World News In Brief

Hong Kong, Aug. 7.—Sixty-one foreigners, including 13 missionaries, arrived here last night aboard the British freighter Hunan from Tientsin, China. Most were en route to other points overseas. Five of the 13 missionaries were nuns, all leaving Red China either on expulsion or for re-assignment.

Calcutta, India, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Dispatches from Dacca, in the Bengal area of East Pakistan, said today more than 80 persons were drowned when a crowded excursion boat sank during a squall last Sunday. The report said only 12 survivors were picked up by a passing boat.

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The newspaper Al Zaman said today a Roman Catholic priest of Palestinian Arab birth will be tried with two others for plotting the assassination of Jordan's King Abdullah.

Strict censorship in Jordan made it impossible to check the newspaper's report with officials in that country.

London, Aug. 7.—(CP)—Fourteen Vampire and two Meteor jet fighters of the R.C.A.F. "Red Indian" squadron today roared off from their Odiham training base for Germany.

They were headed for Celle, a wartime Nazi bomber station near Hannover, where the Canadians will tour supporting operations with the British forces of occupation.

Canadians' Bath Is Washed Out

Somewhere in Korea, Aug. 7.—(AP)—There was just too much water for the Canadian 25th Brigade's mobile bath and laundry unit.

Set up alongside a small stream, the unit supplied hot showers and clean clothes to grateful frontline troops. But one afternoon a few days ago it began raining.

It rained and rained. By midnight the stream had become a raging torrent. It swept away the bath-laundry unit and tents plus nearly all the personal gear of service troops.

"The water rose about three feet in half an hour inside our tent before it floated away," said Pte. Doug Boyce of Montreal.

"I was up to my chest in water in what seemed only minutes," said Pte. Melvin Morrow of Almonte, Ont.

Pte. Albert Damiano of Ottawa said the men spent the night huddled under trucks and around fires.

Hill's Brother Abandons Plans To Go Over Falls

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Leslie Sander, 39, New York interior decorator, seems to be the only man still in the running for the Niagara Falls junket.

Last week he said he would go over the falls "about the end of the month" in a barrel he has had constructed of welded stainless steel.

No retraction has come from him since the death Sunday afternoon of William (Red) Hill, Jr., 39-year-old riverman who perished when his crazy craft collapsed.

Pte. Major Lloyd Hill of the Canadian Army, William's brother, first said he would try the drop next Sunday, then changed his mind.

His mother, in tears, prevailed on him.

"One son is enough," she said. Red Hill went over the Horseshoe falls on the Canadian side all right—but not as he planned.

His craft—made of 35 truck inner tubes secured with netting—reappeared within minutes in the boiling cauldron at the foot of the Horseshoe, but Hill didn't show up until 16 hours later.

Then his body—badly battered—floated close to the Canadian Maid of the Mist landing. It was recovered yesterday. The forehead bore a deep gash and the right leg was mangled.

Sunday afternoon as the "barrel" came into view, thousands of persons held their breath.

A 16-foot round-bottomed skiff, powered by an old, five-horsepower outboard motor, moved to the foot of the falls and secured the pieces of the barrel. Hill's brother, Norman, was in the boat with three friends.

They towed it to the landing on the Canadian side and 100,000 who watched learned that the flimsy craft had broken along one side and pitched its occupant into the eddy-filled river.

Hill's mother was at the landing. She broke into hysterical

Ridgway Tells Communists They Must Keep Guarantees If Talks Are To Continue

Rene Pleven Seeks French Premiership

Paris, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Rene Pleven will go before the National Assembly tomorrow to seek confirmation as Premier of France.

Pleven, who was Premier for seven months last year, today accepted the role of Premier-designate from President Vincent Auriol in a 20-minute conference at the Presidential palace.

He has spent the last four days talking with party leaders and is believed to have obtained assurances of a majority vote from the centre parties.

Pleven was the eighth French political leader to be invited by President Auriol to form a Cabinet since the government of Premier Henri Queuille automatically resigned after national elections July 10.

The others either refused to try or were unsuccessful in attempts to line up support from the multi-party assembly.

Pleven is leader of the Democratic and Social Union of the Resistance, a small, right-of-centre party.

Pakistan Premier Critical Of Nehru

Karachi, Pakistan, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Premier Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan said Prime Minister Nehru of India is determined to endanger the peace of the India sub-continent and the world "for the sake of staging a political farce and forcing through your program of aggression in Kashmir."

This was the latest development in the tense dispute between the two countries over the former princely state. The Pakistani Premier's message, sent last night to Nehru in New Delhi, came as armies of India and Pakistan restlessly guarded the national borders.

Kashmir, predominantly Moslem, acceded to Hindu India at the time the sub-continent was divided into two nations 2½ years ago.

Alli Khan's statement said that India's attitude is a "challenge to the United Nations and a grave threat to international peace."

He said the way still is open for India to accept Pakistani proposals for a settlement.

Meanwhile, United Nations mediator Frank P. Graham resumed his talks with Pakistani officials on the dispute.

tears and had to be taken to hospital.

Hill was the third person in the last 50 years to die trying to go over the Horseshoe.

Charles G. Stephens, a Briton, and George L. Stathakis, a Greek, perished in attempts to make the drop in 1930. Stephens went to the bottom with an anvil he used as ballast and Stathakis was drowned when his barrel sprang a leak.

But the falls have been ridden successfully. Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor, a schoolteacher, made it in a wooden keg in 1901. Bobby Leach, another Briton, survived the drop in a steel-bound barrel in 1911 and Jean Laussier, a Frenchman, bounced over in a rubber ball in 1928.

Hill was an easy-going man with a charming smile. He had spent all his life on the river, serving as a tourist guide and working between times as a steelworker.

He was married and divorced and had a 12-year-old daughter.

He was a son of the famous William (Red) Hill, Sr., a riverman who was awarded three Humane Society medals for lifesaving. The senior Hill was credited with recovering 177 bodies from the river's swirling grip.

On his deathbed he asked William to "look after the river."

Red Hill tried to do just that.

Reading, Pa., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A 39-year-old war veteran last night declared his intentions of going over Niagara Falls in the same kind of makeshift rubber boat which brought death Sunday to William (Red) Hill.

Hill was killed in an attempt to ride over the Canadian falls.

Allied Commander Insists That There Be No More Violations Of Neutral Zone.

Tokyo, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway told the communists today they must insure complete compliance with their guarantees to keep armed troops out of the Kaesong neutral zone if they want to talk peace in Korea.

The supreme allied commander radioed the Red commanders demanding positive assurances there would be no more violations of the neutral zone. Only then, he said, will he send his negotiators back to cease-fire conferences in Kaesong.

Ridgway said he doubted the joint statement of Gen. Kim Il Sung, North Korean premier, and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, Chinese commander, that the appearance of Red troops in battle array near the armistice site last Saturday was an accident.

He said he considered the incident neither minor nor trivial.

He told the Red Generals: "It must be clearly understood that my acceptance of a resumption of the armistice talks is conditional on complete compliance with your guarantees of neutralization of the Kaesong area. Any further failure in this regard will be interpreted as a deliberate move on your part to terminate the armistice negotiations."

"I await your acceptance of this condition."

A company of armed Red soldiers had marched through the Kaesong neutral zone while the armistice conference was under way Saturday. Because of this, Ridgway abruptly broke off the conference Sunday.

General Kim and Peng replied Monday that the presence of the troops was "a mistake and an accident."

Their joint statement, as broadcast by the Chinese Peiping radio, referred to it as "a small incident" and accepted Gen. Ridgway's conditions for resumption of the talks.

Ridgway's conditions were a "satisfactory explanation of this violation and assurance of non-recurrence."

After receiving the Red reply, Ridgway summoned four of his negotiators to Tokyo, instead of sending them back to Kaesong.

Ridgway conferred last night and again this morning with his chief delegate, Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, before issuing his latest ultimatum.

His firmly-worded message to the two top communists noted: "You state that orders have again been issued to your Kaesong area guards to adhere strictly to the regulation that no armed guards would enter the conference area, in order that incidents similar to that of 4 August will not occur again."

"I have also noted that you describe such incidents as minor, accidental and trivial. Such incidents are of fundamental importance, as I have before pointed out. The incidents are neither minor nor trivial. Their accidental nature is in doubt."

Ridgway had let the Reds ponder his next move for more than 24 hours. Red radios at Peiping and the North Korean capital of Pyongyang kept up a stream of propaganda blaming the United States for the deadlock in negotiations.

Up to the cessation of talks, negotiators had argued for nine days without progress on where to create a buffer zone between the opposing armies.

Red propaganda radios insisted Tuesday there could be no compromise on the basic issue of a buffer zone. They called the U.N. insistence on the present battle front as the cease-fire line "outrageous and unacceptable."

The future of the armistice meetings teetered on the Red reply to Ridgway's emphatic demand. The Red Generals may take their time in replying to "save face."

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 7.—(AP)—A lone communist plane bombed allied lines in Korea today while 236 United Nations planes hammered back at the Reds in combat sorties.

Ground action quieted so much the U.S. Eighth Army omitted its customary evening communique.

The single Red air raider struck shortly after midnight. Five bombs were dropped. There was no immediate announcement of casualties or damage.

Low-flying U.N. fighter pilots reported they killed or wounded at least 200 Reds. The Fifth Air Force kept up a continuous attack on Red supplies and supply lines, mounting 107 sorties from sunset to dawn.

Night fliers lighting Red roadways with flares reported "moderately heavy traffic" moving toward the front. Strikes before last midnight knocked out 80 vehicles in this movement, pilots reported.

The night strikes topped off a day of 775 sorties flown by Far East Air Forces.

Sixteen B-29 Superforts, converging from Okinawa and Japan, kept the air war going today with

Halt Peace Talks

Armed Communist troops in the Kaesong area, such as those shown here, caused Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway to break off cease-fire talks until the Reds offered an explanation of the violation of neutrality. The five-mile demilitarized zone of the armistice town was entered by a company of armed Chinese troops which marched near the truce conference house.

U.S. Gives Cool Reception To Reds' Latest Bid For Five-Power Peace Pact

Stokes Visits Refinery At Abadan

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Britain's chief oil negotiator, Richard Stokes, flew to Abadan today to inspect personally conditions at the shut-down refinery.

President Truman's trouble shooter, W. Averell Harriman, followed in another plane which landed at Abadan later.

Britain had demanded assurances that Iran would refrain from petty annoyances against British employees at Abadan—site of the world's largest refinery—before opening talks.

Mossa Sarabandy, governor-general of the oil-producing province of Khuzistan, greeted the visitors at Abadan airport as guests of the Iranian government.

Meanwhile, talks over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's vast properties — the Abadan refinery is the most valuable — continued in Tehran.

Donald Ferguson, one of Stokes' team, met in the Iranian capital with the Iranian nationalization committee to present what he called "cold facts."

Ferguson is one of the British government's crack nationalization experts and worked out many of the details involved when Britain took over her own iron and steel industry.

Harriman is staying out of the talks, but has been keeping close to the scene.

The talks opened yesterday in a friendly atmosphere which was in sharp contrast to the first negotiation effort six weeks ago. At that time the two sides appeared so far apart that no agreement seemed possible.

Since then Premier Mohammed Mossadegh has modified his position that Iran could take over Anglo-Iranian without consulting with the British government, and Britain has agreed to accept the principle of nationalization.

United Nations Have No Set-Up For Relief Of Korean Civilians

(Following is the first of a series on how the United Nations is meeting the immense job of rehabilitation in Korea.)

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Seoul, Korea, Aug. 7.—(AP)—War is a disaster. It calls for disaster remedies.

After more than a year in the business of war the western countries—loosely tied together under the United Nations—still have organized no disaster set-up to carry prompt relief and treatment to the wretched civilian.

In South Korea, 13 months after the start of the war, the U.N. still has no agency combining the materials, the personnel, the transport and the authority to move in and do an effective job for the refugee, the evacuee, the civilian wounded and sick.

The unfortunate civilian casualty is left to the responsibility of an inept civilian government into whose hands the U.N. funnels inadequate food and medicine and ludicrous relief clothing and then lends professional advisers to guide it.

There is talk about building modern, well-equipped hospitals, improving the medical curricula of still-closed colleges, installing sewage and water-works systems, constructing well-planned orphanages.

Very good for tomorrow. But today people need food,

Egypt Plans To Cancel U.K. Treaty

Washington, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Russia has made a new bid for a five-power "peace" pact. First reaction here augured a flat rejection.

Russian President Nikolai Shvernik revived the Soviet offer, first made two years ago, last night in a surprise letter to President Truman.

"It's the same old chestnut tied with a new ribbon," said a high American official who studied the letter's contents.

Shvernik's message, bristling with denunciations of western "war-mongering," was accompanied by a 2,500-word resolution proclaiming Russia's alleged "dedication to world peace."

This appeared to be Moscow's answer to a resolution Congress passed last June. The American document expressed friendship and goodwill toward the Russian people.

President Truman sent it along to Shvernik, technically Russia's chief of state, July 7. And he called on Russia's leaders to make it public so the Russian people can learn the "peace aims of the American people and government."

Russia's replying resolution came from the president of the supreme Soviet (parliament), a small group which acts when the Russian legislature is not in session.

In his accompanying letter, Shvernik called for an agreement by the United States, Russia, Britain, France and communist China to disarm and prohibit manufacture of atomic weapons. He reiterated Russia's willingness to agree to some form of inspection as a guarantee of her good faith.

The United Nations Assembly overwhelmingly rejected an identical Soviet offer in November, 1949, American officials recalled. It was made by Soviet foreign minister Andrei Vishinskiy.

Other countries did not trust Russia to live up to its word, these officials said, especially after Vishinskiy made it clear Moscow would not agree to United Nations conditions for continuous inspection and international control of atomic energy plants.

Moscow's move in reviving its proposal was viewed by officials here as "a pure propaganda gesture" designed to persuade the world the United States and not Russia is blocking world peace.

It is obviously timed, they said, to capitalize on the world peace sentiment fanned by the Korean cease-fire negotiations now in progress. Communist leaders throughout the world can be expected to rally to it as part of Russia's current peace offensive.

President Truman ordered Russia's resolution and Shvernik's letter made public a few hours after they were received from the Russian embassy.

Thus far the American resolution and Truman's letter have been kept secret from the Russian people. The State Department's Voice of America has been broadcasting almost daily challenges to Russia's leader to make them public if they are not afraid of the truth.

Action Is Urged In Oatis Case

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Overseas Press Club of America announced today it has urged President Truman to take "strong action" to obtain the release of William N. Oatis, sentenced in Czechoslovakia to ten years for alleged spying.

The club, composed of 750 active and former foreign correspondents, said the trial of Oatis was a "travesty of justice."

"His conviction for legitimate newspaper reporting sets a precedent which endangers the safety and life of every American correspondent abroad. We feel that danger will grow proportionately unless our government takes concrete action to obtain the deliverance of Mr. Oatis from his unjustified imprisonment."

Eden Calls For True Brotherhood

Denver, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Anthony Eden called last night for the United States and Britain to develop "a true brotherhood, intimate and unselfish" to lead the struggle for peace through the Atlantic pact.

"In this we need the loyal cooperation of all free nations," the deputy leader of Britain's Conservative party said in a speech at Denver University's world affairs institute.

"But one condition is indispensable to freedom and to progress the world over. You and we—the United States and the British Commonwealth and empire—must stand and work together. . . . When we are disunited we do the Soviets' job better than they can do it themselves."

"The Soviets may from time to time offer friendly words and gestures," he said. "We should not of course rebut them, but we should test them out. On no account must we relax our purpose which is to seek peace through strength. Any success we may have attained so far must be just an encouragement to preserve. It is proof that we are on the right road. Meanwhile, the Soviets continue to practise aggression by remote control."

Hong Kong, Aug. 7.—(AP)—A delayed report to the independent Chinese newspaper Wah Kiu Yat Po said today 12 newspaper men were arrested in Kwangtung province of Red China and at least one was executed.

The executed newspaper man was identified as Chang Li-Ping, former editor of the Nanchow Daily News. He was accused of being a counter-revolutionary agent.

Atlantic Pact Is Described As Defence Against Attack

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Vegreville, Alta., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent traveled to North Battleford, Sask., today on the final leg of a fast-paced, four-day, tour of towns and villages in western Canada.

The Prime Minister will officially open the annual North Battleford fair before boarding a plane for Ottawa. He is scheduled to stop at Saskatoon on his way back to the capital.

Yesterday Mr. St. Laurent spoke at Two Hills and St. Paul, north-east of Edmonton and discussed the North Atlantic treaty and Canadian government. He was also made an honorary Indian chief.

In the rain at the French-Canadian community of St. Paul, 100 miles northeast of Edmonton, the Prime Minister said the North Atlantic treaty was causing high taxes and inflation in Canada. But he said it was necessary to offset the disruptive effect of the veto in the United Nations organization.

He said the North Atlantic pact allows 12 countries to stand together against aggression.

"No aggressor will venture to attack any of us," he said.

At Two Hills, 75 miles northeast of Edmonton, the Prime Minister said Canada was a "great co-operative" where the government is not always "pushing people around."

He told an Ukrainian-Canadian

Royal Visit Will Last Full Month

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Canadian tour by Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, will run "at least a full month," Maj. Martin Charteris, private secretary to the Princess, said today.

Maj. Charteris, 37-year-old, London-born veteran of the second world war, arrived by air from London last night to confer with Canadian officials on the tour.

"The Princess and the Duke are both in good spirits and excited about their forthcoming trip," he said in an interview.

The Royal couple will sail for Canada aboard the Empress of France Sept. 25, and will break their Canadian tour for two days—Oct. 24-25—to be guests of President Truman at Washington.

"There is some talk of extending the United States tour to other American cities, but there is nothing definite yet," Maj. Charteris said.

The Royal pair will return to Canada after visiting the United States.

He did not believe it likely that a similar tour may be made by Princess Margaret.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—(AP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today he hopes the itinerary for the October visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will be issued "within a day or so."

He held a press conference the general outline of the royal visit has been agreed upon. Maj. Martin Charteris, private secretary to the Princess, now is in Ottawa to assist with the details.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

FREEZING THE PACK IS COSTLY

When you first begin to play Canasta you're full of reasons for freezing the discard pile. You have too many wild cards, or not enough; you have many safe discards, or very few; your opponents have melded, or they haven't. And so it goes. If you don't have a reason you'll invent one.

As you gain experience, you learn that the excitement of a freeze often costs a high price. You learn to freeze when you have a good reason for doing so, and not at any other time.

That is a lesson that everybody has to learn for himself, so I wasn't surprised the other night to see four beginners throwing wild cards around as though, they meant nothing at all. It was a very exciting hand to watch, but I was perfectly happy to be watching rather than playing.

The situation seemed to call for a freeze, but it didn't really. Both sides needed 50 points for the initial meld, and everybody managed to make three or four safe discards to start the hand off. By that time, of course, the discard pile was worth having.

The value of the pile influenced one player to hurl a deuce into the pile. She had more wild cards than she needed, and she

POOR DANE CLARK—EVERYONE'S WORRIED ABOUT HIM

Hollywood—Dane Clark sputtered like extra-hot butter in the lobby popcorn machine and lashed out at movie stars who can't see an inch beyond their fringed eyelashes.

And all because I happened to mention that a lot of guys and dolls around town were saying that it was a pity about him!

"Oh, yeah?" growled Dane, his eyes narrowing the way they do on theater screens when a sullen blonde moll informs him that another mobster has muscled into his racket. "What do they mean by that?"

I let him have it both barrels. Movie heroes in turtle-neck sweaters and perfumed superbles in mink trench coats, I said, were downright pained that Dane was no longer lounging around custom-built swimming pools and living the plush life of a flicker king.

Where's Dane?

They were asking, "What ever happened to Dane?" over the tinkle of ice cubes at parties and shuddering at the thought of a big star having to scrounge around in television to keep the jars of imported caviar in his icebox.

"Everywhere I go," I finished, rubbing it on thickly, "people are saying, 'Poor Dane Clark!'"

A shade of flamethrower crimson flowed into Dane's face.

Little wisps of steam curled up from under his collar.

"I let have it with both barrels. 'I've got news of Hollywood,'" he boiled, "I'm making more money today than I ever made. I still have my home here. And I've got a Park Avenue apartment that costs me an arm and a leg. I can manage it all, too. Easily."

"There's big money in television. I've done every New York show that's to be done. And none under $1500 a shot. But don't believe that $500 a show stuff. Nobody gets that kind of money."

"I make three pictures a year. No more than that. When I left Hollywood I did 'Time Running Out' in France and 'Highly Dangerous' in England. I did 'Never Trust a Gambler' at Columbia a while back and now I'm doing 'Fort Defiance.' All this talk about Dane Clark not making any more movies. Why, I turn down picture offers."

"I left Hollywood because I'm an unhappy guy when I'm not working every day. I don't go in for making ceramics. My idle periods got me into trouble. I want to work, that's all."

"Television has been wonderful for me. I've been depleted, bloody and bowed after a show, but I've been happy, too. The pressure of doing a new show every week is good for me. And the money I'm paid keeps me from being so economically desperate that I'll lunge at a movie I don't like."

"I've turned down some movie scripts that were horrible. I couldn't do that without TV. I'd have been economically strangled."

"Another thing, I'm not a politic guy. In Hollywood I was always sticking my nose on the other side of my mind when the other side mind got for me. They told me to question story point. But on TV I come in full of ideas and instead of being maligned or chastised, I'm loved for it."

"In TV, in 15 weeks I do 15 different kind of roles from tough guys to part-fall comics. Brother, I'm getting muscles on my artistic soul."

"I don't knock Hollywood. To me movie acting is harder than the stage or television. To do it right, mean TV, made a better actor out of me. It's here to stay. Every movie actor will be in it. It's hard and tough. A lot of actors will have to get rid of that baby fat."

Dane slowed down and muttered that he'd probably talked too much. Some people might get the idea that he didn't like Hollywood. Why, he was proud of Hollywood and the brainy lads and lasses behind the scenes.

He had to rush over to the customer's for the buckskin duds he wears in "Fort Defiance."

"The producer," he said, "is being very finicky. I have a suspicion that Jacques Path or some-

Shawinigan Falls Band At Craftsbury Proves Commendable Entertainment

Derby Line, Vermont, August 7. — A varied program and sound musicianship featured the concert by the Shawinigan Falls (Que.) Band and assisting artists at Craftsbury Common last Saturday evening.

In spite of threatening weather with a bit of real rain mixed in, a very large audience was present, and their enthusiasm was shown by the volume of noise from the automobile horns. It was estimated that at least 1,000 persons were around the common.

There was a number of fine selections by the band itself, and solo numbers with the band accompanying. With every selection, the band proved its right to the title of one of the best amateur bands in Quebec. Leader for the event was Jean-Yves Landry, who had just returned from studies under famous band leaders in France, and who replaced the regular leader, Philip Filiou, recuperating from an operation.

George F. Suffert, Jr., director of the Ethan Allen Music Center of Craftsbury, also conducted several numbers, and introduced special soloists from his school. Mayor Francois Roy of Shawinigan Falls expressed the band's pleasure at being in Craftsbury, and invited those present to visit his city during the celebration of its 50th anniversary.

Leona May Smith (Mrs. Suffert), described as the greatest woman cornet player, played "Shawinigan Fantasy," based on the famous French Canadian folk song "Alou, Alou." Her performance was truly fine, and the band did an excel-valuable humus and minerals are churned up into mud and float away, with the heavier parts, like sand, remaining behind.

Ellison acknowledges many soil conservation methods now in use, such as contour farming and terracing, are good as far as they go, but he says:

"They are of little value as water savers in heavy rainstorms. About all they do is to prevent runoff water from carving gullies. The valuable, light parts of the soil float away with flood waters that roll on and on."

"The trouble with my theory, from the viewpoint of many conservationists, is that it involves nothing spectacular or dramatic, like the construction of great dams and canals—only a drop of rain and a blade of grass."

Ellison doesn't say that the farming methods he champions would have prevented all of the high water that has occurred in the Missouri and other midwestern river basins this summer.

He believes dams and contour farming are necessary. But he

The Old Rocking Chair

"For the price of them shoes," "Nonsense, it's worth much more. It's remorse that makes you feel you want to pay for my shoes with this lovely rocker."

She was getting thoughts out of his mind that weren't there. But he wouldn't quarrel about it. She had as much right to be pig-headed as he had.

"If you don't want me to sing a different tune, git going."

She rose, divested herself of her shoes, and began to struggle with the chair. She gave him a sidelong glance.

He said drily, "You been calling me an old man since you set foot on my porch. Ten to one if I put a hand to that chair, I'd tumble us all down the stairs."

She smiled unexpectedly. "No, you've just made up your mind that I can finish by myself what I started by myself when I came up your stairs."

He grinned back sheepishly. "So's to prove you wrong, step aside."

He carried the chair to her car, and the earth did not open and swallow him up for going back on his solemn oath.

As she put her car in gear he said diffidently, "Mrs. Kennedy, pleased to meet you. Come back sometime and set a spell."

"I will," she said warmly, for she liked him as much as she liked the rocker.

Atomic Worker Detained In E. T., Placed In Mental Institution

Chalk River, Ont., Aug. 7. — (CP) — Security-conscious officials of Canada's atomic energy project said yesterday no atomic secrets were placed in jeopardy by a young Chalk River chemist who was detained in Quebec and taken to a mental institution during the week-end.

They confirmed that the man, in his late twenties, was taken into "protective custody" as a Quebec rest or convalescent home by Quebec provincial police but said neither espionage nor crime were involved. He now is in a mental hospital in Kingston, Ont.

A doctor said the chemist, on the staff of this secret project for a year, was suffering from a nervous breakdown "and was detained for his own protection." He had been under medical attention for several weeks and some colleagues reported that they felt he had been a bit unusual for the past year.

The Chalk River project is ringed by a high wire fence and guarded by special guards even though it is not doing any work on warlike developments such as the A-Bomb. Its scientists became more security-conscious than ever last year when Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, a native of Italy, vanished from Britain and apparently vanished behind the Iron Curtain.

In months of secret work here before going to Britain, he became a popular, recognized and trusted scientist. His disappearance was Chalk River's first brush with the rash of atomic spying that has made world headlines in the last few years.

But officials stressed today that the chemist's case had nothing to do with spying. He has had a junior position and been doing routine laboratory work. He took documents with him but "they were the documents of a man who is sick." They concerned certain writings of his own and were not connected either with his work or with the project.

He left here last week to see a psychiatrist in Ottawa, fled from the psychiatrist's office and made his own way to a rest home at South Stukely, Que., in the Eastern Townships country south of Montreal.

The owner of the home called Chalk River whose officials said they had been looking for the chemist and were about to call South Stukely because the man had mentioned the possibility of going there.

Authorities said they would rather not make the man's name public.

He was taken into custody at Chalk River's request, by Quebec police and a doctor went from here and took him to Kingston. The doctor later told a reporter he thinks the chemist "is going to be all right" after treatment.

Part of his trouble was that he thought insufficient use was being made of his talents. His illness had nothing to do with political views but concerned his own version of his work, his position and his abilities. When the symptoms obviously invited medical attention, the staff doctor was called in.

It was then that some of his colleagues said they had found him a bit strange over the past year.

Professional men joining the staff here are supposed to have to pass tests both on security and professional grounds.

Picture Is Presented To Legion

A photograph of King George VI was presented to the Canadian Legion last night by the Municipal Chapter of the I.O.D.E., the presentation being made by the Municipal first vice-president, Mrs. R. M. Loughheed, to Legion President Syd Hart. In accepting the gift, President Hart said the members would cherish it as one of the Legion's most precious possessions, and that it would be placed in the entrance of the home. The I.O.D.E. made the presentation as their share in the redecoration of the Legion headquarters.

In the back row in the same order are Fred McLean, of the executive council, Emile Dubois, treasurer, Harvey Jones, secretary, Clayton Conley, of the executive council, L. Gaendring, of the executive council, Ashford Stewart, second vice-president and chairman of the sports committee, J. A. Bourgeois, chairman of the relief and welfare committee, John Kay, past president and fourth vice-president of the Provincial Command.

Await Details Of Agreement With Transit Co.

Within the next two to three weeks, the bus-travelling population of Sherbrooke should learn what they may expect in the way of fares when the franchise of the Sherbrooke City Transit Company, Ltd., is renewed on February 1, 1952.

The Company had to give six months notice of its intention of renewing the existing franchise or of seeking more favorable terms. In a formal notification received before the deadline it is understood to have stated that due to adverse financial results in the past few years resulting from heavily increased operating costs, it would be unable to carry on under present conditions.

The Council, meeting in committee of the whole, is believed to have asked the officials of the Company to submit definite proposals for a new agreement which would form the basis for discussions on a new franchise.

While any definite indications of what the company might propose are not available, many of the aldermen believe that it would be ready to let the fares remain at their present levels—10 cents cash or four tickets for 25 cents—if the city were willing to reduce its proportion of the gross receipts. At the present time the company pays $7,500 annually regardless of its earnings and 7 1/2 per cent on its gross passenger receipts above $250,000.

Failing this, the company might suggest the withdrawal of the gross earnings contribution for one based on net profits.

Residences Are Damaged By Magog Fire

Magog, Aug. 7.—Fire yesterday caused extensive damage to a three-family residence on Stanley street, owned by Edouard D'Arcy.

The fire broke out in the upstairs apartment of E. Lamoureux and is believed to have been caused by an oil stove explosion. The Lamoureux family was having lunch at the time and some of them had to get out through the window.

The adjoining upstairs apartment was unoccupied, the tenant, Armand Perron, being away on holidays. Mr. D'Arcy, whose garage is separated from the building by a lane, lives on the ground floor.

The Magog fire department under chief Telephone Lavoie brought fire under control before it could spread to the garage. Furniture and the interior of the building suffered the heaviest loss, estimated by Mr. D'Arcy at between $10,000 and $15,000.

The force of the blast blew out some of the windows in the building.

Sgt. R. B. Roussel Of Sherbrooke Is Killed In Action In Korea

Mr. and Mrs. F. Beaudry, Vimy Street, have received word of the death, in action, of the latter's son, Sergeant Richard Bilodeau Roussel, with the 3rd U.S. Infantry Division, in Korea.

Sergeant Roussel, who had been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroism, was 30 years old. When his company was overrun by the enemy in November, 1950, he feigned dead until the position was recovered by counterattack the following day.

Killed on July 3 last, the young soldier leaves to mourn his loss, his mother and stepfather, and two sisters, Mrs. John Hibbard and Miss Alice Roussel.

Following is the text of a letter sent to the parents by Maj. General Robert H. Soule, Commanding the 3rd Infantry Division, United States Army.

"I wish to express to you my sincere sympathy for the death of your son, Sergeant First Class Richard Bilodeau Roussel, who made the supreme sacrifice of his life fighting under the banner of the United Nations. Your son was killed in action while leading his platoon in an attack on an enemy held position. He is held in esteem and affection by the men with whom he lived and fought. He will be sadly missed by all of them and his presence will be felt always by those who knew and loved him.

I pray, as I am sure you do, that the sacrifice which your son made was not in vain. He fought for his country against a malignant evil and died a hero's death that others might live in peace and security. I hope that this thought may help to strengthen your heart in your hour of grief."

SGT. ROUSSEL voluntarily remained behind to cover the withdrawal of his platoon.

Danville Fair Today Will Be Marked By Livestock Judging, Horse Races

By LOUIS CASSAR

Danville Aug. 7.—The 75th annual Danville Fair got underway yesterday for its three day run with early fairgoers favored by clear and sunny skies.

Judging was completed in the Ladies' Department, and winners were named in the fancy needlework, knitting, handwoven work and cooking classes.

Judging of all livestock will begin today and will be completed in some classes this afternoon.

Judging of dairy products began this morning.

Two horse races are scheduled for this afternoon with two $225 purses at stake, and two races will be run off Wednesday afternoon. The four cash purses offered total $925.

Daniel's Greater Shows offer an interesting and varied midway, with the regular assortment of thrilling rides, games of chance, mystery side shows and of course the colorful girle show.

Wednesday evening the Hollywood Daredevils, famous auto stunt drivers, will perform before the grandstand.

The main building features some particularly fine displays this year which include a large variety of flowers, handicrafts of all types, cooking specialties, apples, maple and farm products.

The livestock classes are all well represented, with jersey the outstanding grade in cattle. The poultry exhibit, larger than in any previous year, is the highlight in the animal department.

There is a large outdoor motor exhibit, which includes cars and tractors shown by Richmond Motor Sales, International Harvester refrigerators and freezers, Beauty washers and water pumps, Farm-all tractors and McCormick thrashers shown by George Delisle, Danville, and Ford tractors and farm equipment shown by George Fourquette, Danville.

This year's fair executive is as follows: President, J. Alcidas Rioux; vice-president, D. Smith; 2nd vice-president, J. D. Stalker; secretary-treasurer, H. S. Brown.

The company plans to fiberize the fibres for use in deadening the echoes in ceilings and walls and for similar purposes. The bulk of its production will be exported, a comparatively small proportion of its output being used in the Canadian market. The firm will not be engaged in direct selling to the consumer but will market its goods through contractors and building supply organizations.

The first shipment of machinery has already arrived at the plant and additional consignments, mostly from England, are due to reach here within the next few days. Many of the smaller and incidental machines are being manufactured in local plants for attachment to the main producing units.

While this process has not been used on this continent to any extent, it has had a long and successful history in Great Britain, Continental countries and Japan, which have been importing Canadian fibres.

In the initial stages 30 men will be employed on the day shift and 25 on each of the second and third shifts.

Mr. Lenders, whose headquarters are in Philadelphia, said that while the new company would be linked with existing manufacturing organizations in Great Britain and the United States, it would be an entirely independent firm.

First intimation of the new company was given Sherbrooke citizens in an announcement at a council session a few weeks ago by Aid. Henri Labonne, chairman of the Industrial Relations Committee of the City Council, but at the time neither its name nor the products it manufactured were revealed.

Lions Members Make Preparations For Field Day

Discussion of plans for a field day at the Mount Orford Golf Club occupied most of the business session of the Lions Club's weekly luncheon meeting yesterday.

It will start at 3 p.m. and will be followed by dinner at the clubhouse, during which the regular weekly meeting of the club will be held.

Edgar Stracchino of the boys' and girls' committee reported on a swimming meet held last week by the boys at the Y's Men's camp at Shore Acres. Prizes for this meet were donated by the Lions Club.

Aberic Julien, club president, presided. At the head table with him were Past President Ossie Goyette, Mr. Stracchino and Alphonse Saumur.

New Company Is Coming To Sherbrooke

Producing a line of products not previously manufactured in the Dominion and the United States, the Asbestos and Acoustics Fibres, Ltd., plan to start operations in Sherbrooke early in September.

Vincent Lenders, president of the company, stated in an interview with the Record this morning.

The company has leased a section of the Lansdowne street property of the Hall Machinery Company of Canada, Ltd., known as the "old boiler shop," and will employ approximately 80 employees, all male, in the initial stage of its operations, Mr. Lenders said. Employment will be increased as the quantity of asbestos fibres available from various Eastern Townships mines improves, these fibres being in rather short supply at the present time owing to heavy international demands on the production of the Canadian mines.

Two Vehicles Damaged On Lennoxville Road

Council Kept Busy Despite Holidays

The City Fathers are not unduly enjoying their summer recess, the regular sessions being replaced by committee gatherings which assume something of marathon proportions.

Last evening the aldermen gathered in the caucus room at 5:30 o'clock to discuss the lengthy agendas prepared by the various department heads and after a couple of hours discussion it became obvious that any idea of going home for dinner was ruled out.

So a member of the City Hall staff was dispatched to a nearby restaurant to bring in a supply of sandwiches, coffee, etc., to bulwark the administrators in their determination to do justice to the municipal affairs.

Following the light lunch, the discussions were resumed and it was not until 10:30 p.m. that the aldermen began to leave for their homes.

No statement was forthcoming after the meeting other than that routine matters, mostly purchases, were discussed.

In addition to the lengthy committee of the whole meeting last night, various committee chairman have gatherings of their own groups scheduled for this week.

Death Claims R. W. Hunting Of Lennoxville

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, the former Vera Ray; two children, Lois and Robert; four brothers, Norrey, Fred and Henry, of Lennoxville, and Arthur of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

He remains are resting at Johnstone's Funeral Parlor on Melbourne Street, where the service will be held tomorrow at 3 o'clock, Rev. Norman McLeod officiating, assisted by Rev. O. Davidson.

Baseball Stars Will Be Guests Of The Optimists

The next Optimist Club meeting will likely be a baseball evening. President Jacques Laliberte announced at the weekly Optimist dinner held last night in the La-Salle Hotel.

The Club has invited Amedee Roy, manager of the local Provincial League entry and baseballer, Lou Shapiro, Bob Fontaine and Gaston (Doc) Plouffe, trainers to attend their next meeting. Club members Ivan Dugre, president of the Sherbrooke Athletics, will be along to introduce the guests.

The Optimists went on record as censuring a meat thief. Mr. Laliberte said that during the week-end somebody broke into the club house of the Optimist-sponsored Boys' Town, Victoria Park, and stole a half dozen baseballs and softballs, some bats and gloves. The Club will not appeal for a police investigation since the thief might be a youngster but Mr. Laliberte asked that parents with a youngster who has an undue amount of baseball equipment give the child a talking to.

Jack McCabe who works for Northern Electric was the latest member to give a classification talk on the history and function of his firm. Mr. McCabe touched briefly on television. He mentioned the TV television station being in Montreal and said that work on the relay station "on the Pinacle" at Danville had been stopped and that another relay station would be built on Mount Orford.

Stewart Roy, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, was the guest for Gordon Bradford.

Seated at the head table were: Eric Marguardt, Jacques Laliberte, Jack McCabe, Stewart Roy and Gordon Bradford.

MAINTAINING A FIRM STAND

Once again General Matthew B. Ridgway has given an indication that he knows the only way to carry on any sort of effective negotiations with the Communists—to be as unyielding in maintaining your own point as they are in seeking to gain some particular advantage through weakness on the part of their opponents.

Peace talks are being resumed in Kaesong today but only on the terms laid down by the United Nations commander after he had broken off the negotiations because the Reds failed to respect the neutrality of the conference area. This is not the first time that General Ridgway has felt compelled to call back his representatives and it is not the first time the Reds have admitted their fault in breaking the terms of the armistice talks accord.

Some of these differences may have been over comparatively minor and unimportant issues, but they arose from the obvious Communist determination to place the United Nations and their representatives in as uncomfortable a position as possible. The Allied commanders made an error in strategy during the preliminary stages of the negotiations and made themselves appear as the pleaders for peace when they agreed to go to a place selected by the Reds.

This gave the Communists an important propaganda advantage which they hoped to improve by placing the United Nations spokesmen in a more and more uncomfortable position. However, the determination of General Ridgway has had the effect of making their plans backfire and they cannot but have lost face among their oriental followers by the repeated rebuffs they have been submitted to by the Allied commander.

TO THE NEW HOME - OWNER

The man who is lucky enough to find a house today that he can buy within the price range limited by his savings and income knows he is going to gain a new spirit of independence, but doesn't realize what he's really in for until well after he makes the down payment, and heaves a sigh of relief.

The home-owner who changes houses is a relatively lucky fellow. Usually he has enough tools, enough garden hose, and all of the other paraphernalia that go with home ownership. But the fellow who has bought his first house soon becomes concerned with the "little expenses," each in itself not especially burdensome, but cumulatively possible of rising to a sizable figure, and also of leading to family rows and unexpected "headaches."

If the home purchase is made in the spring, as so many are, there immediately arises the problem of sodding or seeding the yards, front and back. The former method is easier and produces quick eye-appealing results. But it is more expensive and may mean a lot of sod-pounding. Seeding, the more economical of the two, means hours of hard work raking and rolling the land preparatory to sowing, then more rolling, and watering, after seeding.

Watering, of course, means a hose. In the old days, the purchase of an ordinary rubber hose was a simple matter. Today, the garden hose buyer is faced with an array of plastic and rubber products in a wide variety of glittering colors at the local hardware store. Will it be red, green, blue, yellow, pink, black? Women think that the hose should match the color of the front door; men, as a rule, prefer the conventional black, although many will settle for green because it blends with the lawn. Anyway, there is generally a mild argument.

Light fixtures, among the very first things that must be purchased, will probably cost him $30 up, depending, usually upon his wife's tastes.

Then, of course, trees must be planted, paint bought and applied to the interior of the house, shelves constructed (women never have enough shelves), lawn furniture built, unless you happen to be the kind that dislikes sitting outdoors or are residing in a crowded section of the city where lawn space is at a premium or too public.

The new home owner would be well advised not to become too dejected over all this. The veteran will tell him that he'll still be putting about his lawn twenty years from now, that the day will never come when his wife will cease asking him to build her a new set of shelves in some obscure corner, or a built-in bookcase beside the fireplace, and "to fix" a hundred things.

Owning your own home means work, and plenty of it, and a steady outlay of money, too. But it also means independence, the freedom, within reason, to do as you wish without fear of the landlord's wrath.

All in all, if you own your own place, you're a lucky fellow. If you don't think so, just ask any one of the thousands who must go on renting.

PEACETIME ATOMIC RESEARCH PROMISES BRIGHT, NEW WORLD

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington—(NEA)—While generals and politicians worry about how, where, when and whether to drop atomic bombs, scientists and engineers continue their research into the mysteries of nuclear fission. Nine years after the start of the atomic energy project, it is still almost wholly a weapon-producing business. Peacetime applications of atomic energy have barely begun to be realized. But a start has been made.

This is revealed in the new, tenth, semi-annual report of the Atomic Energy Commission. It shows that a big business atomic energy has become. There are 100,000 people at it today. Over 5500 work for the government AEC itself. Some 47,000 work for private industry contractors who operate the AEC plants. Over 26,500 are construction workers building new plants, and this number will increase to over 47,000.

Nearly $5 billion have been spent on atomic energy projects thus far. Another $2.5 billion have been appropriated or requested for the coming year. Plant and equipment of AEC today inventory at nearly $2 billion.

The difference between this equity and the total cash outlay—$3 billion—is said by AEC Chairman Gordon Dean not to represent the value of atomic bombs manufactured nor the stockpile of fissionable materials. Figures on such things are carefully concealed in AEC accounting methods and reports.

The taxpayer is entitled to ask, however, what he has received in return for this huge outlay of cash. The readiest answer is that he has obtained security—to whatever degree U.S. possession of an atomic bomb stockpile has prevented war.

STILL IN RESEARCH STAGE
As for direct, peacetime benefits that will raise the standard of living, practically everything is still in the reach stage.

Atomic power production is years away. Effort has been concentrated on the building of ship and aircraft propulsion reactors. Lessons learned in these developments will be applicable to production of commercial power from atomic energy.

Four pairs of companies—one a public utility, the other a manufacturing or engineering chemical firm—have been given contracts to study the feasibility of private industrial production of power and fissionable materials.

Construction has been completed on the new breeder reactor at AEC's new testing center, Arco, Idaho. But Lawrence R. Hafstad, director of reactor development, says it will be many months before it can be determined that the theory of "breeding" fissionable material, creating it faster than it is consumed in reactors, is workable.

As for the production of fissionable materials by mining operations, AEC now announces the U.S. in second place in the free world. The Belgian Congo is first with Canadian third. What Soviet Russia produces behind the iron curtain is of course unknown.

It is in the laboratories that the real promise of the atomic-age-to-come still lies. Most of the research to date has been with isotopes—the radioactive atoms that can be traced.

Radioactive cobalt is now being widely used in place of X-rays to detect flaws in metals.

Use of radioactive materials to sterilize foods and drugs already in containers, without the use of heat, is considered possible.

ADVANCES MADE BY RESEARCH
Accurate measurement of the water-content of snowfall, through automatically-transmitted signals from radio-cobalt rays, has been proved practical in California.

Ohio State University is experimenting with the properties of matter within one one-thousandth of a degree of absolute zero, which is minus 459.7 Fahrenheit.

At Argonne laboratory, Chicago, a rare form of helium was solidified under 600 pounds per square inch pressure at minus 457 degrees Fahrenheit, in a tubing no thicker than a human hair.

This is the new microscopic physics and chemistry which opens the door to exploration of whole new worlds; how metals wear out under friction; how cows make milk; how plants absorb fertilizers.

In the field of medicine, there is the widest atomic research.

A thousand cases of leukemia, treated with radio-phosphorus, were not cured, but suffering was reduced. A thousand cases of over-active thyroid have been controlled by radio-iodine.

Mice whose spleens were shielded with lead were found to survive otherwise lethal doses of atomic radiation.

At New England's Deaconess Hospital, rats exposed to lethal radiation were joined artificially by Siamese twin surgery to unexposed rats, resulting in saving the life of the exposed rat.

That's how science tries to find cures for the evils of atomic bombs.

SEAWAY IS NEARER THAN EVER BEFORE

Peterborough Examiner
It took thirty years to overcome Canadian objection to the building of the St. Lawrence seaway. It is taking as long or longer to override American objection. The seaway will allow ocean-going vessels to come up to Cobourg, Port Hope and Toronto and on through the rest of the Great Lakes to the tip of Lake Superior, and at the same time will provide vast new sources of hydro-electric power. The only reason it is held up is that American special interests are blocking the development.

Montreal used to be the leader of the opposition. Now it is New York City. New York fears loss in the port business—to Chicago, Duluth and other Great Lakes ports. All other present seaports on the east coast, American and Canadian alike, have such fears. The railway companies, too, look on the project with suspicious eyes. The Montreal Star recalls that exactly the same sort of objections from the same kind of sources were made to the building of the Panama Canal. It points out that the Panama increased port and rail business rather than diminished it. The special lobbies in the American Congress have not learnt this lesson, it seems. However, the beginning of the development is nearer than it has ever been before; the opposition is being battered down by other Americans who see the uses and necessities of the seaway system more clearly and widely than New Yorkers. (Up-state New York is of course in favour of the seaway, since its St. Lawrence-Lake Ontario ports could be developed thereby.)

An indication that the Seaway may be near is that American concerns are buying Canadian farm land along the St. Lawrence, from Cornwall to Cobourg.

"ODE TO THE BALD"

When bald on top, the common man
Will seldom raise a fuss.
He doesn't go and buy a wig,
Or like a lot of us
Smear lotions on his hairless head
Or call a masseur in
To rub his scalp when he's in bed
Or monkey with his skin.
I inquired from a specialist whom I knew,
Who lived on Sherbrooke Street,
Why men go bald the way they do,
And leaping to his feet,
He shouted, "It's nought but carelessness
And serves them darned well right
I'll tell you why they're bald on top
Their hats are far too blamed well tight."

Raindrops Blast North America Into Sea, Scientist Claims

Washington, Aug. 7. — (AP) — A navy engineer says raindrops pack the punch of an atomic bomb.
Drop by drop, he says, they are blasting North America into the sea.
W. D. Ellison says floods occur on a farm land is damaged by rain because most soil conservation is aimed at preventing damage from running water, with dams, terraces and contour plowing.
Ellison says the emphasis should be placed on preventing rain from striking earth with full force.
Even in a gentle rain, he said, the millions of drops in one storm strike earth with the combined force of a bomb.
The remedy, according to Ellison, is a simple one. It is to keep the land covered heavily with grass, crops, brush, trees, even weeds.
He has close-up, slow-motion moving pictures showing how blades of plant life break rain's full force. Each drop is scattered into many tiny droplets. They trickle gently downward to the roots of plants and thence into the soil. Eventually they reach nature's great underground storage

HERE'S A GOOD HAND PLAYED VERY SMARTLY

Suppose your partner opens the bidding with one of a suit, and the next player makes an overcall. What should you hold to double that overcall for penalties? Assuming that you double, what course should your partner adopt? Let's take the double first. When you double an overcall of two diamonds or less you can afford to take chances. Even if the doubled contract is made, the opponents will not score a game. The misfire costs you very little.
When you double a contract of two hearts or more, you must be fairly sure that you can set it. Otherwise your double gives the enemy a game that they were not entitled to. That sort of misfire is quite expensive.
In the hand shown today West makes a very light double of two clubs. It all goes well he expects to win three club tricks and perhaps two or more, you must be fairly sure that you can set it. Otherwise your double gives the enemy a game that they were not entitled to. That sort of misfire is quite expensive.

led a third diamond to West's king, and West returned a spade. East took the ace and then the queen of spades, after which he laid down the ace of hearts. South ruffed and West over-ruffed. Now West took the king of spades and exited with his last spade, after which he was bound to make another trump trick.
East and West collected 500 points. They could have made a game at no-trump, but were well satisfied with the result.

1 Spade Pass 3 Diamonds Pass
You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-J-7-3, Hearts A-10-5, Diamonds 9-6-2, Clubs 8-4. What do you do?
A—Bid three spades. This rebid does not show extra strength but merely indicates that you have a rebidable suit. The strength of the spade suit is, after all, the only part of your hand worth talking about.
TODAY'S QUESTION
The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-J-7-3, Hearts A-Q-5, Diamonds 9-6-2, Clubs K-4. What do you do?

But while flood damage to houses and bridges is spectacular, even more costly damage is done to the land itself, Ellison says—

The Record Short Story
THE OLD ROCKING CHAIR
By DOROTHY WEST

The rocking chair sat on Mr. Merriweather's porch, gently swaying in the wind. Mr. Merriweather never sat in it, for he had been brought up in a stern school that would have considered such self-indulgence destructive to character.

The rocking chair had come down to Mr. Merriweather through his forbears. In the days of his mother it had held a place of importance in the parlor. But Mr. Merriweather had once had a fat and lazy visitor, who had carted the rocking chair to the porch so that he could sit in comfort.

Since Mr. Merriweather had not been the one who had carried the chair out, and should not, therefore, be the one to carry the chair back in, and since the fat and lazy visitor was not disposed to do so, the unfortunate rocking chair, due to the stubbornness of one old man and the laziness of the other, sat on the porch from that day forth.

It had been a handsome piece to begin with, and that, though abandoned to wind and weather, it was still a fine antique to anyone who knew furniture.

Mr. Merriweather lived on the outskirts of a lovely little town that made a seasonal income by catering to summer visitors. These summer people did not impinge upon Mr. Merriweather's set way of life because he never saw them. That, however, did not keep him from expressing his opinion. They drove fast cars, they swam in near nudist camps, they drank cocktails, and worst of all, they were friendly, which to Mr. Merriweather, was a sign of city chicanery.

Mr. Merriweather had a neighbor poor in pocket but rich in land. This man had a favorite nephew who wanted to go to college. Since the boy's interests would lead him to the city eventually, and he would never work the land his uncle planned to leave him, his uncle decided to give the boy his inheritance in a college education, and sold the land to do so.

It was a beautiful stretch of land, green and level. The city man who purchased it turned it into tennis courts. All through the Spring Mr. Merriweather sulkily watched the coming and goings of workmen's cars. For in their wake would come the cars of the vacationers, those Summer swallows, who would sully his section of countryside with their children's game of batting a ball back and forth across a net.

Mr. Merriweather made up his mind not to acknowledge their existence by so much as a glance. When Summer came, and the courts were ready, and the cars began to purr past, Mr. Merriweather took a straight-backed chair and faced it away from the road.

Whenever the heat of the day forced him to seek the greater circulation of air in the out-of-doors, he plunked himself down in the unyielding chair with his back to the road and his eyes envisioning no more than the long familiar cracks in his front door.

At first the Summer people whizzed past, and then they began to slow down and stare at this daily spectacle of a man who was letting the rest of the world go by without so much as turning a hair.

Eventually, and quite naturally, they decided that Mr. Merriweather was just another queer old party, no longer in possession of the brain he was born with. Most of them forgot his existence, since he was obviously unmindful of theirs, but inevitably the antique lovers among them shifted the center of their fascination to the old-fashioned rocking chair.

There came the day when the boldest car stopped, and its female occupant alighted, and mounted the porch stairs. Mr. Merriweather knew the sound of summer feet, mincing stones in foolish heels. He did not deign to turn around. Instead he studied a crack in his door with renewed intensity.

The woman cleared her throat. "I beg your pardon." It was not a young voice. It wasn't old either. It was one of those in-between voices, which generally belonged to women who were used to bossing their husbands and children, and didn't know enough to draw the line in their dealings with other folks.

"It's a lovely day," the voice suggested.
Mr. Merriweather, cleared his own throat. "Twas," he said with bitter emphasis.

"Should you move?" he asked anxiously, not wanting her to make any more breaks that he'd have to pay for. "What hurts?"
"My dignity," she barked. "What else? After all, I'm not so old and brittle that I'm apt to snap."

Together they got her to her feet and in the antique rocker. They surveyed her ruined heels. "Do you know how much these shoes cost?" she demanded.

She was going to sue him. He was going to have to shell out some cash, whether she was hurt or not. She was going to dig into his burial money unless he coughed out smart her.

"Well," he said craftily, "when you come on my porch without an invite, you was trespassing."

"Only if you had a sign that said so. And you didn't."
He tried another approach. "Well, I don't see no reason why we can't settle this out of court. I'm willing if you are. I'll do the forgetting, you intruded on my privacy if you'll do the forgiving 'twas me made you fall."

She looked embarrassed. "Goodness gracious, I wasn't planning to take you to court over a pair of shoes. I don't expect you to pay me for my folly in calling on a pig-headed old man. As a matter of fact, I came in the hope that you'd pay you for this rocking chair."
"I want it. And the way you treat it, it's obvious that you don't. But, of course, you're the kind who'll say, what's yours is yours."
For years now that chair rocking back and forth on the porch had disturbed Mr. Merriweather's night's rest. Since he was bound and determined not to touch it, here was his chance to get quit of it without putting a hand to it.
"You city folks can't come putting words in my mouth. I'll say what I choose to say. Take it and git."
She blinked at him. "For how much?"

OBITUARIES

MRS. GEORGE BURNET, OF COWANSVILLE
Cowansville, Aug. 7. — On Saturday, July 21, 1951, death claimed one of Cowansville's oldest and most respected citizens, Mrs. G. Thomas Burnet.

The deceased was before her marriage, Charity Elizabeth Stowe, daughter of the late Marlin I. Stowe and his wife, Martha Short and was born in Glen Sutton, on July 6, 1855, and was in her 97th year.

Mrs. Burnet spent her early life teaching school in both Sutton and Farnham Townships and was married to George Thomas Burnet, on February 15, 1883. They always lived in and around Brigham, until moving to Cowansville, in 1924.

Mr. Burnet predeceased her in 1938.

She was a member of Prosperity Rebekah Lodge, No. 32, and, up until recent years, on account of her advanced age, took an active part in all church and community work.

The funeral was held from her late residence, on July 24, with Rev. A. S. C. Ritchie officiating with interment at Brigham.

Miss M. Stevenson and Miss Longway sang "Good Night And Good Morning" and "Rock Of Ages," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. G. Couzens.

The bearers were Messrs. William Crawford, Walter Hawthorne, Edward Dougal, Walter Laurie, Elwin Johnston and Fred Cassidy.

The service was largely attended by friends from Brigham, Montreal, Dunham, Farnham, Knowlton and Sutton.

The many floral tributes attested the high esteem in which Mrs. Burnet was held.

She leaves to mourn her loss, three children, Leighton, Muriel and Archie; her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Leighton Burnet, and her only granddaughter, Miss Jean Burnet, of Montreal; two nieces, Mrs. N. H. O'Regan and Mrs. M. J. Clark; and one nephew, Mr. Ray Stowe; besides many great and great grandnieces and nephews.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral were, Mrs. N. H. O'Regan, M. O'Regan and G. A. Shepard, of Sutton; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Clark, and L. L. McCarthy, of Farnham; Mrs. Homer Hunt, of St. Albans, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stowe, of Birchtown; Mrs. M. Morgan, of Knowlton; the Misses Mary and Clara Farnsworth, Miss Elsie Lawson, Mrs. George Jehu, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hesleau, Miss Pearl Beatty, and Mr. and Mrs. William Willis, all of Montreal; Mrs. H. McClay, of Lennoxville; and Mrs. A. Cavan, of Toronto, Ont.

MRS. WILLIAM LOOMIS, OF LENNOXVILLE

Lennoxville, Aug. 7.—Ella Louisa Weyland Loomis, passed away at her home in Lennoxville, at noon, on June 15, 1951.

She was born at Weedon, on August 30, 1863. Her parents were the late Capt. H. G. Weyland and his wife, Louise Stacey Weyland. Mrs. Loomis' girlhood was spent in Marbleton.

She was married to William Loomis, of Lennoxville, in June, 1885. Her children are Harold, Christopher, William, Reginald and Edith Loomis, who all survive her. Her husband predeceased her.

She took great pleasure in cultivating house plants, which she, for many years, exhibited at the Sherbrooke Fair. She was an excellent braided rug maker, exhibiting these at the Toronto, Ottawa and Sherbrooke Fairs, where she secured many prizes.

Her funeral took place at her old home church, St. Paul's, at Marbleton, with the Rev. Mark Beaufoy, of Waterville, officiating. The bearers were her five grandsons, Warren, Byrnie, Douglas, Milton and Frances Loomis, and Maurice Weyland.

The Marbleton church choir sang the hymns, "Bread On Me The Bread of God," and "The King of Love, My Shepherd Is." Rev. J. W. Harrison presided at the organ.

Beside her immediate family, Mrs. Loomis leaves many friends and relatives to mourn her passing.

ELIMINATION OF RABIES IN DOGS IS A MOST IMPORTANT PROJECT

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.
About seventy years ago Louis Pasteur, the famous French scientist, carried out his experiments on the dread hydrophobia or rabies. Up to then tragic and horrible deaths from dog or wolf bites occurred all too frequently and nothing could be done about it.

Pasteur's crucial studies are frightening even now. In one of them he and two assistants dragged a mad bull dog, foaming at the mouth, from its cage and collected some of the animal's saliva by drawing it into a glass tube, the other end of which was held between Pasteur's lips.

But this saliva contained the virus which causes rabies and Pasteur worked on it until he had something which he thought would do as a vaccine.

After several years the time of trial came and one can only imagine the agony which Pasteur must have suffered in trying to decide whether he should use this vaccine for the first time. The patient was a nine-year-old Alsatian boy who had been bitten two days before by a rabid dog.

The poor boy had received fourteen bites and was in great pain. He was surely doomed to horrible death if nothing could be done. The boy, Joseph Meister, was given the vaccine and recovered, the first in a long line of those who have been saved.

But the problem of rabies has not yet been solved. The disease is present in cats, farm animals, foxes, and particularly dogs. It is rabies in dogs which causes the greatest concern, not only because these animals are the ones most likely to bite and infect human beings but rabies is also a serious illness for the dogs themselves.

This situation apparently can be licked, however, by a combination of vaccinating dogs, quarantine and other measures.

30,000 Vaccine Shots
Approximately 30,000 people are given the rabies vaccine in the United States each year and this treatment is uncomfortable, expensive, time-consuming, and not completely free of risk.

The treatment is surely worthwhile for those who have been definitely bitten on the bare skin

Boundary Rotary Club Given Three Talks

Derby Line, Vermont, Aug. 7. — Due to the absence of their speaker, members of the Boundary Rotary Club were given three short talks from those present at their weekly meeting, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

E. J. Struthers spoke of the increased tourist traffic through the villages, stating that it was 16% greater than that of 1950 and that cars came from every State in the Union and from every Province in Canada, as well as from other countries, including France, South America and Hawaii.

Hoyt Remick of Glencoe, Ontario, told of the radio auction operated there as a means of raising funds for work with crippled children, and also spoke of the manufacture of diamond socks. Mr. Remick was originally from Barnston, Quebec, and has worked in the textile and stocking business for many years in Ontario and Scotland.

Colonel Holland of West Point, a student at the McGill Geography Summer School, gave a short talk on West Point, in which he emphasized the quality of the general education received there. He said that tests conducted from questions prepared by Princeton University revealed that students from West Point exceeded the general average of those from other colleges. Col. Holland also said that the fundamental purpose of the school was, to give, to the young men enrolled there, a well rounded education, plus a desire to serve their country.

From the letter of the District Governor, past president C. R. Darby read that the Boundary club was ninth in the district of 62 clubs in attendance during the year 1950-51, with an average of 90%. Vice president Rene Monty attributed this high average to the leadership of the past president who was rewarded with a round of applause.

Vice president Rene Monty presided at the meeting and introduced the three speakers. Appreciation of the past president was expressed by Earl Heath. Music for singing was played by Miss Aline Ricard and led by Elwin Chadsey. Visiting Rotarians at the meeting were Percy Proctor of Babylon, N. Y.; Peter Costigan of Waterbury, Conn.; Hoyt Remick of Glencoe, Ont.; and Rodney Griffin of Franklin, N.H. Col. Holland was present as a guest of W. T. May.

IN certain workrooms where jewelry is manufactured, floor sweepings are separated and refined every day. Uniforms, worn by the jewelry craftsmen, are specially washed. Walls are vacuum-cleaned and the sittings microscopically sorted. Sometimes collected "dust" yields $26,000 a year.

Other things done with "left-overs": A church in England has a beautiful stained window that has for years, attracted beauty-seekers from all over the world. This window was put together by a glazier's apprentice who saved the small bits of glass the master-artist discarded. The young apprentice put these pieces in a magnificent window of his own design.

In 1945, 45 Eagle Scouts built a mile of trail over the mountains of Glacier National Park. Boys from 17 states labored five hours a day in the hardest kind of road work, calling it their vacation. The trail, a thing of beauty, hewn and blasted as it was out of the rocks themselves, was so well thought of, other Scouts continued the trails and worked at further trails in their own states.

This summer season with its camps, outdoor sports and playgrounds will leave in its wake many opportunities for continued advancement in sport, ripening friendships and chances for career work. Yet these remains will have little value unless you yourself gather them and mold them into a permanent pattern of your own design.

Baffin Island Movies Are Presented To Enthusiastic Boundary Audience

Derby Line, Vt., Aug. 7. — The story of the Baffin Island Expedition of 1950 was related to the members of the McGill Geography Summer School and to a large audience of local residents at the Haskell Opera House, by Col. P. D. Baird, on Tuesday evening. Films of the expedition made up the main portion of the evening, with a preface and commentary by Col. Baird.

Baffin Island is 1,000 miles long and lies in the Arctic between Greenland and Hudson's Bay; the expedition was under the direction of the Arctic Institute. Col. Baird spoke of the months of preparation, the sending of goods and material in advance, and the start early in May from Montreal, by air. Thanks to the help of the Royal Canadian Air Force in transporting the members of the expedition as well as much of the material. The expedition arrived early enough to prepare before the breakup of the winter.

Many different tasks were performed by members of the group, including studies of the weather, rock formations, plant and bird life, and of the ice cap itself. Measurements showed the ice to be 150 feet or more in depth, and of course the ice was static. There were flowers and plants to be seen during the short summer, many of which, were beautiful.

The movies of the expedition were in colour and were most impressive. Scenes of the mountains, lakes and fjords were taken from both land and air, revealing the true beauty of this portion of the Northland.

Peaks on Baffin Island ranged from 1,500 to 6,000 feet in height, and many of these were scaled by the mountaineers in the group. Travel was by dog sled, canoe, on foot and by plane. Due to sudden changes in the weather, some of the air trips were dangerous. Due to extremely low ceilings, the pilot was compelled to fly at very low levels, skimming the ground and working in between the peaks with little clearance. On one occasion, there was only 50 feet of visibility and when the plane finally landed, it was necessary to

Demanding Mother

Woman's Bitterness Makes Her Daughter's Life Miserable

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 25, my husband is 29, and we have been married less than a year. We have done everything possible for my widowed mother, yet nothing seems to satisfy her. I have two sisters and a brother at home with her, and we have done without things to give her assistance. We have just paid a large hospital bill, and I have bought the younger children shoes and clothing to spare her expense.

She has a nice home, garden, chickens, cow and an income, and she works hard around the house. But she whines and quarrels all the time and doesn't appreciate anything. My husband works in the coal mines and his work is very irregular. I can't leave him and go back to my mother. Though I love my mother and family very much I feel my place is with my husband.

MARY ANSWER: Trying to please a mother like yours is like pouring water into a leaky pail; the more you put in, the more is required. Apparently you were the first of her children to marry, and she is so resentful of the fact that no sacrifice you could make—short of leaving your husband—would be pleasing.

TIME WILL HELP In time, she will get over her bitterness and realize you are still a loving daughter despite your marriage. Since she is not alone at home, is not in want, is receiving so much care and attention from you, her attitude is entirely unwarranted. You have no alternative but to let things take their course and ignore her complaints as much as possible. Don't neglect your obligations, but on the other hand don't take over more than you can handle. If you can harden your heart to it, you might even announce a curtailment of your visits unless a warmer welcome is extended—with no whines or quarrels.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young man and I go with a widow five years older than I. I am very much in love with her but hesitate to tell her so. I'd like to ask her to marry me but am afraid she will get mad and tell me to leave.

PETER ANSWER: While you're going over all these arguments in your mind, the widow is probably biting her nails wondering how long it will take you to come to the point and propose. Seriously, no woman gets mad at a proposal from a man she admires. I take it this lady does admire you or she wouldn't be going with you. If she doesn't want to marry, she'll tell you so, and you can continue being friends. Take a chance, anyway, Peter. Don't be faint hearted.

Dear Miss Dix: I am almost 16 and my problem comes with the season of bathing suits and shorts. I am very thin and feel terribly conscious of it. Can you give me any advice? DOT

ANSWER: A consultation with your doctor will probably show you how to add a few pounds. In the meantime, concentrate on the more frilly type of bathing suit rather than the strictly form fitting affair. That will at least camouflage some of your thinness. If you feel conspicuous in shorts, why not shun them entirely and wear sundresses or jeans? Most girls your age are on the thin side, so don't feel too badly about it.

ATHLETICS DOWN FARNHAM 8-6; MEET TOMORROW EVENING

Armando Roche Hits Two Homers As Locals Pound Out Decision Over Pirates; Meet Tonight

Sherbrooke Athletics downed the Pirates of Farnham last night 8-6 to gain on the league leaders and remain in third position in the standing, four and a half games of the pace set by Granby and Drummondville currently tied for the top spot in the Provincial League.

Only a few percentage points separate Drummondville and Granby and by copping last night's game the A's reduced the margin by one game. Tonight the locals travel to Farnham and tomorrow evening they will be hosts again to Sam Bankhead and his Pirates in a regular fixture at 8:00.

Armando Roche went the route for the A's and helped his own cause by smashing out two round-trippers and a single in four trips to the plate. He counted three runs as well. Kaiser was the losing hurler and gave up thirteen hits for eight runs.

The locals gathered hits in all the innings except the sixth and seventh. Farnham jumped off with a rousing start when they smashed out four hits to tally three runs in the opening inning coupled with two errors and a wild pitch.

Roche gave up twelve hits for six runs and at no time was he in serious trouble. Any time the Pirates threatened the locals came up with some nice defensive play to kill off the rally.

Gonzalez picked up two doubles while Garcia, Pascual and Ballester accounted for the other extra base hits. Every player with the exception of Duany and Gosselin fattened their batting averages. Metzger, Garcia and Ballester gathered two while Mantaras had one.

Willie Morales was the top man for the Pirates with two doubles and a single. Brathwaite, Bankhead and Kaiser collected two apiece while Ware, Taylor and Forestier had singles.

The A's got two runs in the opening frame and added singletons in the second and third while in the fifth they had their big frame shoving three tallies across the plate. Mantaras singled but went out when Gosselin hit a fielder's choice. Pascual doubled and he came racing home. Roche then accounted for his second round tripper to register two more runs and give the A's an 8-4 lead.

In the sixth and seventh it was quick order for the locals as they went down in order. In the eighth Metzger picked up a hit, his second of the evening, but he was left stranded while his mates went down.

In the sixth the Pirates drove out two hits but failed to cross the plate as Garcia-Metzger and Mantaras teamed up on a double play to kill the rally. In the next two innings things went quick as the Pirates went down 1-2-3.

In the ninth the Pirates staged a rally to net two runs. Brathwaite singled and Morales hit a two-bagger to drive him home. Pinkston went down at first but when Bankhead hit an infield smash Morales came home with the second tally. Forestier drove out a fielder's

Royals Dump Red Wings To Extend Lead In I.L.

Ernie Shore, veteran right-hander with Toronto Maple Leafs, is a leading candidate for the International League's most valuable player award.

Shore, former St. Louis Brownie, has toiled in 44 of the Leafs' 117 games. The hefty vet's relief work has highlighted the Leafs' drive for a first-division berth.

Shore appeared in both ends of a doubleheader yesterday which the fifth-place Leafs split with Buffalo Bisons. The Bisons won the opener behind the eight-hit pitching of Lynn Lovenguth. The Leafs captured the nightcap 2-1.

George Moskovitch and Hank Biasatti drove in all of Buffalo's runs in the opener. Lew Morton homered for Toronto's run.

Shore relieved Hal Hudson in the seventh inning of the nightcap and allowed one hit the rest of the way to bag his ninth victory. The Leafs won the game in the ninth when Charlie White bunted safely with the bases loaded. Morton poled his 17th home run for the other Leaf counter.

Baltimore Orioles and Ottawa Giants also split a doubleheader. The Orioles for the opener 2-0 behind the one-hit pitching of Jack Brittin. The Giants took the nightcap 10-5. Nick Vulmire spoiled Brittin's no-hit bid with a single in the third inning. Harvey Gentry drove home four runs on a homer and three singles to lead the Giants to victory in the nightcap.

Montreal's league-leading Royals smothered Rochester Red Wings 10-5. The Royals pounded out 16 hits, including home runs by Bobby Morgan and Tobey Atwell. Hamp Coleman limited the Wings to eight hits, including a home run by Jay Van Noy.

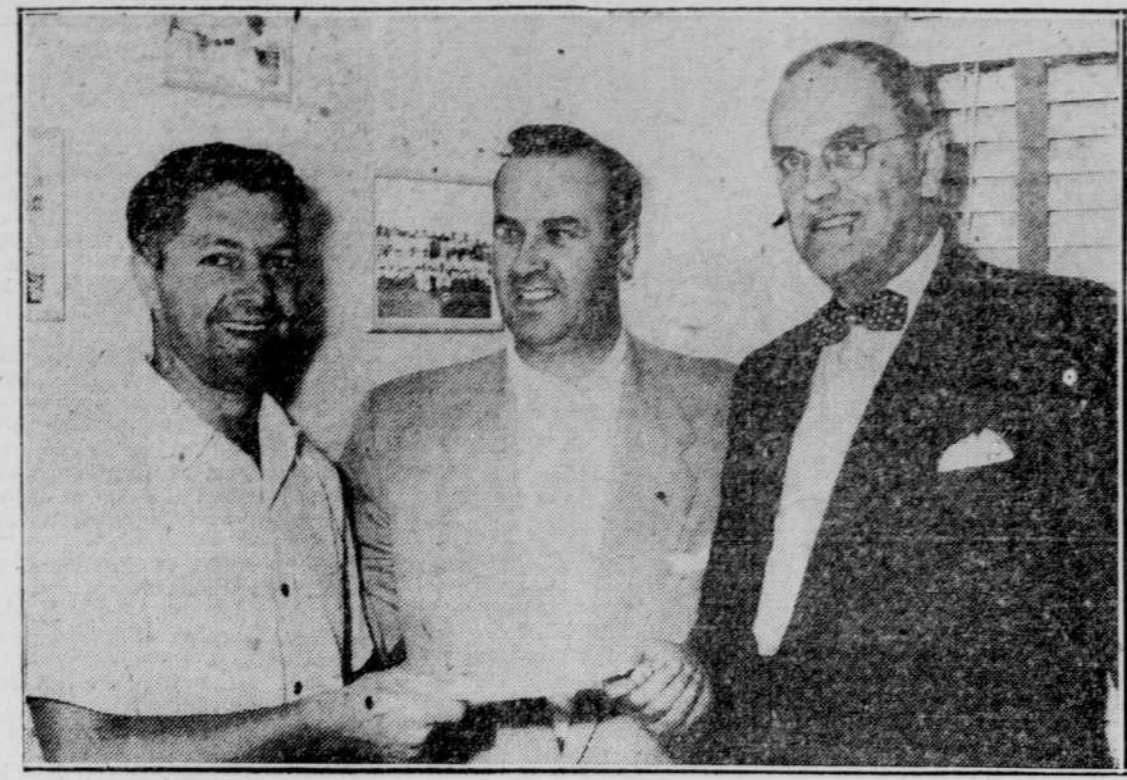

Syracuse Chiefs tied the Red Wings for third place by beating Frank Marino and the Springfield Cubs 8-3. Chuck Eisenmann pitched three-hit ball after relieving Jack Griffiore in the fifth to gain credit for the victory.

Detroit Tigers Recall House From Toledo

Detroit, Aug. 7. (AP)—Detroit Tigers yesterday recalled rookie Frank House from the Toledo American Association club as a replacement for catcher Aaron Robinson.

Robinson was sold to Boston Red Sox Sunday. House, a $75,000 bonus player, brought a mediocre .250 average with him from Toledo.

Comes To Sherbrooke

The above photo shows Nils Tremblay, former member of the Ottawa Senators, and Forest Keene, business manager of the local team, holding a contract just signed by Tremblay. Ivan Dugre, coach of the Sherbrooke Saints, is watching things with a considerable amount of interest. Tremblay was one of the ace pivot men with the Senators and always finished well up in the scoring parade. Tremblay will report to Sherbrooke next month when the teams take up training on September 16.

Nil Tremblay, High-Scoring Pivot Man For Ottawa, Purchased By Local Club; Reaches Agreement With Saints

Nil Tremblay, a former member of the Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League and one of the top scoring centre players on the club, will play with the Sherbrooke Saints this winter. The native Quebecer reached terms with Forest Keene, business manager, and signed his contract to perform with the Saints. The local club purchased his contract outright from Tom Gorman's team and at the same time Ted Hodgson and Stan Warecki, who played here last winter will return to the Senators.

Manager Keene also announced that several new players will be on the local lineup for the coming winter. However their names wouldn't be revealed until the team has them under contract. Only a few of last year's team will be back.

In Tremblay the locals acquired one of the outstanding centre players and with Eddie Dartnell and Bill Robinson formed one of the top trios in the league. The Senators let him go to make room for members of the Toronto Maple Leaf club, of which they are hooked up on the player situation.

Canada Sweeps Davis Cup Encounter With Cuba By Winning All Fixtures

Montreal, Aug. 7. (CP)—Although Canada's three-man Davis Cup squad swept through Cuba in five matches in the North American zone tie, Captain Frank Shields of the United States team gives them little chance of advancing further.

Yesterday, the Canadians were at their best as Brendan Macken and Henri Rochon wrapped up the best-of-five match with the loss of only one set in 15. Macken whipped Reynaldo Garrido, a 17-year-old novice Copper, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2. Little Henri Rochon trounced the stubborn Orlando Garrido, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2 in the final two singles matches of the competition which started Saturday after rain washed out Friday's scheduled play.

A crowd of 1,500 saw the matches along with the U. S. team which will see action here next Friday, Saturday and Sunday against the Canadians in the North American Zone final tie. The American team is made up of Budge Patty, Dick Savitt, Tony Talbert and Art Larsen.

Canada clinched the match against Cuba Sunday when Vancouver's Lorne Main teamed with Rochon to defeat Dr. Juan Weiss and Jose (Pepe) Aguero in straight sets.

In opening singles play Saturday, Main swept through Aguero in straight sets while Dr. Juan Weiss bowed out to Macken after four sets.

Ideal conditions greeted yesterday's play with the mercury hovering about 80 over the sun-drenched grass courts at the Mount Royal Club.

Macken in the first match had too much power for his inexperienced opponent, although, at times, he seemed to be holding back on his deadly backhand. The husky Cuban was determined to take a set from the Canadian and made his best bid in the second set when he took a 3-0 lead in games.

Orlando Garrido also put up a dogged fight in his 53-minute outing with Rochon. But it was obvious he lacked power and finish of his opponent, a seven-year Davis Cupper.

Rochon's drop shots and towering lobs worried the Cuban and he never settled down to serious tennis.

Captain Shields said he was "impressed with Rochon's play" after seeing him in action against the elder Garrido brother.

"We want to win this match and upset Australia," he said shortly after his arrival yesterday from New York. "My team has six top players of which we have to select four to play against Canada. I think they are all about even in play and should have little trouble in winning this round."

He said he would not name his singles and doubles players until Thursday.

Captain Gordon MacNeil of the Canadians preferred to withhold comment until after he has seen all the Americans in practise workouts.

Federick Wins Annual International Marathon

Dundas, Ont., Aug. 7. (CP)—Walter Federick of Dundas yesterday won the 15-mile international road race with a stretch drive that made the marathon almost a walkaway in the final two miles.

Canadian champion Federick finished almost 200 yards in front of Whitey Sheridan of Hamilton, while American marathon champ Johnny Lafferty of East Greenwich, R. I. finished third.

The gruelling hilly course of the race, held under the sponsorship of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, turned the run from a two-man competition between Federick and Lafferty into a three-man duel, with Sheridan in the lead most of the way.

At the two-mile mark, Sheridan was in front with Federick and Lafferty close behind. Then, at the 12-mile mark, Sheridan had a 50-yard lead, but Federick opened up to win easily. The winner set a fast time of one hour, 24 minutes and 45 1/2 seconds.

Edo Romagnoli, a New York policeman, finished fourth and Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., was sixth.

Ford Hanover Cops Grand Circuit Opener

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 7. (AP)—Ford Hanover, owned by William H. Strang, Jr., won the $3,000 28-class trot yesterday as Grand Circuit racing opened at Good Time Track, covering the mile in 2:03, the fastest time for a three-year-old trotter this season.

Johnny Simpson didn't have to ask anything of Ford Hanover as he won the race in straight heats, beating out Alama B. in the first heat, and Mighty Song in the second whirl.

Joe O'Brien of New Glasgow, N.S., drove Prim Hal to third place in the two-year-old filly pace.

Red Strader Out As Coach Of Yankees

New York, Aug. 7. (AP)—Norman (Red) Strader is out as head coach of the New York Football Yankees, but the question arose yesterday—was he or wasn't he?

"I'm most certainly was," said the former coach of St. Mary's (Calif.) who has been with the Yankees since 1946.

Strader said Ted Collins, owner of the National Professional Football League Club, called him on the telephone last Wednesday and told him, in effect, he was through.

Collins, in Lake Placid, N.Y., insisted he was "completely shocked" by the news.

"I woke up yesterday morning thinking Strader was my football coach," he said. "If he says he's out I suppose he's out but I haven't fired him."

Rubins Edge Textile While Bruck Down Machinery To Cop Last Playoff Berth In Industrial Softball Loop

After a two week lay off, Rubins came back strong last night to defeat Textile 14 to 12 in the opening game of a twin bill played at Dufresne Park. In the other game, Bruck took the measure of Machinery 13 to 6.

Rubins in their game with Textile, scored runs in every inning but the seventh. They got singletons in each of the first four innings, and pushed across ten runs in the fifth and sixth. Textile put up a fighting rally in the sixth and seventh inning, getting eight runs.

Gagne, on the mound for Tommy Stock's men, was not effective as he generally is, probably the long lay off had something to do with this. He was replaced on the mound by Rene Pepin in the fifth inning, but Rubins found Pepin's pitching to their liking, getting ten runs off his deliveries.

Bruck and Machinery put on their usual nip and tuck affair in their game, both teams playing heads up ball. The Bruck batters were really on, getting no less than 14 hits off Bessant's and Bouchard's deliveries.

Machinery jumped into a four run lead in their half of the first inning, getting at Marier, the Bruck hurler, right away. Marier was immediately replaced on the mound by Bouelle, and he only allowed three hits for one run in the remaining five innings. Paquin for Bruck Mills was the big hitter of the evening, getting three hits, two of these being home runs.

Charlie Clark and Marier also connected for round trippers for Bruck, while Deslonges, the Machinery catcher, got one for Bill Cochrane's team. This victory last night assures Bruck of the fourth playoff spot in the league playoffs.

Quiet Farm Life Appeals To U.S. Poet-Biographer

Flat Rock, N.C. — After the goats have been milked on Conemara farm near here, there's a sound of singing in the twilight air.

Leading the singing and providing the accompaniment on his guitar is Carl Sandburg, two-time Pulitzer prize winner and, at 73, one of America's best loved poets and biographers.

The songs Sandburg sings with his wife, the former Lillian Steichen, daughter Helga Thoman and grandchildren are the folk tunes he has collected and helped bring back to popularity. In "An American Songbag" he served up a generous helping of the ballads and chants of the people.

White-topped Sandburg in his busy lifetime has turned his hand to everything from writing poetry to washing dishes. Raising goats is an occupation he took up some years ago in Michigan.

Back in 1945, he moved goats, family and all down to the hills of western North Carolina. Here he lives with them in semi-isolation, close to nature.

In fine weather, almost every day finds Sandburg in his favorite spot on the farm, a place he calls simply "The Rock." There, undisturbed except perhaps by his grandchildren, he scribbles in longhand or just sits in the sun.

But when milking time comes in the afternoon, there are chores for every member of the household. In the dairy barn where some 200 goats are being milked, Sandburg walks about, speaking to his pets by name. The grand children take over the task of feeding the kids.

Mrs. Sandburg, a sister of the famous photographer Edward Steichen, is an expert on pedigree goats.

It was because of goats that he moved from their home at Harbert, Mich.

"The goats," the Whitmanesque poet said simply, "need more room to roam."

It was in his attic study at Harbert that Sandburg wrote his great works on Lincoln.

The farm also is a quiet life for the poet who sang the glory of bustling "Chicago," and industrial America. But the change is typical of the variety of Sandburg's literary works.

In addition to poetry, which ranges from the dynamic to the tender, he has written history and a novel. His biographies of Lincoln, "The Prairie Years," and "The War Years" in six volumes, are monuments to his regard for the civil war president.

His mammoth novel, "Remembrance Rock," received wide acclaim when it was published several years ago.

Folk music caught Sandburg's attention early and he spent some time collecting and recording tunes sung by mountain folk, cowboys, railroad gangs and all those "who sing because they must." With his guitar, he gave poetry reading-folk singing concerts across the countries.

Last year, his "Collected Poems," covering the whole range of his poetry, was awarded

Mr. Garrett Chapman appointed to help Mr. Williams.

Cattle: Lucien Roy, John Beerworth, H. M. Jacquays, Lionel Dion, Gilles Dandeneault, Art. Chagnon, M. C. McGillivray, E. Ashton, Charles Saunters.

Farm Products: Leo Duquette, W. Leger, Theo. Lagrandeur, W. Dutilly.
Sheep: G. Chapman, George A. Booth, J. A. Lataille.
Fruits and Vegetables: W. Dutilly, John Sanborne.
Flowers: L. Cloutier, T. Lagrandeur, I. Slack, Mrs. L. S. Martin and Mme. Lucas.

Freight Surcharge By Shipping Firms Irks New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Auckland, N.Z. — Indignation is mounting at a freight surcharge of 50 per cent imposed on cargo to and from New Zealand ports by shipping companies as a result of the long waterfront strike. The impost will result in a substantial rise in living costs in the Dominion and will also increase the cost of the country's exports to buyers abroad.

As a result of the strike, which is still retarding cargo handling at some ports even though many are now fully supplied with labor, ships have been kept idle in harbor for many weeks in some cases.

The shipping companies announced that to recoup some of their losses the freight surcharge would be imposed temporarily but would be removed as soon as practicable. They said it would cover only part of the very heavy loss caused by the strike.

The government has protested and is negotiating with the companies to have it eased or removed. Strong protests have also been made in the press, by labor organizations and farmers.

The basis of criticism is that the companies have not produced figures to justify the charge.

"Abraham Lincoln: The War Years."

that all other sections of the community have also had to bear heavy loss, and that the introduction of the charge at this time is a blow to the new order on the waterfront established by the government in its long showdown with the former militant waterfront workers' union.

This union in the past frequently blamed the shipping companies as the real "villains of the piece," claiming that they made huge profits and that faster work by longshoremen would only add to the companies' profits. The new independent longshoremen's unions have brought a new spirit to New Zealand ports. They have improved cargo handling rates by 50 per cent.

The faster turn-round of ships which has resulted has created a case for a reduction in the heavy freight rates already existing because of slow waterfront work. To bring in a 50-per-cent surcharge at this stage seems to critics to be a direct blow to the improved waterfront atmosphere.

Farmers are particularly incensed. They claim the increase means their produce cannot compete on such favorable terms on overseas markets. They have been urging the government to enter the shipping business by acquiring several ships and cutting down freight rates "to break this shipping ring."

The government has replied that its whole policy is against state trading and toward greater use of private enterprise.

Nevertheless farmers are continuing to press for government action. Speaking at the annual conference of the Federated Farmers, L. A. Newell urged the government to charter ships.

"It would be a big step toward breaking the shipping ring," he declared. "Practically all the ships coming to New Zealand are the property of a few companies, all of which are linked back to one organization whose business is tremendous, running into a terrific sum in millions. Strikes should be one of the normal risks or ship-owners. If we got government ships going we could get a line on shipping companies' profits and help to keep freight rates somewhere within reason."

Other delegates supported the contention and it was decided to make further investigations into the feasibility of state shipping.

British Visitors Seek Close Ties Between Students

London—Ambassadors of closer educational ties within the Commonwealth, Brig. E. C. Pepper and Brig. C. Husley are leaving England shortly on an extended goodwill tour of Canada. The two officials, respectively warden and deputy controller of London House are due to reach Montreal Sept. 5. They plan to visit every major city in the Dominion during their three month tour.

London House is the centre of Dominion and colonial student activity in Britain, and the trip is being undertaken chiefly in the interests of its expanding program to meet the growing demands for accommodation for overseas students.

While in Ottawa the visitors will be guests of Governor General Viscount Alexander, patron-in-chief of the London House Association of Canada. The invitation was extended with the Governor-General paid an informal visit to London House recently.

During his tour of the buildings Viscount Alexander stopped to chat with some of the resident students, including R. C. Stovall, of Comox, B.C., and R. Melvin of Vancouver. They were congratulated when the Governor-General learned they had worked their way to England on a freighter to complete their studies.

In their coast-to-coast tour the Londoners will confer with officials of the London House association in Canada, who have been promoting a campaign to provide financial backing for the Commonwealth project. They also plan to meet presidents of several Canadian universities, serving as patrons of the association.

Since London House was opened by Queen Mary in 1937, more than 500 Canadian students have fair, rich money prizes await the winners of the various classes. Judging will take place in many categories, among them:

Horses, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, domestic products, farm products, cookery and canned goods, horticulture, vegetables, fancy work, flowers and plants.

In the junior department, a $500 federal department of agriculture grant provides prizes for young cattle breeders and there are, in addition, special prizes donated by the Kiwanis Club of Waterloo.

Agricultural Activities In Stanstead County Are Outlined

"Agricultural activities in Stanstead County" was the subject of a radio address given recently by J. H. Bruneau, agronomist of Stanstead County.

"Among the city people who did not have the opportunity to be acquainted with the agronomist's work as well as many farmers who neglected to ask for the agronomist's services, quite many will ask us: 'What are you agronomists doing in your work? What is your work? They may add with a touch of humor, 'You seem to have a wonderful time travelling around the country in your car; it must be pleasant,' he said.

"In order to answer this question properly, I have thought that I could not do better than to give you an estimate of the work that we are actually doing in Stanstead County.

"Let us say at first that to facilitate the contact between the farmers and the agronomes, there is in the county two agronomes' office; mine which is in Magog and one in Coaticook which belongs to my assistant Mr. Dery.

"Being agronomes in charge of the county I have the responsibility of all the agricultural work done in this country. Mr. Dery has to answer all demands of information and give consultations for the farmers of Coaticook district, but I have to look after all other agricultural work of the whole county with the help of my assistant. The English speaking farmers living in the center of the county may consult either Mr. Dery, myself, Mr. MacDougall or Mr. MacMillan of the Sherbrooke office depending on the distance they are living from these different offices.

"In Stanstead County as everywhere else in the Province, we believe that our work is always more successful when it is done with groups of farmers instead of individuals. This is why, we do our best to give our full co-operation to all existing agricultural societies, because by this means we may reach a larger number of farmers susceptible to benefit of our services.

"In looking over the existing agricultural organizations in the country, let us mention: a farm contest, a breeder's club, a county agricultural society, an horticulture society, three boys' club clubs, one junior hog breeder's club, one sheep breeder's center, one turkey breeding interclub contest for women's institutes and 'cercles de fermieres', three farmers clubs, eight U.C.C. clubs, six 'cercles de fermieres' 7 U.C.F. clubs, nine women's institutes, five grain co-operatives, four butter co-operatives, one school fair, two pure bred breeders societies, one insemination center, 46 members in the provincial cow-testing, one farm clearing contest, one national barley contest, one agricultural merit contest, three ploughing matches, one county fair and participation in the Sherbrooke Fall and Winter fairs, one interclub fair for the county's 'cercles de fermieres', one fair for the Coaticook breeder's club and three boys' club fairs.

associations existing in Stanstead county such as "cercles de fermieres", U.C.F. clubs and women's institutes. There are 136 members taking part in it. It has been started this year, to stimulate the production of turkeys in the county.

"Meetings will be held and demonstrations given in order to give the members our instructions concerning the feeding and care of their birds and also to gather up the figures from the accounting followed by each member.

Agricultural Merit
"The provincial contest for agricultural merit is being held in the Eastern Townships this year and consequently, this event will permit us to present eight contestants, two of which, will compete for the Gold Medal.

Other Contests
"Among the other contests which will also retain our attention, let us mention the national barley contest, the farm clearing contest and three ploughing matches.

Bulldozer Work
"This work which is coming back every year on our program takes quite a lot of our time. This year, we shall have six contractors who will execute 3,000 hours of work all the county. We shall have to organize the working program of each contractor by listing the routes where they will have to work and supervise their work in order that it is done according to the provisions of the contract passed between the Minister of Agriculture and the contractors. We will also have to make the weekly reports of the work done by each contractor working in the county.

Co-operative Societies
"These societies will also require our attention to the extent that we have to collaborate to their administration and act as adviser at their annual meetings and if necessary, at their executive meetings to study and discuss with their directors, the problems that they may have to face and try to find the best solution possible. We will also organize an annual forum to permit their board of directors to better their business methods by discussion and exchange of ideas.

"It is through the medium of agricultural associations such as U.C.C., U.C.F. and 'cercles de fermieres', that we have the best chances to contact the farmers for the organization of contests or the extension of all Government policies and the diffusion of the best methods of farm management.

"Each Spring, we must also find the time to recruit members for cow-testing, as the best means to eliminate the problems from the dairy herd. Forty-six members have given their name for this work in 1951. Many more visits will be required for agricultural establishments, farm clearing contest, seeding and improvement of pastures, soil analysis, farm constructions and many other reasons that would be too long to enumerate. We will also have to look after the purchases of breeding stock such as bulls, boars, rams, horses etc.

"Every year, the purchase of ground limestone is an important part of our program. In 1950, we have placed 4,663 tons of lime on the farms of the county, an increase of 1,202 tons on the previous year while in the rest of the province, there was a decrease.

"Fair time is always for us a busy time as our presence is required either as judge or judge's secretary or to help in the administration of the fair. The county fair is the one that concerns us more, but we must also help at the Sherbrooke Fall and Winter fairs.

"We have to look after the Coaticook breeder's club fair, the annual fair of the federation of fermieres of district No. 8, the local fairs of the "cercles de fermieres" and calf clubs.

"We are also obliged to attend field days, breeder's meetings of all kinds, give lectures on the radio or at meetings for different societies, without mentioning the tremendous sum of work that is expected of us at the office such as visits, phone calls, reports of all kinds and correspondence with the department, the agronomes, a lot of societies and individuals.

"Ladies and Gentlemen, your impression will likely be that it is impossible for one man alone to do all that work and you will be right.

"In Stanstead county, the biggest part of the work is done by my assistant Mr. Dery and myself with the help of Miss Martel, secretary at my office. I also have the help of Mr. MacDougall and Mr.

"The work we consider as the most important and which takes a large part of our time is the farm contest. It is a five years contest which was started last year. It groups about thirty members who have accepted to follow our recommendations for the duration of the contest. In 1949, each of those farms has been tape-measured by us and a blueprint was made of them. A five years program of improvement was made for each farm so that after five years, all the fields will have been improved and in condition to give their maximum yields. Furthermore, each contestant must follow a cultural plan made up every Fall and follow the system of rotation adopted at the beginning of the contest. He must also follow a system of accounting and cow-testing. We have to advise also each member for the improvement of his dairy herd and help him organize his cash crops which will contribute to increase the farm's income and permit a better use of the farm labor.

"Owing to the fact that we must discuss with each member, all the problems he has to face concerning the production or improvement of his farm, it means that this work requires many visits in order to assure the success of the contest.

Coaticook Dairy Breeder's Club
"This club which has been existing for many years, comes second in importance in our work. Thirty-seven farmers are taking part in it and have agreed on a program of herd improvement, including better breeding by the means of better selection, better bulls, cow-testing, better feeding, prevention of diseases, improvement of pastures and the use of silos. We must see that the rules and regulations of the club are followed, advise the members in their breeding problems, visit them and also organize field days and lectures. We also organize an annual fair where we may notice the progress attained by each member. The purchase of good breeding stock is also an important factor in the help we are giving to this organization.

Boys and Girls Calf Clubs
"Under this items, the agricultural education of boys and girls, is an important part of our program, since we have three of those clubs in Coaticook, St. Hermenegilde and Hatley. We also have a junior hog breeder's club in Coaticook. The organization of these clubs in the Spring and the help we give them at their meetings, their judging demonstrations as well as for the organization of their local fair also take quite much of our time, not mentioning the time we spend for the interclub contests in Lennoxville and Sherbrooke.

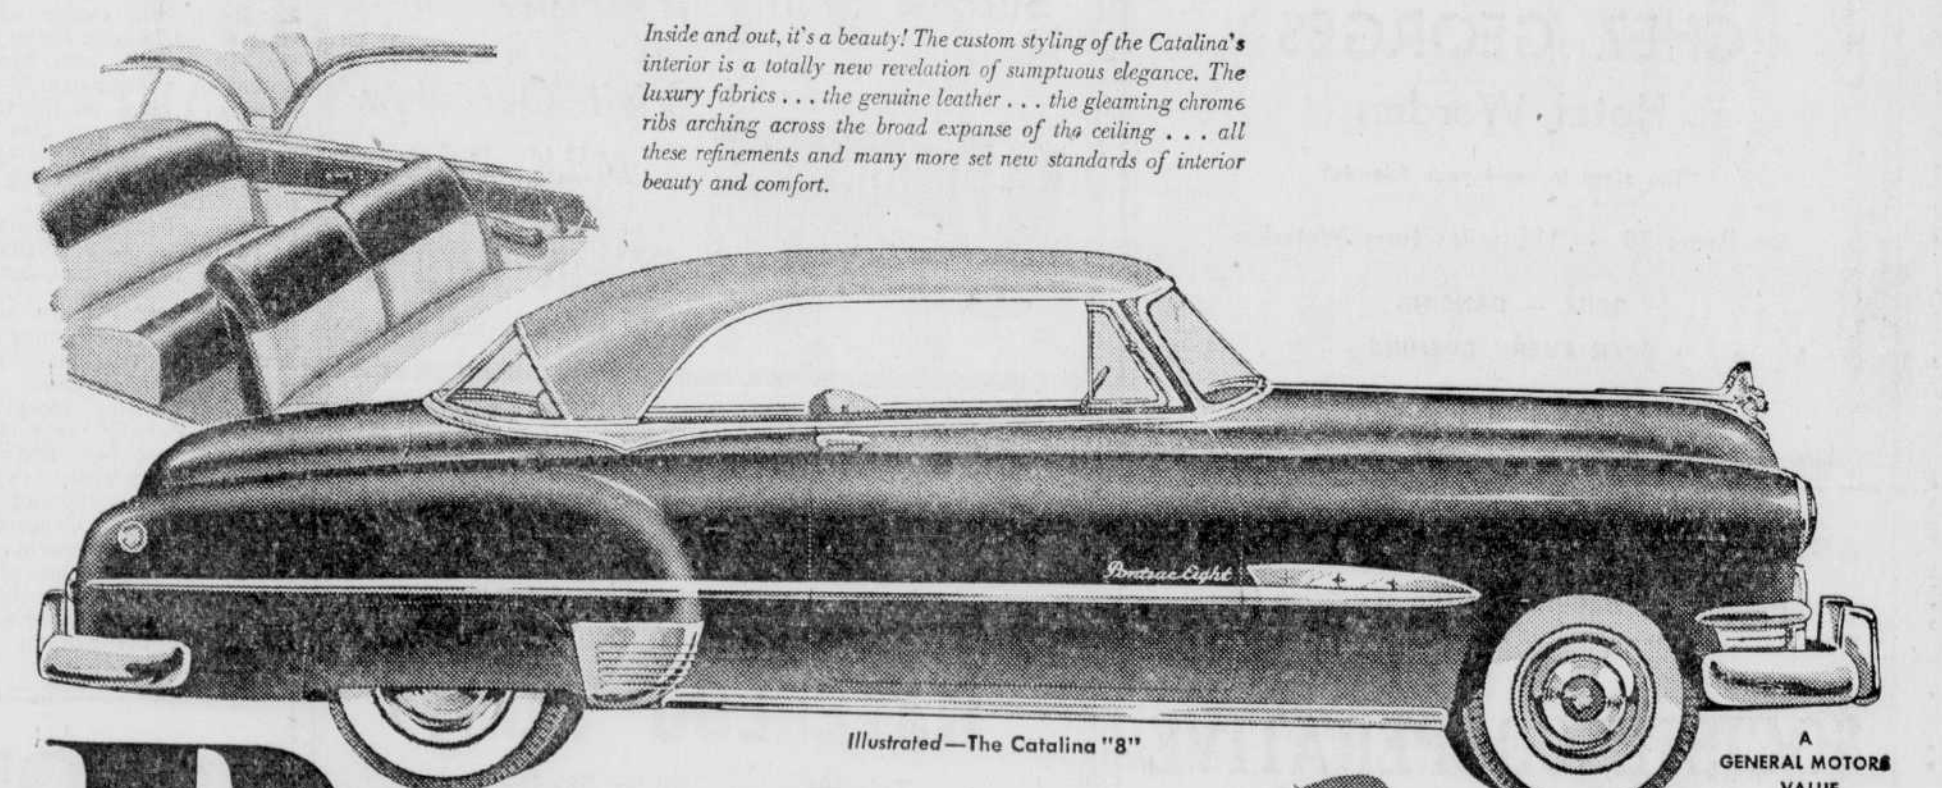

"In all our work with them, we make it a point to give them the love of study, a taste for research, initiative and a sense of responsibility while developing among them a preference for all farm questions by a better understanding of its problems.

"As far as hog production is concerned, hog breeders may be proud of the work accomplished since that, for the past two years, the county of Stanstead has supplied the highest percentage of superior quality hogs on the Montreal market, of the whole Province.

Sheep Breeder's Center
"This organization which is on our program since only this year, will necessitate the purchase of grade ewes and pure bred rams for the members and we will have to advise them as to the best methods of breeding and feeding. This center will be organized in view to increase the number of sheep producers in the County.

Turkey Interclub Contest for Women Organizations
"This contest is organized for the benefit of a feminine agricultural
