Missing girls found camping near Magog

ROCK ISLAND — (Special) — Two young Rock Island girls reported missing last Thursday were returned to their families yesterday after having been picked up in Magog by police.

Rock Island - Stanstead Police Chief Ronald Ticehurst said yesterday the girls had gone on a camping trip in Eastman following their disappearance last Thursday.

Reports that the two teenage girls had entered a car with two young Montrealeers on the day they disappeared were accurate, said the chief.

They were returned home safely yesterday afternoon, police spokesman said. He added they had not been molested.

The two girls, 15-year-old Barbara Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Gibson, and 14-year-old Jeanie Norton Haskell, daughter of Mrs. F. Norton Haskell, both of Rock Island were found after a relative of Barbara Gibson told police of seeing the pair at Trouser Lake near Eastman.

Police said the girls had no idea a search was going on to find them.

Concerning the two boys who were reported seen with the girls last Thursday in Rock Island before they disappeared, police in Rock Island said that one of the boys had nothing to do with the incident while the other, who is 18 years old and believed to be from Montreal, is being sought for questioning.

Sportsmen charged with tax evasion

TORONTO (CP) — Stafford Smythe and Harold Ballard, directors of Maple Leaf Gardens Ltd., were charged Wednesday with income tax evasion and making false or deceptive statements on income tax returns.

Their lawyer said they were to appear at RCMP headquarters today to accept summonses and are to appear in court July 17.

Information under the Income Tax Act involving $278,920 for Smythe and $134,685 for Ballard were sworn Wednesday by federal investigators.

The informations allege that between April, 1965, and April, 1968, Smythe and Ballard used money appropriated from Maple Leaf Gardens, home of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, on constructing and improving their residences and for personal and family expenses.

Penalties under the Income Tax Act depend on whether the Crown proceeds summarily or through indictment. A summary proceeding involves a trial in provincial court. Upon conviction there is a minimum fine of $25 and a maximum of $10,000 on each count, plus double the tax that should be paid and possibly imprisonment for up to three years.

If the Crown decides to proceed by indictment, which would be before a higher court, imprisonment, in addition to the other penalties, could be as high as five years and not less than two months.

Long struggle shapes up in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The opposition kept up its attack on the government's debate-limiting motion in the Commons Wednesday, as signs continued to point to a protracted struggle over the contentious proposal.

While matters did not reach the stage where books and papers were being hurled, as happened in the British House of Commons Tuesday night, there were indications of a growing edginess that could evolve into something less restrained as summer deepens.

A possible portent was the cut which NDP Leader T. C. Douglas made at Privy Council President Donald Macdonald, government leader in the House, after Mr. Macdonald had interrupted a speech the NDP chief was making.

"He couldn't care less about parliamentary tradition," said

Mr. Douglas. "He sits where he does because he happened to back the right man at a political convention and because he is an obedient and supine hatchet man."

The motion under consideration would give the government power to limit Commons debate on public bills where a majority of the four parties in the House have failed to reach agreement on a time-allotment formula.

The proposed rule is similar in many respects to one which the government advanced last December, but then withdrew under fierce opposition fire.

SEES BLOW TO DEMOCRACY

In his speech Mr. Douglas maintained that by ramming the proposed rule 75C through the House, "the government is doing violence to Parliament and is weakening the democratic process."

If dissent cannot be expressed in Parliament, it will take to the streets, he said. "If democracy is to survive it must survive in this place of all places."

James Jerome (L.-Sudbury) said the proposed rule is part of an over-all program to modernize the procedures of the House.

Mr. Jerome was critical of the amount of time the House spent debating the government's omnibus bill to amend the Criminal Code last spring, especially that portion of the bill dealing with liberalizing the law on abortion.

Gordon Aiken (P.C.—Party Sound-Muskoka) asked how the government can program its legislation "when nobody knows what its legislative program is."

What kind of programming was it when the government put an item on the Commons order paper one day and wanted it taken care of the next?

"What kind of programming is it when bills like the water act are promised for a year and a half, but never appear on the order paper?"

Wallace Nesbitt (P.C.—Oxford) suggested that "the triumvirate that runs the country" — Mr. Trudeau, State Secretary Gerard Pelletier and Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand — favors a presidential system for Canada. If the government wants a presidential system, said Mr. Nesbitt, why does it not say so and allow Parliament to debate the change?

CROSS-TOWN PORTAGE — Canoeists from Camp Wilvaken begin a portage yesterday between the St. Francis and Magog Rivers in Sherbrooke. (Record photo: Gerry Lemay)

Paddle and portage towards accord

Intrepid explorers from Camp Wilvaken on Lovering Lake passed through Sherbrooke yesterday on a three-day canoe trip from North Hatley to Little Lake Magog. The 21-member expedition came ashore from the St. Francis River near Allatt's Bakery and portaged their way, complete with bulging knapsacks and canoes, to the Magog river where they could again take to the water.

The campers hoped to paddle to Rock Forest during the day and spend the night there. Today they plan to complete the final leg of the trip to Little Lake Magog where their equipment will be transported back to the home camp.

Dr. Kenneth R. Willis, a member of the canoe tripping party and a director of Camp Wilvaken, said the camp was founded with the aim of promoting international understanding. To this end the 105 children attending the camp come from both French and English-speaking families and a Belgian girl took part in the canoe trip.

Bank boss sees hope

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons committee inquiry into the causes and effects of high interest rates adjourned Wednesday until late August. By that time, the success or failure of government efforts to control inflation may be more evident.

Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada and the finance committee's first witness, said Wednesday that high interest rates are a manifestation rather than the cause of rising prices and costs.

The man who presides over the government agency which sets the tone of credit and money-supply conditions, Mr. Rasminsky repeatedly told the committee during his four days before it that he sees a glimmer of light on the horizon.

High interest is cash rationing method

People are not now as ready as they were a few weeks or months ago to commit themselves to new spending on the basis of funds borrowed at current high rates of interest.

CITE PRESENT RATES
The Bank of Canada now charges the chartered banks and other money-market dealers 7½ per cent a year on the rare — and always short-term — drawings they make from the central bank. The chartered banks now charge their most credit-worthy customers 8½ per cent.

All other interest rates range higher than that: Close to 10 per cent on government-guaranteed mortgages; nearly 20 per cent on department store "easy-payment" plans; and 24 per cent or more on capital goods leasing plans for heavy industry.

Mr. Rasminsky defended high interest as the only way the banks can ration the funds they have available for lending. He said it is impractical and unworkable for the government or the Bank of Canada to set artificially-low interest rates.

In his fight against excessive borrowing and spending, the central bank has forced the chartered banks to rein in their liquid reserves, the money they have available to lend. They now must hold more secondary reserves—cash in addition to the basic minimum required by law—and Mr. Rasminsky said this requirement can be raised again.

The root cause of inflation, Mr. Rasminsky said, is that people—including businessmen — are demanding more from the economy in higher wages, goods and services and prices than the country is capable of meeting. The productive capacity of the country is nearing its peak, particularly in the highly-industrial parts of Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia.

The only way to dampen this demand, in Mr. Rasminsky's classical view of economics, is to make it so costly to borrow that people will reduce their demands and allow some slack to be created in the economy. This means letting some unemployment of men and machinery develop, so that wage and industrial expansion pressures will moderate.

He described it as an unfortunate fact that the less-developed parts of the country—the Atlantic provinces and eastern Quebec—have to be affected as well as the prosperous parts of Canada. He told the committee he has asked the banks to give preference to these under-developed areas in their lending but the same high interest rates will have to prevail there.

Preference also is to be given to small businessmen, who are not as capable of generating their own expansion funds as big business, and to Canadian borrowers as opposed to foreign demand.

But Mr. Rasminsky said the Bank of Canada does not have the power, nor does it wish, to force a roll-back of interest rates across the country or in any particular area. Setting artificially-low rates simply drives demand elsewhere.

US Senate backs big troop callback out of Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders have approved a call for a far greater cut in U.S. troop strength in Europe than now planned by the White House.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield described as inadequate President Nixon's order to withdraw some 15,000 military men from overseas bases during the next year.

The White House did not disclose the specific areas involved, but the order announced Wednesday exempted Vietnam and other spots of trouble and tension.

It was learned the Senate Democratic policy committee already has agreed to back a resolution urging the administration to substantially reduce U.S. manpower in Western Europe.

Mansfield, the resolution's chief sponsor, said he will formally introduce the measure later this year.

He said the United States is maintaining 2,700 bases, 400 of them major installations, covering 4,000 square miles in 30 foreign nations.

All told, he said, some 1,750,000 troops, dependents and employees are based overseas. Mansfield said it would represent real progress if those figures were cut by half.

The White House announced 14,900 men will be brought back to the United States during the next year "in the interests of lessening budget and balance of payments costs and of reducing the American presence overseas."

This, plus a reduction of some 5,100 civilian employees abroad, could lead to eventual balance of payments savings of $75,000,000, the White House said.

Civilian payroll cuts are to be general, including a 10 per cent reduction in South Vietnam.

But the military cuts do not apply to forces in South Vietnam, South Korea, Berlin, to other areas of Southeast Asia where U.S. forces supported military operations, or to manpower committed to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Presumably, this means reductions in U.S. forces in Spain, Japan, and Turkey.

WOULD HIT NATO
The kind of cuts Mansfield wants would have to come in the NATO area, exempt from the Nixon order.

The United States has 228,000 men in West Germany alone. Mansfield said the Germans are in far better economic shape than the United States to provide forces for their defence.

Meanwhile, West Germany agreed Wednesday to provide $1,520,000,000 in the next two years to help maintain U.S. troops and their dependents in Germany.

NEWS IN BRIEF
Anti-pollution
OTTAWA (CP) — The old nautical practice of dumping the slop over the side became illegal in Canadian waters Wednesday as a series of amendments to the Canada Shipping Act was whipped through Parliament.

The amendments scrap an archaic section of the act and bring other parts well up to date.

Pot under food?
OTTAWA (CP) — Grace MacInnis NDP — Vancouver Kingsway asked the government Wednesday to give favorable consideration to a suggestion that the regulation of marijuana be placed under the Food and Drugs Acts.

At present it comes under the Narcotics Control Act. Health Minister John Munro, replying to Mrs. MacInnis's Commons question, said the suggestion is pertinent to the government's drug inquiry. He had asked the inquiry for a report in about six months.

The Canadian Home and School and Parent - Teacher Federation adopted a resolution in Toronto Tuesday calling for transfer of marijuana regulations to the drugs act.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE — The most widely known and only cure for seasickness is to give it up!

Moon countdown today: 6 days, 1 hr., 32 min.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The lengthy countdown begins tonight for Apollo 11's journey to the moon.

At 8 p.m. EDT the launch team will feed electrical power to the giant Saturn V rocket, starting the countdown clock ticking toward a liftoff at 9:32 a.m. next Wednesday, July 16.

As crews completed systems checks on the 36-storey-tall rocket-spacecraft combination today, astronauts Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins planned a day-long workout in the command ship simulator. They will practise the engine manoeuvre that shoots them out of earth orbit and sets them on a 250,000-mile course to the moon.

They are to orbit the moon July 19, and the next day Armstrong and Aldrin are to fly a fragile lunar module to man's first landing on the lunar surface.

Early on July 21, first Armstrong, then Aldrin step outside for an exploration period scheduled to last about 2½ hours.

Apollo 11 will carry the first mail, as well as the first man, to the moon.

Postmaster-General Winton Blount said Wednesday the spacecraft will carry a special moon letter and an engraved master stamp die. Upon the astronauts' return, Blount said, the die will be used to produce a 10-cent airmail stamp commemorating the first moon landing.

The letter will be hand-cancelled by Armstrong and Aldrin. Its postmark will read "Moon Landing U.S.A., July 20, 1969."

The countdown is 93 hours, but it is spread over 5½ days. This allows for several planned holds to give the crew rest and time to correct any problems that might arise.

There are only three days this month—the 16th, 18th and 21st—when the moon is in a favorable position for the Apollo 11 launching.

The space agency and astronauts prefer the 16th because that day the landing target is in the Sea of Tranquility. Armstrong and Aldrin have been training for that area.

Busiest port
OTTAWA (CP) — The Quebec harbor of Sept-Îles on the lower St. Lawrence River overtook Vancouver last year as Canada's first seaport in terms of total cargo tonnage hauled.

A report on preliminary 1968 shipping figures issued Wednesday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows Sept-Îles handled 26,012,107 tons of cargo last year, mostly iron ore exports, compared with 22,665,183 tons in 1967.

Vancouver recorded a new high of 25,826,674 tons of all kinds of cargo last year, up from 24,084,527 tons the year before and its seventh straight annual increase. Greater foreign traffic brought about the increase, with exports and imports through Vancouver increasing last year to 15,425,491 tons from 13,557,160 tons in 1967.

The movie column

HOLLYWOOD (AP) With his close-cropped hair and slight figure, Claude Lelouch looks as if he might be the prop boy on a movie set. But when he starts commanding cast and crew, there is no doubt he is a director.

Lelouch is directing a film called Again, a Love Story.

Lelouch has worked with film for most of his 37 years. At 10 he was making movies with his father's home camera. At 17 he toured the United States for his father's textile firm, making two short movies along the way. But his real training ground was television commercials.

"I used to make 300 commercials a year—one every day," he remarked. "It was a great way to learn how to use film; it taught me to have a lot of ideas."

"Now I have my own production company in Paris, and one of the divisions makes commercials—at least 200 a year. I don't make any myself any more; I employ young directors and I enjoy helping them learn. Before, new directors came out of short subjects. Now they learn their trade in commercials."

COMMERCIAL HELPED
It was an auto commercial that contributed to Lelouch's great success, A Man and a Woman. His lyrical photograph of a car in motion formed an important segment of the film.

"The film, I believe, has already made $20,000,000 throughout the world, including $6,000,000 in America," he said. "I was the sole producer, and I controlled the rights everywhere except in the United States. I sold the rights here to Allied Artists so I could have the money to make it."

Lelouch followed with Live for Life, a failure in the U.S. It contained an attack on American participation in the Vietnam war. But the director emphasized that he was not anti-United States.

"It is impossible to judge a nation by one event," he said. "You cannot judge America by Vietnam any more than you could judge France by the Paris riots last May."

Again, a Love Story will take place across the United States, visiting such places as Las Vegas, Kanab, Utah, and New York City. But Lelouch insisted that he is not trying to portray America.

"What I will show is the view of America by two French people—a composer (Jean Paul Belmondo) and a girl (Annie Girardot) who are working with a movie company," said Lelouch. "A Frenchman cannot interpret America any more than an American can interpret France."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

"All butchers don't wear white aprons," remarked the young expert. "I played with one the other day. Of course, I shouldn't have put him in seven but he had promised never to bid a no-trump with less than 16 high-card points. This time he had only 15."

It seems that the so-called butcher had played out dummy's king and queen of diamonds and then proceeded to go down because West held four diamonds to the jack and East the long spades. We can't go along with calling this South a butcher. We feel that only an expert in very good form would have worked out the winning line of play. Here it is:

South wins the spade in dummy and notes that West had almost surely opened a short suit. Then he cashes four clubs, discarding two spades from dummy. He notes that East has shown up with four cards in that suit. Now South runs off three hearts and is careful to discard his seven diamonds. East follows to the hearts also and, in addition, South has noticed that West discarded a heart on the fourth club.

At this point, expert South has some sort of count on the East and West hands. At least, enough of a count so he is pretty sure that West started out with either three or four diamonds. Then he leads a diamond to his ace and sees the eight-spot drop from West. South has to decide right here and now if that eight was a singleton. If he makes the right decision, he leads his 10 of diamonds and lets it ride if West doesn't cover with the jack.

If West does cover, South returns to his hand with the king of spades and now we see why he had to get rid of the diamond seven. He can lead the three and win with dummy's six if West plays the five.

Police say speed causes accidents, deaths on King

TRAFFIC — Police say many city accidents are being caused by speeders. (Record photo: Gerry Lemay)

Closer traffic surveillance and stiffer law enforcements are in the wind for Sherbrooke, following recent fatal accidents on King Street West.

So said Sherbrooke Police Captain Armand Genest when questioned about the matter yesterday.

The captain said King Street West was no more dangerous than any other street in Sherbrooke, but added the boulevard pattern of the street did lead more motorists to speeding.

Concerning recent fatal accidents on King Street West, Capt. Genest said they were caused by excessive speeding and nothing else.

Asked about more patrols as a measure to stop speeding, the captain commented the cry for additional help was a cry of despair of police. In fact, statistics computed by police indicate the situation is normal compared to other years, Captain Genest told the Record.

The only increase recorded by police is in the distribution of speeding tickets, said Lionel

By RICHARD SPALDING (Record Staff Reporter)

Beaudoin, chief statistician at police headquarters. Figures reveal a total of 1,208 speeding tickets were distributed during 1968, compared to an accumulated total of 830 for the first six months of 1969.

Fatal accidents recorded by police for the first six months of '68 and '69 point to a decrease of 45 per cent, with nine accidents and 13 deaths from January '68 to June of the same year, compared to five accidents with six deaths for a same period in '69.

Mr. Beaudoin pointed out there had been no charges of criminal negligence brought against anybody during 1968, while two men have officially been charged this year.

For the same time period, accidents with injuries stood at 49 for last year, with 43 for this year, an indication of a 12 per cent decrease. Figures run high for accidents with damages with approximately 938 cases for the first six months of '68, compared with a total of 890 for the same period in '69, showing a five per cent decrease.

73-YEAR-OLD IS HIT ON KING STREET WEST

A 73-year-old Sherbrooke man is being kept under observation at Sherbrooke Hospital today, after he was hit by a car late yesterday afternoon on King Street West while crossing the street.

Injured is C. W. Chaviris, of 473 Montreal Street. Mr. Chaviris was hit by a car driven by 38-year-old Angelo Jelmini, of 390 10th Avenue South.

Man blamed in road death

Following a coroner's inquest yesterday in Sherbrooke, 22-year-old Raymond Lepine, of Bromptonville, was found criminally responsible for the death of a motorcyclist of the Dirty Reich club.

Lepine is to appear before court this morning to be charged with criminal negligence.

Previously Lepine was charged with impaired driving in connection with the accident.

The fatal accident occurred June 19, when Lepine struck 20-year-old Mario Fortier, of Sherbrooke, on Queen Boulevard.

Fortier never regained consciousness and died in hospital eight days after the accident.

Miss Francine Lauzon, of Sherbrooke, who was with Fortier on the night of the accident, testified that a group of motorcyclists had stopped on Queen Boulevard. She told the coroner that Fortier was standing near his motorcycle, parked two feet off the road, with its lights on when she noticed a car heading in their direction. The car hit the motorcycle and stopped further up the boulevard, she said.

Mitchell school building is empty

At a meeting of the Board of Protestant School Commissioners of the City of Sherbrooke held May 12, 1969, under the chairmanship of C. Lorne Campbell and attended by Commissioners Donald Jones, Jeffrey Wilson, James Ross and Gordon MacMillan, it was unanimously resolved to consolidate the kindergarten and elementary grades in the present High School on Ontario Street.

Further permission has been received from the Directorate of Buildings and Equipment to make minor alterations and repairs at the high school building as may be required to adapt the school to elementary use.

The High School and the Mitchell School are both owned by the Board of Protestant School Commissioners of the new Eastern Townships Regional School at Lennoxville, which the present high school students will attend, the Sherbrooke High School became available and thus the decision to move was made.

Mr. K. A. Bryce, Secretary-Treasurer of the School Board, stated that many reasons influenced the decision. First and foremost the Commissioners wished to take advantage of the ideal situation and spacious grounds. The elementary school, at its present location has never had a playground. The large lot facing Victoria Street will provide this long needed requirement. Secondly, it was stated that since the opening of the bridge leading up to Moore and Queen streets, traffic conditions around the Mitchell School have become very dangerous for both the children crossing streets and for the unloading and loading of school buses morning and afternoon. This condition will be largely overcome by the move.

Vans have been moving the furniture, equipment and school supplies from Mitchell School since last Monday and the move should be completed this week.

Mr. Bryce, the first school graduate to be appointed Secretary-Treasurer of the Protestant School Board, entered the original Sherbrooke Academy in 1913 and progressed through the Protestant school system with all its changes. He was also a member of the first graduating class in 1924 of the present High School and recalls that the area bounded by Queen, Cambridge and London streets has been the centre of Protestant education in Sherbrooke for 90 years or more. First, the original Sherbrooke Academy facing Queen Street and the old street car tracks, next the front added in 1918 known as the Cambridge School and finally the present renovated building known as Mitchell School completed in 1960.

Miss Lison Bedard, Beebe, was crowned Queen of the Boundary Horse show by the 1968 Queen, Miss Brenda Young.

Several Rotarians had their ladies as guests and they were introduced and welcomed. A roast beef dinner was served to about 40 persons by Mrs. Gladys Chartier and her staff.

Lorne Ogilvie spoke briefly as he reported that delegations from Maine and Laurentians will meet this month with Rotarians to make preliminary plans for a Dog Sled Derby at the Boundary the coming winter.

Mr. Carruthers, thanked the Rotarians for electing him as President of the Club. He said his theme will be Participation, to make a successful year. "I'm asking for full support and co-operation of Rotarians for all projects."

The main projects of the year will be the Frontier Swim Project, the annual Horse Show, Dog Sled Derby to be able to carry on the work of Rotary.

Raoul Villeneuve thanked the past president, Raymond Fluet for his excellent work as Club president the past year. He noted things have gone well but there have been problems for Mr. Fluet as for the 35 presidents who preceded him but all in all it had been a good year in Rotary. Mr. Villeneuve wished Mr. Carruthers a successful year too.

Mr. Villeneuve introduced Miss Young and announced Miss Bedard to be this year's winning Queen. The crown was placed on the head of the new Queen by Miss Young. The two runners up are Princesses Genevieve Gilbert and Pat Bushnell.

The princesses received smaller silver coronets and all three girls received gifts of jewelry. The Queen a bouquet of roses.

All three will be in attendance at the Horse Show on July 13 at the Ayer's Cliff fair grounds.

Farm output records are made to be broken

The North American farmer's efficiency is a marvel of the world, and it keeps getting more marvellous. It is not necessary to go back 50 years to find proof of this.

As recently as 1939, one North American farmer produced enough food and fibre to support 25 persons. In 1968, the ratio had increased to one farmer for 48 persons.

A recent survey designed to find out if there is any absolute limit to the productive powers of a single farm worker showed that in the category of one-man operations, a farmer near Decatur, Ill., row-cropped 720 acres of land last year and with enough bug machines and some part-time help, he believes he could handle 1,000 acres of ground.

Top output per worker in big, multiple-man operations is in the wheatlands. On one 14,000-acre expanse in Alberta, each worker handles a little over 2,000 acres.

In livestock, experts say top producers can handle about 2 — two-litter sows per man, producing about 3,000 hogs. Dairy units can handle about 80 cows per man, and corn-belt cattle operations over 1,000 cattle per man.

Total investment for such no-holds-barred operations can range as high as $250,000 a worker, however. Few farmers have that kind of money — but they don't need it.

The 1964 agricultural census found that 42 per cent of all United States farmers rented all or part of the land in their farms. Nearly two-fifths of America's farm real estate assets are owned by people who are in professions other than farming.

Besides land, today's farmers can also rent machinery, equipment and even livestock. Many wheat-growers have never owned a combine for harvesting; they hire this service from men who specialize in it. In parts of the west, rental of beef cows for breeding has developed into an important industry.

In some cases, farmers may produce goods for a contractor for a specified price or for an agreed-upon share of the returns. The contractor provides the necessary "inputs" — equipment, capital, etc.

Recent estimates indicate that about 95 per cent of the country's broiler output is produced under contract as are 85 per cent of the turkeys and about one-third of the beef cattle.

On both large and small farms, farming has become big business and farmers have become efficiency experts par excellence. As machinery, seeds, fertilizers, methods and investment practices continue to improve, any "absolute limits" placed on their productivity today are likely to be broken tomorrow — if not this afternoon.

The boss' wolfish son is working here for the summer, and all the secretaries have had their fill of fresh heir.

Language bill approved

With the speedy adoption of the measure by the Senate, the bill providing for the spread of bilingualism in Canada is now the law of the land and Canada enters upon a new period in its efforts to promote better feeling among the people of this country.

The bill is neither the perfect document claimed by its supporters nor is it the terrible thing charged by the handful of men who opposed it so bitterly in the House of Commons. Rather it is a measure prepared by human beings designed to meet the problem of human beings who have a natural tendency to misunderstand each other. And thus it contains many strong points and some weaknesses.

The chief question to be answered in the days ahead is whether it will accomplish most of the objectives sought by its sponsors and supporters.

Best hopes for its success lie in the willingness of Canadians of goodwill to give it a chance — not to expect too much too soon. Undoubtedly it will create some problems, especially in local situations, but if its provisions are accepted in a spirit of goodwill it may prove one of the major documents on Canadian history.

The most expensive kind of advice is usually free.

Modest minis a sign

Mozambique economy shows expansion

LOURENCO MARQUES (AP) — At the sidewalk cafe a Portuguese citizen was assuring a visitor that this Mozambique city abounds with miniskirts.

"Look, here comes one now," he said. A dark-haired girl passed, her hemline a scant two inches above the knee.

"That's not a miniskirt!" exclaimed the tourist. "Sure it is," said the Portuguese. "Just watch and you'll see some more, there are plenty of them."

In much of the Western world, the miniskirt came, saw and conquered. In Mozambique, what slipped past the barrier of old-style conservatism is barely uncovered the knee. Most women let their dresses fall to a demure mid-knee level.

On rare occasions, a real mini eight inches or so above the knee is seen. Chances are it is worn by a visiting teenager from neighboring South Africa or Rhodesia, where dress lengths are daring.

The influence of Old World fashions from the Iberian Peninsula is dying hard in this tropical African territory of Portugal.

YET the hemline's slow rise seems to symbolize a new era. With the passing from power of autocratic Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar some signs of political awakening have appeared. The economy, stagnant for years, is picking up.

Mozambique, lacking in rich natural resources, has long been known as the poor overseas territory of Portugal. Now the mother country, in a reaffirmation of its determination not to quit Africa, is developing a secondary sector of the economy to balance primary production. Schemes such as the $350,000,000 Cahora Bassa Dam project are aimed at opening up the hinterland.

The population is about 8,000,000, all black except for 600,000 whites and a scattering of East Indians and Orientals. Lourenco Marques, the capital, has about 300,000 people and Beira, the next-largest city, about 80,000. Both are seaports.

The bustle of the 20th century takes second place to a measured approach to life.

Whites have adapted their European way of life to African surroundings in a more practical manner than, for instance, English settlers have in South Africa and Rhodesia. Even visitors from those areas agree on this.

FAMOUS FOR SEAFOOD
Siesta time still applies, although it is limited generally to noon to 2 p.m. for shop workers and 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. for office workers. People taking refreshments at cafes during the day sit at tables rather than indoors.

The country is famous in southern Africa for its seafood. Mussels, giant prawns, crayfish and other fresh delicacies grace plates in the smart restaurants of modern hotels and in small, intimate cafes.

Peri peri (hot sauce) prawns and chicken are favorites, but experience has taught chefs to be wary of foreigners' untrained palates.

The saying in Mozambique is: "If you want a girl you have to buy one or marry one." Borrowing is out. Strict, old-style dating habits still apply although a boy may be allowed to take a girl out without a chaperone once he is known by her parents.

Soccer and swimming are the most popular sports. African soccer ace Eusebio, among the world's best, is a national hero. He was born in Lourenco Marques and now plays with the Portuguese champions, Benfica of Lisbon.

Bullfights are popular in the tourist seasons.

WAR FAR OFF
In the northernmost districts Portuguese troops fight a small but nonetheless unpleasant war against black African guerrillas infiltrating across the Rovuma River from Tanzania. The guerrillas are trying, so far with little success, to overthrow more than 4½ centuries of Portuguese rule.

But for the average citizen of Mozambique, white or black, the war is far off. In the main cities and towns, almost the only reminder is the sight of a few young soldiers on leave.

Usually the only mention of the war in newspapers is a brief monthly communique giving the number of casualties. Most of the 40,000 troops in the Mozambique army are Portuguese doing compulsory military service. Locals are subject to the same service and blacks fight alongside whites.

Blacks in the northernmost parts of the country are the hardest-hit victims of the guerrilla war. Those who, through choice or coercion, support guerrillas are apt to receive the attention of the Portuguese troops.

Those backing the Portuguese or refusing assistance to the guerrillas are likely to come under pressure from Frelimo, the Mozambique Liberation Front. Many of these have abandoned their isolated villages for the safety of government-supported aldeamentos or hamlets.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Poets usually claim to have been deeply influenced in their youth by Homer, Dante or Shakespeare. The World Almanac notes, England's poet laureate, Lord Tennyson, was once asked, "What was the poetry which first revealed yourself to yourself?" The laureate, who had at age 12 written a 6,000-line epic, thought a moment and retorted: "My own, at the age of five."

COMMENT

OTTAWA — (TNS) — The self-styled "revolutionaries" who seek to undermine, disrupt, disarm and destroy the Western democracies know that to succeed they must render their opponents impotent.

Since physical liquidation (or the current Soviet "liberalized" practice of incarceration in labor camps or lunatic asylums) is not yet within their power, they concentrate on discrediting anyone who knows and points out what they are after.

Portraying themselves as fighters for "progress" and "peace," they label their opponents as "reactionaries, warmongers and McCarthyite witch-hunters."

It's a surefire tactic, for the peace and progress slogans automatically get the same emotional public endorsement as does motherhood. Few people bother to look behind the glossy surface, especially when respected public figures find it expedient for one reason or another to go along with the charade and when the mass media play the seemingly "progressive" tune day in and day out.

In such a climate people who instinctively feel the fraud and danger of the whole operation are soon disoriented. Hearing and reading virtually nothing else than negation of their common sense, they begin to feel isolated and eventually start doubting their own mind. Encountering ridicule for their views and fearing the stigma of the labelling process, they cease standing up for what they believe to be right.

For a long time now it seemed that no major public figure in the Western world would have the courage to speak for and give heart to what may still be an overwhelming but silent and confused majority of the citizenry.

Now such a much-needed voice of courageous moral and political leadership came loud and clear from the United States where President Nixon lashed at the gravediggers of the free society and their ultra-liberal assistants who seem to think that there is political capital in the currently fashionable perversions of the democratic process.

Addressing a college audience in South Dakota, Mr. Nixon said: "Lately, a great many people have become impatient with the democratic process. Some of the more extreme even argue, with curious logic, that there is no majority, because the majority has no right to hold opinions that they disagree with."

"Awarding themselves what they call a higher morality, they try to bully authorities into yielding to their demands." On college campuses, they draw support from faculty members who should know better; in the larger community, they find the usual apologists ready to excuse any tactic in the name of 'progress.' "It should be self-evident that this sort of self-righteous moral arrogance has no place in a free community. It denies the most fundamental of all the values we hold: Respect for the rights of others. "This principle of mutual respect is the keystone of the entire structure of ordered liberty that makes freedom possible. In a free society, the rights of none are secure unless the rights of all are respected. "Often, the worst mischief is done in the name of the best cause. In our zeal for instant reform, we should be careful... not to undermine the process of freedom, on which all else rests. "The values we cherish are sustained by a fabric of mutual self-restraint, woven of ordinary civil decency, respect for the rights of others, respect for the laws of the community, and respect for the democratic process of orderly change. "The purpose of these restraints is not to protect an establishment, but to establish the protection of liberty; not to prevent change, but to ensure that change reflects the public will. "To those intoxicated with the romance of violent revolution, the continuing revolution of democracy may seem unexciting. But no system has ever liberated the spirits of so many so fully. Nothing has ever 'turned on' man's energies, his imagination, his unfettered creativity, the way the ideal of freedom has." Speaking to the air force academy's graduates in Colorado Springs, President Nixon said: "If America were to turn its back on the world, a deadening form of peace would settle over this planet — the kind of peace that suffocated freedom in Czechoslovakia. We must rule out unilateral disarmament. "Defence is not an end in itself — it is a way of holding fast to the deepest values known to civilized man. "I believe that defence decisions must be made on the hard realities of the offensive capabilities of our adversaries, and not on our fervent hopes about their intentions. "Mistakes in military policy can be irrevocable. Time lost in this age of science can never be regained. I have no choice in my decisions but to come down on the side of security. "History has dealt harshly with those nations who have taken the other course. "All this needed saying for a long time by someone with sufficient authority to show the reactionary, warmongering and witch-hunting" labels for what they are. "It's a pity that under the unilaterally disarming, Red-appealing Trudeau regime we can hardly hope to hear an authoritative voice of sanity in Canada."

Space scientists seek date on moon movements

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Three scientific experiments to be placed on the lunar surface by the Apollo 11 astronauts may reveal for the first time how much the moon quakes and wobbles.

The instruments could tell scientists how rapidly continents on earth are drifting apart and whether the moon's interior is molten mass or solid rock. They may also "hear" meteors striking the surface and find gas particles in radiation streaming through space from the sun.

Called EASEP for Early Apollo Scientific Experiments Package, the devices were designed to help man unlock the secrets of the origin and structure of the moon.

The gas particle collector will be brought back by the astronauts. But the two other instruments will operate long after Apollo 11 astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin leave the moon.

"The scientific return, because man is there on the moon, is significant," said John Small, chief of the lunar surface projects office at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center.

If the space agency attempted to land and deploy the same experiments on an unmanned flight, "the automatic devices for putting the equipment off, locating them very precisely and levelling them would require many, many more pounds. And probably you'd have to cut your complexity down," he observed.

PACKED IN APOLLO
Packed inside a compartment in Apollo 11's lunar module are: —A seismic station that can detect the slightest motions on or within the lunar crust. Aldrin is to place it about 70 feet away from the lunar module. After carrying it to the site, he will pull a lanyard to release spring mechanisms that open power-producing solar panels. Economy, not comfort, highlists Soviet flight MOSCOW (AP) — Mile for mile, few countries can beat the Soviet Union for cheap air travel—but comfort is seldom included in the price.

Aeroflot, the only way to fly in Russia, offers such low internal fares that until recently globe-trotting dope smugglers found the trans-Soviet route the best way to move their wares from Afghanistan to Western Europe. A crackdown by Soviet customs ended that, however, and about a dozen Americans and Europeans are sitting out their sentences in Soviet labor camps and jails.

Foreign tourists as well as dope peddlers have long taken advantage of Aeroflot's bargain rates.

Fares can be held down because there is no international control and no need for big profits in the Soviet economy.

The most expensive internal flight available from Moscow's airports, for example, costs only about $185 and takes the traveler 5,750 miles to Anadyr, a stone's throw from Alaska. Moscow-Kiev, a more popular route, is a 500-mile flight and costs about $15.40.

Tourists, while pleased at the financial savings, often are shocked by the disregard for the passenger's comfort aboard the Soviet airline, such as poor air-conditioning and poor food.

Even the Soviet press has taken note of the failings of Aeroflot, which advertises itself as "fast, reliable, convenient."

Quoting the advertisement ironically, the newspaper Truth asked: "Is it always like that?"

The article said so many Soviet citizens complained about Aeroflot service that the People's Control Committee, a powerful vigilante watchdog agency, investigated and found "serious failures."

Too many tickets are often sold for a flight, causing some passengers to get left behind; some equipment on the planes, such as heaters, air conditioners and refrigerators, is years out of date, and there is no variety in the meals served.

The committee said Aeroflot had been warned by the ministry of civil aviation to improve its service, but little has changed.

PLAYGROUND ACTIVE — Registration for the Waterloo playgrounds last week numbered more than 250 youngsters, all geared up for swimming lessons, games, and hikes. The playground activities are under the sponsorship of the Waterloo Loisirs, with Andre Belanger in charge. This year the playground will operate only in the mornings, from 9:30 to 11:45 a.m. One interesting aspect this summer are bicycle courses, to which parents are invited, as well as movies every Wednesday evening in the play yard at St. Bernadin School. Most of the monitors are working their third or fourth summers with the children and so do not lack experience, nor enthusiasm. (Record photo: Marcel Cote)

National home and school eyes smoke

TORONTO (CP) — The subject of teen-age smoking, whether tobacco or marijuana, dominated Tuesday's sessions of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation annual meeting Tuesday when federal government action was called for in battling the problems.

The organization passed a resolution asking the justice department to ease penalties for marijuana possession. Another resolution adopted asked the government to "gradually divert the tax dollars now being used to support the tobacco industry into programs of research, information and promotion for the production of crops which could become income-producing alternatives to tobacco."

The federation at the same time called for federal relief for tobacco growers. George Gray of Toronto, who introduced the motion, said that as anti-smoking campaigns intensify "it's the farmer that's going to take the beating, not the cigarette manufacturers."

A New Brunswick association resolution was passed asking the federal government to examine present requirements for marijuana convictions to "eliminate the demeaning tactics which must be used by our law-enforcing bodies."

It said police have to resort to "devious and demeaning tactics" to obtain proof on trafficking charges under present narcotics laws, and warned that the image of law-making and enforcement bodies is "at an all-time low."

The annual meeting also reaffirmed 1959 and 1960 resolutions calling for stricter controls on broadcast violence by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, the CBC and the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

Other resolutions ask:
1. Legislation in all provinces to provide a choice of English or French-language education wherever there is sufficient number of children who speak the minority language.
2. A federal guarantee of French and English-language rights in any revised Canadian constitution.
3. An increase in income tax deductions for dependent school children to $500 a child from $300.
4. Continuation of family allowances for all children.
5. Federal and provincial action to prohibit non-recyclable glass beverage bottles.

It's 'Crazy Wheels' Day For Gimmicked Bikes

For almost a century, the bicycle has been a solid, respectable vehicle of transportation. It has been about man's third or fourth best friend. All of a sudden, the old faithful is wearing false eyelashes, gone mod, gone min, gone hip.

Modernization of the bicycle, reportedly, started in 1962 when two partners in a San Diego bike shop noticed that kids were coming in to buy stray parts and putting together their own cycle variations. The partners put together a few creations of their own for sale during the Christmas season of 1962.

The Schwinn Bicycle Co. heard about the customized bikes, checked them out and decided to build and attempt to sell 5,000 during 1963. By the end of that year youngsters to the number of 47,000 were wheeling Schwinn's Stingrays. And the revolution has continued unabated.

Beside colored tires there are some other new accessories worth noting. Included are warning lights that revolve like those of emergency vehicles (in miniature, of course), fancy rear-view mirrors and radios.

KNIT KNACKS

DEAR JUDY LOVE: I have been knitting belts for several shifts which I made a couple of seasons ago. The belts haven't much body and tend to curl. Do you have a favorite stitch for making belts that would correct my problem? — J. B.

DEAR J. B.: I recommend crocheting the belts, but in a way that will give you both the look of knitting and the firmness of crocheting.

Here's what to do: Crochet the belt in a simple afghan stitch. However, be sure to insert your hook through the stitch from the front to the back. (In regular afghan stitching, of course, you would pick up the vertical loop.) With this simple change, you'll find that afghan hooking is the answer. You'll be able to make sturdier belts that really hold their shape. — Judy.

ON A RECENT VISIT to my DOMINION STORE I took a moment to look around at some of my fellow shoppers. Interesting to note that there was an almost equal number of bright, eager young marrieds and of more mature (and knowing) lady shoppers. All were there, of course, because they have found, as I did long ago, that at Dominion you can depend on the highest quality, greatest variety, competitive prices, courtesy and clean, orderly and pleasant surroundings. Reasons aplenty these days!

Carpets Without Static

Are you easily shocked? Well, here's good news for you. The old bugaboo of static electricity in your carpets has been grounded with a new technique of running stainless-steel fibers through the yarn which are indistinguishable in the finished carpet. Another advantage resulting from reduced generation of static is the carpet doesn't attract or hold airborne dust to the same degree as ordinary carpet. It's easier to vacuum and shampoo. It also increases the wear-life because abrasive particles are not ground into the face fibers where they cut and damage them.

For irritated skin

CONTINUOUS DESIGN — Roses, daisies, shasta mums and carnations explode from the bride's bouquet. Care must be taken to consider all floral accessories as a single design. Continuing the style, the flower girl's crown is of shasta mums and her bouquet is of mums with a centre of blue cornflowers and pink Sweetheart roses.

Children of deaf parents get help

VANCOUVER (CP) — Becky Victorino is teaching children of deaf parents how to be quiet.

And once that's accomplished she hopes to teach them how to speak up in their most effective manner.

Some of the children are deaf themselves. Others aren't. But they all come from homes where noise has never been regarded as a problem.

Miss Victorino is heading a new pre-school course which is attempting to introduce these children to useful speech at an early age.

Raising her voice above the din of hammers, music boxes, clacking toy guns and stomping children, she told an interviewer:

"All this noise really doesn't bother me because I'm used to working with children. But deaf children especially are careless about some things, like knocking things over and letting them roll noisily."

"We would like to teach them to be more careful and make better use of their eyes."

Walking softly and handling objects with a minimum of noise is only the first step. The most important work is making a start on the slow and often fruitless job of teaching them to speak.

"The child of deaf parents really has a problem, even if he isn't deaf himself," Miss Victorino says. "If he's got normal hearing, he won't receive the usual auditory stimulation at home and his speech will be delayed in coming or impaired when it does come."

"Most children learn to speak by imitation, mostly of their parents. They can learn to speak once they reach school."

but we believe speech is best established in the first five years of life."

Ant Preventative

The best preventative measure against ants is to keep a spotless kitchen. Ants are easily attracted by spilled sugar, crumbs or spatters of bacon grease. Trace the ants back to their hiding place probably a crack along your sink or baseboards—then set out an ant trap. Lured by the bait, the ants will carry it back as food and kill the entire colony.

Motorcycle gang leader's funeral like a folk hero's

QUEBEC (CP) — Andre Lachance, 24-year-old longshoreman and motorcycle gang leader, was buried Wednesday in the fashion of a folk hero.

The event attracted more than 3,000 people, many of whom had never heard of Lachance until he was killed in a traffic accident Saturday.

The turnout was bigger than for the funeral of the late premier Daniel Johnson last year.

The service for Lachance, known as "President Pat" of the local Hell's Hounds club, was held at the Roman Catholic church in the poor people's parish of St. Sauveur.

The street outside the church was so crowded several people had to climb atop roofs of nearby buildings. Mothers and fathers held small children above their shoulders.

Among the sights was a huge wreath in the form of a swastika, placed on a flower cart by a member of the club, biggest of the city's six motorcycle clubs with about 40 members.

The only people in conventional mourning attire were the undertakers and members of the Lachance family. The others showed off the latest in underground fashion.

Hippie women painted like easter eggs competed for attention with beer-drinking bike riders whose greasy blue denim costumes were decorated with the usual array of swastikas, iron crosses and medals.

During the funeral service the church was as busy as a railway station at rush hour. People walked in and out and up and down the aisles at leisure. The bike riders were up front.

The funeral cortege left the church with the pealing of church bells mingled with the sound of grumbling motorcycles. Estimates on the number of bikes ranged from 150 to 350.

Members of at least 15 motorcycle clubs were present, including the Rolling Ventures of Baie Comeau, The Conquaherons of Chicoutimi, The Popes of Sorel and Devil's Disciples of Montreal. CYCLISTS SURLY The motorcycle people were in a snarly mood. The Hell's Hounds wouldn't answer questions about their leader who had died in a collision with an automobile.

At the time, Lachance was going to visit his wife in hospital where she had given birth to a baby girl, their first child, two days earlier.

Everywhere along the streets there was praise for "Pat." He was described as "a well-liked guy," "a good mechanic who gave away money he made on the waterfront."

He is reported to have earned as much as $12,000 a year on the waterfront.

Several hundred people, including custom car buffs with their beautiful women and beautiful cars, followed the cortege to a nearby cemetery.

After the burial the Hell's Hound members chased sightseers away from the grave.

Misconduct case against Gray

MONTREAL (CP) — A McGill University lawyer said Wednesday a case of "gross misconduct" has been made against Stanley Gray, political science lecturer, and this justifies his dismissal from the university.

Peter M. Laing was delivering the university's concluding remarks before a three-man arbitration board, appointed to hear the case of the 24-year-old lecturer accused of participating in disruptions of meetings of the McGill senate and board of governors in January and February this year.

Mr. Laing said evidence before the board showed Mr. Gray's actions "adversely affected the well-being of the university and were calculated to do so."

Mr. Gray, awarded a $5,500 Canada Council grant in April, has opposed his dismissal and was scheduled to sum up his arguments after Mr. Laing had completed his remarks.

Mr. Gray told the arbitration board, which began hearings March 26, that official channels to voice student and faculty complaints were not used because the administrators "would have refused to listen to us."

The disruptions were used to Lisgar

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fleming accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright, Kirkdale to Inverness where they attended the 50th Anniversary Celebrations for Mr. and Mrs. Alger Patterson, Caistor Centre, Ont., on June 21.

Power unit runs

MONTREAL (CP) — The first of a series of hydroelectric generating units on the Outarques River, about 400 miles northeast of Montreal, was placed in service Tuesday. Hydro-Quebec announced Wednesday.

The unit, producing 189.145 kilowatts, is one of four planned for the Outardes III power station, part of the Manicouagan-Outardes power development.

The addition units at the Outardes III station and another four generators at Outardes IV station will be placed in service at intervals by early November to add a total of 1,387,000 kilowatts to Hydro-Quebec's generating capacity this year.

MATANE, Que. (CP) — If Quebec is to be master of its own house, it must shake off the "foreign elements" that bring "discord, disorder and revolution," Paul Allard, Quebec minister of natural resources, said Wednesday.

Annual memorial service held at site of Cassville United Church

CASSVILLE — The annual memorial service for the former Cassville United Church was held on the site at 2:30 p.m. June 29, 1969.

The weather was ideal and the setting was perfect for the open air service, which was attended by several interested residents, some being former attendants at the church when in existence.

Rev. G. Joyce gave the call to worship and the invocational prayer. Members of the Ayer's Cliff United Church choir led the singing of O God Our Help in Ages Past, the 121st Psalm read in unison and another hymn, Guide Me Oh How Great Jehovah, was renouereu.

Rev. Ralph Rogers read the Scripture lesson from the 6th chapter of Ephesians and the Centennial hymn was rendered as an anthem.

Mr. Joyce introduced Rev. C. J. Gustafson of Lennoxville, who based his impressive message on changes in our society in the past and the many challenges which confront us in the future. He also mentioned the situations existing among the churches. The Negro spiritual, He's Got the Whole World in His Hands, stressed his point. He also touched on phases of history in the life of the Cassville Church, mentioning events that occurred 100 years ago.

Mrs. Roland Gallup and children, Wichita, Kans. are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gallup. Miss Hazel Gallup of Sherbrooke and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rogers of Blackpool were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gallup.

Old timers service held at church

PHILIPSBURG — (Special) — On Sunday afternoon, June 22, 1969, a special service was held in the Philipsburg United Church in connection with the 150th anniversary of this Church which is being observed during this year by the holding of special services from time to time.

This service was known as the Old Timer's Service and letters had been sent to people who had down through the years been members and attendants here and many who had worshipped in this Church with their parents in bygone days.

The church was filled to capacity for this very special occasion, people coming from far and near to attend this service. Baskets of flowers were tastefully arranged along the front of the church, one of these having been sent by Mrs. Ruby Newman of Vancouver, B.C., in memory of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Maxwell who were faithful attendants and members of this church.

Rev. W. R. Lake, pastor of the church, was in charge of the service and the special guest speaker was Rev. James Somerville of Victoria Avenue United Church, Chatham, Ont., who delivered a most forceful and inspiring sermon. Mr. Somerville had lived in Philipsburg and attended Church and Sunday school here in his youth. A full choir was in attendance, the regular choir being supplemented by members of St. Paul's Anglican Church for the occasion with Mrs. George Kidd as organist, the choir led in the singing of the hymns, Now Thank We all Our God, Faith of Our Fathers and O'er the Trackless Ocean Guided and also rendered the Anthem, How Great Thou Art, during the taking of offering.

Following the service a delightful social hour was spent in the Legion Hall where refreshments were served by the members of the United Church Women, under the direction of the social convener, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, with Mrs. Henry Trott and Mrs. Alfred Wade pouring tea and coffee. Mrs. Henry Symington, president of the UCW, received the visitors as they entered the hall and a most delightful hour was enjoyed in meeting old friends and renewing acquaintances of bygone years.

Letters of regret, at not being able to be present on this occasion were read by Mr. Allen Field from Rev. Peter M. Macaskill of Northlea United Church, Chomedey, Rev. T. W. Tyson, of Beebe and Rev. John Wheeler of Apple Hill, Ont., all former pastors of the church; Rev. W. J. Sparling, St. Paul's Anglican; Rev. D. R. Wilson, Lacolle and Rev. W. F. Dalton, St. Johns.

This service was arranged by the members of the Board of Session, George Sutherland, Henry Symington, Gordon S. Wade, Mrs. F. Allen Field, with the minister, Rev. W. R. Lake, and a committee appointed by them of Mrs. Wilfrid Grenier, Mrs. Henry Symington, Mrs. George Sutherland and Mrs. George Kidd to assist in making preparations and in procuring names of former members and friends.

The entire congregation wishes to express their thanks to all, who by their attendance and help given, made this a most inspiring occasion and one that will be remembered by those attending for many days to come. Special thanks are extended to the Royal Canadian Legion for their kindness in allowing the use of their spacious hall in which to hold our social hour and which provided a most enjoyable place to meet and renew acquaintances.

The deep appreciation of all is expressed to our fellow working, Mr. F. Allen Field, who spared neither time nor effort in making this occasion a momentous one for this church. Records of olden days were procured by him from the Archives in Montreal and Toronto and placed on file with numerous other old books and records which to make a most interesting and useful collection on the History of this Church, showing the results of much time, effort, and expense, and to him we are all deeply grateful.

Among those who attended this Old Timer's Service and had been in former years connected with this Church were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Nickle, of Verdun; Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Hastings, Richmond, Vt.; Mrs. G. M. Perrigard, Montreal; Mr. Ross Perrigard, Otterburn Heights; Mrs. T. S. Allan and Mr. Stuart Allan, Westmount; Mr. Thomas Allan, Sorel; and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cadham and Janet Cadham, St. Adele; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tree, Stanbridge East; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Spencer, Cowansville; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Smallie, St. Lambert; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Maskell and Bernice Maskell, Simcoe, Ont.; Mrs. Pearl Ramsay and Mrs. Carol Steward, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. W. Alouettes begin to chalk up the wins, take doubleheader with Eagles 5-3, 8-2

Teofilo James, Willie Madison, Erasmo Felipe, Haley Young and Tejada were the big men in the Als double win last night over the Three Rivers Eagles. Haley Young's home run with two men aboard in the last of the seventh inning in the first game was the winning blow as the Als were trailing 3-1 at this stage. Enrique Gutierrez was the winner in first game and Gary Putnam duplicated his mates performance by winning the second game by an 8-2 score.

Als next game is Saturday evening at the Amedee Roy Stadium when the Drummondville Royals will be the visitors. Feature of Saturday's game there will be a drawing for a Pony and some lucky youngster will go home happy.

In the opener Enrique started on the mound for the Als. The Als were held to singles in each of the first and second innings. James was the hitter in the first and John Van Ornum in the second. The Eagles in the first two were held to hits from Scott and Furello.

It was singles only for the Als in the third and fourth while the Als in their part of the same innings came up with the first run of the game, a base on balls error and a single from Willie Madison scoring the run. Top of the fifth, the Eagles connected for five hits two of them doubles by Jim Pitts and Tim Harkness. These were good for three runs and gave the Eagles a 3-1 lead.

In the sixth and seventh Gutierrez sent the Eagles down in order. Als went down one two three in the last of the sixth and then in the seventh came Young's big blow that sent three runs across the plate. Willie Madison with his third hit in the game, a double, started things off sending in Van Ornum who had been issued a walk. Teofilo James also hit safely in the inning, but it was Young's big homer that counted.

Gutierrez did a great pitching job in this one and he got himself out of a few tight corners. James and Willie Madison each connected for three hits. These men along with Young were the stars.

Als got away to an early start in the second game coming up with a single run in the bottom of the first inning, two bases on balls and a single by James accounting for the tally. Eagles in the first two innings were held to a single by Tim Harkness. Als made it 2-0 in the bottom of the third. An error coupled with a base on balls and a single from Philipe did the damage.

Top of the third Putnam showing good control was still being stingy allowing hits to Dick Williams only. In the top of the fourth two hits, one of them a home run by Vermentie, gave the visitors two runs to make it a 2-2 ball game. Als in the bottom of the fourth got the lead again scoring two runs. In this part of the fourth James Young and Van Ornum were the hitters.

In the last five innings Putnam did not allow a hit while his team mates came up with one run in the fifth, two in the sixth and finished off with a single run in the seventh to take the game on the long end of a 8-2 score. James had six hits in the two games. Madison had three and Tejada also had three. Putnam allowed only five scattered hits in his win. Carlos Thorn was the loser.

Mantilla takes on Al's leadership

Felix Mantilla

The Sherbrooke Alouettes have a new coach now in the person of Felix Mantilla. Management decided to trade ex-coach-player Mike Brumley to the Granby Cardinals in return for two players.

One of the players involved in the trade reported to coach Mantilla before last night's game, while the other will report later if Brumley accepts Granby's offer.

To the majority, yesterday's move does not come as a surprise since many demands had been made to change the situation in which the Als were caught. The recent losing streak was broken last night when Mantilla led his team to a double victory over the Eagles.

The wave of discontent that appeared after the Lachine Mets left the league seemed to have been corrected at a recent meeting of the Als, but there was a growing feeling about Brumley who didn't seem to be too well liked by the players. The last 11 games speak for themselves.

Yesterday afternoon, club management met and to trade Brumley. Reasons for the move are centered on a lack of cooperation on behalf of the latter.

Last night's performance by the Alouettes indicates the animosity between team and coach had disappeared. In fact, the team under the direction of new coach Felix Mantilla proved the statement last night by winning both games against the Eagles.

Brumley is supposed to decide today whether he will accept the conditions presented by Cardinal business manager Jacques Ares.

Should Brumley accept the proposition, he would become a player only as opposed to his previous player coach agreement.

In a statement yesterday, the ex-coach said he would not go to Granby, but would remain in the region. Asked if there existed a racial dispute among the team, Brumley said he had no comments.

Outfielder Juan Tejada became Alouette's property yesterday. He demonstrated his talent by hitting a double and two singles, in addition to catching a series of balls. If Brumley reports to Granby today, the Als will be getting pitcher Tom Gillman, who now stands with a 2-2 record.

Senators and Indians chalked up wins in the Little League games last night. The Indians won 19-3 over the Yankees and the Senators took an 8-4 win over the White Sox. Tonight the Red Sox meet the Twins and Tigers play the Orioles. Both games at the Parade Grounds.

Yankees at no time in their game with the Indians showed any combination of team play. They played loosely and came up with 11 miscues in the tussel. Indians got five runs in the first inning, seven in the second, one in the third and finished off with six more in the last two innings.

Yankees got their runs in the first, second and sixth. J. Lambert had three hits for the Indians and Jean Marchassault hit a homer with two on for the Indians.

Lambert was the winner with the loss being charged to G. Warner.

It was 2-0 for Senators at the end of the first two innings in their game with the White Sox. A home run by M. Morin featured the innings. In the bottom of the fourth the White Sox went ahead scoring three runs, and a base on balls single from Loignon and Vachon along with a fielder's choice sending the runs home.

Senators took the lead again. The four hits, one of them a home run by Boutin, sent in five runs. Each team added single runs in the remaining innings. Senators winning 8-4.

J. Breton was the winner with Sylvain Delisle the loser. Yankees 1-1-0 0-0-1 4-6-11

Tom Seaver pitches no-hitter for Mets

Righthander Tom Seaver pitched brilliantly Wednesday as New York Mets bounced Chicago Cubs 4-0 and continued to challenge for the lead in the National League's Eastern Division.

The Mets, once a perennial last-place finisher, climbed to within three games of the Cubs, division leaders.

Seaver, 24, came within two outs of a perfect game. He retired 25 Cubs in succession before Jimmy Qualls singled.

Seaver boosted his 1969 record to 14-3 as a crowd of 59,083 watched the hometown Mets take their second win in a row from Chicago.

In other NL games, Pittsburgh Pirates won twice, 4-3 in 10 innings and 3-2, over Montreal Expos, San Francisco Giants shelled Houston Astros

10-3, Los Angeles Dodgers clipped Atlanta Braves 3-1, Cincinnati Reds nipped San Diego Padres 4-3 and Philadelphia Phillies split a doubleheader with St. Louis Cardinals, winning 7-1 in the first game and losing 5-3.

DROVE IN RUN
Seaver drove in a run with a second-inning single as the Mets jumped on Ken Holtzman, knocking out the Cubs' starter and taking a 3-0 lead in the first two innings.

Randy Hundley bunted Seaver's first pitch in the ninth inning and the pitcher threw him out for the 25th consecutive out. Then Qualls rapped the next pitch for the hit. Seaver retired the next two hitters to end the game.

He termed the one-hitter "a disappointment."

CABA seeks Olympic calibre players

HAMILTON (CP) — The first move in a giant step that the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association hopes will build a world-calibre contender for the 1972 Olympics is being taken this summer at McMaster University.

The project: Find the best 20 Canadian-born basketball players, train them through the summers of 1969 and 1970, unveil them at the Pan-American Games in 1971 in Colombia and turn them loose to win a gold medal at the 1972 Olympics in Munich.

The CABA is assembling the dream team here this summer with financial assistance from the Canada Fitness Council and the tutelage of Peter Mullins, a transplanted Australian who coaches basketball at the University of British Columbia.

His chief assistant is Al Yarr, head coach at Dalhousie University in Halifax. Gus MacFarlane, director of athletics at the University of Mount Allison in New Brunswick is handling the organizational work.

Phase No. 1 is to find the players who best combine height with athletic ability.

SEARCH IS PROBLEM
This has presented the biggest problem, particularly in the case of those attending United States colleges. For example, the coaches have been chasing the Tollstop brothers, Phil and Tim, of Alberta.

Phil, six-foot-six, is attending Brigham Young in Utah, while Tim, six-foot-eight, is at Utah State. When clearance for the team to use the players was received from the U.S. National Collegiate Athletic Association, they both had left their respective schools for the summer.

Then there are cases like Orval Fisher, a seven-foot Albertan just graduated from Brigham Young. Fisher has accepted a job in Alaska and cannot attend the camp.

Another potential team member, Bob Croft of Hamilton, will graduate from the University of Tennessee next year and has indicated his intention to turn professional.

"We'd love to have him," Mullins said. "He'd make a big difference, but there is no way."

Meanwhile, Mullins is selecting the nucleus of the team from among the current tryouts. Practices are held five nights a week. He says the emphasis will be on a fast-breaking game.

UTILIZES MOBILITY
"It will be go, go, go," he said. "We will have a set offense, but it won't be stereotyped. We don't have too many seven-foot boys running around so we will have to utilize mobility."

The summer camp will wind up in August. A series of eight exhibition games against teams from Buffalo and the immediate area has been arranged for that time.

Teachers train for sensitivity

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Young, middle-aged and elderly school teachers lay in the sun, some holding hands and some talking. But they were doing it for a purpose. It was part of their "sensitivity training" in adult education.

They were part of the first graduating class of a three-year government-sponsored Provincial Institute leadership course, now being held each spring at nearby Geneva Park on Lake Couchiching. A total of 57 adult educationists from across Canada completed the course in June.

The ages of the teachers ranged from 18 to 75, but course co-ordinator Robert Wiele said no generation gap existed "because most of these persons are highly motivated and deeply involved in their communities."

The oldest Provincial Institute student was 75-year-old Mrs. Margaret Brady, a Toronto grandmother who completed her second year.

The adult education teachers, who qualify for the provincial course by completing regional courses, teach such subjects as dressmaking, fitness, art, crafts and leadership in community high school adult night courses.

An exception is Brian Holliday, 48, an administrator with the Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded who attended the course from Winnipeg, where he was recently transferred from Toronto.

QUALIFICATIONS LOW

Mr. Wiele said that "because many of these teachers have low academic qualifications their pay scales are low." He said the program is designed to increase their effectiveness as teachers and certify them for higher pay scales.

The first week-long course concentrates on the individual as an adult education teacher in the community.

In the second year, course emphasis is on the classroom and how a teacher can make adult students more "self-aware" so they can better develop their skills.

The final year of the course teaches techniques of getting the community involved in development, including how to encourage adults to use their leisure to best advantage.

Much of the teachers' leisure time was spent on the shores of Lake Couchiching listening to Robert Eadie's ragtime band, Mr. Eadie, 47, a Cornwall, Ont., art teacher, leads his band from a wheelchair. He plays the piano and Esther Stover, 41, a crafts teacher from Thorndale, Ont., plays the banjo and trumpet.
