TROOPS HELD READY TO MARCH ON PARIS TO STAMP OUT DISORDERS

Premier Chautemps Warned France that Royalist Riots Over Stavisky Scandal Hold Threat of Coup d'Etat to Establish a "Directory"—Pandemonium Broke Out in Chamber of Deputies as Members Yelled, Slammed Their Desk Tops and Rushed About—Insinuation that Police Killed Stavisky Denied.

Paris, January 12.—Premier Camille Chautemps warned the nation today that the Royalist riots over the Stavisky scandal held the threat of a coup d'etat to establish a "Directory." Thousands of troops were held ready to march on Paris if necessary to stamp out the disorders which have occurred in a protest against alleged complicity by Government officials in the Bayonne pawnshop collapse which cost the French public more than forty million dollars.

The President of the Chamber of Deputies adjourned the body suddenly this afternoon in the midst of a pandemonium which broke out when Deputy Jean Ybarnegaray charged that "the police assassinated" Serge Stavisky, founder of the pawnshop, to hush the case and protect higher-ups.

Premier Chautemps jumped to his feet, waved his arms, and protested that Stavisky killed himself when secret service operatives surrounded him last Monday, and pledged he would make a "personal investigation" of the affair.

The Chamber previously had been twice suspended because of the noise in the hall.

When adjournment came, hundreds of deputies continued to yell, slam their desk tops, and rush about.

While the disorder continued in the Chamber of Deputies, the general arm of Paris made determined efforts to see to it that the embittered Royalists whom they had battled for hours on Tuesday and Thursday were kept away from the Chamber.

M. Chautemps went to the Chamber of Deputies apparently confident that it would grant him and his cabinet a vote of confidence and accept the Government's promises to clean out any officials guilty of complicity in the pawnshop scandal.

But the lobbies seethed with talk of predicting that the cabinet might resign in order to prevent a vote which it was feared might proclaim to the world the legislators' lack of confidence in their Government.

The Premier spoke and defended the Ministry against the insinuation of police and Government corruption, but admitted there had been widespread looseness and "rusty" functioning of various services.

Chautemps, in a fighting mood, revealed in parliament what he said was a coup d'etat prepared three days ago to place the government in the hands of a few men "reputed for their energy."

"Tracts were prepared demanding that France confide its destiny to a directory of a few men," the Premier said, adding that the men, whose names he did not reveal, had not been consulted.

Meanwhile, the police were busy until after midnight scattering hundreds of Royalist manifestants who rioted outside the Chamber while reverberations of the financial scandal were being aired.

All were released when order had been restored, but in the scuffle thirty policemen and fifty demonstrators were injured, some seriously enough to require hospital attention.

The energy and brevity of Chautemps' speech in the Chamber and his appeal to unite and "dam the river of mud threatening to engulf the republican regime," made a deep impression, bringing applause from most of the benches in the Chamber.

Mme. Serge Stavisky, widow of the bank's founder, criticized the authorities today for delay in getting medical attention for her husband, but discredited rumors he was slain when captured on Monday.

"There is no doubt that my husband shot himself," she said. "That is evident from the letter he left."

TWO JAP WARSHIPS SPEED TO SCENE OF REBELLION

Japanese Government Will Insist on Protecting Japanese Residents Endangered by Fukien Civil War.

Tokyo, Jan. 12.—Two Japanese destroyers were under orders today to proceed to the coast of Fukien Province, where a rebellious regime is in conflict with the Chinese National Government.

The destroyer Hokaze Maru, a foreign office spokesman revealed, is to enter the harbor of the rebel capital of Foochow, where a Japanese cruiser and destroyer already are stationed. It will travel from a naval base in the Pescadore Islands, which lie between the Japanese island of Formosa and the Fukien coast.

Another destroyer, the Akikaze Maru, is on its way to Amoy. The destroyer Tachikaze is now there and was ordered to proceed upriver. The Japanese government has served notice that it will insist on protection of Japanese residents endangered by the Fukien civil war.

CANADIAN MAY PRODUCE CURE FOR PARALYSIS

Hard at Work with Experiment that Has Aroused Bright Hopes for Eventual Victory Over Disease Responsible for More than Half World's Cripples.

New York, Jan. 12.—A young Canadian doctor sat in a little laboratory room today, his ears drummed by the chattering of monkeys dedicated to science, and labored on an experiment that arouses bright hopes for eventual victory in the long fight against infantile paralysis.

Dr. Maurice Brody, of Ottawa, who at thirty years of age has a record of brilliant research work behind him, has applied a "vaccine of formalized virus" to monkeys with good results in protecting them against the disease that is to blame for more than half the human cripples in many lands the world over.

A long road lies ahead before science will know whether the new development will confer the same boon on humankind. But Dr. William H. Park, famous authority on public health, today pronounced Dr. Brody's work a "definite advance" along the rocky road of experimentation.

Dr. Brody, who was graduated from McGill University in 1928, is conducting his experiments at Willard Parker Hospital on the east side under the direction of Dr. Park. The latter is head of the city's bureau of health laboratories and a professor at the New York Bellevue Hospital Medical School.

The young doctor's method is to take infantile paralysis virus, a deadly infective agent so small that it cannot be seen even through a microscope, and treat it with formaline, a germ killer, to obtain the vaccine.

The first step is to obtain the virus from the spinal chord of the monkeys that have infantile paralysis. This virus is then treated with formaline, just the right amount of formaline to kill the virus and no more, and the resulting mixture or emulsion is then injected into the brains of healthy monkeys to determine whether it will infect them. Dr. Brody found it will not.

The next step is vaccination, the introduction of the vaccine through the skin of other monkeys in an attempt to render them immune from the disease. Dr. Brody discovered that many developed what he called "pretty good immunity."

The monkey experiment is in its final phase. The human phase lies in the unknown future. There are many problems yet to be solved. Dr. Brody, a dark-haired, polite young man who evidently has a horror of the first person singular, so carefully does he omit the word "I" from his vocabulary, says merely:

"It's more or less experimental. All we can say is that it's giving good results with monkeys. We can't say it's applicable to human beings. Analogies with other diseases lead us to think so, but that's all we can say."

Questioned about the ideals that lead him to spend long hours in the laboratory and over his books, striving for his blessing for the race, all he says is:

"It would be nice to do something to protect people from this disease."

CLAIMS POLICY OF PREACHER IS NOT PRACTICAL

Former Economic Adviser to Roosevelt Declares Desires of Father Coughlin Could Only Be Obtained by Green-Back Money.

New York, Jan. 17.—The monetary policies advocated by Father Charles E. Coughlin were described last night as impossible of attainment without "unsecured printing press money" by James P. Warburg, the banker who was economic adviser to the United States delegation at the London Economic Conference.

In an open letter to the pastor of Detroit's Shrine of the Little Flower, Warburg dwelt on two proposals of the priest.

"You have frequently attacked the outstanding bonds of our government, which were sold to finance the cost of the war, as 'bloody bonds,' sold to finance a war engineered by banks and special interests," Warburg said. "You picture these bonds as now being held by 'mighty banks,' drawing interest at the expense of the innocent tax-payers and further enriching the bankers. You have proposed that, in the interest of justice, these bonds should be paid off in currency, so the banks would cease to draw interest from the taxpayer."

"In your article in 'Today' you advocate symmetrism, which means, in your own words, 'using gold and silver to buy two proposals'—in one coin. In this coin, which we will call a dollar, there will be twenty-five cents worth of gold and seventy-five cents worth of silver. Of course, this coin will not be meant for circulation. Paper money will be printed against it. But the paper will be backed by real gold to the value of twenty-five cents and real silver to the value of seventy-five cents."

The banker set forth in answer: "First:—There is not enough gold and silver obtainable in the world to carry out your two proposals."

"Second:—Irrespective of your currency proposal, there is no way, barring confiscation, in which a government can retire its funded debt by issuing currency, unless the currency so issued is unsecured printing press money."

"Third:—Irrespective of your bond proposal, your currency proposal is incomplete and not clear. Therefore, I believe, it is not a useful suggestion to launch upon the public in its present form."

ARGUMENT PROVED COSTLY

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 12.—The Dayton News says an argument took place in a woman's bridge game here—as they often do. A technical question on cutting the cards was referred by two disputants to a New York bridge authority by telegram.

The answer came quickly. Next day came a bill from the expert for $30. The woman took it to a lawyer. He charged her $5 for his advice. Total cost thirty-five dollars.

FORMER REVENUE MINISTER HAS ENDED NOTED CAREER

Edmond Baird Ryckman Died Shortly After Ill Health Forced His Resignation from Federal Cabinet.

Toronto, Jan. 12.—The end of a life spent in the House of Commons, in courtrooms where he followed his chosen profession as barrister, and in the world of finance, has come with the death of Edmond Baird Ryckman, former Minister of National Revenue.

Mr. Ryckman succumbed yesterday to a pernicious ailment which last November forced him to resign his Cabinet post and retire from the legal profession. He was sixty-eight years old.

Shortly after Mr. Ryckman handed in his resignation to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett last November 30, he became seriously ill and since that time had been confined to his home here. His condition became gradually worse and his death was not unexpected.

In the legal profession, the business world and the world of politics, Edmond Baird Ryckman achieved success. He was already prominent in the legal fraternity and in the business activities of the Dominion when in 1921 he entered the House of Commons.

GOVERNMENT IS NO FRIEND OF THE TRUSTS, PREMIER INFORMS HOUSE

Quebec Legislature Stands Adjourned Until Tuesday After First Important Debate of Session—Liberal Chief Discussed Objections Raised that Some of Ministers Were Directors of Private Companies—Maurice Duplessis Demanded Establishment of New Rural Credit System.

Quebec, January 12.—The first important debate of the session out of the way after Premier L. A. Taschereau had discussed anti-trust talk, and Maurice Duplessis, K.C., leader of the Opposition, attacked the Government on its farm policy, the Quebec Legislative Assembly today stood adjourned until Tuesday.

While encouragement was given private enterprise, the Government was no friend of the trusts, Premier Taschereau declared in the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, which was adopted last night. The Province of Quebec was one place where capitalism was needed, he asserted after stating the anti-trust talk now prevalent might possibly prevent capitalists from investing in the province. The liquor trust had been put down by the Government, the Premier said, and he also drew attention to the fact Quebec had acted in the coal combine case "when the Ottawa Government failed in its duty."

The putting into force of a minimum salary in the lumber camps would not alleviate unrest there, the Premier declared, as when it was placed in effect "it would become the maximum salary as well." Investigation of the recent lumberjack disturbances at Rouyn, Que., showed all of the men were receiving a minimum of $25 a month and some even $35 a month.

"There is not only politics in the province," the Premier commented in discussing the objections raised that Ministers were directors of private companies. Ministers should be allowed to mix with the most intelligent and able of business executives as an aid to their own administrative powers.

Municipalities which exist to take over their own electric power must form a corporation, the Premier declared in explaining the new municipalization and the Quebec Liquor Commission police under the direct control of the Attorney-General's Department.

Mr. Duplessis attacked the policy of the government in reducing farmers' subsidies and declared the administration had adopted a policy of "patronage, working for agricultural purposes, but for political purposes." Lower interest rates for farmers were necessary, he stated.

To achieve lower interest rates a new system of rural credits should be established immediately, he declared. The government had been missed when the government reduced grants for colonization purposes by $1,000,000, the Opposition leader said, and it was hardly the way to encourage the twenty thousand young men ready and waiting to take up the farm work.

The government had failed in its duty to protect the lumberworker in connection with fair wages, Mr. Duplessis stated in discussing the recent disorders in the lumber camps at Rouyn.

Aime Guertin, Independent-Conservative, attacked the Premier, Liberal, Berthel, and J. P. Giguere, Liberal, Dorchester, addressed the Assembly during the evening session.

An indication the budget would be brought down around January 23rd was given by Hon. R. F. Stockwell, Provincial Treasurer, last night when he announced he would ask the House to go into committee of supply and means on January 23rd.

Mr. Guertin, who with Laurent Barre, Rouville, will act independently. Conservative policies, attacked wealth, banks and trusts in his speech. The trend of wealth in Canada was towards fewer pockets all the time, the big banks were making too much money and trusts must be exterminated, were the three main points of his speech. In discussing the indications of the President from the Throne of the establishment of minimum wages for men, he declared Premier Taschereau was showing indications of improvement, and hoped the Premier had changed his views so that mother allowances and old age pensions legislation could be expected this session.

WOULD EXTEND GASOLINE TAX TO DILUTE MIXTURE

Quebec, Jan. 12.—The Quebec Government wishes to apply the Gasoline Act to the mixture of coal oil and gasoline which is being sold as gasoline, Hon. R. F. Stockwell, Provincial Treasurer, revealed in the Legislative Assembly when first reading was given last night to his bill to amend the Gasoline Act.

While the Minister explained legislation to prevent the adulteration came under the domain of the House of Commons, the purpose of the amendment was to permit the Provincial Government to collect the gasoline tax on the mixture indirectly discouraging the practice.

One of the objects of the Provincial Treasurer's bill amending the liquor law was to permit the Liquor Commission to keep open in the evening more liquor stores that at present permitted, he told Maurice Duplessis, K.C., Leader of the Opposition when first reading was given the bill.

GIANT BRITISH WARSHIP FAST AGROUND TODAY

H.M.S. Nelson, 33,500-Ton Flagship of Home Fleet, Stranded on Stony Bottom at Narrow Entrance to Portsmouth Harbor.

Portsmouth, England, Jan. 12.—H. M. S. Nelson, 33,500 ton flagship of Admiral Sir William Boyle, Commander-in-Chief of the Home fleet, went aground today at the entrance to the harbor.

She appeared likely to remain there for some hours.

The Nelson was leaving with more than one thousand officers and men to join other units of the fleet on a cruise to the West Indies.

She became stranded on the stony bottom at the narrow entrance to the harbor about an hour and a half after high tide.

Tugs raced to the vessel's assistance.

Whether serious damage results would depend on the list the ship takes as the tide falls, officials said.

Captain P. McNamara is in charge of the Nelson, "Wonder Ship" of the British navy and largest vessel ever to pass through the Panama Canal.

She is reputedly almost unsinkable and has been described as the "oddest and ugliest battleship ever built, except her sister ship the Rodney."

The Admiral, who is affectionately known as "Ginger" Boyle, is a descendant of the author of Samuel Pepy's diary.

The Nelson is fuelled and stocked with food enough to last three months. Her stores include thirty tons of flour, fifteen tons of frozen meat and 20,000 tins of milk.

Not the least important in her stores is six hundred gallons of rum and a ton of tobacco.

She was scheduled to lead one contingent of the Home fleet to the West Indies, remaining there until February 28th and then leaving for Gibraltar to join the remainder of the Home fleet and the Mediterranean fleet for combined exercises somewhere in the Atlantic.

Admiral Boyle was starting his first foreign cruise since he took command last September.

The Nelson and her sister ship the Rodney are acknowledged the most powerful battleships ever built, and since the great powers have turned to treaties for the limitation of armaments they will probably never be equalled. Britain stipulated in signing the Washington Treaty that she be permitted to complete them.

Costing more than $32,000,000 each, the Nelson and Rodney are of radical design, superstructure being grouped compactly amidships and their profile presenting a long, low, clean sweep. They carry nine sixteen inch guns, the heaviest armament afloat, with twelve six-inch guns, and their main armor belt is fourteen inches thick.

Their wartime complement is 1,300.

FLOOD WATERS TOOK LIVES OF SEVENTY-EIGHT

Raging Mendoza River in Argentina Carried Away Bridges, Washed Out Highways and Damaged Farmlands.

Rio De Janeiro, Jan. 12.—Seventy-eight persons were reported today to have drowned in floods which followed heavy rainstorms in Brazil and Argentina.

Eight were known to have been drowned in Rio De Janeiro. Unconfirmed reports from Mendoza, Argentina, said seventy had lost their lives and that widespread property damage was suffered in the mountain regions.

Authorities estimated the total damage would reach into the millions of pesos. A check of deaths and damage was hindered by disrupted communication facilities.

The raging Mendoza River in Argentina carried away bridges and washed out highways.

Two persons died near Rio De Janeiro in a train wreck attributed to the storm. In the city, a boy drowned while at play in a stream in the botanical gardens.

HEAVIEST RAINSTORM IN HISTORY OF BRITISH GUIANA

Georgetown, British Guiana, Jan. 12.—British Guiana began to dry off today from the heaviest rainstorm in its history. Five days of precipitation played havoc with farmlands and livestock throughout the countryside, doing an estimated $1,000,000 worth of damage.

TO PROPOSE THAT COMMISSIONS HANDLE UNEMPLOYMENT MATTERS

Premier Taschereau Will Advance Such a Suggestion Before Dominion-Provincial Conference at Ottawa Next Week—Would Give Commission Power to Issue Thirty or Forty-Year Debentures, the Proceeds to Be Used for Unemployment Relief.

Quebec, Jan. 12.—Designed to take the load of unemployment relief off the shoulders of burdened municipalities and at the same time remove it from all political control, Premier L. A. Taschereau, of Quebec, will propose to the Dominion-Provincial Conference next week the appointment of commissions to handle all unemployment matters.

The Premier announced his plan in the Legislature here yesterday. He proposed creation of a system whereby the Province of Quebec and the other provinces in Canada would appoint commissions to form corporations which would issue thirty or forty year debentures, the proceeds to be used for unemployment relief.

The debentures would be guaranteed by the Dominion Government and the Provincial Government concerned. Three men would form each corporation, one chosen by the Dominion Government, one by the Provincial, and the other by the two men first chosen. They would be well paid and would have sole control of all unemployment matters, which would be taken completely out of political control.

Next generations, the Premier felt, must bear their share of the unprecedented distress caused by the economic turmoil of the past four years. No longer could the municipalities continue to pay one-third of unemployment relief within their borders.

Suppose, he said, under his plan the Province of Quebec needed $10,000,000 a year to spend for the relief of the out-of-workers. Such an expenditure, funded in forty-year four per cent bonds, with sinking fund provisions, would cost the province but $250,000 a year, the Ottawa Government also paying $250,000 a year. Municipalities would pay nothing and would be free to devote their resources to the ordinary demands made upon them.

Judges in the provinces of late have been deliberately acquitting Nazis with anti-government demonstrations and the civil service still is cowered with them.

Fey's power was increased last night when in surrendering an important part of his executive power to the Heimwehr, Home Guard, Dollfus relegated control of the police and gendarmerie to his Vice-Chancellor.

The radical concession to the Heimwehr was made as a government move to clinch its support in the bitter battle ensuing as a result of Dollfus' determination to put a stop to Nazi terrorism.

Fey also began vigorously disciplining members of his own Heimwehr today by arresting Count Johann Alberti, leader of the Lower Austria Home Guard and one of the most outspoken advocates of one hundred per cent Fascism.

Alberti has been mentioned in connection with the possible formation of a "Fascist front," including members of both the Heimwehr and the Nazi party.

Apparently Fey is determined to squelch this tendency in certain Heimwehr quarters to flirt with Hitler.

ARM IN SLING WITH NEURITIS

A "token of gratification" this woman says is being given when she writes of her relief from neuritis:—"For twelve months I have had neuritis in my arm, and up till the last two weeks have had to carry it in a sling. Since then I have abandoned my sling, am able to sleep undisturbed, and can perform household duties, that previously I would not have done. These benefits I have received from Kruschen Salts. This is all I have had to do, and I am optimistic enough to think that in another fortnight I shall have said good-bye to neuritis once and for all. Call this testimonial if you choose to—me it is a token of gratification."—(Mrs.) N. E. L.

Neuritis is a result of impurities in the blood. And it is impure blood, circulating all over the system and setting up inflammation in the tissues, that causes those excruciating pains. Kruschen Salts can be safely trusted to set the matter right. Because Kruschen contains just what Nature needs to persuade your internal organs back into a healthy, normal condition.

Quick Relief for Women

Women need not endure periodic pains and headaches. They can spare themselves this suffering by taking ZUTOO TABLETS. Mrs. Allen Wright, of Fulford, who was relieved in 30 minutes of severe pain and headache, wrote saying: "Every woman in the land should know about ZUTOO TABLETS and what they will do." Just try the tablets and know for yourself how quickly they stop the pain.

Many Unusual Costumes at Brome Fancy Dress Dance—Other Items of General Interest from Vicinity.

Brome, Jan. 12.—One of the social events of the season took place in the hall on Friday evening when the members of the Anglican Young People's Club gave a masquerade dance. Both old and young entered into the evening's entertainment and many and varied were the costumes worn. The judges, Messrs. FROM LOG CABIN TO PALACE.

Boasting of its progress since the first shipment of wheat from Manitoba in 1876, to the first branch bank being started in a log cabin, the citizens are asked to cheer about an Auditorium erected at a cost of over $1,000,000.

It would show the faith manifested in the citizens that the progress of a half-century shall be maintained.

But in Winnipeg, as in many other Western cities the future has ever been discounted to the dismay of the taxpayers.

Manitoba and all the Western Provinces have, as the Monetary Times pointed out, a "champagne taste and a beer income."

In sixty years there has been a succession of booms and depressions, most of them traceable to the wasteful erection of buildings far too big and quite beyond the needs of the present.

Of recent years the Western Provinces have been making raids on the Dominion Treasury, at the same time seizing the avenues of taxation formerly held by the Federal authorities.

So voracious have they grown, and so often successful in their raids, that the Maritime Provinces are about to organize appeals to get more than they have been getting from the same source.

New Brunswick is preparing moral claims, which they know to be illegal, but they feel justified when they contemplate the many millions of claims being acceded to through a supine control of "other people's money."

John Doe pays. Ontario and Quebec pay the piper, but the new provinces call the tune.

And in the end John Doe builds monuments where his ancestors lived in log cabins—and he pays with borrowed money. That's the pity of it.

Many a successful man, overcome with prosperity, has built a mansion called "McFrankish's Foity." You see them in every town.

Should we not stick to our modest dwellings, and our plain meeting houses until we have liquidated our debts and can pay as we go?

We are living beyond our means when we spend in billions and earn in millions.

They did not do these things when Sir Oliver Mowat and Sir John Macdonald were watchdogs of the people's tax money.

Governments are robbing the dead, spending vaingloriously and piling huge debts upon posterity.

SAID THE WISE OLD PIEMAN TO SIMPLE SIMON "FIRST, LET ME SEE YOUR MONEY."

It is a pleasure to see the Bank Presidents speak right out in meeting and tell just what they have in mind over the efforts to politically bedevil their banking transactions and their sound system.

A banker is the most discretionary person in the professional world. He never tells. As with the doctor and the lawyer, he places the seal of secrecy on his lips, and never confides outside.

Both the President and the General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, at their annual meeting, expressed their gratification at the upward trend in trade, and the recuperative powers of the business world as were shown in the latter part of 1933.

As Sir John Aird guarded his optimism with "We may still regretfully reflect how much more impressive the record of world trade and general activity would have been, and how many more people would have been happily restored to employment, had the shackles of war debts and trade restrictions been loosened, even slightly, and had increased disorder in international exchange been averted by agreement at the Conference on but two or three of the many constructive proposals included in its agenda."

Behind that politic statement the enlightened layman could uncover a world of fiscal politics, not omitting the strong and persistent efforts of all the greater bankers to restrain the waste and extravagance in governments.

We look to the time when the bankers will take off their gloves and handle these questions with barefisted force. For they could explain with more understanding to the business world just what is behind the efforts of politicians to chasten them for their persistent rebukes.

We who stand on the side lines may not understand the intricacies of the gold standard, and the rise and fall in the price of foreign exchange, or even the crux of the money problem, as relating to easier credit and more currency, but we can vision a part of the picture in Sir John Aird's reference to the majority report of the Banking Commission in its proprietary specific of a Central Bank. He said:

"To those who, through misunderstanding of the nature and functions of such an institution, have cherished extravagant hopes of what it might be expected to accomplish, the following extract from the Report will be informative:—'We should perhaps sound a note of warning as to the degree to which such an institution could fulfill all the expectations that the public might attach to it. A Central Bank could not cure all the economic ills of Canada; it would not be a source of unlimited credit for all borrowers on all occasions; indeed its operations might as often be restrictive as expansive. . . . It has in practice been found that a Central Bank can give most effective service to the community if it is free from the fear of interference for political ends in operating the delicate mechanism of the national monetary and financial machine.'"

Furthermore, the President said to the shareholders:

"I direct your attention to the November 18th issue of the London, Eng., Economist, whose opinions on finance are valued the world over. This eminent journal pointed to the strength of the case submitted by the dissenting members of the Commission on Banking and Currency, and said, also, that 'the present Canadian monetary system, operated jointly by the Treasury and the banks, has been both adequate and sufficiently elastic for the Dominion's needs.'"

Though he does show an assent or acceptance of a Central Bank, and promises loyal co-operation in its aims, we are not in agreement on such placidity of acceptance, for we believe the whole story should be presented in truth, naked and unadorned.

Sir John Aird's address was a statesmanlike presentation.

The General Manager.

After reviewing the splendid position of the Bank's affairs, Mr. S. H. Logan, General Manager of the Bank of Commerce, reviews the Canadian banking structure by the Royal Commission on Banking and Currency. Not in a spirit of lecturing, but to permit the depositors to know just what is being thrust upon the custodians of money by some borrowers, Mr. Logan says:

"During business depressions governments, banks and large financial corporations the world over come in for an undue amount of criticism. The Canadian banks could not attempt to reply to individual critics expressing such varied views and theories of banking principles and practice. The Commission at its numerous sessions throughout the Dominion afforded all interests and individuals the opportunity of expressing their opinions.

"The chief criticism throughout these hearings was that the banks did not lend freely enough and that interest rates charged were too high. There has never been a time when the good borrower could not get necessary banking accommodation."

By "good borrower," Mr. Logan meant a person or persons with sound personal records and with a reputation for honesty, integrity and executive intelligence. Which reminds us of another statement that the large majority of the proponents of a Central Bank do not come into this category.

This is sound banking policy. Expressed in a few paragraphs the General Manager follows it up with an encomium from a real authority, thus:

"Dr. Felix Mlynarski, whose work for the Gold Committee of the League of Nations is recognized as a masterpiece, to pose the following questions: 'Whether it would not be advisable to abandon the monopoly of note issue, and to admit to it a few of the best joint-stock banks, whose right of issue of their own notes exclusively for discounting of commercial bills should be strictly limited, and to a certain degree based on the Canadian system. Is it not a characteristic feature of the crisis that Canadian banks suffer less at present than in other countries, particularly less than banks in the United States?'"

Being quite free of that restraint which characterizes the banker and the politic opponent of a Central Bank, we can cheerfully say that the proponents of such an institution who believe in it as a fiscal panacea are quite as simple and glib as those who recently followed up Serge Slavisky who slipped into Paris recently and involved even clever Cabinet Ministers with his $41,000,000 steal, accomplished as quickly as the bubble of John Law.

Letters to The Editor

THE COST OF ONE HUNDRED POUNDS OF MILK

To the Editor: Sir,—When Mr. Godbout, the Quebec Minister of Agriculture, says that the farmer can or should produce milk at fifty cents per hundred pounds, he places the onus of responsibility for the farmers' deplorable condition upon the farmer himself.

It is equal to saying, that if farmers were scientifically and intelligently producing, he would now be well off, with the price that the distributor sees fit to pay him at present.

Most executives seeing their checks tugging and straining at their heavy load; and seeing them putting two ordinary days' work into one in an effort to make the grade, further seeing a great many of them continually crumbling under and falling by the wayside on account of their heavy burden, would naturally enquire keenly into the other elements that they had to exchange, work for work.

But, No! Our "Guardian Critic" would criticize their abilities and then discharge their efforts, and lash them on to more speedy and keener endeavor rather than offend the autocrats that are chiefly responsible for their downtrodden condition. Like the famous Washington general, he would "crack down" on we farmers.

What constitutes the cow price of one hundred pounds of milk? Is it milk by the can, or milk and cream alone? Not feed price, like the present price of milk, may not represent little more than half the cost of production.

Price is ruled first of all by the cost of the "milking machine," which is the cow, and it is often very expensive. The percentage of calves that are destined to make good producers are small. Supposing we knock all the poor cows on the head. There would soon be a milk famine; or if we traded all the poor ones off to our neighbours, as a great many of our would-be reformers suggest, then when the elimination process was complete there would not be one more good cow in the whole Dominion of Canada.

It will require years of moderate and judicious elimination and scientific breeding to materially improve the standards of our dairy herds. In the meantime, the farmer must have a price for his produce, equivalent to the cost, at the time of producing.

Next, your rent or interest charges, taxes, insurance, telephone, lights, labour, the invested price you pay for your mowing machine, binder, ploughs and harrows, fencing material and all your farm equipment, your equipment upkeep, buildings upkeep, freight rates, all bearing so heavily with the price you pay for feed and fertilizers. Total these up.

There is the double pressure of long days at work, the thinking and working hard at the same time, as the farmer cannot, like at any other business, take time to sit down and think and ponder.

The price of feed varies at times, as a result of the vagaries of the elements, like the price and scarcity of hay as a result of a dry May and June last year.

The resultant cost from Government regulations, inspections and inspections; all these and many more expenses go toward the cost price of one hundred pounds of milk.

To-day the farmers get for forty quarts of milk say $1.05, which is 100 pounds, or 2 1/2 cents net. Guernsey and Jersey milk brings more.

On a Canadian and American should devote more time in an effort to reduce some of the above-mentioned costs, then find out why it costs two dollars out of every three of the farmers' dollars, to get his produce to the consumer. After we consider these things is it any wonder that we should give the Government no rest until the glaring inefficiency has been remedied.

EDWIN DUCKER.

EFFECTIVE CHECK ON POACHERS

To the Editor, Sir,—My letter on fish and game protection mailed to sixty newspapers in the Province of Quebec during December, has brought me so many letters, so many commendations, so many suggestions, that I would crave your kind indulgence and allow me to make a general reply through your column.

I was surprised to learn that from one section of the lower part of our province 182 prosecutions had been made, yielding only $230 in fines. My correspondent claimed that fifty per cent. of the hunting and fishing was done by poachers, who find a ready sale for deer, partridge and trout to trucks and autos.

Hunting dogs were kept at the lumbering camps to eat the offal (?) and were used to hunt game, the dogs being tied up and the guns concealed when it was wanted that a game warden was on the way.

Another suggests that the Mounted Police should take charge of fish and game protection. They all approve of my recommendations for pathmaster-game wardens.

The principle is ideal, if the warden could write the secretary of the municipality, he would be a profit on it.

I will briefly outline how my system will work.

The informant will secretly make complaint to the Department at Quebec, giving all details. The department will write the secretary or treasurer of the municipality who will notify the nearest pathmaster-game warden to investigate and make a written report within a week, for which he will be paid 30c a hour. His first duty will be to go to the accused, telling him that if he admits the infraction he can pay the minimum fine and close the matter, so far as he, the accused, is concerned. If he refuses, then he will be told that the warden, where resides the truck owner, will likewise investigate the matter, and should he be interviewed, as also the parties to whom the game was delivered.

COUNCIL BOARD MET AT SUTTON; GENERAL NOTES

Routine Business Transacted by Sutton Township Council—Village Council Met—Other Items from District.

Sutton, Jan. 12.—The Sutton Township Council met with Mayor M. E. Darbe presiding and a full board of councillors being present. Bills amounting to approximately $150 were presented and accepted, the treasurer being instructed to pay the same.

A by-law was passed declaring that any proprietor of real estate who wishes to let or lease any of his property to a tenant from outside the municipality must enquire as to the financial responsibility of such tenant as, in case he should become a public charge, the property owner or owners will be held responsible for all costs incurred. The same conditions apply to any one hiring any person or persons from another municipality.

VILLAGE COUNCIL MET The Village Council met with Mayor, C. U. R. Tarré presiding and councillors being present. Bills amounting to $140 were examined and passed. The secretary was instructed to write to the hockey club that they must not allow skating or playing on the rink on Sundays.

The secretary was also instructed to write Ernest Lavigne, fire commissioner, asking what would be the most practical method of thawing out hydrants.

A report for the year's activities of the Sutton fire brigade was read and placed on file. This report shows that there were nine fire calls during the year. Total cost of the department was $244.

FARMERS' MEETING HELD An interesting meeting of the Sutton Unit of the Quebec branch of the United Farmers of Canada was held at the Town Hall, with a fairly good attendance. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mr. L. A. Beaugrand. The election of officers was proceeded with and Mr. Beaugrand, Mr. Percy Bruce and Mr. Dwight Sweet were re-elected as president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively. The directors were re-elected, with two exceptions. Mr. Earl Derrick replaces Mr. George Norton and Mr. Ambrose Lariviere replaces Mr. Eric Poissant.

Upon request the president gave the meeting information as to the different farmers' organizations, their membership and growth. Mr. M. E. Darbe, a prominent farmer suggested that a good thing for the farmers to take up was the lowering of the cost of government.

The member suggested that chief officers should furnish a question for discussion at each meeting of every branch under their jurisdiction, choosing their subjects from among the laws that bears on, and are a handicap to farmers, as they exist today, as for example, "Egg grading."

If these questions were answered by the directors, it would be something to approach the several Eastern Townships members with and ask for a brogation or amendments, he said. A committee was appointed to put the requests in the form of a petition, with a list of names with which they were dissatisfied.

General Notes Mrs. Mallieue entertained the Lend-a-Hand Society of the United Church at the parsonage. There was a good attendance and a profitable meeting was held.

In the meantime he has to interview the farmer's boy, wife and hired man, as well as the party parties who saw the game in the storing shed. Based on these reports the department will decide if prosecution by a qualified travelling game warden will imposed.

Should any one in the chain of evidence confess, all guilty ones concerned, both seller, buyer and transporter will be fined and their permits for that season cancelled.

If the evidence submitted in the report be not conclusive those investigated will be taught a lesson, the party making the original complaint can quickly read the report that remains in the archives of the municipality. Finding it misleading or biased, he can follow up with further details. No poacher will be investigated a third time, because he will feel that a thousand eyes are watching his every movement and, if deprived of his permit, he cannot carry a gun or cast a line.

The boy that caught the 35 trout fingerlings would quickly learn to return them to the water while fishing. Perhaps his own father would be the investigating pathmaster-warden, and should he not report in writing within a week, the travelling warden would investigate, and, if deemed necessary, the pathmaster-warden would pay a fine for neglect of duty. This would be very, very seldom.

Pathmasters are changed every two years. Five years hence our farmers would be educated to the great benefit of game in their covens, where a deer on the hoof is worth $25 as a lure to the sportsman, and the trout in the brooks will bring profitable summer boarders.

The complaint that members of the Legislature interfere and defeat the ends of justice will vanish quickly. The publicity will hurt them.

Permits and pathmasters together will solve our problem.

FURTHER DELAY IS GRANTED IN MURDER TRIAL

Hearing of Evidence in Mrs. Luder Chapdelaine's Trial on Charge of Poisoning Her Husband Will Not Begin Until Monday Afternoon Next.

Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau, presiding over the Court of King's Bench, was obliged this morning to grant a further adjournment in the Chapdelaine murder case...

At ten o'clock this morning, with several hundred people crowding the Court of King's Chamber waiting for the trial to begin...

On Tuesday last, the date fixed for the Chapdelaine trial to begin, Mr. Gervais stated that he was suffering from grippe and asked for an adjournment until Monday next...

The further and unexpected delay this morning was, quite evidently, aggravating for the learned judge as well as for Wilfrid LaZure, K.C., Crown prosecutor...

Justice Cousineau looked at the clock, at Dr. Noel, at Mr. Lazure, nodded his head and ruled that Mr. Gervais appear in Court to conduct the Chapdelaine defence at eleven o'clock.

The judge returned to his chambers, the jurymen filed back into their quarters and the lawyers and Court audience sat down to wait.

A few minutes after eleven o'clock, however, Mr. Gervais had not appeared—but Dr. P. P. Beaudry had. His message was delivered to the Court by Mr. Lazure...

Justice Cousineau instructed Sheriff Lemieux to do everything possible for the comfort of the jurymen who would be confined to their quarters over the week-end.

Mr. Lazure said that that would be fine. The judge smiled and said: "Yes—but a good movie."

He added: "The jurymen may also play cards. If there are any among them who know bridge—they may continue to play."

The task of completing the jury panel of twelve occupied all yesterday afternoon. The twelve jurymen selected are—Rene Tangway, of Coaticook; Mastai Drouin, of Sherbrooke; J. N. Gingras, of Sherbrooke; Pierre Maurice, of Ste. Anne; Richard Gagnon, of St. Gerard; Gaston Lamoureux, of Sherbrooke; Raoul Perrault, of Wotton; Edgar Dupuis, of Sherbrooke; Sylva Dupuis, of Magog; Emile Montour, of Sherbrooke; Omer Gagne, of Weedon; and Ferdinand Dolbec, of Stratford.

When the selection of a jury had been completed, Mr. Gervais asked for an adjournment. It was then a few minutes before four o'clock, and he explained to Mr. Justice Cousineau that he expected his counsel, Antoine Rivard, to arrive from Quebec City in the evening.

Justice Cousineau allowed Mr. Lazure to outline the case to the jury, and then adjourned Court until this morning. He stated, however, that in future, during the Chapdelaine trial, the sessions of the Court would have to begin punctually, and would last until five o'clock each afternoon.

LENNOXVILLE INTERESTING ADDRESS ON FOODS

Mr. Ross Healy, of Sherbrooke, was the speaker at Lennoxville Women's Institute, which met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie in the "Mineral Metabolism" was Mrs. Healy's subject, and very interesting and full of valuable instruction it proved to be.

The importance of minerals, particularly calcium, phosphorus and iron, in the daily diet was stressed, Mr. Healy pointing out that these minerals were often lacking in quantity in a mixed diet and sometimes irregularly distributed even in a carefully selected bill of fare.

Nature, she said, would do much towards the repairing of mistakes in diet, but always at the sacrifice of some other part of the body. A lack of calcium resulted in easily broken bones, the development of rickets and stunted normal growth.

An exhibit of foods containing the necessary mineral salts was on display, and their mineral content was explained by Mrs. Healy.

The meeting was a lengthy and busy one, as the approach of the end of the Institute year necessitated the gathering together of the many lines of activity followed by the branch.

Several letters of thanks from institutions and individuals which had received kindness from the branch were read.

Quotations from Longfellow and other poets were given in response to the roll call and arrangements were made for a concert by the Ross sisters.

Mrs. C. Prince, Mrs. Ross Healy and Mrs. McCurdy were named delegates to the quarterly County meeting.

Hostess for afternoon tea were Mrs. J. O'Keefe and Mrs. Dearborn, assisted by Mrs. Vesey and Miss Dearborn.

NEW SOCIETY FORMED A new organization was launched on Wednesday evening, when a meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Lawrence McAllister, Clough avenue.

The new society is to be known as the Junior Ladies' Association of the United Church, and its officers were chosen as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. McAllister; hon. vice-president, Mrs. G. Watson; president, Miss Geraldine Seale; vice-president, Miss Doreen Stewart; secretary, Miss Mammie Smith; and treasurer, Miss Evelyn Bryson.

Monthly meetings were decided upon, and plans made for a musical to take place early in February.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. McAllister served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Seale and Mrs. Watson.

General Notes Mrs. William Bailey, of Leeds, has returned home after spending some time visiting friends in Lennoxville and North Adams, Mass.

Mr. Francis Squire has returned home after spending several weeks in the various resorts in North Adams, Mass., and in Troy and Albany, New York.

PROTECTION FOR THE FRUIT BUYING PUBLIC PROMISED Dominion Fruit Commissioner Declares, However, that Any Regulations for Industry Must Allow for Immediate Change.

Montreal, Jan. 12.—Assurance that the Canadian public will be given full protection and satisfaction in the purchase of vegetables and open markets for the proposed revision of the Dominion Fruit Act is passed by the Dominion Government, was given here yesterday by G. E. McIntosh, Dominion Fruit Commissioner, Ottawa, speaking before the convention of the Pomological and Fruit Growing Society of the Province of Quebec.

Any legislation dealing with perishable fruit had to be such as to allow immediate changes, Mr. McIntosh noted. Hence, he said, the proposed revision of the act would be left open to allow regulations, Ministerial orders, or any time the various organizations in the industry demanded changes.

NURSES ELECTED OFFICERS Members of the Eastern Townships' Graduate Nurses' Association met for their annual dinner and business meeting last evening at the MacKinnon Memorial. The retiring president, Miss Helen Hetherington, presided, and covers were laid for twenty-five guests.

From the church to St. Louis Cemetery in Westbury the cortege wended its way and there the body was laid to rest, and another soldier who had fought and suffered for the Empire had heard his Saviour say: "Come to Me, Thy Work on Earth is at an End."

He had opened them in Heaven. The deceased leaves to mourn him a wife and young son, his mother, his sister, Alice, Mrs. Dexter Willard; a brother, Cyrus, and a large number of relatives and friends.

THE BEARERS WERE: Alex McKeage, 87th Grenadier Guards; John Pratt, Durham Light Infantry; Alden Wilson, 20th Reserve Battalion; Oscar Desautels, 22nd Battalion; or Royal Field Artillery; Alfred James, 13th Battalion; and Alfred Rowland, Daniel Miller, 21st Canadian Mounted Rifle carried the deceased's medals.

TO THE WIDOW AND SON, the mother, sister and brother and the sorrowing relatives and friends, the members of the Canadian Legion extends their deepest sympathy and share with them the void made by the passing on of him who always proved a "man amongst men."

MRS. C. J. CUSHING, COMPTON, Compton, Jan. 12.—Another life-long resident of the Eastern Townships has passed on to her reward in the person of Mrs. C. J. Cushing, who for some time past, resided with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hadlock, in Lennoxville.

Mrs. Cushing, whose maiden name was Emily Emelia Heath, was born at Compton on June 11, 1849, and entered into rest on Thursday, January 4th.

The deceased was first married to William Hadlock, of Compton, who passed away in 1907. Of this union there were three children, two of whom survive, Mr. George A. Hadlock, of Lennoxville, and Mr. S. W. Hadlock, of Montreal. She also leaves one grandchild, Douglas Hadlock, of Lennoxville.

In 1916 the deceased married C. J. Cushing, of Barnston, and the following weeks were spent in the Canadian west and later in Pasadena, where the remainder of the winter was passed.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Cushing settled in Barnston, where many happy years were spent until 1931, when Mr. Cushing passed away after a short illness. Since that time Mrs. Cushing resided in Lennoxville.

For many years the deceased was a faithful member of the Methodist Church, and in Compton, which later became a part of the United Church of Canada and where Mrs. Cushing's membership still remains. Possessing a particularly bright and sunny disposition, the deceased made her influence felt in the home, the community, the church and in every sphere of the church, where she rendered acceptable service for many years.

Her last days have been comforted and cheered by the tender devotion of those who were nearest and dearest to her and by a large circle of warm friends.

The funeral was held in Lennoxville on Saturday, January 6th, from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hadlock and was conducted by Rev. Mr. Matthews, of the Lennoxville United Church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Simmonds, of the Sherbrooke Baptist Church. During the service a solo, "When On My Day of Life the Night is Falling," was effectively rendered by Mr. W. Watson, of Lennoxville.

Following the service the relatives accompanied the remains to Coaticook, where they are placed in the vault, a short service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Johnson, of the Coaticook United Church. Interment will take place in the spring in the family lot in the Carr Cemetery at Compton.

MRS. M. E. GALBRAITH CHENEY Mrs. M. E. Galbraith Cheney, of Eastern Townships and in Vermont were grieved to hear of the death of Mrs. Mary Etta Galbraith Cheney who passed away in the Sherbrooke Hospital on Christmas Day.

Mrs. Cheney, who was born in South Acton on May 11, 1857, was the fifth child of Major Galbraith and Mrs. Galbraith. Twelve children were born of this union, three of whom survive.

Mrs. Cheney was twice married. Her first husband, Mr. Carroll Harris, and two children predeceased when Arthur was but eleven years of age. Undaunted by her loss, the widowed mother struggled along and succeeded in supporting and educating her three children.

From the time the echo of the first British shot rolled across the fields of Flanders, Arthur's heart beat wildly for his country's cause, but he hesitated by her sad mother who had toiled so unselfishly for her children. For months he watched the struggle undecided, and at last, in the dark days of 1916 kissed his mother and sweet-heart good-bye and joined the 147th Battalion.

Every man was needed to defend the ramparts of the Empire. On the morning of the day his regiment left Sherbrooke for Valcartier, he married his betrothed, Annie Thompson, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Thompson, installed Noble Grand, Sister Stoddard, presented the retiring Noble Grand, Sister Jameson with a Past Noble Grand pin. A few remarks by Sister Chamberlain and a reading by Past President Sister Duncan concluded the installation ceremony.

Following which delicious refreshments were served, the retiring officers acting as hostesses.

Deaths Reported

ARTHUR PATRICK KELLY, EAST ANGLUS. East Angus, January 12.—A fitting tribute of respect was paid by members of St. Francis Valley Branch No. 25 of the Canadian Legion to their fellow comrade Arthur Patrick Kelly, who died at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Sherbrooke, on Wednesday, December 27th, and whose funeral took place here on Friday morning, December 29th. Death was caused by complications resulting from gas poisoning suffered while serving in the World War.

From the home of his sister, Mrs. Dexter Willard, the body was conveyed to the Roman Catholic Church, where the solemn mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Father Bonlay, assisted by Rev. Father Archambault and Cote as deacon and sub-deacon. All creeds and nationalities gathered at the church to pay a final tribute of respect to a citizen and soldier who had lived a life unspotted and bedeviled by grief.

When their children were young, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly bought a farm on the outskirts of the village of East Angus. There Mr. Kelly died when Arthur was but eleven years of age. Undaunted by her loss, the widowed mother struggled along and succeeded in supporting and educating her three children.

From the time the echo of the first British shot rolled across the fields of Flanders, Arthur's heart beat wildly for his country's cause, but he hesitated by her sad mother who had toiled so unselfishly for her children. For months he watched the struggle undecided, and at last, in the dark days of 1916 kissed his mother and sweet-heart good-bye and joined the 147th Battalion.

Every man was needed to defend the ramparts of the Empire. On the morning of the day his regiment left Sherbrooke for Valcartier, he married his betrothed, Annie Thompson, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Thompson, installed Noble Grand, Sister Stoddard, presented the retiring Noble Grand, Sister Jameson with a Past Noble Grand pin. A few remarks by Sister Chamberlain and a reading by Past President Sister Duncan concluded the installation ceremony.

Following which delicious refreshments were served, the retiring officers acting as hostesses.

VICTORIES BY MAROONS AND REDS DISLOGGED LOCAL PACE SETTERS

Maroons Tumbled Sherbrooke County League Champions by Seven to Four Last Evening, while Provincial Reds Nosed Out Vastly Improved Magog Squad by Two to One—Results Sent Reds into Leadership with Slim Margin Over Maroons and Canadians.

Maroons' 7, Canadians 4. Reds 2, Magog 1. A once mighty East-northwest hockey dynasty showed signs of tottering today and the show of the colorful aggregation of champions which made history in this section of the province during the past few years found itself starting at the handwriting on the wall.

The Canadians, the squad which the late George Pevey and his associates required years to mold into the perfect machine which carried the local intermediate banner into the provincial play-offs, last evening were charged with their first defeat of the season. It seemed strange that the Canadians should take such a place in the scoring statistics as they do today, because at their peak the perennial Sherbrooke County League title holders scarcely ever tasted defeat.

But the Maroons, an aggregation of youngsters with a veteran Canadian at the helm, turned the trick last evening in a scheduled fixture of the Sherbrooke County Hockey League, and the Canadians dropped from their customary pace-setting position. The final score was seven to four, and although the Maroons did not have the edge represented by the three-goal margin of victory, they clearly deserved their triumph.

In the first fixture of the weekly twin bill, the Provincial Reds outpointed a vastly improved Magog squad by two to one. The victory hurled the new entry in the local circuit into first place in the standing with four points out of a possible six. On the heels of the leaders are the Maroons and the Canadians, with three points each, while perched in fourth place is Lennoxville with two points.

Magog, turned back in its three games to date, bring up the rear, but on the strength of last evening's showing do not expect to remain the circuit's dog long. Eddie Wolfe and Jack Powers were in charge of the programme. The Maroons maintained too fast a pace for the Canadians to weather. Three speedy forward lines outclassed everything Gordon Maguire had to offer, except his first line, Luke Lepage, Francis Minton and Lucien Goyette. Juggling his charges around in a manner to keep all his players fresh, coach Len O'Donnell did not give his former team mates a breathing spell, and it was principally due to this fact that the Canucks finished on the short end of the score board.

There were other factors in the Maroons' victory. The work of Ashley Hibbard in the winners' net was sensational, in fact, at times uncanny. Late in the second period when the Canadians began the uphill battle which has earned them a warm spot in the hearts of every spectator, Hibbard withstood the withering fire of blazing shots with which his rivals tested him. In the opposite citadel, Bert Pearson was getting a bad game out of his system and, even though he turned aside many dangerous shots, the former McGill student was not up to his usual standard. Then again, the Canadians could not take advantage of the "breaks" afforded by penalties to the Maroons corps, and had to be content with defeat after scoring a garrison finish.

The game was practically in the Maroons' victory column as early as midway through the second stanza. At this stage the "kids" of the circuit held a five to one lead. During the remaining minutes of the period the Canadians started to come back. The whistle temporarily halted their rejuvenated offensive, and before they could regain their stride the Maroons had established a comfortable margin. In their spectacular finale, the Canadians scored twice in the last minute of play, Antonio Dussault taking Hibbard's measure on plays in which Luke Lepage and "Bebe" Camire assisted.

The Maroons started with an aggressive brand of hockey which could not be denied. There was no appreciable advantage in favor of either squad, and the electric score board remained dead until the twelfth minute mark had been reached. Pearson had made two spectacular saves from Leo Shields and Gordon, and in the play Camire was banished. The face-off was ordered ten feet in front of the Canadians goal line, and as the puck dropped Mooney hoisted it into the net. The goal was more or less in the nature of a gift, but there was no argument, judge of play Jack Powers giving the proper interpretation to the play.

The Maroons took full advantage of their second "break" within a minute when Earl Coombs was sent to the "cooler" for boarding Mooney. Before Coombs had reached the penalty bench Billie Gordon added the Maroons' second tally in which Leo Shields and Mooney figured. Luke Lepage was closely watched, but succeeded in laying the groundwork for Lucien Goyette's goal in sixteen minutes. Both teams were at full strength when Goyette rammed in Lepage's pass across the goal mouth before Hibbard could move to attempt a save. As the period ended, Dunsmore and Gosselin were penalized, but the effective raggng by Mooney, Dugre and O'Donnell kept the Canadians from deadlocking the count.

The Reds' ability to take advantage of the "breaks" played a prominent part in their victory. Ten minutes of even hockey had been presented the spectators when Lanctot was penalized. The opening offered was promptly capitalized, Roy inaugurating the scoring on a pass-out from Gagnon. The regular right winger had circled the Magog net to provide Roy the pass, and the latter shot three times before he finally placed the Reds in the lead. As it was, Milne shoved the rebound off Roy's second shot directly on the feet of the Magog net and was unable to move fast enough for the third shot.

Magog was presented with a similar opportunity when Mathieu was banished for charging Pibus, but the Pruemen could not get their attack functioning properly. Bunching in the centre of the rink, the Magog players made the task of their opponents easier, for there was no one on the wings to accept the pass as the puck-carrier dashed down centre ice. Gaudin got through once unaccompanied, but Boisvert took care of his shot. As the period ended Styan took a two-minute rest for interfering. The interference caused the announcement of a goal which Bert Anderson scored, and the period closed with the Reds leading by one to nothing.

Styan was finishing his penalty when the Reds scored what proved to be the winning tally. From the opening face-off, Gagnon and Huard combined, and the latter shoved across a shot which increased his team's margin. A few minutes later the same player missed an open corner on Roy's rebound. Eddie Hebert, who suffered an injury which necessitated his removal midway through the initial frame, returned and play became more even again. Carrier, Gaucher and Gaudin were working like Trojans, but their attacks lacked the polish necessary to score. Further, the defence bulwark furnished by Anderson, Parsons and Gagne was hard to penetrate, while the backchecking of the Reds' three forward lines broke up Magog attacks before they could get started.

Baird, shunted from the defence to centre, gave the Magog supporters, of which there were many in the gallery, a chance to cheer when the robber Boisvert was shut out on a pass from Styan. The play shifted so fast that Boisvert was unaware of the location of the puck until he found it behind him. Over to the right of the Reds' net, two players fought for possession. The disc travelled the width of the rink, where Vincent was asleep at the switch, while Styan was wide awake. Before Vincent could perceive the impending danger, Styan had whipped a pass to Baird, who made no mistake.

Magog was holding its own but perhaps a combination of frustrated efforts and a somewhat hazy account of the play visited the "cooler" a second time and Coach Workman shifted to his regular forward line in the hope of bagging a few tallies. Milne, however, was the fly in the ointment, and the exhibition of juggling he gave before Hamel returned would have earned him a place with any circus. On his stomach, the Magog custodian swept the puck out of Roy's reach and lost his stick in the melee. Roy was not content and fired another shot point blank. Milne calmly caught the rubber and precipitated a face-off which relieved the pressure. Parsons used his hips to freely with the officials watching him and he finished the period in the penalty box. There was no further scoring, however, and the score board showed the Reds leading by the odd goal in three at the end of the second period.

Gaucher's fadeaway shot came within an inch of making the score two-all in the final stanza. Boisvert dropped the puck, which dangled on the goal line before the goalie was able to clear it. It was the object Magog came to earning a draw, the remainder of the period ending with the Reds playing to safeguard their margin. Occasionally the home team would break and worry Milne for a few moments, but the visiting custodian showed that he was very much above the form he revealed against Lennoxville's red shirts.

Sherbrooke fans will be entertained Sunday by the opening double-header in the Eastern Townships Ladies' Hockey League. The opening tilt will bring Sherbrooke against Magog, while Coaticook, last year's titlists, will start the defence of their laurels against Lennoxville.

HEAVY SPORTS PROGRAMME FOR THIS WEEK-END

Nine Hockey Matches and Three Basketball Games Arranged for Eastern Townships Fans—Results of Hockey League Fixtures Expected to Change Present Standings.

A very active week-end, with basketball and hockey providing the menu for Eastern Townships sport enthusiasts, begins this evening in the Arena when the weekly Eastern Townships Juvenile Hockey League double-header will be played. East Angus, who held the Sherbrooke High School to a one-all draw last week, will cross sticks with St. Pat's, defeated in their campaign opener by Lennoxville Red Jackets. The Red Jackets, intent on increasing their present margin at the head of the group, will tackle the Sherbrooke High School in the first encounter. Victory for the Red Jackets would augment their lead over the field to three points, while a triumph for the students would lift them into the pace-setting position. East Angus will be in action again tomorrow afternoon in the Paper Town when they receive a visit from the Sherbrooke Maple Leafs. The juvenile programme this evening starts at seven o'clock.

The indoor recreation will be provided by two out-of-town and three local basketball aggregations. The Knowlton Academy will play a return game with St. Patrick's Academy in the 53rd. Army on William street. The first game of the home and home series in the Brome Lake centre resulted in a victory for the local Irishmen. As the Y.M.C.A., Thetford Mines will be seen in action against the "Y" Reds, while the Sherbrooke High School and the "Y" Blues will battle in the second half of the twin bill.

Week-end activities in the Compton County Hockey League will find Bury and Scottstown as the receiving clubs in scheduled fixtures and East Angus playing hosts to the Sherbrooke Canadians in an exhibition attraction. Tonight, East Angus visits Bury, while tomorrow evening Coaticook will provide the opposition for Scottstown in the latter town. The exhibition tilt between East Angus and the Canadians will be played in the Paper Town on Sunday.

Along the Brome-Missisquoi battle front two week-end contests are scheduled. Farnham and Waterloo clash at Waterloo tomorrow night, while Sutton pays a call to Bedford on Sunday. The results of these two games should cause a shake-up in the present league standing.

FROM THE SIDELINES

The depression seems to be over as far as hockey fans are concerned. Last evening's crowd, the largest of the season to date, indicated that the lean hockey attendance seasons are a thing of the past.

Many spectators kept their eyes glued on Eddie Hebert and Joe Gagne, the two principals in a hockey scrap which found its way into the local Superior Court. The animosity between the two men, however, appears to have vanished.

It will be recalled that the judgment rendered in this case by Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault aroused considerable comment throughout Dominion hockey circles.

Austin Workman is earning the name of the "shouting coach." Austin's lungs are continually in action as he urges the Reds to victory.

A strange coincidence was afforded in the Maroons-Canadians tilt yesterday when the Maroons, Len O'Donnell, Luke Lepage and Francis Minton, found themselves playing on opposite sides.

The crowd gave Lanctot, Magog defenceman, a big hand in the third period when he dumped "Horsey" Huard with a perfect bow check. Huard settled heavily on the ice but needed no assistance to regain his equilibrium.

The cheering section in the second game reminded one of an intercollegiate football game. The leader of the Maroons' vocalists, equipped with a fog horn which he used constantly.

The Reds' victory last evening prepared them for their Lennoxville invasion in the second game of the Minto rink. They cannot be dislodged from first place, but a Lennoxville victory would create a deadlock for the leadership.

Experienced coaching would make a vast difference in the Magog aggregation. The fact that, with the exception of a few players, it is not yet schooled in the important fundamentals of the game.

Eddie Wolfe and Jack Powers were President Nelson Chartier's appointments for the officiating.

Fred Goyette, the spark plug of the Kayser entry in the Industrial League last year, appeared in a Provincial Reds' uniform. Appropriately nicknamed "The Pest," Goyette lived up to his reputation as a hard worker.

Gordie Meek, on the side lines this year with an injured arm, took over the coaching reins last night. Gordie's absence is keenly felt by the Magog team.

Frankie Fuller was accompanied by two cronies, Frank Edwards and Jerry Lemay, to whom he referred as "my roosters." All supporters of the Canadians, the trio had plenty of opportunity to "crow."

"Babe" Camire stood the pace for the first two periods, but tired in the third, while Prefontaine's injury prevented him from showing his usual form.

AMERICANS AND LEAFS BATTLED TO A DEADLOCK

Americans Showing Was Prize Upset of Four National Hockey League Fixtures Last Evening—Rangers and Chicago Tied for Leadership in U.S. Section.

Toronto, January 12.—They all look alike to New York's astonishing Americans now. The worms that turned rolled over again last night in their efforts to get out of the National Hockey League's Canadian division cellar, holding the mighty, the almost unbeatable Toronto Maple Leafs even in seventy minutes of hockey.

The team that had won only three games in seventeen starts as the New Year rolled around and were dubbed hopeless as play-off possibilities were right in their today fighting for a position. Their one-all draw with the National Hockey League champions brought them within easy striking distance of the Montreal Maroons and Ottawa, their opposition now in the battle for extra series money.

Rabbit McVeigh, sharing the limelight with Aurel Joliat, of the Canadians, these days among veterans who don't intend to fold up, stepped out again in a stellar role. As his team-mates held the outfit that had whipped them badly twice before this season, McVeigh scored their only goal on Normie Himes' pass in the first period. Toronto's point came from scoring leader Charlie Coache's stick in the middle frame.

To 10,000 New Yorkers who recalled the nine to one and seven to three thrice Joe Simpson's team have taken from the Leafs this season last night's tie was the most marvellous of all the amazing things these Americans have done. It emphasized their rejuvenation, previously outlined in recent wins from Boston, the Canadians and Ottawa.

McVeigh's return to the heights, paced with his team's pick-up points today, enough to keep him well up with stars of the game who haven't been playing strenuous hockey for thirteen years.

The Americans' prize upset ended the Rangers' five to three win over the Senators in Ottawa, featured a night of National Hockey League hockey that included two other games which failed to reach a decision. The Maroons and the Wings played a one-all draw in Detroit and Boston and the Black Hawks went seventy minutes without a goal in Chicago.

The world champion Rangers were back where world champions should be today. The two points they picked up in the Capital were just enough to bring them into a tie with Chicago for top spot in the United States division standing. Their long grind to get out in front, aided since the New Year with three wins in five games, ended in the Senators' third consecutive loss.

Although Murray Murdoch, with two goals, and Cecil Dillon, who got two assists, led the Ranger scoring attack, the famed Coach-Boucher-Cook line was the real driving force behind the New Yorkers' efforts. They played the sort of hockey only that combination can and collected five scoring points between them.

Syd Howe was the big scoring threat for the Senators, bagging two goals and assisting in the third. Both teams scored in the first period, the Rangers got past Beveridge twice in the second stanza and snared another couple in the final period when the Senators were getting one.

What Boston and Chicago lacked in scoring punch they made up in rough play that kept the 6,000 spectators in an uproar. Two majors were handed out, Joe Lamb, Boston forward, and Roger Jenkins, a Hawk defenceman, drawing them for trading punches in the second frame.

The puck did get in the net once but a goal was not allowed. Paul Thompson, a Hawk forward, banged it past his brother Tiny in the Boston nets early in the third period, but the play was offside.

Willie Cook, playing in Detroit's nets while John Ross Roach rests, stood out as he has in every game since joining the Wings. He stopped thirty-three shots, many of them difficult. The game's goals both came in the first period, Lerie Aurie scoring for the Wings, and Russell Blineo, recently recruited from Windsor, for the Maroons.

A friend of the family met the small girl in the park one day with the nurse and her new baby brother. "Well, Mollie," she said, "and what is your little brother's name?" "Mother and father haven't decided yet," was the reply, "so he's remaining anonymous for the present."

JEWELLERS ARE PACE SETTING LOCAL BOWLERS

McAllistermen Kept Victory Column Intact with Three-String Triumph Over Electric Department—Blue's and Kinkead's Won Remaining Games.

The Jewellers continued today at the head of the Industrial Bowling League without the loss of a single string in the two matches of the second half of the schedule they have played to date. Previously tied with the Fish Market and the City Electric Department in the pace-setting position, the Jewellers took a three-string verdict from the Electricians, while Blue's contributed the "big brother" act by taking two strings from the Fish Market. In the third game of the evening, Kinkead's bettered its position by administering a shut-out to Mitchell's.

"Babe" Holtham led the McAllistermen to a comfortable triumph over the Electric Department. Bowling a total of 200 for his first string, Holtham compiled the highest mark in this game between the deadlocked leaders, a total of 519. The Jewellers had plenty to spare in each string and finished with a team total of 2,336, which was eighty-eight pins better than the total recorded by their opponents.

Blue's two to one victory was in the nature of a surprise, particularly after the Fish Market had walked off with the first string. Rallying Tommie Hall's quintette evened matters by taking the second game and eking out victory by capturing the deciding contest, Charlie Hatch, with a total of 234, captured the single string honors of the evening.

Dannie Towne was the principal factor in Kinkead's rout of Mitchell's. Showing improvement in each string, Towne posted a three-string total of 533, which proved to be the best of the evening.

SAWYERVILLE AND ANGUS ARE LEADING RACE

Sawyer-ville Chalked Up Its Third Straight Victory in Compton County League Last Night at Expense of Bury—Final Score Was Seven to Three.

Sawyer-ville, January 12.—In a game replete with thrills, Sawyer-ville last night moved into a tie with East Angus for the leadership of the Compton County Hockey League by defeating Bury by a score of seven to three. Originally scheduled for Monday evening, the game was postponed on account of ice conditions. The win was the home team's third in a row and its second success over Bury. The first fixture of the home and home series between these two entries resulted in a three to one decision for Sawyer-ville.

The homesters gathered a three to one advantage in the first period on goals by Williams and C. Painter. Williams opened the scoring, but Bury equalized when Top slammed the rubber past Wood. C. Painter made the draperies set a few minutes without a reply from the visitors, and circled the net as the stanza ended to give Sawyer-ville a three to one lead to start the middle chukker.

The home team held the upper hand for the greater part of the second chapter and had raised their total to five goals before Bury registered its second marker. E. Thompson was responsible for the first second-period tally, while Bailey was the next player to make the red light blink. Bury developed a strong offensive which bore fruit when McRae counted to make the score at the end of the second period read five to two for Sawyer-ville.

Sawyer-ville compiled an overwhelming lead when Burns and R. Thompson scored in the final twenty minutes, and Topp concluded the scoring for Bury with his second goal of the evening to end the battle with the home team leading by seven to three.

A. Ward, of Bury, and D. Thompson of Sawyer-ville, were in charge of the game. The teams lined up as follows: Sawyer-ville goal A. Prangley, L. Wood, defence MacDonaid, H. Montgomery, Lavalliere, E. Thompson, centre Cummings, S. Williams, a wing Topp, E. Bailey, L. Wing, T. Lawrence. Sawyer-ville subs: C. Painter, R. Thompson, N. Burns and A. Bartholomew.

Bury subs: Dumont, W. Prangley, Lapalme and D. MacRae.
