Leaves for Paris today

Sharp seeks single Viet authority

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, still undecided about Canada's future on the Vietnam supervisory commission, leaves for the Paris peace conference today with a single bargaining goal.

He wants the international conference, which opens Monday, to set up "a continuing political authority" to take responsibility for the Vietnam peace settlement.

Mr. Sharp told reporters Thursday he doubts the conference will adopt Canada's first choice for such an authority—the United Nations security council.

The government's second choice is the UN secretary-general. A poor third, say officials, would be a continuing committee of the conference itself.

The authority, which would receive reports from the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS), has been one of Canada's conditions for participation in the observer group.

REQUIRES AUTHORITY

The minister said Thursday it is still an absolute requirement for future Canadian involvement in the four-country peace commission. Without it,

Bertrand dies following heart surgery

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean-Jacques Bertrand, 57, Union Nationale premier of Quebec for 19 months from the death of Daniel Johnson until the Liberals came to power in April, 1970, died Thursday, one day after he underwent major heart surgery in a Montreal hospital.

Mr. Bertrand had been plagued by heart trouble even before he succeeded to the Union Nationale leadership Sept. 26, 1968.

Mr. Bertrand announced his intention to retire in July 1970, just two months after the Liberals scored a landslide win under Robert Bourassa. He gave up the leadership to Gabriel Loubier at a party convention in June of the following year, citing ill health as his reason for leaving active political life.

Dr. Paul David, executive director of the Montreal Heart Institute, where Mr. Bertrand died at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, said in an interview the surgery had been a technical success but Mr. Bertrand's condition was "never good" after the operation.

TOO WEAK

"His condition wasn't strong enough to enable him to pull through."

Mr. Bertrand's wife, Gabrielle, and other members of his family were with him when he died. He had seven children.

Dr. David said Mr. Bertrand suffered his first heart attack in 1968 and his second in December, 1971.

He was operated on Wednesday by Dr.

For more on Bertrand; see p. 3

Pierre Grondin, chief of surgery at the institute. The operation took six hours.

Mr. Bertrand was pronounced fit for leadership of the party in 1968. He had been in the legislature for 20 years.

His interim stewardship was confirmed at a party convention June 22, 1969, when he defeated Jean-Guy Cardinal, 1,327 votes to 938.

In the 1970 election, the party won only 17 seats in the 108-seat Quebec national assembly, as the Liberals swept to power with 72 seats. The Creditistes won 12 and the Parti Quebecois seven. The Union Nationale had gone into the election with 55 seats.

When his government was defeated in 1970, Mr. Bertrand's personal reputation for his direct approach and political moderation remained intact.

He was an ardent federalist as well as a staunch French Canadian nationalist, and said after his defeat that constitutional confusion caused by some of his own cabinet colleagues was a major factor in his party's loss.

He said middle-of-the-road constitutional policy inherited from Mr. Johnson had been abandoned by three ministers, all prominent in speculation over the leadership.

Mr. Bertrand's name was considered synonymous with intellectual honesty. Political observers said he possessed clearcut attitudes and a direct mind.

While thoroughly French-Canadian, his years in power never reflected the open-ended nationalism or Gallic excitement cultivated by Mr. Johnson.

Canada will withdraw after its initial 60-day commitment lapses at the end of March.

But the decision whether to maintain Canada's 290-man contingent on the ICCS will also hinge on events in Vietnam, there must be smooth operation of the commission and an end to the fighting as required by the Jan. 27 peace agreement signed by Washington, Hanoi, Saigon and the Viet Cong.

The decision will not be made before mid-March, Mr. Sharp said.

Michel Gauvin, Canada's chief delegate on the ICCS, said this week the combatants have failed to live up to the agreement, but withheld judgment about the usefulness of the ICCS itself.

Canada will be expected by the conference to stay on the ICCS with fellow-members Hungary, Poland and Indonesia.

But Mr. Sharp and Prime Minister Trudeau have insisted for months that Canada would not remain on the commission merely to oversee continued fighting.

PRISONERS FREE

The success of at least one element on the peace agreement—release of U.S. prisoners—could ease a decision to drop the job after 60 days, when all prisoners are scheduled to be freed.

Mr. Sharp has indicated several times that U.S. withdrawal from the war was a major motive for Canadian involvement in the ceasefire.

"What we want and what the Canadian people want is the end of American participation in Vietnam and the end of that war," he said in a television interview Nov. 25.

While the continuing political authority is a condition to be met by the Paris conference, fulfilment of a more general condition also remains to be met. That the ICCS be workable and effective.

Two other conditions have been received—agreement by all combatants to Canadian involvement, and to the peace treaty itself.

A final condition outlined by Mr. Sharp Jan. 5 is still being tackled—freedom of movement for the ICCS in South Vietnam and in the demilitarized zone separating North from South.

Reference to the Paris conference in the peace agreement does not mention establishment of a political authority as sought by Canada.

The agreement calls on the conference to "acknowledge the signed agreements; to guarantee the ending of the war, the maintenance of peace in Vietnam, the respect of the Vietnamese people's fundamental national rights, and the South Vietnamese people's right to self-determination, and to contribute to and guarantee peace in Indochina."

Attending the conference will be the four warring countries, the four ICCS members, China, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

And a good time was had by all!

Laborer, MP on same rate due to tax anomaly

OTTAWA (CP)—A laborer earning $5,720 a year will get almost the same benefit as an $18,000-a-year member of Parliament from the federal tax cuts announced Monday by Finance Minister John Turner.

A person with Mr. Turner's $33,000 salary, however, will be twice as well off under the new system as either the MP or the laborer.

And through an anomaly in the relationship between the new system and the old, a person earning the average Ottawa construction wage of $190 a week will benefit less than some taxpayers with higher and lower incomes.

The cash savings in Monday's tax cuts, compared with the federal taxes on 1972 income, will be $2.28 a week for the laborer, declining to $2.15 a week for someone getting national average earnings of $150 and to $1.96 a week for the construction worker.

But then the savings start rising as income increases, so that an MP, whose salary averages $346 a week, saves $2.33 a week and a finance minister saves $4.50 a week on his average weekly salary of $635. Total annual savings would be $118.67 for the laborer, $111.78 for the average worker, $101.94 for the construction worker, $121.31 for the MP and $243.03 for the finance minister.

SAVE $10

Not included in these calculations is the universal $10 tax cut effective on 1973 income as part of a four-year reduction program announced in 1971. With that included, all taxpayers will save an extra 19 cents a week in 1973.

The calculations assume that the taxpayer is married, with a dependent spouse and two children under 16. The hypothetical finance minister, however, is assumed to have three children, the same number as Mr. Turner.

Preliminary calculations on budget day produced the erroneous report that Monday's tax cuts would mean $1.97 a week to the average worker.

The down-and-up-again pattern of actual tax savings results from the interplay of three factors:

—The temporary three-percent tax cut which expired Dec. 31,

—The new "five-per-cent" tax cut which began Jan. 1. Since all taxpayers are guaranteed a minimum $100 deduction under this provision, for most people the "five-per-cent" cut is a reduction of much more, and in a few cases would be a 100-per-cent reduction.

—An increase in personal exemptions, to $3,000 from $2,850 for a married couple and to $1,600 from $1,500 for a single person.

INCREASES SAVINGS

The increased exemptions produce more cash savings for higher-income groups because of progressive tax rates. A taxpayer in the 17-per-cent bracket, for example, saves $17 if his exemption goes up $100.

A taxpayer paying tax at a rate of 35 per cent, on the other hand, saves $35 with an increase of $100 in his exemptions.

But lower-income groups benefit more from the "five-per-cent" cut than middle-income groups.

Last year's three-per-cent cut, for example, was worth $10.27 to the laborer, $22.28 to the average worker and $36.60 to the construction worker.

This year, all three get the minimum $100 deduction. That means a gain of $89.73 for the laborer, $77.12 for the average worker and $63.40 for the construction worker.

EXEMPTIONS WORTH MORE

Beyond the $190-a-week level of the construction worker, however, the savings begin getting bigger. With higher income, the increased exemptions are worth more.

More importantly, the five-per-cent cut becomes a real five-per-cent cut. The MP, for example, saves $174.43 through the five-per-cent cut, $68.18 more than he did with the three-per-cent cut. A finance minister would save $441.50, or $174.83 more. The maximum saving allowable is $500.

In terms of percentages, the laborer has his 1972 federal taxes cut by 35.9 per cent, the average worker by 15.1 per cent, the construction worker by 8.6 per cent, the MP by 3.5 per cent and the finance minister by 2.7 per cent.

3rd trial

Rose acquitted of murder

MONTREAL (CP)—Jacques Rose was acquitted Thursday on a charge of murdering Pierre Laporte and less than two hours later left the jail where he had been detained since December 1970.

The verdict, after 13 hours of deliberation marked the end of the third trial for Rose, 25, on charges stemming from the October, 1970, kidnapping and murder of the former Quebec labor minister.

When the cheering and clapping from Rose's family and friends in the court had subsided, M. R. Justice Claude Bisson of Court of Queen's Bench said he could see no reason to refuse Rose a condition release.

"He has had three trials since February, 1972. He was acquitted last December on a kidnapping charge and this morning on a murder charge."

Charges of complicity after the fact in the kidnapping and detaining Mr. Laporte against his will still pending against Rose were "relatively less substantial" than the previous charges.

The verdict was given shortly after 11 a.m. and by 1 p.m. Rose had been released on the conditions that he remain in the province, keep the peace, not possess firearms, refrain from communicating with witnesses at his trial and report to court March 5 for setting of a trial date on the remaining charges.

Once released, Rose returned with his family, lawyer Robert Lemieux and friends for a celebration at his parent's home in Longueuil, across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal. He said he would give reporters an account of his stay in jail at a news conference today.

THANKED JURY

Rose thanked the jurors and told them "the verdict will go down in history." "You have understood what solidarity is. Solidarity is the life essence of a people. I thank you."

The 25-year-old former mechanic was arrested in December, 1970, with his brother Paul and Francis Simard in an underground hiding place at a farmhouse near St. Luc, 20 miles southeast of Montreal.

Their arrest came more than two months after the kidnapping of Mr. Laporte and his death Oct. 17. His strangled body was found in the trunk of a car at nearby St. Hubert.

JAILED TWO YEARS

Jacques Rose had been in prison ever since his arrest, despite repeated attempts by Mr. Lemieux to gain his release on bail.

Paul Rose was convicted of both kidnapping and murdering Mr. Laporte and now is serving two concurrent life-imprisonment terms. Simard is serving a life sentence for murder and still faces a kidnapping charge.

Bernard Lortie, arrested in November, 1970, in a Montreal apartment, is serving a 20-year sentence for kidnapping and has a murder trial pending against him.

Simard, Paul Rose and Lortie all refused to testify at Jacques Rose's murder trial as did Rosa Rose who said she would not help the prosecution build a case against her son.

INSTRUCTED JURY

The jury began deliberating Tuesday following an address in which Mr. Justice Bisson told jury members to consider only whether Rose had participated in the murder.

Mr. Lemieux had said in his summation that the murder could have been committed by one of the kidnapers of British trade commissioner James Cross, abducted five days before Mr. Laporte.

The defence lawyer argued there had been reason to believe the two Front de Liberation du Quebec cells which kidnaped the men had met and formed an agreement.

The FLQ demanded a ransom in gold, the release of so-called political prisoners and transportation to what they considered a safe refuge in return for the release of the two men.

Mr. Cross was freed two months after his abduction in exchange for the safe passage of his kidnappers to Cuba.

Testimony during the trial connecting Rose to the murder was slight.

FOUND PRINTS

Roland Briant chief of the Quebec Provincial Police fingerprint bureau, said Rose's palmprints were put on the car in which Mr. Laporte's body was found sometime during the week the labor minister was held captive. Fingerprint prints were also found in the house where Mr. Laporte was held.

A QPP biologist testified a strand of hair taken from a mask at the St. Hubert hideout where Mr. Laporte was held "had similar characteristics" to a hair sample taken from Jacques Rose.

Rose was identified as a visitor to the house twice during the week before Mr. Laporte's body was found Oct. 17, 1970.

Normand Turgeon, 25, testified he had visited the St. Hubert house several times in 1970 and the people he saw there most frequently were Jacques Rose, Paul Rose and Bernard Lortie.

Come into my parlor, it will only cost a note

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a couple moved next door and we became friendly. I showed the woman where the best markets were, the choice cleaning shop, the hair salon, and told her all the little things a new neighbor needs to know.

When they entertained for the first time we were invited. It was a beautiful party for their friends from Europe—champagne and all the trimmings. Three weeks later they gave a dinner for my husband and me to show their appreciation for our help. They invited four couples besides us—some of our closet friends.

Last night (and this is not sour grapes, Ann) they gave a very large party. The cars were lined up for a block. One of their guests put his car in our driveway which I thought was rather rude.

This morning I jokingly mentioned it to my neighbor and added, "It looked like quite a party. How come we weren't invited?"

She replied, "I wasn't sure you enjoyed the last two parties. I never heard from you."

I told my husband about her remark and he said, "I believe she has a point. Why didn't you drop her a note?"

I think they are both crazy. Do you believe a next-door neighbor should expect a gold engraved thank-you note? I'd feel like a fool writing a letter to the woman next door. Sign me—Saubbed in California

Dear S.: A written thank-you note need not be in "gold," but it is certainly in order when a party is given in your honor. If you didn't want to write a note you should have telephoned the following day—and perhaps sent flowers.

If I sound like a moth-eaten square, forgive me, but too many of the old customs are being dropped these days and I think it's a shame.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the mother of an 18-month-old child. I'm sure millions of other young mothers have the same problem, so please print my letter and tell us what to do about it.

Since Jimmy was old enough to walk, strangers have been giving him candy, chewing gum and money whenever we are in a supermarket, or even on a bus.

Our little boy is very cute and friendly and says "Hi" to everyone. That expression, "He never met a stranger," was made for this kid. If Jimmy was a diabetic or had some allergies he would be in serious trouble. Why don't adults think about such things? It so happens that he's a healthy child, but this business of getting so many gifts has spoiled him to the extent that now he expects things and doesn't even say thank you.

Will you please tell the well-meaning sweets to offer small children sweets or money? Thank you, Ann—Mother Of An Overly-Gifted Child

Dear Mother: My advice is for you, not the "well-meaning public." As the mother of this child it is your responsibility to see to it that the boy not be permitted to accept gifts from strangers. When someone offers Jimmy candy, gum or money, you should say, "Thank you for wanting to be generous, but we don't allow him to accept gifts from strangers." The "something - for - nothing" philosophy is already too deeply ingrained in our young people. Misguided generosity only serves to promote it.

a spade toward dummy at some stage of the proceedings and finesse dummy's jack. The jack would hold and eventually you would make all 13 tricks since the spade breaks 3-3.

What would happen in a match point duplicate game for life masters?

Life master South would toy with the idea of a super safety play in spades to guard against a singleton queen in the East hand. Then he would abandon that play because he would want to give himself the best chance for an overtrick. He would take and win that same spade finesse but he still might only gather in 12 tricks.

How would this happen? He would play dummy's ace of spades after the jack held and West would false-card by dropping the queen.

This is what might be called an automatic play. The queen and 10 are equals since the jack has been played, but there is a great difference.

South knows that West holds the queen. He does not know who holds the 10. South should probably ignore the false card, play his king and drop the 10, but experts are a law unto themselves and South just might finesse his nine-spot and let the 10 make against him.

Single school tax bill confuses some taxpayers

By WENDY McMULLEN
Record Reporter

LENNOXVILLE — Some taxpayers were alarmed when they received their school tax bills recently because they had not realized that there is only one payment for school taxes this year. Robert Simonic, secretary-general of the Lennoxville Sector Board, reported yesterday at a public relations meeting to discuss taxes, census-taking and board elections.

In the past, two payments were made each year for school taxes. Because of this, some people thought, when they first saw their bills, that their taxes had been doubled. In fact, the rate has been lowered this year. "The future policy of the government is to make one yearly payment for local school taxes," Mr. Simonic said. "This applies to all areas except Sherbrooke and Lennoxville where taxes are not collected by the school board but by the municipalities."

A further aspect which has confused some farmers, Commissioner Knapp pointed out, had nothing to do with the school board but came from the provincial government treasury. "The school board only prepares the list of farmers eligible for farmers' rebate and sends it to the government. It has nothing to do with paying this rebate," Mr. Simonic explained.

Farmers with more than 10 acres of land can get 35 per cent of their school taxes returned to them by the government. This, however, requires an Order in Council from the provincial government which has not yet been passed for last year. Farmers who are entitled to this rebate should check to make sure their name is on the farmers' rebate list posted in the school board offices in Lennoxville, the secretary-general explained.

A list of electors will shortly be made for commissioners' seats coming up for re-election, in the Ayer's Cliff-Coaticook, Magog and Sherbrooke areas.

The preparation of this list will involve census-takers to ensure that the list is complete, Mr. Simonic explained.

Any Canadian citizen who is over 18, non-Catholic, and resident or a property-owner in the ward where the seats are contested, is eligible to vote for school commissioners.

If the would-be voter's religion is other than Catholic or Protestant it is necessary to indicate to the school board before April 30 to be registered on the electoral list.

In order to stand as a candidate for the board of commissioners it is necessary to be over 18, a Canadian citizen and have been resident for more than six months in the area under the board's jurisdiction. It is not necessary, however, to live in the ward which you represent — it is possible to be 'parachuted' from another area.

Nominations for candidates have to be presented in writing by two eligible electors to the returning officers at the polling stations by the first Monday in June.

In most cases the seats are not contested and commissioners are elected by acclamation.

Mrs. Jennifer Roman, secretary of the Parent's Committee, pointed out that last year was very unusual because of the issues involved.

Last year, five of the seats on the elementary school board were contested. Commissioners Marguerite Knapp, David Cruickshank, Kay Olson, Bill Lyon and Wendell Greer were elected to the board in the last election.

The three seats coming up for re-election in June are held by Aubrey Greer for the Ayer's Cliff-Coaticook area, Garth Fields for Magog and Midge Paulette — appointed by the commissioners to replace Wendell Greer who resigned to move to Ottawa — for Sherbrooke.

Commissioners on the school board are elected to serve both one, two and three-year terms. The three seats to be re-elected this year are all one year terms.

Commissioners on the school board are elected to serve both one, two and three-year terms. The three seats to be re-elected this year are all one year terms.

ON STRIKE — Strikers who closed down the Martin Automobile Dealership in Sherbrooke yesterday were only a few of 700 employees who closed more than 60 garages. The employees want shorter working hours. (Record photo: C. Cotton)

Garage employees close 60 dealers

SHERBROOKE (CC) — More than 60 Eastern Townships car dealers were shut down yesterday as 700 garage employees went on strike for the first time in their history.

The car maintenance men, members of five different unions, voted in favour of a strike Wednesday night by more than 90 per cent. Some garages, not members of the union, were not affected yesterday.

The principle reason behind the strike is the garage owners unwillingness to grant the car maintenance men a five-day 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. work week. The owners have offered more money in raises than even the unions have requested but the owners don't want to give the men the working hours they want.

Owner-negotiator Guy Cloutier, of N.V. Cloutier Automobile in Sherbrooke, told The Record that he would "be surprised if it is a short strike." Garage employees on strike at Martin Automobile said that they would not bow to the owners' request and that they wanted a normal working week.

Cloutier said that negotiations between the unions and the owners had broken off and that there was little hope, at the moment, of a quick settlement.

"We were willing to give the employees a 40-hour work week by the end of the contract," Cloutier said. "We can't work out the scheduling of the hours. The owners want to have the garages open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.," he added.

His simplicity led one to believe he was a man of simple

A tribute to Bertrand

With the passing yesterday of Jean-Jacques Bertrand, The Record's Cowansville correspondent, John Dinning, files this personal account of the man he knew for many years.

By JOHN DINNING
SWEETSBRUG — A mild sou-westerly wafted through the area last night — a gentle wind and a mild snow — both most reflective of the calm methods of persuasion employed by the late Jean-Jacques Bertrand.

Mr. Bertrand, an adopted son of the area whose roots stemmed from the CRAIGY of the Laurentians, adopted this area when he married. His wife was the former Gabriella Giroux. Possibly the softer terrain of the Townships helped him form his ideals and ways.

He was always soft-spoken, mild, yet in his own way, forceful. One can always remember his absolute tolerance with difficult family problems when he argued them in court. Yet we must contently recall his firm views on problems of law and order.

His simplicity led one to believe he was a man of simple character yet he was a most complex person. He survived two decades of political turbulence until the end, never the true winner and more often than not, in overall terms, vanquished.

Yet he never forgot to smile and his other asset was he greeted those who had voted against him with the same enthusiasm as his supporters.

Undoubtedly these characteristics led to his downfall as a political leader.

Politics aside, he was a revered man. Friends and enemies on the political battlefield appreciated his honesty and integrity. He wasn't nicknamed the "incorruptible" without just cause.

A long stroll through his ward last night indicated he was far from forgotten.

"The world's worse off with his passing."

"Oh my God, don't tell me Jean-Jacques died."

"Poor Gabby and the family," and so on and so forth.

The consensus was a friend, not a former politician and former premier, had died.

That was undoubtedly the finest tribute to anyone who has been in public life can have as an epitaph, an indication of his warmth and respect for all.

My last meeting with him was one day last autumn when he ventured forth upon the dubious sidewalk to pick up his daily ration of newspapers. He was wan and drawn, yet his spirits were ever buoyant.

That's the way one person will always remember him.

The goal scorers for 1st Sherbrooke were, Doug Bailey with two goals and singles by Peter Nutbrown, and Stuart MacDonald. Allyne Gosselin with a three-goals, hat-trick answered for 1st Lennoxville.

In cells pending hearing

SWEETSBURG WARD (JD) — Serge Daigneault, in his twenties, of L'Assomption, was sent to the next term of the District of Bedford Assizes, following preliminary hearing here Thursday.

Daigneault joined his accomplice, Eddy Martel, also in his twenties, of St. Jerome, in cells pending trial on a charge of non-capital murder, in the shooting death of Arthur Couturier, 58, of Cowansville.

Mr. Couturier was gunned down in a robbery at the Cowansville Gas Bar, October 7, 1972.

Daigneault's hearing, which had begun earlier, was remanded to Thursday, when Judge Guy Genest returns from vacation. At the resumption of the hearing the defense attorney, Robert Senay, of the Legal Aid Bureau of Montreal, requested all formalities be waived. Judge Genest agreed and ordered the accused to trial.

Crown Prosecutor, Claude Noiseux, who had earlier suggested there might be a spring session of the local Assizes said:

"Since the only two accused awaiting trial on capital charges are presently serving sentences for other convictions, there is no prejudice in their being incarcerated until the regular autumn term. I would, however, recommend an earlier session if the circumstances so warranted."

Centless robbers escape net

WINDSOR (CC) — Four men who attempted to rob the Windsor Branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce yesterday escaped a police net set to apprehend them.

The men, who used a sledgehammer to bust their way through the bank's front door shortly before 9:30 a.m., escaped without a cent. Bank employees were unable to open the vault because the manager had not yet arrived.

More than 50 policemen set up road-blocks in the area following the attempted robbery but the thieves apparently were able to escape the police blockade. Police reported they were able to find the get-away car — which had previously been stolen in Montreal — on a back-road outside Windsor.

According to police the thieves banged their way through the wooden front door at 9:24 yesterday morning. However, they could not steal any money because the vault wasn't open yet.

"I way out having coffee with a few of my friends," bank manager J.I. Gagnon said. "The vault wasn't open because I hadn't yet arrived."

Police said that two armed men entered the bank through the hole they made in the door while one man stood guard outside and another remained at the wheel of the get-away car.

"When they realized that there was no money to be stolen and that the vault couldn't be opened they left as quickly as they could," Gilles Bouchard of the Richmond Detachment of the Quebec Police Force said. "They escaped by the back roads."

The branch was open to business most of the day. "We opened a little late at about 11 a.m.," Gagnon said. "Other than that it was just an ordinary day."

Some members of the staff were sent home after the robbery to recover from the shock of the attempt. But the manager said yesterday that a stronger door was not to be installed at the bank entrance.

"It is the same as the one we had before," he said. "Maybe later we will change it but for now it will be made out of wood."

It was the second attempt on a bank in the Townships in less than a week. A week ago three men robbed the North Hatley Branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. During their get-away they shot a policeman who only was released from hospital and returned to his home yesterday.

No arrests have yet been made in either case.

Citizens urge investigation

COWANSVILLE (JD) — The chairman of the citizens committee, J. Noel Parenteau, said at a recent meeting:

"We must remain alert to all legislation brought forth by senior governments, either provincial or federal, concerning civic administration practices, especially any legislation which permits municipal councils to operate without having to account for their actions to the electorate."

The committee was formed "as a result of the general uneasiness which presently exists in Cowansville, and which finds its roots in the fact the policies practiced by the municipal elders do not serve the purposes of the population and ignore the ratepayers ability to submit to spiralling taxation."

"It is imperative the department of municipal affairs investigate the existing civic administration," said Mr. Parenteau.

He indicated the committee would urge the town manager to provide ready access to the urban renewal master-plan as well as providing them with the critical path of all presently planned phases.

The urban renewal plan took effect for a five-year period in 1968.

One of the priorities established by the committee is to determine which conglomerate will construct the long-awaited shopping center.

One applicant is SOGENA which is headed by Dupuis et Freres, president, Marc Carrieres, Roland Desourdy, the mayor of Cowansville, is the vice-president. Paul Desrochers, Premier Bourassa's administrative assistant, is reported to be on the SOGENA board, he said.

A group of local merchants, Le Mail Inc., suggested they would be interested in developing a shopping center.

"Neither of the bids have been confirmed or repudiated to date by the municipality," Mr. Parenteau concluded.

The twain meet

In Prime Minister Trudeau's mind, up to now, the East of Canada has been the East, the West the West, and seldom did the twain meet. Tomorrow they meet in Winnipeg for a family conference and grand assize of the battered Liberal party.

The prime minister would do well to heed the counsel of Liberals who know far better than he the character, the ambitions and the handicaps of this area. Already he seems to realize his own ignorance of this region and seeks to repair it. In a recent television appearance he frankly confessed that "we haven't applied ourselves in the West as we have applied ourselves over the past two years in Quebec to prove to the people of Quebec that the government in Ottawa is really their government... We have not, I think, demonstrated that enough by formulating a new national policy so the West can also believe they have power in Ottawa."

That is one way of diagnosing the Liberal party's western malaise. But it goes much deeper than the manners of the government or its failure in public relations. The simple truth is that the government paid scant attention to the West so long as it could control Parliament with a majority won in the central provinces of Ontario and Quebec. Only when that control broke down did the West suddenly become important to the erring Liberal strategists. Apparently they realize, at last, that Liberalism will not regain control without strong western support and that, in any case, no government is equipped to govern effectively when it is almost excluded from any of Canada's major regions.

Saturday's conference here will be a public admission of this long-neglected fact, a belated adjustment to political realities. What, then, is Mr. Trudeau likely to learn as he listens to his western advisers?

Before he learns anything else of importance he can safely dismiss from his mind any fear of western separatism as a serious threat. That theory of national suicide on the instalment plan is confined to a few obscure conventicles with shrill voices and no significant votes. Whatever the West may be, it is not crazy.

Nevertheless, a sane West has some genuine and long-standing grievances, not against the nation but against certain policies of government. The largest and oldest of these is a tariff which makes westerners pay artificially high prices for most goods while they must sell their own in the fiercely competitive world market.

At any time it is difficult to change the historic protectionist system, even marginally, and it is still more difficult today when the manufacturing heartland of Central Canada dominates all the political parties. But the "new national policy" forecast by Mr. Trudeau can have little meaning for the West unless it includes at least some reduction in the tariff and consequently in prices at a time of rapid inflation.

Will the Trudeau government pursue that purpose in the autumn negotiations of GATT or will it continue to regard foreign imports as hardly better than a necessary evil and every sensible concession to Canada's customers as charity or defeat?

With his post-election eagerness to understand what went wrong in the West, Mr. Trudeau has much to learn. He will not learn it all, of course, in a weekend, but he can make a beginning. Above all, he can learn that the advice so long accepted from his experts in the back rooms and ivory towers of the East was fatally remote from the true facts of western life. Until he grasps the western realities for himself, at first hand, as he so ably grasped the realities of Quebec, the electoral verdict on October 30 last is not likely to be reversed.

Opinion from the French press

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal La Presse: An English-language colleague recently devoted his editorial to the rising food prices. To say what? To ascertain simply that there is no solution.

Solutions probably exist but everybody is advancing on tiptoes when it comes to applying them.

Since it concerns food some immediately thought of a corrective action at the production level. But the federal agriculture minister hastened to advise strongly against the freezing of prices in that sector, because such a measure would go against the "just" interests of farmers.

Under these conditions, why not consider a global income policy, the control of prices and incomes, so that the brakes slow down all the wheels at the same time?

Herb Gray, federal consumer and corporations minister, does not believe in this remedy although it is known that the government has prepared an "emergency plan."

Either the present situation is not considered an "emergency" or the government has little faith in its own "plan."

Herb Gray seems to believe that undertaking a psychological action with the consumers themselves might have good results. But what kind of psychological action?

From what we can understand, it would mean changing the water in the bowl rather than transferring the fish (consumer) to another bowl.

It would mean teaching the consumer and the housewife a personal buying policy. But with the same floating and volatile dollar, right?

For instance the increase in the price of cigarettes. When a client asked for the reasons of this increase, he was told: "It's the grocer."

If you ask the grocer, he will probably answer: "What's one cent more or less when the dollar itself doesn't buy anything?"

Obviously cigarettes do not come under the food department. But is it not this general conjuncture of somewhat too easy money which explains most things? Guy Cormier (Feb. 15).

Ottawa Le Droit: The patriotism of our federal MPs had to bow before a strong rival—the collective vanity of our representatives in the Commons. The incident took place during the study of proposed legislation making Feb. 15 National Flag Day.

In principle, our federal MPs all favor the idea; to such a point that it had even been agreed to adopt the proposed legislation speedily.

To those who know the commons, it meant a challenge.

In fact, it is almost unthinkable that MPs all agree to deprive themselves of a moment of glory at an historic time. All would like to have a word to say and see their names linked to an historic event.

The incident brings back to mind the enthusiastic support under which MPs in the past buried proposed legislation dealing with bilingual cheques, the national anthem and the flag itself. There were so many MPs giving their support to these proposed measures that they simply buried them from one session to another.

The fight over the cheques and the flag lasted for years and it can be believed that at least in the case of cheques some were disappointed when the proposed legislation was approved. The approval made them lose an annual occasion to demonstrate their nationalism.

The idea of a national flag holiday is excellent, as is a national holiday Dec. 11, to commemorate the adoption of the Statute of Westminster.

As holidays cannot be multiplied infinitely, if only one were to become a reality, we would hope it would be the flag holiday.

The flag is more a sign of our political evolution and independence than is the Statute of Westminster.

A holiday Jan. 11 commemorating Sir John A. Macdonald has also been mentioned. Obviously, if the government wants to proclaim more than one holiday, few people will protest other than industrialists and merchants who will see a reduction in their revenues.

The nation will be happy. However, if there is to be only one holiday, it should be the flag holiday. Marcel Gignas (Feb. 17).

Granby La Voix de l'Est: To avoid any oil shortage in Canada, the federal government will keep a close watch over Canadian crude oil exports to the United States.

The National Energy Board will intervene, when necessary, to make sure that Canadian oil refineries have the needed oil at their disposal.

It is said in Ottawa that without this measure, we would not have the assurance that production and transport capacities would be adequate for next month.

The American demand is so great at the moment that oil companies cannot promise to fill the country's own consumption needs. In fact, the American demand exceeds the Canadian production surplus.

The government must intervene to protect the Canadian population.

However, it remains to be seen whether the industry will not try to take advantage of the situation to increase oil prices.

This abnormal demand for oil must not be a reason for imposing higher prices on the Canadian consumers. They already pay enough for this product. Roland Gagne (Feb. 17).

The shield laws

Dr. Frank Stanton of CBS has delivered a speech in which he confesses to having slightly altered his opinion about the rights of newsmen. Last October, he says, CBS appeared before Congress to urge enactment of a "shield" statute that would grant specific protections to newsmen. "At that time," said Dr. Stanton, "we did not advocate an absolute, unqualified news privilege. We took the position that there might be extreme conditions under which a court would be justified in compelling the revelation of information or the sources of it."

But no grass grows under CBS's feet. "We have since reconsidered that position," said Dr. Stanton. "We now believe it necessary to enact legislation to create an absolute newsman's privilege, which should apply not only to the Federal government, but to the states, regardless of present shield laws, or lack of them."

Concerning the controversy, a few observations:

1) It is hard to believe that CBS really desires an absolute protection for newsmen of the kind so categorically affirmed in the resolute prose of Dr. Stanton. Let us dwell on one or two contingencies:

Johnny Olds has been kidnapped. The kidnapper calls a reporter on The Daily Eagle. K tells R that unless he promises not to reveal any information given him except that much which is authorized for use in the public media, he will clam up. R agrees, and relays only in the press K's terms: amnesty for the Harlem Eleven, or whoever. Occasionally, K lets Johnny Olds himself come to the telephone, and Johnny begs R to beg the community to spare his life. Does CBS want a law that prevents the police from requiring the reporter to answer such questions as might lead them to the kidnapper?

Again: A reporter is summoned and told in confidence that if he looks in the trunk of a certain Oldsmobile tomorrow morning, there he will find the mortal remains of Carlo Buono, the notorious capo of the East Side. But — understand — you are not to divulge from whom you got the information, not even that you got it from a leader of the rival family. The hit will be done shortly after midnight, and it will be made to appear that the killer was Buono's bodyguard.

A trial takes place, and Buono's bodyguard summons the reporter to the stand, as he is entitled to do under the Sixth Amendment. Do I understand Dr. Stanton to be saying that he may not be interrogated? Worse, do I understand him to be saying that he should not be interrogated?

2) The absolutization of any protection under the Constitution results in the diminution of another protection, as Sidney Hook pointed out in his book, "The Paradoxes of Freedom." What is needed is not an "absolute" privilege, but the making of some distinctions. It is relevant that there are those who had already warned that distinctions will need to be made if the absolute law is passed, and that those distinctions might then be overweening.

For instance, who exactly is and who isn't a newspaperman, or a reporter, or freelance television or radio consultant? Nobody much cares nowadays because the distinctions don't mean very much. But they will mean a great deal when particular privileges are invoked. I can hear it now: "Your honor, Mr. I.F. Stone may pose as a reporter. As a matter of fact, all he is is a polemicist for the left. Congress could never have meant to extend to him the immunities intended for objective newspapermen."

Such distinctions as these are malevolent. But others are not. The kind of questions that can be asked ought to be defined, to fall short, for instance of the wide-ranging questions asked of Professor Popkin at Harvard last fall. That is the direction the shield laws should take. And then finally: last fall. That is the direction the shield laws should take. And then finally:

3) Surely CBS's emphasis, viewed quite pragmatically, is askew. There is very little suffering going on these days as a result of important grand juries going after newspapermen. But there was very nearly a great deal of suffering last fall when CBS was ordered struck by the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists.

But what laws have CBS proposed to guard the public from strikes so clearly violative of the spirit of the First Amendment? Dr. Stanton spoke out in order to "protect a basic principle." In this case it is the public's right to a free flow of information.

That flow is not seriously interrupted these days by the government, though as always we need to keep our eyes on the government — that enemy of all well-disposed, decent, and industrious men, as Mencken put it; but it is time and again choked off, as in New York City three times in seven years, by labor unions exercising powers altogether incompatible with that Amendment to the Constitution beloved of Frank Stanton, and me.

"Welcome home, Henry — Here's your ticket for Paris"

FBI director cannot be confirmed

WASHINGTON — Pat Gray, with his bullet head and pugnacious jaw, has the look of an FBI director. It is now clear that he lacks the qualifications. His credentials were less than impressive when he was appointed acting director in May 1972. He had no experience whatsoever in law enforcement. As an attorney, he had specialized in taxes and trusts and paper shuffling.

He was selected, insiders knew, because of his complete devotion to Richard Nixon. Gray had joined Nixon's personal staff in 1960 and had established himself as a loyal team member. By Nixon standards, there is no higher qualification than loyalty to the team.

Gray's main mission was to make the FBI responsive to the President's will and, thereby, to assure that the FBI, like himself, became part of the team. In short, Gray was chosen for his political reliability to fill a post that the Senate has decreed should be kept out of partisan politics.

He immediately started roaring around the country ostensibly to inspect FBI field offices. Almost everywhere he went, however, he took the occasion to say something favorable about President Nixon. Gray's travels had the earmarks of a political campaign tour, yet he flew in Air Force planes at the taxpayers' expense.

He was away from Washington so much that he became known around FBI headquarters as "Two-Day Gray." When he wasn't off somewhere promoting the reelection of the President, he was usually splashing in his swimming pool at his summer home in Stonington, Conn.

Jack Anderson's

Washington Merry-go-round

POLITICAL POLICE
But most serious of all, Gray has used the FBI as a political police force. He denied to newsmen last May that the FBI kept dossiers on politicians, newsmen, movie stars, black leaders and other prominent Americans. "None of you guys are going to believe this," he said, "...but there are no dossiers or secret files."

We promptly furnished him with excerpts from the files of a number of notables, who had committed no crimes and are unlikely to commit any crimes. Yet the files showed they were under active FBI surveillance. To help Gray locate the hidden dossiers, we even provided the FBI file numbers.

Six months later, FBI agents were caught actually checking on a Democratic congressional candidate in Ohio. This flushed out the fact that the FBI had been gathering information on both congressmen and candidates.

An embarrassed Gray pleaded that the practice had "just come to my attention" and said that he had ordered it stopped. All that had been collected, he insisted, was "biographical data on major candidates for the House of Representatives and the Senate from newspapers, magazines, campaign literature and various reference publications."

Once again, we published details from the files of several congressmen, including House Speaker Carl Albert and House Republican Leader Gerald Ford, to prove that their dossiers also contained eavesdrop information, surveillance reports and gossip from informants.

WHITTEN CASE
We can now cite a more personal abuse of police power. On January 31, eight FBI agents arrested my associate Les Whitten while he was reporting on the return of stolen Indian documents. The agents tore his notes out of his hands, snapped on the handcuffs and threw him into the pokeny.

We made a painstaking investigation to find out how this violation of Whitten's constitutional rights could have been committed by agents sworn to uphold the Constitution. We learned that the White House had passed down the word to the FBI to make a case against us, presumably as an example to other newsmen who might try to dig too deeply.

Loyal old Pat Gray sent his agents into action against Whitten, although the FBI knew he was in no way involved in the theft or possession of the stolen documents. The FBI knew, indeed, that the documents were about to be returned to the government and that Whitten was on hand to write the story.

We have detailed, documentary proof that the FBI not only knew no crime was being committed at the time of the arrest but that the FBI deliberately withheld this information from the Justice Department. Its top prosecutors found themselves gleefully crucial bits of evidence, not from FBI reports, but from the newspapers.

Nevertheless, the prosecutors allowed Pat Gray's boys to present the best case they could to the grand jury. It is rare for a grand jury to refuse to let a case go to trial that the FBI wants prosecuted. But after listening to the FBI's case, the grand jury decided the FBI had no case and, therefore, refused to indict Whitten.

The President now wants to make Gray, as a reward for his loyalty, the permanent FBI chief. In our view, this would turn the nation's most formidable law enforcement agency into a political police force. We hope the Senate will refuse to confirm him.

W.I. meetings

EAST CLIFTON — The Women's Institute met with Mrs. Victor Bell on Feb. 8. Each member brought her favourite recipe and a sample which was passed around and enjoyed. Raspberry squares, apple-nut cookies, gingerbread squares and tarts were some of the goodies. Learned men make the Calendar but God makes the weather was a fitting motto for this month with its changeable weather.

A new flag has been purchased and was in use at this meeting. Directions for Hand-bags were received and will be made and filled again. Eight hundred were sent from Quebec Women's Institutes last year, going to various places in the world to bring a bit of enjoyment to children.

Citizenship convener showed coloured pictures and gave a reading on the Adelaide Hoodless Home near Galt, Ont., also films on local scenery, families and crops were shown by Mrs. Ronald Bell.

Several visitors joined the members for a delicious lunch served by Mrs. Bell. Mrs. Ray Waldron and Mrs. F. Bain were absent due to Mrs. Waldron's confinement to the house as she is not as well as her friends would wish.
Best wishes were also sent to Mrs. James Parkinson at the McKeage Rest Home in Sherbrooke.

BROOKBURY — The W.I. held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. Sterling Batley with 14 members present. Four new members were added to the roll call. The president Mrs. Ernest Bennett opened the meeting in the usual way with the Opening Ode, the Mary Stewart Collect and the Salute to the Flag.
Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

announcement that Miss Eileen Ennals would be responsible for collecting Dominion Store sale slips was made.
A sale of home baked food, was planned for April 19 to take place at the Wool Shop and a turkey supper and Early Bird sale was planned to take place in St. Andrew's Church Hall, Sherbrooke on September 29.
Miss Colina MacKenzie will represent the group at the World Day of Prayer March 2nd.
It is of interest to note the February meeting took the form of a Phantom tea in the house where Mrs. James Stewart entertained the group at the first meeting 46 years ago this month.
The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. The March meeting will be held at the home of Miss Colina MacKenzie who will be in charge of devotions.
Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by members of the group.

World day of prayer

A meeting was held in St. Peter's Church hall to make arrangements for the World Day of Prayer being held this year at St. Peter's Church on Friday, March 2nd, at 2:30 p.m. There were representatives from six churches.
Mrs. J. Franklin presided as Chairman and Mrs. C. Allan acted as Secretary. The minutes of the 1972 meeting were read and approved.
Miss Gwyneth Evans, Dean of Students at Bishop's University, will be the guest speaker. The theme is "Alert in Our Time" Women of New Zealand, of European and Maori descent, wrote the service for this day of prayer and call their fellow Christians in every country to join them in a prayer fellowship, in the dedication of themselves as God's servants, to be alert to every opportunity of loving service to all mankind.

The World Day of Prayer is sponsored by the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada. Offerings are allocated to help promote the gospel and meet human need in all countries of the world.
Everyone is invited to join in the service being held at St. Peter's on March 2nd.

Fast pick up

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A trusting 25-year-old Flint woman still is waiting for her bargain-priced television set. Bernastine Connie told police she was standing in front of a furniture store when a man approached and offered to sell her a set for $75. She declined to buy but changed her mind when he lowered the price to $50.
He took her into the store, showed her the set and told her to drive to the back of the store to pick it up.
When she got there and gave him the $50, he told her: "Watch how fast I'll be back with the television."
That was Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. F.W. Fleming of Belvedere Heights were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. M.B. Fleming and other relatives.
Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gibbs of Crawford Park, Montreal were guests of the latter's sister Mrs. Arthur Galbraith and Mr. Galbraith.
Mr. Donald Davies who has been staying at the home of Mrs. Florence Roster has taken up residence at the Knowles Home in Melbourne.
A number of friends and relatives from the surrounding area attended the At Home given to Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Adamson of Kingsbury in honor of their 50th Wedding Anniversary, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Wilkins on Sunday, February 11. Congratulations are extended to the honored couple for many more happy anniversaries.

Roxanne Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Lister, of Island Brook. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Louise Dempsey and Mrs. Mabel Morrison, both of Sawyerville.

Sherbrooke County W.I. news

The regular quarterly meeting of the Sherbrooke County Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall, Scotch Road on St. Valentine's Day, Mrs. Kenneth Smart brought the meeting to order with the Salute to the Flag and the singing of the Hymn of All Nations with Mrs. Goodfellow at the piano. After greetings and an expression of gratitude to the Brompton Road Branch for their hospitality, the roll call showed thirty members present.

A letter of appreciation was read from a Northern W.I. that had asked and received help from all over the province; there was a feeling of gratification that we had been able to give assistance to a sister W.I.
During the summer Mr. Wayne Morrison of Hall Beach, N.W.T. had shown slides of his work in teaching school in the far north, at which a silver collection had been taken; he wrote to thank the W.I. for the support given and to say that nine books had been added to the school library.

Mrs. Ashley Hatcher, secretary, reported that a large quantity of used stamps had been forwarded to assist a Leprosy Clinic. Few realize the amount of money that is raised every year from used stamps.

Mrs. Robert Sutor revealed that the annual school fair will take place in the Lennoxville Elementary School on September 15. Anticipated expenses include approximately $300 for prizes (there were 745 entries in 1972); $60 for seeds and $30 for paper on which the nine pages of the prize list will be printed. Industries will be asked to contribute again this year.

Dr. Atto, Citizenship Convener was unable to attend but sent a progress report on the projected trip to the Cradle of the Women's Institute movement at Stoney Creek, Ont.; this has been postponed until a more suitable time than June 1973.

Mrs. Yves Alain, Education Convener, read a letter from her provincial counterpart which told of a pamphlet entitled A Parent's Guide of Drug Abuse which is available from the Department of National Health and Welfare by merely writing for it.

Mrs. Hugh Wallace, Home Economics Convener, announced that the space will again be available at the Sherbrooke Exhibition, August 18-26, for the Women's Institute Sale Booth. All articles must be hand-made by the members.

Mrs. Eldora Turner gave some highlights of a W.I. meeting she had had the pleasure of attending at Prince George, B.C. and had received and the cook book she had bought.

Because of illness Mrs. Smart had been unable to attend the Semi-Annual Meeting of the Quebec Women's Institutes in Montreal and Miss Edna Smith, Q.W.I., 2nd Vice-Pres gave a very comprehensive report. During the year the Q.W.I. has collected $703.93 in Pennies for Friendship, this is done all over the world to support the Associated Country Women of the World. There are 2000 members in 90 branches in Quebec. The Annual Convention will take place at Macdonald College May 24 and 25.

Mrs. Wallace had arranged a contest in August for articles made from throw-away material, three prize-winning articles from each branch were judged by Madame J.T. Faucher who expressed amazement at the variety and excellence of the work. The prize winners were Mrs. Gerald Decoteau, Mrs. Warren Ross and Mrs. Ashley Hatcher.

The hostess branch used Valentine decorations on the attractive tea table where a casserole supper was served, the centre-piece was a cake made as entwined hearts. Mrs. Frank Ingham expressed appreciation to the hostess branch for such an enjoyable afternoon.

Mrs. Louis Dandurand has resigned as secretary of the Municipal Corporation of Maricourt and is being replaced by Mr. Rejean Paquette of Maricourt.

Friends of Mrs. Agnes McKenna of Richmond regret to hear she is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Swimming pool sales could wash out in Brussels

The Cookshire Youth Group met at the home of Miss Brenda Macmillan.

BRUSSELS (CP) - As Belgium's persisting rain washed the windows of Ontario's office in downtown Brussels, the talk inside was about brave efforts by Ontario businessmen to sell, of all things, swimming pools to the Belgians.
Even for commercial councillor Paul Samson, an enthusiastic backer of all things Ontarian in Belgium, the idea of selling swimming pools in this rain-soaked corner of the old continent seemed slightly daring.

But this sample of relentless enterprise demonstrates the way Ontario businessmen refuse to accept any prophecies of doom about the prospects for Canadian products in the enlarged European Common Market and are in fact intensifying their sales efforts.

"I don't see any aspect of gloom," said the rangy, 46-year-old Samson who covers Belgium, Holland and France in his promotion of Ontario products and stimulation of European interest in Ontario investments.
Citing Holland as a traditionally keen trading country, Samson said in an interview that a good product offered at the right price, along with the certainty of good servicing, would make the Netherlands "delighted to buy from us."
The French, traditionally more inward-looking because closer to over-all economic self-sufficiency, now realize they have to be more commercially open to the world at large, said the Ontario official, speaking on the basis of his discussions with individual businessmen in France.

The hard-working Belgians, he observed, have much of their trade with neighboring West Germany.

LOOK TO CANADA
But, even before the Ontario office here was established more than three years ago, Belgians were turning to Canada as a profitable place for investing the capital diverted from what previously was known as the Congo.
Ontario businessmen trying to sell their products in Europe have to contend with the serious disadvantage of losing their preferential tariffs in Britain now that Britain has joined the European Common Market.

But, despite some of the inward-looking nature of Common Market trade, Ontario and other Canadian businessmen have definite advantages on this side of the Atlantic.
Devaluation of the dollar reduced not only the cost of products from Canada on the European market but also the cost of European investment in Canada.

The rate of inflation has lately been greater in Western Europe than in Canada, economists suggest.
Samson, whose Ontario office overlooks the recently opened Quebec House on the Rue De La Loi in central Brussels, believes enhanced prosperity in Canada means a greater likelihood that Canadian businessmen will seek new markets in Europe and elsewhere.

Saturday, February 24
The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Mixed influences today. You find it difficult to decide just what you want to do, where you want to go.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Don't be tempted to turn from a proved to a confused course or you could suffer financial losses.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You may have to go all out to keep key associates and home companions happy and content today.
CANCER (June 22 to July 22): The general tenor of news is far from optimistic, but you take it in stride just the same.
LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): You accommodate yourself to the hustle and bustle, but it leaves you weary by nightfall.
VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Grasp the reins and drive toward your goal. Don't wait for others to give you a push.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Affection is the strongest human bond. Keep it as warm and vibrant as you can with constant attention.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Not much going on today. Work on hobbies, visit friends, answer correspondence—or just be lazy.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Although attracted, you resist anything that is contrary to accepted norms. Be more flexible.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't take too long in making up your mind. The quicker you act, the better results you'll achieve.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Don't postpone needed home repairs, but be safety-conscious when using tools and equipment.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Show only your best side to companions—whether they be family members or friends. (See Gemini.)

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Your mind may be so preoccupied with thoughts and plans for the future that you lose track of the present.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Go ahead and blow off steam. It's better than keeping frustrations bottled up inside oneself.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Be careful about the feelings of friend who is over-sensitive.
CANCER (June 22 to July 22): There are opportunities galore but you are satisfied with the status quo, which is fine also.
LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): Jot down ideas as they occur to you as you may forget them by the time you want to use them.
VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): You are gaining stature right along and will soon start to reap monetary rewards also.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): It is imperative to you to have all the privacy you can get in order to think through difficult decision.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): There are some people and situations which disturb you at the moment. Don't let tension get you down.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Almost anything can happen today. Don't miss a trick by being unaware of what's going on around you.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You may have some doubt as the time draws near, but that isn't a negative sign. Outlook is optimistic.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Your footsteps seem to be guided by some powerful force—luckily guiding you in the right direction.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Put finishing touches on a home decorating project. Enlist support of everyone around the house.

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Conditions may force you to step on a few toes today, but you do so reluctantly. Much can be accomplished.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): A peaky neighbor, co-worker or acquaintance may interrupt your work. Tell him to "bug off"—but tactfully!
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Take notice of what's going on around you. You may find some surprises you didn't suspect.
CANCER (June 22 to July 22): Action you take now could enhance your prestige and protect vital assets. Be decisive.
LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): Stick with the job at hand until you have the situation completely under control.
VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Suggest an idea to a friend in such a way that he thinks it was entirely his own. You can do it.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Some negative factors in Libra charts denote necessity for taking utmost caution in all activities today.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Your childish reaction surprises not only you but your friends as well. Analyze the reason if you can.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Take time for play as well as work. A balance must be attained for a happy, healthy existence.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Proceed on the assumption that you can't fail! Self-confidence is your best motivator.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Unfavorable trend exerts a dampening influence. A short delay won't do any harm, so don't fret.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Success could be costly—in money and/or prestige. Proceed with utmost caution today.

Stanstead Co. Agricultural Society directors meet

AYER'S CLIFF — A director's meeting of the Stanstead County Agriculture Society (Ayer's Cliff Fair Board) was held on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 15 in the IOOF hall in Ayer's Cliff.

With the new president, Jules Gagne in the chair, and five directors present as well as five other members, the budget for the 1973 year was given attention. This was approved at an anticipated expenditure and receipts of $21,900.

As the Quebec Provincial department of Municipal Affairs had approved the Stanstead County sale of the building at the entrance to the fair grounds at Ayer's Cliff, arrangements were made for a delegation from the Fair Board to meet with a delegation of the County Council in Coaticook on February 16 at 2:00 p.m. to sign the deeds of transfer and the Fair Board pay for the building.

A vote of appreciation was made to send the County Council Warden and Mayors a note of appreciation for giving the Fair Board first opportunity to purchase the building.

Another letter was approved to be sent to Georges Vaillancourt, N.L.A., Quebec on his recent appointment of Minister without Portfolio in Quebec.

The following committees were named for the 1973 fair. Executive — the 15 directors elected at the February 12 meeting. Reception — J. Gagne, J.P. Verpaest, Dale Miller, Edward Hyatt, Howard Majury, L.G. Taylor, Tom Ride, R.G. Conner, Doug Johnston, Turner Hunter, N. Dery, Richie Harrison.

Yellow House takes Galt carnival

By BRUCE PORTER

LENNOXVILLE — Last Friday saw the close of the 1973 Alexander Galt Regional High School Winter Carnival with final events being run in about 20 categories, while Lynn Blenkhorn was crowned Carnival Queen. Yellow House won the carnival with highest total points.

Throughout the week, games in broomball, human sled-dog races, volleyball and floor hockey were played to determine who the finalists would be.

Thursday, a pizza-eating contest was held in the cafeteria while on Friday, woodsmen competition, toboggan races, football, tug-of-war, slalom ski racing, snowshoe races and snowmobile races were run to pick the individual championship teams from each house.

Judging of the snow sculptures was held Friday morning, while in the afternoon, 'The Great Pecarve', a mind-reader and hypnotist, performed in the auditorium. Pecarve also had a show in the evening while the carnival dance featuring 'Euphoria' was being held in the gymnasium.

Yellow House copped the point standings with 789 with Purple running second with 708 points. Blue House was next chalking up 653 points, followed by Orange with 546. Red was fifth with 538 while Green House finished last, collecting 488 points for the week's activities.

The six carnival princesses were Lynn Blenkhorn — who became queen — Sylvie Morin, Holly Blenkhorn, Jill Wark, Kathy Fidler and Renee Provencher. The girls' names were given in order of their house placing in total points. The Carnival Queen was the house princess whose house won the carnival.

The pizza-eating contest was the only event completed during carnival week, with 10 participants entering. Brian Eddington of Yellow staff won the contest single mouthedly, while another teacher, Gary Moore of Orange House, came a close second. The three teachers who took part came in first, second and third. Seven students placed in the last seven positions.

Tom Allen, organizer of the contest, said that for a first effort it went very well, with adequate participation by everyone. It was probably the best spectator event in that it was held in the cafeteria at noon with all who sponsored the eaters getting into the action almost as much as the eaters themselves.

Yellow House won the snow sculptures with their entry named 'The Yellow Rolls Royce.' M. Milton, one of the several judges for the event, was disappointed that there were not as many entries as last year, adding that colour schemes were not a big factor this year.

Each sculpture was marked on originality, presentation and general workmanship. The first two marks were worth 20 each while the last was out of 60 points. Miss Milton also said the quality of the entries was not as good as previous years, adding that only three were real contenders compared to about 10 last year.

Senior and junior mixed broomball was played all week, tournament style, with Red House defeating Blue for the championship in the senior division, while Yellow was beaten by Green House for the junior championship.

With the mixed teams, the girls played the first half of the game with the boys finishing the game. At the end of regulation play if the score was tied, girls and boys would alternate penalty shots until one team scored.

The turnouts were good for the event even on Friday when the wind and temperature was disagreeable.

The floor hockey event was open only to junior girls with Yellow House winning another one of their many contests.

The junior boys were left out of the event because they had just finished a floor hockey game in their gym class.

The volleyball competition was divided into three categories: senior, junior and staff. Green House proved very strong in this event winning all three divisions.

The human sled-dog races, which consisted of 10 'dogs' pulling two people on a toboggan along a set route around a pylon and back to the starting point.

In this event there were five classes: senior boys and girls, junior boys and girls and an open event. Yellow House showed much endurance as they won all five divisions and took the overall house trophy.

The woodsmen competition consisted of seven basic outdoor necessities — showshoeing, cross-country skiing, pulp wood toss, cross-cut sawing, swede sawing, tree felling and water boiling. Each team comprised a maximum of six boys, with Purple House copping the event.

The toboggan races were also a big favorite with Orange House taking the overall trophy. In the singles event, Mike Mailhot of Yellow came first followed by Andrew Poaps of Orange and Shelley Morrow of Red House.

Greg George and Mrs. E. MacLeod of Blue House copped the doubles while the teams of Greg Goodsell and Robert Rogers from Red and Andrew Poaps and Brian Peck from Orange came second and third respectively.

Andrew Poap's team won the triples section of the event for Orange House. Purple House was best represented at the races with 23 participants, while Blue and Orange followed with 19 and 17 tobogganers respectively. Red had 15, Yellow had eight and Green House had five students out.

Football was a new addition to the activities this year, with Orange House winning the championship. All players had fun in the games but chilling weather almost caused several cases of frost bite.

The tug-of-war event was held in the Red-Purple courtyard, with a maximum of 20 pullers for each house. Yellow House won the event, adding to their already long list.

Slalom skiing races were held this year with Larry Haire of Yellow House capturing the individual class while Orange took the overall house cup.

The snowshoe races were won by Purple House overall with Peter Ball taking the boys individual trophy. Chris Fitzgerald won the girls individuals.

The annual snowmobile races were held with 47 machines entered this year. A total of 97 races were run in the obstacle and drag events.

Each division, drag or obstacle, had four classes, with class 'A' being for machines under 12 horsepower, class 'B' for 18 horsepower and under, class 'C' for snowmobiles up to 25 horsepower and class 'D' for machines of 25 horsepower and over.

Twelve models were bought for the winners, so classes A and B, C and D were grouped together and the combined times were taken to produce the winners.

In the obstacle race, Larry Bryant won both combined classes for Orange House, though Blue won the overall obstacle event.

In the drag competition, Stephen Goodfellow took the A and B class for Green House, while John Williams of Yellow won the C and D class. But once again Blue House had more contestants place higher than other houses and they captured the overall competition.

Blue also won the relay race and thus were victorious in the over-all snowmobile race event.

One organizer of the event, Richard Bell, said: "The drivers are to be congratulated, they came through exceptionally well on their conduct. The participation was great and the interest high."

Later he added: "They were real sportsmen, and the cooperation we received was just fantastic."

The number of spectators was rather low because of the weather but still about 200 students braved the day to see exciting races.

'The Great Pecarve' entertained 180 staff and students of AGRHS in the afternoon, doing mind-reading and hypnotism for the main part of his act. He also played in the evening and 100 persons turned out for that performance.

'Euphoria' played for the carnival dance Friday night in the gymnasium from 8-11:30 p.m. Approximately 600 attended the dance. When all the bills are settled for carnival, the carnival committee will turn over a sum of money to the regional student's council.

All in all, this year's carnival was by far the most successful since the school opened, with participation being a great factor in showing the spirit that does exist in the school.

1, 2, 3 PULL — Members of the Purple House team go all out in just some of the action on Carnival Day.

PIZZA ANYONE? — Charles Brouillet shows how to stuff your mouth with grace during the first annual Pizza Eating Contest in carnival week. Who stole the Bromo?

TENDERS

Purchase of Hay

Sealed tenders for the supply of hay to the Research Station, Canada Agriculture, Lennoxville, Quebec, will be received for the following:

60 Tons of leafy hay, green, well cured, 1972 crop.

Tenders will be received until 3:00 P.M. on March 6, 1973.

Time of receipt of tenders may be used as a basis for awarding the tender and deciding between equal bids.

All quotations shall include delivery to the Station. Only top quality hay of the 1972 crop will be accepted. The Station reserves the right to reject hay of inferior quality on delivery. Quotations may cover all or part of the quantities asked for. The Station reserves the right to accept or reject, in whole or in part, any quotation.

Tenders have to be submitted on forms prepared for this purpose, and available from Miss L. Sevigny, Research Station, Canada Agriculture, Lennoxville, Quebec. Telephone: 565-4702.

Wings tie on Dionne's 3

One of the players Detroit Red Wings are counting on to put them into the National Hockey League playoffs this season is Marcel Dionne, and the flashy little centre is not disappointing them.

Dionne, who set a scoring record for rookies last season with 77 points, got all three goals Thursday night in his team's 3-3 tie with Montreal Canadiens, leaders in the NHL's East Division.

With the tie, the Red Wings fifth in the East, kept pace with fourth-place Buffalo Sabres in their fight for the last playoff spot.

The Sabres, four points ahead of the Wings, defeated Vancouver Canucks 3-1 while Pittsburgh Penguins edged New York Islanders 2-1 in the only other games Thursday night.

One game is scheduled tonight, New York Rangers playing California Golden Seals at Oakland.

WAS TOP ROOKIE
 Dionne, the league's outstanding rookie in the 1971-72 season, led the Detroit club in scoring with 77 points. His development as a scorer and playmaker in the latter half of last season contributed much to the club's drive.

This season, except for a little misunderstanding between him and coach Johnny Wilson who thought he was "going at half speed" earlier in the schedule Dionne has continued his fine playmaking.

His three goals Thursday night gave him 31 for the season, three more than his goal output last year. He is also six points short of equalling his points-total for last season.

Two of Dionne's goals were on power plays and the other was unassisted. His first goal came at 15:53 of the first period after Guy Lafleur had given the Canadiens a 1-0 lead.

After Jim Roberts scored less than two minutes in the second period to put the Canadiens ahead 2-1, Dionne stole the puck and scored a minute later. He then put Detroit ahead at 7:43 of the period on his second power-play goal but Yvan Cournoyer gave Montreal the tie at 3:16 of the third period, scoring on a pass from Frank Mahovlich.

Dionne's goals were his second three-goal performance since joining the Red Wings from St.

Catharines Black Hawks in 1971-72. His first, last year, was also against the Canadiens.

LUCE LEADS SABRES
 The Sabres got a goal and an assist from Don Luce in handing the Canucks their 39th loss in 63 games. Luce's goal, the first in the game, came in the first period when he took a pass from Jim Schoenfeld and skated in to lift the puck past goalie Ed Dyck.

Jim Mair, playing his first game for the Canucks after being acquired from New York Islanders, tied the score 80 seconds later, blasting a 70-foot slapshot past goalie Roger Crozier.

But Norm Grattan, a recent addition to the Buffalo lineup, gave Buffalo the go-ahead goal in the second period. It was Grattan's third goal in four games since joining the Sabres from Atlanta Flames.

Larry Mickey got the other Buffalo goal midway through the third period as the Sabres won their fifth straight game without a loss.

Pittsburgh moved into a sixth-place tie with Los Angeles Kings in the West Division with its win over the Islanders, but they are only four points away from the fourth and final playoff berth.

Al McDonough scored the winning goal, his 28th of the season, to give Pittsburgh the victory. Craig Cameron for the Islanders and Dave Burrows for Pittsburgh had scored earlier.

Galt wins 2, loses 2

LENNOXVILLE (BP) - In athletic action at Alexander Galt Regional High School on Wednesday and Thursday, the junior boys' basketball and hockey squads notched victories while the bantam boys' 'A' and 'B' teams suffered losses in basketball.

The junior basketball team defeated Richmond Regional 47-21 in Richmond. Ricky Hunt scored 11 points for the Pipers, while Fred Dezan tallied 10.

Murray Sutor and George Baptist each had eight points. Coach John Haller noted the good Galt bench strength, with a large crowd on hand to watch the game because of carnival. Andy Illick scored five points for the RRHS squad.

The bantam 'A' squad lost 22-14 to RRHS, with Leon Brooks getting five points for Galt. Richmond's Marty McKenna scored six points.

John Haller, filling in for Don Caldwell, noted that the team was not shooting up to par, possibly because of nervousness caused by the large crowd on hand.

The 'B' team lost to Seminaire de Sherbrooke 37-23. Patrick Fitzgerald, Keith Neal, Jamie McAteer and Mitchell Lepitre each scored four points. R. Cabana displayed the firepower for Seminaire with 19 points.

Coach Heather Walker noted that the team played well, while Mac Learned said the team was much improved, but added that they still needed work on shooting and defensive zone.

Yesterday, the junior hockey Pipers defeated Bishop's College School 2-1 to win the ETIAC semi-final competition in a one-game total-points match. Andrew Retchless scored from John Mills while Alan Robinson tallied from Brian Dezan and Retchless.

Coach Brian Heath said: "Steve Lyonnais played a fantastic game in nets and Dan Speck made some good offensive drives."

The Pipers meet Mont St. Anne in the zone final.

The gymnastics show held at Galt was seen by approximately 700 persons last night. Organizers were very pleased on the whole with the turnout and with the performances of the participants all of whom enjoyed themselves.

3-way tie in curling meet

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) - Jim Murphy's confidence and a measure in favor of Manitoba created a three-way tie for first place in the Canadian seniors curling championship Thursday night.

Ralph Smith of Noranda, Que., representing Northern Ontario, Roy Stone of Trail, B.C., and Dr. Bill McTavish of Winnipeg entered today's final round with 7-2 records.

Murphy, skip of the New Brunswick rink from Saint John, was fourth with a 6-3 mark after he whipped Northern Ontario 11-5 in the 10th round of the 11-rink, round-robin tournament.

At 5-4 were Bob Cruikshank of Red Deer, Alta., and Gil Strumm of Saskatoon. Dr. W. MacDonald of Charlottetown was 5-5, Guy Chenail of Quebec City 3-6, John Pike of Grand Falls, Nfld., and Ed Rhodes of Brampton, Ont., both 2-7 and Gord Bauld of Halifax 1-8.

The 11th-round draw had Saskatchewan against Quebec, New Brunswick playing Newfoundland, Ontario meeting Northern Ontario, Manitoba taking on Nova Scotia and B.C. against Alberta. P.E.I. got the bye.

A playoff involving two rinks would begin this afternoon and one involving three teams would also start in the afternoon with the second game Saturday morning.

LOST ON MEASURE
 In other 10th-round games, Manitoba edged Ontario 8-7 on an extra end measure, Alberta defeated Newfoundland 11-6, B.C. topped Saskatchewan 10-8 and P.E.I. beat Quebec 9-5. Nova Scotia had the bye.

Ninth-round results were: B.C. 9, P.E.I. 7, Northern Ontario 8, Alberta 7, Manitoba 11, New Brunswick 4, Ontario 12, Nova Scotia 2 and Saskatchewan 12, Newfoundland 6.

After Murphy virtually lost his little chance when he was whipped in the afternoon round by Dr. McTavish, the New Brunswick skip said:

"I was more scared of Manitoba... than I am of Ralph's rink. 'Don't get me wrong, I am not trying to take anything away from Northern Ontario... however, I think we play a style of game which can beat them.'"

Thursday night, Murphy said: "We played our type of game, they just got behind and we kept putting on the pressure."

WRECKED ON GUARDS
 Murphy generally sticks to the takeout game which worked to perfection and forced Smith to abandon most times his draw game, going after rocks which New Brunswick left in the house. On a number of occasions, Northern Ontario stones wrecked on guards.

Murphy got all his points on four ends—three on the first, two on the third, stole two more on the fourth and picked up four on the sixth.

The Manitoba-Ontario game featured a brilliant shot by Rhodes on the 10th end which earned him two points to force the extra end.

Rhodes tied the game at 7-7 when he raised his own rock through a port for shot. The rock he raised rolled over and bit on the eight-foot for second shot.

He made a similar raise on the extra end but Dr. McTavish drew to his rock on the four-foot circle to force a measure.

Dr. McTavish said at first he wasn't going to worry about his second stone because he thought Manitoba still had shot, despite Rhodes' rock.

of not more than $22 million.

"I said that there were differences in (operating cost) estimates of $22 million between ourselves and the government," he said. "We're not talking of deficits, but difference in estimates of operating costs only."

The Montreal group set aside $60 million for operating expenses in its budget presentation, with the other $250 million for such capital expenditures as stadium construction.

The federal report estimates $81,706,000 will be needed for operating costs, and says the Montreal group underestimated in several departments.

"If you look down the list of individual items you will notice large differences between the two estimates," Rousseau said. "I have no quarrel with the federal government, but again I must state that they start from a different basis."

SNYDER SUMS UP
 Gerry Snyder, vice-president of finance for the games, said the current differences of opinion between the organizers and government "could go on for the next three years."

Rousseau took issue with reports that he had told a Toronto news conference Wednesday that the games would incur a deficit of not more than $22 million.

WEIGHTLIFTER - Weightlifting championships are being held in Sherbrooke tomorrow and seen above is last year's champion, Raymond Dion of Sherbrooke, giving an example of what weightlifters call a 'snatch'.

WHA likened to NHL expansion

EDMONTON (CP) - Putting together a respectable club in the World Hockey Association is like putting together an expansion club in the established National Hockey League, says Ray Kinasewich, former coach of Alberta Oilers.

"The first thing you have to do is establish a system," said Kinasewich, who was replaced as coach two weeks ago. "That isn't as easy as it seems, because, as with an expansion club, we got players from all over."

The Oilers, reputed in some quarters to be an early favorite for the Western Division championship in the new 12-team circuit, have struggled most of the season and are locked in a grim battle for the final playoff spot.

Kinasewich, a journeyman minor-league pro in his playing days, has no illusions about the club, but he's convinced the Oilers are good enough to win the playoffs—if they get in.

"One year, at Cleveland, we had a club that was thrown together. Nobody knew anybody else and we struggled. In the last game of the year, we lost 6-0 to Rochester and we had to play Rochester in a best-of-three playoff starting two days later."

"We didn't think we had a chance, until we sat down and agreed to give it one good shot."

"We won the first game 6-1, right in Rochester, and went on from there to win the Calder Cup."

A major difference between that club and this was that most of the Cleveland players were veteran pros. Kinasewich this year was saddled with a mixture of fringe NHL players, veteran minor leaguers and promising youngsters.

"It has been tough to reach all of them," he said, "but the club has cut down about 75 per cent in its mistakes since the start of the year."

Inevitably, Kinasewich has been criticized for his club's poor showing. He ducks none of the responsibility, but it's his known that at least one NHL club has been sufficiently impressed with his handling of the Oilers that he is under serious consideration for a job in the established league.

"I don't want sympathy," said Thompson. "I don't want people feeling sorry for me if I go 0-for-4 or make an error. I don't want this thing to become an alibi."

When Thompson left his suburban Minneapolis home Jan. 31 to take his annual physical for spring training, he felt fatigued.

He wasn't concerned, though. After all, he had been working 66 hours a week as a car salesman and speaking three or four nights a week to groups of baseball fans in Minnesota.

Mardi-gras Bonspiel set

SHERBROOKE (GH) - The Ladies' division Lennoxville Curling Club will hold their fifth mardi-gras bonspiel from February 27 - March 1.

Teams from rinks in Lachine, St. Anne de Bellevue, Mount Bruno, Magog, Border, North Hatley, Windsor, Danville, Sherbrooke and Lennoxville will participate.

They will be welcomed by Mrs. G. O'Boyle, the president, Mrs. A. Wright, first vice-president and chairman of the bonspiel, and Mrs. S. Rowe, second vice-president and co-chairman.

A sherry party on the evening of February 27, from 8 - 10 p.m., is planned by Mrs. H. Griffiths with all the curlers and members of the club.

On February 28, a banquet will be held at the Army Navy Air-Force Building, on St. Francis street, Lennoxville.

Head-table guests will be Mrs. G. O'Boyle, Mrs. A. Wright, Mrs. S. Rowe, Mrs. A. H. Scott, honorary president; Mrs. E. Lennon, senior member; Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. W. Johnson, Mrs. L. Loach, wives of the trophy donors; Mrs. W. Smith, wife of the men's president, and Mrs. M. Mooney, chairman of the business girl's club.

Registration will be supervised by Mrs. A. Bartlett and Mrs. R. Blake.

Mrs. J. Turpin is in charge of the draw.

Referees will be the responsibility of Mr. R. Atto, drawmaster.

Publicity is being handled by Mrs. A. Hallam.

Mrs. S. Abbott is in charge of the gala decorations for this annual event.

Mrs. W. Johnson and Mrs. G. Pariseau will take charge of the refreshments throughout the bonspiel.

The finals of the bonspiel will be played at 4 p.m., March 1. Members and friends are invited to enjoy some good curling.

Says 'deficit' used loosely

MONTREAL (CP) - The commissioner-general of the 1976 Summer Olympics says people appear fascinated by the word "deficit" when talking about the Montreal games.

"People seem to be mesmerized by this word, they stick it everywhere," Roger Rousseau said Thursday.

Rousseau was commenting on a report tabled in the Commons Wednesday by the federal treasury board predicting the Games will show a $217-million deficit.

The organizing committee has maintained their will be no deficit and recently presented a balanced $310-million budget.

"They say they don't see how we can realize $250 million from the sale of Olympic coins and claim $100 million as their figure," said Rousseau.

"Their experts start from a different basis than we do. They say 95 per cent of the Munich Olympic coins were sold in Germany. We say the world is our market."

DENIS STATEMENT
 Rousseau took issue with reports that he had told a Toronto news conference Wednesday that the games would incur a deficit of not more than $22 million.

Lawson reaches 50-goal plateau

Danny Lawson, a fugitive from the National Hockey League where until recent times a 50-goal season was a rare happening, has reached that milestone in the new World Hockey Association.

Lawson scored the winning goal Thursday night, his 50th of the season, to give Philadelphia Blazers a 6-5 victory over Ottawa Nationals in WHA action. He thus became the first player in the new professional league to score 50 goals in a season.

In the only other game, Houston Aeros beat Quebec Les Nordiques 4-1.

Lawson, who scored only 10 goals in 78 games with Buffalo Sabres of the NHL in the 1971-72 season, was signed by Philadelphia last July. But since joining the Blazers and playing on a line with Andre Lacroix and Don Herriman, he has blossomed into a scorer.

He has had three four-goal games so far this season, Oct. 12 against Cleveland, Dec. 20 against Chicago and Feb. 13 against New England.

His 50th goal Thursday night came with just under two minutes left in the third period and it gave Philadelphia its win over Ottawa.

BLAZERS NOW THIRD
 The victory lifted the Blazers into third place in the East Division, one point ahead of New York Raiders, who were idle.
