"I've lost count. Which war is this one we're voting on?"

Hydro-Quebec officials yesterday unveiled their planned route for the export of James Bay to New England — right through the Eastern Townships. RECORD/PERRY BEATON

Hydro chooses ET export route

By Charles Bury

SHERBROOKE — Hydro-Quebec has announced the long-awaited 'preferred' route it wants to use to transport electricity from James Bay, New England, through the Sherbrooke area.

At a meeting with municipal officials Monday, spokesmen for the Quebec-owned utility unveiled their maps of the route and the potential site of a huge new transmission station to be built to supply the Sherbrooke area and to convert the electricity from alternating to direct current for export.

The station will be built mainly in Brompton Township, northeast of the city. It will receive the James Bay power via a new line to be built from Nicolet, skim it off for local requirements and then feed the rest to the United States through another line from Brompton Township to either St. Venant or St-Hermenegilde, Quebec, where it will link up with a line the New England Power Pool (NEPOOL) will build in either Vermont or New Hampshire.

The area chosen by Hydro-Quebec for the station is where the boundaries of the Townships of Brompton, Windsor and Stoke meet, just north of Bromptonville.

The new 735 kilovolt line from Nicolet will roughly follow present lines along Hydro right-of-ways. But the 450 kv line to the border will be through areas where there are currently no lines at all. New right-of-ways will be expropriated or bought for it. It will travel from Brompton through Ascot Corner, Ascot Township, into Eaton Township, where it will go directly through the villages of Sand Hill and Bulwer, through Martinville to East Clifton and through Ste-Edwidge de Clifton. From there it will go either into St-Hermenegilde Parish and through St-Mathieu de Dixville to enter Vermont west of Wallace Pond, or through St-Venant de Hereford and East Hereford to enter New Hampshire across Hall Stream.

The U.S. entry point will be determined "as part of our negotiations with NEPOOL," according to Hydro-Quebec spokesman Normand Legault. If we can't agree on the entry point, there will be no contract.

The contract Legault was referring to is one signed in principal June 6, but only announced Saturday by Energy Minister Yves Duhaime, whereby Hydro-Quebec will sell several hundred million dollars worth of electricity to the New England utility co-op, made up of over 70 public and private power companies.

The Hydro experts were in town yesterday as part of an information campaign aimed at explaining the route and "finding out what the people want," Legault said. Hydro will be visiting municipalities and MRCs along the projected path, and consulting with other groups representing farmers, environmentalists, businessmen and other 'interested parties'.

Anyone desiring further information may contact Jean-Marie Pelletier Service des Relations Publiques, at Hydro-Quebec, 7300 rue Choquette, Saint-Hyacinthe, J2S 7L1, telephone Z(514) 774-3560, extension 307.

Hydro-Quebec will receive submissions on the projects, in writing only, until the end of July.

Laurin: Anglos should be 'happy' with reform

QUEBEC (CP) — Roman Catholic and Protestant school boards would be abolished and the autonomy of individual schools increased under proposals in Quebec's white paper on educational reform tabled Monday.

Education Minister Camille Laurin proposes that confessional boards on Montreal Island be replaced by eight French-and five English-language boards. Off the island, the confessional system would be replaced by regional boards.

Each school would become a corporation with parents holding a majority on the administrative council, but with teachers and high school students entitled to representation. Councils would be responsible for seeing that the provincially-established curriculum is followed, for adapting studies to local needs and for deciding teaching and evaluation procedures.

Boards would act as "service pools" for schools, assigning students, hiring staff, arranging transportation and ensuring services for the learning disabled.

Once a school became incorporated, it could not be closed for five years unless parents decided otherwise. Parents could opt to declare the school Catholic, Protestant or non-confessional.

END SUFFRAGE

Instead of being elected by universal suffrage, school boards would be composed of members of each school's council.

There would be no English-language boards off Montreal Island. Linguistic committees would be created within the regional boards to administer English schools.

This drew an angry reaction from Alliance Quebec, the province's largest anglophone rights lobby. "All English Quebecers off the Island of Montreal have been written off," said president Eric Malloff.

But Laurin said anglophones should be happy with his suggestions.

"English schools will really be controlled by anglophones," he told a news conference. "The reform provides a great many things the anglophone population has been requesting for a long time."

He noted that rural English schools, many of them threatened because of declining enrolments, would have the same protection as other schools and could not be closed for five years.

School board officials were dismayed by suggestions to change the current board structure.

John Simms, president of the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards, said such changes would lead to complete control of education by civil servants.

Quebec orders GPs to end their strike but doctors await federation word

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government adopted emergency legislation late Monday ordering the province's general practitioners to end their strike and reopen the clinics and offices they closed five days ago.

But it is not yet known whether the doctors will obey the law or risk stiff fines by defying the government order adopted shortly before midnight EDT Monday.

A spokesman for the doctors said the GPs would wait for word from the 5,500-member Quebec Federation of General Practitioners before deciding whether to return to work.

The GPs, as well as 1,800 residents and interns, began a strike last Thursday when negotiations with Quebec for a new fee schedule reached an impasse.

Quebec's 7,100 medical specialists were expected to join the strike today, but the Quebec Federation of Quebec Specialists reached an agreement with the government on new fees on the weekend. The doctors ratified the pact Monday.

The settlement, covering the period from last June 1 to May 31, 1983, provides for an 11.4 per cent increase in fee schedules, bringing their gross annual income to $102,332. It also offers a compromise solution to the shortage of specialists in rural areas.

The law ordering the GPs back to work provides for an average 14-per cent increase from June 1 to May 1983.

The doctors were asking for a 38.5 per cent increase retroactive to June 1981 to bring their average annual pre-expense income to $111,373 from the current $80,392 — 21 per cent below the national average.

The GPs had previously agreed to a freeze of fees for 1982-83, but the new law applies the freeze over 1981-82 instead.

STAROBE starts with tools distribution

By Bobby Fisher

ROCK ISLAND — The formation of a new company to replace the departed Butterfield Division of Litton Business Systems is "so close to happening I can almost feel it," says Ronald Winter, president of STAROBE (short for Stanstead, Rock Island, Beebe).

The STAROBE group, formed from ex-employees of the departed Litton affiliate, have come to a verbal agreement with an American-based company to become a distributor of industrial cutting tools.

"We are going to be distributing cutting tools to our known companies," says Winter. "That is, until we can get our own manufacturing going."

The official name of the new company will be: Distributor of cutting tools - STAROBE, and it will be finding markets for Colby Tools, based in West Springfield, Massachusetts. The Colby company has ties with the Three Villages area through its vice president Pierce Ellis, a former resident.

Winter says there are two reasons for the decision to become a distributor for the American company, which could conceivably become a competitor should STAROBE start manufacturing.

"The first reason is that we want to keep the existing customers that we had here with Butterfield," Winter explains. "And the second reason is we would like to develop a market."

"These tools are of an equal quality with anything that is on the market at the present time. We will guarantee that the tools we sell will be satisfactory to the customers, or we won't sell them," he added.

Winter says a few loose ends have to be tied up before the new company can begin. "There are just a few things to work out — things like packaging and such. They (Colby Tools) are doing it on a basis to help us out and it is a good time to help them out."

The formation of a distribution company means some of the more than 220 workers who were laid off will once again become employed, but on a voluntary basis for the time being. "We will not draw a salary until a profit has been shown," says Winter, 41. "And then, only after we have approached the board of directors and received their approval." Winter says all profits turned over by STAROBE distribution will be placed into a fund to finance the manufacturing portion of the project. He says the present format will create three to eight jobs with help being needed in the shipping, accounting and sales departments.

Begin's welcome cool; U.S. waits on peace force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin is getting a cool reception at the White House and on Capitol Hill as he attempts to persuade U.S. officials to contribute soldiers to a peacekeeping force in Lebanon.

President Reagan reserved judgment Monday on committing U.S. forces to the peacekeeping unit, saying he will reach a decision based on the best interests of the United States.

Begin got a similar response at a meeting with the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee. Sharp criticism of Israel erupted both at that meeting and at a session of the Senate foreign relations committee, which meets with the Israeli prime minister today.

Power sales challenge 'old-boys' meeting mood

ROCKLAND, Me. (CP) — As Eastern Canadian premiers and New England governors got together Monday for their annual old-boy's club meeting, two hassles burst forth to interrupt the sociable atmosphere.

First, Premier Brian Peckford of Newfoundland announced his government will challenge Quebec's sale of $8-billion worth of power to the New England states.

Then, Premier John Buchanan of Nova Scotia had to do some fast manoeuvring to stave off a resolution that would have made that province's coal-burning power plants look like bad polluters.

Peckford said Newfoundland will intervene in the hearings before the National Energy Board which Quebec must undergo to obtain an export licence to ship hydro power south.

That assertion bothered Levesque who suggested to reporters crowded into the press room of this plush resort on the Maine coast that Peckford was only interested in causing trouble for Quebec.

WARY OF PROBLEMS

But a senior administration official, who asked not to be identified, said the president told the prime minister during their 2½-hour White House meeting that having U.S. soldiers participate would involve "potential problems here at home," and he was "not enthusiastic" about it.

Representative Clement Zablocki (D-Wis.), chairman of the foreign affairs committee, said: "I don't think there will be any enthusiastic support in Congress of U.S. participation in a peacekeeping force." He made his comments after the committee met with the prime minister.

At the Senate foreign relations committee meeting, Senator Paul Tsongas (D-Mass.) said the United States needs "to say (to Israel) at some point, 'For God's sake, enough is enough.'"

"I think we are there," Tsongas said. "The question is at what point does the United States simply say, 'This is wrong,'" he told the committee.

Later, when the discussion turned to acid rain, Buchanan was stuck between supporting his coal-fired power plants on Cape Breton Island and a clause in a conference resolution calling for limits on acid rain-producing industries such as coal plants.

Buchanan eventually settled for a toned-down resolution which supported the use of coal as long as it is used with the built-in safeguard that those who build coal-burning plants should pay for their environmental safeguards.

Britons cheer royal heir as Charles, Diana argue over his name

LONDON (AP) — Diana gave birth to a son who cried lustily while Britons cheered, sang and guzzled champagne to celebrate the arrival of the first baby born to a prince and princess of Wales in 77 years.

The blue-eyed infant, born Monday night, is second in line to the throne after his father — who was at his wife's bedside for the birth. The baby is the most English heir to the monarchy in four centuries, genealogists say.

Britons are still waiting for the royal parents to announce his name. Buckingham Palace said the baby was born at 9:03 p.m. (4:03 p.m. EDT) at London's St. Mary's Hospital, 16 hours after 20-year-old Diana was admitted in labor. He weighed seven pounds 1½ ounces and "cried lustily," the palace said.

"Her Royal Highness and her son are both doing well," it said.

A crowd of about 1,000 outside the hospital in west London's run-down Paddington district broke out bottles of champagne when the news was announced, waved Union Jacks and shouted "It's a boy!" "God save the Queen!" and "He's a jolly good fellow!"

Some adapted a soccer chant that went:

"Nice one Charlie, nice one son, nice one Charlie, let's have another one!"

PRINCE KISSED

Prince Charles was engulfed by the applauding, cheering well-wishers when he emerged beaming from the hospital. A woman pushed forward and kissed him, smearing lipstick on his cheek.

Charles, 33, said he was "relieved and delighted" by the birth. Asked whether the baby was like his father, he replied: "No, he is lucky enough not to be. It is a bit difficult to tell at the moment."

The prince said his son was "fair, sort of blondish." He said Diana, who will be 21 on July 1, was well but tired and that the baby was "in marvellous form."

The Queen broke out champagne in Buckingham Palace and a spokesman said she was "absolutely delighted." His grandmother, 81-year-old Elizabeth the Queen Mother, was reported "overjoyed."

Diana's father, the eighth Earl Spencer said: "It was a very worrying day, and Prince Charles told me Diana was absolutely wonderful."

Reporters outside the hospital asked Charles whether he and Diana had decided on a name.

"Well we've thought of one or two," he replied. "There's a bit of an argument about it but we'll find one eventually."

"Prince Charles is quite a traditionalist in many ways, and I should think he will follow the usual pattern," said Patrick Montague-Smith, former editor of DeBrett's, which traces the lineage of Britain's royal blood. "I would think there are about two dozen boys' names they could choose from."

PLO casualties high as Western Beirut bombed

BEIRUT (CP) — Israeli gunners subjected Palestinian positions and residential areas of encircled western Beirut to the heaviest bombardment in a week on Monday as political efforts to resolve the two-week old Israeli invasion showed no signs of progress.

The Palestine Liberation Organization's official news agency Wafa reported "many casualties" in Palestinian camps and tenements.

Lebanese police said at least 36 people were killed and 82 others wounded in mostly Moslem Lebanese neighborhoods of western Beirut.

Wafa said the Israelis scored a direct hit on a Palestinian-run hospital, killing two patients.

It said an Israeli armored force used the covering shellfire to launch an expected assault against Palestinian guerrillas in western Beirut, but were beaten back.

The Israeli command in Tel Aviv said that shelling began after guerrillas had fired first.

Published Lebanese reports suggested the Israelis ordered the bombardment in reprisal for the ambush of an Israeli patrol outside Beirut.

Palestinian guerrillas and their leftist Lebanese allies have set up two metre high barricades across streets leading to a coastal road which forms a semi-circle around western Beirut. Parts of the road also were blocked.

Israel had promised to hold off its threatened onslaught against western Beirut to facilitate U.S. special envoy Philip Habib's peace efforts.

Habib has been working with Lebanon's political and religious leaders in an attempt to reach a consensus on deploying the Lebanese army in western Beirut, replacing and disarming the estimated 8,000 Palestinian guerrillas.

PCs walk out to protest procedural error charge

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives walked out of the Commons in protest early this morning after Deputy Speaker Lloyd Francis made what they believed to be a procedural error in handling one of the most important votes Parliament deals with each year.

The sudden move, shortly before 2 a.m. EDT, capped an unusual late-night session and left the Liberals to approve $7.4 billion in government spending for the 1982-83 fiscal year with only the New Democratic Party to oppose them.

Conservative House Leader Erik Nielsen had been attempting to quiz Prime Minister Trudeau about the duties and salary of Minister of State Serge Joyal when Francis called his questions out of order and proceeded to hold the vote over repeated Tory objections.

Francis said parliamentary rules required the vote be taken without debate.

But Nielsen, architect of the 15-day Tory boycott of the Commons, better known as the bells episode, insisted he had a right to be heard. When Francis ignored him, he led the Conservatives out of the chamber.

Opposition Leader Joe Clark said in an interview later parliamentary reforms over the years have weakened the opposition's control over government spending, and the Conservatives were only fighting to make the most of what little power they have left.

Captured Argentines hustled home in darkness

PUERTO MADRYN, Argentina (AP) — More than 1,000 Argentine troops captured by the British on the Falkland Islands returned home in pre-dawn darkness Monday, and like the 4,200 who preceded them were hustled past armed guards blocking the press and public to minimize the humiliation of defeat.

Meanwhile, Argentina's top officials met in Buenos Aires for the fourth day in a so far futile effort to agree on who will be president to succeed Gen. Leopoldo Galtieri, ousted by the military as president and army chief last week because of the Falklands debacle.

A high government source told The Associated Press the air force supports the candidacy of a civilian to head a government of transition to civilian rule, and that if the army keeps insisting the next president be an army general the air force will withdraw its backing for the military government.

The latest group of prisoners arrived at this remote Patagonian port before dawn aboard the requisitioned British North Sea ferry Norland. The men then boarded some 30 canvas-topped military trucks, buses and several ambulances.

TO STAGING AREA

The vehicles sped the prisoners 65 kilometres south to the Almirante Zar naval air station near Trelew. The base is being used as a staging area to send the men back to their home units.

Anxious to minimize the spectacle of its defeated warriors returning aboard British vessels, the government posted troops carrying automatic rifles around the dock area, navy base and airport, sealing them off to press and public.

Weather

Sunny today with increasing cloudiness in the afternoon and a chance of showers this evening. Little change for Wednesday. High both days, 20. Low tonight, 8.

News-in-brief

Bombardier confident

MONTREAL (CP) — Bombardier Inc. chairman Laurent Beaudoin says he is confident his firm can keep a $1-billion contract to supply subway cars to New York despite a challenge from rival Budd Co.

"Budd has other points to prove," Beaudoin told reporters after the Bombardier annual meeting Monday in his first comment on the question since Budd, of Troy, Mich., attacked the contract last month.

Beaudoin conceded that Bombardier's price for the 825 subway cars is higher than that proposed by Budd, which claims that Bombardier won the contract after a Canadian government agency offered "predatory" low interest rates.

Suspect in beating death arrested

MONTREAL (CP) — An 18-year-old youth, who was arrested as he tried to board a plane for Vancouver Monday night, will appear in juvenile court today to face charges in the beating death of a Montreal teenager last April.

Police had launched a Canada-wide search for a youth they suspected was one of the leaders of a street gang responsible for the slaying of Philippe Assuied last April 12.

Guy Bisaillon resigns from PQ

QUEBEC (CP) — Guy Bisaillon, national assembly member for the Montreal riding of Ste. Marie, has resigned from the Parti Quebecois and will sit as an independent.

The announcement was made in the assembly Monday by Speaker Claude Vaillancourt.

Que. gov't. guarantees loans

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government said Monday it has guaranteed 10 loans worth more than $1 million as part of its emergency aid program for small- and medium-sized businesses.

The provincial Industry, Trade and Commerce Department said in a statement that the loan guarantees, ranging in size from $80,000 to $500,000, were made with three banks and a credit union.

Under terms of the assistance program, Quebec guarantees two-thirds of the value of the loan and will pay three-quarters of any interest costs over 10 per cent, up to a maximum of 25 per cent.

Fight deployment of missiles

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada should fight deployment of cruise missiles on Soviet and United States-built nuclear submarines, says Rod Byers, a York University professor.

Installing the missiles on the subs "will only lead to a further escalation of the nuclear arms race," he said in a submission to a Senate subcommittee on defence Monday.

But Byers, a former naval reservist who heads the Toronto university's strategic studies program, also made a pitch for a stronger navy to handle Canada's existing naval tasks.

73 cops murdered in 19 years

OTTAWA (CP) — Seventy-three police officers were murdered in Canada between 1961 and 1980, says the Centre for Justice Statistics.

In a report released Monday, the centre described police slayings as "one of the least common but invariably most publicized crimes in this country."

The study disclosed that while rifles accounted for 19 of the 36 police slayings in the 1960s, handguns were the most common murder weapon in the 1970s, accounting for 21 of 37 deaths.

Feds survive non-confidence

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government easily survived a non-confidence motion Monday, but in the process had to vote against a motion urging Ottawa to lower interest rates, create jobs, strengthen the dollar and reduce inflation.

The Liberals defeated the combined forces of the Progressive Conservatives and New Democratic Party 144 to 126, choosing to vote against the request to improve the economy rather than topple their own government — the usual consequence of losing a non-confidence motion.

Slow defence dept. deliveries

OTTAWA (CP) — Government figures indicate the Defence Department may have to slow delivery of new naval vessels or fighter aircraft because of a spending squeeze, says Allan McKinnon, former Conservative defence minister.

McKinnon said outside the Commons Monday that the latest Defence Department figures show spending on equipment programs during the next eight years will be $3 billion less than estimated a year ago.

Telesat's satellites a bargain

OTTAWA (CP) — Telesat Canada's $75-million (U.S.) agreement to have the National Aeronautics and Space Administration ship five communications satellites into space is a bargain considering the skyrocketing costs of space travel, a senior NASA official says.

Attempts to put the space shuttle program in the black by about 1988 will mean sharp increases in the cost of a one-way ticket into space, Dr. Stanley Weiss, NASA's associate administrator for space transportation, said after the deal was signed here Monday.

The first Canadian Anik D satellite will be carried into orbit in the conventional manner, by a Delta rocket launched from the Kennedy Space Centre in Florida Aug. 12.

Telesat — a satellite communications corporation owned half by the federal government and half by telecommunications carriers — is paying $25 million (U.S.) for the ride.

PCs won't pardon Louis Riel

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative MPs refused to give unanimous consent Monday to a motion to give Metis rebel Louis Riel a posthumous pardon for his crime of high treason.

Independent MP Bill Yurko, who defected from the Tory ranks earlier this year, said Riel's case "deserves to be reconsidered" because many historians believe justice has not been done.

Riel, who led the 1870 Manitoba rebellion, was elected to the Commons in 1873 to represent Provencher riding, but was expelled upon taking the oath of service in 1874.

RCMP is turning them back

OTTAWA (CP) — Between two and three times as many Canadians applied to join the RCMP last year as the year before, and the 13,700-strong force just can't accommodate them all, says Insp. Doug Egan, officer in charge of recruiting.

The official statistics show 4,694 people applied to the Mounties in the 1980-81 fiscal year, but applications jumped to a staggering 12,483 in the 1981-82 year which ended in March.

Lalonde toasts sun power

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite a gloomy, overcast sky, Energy Minister Marc Lalonde toasted the future of solar energy Monday on Parliament Hill with a steaming cup of coffee poured from a solar-heated water system.

But he stayed clear of offering more federal dollars to encourage the use of sun as a source of heat, saying there still is $160 million unclaimed from existing programs designed to encourage solar energy development.

No aspirin for kids

OTTAWA (CP) — Parents should avoid giving children Aspirin or other medication containing ASA until federal officials and Canadian pediatricians examine the drug's effects on children, Health Minister Monique Bégin said Monday.

Bégin told the Commons her department is looking into a U.S. order to warn parents about the drug and has discussed the issue with the Canadian Pediatrics Society.

Bilingual requirement in N.B.

FREDERICTON (CP) — The New Brunswick Bar Society's council has endorsed most of a report that would require law students to be bilingual before they could be allowed to practise in the province.

The 35-member council, governing body of the society, announced Monday it has approved 46 of the 48 recommendations of the report on the Integration of the Two Official Languages in the Practice of Law, widely known as the Barry-Bastarache Report.

Council president Fred Nicholson said the remaining two recommendations are still under study.

Broadbent unveils recovery plan

TORONTO (CP) — Launching his latest attack on the federal government's "silly" budget, New Democrat Leader Ed Broadbent on Monday announced a $5.4-billion plan for economic recovery, saying that without tough new measures, future prosperity "could be virtually non-existent."

The six-point proposal, unveiled at a news conference, calls for the government to withdraw its budget, tabled last November, and implement a series of long- and short-term measures aimed at creating economic growth and jobs.

Canadian sailors suffer too

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — Thousands of sailors are without work and 10 per cent of Canada's merchant fleet is idle this season as a result of the slump in trade through the St. Lawrence Seaway, a union leader said Monday.

Roman Gralewicz, president of the Seafarers' International Union, which represents the majority of sailors aboard Canada's merchant marine, said economic conditions on the lakes are at their worst since the 1940s.

No 'secret economic recipe'

CALGARY (CP) — Canadians would have to be "incredibly naive" to think the Liberal government has a miraculous solution to the country's economic problems, says Prime Minister Trudeau.

He said his government has no "secret economic recipe" that will provide an overnight cure for the economic crisis.

Trudeau made the statements in an interview recorded Friday night and telecast Sunday night on CTV in Edmonton and CFAC in Calgary. He taped the interview in Calgary while on his way to meet 200 western Liberals at a policy conference in Banff.

Where consensus fails...

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — While federal government is urging voluntary wage restraint, it still has not ruled out mandatory public sector wage controls, Treasury Board President Don Johnston said Monday.

"The best way to bring restraint about is by consensus, by as much voluntary and co-operative action, public and private, as we can collectively muster," Johnston told the annual meeting of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada at the exclusive Jasper Park Lodge.

"I am afraid that consensus will be difficult to achieve because the unions have staked out a hard-line position against compromise," he said.

"Where consensus fails, what alternatives are there to some form of controls, at least in the public sector?"

New space command is planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Signalling the increasing importance of space to U.S. defence, the Air Force announced Monday it is creating a new space command to consolidate all such activities in the future.

Gen. Lew Allen announced the move at a news conference in one of his final acts as Air Force chief of staff. He retires next week.

"We are making a decision that we are heavily committed in space," Allen said in explaining plans to create the new command, effective Sept. 1, at Colorado Springs, Colo.

IRA member arrested in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — A man who told undercover agents he was the head of the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army in the United States and had $1 million to buy surface-to-air missiles and automatic weapons to use against the British was arrested Monday, the FBI said.

Gabriel Megahey, 39, of Queens was identified as one of four men arrested in separate investigations and accused of being gun dealers for the IRA Provisionals.

Arrested with Megahey was Andrew Duggan, 49, of New York City, the FBI said.

More peace protesters arrested

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of banner-waving anti-nuclear protesters, many in wheelchairs, tried to blockade the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory in a thick fog Monday, and 1,300 were hauled off to jail.

It was the second mass arrest of disarmament demonstrators in the United States in a week. Last Monday, 1,548 protesters were arrested in New York City as they descended on the United Nations missions of the world's nuclear powers. The New York arrests, most ever in a demonstration in the largest U.S. city, came two days after 750,000 people gathered for a peaceful anti-nuclear rally in Central Park.

1942 was a good year...

ST. HELENA, Calif. (AP) — A single bottle of 1942 Beaulieu Private Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon drew a bid of $900 Sunday, the most expensive bid at the 2nd Annual Napa Valley Wine Auction.

The wine was bought by Alex Dierkhsing of Silverado Restaurant in Calistoga, one of 275 bidders who spent more than $240,000 for 425 lots of wines at the weekend event which drew customers from across the United States.

The sale, sponsored by 54 Napa Valley vintners, benefits two Napa Valley hospitals.

Wallace runs for fourth term

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George Wallace filed qualifying papers Monday as a Democratic candidate for governor, promising to roll back state property taxes if elected to a record fourth term.

In shirtsleeves and sounding robust, Wallace spoke for 15 minutes to about 200 supporters standing in the humid noon heat in front of the Capitol steps.

Then he was wheeled into the secretary of state's office to file his papers, passing along the way the marble statue of his first wife, the late Gov. Lurleen Burns Wallace, that stands in the centre of the Capitol rotunda.

97 kg. of cocaine seized

HOUSTON (AP) — The U.S. Customs Service said Monday 97 kilograms of cocaine worth $55 million was seized near Santa Rosa, N.M., after an airplane was tracked through three states and Colombia.

The seizure June 7 was the largest ever in south-western United States, said Donald Kelly, regional commissioner of U.S. Customs in Houston.

"The announcement was intentionally delayed while officers continued the investigation," said Charles Conroy, public information officer for the U.S. Customs Service's regional office.

Gibraltar negotiations stalled

LUXEMBOURG (Reuters) — British Foreign Secretary Francis Pym said today that Spain and Britain have agreed to postpone negotiations over the future of Gibraltar at Spain's request.

This means Spain's frontier with Gibraltar will not be reopened next Friday as originally planned. Spain has long claimed the British rock colony off the Spanish coast.

Pym told a news conference after a meeting with Spanish Foreign Minister Jose-Pedro Perez-Llorca that the two countries are still committed to keeping alive the process started in April, 1980, aimed at defining the future of Gibraltar.

Thatcher plans war inquiry

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher sent letters to opposition leaders Monday setting out plans for an official bipartisan inquiry into the Falklands war.

She also sought the views of leaders of the opposition Labor, Social Democrat and Liberal parties about the form the inquiry should take.

The government did not disclose what kind of inquiry Thatcher had in mind.

Reagan compared to Hitler

MOSCOW (Reuters) — President Leonid Brezhnev said Monday Washington is the prime source of international tension, and the government daily Izvestia compared U.S. President Reagan with Adolf Hitler, the Second World War Nazi German dictator.

Brezhnev said at talks with Portuguese Communist Leader Alvaro Cunhal that Washington was constantly announcing new programs for nuclear, chemical and conventional weapons.

The Townships

Townships starts St-Jean Fête Wednesday evening

By Michael McDevitt

Like Quebecers everywhere, Townshippers are gearing up to celebrate La Fete Nationale this week. While most events will be taking place on St-Jean-Baptiste Day, Thursday, June 24, many communities also have plans for celebrations Wednesday, the 23rd, as well. Here is a brief round up of some of the events planned for the Eastern Townships region.

Ascot will begin its celebration on Wednesday evening in Belvedere Park with a bicycle parade at 6:30 followed by a folklore show at 7:30 and a bonfire. Festivities continue Thursday afternoon with a picnic dinner and sports clinic beginning at noon.

Chartierville also begins its celebrations Wednesday at 4 p.m. with children's games followed by a picnic and a concert at 6. People can party till 6 a.m. at an all-night disco after which a breakfast will be served.

In Danville, there will be a church supper followed by a band concert on Wednesday, and a picnic Thursday, featuring games, theatre, a bonfire and a disco party.

East Angus is holding all its events Wednesday, in Nicol Park. There will be a dog show, a lamb roast (mechoui) and a musical spectacular. These events begin at 6 p.m.

Fleurimont begins celebrating early Thursday morning with races starting at 9 and continues through the day with sporting events, and a picnic in Desranleau Park followed by a dance and bonfire.

In Katevale a parade will kick things off at 2 p.m. followed by a band concert at 3. There will be a "soiree" and bonfire starting at 6.

In Lennoxville there will be a supper followed by a dance and bonfire on Reid Street.

Omerville will stage a parade and popular festival on Wednesday night followed Thursday afternoon by community activities, a picnic and a band concert and party.

Richmond will be presenting a folklore night on Wednesday, and a disco dance on Thursday starting at 8 p.m.

In St. Elie d'Orford, there will be a campfire and orchestra starting at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, and a parade and picnic lunch beginning at 11 a.m. Thursday. These events will be held in Mavilla Park, and handicraft displays will be featured both days.

Activities in Sawyerville will take place in the municipal park, beginning Thursday morning at 10, with races and contests followed by a carriage parade at 11. At noon a picnic will be held, followed by a parade at 2. A bed-race will take place at 4 with a bonfire afterwards.

Sherbrooke has activities all over the city, including a picnic party on the grounds of Youville Hospital following an open-air mass at 10 Wednesday morning. There will also be an old-time music revue and a fashion show.

The Sherbrooke Aramis club is sponsoring a party and bonfire at their club grounds Wednesday evening, followed on Thursday by games and competitions and a community meal.

The Estrie-France Association is having its celebrations Wednesday evening on Bruchesi Street featuring a parade, music, games and a community supper. This will be followed by a dance and campfire.

Thursday will see a "good old days" dinner at the Foyer St. Joseph after which there will be a folk festival at 2 p.m. The dinner begins at 11 in the morning.

There will be a picnic with activities and an open-air film in Jacques Cartier Park beginning at 5 p.m. Wednesday and a picnic and party in Parc Victoria beginning at 11 Thursday morning.

Festivities will begin at 4 p.m. Wednesday in Marie-Reine Park with an open-air mass followed at 5 by a picnic and folk dance party.

Waterville will celebrate on Thursday in the community park with activities and races all day followed by a picnic at 5 p.m. There will be music and a bonfire beginning at 8.

Thursday will also see "Spectacle" on Mount Bellevue including a dance and bonfire.

In Melbourne the holiday will be celebrated at the Melbourne Valley Restaurant on Route 116 with a "soiree Canadienne" featuring an exhibition by Sherbrooke wood sculptress Marie-Paule Sirois, beginning at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Finally, in Bonsecours, celebrations begin Thursday with a traditional Mass at 10 a.m. followed by a parade at 11. Festivities continue throughout the day and will include folk dancing, music competitions, games, a traditional dinner at 6 p.m., and a dance with musical entertainment and a bonfire.

So no matter what type of festivity you plan, remember to have a good time, but keep in mind that drinking and driving don't mix. Try to cut down on your driving and drink more carefully.

STAROBE president Ronald Winter (standing)... 'government bureaucracy is hard to stomach'

STAROBE head waits word on grant

With the profits earned, and the letters of intent from former employees that they would invest money in the new company, Winter feels actual production is very near. The workers have signed various letters of intent for roughly $106,000.

Winter also says he is still waiting for a reply from the federal government on possible grants. All I've heard from Ottawa is that we should know within two or three weeks if our area has been designated for special federal assistance."

"As far as grants go, the Quebec government has committed themselves for $3,500 for a feasibility study. They haven't given it yet but are committed."

"There is a possibility of a federal grant of $40,000 for a feasibility study but that is only if we hand them in a budget and it is acceptable. We will be doing this after July 1."

Winter says he is going to have to start bringing in the money from the letters of intent so that the company will have a cash flow. "The money collected will go into a bank account and collect interest. In the event that this doesn't get under way all the money will be returned with interest," he explains.

Winter also says there are things in the works right now but he cannot disclose what they are as "it could be detrimental to the situation" but says more will be known for sure within the next month.

The only complaint Winter has at the moment is the lack of action on the part of the federal government. "I have pretty much expected things to go as they have been but what is really hard to stomach is the bureaucracy of the government. Time is nothing to them. Four or five months is nothing to them, but to me and guys in the unemployment line it's a lot."

Townships talk

VALLEYFIELD (JM) — The 17-year-old juvenile male who fled legal custody from a youth reception center last month while he was being held in connection with the attempted murder of Cowansville constable Michel Tremblay on April 17 has been recaptured in nearby Beauharnois. The Record has learned he was arraigned in juvenile court last week when he pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted murder and sentencing was continued to August. Tremblay is recovering from the wounds he sustained when he and Const. Jules Waltz went to investigate a complaint of excessive noise on des Erables Street. The youth first fired a .12-gauge shotgun into the radiator of the squad car, then opened fire with a .22, missing Waltz who was driving, and striking Tremblay in the abdomen, barely missing vital organs by fractions of an inch.

The Office des autoroutes du Quebec, as part of its anti-littering campaign will be distributing plastic garbage bags for motorists to use in their cars. The bags will be obtainable from autoroute toll booths, and authorities will be placing trash cans along the highways to enable drivers to get rid of their garbage without messing up the roads.

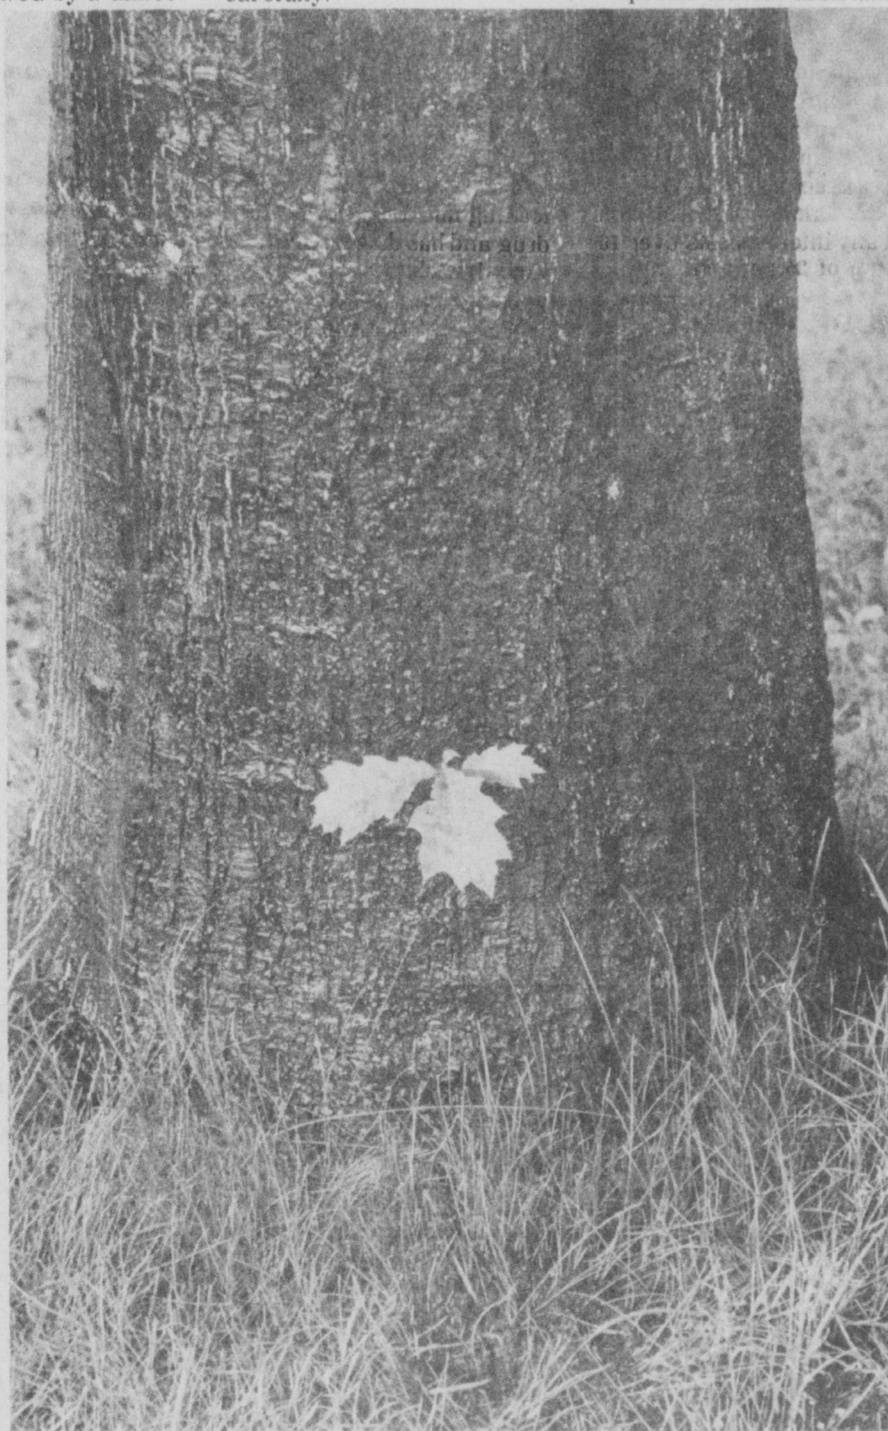

The office reminds motorists that it costs several millions of dollars a year to clean up garbage left on the side of the road by thoughtless drivers.

The office also wishes to remind motorists, in conjunction with the Quebec Safety League that many medicines can lead to drowsiness and should be taken with caution by drivers.

SHERBROOKE (CS) — The project, "CHUS ete-soleil 1982" will take place this summer at the Centre Hospitalier Universitaire de Sherbrooke (CHUS) for the second consecutive year, thanks to the collaboration of the CHUS foundation inc.

Four animators will be organizing activities for CHUS' hospitalized patients over the next eight weeks to make their hospital stays more enjoyable.

In the meantime, volunteers will be needed to help accomplish this enormous task. Any one interested in volunteering his or her time may obtain further information on the role of the volunteer by addressing the project's director, Pierre Lafleur, at the nursing office of the CHUS at 563-5555 or by going to room 1632 at the CHUS from Monday to Friday. Volunteering is a very interesting and enriching experience.

July 1 in Knowlton — in June

Canada Day festivities are coming to Knowlton a mite early this year — Sunday June 27. This is one of the reasons the feds have decided to cut back on a subsidy, according to Lion Peter Flynn.

Things get underway at the Lions Park with a tennis tournament at 8:30 a.m., followed by the first leg of the Tour du Lac Brome marathon at 9 while the official opening ceremonies will be held at 10. Games for the younger set follow 15 minutes later and a men's ball tournament will see the first pitch thrown about 10:30 and forenoon activities close with a kiddies' poster contest at noon with prizes for the best efforts.

Got a set of wheels? Try and cop the top award in the decorated bicycle contest at the Knowlton Academy at 1 p.m. At the same time enter an archery contest at the park, adult games, horse-shoe pitch and teen games. A pipe and drum parade is featured at the Coldbrooke residence. The pipes are in concert at the park at 2 p.m. Pony rides and bingo games will be held between 2 and 4 p.m., while the Lions Club will challenge girls all-star team in a softball game at 3:30.

A kiddies' dog show opens at 6 p.m. followed by square dancing from 8 to 9:30 and the fireworks will go off at approximately 9:45. A teen street dance will be held Saturday, June 26, featuring "The Venture Company" in the Legion Parking lot.

The renowned W. Lachman Polish Choir and Orchestra conducted by M. Sinchak and the Dance Group of the Polish Church of St. Mary's, choreographed by J. Kalinowski, will perform at the Knowlton Academy at 7:30 p.m., July 1. Past reports indicate both the choir and the dance group are excellent.

Meanwhile art and crafts as well as home baked goods will be sold and several canteens as well as a beer tent will be available on the 27th. In the event of rain all activities, with the exception of the marathon, will be continued to July 3, weather permitting. Organizers will make the necessary announcements on CJAD at 800 on your AM band.

Ottile Fodor, R.R. 1, Pigeon Hill, sent along the following note. "Actually our little village is becoming quite a centre for creative activity, with a number of potters, film-makers, artists and weavers working in the area. I am one of the latter and plan to hold an Open House from Friday, June 25 through Sunday June 27, displaying my recent rugs, decorative wall hangings and room dividers. Many of the pieces incorporate local wool fleeces which have been spun by hand and in some cases dyed.

"The exhibition will take place in and around my design and weaving studio at our farm which is

Don Bell finally admitted his article in the Townships Sun about the wild cows was, in fact, bull. He said it was originally intended as an April Fool's Day caper for a Montreal paper but turned up a couple of months after deadline. A spokesman for the federal department of agriculture expressed the same opinion in a telephone interview, yet said he'd dearly love to have a copy of the article. It has been forwarded.

Don could have enjoyed the sight of the 13 hind quarters of beef, albeit on spits, at the Thirsty Boot Saturday as host Barry Ellson and his crew prepared for Clairrol's annual fishing derby when they served 630 meals to employees, their families and suppliers. "We're learning year by year," Barry explained. "But the biggest help this year came from Labatts who lent us a reefer truck otherwise we wouldn't have been able to keep up with the demand."

Meanwhile a haggard and visibly tired "Turtle" was supervising the lovelies on the spits — they averaged 85 pounds a piece — while friends made sure he didn't die of heat prostration. Andre Foisy, the Molson's rep., would have been proud of their efforts.

Georgette Chisholm was chosen angler of the year and Perry Charby took junior angler. The largest fish of the day was caught by Guy Boutin and the largest by a female by Margaret Streeter. Dorothy McKeller, Shirley Persons and Clair Goyette won the door prizes. They each walked away with $200 meat vouchers. All the above are from the Knowlton operation.

No change

Late last night I saw an automobile accident on Route 143 (the Stanstead highway) about eight miles south of Sherbrooke, near Waterville. Like a good citizen, I stopped to help. It wasn't too serious, just another drunk-seeming man whose car found its way off the road into the ditch.

I drove right away to the pay telephone in Waterville to notify the police. I knew that area is covered by the Quebec Police Force detachment in Coaticook, about 15 miles further south, so I put my quarter in the phone, told the operator it was an emergency, and asked her to connect me.

A minute or so later, she came back on the line to say, 'that will be $1.65 please'. Of course. Although they are so close, Waterville to Coaticook is a long-distance call.

'But this is an emergency call,' I replied. 'That may be, but Coaticook is long-distance from Waterville,' she said. 'You have to put $1.65 in.'

But I didn't have the six quarters, a dime and a nickel it took. Fortunately I remembered that Sherbrooke is not long-distance from Waterville. I told her to forget about Coaticook and place the call to the QPF station in Sherbrooke instead, which she promptly did. So I was able to tell the police about the accident. And since Coaticook is not long-distance from Sherbrooke — although much further away than Waterville — it didn't cost the police dispatchers $1.65 to tell each other about the accident. The matter was taken care of.

But what if there had been someone bleeding or burning to death back there on the highway? Would I have had the presence of mind to remember the combined intricacies of the police and telephone systems? Perhaps, perhaps not. I can only guess. The operator certainly didn't.

And Waterville is not the only place where the police station is long distance, even if it's only a few miles. Stanstead is in the same boat, so is Highwater, so are a hundred places in the Eastern Townships and across Quebec.

So even late at night, remember, if you want to let your fingers do the walking, you better have a pocket full of change. Even for emergencies.

CHARLES BURY

Gibraltar next on British agenda

By Ethan Bronner

MADRID (Reuter) — With the battle for the Falklands barely behind them, the British turn this week to another acrimonious colonial dispute — Gibraltar.

British Foreign Secretary Francis Pym and Spanish Foreign Minister Jose Pedro Perez-Llorca meet at Sintra, Portugal, on Friday to begin negotiations on the future of Britain's last colony in Europe, seized from Spain in 1704.

Also Friday, Spain is due to open its border with Gibraltar, closed in 1969 by the late dictator, Gen. Francisco Franco, in anger over a referendum in which Gibraltarians voted to stay British.

But diplomatic sources said that reopening was in doubt. They said Spain thought Britain probably was in no mood to make colonial concessions after its Falklands victory, and Madrid would be better off holding on to its only bargaining counter, the frontier, until the British felt more conciliatory.

The reopening was scheduled for April 20 but was put off by mutual consent for two months due to the Falklands crisis.

Franco's hope of punishing the 20,000 inhabitants of the Rock, a mix of Maltese, Genoese, Indians, Jews and Spaniards, largely has backfired. Spanish workers have been replaced by Moroccans and pro-British sentiment has grown.

The economy has prospered, with average weekly earnings rising fourfold since the gate was shut, faster than in Britain.

VERY BRITISH

Police, distinctively uniformed like Britain's bobbies in helmets, patrol streets dotted with red mailboxes. The governor wears a tricorn hat and Gibraltarians put on very British flower shows, dog shows and clay pigeon shoots.

Britain also has made gestures of support to Gibraltar. Last summer, Prince Charles and the Princess of Wales began their honeymoon cruise from the Rock, causing Spain's King Juan Carlos to cancel his attendance at their wedding.

The British Parliament also voted Gibraltarians full citizenship rights last year, in contrast to residents of other colonies such as the Falklands and Hong Kong.

If Spanish officials have been slow to open the border it was because they believed the threat of keeping it closed was their only insurance of serious negotiations over the Rock.

Gibraltarians may have developed a prosperous economy but they are cut off from the world, their only way out being via Tangier across the straits by boat or plane.

British officials say they are willing to negotiate everything, including sovereignty, but that the wishes of the inhabitants are paramount.

For Spaniards, a British colony is a constant affront to national honor and their claim to the Rock is one of the few issues upon which every Spaniard can agree, whatever his politics.

Pompidou memoirs say de Gaulle almost skipped

By Anthony Williams

PARIS (Reuter) — Faced with the threat of a national strike during the most crucial test of his political career, President Charles de Gaulle considered going into exile in West Germany, the memoirs of the late Georges Pompidou, his successor at the Elysee Palace, show.

The disclosure challenges a traditional belief that during the events of May, 1968, de Gaulle suddenly left Paris to assure himself of the support of the French army in West Germany before being persuaded to return. This he did with renewed vigor to establish order in a riot-torn France.

Pompidou's new version of this troubled era of French politics, however, says the general, tired, ill and discouraged, made provisions for a lengthy stay in West Germany with his family and was turning his back on domestic crises.

The collection of Pompidou's letters and political reflections, published eight years after his death, also focuses on the bitter ending to the relationship between two imposing figures of the postwar French political scene.

Pompidou, the premier at the time, is unstinting in his criticism of the late general during the 1968 crisis. That May marked the culmination of a long period of student revolt which intensified when an uneasy alliance was formed between the young and workers who were threatening a national strike.

Pompidou writes in the opening paragraph of a section covering this period of his desire "to establish a truth," and it is this phrase which gives the volume its name.

De Gaulle's main claim after establishing the Fifth Republic in 1958 was that he restored France as an international force to be reckoned with, a dominant power in Europe and the world.

WAS NOT CONCERNED

But he was not generally recognized as being concerned with daily internal affairs and Pompidou affirms this view.

The memoirs show the general turning his back on domestic responsibility and being crushed momentarily under the demands of power.

In the midst of the tension, Pompidou awoke on the morning of May 29 to find de Gaulle had disappeared. All the general's aides could say was that the president had gone to rest at his country home.

Pompidou, an intellectual who went into politics at age 50, already felt he had to take much of the strain of the internal discontent on his own shoulders.

But the absence of the president at this time left him with a sensation of being betrayed. When he discovered the general had in fact left to visit French troops in Baden-Baden his feeling of being deceived hardened.

"I found it hardly acceptable that the head of state should not only go away, but should actually leave national territory without informing the premier," he writes.

De Gaulle returned from West Germany with a new strength, determined to hold elections to reaffirm his position of power and to impose controls on demonstrators and various left-wing groups.

Explaining de Gaulle's action, Pompidou writes: "In reality, the general had a crisis of confidence. Believing the game was lost, he had chosen retreat."

Pompidou claims it was only the determination of Gen. Jacques Massu, head of the French forces, who persuaded the president to return.

Pompidou quotes the president as saying on his return: "For the first time in my life, I had a moment of weakness. I am not proud of myself."

Pompidou writes in bitter terms of his feelings after triumphal elections which followed the crisis and ensured de Gaulle's comeback.

Pompidou, whose memoirs were published last week, died in office in 1974.

'The Argentines came close' to winning

By Ed Blanche

LONDON (AP) — A half-dozen Argentine bombs that slammed into Royal Navy warships but failed to explode may have spelled the difference between victory and defeat for the British in the Falkland Islands war.

Military analysts in London believe that if the destroyers and frigates hit by the bombs in Argentine air attacks May 21 at the San Carlos Bay beachhead had been knocked out, the navy could have been forced to withdraw.

That would have left the 5,000 British troops on shore dangerously exposed with their supply line cut at the most critical point of the campaign to recapture the South Atlantic islands seized by Argentina on April 2.

"If those bombs had gone off and we'd lost those ships at that time the outcome of the campaign could have been very, very different," said a Royal Navy intelligence source, who asked not to be identified.

Admiral Sir John Fieldhouse, commander-in-chief of the British fleet, admitted the British were "extraordinarily lucky" not to lose more men and ships than they did in the 74-day conflict.

"It was a damn close thing," Royal Marines Maj.-Gen. Jeremy Moore, commander of the British land forces, said after his troops recaptured Stanley, the Falklands capital last Monday.

Just how close is only now beginning to emerge.

BIG GAMBLE

Britain took a big gamble in sending a task force 8,000 nautical miles with little air cover and within range of Argentina's 230 land-based warplanes.

The British lost two destroyers and two frigates in repeated Argentine air attacks during the landing, as well as the requisitioned container ship Atlantic Conveyor that went down with thousands of tonnes of vital supplies.

Another vessel, a troop landing ship, was blasted into a blackened hulk with 50 killed in an Argentine air attack June 8.

Four damaged British warships are limping back to their bases on England's south coast for repairs.

"We're the luckiest ship alive," Capt. Anthony Hodinott, skipper of the 4,100-tonne destroyer Glasgow, hit by one of the dud bombs, said when his ship arrived at Portsmouth.

The 1,000-pound bomb dropped by an Argentine Skyhawk fighter-bomber May 12 smashed through one side of the destroyer, passed through the engine room and out the other side without exploding.

British experts believe the bombs, mostly Second World War-vintage American and British weapons sold to Argentina, failed to detonate because of faulty mechanisms.

Three of the four warships damaged by duds were hit in "bomb alley," the narrow Falkland Sound between the two main islands where the navy strung its "gun line" to protect the San Carlos landing.

FEROCIOUS ATTACKS

In four days of ferocious air attacks, the destroyer Coventry and frigates Ardent and Antelope were sunk. The Antelope sank May 22 as an army expert tried to defuse a 1,000-pound bomb lodged in the engine room. Six ships were damaged.

"It still seems remarkable that the bridgehead survived and that a large section of the fleet was not sunk," said John Witherow, a correspondent of The Times who was aboard a warship in "bomb alley."

"The Argentines came remarkably close to winning that battle. Much of the narrowness of the British success here (on the Falklands) could be attributed to the unexploded bombs.

"There was little wrong with the accuracy of the bombing; but a high percentage failed to explode and only minor damage was caused to a number of ships."

In addition to the threat from air attacks during their invasion, British forces also faced a supply problem.

Moore told correspondents that when the Argentinians surrendered at Stanley after three days of fighting his 105-millimetre artillery guns only had a few shells left.

If the Argentinians had held out for a few more hours the British howitzers would have run out of ammunition at a critical phase in the final offensive.

The general said he was surprised by the suddenness of the Argentine collapse.

Letters An irreversible process

An open letter to Pierre Paradis Member, National Assembly for Brome-Missisquoi

Dear Pierre:

Within the next few weeks, Hydro-Quebec expects to activate the Gentilly-2 nuclear reactor. Once this reactor is activated, it will become radioactive, and will remain radioactive for many thousands of years.

The decision to activate this reactor is being made and finalized behind closed doors by Hydro-Quebec alone. We, the citizens of Quebec, have no voice in the matter, nor have our elected representatives chosen to exercise any voice in our behalf.

Having long and carefully studied the health, safety, and energy issues involved with nuclear power, and speaking as a full-time environmental journalist, as well as one of your constituents, I urge you to bring this matter to the immediate attention of the National Assembly, and to do everything in your power to see that the pros and cons of starting this reactor are fully aired in the National Assembly before any action is taken.

Inasmuch as many members of the present government have individually opposed nuclear development in the past, although the government as a whole has not, this should become a bipartisan issue, and with your energetic help, we should have a good chance to keep this reactor from being started.

Hydro-Quebec argues that because Gentilly-2 cost $1.4 billion to build, we cannot afford not to start it.

However, Quebec presently enjoys an energy surplus, that will continue throughout the foreseeable future; our present sources of hydroelectric energy are much, much cheaper to operate; the Gentilly-2 reactor is insured only for $300,000, whereas the Three Mile Island cleanup will ultimately cost $2 billion; the cost of deactivating this reactor when it ceases generating after 30 years is expected to exceed the construction cost; research downwind of other reactor sites shows a consistent increase in the number of stillbirths and miscarriages, both among human and animal mothers; and the death rate from cancer among workers at other Canadian reactors of similar design is six times the national average, according to Dr. Gordon Edwards of the Canadian Coalition for Nuclear Responsibility.

It is unfortunate that Hydro-Quebec has been permitted to build Gentilly-2, in view of the economic and health risks involved, and especially unfortunate that they have been allowed to contemplate starting it without possessing nearly adequate insurance, despite the lessons the government should have learned from Gentilly-1, which malfunctioned on the first day of operation and never generated any useful amount of electrical power.

It would be still more unfortunate if Hydro-Quebec were now allowed to compound folly by beginning nuclear reaction, an irreversible process, so needlessly for the people of Quebec.

Will article in poor taste

Editor:

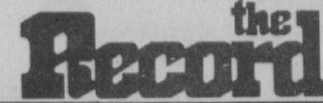

In my opinion the article in Wednesday's Record, concerning the will of the late Mrs. Virgin, was in very poor taste.

It could take years to settle this estate, and in the meantime, such beneficiaries as the Piggery Theatre and the Sherbrooke Hospital, as well as other worthwhile institutions, may find it very difficult to obtain donations from the general public, thus suffering severe setbacks. It would do well to wait until such things are more concrete before making them public.

I would very much appreciate it if you would publish this letter.

Poor economy halts co-op movement development

OTTAWA (CP) — The co-operative movement, which began to flourish amid the troubled economic times of the Great Depression, is finding itself in jeopardy during the current economic recession.

"The economy has virtually halted most of the development of co-operatives," says Vern Leland, one of the organizers of this week's four-day Co-operative Future Directions Congress.

"What we're finding is that our present members, and that's about nine million Canadians, are not buying as much as they used to.

"They can't afford to invest as much in co-operatives because the squeeze is on."

But Leland, second vice-president of the Co-operative Union of Canada, says that doesn't mean co-operatives are going to disappear.

"They're just not growing, they're not getting any bigger. But the ones that do exist are going to become more efficient, I think."

About 300 leaders from local, regional, national and international co-operative organizations met here this week to discuss the issues they consider important — including worker co-operatives, women in the movement, improving relations with government, international development and ways to ensure co-operatives remain democratic and socially responsible.

Leland says consumer education, poverty, income disparities, and the problems of the disabled and the aged also are issues of particular concern to co-operatives.

Co-operatives are incorporated, non-profit businesses organized on a voluntary basis to meet the needs of their members.

There are more than 10,000 active in Canada, ranging from credit unions, agricultural and dairy co-operatives, to housing and wholesale and retail operations.

SOME GOOD NEWS

Although the movement now is in an economic straitjacket, there is some good news, says Leland, also president of Federated Co-operatives Ltd.

Legislation is expected to receive third and final reading in the Commons today to establish the Co-operative Energy Corp., a holding company whose sponsors include the federal government, farming co-operatives, credit unions and associated co-operatives.

The corporation will be owned half each by government and co-operatives — which have the option to eventually buy out the government.

The first co-operatives originated in Great Britain and Germany in the mid 1800s. Dairies are Canada's oldest existing co-operatives, dating back to the 1890s.

Alphonse Desjardins introduced co-operative banking into Canada in 1900 when he opened the first caisse populaire in Lévis, Que. It wasn't until the 1920s that co-operatives mushroomed across the country.

"Hard times drew people together and inspired them to form co-operatives. Society was more rural then and they formed wheat pools and agricultural co-ops realizing they were stronger together," says Leland.

Eighty per cent of all cereal grains are still marketed through co-operatives and 12 dairy co-operatives process much of Canada's dairy needs.

"Since that time, society has urbanized. People flocked to the cities. They have come to believe they don't need co-operatives because the city can give them everything," he says.

"But take housing, for example. Young couples, couples of any age for that matter, can't meet mortgage payments anymore. Low-cost co-op housing is an answer and a good one, if only they would see."

Tariffs to aid CCM bad news — dealer

MONTREAL (CP) — Some bicycle dealers say that while federal tariffs have helped Canada's largest bicycle manufacturer, they don't like the bikes it produces.

Canada Cycle and Motor Company of Toronto, better known as CCM, is Canada's largest bike manufacturer and last year accounted for one third of an estimated 900,000 bikes sold in the country.

And, that's "bad news" says Frank Zimnicki of Peel Cycle Centre, a major Montreal bicycle dealer.

"CCM, as far as Canadian bike dealers are concerned," he says, "has the most disliked name and bastardized reputation of bike companies."

Zimnicki says many bike dealers prefer selling Japanese bikes such as Apollo, Mikado and Nishiki. But Japanese bikes can't be imported in bulk.

Francois Mercil of Velo-Quebec, a 3,000-member consumer cycling association, says, "That's the way it is while CCM itself no longer makes its own bike frames, importing Japanese junk and other poor quality imports."

DISPUTES CHARGES

CCM vice-president Ed Donaher says "some of the charges against CCM are ludicrous."

"Our quality is as good or better than that of any other bike made."

"CCM has more Canadian content than that of any other manufacturer in the country. Whatever problem we have in getting parts, other manufacturers face similar ones. And we pay the same amount of duties on imported parts as anyone else."

"And CCM does manufacture its own frames and forks excepting specially parts unavailable in Canada."

In 1977 the government imposed a tariff on bicycles made in Taiwan and South Korea and established duty regulations affecting bicycles from Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

That year, those five countries provided 70 per cent of Canada's bicycle imports. Since then, imports have dropped to 261,500 from close to 800,000.

In July, 1978, CCM was taken over by Maxwell Cummings and Sons Holdings Ltd. of Montreal, a privately owned holding company. It had been owned by Seaway Multicorp. Ltd. of Toronto.

Besides imports, CCM's problems included outdated equipment and procedures, inefficient marketing and slow deliveries. Competition among its own models and deteriorating relationships with retailers led CCM's share of the Canada's bicycle market to drop to 20 per cent from 50 per cent.

Company president Sheldon Hamer recently reported, "CCM has more than doubled its sales over the past three years to the point where they surpassed $70 million for the year ended Sept. 30, 1981."

"It is making a profit now, a marked improvement from the several previous years of losses."

But for Sekine Canada Ltd. of Rivers, Man., which had 80 employees and produced 50,000 bikes in 1977, the tariffs came too late. When Sekine folded late last year, its bikes sported imported derailleurs, wheel hubs, rims and tires.

Zimnicki says on the average, Japanese manufacturers offer Canadian sellers a 33 per cent mark-up. "Canadian bicycles only offer 20-25 per cent. That's just not adequate."

DOESN'T COMPETE

Montreal bike dealer Joe Sylvestre says, "CCM doesn't compete with imports in the $250-$400 and over-$400 price range. But for bikes under $250, customers are better off buying Canadian because they don't have to pay the heavy duty imposed on imports."

"Under $250 — mainly children's bikes, single-speed middle-weights with coaster-brakes and high-rise bikes with a short wheel-base and banana seat — is where the bulk of the market is. And that's what CCM, whose bikes are found in Miracle Mart and Zellers, produces."

Despite tremendous sales, CCM's profits have been squeezed by interest rates, a highly competitive market and the high cost of labor and materials.

Formed in 1907 with the merger of five Canadian companies, CCM employs 1,000 people at a 21,500-square-metre plant near Toronto and a 17,000-square-metre plant in Ste. Jean, Que., where it makes most of its hockey equipment.

Some observers say that tariffs to protect Canada's CCM bicycle-making operation are a good thing. But others say CCM bikes are nothing more than 'junk'.

Western farmers add up damage

Farmers still are totting up the damage caused by the worst late-May snowstorm to hit south and central Saskatchewan since 1910.

Provincial agriculture specialists estimate only two-thirds of the area's regular wheat seeding was done by June 3. Flooding and frost also damaged some crops.

Some grazing cattle were lost in the storm which caused snowdrifts as much as 80 centimetres deep May 30-31. The situation was particularly critical for nursing cattle stranded without food.

"The calves would have to take great big leaps, just like frogs, to get through the drifts," said Betty Burgess, who with her husband raises cattle in the small southwestern Saskatchewan community of Piapot.

STUDYING IRRIGATION

Determining when to irrigate and how much water to apply is the goal of research being conducted at the Agriculture Canada research station in Swift Current, Sask.

Researcher Y. W. Jame said the purpose of the study is to help farmers using irrigation to manage water and energy more efficiently to obtain a maximum net return.

Jame said determining when and how much irrigation water to apply are critical decisions. If not enough water is applied, crop stress may occur. If too much water is applied, fertilizer may be leached from the plant-root zone. Either way, crop yields suffer. In addition, excess water costs money in wasted pumping energy.

A computer simulation model designed to determine an optimum irrigation schedule is being developed at the research station. Jame said that applying findings to day-to-day water management practices will help farmers maximize profits.

Mini Electronic Darkroom building block for improvement

DALLAS (AP) — The Associated Press unveiled the Mini Electronic Darkroom on Sunday, saying the desk-top equipment can be a building block for technological advances in news gathering.

In the short run, the portable electronic darkroom will mean enhanced photo quality for members of The AP, said Dave Rutherford, AP's chief engineer. To newspaper readers, the darkroom will mean better photographs.

"In the long run, the Mini Electronic Darkroom will be able to serve as a building block for many other improvements," such as a front-end system for the scheduling of newspaper pages, Rutherford said.

The electronic darkroom eventually may lead to quicker transmission of photographs, allowing transmissions from negatives to the darkroom in as little as 30 seconds. Current technology requires eight minutes to move a photo print over the Laserphoto network.

A television camera can be hooked directly into the mini darkroom, producing a photo that can move on a network within two minutes. However, the quality of such photos is not as good as conventional photographs, Rutherford said.

The AP's first Mini Electronic Darkroom — a computer that fits under one-half of a desk, a video display terminal and a television screen — was demonstrated at the American Newspaper Publishers Association Production Management Conference here.

ALLOWS RECEPTION

The equipment allows for simultaneous reception of photographs. Up to 90 photos can be stored in the portable computer which can enhance selective bits of the stored information to produce photos that are better for newspaper reproduction. Photos also can be cropped in the computer.

"For years, people have talked about what they could do if they could use computer technology for photos in an affordable manner," said Hans Jung, an AP computer programmer who, with Rutherford and programmer Barry Zion, developed the darkroom.

"We won't know for five or seven or 10 years all the implications of this breakthrough. There will be an uncounted number of options that other people will develop from this base tool."

Rutherford said the AP spent about $500,000 developing the mini darkroom, but additional portable darkrooms can be built for about $70,000.

AP's first mini darkroom — the one on display here — will be installed in the news service's London bureau.

CHANGING LAND POLICY

One of Canada's most restrictive agricultural land policies, the British Columbia agricultural land reserve, is in for a major overhaul.

B.C. Agriculture Minister James Hewitt has announced that the reserve, established in 1974 to protect the five per cent of the province's land suitable for farming, needs an overhaul rather than the fine tuning he called for earlier.

But the opposition NDP fears the current strong controls will be watered down.

"The (Social Credit government) sees land as real estate, they see flat drained land as housing developments and shopping centres," said NDP land critic Gordon Hanson.

The government has been under fire for several weeks for exempting three properties from the land reserve, which prohibits development on such farmland.

Daigneault-Dennis

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. George's Church, Lennoxville on June 12, 1982, when Cynthia Sue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Daigneault of Lennoxville, became the bride of Gregory Clare Dennis, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Dennis of Port Dover, Ontario.

The Rev. Canon A.M. Awcock officiated at the double-ring ceremony and Mrs. L. Pennington presided at the organ. The church was decorated with baskets of yellow and white daisies and gladioli and white satin bows marked the pews for the guests.

The bride given in marriage by her father was attended by Miss Donna Smerdon as maid of honor. Miss Veronica Daigneault, cousin of the bride and Miss Angela Dennis, sister of the groom were her bridesmaids.

The bride looked lovely in a floor-length gown of white chiffon over taffeta. The bodice featured a Venise lace collar and blouson styling. The full sheer Bishop's sleeves had Venise lace on the fitted cuffs. The skirt fell in graceful folds into an extended chapel train. For her headpiece she wore a cap of Venise lace holding a finger tip veil of tulle illusion. She carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses, white daisies, pink star-flowers and babies breath.

Her attendants were attractive in light mauve dresses with sheer elbow length capes and carried a bouquet of white and light mauve daisies and light pink miniature carnations.

The groom was attended by his elder brother Graham Dennis as best man and the ushers were Mr. James Rowland and Mr. Philip Dennis. All wore navy blue tuxedos and a carnation boutonniere.

The bride's mother was attired in a street-length dress of rose chiffon and her corsage was an orchid.

The groom's mother wore a street-length dress of light grey chiffon and wore a corsage of deep red bud roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Dewhurst dining hall at Bishop's University where the same color scheme of yellow and white was carried out. The nicely decorated three-tiered wedding cake topped with a floral arrangement centered the head table and was flanked by yellow candles in silver holders. A delicious buffet supper was served to the guests.

Toasts to the bridal couple were proposed by the best man Mr. Graham Dennis, Mr. Douglas Rogers, uncle of the bride, and by the father of the groom. The groom responded to the toasts.

Following the cutting and serving of the wedding cake the guests enjoyed a social evening with dancing.

The happy couple left for their honeymoon to California, the bride wearing a light flowered dress and a purple orchid. On their return they will reside in Rothesay, New Brunswick.

The evening prior to the wedding the bridal party was graciously entertained at the Holiday Inn by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Dennis.

The out of town guests were from Nova Scotia, P.E.I., New Brunswick, Ontario, Alberta and the United States.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Emile Breton of Sherbrooke wish to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Patricia Frances, to Lawrence Ronald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Bruce of Lennoxville. The wedding will take place in St. Mark's Chapel, Bishop's University, on Saturday, August 21.

86th birthday

Belated birthday greetings to Mr. Burton Laroche of Sawyerville on the occasion of his 86th birthday on June 20, from his family and friends.

40th anniversary

On June 6, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kinnear of East Angus celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. That evening they were taken to the Holiday Inn in Sherbrooke, accompanied by 30 relatives and friends. Prior to the meal, their daughter Beverly, pinned a corsage of pink carnations on her mother and Kenneth, Lawrence's brother presented him with a boutonniere.

After the meal everyone returned to the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Boutin in East Angus, where they were greeted by their only grandchild, Larry, who was unable to attend the dinner. During the evening punch was served by the host and hostess assisted by their son Larry.

At midnight the anniversary cake and coffee were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Barten Carr, Mrs. Peter Matheson and Mrs. Lawrence Waldron.

The cake was made by Beverly and decorated by Mrs. Donald King of Cookshire. The table was centered with a beautiful bouquet of American Beauty roses, a gift from Drs. Emily and Sam Benaroya of Montreal.

Mr. Barton Carr, brother-in-law, presented the guests of honor with a purse of money for which Lawrence and Isabel thanked everyone.

This party was planned by their daughter Beverly assisted by Lawrence and Isabel's attendants of 40 years ago, Leslie and Gladys Wilkin, of East Angus, the latter being Isabel's sister.

25th anniversary

On Saturday evening, June 12, Mr. and Mrs. Benoit Plante (Ellen Wheeler) of Windsor were honored at a party on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

A special mass and communion was celebrated at the St. Claude Catholic Church at 7:30 in the evening, with the couple's four sons assisting Father Lamoureux.

Following a reception was held at the Salle des Loisirs in St. Claude with 300 relatives and friends present to extend best wishes and congratulations to the couple. An evening of dancing was enjoyed.

During the evening Luc Plante read a scroll in both French and English and presented it to his parents. Brigitte Cote, the couple's godchild, presented Ellen with a beautiful bouquet of roses, while Yves Plante, their eldest son, presented his father with a souvenir family plaque. The youngest son, Steve, presented his parents with a purse of money from all present.

Both Benoit and Ellen expressed thanks and appreciation to their family, relatives and friends for the enjoyable evening, and especially for having so many come from so far to join them for this memorable occasion. A delicious lunch was served in the lower hall at the close of the evening.

Attending were relatives from Lewiston, Maine; Woodsville and Lisbon, N.H.; Woodsville and Macador Falls, Vermont; Ottawa, Picton and Limehouse, Ont., Montreal, St. Hubert, Ste. Agathe de Lothiniere, Disraeli, Sherbrooke, Danville, as well as many from the local area.

Benoit Plante and Ellen Wheeler were married on June 8, 1957, at St. Philippe Church in Windsor. They have four sons, Yves, Rock, Luc and Steve.

50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Savage of Pittsfield, Maine and formerly of Huntingville, Que., are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary at their home in Pittsfield. Mr. and Mrs. Savage were married in the Church of the Ascension at Inverness, Que. June 11, 1932.

Mrs. Geoffrey R. Boisvert

Boisvert-Dowling

The marriage of Geoffrey Robert Boisvert and Patricia Ann Dowling, both of Plymouth, Mass., took place on Saturday, May 29, 1982, at 11 a.m., at Christ Church, Plymouth. Mr. Boisvert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boisvert, of Bramalea, Ont., formerly of Sherbrooke, Que., and Ms. Dowling is the daughter of Mr. Robert J. Dowling and the late Mrs. Dowling of Staten Island, New York.

After a honeymoon in California, the couple are residing in Plymouth, Mass.

Girdle's better than jiggle

Dear Ann: You've printed some letters lately about men wearing girdles. I say let them wear them if they want to — so long as women don't have to.

I am a good-looking gal, although admittedly a little on the plump side. My husband insists I wear a girdle when we go out. After reading your columns he said he would agree to wear one himself, to even things up.

I told him girdles went out with the buggy whip, and I am not going to torture myself anymore — no matter how much I jiggle. Will you back me up? — Fat, 40 And Free

Dear Fat: No, because I don't know how much you jiggle. Often women who don't like girdles don't like bras either. This can add up to an awful lot of jigging.

The whalebone corset, mercifully, is a thing of the past, but a girdle can be an important part of a plump woman's grooming.

Investigate the lightweight comfortable types that don't imprison — but simply control. Make your husband happy and do a kindness to the folks who view you from the rear.

Dear Ann: I have a handicap that must be corrected at age 25 or I will never succeed at anything. I have attended seven schools from grammar school to college and have not seen anyone with a problem as severe as mine. I simply cannot communicate in front of a group of people.

Ann

Landers

Friends have said they get butterflies in the stomach and their knees knock when they must speak before an audience, but my physical symptoms are terrifying. Breathing becomes difficult. I perspire profusely. My voice goes up two octaves and I make a complete fool of myself.

This problem caused me to skip so many classes I finally flunked out of college. I would appreciate some comments from you on how I might overcome the problem. I want to go back to school, but this must be solved first. — Choked Up

Dear Choked: Obviously you are plagued with something beyond the usual case of stage fright. A few helpful hints from me — practice deep breathing, pretend you are talking to only one person and rehearse before a mirror — won't do it. You need public speaking lessons from a professional and perhaps some counseling. Check the universities and don't waste any more time.

4-H Young Farmers clubs take part in annual preparation day

AYER'S CLIFF (IH) — There were 64 4-H Young Farmers from Hatley, Ayer's Cliff, and Barnston clubs plus a large number of leaders, parents and friends of the young people gathered at the Ayer's Cliff Fair grounds on Sunday, June 13.

This day is held annually and the young farmers are taught how to clip their calf for showing at the fairs and showmanship. They will have until August 7 to practice, then bring themselves and calf to the fair grounds for achievement day.

This year the demonstrators and judges were Leon Pare from Orleans, Vt., and Bertrand Couture from Co-op, Coaticook. Everything was bilingual.

Mr. Pare first spoke on the basic operations for clipping and demonstrated the importance of hoof trimming. He trimmed the hoofs of an Ayrshire calf which he said had hoofs "in bad shape". His method is to use a chisel and a rubber mallet, he said a steel hammer does not absorb the shock as does the rubber. He then took off the long hoof, then the crust under the foot, then peeled gently down the hard part to the soft.

Unless a calf's feet are attended to when young, it can ruin a cow. After his work was done it was noted how differently the calf was able to stand and when she walked away someone stated "she walks like a woman who has shoes that fit." "If you keep calves feet trimmed, one should have little trouble when they are cows" said Mr. Pare. "He also advised not to remove too much from the heel and said 'Everything was bilingual'."

Mr. Couture's method was different and he chose to use a penknife. What causes feet to become in this state? asked a young farmer. The answer is: standing on wood or in too soft a bed.

Mr. Pare said to clip the calf for a show one should first do the brislet but not under the stomach, he recommended clipping two weeks before showing so she will blend the hair. Head and neck should be clipped clean and to leave a good switch on the tail. After clipping he suggested a wash every other day. He then demonstrated the correct way to clip the animal.

If animals are washed on the ground, mud will come, he suggested standing on cement and always a clean group of animals will be done without mud.

Then the youngsters drew numbers and a pee-wee worked with a junior or a senior to clip a calf which corresponded with the drawn numbers.

What excitement, for many of the calves had been brought in from the pasture, others from the barns. Some were nervous from the buzzing of the clippers but eventually all were finished and a good job on the calves was the result.

In age groups of 16 and over; 14 and 15 years; 11-12 and 13 years; 9 and 10 year; then 8, 7 and under, brought out the calves for showmanship with Mr. Pare taking one group and Mr. Couture another, until all were given the opportunity to do their thing.

Some of the calves, evidently pets, were models led by their farmer, but with some it was push and pull, some of the calves were shown in different classes, so that by the time they came to the pee-wees they had settled down and accepted their showing. Each judge lined up the animal and young farmer and although classed as to placement there was no competition this will be done on achievement day. The judges pointed out ways for better showmanship such as holding the head higher, some had a halter too large for the calf, but all in all, both spoke highly of the performance of the day.

At the noon hour all had a Kentucky fried chicken box. The Hatley Club hosted the Preparation day. Agronomer Daniel Charron attended and assisted the young farmers.

Women's Institute meeting

GRANBY HILL — The June meeting of the G.H.W.I. was held at the beautiful home of Mrs. Earl McCutcheon on Wednesday, June 9.

After the W.I. Grace was repeated, all enjoyed a delicious luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. N. Coupland, Pres., thanked the hostess and then called the meeting to order by all repeating the Creed.

Motto: The best way to keep one's word is not to give it; Roll call: Name your favorite holiday site-some of the replies were on the Island of Maui and on Oahu in the Hawaiian Islands, the Buchart Gardens in Victoria, B.C., P.E.I., and area around Georgian Bay and one preferred "Home."

The minutes were read and approved and the treasurer's report given. The delegate had turned in a refund of $11.55 from the money she had been given to attend the Provincial Convention at Macdonald College.

Correspondence included a thank-you from a bereaved family member.

Convenors reports - Agriculture - An article in the Gazette was read stating that China has placed its largest order for Canadian wheat 2 1/4 billion dollar value in the next three years - 3.5 million tonnes. Dominion seed house have a book which shows which vegetables are compatible for planting together - carrots love tomatoes; earth flies take flight when near lettuce.

Mrs. A. Coupland, Education, and Pres., Mrs. N. Coupland, were at Parkview Elementary School recently to give out some prizes for Spelling at grades 6 level and French at the grades 7 level. Best speller in grades 6 was Lynn Allen; most improved were Tallie Anne Neil and Donald Pomerleau. In grades 7 the best overall in French was Suad Hashion and the two most improved were Nancy Laflamme and Paul Clayton.

Health and Welfare - A certain kind of mushrooms, fly agaric, are just as powerful as morphine for some pain and much safer to use.

Home Ec. - A fabric softener may be made by mixing 1 to 2 cupfuls of hair creme rinse in a quart of water. Add some to washing machine during rinse cycle.

A motion was passed to send $25. to 'Save the Children Fund'.

Miss Margaret Stevenson, delegate to Convention, gave a very good report and thanked the branch for having given her the opportunity to attend. She had gone to Mac many years ago as a student (teacher). She reported that $1394 had been handed in for the Flag tour; $506.75 was taken in at the sale table and $92.66 was collected for Pennies for Friendship. 209 people had attended the Convention, Mrs. Kilgour was presented with a plaque for her five years of service on the executive; Mrs. Gwen Parker is the new President and the convenors have all been changed.

Our branch does not hold a meeting in July, but the County is planning to go to a tourist attraction near Drummondville, similar to Upper Canada Village, on July 7. The community picnic, sponsored by our branch, will be held Aug. 7 at Fairmount Park.

A donation of blankets was sold, which helped our finances.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. N. Coupland's on Aug. 4, each member is to take two articles for a bingo game.

Women's Institute members meet at Inverness

INVERNESS — The regular June meeting of the Inverness W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Iris Little, with eight members and two guests, E. Lennon and the County President, P.

Nutbrown, present.

The president, Mrs. B. Robinson, opened the meeting in the usual way and members answered the roll call by trying a new recipe and bringing a sample for lunch. Some of the samples were - rice pudding, white cake, apple cake, muffins and oatmeal corn bread.

The treasurer gave her report as well as a detailed one of the very successful Garage Sale.

It was decided to buy new rubber tips for the tables in the Oddfellow's Hall. The present rubbers are either broken or lost.

Mrs. Wright turned in the five pounds of yarn which she had bought for the branch. Material for new curtains for the hall was purchased by Mrs. Dempsey and Mrs. A. Wright. This branch will pay one third of the cost, sharing with the Auxiliary and the Guild.

Five Hilda Graham Song Books were purchased by the president and will remain in the branch to be used for sing songs.

Mrs. Graham reported she had received a reply from Mrs. Farley re serving tea at the Wales Home.

The date was agreed upon, so plans will be finalized.

Mrs. Muir was the United Church Women meet

MANSONVILLE (BN) — The Mansonville United Church Women met on the lawn of the Church on June 10, at 10 a.m. Mrs. Bertha Nichols, President, opened the meeting and welcomed everyone.

Mrs. Louise Oliver led the devotional period reading scripture from Psalm 103 and a reading entitled "The Importance Of Being Thankful" followed by a poem and the Lord's Prayer. The collection was received and dedicated.

Mrs. Jean McNeil, Secretary, read the roll call showing eight members present.

"Thinking of you" cards were signed for the following: Mr. and Mrs. Jo Cherrett, Mrs. Hazel Jones, Mrs. Nita Hemphill, and Mrs. Doris Gardner. A sympathy card was sent to Mrs. Bessie Barnett and family.

Routine business was dealt with. The Treasurer gave her report showing a healthy amount in the bank. The Secretary read thank-you notes from Mrs. Iva Wightman, Miss Jane Jones and a letter from the Boy Scouts.

Announcements included the following: June 13 - Friendship Sunday in the United Church, bring a friend. June 14 - Church Council meets at 7:30 p.m. in the Church Hall. June 19 - a Ham supper in the Town Hall sponsored by the Girl Guides. June 26 - Flea Market at the Anglican Church Parish Hall.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. The programme for the day was a trip to the Museum in Knowlton, where everyone enjoyed her bag lunch with tea served by the Museum staff followed by a two hour tour of the Museum buildings. Thanks to Marion Phelps and her attentive staff, the afternoon was very informative and pleasant.

UCW commemorate

20th anniversary

HATLEY — Members of the three U.C.W. groups of our three point charge, Hatley, North Hatley and Waterville and guests gathered in the United Church Vestry on Wednesday, June 9 at noon for a pot luck luncheon in celebration of the 20th anniversary of the U.C.W. A get acquainted game was played and May Cunningham, president of the Hatley U.C.W. welcomed all present. Grace was said by Elsie Drew and a delicious salad lunch was given.

A card was signed by all present and enjoyed to Elsie Drew, also a birthday cake, as everyone sang Happy Birthday.

The presidents of the three groups, May Cunningham, Ruth Stoddard and Margaret Swanson cut the anniversary cake, made and decorated by students from A.G.R.H.S., topped with 20 lighted candles. These cakes were served with ice cream for dessert. Several pictures were taken.

Several favourite songs were sung to open the program for the afternoon. The Purpose was repeated in unison. Two short skits were presented and then each group gave a history of the beginning of the U.C.W. Hymns were sung and a short worship service followed. Several pictures were on display and many enjoyed picking out old friends.

Farewell party held for Mrs. V. Simons

EAST ANGLUS — The congregations of the joint charge of Bishopston, Bury and East Angus United Churches met together at the Cultural Centre, here, on Wednesday evening, June 9. The occasion being a farewell party for Mrs. Vera Simons who has ministered to these congregations for the past six years.

There was a good representation from each of the three towns and the evening was spent playing cards and visiting with friends.

Refreshments were served by the United Church Women. Token gifts were presented to Mrs. Simons by Mrs. Jemima Stevenson, a former resident of Bishopston, Mrs. Daisy Allison, Bury and Mr. Murray Labonte, East Angus. All three thanked Mrs. Simons for the work she had done over the past six years and wished her success in her new charge.

Mrs. Simons thanked the congregations for their gifts and for the support they had given her in her work here, which she had enjoyed. She extended an invitation to all to visit her and Rev. Gordon Simons in their new home.

Obituary

ANDREW C. DUNN

of Ulverton

The sudden death of Mr. Andrew Dunn occurred at his home in Ulverton, Que., on Friday, June 4, 1982. He was in his 80th year.

Mr. Dunn was born in Leeds, Megantic County on October 13, 1902, only son of the late Mr. William Dunn and his wife Eva Gillanders.

Always very hospitable, Mr. Dunn was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and lived most of his life in Ulverton.

In 1938 he married Grace Agnes Oliver, also of Leeds, and to this union, two daughters were born, Muriel (Mrs. Rodney Duffy) and Marjorie (Mrs. James Bell).

Left to mourn his loss are his wife Grace of Ulverton, daughter Muriel and son-in-law Rodney Duffy of South Durham and daughter Marjorie and son-in-law James Bell of Danville, two grandsons, three granddaughters, one great-grandson and one grandson by marriage.

He was predeceased by a sister Mrs. Ivor Pierce on July 1, 1969.

The remains rested at Fleury's Funeral Home, 198 Adams St., Richmond, where prayers were held prior to the largely attended funeral at the Ulverton United Church. The service was conducted by Rev. W. Glover, assisted by Rev. R. Matthews.

Two of Andrew's favorite hymns "Amazing Grace" and "The Lord's My Shepherd" were sung during the service.

The bearers were Donald Davidson, Allan Davidson, Chester Nugent, Don McDonald, Donald Smith and Fredrick Smith.

Interment in St. Andrew's Cemetery, Melbourne, Que.

Carbon monoxide level probably poisoning players

High carbon monoxide levels in smoke-filled halls are probably producing symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning in some bingo fanatics, a London, Ont., doctor believes.

In a letter published in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. W.C. Watson of Victoria Hospital told of a 69-year-old woman who was admitted to hospital in a confused state and suffering from chest pains.

Not intoxicated and the only significant laboratory finding was that the amount of oxygen in her blood was abnormally low. After three days in hospital, the woman was lucid again.

Watson then learned she was an avid bingo player who spent three nights each week in the bingo hall.

Watson had, by chance, just spent his first evening ever in a bingo hall, raising money for a charity, and had been surprised at the intense cigarette smoke.

He deduced the patient had been suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning, severe enough to produce confusion and chest pains.

FILLED WITH SMOKE
Describing the bingo hall he had visited, Watson writes: "I had never been in such a smoke-filled, polluted, acrid atmosphere in my life. Of the registered 310 bingo players, in a hall with inadequate ventilation, 304 were smoking; the other six were sitting in a tiny no-smoking area in a distant corner of the hall. Within 20 minutes my eyes were burning, by the end of the evening I was fatigued and had a headache, and when I went home every item of clothing had to be washed to rid it of smoke."

Watson said a number of factors placed the woman at higher risk of developing symptoms. She was a heavy smoker, she was older and there is some loss of lung oxygen-exchange capacity as one ages and she exposed herself regularly to the high carbon monoxide levels of her bingo hall.

"I would think that frequency of attendance at bingo halls has something to do with the phenomenon," Watson said in an interview. "I'm not sure that someone going one night a week would be in particular jeopardy but carbon monoxide is not easy to get rid of and there could be a cumulative effect over several nights in a single week."

The flea market held at the Brassard School on Saint Patrick in Magog, in support of the local figure skating club, Les Libellules was a tremendous success. Living with diabetes easier thanks to insulin pump OTTAWA (CP) — Denise Dion of nearby Gatineau, Que., finds living with diabetes much more pleasant thanks to an air-pressure device that makes taking insulin painless.

The device, called a Medi-Jector, pumps a pre-measured dose of insulin through her skin in a fraction of a second. That means no more of the daily needles Dion had required every morning for the last 10 years.

"I was depressed and fed up with the needles every day," she says. "I got so I couldn't stand to give them to myself and was totally dependent on my husband."

In addition to getting needles out of Dion's life, the Medi-Jector has also made it possible for her to take insulin three days a time instead of only once.

Dion says the fatigue and fuzzy vision she experienced before she started using the device five months ago have disappeared.

Dr. Malcolm Champion of the Ottawa Civic Hospital estimates that only 30 or 40 of the devices are in use in Canada.

Cancer risk may be reduced by eating correctly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diet appears to play a role in most common cancers and cancer risk may be reduced by eating fewer fats and salt-cured foods and more vegetables and grains, the National Academy of Sciences says.

In general, the evidence suggests that some types of diets and some dietary components tend to increase the risk of cancer, whereas others tend to decrease it," said a report issued by the study committee of the academy's National Research Council.

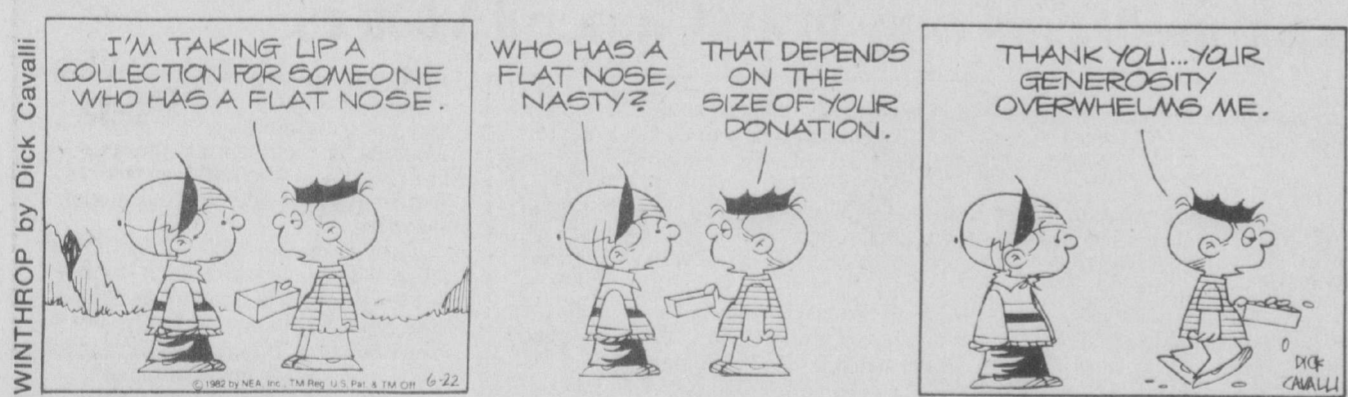

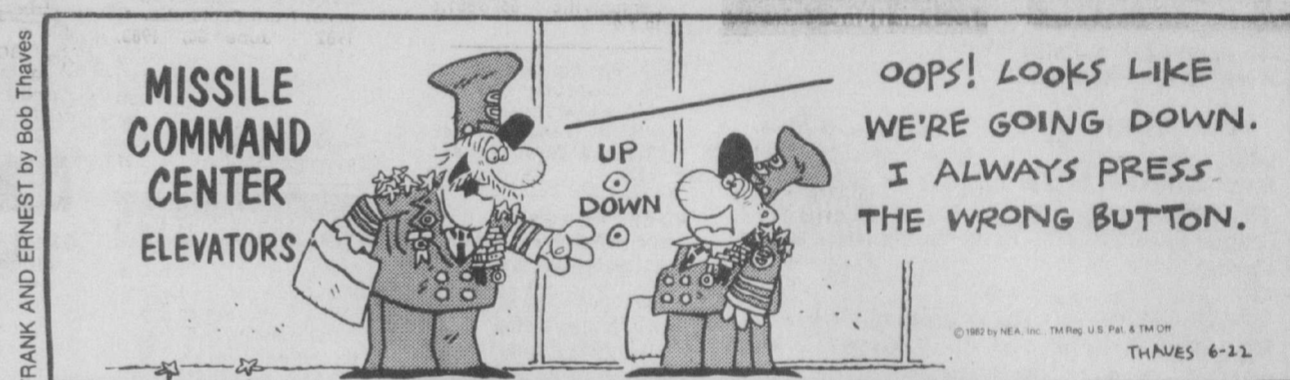

The committee said there is not enough data to specify what percentage of cancer risks can be attributed to diet. There is also not enough information to say how much any improved diets might lower these risks.

But it said some evidence was strong enough to recommend dietary guidelines designed to reduce the risk of developing cancer, including the following:

- Eat less food high in any kind of fats, saturated or unsaturated.
- Eat more fruits, vegetables and whole-grain cereal products daily, especially those high in vitamin C and carotene.
- Drink alcohol in moderation.

Carter provides offence as Expos romp over Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Credit Billy DeMars, hitting coach of Montreal Expos, for the hot bat Gary Carter is swinging on the National League baseball team's road trip.

The four-time NL All-Star catcher hit two homers, his 12th and 13th of the season, and drove in three runs in a 5-1 victory Monday night over New York Mets.

The victory was the fourth in a row for the Expos, who were playing the eighth game of an 11-game road trip.

In his last 13 plate appearances, Carter has nine hits for a .692 batting average. He is hitting .452 on the road trip.

Carter's first homer Monday, a two-run shot, highlighted the four-run fourth inning that dropped Mets starter Pete Falcone's record to 4-3. Tom Hausman, the Mets' third pitcher, gave up Carter's other homer, a solo blast in the eighth.

"Billy DeMars and I went to the ballpark early two days in a row when we were in St. Louis last week and I took extra hitting practice," said Carter. "My stance was too closed and he opened it up for me. Billy also made me relax."

DeMars is in his first season with Montreal after spending 13 years with Philadelphia Phillies.

Carter finds New York pitching to his liking. He is 10-for-21 with a .476 average against the Mets this season.

Reliever Ray Burris, who hurled one-hit shutout ball over the final three innings from starter Charlie Lea, 6-2, tired after six innings, picked up his first save.

In other NL action, it was Philadelphia 7, St. Louis 5; San Diego 7, Houston 4; Cincinnati 10, Los Angeles 2; Atlanta 7, San Francisco 6; Phillies 7 Cardinals 5

Darrell Porter and George Hendrick cracked run-scoring hits in the eighth as St. Louis beat Philadelphia to overshadow Pete Rose's climb into a tie for second place on baseball's all-time hit list. Rose had two singles to give him 3,771 hits for his career and tie him with Hank Aaron. Ty Cobb is the leader with 4,191 hits.

Padres 7 Astros 4
Terry Kennedy's two-run double keyed a six-run rally in the eighth inning to lead San Diego over Houston.

Reds 10 Dodgers 2
Eddie Milner hit a three-run homer, drove in four runs and scored three others to help Mario Soto win his fourth straight game. Soto, 7-4, handcuffed the Dodgers on five hits and struck out 10, raising his league-leading strikeout total to 125.

Braves 7 Giants 6
Chris Chambliss singled with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning to cap a three-run rally and lead Atlanta over San Francisco.

Doug DeCinces is moving up in a very tough American League baseball world.

In a batting order packed with sluggers and superstars, the California Angels third baseman has 23 runs batted in in his last 20 games and manager Gene Mauch has moved him to No. 3 from No. 7.

His four RBIs Monday night gave him 40 for the season and paced the Angels to a 10-2 victory over Texas Rangers.

In other games it was Baltimore 7, Cleveland 0; Milwaukee 6, New York 2; Boston 5, Detroit 1; Chicago 5, Minnesota 4; Oakland 4, Kansas City 3; and Seattle 5, Toronto 4.

McEnroe easy winner

LONDON (AP) — In the formal manner of the All-England Lawn Tennis Club, the schedule for the day listed Mrs. J. M. Lloyd of the United States among those who would play on its hallowed courts.

To the rest of the world, Chris Evert Lloyd took Centre Court to begin the defence of her Wimbledon women's singles title against compatriot Barbara Sue Gerken.

It was the day for the women to make their 1982 debut at Wimbledon, along with five ranked men who did not get on the courts during the rain-shortened opening-day program.

Men's defending champion John McEnroe was among those who did play and breezed through opening day unscathed.

"I hit the ball pretty well today," he said of his 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 win over American Van Winitsky.

"Winitsky's serve is not too strong and he tends to stay back. He is the kind of player I can get in (to the net) on." Because of the speed of the grass courts and their unpredictability, the 22-year-old left-hander made charge after charge into the net, forcing Winitsky to pass him or suffer the consequences.

McEnroe provided his own covering fire with six aces and followed a consistently strong service into net, from where he made quick work of short returns with sharply angled volleys.

There was little of the antics that last year resulted in $10,000 in fines, which were quashed on appeal.

BEHAVIOR EXEMPLARY
His behavior was, for him, exemplary as a packed Centre Court crowd looked on. McEnroe several times had words with the officials, but always in quiet tones, and often punctuated the conversations with a smile, even in those instances when he received questionable calls.

"There were no problems today," McEnroe said. "I hope it continues."

Also advancing to the second round were all the seeded players who saw action Monday.

Honduras' goal starts national celebration

MADRID (AP) — National pride is an important ingredient in the 24-team World Cup soccer tournament and Honduras President

Roberto Suazo Cordova telephoned the team's coach in Zaragoza before a match Monday night against Northern Ireland. And, while the poverty-ridden Central American nation came to a standstill, the Hondurans fought back to earn a 1-1 tie on second-half substitute Tony Laing's 60th-minute header.

The goal, equalizing one 50 minutes earlier by Irish striker Gerry Armstrong, set off a barrage of car horns, sirens and gunfire in Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital.

"I don't believe any country is enjoying the World Cup as much as mine," coach Jose de la Paz Herrera said after a second straight upset draw put Honduras closer to the 12-team second round.

The Kuwaitis, striving under a $200,000-per-player incentive to reach round two, staged the first mass incident of the month-long competition by halting their game in Valladolid against France to protest the validity of a goal by Alain Giresse.

After seven minutes of tense jostling and gesticulating among players, Spanish police, the French coach and the Kuwaiti soccer federation president, Soviet referee Miroslav Stupar disallowed the goal. But France won 4-1.

Kuwait coach Carlos Alberto Parreira conceded his players had lost their chance to join England as qualifiers from Group Four.

ALICANTE, Spain (AP) — Superstar Diego Maradona suffered a leg injury and is a doubtful starter for Argentina in the final first-round match against El Salvador in the World Cup soccer tournament.

A team spokesman said Monday the 21-year-old midfielder hurt a muscle in his right thigh in a 4-1 victory Friday over Hungary in Alicante.

MONTREAL (CP) — Defensive end Keith Gary of Montreal Concordes has been released from hospital and has been ordered to rest while taking medication to control high blood pressure, a spokesman for the Canadian Football League club said today.

KIEL, West Germany (CP) — Terry McLaughlin of Toronto and Evert Bastet of Hudson, Que., stood fourth overall in the Flying Dutchman class after the opening two races Monday at the 100th Kiel Week sailing regatta.

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson of California Angels, Rickey Henderson of Oakland A's and Dave Winfield of New York Yankees were the leaders among outfielders in the American League baseball all-star vote tabulation announced Monday.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — First baseman Pete Rose of Philadelphia Phillies tied Henry Aaron for second place on the major league baseball all-time career hit list when he singled off pitcher Dave LaPoint in the fifth inning of a National League game Monday night against St. Louis Cardinals.

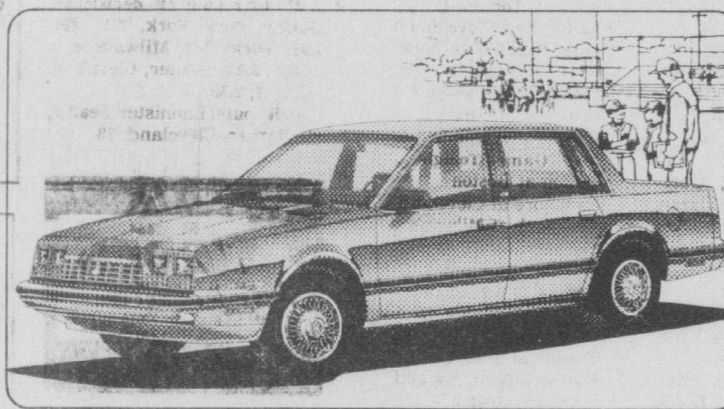

The drive to right centre was Rose's 3,771st career base hit, tying the 23-year career total of Aaron, baseball's all-time home run champion.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Outfielder Wayne Nordhagen, acquired last week by Pittsburgh Pirates, has been restricted to bed with a back ailment, the National League baseball team said Monday.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Chicago Cubs have little choice but to remain the only major-league baseball team without lights at their home field.

The Illinois Senate, by a 41-to-11 vote, endorsed a bill Monday designed to prohibit night baseball at Wrigley Field, home park for the National League team.

Over 70 ways to go front-wheel-drive... mid-size, compact and subcompact cars only from General Motors.

The right cars

Front wheel drive offers distinct advantages: in weight efficiency and traction; in handling when linked with MacPherson strut front suspension and rack-and-pinion steering; and in more generous passenger room when combined with a transverse engine.

They are all aerodynamically fine tuned, because reducing air resistance affects fuel economy and produces sleek, contemporary styling.

Advanced technology. It is a General Motors world where, increasingly, computer-controlled laser scanners measure body openings.

Where gamma rays inspect otherwise-invisible parts. A world where robots lend a helping and untiring hand.

Every model has a standard four-cylinder engine. Our compacts also offer an optional V6 while most mid-size cars make available both gasoline and diesel V6s.

At the right time

These cars are built to meet new demands for value and efficiency. Such as the built-in value that comes with a host of standard features. And the lasting value of high-quality manufacture.

The batteries are maintenance-free, never need servicing. The clutch and brakes are self-adjusting. And the sealed wheel bearings are lubricated for life.

Oil and filter changes and chassis lubrication are recommended every

General Motors is so confident of the quality of their front-wheel-drive families of mid-size, compact and subcompact cars that, for a limited time, the GM Continuous Protection Plan option is being offered at no extra cost.

For three years or 60,000 kilometres (36,000 miles), you're protected against major electrical and mechanical repair costs, subject to a $25.00 deductible fee except when covered by the GM New Vehicle Limited Warranty.

The Plan includes a car rental allowance if your car is tied up for repairs, plus an allowance for towing or road service. You're covered wherever you drive in North America at over 7,000 GM dealers.

For full details, see your dealer for Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick or Cadillac. Offer expires July 30th, 1982 inclusive.

12 months or 10,000 kilometres. While tune-ups, including spark plug and air filter replacements, are recommended every 48,000 kilometres.

Besides the standard new car warranty, a warranty covers any defects in the powertrain for two years or 40,000 kilometres, whichever occurs first.

With the right choice

General Motors is the only car company in the world offering so many ways to go front wheel drive, including over 70 mid-size, compact and subcompact models.

All-new mid-size cars. Chevrolet Celebrity, Pontiac 6000, Oldsmobile Cutlass Ciera and Buick Century introduce a new generation of mid-size automobiles. They offer five passenger comfort and luxury that make them logical family cars.

They are all available as aerodynamic 2-door coupes and 4-door sedans with standard 2.5 litre four-cylinder engine, automatic transmission, power steering and power brakes. All make available a gasoline V6 and Pontiac, Olds and Buick also offer a diesel V6. Mileage estimates with standard equipment are 36 MPG or 7.9 L/100 km, combined*.

The compacts. Our front-wheel-drive compacts are proven performers. A 2.5 litre four is standard, with a 2.8 litre V6 available. Standard transmission is a four-speed manual with overdrive and automatic can be ordered. Seating capacity is for five.

Chevy Citation offers 2- and 5-door hatchbacks and a 2-door coupe; Pontiac Phoenix, 5-door hatchbacks and 2-door coupes.

Olds Omega and Buick Skylark come in 2-door coupes and 4-door sedans with power steering and power brakes standard.

Fuel economy for all compacts with standard equipment is estimated at 40 MPG or 7.0 L/100 km, combined*.

And our subcompacts. They are among GM's best-built, best-equipped cars. Standard powertrain is a 1.8 litre four and manual four-speed transmission with overdrive. Automatic is available. All models seat five.

Chevy Cavalier and Pontiac J2000 offer 2-door coupes, 4-door sedans, 3-door hatchbacks and 4-door station wagons. Fuel consumption with standard powertrain is rated at 40 MPG or 7.1 L/100 km, combined*.

Oldsmobile Firenza and Buick Skyhawk are luxury small cars, our newest front wheelers. Olds offers 4-door sedans and 3-door hatchbacks; Buick, 2-door coupes and 4-door sedans. Economy ratings with standard powertrain are 39 MPG or 7.2 L/100 km, combined*.

Cadillac Cimarron 4-door sedan is a new kind of Cadillac for a new kind of Cadillac owner. Estimated fuel economy with standard equipment is 38 MPG or 7.4 L/100 km, combined*.

Right now:

Remember, the special no-charge repair protection offer applies only to those eligible vehicles purchased and delivered to the ultimate customer from May 11 through July 30th, 1982 inclusive. See your dealer for full details. Today's car shopper can be a pretty tough customer and General Motors got the message. Buying or leasing, visit your dealer now for Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick or Cadillac.

Some of the equipment shown or mentioned is available at extra cost.

A world of change for your changing world.

*Remember, these estimates are based on Transport Canada approved test methods. These fuel consumption/ economy figures are estimates which may be subject to variation. The actual results you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition and optional equipment.

St. Louis Cardinals: Is relief ace Bruce Sutter all forked out?

ST. LOUIS (AP) — What's happened to relief pitcher Bruce Sutter, for a half-dozen baseball seasons ranked as the scourge of the National League's toughest hitters?

Probably nothing that couldn't be cured by better location with his pitches. But until it happens, the fork-baller and St. Louis Cardinals will likely suffer.

"As Bruce Sutter goes, so goes our club," manager Whitey Herzog said before the start of an 11-game home stand last week.

Herzog's words were prophetic. Against Montreal Expos, the right-hander saved one contest and won a

High pressure knocks Keith Gary out of Mtl. lineup

MONTREAL (CP) — Defensive end Keith Gary of Montreal Concordes has been released from hospital and has been ordered to rest while taking medication to control high blood pressure, a spokesman for the Canadian Football League club said today.

Gary, a second-year pro from the University of Oklahoma, was admitted to hospital for tests Friday after it was determined he was also suffering from second.

Afterward, the bottom dropped out. New York Mets bombed him twice, leaving his record 5-5 and his earned-run average 4.96.

"They're hitting his good one," catcher Darrell Porter said in heart murmurs, a condition that existed when he reported to training camp last season.

The spokesman said, however, that there had been no recurrence of the heart irregularities. He said that Gary, 22, the first-round selection of Pittsburgh Steelers in the 1981 National Football League draft, will remain on the sidelines until he is able to pass a complete medical examination.

describing Sutter's woes with his specialty pitch.

"The thing about Sutter is this: He's been throwing that forkball (split-fingered fastball) for years," said John Stearns of New York. "He's going to have to adjust."

"He's got an 85-mile-an-hour fastball. He's going to have to use it."

Sutter, who averaged 31 saves a year between 1977 and 1980, appeared until this month to be ready to exceed that pace.

STREAK INTACT
He registered save No. 14 on May 28 in the Cards' 46th game. Two nights later, he won his third game. Since then, he has won once and lost four times in eight appearances. He has one more save and has permitted 18 hits and 12 runs in his last 12 1-3 innings.

Hub Kittle, a St. Louis coach, identifies Sutter as a touch pitcher whose success hinges heavily on pinpoint control.

"He sometimes gets it in the dirt," said Kittle of Sutter's dipping pitches. "Then he gets in trouble by bringing it up a little too much."

Against Montreal, at the start of a three-game series, Sutter used both his split-fingered fastball and regular fastballs to keep the Expos off balance.

Tough luck subsequently plagued the hurler against the Mets. But he also was hit hard. Ellis Valentine and Wally Backman both touched him for two-run singles. On Sunday, in a 5-4 Cards' defeat, the hit that did him in was a two-run triple by Stearns.

"Relief pitchers . . . get in slumps just like hitters," said Sutter. "There's a pretty fine line of difference between the ball being up a little bit too much.

"I like to pitch at the knees. When a hitter gets in a good groove, he makes good contact. When my pitching gets in a groove, I don't have to worry about how I throw."

While Sutter struggles, Herzog must decide what to do about St. Louis' late relief.

Herzog could juggle his bullpen, inserting Doug Bair at Sutter's spot. In 27 appearances covering 37 1-3 innings, Bair has yielded seven runs. He has finished a dozen games, while Sutter has finished 25.

Part of what detracts from Sutter's save total of 15 are performances by him in the past which bordered on the sensational.

His 37 saves in 1979 tied the league record and earned him a Cy Young Award. He was the league's winning pitcher in 1978 and 1979 all-star games and had saves in the 1980 and 1981 summer classics. His lifetime ERA at the start of the year was 2.43.

Eder sparkles in Brazilian wins

SEVILLE, Spain (AP) — The Brazilian soccer team has been celebrating "La Fiesta en Sevilla" and Eder has been the man who puts the fizz in the champagne.

The 25-year-old World Cup rookie, who wasn't sure he would start in the star-studded lineup until last month, has scored two of six goals for Brazil in the tournament.

"He is perhaps the most important player on our team," Brazilian manager Tele Santana said Sunday.

Eder's goals were a mix of power and finesse. He scored the winner in Brazil's 2-1 victory over the Soviet Union with a tremendous left-footed drive three minutes from time.

Cool and collected against Scotland, he lobbed a soft shot to the net over the goalkeeper in the 4-1 victory for Brazil.

"I'm not surprised with the way I'm playing," Eder said. "I had confidence in myself and I have been rewarded."

Eder, whose full name is Eder Aleixo Assis, believes Brazil has a good chance to win its fourth World Cup.

"I think we can play even better," he said. "Yes, I think we can win the championship."

"We're like a big family. Teamwork is the most important thing for us."

Eder prefers the left wing, but it doesn't mean he only operates on the flanks. He moves around a lot and fired the game-winner against the Russians from centre field, near the penalty area.

"I like to rotate," Eder said. "That's what Santana has been telling me to do."

"But I'm used to it from my club team, Atletico Mineiro."

George Allen to coach USFL team

CHICAGO (AP) — George Allen, a fixture in National Football League coaching ranks for two decades, signed Monday as coach and part-owner of the Chicago franchise in the new United States Football League and vowed his team would be competitive with the NFL within three years.

Appearing at a news conference with league founder David Dixon of New Orleans, Allen said he will have a substantial financial interest in the team along with co-owners Bill Harris, a real estate developer from Irvine, Calif., and Dr. Ted Diethrich, a Phoenix, Ariz., surgeon.

Both Allen and Harris were thwarted earlier this year in their attempts to gain control of the financially plagued Montreal Alouettes. Allen became disenchanted with the Montreal situation when people to whom owner Nelson Skalbania was indebted laid claim to the Canadian Football League team.

Skalbania withdrew the franchise and the CFL awarded a new team, the Concordes, to the city.

Evelyn and Elden Judd were in Sheldon, Vt. on Sunday, June 13, to attend the christening of their great-niece, Karleen Ruth, infant daughter of Evelyn's niece, Patty and her husband Robert Pat-terson. The Judds were at the Roy Judds for dinner.

On Sunday, June 6, Mrs. Roy Judd and her sister Mrs. Pauline Twillinger and her brother Lee Miller were dinner guests of the Judds.

Mr. Sidney Judd was taken to the Brome Missisquoi Hospital by ambulance on Saturday, June 12, after a few days illness at home. Mr. and Mrs. Elden Judd visited him on Saturday evening and again on Sunday and are happy to say that he seems to be improving but will be in the hospital for some time for further ob-servation and treat-ment.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Gordon Davis of Bolton Centre who died on June 9, whose funeral was on Saturday, June 12 with burial in the Bolton Centre Cemetery.

Jacoby's bridge

When to false-card

Table with 4 columns: NORTH, EAST, SOUTH, WEST. Contains card symbols and numbers for a bridge hand.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Some 50 years ago the late Albert Morehead invented the term "obligatory false-card" to cover those situations in which a defender would have to false-card to give his side a chance to take a trick that otherwise would surely be lost.

Today's hand is a simple example of this play. South arrives at a normal but rather doubtful four-spade contract. Three no-trump would have been better.

The defense starts with three diamond tricks and shifts to a heart. Declarer has lost three tricks and needs considerable luck in the trump suit to avoid the loss of a trick there.

The way the cards lie, South is going to make his contract. He will lead a trump toward dummy and finesse the jack. The finesse will work and the play of the ace will drop West's king.

Easy as pie, but look at the obligatory false-card. East should drop the 10 or nine under dummy's jack. Now South will have a problem. Suppose East held 10-9 doubleton and West still held K-4. The winning play would be for South to return to his hand and lead his queen of spades. This would bump the king and 10 or nine together and bring in the suit.

Without the false-card South would have been a sure winner. With the false-card he might well go wrong.

This coming year you could experience sudden swings in situations which affect you materially. When opportunity beckons, don't waste time dawdling.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have the potential today to add to your resources and shore up your material security, but there's a possibility you may not fully utilize it. Predictions of what's in store for you for each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your judgment may not be on-target in your early encounters today. Fortunately, you'll learn from your mistakes and quickly rectify your errors.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you are looking to sell something today, don't inflate its worth. Let your merchandise or proposition stand on its own merits.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) How well you will manage your resources today will depend a great deal upon the company you keep. If your pals are extravagant, you might be also.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This could be just a so-so day for you, unless you're faced with challenges. When obstacles arise, so does your ingenuity to tear them down.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Go on your own fact-finding mission today rather than lend credence to hearsay information passed on to you. What you uncover could vary from what you've heard.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Some time and opportunity may be lost today due to your focusing on the wrong goals. After you realign your objectives, you'll do fine.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be wary of making snap judgments today. Your initial evaluations might be erroneous. You won't be deceived if you carefully study matters.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You are capable of substantial achievements today, but you must first take the time to blueprint what you hope to accomplish. Plan before pushing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things should go rather smoothly today in ventures requiring imagination and resourcefulness. Yet, you may still overlook an opportunity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Listen to the counsel from your mate today, but don't ignore your own judgment in matters which relate to family finances.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The busier you are today the better you're likely to operate, so get an early start. However, be sure your agenda also includes time for
