DEPUTY SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE WAS CHOSEN

First Reading Given Bill Respecting Department Of National Defence

ESTIMATES TABLED Member From Winnipeg Centre Introduced Bill Amending Immigration Act

Ottawa, March 24—Three quarters of an hour sufficed to complete the business of the House of Commons today. At 3 o'clock members assembled as usual, and at a quarter to four the bell which announces that the House has risen, was ringing through the corridors. In the interim, the Minister of Finance had tabled the estimates for the next fiscal year; first reading had been given to a bill providing for the amalgamation of the Departments of the Naval Services and Militia and Defence, the Air Board and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police into the Department of National Defence. Announcement had been made that the Government would bring down an interim supply bill on Monday for one-fourth of the total estimates and numerous questions had been answered.

When Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, announced that he would ask the House to consider interim supply, Sir Henry Drayton, former Minister of Finance, in the Meighen Government, protested. Last year he said, Liberal members had called it a great moral wrong to vote money in this way. Mr. Fielding replied that he could show that his attitude was not inconsistent.

On the motion of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister, G. N. Gordon, Liberal Member for West Peterborough, was chosen Deputy Speaker of the House.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, was in his seat when the House met at 3 o'clock. Hon. W. S. Fielding tabled the estimates for the next fiscal year and announced at the next sitting of the House he would make the customary motion that the House resolve itself into committee of supply.

First reading was given to a bill respecting the Department of National Defence, Hon. Geo. Graham Minister of Militia and Defence, explained that the object of the bill was to bring into one department the Naval Service, the Air Service, the Department of Militia and Defence and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

He promised a more extended explanation when the bill came up for second reading. First reading was also given to an act to amend the Salaries Act and the Senate and House of Commons Act.

Mr. Graham explained that this bill was necessitated by the previous one. It provided for paying the staffs of these departments while the transfer was being made.

James S. Woodsworth, (Labor, Winnipeg Centre) introduced a bill to amend the Immigration Act.

Mr. Woodsworth's amendment is framed to repeal the sections under which other than British born can be deported from Canada without trial. Mr. Woodsworth also introduced a bill to amend the sections of the Criminal Code dealing with the same subject.

After the balance of notices of motions had been allowed to stand, half a dozen private bills on the order paper were referred to the various committees.

Hon. W. S. Fielding announced that on Monday he would ask for an appropriation of one-fourth of the whole estimates, such being the service until the estimates could be voted.

Sir Henry Drayton, ex-Minister of Finance, thought that as the estimates had taken so long to prepare, Monday was too short a time to allow of their being examined.

Last year the then Opposition Members had called it a great moral wrong to allow of the money being voted in this way and intimated that another year, such a course would not be assented to.

"Perhaps my Honorable friend will be able to show us that the attitude taken by the opposition was entirely in error and ours was not an improper precedent," he said.

Hon. W. S. Fielding said he could show that his attitude this year was not an inconsistent one. The only reason for asking the partial vote now was to carry on the public service.

Sir Henry Drayton—"The same condition obtained last year."

As the question was about to be put, Arthur Meighen rose to suggest that as there was no other business on the order paper the House go back to the reply to the speech from the Throne in order to give Minister of Railways an opportunity to make his promised speech.

The Prime Minister—"The Minister will make his speech at the appropriate time."

In answer to further questions by Mr. Meighen the Prime Minister said the House would take up estimates on Monday and if there was time, Government measures, it being understood that any estimate objected to would be held for further consideration.

The House adjourned till Monday at 3 p.m.

In the Senate today, Hon. Mr. Proudfoot enquired of the Government complete information regard-

THE ENQUIRY ON FREIGHT RATES

For Maritime Provinces Is Opened Before The Railway Commission

Ottawa, Ont., March 24—The case of the Maritime Provinces in the enquiry into the equalization of freight rates was opened before the Railway Commission by I. C. Rand, of New Brunswick. Before the hearing opened it was decided to have Mr. Rand put the case for all the Maritimes, and H. E. Finn, attorney-general for Nova Scotia, was anxious to get away. However, the right was extended to Mr. Finn to appear next week on the reply to the case of the railways. It is expected that the hearing will last all next week.

Mr. Rand reviewed the history of the rates and the basis of the rates to and from the Maritime Provinces to and from points west of Montreal. The original basis was voluntarily established in 1876 not as a government concession but to provide business for the Intercolonial as against water competition from Portland and Boston. The basis established in 1876 was continued for 40 years and the greatest injustice, he said, done to the Maritimes was the changing the original basis of the rates. He said the Maritimes rested in the shadow of Montreal. There has constant relation between those two points and traffic has been governed by an arbitrary rates. One reason for the establishment of the Atlantic sugar refinery in St. John was the existing rates, which was the deciding factor.

"Either lower our differential in part or raise Montreal in part; lower ours as a whole or raise Montreal as a whole, we are not concerned. What we contend, said Mr. Rand, is the relationship which existed for 40 years should be maintained. My practical argument is that the differential is an established economic factor in business. It has existed for 40 years and has become constant. Business have been established because of it."

Mr. Rand continuing said, "The trade of the Maritimes is bounded on the West by a tariff wall and on the East of a Railway wall."

THE INCORPORATION OF COMPANIES INCREASE
Toronto, Ont., March 24—Authorized capital of $17,018,500 is represented by companies whose incorporations were reported the Monetary Times during the week ended March 18th, compared with $12,461,500 the previous week.

PRODUCTION OF B.C. COPPER HELD WELL

Decline Of 18 Percent As Compared With 40 Percent Output In States

SUBMIT GRIEVANCES TO THE VICE-ROY

These Are Over Their Treatment By Those In Authority

Victoria, March 24—British Columbia's copper production in 1921 showed a decline of 18 percent, but when this fact is considered side by side with the failure of the United States copper mines to produce more than 40 percent of the 1920 total, the showing of the Pacific Coast province is not so disappointing after all.

In fact, the situation is given a decidedly favorable light when it is noted that in the northwestern mineral survey district, which includes the Hidden Creek mines and the Anyox smelting plant, copper production stood at 9,000,000 pounds last year, or an increase of 33 percent. In these days of world-wide copper depression, a gain like that is distinctly out of the ordinary.

Weekly shipments to the Trail smelter have reached 9,000 tons, which is the highest point reached in some months. The smelter management has announced a return to the cash basis of settlement, which have been standing idle for some time will probably be opened up in the near future.

London, March 24—Reuter's Delhi correspondent cables that the grievances of the Indians in South Africa over their treatment by those in authority, were submitted to the Viceroy, the Earl of Reading, yesterday by a deputation comprised of members of the Legislature. They gave assurance that the Indians were willing to be educated and to raise the standard of life, but claimed equal freedom with the South Africans as one of the fundamental rights of humanity for which the Empire stood.

BROKEN CHAIR IN SMALL CASE

Half Brother Cannot Throw Any Light On The Matter Involved

Toronto, March 24—Dr. Connelly, of the Capital Trust Company who arrived in Toronto from Ottawa this morning, confirmed the story of the broken swivel chair in the private office of Ambrose Small, the missing theatrical millionaire.

Dr. Connelly explained that he had no knowledge of who had used the office before the trust company used it as their temporary office, nor could he throw any light on the mishap to the chair. He had not been concerned in such details. They had taken over the office in May, 1920.

Mr. James Cowan, manager of the Grand Opera House, stated that following Mr. Small's disappearance no one had used his private office until the Trust Company moved in. It had been closed by the police when they first visited the theatre. He remembered that one of the telephones had a defective mouth-piece.

Prey Small, of the Grand Opera House, half brother of Ambrose Small, could not throw any light on how the chair was broken.

Mr. Small pointed out that had a struggle taken place in the private office it would have been the easiest thing in the world to have taken the victim down the rear stairs, which descend from that office.

MENNONITES TO GET LAND SOON

Will Settle In Paraguay Is Report—Winnipeg Knows Nothing Of Plan

Assunition, Paraguay, March 24—Despite reports from the United States to the effect that the Mennonites had abandoned their colonization project in Paraguay, the newspaper, La Tribuna says it learns from a reliable source that representatives of the sect recently concluded an important transaction with the object of emigrating here.

The Paraguayan congress last summer approved a bill granting concessions of 5,000 square miles of land for Mennonite colonization in Paraguayan Chaco. The bill granted them immunity from Military service and full religious liberty. Delegates told President Gondra that from 4,000 to 5,000 Mennonites were preparing to emigrate to Paraguay from the United States, Canada and Russia.

Trouble With Mexico
Winnipeg, March 24—No information could be obtained here today of any proposed emigration of western Canada's Mennonites to Paraguay. While expressing no surprise at any move of the kind, local railway officials who handled the movement of the sect to Mexico said that the Mennonites are already having difficulties with the Mexican government and that further exodus to that country has been held up for the time being. The Mexican government is said, is insisting on the Mennonites becoming Mexican citizens before title to their land is granted.

RUM RUNNER IS RELEASED

British Schooner Captured Outside Three Mile Limit Month Ago

Boston, Mass., March 24—The British schooner Grace and Ruby, which was captured outside the three mile limit a month ago, as a rum runner after a shot had been fired across her bow, was today released to her owners under bonds of $30,000 by Judge Morton in the Federal Court. It was stipulated in the release that the liquor cargo, valued at $50,000, should be taken out of United States water "forthwith."

The schooner itself will be returned to its owner, Walter D. Sweeney of Yarmouth, N.B., and the cargo was turned back to the owners, the Bahamian Importers, Limited, Nassau, B.W.I., and M. J. Sullivan of St. John's. Sweeney furnished $10,000 bond and Sullivan and the Nassau firm supplied a bond of $20,000.

lofty building, with the far off reverberations of war thrilling it now and then, was a great solace to the soul.

Bad News Comes.

A smaller chapel in the monastery, with a well-appointed altar was allotted by the monks to the chaplain for his services. While I was at Mont des Cats we heard of the death of Lord Kitchener. The news came to the Army with the force of a stunning blow; but, thank God, the British character is hardened and strengthened by adversity, and while we all felt his loss keenly and looked forward to the future with anxiety, the determination to go on to victory was made stronger by the catastrophe.

Life at this time was very pleasant, except for the fact that we never knew what might happen when we were in the Salient. We all ways felt that it was a death-trap, and that the Germans would never give up trying to capture Ypres. The 23rd of April is St. George's Day. It is also the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth and of his death, and also of the 2nd battle of Ypres. The day was a glorious one. The air was sweet and fresh, the grass was the brightest green, hedge-rows and trees were in leaf, and everybody was in high spirits. After services in St. George's Church at Hoegaert I rode over to Poperinghe and attended a memorial service which the 1st Brigade were holding in the Cinema. General Mercer, who himself was killed not long afterwards, was one of the speakers. The building was crowded with men, and the service was very solemn.

On the present occasion, therefore, the side-car was sent to me, and I made my way to Wippenhoek and from thence up to the dressing station at Poperinghe. Here our wounded were pouring in, and again Canada was reddening the soil of the Salient with her best blood. It was indeed an anxious time. That evening, however, a telegram was received by the O.C. of the Ambulance saying that the British fleet had sunk twenty or thirty German vessels, and implying that what we had thought was a naval reverse, was really a magnificent naval victory. I do not know who sent the telegram, or on what foundation the fact it was based. I think that somebody in authority considered it would be well to cheer up our men with a piece of good news. At any rate, it was a relief, and the dressing station believed in it, and I determined to carry a copy of the telegram to the men in the line. I started off on one of the ambulances for Railway Dugouts. Those ambulance journeys through the town of Ypres after midnight were things to be remembered. The desolate ruins of the city stood up black and grim. The road was crowded with men, lorries, ambulances, transports and motor-cycles. Every now and then the scene of desolation would be lit up by gun flashes. Occasionally the crash of a shell would shake the already sorely stricken city. I never cease to admire the pluck of those ambulance drivers, who night after night back and forth, threaded their way in the darkness through the ghost-haunted streets. One night when the enemy's guns were particularly active, I was being driven by a young boy only eighteen years of age, sitting beside him on the front seat, I told him how much I admired his nerve and coolness. He turned to me quite simply and said that he was not afraid. He just put himself in God's hands and didn't worry. I knew he meant it, and when he came afterwards to Headquarters, I told him how much I admired his pluck, and how I would like to see him in the front line. He said that he would like to see me in the front line, but that he was not sure he would be able to do so. I told him that I would like to see him in the front line, but that I was not sure I would be able to do so.

CHAPTER V.

Back in the Salient—The Attack on Mount Sorrel, Summer, 1916.

Easter Day, 1916, fell on the 23rd of April, and a great many interesting facts were connected with it. The 23rd of April is St. George's Day. It is also the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth and of his death, and also of the 2nd battle of Ypres. The day was a glorious one. Crippled with Rheumatic Gout. "Legs and feet so bad could not stand." Our portrait is of Mrs. JESSIE E. MURPHY, 26, White's Square, Halifax, N.S., England, who writes: "I am for four months crippled with Rheumatic Gout and my legs and feet were so bad I could not stand. My doctor ordered me to bed in blankets and there I stayed for a whole fortnight, but did not get any better. At last I decided to try your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and after taking four bottles I am now quite well, able to do my work, and get about again. It is now four weeks since I left my bed, and I am feeling much better. I have no more signs of Rheumatism since my wonderful recovery. My friends gave up hope of seeing me again, and I myself can hardly realize that I am a sufferer from the same complaint. Now taking it and already feel better. I will try to recommend Clarke's Blood Mixture to my friends, and to show you my thanks for my recovery. I have given my permission to make whatever use you please with this letter. "FRUIT-A-TIVES" GAVE IT

Chronic Constipation or insufficient action of the bowels, is one of the great causes of disease. Some authorities even claim that Constipation cannot be permanently corrected. This is a great mistake, because here is the proof that constipation can be cured and the bowels made to act regularly and naturally.

YARMOUTH, N.S. "For years, I was troubled with Constipation, and had to take laxatives and purgatives all the time. If I neglected to take these, the bowels would refuse to do their work."

About two years ago, a friend advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives", which I did. The first box helped me so much that I obtained further supplies of the remedy and continued the treatment. After using about eight boxes, my bowels were able to perform their particular function without aid.

The relief in my case has been lasting, as up to date, I have never had any further trouble. I can recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to all suffering as I did and I am sure they will derive equal benefit."

for the attack, our men had to lie under the cover of broken hedges for twenty-four hours, living only on the iron rations which they carried with them. I went up one morning when one of our battalions had just come out after a hard fight. The men were in a shallow trench, ankle deep in mud and water. As they lost very heavily, the Colonel put me in charge of a burial party. We buried a number of bodies but were stopped at last at the entrance of Armagh Wood, which the Germans were at the time heavily shelling, and we had to postpone the performance of our sad duty till things were quieter.

"Are We Downhearted?" Still, in spite of reverses, the spirits of our men never declined. They were full of rebound, and quickly recovered from their experience, all sorts of pictures, bright and sombre, crowd the mind—the Square at Poperinghe in the evening, the Guards file and drum bands playing tattoo in the old town; the dark odours of Poperinghe in the evening, and the battalions being sent up to the front in railway trucks; the old mill at Vlamartinghe with the reception room for the wounded, and the white tables on the dark streets of Ypres, rank with the poisonous odours of shell gas; the rickety horse-ambulances bearing their living freight over the shell-broken roads to Bedford House and Railway Dugouts; the walking wounded, with bandaged arms and heads, making their way slowly and painfully down the dangerous roads. All these pictures flash before the mind's eye, each with its own appeal, as one looks back upon those awful days. The war was not in sight then. The war we are told, was going to be a war of attrition. It was to be a case of "dogged does it." Under the wheels of the car of the great Juggernaut our men had to throw themselves, till the progress of the car was stayed. How peaceful were the little cemeteries where lay those warriors who had entered into rest. But how stern was the voice from the sleeping dead to carry on undimmed.

The Canadian Corps seemed to have taken root in the Salient, and after the severe fighting had ended, things went on as if we were to have a long residence round Ypres. In looking over the notes in my diary for June and July, I see a great many records of visits to different units. How well one remembers the keen active life which made that region a second Canada. There was a small town of Abele, where our new commander, General Byng, had his house. Not far away up the road, was the grenade school where the troops were instructed in the gentle art of bomb-throwing. We had our divisional rest-camp in a pleasant spot, where our men were sent to recover. The following is a typical Sunday's work at this time:—Celebration of Holy Communion at St. George's Church at eight a.m.; Parade Service for the Division at nine-fifteen a.m.; Parade Service followed by Holy Communion for a battalion at Commaught lines at 11 a.m.; service for the divisional rest-camp at three p.m.; service at the Grenade School at four p.m.; service outside St. George's Church for the divisional train 6:30 p.m.; service for the 3rd Field Ambulance and convalescent camp at eight-forty-five p.m. On week-days too, we had to arrange many services for units which had come out of the line. It was really a life full of activity and interest. It filled one with a thrill of delight to be able to get around among the men in the trenches, where the familiar scenery of Sanctuary Wood Armagh Wood, Maple Copse and the Ravine will always remain impressed upon one's memory. Often when I have returned to my hut at night, I have stood outside in the darkness, looking out on the fields towards the front, and as I saw the German faces going up, I said to myself, "These are the foot-lights of the stage on which the world's greatest drama is being enacted." One seemed to be taking part, however humbly, in the making of human history. But it was a grievous thing to think of the toll of life that the war forced upon us, and the suffering that it involved. The brave patient hearts of those at home were continually in our thoughts, and I always felt that the hardest burden was laid upon them. They had no excitement; they knew not the comradeship and the exaltation of feeling which came to those who were in the thick of things at the front. They had to go on day by day bearing their burden of anxiety, quietly and patiently in faith and courage. To them our men were always ready to give the palm of the victors.

MERCHANTS BANK OFFICIALS HAILED BEFORE THE COURT

Sir Montagu Allan and D. C. Macarow Plead Not Guilty—Charged With Infringement of The Bank Act—The Prosecution Is Directed By The Finance Department

Montreal, Que., March 24.—Sir Hugh Montagu Allan, President and D. C. Macarow, former General Manager of the Merchants Bank of Canada, now amalgamated with the Bank of Montreal, both appeared before Judge Cusson today in his capacity as Magistrate at the Court House, to answer to charges laid against them by the Federal Government for infringement of the Bank Act.

The monthly report of the Merchants Bank for October 1921 is the basis of the action and the prosecution is on a charge by Robert V. Velts describing himself as a "civil servant" in the Department of Finance of Canada, resident at 529 Clarence street, Ottawa, who affirms in the charge that Sir Hugh Montagu Allan was guilty of having "falsely and negligently concurred in the preparation of the October financial statement of the Bank to the Department of Finance."

The charge against Mr. Macarow is for having "falsely and wilfully made a deceptive return to the Government on the Bank's standing." The prosecution is being handled by the Finance Department, presided over by Hon. W. S. Fielding and 163 (a).—The making of any wilfully false or deceptive statement in any account, statement, return, report or other document respecting the affairs of the bank or of the bank or trustee who negligently prepares, signs, approves or concurs in the making of such statement, return, report or document containing any false or deceptive statement shall be guilty of any indictable offence punishable unless a greater punishment is in any case by law prescribed therefore by any enactment for a term not exceeding five years.

(c) Every president, vice-president, director, auditor, general manager or other officer of the bank or trustee who negligently prepares, signs, approves or concurs in the making of such statement, return, report or document containing any false or deceptive statement shall be guilty of any indictable offence punishable unless a greater punishment is in any case by law prescribed therefore by any enactment for a term not exceeding three years.

Enquete was set in both cases for March 31. After consultation between representatives of the Federal Departments of Finance and Justice, Judge Victor Cusson, District Magistrate, this morning issued summonses to Sir Hugh Montagu Allan, President of the defunct Merchants Bank, and D. C. Macarow, general manager of that institution, to appear in the police court to answer charges in connection with the October report made under the Bank Act, on behalf of the Merchants Bank. Both Sir Montagu Allan and Mr. Macarow appeared before Judge Cusson this morning and pleaded not guilty to the charges against them.

Mr. Fielding stated that the Government's intention with regard to the inquiry steps taken by the Department of Finance and Justice in connection with the October report made under the Bank Act was to determine whether the bank's affairs were being conducted in a proper manner and whether the bank's assets were being properly managed.

WHOLE COAL INDUSTRY TO BE AFFECTED

By Strike When 200,000 Non-Union Join Union Workers

A UNANIMOUS VOTE

Workers Hope To Stop Mining Of Even Pound After April 1

Cleveland, Ohio, March 24.—A complete tie-up at the nation's entire coal industry by 200,000 non-union workers joining the solid ranks of a half-million union workers was the program adopted tonight by the General Policy Committee of the United Mine Workers of America for the national strike set for April 1.

By a unanimous vote of its 116 members the committee affirmed the policy of general suspension of union workers which prohibited the consummation of single state agreements and followed this by directing district union officials to ask all non-union men to join the strike.

The unanimity of action late in the day permitted a final adjournment to-night, although the committee had planned to continue sessions to-morrow.

City Council Asks Federal Government To Give Over The Cove Fields

DECIDING ROLL CALL

Amendment Sought So Pact Would Terminate In Ten Years

Washington March 24.—The Four-Power Pacific Treaty, the centre of controversy over accomplishments of the Washington Armaments Conference was ratified by the Senate today with no reservation except the "no-alliance" declaration proposed by the Foreign Relations Committee and accepted by President Harding.

The resolution was unanimously carried on motion of Ald. C. Delagrave, seconded by Ald. P. H. Bedard. Copies of the resolution will be sent to Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and to Sir George Garneau, Chairman of the Battlefields Commission.

The rift in Union forces threatened before the meeting by the expected fight of Frank Farrington, of the Illinois District Union and opponent of International President John L. Lewis, disappeared almost before the opening of the meeting when Mr. Farrington announced that he would not make a contract with Illinois operators without the sanction of the policy committee. Some commitments were made today that miners in parts of West Virginia would not be able to remain on strike longer than three weeks and it was also asserted that the miners in Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama were not prepared for a long strike.

ALD. SUGGESTS CITY REPRISALS

To Force Express Companies To Deliver Goods In The Outlying Wards

That the Quebec City Council should take measures of reprisal against express companies which refuse to deliver goods in certain parts of his ward and asked what could be done to oblige them to give the service.

Mayor Samson said that the Board of Trade and the City Council had already taken steps in this connection but without avail. It was the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners that had full charge, he said.

Ald. Lesage contended that the only way to bring the express companies to time was to take measures of reprisal by imposing a good stiff tax on them. He felt that if this were done the express companies would readily meet the just demands of the rate-payers.

Navigation opens, officially, today, and of course, in a very short time the steamers will be gliding up and down the St. Lawrence, starting their season of activity.

SITUATION NOW VERY GRAVE IN EMERALD ISLE

Premier Craig And Michael Collins Are Called To London

ARMY TEMPER IS RISING

Man And His Four Sons Were Shot To Death In Belfast

London, March 24.—The colonial office announced this evening that owing to the gravity of events in Ireland the government had formally requested Premier Craig and Michael Collins head of the Provisional Government to come to London with any colleagues they might choose, in order that the Government examine with them every aspect of the situation.

The temper of all sections of the Irish Republican Army is rising, says a Dublin despatch to the London Times and there is talk that at the meeting of the standing committee of the Sinn Fein organization called by Eamon de Valera, efforts on a formidable scale to protect the lives and property of Catholics in Belfast will be discussed.

Seven Dead In Belfast. Belfast, March 24.—Seven deaths from violence occurred in Belfast today. The victims were: Owen MacMahon and four of his sons, shot to death in their home. Two other sons were wounded. Joseph Campbell, city official, shot by a sniper. John Murdoch, shot and mortally wounded yesterday, died this afternoon.

NO DECISION ON THE NEAR EAST

Three Solutions Of Dardanelles Question Discussed —Nothing Decided

Paris, March 24.—Questions relating to the Dardanelles and Thrace and financial measures were under consideration by the Near East Conference of the Allied Foreign Ministers at both the morning and afternoon sessions today. It is learned that three solutions of the Dardanelles question were discussed, but no definite decision was taken. The first solution provides for complete internationalization of the straits, the second for Turkish possession under Allied control and the third for retention of Scutari by the Turks with the Allies holding the Constantinople side.

A storm of criticism of the attitude of the French delegates to the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armaments and of Far Eastern affairs and of the treatment they received at the Conference, broke loose in the Chamber of Deputies this evening. Aristide Briand, former Premier, who at first headed the delegation was accused of proposing to Charles E. Hughes, the American Secretary of State, a Franco-American Naval Alliance against Great Britain and the United States.

The debate will be resumed Monday when M. Briand will more fully state his case and a tumultuous session is expected.

At a Unionist meeting here last evening, Lady Craig, wife of the Premier, announced that she had received a letter from a friend in London stating that in Greater London there were already 15,000 men waiting to take up arms in defence of Ulster.

MINERS WANT 8 HOUR DAY

Bill Amending Coal Mines Regulation Act Has Been Introduced

Halifax, N.S., March 24.—Cancellation of the coal leases in Nova Scotia of the British Empire Steel Corporation and Government operation of the mines unless the corporation agrees to pay its employees "wages which will ensure a decent standard of living," is sought by Forman Way, Labor member for Cape Breton, in a resolution which Mr. Way has given notice he will introduce in the Provincial House of Assembly.

D. W. Morrison, another Cape Breton Labor member, introduced a bill yesterday, amending the coal mines regulation act and which would give an 8-hour day in the Nova Scotia mines similar to that in force in British Columbia.

DOWN TO LEVEL OF SCHOOL DEBATING CLUB

Premier Norris Registered Protest Against Filibustering Tactics

Winnipeg, March 24.—Protesting against the House "getting down to the level of a school debating club," Premier Norris registered a protest in the Manitoba Legislature against the filibustering tactics adopted by George Armstrong and John Queen, Labor members, who tried to block progress with the estimates. Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Queen moved dollar by dollar reductions in the estimates in order to have further consideration should be given the former's bill for Sunday trains to beach resorts.

The two labor men were outmanoeuvred, however, Dr. S. Thornton, Minister of Education, leading the Government group in a counter move, which took the form of moving an amendment as soon as a motion for reduction was made. In this way, various items on which a block was started, were put through, though at the expense of a dollar reduction, which was the effect of the amendment in each case. The estimates were ultimately all put through.

SAVE THE BOTTLES

Recently an Englishman on his way from Germany to Switzerland purchased a bottle of wine for 500 crowns in the Austrian Tyrol. After drinking the wine he kept the bottle, and when he passed the Swiss frontier sold it for 50 centimes. A Swiss centime piece is worth 700 Austrian crowns, so that the Englishman not only had his wine without cost, but gained 200 crowns.

RAMPANT SECTIONALISM

The debate upon the Address at Ottawa has finally reached its conclusion, but not a moment too soon for the Montreal Star was getting impatient at the protraction of this preliminary skirmish which delayed what is, for it at any rate, the main battle over the Canadian National Railways. The Montreal paper takes a fling at the re-basing of campaign literature and sneers: "A real debate on the average Speech from the Throne could be finished the same day. But who dare put a time-limit to the ability of two hundred odd Parliamentarians to listen to themselves telling all they think about past politics and future policies, especially when each believes a thing, however hackneyed, has not been said at all until he himself says it?"

One can quite understand that continued reference to the late campaign should irritate the Star for there are incidents in it that we will not say it would be glad to forget, but that it would be glad to have others forget as quickly as possible. No doubt also some of the matter introduced into this debate is irrelevant and some of the periods of the speakers might be pruned with advantage. But on the whole the traditional preliminary serves a useful purpose: new Members and back-benchers are given an opportunity to take part in discussion that does not always recur during the session and an instructive light is shed over the whole field of current Canadian politics.

The opinion may be tinged with partiality, but it is honest nevertheless that a judicial study of Hansard will show that the honors of the debate rest with the Opposition. Certainly such a study will reveal the unstable situation of the Government but perhaps the most vital fact that fairly leaps from the pages of this verbatim record, is the almost complete lack of a sense of national responsibility, individually and collectively, on the part of the members of the national assembly of this Dominion.

Such a situation is the inevitable result of the character of the recent general elections. In the various constituencies candidates were nominated under one party standard or another but in almost every case they fought and were elected, not upon party but upon local platforms. The elected candidates are not at Ottawa as the representatives of their constituents with a mandate to legislate in the interests of Canada first and their localities second but to observe a reverse sequence of interests.

The Members, on an average, can be divided into two classes: those who are consciously bent upon imposing the wills of their localities upon the House, and those who have succeeded in deluding themselves that their local interest is also the national interest. Of the two, the latter class is the more commendable but the more dangerous. Thus it was possible to anticipate the views of those who took part in the opening debate with almost perfect accuracy. It was known that Members from the Maritime Provinces, whether of one party or another, were likely to demand the segregation of the Intercolonial Railway from the National system and the return of its headquarters to Moncton. It was known that Members from Montreal, although Liberal, would advocate the return of the railways to private ownership and the maintenance of a tariff that would do no injury to established industries, but would oppose the deep water-ways project. It was known that Members from Ontario would champion the last-named cause together with the principles of protection and public ownership. It was known that Prairie Members would insist upon freer trade and the return of Western natural resources; just as those from British Columbia would dwell upon the Asiatic menace.

The foregoing is a list of only a few typical sectional demands which could be extended to a considerably greater length. There are even wheels within wheels. Montreal wants the Georgian Bay Canal completed, Quebec is against it; Quebec wants the Transcontinental operated as a grain road, Montreal urges that nothing of the sort should be done. Only in one or two isolated instances during the debate was suggestion made that the interest of the Dominion as a whole is paramount.

The truth is that the group system has arrived in Canada and appears unlikely to stop at the stage that it has already reached. We may be prepared, not so many years hence, for a Maritime group, a Montreal group, a Quebec group, a Toronto group, a Farmer group and a Pacific group, all agitating tooth and nail to advance their respective demands. This is nothing else than the Soviet system, although in Russian it has been carried to its logical extreme, village being independent of village and co-operating only in the loosest manner.

The new plan will be thoroughly tried out during the present Parliament and with the next general election Canada will stand at the parting of the ways. The people will then be called upon to decide whether the structure of Confederation shall stand or whether the national house will be divided against itself. Would that the decision could be predicted with the same assurance as the alternatives but, for the moment, our chief hope is that the folly of the experiment will make itself abundantly and speedily evident to all.

GERMANY TODAY

There have been many conflicting accounts of social and economic conditions obtaining in Germany at the present time. At one moment we hear that the factories are humming with activity and the land dripping with fatness, that the poor mouth pulled by German diplomats is merely camouflage to evade reparations payments. At another moment we are told that depression has reached such a pitch as to threaten established Government. The truth, so far as it is ascertainable, seems to be that certain rich capitalists and financiers are prospering extremely and that work is indeed plentiful but the conditions of living extremely adverse.

First hand evidence in such matters is the most reliable and this is to be found in an address delivered not long ago before the Canadian Club of Ottawa by Mr. Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Council, who described something of what he had seen in Germany a few months previously.

Owing to the greatly reduced value of the mark, the present wage of the working man will purchase but little of even necessities. The cost of living is still some twenty times greater than it was in 1914, and while wages have gone up to meet this in some measure, their advance has not been at all proportionate. In their so called coffee, which is really a substitute and a poor one at that, no sugar is used at all. As they have been without sugar since 1915 they are somewhat resigned to that, but not milk either is to be had for use in this "coffee".

The workman's lunch consists, on the average, of a couple of slices of very coarse bread, sometimes supported with a small piece of sausage or cheese, and the "coffee" above referred to. His evening meal is little better, with a substitution of beer for coffee, and of his breakfast Mr. Moore failed to speak. Clothing is almost equally short and inferior. Cottons and woollens are scarce to the last degree and so high in price as to be beyond the reach of most. Early in the war all sheets and table-cloths were commandeered, and the shortage has never been made good.

It takes the pay of an artisan for a day to buy one pound of butter, three days pay to get a poor pair of boots, and some ten days pay to buy a shoddy suit of clothes.

This is certainly a state of misery which justifies us in feeling sympathy for these unfortunates, even though they may be said to have 'brought it on themselves,' but the question for us is how does this affect the rest of the world.

It amounts to this, that sixty millions of people have practically lost the power to purchase what other millions wish to sell. Brazil is full of coffee which Germans would love to drink,—they cannot buy it.

Cotton growing countries have millions of bales to sell which the Germans long for but cannot buy. Wool producing countries groan over the low price of wool, occasioned by Germany's inability to buy, and so creating what is known as an over supply.

But it does not end there, Germany is producing goods on slave wages, and so is enabled to sell at a price so low as to force other nations out of the competition, thus creating wide-spread unemployment in them.

What is the remedy? It is known that until Germany and Russia recover a normal purchasing power the whole world will be upset, but no one as yet has found a means by which these two great masses of humanity can again be re-established.

REV. E. J. STOBO

The numerous friends of a well known and respected Quebec family are condoling with its members upon the death of Rev. E. J. Stobo, which occurred at Toronto a day or so ago. This gentleman had been much absent from the Ancient Capital and was not as intimately acquainted here for that reason, as he would otherwise have been. At the same time his reputation as a teacher and preacher has not been unknown and has been a source of pride to many of his fellow-citizens. His health was able to cut short the active ministry of Mr. Stobo in a formal sense but it was not able to stay his hand. Instead of the restricted audience of a church congregation, he took for himself the wider circle of the readers of a great newspaper and thus his message went from one end of the Dominion to the other.

A well deserved tribute to his memory is paid by the paper whose prestige had been augmented by the contributions of his tireless pen, in the following terms:

"The death of Rev. E. J. Stobo is a loss to The Mail and Empire, and that very large circle of its readers who enjoyed his religious article that appeared in each Friday issue. Despite fast fading physical health, Mr. Stobo had something of Robert Louis Stevenson's spirit that refused to let weakness triumph. Only last Friday, his regular article appeared, entitled 'Men of Good Report.'"

"There was a peculiar homeliness, a personal touch about Mr. Stobo's articles. They were illustrated with a wealth of personal incident or stories, and taught the great religious and moral truths in a quiet, unassuming way. Mr. Stobo was one of the believers in the indirect appeal. In his long career as a minister, and writer for religious publications, and as a toiler in the Christian vineyard, he did not preach at his fellows, but rather sought to rouse their consciences, their perceptions of good, and stimulate their higher natures. Sympathy and understanding brought him close to his hearers or readers, and made them feel that in him was not an exhorter, but a quiet helper over the stony places of life."

A Verse Or Two

(By Modern Poets)

"SCOTS WHA HAE"

"Stocks of oatmeal are accumulating in Scotland with extraordinary rapidity, because the artisan classes are giving up eating porridge. This is a direct outcome of a later beginning of the day's work. When men began work at 6 o'clock they returned home to eat porridge for breakfast. Now that work begins at 8 o'clock they have breakfast before leaving home, and their wives, hurrying to prepare the meal, have no time to cook porridge. Slops are substituted—tea or coffee, with chops, eggs and bacon, or other inferiorities."

Scots, wha hae on parritch fed,
Scots, whamither nations dread,
Is it true wha's being said?
Na; it canna be!

A chiel among ye takin' notes
Says that Scotland's tired o' oats,
Frae Galashiels to John o' Groat's;
Show him it's a lee!

Dimma say the thing is true,
Brether Scots, 'twill never do,
England soon wad hae for you
Scorn and contumely!

Wha will be a survy home?
Wha will let their Scotland doom?
Wha'll gie up his parritch-spoon?

Daylight Saving

Quebec City, March 23rd, 1922
To The Editor of the Quebec Chronicle.

Dear Mr. Editor:—
The question of Daylight Saving appears to be the cause of considerable discussion, and argument, there have been some very good arguments advanced by different people, on both sides of the question, but the theories and arguments of "A Hater of Daylight Saving" whose letter appeared in Wednesday's issue of the Chronicle, are simply ludicrous. This person evidently prefers an hour more sleep in the morning than an hour more recreation in the sunshine after supper. If this person would look around some fine summer's evening and see the jolly groups of children and little tots playing in the fields and in front of their homes, having the time of their young lives, until long after 8.00 p. m. which would be impossible for many, if there was no daylight saving, as it would be too dark for many of them to be out without their parents, I am sure that "The Hater of Daylight Saving" would change his opinion.

I agree fully with the sentiments of D. W. M. who wrote a very interesting letter in yesterday's issue, the rich people do not care so very much about the question of more daylight, in fact many of them have opportunities of enjoyment which the poorer class of people and the workman do not enjoy, and therefore it affects them very little whether it be dark or bright in the evening. In my humble opinion Daylight Saving is the greatest friend of the working people, it gives them an extra hour to enjoy themselves without the use of artificial light, it makes it possible for them to go out in the fields after supper and play ball or witness a game, whereas if we had standard time many of them would be unable to do this, as they probably finish work at 6.00 p.m., and then it would be too late and too dark for them to enjoy the outdoors.

Last summer the vacant lots and fields all over the City were crowded with people, both young and old, seeking relaxation after a tedious day's work. The sidewalks in the residential sections of the City were thronged with children playing their games, and singing and laughing, while their parents watched them contented to know that they were enjoying themselves, and that this was possible on account of the Daylight Saving system. Surely conditions such as these are not detrimental to children? Daylight Saving may have its disadvantages as well as its good points but I am sure that if it were possible to weigh them on the scale that the good points would outweigh the rest. At any rate here's hoping that Quebec will adopt the system which will be in my opinion, a God send for the community in general. Hoping to hear the opinions of other readers of the Chronicle and thanking you Mr. Editor for this space.

I remain "Rosedale".

Tokio, March 24—An unidentified man this afternoon attempted to break into the Imperial Palace grounds. When guards attempted to stop him he tried to hurl a bomb he was carrying at the soldiers. BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SPRING

The Spring is a time of anxiety to mothers who have little ones in the home. Conditions make it necessary to keep the baby indoors. He is often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catches colds which rack his whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will prevent colds, constipation or colic and keep baby well. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FEMALE IS MORE DEADLY THAN MALE
 Prisoner Says Accusation False And Attributes It To Landlady's Spite

Judge Lachance presided over the Court of Sessions yesterday morning when he was called upon to listen to the evidence of a peculiar case of the License Inspectors against a defendant, charged with selling liquor without a license. The facts of the case as exposed in the Court by the evidence adduced, are as follows: A physical instructor, a Frenchman born in France and brought up in Nova Scotia, who served four and a half years in the great war, and for some time past has been in charge of the gymnasium of one of the local schools, was arrested on Wednesday of last week, charged with selling liquor without a license, from information given to the license inspector's office by a woman, the accused had roomed with in St. Ursula street. Before being taken into custody by the license inspectors he had left the rooming house in question, and when brought before the Court Sessions was remanded for hearing. Being a stranger in the city, and without friends whom he could appeal to for bail, he was sent to jail. There he remained a prisoner until yesterday morning, when he was brought to the Court of Sessions to stand trial.

The only witness who appeared against the accused was the woman of the rooming house and a city hotel clerk who boarded with her, who swore that the accused sold liquor to the woman witness for which she had paid. The hotel clerk deposing that he saw the woman pay the money.

The accused, who pleaded not guilty, giving evidence on oath in his own defence, told the Court how he was born in France, came out to Canada at an early age, was reared in Nova Scotia and served four and one half years in the war. He said he was a professor of callisthenics in a Quebec School and was negotiating to teach in the gymnasium of two other schools. His case necessitated that he should keep in pink of condition. The woman of the house had come to him one day and, saying that she was suffering from pains, had asked him if he had any liniment he could give her to rub her body with. Thereupon he had given her a small bottle containing alcohol that he himself used for such purposes, and for which he did not accept any payment. In the meantime he had witnessed conduct in the house which decided him to leave it at the expiration of his month's engagement. He had agreed to pay $15 per month for his room and, on leaving the house to take a room in other quarters handed the woman a check for $3. After leaving this house he had related to friends the conduct he witnessed, which caused him to leave, and he presumed that this had been carried back to the woman, which must have caused her to act as she did against him. He was morally certain of this, for, after he had been locked up in jail, a female voice called up the jail over the telephone and requested the guard who answered the call to conduct her to the jail, as she was being let out.

Judge Lachance, after the hearing took the case on deliberation, saying that he would render judgment on Monday. In the meantime the accused will have to remain in jail for want of bail.

The fur goods which were on the main floor, have been removed to the second and third floors, where they are displayed to better advantage. On the second floor the elegant seal, sable, fox, ermine and other fur garments are now displayed, while on the third floor the lighter fur goods in great variety of elegance and novelty are now to be found.

The main floor, apart from the gentlemen's department, which is filled with new goods in hats, clothing, underwear, etc., has been converted into a homespun goods and lingerie department. Here is to be found a large and rich stock of homespun goods, which for richness of material and style, are beyond a mere passing description, and requires a visit of inspection to be fully appreciated. The are features in homespun blankets, bedspreads, as well as wearing apparel of chic design which are bound to become the rage this Spring and Summer. There are blouses, negligees, corduroy crepes, georgette crepes, crepe de chine, Canton crepes, crepe romaine, and the latest models in French silks are all of a superior quality in texture, delicate in their shades and fascinating in style.

The homespun goods in jumpers, waists, etc., are worthy of inspection by reason of their merit in material, embroideries and style. The glove and homony display for the Spring and Summer of 1922 is also located on the main floor.

Taken as a whole this Easter display in ladies' wearing apparel together with the immensely valuable stock of fur goods places the old and reliable firm of Holt, Renfrew & Co. one of the leading establishments of its kind in Canada.

CITY COUNCIL PUTS THROUGH DAYLIGHT SAVING
 New Time Will Have Effect From April 30th. Until October 30th.

NO VOTE WAS TAKEN
 Report Concerning Writ of Injunction Not Taken Seriously By Aldermen

Without taking a vote the Quebec City Council last night passed a resolution enacting that "daylight saving" will go into effect here from Sunday April 30th, until Sunday October 30th.

The resolution which was proposed by Ald. J. Collier and seconded by Ald. V. Martin, was carried on division.

Crowds of citizens flocked into the galleries of the Council Chamber as it was anticipated that there would be a lively debate and stacks of petitions, some favoring and others opposing the change of time were piled up on the City Clerk's table. The crowd was disappointed as far as any fireworks were concerned for the resolution passed with only one alderman speaking against it.

Ald. Collier speaking in support of his motion said that the petitions signed by some 15,000 or 20,000 rate-payers in favor of daylight saving meant more than anything he could say.

Ald. Arthur Drolet, one of the opponents of the change of time said that the change in time would be a source of inconvenience to the schools, the churches and to many workmen. Ald. Lesage, had told him that all the cities of Canada were adopting "daylight saving" but this was not the case.

"Toronto has not adopted it," he continued, "and will not adopt it."

Ald. Lantier—"So much the worse for Toronto." (Laughter.)

Ald. Lesage said that there was no principle involved in the change. It was simply a matter of taste. Ninety per cent of the electors of his ward were in favor of it and he would consequently vote in favor.

The resolution was carried on division.

The fight against daylight saving was carried on mainly by "L'Action Catholique," the local ecclesiastical daily and in the course of the controversy there were references to standard time as "God's Time" and to daylight saving as "Freemason's time."

Although it was reported that a writ of injunction would be taken out against the city to prevent the change from taking effect, it is not taken seriously by the members of the City Council.

The annual banquet of the Y.W.C.A. was held last evening in the gymnasium, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion, with flags by Miss B. M. Langlois. The banquet was served by Mrs. H. H. Symons assisted by representatives of the different churches, and was a success in every way.

 Enjoyable Time Spent Last Evening—Address By Miss Gass

The program was as follows: Recitation, Mrs. F. H. Wentworth; Vocal Solo, Miss Edith Willis; Toasts, "Our King" proposed by Miss R. Scott; "Our Country," by Miss Hewson, responded to by Miss McParlane; "The Y.W.C.A.," by Miss Anderson, replied to by Mrs. W. J. Darlington; "Our Guests" by Miss Donaldson, to which Miss Gass responded.

The program concluded with an interesting address by Miss Gass, Girls' Work Secretary for the Province of Quebec, who spoke of the need of loyalty and personal responsibility and also reviewed the work of the past year as well as of the outlook for the present one. Miss Gass also dwelt upon the large field for service and of the higher ideals the Y.W.C.A. was trying to maintain in spite of the many distractions and handicaps for the girlhood. The fact that there were so many things doing to detract girls from the giving their attention to matters of greater importance to themselves made it all more necessary to see that they were

PUBLIC HEALTH IS SATISFACTORY
 Few Complaints Reported To City This Month Beyond Ordinary Colds

Dr. C. R. Paquin, City Health Physician, discussing public health conditions in the city, yesterday said that all reports received during the present month were most satisfactory. Apart from the usual colds among citizens the general conditions were good. He is pleased to say that scarlet fever among children was diminishing, likewise diphtheria. There were only six new cases of the former reported in the city during the past two weeks and a similar number of diphtheria cases. He hoped that by the end of another two weeks this contagion among children would be completely stamp-out.

The department had one case of typhoid fever brought to its attention yesterday, by a party who had contracted the disease outside the city and had come here for treatment. He was immediately isolated in the fever ward of a city hospital.

PAVLOWA HERE AGAIN
 ON APRIL 8 SUNDAY NIGHT CONCERT AT AUDITORIUM

Queen Of World's Dancers To Make Her Last Appearance In Years At Auditorium Shortly

Anna Pavlova, the internationally famous ballet dancer will celebrate, in Quebec, on April 8, her two hundred and seventy fifth performance this season when she makes her bow to a local audience. Incidentally her present tour is the biggest that she has ever had in the whole of her experience. This was the opinion expressed to the Chronicle last evening by Mr. S. Hurok, who has been looking after the interests of her American tour and who also has contracted to take Anna Pavlova and company to the Orient next fall.

Mme Pavlova's tour opened in Quebec last October and it will practically come to an end here, for after playing Quebec on April 8th, Pavlova goes to Boston for one week, and then brings her tour to an end at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Thus will close thirty three weeks of continuous touring, during which the whole of America was or will be covered.

From Atlantic to Pacific Coast the crowds turned out in thousands to see Anna Pavlova and her troupe of ballet dancers, and the crowds in Texas, California, Arizona, New Mexico and Florida were just as enthusiastic over her work as were the audiences in Georgia, Louisiana and other southern states.

Following the close of her present tour, Mme. Pavlova will not come to America for two seasons. Next season she is going to the Orient, together with all her troupe and opens at the Imperial Theatre, Tokio, on September 10, after which she will tour the whole of Japan, China, Manila and Java. Incidentally it might be stated that Pavlova and her company will be the first European company to ever give a performance in Europe this year, and that will be in Paris, at the Baron de Rothschild's palatial residence, when she will appear for the benefit of the deaf and dumb children. She will appear on May 20, and after that will rest up all summer, in preparation for her tour to Japan, China and other places in the Orient.

Anna Pavlova is very much interested in the "Camp Fire Girls" campaign that is under way in the States and Canada, and is a member of the organization, in addition to doing all she can for them.

In addition to her other many activities, she has a home of her own in Paris that she has turned over for Russian orphans, and up to the present she had borne all the cost of upkeep herself, and when it is recalled that there are no less than thirty-six inmates of this home, it will be seen that the upkeep comes to a pretty high amount.

It will be remembered that Pavlova's previous performance here, last October 15, was the practical opening of her American tour, and some of the biggest ballets had not been rehearsed at that time. Now, however, everything is moving along with the smoothness of a well oiled machine, and the ballets that are shown for Quebec audiences will be perfect in every detail. The unanimous consent all over America regarding her ballets and tour has been "greater than ever and better than ever."

Mr. S. Hurok, who is Pavlova's manager, and by whom all her American and Canadian bookings have been or were made, and who at the same time is the manager of several other celebrities in the musical world, expressed himself as being very pleased at the reception that was granted Anna Pavlova here last October, and stating that he was sure Quebec would pay her similar homage on her return to the Ancient Capital, said that he would try to give opportunities of hearing such celebrities as Mischa Elman, Yeare and the great Chaplaine, in addition to many other stars, so that it seems as if the Ancient Capital is going to see a galaxy of musical experts very soon now.

TEA PRICES.
 The Tea Market has advanced since last May fully 15 or 16c a pound in London, Colombo and Calcutta.

PAVLOWA GOING TO THE ORIENT
 Celebrated Ballet Dancer Engaged To Appear In Tokio In September Next

Everybody remembers the sensation that was caused in this city and district when, last Fall, Anna Pavlova appeared at the Auditorium with her entire company of over one hundred members in her famous interpretation of Russia ballets. Quebec is to be once more treated to this unusual theatrical offering on Saturday April 8th, next when Anna Pavlova comes here again with her entire troupe for one short day's stay at the Auditorium. There will be just two performances of the celebrated Russian ballets as interpreted by Pavlova and her company and tickets will soon be put on sale at the Auditorium box office.

No one ignores the grandeur of the spectacles offered by Pavlova's interpretative dances. No one in this city or district will forget the deep impression that was created by Pavlova's coming last Fall so no one will want to miss this show of Europe's grandest entertainment when it comes again, probably for the last time in years, next Saturday.

We do not know yet the exact date when tickets will be put on sale. This will be announced shortly in the press.

HOUSE DAMAGED IN CHAREST ST. BLAZE
 Bedroom And Part Of Kitchen Burned Last Evening—No-body In Flat

An alarm, rung in from Box 82 at 7:59 last evening, and summoning men from six stations, namely 3, 4, 5, 7, 8 and 11, gave the firemen quite a tussle before they mastered a blaze that was under way at 88 Charest Street. Although the men set to work with a will immediately upon their arrival, a bedroom and part of the kitchen were badly burned before they succeeded in subduing the conflagration.

Just how the blaze started nobody knows yet, as there was no one in the flat where the fire was when the alarm was rung and the firemen fought their way in. The lady of the upstairs flat, Mrs. J. H. Plamondon, stated that she smelt smoke but thought nothing of it, attributing the fact to her own stove.

The house belongs to Mr. Caron, and is occupied by Mr. H. Lemieux, a baker, downstairs, and Mr. J. H. Plamondon, clerk, upstairs. The damages are estimated to amount to a couple of hundred dollars, but whether covered or not by insurance is not known yet.

Another alarm was rung in from box 183, but it proved to be a false alarm, occasioning a run for nothing on the part of the firemen.

The concert that will be offered at the Auditorium to-morrow evening Sunday, promises an unusual interest to all lovers of music, because it will practically be two concerts in one, comprising first a piano recital by a noted Russian pianist, Mrs. Muri Silba who scored previous successes here, and also a vocal entertainment by Mr. Paul Dufault, the ever-appreciated French-Canadian tenor.

Following is the programme of the two artists for to-morrow evening's concert at the Auditorium:

Programme:

 Fantaisie Impromptu ..... Chopin

 The funeral of Mr. Fred S. Coolican was held yesterday morning from the residence of his mother, St. Cyrille street, to St. Patrick's Church Grande Allee, and was followed by a lengthy train of mourners, testifying at once the esteem in which the deceased was held and the sympathy which is extended to his bereaved relatives. The chief mourners were Messrs. W. J. Lynch, cousin; J. P. Delaney, brother-in-law; Gerard J. Delaney and Quintin Delaney, nephews. At the church the celebrant at the solemn requiem service was Rev. Father O'Hara, C.S.B., assisted by Rev. Fathers McCormick and O'Sullivan, C.S.B. as deacon and subdeacon respectively. During the service solos were feelingly rendered by Miss Vera Henchey and Mr. Jos. Shields. At St. Patrick's Cemetery the prayers were recited by Rev. Father McCormick.

Tomorrow in the Methodist Church the subjects are to be as follows:
 11 a.m. "Christ's Pardoning Prerogative."
 7 p.m. "The Belated Soul."

ONE WOODEN SAILING SHIP WAS COMPLETED

For Government At Victoria, B.C. — Construction Suspended On Two Others

(By Canadian Press.)

Toronto, March 24—One wooden sailing ship was completed for the Government at Victoria, B.C., construction was suspended on two hulls and part of the material for a fourth hull was ready, it was stated by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries this afternoon in reply to a question by William Duff (Liberal, Lunenburg). The completed ship was of 1,497.99 net tons and was named "S. T. Thelma".

The Department of Finance advanced and expended $639,181.49 on the four ships to the end of February, 1922.

This amount was advanced on all four ships and any share of it was not apportioned to any one ship. The money advanced was secured by mortgages, but there was no market for the sale of the vessels at present.

"SPORTS NIGHT" A HUGE SUCCESS

Splendid Program Staged By Army And Navy Veterans Last Night

A most enjoyable programme of boxing, wrestling, Jiu-Jitsu and music was staged by the Quebec Unit 23 of The Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, at their rooms adjoining the Drill Hall last evening, and was the occasion of a large attendance, many of the members and their friends putting in an appearance.

Four boxing bouts were among the first items run off and every one of them proved very interesting, the boys going at it hammer and tong and though the bouts were down on the programme as "exhibitions," the manner in which the participants went through the three rounds, made the majority of the spectators think they were among the audience at a "real" boxing bout.

Eugene Tremblay and Dan Harris gave a splendid exhibition of wrestling, and their work drew forth continued bursts of applause. The bout was scheduled for two rounds of ten minutes each, but ended after six minutes had elapsed in the second round, Tremblay winning the fall.

The following item was an exhibition of Japanese wrestling by Ben Slack and Henry Hight, and proved one of the most interesting events of the evening. Before commencing their bout the wrestlers demonstrated numerous Jiu-Jitsu holds and throws.

During the course of the evening Mr. Bert Haggar entertained the audience with several vocal selections in his usual style, being accompanied by the piano by Sergeant Hommerston.

Alfie Lynch was the referee for the boxing bouts, and Jim Dempsey handled the wrestling contest. Willie Sharpe fulfilled his usual role as timekeeper.

The boxing bouts were between Kid Broseau and Kid Briand, Young McNaughton and Joe Guilmette, Billy Dall and Joe Gagnon, and Charlie White with Bob Moisan.

HORNBY IS MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Babe Ruth is Popular But Does Not Enter Under This Heading

New York—Award of the trophies which the major leagues have put up for the player voted the most valuable in the league will provide good material for the stove league next winter.

Putting up prizes to spur on the athletes may not have the effect of making a marked improvement in the game, but the choice of expert judges should go a long way in answering the annual arguments about the relative value of star players to their clubs.

Babe Ruth, by a popular vote probably would be chosen as the greatest player in baseball, but the American league fans do not agree that he is the most valuable player to his club.

Temperament, reliability, unselfishness, in addition to mechanical ability, go to make up a valuable player. One player might be able to hit .400 field, .399 and steal a hundred bases a year, but if he wasn't in condition to be out there every day, if he wasn't willing to put the interests of the club above his own, if he bucked the management and caused the morale of the team to be broken he might not be as valuable as a less skilled diamond mechanic possessed of team spirit.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was talking during the winter baseball meetings about Rogers Hornsby, champion batter of the National League.

"Hornsby is not only a great player, but he is a great man for a ball club," Rickey said. "His batting average isn't his only interest in the game. He generally is sent to the plate to hit, but he always looks to the bench. If I should change my mind, he is there to get the signal. On the field, he is the same way. Chances for an error never enter into his game. He goes after them all, good and bad. He expects no favors and considers himself no better than fellow members of the club. He can be corrected, although I must admit that it is seldom he needs it."

BOXING INCREASED UNDER NEW LAW

New York Boxing Receipts Over Expenses Amounted To $200,087.62

New York, March 24—Boxing has greatly increased in popularity throughout the state under the new state athletic laws, said a joint report of the state athletic commission and the license committee made public tonight.

Excess receipts over expenses, derived from taxes and license fees, amounted to $200,087.62.

The committee declared that sham or collusive contests were no longer perpetrated on the public, and that since the enactment of the law "there has not been a single serious accident in the state". The safety feature was attributed to the commission's rigorous physical examination of contestants.

"The contests have been entirely free from brutality," the report continued, "and in every instance the official referees have, under the direction of the commission, promptly terminated all contests when it became apparent that the contestants were unevenly matched".

The principal features of action set forth in the report were:

"The adoption of an entirely new system of remuneration to boxers and wrestlers, based principally on a boxer's or wrestler's drawing power and in the case of preliminary boxers, ability.

"During the year there were 27 revocations of licenses, including 6 clubs, 16 boxers, 2 managers, 1 wrestler, 1 judge and 1 second.

"Nineteen boxers, 4 seconds and 1 matchmaker were suspended indefinitely, and indefinite suspensions included 4 clubs, 56 boxers, 6 managers, 1 wrestler, 1 referee and 2 seconds.

In accordance with the wishes of the governors, the report said, the number of clubs has been reduced to 143 during the year, and boxers, managers, judges, etc., totaled 4,367.

GERARD TO PLAY FOR ST. PATRICKS

Will Turn Out For Rest Of Stanley Cup Series—Replaces Cameron

(By Canadian Press.)

Ottawa, March 24—St. Patrick's chances to successfully defend the Stanley Cup were materially strengthened tonight, at least insofar as the local viewpoint is concerned, when it became known that Eddie Gerard, captain of the ex-champion Senators, would play for the Irishmen for the remaining games of the championship series. Eddie himself announced tonight that he had been approached by Manager O'Donoghue of the Toronto team, and advised that the latter had expressed willingness to permit an "outsider" to replace Harry Cameron who was painfully injured on Tuesday last, expressed pleasure at being able to help keep the historic trophy in the Senior Canadian Hockey League. Eddie left tonight for Toronto and will line-up with the defenders tomorrow night.

Gerard, one of Eastern Canada's premier athletes, will undoubtedly be a big assistance to St. Pats. He represents a school of defence players which combines the ability to administer a good heavy body-check with lightning speed and clever stick-handling.

Even subbing for the brainy stalwart of the present N. H. L. champions is it considered here that he will be added strength to the defenders.

THE TRIAL OF TEX RICKARD

His Counsel Tells Jury He Can Prove A Perfect Alibi

New York, March 24—Opening the defence of Tex Rickard, charged with originally assaulting 16-year-old Sarah Schoenfeld, counsel for the sports promoter told the jury that a perfect alibi will be proved for November 12, 1921, the date of the alleged offence.

Max Steurer, chief defence counsel, also set forth that the apartment West 47th Street mentioned in connection with the case had been rented by Rickard while he was arranging the Dempsey-Willard fight in Toledo to store his liquor, because he saw prohibition coming on.

Rickard, Steurer said, never had been in the suites in his life and had gone to the apartment houses themselves only twice, to ascertain from the janitor that his cellars were o.k.

Steurer called witnesses to show that in the morning Rickard went to the garden.

That at 1:30 o'clock he went to the Polo Grounds to watch the Dartmouth-Pennsylvania football game; that he was accompanied by his secretary and publicity manager, and that there he had exchanged comments with a newspaper sporting editor and "Big Bill" Edwards, former Princeton gridiron star.

That he had returned to the garden to prepare for a dance to take place there that night. That he had returned home for dinner with Mrs. Rickard as was proved by the testimony of a young woman who had been the Rickard's week-end guest. That Mrs. Rickard had taken ill and a physician summoned.

That later he had taken his guest and another woman to the dance at the Garden and that then he had returned home.

Late this afternoon and tonight a number of character witnesses were called in, among them, Kermit Roosevelt, son of the former President and Denver S. Dickerson, who was Governor of Nevada, when Rickard staged the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno and who knew the promoter for five years before, when Rickard conducted gambling houses and saloons at Goldfield and Raw Hide, Nevada.

Other men who had known Rickard in Nevada and also the owner of a joint saloon and gambling house in Alaska during the gold rush of 1900, testified that his place was known as being "absolutely on the square."

Kermit Roosevelt was subjected to strenuous questioning by the prosecution. He said he first met Rickard in South America ten years ago and that the Rickards had since become intimate friends.

Roosevelt said his father told him a great deal about Rickard's life in the Klondike. He said he had heard that Rickard's gambling house at Nome was of "excellent character." Rex Beach and others told him it was a place where one got a "square deal," he said.

SPORTING NOTES

Seaman Cameron, alias Kid Jocka, is out with a challenge to fight Kid Mallow before any club that washes to stage the bout.

The new starting gate for horse races will be given a trial in Montreal this summer and if it proves successful will, in all probability, be seen at the Exhibition Grounds during the Quebec Hunt Club meeting. The gate provides a separate stall for each horse which prevents any misbehaving at the barrier.

This evening may see the end of the Stanley Cup series for this year, and then again it may not. St. Patricks play Vancouver tonight in the fourth contest and the Western seven-man rules will be in vogue. Should the Westerners win the famous trophy will find a resting place somewhere in Vancouver, though if St. Pats come across with a victory a fifth and deciding match will be required. The Green Shirts secured their only victory while playing under Western rules, so who knows but they may repeat.

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion of the world, is being sued for $10,000 by Alexander Pantages, proprietor of a chain of vaudeville theatres, who alleges breach of contract for stage appearance. He asks $50,000 as the profit he says he would have received had Dempsey fulfilled his alleged contract, and $40,000 as publicity which he declares the champion's appearance at his theatres would have produced.

JESSUP-GODFREY PAIR

INDOOR DOUBLES CHAMPS

Boston, Mass., March 24—The Women's National Indoor doubles tennis championship was won today by Mrs. Marion Sinderstein Jessup, of Wilmington, Delaware, and Mrs. Frank H. Godfrey of Boston. They defeated Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory and Mrs. L. G. Morris, of New York 6-4, 6-3.

Mrs. Jessup was one of the winners of the title match last year, in which also the Mallory-Morris team was runner-up.

SALT WATER FISH CATCH IN FEBRUARY IS LOWER

Ottawa, March 24—Weather conditions were not favorable for sea fishing during the month of February with the result that there was a falling off in the quantities of salt water fish landed.

The total catch on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts was 181,185 cwts, valued at $423,218 at the vessels or boats side. During the corresponding period the preceding year 166,761 cwts. were landed valued at $691,090.

THE ONTARIO GOOD ROADS

Ontario Provincial Government Has Only Used $1,317,508.61 From Grant

Ottawa, March 24—The sum of $1,317,508.61 has been paid to the Ontario Provincial Government to date from the grant of $20,000,000 made by the Dominion Government for the good roads it was announced in the House today.

So far the Province of Ontario has not filed for approval under the Federal Highways Act any project for highway construction north of the Severn River.

Roads in northern Ontario were built and where necessary, maintained by the Colonisations Roads Branch of the Ontario Government which was distinct from the Ontario Highways branch.

Other announcements were:—

The Government is considering changes in the administration of the Royal Canadian Artillery.

Life saving stations are maintained at 28 points in the Maritime Provinces and at six points on the shores of the Great Lakes. Active aid to life saving stations at Toronto has been discontinued.

The amount paid out of Parliamentary appropriation for the Royal Canadian Navy for the fiscal year 1921-22 up to February 28, 1922, was $1,793,655.97.

SEEK TO CHANGE THE PARLIAMENTARY PRACTICE

Defeat Of Government Measure No Reason For Resigning, Opposition Claims

Halifax, March 24—With the object of changing the parliamentary practice by which a government accepts a defeat by any one of its measures as a reason for resigning and appealing to the country, D. G. Mackenzie, Leader of the Opposition in the Nova Scotia House of Assembly, gave notice today that he would move a resolution to the effect that Members should not consider defeat of any government measure or motion a sufficient reason for tendering the resignation of the government, unless such defeat was followed by a vote of non-confidence in the government.

Mr. Mackenzie intimated that the Opposition considered it desirable that Members should be released from that loyalty to party leaders which, in the past, has been a principal factor in party cohesiveness and should be free to vote on bills more in accordance with their private judgment.

A bill was introduced to provide for the inspection of hotels in the Province.

BILL TO PROVIDE FOR ALTERNATIVE VOTES

Will Be Introduced In Ontario Provincial Legislature This Session

Toronto, Ont., March 24—A Government bill will be introduced in the Provincial Legislature this session to provide for "alternative votes" in Provincial general elections. This was announced this afternoon by the Government in confirmation of a news item to that effect carried in the Ottawa Citizen.

It was explained by a member of the Government that the bill will prevent minority candidates being elected to the Legislature. Where there is a three or four cornered fight the voter will have a second choice on his ballot. It is not proportionate representation but may be considered a step in that direction.

Announcements were made at the meeting that it was fully expected handling costs would be reduced this year.

WOMEN CRUSHED IN RUN ON CHICAGO BANK

Police Armed With Rifles Were Called To Control Crowds

Chicago, March 24—A special detail of twenty-five police armed with rifles was called upon today to control thousands of persons who besieged the Northwestern Trust and Savings Bank to withdraw their deposits following a false rumor that the Condition of institution was unstable.

Several women were crushed in the scramble to enter the bank. Their injuries and the fear of hundreds of other depositors were the outgrowth of false rumors concerning the bank's financial strength. Bank officials were paying out money as fast as the depositors could be served and other banks were said to be ready to supply all the cash needed.

The run was halted this afternoon after the 2,000 depositors had filed past a teller's cage in which $1,200,000 in currency lay piled on the counters. The Federal Reserve Board and the local banks sent $1,850,000 to the bank during the day. The Continental and Commercial bank offered twenty million dollars if needed.

The Clearing House and Federal Reserve banks issued statements declaring the bank was sound and the rumors false.

CHILD FINDS THE BODY OF DEAD BABY IN YARD

Of Dead Baby In Yard

Montreal, March 24—"Oh, what a pretty doll," exclaimed little 8-year old Alexina Lavole, of 725 Lafontaine street as she lifted a tiny waxon-hued figure from a small box in a backyard on Visitation Street. The next instant, the child dropped her "pretty doll" with a scream of terror. It was the body of a dead baby. Investigation showed that it had never lived.

EMPIRE

MONDAY - TUES. - WED.

"THE VICTIM"

"One of the finest pictures ever shown"

It has a strong moral and is entertaining in every inch of film.

So fine is "THE VICTIM" that it would be difficult to suggest in improvement.

At The Theatres Chronicle's Review Of Week's Attractions

THE AUDITORIUM
The usual five acts of high class vaudeville and moving pictures will again be shown at the Auditorium Theatre for the whole of next week. The opening act on the vaudeville program will be Victoria and Dupres man and woman in a novelty dancing and contortion number. Black and Lee, man and woman will follow in a comedy singing and talking act will follow while the third number will be a unique musical offering staged by Countess Veronique.

The fourth number will be a comedy acrobatic act in which Montambo and Nao two men will be seen cavorting around the stage.

The fifth and final number will be a good comedy far act put on by Eugene and Finney two men.

THE EMPIRE
"The Victim" a Catholic Art Association production will be the picture to be shown at the Empire Theatre for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

"The Victim" is not an ordinary picture. It is a wonderful photodrama replete with soul-stirring action and a most interesting story with perfect photography, superb acting and beautiful settings, representing in every way the last word in the art of motion picture production.

This masterpiece is a wonderful lesson to children whose childish innocence has never known the bitterness of worldly sorrow. An inspiration to the young people who are early face to face with life's stern realities and is a glowing reminder to the old folks who have seen the lights and shadows of this temporal earthly existence.

BANISH DRUGS AND BATHE INTERNALLY

"I have been using the J. B. L. Cascade for about eight months now. I have found it in every way satisfactory. I feel better than I have for a good many years. I would not be without my Cascade for anything. I also use it on my children, as it is so simple to use, and they would rather use it than take drugs." Writes Mrs. J. Jones, 76A Notre Dame Street, Lachine, Que.

This letter is only one of thousands we have received, which tell a story of gratitude over the benefits derived from Internal Bathing. By the use of "The J. B. L. Cascade" the colon or lower intestine can be cleansed of poisonous waste gently yet effectively with warm water removing the cause of stomach ills, headaches, loss of appetite, impure blood, piles, lack of energy and sleeplessness.

You bathe outside, why not internally, too—it is far more important.

Mrs. Isaac Muller, Morse, Sask. writes: "I have increased in weight and am perfectly well now. The J. B. L. Cascade has saved my life. Thanks to Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell. Please publish this, as it might reach someone who has not heard of the Cascade."

The J. B. L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell of New York for internal bathing. It is now being shown and explained at Henry Willis, Druggist, 2 St. John St., Quebec.

Telephone or ask them for free booklet all about it—or write "Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 165 College Street, Toronto."

CHAPLIN'S LATEST GREAT PICTURE

Charlie Seen In Role Of Brick-layer In "Pay Day"—An Original Story

What happens on "Pay Day"? As a bricklayer, Charlie Chaplin is said to give screamingly funny answer to that question in his latest comedy production for First National.

Chaplin's "Pay Day" is described as a production with scores of the cleverest comedy situations yet developed by the famous comedian, fast from start to finish and full of business entirely new to the screen.

Throughout the entire action of "Pay Day" Chaplin sticks to his original character, undoubtedly the best known in the world. All that he does will not be revealed until the film is finally released in the near future by First National for public entertainment. But it is safe to predict that he will cause those who watch his antics to laugh long and loud.

"Pay Day" is an original story by Chaplin, who, besides starring in it, is also responsible for the direction. The versatile comedian, of course, has acted in all of these capers ever in every one of his preceding screen works.

During the production of "Pay Day" the greatest secrecy was maintained by Chaplin and the members of his organization. With but few exceptions visitors were excluded from the studio grounds while the comedy genius was in action before the camera and the majority of scenes were filmed at night. This was another new departure for the star, this being the first time during his long career that he ever used artificial lighting in his work.

"Pay Day" is the seventh production made by Chaplin for Associated First National Pictures, Inc., and he has one more comedy to complete on his famous contract with that organization.

Edna Purviance, acknowledged beauty of the comedy field, who has occupied the place of leading woman for Chaplin during the last six years, is seen in the principal feminine role in "Pay Day."

MacK Swain, who joined the Chaplin forces during the making of "The Idle Class," and for many years one of the best known screen characters throughout the world, is ideally cast in "Pay Day." He is an excellent foil for Chaplin and shares much of the limelight of the production.

Others who will be seen in some of the main portrayals are Miss Phyllis Allen, Henry Bergman, Loyal Underwood, John Rand and Allen Garcia.

The photographing of "Pay Day" was in charge of Rollie Fothergill, who at the time celebrated the filming of his nineteenth consecutive Chaplin picture, with Jack Wilson as second in the cinematographic department.

WALLIE'S DESTINY CHANGED BY WIRE

Got Telegram From Father
Saying Mother Dying When
Was Successful Engineer

"Come home at once—your mother is dying!"

This seemingly terrible bit of news, conveyed over the wires from Newark, N.J., to Cody, Wyoming, changed the destiny of a man's life.

Had the late Hal Reid not chosen this rather startling means to bring his son Wallace Reid, back home, the popular Paramount star might still be building dams and raising horses and alfalfa in the West, instead of starring in "The Dictator," the picture adapted from Richard Harding Davis' play.

Father Reid, being an actor and dramatist, did things in a melodramatic way. Wally was making good as an engineer and rancher when Wally arrived home and of course mater was very much surprised to learn that she was dying.

Wally then started to work on the old Newark Morning Star as a reporter and this work later led him into vaudeville and thence to motion pictures.

SPRING IMPURITIES DUE TO POOR BLOOD

A Tonic Medicine a Necessity at This Season.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all-year-round tonic for the blood and nerves. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these pills helps to enrich the blood. In the spring one feels weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuritis and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood most seriously needs attention. Some people dose themselves with purgatives at this season, but these only further weaken themselves. A purgative merely gallops through the system, emptying the bowels, but does not help the blood. On the other hand, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood which reaches every nerve and every organ in the body, bring new strength and vigor to weak, easily tired men, women and children. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this spring—they will not disappoint you.

Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

REGINA MAKES HER VOYAGE

ACCUSED FAKERS MORE NUMEROUS

New White Star Dominion
Liner Reaches Halifax On Her First Trip

Time Honored Dodges Worked On Luckless Bosses In The States

(Special to the Chronicle.)

Halifax, N.S., March 24—The new White Star Dominion liner "Regina" on her maiden voyage, docked here this morning. This latest addition to the St. Lawrence trade was officially welcomed by the civic authorities and was inspected by more than one thousand Halifax citizens and by a large number of transportation officials who journeyed here to see at first hand the many innovations for passenger safety and comfort introduced on this liner. The Regina carried four hundred passengers on her first trip. The remarkable advance that had been made in providing the accommodation for passengers travelling by the St. Lawrence route is exemplified in this new vessel which will be devoted to cabin class and third class passengers and will sail from Montreal and Quebec in summer and Halifax and Portland in winter.

One of the innovations calling forth most favorable comment today was the topless gear, a large steel super structure over the boat deck, by which all of the ship's boats may be lowered into the water in a few minutes, these electrically operated davits had never previously been seen in Canadian ports. The Regina also carries four motor launches which are lowered by another electrical device. Although the cabin class ship the spaciousness of the public rooms and staterooms and the elegance of the furnishings are on a par with those of first class hotels. There are in addition to the lounge a ladies' room and smoking room, a children's play room verandah, cafe and gymnasium.

Other new features not previously seen on cabin vessels are suites of rooms consisting of sitting room, bedroom and bath.

The Regina made an excellent run, attaining a speed of seventeen knots. Captain W. A. Moorehouse stated that the ship had come up to the fullest expectations. The passenger wireless had been in touch with England and with Canada at all points of the voyage. The Regina's passengers left here this afternoon by special Canadian National Grand Trunk trains for various points in the Dominion. The Regina will leave on her first east-bound voyage from Portland April 1st and from Halifax April 2nd.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The White Star Dominion Line new steamer Regina, completed her maiden voyage from Liverpool, arriving at Halifax, Thursday night and anchored at quarantine. Early yesterday morning, she came to her dockage and during the day was thrown open to inspection which attracted the presence of permanent shipping and railway officials to take observations of her decks, interior furnishings and general fittings which have already been elucidated in the press.

The Government ice-breaker Lady Gray and Montcalm are now busily engaged in cutting their way through the ice bound channel between the Quebec Bridge and Montreal. # AN APPEAL on behalf of the

Starving Children in Russia

From indisputable evidence of those who have lately returned from the famine district in Russia, millions of Children are doomed to starvation unless immediate assistance is afforded.

The Canadian Government does not feel justified officially, in appropriating public monies for this relief work, unless the move is first supported by voluntary subscriptions on the part of the people of Canada.

The Canadian Committee of the Save The Children Fund has been formed for the purpose of collecting donations on behalf of some ten million children who will inevitably starve to death without this assistance.

The Government has the assurance of Lord Weardale — Chairman of the British Fund — of Dr. Nansen, International High Commissioner of Relief in Russia — and Mr. Herbert Hoover, on behalf of the United States, has also given similar assurance — that all foods sent to the famine districts are carefully guarded and reach their destination intact.

The food supplies at the disposal of the Save The Children Fund and other relief organizations in the famine area are inadequate to cope with the situation, while the need for more is immediate and pressing.

The people of Canada are asked to come to the rescue of the starving children of Russia by subscribing to the Save The Children Fund. All money contributed in Canada is expended on Canadian foodstuffs. Shipments are already on the way through this organization.

25 cents will feed a child for a week.
$1.00 will ensure sufficient food for a month.
$500.00 will establish another kitchen to feed 100 children until next harvest.

Cheques and money orders should be forwarded through local banks or direct to Sir George Burn, Treasurer, Save The Children Fund, Elgin Building, Ottawa, Ontario.

PROMISED GOLD FROM SEA WATER

Some Old Time Swindlers Recalled By New York Paper
—Jernegan's Scheme

Supplementing the revelations concerning the crookedness of bucket shops, some old time swindlers are recalled by the New York Herald which tells the story of the Rev. Prescott F. Jernegan, who some twenty-five years ago collected about a million dollars from people who believed he had found the secret for extracting gold from sea water. The belief that free gold is to be found in salt water the world over is an ancient one, and there have been several fakirs and pseudo-scientists who have claimed to be able to collect it. Jernegan was perhaps the most successful of them. At one time he occupied the pulpit in a Baptist Church in Connecticut and was regarded as an eccentric. Later on he was obliged to resign his pastorate because he publicly expressed doubts concerning the New Testament version of the Resurrection. After that for some years he dropped out of sight.

Hired A Detective.

When he reappeared it was as the hawker of stock for the Electrolytic Marine Salts Company. He travelled among the smaller towns of New England and sold the stock that by a process of which he was the inventor an electric current properly applied to mercury submerged in salt water would collect the gold. It was the diving operations of Fisher which aroused the suspicion of Phelan in a short while and led to him denouncing the fakirs. It was more than a year before he could induce the authorities to take action, for Jernegan's dupes were his strongest defenders.

Collected A Million.

Fisher and Jernegan were so nearly broke when they made their first demonstration that the gold with which they salted the bucket was taken from the last piece of jewellery possessed by Jernegan. Nevertheless it turned the trick. The little capitalist invested and thereafter there was never any shortage of gold for the bucket. The fame of the invention spread abroad and thousands of small investors flocked to Jernegan. A company was formed and the money poured in. A considerable plant was erected, but Jernegan said it was not big enough to enable him to produce the gold in paying quantities so a larger one was planned. This led to the collapse of the scheme. Jernegan and Fisher could not work so well together. There were too many people about. Eventually the ex-pastor fled the country with what money he could lay his hands on. How much this was nobody ever knew for he kept no books. But it is estimated that he collected not far from a million dollars. He went to England and later drifted to the Philippines almost penniless. He secured employment as a school teacher for a year and then once more dropped out of sight.

At the docks an Irish emigrant was seen looting suspiciously near an anchor. After an hour's careful observation a policeman approached the suspect and demanded to know the why and wherefore of his malingering. "Well, sorr," said the son of Erin, "I'm waiting to see the man who uses that pottle!"

NANSEN ON RUSSIA

The Most Appalling Famine in Recent History.

Dr. Nansen's latest statement on conditions in the famine stricken areas of the Volga provinces was made at Manchester in the Free Trade Hall on February 23rd.

Dr. Nansen summed under examination three reasons that had been advanced for not giving the help he asked: (1) that the money would be misapplied; (2) that the relief would not reach those for whom it was intended; (3) that the States needed their money to relieve their own distress.

Dr. Nansen stated that he was not a humanitarian, but a realist, and that he was not prepared to carry it to its logical conclusion.

MARSHAL HELPS THE BOOTLEGGERS

One Of Most Scandalous Conspiracies To Violate Prohibition Law Unearthed

One of the most scandalous conspiracies to violate the prohibition law ever unearthed in the United States is that at Memphis, Tenn., which has already resulted in a conviction, is indicated by the fact that Judge and Jury have been accepting his uncorroborated word for making convictions.

The War and the Drought. "But the grounds on which I hold this view is the consideration of the cause of the famine. My own opinion—and I speak after profound investigation of the truth—is that the famine and its extent are due to a number of differing and co-operating causes which have together helped to produce the present terrible result.

Cleaned Up $100,000. In the few months that he was working at high pressure, it is estimated that Taylor collected $100,000 in bribes. This was at the rate of $2 for each case of whiskey that was brought into the city with his permission.

Easy Money. When Woodrow Wilson was elected President for the first time, Taylor's friends bestirred themselves and secured him an appointment as Deputy United States Marshal for Western Tennessee, with headquarters in Memphis.

Whiskey Pours In. The money poured in on him as the whiskey poured in on Memphis, much of it by motor truck and much more by boats, bought for the purpose, and plying on the Mississippi. Soon it became apparent that the official was in league with the bootleggers, and a name was no longer before Taylor's name was whispered about.

RUSSIANS ALL THINK MONEY

Public Events, Life, Death And Other Things All Go By Board

Moscow, Mar. 24 — Russia is money made. Almost everybody from the humblest country to the erstwhile aristocrat is thinking of earning, talking of money. Public events, life, death, all else go by the board.

As the ruble drops dizzily, week by week, people cease to talk or do business in millions, as a few months ago. Now everyone of money consequence is not a millionaire but a billionaire and soon they will be trillionaires.

Speculation has reached such a pitch that the cabman speculates on his fare. To one he charges 50,000 rubles for a ride and to another 100,000 or 200,000, according to his wit.

There is speculation in cloth. Most of the good cloth now in Russia is smuggled in. A little money is paid here, there, everywhere, and the cloth gets in. Then speculation takes place in its distribution.

THE SUBMARINE AND POISON GAS

All Except Naval And Military Men Would Vote For Outlawry

We venture the statement that if the question of the abolition of the submarine and poison gas from warfare were submitted to the popular vote, 95 percent of the citizens of the United States would vote that they be outlawed.

In drawing attention to these 5 percent (and it is possible that it would prove to be even less than that) we have no wish to call in question the humanitarianism of the professional soldier or sailor. They have been trained to look upon the question of war, especially in these later days, from the standpoint of the strategist, the engineer, the mechanic, and the chemist, and while it is true that no body of men is possessed of a finer spirit of civility, or more real human kindness, than the officers of our Army and Navy, the fact remains that for them war represents fundamentally the question of how to put the largest numbers of men most speedily out of action, either by death, wounding, or capture.

The moral aspects of war, and of the methods of waging it, on the other hand, are more immediately a matter of national concern, and the present popular and all but universal aversion, both to poison gas and the submarine, is due to the fact, that during the late war, the people of the United States in common with those of Great Britain, France, Italy, and all the Allied nations, took deeply to heart such horrors as the first poison gas attack on the Ploeghe front, and the loss of twelve hundred non-combatants on the "Lusitania" by submarine attack.

So far as poison gas is concerned, the fact that non-combatants (women, children, and aged people) can be subjected to wholesale extermination by gas attack from the air, is sufficient in itself to set a black mark against this form of warfare for all time.

The Permanent Monthly Income of Mrs. Crillon

SEVERAL years ago, James Crillon had a talk with a banker friend of his, in the course of which the latter asked, "What sort of insurance are you carrying?"

Mr. Crillon had to reply that he only carried a small amount of "straight life." His friend pointed out the need of adequate insurance and furthermore explained to him the importance of the "Permanent Monthly Income Policy" of the North American Life Assurance Company.

He told Mr. Crillon that without such a Policy he was leaving on his wife's shoulders a responsibility the average woman should not be asked to bear. He pointed out the danger of the money from the Estate falling into the hands of some unscrupulous promoter.

Such a Policy, explained the Banker, "will provide your wife an assured income coming in each month—besides enabling you to leave an Estate free from trustee charges and taxes."

Mr. Crillon took the advice of his friend the banker—that's why Mrs. Crillon now draws $200 each month from the North American Life Assurance Company. The principal is safe from foolish expenditures—safe from the hard luck experiences of relatives—safe from venturesome investments—safe for the one person it was intended for and whose comfort it is designed to ensure for the rest of her life.

KEELY'S MOTOR A FAMOUS SWINDLE

Inventor Claimed To Have Solved Problem Of Perpetual Motion—Died Poor

One of the most picturesque and successful of swindlers of the Nineteenth Century was John Ernest Worrall Keely, who induced the credulous public to part with five million dollars in the belief that he had solved the problem of perpetual motion, and had invented a motor that would revolutionize industry. Like most of the other fakers, Keely died poor, owing only the house he lived in. Like them, too, he did not have to wheedle their savings from the investors. They fought to give him their money. Police were summoned to keep them in line. At length he had to announce that only a certain limited number of shares would be sold each day. People stood in line to buy their allotment, like people stand in line to buy tickets for famous hockey or baseball games. The stock was issued with a par value of $50. Swiftly it soared to $200. Then it dropped to a dollar a share, and after that became worthless, except as waste paper or as a souvenir.

Afraid of Edison.

The Keely motor was an utter fake, but it fooled scientists, or rather, Keely's amazing patter dumfounded them. He had a smattering of knowledge of various sciences, and an expert in one branch would be deluded by Keely posing as an authority in some other branch. He impressed the electrical engineer with the idea that he was a physicist, and the physicist was left under the impression that he was an electrical wizard. One noted man he failed to bamboozle. Thomas Edison, on no account would he permit to examine his invention. Edison offered to give any bond demanded that he would not steal any of Keely's ideas, and asked merely that he be permitted to examine the wonder, assistance in making it practicable. Keely barricaded his house when the Edison visit was impending, and announced that only over his dead body would Edison be permitted to enter.

Sleight-of-hand Expert.

Keely was a Philadelphian and a kind of jack of all trades. He was a cabinet maker, and had a talent for machinery. He was the conductor of a small band, and at one time traveled with a circus, where he specialized in sleight-of-hand entertainments. He found an angel in Mrs. Bloomfield Moore, of Philadelphia, who financed his earlier experiments with his motor, and who was afflicted with a re-

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops aching, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

It was her belief that what Keely had discovered and succeeded in harnessing, was "the will of God." She advanced him money, and every now and then he issued an announcement that the work was progressing. The newspapers published these announcements, which appeared for some years before the motor was completed, and by the time Keely declared that he was satisfied, he had thousands of people believing in him.

A Magnificent Faker.

Keely had a magnificent presence if one disregarded his shirt and huge hands, which were usually dirty, but he had a noble commanding manner, and an astounding flow of words that nobody could understand. When uttered with the greatest emphasis, they simply dazed the ignorant, while the better educated were ashamed to admit that they did not understand what the great inventor was driving at. Keely never applied for a patent, but carried his great secret locked in his massive brain. Nobody ever learned anything about his motor. He habitually used a jargon. Asked after an incomprehensible demonstration to explain the theory of the thing, he said gravely: "It is simple, very simple. Simply the interchange of polar and depolar sympathy. Is that clear?" If it wasn't it was as clear as any other explanation he ever offered.

Fueled Business Men.

Men prominent in finance and the world of business were Keely's first discovery. When he announced his discovery, a distinguished group of New Yorkers employed a patent solicitor to examine the machine. He reported favorably, and they at once gave him money to purchase Keely stock. This started the boom. It took three years and expenditure of $60,000 to build the first large machine. Then it was declared a failure. There were several other failures but eventually a machine was produced with which Keely gave a demonstration which was considered a success. Stock was sold all over the United States and in Europe. But as time went by no machine capable of working was turned out. The stockholders demanded to know the

KING'S SISTERS HAVE TO WORK

Under New Compulsory Labor Law Of Bulgarian State—All Women Work

Sofia, March 24 — Even King Boris' two sisters, the Princess Eudoxia and Nadejda will be obliged to contribute their share of work to the Bulgarian state under the new compulsory labor law which required all women up to 30 years of age to give at least 10 days of their time every year in useful work to the community.

This ruling has been made by the stern peasant Premier, Alexander Stamboulsky, the most powerful man in Bulgaria and maker and breaker of kings.

Bulgarian women, said the Premier, will be compelled to make garments and bed linen for hospitals, contribute useful labor to orphanages and asylums, help to care for the poor and so on. Girls under 20 years old will be obliged for a period of three months in each year to study domestic science and the useful arts so that they may become more productive factors to society and contribute to the common good.

Premier Stamboulsky says that one of the causes of Bulgaria's rapid recovery from the war is the work done for the state by what is called here the volunteer labor army. He estimates the value of its work at 350,000,000 levas (nominally worth about 15 cents each).

"The volunteer army has been an entire success," said M. Stamboulsky. "It has built roads, street, waterways, bridges, canals, warehouses, schoolhouses and sanitary systems. It has drained swamps, tilled the land and planted trees." The Premier pointed out that Bulgaria now has a law prohibiting the sale of liquor at bars unless the voters decide they want it. "You see," he said, "we are following somewhat in the path of you Americans in regard to prohibition. Some day Bulgaria may be completely dry."

The courts held that Keely should divulge. He refused and was committed to jail for contempt of court. Little more stock was sold and there were no machines. Keely died of pneumonia in 1888, and if he had any secret, save that of extracting money from the credulous, it died with him.

A TWO-FAMILY BUNGALOW

DESIGNED BY CHAS. S. BIRDWOOD

IN these days of business depression, it behooves the home builder to look after ways and means of financing his home. And one of the surest and easiest ways to do this is to build a two family house. Such a home is economical in every way and with two bath rooms, as in the house shown to day, the owner's privacy is in no way interfered with.

As a glance at the floor plan will show each apartment in this house has its own private entrance, its own bath room, its own porch and its own basement. Each also contains living room, kitchen, bed room and bath, also two porches and several closets. The rooms are comfortably and attractively arranged, and for the young married couple or for mother and daughter or, indeed, for two young business girls, these apartments are particularly suited. All corresponding rooms are the same size.

This bungalow is designed especially for a corner lot, but it could be adapted for an inner lot just as well. There is a central chimney with flue for each apartment, and the kitchens are conveniently arranged.

Of frame construction with wide colonial siding and with the upper sections and gables stuccoed, this bungalow makes an exceptionally pretty appearance, and looks from the outside like one large low spreading bungalow rather than a two family house. Each basement has concrete foundation and is fully equipped for laundries, heating rooms, coal bins, etc. The floors of this house are of oak and casings are of pine, enameled white. Exclusive of the plumbing and heating, it is estimated that it would cost between $5,000 and $6,000 to build.

GERMAN MASTIFF IS REAL ACTOR

Has Rare Sense Of Humor
And Possesses Unique Talents—Defends Animals

Berlin, Mar. 24—Attention here has just been directed to the mental development of certain animals by an astonishing description by Theodore Zell of the talent for acting possessed by a German mastiff named, Tom which he owns.

At the same time a book by Herr Zell on "Our Domestic Animals" may serve to stimulate afresh interest in this field of German science.

Tom, however, is not so enlightened as his famous predecessor Rolf, an Alredale, belonging to a Mannheim attorney, for Rolf learned to read and spell and was able to express himself in well formed sentences, which he signalled with a paw in a code of his own devising like the Morse code. Neither is Tom so well informed as were the famous Elberfeld horses, which stamped out words with their hoofs and solved mathematical riddles like extraction of the fourth and fifth roots. But Tom evidently has genius and represents a new type, both with regard to histrionic gifts and sense of humor.

Tom might be called the first pacifist among dogs, on account of his passionate interference when he sees some animal being beaten and because of his extreme dislike to quarrels.

Most interesting is his behavior, Herr Zell writes, when he has an opportunity to hide away in his large jaws some article, such as a stocking which Zell's daughter is knitting or some similar object essential to her needlework. Evidently Tom imagines that he hides it with out her knowledge, for when she begins, with exaggerated industry, to search for the stolen article, Tom assumes a particularly stupid expression, as if in an effort to show he has not the slightest idea of where it might be found. If Herr Zell happens to be present, Tom will wait for a moment when Fraulein Zell is not looking and then he will open his jaws wide enough so his master can see what he has in his mouth, meanwhile showing a slight tinge of the corners of his eyes, whereupon he will close his mouth again and immediately resume his former stupid countenance.

Only when Fraulein Zell asks Tom to point blank, "Tom, do you know where my stocking can be?" will the game end.

Lord Northcliffe was given an opportunity to hear two sides of the Zionist question. A delegation of Orthodox Jews which waited on him protested against Zionism. Later a deputation of Zionists called and requested an expression from him on the Balfour declaration of Great Britain's intention to make this a Jewish homeland. To this latter delegation, the British publisher said:

"No one wishes the Jews to return to the Holy Land more than I do but I have the greatest regret of the need of armored cars. You exaggerate the idea that the only topic we have in England is Zion. Every one does not agree as yet on the interpretation of the Balfour declaration."

He reminded the Zionists that Orthodox Jewry did not occur in the political aims of Zionism as indicated by the delegation from the fact that he had previously called upon him.

Concluding, Lord Northcliffe expressed the hope that Arabs and Jews would be more reasonable in their demands upon England and work together for the good of Palestine.

This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

The hostess, an amiable bundle of recently acquired wealth, was doing her utmost to hide the fact that she was not familiar with the intricate manipulation of an oyster fork. Following the principle, "When in doubt, keep still," she placed her large, fat, red hand across the front elevation of her expansive waist.

Suddenly there came a general lull in the chatter, and a bright youth turned to his hostess and muttered, sagaciously: "Awful pause, pause, eh?"

The hostess, unitching herself, as it were, and thrusting her enormous knuckles out of sight, blurted out: "Yes, and so would yours be if you'd had to work as hard as I did before the war."

CONDITIONS IN THE HOLY LAND

Northcliffe Surprised On Visit To Jerusalem At Precautions Taken To Guard Him

Jerusalem, March 24—Lord Northcliffe, British newspaper publisher, expressed surprise on his visit here that it was deemed necessary to meet him and escort him through the streets with armored cars. He said it was a source of wonder to him how little the people in England and America knew about the conditions existing in the Holy Land.

Voicing regret that he found Palestine so unhappy, he asserted that the British public "was imperfectly informed regarding the feeling in Palestine" and he added that he hoped Palestinians would not move too quickly and make Palestine "another Ireland."

CANADA'S BRITISH TRADE KEEPS UP

Exports Of $296,000,000 For 12 Months Nearly Equal 1921

Ottawa, March 24—Further details of the trade of Canada for the month of January indicate that exports fell off much more to the United States than to Great Britain. The total to the United Kingdom for January 1922, was $16,933,905 out of a total of $46,198,000. To the United States there was exported $21,150,561. For exports to the United Kingdom at $48,000,000. The previous year showed exports to the United Kingdom at $28,000,000 where those to the United States had been $474,000,000. Thus exports to Great Britain declined only $14,000,000, whereas those to the United States had declined $226,000,000.

The imports for the month of January from Great Britain held up much better than those from the United States. The former amounted to $9,704,000 compared with $11,215,000 one year ago, whereas imports from the United States were $33,539,000 compared with $51,823,000. For the ten months ending in January 1922, the imports from Great Britain were $93,479,000 as against $185,814,000 for the previous period. In the case of imports from the United States they declined from $745,000,000 to $424,000,000.

A compilation has been made for the twelve months ending January 1922, showing exports to the United Kingdom nearly equal to those of the previous year, $296,000,000 as against $332,000,000. On the other hand exports to the United States declined from $551,000,000 to $315,000,000. Thus for the twelve month period exports to the United Kingdom represented 38 per cent of the total, as against 22 per cent one year before, while exports to the United States were only 41 per cent one year before.

ELECTRICITY NOW CONQUERS SWEDEN

If Present Rate Of Progress Maintained Electric Country In Few Years

Stockholm, March 24—Electricity has conquered one-third of the entire cultivated area of Sweden, according to the latest official reports.

If Sweden continues electrifying at the present rate, it will only be a few years till almost the whole country will be run by electricity.

Most of the farms within the electrified area are now tapping the new source of energy, and nearly all the power used in the daily labor on these farms is derived from the high-power lines which span whole sections of the country.

Large power stations deliver most of the electric energy used in the rural communities; but in many places the farmers themselves have installed turbines and built private power stations, harnessing for this purpose swift streams and small waterfalls on their own properties. These enterprises, however, are generally co-operative.

A great deal of the most arduous farm labor is performed by electrically-driven machinery at a cost far below the cost of machines propelled by steam or horse-power or of hand labor. Water is pumped for cattle by electricity, threshing machines are driven by electric current, timber is sawed by motor power, and farm hands are no longer ordered to cut firewood by hand because it is cheaper to have even that labor done by electricity. Candles have almost disappeared.

In many cases grain is dried and cleared by being passed through electrically-driven hot-air fanning machines. It is not uncommon to find on the larger estates electric elevators which lift entire wagon loads of hay or grain and dump them where desired in the barns.

One Swedish estate owner has installed an electrically operated irrigation system whereby a large field can be watered in times of drought. It is now only a matter of a short time till plows and harrows will be propelled by electric power.

Brought Back From China By Collector For Edinburgh University

Rangoon, March 24—F. Kingdon Ward, explorer and author, has arrived in Rangoon from a nine-months trip into China, five months of which were spent in the independent kingdom of Mull in Chinese Tibet.

Mr. Ward spent most of his time on this trip in collecting plants for Edinburgh University, bringing back with him about a thousand varieties of rare plants, some of which are new and unclassified. He also found four new species of the blue poppy. These, with their seeds, have been shipped to Edinburgh.

After traveling through northern Burma and a part of China, he entered Chinese Tibet and headed for Mull, a small kingdom, covering about 15,000 square miles, with many high mountain peaks, some of which are over 20,000 feet above the sea. Mr. Ward said that was ruled by a powerfully built man, a lama, who lived in an enormous monastery surrounded by a guard of 6,000 warriors.

Mr. Ward found on arriving there that the lama was suffering from disease, but he soon recovered under the explorer's treatment and thereafter Mr. Ward was given quarters in the monastery for himself and a companion and his servants were well looked after.

In Mull and the adjoining kingdoms the party found that the villages, though few and sparsely settled, are all extremely prosperous. This is explained by an abundance of gold which is washed out of the river sand in many places. White men are not welcomed in these places as the rulers suspect that they come for gold.

Mountain sheep abound in Mull, living about the high cliffs, which are mostly devoid of vegetation.

Internal parasites in the shape of worms in the stomach and bowels of children sap their vitality and retard physical development. They keep the child in a constant state of unrest and, if not attended to, endanger life. The child can be spared much suffering and the mother much anxiety by using a reliable worm remedy, such as Miller's Worm Powder, which are sure death to worms.

Syracuse Company Inaugurates Plan To Make Its Service Universal

Franklin representation throughout the United States will be largely increased during the coming year, according to a statement made yesterday by Vice-President A. G. Maney, of the Franklin Automobile Company of Syracuse.

"We are setting our mark at 250 new dealerships, to begin with," said Mr. Maney, "but this number will be gradually added to in order to care for the distribution of the Franklin Four. We now have over 500 dealers. We expect in time to have several thousand in order that Franklin Service may be made practically universal."

"The excellent sales record of the Company during 1921, in which period it ran far ahead of the average of the industry, has brought

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Honestly advertised as such, without a claim for more than its over 30 years of use have amply proven. A Baby's remedy for Babies. And not an adult's remedy for all the family and all the ails that human flesh is heir to.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

Over Five Thousand People Of All Classes Gathered In Oporto

Lisbon, Mar. 24—Over 5,000 persons of various classes took part in a demonstration in Oporto in a peaceable protest against the high price of living. It is said that the same thing will be done here as the present situation is untenable not alone to the poorer people, some of whom are said to be literally dying of starvation, but also in many of the middle classes.

Prices are soaring from day to day and some of the indispensable necessities of life are becoming inaccessible to any but the rich. Codfish, once the staple food of the people, is now a luxury only obtainable by the wealthy.

No official measures have any effect on the maoeuvers of profiteers. The unprecedented fall of exchange is considered sufficient excuse for everyone to advance the prices as they think fit.

Syracuse, Mar. 24—H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile Company, today announced that the plant in which the new Franklin Four will be manufactured will be located in Syracuse. Efforts had been made to persuade the Franklin Company to purchase available factories in fifteen other cities.

Mr. Franklin announced that eventually the company will produce 100 four-cylinder cars a day to sell in the $1,000 class. Running at full time the proposed plant will employ about 5,000 men. The payroll will aggregate $10,000,000 annually.

The new machine will be placed on the market April 1, next year.

Announcement that the Company is to produce in 1922 a Four Cylinder car to sell at $1,000 brought an additional flood of inquiries, not only for sales rights, but letters from individuals seeking to place their order at once to insure early delivery. The Company now has under way the most aggressive advertising campaign in its history, involving the use of full page copy in 160 newspapers at principal points throughout the United States. It is devoted to our 1922 sales plan which involves demonstrations extending from 50 to 500 miles, or more, over all kinds of roads. REMARKABLE TRIP OF MOUNTED MAN

Member Of Northwest Mounted Police Had Man-Sized Job On Hands

The motto of the North-West Mounted Police, "Maintien le droit" was freely translated by the troopers to mean "Go where you are sent," says The New York Herald. This famous police force has been reorganized and has a new name, but its traditions and sense of duty have descended to its successor and its co-operating bodies. An instance of this is found in a recent official report by the Saskatchewan Provincial Police, and constitutes one of the most remarkable details ever given to a single police officer, in that it was undertaken in the mid-Winter of Northwestern Canada. It entailed 163 days of consecutive duty with the necessity of providing food supplies in an almost uninhabited region and it involved a journey of 1,900 miles by snowshoe, dog teams and canoes the thermometer hovering all the time between 30 and 50 degrees below zero.

Fifty Below Zero.

An Indian tramping down from the Arctic circle region told a priest at Fond du Lac on the northern frontier of Saskatchewan, that he had found a man dead in a shack about 100 miles away. The priest notified the commanding officer of the police at Prince Albert, 500 miles to the south. Within an hour Officer M. Chappius was on his way to investigate the matter. It is from his report written with the least expenditure of words and with no attempt at magnifying his task that the details of his trips are gathered. When he reached Isle la Crosse on February 16, he had to buy a dog team and a sleigh "owing to the fact that no one would hire me a sleigh, and no one would make the trip with his own dogs." Five days afterwards, when he reached Cree Lake, the snow was four feet deep and the thermometer about 50 degrees below zero.

Near Starvation.

He refused to go farther and the native Indians declared it was impossible to reach Fond du Lac, but a white trapper agreed to accompany him. The only food he could buy was four quarters of caribou. On March 12 they had left only a little tea and half a ham and no food for the dogs, but he says "we kept on." The next day "we had nothing to eat, our dog team got smaller, as I had to leave my dogs behind, which were eaten by wolves." In the evening of March 14 his feelings were revived by the sight of a shack, the first he saw since leaving Cree Lake. He found in it some frozen fish. "I took fifty of them; I could have taken more, but it is not a good policy, as I did not know who was the owner of the fish and was afraid of putting him in the same position we were almost at." He found out later, however, who the owner was and paid him "10 cents a fish, making a total payment of $5."

Burying the Body.

After he had reached Fond du Lac he had yet an eight-day journey on snowshoes, as the dog team could not travel much of the way owing to high banks of snow. He found that the man whose death he had come to investigate had died from natural causes, perhaps cold or starvation. He had been dead at least a year. It was impossible to bury the body on account of the solid rock. So, he says:

"I pulled the rock stove to pieces and brought in some stones from the outside and lowered the bed and body to the ground; after wrapping up the remains with a blanket and wood over the body, I placed the stones on top, thereby forming a grave. Before leaving I nailed up the door and window and wrote on the door in English, French, Cree and Chipewyan that this was the grave of Emmanuel Person and that no person was to interfere or attempt to go inside the shack."

A Real Policeman.

A few details, which were crowded into the last paragraph of the report and which Officer Chappius almost forgot to mention, were that the trip back "was harder owing to the fact that I took a lunatic at the request of the residents of Fond du Lac and handed him over to the Alberta Provincial Police," that he saw no game, but was never out of sight of a large number of wolves, and that for such of the distance "there was such a blizzard blowing that we could not see the dogs in front of us." Chappius has a man's job, and for a man's job he has a man's courage and resources and of the kind that looks upon "insurmountable obstacles" only as something to be overcome. Obedience of orders was as natural as drawing breath; he was sent and he did what he set out to do. He was the real policeman, to whom the sense of duty is above everything else, and it matters little whether his post covers 1,900 miles of Canadian snow or a city street.

absence of good repairmen that watches do not last longer. He thinks the average life of a watch in the United States (and this would apply to Canada, where most of our watches are of American or Swiss origin) is about four years. A properly made watch, put occasionally into the hands of an expert repairman should last more than a lifetime. In the days when watches were made by hand, and when only experts repaired them, they outlived their owners and were often handed down as heirlooms, keeping as good time for a second, or even for a third generation, as for the first, and being laid away finally, not because of their failure to keep time, but because they had become unfashionable in size and appearance.

The Dollar Watch.

For some time the American method of quantity production did not make headway in Europe. The watchmakers there were thoroughly trained, with the result that the expert repairmen came largely from Switzerland and Austria. But the factory method of watch-making and no longer turns out the expert repairmen. Of course, the Ingersoll and Waterbury watches helped fill the breach. A man who buys a watch for a dollar does not need an expert to repair it. When time he throws it away like a used razor blade and buys another. But one infers from a recent failure that the demand for dollar watches is not as great as it was before, and nowadays usually buys what he thinks will be a permanent one.

The Wrist Watch.

According to this expert, who was interviewed by the Philadelphia Public Ledger, the smaller a watch is, the greater is the difficulty in making a good timekeeper. A tiny watch that will keep time requires much greater skill in manufacture than a larger watch, for it is much more difficult to get all its parts properly adjusted. The watch that is carried on the wrist was much rougher going than the watch that is carried in one position in a pocket, since it is constantly changing positions. The woman's watch that swings from a ribbon around her neck is due for hard bumps, but the one that is pinned to her dress is likely to keep good time.

Buffalo, N.Y., March 24.—The police and the sheriff's office today were trying to solve the problem of how bar silver worth between $3,500 and $4,000 came to be buried on the farm of Lewis Salmon, on the east bank of the Niagara River near La Salle.

Salmon called on a Buffalo jeweler yesterday with a sample of the metal which he had turned up with a spade. Learning that it was real bullion Salmon reported his find to the police and, accompanied by an officer, returned to the farm. They dug up 44 bars, each six inches long.

INFORMATION ON YOUR TIMEPIECE

Man Should Become Expert Watch Repairer—It Is Uncrowded Position

One gathers from a statement of Dr. Arthur F. Beal, the horological expert of the United States Bureau of Standards, that if a man desired to enter a business which is not overcrowded, nor is likely to be, and which will pay high wages, he ought to become an expert watch repairer. The old craft is dying out and a concerted effort is being made to revive it by two or three large watch-making industries and by the Horological Institute of America. The plan is to grade watch repairmen according to their skill, and to issue certificates for each of three grades. A man whose watch is out of order may then ask the jeweler to whom he takes it if he has an expert of the first order, and if he has not, he will likely go to another shop where a man of the highest skill may be found. Jewelers everywhere, says Dr. Beal, will be anxious that their repairmen should have these certificates and will insist upon them undergoing the necessary tests. The Horological Institute of America is just now ready to begin giving examinations to watchmakers.

Spoiled by Factories.

Expert watch repairmen are becoming scarce because of the American system of watchmaking. Until the present generation, watch making was largely a task of hand-work in which the mechanic knew the detail of all the processes. Then came quantity production and the invention of machinery, which did away with manual skill. The worker in the watch factory became an individual who presided over a machine which performed one of the hundred odd processes necessary to the manufacture of a watch. He moved a crank and a certain part of a watch was stamped out. He was not required to know anything about the other processes. The watch goes down a line of assemblers and each one puts in a part or adjusts a screw. In the end it reaches the adjuster, the only one in the shop who sees the watch as a whole, and has to deal with it as a watch. Properly trained, the adjuster could become an expert repairman, but he is about the only one in the factory whose experience would be of much use to him in fixing a watch that was out of order.

Motorists May Organize International Protective Council --After Franklin As Leader

Syracuse, N.Y., March 24.—A recent newspaper statement by H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Company, on the appalling number of accidents caused by reckless driving of automobiles, brought a response from many parts of the country, indicating that a large number of people had given this situation some consideration.

Solon C. Thayer, architect of Rochester, Pa., wrote to Mr. Franklin, proposing an organization to be known as the International Automobile Protective Council, which will have for its principal object the elimination of all automobile accidents through securing uniform national, state and municipal laws, a complete plan of organization with constitution, by-laws, etc.

The object of the organization, as outlined by its founder in his communication to Mr. Franklin, are as follows:—

To promote uniformity of laws, rules, regulations, signs and signals throughout the United States and Canada.

To eliminate all avoidable accidents by securing uniform national, state and municipal laws and the strict enforcement of the same.

To regulate the grant of licenses to unskilled and reckless auto vehicle owners and drivers.

To encourage honesty and permanence in road construction and the repairing of roads; also, the maintenance of good detours.

To seek the elimination of all steam and electric railroad grade crossings.

To secure honest and fair treatment at the hands of the proprietors of supply houses, garages, hotels, restaurants, wayside inns and camping grounds.

To establish quick and ready communication between supply houses, garages, hotels and police stations for the more perfect protection against theft and burglary.

To establish a system of prompt and efficient relief to Council members in case of accident on the road and away from home.

To establish training schools in each county, where novices or others desiring information in reference to handling the automobile or other motor vehicle can go and, at nominal prices, obtain all necessary information in regard to handling his machine and familiarize him or herself with the laws, rules and regulations governing the same.

Lastly—To do all things tending to make the motor vehicle a more safe, profitable, convenient and enjoyable instrument, and to work in harmony with all other motor clubs or organizations to the one common end.

HEAVY TAX ON RENTS VIENNA'S LATEST PLAN

In Effort To Solve Housing Plan--Hope To Collect Many Kronen

Vienna, March 24.—The state of Vienna is attempting to solve the housing problem by putting a heavy tax on rents from which it hopes to collect 1,500,000,000 kronen a year, which sum is to be used to construct dwellings to be rented without profit.

The state government is strongly Social Democratic and opponents of the measure, who are chiefly property owners, denounce it as socialization of housing.

The tax is made payable by the tenant. The lowest tax rate would be 100 percent on a rent amounting to 3,000 kronen a year and it would increase until on a surtax basis the maximum tax would be 1,000 percent of the rent paid by the tenant.

Rents are now limited by law and it is claimed that private investors would have to get 600 times the legal rate of rent in order to make it profitable for them to build homes.
