Saar coal fields, or the demarcation of the military in the areas of occupation. Industrial Germany is overwhelmingly for the Locarno agreement.

The German Nationalists object that it binds their country to accept for all time boundaries fixed at a moment of utter disaster. But Herr Stresemann points out that even as it affects Alsace-Lorraine the Locarno arrangement only stipulates that Germany shall not in the future attempt to effect rectification of frontiers by force, and that there is nothing to prevent her seeking to do so by peaceable means. On her eastern frontier Germany has entered into a pact which involves a guarantee of existing frontiers. But there again she is only bound not to resort to

Latest "Wrinkle" In Rum Running Game Is That Of Floating Contraband To Shore— Great Many Tricks Are Being Employed

Business of Supplying New York and Vicinity With Liquor from Sea Has Fallen into Hands of One or Two Syndicates and Is Being Conducted With All Regularity and Order of a Huge Legitimate Business, Plus Cunning of Years of Experience.

(Associated Press Despatch)

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The delirium of Rum Row is over. The business of supplying New York and vicinity with liquor from the sea has fallen into the hands of one or two syndicates and is being conducted with all the regularity and order of a huge legitimate business, plus the cunning of years of experience. The twin Navesink Lights, standing on the highlands of New Jersey and looking down upon Sandy Hook, see strange things and sights, and one light in particular smacks of activities at this point in 1862, when the lights were built.

The latest "wrinkle" in the rum running game is that of floating contraband ashore. The smugglers are handling kegs of Scotch malt, which, upon being safely landed, is "cut" seven times to produce a still very potent beverage.

Under cover of darkness, assisted by motor silencers, a small boat now and then manages to evade the wall established by the coastguard. The small boat runs as near shore as possible. A soft plop is heard, scarcely distinguishable from the slap of the waves against the runner's bow. This plop results from throwing overboard an empty keg, to which a line has been bent.

Slowly this keg is washed ashore, and as it reaches the beach several figures emerge from the shadows of the rock. Out on the small boat all is activity. Keg after keg is fitted with a bridge, attached to the line and lowered into the water, to be pulled to the beach by comrades ashore.

Thus the other day, thirteen small kegs of the malt, valued at $500 a keg, were landed upon the open beach. Trucks are kept waiting to haul the contraband way.

Has Changed From Old Free-For-All Method

The running of liquor, moreover, has been changed from the old free-for-all methods. Rum syndicates have decided that the use of small boats for evading the coastguard patrol is a thing of the past and have turned their attention to schooners or steamers. The landing of a large consignment of liquor in the vicinity of New York calls for elaborate arrangements which begin at the very base of supply. First the ship is loaded with liquor at a point in England, France, Scotland, the Bahamas or the West Indies. Everything appears to be regular and clearance papers are issued for some port like Halifax, N.S. But the ship never reaches Halifax. Instead she cruises slowly toward the Atlantic coast, her clearance papers are forwarded by mail to Halifax and there, through men on the "inside," they are properly executed as if the ship reached her destination and discharged her cargo. Other clearance papers, showing the ship in ballast, bound from Halifax to any point desired, are issued.

At a point hundreds of miles off the Atlantic coast the rum ship, usually a large one, is met by several smaller steamers. Clearance papers showing the "mother ship" in ballast from Halifax are transferred aboard her from one of the smaller steamers and the cargo is jettisoned there at sea. When this operation is complete the mother ship is free to proceed on her way with impunity and capable of claiming, and of backing up her claim, with the proper papers, that she discharged her cargo at Halifax.

PROPHESIES THAT IF TAXATION CAN BE LOWERED, THIS COUNTRY WILL ENJOY GREAT PROSPERITY

London Newspapers Comment on Canadian General Election—Daily Telegraph States that Result for Mr. Meighen and His Supporters Is Especially Disappointing—Day Long Past When Canadian Election Could Affect Relations Between Dominions and England, Declares Daily Mail.

(Associated Press Despatch)

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 31.—The Daily Mail, commenting on the result of the election, says it has been a heavy blow to the Liberals now in office.

"The day is long past," it declares, "when a Canadian election could affect the relations between the Dominions and this country. Both the Liberals and Conservatives in Canada are equally loyal to the Empire and equally determined to maintain Canadian independence in her domestic affairs. That is the policy which we in Britain understand and respect. The Liberal defeat are to be explained by the period of bad trade through which Canada has been passing. The Conservatives have advocated a higher tariff, which would give Canadian industries better protection against United States dumping, and it appears that the country agrees with the Conservatives. Canadians have never believed in the wisdom of Cobdenism. The Liberals have been reluctant to raise the tariff and they have suffered in consequence.

"The future of Canada is assured," concludes the Daily Mail. "Her territory is one of the richest in the world and as the world fills up it will attract an ever increasing population. The harvest this year is excellent and if taxation can be lowered it is safe to prophesy that the prosperity which she knew before the war will be eclipsed by her progress in the immediate future."

A Stalemate in Canada.

Under the heading "a stalemate in Canada" the Daily Telegraph states that the result of the election for Hon. Mr. Meighen and his supporters is especially disappointing.

"They have more than doubled the number of Conservative seats in the last House of Commons," it says, "and they defeated no fewer than eight members of the Liberal cabinet and now find themselves, solely on account of the existence of a very small third party, practically equalled in voting strength in the next House of Commons by the two parties which, however, they may differ among themselves, are above all anti-Conservative. It is a bitter ending for the tale of sweeping individual victories won by Mr. Meighen's supporters. Whether he will consent to form a ministry is, at the time of writing, uncertain, but a ministry so formed must be in daily peril."

The Telegraph adds that the hopes and apprehensions which were centered in the brilliant personality of Hon. Mr. Patenaude were groundless. The old tradition of Laurier really had not been shaken, and the Catholic priesthood of Quebec, its most potent guardians, had not undergone that change of mind, of which there were said to be strong indications. "We can but wait the outcome," announces the paper in conclusion, "with such sympathy as is natural in a nation which has lately had its own painful experience of the weakening of utility in political affairs that is always threatened by the presence of three parties under a constitution that is common to this country and the Dominions."

No Question Of Secession From Empire.

The Morning Post remarks that there is no marked distinction between the Conservative and Liberal parties in Canada respecting the National policy. The change from a Liberal to a Conservative majority only indicated a general desire of the people to give the opposition party a chance to fulfill national desires more to the nation's satisfaction than has the existing administration. The Post emphasizes that in neither party is there any question of secession from the Empire. In both parties is the natural desire to exalt Canadian nationality.

"Happy, indeed, is the country confronted with issues no graver than questions which unite near as much as they divide Canadian political parties," comments the Post.

"Canadian election ends in deadlock," is the headline which the Daily Express splashes across its chief page with the sub heading: "Government may stay in office."

The Express declares that Canada's population appears in all its diversity when the people of the Dominion come to decide who shall govern them. Thus the vote was

OCTOBER SNOW AND FROST EXPERIENCED

(Associated Press Despatch)
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—October snow and frost are being experienced by a large portion of the Atlantic seaboard following similar conditions in the Midwest. Early snow records were broken in Connecticut, but heavier snowfalls were reported in Washington and Virginia. An inch and a half in New Haven, Conn., was the heaviest here in 52 years, but Washington and Northern Virginia had a two inch fall, the earliest since 1870. Warmer weather is predicted for tomorrow. An abatement of low temperature already is working its way east.

governed by geography.

A PHANTOM ELECTION

(Associated Press Despatch)
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Commenting on the inconclusive state of the Canadian vote under the heading "A phantom election," the New York Times says:

"The campaign was a curious one. To most Canadians unimpressive, Mr. Meighen's main contention was in effect that Canada was going to the devil. Unfortunately for him, the whole economic situation has changed for the better. Mr. Meighen requires a better issue. An air of unreality was felt in most of the utterances of the Conservative and Liberal leaders. Two extremely clever politicians were so clever that they forgot to be statesmen, that they forgot to do some extent to disgust the public. So, that this election is only a rehearsal."

The World says: "Premier King's defeat is so emphatic that he cannot delay his resignation. Holding precisely half the seats, he asked for a clear majority. The election has left Liberal weakness the one outstanding fact in a situation more confused than ever. Mr. King's Liberals feel the penalty of a party which pursues a compromise policy between two sets of extremists. Politically Canada goes back toward the two party system. Governmentally Canada has spoken for a stiffer tariff, for economy and for a more aggressive immigration policy. But the militant western provinces will not permit Conservatism to go too far."

CHANG'S ARMY CARRIES OUT MANOEUVRE

Strengthens His Feng Tien Position—Has Base from Which to Attack Rear of Advancing Enemy Forces.

TSING TAO, China, Oct. 31.—The three thousand Manchurian troops of Marshal Chang Tso Lin's forces, which left here on Tuesday aboard gunboats, have occupied Haichow in the province of Kiangsu. They met with little resistance. This manoeuvre strengthens Marshal Chang's Feng Tien position and gives him a base from which to attack the rear of the advancing enemy forces.

FARNBOROUGH, England, Oct. 31.—Juan De La Cierva's helicopter, which made several successful trial flights recently, crashed here today. The under-carriage was driven through the fuselage. Pilot Haig escaped uninjured.

CHILDREN LIKE THEM

Baby's Own Tablets Are Effective and Easy to Give.

You do not have to coax and threaten to get the little ones to take Baby's Own Tablets. The ease with which they are given, as compared with liquid medicines, will appeal to every mother. None is spilled or wasted; you know just how big a dose has reached the little stomach. As a remedy for the ills of childhood arising from derangements of the stomach and bowels they are most satisfactory.

Mrs. Rose Voyer, Willimantic, Conn., says: "I used Baby's Own Tablets in the Canadian Northwest and found them a wonderful medicine for children's troubles, especially indigestion and constipation. I have also given them to my children for simple fever and the restlessness accompanying teething and they always gave relief. I can recommend Baby's Own Tablets to all mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Feel Glorious!
Nicest Laxative,
"Cascarets" 10c

Don't stay headachy, bilious, constipated, sick! One or two pleasant, candy-like "Cascarets" any time will gently stimulate your liver and start your bowels. Then you will both look and feel clean, sweet, refreshed; your head clear, stomach right, tongue pink and your skin rosy.

Because cheery, harmless "Cascarets" never grip, inconvenience or sicken, "Cascarets" has become the largest selling laxative in the world for men, women and children. Buy a box at any drugstore.

"So this is Your Birthday, Grandmother."

"YES, dearie, I am seventy-five years old to-day. It doesn't seem possible, for I don't feel old."

"And you certainly do not look old. Besides, you are always so happy and cheerful that you do not seem at all old."

"A woman is only as old as she looks, you know, and I have always tried to keep young and healthy."

"And were you never sick, grandmother?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, there was a time in my life when I never expected to live to be fifty, say nothing about seventy-five. When your mother and my other children were small I had my hands full and got run down in health. I got so nervous that I could not sleep and had frequent headaches. Every little thing the children would do seemed to annoy and worry me until, finally, I gave out entirely, and was in bed for months with nervous prostration."

"Did you have a doctor?"

"Yes, dearie, I had two or three doctors, but they only told me that it would take a long time for me to regain strength. One day your grandfather came in with some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. He said some one told him that it would restore me, and he went away to the drug store and bought half a dozen boxes."

"What did your doctor say about using it?"

"Well, what could he say? He only said that he had done all he could, and that he had run across a great many cases in which the Nerve Food had been used with excellent results. So I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it was not long before I was on the way to health and strength."

"And did it make you well?"

"Well, the best evidence is that I am here to-day, well and happy, after all these years. And I am more than ever enthusiastic for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for I have used it several times during the last few years when I felt that I needed some assistance to keep up vitality. As a person gets older I think their blood gets thinner, and they seem to need something like Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to increase their strength and vigor."

"That is something worth knowing, grandmother."

"If you will take my advice, dearie, you will not forget about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when you get run down, tired out and nervous. This has been my advice to a great many people, and I know that it has done them good."

COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS

Pains and Headaches Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dublin, Ontario.—"I was weak and irregular, with pains and headaches, and could not sleep nights. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by reading the letters in the newspapers and tried it because I wanted to get better. I have got good results from it as I feel a lot stronger and am not troubled with such bad headaches as I used to be and am more regular. I am gaining in weight all the time and I tell my friends what kind of medicine I am taking. You may use my letter as a help to others."—Mrs. JAMES RACHO, Box 12, Dublin, Ontario.

Halifax Nurse Recommends

Halifax, N. S.—"I am a maternity nurse and have recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to many women who were childless, also to women who need a good tonic. I am English and my husband is American, and he told me of Lydia E. Pinkham while in England. I would appreciate a copy or two of your little books on women's ailments. I have one which I keep to lend. I will willingly answer letters from any woman asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. S. M. COLEMAN, 24 Uniacke St., Halifax, Nova Scotia.

MANSONVILLE

On Sunday and Monday, October 25 and 26, special anniversary services were conducted in the United Church at Mansonville. The special speaker for Sunday was Rev. Henry Mick, S.T.D., of Stanstead, who delivered two very able and inspiring addresses. Much value was added to the services by Miss Doris Thomas, of Ayer's Cliff, who rendered two very fine solos.

On Monday evening, after a supper which was bountifully provided by the Ladies' Aid, a splendid programme was enjoyed by members and friends of the congregation. In addition to Dr. Mick, who delivered an address on the "Challenge of the Year," there was present Rev. T. B. Moody, B.D., of Beebe, who made a scholarly and convincing presentation of the needs of Canada in relation to her young life.

A very fine musical programme was provided by Miss Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Berry, of Beebe, whose duets were especially enjoyed, and Mrs. T. B. Moody, who did excellent duty at the organ.

The friends of the United Church at Mansonville will not soon forget the debt of gratitude they owe to those who came so far under unfavorable weather conditions to provide inspiration and entertainment for their anniversary services.

The Masons held the opening of their new hall on Tuesday evening, October 20, at which time the building was dedicated. A banquet prepared by the Masons' wives and served pleasantly by several young ladies was attended by about eighty-five Masons.

Owing to the bad roads and unfavorable weather not as many as expected attended.

Rev. J. C. Eastcott preached at Beebe on Sunday morning.

Mrs. E. N. Daine recently spent a few days in Mansonville.

Mrs. L. Gagne has been visiting her daughter at North Troy.

Mrs. Roy Peasley motored to Newport on Tuesday, accompanied by Mrs. Henry McGill, Mrs. H. E.

A TONIC TO RESTORE BLOOD AND NERVES

Thousands of Work-worn, Weary Women Have Gained New Health and New Vitality Through The Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

There are many women who pass their days in a constant state of weariness. They have barely sufficient energy to enable them to perform their manifold duties. Often they have an aching head, a miserable pain in the back, and limbs that feel as heavy as lead. The whole trouble is due to bloodlessness. This is not only pale faces and white lips; it is the root of many of the pains and miseries from which women suffer. It is said that anaemia causes nine-tenths of women's ailments. Lack of blood robs a woman of all her energy; she loses her breath when going upstairs, becomes despondent and irritable, and seems to lose interest in life.

A woman with plenty of healthy red blood in her veins finds work in the home easy. She asks for no pity; her vitality is at par. This points the way to health for others. Make new blood. You can do it with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills have the marvellous property of renewing the blood and toning up the nerves. Your improved appetite and digestion will show the effect of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Your fatigue and your backache, your headaches and depression will vanish. You will find new joy in living.

Hardly Able to Walk.

If your nerves are frayed, if you lack ambition, have no appetite, and are short of breath after slight exertion, the trouble is almost always due to poor blood. In case of this kind you should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to build up the blood. They help to enrich and purify the blood from top to last dose, and in this way bring new health and strength to weak, run-down people. Mrs. John Timmins, Elmville, Ont., tells of the benefit Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were to her, as follows: "I became very weak and was hardly able to walk and had to be helped upstairs. I had no appetite and slept poorly at night. I finally went to a doctor who told me the trouble was lack of blood and that my condition was serious. He gave me medicine, which I took faithfully, but did not improve. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and did so, and after I had taken two or three boxes, felt that they were helping me. I could eat better, and I slept better. I continued using the pills for some time longer and quite recovered my old-time strength and feel that I have to thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I am not an invalid today."

Headaches and Indigestion.

Almost every woman at the head of a home meets daily with little worries in her household affairs. They may be too small to notice an hour afterwards, but it is the same little worries that break down the health of so many women. Their effect may be noticed in nervous headaches, fickle appetite, indigestion, pains in the side and back, and a sallow complexion. To those afflicted in this way, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, by improving and purifying the blood, bring speedy relief.

Among thousands of weak women who have tested and proved the worth of this medicine is Mrs. Gustave Hut, of Belleville, Man., who says: "It is with profound thanks that I write to tell you what Dr.

Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. Before I began taking these pills I was weak, and my blood thin and watery. I was so thin that I looked like a skeleton. I was troubled with headaches and indigestion, did not sleep well, and was terribly constipated. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I soon found that they were just what I needed. Under their use my appetite returned, my food digested properly and I slept better at night, and gained in flesh as well as strength. The result is that now I am a perfectly healthy woman, and there is no doubt that it is due to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a supply of which I now always keep in the house, and I would advise other women to do the same."

Weary and Run-Down.

To get new health and strength the blood must be enriched. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do in cases of this kind is told by Mrs. Augusta Emery, Woodford Station, Alta., who says: "Living on the prairie, and knowing that there are thousands of women like my self miles away from a doctor, I want to tell you what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. After my first baby was born I seemed to have little energy. I felt weary and run-down and unable to do even the ordinary household duties. I felt I needed a tonic and as I had long seen Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised I decided to try them. I got a supply and carefully followed the directions and before very long the result was wonderful. Day by day I regained my former strength and energy. The pills seemed to give me a keen appetite and I gained in weight and soon was able not only to do my work about the house, but to help with many chores on the farm. For this reason I would advise women, particularly those on the prairie or the farm, to keep a supply of these pills always on hand. One trial will convince you of their worth. I have recommended them to many of my friends and never have they failed to produce good results."

Nerves Sound as Ever.

There is no torture more intolerable than nervousness. The sufferer starts at every noise, is shaky and depressed. The least thing produces a feeling of irritation, and nights are often sleepless. Often although in a completely exhausted condition, the patient is unable to sit or lie still. The nerves are in this jaded condition because they are being starved by poor, watery blood, and to restore them to a normal condition the blood must be made rich and pure. For this purpose no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly upon the blood; they bring to it the elements necessary to enrich and purify it, thus bringing new health and strength to run-down, nerve-worn people. There is no doubt about this; thousands have testified to the blood-improving, nerve-restoring qualities of these pills. Among these is Mrs. Aubrey Coldwell, Melanson, N.S., who says: "I was badly run-down and my nerves were in a terrible condition. I would start at the least sound and often faint away. I could not sleep at night, and only those who have been in a similar condition can tell what I suffered. At my mother's request I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking them for several months I am surprised at my present condition of good health. My nerves are as sound as ever; I can sleep well, eat well, and have no more fainting spells. I can only say that I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too much for what they have done for me."

Brought Back to Health.

A woman with plenty of healthy red blood in her veins finds work in the home easy; her vitality is at par. This points the way to health in women who feel run-down and depressed. Make new rich blood. You can do it with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills have the marvellous property of building up the blood and toning up the nerves. That is proved by the case of Mrs. H. Eppinger, Scott street, Vancouver, B. C., who says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills brought back my health and strength and restored my nerves to normal condition after other medicines had failed. It was after the birth of my second child that I became so anemic and nervous that I thought I would lose my mind as well as my strength. I tried several medicines, but got no relief until I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using a few boxes of these I could see a change. I felt stronger; my appetite was better. I slept better, and my nerves were stronger. I continued the use of the pills for some time, and again found myself a well woman, and I can sincerely say that my health has since been the best. I can cheerfully recommend the pills to all weak, run-down women."

An Operation Avoided.

At special periods a woman needs a medicine to regulate her blood supply, or her life will be a round of pain and suffering. It is at such times that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold, for they make the new rich blood that banishes the symptoms of distress that only women know. The better blood that comes with the use of these pills strengthens every vital organ and brings womanly health and happiness. This is fully proved by the case of Mrs. G. Wittmuth, Arcola, Sask., who says: "I am one of the many for whom Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done wonders. About three years ago I was so weak that I could not do my housework, or even go about without feeling utterly worn out. The doctor suggested that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but this I refused to undergo, and I returned home almost in despair. My trouble was all due to the lingering change of life. At this stage I read an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. By the time I had used six boxes there was no doubt they were just what I needed, and under their continued use for some time my health was fully restored, and since that time I have been in the best of health. I am writing this letter in the hope that it may induce some other suffering women to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and regain their health."

A little book, "Building Up the Blood," containing many valuable health suggestions, will be sent free to any address upon request.

These pills are sold by medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50c. a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Never Let a Cold Get a Start.

Vapors Check a Cold Overnight

There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way with vapors that can be inhaled.

Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath.

Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like a "vapor lamp in salve form."

When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight.

Plans made for Armistice Day.

Lennoxville plans to celebrate Armistice day this year on Sunday afternoon, November 8th.

A parade, which will include the principal civic body, cadets, scouts, fraternal societies, and patriotic organizations as well as the children of the public schools, will form at the High School, proceeding to the square, led by the Lennoxville band. A short memorial ceremony will be gone through and an opportunity given for the placing of wreaths, at the base of the soldiers' memorial.

A new flag pole has been erected on the square during the week to replace one of several years' standing, and a feature of the programme on Armistice Sunday will be a flag-raising.

Further arrangements will be made at a later meeting of the committee, which has the matter in hand.

General Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Davidson and two daughters, Allie and Tola, have returned from a visit to friends in Boston and Lowell, Mass.

"REFORMATION DAY" WILL BE OBSERVED.

"Reformation Day" will be observed at the Baptist Church on Sunday. The Orange Lodge of this city will be present at the morning service. The pastor will preach on "The Central Doctrine of the Reformation."

In the evening the first of a series of Sunday evening sermons will be given on "The Imitations of Jesus," Mrs. Trenholme will sing in the morning, and there will be an anthem by the choir in the evening.

The ordinance of the Lord's Supper and the reception of new members will take place at the close of the evening service. Strangers and friends are cordially invited to participate in the celebration of this important event in the history of the world.

TONIGHT IS HALLOWE'EN.

This evening is Allhallow Even, the vigil of All Saints' Day and the last night of the autumn month of October, which has come down through the ages as a night of mystery, a night of witches and cats, of xogleg-eyed pumpkins and mischievous pranks.

No date on the calendar has such a variety of names as that of October 31st. In the ancient calendar of the Church of Rome, there is the following observation on the 1st of November.

"The feast of Old Fools is removed to this day." The writer who gives this statement adds: "It was perhaps afterwards removed to the first of April."

In the north of England, October 31st was called Nutcrack Night; other names were Allhallow Even; the Eve of All Souls, and the commonly known "Hallowe'en," which, to the people of today means much the same as to those living two or three centuries ago, a night of witchery.

Several instances give rise, however, to show that the celebrations of modern times, although had enough in the estimation of peace loving citizens, are mild in comparison with those of times far back, when weird ceremonies, quaint games of strength and agility and the romantic notion of peeping into the future formed the basis of people's merry-making. Customs change with the centuries, however, and, as modernism has swept away much of the old time superstition, the observance of Hallowe'en has changed somewhat.

Remnants of many quaint customs of Druidism can be detected in the gaiety of Hallowe'en pranks and games, and the young people, as well as the mischievous boy, can rest assured that they are only following traditions when they play pranks, which do not include the wonted destruction of property.

The city will be the scene of many gay masquerade parties this evening, while the beginning of next week will also have its share of the celebrating of the old festival.

DE FEO OPERA COMPANY TO VISIT SHERBROOKE.

The De Feo Opera Company, of New York, has been engaged at His Majesty's Theatre for one day only, on Saturday next, November 7, and it is expected that the appearance of this well known company will meet with the general approval of Sherbrooke theatre-goers and music lovers.

Two performances will be given by the company, a matinee at which "Carmen" will be presented, and "Manon" will be given in the evening.

The De Feo Company is said to be specially strong in its tenor section. De Feo who is a connoisseur himself has secured the strongest tenors available. He will introduce here such great tenors as Leonardo del Credo, the forte Italian tenor; another great tenor in the company is Rinaldo Schenone, who was with La Scala Opera in Milan last year, under Toscanini.

A marvellous lyric tenor is announced in the person of Edouard Millire, well known in Montreal where he appeared two seasons ago with great success as leading tenor with the De Feo Company and last season as leading tenor with the Farrar Opera Co. Another tenor of high repute in the operatic world is Hubert Adler who sang leading parts with the Boston Opera Company in New York last month and who has been secured by the De Feo Company.

SCOUTS HELD SUCCESSFUL HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

A merry scene of Hallowe'en festivities reigned at the Sons of England Hall last evening, when about sixty young people, composing the Scouts of the 2nd Troop and their lady friends, gathered to celebrate All Hallowe'en.

THREE THEFT CASES WERE BEFORE COURT

Jean Lapointe Pleaded Not Guilty and Henry Pelletier Guilty to Breaking into Summer Homes—Harold Cartwright Pleads Guilty to Three Charges.

Three outstanding cases which have been on the Magistrate's Court roll for several days past, and which have been attracting considerable interest, were dealt with yesterday by Judge J. H. Lemay. These were the cases of Jean Lapointe, Henry Pelletier and Harold Cartwright, all of this city, who were arrested at different times on charges of theft.

Pelletier, who was arrested with Lapointe in connection with robberies at five summer homes in the vicinity recently, pleaded guilty to the charge, and was remanded until Wednesday of next week for sentence. Lapointe, however, pleaded not guilty. A preliminary hearing was given and sufficient proof was brought forth to warrant his appearance before a jury at the Court of King's Bench.

Cartwright, the seventeen-year-old lad who was arrested on three different charges of theft, pleaded guilty to the charges, and was also remanded until Wednesday next for sentence.

Summer Homes Entered.

It will be remembered that several days ago five summer homes situated in a group on the Magog River bank, a short distance outside the city limits, and belonging to local citizens, were broken into, completely ransacked and a quantity of clothing and other articles taken in each case.

Both Lapointe and Pelletier have already served a term in the local jail. Following the hearing yesterday, Lapointe, who was ordered to stand his trial before the Court of King's Bench, asked for bail. Bail was placed at one thousand dollars on each charge, making a total of four thousand dollars.

Owing to the fact that he is unable to secure the amount, he is being held at the local jail.

Cartwright Faces Three Charges.

Harold Cartwright, who was temporarily engaged by the Sherbrooke Steam Laundry, as assistant to the delivery man, is facing three charges of theft.

It will be remembered that Cartwright was arrested by the Sherbrooke authorities charged with the theft of thirty-five dollars from the Y.M.C.A., ten dollars from the Sherbrooke Steam Laundry, and also with breaking into Mr. C. O. Palmer's insurance office in the Record office building. When he appeared yesterday he pleaded guilty to all three charges.

"SALADA"

TEA

is remarkable for its rich strength & delicious fragrance. 300 cups to the pound. Try it.

Healthy Hair
Gleamy, Thick, Wavy
—Full of Life

Modern style in hair dress, particularly constant curling and waving, is slowly burning the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, streaked with gray; often the hair roots shrink, then the hair falls out fast.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing, fragrant "Danderine" will do wonders for any girl's hair. This vitalizing beauty-cream acts on the hair like fresh showers of rain and sunshine act on vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

Try this for one week! While combing and dressing your hair, moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair—the effect is startling! Your hair immediately takes on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, becomes incomparably soft, wavy and appears twice as thick and abundant.

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Reid have gone to Quebec to spend a few days.

Mrs. H. Desaulniers, of Windsor Mills, is spending a few days in the city.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Darche, King street west, have returned from Philadelphia, where they spent the past few days.

Mr. T. C. Lyster, of Melbourne, returned home today after a short visit with his brother, Mr. P. A. Lyster, and Mrs. H. Tree, Walton Avenue.

The many friends of Mr. Charles Pearson, Sr., of the Albion Hotel, will be sorry to learn that he suffered a stroke, which necessitated his removal to the Sherbrooke Hospital this morning.

Miss Ivy Berwick, Quebec street, is in Montreal the guest of Miss May Frankish. While there Miss Berwick will attend a masquerade dance given by Miss Marie Ganatake.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rowley have returned from their wedding trip, and are week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Armitage, Strensallwood, Montreal Road.

An enjoyable afternoon was spent in Plymouth Church at the last meeting of the Mayflower Mission Band, the occasion being a Halloween party. Decorations in keeping with the festival were used, and a pleasant time was spent playing games. The leaders, the Misses Coon, Viola Richards and Vina Brownlow, were in charge, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Richards and Miss Doris MacIntyre.

Guests registered at the New Sherbrooke House include Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Prouty, Mrs. A. H. Grant, Mrs. F. R. Sherman and Mrs. E. J. Prouty, of Newport, Vt.; Mr. Wm. Higginson, of New York City; Mr. R. S. Alexander, of Toronto, Ont.; Mr. N. Silvero, of Quebec City; Miss Rhoda W. Husband, of Compton; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sprague, of Rochester, N.Y.; and Miss Grace Walton, of New York City; Mr. A. Blanchet, of Victoriaville.

The Halloween Cafe Dansant which the St. Francis Chapter of the I.O.D.E. gave last evening in the Masonic Temple, Montreal Street, was a great success. The hall looked very attractive, the decorations being of a Halloween nature. The lights around the hall were shaded in orange and black, and the platform for the orchestra was decorated with a large jack-o-lantern and black cats on an orange background. Exceptionally good music was furnished by Turcott's orchestra, and dancing was kept up till midnight. The committee in charge included Mrs. Alex Blue, regent of the chapter, Mrs. S. R. Fuller, Mrs. H. B. Wilson, Mrs. E. G. Graves, Mrs. M. W. Mitchell and Mrs. Allan Bayley.

A most enjoyable evening was spent in St. Andrew's Church Hall last evening, the occasion being a joint meeting of the C. G. I. T., Trail Rangers and Tuxis groups in the form of a Halloween party. The hall presented a brilliant spectacle with appropriate decorations and costumes of the young folk, who were dressed to impersonate everything from a Chinaman to a very frail old lady. The usual games were played, including ducking for apples, etc., while the different groups each put on a "stunt," all of which proved most interesting and humorous. The junior C. G. I. T. group, under Mrs. G. D. MacKinnon, depicted "The seven ages of man" in a clever way; Miss Helen Robertson and her intermediate group put on a short act, "The Toy Shop"; the senior group, under Mrs. W. R. Price, presented a meeting of the Ladies' Aid; the Tuxis group, in charge of Mr. Valmer Bouchard, demonstrated four highly trained "polar bears"; and the Trail Rangers, with Mr. Lennox Keeler and Mr. Roderick Bouchard in charge, furnished some music with a jazz orchestra. Refreshments brought a very enjoyable event to a close, and all left for their respective homes feeling that it had been an evening well spent.

The regularly weekly meeting of the 53rd Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire was held at the home of Mrs. T. C. Wilson, King street west, on Thursday afternoon. It was a large and enthusiastic gathering of members, and a very busy hour was spent. Arrangements are well under way for the coming sale, which will be held some time during the first part of November. Following the business meeting, enjoyable refreshments were served by the hostess, who was assisted by her daughter, Miss Lillian Wilson.

CITY BRIEFLETS

TOMORROW IS ALL SAINTS' DAY

Tomorrow, in practically all churches of the city, especially in the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches, will be observed the feast of All Saints' Day. This feast is held in order that Christians may set aside one particular day of the year in which to honor the saints. At the services tomorrow special sermons appropriate to the day will be given in many of the churches.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW INCREASE

The bank clearings for the week ending October 29th, according to figures furnished by the Sherbrooke Clearing House, were $705,427.93, which is an increase of $11,719.74 over the same period last year, when the clearings were $693,708.19.

An increase of $32,827.95 is also shown for the past week when compared with the corresponding week in 1923, when the figures totalled $672,199.98.

COMMUNION SUNDAY AT ST. ANDREW'S

This Sunday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church is Communion Sabbath. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed at both the morning and the evening hours of worship. The services will be conducted by Rev. Alfred Bright and the subjects of the sermons are "Reconciled to God by the Death of Jesus" and "The Intention of His Soul."

The Church School meets at 2:30 p.m. in the Church hall. The Children's department meets in the Church at the same hour.

ELKS MASQUERADE PROVED DECIDED SUCCESS

Last evening's masquerade dance, held under the auspices of the B. P.O.E. in their hall on Wellington Street, was a most enjoyable affair, which, with the paper hats and serpentine, presented a genuine Halloween appearance.

Prizes were awarded for the best costumes as follows: ladies' first, Miss Irene Croft, as a "necrotic"; ladies' second, Miss Lucy Drew, as a Spanish senorita; gentlemen's first, Mr. Bayer, as a female impersonator; second, Mr. Cyril Green, as a buccaneer.

Those who acted as judges were Mrs. G. R. Feltus, Mrs. L. P. Langis, Mrs. O. J. Gendron, and Messrs. O. A. Ray, Fred Gyes and Forest Keene.

Westclox

An important purchase

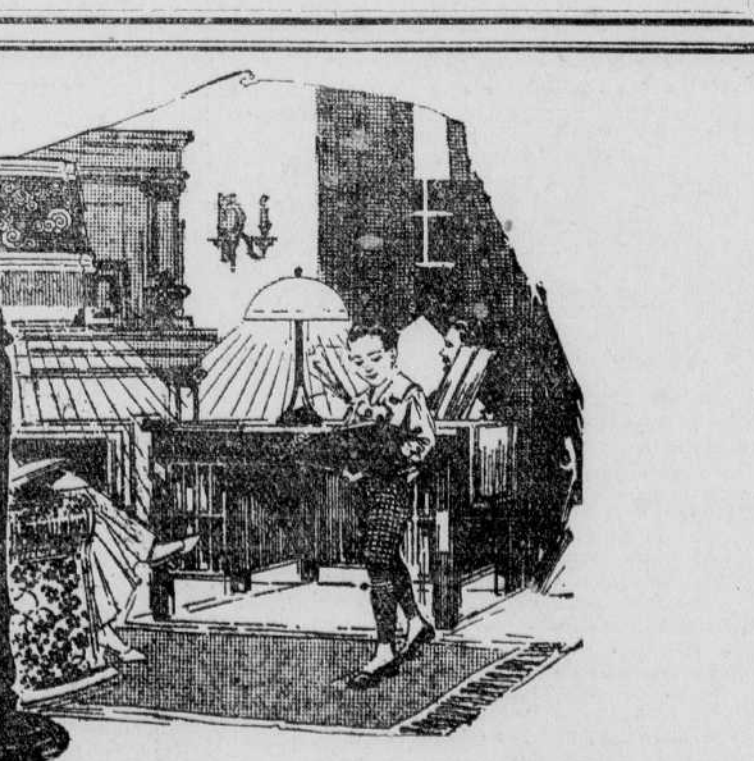

BECAUSE of the low prices at which alarm clocks are sold the purchase of one is often considered unimportant.

But if you stop to think of the important duties the alarm clock is asked to perform, you will probably agree that some care should be given its selection.

It is an easy matter to select a good clock. You can choose as skillfully as an expert. Simply look for the trade mark Westclox on the dial. That mark stands for forty years of alarm clock making. Forty years during which the sole thought has been to make dependable timepieces. That trade mark Westclox is worth looking for.

AMERICAN TROOPS KEEPING ORDER IN PANAMA

Upon the request of President Chiari of Panama, three battalions from the 33rd Infantry at Fort Clayton, Canal Zone, were called in to protect Panama City from rioters. The capital city of Panama was menaced by disorders of the workmen, led on by radicals, who threatened to destroy the city unless rents were reduced. The American troops were sent in to protect property and maintain order.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

The later returns do not improve the prospect of a definite majority at Ottawa for the leading party in Thursday's elections. This is unfortunate.

Despatches from Ottawa state that the MacKenzie King Government may find in this fact a justification for holding on. This hardly seems reasonable. Whatever the final returns may be, the Liberals have definitely lost in the election, becoming the second instead of dominant group and eight members of the late cabinet suffered defeat. This certainly cannot be construed into a mandate to continue. And about the last thing the country wants is a Union Government formed by a combination of Liberal and Progressive groups. Such a Government could not stand in the face of protectionist sentiment in the Quebec contingent and no effective administration could be expected.

What the country now requires is to get down to business. The elections have been fought and the results are gradually becoming definitely known. When the returns are all in, the dominant group should be entrusted with the administration. If it cannot carry on, the fact will develop in its own good time.

THE CASE OF E. W. TOBIN, M.P.

In the new Parliament, E. W. Tobin, M.P., for Richmond and Wolfe, will have no senior in length of service. Elected first in 1900, he now enters upon his seventh parliamentary term at Ottawa. And there has never been any serious question of replacing him in the affections of his electors.

The secret of Mr. Tobin's hold upon his constituency is not difficult to find. He works for Richmond-Wolfe all the time. He literally sleeps with one eye open, while at Ottawa, in case some opportunity of getting something for the folks down home should slip by. And when he gets on the track of a job for a supporter or a bridge or even a wharf it's a safe bet he's going to land it if enthusiasm and perseverance will accomplish the task.

Mr. Tobin believes in service to his constituency and when election time comes round he reaps his reward in the multitude of electors that flock to the polls to vote for him.

"LAST OF THE OLD GUARD."

The Sherbrooke political contest has been watched with a good deal of interest from points outside of Sherbrooke. The developments of each day, at times pointing to the election of Mr. McCrea by acclamation, again indicating a three-cornered fight and finally the withdrawal of the Independent Liberal Protectionist, were all reported in the outside press.

The Montreal Star, in its editorial column, refers to Mr. McCrea as the last of the old guard and introduces its comment with the familiar Napoleonic quotation, "The old Guard dies but never surrenders."

Continuing the Star says:

F. N. McCrea has preferred political death rather than the hauling down of his colors in the face of the enemy.

For fourteen years Mr. McCrea has represented the Sherbrooke division in the House of Commons. He is a Liberal of the old school, proud of having served under Laurier and of being associated with Fielding.

McCrea did not fight alone. Gouin, the very quintessence of Liberalism, shuddered to see the economic edifice which more than a quarter of a century of effort had enabled him to build up in Quebec threatened with demolition by the crack-brained and opportunist schemes of the new leaven of the Liberal party. Gouin would have none of their tinkering and their new-fangled American notions, and more in sorrow than in anger quietly slipped out of the party.

Walter Mitchell refused to acknowledge the new leadership and withdrew from the service rather than stand in the company of renegades and mercenaries.

Herbert Marler protested vociferously enough when he was out of office, but he took the shilling. He did not go out—he went IN. That left McCrea on guard alone. And now McCrea is gone.

The so-called Protectionist Liberals have lost all their sentinels. The citadel may be taken by the anti-Protectionists at will.

LOCARNO AS A MILESTONE IN HISTORY

Throughout the world, the accomplishment of the Locarno Conference is regarded as worthy of being recorded among the great events of history.

The Literary Digest in its introductory review says:

In the early evening of Friday, October 16th, two men, one long-haired and brigandish in appearance, the other plump and bald, appeared, arm in arm and smiling, at a brightly lighted window of the court house of the little red-roofed Swiss town of Locarno and bowed to a waiting crowd outside that burst into cheers at their appearance. Another waved from the window a paper tied with ribbon, and the cheers were redoubled. At the same time fireworks blazed against the darkening sky and the encircling mountains, and shot their many-colored reflections across the waters of Lake Maggiore. The two men were Aristide Briand, Foreign Minister of France, and Hans Luther, Chancellor of the German Republic, and the paper was the just-signed security pact which was destined to be one of the most famous documents of history.

This momentary picture, sketched in the dispatches of the correspondents, in a sense symbolizes the results of the Locarno Conference—results which mark, in the opinion of many observers, the dawn of a new era of peace and good-will in Europe. France and Belgium and Germany, the ancient enemies, have promised, in effect, never to fight again. And as an earnest of good faith they have signed five treaties and have agreed that between them shall stand a demilitarized zone along the Rhine which neither will cross to attack the other. To re-enforce this security

Great Britain and Italy promise to go to the military assistance of either nation which shall be the victim of aggression by the other. In addition to this Rhineland security pact the German representatives at Locarno signed arbitration treaties with Poland and Czechoslovakia, with whom Germany has troublesome boundary disputes pending. While all these agreements are regional, their influence for peace, it is generally predicted, will be world-wide. Thus Premier Painlevé, commending the conferees for their recognition of the fact that Franco-German reconciliation must necessarily constitute the corner-stone of European reconciliation, exclaims: "Is there a Frenchman who does not feel at the bottom of his heart that something magnificent and unthought for has been accomplished at Locarno?"

Not only does the work of Locarno conference restore Germany to her place as an equal in the European family of nations, provide for her entry into the League, and prepare the way for the drastic reduction of Europe's armaments, we are told, but it may even mean the beginning of a new European solidarity that will ultimately make real the dream of a United States of Europe. "The treaties framed at Locarno may become the framework of an economic United States of Europe," remarks Maximilian Harden, the German publicist; and the correspondents attribute almost the same words to that veteran French statesman, Aristide Briand. On the opening day of the conference, Chancellor Luther made a speech in which he argued that Europe must organize itself in order to keep its rank among the continents; and his words aroused such a response, the correspondents tell us, that already "the European idea has taken its place beside the merely national idea."

If this pact removes the menace of war in Europe it will, indeed, have an immense influence upon the fate of the whole world. With the shadow of impending struggle lifted, there is hope of prosperity and happiness for the people of that frequently stricken continent.

FREE 3,000 YEARS OLD.

A Juniper tree three thousand years old has been discovered in Utah. From a study of its rings it is found that the first two inches of its growth took about two hundred years, and that later it grew at the rate of two inches every sixty years. It has stood erect longer, perhaps, than any structure raised by man except the Pyramids.

NO REASON FOR SECRECY.

(Toronto Globe)
If Canadian officials on the steamer Arctic actually did convey to the MacMillan party information that it was exploring in Canadian territory without a permit there can be no sound reason for concealing the fact. For decades Canada has claimed ownership of all Arctic areas converging upon the North Pole, and there was general surprise and not a little mild indignation when Donald MacMillan and his party went into the Far North with the evident intention of placing the Stars and Stripes on certain undiscovered, or more properly, unexplored, areas. It was quite the proper thing for the Canadian Government to intimate politely but firmly to the explorer that he must apply for a license for his expedition; and if this has now been done, why not say so? Once equipped with a permit, MacMillan and his conferees may map and explore to their heart's content, provided they stop short of planting a foreign flag upon what has always been regarded as Canadian territory.

SOUTH BOLTON INSTITUTE HELD MEETING

Several Business Matters of Importance Discussed—Interesting Papers Read—Other South Bolton News Items of Interest.

SOUTH BOLTON, Que., Oct. 31.—The regular meeting of the South Bolton W. I. was held in the Institute hall on Wednesday, October 14, with nine members and several visitors present. The president, Mrs. W. Needham, presided. The minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted. The equipment for lunch presented to the Institute by the trustees of the Fisher Trust Fund have arrived and were used for the first time and duly appreciated and admired. It was decided at this meeting to give prizes in money to all pupils receiving 75 p.c. and over in their final school examinations to be given in the three schools as formerly, namely, South Bolton, Bolton Centre and Potton No. 7. Other matters relating to the schools were taken under consideration.

The first prize essay written by rural school teachers, formerly of Knowlton Academy, on "How I Can Improve the Moral Manners and Health of My Pupils," won by Mrs. Frances Pibus, was read during the meeting.

The subject of the meeting was "Child Welfare," and Mrs. W. Durrill, convener, read a very instructive and interesting paper on that subject, setting forth the benefit to be received from regularity in feeding and care in every way of young children, and stating the bad results which were likely to occur from neglect of proper and regular care, emphasizing the fact that this care should not cease at the age of one and two years, but should continue as the child grows up.

The next meeting will be held November 11, when it is hoped every member will be present.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. D. E. Coates, and a very pleasant social hour spent.

General Notes.

Mr. H. G. Lane, C.P.R. station agent, who has been spending his holidays in Montreal, returned home on Saturday.

Mrs. John Eubank is home after spending two weeks with relatives in St. Johnsbury, Vt. Her little niece, Miss Virginia Blodgett, returned with her for a time.

Mr. and Mrs. David Blodgett motored to St. Johnsbury, Vt., with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lachance, where they will be guests of their children.

Mr. Geo. Pibus went to Mansonville on Saturday.

Mrs. Hiram Gardner has been ill and confined to her bed. Dr. Harris, of Knowlton, is in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Fuller have moved back to their home here, Mr. Fuller going to his blacksmith shop at Knowlton daily with his car.

Quite a number from here attended the political meetings at Bolton Centre on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Mr. Nelson Taylor has been indisposed, but is now improved. Inspector Taylor visited the school here on Friday.

Mr. O. Vail visited his daughter, Miss H. Vail, at the McMannis House on Friday.

Mr. Edwin Gaylor went to Mansonville on Monday. Miss H. Vail spent the week-end with her brother and family, Mr. Harold Vail, at Knowlton.

Mr. Geo. Taylor has been laid up for the past three weeks with rheumatism.

Mr. Wm. Pibus' condition remains about the same. His brother, Mr. Geo. Pibus, and two sons, of Bolton P.s., visited him last week.

Messrs. A. G. and G. Fuller went

Since that time she had lived practically alone in her home in Tingwick village.

DAVIDSON HILL AND BETHEL

A meeting was held in the hall on October 27 at 2 p.m. in the interests of the Liberal party. Hon. Geo. H. Boivin, Liberal candidate for Shefford County, addressed the audience in both French and English. Mr. Bullock, M.P., in a few well chosen words asked the people for their wholehearted support on behalf of Mr. Boivin, touching on their mutual friendship and co-operation during the past fourteen years. He also spoke of the reduction in the national debt under the King Government, the value of the Canadian dollar, etc. Many attended from this place, as well as Roxton Falls, South Durham, Sta. Christine and Bethany.

An important fact about CHEVROLET

Chevrolet closed models have body by Fisher

NEARLY two decades have elapsed since the first Fisher-built bodies established their reputation for unusual quality and artistry. Today the insignia, Body by Fisher, stands, not only for fine material and appearance, but for sturdy construction and craftsmanship that could only be acquired through years of experience.

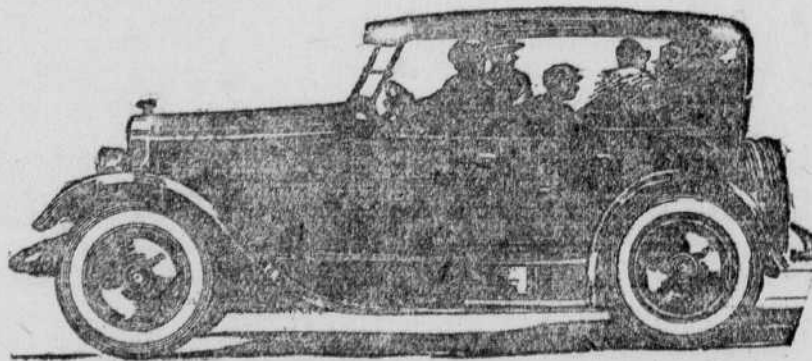

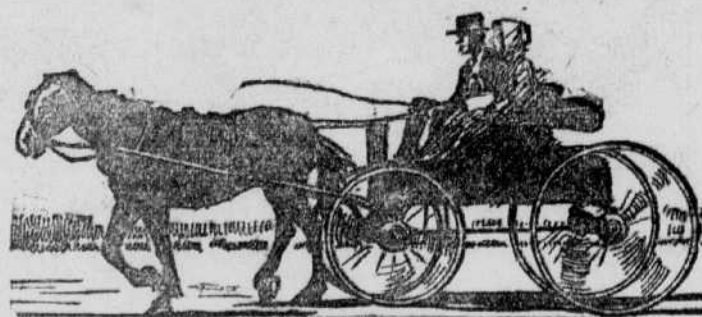

Chevrolet is the only low-priced car that can claim the distinction of "Bodies by Fisher".

THERE are still two obsolete habits which we should do away with if we have at heart the future and progress of our Province--these are the outside catalog and the patronage we bestow on peddlers.

Let us forsake these ruinous habits of doing our shopping in a way that will be more profitable to ourselves and our people: encourage our own merchants--buy at home.

By so doing we will contribute to the general prosperity, ensure employment at reasonable wages and we'll soon find out that our merchants are always in a position to offer goods of equal or better quality for a lesser price than we could obtain from peddlers.

The Vital Flame

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions by May Christie

"Better to steam it open. If I'm mistaken as to the writer, the girl might just as well get her mail."

He filled a small electric kettle from a jug of water, switched the current on, and waited. Then, when steam poured out, he held the flap of the envelope over the warm vapour till the gum gave way, and gently drew the missive forth.

His lip curled as he read its contents.

"Sentimental idiot! How he raves! What's this? Wants to know who I am, and says he couldn't help feeling frightfully jealous over the 'possessive way' I led her off! Young fool, to let any woman know he had such a weakness in his make-up as jealousy. I could teach him a thing or two!"

possibility that neither of my letters has reached you. So expect a 'phone call at eleven o'clock on Thursday morning. All my love! Miles Holden.

Warwick Tremman flung both letters into the fire, and watched the flames lick round the paper.

"Eleven o'clock on Thursday morning, my fine fellow, eh? I'll see to it that Marcella and I set off for Lady Warrington's in my car on Thursday morning, and early enough to miss your message!" he said craftily.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Surrender.

Tremman turned his attention to the other letter, steaming it open in precisely the same way.

"Wheew! Bulkier than the first. He hasn't heard from her—no answer to the first—"

He picked up missive number one, glanced at its date, and then examined the envelope.

"Wrong address! Wandered all over the place for a solid week before it reached her. No, I'm wrong... it's taken ten days. No wonder the girl thought he'd forgotten her!" He drew in a quick breath. "It's a bit of luck that I've killed two birds with the same stone, and got 'em both."

He read the second letter carefully. Not hearing from his lady-love, the young sculptor's ardour had not cooled.

Yet there were hints that he was hurt, and worried, and that his trust in her was shaken.

Warwick Tremman smiled over the last phrase, and it was a victor's smile of triumph.

The sentence ran:

"I shan't write again until you write to me. But when I return to London in three days from now, I'll telephone, because there's a faint

"Look here, Marcella! We're engaged, aren't we? Then you must allow me to take some of your troubles off your shoulders."

Warwick Tremman was the speaker. He had come upon his lady-love weeping in sheer perplexity at her little desk, with a sheaf of unpaid bills before her.

"It's dreadful!" She dabbed her eyes with her handkerchief. "We'll be summoned to appear in court if I can't do anything! And the gas has been cut off, and the butcher's boy doesn't come any more for orders, and the grocer threatens to sue us, and I expect the bailiffs will walk in at any moment and take possession! And Dad doesn't understand! He sits in his study, poring over his books, and writing learned essays, and not in the least realizing the sword that's hanging over our heads!"

Tremman managed to keep back a smile. Helplessness in others was a puzzle to him. Inwardly he despised Marcella's father, as an impractical, self-absorbed dreamer, with no real sense of what he owed his daughter.

But it pleased him that the girl herself should be in such a quandary.

It put her in his power.

Besides, he was masculine enough to appreciate helplessness in a woman. To a certain extent, it flattered him—the strong man.

"Let me take matters in hand, little girl!" he said kindly, sitting down besides her, and picking up the bills. He scanned them with a keen, quick eye. "The tradesmen and probably your servants, too, have

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Marcella Field, beautiful girl, is sought in marriage by Warwick Tremman, a power in the financial world, who does not seem to employ the memory of an indiscretion in his efforts to persuade her to accept him as her husband.

Miles Holden, a rising sculptor, has won Marcella's love, however. Tremman, aware of this, tells Marcella that Holden is entangled with Leonie Day, a calculating young woman, whom he has set up in a millinery shop in London. She plans to marry Miles. In Paris she introduces herself as a person considerably above her situation.

Lady Warrington, a fatuous woman of middle age.

Miles, dining with Leonie, remarks how lucky it was that they happened to be in Paris at the same time.

Miss Day is piqued as Holden thinking of Marcella, confesses he had been dreaming when she chides him for his neglect.

Meanwhile Marcella, convinced by his absence of Miles' perfidy, discovers that her family fortunes are very low.

Deirdre, cat-spaw of a band of crooks, who had warned Marcella of a raid on the ship coming from America is accused of treachery by Jose, a member of the band, with whom she is in love.

Jose and Deirdre quarrel over a plot to rob a wealthy countess in which she was to have a part. Recognizing Deirdre while dining with Tremman, Marcella speaks to her, Tremman avoids Deirdre.

Deirdre tells Marcella that her lover has left her.

Although hard-up herself, Marcella gives Deirdre some money and as the latter leaves her, Tremman, following Deirdre, is convinced that he recognizes her. He manages to steal two letters from Paris addressed to Marcella.

Warwick's persistence begins to impress Marcella.

Tremman reading, Holden's letters, plans to prevent his communicating with Marcella. He promises Marcella that if she married him and then regretted it, he would allow her to divorce him.

been systematically robbing you while you were away. Those accounts are exorbitant.

Marcella sighed. What a useless feeble creature she had been! Moreover, she had had no right to go away and leave her father just for her own selfish enjoyment! Her conscience pricked her sharply.

Why couldn't she have stayed at home, and kept an eye on things? Why couldn't she have studied the stock market, and the investment columns, and been some financial help to the old man?

It was too late now.....

Warwick Tremman slipped an arm about her waist. The action was done gently, tenderly, and Marcella felt her bruised heart soften towards him. In comparison with that fickle, cruel "someone else," how kind he was!

"Something must be done at once," he said, slowly. "You have a bank account, Marcella?"

She nodded, saying ruefully: "But it's overdrawn! The bank itself is dunning me for money!"

He smiled at her helplessness. The protective instinct, dormant even in ruthless males like himself, rose to the surface.

"I intend to make settlements on you and your father, so you won't object to my paying into your account, today, for a start, a sum of—say—one thousand pounds?"

Marcella drew back, startled. "As a—gift?"

He nodded.

"And why not? The settlement will be much larger, but you need immediate money. And as we're going to be married—"

The girl felt the web tighten. "If you'd let me look upon it as a loan?"

A crafty look came to his face. It was just the merest flicker, and she did not see it, luckily.

HALLOWEEN PRANKS ARE NOW IN ORDER

NORTH HATLEY

On Saturday evening, October 24, a very enjoyable party was held at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Raymond, when about fifty of the Hatley Centre friends of Miss Laurel Merrill, with a few intimate friends from North Hatley, met to honor her on the eve of her departure for Boston. The hours passed very rapidly in games and dancing, after which Rev. H. H. Corey, of Japan, on behalf of the other friends presented Miss Merrill with a purse of money as a slight token of their esteem and regard. Delicious refreshments and a social hour concluded a very pleasant evening. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron and child, of Lennoxville, were among the guests.

Miss Merrill left on Monday evening for Boston. She was accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Demeritt, who has closed "Sunny Heights" for the season.

Mrs. Gordon Morrisette, of Iroquois Falls, Ont., is spending several weeks with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Anderson and Mr. Herman Anderson have moved to Lennoxville.

The Universalist Ladies' Aid held their annual bean supper in the church vestry recently, and a large crowd enjoyed the excellent meal.

The Baptist Church Sewing Circle held their annual oyster supper in the church hall on Monday evening. A large number enjoyed the supper, and later the programme given by friends from the Sherbrooke Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Bliss, of Craftsbury, Vt., Mrs. Milan Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Collie and children, of Bridgewater, N.H., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Robinson. Mrs. Elbert Walsh, of

Larger than ten football fields

HERE IS the factory that stands behind our recommendation of Atwater Kent Sets and Radio Speakers. It covers more ground than ten football fields or sixty-four baseball diamonds.

It was built large to meet the demand for Atwater Kent Radio and because this company is in Radio to stay.

Eventually, many radio manufacturers may disappear. The survivors will be those who have the soundest product and know their business.

Look at this picture. And then remember that the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company is building receiving sets and radio speakers with the skill and precision learned in twenty-five years' construction of fine electrical instruments.

The NEW RADIO

Unique in Circuit, Design and Value

IN Model R4, DeForest & Crosley engineers present the Super-Tridyn circuit—a set which embodies all the improvements and refinements typical of The New Radio—a set whose long range, beautiful tone, improved efficiency and unusual simplicity make it one of the outstanding achievements of the year.

Some of the new features developed by three research laboratories—the greatest names in radio—are indicated alongside. But only actual operation will convince you of the ease with which it "tunes out" unwanted stations—even local broadcasting.

The cabinet is in classic Adam Brown Mahogany and the rich, two-tone effect is elegantly expressed in this distinctive, sloping panel design. All batteries, tubes and wires are enclosed.

The efficiency, simplicity, distinctive beauty and VALUE offered in Model R4 will give you a new conception of the miracle of radio. Hear it to-day! Aerial Equipment and Batteries the only extras necessary.

COL. FRANK BELL

Col. Frank Bell, who is the Training College principal at Melbourne, Australia, has been to London, England, where a conference was held of all the training college principals of the world, and is now on his way back to Australia. His son, the local officer, Captain H. E. Bell, had not seen his father except on two brief occasions for over ten years, when he enlisted in the Imperial forces at the outbreak of war and the Colonel was transferred from England to Toronto, Ont., where he was the principal of the Canada East Training College for a number of years.

In Australia Col. Bell has also been a vice-president of the Australian Bible Society for several years, in connection with which he has given lectures which have received wide publicity from the Australian papers. The Colonel arrives in this country on the S.S. Doric during this week-end and will give a full week of special lectures and meetings. All the engagements are in the Salvation Army Citadel here, with the exception of a lecture which will be given at Plymouth Church on Thursday next and another one to be given at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club on Tuesday next.

Every night at the Citadel except Thursday there will be special meetings commencing at 8 p.m. On Sunday three meetings will be addressed by Col. Bell, at 11 a.m., 3 p.m. and 7 p.m.

1925--Own A Home This Year--1925

HOME BUILDER CAN SAVE MONEY BY REBUILDING

It Is Economical to Purchase Old Houses and Remodel Them into Unusually Comfortable Homes.

In these days when the desire of the world seems to be for living in the "great open spaces", rather than in cramped, expensive apartments, the problem of where and how to acquire a small dwelling is widely discussed.

There are many modern houses in both rural and suburban districts to be had at prevailing market prices which, unfortunately, are too often far beyond the means of the average house-desiring individual. It is possible, however, by remodeling old houses, for the family of moderate means to own its own home, or even a country home in addition to its city apartment. The country house can even be had with profit, for it can be leased for short periods and be regarded as an investment rather than a liability and luxury.

Finding such a home is not impossible, even within commuting distance of a large city, the only problem being to take time to find it, and to recognize the possibilities for improvement on old houses under unprepossessing conditions. Some of the most atrocious examples of Mid-Victorian architecture and the most dilapidated old shanties may be made surprisingly attractive by the use of a little skill, ingenious thought and the removal of meaningless ornaments and partitions. Old houses, which to the amateur builder seem lost beyond redemption, are to the trained eye often a wealth of good lines and proportion. When spotting old houses, try and visualize the whole, and sum up conditions and the size of the dwelling. If it fits into your system of living, make inquiries as to how it may be bought or leased. Old houses can often times be had at surprisingly low figures; when properly remodelled, they are generally far more attractive than a modern house costing more.

Labor.

Engaging labor for this type of work is a problem that each home owner must solve for himself. Skilled carpenters, masons, and plasterers, paid by the hour or day, have been found capable of not only doing all the necessary skilled work, but of handling much of the masonry and plumbing work besides. In this the owner should take the responsibility of hiring his own workmen. If it seems best to let a local contractor furnish the labor, this may be done.

After that, definite plans should be laid for the alterations contemplated, both for interior and exterior, and that plan strictly adhered to. Make a sketch of the interior and floor plans of the interior as you mean to have it look when finished. If this is done, the danger of having to alter as the work proceeds is small.

When remodeling, first consideration should be given to the most essential points of construction, the roof, the chimneys and underpinning. These are likely to prove the least interesting, but are the most important to repair first. Owing to the fact that a large proportion of the fires which occur in rural districts are due to defective flues, it is wise to have chimneys most carefully repaired, if not entirely rebuilt. If a fireplace is contemplated, or an old one is to be opened and used, that is the time the work should be done on it.

Next comes the roofing. This may be perfectly tight, but, unfortunately, an old-house is rarely found so. Secondly, old roofs are almost without exception of wooden shingles, and it is often more economical to patch or entirely re-roof with this type of material, though in some instances paper shingles or a combination of paper and tar material will be found most satisfactory. Asbestos and slate shingles are preferable to wood or paper, as they are both fireproof and durable, but the framing of old houses is sometimes not stout enough to permit of a roof of this sort.

Exterior Painting.

After all exterior repairs have been made, and additions built, the painting of the exterior of the house makes the biggest change. White, cream and yellow are best for body colors of small houses. The light colors add size and a clean appearance to the house and other out-buildings. Then the exterior trim may be in a soft green, black or stone-blue.

It is surprising how much painted lattice and window boxes improve the outward appearance of a house; they lend charm to what would otherwise be a commonplace, flat exterior.

In planning interior alterations, never consider the removal of a partition, stairway or the addition of a single feature unless it is absolutely necessary. Every move means additional labor and new materials. First, watch for every opportunity to create the idea of space. This can be done by either removing closets that needlessly jut into a room, or doors that make dark holes of stairways and passages. If a small hall exists, consider the removal of any partitions which make it up. Bring the stairs straight down in a square fashion, or with a graceful curve into the living room or space at bottom of stairs. If a light, broad or square hall exists, make it as cheerful and hospitable as possible with furniture and fabrics.

Secondly, remove any "fake" mantels or zincracks over real mantels.

NOW IS THE TIME TO LET US REFINISH YOUR CAR IN DUCO

Don't delay till later in the season when there will be a long "waiting list" and hundreds of other car owners in town will be rushing to have their cars refinished in Duco for the fall and winter.

Let us have your car now and, in a very short time, it will be returned to you, looking like new in its satiny coat of Duco.

Duco, the fine new finish for automobiles, is practically impervious to weather conditions. Rain, snow, sleet, mud, dust and grit cannot harm it. It is smooth, hard surface and deep, quiet lustre. And remember—when you are ready to buy a new car, a Duco finish will increase the trade-in or re-sale value of your old one. Come in today!

tels, and eliminate gewgaws on hardwood floors, whether of wide woodwork or built-in features. Then all has been cleared, build in only what partitions and features are absolutely necessary. Any of the wall boards make satisfactory material for partitions if lath and plaster cannot be indulged in. These may be painted, tinted or papered like any plaster walls. Keep an eye open for opportunities to fill waste spaces with small shelves, cupboards or drawers which may afterwards be used for books, china or linens.

Floors.

What to do with old floors is generally a problem. Old softwood floors, which are so often found in old houses, may be successfully patched and painted with two or three coats of either a dark battle-ship gray, Colonial yellow or medium green paint, depending on the color of the scheme. It is best when painting such floors to have every floor in the house done the same. Often with a medium green painted floor, the base boards painted black, and the remainder of the woodwork in a lighter shade of the same color of green, a small house will take on individually, quaintness and charm.

If for some reason the floors are too badly worn or patched to make painting them interesting, the use of a plain colored linoleum in taupe, dark green or blue for every room in the house, makes a durable pleasing floor easy to care for. This type of floor is fast growing in popularity, even for new houses. Old

Stop those roof leaks—

It's sound economy to make the most of what you have. Here are two Barrett Specialties that stop leaks—give new life to old roofings.

Barrett Liquid Elastigum, a compound of heavy, waterproofing material and asbestos fibres, provides a thick, durable weather-surface—makes the old roof lastingly storm-proof.

Barrett Plastic Elastigum, the "waterproof cement of a hundred uses," stops roof-leaks—repairs flashings, gutters, etc.—and sticks tenaciously to any sort of surface.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A SURPRISE FOR PETER

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

He does his friendship prove full well
Who knows your secret and won't tell.

—Sammy Jay.

"Well, there's another one gone," said Peter Rabbit as he stared at the place where Slowpoke the Box Turtle had disappeared and was still digging his way down to go to sleep for the winter. "If this keeps on there won't be many left by the time Jack Frost gets here. I am glad that there are some who are not afraid of cold weather. I would go look for Nimbheels the Jumping Mouse, but it would be useless. He went to sleep long ago. I believe he is the first to go to sleep and the last to wake up. He spends as much time asleep as he does awake. What a lot a fellow like that misses."

"He does so," said a voice. "I don't know what you're talking about, but he does so." There sat Sammy Jay just over Peter's head. "I said," repeated Peter, "that any one who sleeps half the time, as Nimbheels the Jumping Mouse does, doesn't know what he misses. I wouldn't sleep like that for anything."

Sammy chuckled. "No, Peter, I don't think you would," said he. "You have too big a bump of curiosity for that. Just think of all that could happen and you not know anything about it. I never could understand just why Nimbheels does sleep that way. His relatives don't. You'll find Whitefoot the Wood Mouse skipping about on the snow any pleasant night. Danny Meadow Mouse is forever tunneling under the snow and running around on top of it. Trader the Wood Rat doesn't sleep any more than the rest of us do during the winter."

"Speaking of Danny Meadow Mouse reminds me that I haven't seen him for some time," said Peter. "I think I'll have to run over and call on Danny to see what he's doing to get ready for winter. Almost every one seems to be doing something. What are you doing, Sammy Jay?"

"Oh, hiding away a few acorns," replied Sammy carelessly. "By the way, I saw Danny Meadow Mouse a long way from home the other day."

"Where?" asked Peter.

"Oh, it wouldn't be fair for me to tell that. Danny might not like it," replied Sammy, just as if the thought of doing such a thing troubled him. The real reason he didn't tell Peter was because he knew that Peter's curiosity wouldn't let him rest until he had tried to find out where Danny had been. In this Sammy was quite right. No sooner had Sammy gone his way than Peter started straight over for where Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had been living all summer. He wanted to ask Danny where he had been when Sammy Jay saw him a long way from home. He also wanted to ask what Danny and Nanny had been doing to get ready for winter. He knew exactly where their home was, so he went straight to it. But when he got there no one was around.

"Have you seen Danny or Nanny Meadow Mouse lately?" asked Peter

"It must be that they are off hunting for food," said Peter to himself. "I'll just sit around and wait a bit. I'm in no hurry." So Peter sat around and waited a bit. In fact, he waited quite a bit. He heard no rustle of little feet. He heard no rustle of little feet. It suddenly came over him that there was a deserted look about the home of Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse. Peter began to sniff along some of those private little paths cut through the grass. He could smell Meadow Mouse, but it was very faint. Peter began to have a suspicion that those little paths hadn't been used for several days. He was still sitting there waiting when along came Carol the Meadow Lark. "Have you seen Danny or Nanny Meadow Mouse lately?" asked Peter.

"No," replied Carol promptly. "They've gone away."

"What?" cried Peter in surprise. "They've gone away," repeated Carol.

"Where have they gone?" Peter asked.

"I don't know and I don't care, for it is none of my business," replied Carol, and away he flew.

LETTERS FROM THE CORNER FOLK

Dear Uncle Jim:
My nice prize book came last week. I like it very much and thank you. I go to school every day and enjoy playing games with the other children.

Your niece,
ELSIE GROOM.
North Hatley.

UNCLE JIM'S LETTER

Dear Nieces and Nephews:
It looks as if we were time for you to be getting your sleds ready. doesn't it? We have been having snow flurries all this week and I think winter has really begun. Don't you love snowshoeing and tobogganing? I think they are wonderful sports. There are some lovely hills near here and lots of people ski on them.

Do you have a holiday on Thanksgiving Day? I suppose you are going to have a turkey then. Armistice Day is combined with Thanksgiving day, you know so that we celebrate them together.

Have you been interested in the elections we had this week, I wonder. These only come once in four years and there is usually quite a lot of excitement during them.

There are some new puzzles in the children's corner this week and a lovely story, too, which I hope you will all read. You are probably having exams now for your first term report. I hope you all do very well and come first in your grade.

Wishing you the best of luck,
UNCLE JIM.

One morning Bobby found a queer looking chart on his blackboard. He thought it was a Cross-Word Puzzle. Sister Belle thought it was a key to hidden treasure. "You are both right," said Daddy. "It is a puzzle, and at the same time it is a key to the treasures that autumn brings. Take a piece of chalk and trace your path from letter to letter moving up, down, to the right or to the left, or on the diagonal in either direction, but do not jump or skip any letter. See how many things that we think of in the fall you can find hidden in the chart."

So Bobby took his piece of chalk and tried to find words hidden in the jumble of letters. How many can you find? Figure it out.

continued Roy, his eyes sparkling. "I'll go and ask Muvver for that little piece of stove pipe under the edge of the cottage. Then we'll put a lot of little stones in the bottom, and the water can't get away."

"Let's have the well right in the middle of the pile of sand where the fort is," urged Roy, "for it is softer to dig there."

Roy looked disapproving, but he knew that Rae would have her own way, and it was going to be fun to see if the new well would really hold water.

Rae kept on digging. After a while she stopped to rest as it was warm working in the sun. As she peered into the hole she had made, something sparkled and threw out tiny rainbows which made her blink.

She put her fingers down cautiously and picked up a handful of fine, clean, white sand, and there lay a ring with a sparkling stone in the back of it, held by two little green-gold dragons.

Rae slipped the ring over her thumb but it was much too large. Perhaps it would make a bracelet for her doll. The sand was embedded in the prongs which held the stone, so Rae went down to the edge of the lake and washed it and rubbed it on her little, checked gingham romper suit. The stone sparkled more than ever. She went back and polished it again on the fuzzy back of Ponto, the little cotton flannel dog. Then she dropped it into her pocket.

The twins worked very busily, and after the piece of pipe was in place, brought stones from Mirror Point, where there were a lot of nice round ones. They stopped to throw some of them into the water. Whenever they found an especially pretty stone, they put it in their pockets, for the little ones with white bands on them, they liked to play were money.

The water stood in the new well as they had hoped it would, and they were much pleased. By this time they began to feel hungry, and were glad to hear the lunch bell.

When they got back to the cottage, they found company, for their Auntie May had surprised them by arriving unexpectedly. They were overjoyed to see her, and were for taking her right down to the beach to see their well at once. But their mother said:

"No, you must get cleaned up, for Auntie May is not used to eating with children who have been making mud pies."

"My," said Mrs. Foster as she slipped off Rae's dress, "what makes this so heavy?"

She tumbled over the stones on a chair, and there lay the ring.

"Where did you get that?" inquired Mrs. Foster, picking up the beautiful jewel.

"I found it when I dugged the well," said Rae.

Mr. Foster came in at that minute. "I believe," he said, "that it's the valuable diamond that was lost three years ago when we were down here. I'll get in touch with the Chief of Police at Mirrorville."

He went to the telephone at once. "Whew!" he said at last, turning to the family circle. "You kids have done a good morning's work. This is the ring all right, for it has two dragons at either side, and there is a reward of two hundred dollars for it."

KLAN'S IN CANADA NOW

Entry of the Ku Klux Klan into Canada was heralded by the presence of thousands at a night open air ceremony near London, Ontario. The picture shows the imperial kligrapp and two imperial kleagles waiting to administer the oath to new members.

SHELL-WRECKED

French shells wrecked the historic "Street Called Straight" and started disastrous fires raging when the rebellious Druses launched an attack against French troops in the ancient city of Damascus, Syria, according to news reports. The "Street Called Straight" is under the long arched roof shown in the above picture.

THE HIDDEN TREASURE

"There are treasures inside this fort," Roy defended stoutly fill it up.

"All right," agreed Roy, "the people in this fort might need a drink."

The children went busily to work. "Oh, see," cried Roy, "the water is coming into our well of its own self!"

Sure enough, the sand at the bottom of the hole they were digging was getting damp.

"I wonder where it comes from," asked Roy.

Rae thought a minute. "It comes from the lake, of course. It soaks through the sand. I know because the sand is like a sponge and takes the water up. It comes creeping, creeping along either on top or underneath."

The children waited, thinking that a lot of water would run into their well, but it didn't. So they took their pails and filled up the hole with water.

"There," said Roy, "now the people in the fort can drink all they want to."

"Oh," squealed Rae, "just look! The water is going down fast."

Sure enough, soon there was only a little puddle at the bottom. "I know what's happening," Rae declared. "The water is soaking into the sand at the sides of the well. It runs out just as we thought it would run in."

Roy was frowning.

"If we could put some cement and stones inside the well like the one over at the farmhouse, the sand wouldn't tumble in, and the water wouldn't run out. I'll tell you what,"

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Edward J. Riches, who entered into rest October 31st, 1925. "Forever with the Lord." Entered by October 31st, 1925.

HIS WIFE AND FAMILY.
In sad but loving memory of our only child, Miss Zina M. A. Jones, who left this world on October 31st, 1921.

You were loved by one and all.
You gave up pleasure when duty called.
And although you were sick and needed rest,
With your grandfather you stayed and did your best.
You watched over him, both night and day.
Until the Dear Saviour called him away.
It was then too late, your health to regain.
We did all we could but it was in vain.
But Jesus knew what was for the best.
So called you home to take your rest.
No one knows the anguish that was in our hearts that day.
We sat beside you, darling, and saw you pass away.

Inserted by Father and Mother,
MR. AND MRS. CHAS. H. JONES.

PRICES AND DETAILS OF SHERBROOKE MARKET

Trading at Lansdowne Market this week was anything but brisk, according to reports received from a number of sellers in different sections of the market.

The dairy market experienced a quiet time. There was a small demand for both eggs and butter, which, however, were selling at last week's price, eggs being from forty-eight to sixty cents per dozen, while dairy butter sold for forty-five to fifty cents per pound and creamery butter for fifty cents.

The vegetable section, which generally experiences a quiet season at this particular time of the year, clearly showed that this year was no exception to the rule. There were no new products offered this week, and no changes in prices were noticed.

Pork, which fell a cent a pound in prices last week, did not undergo any change this week. Trading in the provision market, however, appeared to be better than in other sections of the market.

THE DAIRY MARKET

Butter, best creamery . . . 50c
Butter, best dairy, per lb. . . 45c to 50c
Cheese, per lb. . . 30c to 35c
Eggs, per dozen . . . 48c to 60c
Kraft cheese . . . 40c
Pimento cheese, per lb. . . 45c

Cabbage, each . . . 15c to 10c

HAY MARKET

Montreal, Oct. 31st.
HAY.—There was no change in the condition of the market for baled hay, prices being fully maintained under a good steady demand for supplies for both local and outside accounts, and a very good trade was done with sales of good lots of No. 2 timothy hay at $14 per ton, clover mixed hay at $12 per ton, and No. 3 timothy hay at $10 to $10.50 per ton f.o.b. cars here.

DAIRY PRODUCE

Montreal, Oct. 31st.
BUTTER.—Late on Tuesday sales of car lots of C. P. pasteurized creamery butter were made as low as 41 1/2c per lb., and car lots of Eastern Townships pasteurized creamery at 41 3/4c per lb., with an old car of September made pasteurized creamery at 42c per lb., but Wednesday a better feeling developed in the market under the improved demand from local buyers for supplies and prices for the latter grade advanced 1/2c per lb. The volume of business was larger and the market was rather more active with sales of Eastern Townships made.

COUNTRY PRODUCE

Montreal, Oct. 31st.
EGGS.—The situation as to the higher grades of fresh eggs is, receipts are becoming so light that there is no difficulty in advancing prices. A sharp advance in specials and extras was registered during the week and a further advance is looked for in these grades in the near future. Last year fresh specials reached $1.25 per dozen at Toronto. Ontario country shippers are paying: extras 45-46c, firsts 38-40c, seconds 28-32c, making sales: extras 48-50c, firsts 40-45c, seconds 30-35c, f.o.b. cases returned. The storage egg situation has developed a rather easier undertone, this is apparently the result of the nervous, unsettled state of the United States markets and the fear of importations from that some British importers who contract source, and in addition a report that earlier in the season for fall shipment are trying to resell in Canada. At Toronto official quotations were not changed, but some sales of firsts were reported to large buyers (mostly chain stores) at 39c delivered. A car of storage firsts in export cases was offered in the east at 36c f.o.b. Edmonton. These would cost about 40c 1/2c delivered. Also a car of storage seconds was sold to Toronto at 30 1/2c f.o.b. Winnipeg. There are very few fresh eggs arriving at Prairie points and a large percentage of arrivals are composed of held eggs. Winnipeg dealers are offering storage firsts at 37 1/2c f.o.b. but Eastern buyers are not interested at that price. Vancouver prices have experienced an 8 cent rise during the week, with jobbing extras now quoted at 68c. Fresh receipts are scarce.

A fairly good trade continues to be done locally in eggs in a wholesale jobbing way, there being a steady demand for small lots to meet immediate wants, but the volume of business passing in car lots is reported small owing to the fact that dealers seem to have ample supplies of all grades of storage stock on hand for the time being and in consequence the demand is limited. The tone of the market remains firm with sales of fresh specials at 58c to 60c, extras at 53c to 55c, and firsts at 45c to 46c per dozen, while storage extras sold at 45c, firsts at 40c to 41c and seconds at 35c to 36c per dozen.

POULTRY.—Receipts of poultry are still on the increase but cannot be termed excessive for the season. The bulk of the arrivals are chickens. There is a moderate supply of fowl. Ducks are in little more plentiful supply. A few old cocks are coming. No turkeys or geese arriving.

Celery . . . 15c to 50c
Cucumbers, dozen . . . 25c
Carrots, (new) per bunch . . . 5c
Cauliflower, per bunch . . . 15c to 20c
Green onions, per bunch . . . 5c
Green Tomatoes, per peck . . . 25c
Lettuce, per head . . . 3 for 10c
Potatoes, per bushel . . . $1.00
Radishes, bunch . . . 5c
Squash, each . . . 5c
Spinach, per lb. . . 25c
Turnips, each . . . 5c
Tomatoes, per lb. . . 10c

THE FRUIT MARKET

Consumptive demand is fair and the surplus is being packed for storage purposes. The markets show little change, prices being fairly well maintained for all grades with the exception of thin, unfinished birds which have to be sold for what they bring for immediate consumption. It is a serious error to market thin, unfinished stock. The time is at hand when the proportion of dressed birds in the receipts will increase. Care should be taken that they are properly cooled off before being packed for shipment, as if the animal heat is not out of the body when packed, the result will probably be a dead loss. Receipts at Western points are increasing and quality is reported as fairly good. The coast is providing an outlet for some of the Prairie stocks. A car from Alberta was marketed in Vancouver over the week-end, Regina is preparing to ship a car there this week.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—The market for maple product was without any new feature to note, the demand being still of a very limited character and business was quiet, with prices unchanged, maple syrup being quoted at $2.25 per tin of 13 lbs. and bright grades of maple sugar at 18c per lb.

HONEY.—There was no change in the condition of the market for honey with a moderate amount of business prices for all grades being steady, passing in a jobbing way, and sales of No. 1 white clover honey in comb were made at 25c per section, No. 2 grade at 22c per section, No. 1 amber in comb at 22c per section, No. 2 at 18c per section, white extracted honey 30-lb. tins at 13c per lb., 10-lb. tins at 14c per lb., 5-lb. tins at 14 1/2c per lb. and 2 1/2-lb. tins at 15c per lb.

POTATOES.—The feature of the potato trade Wednesday was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for Quebec stock and prices scored another decline of 15c to 20c per bag, which was attributed to the fact that receipts here have increased considerably since the advance took place, there being about seventy-five cars on the track here now; therefore the supply at present is somewhat in excess of the daily requirements and the indications are that there will be no improvement in the situation until this surplus supply is cleared off the markets. A moderate amount of business was done with sales of Quebec varieties at $1.75 to $1.80 per bag of 90 lbs. ex-track.

GRAIN MARKET

Montreal, Oct. 31st.
GRAIN.—There was a good demand from exporters and millers for cash wheat in the Winnipeg market and as the offerings were light, the market was stronger and prices closed with a net gain for the day of 1-2c to 7-8c per bushel, with No. 1 northern quoted at $1.37, No. 2 northern at $1.33 1/2, and No. 3 northern at $1.28 1/2 per bushel, ex-store, Fort William. The premium on No. 1 grade was 1-8c per bushel higher at 1-2c per bushel over the October option, and the other two contract grades were 1-4c per bushel lower at 3c under for No. 2, and 8c under for No. 3. The deliveries on October contracts Wednesday were 1,000 bushels oats, 14,000 flax, 35,000 barley and 32,000 rye. The Liverpool future wheat market opened stronger at an advance of 1d to 1 1/4d per cental in sympathy with strength in North American markets and closed 1 3/4 to 2 5/8d per cental higher for the day.

The export trade in grain here over night with the United Kingdom and the Continent according to exporters was of a very limited character owing to the fact that they did not respond to the higher prices asked, and in consequence the market was dull. A cable received from Liverpool stated that sales of No. 3 northern wheat were made in that market at 54c 1/2 per quarter for force in order to obtain redress or rectification. From every point of view it is obviously in the interest of the German people to honor the signature of their emissaries at Locarno.

As far as the British Parliament is concerned, I should doubt if the pact is seriously challenged by any part of the assemblage. The Liberal leaders have all hastened to commit themselves already to a warm approval of the agreement. Labor may criticize the details and draw unfavorable contrasts between the Locarno treaty and the defunct protocol for which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald was responsible. There will not, however, be many tears dropped over that pretentious and impracticable document. There is a general feeling that this last effort, whilst not so showy, deals more effectively with the difficulties with which the nations of Western Europe are confronted.

But although British opinion unmistakably accepts the Locarno treaty, it would be idle to disguise the fact that there is a genuine apprehension amongst a considerable number—by no means drawn from one party—as to the security pact. There is fear that it might ultimately involve us in war against either Germany or France, whether we desire it or not. Britain, whilst she is still suffering from the effects of a war entered into by her in redemption of a guarantee she once upon a time gave for Belgium, would naturally shrink from incurring a similar responsibility, not only for Belgium, but for France and Germany as well—unless the compensation justified the risk.

The justification is to be found in the agreement entered into for the first time by these troublesome neighbors to refer all their disputes in the future to arbitration. This commends the risk, great as it is, to the judgment of the vast majority of the people of this island.

Another incentive which weighs with those who have hitherto objected to the pacts of the guarantee is the inclusion of Germany in the League of Nations. Hitherto Germany has held aloof from the League. She has been repeatedly invited to join, but the Silesian award destroyed whatever hope or confidence she ever reposed in the workings of the Covenant, and German public opinion resented any suggestion that their country should walk into what it regarded as a French trap. She now enters it with a will, trusting to its just operation for future redress of the asperities of defeat. The accession of Germany to the League has reconciled the zealous advocates of that body to what they had hitherto consistently opposed—a partial guarantee of challengeable frontiers.

There is one element in the British acceptance of the prospective burdens of Locarno which must not be overlooked. Britain at the time of the Paris conference entered into a joint guarantee with America of the Rhine frontiers. Although Britain was released from her undertaking the moment the Senate of the United States of America declined to honor the President's signature, there was an uneasy feeling in Britain that France had been "sold." The British Government in 1922 offered France the sole guarantee of Britain, but M. Poincare was too proud to accept the tender. Why should France stand in need of any guarantee of her frontiers? So the matter rested until it was taken up this year on a totally new basis as a result of Germany's proposal for a four-power pact of guarantee.

That there are gaps and defects in this treaty goes without saying. A treaty after all, like an act of Parliament, is only the best that can be carried at the time, having regard to all the conditions and difficulties. I am convinced that for the moment nothing better could be achieved. On the part of M. Briand and Herr Luther it is an act of courage of the first order. They had deep suspicions and acute susceptibilities to contend with in their respective countries, and they have faced them manfully. Mr. Chamberlain behaved throughout with straightforward common sense, and of that character is his actions.

It is very much to be regretted that Russia could not have been included in this fine gesture of appeasement. Until Russia is brought into the European fraternity of peace, its disturbed content cannot be at rest. The earth's crust is at its thinnest from the Baltic to the Aegean. Earthquakes which started there have rocked the world, and on those frontiers today there are ominous rumblings. There are boundary disputes between Russia and some of her neighbors which must sooner or later provoke serious trouble.

A powerful pariah or group of nations fiercely resenting its exclusion from the society of Western civilization is a constant menace to peace. That is why Russia was invited to confer with the rest of Europe at the Genoa conference. In some respects the experiment was encouraging. But it is only fair to say that Russia was by no means the most intractable government which responded at that conference, and the failure to reach a complete agreement must be shared by at least three other governments then sitting around the same table.

Even thus the pact of non-aggression was entered into by thirty-four nations, including Russia. Russia adhered to that pact and has honorably stood by it ever since. Her invading armies have occupied foreign provinces since Genoa, it is said, but those armies were not Russian. It is worthy of M. Briand's high statesmanship that he should have expressed his readiness to go back to Locarno if Russia were prepared to go there to meet him in conference.

And now for the next step—disarmament. Without disarmament all pacts of peace must remain a sham. The nation with an irresistible army will always be tempted to short-circuit councils and commissions and arbitral courts. The episode of Corfu was a dispute between strong and weak members of the League of Nations, both equally bound by the same covenant to refer their quarrels to the League; but one had a powerful army and navy at its command, and the other had neither.

France, with her budgetary troubles, is now in a better frame of mind to contemplate a reduction in her great army than she was four years ago, when Mr. Briand delivered his defiant speech at the Washington conference. France is now preaching disarmament, with shrill entreaties to be "saved." If France takes the initiative, the "Petite Entente" will follow suit. French counsel urged them to arm on their present scale. French money subsidized the requisite capital expenditure, and French foundries and factories supplied the guns and aeroplanes.

The last election showed clearly that the shrewd and solid peasantry of France were opposed to this excitable militarism that fired the imagination of the metropolis. They have had enough of war. They do not intend, if they can help it, to risk the lives of their surviving children on the dreams of a nationalist megalomania. M. Briand, in spite of his unfortunate Washington deliverance, is a man of peace—by temperament and judgment. It will be wise to leave the initiative in this matter to France.

Britain ought to abandon her foolish and provocative new cruiser programme, but she has no army to reduce. The future of Europe depends upon a large reduction in her huge armies. These armies are in the aggregate larger than those which precipitated the World War.

American initiative would not here be helpful. America held coldly aloof from two great efforts made by Europe since Versailles to restore the peace atmosphere—one at Genoa, the other at Locarno. She left Europe to flounder in and through her troubles over frontiers. Neither her government nor her people were prepared to take the necessary risks to ensure a European peace. As she had repudiated President Wilson's guarantees of frontiers, which was a substitute for armed force, and appeal to disarm coming from her statesmen would naturally not now have the same effect.

The most hopeful feature in a brightening sky is the readiness of France to invite serious talk on disarmament. France alone can put this through.

I am sorry that at this juncture the old temperamental antagonism between M. Briand and M. Caillaux should have once more broken out and endangered the unity amongst earnest seekers after peace. They are both strong men, and the strength of both is necessary if France is to give a strong lead.

prompt shipment from here. In sympathy with the continued strength in the Winnipeg market for oats and the smaller offerings of Ontario and Quebec grades here a stronger feeling prevailed in the situation and prices were advanced 1-2c to 1-3c per bushel. There was some demand for supplies and sales of car lots of No. 2 white were made at 52 1/2c, No. 3 white 51c, and No. 4 white at 49 1/2c per bushel. Extra white car lots of Ontario malted barley changed hands at 1c per bushel, higher at 88c per bushel, extra 1-2c.

STOCK PRICES AGAIN SHOT FORWARD TODAY ON NEW YORK MARKET

(Associated Press Despatch)
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Stock prices again shot forward at a swift pace in today's initial dealings, with buying enthusiasm continuing at a high pressure in the motor shares. Hudson jumped more than two points to a new high record at 116 1/2 and Dupont soared five points, also to a new 1925 top. Responding to the announcement of a new Florida extension and unusually high earnings, Atlantic Coast Line rushed up three points to a new peak at 218, and Seaboard Line followed in its wake.

PRICE TENDENCY FIRMER ON MONTREAL EXCHANGE

(Associated Press Despatch)
MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—The opening of trading on the stock exchange this morning was a quiet affair, but the price tendency was again firmer. Dominion Textile, one of Friday's strong spots, was steady at 92 1/2. Brazilian Traction firmed 3/4 at 77 1/2. Steel of Canada came out with an overnight gain of 1/2 at 94 1/2. National Breweries eased 1/4 at 48 1/2.

MILLIONS INVESTED IN POWER PLANTS UP NORTH

It is roughly estimated that between twenty and twenty-five million dollars have been invested in the development of water powers in the north country to enable the mines to keep up their output of the precious metals which have made Cobalt, Lorrain, Porcupine, Kirkland Lake and other mining camps famous.

It was a fortunate thing for the country that nature provided the power sites which could be harnessed for this purpose, as dependence on steam power would have checked development. The cost of coal would have been prohibitive in many cases and a severe handicap in others.

Little doubt is entertained that permanent demand will be developed for these power companies. New towns and cities will arise and a great deal of surrounding country offers opportunity for farming operations. Local industries will develop along normal lines and it is believed that progress in that section is only in its infancy.

Observers predict the creation in years to come of one of the greatest mining sections the world have ever known. Hollinger is about ready to claim the honor of being the largest individual producer in the world and records show that other companies are continuing to enlarge their output.

Rapid as has been the development of hydro power in the past, it is expected that the future will provide new records.

SPORTING NEWS

LAND HAS BEEN PURCHASED FOR NEW GOLF LINKS

Hundred and Thirty Acres on Prospect Road, Opposite Snow
Shoe Club, Acquired.

Following close on the heels of the election results, and evidently not discouraged as to the future, Mr. D. J. Salls, president of the St. Francis Golf Club, announces that a group of public spirited citizens have acquired one hundred and thirty acres of land on Prospect road, opposite the Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club, with the view of building an eighteen hole golf course, if the golf enthusiasts of the community will support the scheme.

It is not the intention of the purchasers to start work on the grounds immediately, but the land is secured, and as all of the purchasers are experienced farmers, scientific farming will be carried on for the present, with the hope that in the near future Sherbrooke will be able to boast of having as good a golf course as can be found anywhere in this part of the country.

BOXING

JOHNSON BEAT GOODRICH

(Associated Press Despatch)
ELIZABETH, N.J., Oct. 31.—Jimmy Goodrich ran into a surprise here last night in defence of his lightweight title against Gene Johnson, of Elizabeth, the latter receiving the verdict of newspapermen at the ringside after ten fast rounds. Goodrich, who did not appear in his best condition at 139 pounds, obtained an early point lead, but was outboxed and outpunched by Johnson in the last four rounds.

In the seventh Johnson floored the champion for a count of two with a left hook; Johnson weighed 135½ pounds.

CROWDS TRAIL DEMPSEY
(Associated Press Despatch)
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 31.—One of the largest sports crowds ever assembled in Mexico is expected to turn out when Jack Dempsey appears at the bull ring tonight in two exhibition matches of two rounds each with Jack Lee and Jack League, his sparring partners. Crowds continue to trail Dempsey in the streets. Despite much sight-seeing and entertainment, the heavyweight champion has gone to the country for a brief workout daily.

Among the preliminary bouts tonight will be one between Tommy White, Mexican lightweight champion, and Luis Garcia, of Los Angeles.

JOHNSON SCORED VICTORY
(Associated Press Despatch)
TORONTO, Oct. 31.—Jackie Johnstone, of Toronto, former amateur bantamweight champion of Canada, defeated Sonny Smith, of New York, in ten rounds at the Coliseum here last night.

CARPENTIER SIGNS FOR BOUT WITH DELANEY

(Associated Press Despatch)
PARIS, Oct. 31.—Georges Carpentier, former light heavyweight boxing champion of the world, has signed articles to meet Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul light heavyweight, in a ten round bout in California between January 15 and January 31, 1926.

Jack Doyle, Los Angeles promoter, announced recently that he had mailed articles to Carpentier offering him thirty per cent. of the gate receipts and $5,000 for expenses for a ten round bout with Delaney in Los Angeles. Carpentier has said that if he wins this bout he will seek a meeting with Paul Berlenbach, present light heavyweight title holder, in New York.

DUNDEE ORDERED TO TAKE REST

(Associated Press Despatch)
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Johnny Dundee, the "Scotch wop," featherweight, has packed his gloves in camp and is preparing to travel to California for a rest from ring activities. His physician ordered the change of climate, with the warning that he was not to engage in any boxing on the coast.

HARDEST LUCK DECISION IN ANNALS OF BOSTON BOXING

(Associated Press Despatch)
BOSTON, Oct. 31.—George Marble, of East Boston, knocked himself out last night and lost the hardest luck decision in the annals of local boxing.

Marble met John Fitzgerald of the same district, in the 126 pound class, and had the better of the match. He knocked Fitzgerald down once in the first round, drove him into a corner and floored him with a terrific right to the jaw. The impact threw Marble backwards and he fell, landing with such force as to render him unconscious. With both boxers down the referee began the count and he had just reached the count of nine when Fitzgerald staggered to his feet. He was adjudged the winner.

LATEST HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE CONTENDER

(Associated Press Despatch)
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Knut Hanson, giant Swedish-American from the middle west, is hailed as the latest heavyweight title contender. He has just returned from a world tour in which he scored nineteen knockouts in twenty-seven fights, including the champions of the United States and British navies, besides winning the championship of the Orient. He stands six feet four, weighs 210 pounds, and has a reach of eighty-four inches.

THREE BOXERS SUSPENDED

(Associated Press Despatch)
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—William Ames, of Clifton, Mass., and string of boxers he manages, including Wee Willie Woods, Tommy Milligan and Frank Moody, were all suspended indefinitely by the New York State Boxing Commission yesterday because of Moody's failure to go through with an agreement to fight Lew Chester here.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Major League baseball drew a "gate" of $25,000,000 this year, based upon estimates of a Federal tax return of $2,500,000, ten per cent of the total receipts. This is exclusive of the world's series, which drew a little more than $1,000,000.

LATEST WRINKLE
IN RUM RUNNING

Many tricks are being employed to get the smaller steamers safely into New York and vicinity. Fake papers, distress calls and others which have not yet been determined, are used with fair success. For, unless they receive a "tip" on a particular steamer, coastguards cannot afford to stop her, and this the runners rely upon.

"It has reached the point of almost a legitimate business," the head of one of the large syndicates said today. "Our profits are comparatively small, and the little man is simply being run out of business by the coastguard. Unless we can land a big load, we don't make anything any more."

And he added, with a wink: "You know a good place to hide liquor is way down under a cargo of coal on a barge."

COMPULSORY VOTING WILL BE INTRODUCED IN NEXT
AUSTRALIAN ELECTIONS

Under New Law Any Elector Who Fails to Go to Polls Without a Valid Reason Will Be Liable to $10 Fine.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Compulsory voting will be introduced for the first time at the Australian general elections on November 15th, the Commissioner for Australia, Sir James Elder, was advised yesterday. For the last ten years compulsory voting has been enforced in the state of Queensland, but this is the first time for it to be applied to federal politics.

Under the new law, registrars prepare lists of those entitled to vote and any elector who fails to go to the polls, without giving a valid reason for staying away, will be liable to a fine of ten dollars.

CHICK EVANS

BY JOE WILLIAMS
YOU get a faint idea of the shifting fates of golf when you read in connection with the recent amateur golf championships at Oakmont—

(1) That Chick Evans failed to qualify.

(2) And that Francis Ouimet was beaten in a play-off for last position among the qualifiers.

Golf is the "million to one shot" of all sports. It is the one sport where the impossible is eternally the possible, where the awesome miracle is soon the drab fact.

You could have had any kind of odds before the tournament started that both Evans and Ouimet would be among the qualifiers.

The day before in a practice round Evans had spun around the course in brilliant style, clipping three strokes off the most savage par the amateurs of this country ever tried to master.

Never Played Worse

Ouimet was comparatively fresh from a week of the finest golf he ever played in his life, a sustained display of form that carried him to within one stroke of a triple tie for the open championship of America.

Evans never played worse golf in any tournament. Noted for his mastery of the irons, the Chicagoan played them with an indecision and crudity that left his followers gasping with bewilderment. There were times when he missed the green entirely.

There may have been a reason for Evans' mediocre playing aside from the fact that he is gradually slipping from the charmed set of par demolishers. The condition of his finances has not improved with the lengthening summer months and the story is he suffered another severe reversal a few hours before the tournament got under way.

The answer in Ouimet's case is that is slipping, too. It is possible to reconcile the fine showing he made in the open with the collapse he suffered in the amateur on the grounds of physical frailty. Evidently Ouimet is good for only one big tournament a year, and then he is barely good enough to get among the fancy figures.

Ouimet was not putting at Oakmont. This is a line you have read before. No one ever believed the time would come when Ouimet would be charged with ineffective putting. This has always been the finest part of his game, and for years the Ouimet "touch" has been a majestic byword in golf.

Jones Passes Him

The old Ouimet did none of these things. Not only was he the game's most effective putter but the speediest. With him the business of putting demanded only two hasty particulars, a study of the green's contour and a consideration of the power to be used.

No longer can Ouimet be held up as the paragon of putters. Bobby Jones has passed him. So has his fellow townsman, Jesse Guilford. Indeed, Guilford impressed this writer as being as fine a putter as he ever saw at Oakmont. This is strange, too, when one considers Guilford's first fame in golf was built on his greens, a Ouimet who fussed around a lot, who studied his "line" for many moments, who took a stance, changed it and took a new one.

Just the same, Ouimet was not putting at Oakmont and because of this he even failed to qualify. You saw a different Ouimet on the

DRAPER'S CORNER

DRAPER'S CORNER, October 31.—On Wednesday evening the Y's accepted the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Campbell, of Compton, to hold their annual oyster supper at their home. It was attended by friends from Coaticook, Moe's River, Huntingville, Sherbrooke and Buiwer, all doing justice to the members' efforts to provide for the wants of a hungry crowd. Messrs. Gemmel and Allard demonstrated a loud speaking radio during supper, after which a short entertainment by local talent was given. A hearty vote of thanks tendered Mr. and Mrs. Campbell for their hospitality closed another of the Y's successful meetings. On Saturday evening they will hold a Masquerade at Mr. Cairns'.

The sale at Mr. H. Coates' was well attended and prices were high. Mr. and Mrs. Coates are going to Martinville for a time. Later, Mr. Coates is going to spend the winter with his sons at St. Johnsbury and Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gemmel are leaving this week to start farming at Kingscroft, near Hatley.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Frazee, of Buiwer, were recent guests at Mr. H. Coates'.

A hunting party of six, including Messrs. Alvah, Arthur, Walter and Maurice Brown, Wm. Bailey and A. Mairs spent the week-end in the woods and brought in four nice deer weighing three pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Persons, of Waterville, spent Sunday at Mr. Wm. Young's.

The W.C.T.U. tacked two crib quilts at Mrs. P. N. Draper's, on October 27.

Mrs. F. S. Brown spent a few days at Maple View recently.

Miss Wells was a week-end visitor at the Pines.

On Sunday, October 18th, Mr. and Mrs. John Young and daughter, Olga and son, Fayette, and Mrs. Nellie Young, of Milbr., were guests at Mr. Wm. Young's and Mr. Fred Young's.

Guests at Mr. W. T. Brown's on Sunday, October 18th, were Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Brown and daughters, Edna, of Compton, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Brown, of Woodbine Cottage, and Mrs. P. N. Draper, of the Pines.

Mrs. Demers and daughter, Mrs. Moore, and son, Kenneth Moore, are returning to their western home this week, after spending the summer with relatives here and in the New England States.

On October 18th, callers at

RANCHER'S WIFE ATTACKED
BY ARMY OF RATTLERS

Came in Groups, But Woman Succeeded in Killing Them All Before They Could Bite Her.

(Associated Press Despatch)
FORT UPTON, Colo., Oct. 31.—Mrs. H. H. Slauterback, wife of a rancher, was attacked by a rattlesnake and killed it. Another attacked her and she killed it only to be set upon by several more. They came in groups and she succeeded in killing them all before they could bite her until she stood with a circle of 140 dead rattlers.

She—No; when I marry I want a man who is game from head to foot.

Ex-football man—Well, give me a chance; I've got a game leg already.
