AT HOME — Morris Austin sits at home, before the keyboard of the St. Peter's Anglican Church organ, practicing with his junior choir for the coming Easter Sunday services at the church. Mr. Austin has been the St. Peter's church organist for the past 20 years.

(Record staff reporter)

He is careful about saying too little, or too much, on such diverse topics as the generation gap, music today, youth and music, youth and religion, religion and worship.

Morris Austin has been a church organist for 35 years, a piano teacher for 20 and a music teacher for 10 years.

"Music is a cumulative skill," he said in an interview Tuesday, "and must be taught regularly year after year."

The basic problem, he continued, with music education in Sherbrooke prior to his arrival was that it lacked continuity. Every three or four years a new teacher would appear, he said.

At Mitchell Elementary School, music is a compulsory subject while at Sherbrooke High it is an elective. Mr. Austin has taught at both schools for the past ten years.

Next year, said Mr. Austin, according to preliminary figures, 500 of the Lennoxville Regional School's proposed 2,700 students have applied for his courses.

Morris Austin became organist at St. Peter's Anglican Church 20 years ago. For the past 20 years he had a junior choir, a task which despite its time consumption and need of patience, Mr. Austin loves.

"My musical career," he said, "began as a member of a church choir."

His talents led him from there to the McGill Conservatory of Music, later as deputy organist at St. George's in Montreal. He first played a church organ at age 15 in St. Peter's in Mount Royal.

At 16 he would travel four hours by street car to play a church organ during summer vacations. For his services he was paid $8.50 a month. "Then they gave me a raise," he chuckled, "to $10."

Mr. Austin is a member of the Royal College of Organists, district representative for the Royal School of Church Musicians, provincial affairs representative for the Quebec Association of Music Educators and part-time lecturer at Bishop's University. He teaches church music at Bishop's.

"The biggest problem," said Mr. Austin, "with education is to convince school boards that music skills just don't happen."

In primary school the pupil is taught how to match tones. He said only one person in 10,000 is tone deaf but 9,000 out of 10,000 figure they can't sing. "It's because they've never tried," said Mr. Austin.

Old as Hope—

New as Tomorrow—

Enduring as Faith—

Shining with promise for

The brotherhood of man.

DIRECTOR AT WORK — Morris Austin, other than his permanent position as St. Peter's Anglican Church organist, has directed a junior choir since his first year in the Sherbrooke church, 20 years ago. Here he is seen directing his junior choir in preparation for Easter services. Regular practise, says Mr. Austin, has made the choir a welcome, successful addition to the church.

"The trouble with most people," he mused, "is that they do not know the difference between hearing and listening. When a person can hear music it does not mean he is truly listening to the different sounds."

He said tone matching can be taught to almost everyone but rhythm is inborn.

"I teach children in early grades a number of simple songs by rote (memory)," he continued, "then in later years the pupils are taught to read the music of these memorized tunes."

Mr. Austin firmly believes that the right approach to teaching music "it must be fun". He said he also tries to tie his music in with other subjects.

"Correlation is the key word, here," he said. "If the children are studying South American in geography, then I attempt to teach them South American songs or dances."

He continued by saying he was not teaching music to turn out professional artists but to teach children "to be intelligent consumers."

"I also teach the children to be enterprising," he continued, "by participation and involvement on the stage."

He said he hoped he could give his pupils a sense of discrimination when it comes to music and that in later years they could be good critics.

Becoming more profound, Mr. Austin related church music to worship. "The hymns from Sunday to Sunday," he said, "are not picked at random but chosen to the particular Sunday of the church year and the tunes selected are hopefully the best setting for the day."

"Music in church, I firmly believe," he said, "is only useful if it is an aid to worship."

He said he often wondered about the folk masses, their relevance to worship, and their effect on youth in reference to the beauty of the service.

"Folk services are more rhythmic," he continued, "than melodic such as conservative church music."

"But the church must progress with the times," he ended, "keeping with the beat of a new generation."

Your weekend weather

Warm, but maybe wet

Sherbrooke area residents can look forward to some sun and maybe some snow over the Easter weekend.

Anticipated warmer temperatures may result in spring showers.

Air Radio reports sunny skies will cloud over about noon on Good Friday with a chance of snow or rain in the late evening, depending upon temperatures, which will be warmer.

Winds will be light with highs about 40 and lows in the low 20's and high teens.

Police, firemen and council keep busy

FRIDAY, March 28, 1969 — Dr. Wilfred W. McCutcheon, of Ottawa, has been awarded the highest honor of the Canadian College of Teachers. He is a native of Leeds village where his father, R. W. McCutcheon still lives.

He has been admitted as a Fellow of the College, a learned society found in 1958 to advance the standards of teaching and to stimulate professional growth. To be eligible for a Fellowship a member must be judged to have made an outstanding contribution to education in Canada.

Dr. McCutcheon is the former director and dean of the faculty of education, Brandon University, and is presently associated with the Ottawa Teachers' College.

Students at Richmond Regional High School will be presenting Robert Bolt's play "A Man for all Seasons", April 1 to 3 at the school theatre at 8:30 p.m.

The play, directed by John H. Bailey, will be the first produced by the school's new drama club.

Tickets are available at the school box office from 1 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. and at Clark's Drug Store in Lennoxville.

Heavy loss

SATURDAY, March 29, 1969 — An early morning fire caused heavy damage to the Border Curling Club. Loss is unofficially estimated at $100,000.

The fire is believed to have actually started at 2:25 a.m. when the electric clock stopped in the Clubhouse. At this same time power went off in nearby homes. Wilfred Dumoulin who had returned home about 1 a.m. from the next door clubhouse, was watching TV when his power went off. He immediately phoned Henry Nadeau of Quebec Hydro. Mr. Nadeau, a resident of Rock Island, changed fuses in the transformer and discovered a short circuit somewhere.

Mr. Dumoulin revealed it to be in the curling club. When they unlocked the door with a key Mr. Dumoulin has to the clubhouse, billows of smoke poured out and a call went out immediately for the Beebe fire department at 4 a.m.

The region's economic future is seriously threatened by a lack of information relating to it. A solution would be to establish information centers at the two universities in the Eastern Townships. Such is the recommendation of the Eastern Townships Regional Economic Council's meeting at the Sherbrooke University.

Red-handed

SUNDAY, March 30, 1969 — Asbestos police caught two men red-handed this morning loading their car with booty during a break-in at an electrical appliance store.

A municipal police spokesman said two officers on patrol investigated a car parked in front of the Therrien and Freres store at 6 a.m. Police arrested the men when one suspect was seen carrying a television set from the shop.

Yvon Beaulieu, 29, and his brother Emile, 40, both of Drummondville, will be charged in connection with the event in Sherbrooke court.

Voluntary tax?

MONDAY, March 31, 1969 — Sherbrooke may soon be conducting a voluntary tax lottery similar to Montreal's to raise money to construct a new city hall.

After several aldermen expressed enthusiasm with Mayor Armand Nadeau's proposal, council decided to meet next week with an organization and promotion man, who has suggested adoption of the plan, and to study the forms the voluntax might take.

The mayor told aldermen profits from the lottery would allow the city to build a new headquarters that would serve Sherbrooke for years to come.

J. E. Prud'homme, a Sherbrooke organization and promotion man, suggested in a summary letter to the mayor that a drawing be held quarterly with a top prize of $30,000.

Mayor Nadeau welcomed Raymond Bergeron to the city council team yesterday saying he was a valuable addition and a man with experience in municipal affairs.

SKIING

in the Townships

By Charles Catchpough

Skiing will be good this weekend, according to predictions, and with luck, we'll be sliding the slopes for another week or two anyway. Maybe the snow will be wet, and trails badly cut up, but who cares, after spending a six-month ski season with glorious conditions.

Ski-East centres are still advertising skiing, and some of the smaller stations are still going strong.

I would recommend, however, that you telephone ahead to the area you intend on visiting in order to avoid disappointments.

Normal causes

TUESDAY, April 1, 1969 — Montreal Provincial Police homicide department has dropped investigation into the death of a 77-year-old Farnham woman after an autopsy showed she died from normal causes.

The body of Mrs. B. L. Hogan, a cleaning woman, was found lying on her bedroom floor Tuesday. Marks on the body aroused police suspicions.

An autopsy performed by Dr. Jean Houle in Montreal, showed the victim died of a coronary thrombosis.

A 24-year-old Sherbrooke resident pleaded guilty to a rape charge yesterday before Assizes Court Judge Evender Veilleux.

The incident relates back to last May 5, when a young girl was assaulted and raped. Defence attorney Yvon Roberge asked the Court to postpone the sentence until next October.

Cool heist

WEDNESDAY, April 2, 1969 — The investigation into a $10,000 break-in at the Courthouse in Cowansville continues today with no major breaks as yet, municipal police chief Yves

Pouliot said this morning.

An undetermined number of burglars did a very professional job, police said, when they broke into the Courthouse and helped themselves to an estimated $10,000 in cash.

The thieves left everything else untouched. Provincial Police and Cowansville municipal police are conducting a joint investigation into the break-in.

A six-year-old Ayer's Cliff boy is lying semi-conscious in hospital after a freak accident Monday at the Sherbrooke Race Track.

A St. Vincent de Paul hospital spokesman said this morning Ralph Babin's condition remains stable — neither good nor bad, after he was struck by a run-away tractor wheel at approximately 1:30 p.m.

A police report says a tractor driven by Gilles Aube, Sherbrooke, lost a wheel which hit the boy while he was playing.

Chief Pouliot denied earlier reports that the methods used by the thieves were similar to other break-ins in the area.

For the first time in 30 years the Sherbrooke market will be open Good Friday.

In former years the market was always open the day before Good Friday.

Youth

Youth Beat

FASHION FIRMS GO ZIGGY: Junior manufacturers spring up with astounding speed (and agility). Their names are a gas and much in keeping with the times. In California alone company handles the likes of Funky, My Thing, Your Own Thing, The Mad Tea Party, Gunne Sax, Street Scene, Pantastic n' Thing, Uninhibited, Pantasia, Eenie Meenie and Eros! The new thing for these contemporary designers and makers is to keep a flow of goods going on a close-to-boutique basis. This helps to break the old pattern of long-term buying by department store people. Puts pressure on stodgy merchandisers to understand "where it is." Long overdue.

INSTITUTE FOR ROCK STUDY: University of Wisconsin has institute for music educators and guidance counselors coming up this summer. Subject: What rock music is all about! Forty cities will send groups to accompany their music educator and counselor. (Note: Drop outs can be included in the groups!) Dylan's "Something's Happening and You Don't Know What It Is, Do You, Mr. Jones?" seems to have pushed a buzzer.

RENTA-CLASSIC: Hollywood's Sunset Strip has "classic car" rental agency. Actors and swinging visitors rent aged beauties of all models and makes. Hearses, fire engines and London buses are available on special request. No electric-powered cars on the list. Smog-conscious Southern California is upset!

MORE BASIC, MORE SINCERE: Country-and-western fashions continue to go wild, simply wild West! One explanation: Back to natural, away from cerebral, phony psychedelia and back to the innocence of cowboys and Indians.

It's always towards the end of skiing that crazy ideas take over, and the nutty approach to this sport prevails; these days we'll see far-out clothing, and daredevils trying to prove themselves on closed hills. It's also the time of year that most skiers get into difficulty, because of very different snow conditions, and often their desire to follow the berserk elements, thankfully small in number compared with the logical lot of skiers. My advice is, let good sense prevail, analyze your ability and the slopes, stay within your means, and be fit for another winter when skiing is launched next November or December.

I have an inquiry to answer concerning equipment, asked throughout the winter by mail, by skiers I've met on the hills, and several times in telephone conversations. The question boils down to what I would recommend for skis, boots, bindings and poles. My answer is a stock reply, take your problem to a reputable ski outfitter, who is known in this field, and who handles a leading line of equipment, as well as the bargain supplies. He'll make sure you are properly outfitted.

In the quote corner, I couldn't help but remember the rosy comments of skiers last weekend singing the praises of our long season. I'll name J-C. Messara, who jokingly said, "We're considering a St. Jean Baptiste Day Race if the snow stays with us!" Mr. Messara is a great promoter, and originator of the Magog signs that read, SNOW FOR SALE, Mt. ORFORD.

Czechs fear Red move

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Fears of a new Soviet military intervention grew today after Czechoslovak leaders bowed to Russian demands and imposed a new crackdown on vestiges of the country's reform movement.

There also were rumors of troop movements by Warsaw pact nations and reports of possible resignations among the Czechoslovak leaders.

The tough new curbs brought relations between the two countries to their lowest level since the Aug. 20 invasion, and took the country almost back to conditions which existed before progressive Alexander Dubcek took over in January, 1968, from conservative Antonin Novotny.

They were imposed Wednesday to meet strong Russian protests over widespread anti-Soviet demonstrations throughout Czechoslovakia Friday and during the weekend.

The harsh new measures included: —Reimposition of press censorship, suspension of a liberal party weekly and curbs on three other magazines. —The supply of extra weapons to police to enable them to crush any further demonstrations with the help of army units. —A warning of bitter new economic measures in the next few days, an apparent hint of price increases for consumer goods.

The party leaders also launched a stinging attack on Josef Smrkovsky, a popular reformist hated by the Russians and eased from a major post in the old national parliament under Soviet pressure.

Inquiry is planned on land near airport site

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government will hold an inquiry into all land transactions in the area surrounding Ste. Scholastique, north of Montreal, where an international airport will be built, it was learned Wednesday.

Robert Lussier, minister of municipal affairs, made the announcement following a meeting with other provincial cabinet ministers.

The inquiry will investigate all transactions in the last four years, concentrating mainly on dealings since March 27 when the federal government applied land freeze measures to prevent speculation.

It will be headed by notaries and lawyers from Montreal and Quebec City.

Ottawa's selection of the site for the $400,800,000 jumbo jet airport was strongly criticized by the Quebec government which favored a site south or southeast

Many Czechoslovaks were stunned by the severity of the new repressive measures and the attack on Smrkovsky but there was no indication of organized protests.

The government's decisions were made after urgent party and government meetings and discussions in Prague Wednesday with a Soviet delegation headed by Defence Minister Andrei Grechko and Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Semyonov.

The two Kremlin leaders relayed their country's anger over a ransacking of the office of the Soviet airline Aeroflot in Prague and attacks on Soviet military installations by Czechoslovaks elated over their country's victories over Russia in the Stockholm world hockey championships March 21 and 28.

Prague again was alive with rumors about the threat of new Soviet military intervention being handed to President Ludvik Svoboda through Defence Minister Martin Dzur.

The new measures, which almost completely eclipse the country's liberalization policy of last year, expose progressive leader Dubcek to criticism that he made too many compromises to Moscow over his democratization program, reliable sources said.

But despite the gravity of the new chain of restrictions, some responsible Czechoslovaks believe that Russia wants to avoid any new use of military force.

They also think the Kremlin does not want any full-scale political upheaval of the present popular leadership.

China releases yachtsmen, children

HONG KONG (Reuters) — China today released 13 persons including four children but detained two Americans held after three yachts were seized Feb. 16 during a cruise close to the Communist mainland.

Two of the three yachts sailed into Hong Kong harbor this morning and authorities reported all aboard were fit and well.

The authorities said they had no immediate explanation why the third yacht, the Morasum, was detained along with businessman Simon Baldwin and his wife, Bessie Hope Donald, both U.S. citizens.

There have been reports the Morasum contained sophisticated electronic equipment, but local yachtsmen said the equipment on the two released yachts was just as sophisticated.

The captain of one of the released yachts, Hong Kong government official Hector Ross of Scotland, said Baldwin and his companion probably were held because Baldwin threw his U.S. passport overboard when the vessel was seized by the Chinese.

Ross said the Chinese had trouble identifying Baldwin because he had no papers. Baldwin eventually admitted he was American, Ross added.

Baldwin, 57, is from Laguna Beach, Calif. Miss Donald, 47, is from Bristol, Va.

Ross said the yachts were seized because of illegal intrusion into Chinese waters. "We were probably not where we were supposed to be."

He said they were not accused of spying and were well treated.

He said initially there was some lengthy interrogation but that after the first week they were questioned intermittently.

Aboard the two yachts which were allowed to sail to freedom — the Reverie and the Uin-Na-Mara — were two Britons, two Americans, three Swedes, a Frenchman, an Australian girl and four Chinese crew members.

The yachts were seized during a Chinese new year cruise between Hong Kong and the Portuguese enclave of Macao. Chinese gunboats ordered them to halt and then towed them into the tiny fishing port of Heung Chai, just north of Macao.

The three yachts apparently were stopped while sailing through Chinese territorial waters through which all vessels have to pass on the 38-mile trip from Hong Kong to Macao.

Sombre crowds leave mining disaster area

BARROTERAN, Mexico (AP) — The sombre crowds of mining families slowly dispersed from the entrance of Mine Shaft No. 3 on Wednesday as hope faded for about 125 men still missing in Mexico's worst mining disaster.

Rescue efforts continued, however, and the coal mine manager vowed: "We will not stop for a minute, even if there is no life, until every man is out."

Mun Heitz of the Altos Hornos Mining Co. said there was a slight possibility that a few men survived in a shaft extending from one of two adjacent mines shattered by a methane gas explosion Monday.

"But the probability is very, very low," he said.

Thirty-one bodies had been recovered. They were badly scorched, bruised and broken and were black with coal dust.

Those who had been in the two mines when the blast occurred are presumed dead and it may take a week to retrieve all the bodies, said Gov. Braulio Hernandez Aguirre of Coahuila State.

"No one would be able to live through those explosions and gas," said Fortunato Salinas, one of the oldest miners in this town of 8,000 in the dusty foothills of the Sierra Madre range, about 150 miles north of Monterrey.

The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Opposition gets last lick before holiday

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons adjourned Wednesday for a 12-day Easter break but before it did the opposition got in a few licks at what it called government failure to announce new housing and foreign policy before the recess.

David Lewis, the NDP deputy leader, protested Prime Minister Trudeau's "refusal" to inform the Commons Wednesday of Canada's future policy on the 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

He accused the prime minister of a cavalier attitude toward Parliament, Mr. Trudeau denied the accusation.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto—Greenwood) said it has become "perfectly obvious" that Transport Minister Paul Hellyer, minister responsible for federal housing policy, has been unable to get his plans to increase the housing supply past cabinet.

He said the minister should make a statement before the House adjourned until Monday, April 14, for the recess or resign.

Mr. Brewin said Mr. Hellyer had set up a special study group on housing and had said new legislation on housing would be through the Commons before the spring building season started.

PASSES ON DIVISION Despite objections from Mr. Lewis and Mr. Brewin, the adjournment motion passed with Mr. Brewin and some other opposition members calling "on division" to record their disagreement.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield criticized the April 14 deadline for the filing of proposed amendments to the government's bill to amend the Criminal Code which has returned to the Commons after detailed clause-by-clause study in committee.

Wants support

Meeting with Gorton will centre on wheat

OTTAWA (CP) — Wheat prices will be discussed here today by prime ministers Gorton of Australia and Trudeau of Canada.

Mr. Trudeau is anxious to get Australian support to halt the undercutting of international wheat prices by big exporters.

Mr. Gorton, who flew here Wednesday after a Washington visit, was to have two private chats with the Canadian Liberal leader today.

Other Canadian cabinet ministers were to get into the conversations, including Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin, responsible for wheat marketing through the Canadian wheat board.

Canada, like Australia a major wheat exporter, is acting in concert with the U.S. to get exporters to observe prices laid down under the International Grains Arrangement.

Mr. Gorton may also find it illuminating to talk with External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp and Defence Minister Leo Cadieux. Canada is on the verge of announcing the result of a year-long review of its relationship with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Mr. Stanfield said MPs should be given two or three days after the House returns to file amendments to the controversial legis-

Meeting with Gorton will centre on wheat

Officials here say the talks will also deal with Canada's Far Eastern policy, particularly its move to extend diplomatic recognition to mainland China.

Australia has made no similar move.

The Australian leader was on his third visit to Canada. He said he visited Quebec province "many years ago" when he got married. Later, he saw the East Coast port of Halifax on a Second World War naval convoy.

He leaves Friday for home.

Mr. Gorton said in a statement that Canada and Australia, as Pacific nations, "are both concerned to see stability and progress in Asia, with genuinely independent, economically developing, self-reliant states."

Wednesday night, Mr. Trudeau was host at an intimate dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Gorton.

The guest list included a few cabinet ministers and Canadian members of Parliament and their ladies. There were 20 or so at the function at the prime minister's residence.

A blonde who arrived by taxi was said to be Mr. Trudeau's date.

lotion which would make homosexual acts between consenting adults in private legal and permit abortion where the health of the prospective mother is endangered.

Government House Leader Donald S. Macdonald gave no indication he would change the deadline.

The Commons also dealt with three Senate-proposed changes to government farm bills.

REJECTS AMENDMENT

Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson rejected a Senate amendment to a bill on compensation to farmers whose products are contaminated by pesticide residue.

It would have deleted the requirement that a farmer, before receiving compensation, take steps the minister thinks necessary to reduce his losses and take legal action against the pesticide manufacturer or any other responsible person.

Mr. Olson said the revision would increase "marginal or frivolous" claims and add significantly to the cost of the legislation.

The agriculture minister also rejected a change in another pesticide measure suggested by the Senate which would have provided for appeal procedures identical to those set out in a hazardous products bill still before the Commons.

Mr. Olson objected to what he called this kind of "cross-reference" provision and said the bill already contains the right of appeal.

The House accepted without a debate a Senate amendment specifying the minister's right to pay compensation when plants are ordered destroyed or prohibited because of a danger of spreading pests.

A sweater can cause instant traffic jam

NEW YORK (AP) — Francine Gottfried, the busty Brooklyn girl who wowed Wall Street last summer, still has her old drawing power. She tried a springtime stroll in a bright red sweater. The result — an instant traffic jam.

Francine, 21, is an $85-a-week business machine operator whose measurements are 43-25-37. This fact drew crowds of up to 15,000 admiring men last September when word spread that she appeared at the same subway station each day.

Since then she has used alternate routes to get to work and avoided gathering crowds. But for assurance that she retains her magnetic powers, Francine took the old route again for this week.

Within moments after she stepped out of the subway she was surrounded by hundreds of men. Traffic stopped in the street.

She delightedly answered questions, shook hands and kissed one man who told her, "Francine, I waited every day for you."

URNS DOWN OFFERS

She said later in an interview that she has turned down more than $400,000 in offers to strip or dance topless.

"I don't need that kind of attention," she said. "I'd be more than delighted to show what I have providing it's in good taste."

"I have no objection to posing for pinups in form fitting evening gowns where you can see cleavage—but topless, no thank you."

She continues to hope that someone will try to discover whether she has any show business talent.

Meanwhile, she enjoys her measure of fame. Francine said she would like to thank all her Wall Street fans, possibly by making a speech on the steps of the sub-treasury building where politicians often campaign.

"I'd like to let them know the kind of girl I am," she said. "All they see is from the neck down. I want them to see from the neck up."

Heckling stops Pierre's talk

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau tried to explain to the Commons Wednesday the timing of his letter informing Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand of the Montreal airport decision, but gave up in the face of heckling.

Opposition members raised questions about why Mr. Trudeau's letter to Mr. Bertrand was dated Wednesday, March 26, when ministers had previously said the cabinet did not make its final decision until Thursday, March 27.

The subject arose on the heels of a controversy over the pre-recording, for television, of last Thursday's announcement by Transport Minister Paul Hellyer and Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand.

Mr. Trudeau started to explain that he had written the letter Thursday and sent an official to Quebec City with it, with instructions to deliver it after he was informed of the cabinet decision.

While opposition members hooted, the prime minister broke off and sat down, saying the House apparently did not want to hear the explanation.

Opposition hecklers responded with shouts of "Don't get angry," and "Don't lose your rocks"—a reference to Mr. Trudeau's comment Tuesday that Mr. Bertrand was "off his rocker" on the airport question.

Prospects increase for a long vacation

MONTREAL (CP) — The prospect of a prolonged Easter vacation for English-speaking youngsters in the Montreal area increased Wednesday as 650 teachers serving western suburbs voted in favor of strike action.

The 513-73 vote by the Lakeshore Teachers' Association brought to about 5,650 the number of English-speaking teachers in favor of striking over their 20-month contract dispute with the government and school boards.

Teacher groups began holding secret votes on the possibility of post-Easter strike action after mediation effort before Judge Rene Lippe broke down last weekend.

In reply to another question, however, the prime minister went on to say that the letter had been delivered between Thursday's cabinet decision and the later announcement in the House.

Prospects increase for a long vacation

In a vote that "surprised and troubled" President Mahias Rioux Tuesday, the 9,000-member Alliance des Professeurs de Montreal rejected strike action by a vote of 4,912 to 966.

Commenting on the vote, indicative of a split of the issue between English-language and French-language teachers in Montreal, Don Peacock, president of the Montreal Teachers' Association, said: "We don't want the strike any more than they do. The Alliance is prepared to be pushed around and we are not."

SHOW THEIR APPROVAL

English-language Protestant teachers approved of strike action by a vote of 1,947 to 492.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) asked how the prime minister could say that the decision had been made, before the cabinet made it.

He said Mr. Trudeau "better get together with the two ministers and let us have the truth."

Mr. Hellyer and Mr. Marchand had been criticized earlier for pre-recording announcement of the site.

Mr. Hellyer said Wednesday that he has been talking by telephone with Municipal Affairs Minister Robert Lussier of Quebec about a meeting to discuss the airport question.

Mr. Hellyer said he told Mr. Lussier it would be "extremely inconvenient, if not impossible" to meet him immediately and because the transport minister was going to take a few days off during the Easter recess, he suggested meeting Monday, April 14.

Mr. Lussier indicated the urgency of expressing his government's viewpoint, said Mr. Hellyer, and he now was "looking again at the calendar" to see whether an earlier meeting can be arranged.

to divert police from the railroad bombings.

"They agreed to assassinate police officers by bombs and guns and planned a number of other co-ordinated acts of violence," Hogan told a news conference.

Police said they confiscated a number of guns, three home-made bombs, a five-pound can of blasting powder, bomb parts, a knife and a dagger.

None of the 12 arrested offered resistance, police said, but one man escaped by jumping 35 feet from his apartment window and running off.

New York police stop raiders

NEW YORK (AP) — Midtown Manhattan might have rocked to explosions today if police raiders hadn't headed off a conspiracy by 21 members of the Black Panther party to bomb five department stores crowded with Easter shoppers. District Attorney Frank Hogan says.

Seven of the 21 Panthers indicated Wednesday on charges of conspiracy to murder, arson and weapons violations were still at large.

Hogan, announcing the 12 count indictment, said the Panthers had planned to bomb the stores, a railway, a police station and kill policemen today, in an attack on "the white power structure."

Teams of police, heavily armed and wearing bulletproof vests, arrested 12 suspects in early morning raids Wednesday. Two others were in custody in a Newark, N.J., jail.

The 12 defendants pleaded not guilty before Supreme Court Justice Charles Marks, who held them in $100,000 bail each.

Marks signed arrest warrants minutes after a grand jury returned the indictment at 1 a.m. Wednesday. Two women were included in the indictment.

Among those arrested was Robert S. Collier, 32, convicted in 1965 of plotting to blow up the Statue of Liberty. He served 21 months of a five-year sentence and was released from Lewisburg, Pa. federal penitentiary in March, 1968.

Hogan said the defendants plotted to: —Bomb Macy's, Alexander's, Bloomingdale's, Korvette's and Abercrombie and Fitch, and fire guns into the store.

—Dynamite the tracks of the Penn Central Railroad at six points in The Bronx.

Public funeral rites need more simplicity

Few of its sons better deserved the impressive final tribute paid him by the fellow citizens of his country and the world than did former President Dwight Eisenhower.

But to anyone who witnessed the pomp and ceremony of the four days of funeral rites, the thought must occur that the impressive displays comprise too many relics of more barbarian days and, too little respect for the feelings of those left behind.

For four days, at a time when they must have been submitted to great emotional suffering, the members of the Eisenhower family had to appear at one public ceremony after another and throughout all the pageantry were expected to display the height of self-control.

The strain was apparent and could be blamed for the physical breakdown suffered by Milton Eisenhower, a brother of the President, was forced to enter hospital on Monday.

Criticism of these state funeral rites cannot be limited to the United States which is only following the customs established in other countries over the centuries but the problem has become more acute there in recent years because of the tragedies which have stricken the leaders of that nation since the assassination of President Kennedy.

A yes-man is a fellow who has the courage of your convictions.

Toybuyers not foolish

In reading news stories it is sometimes wise to remember that what is not said matters more than what is stressed.

For instance financial news agencies have been carrying the success story of a certain toy manufacturer who had a great thing going a few years ago with a soldier doll.

The kids loved it — and the rat-a-tat guns and war vehicles the toy manufacturer could unload with it.

But then came the start of the antiwar sentiment, especially in the United States, which was followed by anti-gun and anti-violence thinking. His sales dropped with a thud to six million dollars.

With his future grim indeed the manufacturer decided to transform his soldier doll into a spaceman and ocean explorer — and hopes that his sales will pick up again.

But while we welcome the idea of de-emphasizing violence in the playroom it must be remembered that the change was made from the profit motive rather than from any moral reform in the thinking of the manufacturer.

And toymakers who are stressing over-developed dollies and TV advertising that induces youngsters to demand two toy cars in his shoebox garage might learn from the experience of the war toy salesman that in the long run their market is made up of parents and children — and not fools.

The difference between loafing on the job and creative meditation is skill in pretending on the part of the practitioner.

West Germany's jewel-like spa on the edge of the Black Forest, Baden-Baden has been a famous healing place at least 2,000 years. # 'Quiet Bob' comes close to 'Trendy Trudy'

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

OTTAWA — The longer you watch Conservative Leader Stanfield, the better he looks. There were times when he appeared so uncomfortably ill at ease, so out of place, he must have wished in his secret heart he never had left Nova Scotia.

But not any more. Not, in fact, for quite some time now.

Perhaps the best thing Stanfield has going for him is Prime Minister Trudeau.

It just might be that "Quiet Bob's" biggest plus is the good, grey, solid contrast he offers to the sometimes mod, usually colorful and always volatile "Trendy Trudy."

From first glance of visiting taxpayers in the Commons gallery to resident politician-watchers who daily follow the performance of the leaders, Stanfield is altogether a most credible alternative to Trudeau. And that is any Opposition leader's top priority, the presentation by No. 2 of a convincing alternative to No. 1. He must look as if he could take over and do as good, or even a better job of handling the nation's most difficult management assignment.

This is the appearance Stanfield now reflects.

EVEN KEEL:

It's an image of quiet competence, of confident know-how. Comfortable. Reassuring. If not exactly exciting.

This asset of the quiet "can do" appearance likely is the well-earned inheritance from his 11 years as Nova Scotia's premier.

That he has maintained this legacy of — well, "presence" is as good a name as anything for it — and even managed to enhance it, is a measure of the credibility of the "alternative" he offers.

For it can't have been easy. He first had to contend with the political love affair in which the majority of enraptured Canadian voters thought they might delight forever with their prince charming, Pierre.

Stanfield had to point out to them, without becoming a boring old nag, that the romance really wasn't turning out to be all that wonderful.

The promises of that frantic courtship on supermarket malls weren't being kept, were they, he has had to keep asking.

But people don't always like to be reminded of their impetuosity and the indiscretions of romantic interludes.

So Stanfield had to be extremely careful not to scold or surrender to any I-told-you-so temptations.

This, with remarkable restraint and carefully calculated cool, he has been doing.

And he becomes all the more convincing as the flame of love flickers and begins to die.

In the cold light of morning, the once enraptured voters are suddenly not-so-enraptured taxpayers and begin to see flaws in the image of their beloved.

If the prime minister was the Conservative leader's biggest problem, his own divided and auspicious parliamentary caucus was not much less of a worry.

MORE RIVERS TO CROSS:

The majority of Tory MPs and senators were convinced that his "deux nations" policy was dead wrong — and they had the disastrous election results as confirmation.

For a time, he had the support in his caucus of a select few, a little band of self-proclaimed "intellectuals," whose interests in foreign affairs always seem so much more compelling than their concern with domestic issues and problems.

But now, convinced by his cool and credible performance in the Commons, the entire caucus has been rallying around. And ranks should be closed completely by the time the Conservatives at their policy conference this fall get around to coming up with something more appealing — both in Quebec and the rest of the country — than the double-meaning "deux nations" hang-up.

Stanfield's third problem — and he yet hasn't fully solved it — has been John Diefenbaker, still "The Chief" to so many Conservatives, both in and out of Parliament. "The Chief," perhaps now more in respect and affection than in reality, but still and all, "The Chief."

Trouble is that Dief remains as ever the old headline-snatcher and airtime-grabber.

While Stanfield may hesitate sometimes to sound off against Dief's detested "Grits," as he calls them like it was a bad name, "The Chief" is in like a flash with the ever-quotable quote.

But Stanfield does show some promise of getting off this particularly difficult hook. Not by putting the Old Chief in his place, for that could arouse sympathy for one, resentment of the other.

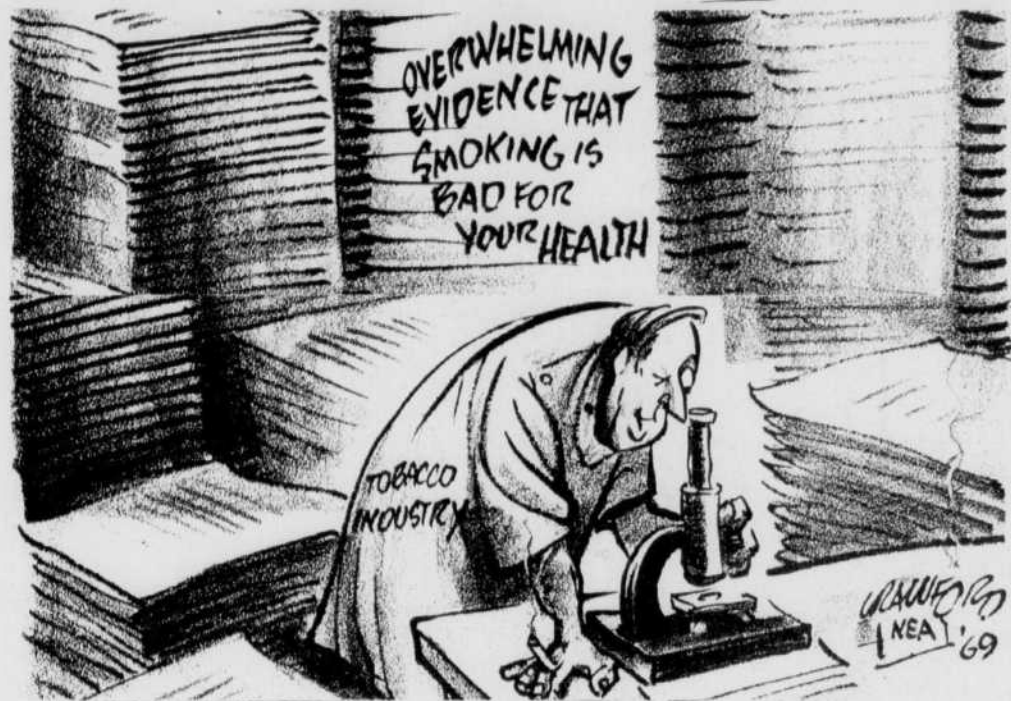

Instead, he never attempts to crowd or upstage him, giving him the freest of all possible reins. The strategy just might be working because Dief, with his always-so-available scowl and growl for the TV cameras, could be suffering from over-exposure.

And here especially, as he does with Trudeau, the Conservative leader offers a nice contrast to Diefenbaker.

In place of the thunder and lightning of dissent and protest, quietly reasoned rational argument.

And always that credible alternative.

Christ's passion

Angel tells Mary and disciples the risen Jesus will be seen

(conclusion of series)

By REV. LAURENT TOUSIGNANT

In that place where he had been crucified, was a garden, and, in that garden, a new sepulchre, in which never up to then had anybody been buried.

And, because of the Judaic Preparation Day, they laid Jesus there: for the sepulchre was close at hand.

Mt. 27, 60-61. Joseph had a great stone rolled against the entrance of the tomb, and he went away.

The following were on the spot: Mary Magdalen and the other Mary; and they were both sitting opposite the sepulchre.

L. 23, 55-56. The women, those who, from Galilee, had accompanied Jesus, followed, and they inspected the tomb and how the body had been laid.

When at home, they prepared spices and ointments.

During the sabbath, they observed the rest that is of obligation.

ON HOLY SATURDAY

The Guard at the Sepulchre.

Mt. 27, 62-67. On the following day, or that which is next to Preparation Day, the chief priests and the Pharisees went together to Pilate to tell him:

"Lord, we have just remembered that, while he was yet alive, that deceiver said — 'After three days I will rise again'. Therefore give orders that the sepulchre be guarded until the third day, in case his disciples should make some attempt to steal him away and afterwards announce to the people that he has risen from the dead. This new imposture will be still worse than the first."

Pilate told them: "You have a guard; now, really, go, that is only a question of keeping watch, you know!"

And, to make the sepulchre secure, after they had affixed their seals on its stone, they left there a cordon of their own guardsmen.

ON EASTER MORNING

Mt. 28, 1. After the sabbath, at dawn on the first day of the week, Mary Magdalen and the other Mary arrived to go over the burial place. (other meaning not excluded: late in the night, meaning Saturday night, late in the night that begins the first day of the week.)

Mt. 28, 2. But all of a sudden a violent earthquake takes place: the Angel of the Lord, having come down from heaven, draws near and rolls away the stone.

Mt. 27, 52-53. (The tombs were opened. In large numbers, the saints, whose bodies were lying in the sleep of death, arose. And, having left their graves after his Resurrection, they came into the holy City, and appeared to many.)

Mt. 28, 3-4. The Angel looked resplendent as lightning, and his garments had the brightness of snow.

Seized with fright, the guardsmen began to tremble and they remained there petrified and livid.

Mc. 16, 3-4. The women wondered among themselves: "Who is to roll for us the stone from against the entrance of the tomb?"

But, looking up, they found that the stone, however large it was, had been rolled aside already.

J. 20, 2. (Mary Magdalen, then, runs and goes to Simon Peter and to that other disciple, the beloved disciple of Jesus: "The Lord has been taken out of the sepulchre, she says to them, and we do not know where he has been laid.")

Mc. 16, 5-7. They had just come into the tomb when they saw a young man, sitting on the right, and clothed in an ample and resplendent garment.

They were stupefied.

But he tells them: "Compose yourselves: Jesus of Nazareth is the one you are seeking? The Crucified? He has risen: he is no longer here. Here is the place where he had been laid. But, now you shall go and say to the disciples, most especially to Peter, that he is to go into Galilee in advance of you. It is there you will see him again, exactly as he had predicted to you." The plural here indicates:

Mary, the mother of James, and Salome, who, according to Mark, accompanied Mary Magdalen.

Cold, snow, plague ET maple producers

Although predictions for this year's maple syrup season are excellent throughout the Townships, bad weather could reverse the scene. The latest cold weather strip has kept producers out of the woods.

Many producers predict full time labor will be involved when warmer weather appears. The minimum temperature needed to stimulate the trees to production is around 40 degrees.

Quebec produced more than 90 per cent Canada's maple syrup last year, 2,371,008 gallons. Ontario was the next largest producer with 227,750 gallons.

Maple trees grow in the eastern part of Canada and northern parts of the United States. Of the 6,000,000 trees in Canada, only 1,000,000, are tapped.

One problem this year, ET producers say, is that the depth of snow in the bush makes sap gathering difficult, slow, and expensive.

8th Medical Company in competition again

The 8th Medical Company RCAMC is again in the national competition for the Ryerson-Shillington Trophy, given to the most outstanding medical group each year. Tuesday evening a special inspection of the unit was held by Col. Yves Leclaire, Quebec Region Armed Forces Surgeon; Col. D. Brochu of Quebec; Col. J. J. Dunn, senior militia advisor for the Sherbrooke area; Major Yolande Leblanc, regional patron; and a number of medical and administrative personnel from both Montreal and Quebec City.

Lt-Col. C. Papageorges, commanding officer of the 8th, and his unit gave an ambitious demonstration, including simulated casualties, precision foot drill, rescue and first aid techniques, and an assortment of other interests dealing with the unit's activities and training. A good number of spectators attended the inspection.

During the parade, a Canadian Forces Decoration for long service was presented to WO-2 W. Blake; and instructor certificates were awarded Corporals J. Wera and G. Roy. Eleven junior NCO certificates went to Privates Lise Beland, Penny Crosby, Eileen Burton, Alain Frechette, D. Millette, D. Herbert, J. Britton, D. Connor, A. Desautels, J. A. Giroux and Lise Fredette.

Following the inspections, parades and demonstrations, lunches were served in the respective messes.

Ski-doo party

SCOTSTOWN — Ralph and John Oldham, Eddie Giroux, Lloyd Smith, Dick Dupuis and Eddie Farwell all of Rumford, Me., were members of a ski-doo party. Each with a ski-doo they enjoyed a couple of days in the area.

While here they made their headquarters at the Scotstown Hotel. Coming by ski-doo from Rumford they followed ski-doo and logging trails, passing by Parmachenee Lake, Maine to Woburn, Que., and from there by La Patrie to Scotstown. En route here they met other ski-doo parties enjoying themselves. They had a good trip.

Guild votes sum of $400 to Church wardens

SUTTON JUNCTION — Mrs. E. Mudd entertained St. Aidan's Guild on March 19.

During the meeting $400 was voted to the Church Wardens. Mrs. W. Brown had the pleasure of reporting that the adoption of the foster child had been made final, and read the case history of Yoo In Ho, seven-year-old Korean child. He is one of three children of a poverty stricken family in Seoul. The adoption was made possible by the members of St. Aidan's Church.

Following the meeting pot luck refreshments were served by the hosts.

Massed choirs sing at Border

STANSTEAD — (Special) — The 21st annual Palm Sunday Festival of Easter music was held on March 30 at Centenary Church. The church was filled to capacity with almost 500 persons from near and far coming to hear the beautiful musical program.

Reginald Seguin, who presided at the organ throughout with exception of two numbers, played the prelude, Hosanna, by Everett Titcomb.

After all joined in singing the hymn, Christ The Lord is Risen Today. Rev. G. Joyce, pastor of the host church extended greetings, gave the invocation and made a couple of announcements.

The massed choirs of 16 churches from both sides of the International Border sang, Awake Thou Wintry Earth, a 17th century Dutch carol.

Ten Thousand Angels, was sung by choir members of Stanstead South, Wesley United, Century, Our Lady of Mercy and Christ Anglican Churches of the Border, with Jack St. Sauveur of Our Lady of Mercy Church singing a solo part. Mrs. A. P. Gordon was organist.

St. Edward's Roman Catholic Church, Derby Line, choir sang Beethoven's arrangement of The Heavens are Declaring.

He Never said a Mumbly Word, a Negro spiritual, was sung by the massed choirs, after which the choir of the United Church of Christ in Newport, sang, Words of Zion.

Rev. Arnold Brown, East Craftsbury, president of the Northeast Council of Churches, the sponsors of the festival spoke on three words, thankful - joyful - observant, as he summed up the Palm Sunday evening of thankfulness to be together, people of all ages, and of various religious backgrounds, joyfully singing praises to God.

He introduced Mrs. Adrien Aeschliman, of East Craftsbury, chairman, who in turn introduced her committee, Mrs. Roger Gilpin, Mrs. Bernard Twombly, Charles Barrows, Mrs. Arnold Brown. She expressed appreciation to the organist, Mr. Seguin, and the director, Richard Croudis, both of Newport, and all others who had supported the festival.

During the offertory, Mr. Seguin played arrangements of Ave Verum and Pastoral. The offertory prayer was offered by Father Joseph Connelly, of Derby Line, and the massed choir sang the Sevenfold Amen, followed by the singing of He is Watching Over Israel.

Create in me a Clean Heart Of God, was sung by the choirs of Craftsbury United, East Craftsbury United Presbyterian, and Greensboro United Churches.

The Knowlton United Church sang, Dear Lord and Father, with a lady soloist.

In Latin, translated to Christ Reigns Over Creation, was sung by choir members of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church of Newport.

Alleluia, Christ is Risen was sung en masse, followed by the Main Street Baptist Church of Newport singing The Beatitudes, arranged by Reginald Seguin.

The choir of Ayer's Cliff Beulah United Church, joined by friends, sang Christ is Risen, Mrs. G. Shipway was organist.

Everyone in the church joined to sing the hymn, The Strife is O'er. The ever beautiful rendition, The Hallelujah Chorus, from The Messiah by Handel, was sung joyfully by the massed choirs.

Rev. Adrien Aeschliman, East Craftsbury, pronounced the benediction. Mr. Seguin played Festival March, as his postlude selection.

Other choirs singing en masse included St. Paul's United Church of Magog; United Church of Irasburg; United Church of

Twin is best man at recent wedding

The marriage of Miss Linda Alice Skillen, daughter of Mr. Kenneth Skillen, of Colborne, Ontario, and the late Irene Lariviere, to Mr. Robert Rene Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bennett, of Sherbrooke, took place recently in the Trinity United Church, Sherbrooke. Rev. Graham Barr officiating.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a yellow wool, A-line dress which had a plaid cape to match. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies and wore a matching headband.

Miss Melanie Coote, as maid-of-honor, wore a grey wool suit. She carried a basket of yellow daisies and wore a matching headband.

Mr. Richard Bennett, twin brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Mrs. Bennett wore a brown lace dress with a pink cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. Cecil Bennett, grandmother of the groom, wore a blue dress with a lace overtop and a corsage of red roses.

Following the reception that was held in the North Hatley Town Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left on their wedding trip. They will reside in Sherbrooke.

Guests were from: Verdun, Ville d'Anjou, East Sydney, N.S. Colborne, Ont., Broughton, Massachusetts, Perth, Ont., Windsor, Ste. Anne, North Hatley, Magog, Ste. Foye, de Bellevue, and Lennoxville.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT RENE BENNETT, whose marriage took place recently in Trinity United Church, Sherbrooke. The bride is the former Linda Alice Skillen of Colborne, Ontario.

Current women's activities

ST. GEORGE'S GUILD

The regular monthly meeting of St. George's Guild, Lennoxville, was held recently in the Upper Room with a good attendance. The president, Dr. Kathleen Atto, opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer and welcomed two new members, Mrs. Douglas Purcell and Mrs. Ronald Reeve. The treasurer's report was read and adopted. Plans were made for a food sale to be held in the church hall April 3, with Mrs. R. Stanley Pearson as convener.

The girl's choir of King's Hall, Compton, will attend the eleven o'clock service, April 20, and plans were made for the luncheon to be served to the choir and guests following the service.

The program of activities for the coming year: April 3, food sale; May 17, rummage sale; June 4, Garden sale and supper; September, marathon bridge; Dec. 3, Christmas bazaar.

The meeting was adjourned and tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. H. Bennett and Mrs. R. Stanley Pearson.

FASHION TIPS

For A Softer You

Taking their place beside the body shirt for a softer, more feminine you are the ruffled blouses in crepe and Dacron.

Festive Fabric

Velvet is one of the more festive fabrics for winter party-going. Whether it's a dirndl skirt, long culottes, a party gown or dress, velvet sets the mood.

Ribbon Transformation

For flair, try tying gaily-colored ribbons onto last year's dress. A ribbon at the waist or at the neck can transform any dress.

Sheer All Way Up

If the tops of your stockings show above your mini-skirts when you sit down, try bikini panty-hose. They're sheer almost all the way up.

Look Smart, Not Cute

The key to being stylish is looking "smart" never "cute." If you're still hanging on to that adorable animal pin or your cheerleading charm bracelet, keep them for sentimental value if you have to, but don't, repeat don't, wear them. They may create an unforgettable impression, but it's for sure you'll never be labeled chic wearing them.

MONTREAL, April 3rd — If I could have only one credit card my choice would be a Scotiacard — Why? Well, to begin with it bears my photograph — so only I can use it.

And Scotiacard allows me to buy anything — a new Spring dress, a Dalmatian puppy, hippie posters, a new chandelier, yards of gay fabric — you name it!

But most important, there's never a problem when the sudden need for money arises because my Scotiacard is as good as cash anywhere — anytime. Do take a minute soon to have yourself colour-photographed at your nearest branch of THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA and in a few days you, too, will enjoy the convenience of your own Scotiacard!

MEMO TO NEW DENTURE WEARERS — Why not get off to a good beginning with ANSO DENT — the one denture cleaner on the market that is 16 1/2 % more effective than any other. Made by Pharmaco Canada Ltd., Anso Dent deep cleans, removes all stains, odours and germs in less time than it would take you to have a bath or shower. Anso Dent does away with the nuisance of over-night soaking and actually accomplishes in 1/2 hour what other cleaners take all night to do. Isn't it good to know of such an efficient and dependable product? Anso Dent — in a handy, shatterproof container — sold at retail stores everywhere.

HAVE YOU DISCOVERED THE BEAUTIFUL SECRET OF DEMURE? It's simply this: DEMURE is a special product created solely for feminine freshness and feminine well being. A gentle blend of medication and fragrance that helps you feel completely clean, fresh and confident... helps destroy odour causing bacteria and relieves irritation. That's why Demure, a cleansing deodorant douche, is perhaps your most important cosmetic. It's easy to use and economical too. You'll find Demure at your family drugstore now... so why wait? Discover a beautiful secret today.

CAN YOU PLEASE EVERYONE, every time you entertain? I've discovered it's easily done with Brights fine Canadian wines! Brights MANOIR ST-DAVID SAUTERNE for instance, does wonders for white meat of any kind... sea-food, fowl, pork and salads, too! And Brights MANOIR ST-DAVID CLARET is a perfect flavour-mate for roast beef, steak, chops — is simply wonderful with hot dogs or hamburgers! Put in a cellar of Brights fine Canadian wines and you're ready for guests, anytime. And because they are "wines of the country", their price is a most pleasant surprise!

QUEBEC SCENE

Self-admitted terrorist is acquitted

MONTREAL (CP) — Charles Gagnon said it was "better late than never" Wednesday night when a 12-man jury acquitted him of a manslaughter charge arising from the 1966 bomb death of a 16-year-old boy.

With tears in his eyes, the self-admitted member of the terrorist Front de Liberation Quebecois embraced his lawyer and thanked the court.

The jury brought in its verdict after deliberating for more than two hours at the conclusion of the seven-week trial.

Gagnon, 30, a former University of Montreal professor, had been charged in connection with the death of Jean Corbo, killed in July of 1966 when a bomb he was carrying exploded prematurely near a west-end plant owned by Dominion Textile Ltd., whose branches in the Eastern Townships were on strike at the time.

Defence lawyer Robert Lemieux had told the court that the prosecution had only established that Gagnon did research work for the FLQ in 1966.

Meetings attended by Gagnon had been discussions "of the economic situation in our province, and that does not mean he is guilty of a bomb attempt."

Minister Jean-Paul Cloutier said Wednesday. The committee, to be headed by Dr. Laurent Houde of Montreal, will include representatives from the departments of health, welfare, education, justice and labor.

The leader

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. H. Rocke Robertson, principal of McGill University, said Wednesday political science lecturer Stanley Gray was the leader of groups which disrupted three administrative meetings in January and February.

Mr. Robertson told a three-man arbitration board hearing that Mr. Gray "spearheaded" the disruptions at meetings of the board of governors, the university senate and the nominating committee.

The arbitration board was formed after Dr. Robertson charged Mr. Gray with impeding the business of the university as a result of the disruptions.

Heavy vote

MONTREAL (CP) — About 6,200 Air Canada shop mechanics and tradesmen have voted 91 per cent in favor of strike action to back demands for higher pay, it was announced Wednesday.

night.

Mr. Pitchford for the International Association of Machinists, said his negotiating team will resume talks with Air Canada Tuesday in the hope of reaching an agreement.

If no settlement is reached by April 15, a strike would be called for April 23 or 24.

Mr. Pitchford said the union and the airline have asked for a federal mediator to sit in on the coming round of talks.

A candidate

MONTREAL (CP) — Liberal MP Prosper Boulanger announced Wednesday night he will be a candidate for the mayoralty in Suburban Pointe-aux-Trembles when municipal elections are held in that city April 20.

He told supporters in a church basement that the scandal-shaken suburb of 30,000, which occupies the eastern tip of Montreal Island, needs "new blood."

Extract teeth

QUEBEC (CP) — Two armed men forced their way into the office of a local dentist, Wednesday and stole $600, all that Dr. Martin Monaghan and his employee had at the time. That wasn't all, Dr. Monaghan also had to extract five teeth from one of the bandits.

'Flower cruises' near

A series of three escorted "Caribbean Flower Cruises" will be offered by Holland-America Line on the s.s. Rotterdam departing New York April 14, May 17 and June 7. Each cruise will be escorted by a knowledgeable horticulturist.

The April 14, 11-day cruise features calls at San Juan, St. Thomas, St. Maarten and Bermuda. Rates are from $259.

The May 17 and June 7 are 13-day cruises with calls at Bermuda, St. Maarten, Martinique, Barbados, St. Lucia, St. Thomas, Puerto Rico and St. Croix. Rates are from $335.

During these cruises garden lovers and flower growers will have an opportunity to consult with well-known landscape designers and specialists in flower arrangements and horticulture.

Mrs. James Gearhart will be on board the April 14 sailing. She is a Master Judge in Horticulture and Flower Arrangements and the Chairman for the Central Atlantic Region of the National Council of State Garden Clubs.

This sailing features a visit in Bermuda during the Flora Pageant Week when the Flora Pageant Queen is crowned.

The May 17 cruise will feature Miss Joan Eastman Bennett, Landscape Designer and Consultant who is a member of the Horticultural Society of New York.

The president of the Garden Club of New Jersey, Mrs. Dourlas Valentine, will give lectures on the June 7 cruise.

These flower and garden specialists have advised that the luxuriant flora of the island will be at its best during April and May. Further information may be obtained through your travel agent or any Holland-America Line office.

Record tour

There are retailing riches in London

Whether a person enjoys window shopping while meandering along a street or plunging hastily into a shop at the sight of that "must item" in the window, Townshippers who join the Record tour of Britain and Ireland this summer will find themselves enticed on a shopping spree when they visit the shops of London.

On travel page this week, readers are able to travel through the pages of the mind into the colorful London shops. London is particularly well blessed with shops. From narrow, haphazard street markets to huge department stores, from covered stalls in shabby backwaters to elegant boutiques in tree-lined avenues, it has them all. No wonder it is irresistible to the visiting shopper.

There is one shop, in Piccadilly, where you are served by an assistant in morning dress of black tails and striped pants and others where the jovial man behind the counter wears a black and white apron and straw hat.

Best of all, perhaps, are the "establishments" where gentlemen's gentlemen will measure you for a hand-made purchase which might be anything from a suit to a brace of sporting guns.

In face of such retailing riches it is hard to know where to start your shopping; best stay where the stores are most numerous — in a box in London's West End bounded by four world-famous streets.

The first, the most fashionable, is Bond Street which in fact is divided into two — Old Bond Street which dates from 1686 and New Bond Street, a relative "youngster" built in 1700.

The wealthy once built their homes here to escape the bustle of the old city. Tradesmen of quality followed them and stayed when they moved on. Near Old Bond Street's junction with Piccadilly are three famous art dealers, Agnew's, Ackermann's and Leger and Son. Jewellers like Cartier, Asprey's and Tecla are in the same section and there are shops like Hunt and Winterbottom who specialize in cashmeres and woollens.

In the streets around are other places for the discerning shopper. You would make for Conduit Street, for example, if you wanted that king of cars, the Rolls-Royce. If it rains, make for Burlington Arcade whose excellent shops are in a covered alleyway through which only pedestrians can pass. A few years ago, to the amusement of the English, it was described by a Russian writer as so exclusive they stationed guards at each end to keep the workers away. The "guards" are merely top-hatted commissionaires.

The southern boundary of the shopping box is Piccadilly, though one should not miss Jermyn Street which runs parallel to it. In Piccadilly you will find the world's most exclusive grocers, Fortnum and Mason's. How else could you describe a place where the assistants wear morning dress and which produces, for instance, hampers which turn picnics into open-air banquets?

Close to this store is Simpson's, home of Daks and other fashionable clothes for men and women. Both shops are but a short walk from Piccadilly Circus — which is just a round "square" with nothing whatever to do with performing lions. One of London's big department stores, Swan and Edgar's, looks over the bright lights of the Circus. Jermyn Street is really for men, with dozens of shops for hats, shirts, pyjamas and ties of the finest materials. It also has one little shop straight out of a bygone age. Above it is the passing through London have been known to make the trip from the airport to town for a quick hour's shopping there, before rushing back to catch their onward flight several hours later.

Other big stores include Peter Robinson's, John Lewis', D. H. Evans, Marshall and Snelgrove, Bourne and Hollingsworth, and Waring and Gillow but the biggest of them all is Selfridge's which compares in many ways with Eaton's of Canada. It has more than 200 departments plus a huge food hall.

Just north of Oxford Street is a maze of little roads with numerous restaurants. One restaurant is 600 feet above the others — at the top of London's tallest building, the Post Office Tower. And there is a "shop" there too.

As in other sights of London one can buy appropriate souvenirs, including, in this case, special British postage stamps.

The West End "shopping box" is by no means the only place in central London with fine stores. Around Knightsbridge there are some superb examples. One, Handis, is a legend.

If you want a baby crocodile, its pet shop will get you one. If you bring your own with you, he can be parked in its kennels while you shop. It is that kind of store, capable of supplying almost anything you could ever think of and doing so with the attentive courtesy which makes you think that the store has awaited nothing more than a visit from you.

King's Road, in Chelsea, was the place for fashionable young people until Carnaby Street stole the limelight. However, King's Road is staging a come-back. Tottenham Court Road, though garrish, has fine furniture stores and near the BOAC Terminal at Victoria are Peter Jones of Sloane Square and the Army and Navy Stores. This latter may sound as if it deals in war surplus materials but is in fact one of London's most respectable stores.

There can be few cities in the world with such a variety of fine shops as London. Whether you want to buy or only to look, London is the place to visit.

Air Canada.

Like the convenience of choice, for instance. Air Canada has six DC-8 jet flights to Vancouver every day from Montreal. It's the most frequent daily jet service, by far, to Western Canada. All flights have a standard of service that we think is the best you'll get anywhere. On any airline.

But, that doesn't mean we're going to leave things just the way they are. There will be changes... simply because we believe that even the best can get better. We're on the way up in more ways than one. And we intend to prove it. Always. All ways. For you. Next time you head West, come with Air Canada and see for yourself. Just call your travel agent for your reservations.

Books

Only for strong

A reading needs good 'shock absorbers'

THE FAMILY, by Leslie Waller; Longman's Canada Limited; 442 pages; $7.95.

At the beginning of this powerful and compelling novel, Leslie Waller resorts to a brief backdrop of World War II. An American Intelligence Division in Italy has received word from Higher Command to proceed to a Sicilian village and give protection to a dozen or so men held as prisoners and threatened with immediate extinction by the villagers.

The High Command had been so requested by someone signing himself simply, "Don G", demanding asylum on the grounds that he and his comrades wish to defect to the American side. They planned to alert their deliverers by identifying themselves by audible word — "Hello from Don G".

The young officer sent on the mission, Woods Palmer, arrives barely in time to persuade the volatile and outraged people to release the men to his custody, promising in the name of the American Government, that full inquiry would be made into the allegations of murder, rape and extortion held against them and that justice would prevail.

Finally, having gained the trust of the young Major, the men were placed under his guard. Mission accomplished, the officer moves on to other duties, learning at a later date, that the dozen had indeed been freed; four of them appointed to governing posts in the town, the others drifting off to seek vengeance on their original captors. The trusting young Major was found, crucified on a Sicilian Cross, alive after three days, to be mercifully shot by an American soldier. "Hello from Don G".

The contemporary novel begins with the story of Woods Palmer, successful, dynamic executive, President of New York's largest bank. Having driven his wife to New Jersey, to Amato's Greenhouses in search of exotic plants for their luxurious home, Palmer becomes lost wandering about the place. He is rescued by an aged Italian, apparently a cripple, driving an electric golf cart. Something buried and long forgotten stirs in Palmer's mind as the old man returns him to the main office of the Greenhouse. An elusive odor of garlic and dried peppers — an inflection in speech — he shrugs the memory away. Even hearing the old man called Don Giroloma means nothing at all.

The book, however, is the powerful story of this immigrant, Don Giroloma and the organization of his ruthless family group. Their wily and terror inspiring purpose is to infiltrate and control big business and finance in the U.S.

Author Waller is either very familiar with the business world or else has done some extensive research on the subject. His novel carries a message, if not an actual warning. Within "The Family", smooth, successful figureheads are moved about with lethal accuracy by the sinister merchants of death and ambition from the shadows of respectable anonymity.

It is an ugly and fascinating book, a novel of violence and dreadful purpose. Sex is a strong part of the story, its naked and brutal impact leaves one reeling. Bowing to the trend of racial equality, Mr. Waller pops his middle-aged wife of the Bank President into cramped beds with a Negro slum worker at every possible opportunity. These unbelievably revolting encounters plus the turbulent affair of one young banker with the depraved nymphomaniac who is his mistress, diminish rather than add, to the stature of the book.

It is difficult to know how many will enjoy the novel. Certainly, it is modern, timely, full of worldly know how and acutely aware of the merciless greed and ambition that dominate our times. The characters are wonderfully true to life. It is well planned and well written, but it is only for the strong and the seasoned who keep their shock absorbers in good condition and see their world with no illusion.

From the pens of E. T. writers

What's Your Bug?

Time marches on with its measured tread,
And Progress, so called, in its wake
Being towed along on a long thin thread
Stretched to the point it may break.

Now you take schooling, the great cry today,
And consider how it has evolved
Since our great grandfather left his play
To do lessons when he was called.

Strong willing hands gladly had made
The log school where the trails would meet.
The foundation of education was now laid
Down for the boy with bare feet.

Girls, too, it was soon found out
Would gladly learn to read and write.
For teachers were needed, without a doubt,
And the duties, you see, would be light.

Each community could brag of all that they had,
An outhouse, a wood shed and pail,
A stove that had to be stoked like mad,
Or to heat the room it would fail.

Then Municipalities saw how unfair it was,
For some to have all and others none,
So they took up the reins to further the cause,
To promote more and more of what had begun.

The clapboard schools were built at the "roads"
For the children with long flowing hair,
Girls with their ribbons and boys with their toads,
Spent eight months out of twelve seated there.

This could not contend the County could see,
With the world's quickly changing demands
"We must consolidate if our children will be Educated like the ruling commands".

Now that the kids are so far from the town,
They must find a way to transport
The well shod feet and the close cropped crown
To the schools that we slave to support.

The automotive industry plays a great part
In moving the pupils each day,
Just think of the tiny ones who have to start
On this journey, when they should be at play.

Now the Province can see what can be done
In schools that specialize,
So they've bought up the land and construction's begun
On buildings of unlimited size.

The teachers must have every possible degree
That no man can lightly contest,
So the children will surely turn out to be
Union men that know how to protest.

And the bare footed boy with his shining curls,
Whose bottom is the tidiest place,
Will take Phys. Ed. with all of the girls,
And accept Education with the greatest of grace.

Oh, he'll take it all in his stride,
And learn how to demonstrate,
And the darn taxes will take our hide,
Who says, "It pays to educate"?

All denominations of the Canadian 1969 coins have been released by the Mint, but it will be weeks or months before all of them are available across Canada. Main reason for the delay is the large surplus of circulated coins in the vaults of many banks and the desire to reduce this before ordering the 1969 coinage.

Most noticeable change in this year's coins is found in the 10 cent piece. The reverse has been re-designed and the slightly smaller Bluenose has more detail. The figures in date are also smaller and more rounded, and the net result is a much improved appearance.

Following my report in an earlier column of the "no island" dollars of 1968, similar dollars of 1965 and 1966 have been reported, also "half island" dollars of 1968. Undoubtedly the dollars of 1969 will be carefully scrutinized for similar varieties.

Increased collector interest has been focused on Canadian paper money since the recent auction sale in Toronto of a number of rare bank notes. Some of these, which seldom change hands, sold at surprisingly high prices. However, this should not discourage collectors of paper money as there is still a good variety of notes available at moderate prices providing the collector does not insist on uncirculated specimens.

For those interested in assembling a collection of Canadian paper money, the easiest and most inexpensive start could be made with Dominion of Canada 25 cents Fractional Currency notes of 1870, 1900 and 1923 and then going on to the large size Dominion of Canada notes from 1870 to 1923. The Province of Canada 1866 issue is sometimes included with this series, also the Newfoundland Government notes. A Bank of Canada type collection of 1935, 1937, 1954 and the Centennial $1. notes of 1967 is not too difficult or expensive to acquire.

For greater scope and variety, many collectors turn to the notes of Canadian banks which are divided into three groups. The large size bank notes which are still negotiable and which were issued before 1935; the bank notes, mostly large size, no longer negotiable and usually referred to as "broken banks"; and the small size bank notes which circulated between 1935 and 1950.

CBC earns plaudits for publishing its radio talks

CRITICISM: The Silent Speaking Words by Eli Mandel published by CBC Publications, Box 500, Toronto 1, Ont. Price $1.25.

All those who enjoyed these eight half hour radio talks on the CBC Ideas series, as well as those who haven't yet, will be grateful to the CBC for making them available now in this

Jottings

BY
PHILLIPS

Being a parson's wife is a hazardous occupation; there are so many and varied and unexpected pitfalls. I always wanted to walk through life poised, gracious, charming, the type whose husband could say, "I owe it all to the little woman." Perhaps, since my late husband ended up in jail, that's exactly what he could have said. As evidence:

It was Bishop Farthing's annual visit to our small parish, Campbell's Bay, north of Ottawa. The evening service was at an outlying church, the furnishings of which were very old and home-made. We took along the choir from the town church to help out with the singing and I had just played "Amen" to the second hymn. Choir and congregation sat down. His Lordship lowered himself onto the Episcopal chair; with a snarl it collapsed under him, leaving his Episcopal legs where his head should be.

In the midst of the consternated silence came a ghastly peal of laughter. Mine. The choir followed suit. The congregation followed the choir. My husband glared at me as he helped the bishop to his feet remarking in a clear, carrying voice, "I hope this does not portend the fall of the episcopacy, my Lord." In spite of the glare, I took this remark as permission to continue being hilarious.

Even upside down, our dear bishop — of whom I was inordinately fond — somehow maintained his dignity. Right side up he regarded the minister's wife with a combination of an admonishing, if silent, "for heaven's sake" and a merry, "Well, maybe I would, too."

A year or so later I was a guest with other clergy wives at Bishopsthorpe, in Montreal, seated half way down the table.

The clergy wife next to me was an unconscious humorist: everything she said struck my risible muscles, the more so as she kept being surprised that I found her a sort of Mrs. Bob Hope. Laughter being contagious, the other women laughed too, though they were not sure at what.

Bishop Farthing looked up, smiled and said, "Ah, wherever Mrs. Phillips is, there's certain to be laughter."

He didn't wink at me but I've always been sure he gave me a between-you-and-me brain wink. Nevertheless.....

Habs edge Rangers 3-1, Bruins belt Leafs 10-0

Phil Esposito and Boston Bruins are following the same script in Stanley Cup playoffs that they used during the National Hockey League season.

Esposito, who set three scoring records during the season, scored four goals and assisted on two others Wednesday night to tie a Stanley Cup record and lead Boston to a 10-0 victory against Toronto Maple Leafs.

His Boston team-mates employed the same rugged style of play that they used during the season and took a 1-0 lead over Toronto in their best-of-seven Eastern Division semi-final series.

Esposito's six points tied the playoff record established by Dickie Moore of Montreal Canadiens in an 8-1 triumph against Boston March 25, 1964.

Esposito set a record for most points this season with 126 and most assists with 77. He also established a record for most goals by a centre, with 49.

In other Stanley Cup action Wednesday night, Montreal

Canadiens took New York Rangers 3-1. St. Louis Blues bombed Philadelphia Flyers 5-2 and Los Angeles Kings nipped Oakland Seals 5-4 in overtime. All games were the openers in best-of-seven divisional semi-finals.

BRAWLS BREAK OUT
Esposito's record-tying performance was overshadowed by a series of brawls and vicious checks as the game at Boston threatened to turn into a full-scale riot at times.

Defenceman Pat Quinn of Toronto started the violence late in the second period when he caught Boston defenceman Bobby Orr with an elbow, knocking him unconscious.

Orr, who was taken to hospital for examination by a neurologist, may miss tonight's game along with Dallas Smith—he was cut for 13 stitches on the arm in the first period.

Orr wanted to play the third period but Boston team officials felt he would be better off at the hospital.

Quinn received a five-minute major penalty for the check.

The crowd of 14,659 at Boston yelled for Quinn's blood and one fan threw a shoe at the Toronto defenceman. Police had to escort Quinn from the penalty box into the dressing room after one fan threw a soft-drink bottle at him and another hit him.

The glass around the penalty box was broken and Toronto players jabbed their sticks at fans for protection.

Late in the third period goaltender Gerry Cheevers of Boston and Toronto centre Forbes Kennedy fought. Boston's Johnny McKenzie took over for Cheevers and gave Kennedy a sound cuffing before peace was restored.

Kennedy received a minor, two majors and a game misconduct for his role in the skirmish, which included Kennedy knocking down linesman George Ashley.

Referee John Ashley issued a total of 69 minutes in penalties to Toronto during the game—12 minors, five majors, and two misconducts. Boston received 54 minutes—12 minors, four majors and one misconduct.

Other Boston goals went to Johnny Bucyk and Derek Sanderson, with two each, and to Fred Stanfield and Ken Hodge.

OPENS THE SCORING
Esposito opened the scoring at 1:19 of the first period and Bucyk cashed in on a rebound of an

Division this season but led the NHL in goals, increased their lead to 7-0.

Boston coach Harry Sinden was unimpressed by Toronto's attempt to imitate the Bruins' rugged style of play.

"They might have had ulterior motives," he said.

"But I wouldn't say our team is the best one to play that style

Montreal had a tougher time winning their Eastern Division semi-final against New York and lost forwards Claude Provost and Jean Beliveau in the process.

Montreal goals were scored by John Ferguson, Jacques Lemaire and Henri Richard. Jean Ratelle had the New York goal.

Ferguson's 13th playoff goal of his career, late in the final period, proved to be the winner. Richard's goal was into an empty net at 19:20 after New York goalie Ed Giacomin had been removed for an extra attacker.

Provost suffered an apparent pulled muscle in his left thigh in the first period and Beliveau was bowled over by linemate Dick Duff in the second and saw limited action afterwards because of injured ribs.

GUMP STOPS 26

Gump Worsley stopped 26 shots in the Montreal net while Giacomin had 24 saves.

Goalie Jacques Plante of St.

Louis, pressed into quick action because of an injury to Glenn Hall, gave up one quick goal and then settled down.

Plante came in at 10:48 of the first period after Hall left because of a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg. The Blues said Hall would not play tonight in the second game of the Western Division semi-final series.

Ab McDonald, Tim Ecclestone, Larry Keenan, Camille Henry and Terry Gray scored for St. Louis. Philadelphia goals went to Dick Cherry and Bill Sutherland before 15:56 at St. Louis.

Ted Irvine slapped in a rebound after just 19 seconds of overtime to give Los Angeles its victory—the only one by a visiting team in the four games Wednesday night.

The game was pushed into overtime when Gene Ubriaco scored for Oakland with less than three minutes remaining in regulation time.

Gary Croteau and Eddie Joyal scored two goals each for Los Angeles. Other Oakland goals went to Earl Ingarfield, Joe Szura and Frank Lacombe.

The game—the first playoff contest ever at Oakland—attracted only 5,449 fans.

The second game in all four series are scheduled for tonight in the same cities as Wednesday night.

Racing Club discuss plans for season

The executive of the Sherbrooke Racing Club held a meeting Tuesday evening to discuss plans for the coming season.

The club has received four applications for the position of racing secretary to replace Armand Lessard, who died during the winter months. It was announced that the executive had chosen one but the name would be announced later at a press conference.

This year the programs will be held every Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday. No program will be held Saturday evening this one has been shifted to Thursday. At the commencement of the season the Sunday card will be held in the afternoon and later will shift to the evening.

Charles Connors, general manager, announced that several changes will be made prior to the opening. With the settlement of various strikes the club is hoping for a good season.

A pity Canada cannot prepare a competitive team-Hap Emms

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — It is a national tragedy that Canada, a country that produced all but five of 800 North American professional hockey players, cannot prepare a competitive team for the world tournament, Leighton A. (Hap) Emms said Wednesday.

Emms, who owns Niagara Falls Flyers, the defending national junior hockey champions, just returned from observing the world hockey tournament at Stockholm, Sweden.

"I didn't see any Halls or Howes in Sweden," Emms said, referring to the calibre of hockey in the six-country tournament.

Canada's team, which lost six of 10 games, simply wasn't "big enough, strong enough and together long enough," Emms said.

The Niagara Falls owner, who has been offered the post of manager with next year's Canadian team, said it would be a great asset for Canada to regain its world hockey image.

PRESTIGE IMPORTANT

"In this country we don't look on the matter of world prestige for our country as too important," he said. "You only have to attend one of these tournaments to learn just how wrong you are."

"We must send over the best competitive club we can get or forget the whole thing."

However, Emms had nothing but praise for coach Jackie McLeod and his young Canadian team.

"They gave the best they had against odds that were just too great. They are to be congratulated, not condemned."

He said Canada sent a young team to compete against experienced men. The Russians and Czechoslovaks are together for 11 months and practice three hours a day.

"For them hockey is a full time job," Emms said. "The funny part of it is they are not classed as pros. You explain it. I can't."

The Niagara Falls owner scoffed at talk the Russians and Czechoslovaks were as good as National Hockey League teams.

SAW FEW PROSPECTS
"I don't think they are in the same league. They don't have nearly as many pro prospects as we have in our junior leagues. Some would be fringe NHL players."

Emms suggested ways to regain top world hockey ranking for Canada as early as 1970, when the tournament will be held at Montreal and Winnipeg.

"Instead of talking about sending an NHL club, we should try players of top junior or good Central Pro calibre, strengthened by half a dozen good reinstated pros."

"Canada should have one main hockey camp, not two," Emms said.

"That team should be given top pro opposition before it competes in the world tourney. We now hope that Toronto and Montreal are going to help."

He described European hockey as positional, patterned after basketball style. They take the puck in too close, don't shoot often enough and often pass to a player who is covered. He added European teams have "actors" who fake injuries and draw penalties.

Emms is undecided on accepting the manager's job. "I won't make any decision until I know where the players are coming from and what calibre to expect."

"We just can't go on misleading the Canadian public."

Remember when...

The RCAF Flyers hockey team, with the Olympic and world hockey titles stowed in their baggage, sailed for home 21 years ago today—in 1948. After winning the two championships, the Canadians played 42 exhibition games against six countries and lost only five. At the Olympics in St. Moritz, the Flyers, first given only a ghost of a chance, were unbeaten in their eight games.

Rangers are a good club, says Coach Claude Ruel

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadiens won the game, but they had to work for their 3-1 victory over New York Rangers Wednesday night to take a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven National Hockey League Eastern Division semi-final.

That was the opinion of Montreal coach Claude Ruel after the closely fought game.

"That New York team is a good one," Ruel said. "They skate well and they don't have the same pressure that we do on us."

"If we lose to them, people will ask what kind of a team we are. But if New York wins, they'll get plenty of praise for it. I didn't think we finished off our plays around the net too well last night. It was kind of tough for us because we finished the game without Jean Beliveau and Claude Provost and we're already missing Gilles Tremblay. It's very tough to lose players like that and still win."

Beliveau suffered a rib injury halfway through the second period when he collided with teammate Dick Duff.

Beliveau said he did not expect to have x-rays of the injury taken, since it did not appear overly serious.

HURT THIGH MUSCLE

Provost, who missed more than half the game, said he suffered what appeared to be a pulled muscle in the left thigh.

"I really can't say how serious it is," he said. "I can't say whether I'll be ready to play tomorrow night or not."

Montreal meets New York again here tonight.

Coach Harry Sinden blames Leafs for most of trouble last night

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Harry Sinden of Boston blamed Toronto for most of the trouble Wednesday night after his Bruins had crushed the Maple Leafs 10-0 in a brawling, penalty-strewn Stanley Cup hockey game which he called "the wildest of my short career."

"It looked kind of obvious," Sinden said. "With the score the way it was, we sure didn't go out to play that way. They were down 6-0 and had nothing to lose."

Toronto coach Punch Imlach kept his dressing room locked and refused to talk to the press.

There were a few earlier incidents, but the big trouble started late in the second period when Toronto's Pat Quinn decked Bobby Orr with his elbow as the Boston all-star defenceman streaked along the boards.

Orr crashed heavily to the ice and was dazed for several minutes. He skated off but was held out of the rest of the game and sent to Massachusetts General Hospital to be kept overnight for observation.

Quinn went to the penalty box as incensed fans berated him and pelted him with various objects.

He finally swung his stick at some of the fans, touching off a confrontation among spectators and Toronto players along the side of the rink.

OTHERS GET INVOLVED

The third period began with chants of "We want Quinn" from the stands, but much of the brawling from then on involved other players. Toronto's Jim Dorey and Boston's Eddie Shack went at it early in the period, then the "main bout" came on.

with less than four minutes to go.

Bruins goalie Gerry Cheevers and Toronto's Forbes Kennedy tangled, and before it was over, six players had drawn penalties.

During the melee, Kennedy fought twice with Cheevers, knocked down Referee John Ashley, and finally got his nose bloodied in a furious pounding from Boston's John McKenzie.

The Leaf centre was assessed one minor, two major and two misconduct penalties.

"They might have had ulterior motives," Sinden said, "but I wouldn't say our team is the best one to play that style of game against. They have two or three people who want to play that way. We have 18. The toughest job I've had all year was trying to hold our team back in that situation."

Almost overlooked in the brawling was a four-goal performance by Phil Esposito and the spectacular goal-tending of Cheevers, whom Sinden named to play again in the second game in the best-of-seven series here Thursday night.

Don Clendenon comes out of retirement to join Expos

MONTREAL (CP) — Don Clendenon, the centre of a trade controversy between Montreal Expos and Houston Astros, came out of a much-publicized retirement Wednesday and will play baseball this year.

The Expos announced that Clendenon, 33, a first baseman, has signed a two-year contract with the infant National League team.

Clendenon, picked by Montreal from Pittsburgh Pirates in the expansion draft last Oct. 14, announced last month he was retiring to become vice-president of a pen company in Atlanta.

This left Houston shortchanged in a trade which Montreal made with the Astros—Clendenon and Jesus Alou were dealt to Houston for Rusty Staub—and the Astros demanded that the trade be nullified.

However, baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn ruled March 21 that the trade would stand and told the two clubs to negotiate a settlement which would give the Astros another player to compensate for Clendenon's loss.

RETURNED HIS RIGHTS

Kuhn also returned Clendenon's rights to the Expos. The two clubs had not reached an agreement Wednesday night on a new player to be sent to Houston.

John McHale, president and chief executive officer of the Expos, went to Atlanta to sign Clendenon to the two-year contract. Terms were not disclosed. Clendenon said he was happy that an arrangement was made with this company so as to enable him to return to baseball and apologized for the confusion.

Hunting and fishing in the E.T.

By NORM NICHOLL

EASTER EGGS FOR THE IRISH — Following serious disease problems Ireland has encountered with its Atlantic salmon, the Province of Quebec, through the Department of Tourism, F and G, has authorized a shipment of 450,000 Atlantic salmon eggs to Ireland's Department of Agriculture and Fisheries in Dublin. It is hoped that the young salmon which will hatch will assist Ireland in restoration of its salmon rivers.

CORRECTION last week I wrote that the salmon fishing in the Ungava Bay rivers would open on June 1. This should have been August 1st, George Breckenridge, an avid salmon fisherman, brought it to my attention. Thanks.

PROTECTION SERVICE JANUARY report shows that they prosecuted some 318 cases and added $10,299 to the treasury. The number of infractions were: Moose—20; Deer—20; Fur-Bearing Animals—4; Partridge—7; Migratory Birds—78; Miscellaneous—153; Fishing—36. Reports from the 11 districts were: Abitibi—1 for $10; Chicoutimi—64 for $1,520; Gaspé—11 for $530; Hull—9 for $370; Québec—56 for $1,862; Rimouski—12 for $655; Sept-Îles—20 for $997; Temiskaming—3 for $65; Trois-Rivières—19 for $1,265; Montreal—117 for $2,920; Sherbrooke, Deer—1; Miscellaneous—5; Fishing—6 for $105. (The above do not include time spent in jail or cases pending hearings.)

BIOLOGISTS SURVEY DEER a short time ago an aerial survey of local deer herds was carried out by a group studying the deer situation in the Province. It is also understood that they will return to continue the survey trying to locate deer yards in the Chaudière area.

Labatt Lotus Simulator to be seen here at Salon du Printemps event

One of the major hits of the first international Auto Salon in Montreal will be coming to Sherbrooke at the exposition of the "Salon du printemps" on the 15-16-17 and 18 May, 1969.

The hit is the Labatt Lotus Racing Simulator, one of the most intriguing and enjoyable pieces of machinery produced by the electronic age for people of all ages. In a word, the Lotus Simulators allow anyone and everyone to become a racing driver with none of the risk but all of the thrills and tests of reaction and driving skills.

The simulator is a legitimate Formula Three machine, built by the famed Colin Chapman Lotus which has become one of the most honored names in the racing circuits of the world.

The formula cars, for those who aren't familiar with them, are open-wheelers, single seaters and Formula One is the one which contests the fully recognized world championship. Formula Three differs only in lesser power.

In the simulator, the driver sits in a fully equipped formula machine and faces what appears to be a movie screen. On it, the testing circuit of Brand's Hatch (near London) unfolds and the driver actually drives the circuit.

It isn't a matter of a simple projection on the screen. Because of sophisticated electronic techniques, everything is co-ordinated so that proper braking, steering, gearing and cornering are needed. It is not approximating a ride, it is a ride.

With the simulators, it is possible to spin off, go into fields, stall or even crash — without real damage to the car or driver.

At the Auto Salon, the simulators were stormed by what is considered to be one of the most sophisticated cities in the country. They became the rage of the Salon and a must for everyone. Lineups waiting to climb into the cockpits rivaled those at Expo. Now Labatt is pleased to bring the simulators to Sherbrooke.

Sherbrooke Curling Club to allow Border Club to stage fund-raising Bonspiel here

The Sherbrooke Curling Club has come to the aid of the Border Curling Club in an effort to raise funds to build a new clubhouse.

The Border Club was razed by flames last week and to help the Border Club raise funds Sherbrooke will loan their clubhouse for a week to stage a mixed bonspiel the week of April 13-19. The Spiel will open Sunday if there are over 40 rinks competing and will end on Saturday, April 19.

Sherbrooke will also turn over all the receipts taken in at the bar during the week as well. This is a nice gesture on the part of the Sherbrooke Club and will be greatly appreciated by the Border.

The closing of the Sherbrooke Club is slated to take place next Thursday, April 10, when the semi-annual meeting will be held. At present the Salls-Mooney Mixed tourney is taking place and in custom with past years it is generally the last event of the season.

Harold Mooney, chairman of the match committee at Sherbrooke, is hoping a large number of rinks will make their entries for the Border Mixed during the week of April 13-19. This will be the final event of the season and should draw a top-heavy list of mixed curlers.

It is for a good cause and all curlers should rally to help out the Border Club who must raise funds to re-build a new clubhouse. Entries can be made to Harold Mooney and members of the Border Club.

Cards and Phillies complete deal, Dodgers shell Astros

Don Clendenon is back with Montreal Expos and Bill White is back with St. Louis Cardinals.

Those developments overshadowed the action on the exhibition baseball playing fields Wednesday.

Clendenon ended his brief retirement, signing a two-year contract with the Expos and commissioner Bowie Kuhn said the confusing Montreal-Houston trade could be settled today with the Expos sending the Astros a "player or players."

The Expos picked up Clendenon from Pittsburgh Pirates last October and traded him, with Jesus Alou, to Houston Astros Hodge. Bos 1 2 3 2 for Rusty Staub. Glendenon then retired and Kuhn ruled that his contract be returned to Montreal.

Staub also was declared Expos property. Alou remained with the Astros. Now the teams are trying to decide who Astros should get from Montreal.

The Cardinals reacquired first baseman White from Philadelphia Phillies for infielder Jerry Buchek and catcher Jim Hutto. White will be primarily a pinch hitter.

Los Angeles Dodgers shelled Houston 10-5 in a night exhibition, while in afternoon games St. Louis walloped Detroit Tigers 11-3. Atlanta Braves crushed Cincinnati Reds 10-0. Kansas City Royals edged Philadelphia Phillies 2-0. San Francisco Giants crushed Cleveland Indians 9-2. Minnesota Twins nipped Boston Red Sox 5-4 in 10 innings.

Also Chicago White Sox blanked Chicago Cubs 2-0. New York Yankees took Washington Senators 2-1 in 10 innings. Oakland Athletics downed San Diego Padres 8-4.

Barons edge Springfield

Cleveland Barons clinched second place in the Western Division of the American Hockey League Wednesday night thanks to a third-period goal by Pierre Bouchard.

Bouchard scored the winning goal at 8:55 of the final period on a 35-foot shot as the Barons edged Springfield Kings 3-2.

In the only other AHL game, Hershey Bears scored two goals in 26 seconds of the second period and went on to defeat Baltimore Clippers 4-2.

Bryan Campbell opened the scoring for Springfield before 2,054 Cleveland fans at 13:21 of the first period. Wayne Schultz and Garry Monahan scored second-period goals for Cleveland.

Bouchard's goal was the first of the final period. Skip Krake scored later for the Kings.

completed the sweep of the two top trophies when he won the Grand National Curling Club of America Trophy.

A Lorraine rink, skipped by Doug Riley, took the honors in the third event, the Past Presidents' Trophy, while the Visitors Special event was won by Gordon Perry of Ottawa West Granite Club.

Humbert scored two on the final end to cap a come-from-behind win over Ron Wright, Hudson, 11-9. Humbert was down 8-4 before he scored three on the seventh end and stole two consecutive singles to take a 9-8 lead. Wright tied it in the tenth to give Humbert last rock coming home.

Crosby's victim in the second event was John McCormick of the Caledonia club. Crosby was in complete control of the match winning 11-8. McCormick only tallied on four of the twelve ends, but one of those was a four on the eighth end.

Riley dumped Harold Smith, Lachine, 15-3 in the final of the Past Presidents' competition as he scored three twos and a triple on the last four ends for the convincing win.

Country notebook

Whatever other good comes out of the Canadian Agricultural Congress, at least this is certain. The men who came as delegates from the many fields of agriculture learned, if they have never learned it before, that the other fellow can hold opposing views just as tenaciously, and believe in them just as sincerely. And when a man has come across a continent to represent his organization in the forming of Canada's agricultural future, he is not likely to sit quietly in a corner until it is time to go home.

Peter Hamilton, who was one of the "rapporteurs" at the Congress, says it accomplished just that. It did provide an opportunity for all agricultural groups across the country to react to the reports of the Federal Task Force before they went forward to the government as a basis for agricultural policy.

No complete agreement was reached and indeed no complete agreement was expected.

One of the hottest topics was Supply Management. According to Peter Hamilton whose group was one of the 18 tackling this topic, completely opposing views came out. Some felt that it was absolutely necessary for production of a food commodity to be controlled, if farmers are to make a decent living. Others saw it as a slow, but sure, death for Canadian agriculture.

But his group did go on record to agree, "that the search for security by producers in this modern socio-economic environment makes it inevitable that supply management will persist and probably increase."

But they agreed that "by their nature, supply management programs tend to retard efficiency and deter implementation of technology. The extent to which this occurs lies in the hands of the producers involved who must weigh the short-term advantages against the long-term disadvantages."

The groups expressed concern that, as the Task Force had stated in its working paper, supply management can be successful in raising the income of producers, but it does indeed add to the problem of increased production in other commodities on a "beggar-my-neighbor" principle. Nor was there quarrel with the Task Force statement that, "unless imports are controlled, there are serious limitations to what can be accomplished through supply management."

In the precise language of the Task Force report, Supply Management "refers to centralized control over the quantity and/or price of one or more commodities of specified quality coming from a specified group of producers to a particular market or markets in a given period". Or in two words, licensed farming.

Control can be exercised in several ways. There can be quotas on inputs, for example, acreage rights in the tobacco industry. Or there can be quotas on the amount sold, as in the Ontario Broiler industry. Or prices in production contracts may be fixed, as in the Ontario Vegetable — for — Processing industry. Or there can be a two-market, two-price system of selling, as in the Ontario winter wheat. But this last is not strictly supply management.

But what happens, the Task Force asks, if there are no barriers to competition in the same market from producers outside the controlled group? Where natural factors such as climate and soil exist, there is no problem. Thus Ontario's tobacco industry is naturally protected. But there is nothing to stop Quebec's vertically-integrated broiler output spilling over into Ontario's supply-controlled market, and making it ineffective.

On a national basis, the Task Force points out, programs of supply management become entangled with foreign trade policies. Then the game of "what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander" starts.

Complete supply management, the Task Force concludes, "would involve inspection, research, administration and control far exceeding anything we have experienced in Canadian agriculture to date".

Looking for reasonably satisfactory alternatives to the "ultimate weapon" of supply management, the groups reviewing the Task Force papers agreed in expressing a vague hope that the answer lay in national marketing boards.

Very soon, it seems we as agricultural producers, will have to decide how much freedom we are willing to forfeit in the hope of financial security.

During the four-day conference, the 400 delegates, divided into eighteen groups, tackled the several Task Force reports from Vegetables through to Economic Goals. Several from Macdonald College took part in one way or another. Mark Waldron had the unhappy and impossible task of condensing the whole thing to fifteen pages — and not leave out anyone's points of view.

Mink production will increase

QUEBEC — Quebec mink ranchers are expected to produce more than 180,000 pelts this year with a gross value of about two and a half million dollars if current trends continue, according to Mr. Stephen Poliquin of the department of Agriculture and Colonization's fur-bearing animals section. This would be an improvement over previous years.

Mr. Poliquin bases this encouraging forecast on the present excellent conditions in Quebec's mink-raising centres

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

The lead-directing slam double is a fine gadget. Invented by Ted Lightner in the early '30s, it is used by the expert and average player today. The theory is that you don't double freely bid slams with any expectation of a big profit. Therefore, you double to ask partner to make an unusual lead. Generally a suit bid by dummy.

It has several weaknesses. One, that the doubler can't be sure the requested lead will defeat the slam. The other, that the opponents may find a better place to play the hand.

West's double suffered from both these defects. It called for a diamond lead and that lead would beat the club slam, but it led to South becoming declarer at six no-trump.

West was smart enough to make a safe club lead but there was no way to beat six no-trump. South was sure that the double of the club slam showed both king of diamonds and ace of spades. Therefore he simply cashed seven clubs and three hearts to wind up with the king of spades and ace-queen of diamonds as his last three cards.

West did his best to escape from the hole he had dug himself into. He discarded down to the ace-deuce of spades and the singleton king of diamonds. But South was equal to the occasion and played his diamond ace to drop the king.

West tried to excuse his double of the club slam by pointing out that without a diamond opening, North could have made six clubs by that same line of play.

LENNOXVILLE CURLING CLUB:

The club was used last week for the Sherbrooke - Lennoxville Labatt Mixed. Eight teams are playing in the Senior Bonselpiel this week. The closing Mixed Bonselpiel will be held next week with the finals scheduled for Saturday afternoon, which will be followed by a buffet supper and dance. The Semi-Annual Meeting will be April 24. Supper will be served prior to the meeting.

SHERBROOKE CURLING CLUB:

The finals of the Sherbrooke - Lennoxville Labatt's Mixed were held at the Club on Saturday evening. In the main event, Mike Allatt skipped his Sherbrooke rink to a 7-5 victory over Maurice Jackson's foursome, also of Sherbrooke. Other members on Skip Allatt's team were Mrs. Doris Coates, Mrs. Margaret Dale and Steve Allatt. In the consolation event, a Lennoxville rink skipped by Forrest Lord edged Walter Laflamme's Sherbrooke rink 6-5.

The Salls - Mooney Mixed is being played this week, and next week the Men's League finals will be held. The Ladies Section of the club holds its annual meeting next Tuesday while the men hold theirs Thursday evening.

The following week, the club house facilities and ice have been turned over to the Border Curling Club which will run a Mixed Bonselpiel, the proceeds of which will be used to reconstruct the club house, extensively damaged by fire last Friday evening. Let's support this bonselpiel and help the club in getting back into operation for next year.

NORTH HATLEY CURLING CLUB:

The club graciously offered its facilities to the Border Curling Club to complete the Men's Spring Bonselpiel which was interrupted by the fire at the Border Club. This week the Annual Spring Mixed Bonselpiel is being held with the finals scheduled for Saturday evening.

ICE CHIPS:

Everyone was shocked when they heard the news last Saturday morning that a fire had caused extensive damage to the Border Curling Club. It is always unfortunate when a loss such as this occurs, but I'm sure that the enthusiasm of its members is still present, and the club will be back in operation next fall. Many of the local clubs and their members have already loaned support to the Border Club, and it is hoped all local curlers will lend their support if and when they have the opportunity.

As I will be away on holidays for the next two weeks, this week's column will be the last for the season. It was a pleasure bringing you the curling news of the area, and I hope to start the column next fall when the activities resume!

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Motorists: Beware Of Highway Hypnosis

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

If you feel yourself getting sleepy at the wheel on a long drive, bite your tongue hard to keep awake or get off the road for a short nap. If you must keep going at all cost, carry some hot coffee with you or take an amphetamine pill. The latter measures are a poor substitute for sleep and should not be used habitually to keep you going beyond your normal endurance. They have the disadvantage that they may cause nervous tension and insomnia. The greatest danger occurs on toll roads where the monotony of driving a fairly straight line with no stops often leads to a dangerous type of hypnosis.

Whether for this or some other reason your car suddenly leaves the highway and plunges into a river or lake, it may save your life to have previously worked out a plan of action. In such cases it is essential not to panic. Under most circumstances your car will stay afloat for about three minutes. This will give you time to roll down the window and climb out.

If you can't get out this way, open the door slowly as the car fills with water equalizing the pressure inside and outside. If you can't open the door or window kick a hole in the window or the windshield. If this causes water to rush in, don't fight the current but make your escape as soon as it subsides.

If your car is completely submerged escape through the window has been found to be easier and faster than trying to force open the door. Take a deep breath just before you climb out. In deep water you should exhale slowly and continuously as you rise to the surface because the air you inhaled was under pressure and will expand as you ascend.

Q—Is there any cure for bedsores?

A—These sores are the result of continuous pressure usually on the shoulder blades, hips or heels. In persons whose circulation is impaired it is often impossible to prevent them but prevention is still the best treatment. If the victim is an invalid he must be turned from one side to the other every hour or two and the skin over the pressure points must be kept clean and dry.
