ROTARY SPEAKER FLAYS GOVERNMENT MEDDLING

12 Organizations Are Represented In Boy Scout Show

Alderman B. Panet Raymond Congratulates Group on Their Work at Athletic Grounds Display—Manoeuvres Win Wide Acclaim—Demonstrations Also Held in Molson Stadium, Rockland Park and in Lafontaine Park

A dozen organizations were represented in the Westmount display of Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs at the Athletic Grounds, Wednesday night. Acting Mayor, Alderman B. Panet Raymond, congratulated the boys on their work. He spoke of their smartness in the manoeuvres and hoped that the wonder display and excellent appearance would be an inspiration to the children of Westmount.

The Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs of the Western, Central, Outremont and Eastern districts also presented displays in Molson Stadium, Rockland Park and Lafontaine Park.

The first period was given over to the usual games held at the regular meetings which was followed by the well-known monkey bridge demonstration. The St. Matthias troop showed what could be done in first aid work when they carried off "injured" boys on quickly improvised "cycle ambulances." Another attraction was the display of physical training put on by the Weredale House troop which was followed by the weird jungle dance entitled the death of Shere Khan reminiscent of Kipling's jungle stories.

The sign drill and maze marching brought all the scouts into action leading up to the final act, the march past, and concentration of colours in the centre of the field prior to dismissal.

Water Rate Ruling Given For District

Montreal to Bill Westmount Public Buildings At Rate Other Property Pays

Can the usual seven-and-one-half per cent. rate for water taxes be applied to municipally-owned buildings in Westmount?

This question was studied by the Executive Committee at the Montreal City Hall last weekend.

Legal opinion was sought and it is understood the administration was assured it was entitled to bill Westmount's public buildings at the rate other property pays.

The question involves interpretation of the water tax law of 1935 when authorization was given the city to raise to a figure not exceeding seven-and-one-half per cent. the water tax rate of both Westmount and Outremont.

Doubts were raised by Westmount interests as to whether this applied to public buildings, hence resort to the city law office.

Stamp Group Ends Season

Discussion of Future Club Policy Among Topics Taken Up At Session

The Westmount Stamp Club held its final meeting of the current season last weekend in the administration building of the Athletic grounds. The group will reconvene on Sept. 9. Discussion of club policy for the new season, auction and trading of stamps and other philatelic matters were on the agenda.

This group is a part of the recreation program sponsored by the City of Westmount and the club-rooms are provided for the group by the city.

The meetings are open to the public and all persons interested in philately are eligible for membership. There are no fees or yearly dues.

Limerick Winner Picked In Hard Fought Contest

Whoosh! No it's not a whale spouting but just the judge of the Limerick contest in last week's paper coming up through a deluge of Limericks and grasping firmly in his right hand—the winner!

Many factors had to be taken into consideration during the elimination process which finally produced the winning Limerick. These were not only the fact that the "last line" rhymed with the first two, but also the metre must be the same, the line must make sense, the writing must be clearly legible, etc. Many of the Limericks were good, many were fair, and some were... however, we think we picked the best one which runs as follows:

For repairs to your heating and plumbing

You don't have to hunt or go slumming

Give Watson's a call

And their charge will be small

And they'll come when they say they are coming.

And the name of the lady who will be having a great big turkey for dinner this Sunday is:

Miss P. McIntosh,

29 Burton Ave.

"Congratulations Miss McIntosh, and to you others who were disappointed after trying so hard, there'll be another contest coming along soon and perhaps you'll have better luck next time. So there it is, folks, Miss McIntosh gets the turkey and of course the also-rans will give the hard-working judge... the bird!

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Robertson have taken up their residence at 1 Rosemount avenue. Miss Elizabeth Robertson sailed from Quebec Saturday on the Empress of Australia, for a motoring trip on the Continent, and through England and Scotland, to return in about four months' time.

Among those present were J. Armitage Ewing, K.C., St. Clair Holland, president of the Boy Scout Council of Montreal, and B. W. Roberts, of the Scout Council. District officials in charge of the display included: D. R. Kennedy, district cubmaster; Evan McCormick, district scoutmaster; John M. Coupland, district Rover leader. In command of the color party was James Hill, who commands the Roslyn School Sea Scouts.

Rockland Park was the scene of the Outremont district demonstration and Mayor Beaubien inspected the organizations taking part, with A. B. Morris, Scout commissioner, in charge of the event. He was assisted by H. R. Mountney, district scoutmaster, and F. C. Anderson, district cubmaster.

The troops and packs of the central district under the eye of Alderman George Layton, carried out their programme in Molson Park, being directed by W. J. Thistlewaite, commissioner in charge of the district, and he was assisted by Gordon C. Robinson, district scoutmaster. The Scout Council was represented by H. J. Hannaford and W. J. Cairns.

In the eastern district Scouts performed at Lafontaine Park to the music of the Vickers Band and the salute was taken by Major W. Dean O'Connor, commissioner. Representatives of the Scout Council present were G. Robley Mackay and Stanley Neilson. G. H. Wheeler, district scoutmaster, and J. Abbott, cubmaster, were in charge of the program.

The Rev. F. W. Kerr, D.D., in a sermon Sunday morning at St. Andrew's Church, expressed the hope that the women's societies of Montreal would begin a movement for the boycotting of silk stockings manufactured in Japan.

In this connection Rev. Kerr discussed the exports to Japan. He declared that if it is true that Canadian exports to Japan have more than doubled since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese conflict, and if it is true that the exports are the raw materials for munitions—then Canada is furnishing Japan with the sinews of war and is to that extent responsible for the atrocities committed against China.

The Rev. Kerr cited the stand of the League of Nations in this respect. He declared that the League has given utterance to its horror and indignation over this inexcusable aggression against a neighbor nation, but such utterances are absolutely futile unless they result in action.

"The practical side of moral condemnation is practical non-cooperation and public opinion in Canada ought to force the hands of the government in this respect," Rev. Kerr said.

He added that no Canadian would knowingly furnish fuel to a Japanese bombing plane that was preparing to take off to drop bombs into the heart of Canton or Hankow, but that is "precisely what Canadians have been doing ever since the outbreak of war, and it constitutes a stain on the escutcheon of Canadian national honour."

STEAM STREAMLINER—LATEST IN TRAVEL LUXURY

Streamlined speed and luxury will ride the rails of two great railroad systems—the New York Central and the Pennsylvania—after the inauguration June 15 of 16-hour-runs between New York and Chicago. In the top photo the New York Central's new "Twentieth Century," powered by steam, flashes down the track in a test run near Elkhart, Ind. The lower photos show interior views of the master bedroom, displaying the old Pullman berth. In the day time, as shown at the left, beds are folded away, allowing ample lounging space. The cutaway view at right shows the same room made ready for sleeping with each bed accommodating two people. Both roads will use equipment of this type.

Building Loan "Unfairness" Is Charged

Proprietors Say Companies Favour Suburbs Over Low-Class Districts

Westmount has been listed in complaints as being "favored" by loan companies in building promotions.

This was revealed Wednesday night by Emery Saueve, director of the Proprietors' League of Montreal, who reported the matter at the last regular monthly meeting of the league held Wednesday night at the Palestre Nationale.

Mr. Saueve said complaints that the loan companies in Montreal were seeking to promote building only in Westmount, Notre Dame de Grace, Hampstead, Mount Royal and refusing all "below the tracks" and "east of Bleury St.," applications were made to federal ministers and House of Commons representatives from the district.

Mr. Saueve declared that a delegation from the league had interviewed the Ottawa group recently and had voiced the criticism against the Dominion Housing Act. He told the members that the act was creating a new group of property owners instead of aiding those in need.

The Government representatives, the speaker said, had promised to study means of enacting legislation to decrease the rate of interest on mortgages to five per cent. He reported that the ministers and members had been of the opinion that after enabling legislation had been passed, the provincial governments could set the rate of interest.

A report upon the brief submitted to the Rowell Commission was read at the meeting. It included arguments that taxation of property should be based upon revenue and not upon assessed value; that assessed value should be based upon figures guaranteeing outstanding obligations and not with the idea of fixing a tax rate; and that municipalities should no longer contribute to the unemployment relief funds.

MINORITY PROBLEMS IN QUEBEC

The problem of giving the English Protestant, the Irish Catholic, and the Jewish minorities in the Province of Quebec representation in the Federal and Provincial governments is becoming acute, especially as it affects the English Protestants. Years ago, the Irish Catholic and the English Protestant populations occupied certain well-defined geographical sections of the Province to the exclusion of all others, and the problem of giving them political representation was easy of solution. Today, however, the Irish and the Protestant populations have dispersed themselves throughout the Province as their population has infiltrated to such an extent that there are only some half dozen seats left where the minorities can hope to elect a representative. Conservative governments have been more fortunate in this respect than Liberals, however, the problem is serious. It was this consideration that prompted the party, in 1935, to make a determined drive to win either St. Lawrence-St. George or Mount Royal with A. K. Hugessen and A. K. Cameron, respectively, and thus give Quebec Protestants Cabinet representation, for the party was, of course, confident of winning the election. Failure to elect either, left Mr. King with the only alternative of placing all English Protestant Quebec representation in the hands of Hon. C. G. Power, of Quebec City, representative of the English Catholic minority. The French population has always shown a willingness to be fair to the English minority in political matters, indeed, the French population supported Hon. Gordon Scott in Huntingdon, while the English opposed him, when he was virtually running for the office of Provincial Treasurer. But although recognizing and appreciating the fairness of the French, in such matters, it would be much more satisfactory if the minorities themselves elected their own cabinet ministers.

GOOD UNIVERSITIES IN CANADA

It is cheering to learn that Dr. Sidney Smith thinks some of the universities of North America will take rank with the great institutions of learning in Great Britain and Europe. The President of the University of Manitoba is only 41, but he has already earned a fine reputation as an educationist. He is also the "dark horse" in the race for the Dominion Conservative leadership. Speaking in Toronto, Dr. Smith had some nice things to say about universities in England and Scotland and also about some of those of Canada and the United States. The progress that has been made on this continent has established some of the schools in the ranks of the best. Canada can be proud of her universities. Some eminent men, who have taken positions of note with world leaders, have graduated from schools in this Dominion. And we are steadily getting better and increasing the educational and cultural prestige of Canadians.

A. R. Fletcher Funeral Held

Funeral service was held Monday afternoon for Alexander Richard Fletcher, assistant paymaster of the Canadian National Railway, who became ill while watching a softball game on Westmount Park grounds, last week end. Death occurred at the Royal Victoria Hospital. The service was held at the parlours of William Wray, Inc. Mr. Fletcher had been in good health and in the evening went with his wife to watch the game. The couple resided at 5120 Westbury avenue. Mr. Fletcher was born in Montreal on Sept. 27, 1897 and entered the service of the Grand Trunk Railway as office boy in April, 1913. After holding several positions with that company he was appointed assistant paymaster of the C.N.R. in 1923 shortly after amalgamation. He joined the Canadian Flying Corps in May 1918, with the purpose of going overseas, but the war ended by the time he had received his training. He was a past master of Transportation Lodge of the Masonic Order.

Each week twelve passes are given to the six lucky winners who comply with the following requirements: Simply find the two "ads." in the current issue of The Westmount Examiner in which the names of the two feature pictures being shown at the Westmount Theatre during the first half of the coming week are hidden. Submit all answers to The Contest Editor, The Westmount Examiner, 2191 Hampton Avenue, using the special coupon provided in each issue for the purpose. Contestants must be over 16 years of age. Residents of Westmount, only, are eligible. All answers must be in the office not later than Wednesday, and the names of the winners will be published in Friday's issue. A convenient coupon will be found elsewhere in the paper. The winners are drawn from among those who submit the correct answers, and, unfortunately, it would be impossible to give passes to everyone submitting the right answers. The Family Druggist

By L. Sherwin, Ph.G.

Soap—A substance of interest to every one of us. Probably of our earliest recollections of childhood is being continuously washed with soap, and the waste of time it seemed to be in our busy lives. Countless varieties of soaps adorn the shelves of the drug store and many extravagant claims are made by the advertisers. One has only to use a certain variety of soap to become a social asset. Success on the screen or stage is assured by the use of another highly touted variety. It is true that people with ultra sensitive skins find that certain soaps do not agree with them, due possibly to an excess of alkali or to the user being allergic to the fats or perfumes present. It therefore pays to experiment until one finds the soap which will cleanse with the minimum of irritation. In the country districts soap is still made in the simple form which has been used for hundreds of years. The housewife collects all the waste fats from the kitchen. The alkaline portion or lye is obtained by saving wood ashes in an old barrel. Water is poured on the top and allowed to percolate through the ashes and caught in a container at the bottom. The resulting liquid is boiled down until it becomes a strong solution of potash. The solution of potash is placed in a large iron pot and boiled with the addition of fat. This simmering process is carried on for several days. At the end of that time the kettle contains water, glycerine and soap. This is called soft soap, but by adding salt and boiling, it can be changed into hard soap. Of course the great advantage of this primitive method is that the lye and fat are not generally mixed in the correct proportions resulting in a product which is usually too alkaline. In biblical times soap was used more as an ointment than as a cleansing agent. Pliny the Roman historian writes of soap as being useful for the purpose of treating scrofulous sores. One of the earlier writers to mention soap as an aid to cleanliness was Galen, a renowned Roman physician, who suggested that a mixture of fat and lye softens and removes dirt. Glycerine, which as we have just seen is a by-product in the manufacture of soap, has become such an important substance in the arts and industries that the tables have been reversed and now particularly during war time, soap is often the by-product of glycerine. (To Be Continued Next Week)

Needlework On Display At Queen's High School

The fruits of a year's training by students of Queen's High School—an exhibit in needlework is on display in the library of the school. The exhibit will end this week. The display made possible by pupils of the third and sixth grades is one of the most interesting of its kind in the history of the school and has been viewed with envy by scores of mothers of the children. One of the most widely assorted exhibits are the laundry bags, of various materials, carefully designed and sewed together. Another exhibit is the various assortment of hemstitching samples. These samples made up in little squares vividly portray the painstaking efforts of the children. They are of various colors. The embroidery towels also stand out as one among the most attractive of the displays. They are made of linen and other materials, and contain intricate designs.

Summer Hours In Effect At Public Library July 1

Summer hours go into effect at the Library on July 1st and continue until the day after Labour Day. From Monday to Friday inclusive, the Library will be open at the usual hours, except that the reading room will close at 9:30 instead of ten p.m. The entire building will be closed all day Saturday. Miss Margaret Good of the staff of the Westmount Library, was elected secretary of the Quebec Library Association at the annual meeting held in Montreal on Tuesday. At the invitation of the Quebec Library Association, the Ontario Library Association, the Quebec Library Association decided to hold its annual meeting in Montreal, in April, 1939. The program at those sessions will be arranged jointly by the two organizations.

Melville Church Notes

This week the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is meeting in Toronto and as befits the occasion the Rev. Dr. Mulligan will preach on "The Church's Work and Worship," at the morning service in Melville Presbyterian Church, Westmount. In the evening Dr. Mulligan will preach the second sermon of the series on Personal Religious Problems and will deal with those occasions in life when men and women are almost crushed with burdens and responsibilities which they cannot put aside. What are they to do? Jesus had to face that problem and has given the solution. The Sunday School picnic has been set for Saturday, June 11 at Hudson Heights. Service preparatory to communion will be held in the church on June 11 at 8:15 p.m. The communion service has been arranged for June 12.

Westmount Baptist Church Notes

On Sunday morning Rev. J. A. Johnston will speak of "The Highest Order of Chivalry." Few of us could ever aspire to membership in the Order of "The Garter," of "The Thistle" or of "St. Patrick" but this is an order to which each of us may belong. Communion will be observed as the climax of the service. In the evening Mr. Johnston will speak on a subject of deep and widespread interest, "The Tides of Prophecy are Flowing Toward Fulfillment." Is the riddle of history to have a satisfying solution? What is that sublime event toward which the whole creation moves?

Thornhill Avenue Resident Named Consulting Engineer for New 'Honey-moon' Bridge

Philip Louis Pratley, of 5 Thornhill avenue, has been appointed consulting engineer to the Niagara Falls bridge project. Preliminary plans announced for the new "Honey-moon" bridge call for a 12-foot sidewalk, projecting from the upstream side of the bridge toward the Falls and built lower than the level of the vehicular deck. The promenade will serve also to eliminate necessity for pedestrians crossing the vehicular traffic lanes. Mr. Pratley, a member of the firm of Monserrat and Pratley came to Canada more than 30 years ago and has figured prominently in almost every major bridge construction in Canada during that period. Before entering private practice, Mr. Pratley worked with the Dominion Bridge Company, and was engineer of bridges and canals during the Grand Trunk Railway arbitration in 1920-21. A great soaring steel arch, stronger and longer than that of the wrecked bridge, will support the deck. The International Railway Company, builder of the bridge, announced the arch will span a distance of 950 feet, or 110 feet more than its predecessor. Meanwhile preliminary work was underway to replace the delicately arched span that was torn down by an ice jam last January. On the Canadian shore workmen are excavating to bed rock for the abutments. On the United States side wreckers are clearing away such debris as was left when the ice went out in April carrying the bridge skeleton with it.

Girls Of Argyle School Presented Fashion Show

Argyle school was the scene of a very lovely fashion show on Friday afternoon showing the year's accomplishments of the girls. Held in the gymnasium, the side walls were lined with many items also made by the pupils and included fancy luncheon clothes, tea towels, aprons, pillow slips and knitted articles. Among the flat pieces on display was a luncheon cloth made by Wilma Baird, of Grade nine, which was awarded a ribbon in the recent Westmount Hobby Show.

Seen in the exhibition of fashions were house coats, play suits, tunic blouses, suit blouses showing the latest trend for the younger generation in washable prints. All the girls made dresses and modelled them. Originality of style and neatness were the keynotes of the entire showing. A dress of navy blue pin dot made in a very sporty style was made and worn by Cayline Kerr, which demonstrated the ability of the pupils in this class. Other dresses featured the flared skirt with a matching bolero. A smart three-in-one was made by Elena Romano, sporting a pale blue linen packet with a detachable blue linen skirt over a white sport dress this model was worn with the jacket then shown as a white dress and merited a great deal of praise for the excellent workmanship and originality of design.

Knitted suits and sports sweaters also played an important part. Tricky sweaters worn with sport skirts seemed to be the favourite of all the girls. Many of very difficult stitches and would these sweaters were made in very difficult stitches and would be a credit to a much older person. Principal Brunt welcomed the mothers and complimented the teachers on the work they had accomplished throughout the year with the girls. Running comment on the display was given by Eva Watt, Jack Bain and his orchestra supplied the incidental music. At the close of the showing the Misses F. Cousins, M. Cousins, D. Barr and J. M. Hawthorne, who are in charge of the sewing classes, were presented with bouquets of sweet peas and snapdragons on behalf of the girls.

Wild Life Lore

By A. J. Bradner

THE WEASEL-ERMINE

The weasel is small in size, from ten inches to a foot, good climbers, but prefer being on the ground. He preys on small mammals, birds, and eggs, and make themselves destructive enemies of the poultry farms. He is a keen, agile hunter, within his powers a being of the highest type of effectiveness. Swift and sure-footed he makes open chase and runs down his prey; keen of scent he tracks them, and makes the fatal spring upon them unawares. He is like, and of extraordinary slenderness of body, he follows the smaller through the intricacies of their hidden abodes, and kills them in their homes. If he does not kill for the simple love of taking life, he at any rate kills instinctively more than he can possibly require for his support. The fur of all weasels is light brown on the top hair in summer, with the under parts white or sulphur yellow or orange and becomes white in the winter, whenever the climate is so cold that the snow lies continuously on the ground from late November to April.

VARIETY PROGRAM GIVEN BY PUPILS OF ALMOND-GRAY

Trio Are Presented With Musical Competition Certificates by Archdeacon Almond

A program of drama, dance and mime, presented by the Almond-Gray school on Friday evening in Trinity Memorial hall, under the direction of Rene Almond and Hilda Mulvany Gray was very well received by an enthusiastic audience.

Mary Foster, as the knave, and Beryl Reid, as the cook, in a "mother goose", one-act play, "The Knave of Hearts," gave an excellent performance, displaying natural talent and evidence of good training. A solo ballet dance by Nancy Bingham was also greatly appreciated.

Mavis Doig, Virginia Schick and Andrew Basset Spiers, who were prize winners in the recent Quebec Musical Festival Competition added a great deal to the enjoyment of the evening, when they gave respective recitations. Archdeacon Almond presented them with their certificates and paid special tribute to the school for the excellent manner in which these young people were trained. Miss Doig won the first award in class 173 and Miss Schick second in the same class, while Mr. Spiers won the first award in class 172.

"Everyone is Doing It," a comedy in one-act presented by the senior girls, featuring Virginia Schick, Margaret Hunter, Allan Reid, Lucille Joron Grace Wright, Mavis Doig and Betty McGiviffen, was portrayed in an almost professional manner with Miss Schick carrying off the honors for her performance as the beautiful young widow.

Rene Almond merits special mention for her very graceful exhibition of dancing in Egyptia, the story of a goddess who dances before the lords and then asks them to relieve the burden of the poor. The Choric speaking group, who were also presented with the certificate won in the musical festival gave several very good readings, lead by Miss Mulvany Gray. Eleanor Brown and Miss Gray gave an exhibition of fencing.

Highlight of the program was reached when "The Pied Piper of Hameln" was presented as a mime, specially arranged by Mrs. Almond and the lines read by Miss

Topic Chosen By Rev. F. W. Kerr

The Rev. Dr. F. W. Kerr, will speak on the passing of the old Puritan sabbath, at the Sunday evening service in St. Andrew's church. He will discuss the story featured in the daily press a few days ago about a Methodist minister in Vermont who went fishing on Sunday, the first day of the trout season. He will confront the question whether the kingdom of heaven is likely to come in congregations of Sunday golfers and clerical Sunday fishermen.

COMEDY AND DRAMA

"Night Club Scandal" Has New Mystery Angle

At last—a new angle for a mystery story, which lifts it out of the conventional "whodunit?" class into a thrilling, fascinating, attention-holding psychological study of human beings under strain and has produced a film which is sure to be remembered when the great majority of its contemporaries will have vanished into the limbo of forgotten things.

Sunday, with a splendid cast headed by John Barrymore in one of the most unforgettable roles of his career. "Night Club Scandal" is a mystery—insofar as the wife of Dr. Ernest Tindal (John Barrymore) is murdered, and police set out to find the killer. But the murder is no mystery to the audience—for in the very first scene of the film, we see Barrymore strangle his wife himself, and plant a liberal handful of clues which will cast suspicion on her lover (Harvey Stephens.)

Judy Garland Scores Again In "Everybody Sing"

When romance broke up Judy Garland's vaudeville act, she decided that she'd be a screen actress. And without any outside help, the fourteen-year-old singer "sold herself to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executives and received a long term contract as a reward.

Judy and her sisters, Virginia and Suzanne, were known as the Garland sisters on the stage and when they appeared at the Chicago World's Fair, Suzanne married and left the act, and that gave Judy her opportunity to go to Hollywood.

Being in pictures hasn't changed her life from that of the average girl of her age. Her favorite reading matter is the daily and Sunday comic sections, with Pop-eye as the head man. She plays baseball and swings a mean golf club, and would like to play football, but the studio says no.

She makes her latest appearance in "Everybody Sing," starting at the Snowdon United Theatre Sunday playing until Tuesday night. She is also a tap dancer of note, having taken lessons during the filming of "Broadway Melody of 1938" from Buddy Ebsen.

ELEANOR MOORE DANCE RECITAL WELL RECEIVED

Large and Appreciative Audience Enjoy Performance at Victoria Hall

Eleanor Moore School of Dancing staged its annual recital at Victoria hall on Friday night last, before a large audience, readily appreciative of the excellent array of talent which featured the program.

A colorful ballet "The Fantastic Paint Brush" opened the evening. Two numbers immediately following featured a duo composed of Rita Morris and Sandra Cohen in an eccentric rural dance, and little Allan McIvor, reborn in evening dress, performing a clever tap dance in his role of "Master of Ceremonies". Billie Tessier, Lulu Dostert, and two charming mites, arrayed in the costume of mice, Rhona Litwin and Maureen Nelligan, performed in entertaining specialties immediately afterwards. From the ballet Copelia the enchanting Marurka Valse was executed with spirit and skill by a group of the older pupils, during which Joyce Booth carried the solo part with admirable grace and daintiness of movement.

"Sugar Plum Fairies" displayed excellent technique on the part of tiny Pauline Porter, protégée of Miss Moore, while in the other features in this first section of the program Patricia Lane, Helen Findlay, and Peggy Rubado showed their dancing ability to advantage.

A number which was received with enthusiasm was "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs". A faithful characterization of the faint creatures therein was given with the aid of cleverly designed masks and costumes. Some exceptionally fine interpretative dancing were several Ted Shawn studies, splendidly performed in every case, from the moving "Dance of the Redeemed," in which white-gowned dancers captured the spirit of spiritual release, to the comic sketch "Rickshaw Coolies". Another fine piece of choreography, also from the repertoire of Ted Shawn, was "Negro Spirituals", a dance performed against a musical background supplied by the Orpheus Male Choir and organ accompaniment. The well-known spiritual "Nobody Knows the Trouble I See," was staged as a solo by

"BIG BROADCAST OF 1928" STARS!

Abundant Humor In New Edward Robinson Film

Edward G. Robinson at last appears in a picture without dying. He feels relieved. He has had to pass away in almost all his other movies. This one is "A Slight Case of Murder," Sunday at the Monkland United Theatre, now playing at the Seville United Theatre. Hilarious comedy by Damon Runyon and Howard Lindsay, probably the only writers capable of provoking real mirth with anything so gruesome as a brace of corpses. These play a considerable part (for dead men) throughout a good deal of the picture, and literally fall into the scene at the end. But none of them is Robinson, who stays very much alive and laughing like a mirthful gargoyle. "Have you ever seen men die?" Robinson was asked by Director Lloyd Bacon.

"A few," Robinson admitted, "But it is a thing I avoid whenever possible." "But how did you learn to die so effectively as you do on the screen?" queried leading woman Jane Bryan.

"Listen," said Robinson, "I attended Columbia with the idea of studying law. Friends of mine were in medical class there. Once when I became interested in the theatre and had to die in an amateur show, I went to my medical friends and their professor for the answer to the question you asked me."

Stars Over "Suez"

Four great stars are appearing before the cameras in "Suez," the dramatization of the soul-stirring canal story. They are Tyrone Power, Loretta Young, Annabella and Henry Stephenson.

Carole Lombard, famous as a comedienne, has signed to star in "Made For Each Other," for David O. Selznick, in a straight dramatic role.

FROM BOTH SIDES Professor (to mother of freshman): "Your son has a great thirst for knowledge. Where does he get it?"

Mother: "He gets the knowledge from me and the thirst from his father."

Eleanor Moore. Other talented soloists on this division of the program were Doris Egan, Shirley Wilson, Joan De Beer. Cicely Greer turned from tap to ballet in a number of special items with an amazing versatility, and no less poise and assurance were highlights of dancing by Phyllis Groom in "Liesch-fried," "Rustle of Spring" with Evelyn Phelan, and that exquisite little gem of music "Holiday," interpreted by Aileen Greer. "The Ballet Reception" in which was included a group of the youngest pupils pirouetting with charming naivete in the guise of "Les Petits Ballets Russes," was one of the most enjoyable highlights of the evening. Krayne Share and Joyce Marshall shared in some neat individual work.

An original piece of choreography by Miss Moore was a dance interpretation of the famous Haydn London Symphony No. 2. This sequence showed considerable thought and study in the matter of grouping and shading of the dance routine to conform with the musical pattern.

Special tribute must be paid to costume designs, also created by the director herself. Many of the costumes showed remarkable originality, while in all cases the colours were blended most harmoniously. The great amount of work which must have been expended to make this recital the unqualified success it was and the patience during the many weeks of practice, were more than justified. This group is already well equipped for more ambitious undertakings in future seasons.

FUNNIEST PICTURE IN LONG TIME

Choosing A Camp For A Boy Or Girl

By Hay Finlay Co-Director, Camp Nominating

At this season of the year, many parents are in a quandary as to which camp to choose of the many available, and it is with a view to helping them that I pen these few suggestions.

At the outset, of course, a proper conception of what camp is and what it has to offer is necessary. The organized camps today have high ideals and competent leadership, as well as the best available facilities and equipment, according to the recognized standards.

A camp for boys, or for girls, has definite and peculiarly favourable opportunities for education. In part, these opportunities lie in camp environment, in the programme and in the attitude of the campers.

The school oftentimes confines itself to dealing with knowledge and skills. Education must always deal, not only with these elements, but with the emotions. What we learn by memory may have no effect upon conduct—it usually does not. What we "do," sets life habits and attitudes. Education should never be thought of as only that thing which goes on in the classroom but as the sum total of activities in which the child participates.

In the organized summer camp, the child participates in vital activities from the standpoint of setting future conduct. In fact, at one time, all education went on under camp conditions—books are mere dry summaries of nature's lessons.

What should the child learn at camp? Jay B. Nash, Professor of Physical Education, School of Education, New York University, lists these requirements:

"First, he should learn that every rock, every flower, every bud, every tree and every cloud has a story to tell of a great orderly universe. This is the basis of natural science.

"Second, he should learn the lessons of social relationships. He must be a leader today, a follower tomorrow. Great lessons are caught oftener than taught. They are caught from the nature guide on the hike, the life-guard on the dock, the leader of the baseball team.

"Third, he should learn to use tools in connection with manual activities, that is, shape a bow, make a bow cord, build bird houses, make tom-toms, weave a basket, use a hand axe, build a shelter.

"Lastly, he should learn 'big-muscle activities' through which he develops a physical organism—which lays the foundation for a vigorous adult life.

"Parents should be vitally concerned with who it is that leads

Real Home-Hunting Problem For This Trio—Prefer Cartierville District

Wanted: a furnished apartment or house with ceilings not more than three feet high, chairs with seats six inches off the ground; location, somewhere in the Snowdon district, on the Cartierville highway or at Cartierville.

Montrealers who have their home-hunting problems on the first of May don't know what trouble is, according to Paul Del Rio, world's smallest man. Paul and his two sisters, Trinidad and Dolores, came to Montreal with the circus two weeks ago. Now they have decided to spend some time in Montreal and are looking for a suitable home. They are looking in the Snowdon and Cartierville areas because, commencing Thursday night, the three Spanish midgets are appearing as a feature attraction at Belmont Park, in Cartierville. And they want to be near their work.

A good-sized doll's house, Paul Del Rio says would be suitable, but it must be well-built and comfortable. Any property owners of seeking, knowing and understanding the beautiful? This beauty may be in generous, courteous, helpful acts, in music, in dramatics, in the rising sun or free starry heavens. Is the camp free from the hard-boiled attitude that considers a lover of the beautiful a "sissy"?

"Ninth: What is the spiritual attitude of the camp? Is it free from cynicism and superficial, smart sophistication? Is there a spirit of reverence for the true, the beautiful and the good? Is there able, serious guidance in helping him think through the problems that confront him?"

"Tenth: Is the camp a happy place? Is there wholesome, manly comradeship free from sentimentality? Is there in everything the joy of being alive? Is there adventure and high daring in the fine art of living?"

The camp which can answer satisfactorily all these conditions, should be a fit place for your son or daughter.

"Eleventh: Does the camp maintain a high level of physical vitality? Does it aid in developing hygienic habits of living? Does it enable campers to keep well, to have the power, speed, endurance and nerve control necessary for working consistently on a high level of accuracy and efficiency?"

"Twelfth: Does the camp furnish a favourable opportunity for developing through satisfying practice, the qualities of a good citizen? Is there provision for initiative, leadership, co-operation and intelligent obedience to authority? Is courteous consideration of the rights and obligations of others a part of everyday living?"

"Thirteenth: What are the opportunities for having vital contact with real people? Are the leaders genuine—what they pretend to be? Is there a kind of high, joyous seriousness in the spirit of the camp? What kind of talk goes on in camp when the campers or counsellors are just talking?"

"Fourteenth: Is the program of activities well planned? Does it provide for individual differences? Is there well regulated freedom, attractive activity, free from hurry, strain, worry and envy? Can the camper get his satisfaction out of worthwhile activity well done, rather than by surpassing somebody?"

"Fifteenth: Does the camp provide new, or supplementary outdoor experiences? Does he have new experiences with flowers, birds, bugs, wind, rivers and trees, with mountains, plains and the open sky? Are these experiences enjoyed enough but not too much?"

"Sixteenth: Does the camper develop a larger repertoire of sports in which he can participate with increasing skill and satisfaction? Are some of these sports those which he can carry on in later life? Does the camp help him to get out of the "dub" class in some activity?"

"Seventeenth: Does the camp foster the mental and emotional attitude

Camp Kanawana Open For Season In Three Weeks

Many Improvements Have Been Made and Others Are Being Completed — Carefully Planned Drinking Water System Ready — New Sanitary Conveniences Throughout Camp — Summer Program Plans Nearing Completion

Campers at Kanawana, the Y. M. C. A. Camp for boys, will find many changes when they arrive in camp on Saturday, June 25. Since the close of last season a great deal of work has been done in leveling the campuses in both the junior and senior sections. Three terraces in junior camp and one in senior camp provide a great deal more level space and will permit of many informal games being played.

A carefully planned drinking water system is being laid which will carry pure cold spring water to all sections through taps and drinking fountains.

New sanitary conveniences are being installed which are in line with the best public health advice available. These will provide modern sanitary facilities throughout the camp and are a vast improvement over the old system.

Greig MacIarnmid will be camp director for 1938, with John Pearson, business manager, Gerald Wrenshall, Walter Harris and Brock Brace section directors in senior, junior and juvenile respectively.

Much of the program at Camp Kanawana this summer will be developed around a series of projects, the plans of which are now being developed by both leaders and campers. Many of these will result in the beautifying of the camp and in increasing the usefulness of some of the camp equipment. The result will be a great enrichment of program where boys will learn the joys of planning an activity and carrying it through to completion. They will learn to handle tools and to construct from carefully drawn plans. The boys will have complete freedom to plan their own activities under the careful guidance of the leaders and staff. One group is planning to cut and re-align the trails around the lakes. Many of the trails have been overgrown and in places obliterated. New trails will be cut through the brush which will it possible to walk along the complete shore line of all the lakes. Another group is making plans to build new bridges over the Panama and Suez canals to replace the present structures which are in a shabby condition. Still another group will clear the lake shore of drift wood, thus clearing up the shore line and providing a good supply of wood for camp fires.

Two projects which were started last year will be continued this season. The archery range will be further developed and a new target made. Campcraft Point, where a start was made on building an over-night camp site, will be completed this summer with the log cabin made habitable and wood craft tables, chairs and an open-air fire place.

One group is planning to map the hiking trails around the camp with complete information regarding good camping spots, water supplies and other things necessary in good hiking. The imagination of many campers has been caught by the proposal to build an Indian village complete with teepees, long house, and Indian furniture and an African kraal built after the fashion of the villages of native African tribes. One group of boys is making plans for the building of a new over-night camp site on the bluff on the south shore of Lake Wilson. When completed this should be one of the best camping spots about the camp.

For some time there has been felt the need for new gate posts to mark the entrance of the camp. A small group are working on plans for the construction of stone posts which will be a permanent and beautiful entrance. Next fall the Provincial Government plans to stock the three lakes with trout and have suggested the possibility of making Kanawana an experimental station to learn about the conservation of fish. As a preliminary to this a group are planning to measure the areas of the lakes and sound their depths. During the summer one of the Provincial fish conservationists will visit the camp to supervise what is being done. These projects are all being worked on enthusiastically now and the boys are planning to start in on them as soon as they arrive in camp.
