Move made to cut egg surpluses

FLASH FIRE — A two-storey frame house off Queen Boulevard North went up in flames Thursday shortly after 1:30 p.m. Although two fire-reels arrived on the scene in minutes, nothing could be done toward saving the house, which was levelled. No one was living in the house, and nobody was injured during the fire. (Photo: C. Selz/hc)

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson announced Thursday a program to cut a million chickens from Canadian flocks in an effort to reduce egg surpluses.

Spill money demanded

OTTAWA (CP) — Mitchell Sharp's Commons statement that Canada is demanding compensation from the U.S. for a West Coast oil spill had two effects Thursday.

All parties backed the idea of collecting for damage and cleanup costs resulting from a refinery spill last Sunday at Cherry Point, Wash.

But it also opened the way to a backlash, obviously unexpected by the government, that bogged the House throughout the sitting day. The situation got so chaotic that Speaker Lucien Lamoureux threatened at one point to recess the chamber on the spot.

Outside of presenting a routine committee report, the first order of business Thursday was External Affairs Minister Sharp delivering a statement on Canada's formal request to the U.S. government for compensation over the Cherry Point spill.

The 12,000 gallons of oil lost during tanker unloading quickly drifted north to foul British Columbia shores.

Mr. Sharp said Canada had registered with the U.S. government "grave concern about this ominous incident," expressed its conviction that "far more serious spills will inevitably take place" if Alaska oil is transported down the West Coast to U.S. markets, and was demanding firm assurances that damage claims and cleanup cost would be paid.

That drew general approval from spokesmen of each opposition party allowed by custom to comment on such a ministerial statement.

They added some expected criticism. Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said compensation for spills is less important than firm action to put Canada in a position to control such situations. The government had tackled the whole question of a probable increase in tanker traffic along the West Coast "very late in the day."

Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey-White Rock), whose constituency includes Crescent Beach, where much of the Cherry Point oil hit shore, said the government hadn't taken enough preventive action and lacked proper contingency plans to handle spills when they did occur.

He called the Cherry Point refinery port an "ecological time bomb" ticking just off Canada's shores.

Andre Fortin (SC—Lotbiniere) said the government had never shown too much courage in tackling the U.S. on such matters and he suspected the Sharp statement amounted to a coverup.

Although the expected surge in the market supply of chickens should push down prices and the reduction in egg supplies should ultimately raise the retail cost of eggs, Mr. Olson argued that there would be no significant impact on the grocery shopper.

The program could cost a maximum of $2.5-million and last up to eight weeks, effective from last Monday. Egg producers will receive varying amounts of extra money for all the chickens they sell during the program.

If the extra one million chickens are sold in six weeks, farmers would get about 90 cents a bird extra. If it takes the full eight weeks, they would get 75 cents extra. But if, for example, only 500,000 extra chickens were sold in the eight weeks, the subsidy would be about 45 cents a bird.

Normally, about 250,000 chickens are marketed in a week.

Despite the expected glut of chickens on the market during the next eight weeks because of the special subsidy program, Mr. Olson said prices to consumers probably would not go down since most of the birds would be old ones sold for processed chicken food like pot pies.

SEES LITTLE CHANGE

Mr. Olson conceded that the price of eggs to consumers will rise, but said the increase would be minimal.

He argued that there will be an indirect saving to tax-paying consumers, because the government's bill for subsidizing egg production will be reduced.

However, there was no mention that taxes would be reduced as a result of lower egg subsidies. In any case, the government's bill will increase by up to $2.5 million for the chicken-subsidy program.

Announcement of the program follows agreement by the provinces and egg producers to a nationally-co-ordinated marketing plan for eggs.

A national yearly production quota of 475 million dozen eggs has been agreed on, with the quotas divided among the provinces and producers in the provinces.

The subsidy program is designed to cut down the number of chickens to assist the new marketing system.

It is the second time in eight months that the government has embarked on a program to kill chickens to help stabilize egg supplies.

ANNOUNCED PROGRAM
Last October, the government announced an eight-week program that could have paid farmers varying amounts for chickens sold for slaughter. It had hoped that an extra 320,000 hens would be killed for processing during the period.

But the government never paid a cent out under the program because the price of eggs began to rise shortly after it was instituted. And Mr. Olson said, farmers seemed to take the attitude: "Let Joe sell his chickens while I benefit from better egg prices."

The new program should work better, he said, because of the agreement between provinces on a system of marketing. Under the program, provinces have agreed to produce a share of the 475 million dozen eggs based on their provincial production between 1967 and 1971.

B.C. would get 12.1 per cent of the market, Alberta 8.7, Saskatchewan 4.8, Manitoba 11.4, Ontario 38.2, Quebec 16.6, N.B. 1.8, N.S. 4.1, P.E.I. 0.6, and Newfoundland 1.8.

Aif Gleave (NDP—Saskatoon-Biggan) said he wanted to know more about provincial participation in the program.

What a difference a day makes SHERBROOKE (CC) — Firemen were a little surprised yesterday afternoon. They were even starting to ask themselves what day it was — Thursday or Friday.

A demolition contractor had asked the city to allow him to burn a two-storey frame house on Queen Boulevard North. When he received his permit allowing him to do so he promised the city that the building would be knocked down, the debris placed in the basement and then lighted. According to the permit the building was to be burned today.

At 1:30 p.m. yesterday Sherbrooke firemen were called to the site. The contractor, according to a fire department spokesman, had started to burn the building yesterday, a day before the scheduled time. In addition, he had neglected to tear the building down.

The fire department watched as the building burned to the ground.

"I don't know what we will do, but I can tell you that the contractor will have a hard time getting another permit," the fire department spokesman said.

A questionable watch—and the bids are reopened

SHERBROOKE (CC) — Sweeping changes in tenders to demolish approximately 75 buildings in the St. Francis Street area, scheduled for an urban renewal project, were introduced Tuesday night at a special meeting as Sherbrooke city council reversed a decision taken at Monday's regular meeting.

Monday night, council refused to accept a bid by Marcel Dumoulin to undertake the work for $52,000, the lowest bid presented, because the contractor did not present his bid on schedule. Tenders were opened at 11 a.m. on May 29, and Mr. Dumoulin is alleged to have handed in his bid shortly after the scheduled hour of 11 a.m.

Mr. Dumoulin, however, said he was on time and that the mistake should be blamed on an inaccurate watch owned by a city employee. He said that the city had opened the tenders before he arrived to give his bid for the work at precisely 11 a.m.

Monday night, council refused to concede to Mr. Dumoulin's claim and decided to give the project to the next lowest bid. Incensed at council's decision, Mr. Dumoulin threatened judicial proceedings.

At the special meeting Tuesday, council decided that the best way to solve the controversy was to ask for tenders once more. The bids will not be the same as before, because council has added more work to the contract as well as changing the different sectors where the demolition is to be undertaken.

NEW BIDS JUNE 19

The new bids will be accepted on June 19 at 11 a.m. in the city hall offices. Council hopes that such a move will solve any problem which has arisen.

Council made the decision to recall tenders following the recommendation of a new management team recently set up after council restructured the civic administration. In a report to council the management team recommended that the process be restarted for the following reasons.

They felt that the city's coordinator did not have any precise way to accept tenders instituted. In addition, because of the legal risks, they felt it would be better to call bids, instead of waging a battle with Mr. Dumoulin in the courts. If Mr. Dumoulin took the city to court, needless, time-consuming and expensive delays would follow before the work could be started. Due to the state of the building in the area, the team felt that there could be a danger to local residents.

In their recommendations the team said that no prejudices would be incurred by anyone if the whole process of accepting tenders was started again.

Council, with a vote of 6-3, decided to accept the recommendations in the report. Councillor Gerard Deziel led the three-vote dissenting opinion. Councillor Deziel said that the time lost in recalling tenders would be a waste, and he thought that the best tactic to pursue would be to accept Mr. Dumoulin's bid of $52,000.

The new tenders will be radically changed from those which were submitted May 29. Bids will have to be accompanied by a 100 per cent bid bond. In addition, the work has been divided into three totally different sectors. The contractor will have to remove many of the foundations of the demolished buildings. Such was not the case in the previous work plans.

Measures will also be implemented to assure that the foul-up which occurred when bids were first presented does not occur again. When the new bids are opened on June 19, the city will have an employee with a clock on the spot.

Quebec, unions talk

QUEBEC (CP) — Full-scale contract negotiations in the Quebec public service resume today with the return to side tables where talks concerning each sector are being held.

Yvon Charbonneau, president of the Quebec Teachers Corp and spokesman for a common front of public service unions, said Thursday the side-table talks are to resume unconditionally.

The talks are aimed at negotiating a settlement for 250,000 workers in the Quebec public sector, of whom 210,000 belong to the common front. Emergency legislation which ended an 11-day strike by the common front last April provides for an imposed settlement for all 260,000 employees by June 30 if negotiations fail.

Also expected today is a government reply to a union proposal to extend a job-security offer for school employees to all sectors of the public service.

Bombings, rats plague dirty city

MONTREAL (CF) — Piles of rotting garbage spawned labor violence and reports of rat-bitten children Thursday, despite a brief glimmer of hope for settlement of Montreal's month-long outside workers' strike.

Police said bombs in the engine compartments of five privately-operated garbage trucks destroyed four of them overnight and heavily damaged a fifth, causing an estimated $150,000 loss.

As Mayor Jean Drapeau launched a severe verbal attack on the 8,500 workers for what he called an "unjustified" strike, it was revealed that four preschool children have been treated recently for rat bites.

The union representing the men appeared to make a major effort to break the stalemate strike situation overnight when it announced its willingness to make concession on eight of 17 clauses which it said remained outstanding in a proposed new contract.

However, the mayor at a news conference, declined comment on the union statement except to say only two clauses, job security and outside contracts, remain at issue.

MAY MAKE CONCESSIONS

Roger Lampron, president of Local 301 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, had said that the union, besides concessions on the eight clauses, might drop demands entirely on four of them if a package deal could be negotiated.

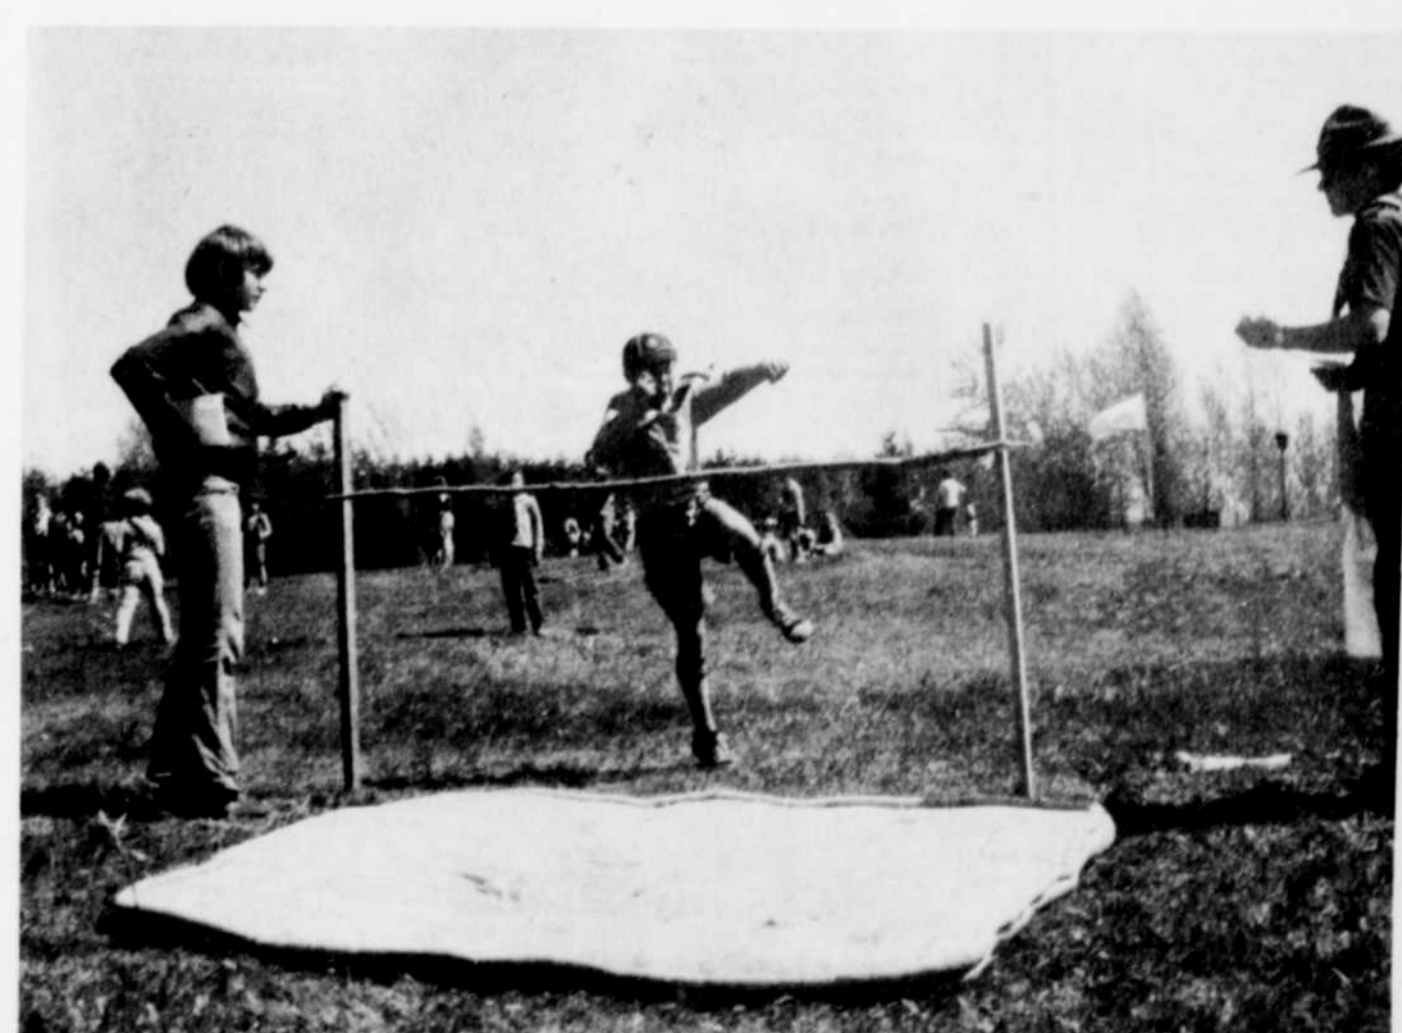

During the day, police said a series of early-morning explosions rocked the Raiceck Refuse Removal Ltd. garage in suburban Riviere-des-Prairies.

There also were conflicting police reports that indicated more trucks may have been hit by the explosions and fires.

Normal Raiceck, owner of the firm, said it had been threatened and has sought police protection, in vain.

The only essential service maintained during the strike is the water supply.

There also were reports Thursday of more fires traced to accumulated garbage.

OLYMPIC GAMES — The theme given to the Sherbrooke and District wolf cub rally held on Saturday, May 27, in Bulwer was Olympic Games. A total of 116 cubs and 22 leaders participated. Some 75 medals were awarded for the various athletic competitions held. See report on page 3.

Today's Chuckle

One woman to another: "There's something I simply must tell you before I find out it isn't true."

A man enters a woman's world

By CROSBIE COTTON

SHERBROOKE — Women's liberation is a prevalent topic today but men's liberation?

Women everywhere lament the difficulty they have trying to get employment in fields which traditionally have been filled exclusively by men. Have you ever stopped to think what it would be like for a man to find a job in an area of employment that has been reserved for women?

Everyone has heard of Germaine Greer, but have they heard of Mark Greenland? He's such a man.

Five months ago, Mr. Greenland broke the ranks of female supremacy in the province of Quebec when he was accepted as the first male long-distance telephone operator for Bell Canada in Sherbrooke. Mr. Greenland, a 23-year-old native of Sherbrooke went to work daily for five months but, instead of being surrounded by men, his working partners were 26 women.

"I guess you could say I broke the ice. I was the first male operator in the province," he told The Record. "It really wasn't that bad, you know. I liked the work very much."

LEARNING NEW JOB

He has moved on to another post during the past week, but it really isn't that much different. On May 29 he was transferred to learn how to be a supervisor for information.

When I first applied I didn't know what kind of job I would get. I didn't even know if I would be accepted," he said. However, he felt that if, in whatever job he was placed, he did the best he could, promotion would not be far away.

"I worked hard and I guess I did a good job, because when the position of information supervisor became vacant I was given the chance to get the job," he said.

Today he is studying and trying to perform the assigned tasks of a supervisor.

Mr. Greenland, when informed that he could have a job as an operator, decided to try his luck. "I knew that I probably wouldn't be there very long and I figured that I had to start somewhere, so I said, 'What the heck,'" he said.

DIDN'T FALL ON MY BEHIND

Mr. Greenland started working on Jan. 3 and "it wasn't all that bad the first day. I didn't fall on my behind or knock anything over," he recalled.

"All the girls were really helpful. They showed me how to do the work and they always tried to help me. I guess they just accepted me," he said.

Greenland wasn't given any special treatment by management. He had to work shifts and functioned just like any female operator would have had to do. "I was just another one of the girls," he said.

Customers, however, were often unprepared for the male voice which answered when they dialled zero. Many quickly hung up, evidently thinking they had the wrong number, while others asked, "Are the operators on strike again?" because during a strike last year male management personnel had to take over the operators' posts.

"After a while everyone seemed to get used to the idea that I was one of the operators, but in the beginning a few received quite a shock. I seemed to get along better with the female callers than with the men who were placing calls," he said.

Ontario had a male telephone operator for a couple of days, "but he couldn't stick it out. I think I had the right attitude when I started so I was able to stand it. It wasn't even a hassle, because I got along well with the other operators. We used to tell jokes and other things like that," Mr. Greenland said.

OTHERS MAY JOIN RANKS

Although he was the first man regularly manning an operator's post in Quebec and in Sherbrooke, others may soon join the ranks. "The policy of the company is to take anyone who can do the job. It doesn't matter if they are a man or a woman," Francoise Grenier, chief operators supervisor in Sherbrooke, said. "Mark was the first, but others could easily be accepted if there was a job open," she said.

Mr. Greenland credited the kind attitude of others in the office for his success. He feels that without the helping hand and the warm atmosphere offered by the women who worked beside him it would have been a much more difficult task.

"They were just great," he said.

This man made it in a woman's world because they helped him. Is the reverse generally true?

Rail route draws crowd

ST. ALBANS, Vt. (AP) — Vermont residents turned out Thursday along the main route of the Central Vermont Railway to try to show officials of Amtrak that they are most interested in renewed rail passenger service from New York to Montreal.

An inspection party of Amtrak officers, accompanied by officials of Central Vermont Railway and its parent, the Canadian National, representatives of Vermont's congressional delegation and a host of state officials left on the scheduled eight-hour trip at 8:30 a.m. from Montreal.

By mid-afternoon, the three-car train carrying the inspection party was to arrive in Springfield, Mass.

The renewal of rail passenger service to Montreal has not yet been funded by the Congress. But Thursday, the congressional conference committee working on an appropriations bill for Amtrak kept $2 million in the measure for service to Canada and Mexico.

Amtrak is the quasi-public corporation that has been charged with operating rail-passenger service in the U.S.

Central Vermont's right-of-way, which passes through Brattleboro, White River Junction, Montpelier Junction, Essex Junction and St. Albans on its way north to the Canadian border, is in direct competition for the proposed extension of passenger service with the Delaware and Hudson Railroad that operates along New York State's eastern border.

By mid-afternoon, the three-car train carrying the inspection party was to arrive in Springfield, Mass.

Olympics the theme

Sherbrooke District wolf cut packs held a rally recently in Bulwer and the theme was Olympic Games.

A total of 116 cubs, 22 leaders and 23 parents took part in the event held at the W. Labree campsite.

The opening grand howl was taken by A.D.G. Fred Pessig, with a sixer from 2nd Lennoxville pack leading the grand howl.

The boys were divided into five groups, representing five countries — France, the USSR, Japan, Denmark and Spain.

The lighting of the Olympic flame, the hoisting of the Olympic flag, the Olympic oath and the singing of O Canada were all part of the program.

There were five events, running 100 yards, high jump, broad jump, javelin and shot-put. Points and medals were awarded in each event.

At the closing ceremonies each club was presented with a certificate of participation, and each pack also received a pennant.

Sheela Sheeran deserves special thanks for her efforts in organizing this successful event.

Students combat pollution

LENNOXVILLE — A group of high school students from Alexander Galt Regional High School displayed their vital concern about pollution and the environment by cleaning up one of the streets of Sherbrooke this past Saturday.

The project was the creation of Joanne Brown of Sherbrooke, originating with her desire to turn in a more meaningful geography project for part of her year's work.

A petition was circulated among students and teachers of her classes, resulting in the signing of more than 60 names of those who either supported her project in principle or were willing to participate actively in the clean-up itself. Miss Brown and others of her class, meanwhile, circulated throughout the city on their bicycles, making note of those areas seemingly in most need of cleaning.

The result was a clean-up involving 12 students and four adults for the greater part of the afternoon and the collection of some 2,000 pounds of litter apparently discarded by those who, while enjoying the attraction and solitude of the almost rural surroundings, did not concern themselves with leaving it attractive for others.

The litter was collected along the less-developed stretches of Beckett Street and included such assorted items as truck and auto tires, washing machines and parts, automobile parts, bedsprings, old cyclone fencing and what must have been hundreds of cans and wine bottles.

GLASS EVERYWHERE

Broken glass was strewn everywhere, and one area showed the blackened effect of an oil burner repairman discarding his used oil line filters, and soot deposits, on an area that will likely be devoid of foliage for some time to come.

HERE & THERE

KNOWLTON — The next General Meeting of Brome Branch Royal Canadian Legion will be held on Wednesday evening June 15, when it is hoped that a report of the Dominion Convention held in Calgary will be presented by the attending delegate Mr. Albert Smith.

There may also be a showing of slides and films of the events in Calgary. This should prove to be an interesting evening.

Power play

Information trickling from Moscow indicates President Nixon's visit was crucial to Leonid Brezhnev's drive for absolute power within the Politburo of the Communist party and the government of the Soviet Union.

This was apparently one major reason that Brezhnev would not let anything — the mining of Haiphong harbor or pressures within the Communist world — prevent the Nixon meetings from taking place.

The Nixon summit session and its preliminaries have already enabled Brezhnev to goad P. Ye. Shelest, one of his four principal rivals, into an opposition so strong and so unacceptable by Politburo standards that Brezhnev was able to oust him as First Secretary of the Ukrainian Communist party, one of the most powerful posts in the U.S.S.R., and to put in his own man, V.V. Shcherbitsky. Thus Shelest's power base is gone, weakening seriously the anti-Brezhnev group.

The demotion of Shelest was step three in Brezhnev's four-stage program for pulling the fangs of the four men most likely to block his move toward one-man rule or to attempt a takeover on their own.

Brezhnev already had been successful in removing G.I. Voronov as head of the Russian Republic and Aleksander Shelepin as a Communist party secretary, leaving only Nikolai Podgorny, president of the U.S.S.R., with dangerous strength. While these rivals remain as members of the Politburo, Voronov, Shelepin and now Shelest have each lost his primary source of strength.

At last report, Shelepin has been moved from seventh to 11th place in the 15-man Politburo, Voronov down from fifth to 10th place.

Podgorny held firmly to the number two spot, up actually from a few years back.

Where Shelest now ranks is not yet clear, but he is undoubtedly close to the bottom of the Politburo ranking.

The U.S. economic aid and trade concessions, if they come through as anticipated, will enable Brezhnev to move in with more solid power over the economic ministries. These operations in theory should be in the hands of Aleksei Kosygin, as head of the government.

But Brezhnev had previously taken steps to increase the power of the party men directly in industry and agriculture. The increase in party direct management, of course, gave more power to Brezhnev, as First Secretary of the Communist party of the U.S.S.R.

The economic deals, when they come through, should also enable Brezhnev to avoid the economic crises which led to Khrushchev's fall.

The prestige given Brezhnev by his arms deal, by West German recognition of crucial East European borders and the rising prospect for some American withdrawals in Europe, coupled with the demotion of Shelest and the others, will enable Brezhnev to expand considerably the careful party purge he has been carrying — removing the proteges of his rivals down the ladder and putting in his own men in critical areas.

What this growing Brezhnev power will mean for the United States is not clear. With less rivalry, the theory is that he could have more strength to move toward settling outstanding issues with the West. Or he could make bold moves not at all to our liking. Only time will tell.

Opinion from the French press

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: Premier Robert Bourassa, who hurried the day after his election to bury the hatchet in relations with the federal government so as to prove to us the benefits of his theory of profitable federalism, seems to be growing slowly disenchanted.

The latest theory about seeking administrative arrangements between Quebec and the federal government got a going-over when Finance Minister John Turner unilaterally decided to increase old age pensions when Quebec had long hoped for agreement on this question. So Quebec bit the dust.

Naturally, the Canadian government leader, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, did not miss adding his grain of salt. Repeating the attacks of Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Castonguay, the Canadian prime minister peremptorily declared: "There are enough important problems in Quebec without bothering with fly specks."

Mr. Trudeau has become a master in the art of stupidity. We find quite remarkable this insipid remark by Mr. Trudeau because it is far from really replying to the requests of the Bourassa government. We are inclined to ask ourselves precisely what game Mr. Trudeau wants to play with Quebec?

It seems evident to us that there is a striking interdependence between Quebec problems and the continual failures in Quebec-Ottawa relations. If Mr. Trudeau calls this "fly specks" he does not want to face the problems and has a funny notion of federalism.

Mr. Trudeau knows better than anyone that the real source of the problem lies in the famous grey areas of the British North America Act.

Ottawa profits from these constitutional ambiguities and its unlimited spending power to invade a number of areas without consulting the provinces. This obliges the provinces to invest in sectors they do not judge as having priority.

It is, therefore, at this level that Quebec has decided to attack the basic problem of re-establishing equilibrium between the two levels of government. We believe Mr. Bourassa is on the right track although it was cleared long ago by preceding governments. —Rejean Lacombe (June 2)

Montreal La Presse: In 1971, the Quebec Liberal party brought out the trumpets to remind people it had been in power for a year. This year, it changed the style.

Several days ago, Robert Bourassa launched three works of information, reference and documentation prepared by the party's information commission.

What is first striking in the three documents is the very clear wish of the Liberals to present themselves as efficient, hard-working, competent administrators. Impressive in social affairs, good in justice and finance, satisfactory in agriculture, communications, education, environment, weak in cultural affairs and pitiable in immigration, the realizations of the Liberal government somewhat resemble each of the ministers which allowed them — resolutely reformist with Claude Castonguay, liberal with Jerome Choquette (despite the declarations of recent days), aimed at efficiency with Raymond Garneau.

On the other hand, such a balance sheet would not be fair without taking into account the budget of each department.

After two years in power, the Quebec Liberal party still presents a composite, even confusing, image. One senses that the positive record which the party can offer today is based on the strenuous work of a few ministers. Others unfortunately succumb to mediocrity or let themselves become absorbed by the reactionary instinct of a blundering membership in the legislature.

What the information commission's record does not say is that the Quebec Liberal party is no longer a reformist party.

Many party members still dream of a union movement which, as in the past, would no longer contest "the system" or become more federalist than Mr. Trudeau himself. Resolutions adopted during the Liberal party's regional meetings testify to this.

A quiet firmness has been our approach since the beginning of our mandate. Robert Bourassa recently told 500 Liberal members in Montreal: "We want this firmness to continue," a grass-roots member told him. After the events of the last few weeks, it can be asked whom such a firmness will benefit and whom it affects. —Claude Gravel (June 5)

Quebec Le Soleil: The three Ds, Amedee Daigle, Paul-Emile Dalpe and Jacques Dion, having decided to strike while the iron is hot, have fixed the dates for the founding convention of their new group.

This, the moment of truth has arrived for the Confederation of National Trade Unions and for Quebec trade unionism in general. At the beginning, the three Ds who spoke several days ago of possibly gaining 80,000 members from CNTU unions will have to be satisfied with less. It is difficult to measure the importance of their support to determine in what measure it corresponds to the mass wishes.

It is evident that certain areas will prefer to wait before taking a definitive decision to see which way the wind turns. The three Ds' convention moreover constitutes only a first step. It will not be possible in the space of three days to create a complete new union federation, well structured and equipped with a definitive orientation.

One thing is certain — we are seeing the birth of a new federation whose ideology will differ greatly from that of the CNTU. Events of recent weeks have not been slow in showing that the differences were more serious than one could have suspected.

Only the spark to light the powder keg was missing and this came with the decision of the three Ds to dissociate themselves from President Pepin's appeal for a general strike following adoption of Bill 19, back-to-work legislation.

Undoubtedly this war does not jeopardize the existence of the CNTU but it is a tough blow which it will feel for a long time. —Raymond Dube (June 2)

Ottawa Le Droit: Just like Paul Hellyer, who speaks of subversion in Canada, Quebec Justice Minister Jerome Choquette risks being accused of McCarthyism in denouncing union gangsterism. While the two men perhaps are not wrong, they nevertheless must support their claims with one or two precise examples of subversion and gangsterism to prove they are not speaking in a vacuum.

Reassured of their seriousness, the population will then await more patiently the publication of complete dossiers.

In the light of events through which we have lived for some years, we can come to believe the two men are right. This is evident that certain members of the Company of Young Canadians made a lot of noise and frightened — not to say stirred up — the population.

It is equally evident that in unionism the strike which marked the construction industry did not proceed from a pure state of democracy.

For these reasons, it would then be good and wise to throw light on all the incidents which raise legitimate suspicions of gangsterism or subversion. Therefore, in the labor movement for example, it is a sure thing that more honest men than troublemakers can be found. Yet, it is required to expose, identify and chase from the labor movement all the anarchists who tarnish its reputation. The respect of the state requires it.

In Mr. Choquette's plan there is only one weakness — he made it public. The minister should have built up this "intimidation file" as it is called, in silence, just as he should never have talked of his inquiry into organized crime. To warn the hooligans they will be visited is to help hide what we want to know. —Marcel Gingras (June 2)

Taxing inflation

Some time ago, John Turner presented what might be the last budget of this government.

The budget moved probably in the right direction in trying to rid the country of mass unemployment. But it can be said that the Opposition has been demanding this type of financing for a long time.

Robert Stanfield, in commenting on the budget, said: "It did not move either far enough or fast enough."

The faster write-off on plant and equipment proposed by the government should be of some help in encouraging greater investment. The same can be said about the reduction in corporation taxes. These measures will probably improve the competitive position of Canadian manufacturing.

Mr. Turner's measures are only adequate to a certain degree because helpful only to corporations that are already doing well. They will have no impact on new industry. Commenting further on the budget, Mr. Stanfield brought up a point that seems to me of utmost interest. And that is that the government has a built-in vested interest in inflation. The reason for that is very simple.

The graduated structure of tax rates under which we operate means that every jump in money income puts progressively more money in the coffers of the government.

It means, for example, that an annual rate of inflation of five per cent, which happens to be the figure we are experiencing this year, increases government revenues from personal income taxes by amounts considerably more than five per cent.

It means that a taxpayer whose income simply keeps abreast of rising prices is not improving his position at all in terms of real income. He is paying a greater proportion of his income to the government. Given our graduated income tax, inflation is just as good as an increase in the rate of taxation for the government.

By Dr. Alexandre Kindy

And Mr. Stanfield gives an example. Let us take the case of a man who earned $10,000 in 1971 and who has a wife and two children, aged 10 and 16, to support. Let us assume that between the end of 1971 and the end of 1975 there is an inflation rate of a little under five per cent a year. Let us suppose too that this man's income keeps pace with inflation. He is no poorer in real terms in 1975 than he was at the start of 1972.

The price index has gone up by 20 per cent and so has his money income. He is earning $12,000 instead of $10,000 at the end of that period.

In spite of the fact that his real income has not increased at all, his taxes have risen by 16 per cent.

This is what Mr. Stanfield means by a vested interest. And he goes on to say that if his party would be elected in next federal election, the Canadian taxpayer would pay taxes to the federal government on the basis of his real income — that is to say, in constant dollars. And if the government felt it needed a bigger share of personal income, it would have to come before Parliament and seek and justify an increase in rates.

It could no longer count on inflation, through graduated income tax rates, to provide it automatically with a bigger and bigger share of the real income of tax payers as well as a constantly growing share of the Gross National Product. This is to me one of the best proposals that has been brought up in Parliament in a long time.

Let's hope that Mr. Stanfield will be able to implement it.

Cites inefficiency

Dear Sir,

I am writing with reference to the articles published in last Friday's paper favoring delegation. The statement that the major part of the education budget is fixed by definite rules and regulations from the department of education seems to ignore the fact that last year the Eastern Townships Regional School Board spent almost $250,000 more than the amounts permitted by the department of education. This amount, of course, comes directly out of the pockets of local taxpayers.

Experience has shown that larger administration does not necessarily mean more economical or more efficient administration. Larger administration in this case will mean that parents will be one step further removed from the decision making process. Also, the combining of the elementary and secondary budgets into one large budget will undoubtedly make it more difficult for taxpayers to obtain precise information about particular expenditures.

With reference to the parents' committee, it should be remembered that these have a purely advisory role and are not likely to have much effect on the decision making process. We have seen in the recent past that the majority of the Provisional Council has ignored advice submitted to it by five parent-teacher groups.

If parents and taxpayers feel that elementary education should not be made subordinate to regional administration, they must vote on Monday, June 12, for the commissioner in their ward who is opposed to delegation of elementary education power to the Eastern Townships Regional School Board.

(Mrs.) Anne MacLaren, R.R. 1, Beebe.

COOKSHIRE - The Compton County Historical and Museum Society held a meeting of the executive in the Museum on Thursday, June 1, 1972, with ten officers in attendance.

Following the reading of the minutes, final plans were made for the Cavalcade which will take place on June 10, 1972, touring the Megantic County. All participants are asked to meet at Black Lake Lookout at 9:30 a.m. sharp, and to bring their own lunch; hot coffee will be provided.

The Lennoxville Historical Society will hold a meeting at the Eaton Museum on June 12.

The president stated that according to a Montreal newspaper part of Windsor Station will remain standing, due to the efforts of Friends of Windsor Station Society, and other interested people. This society in Eaton sent a small donation to help in this project.

The secretary stated that she had sent five pictures of articles from the museum, which had been procured by Mr. Lionel Hurd, to the Readers Digest, who are working on a project to have information on all of the historical societies and museums in Canada.

Mr. Benoit, manager of the Bank of Montreal in Sawyerville, offered to display some of the interesting articles from the Museum in the lobby of the bank. This offer was most welcome, and gladly accepted.

The president suggested that the members send in names of places of historic interest for plaques.

Mr. Lionel Hurd thanked the members for their sympathy card which had been sent to his wife and himself when they lost a small grandchild recently.

The next meeting of the executive will be at the Museum on Tuesday, June 20 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Bernice Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Howard and Mrs. Walter Miltimore attended the two day session of Rebekah Assembly and Grand Lodge held at Sherbrooke May 26 and 27.

Twenty members of Golden Rule Rebekah Lodge No. 20 visited the Edith Kathan Home, West Brome, Tuesday evening May 30. Pirate Bingo, social conversation and a nice lunch were enjoyed.

Messrs. Stanley Bartholomew, John Page and L. Lequin have been patients at the B.M.P. Hospital, Cowansville.

Mrs. Eric Jones, Mrs. Rene Sevigny, Mrs. Fernice Boule and Mrs. Bernice Russell were in Farnham Wednesday afternoon May 31 and were guests of Mrs. Agnes Brown at the Russell Nursing Home. Mrs. Jones of the Women's Auxiliary presented Mrs. Brown with her 25-year pin. The ladies enjoyed a cup of tea and a light lunch with Mrs. Brown.

The Red Cross rooms will close June 12 for the summer months and will reopen September 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler of Springfield, Mass., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. G.F. Knights. Mrs. Knights and Mrs. Rumsby accompanied them to Richmond on May 28 to call on Miss Hazel Bates at the Wales Home.

Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Robinson entertained the committee of the leather-covered platform rockers.

After a few moments of emotional silence, the Guest-of-Honour, fittingly expressed his own and his family's appreciation of the gifts and the feelings thereby conveyed.

Later some local slides were shown of Sunday School festivities, 4-H Achievement Days, U.C.W. and other local events much to the enjoyment of the folk there, especially that of the Juniors.

In closing a spokesman expressed the Community's commendation to the Youth Group for their initiating of the Pot-Luck Project and carrying it through so successfully.

When appetites had been more than satisfied and many diet lists ignored, Rev. Ball was lured, unsuspecting to the adjoining Church, on pretext of getting his opinion on some project there.

BIRCHTON - The Birchton-Cookshire Youth Group, wishing to give tangible evidence of their appreciation of the debt they owe Rev. Frank Ball for his invaluable work with them, arranged to do so at a Pot-Luck Supper.

And so some seventy folk of the Cookshire-Island Brook-Birchton area, with foods hot and foods cold, came to the Birchton Hall on Saturday, May 27, at supper time.

At call of "Come and Get it!" those present served themselves "a la catererie", to the many different foods arranged on a long table at one end of the Hall, and then sat down at the other two tables along the either side of the building and enjoyed a pleasant social hour.

Blanchette-Godreau wed

A very pretty spring wedding took place on May 17 at 11 a.m. at St. Damien's Church, when Johanne Godreau, only daughter of the late Gaston Godreau and Mrs. Denise Godreau was married to Mr. Denis Blanchette, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Blanchette, all of Bedford.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Roger Godreau of Montreal, wore a bridal gown of white peau-de-soie, with long sleeves and high neck. Her dress was floor length with train and her shoulder length veil fell from an ornament. Her bouquet was of pink rosebuds.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Despars. Miss Rolande Lagace was the maid-of-honor, wearing a floor length gown of mauve, and carrying a colonial bouquet.

Mr. Blanchette stood as witness for his son.

The ushers were Mr. Luc Blanchette, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Maurice Gadoury.

The altar boys were Yves and Claude Levesque, cousins of the bride. Another cousin, little Martine Levesque was flower girl, carrying a colonial bouquet. Her dress was floor length, in the same shade as the maid-of-honor's dress.

Mr. Guy Dery was the organist and during the signing of the register, Mr. Lionel Cusson sang the Ave Maria.

Mrs. Godreau, mother of the bride, wore a two-piece outfit floor length of light blue. Her corsage was red roses.

Mrs. Blanchette, mother of the bridegroom, was in a floor length frock of black and white, with a corsage of pink roses.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB
Cat Scratch Fever
Is Quite Rare

Dear Dr. Lamb—Could you please explain what cat scratch fever is and its after affects if any? I have children who play with cats a lot and I would like to know how dangerous it is. They are often scratched by them.

Dear Reader—Cat scratch fever can be caused by any puncture or scratch on the skin. It doesn't have to be from the claws or teeth of the cat. It just happens that the cat is the most frequent source of these minor skin injuries in children.

If it is caused by a cat it is not because the cat is sick, it is just because the germ that is responsible for the illness is on the cat's claws or teeth.

The truth is authorities haven't agreed yet on the exact cause of cat scratch fever, that is, whether it is a bacteria or virus or some other germ. Most investigators think it is a virus.

If the skin is broken the agent penetrates the body's defenses and sets up a local infection. This may be very minor, causing a few red, itchy bumps at the site where the scratch occurred. Sometimes there may be little blisters or a scab. Usually the site of the scratch heals without even forming a scar.

The infectious process really hits the lymph nodes and as with other infections it attacks those lymph nodes directly in line with the lymph drainage from the injury. On the hand, the arm pit lymph nodes will be affected. If it is on the feet or on the ankles, it will affect those in the groin. The lymph nodes swell and become tender and sometimes the skin over them is reddened. Along with this the persons may have fever and a generalized, non-specific illness. The lymph nodes soften and gradually return to normal.

Sometimes, the softened lymph node becomes an abscess and may drain. Usually even though the lymph node may contain pus it is not drained because it will then take longer to heal. Rarely encephalitis may follow such an infection but that is true of most virus infections too. Fortunately, the type of encephalitis that has rarely been observed following cat scratch fever apparently doesn't leave any residual brain damage.

There really isn't any good treatment. Antibiotics don't affect viruses and they don't cure cat scratch fever. About the only thing the doctor can do is to provide symptomatic treatment to make the patient comfortable.

I would like to add that considering the large number of cats in families and the number of cat scratches it is rather remarkable how rare this problem really is.

A very pleasant social afternoon was spent in the Jean XXIII school, in Inverness, where the Senior Citizens of this area were welcomed by Mayor Henri-Louis Mercier of the Township of Inverness, and Mayor Rene Chevrier of the Village of Inverness, on behalf of the councils they represent.

Songs, witty stories, and reminiscences from many of those present drew warm applause from the 82 persons there. Adhering to the custom which has governed these events since their inception the guests of Honor were chosen from the English and French-speaking residents of the locality on alternate years. Last year, Mrs. Tetreault, wife of the late Mr. Gaston Tetreault, was chosen, while this year, Mr. Andrew McCammon of Thetford Mines, a former merchant of this place, also Mr. and Mrs. C.W. McVetty were given the honor to represent the Senior Citizens of the locality. To the deep regret of all, Mrs. McCammon, who is seriously ill in the Thetford Mines Hospital, was unable to be with us.

Following the impromptu but enjoyable program an excellent lunch in the school cafeteria, prepared and served by volunteer ladies of the parish, brought the afternoon to a very much appreciated conclusion.

A number from here attended a meeting of the Megantic County Historical Society held in the church hall at Kinnear's Mills on Tuesday evening last, when plans were completed to welcome the cavalcade from the Compton County Historical Society on June 10th, at which time they desire to visit several points of interest here. It goes without further words that we all are looking forward to this proposed visit, which will be welcome, indeed.

Two well-attended meetings of L.O.L. No. 678, and Orange Lily Lodge, No. 1041 of the LOBA, were held here in the Orange hall on Wednesday evening, last.

Visitors at the meeting of L.O.L. No. 678 were R.W. Bro. Rufus Jamieson, Junior Deputy Grand Master of Quebec, Bro. Raymond Dempsey, W.C.M. of Megantic, and Bro. Ronald Jamieson, W.C.D.M. of Megantic.

Valley Weavers' Guild

O.M. Wallace and Mrs. William Van Horn who were also in charge of the hand made decorations used throughout.

Besides the members' work, a prominent display of Eastern Townships Tartan was enjoyed. Due to the absence of Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace, a Guild member, who made the original tartan for Mr. Richard Allan of Leeds, Que., the designer, an explanation was given of the fine colors used, the dark green for the fir trees, the dark brown for the earth, the yellow and red for the flowers and the white for the winter snow. This is a registered tartan and was woven commercially in 1971.

Included in the display was original hand woven material and garments including a man's shirt, pants and vest and tie as well as skirts etc of commercially woven material. Also in this tartan display was shown a sample of the Ottawa Tartan, designed and originally woven by Mrs. Jean Dacton, known to many of the weavers attending.

Mrs. Lawrence Galvin of Stanstead spoke on the hand weavers' aspect of design and gave a detailed explanation of making one's own draft with charts to illustrate Mrs. Galvin displayed a coverlet she had copied in duplicate after an analysis of an antique sample.

Both speakers were warmly applauded and thanked for the very valuable information imparted to everyone.

A display of work done by the Valley Weavers consisted of coverlets, tablecloths, wall hangings, yardage, aprons, cushions, place mats, towels, samples etc. also work done in macrame. This display of weaving was in a setting of antiques loaned through the kindness of Mrs. Warren Gale, Waterville and members, and arranged by Mrs. Royce Gale.

Family celebrations at Willowdale

Mrs. George Parsons BROOKBURY - Mr and Mrs. Lynn Forgrave entertained at a family gathering at their home, Willowdale, on Sunday, May 28, in observance of the birthdays of four members of their family, whose birthdays occur within a few days of each other. Lynn Forgrave on May 19, Jimmie Rand May 22, Royce Rand May 26 and sister Carol Forgrave June 2.

It has become an established family custom to observe all four in one event, but this year it also included the 30th anniversary of the marriage of their parents, Mr and Mrs. Lyle Rand which took place May 28, 1942.

No lovelier place than Willowdale could be found for such a gathering. With the large pond in the foreground, reflecting on its placid water the willow trees which fringe its banks, its stately pines along the driveway and shading the house in the background with a glimpse of the little white steeple-crowned church framed with trees, across the way, all contributing to its unique charm.

The guests included all members of the family as well as other friends, and assembled on the spacious lawn, enjoying the warm sunshine of a lovely May day. While the older members visited among themselves, the younger people found entertainment in various ways, including a boat ride on the pond.

At tea time, a delicious buffet lunch which featured an attractively decorated, candle lighted birthday cake was served on the lawn.

As the lengthening shadows signified the approach of evening, all re-assembled in the living room where the birthday and anniversary gifts were opened with Master Kevin Rand

Golden Agers entertained at Home

Bessie Guy, 424-3734 KINNEAR'S MILLS - The residents of Kinnears' Mills Home were again pleasantly entertained on Golden Age Day, May 28.

Each year the last Sunday in May is set aside as a time, when the aged should be remembered and honored. In different places it is observed in different ways. Here a number of guests had been invited to the Kinnears' Mills Home by members of the Home Committee.

It was a memorable afternoon for the Golden Agers. Although some of the residents are well enough to walk to the village, which is close by others are confined to the house most of the time. They had an opportunity to chat with old friends and renew acquaintances.

The oldest guest in the Home is Mrs. Edwin Smith who recently came from Theford Mines to reside at the Home. She is quite active despite her advanced years and appears to be quite happy in her new surroundings.

About fifty guests attended the event.

Archdeacon Guy Marston and Mrs. Marston joined the group after the service in St. Mark's Church, Kinnears' Mills, and were welcome guests.

It gave many the opportunity to meet the Marstons who had not met them since their rival in Theford Mines. Rev. Gary Stokes also was present and it is deeply regretted that the Stokes family will be leaving this charge soon, after being here for a period of five years.

Refreshments served by members of the Home committee, assisted by others, brought the afternoon to a close and the Golden Agers were left with memories of a pleasant afternoon that was organized just for them.

Guests attended from Theford Mines, Birchton, Inverness as well as Leeds Village and Kinnears' Mills.

The Record today publishes statements and photographs, where available, of the candidates in Monday's election of school commissioners to the new Lennoxville Elementary Sector Board.

A major issue is the question of delegation or non-delegation of authority over elementary education to the secondary level Eastern Townships Regional School Board.

Polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday.

By Monday night 11 commissioners will be elected to represent the former Lennoxville, Sherbrooke, Stanstead and Megantic-Agnes-Compton schools boards. The amalgamation was ordered when the Quebec government passed Bill 27. Already six commissioners have been elected by acclamation.

The outcome in the other five wards will be decided by the voters on Monday. To help them make their choice The Record is publishing a statement by all the candidates as well as by all school commissioners who have been elected by acclamation.

Archie W. French has withdrawn as a candidate in Ward 7 in favor of David Cruickshank.

Elementary education is very important in our educational structure so I feel that in order to achieve this the administration and management of our elementary schools should be under a separate Elementary School Board, and not delegating all powers to one large Regional Board. I am supporting all candidates in our Sector that feel this way.

I have served on school boards for several years administering to the needs of children from Grades 1 to 11 and since the formation of the Stanstead County Board in the position of chairman, I have sought to keep the interest of the people and the needs of elementary education as one of my primary objectives. I am pleased that the electors in Stanstead County have shown such good faith in electing all their members by acclamation. I feel that it is to the best interest of the general public that we maintain a strong Sector Board for elementary education at the present time. It is my aspiration that the interest generated during the past few weeks will not cease and that the parents will continue to take active participation in school board interests. I assure you that as your representative I will make an effort to keep you informed on school board business.

I see my mandate as school commissioner quite clearly and I am aware of the responsibilities involved. My first responsibility is to the children, parents and ratepayers of Ward 3, North Hatley, Hatley, etc., the area I represent. Secondly I feel a great effort must be made to create a strong consolidated elementary sector board, joining all the elementary schools of the area into a smooth running unit. This is the only way we will be able to give the most to our elementary children in the area.

GARTH FIELDS

There are several reasons why I feel that our children and taxpayers will benefit if the Lennoxville Sector Board retains its responsibility for Elementary education. Firstly, there will be better representation at the Board level, i.e. eight members on the executive bodies rather than three from this region. Secondly, at the administration level, delegation of elementary education to the Regional Board places the director of elementary education in a subordinate position to the director general of the E.T. Regional Board. Thirdly, the parents have indicated through briefs, surveys, and discussions that they would prefer non-delegation at this time, and if this major change in the School Board structure is to accomplish its goals, it is imperative that it has the support of the people for whom it was designed.

As an interested parent and taxpayer I have served on Parent-Teacher Workshops and the School Board and wish to participate in this important step in our educational system. Our objective should be a single administration that is responsible for providing the necessary supporting services and coordination of elementary and secondary education with the actual education process. The responsibility of the Directors of Elementary and Secondary Education. We must have strong School and Parents Committees advising a dedicated Council of Commissioners to direct an able administration. If any of these are lacking then the situation must be corrected and Bill 27 provides the general public with the tools.

As a candidate in the upcoming election on June 12 in Sherbrooke Ward No. 5, I am in favor of non-delegation of full authority to the local Regional Board. Further to being an interested parent, I am a college graduate, having received my B. Comm. degree in 1963 and a masters of commerce degree in 1964, option administration. Since graduation I have spent eight years in the fields of office administration, personnel and labor relations and I feel that I can use this experience if I am elected to assist in an efficient administration of our school board system.

Bill 27 has consolidated our local school boards. The aims of this bill are to improve the elementary education of our children through more efficient administration and increased parent participation. In our region we can best achieve these aims by delegation so as to utilize our existing and efficient administrative personnel at the regional level. This will allow our director of elementary education and the educational consultants to devote 100 per cent of their time to work in our elementary schools with the pupils, parents, teachers, and principals. Our young children need better elementary education and delegation is the most efficient and least expensive way to do it.

DONALD J. MacMILLAN

My objective is to work to the best of my ability, to make the most education available for the greatest number of students regardless of their domicile, or whether at the elementary or secondary level. As a taxpayer, I realize the necessity of obtaining the most value for every educational tax dollar expended, and also remaining within the guidelines set down by the Department of Education.

DAVID CRUICKSHANK
Opposed

Mr. David Cruickshank, a parent and taxpayer with a vital interest in education, feels most strongly that the Eastern Townships Regional School Board should not be given authority over elementary education at the present time. Non-delegation would give the present elementary boards the chance to develop into a strong working unit before a transfer of their authority to the Regional Board, should such a transfer prove to be desirable in a few years. It would also give the parents and taxpayers a chance to understand the full implications of such a change. Mr. David Cruickshank stands for an independent Elementary School Board.

I believe in an efficient administration whose chief concern is to provide our children, whether elementary or secondary, with the best education available at a minimum cost to the taxpayers. In the ever changing role of education today, it is imperative that an even closer cooperation be established between the two systems, elementary and secondary, and that a greater participation be taken in school life and activities.

Next Monday, June 12, electors in Ward 8 will be given the opportunity to elect a School Commissioner. Much bickering has been done over the past months, and as election day draws closer the confusion appears to mount. I think the time has come for us, as Canadians, Quebecers and residents of Compton County to put away the pettiness and bring to the headlines the welfare of our youth. I believe all are aware of the issues at hand. Those who are still in doubt, I ask you to find out, then take a few minutes of meditation to evaluate the information. Once you have made your decision, please show it by voting next Monday. I believe that elementary education should not be delegated to the Regional Board.

I have agreed to stand for election to the Council of School Commissioners. I have served on the Lennoxville School Board for eight years of which three of those years I was chairman. Due to the fact that I also served as the Lennoxville representative on the Regional Board since 1965, I am aware of the differences encountered by serving two separate school systems at the same time. I have carefully studied the effects that Bill 27 will have on our educational and financial situations, have read and studied the various briefs presented to the Provisional Council, participated in discussions at the Provisional Council level, and have come to the conclusion that in the best interests of the taxpayer and the future education of our children both at Elementary and Secondary level, that one administration properly guided by the mechanics of Bills 27, namely your Council of Commissioners and parents' groups, is the only obvious means of obtaining these aims. I hope to have the support of the people in the coming elections in Ward 9.

William (Bill) Lyon, a candidate in Ward 9, stands for a strong independent Lennoxville Sector Board. He was born in Sherbrooke and attended local schools. A father of five, Bill presently has four children attending Lennoxville Elementary School. He has a vital interest in present and future education.

I feel at the present time that we cannot delegate our powers to the Regional Board. I would think that we should carry on as an independent board for the time being. As you know, we can delegate our power to the Regional Board at any time. I have been a member of local school boards for nine years, six of them with the Waterville School Board, three with the Lennoxville School Board. I am looking forward to do my best for the parents, students and ratepayers of Ward 10.

Elementary education has always been the responsibility of school boards elected by you, the people. Regional school boards were created in 1965 specifically to administer high school education. I believe that the Lennoxville Sector Board should continue to be responsible for elementary education. You are electing commissioners to represent you and they can only do this as long as the board remains autonomous. The schools belong to you, the people. I would like to share my experience as a teacher serving you as a board member. I will not delegate the responsibility you gave me to the Regional Board.

WILLIAM BLACK

As a resident businessman of my community for over 25 years, and as a school commissioner for six years, I strongly feel that an effective Council of Commissioners should have one undivided goal, unity on all matters of education. Provisions for a Director of Elementary Education backed by qualified administrative personnel at the regional level will guarantee a consistent system of education throughout elementary and secondary schools and avoid unnecessary conflict and waste of resources. If elected I will take a firm stand for delegation to achieve these aims.

Habs get two out of Marlies' big three—not bad

MONTREAL (CP) — Perhaps Steve Shutt, Montreal Canadiens' No. 1 draft pick in the National Hockey League amateur draft Thursday, best summed up the week's proceedings.

"The way Sam (Pollock) wheels and deals, he should be in (Clarence) Campbell's spot."

Campbell is president of the NHL and Pollock is the general manager of Montreal, although at times, you really wonder who does run the show.

Take the amateur draft for instance. Pollock had four first-round draft picks—one of his own and three acquired from other clubs by sending nonentities from the Canadiens' organization their way a few years back.

Utilizing his first pick obtained from Los Angeles, Pollock selected Shutt. It was the fourth pick in a draft which resulted in a record 152 players being selected and lasted close to four hours.

HARRIS TO ISLANDERS

Bill Harris of Toronto Marlboros went to New York Islanders as the first pick in the draft. Jacques Richard of Quebec Remparts went to Atlanta Flames as second selection and Don Lever, who played with Niagara Falls Flyers, went next to Vancouver Canucks.

Then Pollock went to work. After he selected Shutt, Buffalo

Flames snatch Beaver

SHERBROOKE (CC) — If everything goes according to plan, Jean Lemieux, Sherbrooke Beavers' all-star defenceman, won't have far to go to training camp this season.

Lemieux was the third-round draft choice of Atlanta Flames at the National Hockey League's amateur draft session held Thursday in Montreal. Vincent Roselli, manager of the Sherbrooke Sports Palace is expected to announce early next week that the Atlanta team will be holding its training camp at the Sports Palace in Sherbrooke.

Even last night Roselli said, "I will be holding a press conference early next week so that we can announce the training camp and allow the media to talk to the Boomer (Boom-Boom Geoffrion, coach of Atlanta)."

Lemieux wasn't the only Beaver drafted. Claude St. Sauveur, who led the team in scoring last season, was a fourth-round draft pick of California Golden Seals.

he acquired from California Golden Seals, then picked goalie Michel (Benny) Larocque from Ottawa 67's.

Philadelphia was next up and they latched on to Bill Barber, who played his junior hockey with Kitchener Rangers. Then Pollock grabbed another plum in the draft, using a pick acquired from Pittsburgh, selecting Dave Gardner, son of former NHL star Cal Gardner.

Gardner, Shutt and Harris were all linemen with Toronto Marlboros last season and there is a slight chance they may wind up together again. They could all decide to sign with Philadelphia Blazers, who own their rights in the World Hockey Association, but the chance is very slight.

"If Philadelphia offers me, say $2,000 more than New York, I'll go to the NHL," said Harris.

"But say they offer me $25,000 or $50,000 more—then I'd have to think about it."

PLAYED FOR NOTHING

"Let's face it, money is what it's all about." Harris figured his financial claims weren't that far out of line considering he had "been playing hockey 16 years for nothing."

It's sort of sad the three of us couldn't have gone up together," said Shutt.

"Interested in the WHA? Sure. But Alan Eagleson is running the whole thing."

BICYCLE CHECK-UP SCHEDULED — The Sherbrooke Optimist Club, in conjunction with Bicycle Safety Week, will be holding its annual bicycle inspection Saturday starting at 8:30 a.m. and continuing until around 11 a.m. The inspection will be held at Mitchell Park situated at the corner of Queen and

Portland Streets. Any child who has his bike inspected will be in the drawing for two new bicycles. Seen preparing the plans are Gerry Morin, organizer; Marc Bureau, Sherbrooke's Mayor; and Rudy Latrenerre, Optimist president. (Record photo, C. Cotton)

Braves scalp Expos

MONTREAL (CP) — Ron Schueller, Jim Hardin and Cecil Upshaw combined for a seven-hitter and Rico Carty belted a solo home run to pace Atlanta Braves to a 3-2 National League win over Montreal Expos Thursday night.

Carty gave the Braves a 1-0 lead in the top of the fourth inning, breaking up a hitless pitching duel between Schueller and Montreal's Bill Stoneman when he blasted a waist-high fastball over the fence in right centre-field, about 400 feet from home plate.

The Expos evened the score on their first hit in the bottom of the inning when Ron Fairly singled home Mike Jorgensen who had walked and stolen second.

Atlanta then went ahead 3-1 in the fifth when Ralph Garr led off with an infield single and scored on Felix Milan's double.

In their world, we're No. 1

Among fishermen, no other outboard outsells ours. Maybe that's because no other fishing outboard outperforms ours.

Take our 9%. We made it whisper quiet because you'd rather hear the sound of the outdoors than the outboard. We gave it a stylish, low silhouette so you can fish over it, not around it. We added an automatic trolling adjustment so you can concentrate on fishing, instead of navigating. And we built in 8 separate tilt-out positions so that your outboard can take you everywhere the fish go, including the weeds and shallows.

If you take your fishing seriously, you'll appreciate what we've put into the 9%. And with speeds up to 20 mph, you'll get a lot of fun out of it too!

The Evinrude 9% is just one of the outboards in the world's No. 1 fishing line. See it along with our 2, 4, 6 and 18 hp. models at your Evinrude dealer's.

See the complete Evinrude line, 16 models from 2 to 125 hp., at your dealer's now.

CLEAN WATER: our future is riding on it

We've eliminated overboard drains on the new Evinrudes. All fuel is recycled into power.

Land of the giants

AND THE GREENS! ... — Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster, crouching left and right, the noted Canadian comedy team, don't seem to be laughing here as they contemplate what they obviously are ready to assume is a golf hole. Their caddies don't look to be of much help, either. Last word from the course was that Johnny and Frank were playing through the 5.8-mile seventh hole.

Pushes legalized gambling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of New York City's Off-Track Betting Corp. told a congressional committee Wednesday the government should be competing with organized crime for the public's betting dollars instead of trying to convince the public that gambling is wrong.

"The simple facts are that people are gambling prolifically, primarily illegally, and in the face of quite rigid penal laws on the books of almost every state in the United States," said Howard Samuels.

"People today do not view gambling as a matter of moral concern but primarily as a source of entertainment," he said, pointing to New York City's 1963 referendum in which off-track betting was approved by a 3 to 1 margin.

"If government is truly serious about combating organized crime we must begin to compete," he told the House of Representatives select committee on crime.

In another development Wednesday, it was announced that entertainer Frank Sinatra, who had been scheduled to testify Thursday, had disregarded the committee's invitation. Sinatra had voluntarily agreed to testify today but was reported in Epsom, England on Wednesday for a horse race.

WILL ISSUE SUBPOENA

Committee sources said a subpoena would be issued for the entertainer to testify July 18.

Samuels' testimony was in sharp disagreement with that of William Cahn, district attorney of Nassau County, N.Y., who said he does not believe legalized gambling would have any major effect on organized crime.

"Professional and collegiate sports are a way of life in this country," Cahn said. "Everything must be done to prevent the corrupting influence of crime to destroy it. Legalizing the most corruptive of all influences is not the answer."

Samuels testified.

"About the only thing the traditional penal law approach to gambling has served to accomplish has been not to extinguish gambling but to channel it underground into the hands of organized crime syndicates."

Samuels said a 1971 customer study done for the Off-Track Betting Corp. by Daniel Yankelovich Inc. showed that OTB customers had reduced the number of plays per month with illegal bookies from 20 to 12. He said confidential sources also had said that OTB had hurt the street-corner bookmaking business and had closed down any small bookmakers who took bets mostly on horses.

WOULDN'T AFFECT CRIME

Cahn told the committee he believes legalizing gambling would not affect organized crime because bettors would not want the government to know how much they were winning. He said government-operated gambling houses could not offer the conveniences of an illegal bookmaker, such as credit and high-odds parlays.

Football camps setting up

The first of more than 400 players seeking to make the lineups of Canadian Football League clubs this year start reporting to training camp this weekend.

A survey of the nine CFL clubs shows Toronto Argonauts making the earliest start with a few rookies and specialists reporting Friday.

All players are due into the Argo camp at the usual St. Andrew's College site in Aurora, Ont., June 14.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats will be the last to start training when they report to their quarters at Ivor Wynne Stadium in Hamilton June 21.

The earlier start by Argos will provide coach Leo Cahill more time to work on his other pre-season task of preparing the All-Star squad for its annual clash with the Grey Cup champions, Calgary Stampeders, June 28 in Calgary.

The exhibition schedule opens July 4 when Winnipeg Blue Bombers meet the Alouettes in Montreal. The regular season gets under way July 31 with Saskatchewan Roughriders at Hamilton.

TICATS TRAIN AT HOME

Here is the schedule for training camps:

Hamilton Tiger-Cats—Main camp opens June 21 at Ivor Wynne Stadium, formerly Civic Stadium, the Ticats' usual training site except for last year when they trained at McMaster University because artificial turf installation was still under way. No early date for specialists or rookies.

Montreal Alouettes—Full camp opens June 18 at the Autostade, a change from their Cite des Jeunes training site last year. Quarterbacks report June 12 and new players June 14.

Ottawa Rough Riders—Full camp opens June 17 with practice sessions at Lansdowne Park. Rookies report June 16.

Toronto Argonauts—Full camp opens

June 14 at Aurora. Some specialists report June 9.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers—Full camp opens June 18 at St. John's Ravenscourt, a private school in Winnipeg. Quarterbacks and some receivers start work June 12.

Saskatchewan Roughriders—In an attempt to spark more interest in the team from outside the Regina area, the club has moved its training site to Saskatoon this year with all players reporting June 19.

Calgary Stampeders—All players start training June 19 at Calgary's McMahon Stadium.

Edmonton Eskimos—All players report June 20 at Holy Redeemer College near Edmonton.

British Columbia Lions—All players arrive June 18 at new training site at Penticton, the first time since 1960 that the team has practised in the Okanagan Valley's hot, dry atmosphere.

Harvey missing from Hall list

MONTREAL (CP) — "It's a tremendous honor when you consider that somebody like Doug Harvey, who has contributed so much to the game, isn't in the Hall of Fame."

Pitchers top priority

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball clubs reached out for pitching help Wednesday in the secondary phase of their annual draft.

Bob Leslie, a fireballing right hander at Kansas State University, was the No. 1 pick of Los Angeles Dodgers, and by the time the first round was over, a dozen pitching prospects had been tapped.

Leslie had a 6-3 record for Kansas State last season and will forego the remainder of his college career and report to Spokane of the Northwest League next week.

Two of the three players selected after Leslie also are pitchers.

Cleveland Indians, with the No. 2 pick, went for infielder Rich Dauer of San Bernardino, Calif., Junior College. Then New York Mets selected pitcher Michael McNeilly of Longview, Wash., and Texas Rangers tapped pitcher Ron Bell of Fullerton, Calif., Junior College.

Montreal Expos, with the No. 13 pick, took pitcher Craig Caskey from University of Puget Sound in Tacoma, Wash.

Gordie Howe said Wednesday when he and five other players were admitted to hockey's Hall of Fame.

"On playing ability," says Billy Reay, a former teammate and now coach of Chicago Black Hawks, "Doug most certainly should be in there."

"Good?" asked Tom Johnson, coach of Boston Bruins and onetime partner of Harvey's on the Canadiens blue-line.

"Was there anybody around in his time as good as he was as a defenceman?"

"He could control the tempo of the game, speed it up or slow it down if he wanted to."

But despite all the testimonials from his fellow athletes, Harvey was ignored Wednesday when the 1972 selections to the Hall of Fame were announced.

Named to the shrine were Howe, Jean Beliveau, Bernie Geoffrion, the late Reginald (Hooley) Smith and Harry (Hap) Holmes.

Weston Adams Sr., longtime owner of Boston Bruins until he gave way as president of the club to his son a year ago, was selected in the builders category.

Smith starred with the now-defunct Montreal Maroons while goalie Holmes' career stretched over 15 years of Stanley Cup competition with teams in Toronto, Seattle, Victoria and Detroit.

Under hall rules, players have to have been out of hockey for three years before they are eligible for nomination. These rules were waived for Howe and Beliveau, two superstars who retired after the 1970-71 season.

Harvey, the defenceman they always compare Bobby Orr to, filled the three-year requirement.

After the selections were announced, Frank Selke Sr., chairman of the selection committee, shook the former defenceman's hand and asked if he had been out of hockey long enough to qualify.

"Yeah," was the reply. "We'll get you in next year then," Selke told Harvey and then added, "But you've got to help me."

"I'm not interested in getting into the Hall of Fame," Harvey countered defiantly.

"I don't want any part of an outfit that bends the rules for their own convenience—where you have to be one of the establishment or you don't qualify."

"What they're telling me," Harvey added, "is that they won't put me in because I'm not averse to sampling the nectar of the gods now and then."

Smiling, Harvey raised a gin and tomato juice to his lips and then said:

"The difference is that I'll hoist a few in full view of everyone where some other guys will sneak around the corner to do theirs."

"I'm my own man."
