

OH, GLOOM...

It's good weather for ducks. The rain will continue today, tomorrow and Sunday, when it will taper off. A low over the northeastern United States is the cause of all this soggy weather. An important frontal area over the maritimes maintains these conditions over southeastern Quebec. Temperatures will remain cool in all regions with a ridge of high pressure giving sunny weather elsewhere.

The wind will be moderate in the Townships with a high today and Saturday near 14 and a low tonight between eight and 10. The outlook for Monday and Tuesday is variable cloudiness with a few showers. Tuesday will be fair with temperatures slightly below normal for the three days. The normal high is 19 to 21 while the usual low is eight to 10.

At least you don't have to wash your car.

Clark mulls two-tier cabinet

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — Joe Clark is spending several hours on the telephone each day contacting Progressive Conservatives he hopes to name to a two-tiered cabinet containing a record 40 ministers.

Instead of summoning cabinet hopefuls to his Rocky Mountain retreat for final appraisal, Clark is running up a huge telephone bill to complete his preparations for taking control of the government June 4.

Within a week, Clark also plans to announce the key aides who will be appointed to the prime minister's office replacing the chief advisors of Pierre Trudeau, Bill Neville, Clark's chief of staff, told reporters Thursday.

Clark met Thursday with Michael Pitfield, clerk of the privy council and a close friend of Trudeau.

"I'm here to brief the prime minister-elect on the burden he'll have to carry," said Pitfield after arriving here with several suitcases of top-secret documents for Clark to read.

Neville said he hopes senior Ottawa mandarins like Pitfield will not "fool around" with files before the minority Conservative government takes office.

Clark's chief concerns as he meets advisers here until Sunday are to reorganize the traditional cabinet structure and plan a timetable leading up to his trip next month to an international economic conference in Tokyo.

"Clark is committed to a two-tiered cabinet structure," Neville said after Clark opened discussions with a five-man transition committee of prominent Tories and perused alternative proposals by three management consultants from the firm P. S. Ross

Opening set for tonight

Weather dampens Festival spirits

By JASPER MEYERS
SHERBROOKE — Despite the rain and the tired-looking faces of organizers putting the finishing touches on their preparations for the Festival des Cantons, General Director Michael Dion said he felt confident that everything would be ready for the Festival's opening tonight as he drove around the site yesterday afternoon.

Dion had to interrupt the conversation every few minutes to reply to questions put to him by people at his central office over a walkie-talkie. A contingent from Old Orchard Beach in Maine, who are scheduled to hold a clambake at the Festival this weekend, were having trouble going through Customs with their clams, so what were they to do? A couple of men wanted to know if they would be able to have a dozen picnic tables moved from one end of the site to another, and could Dion spare a few hands? Would it be necessary to ask people to work a few hours of overtime that evening, another asked?

Dion feels the move to one central area in the city will be good for the Festival. As we left the Place des Cantonniers behind the Palais des Sports, where all the activities formerly held on Wellington Street will take place, and drove down Parc Street where most of the displays of craftsmen, artisanat and artists will be set up, he pointed out the natural advantages of trees, grassy lawns and an existing natural stage set at the foot of a small hill.

Twelve small cabins will house displays from each one of the Townships represented this year, with two of them sharing the spotlight on each day of the Festival. A discotheque will be held six nights during the coming week in a large circus tent set up near the swimming pool. A games area will allow you to try your skill at climbing a pole, cutting a log, pinning a tail on the Festival rooster, wrist wrestling, and knitting.

Dion pointed out that in an attempt to emphasize Quebecois tradition, Jacqueline Vital of North Hatley will serve home-made soups, whole-wheat bread sandwiches, salads and fruit juices instead of the normal greasy fare of hot dogs, hamburgers, french fries and cokes. There will be seven or eight concessions stands in all on the site.

Along the length of Parc Street stand 38 small cabins painted blue, green or orange, which will contain the work of craftsmen and artisans from the region and other parts of the province.

Public Games probe hearings end

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec inquiry into the 1976 Olympic Games has concluded public hearings and now will settle down to the job of preparing a report by September on unanswered questions.

How, for example, did the so-called "modest" estimate of $120 million for building the Olympic facilities become a $1.33-billion deficit.

The inquiry commission, headed by Superior Court Justice Albert Malouf, released documents Thursday summarizing some of the private testimony in its investigation, revealing close inter-relationships between a number of men who figured prominently in the Olympic story.

One of the documents showed that Claude Rouleau, before being appointed chairman of the Olympic installations board in November, 1975, received tens of thousands of dollars in wagers or gifts from several contractors involved in construction for the Games.

Rouleau won $42,000 in a bet on the outcome of the 1973 Quebec elections from Regis Trudeau, an engineering consultant whose firm received fees of $7.2 million from the City of Montreal for work on the Olympic stadium, the document revealed.

Commission lawyer Francois Beaudoin said Rouleau became friendly with Trudeau and two other Olympic contractors and won $10,000 playing cards with one of them.

SHARED APARTMENT

The documents also showed that Rouleau shared an apartment in Quebec City between 1970 and 1977 with three men, including Trudeau and Paul Desrochers, who was then an adviser and fund-raiser for the Quebec Liberal party.

Reconsider, senator urges Quebec

WASHINGTON (CP) — An aide to Senator John Chafee (Rep. R.I.) said Thursday the senator hopes the Quebec government will reconsider its proposed take-over of Asbestos Corp., but he is not urging state department intervention in the matter.

Lee Verstandig said Senator Chafee wants Quebec to resume negotiations with General Dynamics Corp. of St. Louis, Mo., to buy out its Canadian subsidiary, rather than expropriate it.

Chafee said in the Senate on May 9 he "would like to urge our state department to assist in the effort" but that doesn't mean he is advocating intervention, Verstandig emphasized.

A state department official noted that while it would be glad to "provide a room" or "carry a message from one party to another" should negotiations start again, it would be inappropriate for the department to play an active role in the negotiations.

TALKS HINTED

Verstandig said he understands U.S. Ambassador Thomas Enders has talked with Quebec government officials about the proposed take-over. However, no one was available at the embassy in Ottawa to confirm that Enders met with Quebec officials. State department officials here simply noted Enders travels frequently and may have discussed the matter.

Quebec had negotiated with General Dynamics to try to agree on a price for buying out Asbestos Corp. but the two sides remained sharply split on a fair price for Asbestos shares.

Subsequently, the Quebec government announced it was introducing legislation to permit it to take over Asbestos Corp., paying General Dynamics what the government decides is a fair price.

Earlier this month, Senator Chafee said in the Senate the Quebec action

"would have far-reaching implications in the United States-Canadian business and financial community."

DEAR NEIGHBOR

He said "it is most difficult to understand why a near and dear neighbor should see fit to proceed in the acquisition of a U.S.-owned company through expropriation when our long-standing relations naturally warrant discussion and a business-like resolution."

Senator Charles Percy (Rep. Ill.) at the same time expressed concern about the "disturbing development" in Quebec and called expropriation legislation "excessive and quite unnecessary."

Senator John Tower (Rep. Texas) warned that Quebec should think twice because "sudden seizure of the assets would establish a dangerous precedent which could cause other American businesses to reconsider future investment in the province."

FREE ENTERPRISE

More opposition to an Asbestos Corp. take-over came from Senator Howard Cannon (Dem. Nev.) who noted General Dynamics has a substantial investment in Asbestos Corp., runs it efficiently and doesn't want to sell it.

It was an example of "free enterprise at its best" and Quebec shouldn't interfere with it, Senator Cannon said.

The Parti Quebecois promised during the 1976 election campaign to take an ownership interest in the asbestos industry.

FORGET SEEKS ASBESTOS-BILL DELAY

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal asbestos critic Claude Forget proposed a motion Thursday to delay for three months the second reading of a bill to allow expropriation of Asbestos Corp. Ltd.

The second and third readings of the bill, introduced by the Parti Quebecois government last December, were stalled during talks between the government and General Dynamics Corp., the controlling shareholder.

Forget's motion and second reading, approval in principle of the bill, are expected to be voted on next week.

Second reading began Thursday with a nationalistic speech by Yves Berube, natural resources minister and sponsor of the bill.

"We shouldn't be satisfied working for others," the minister said, adding that it was for this reason that the government wanted to take control of Asbestos Corp.

Asbestos was only one sector where Quebecers were at a disadvantage in their own province because of foreign ownership, he said.

Moves such as the acquisition of Asbestos Corp. are intended to widen access for skilled francophones to Quebec industry, he said.

OFFER REFUSED

Earlier in the national assembly, Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau revealed that he had invited a representative of the United States government to sit in on talks between Quebec and General Dynamics. The offer was refused.

The government announced in October, 1977, that it intended to buy control of Asbestos Corp., the second-largest producer of the fire-resistant fibre in the province.

General Dynamics of St. Louis, Mo., owns 54.6 per cent of Asbestos Corp. shares and is asking $99.75 a share, or $154.5 million for its interest. Quebec has offered $42 a share or $62 million.

Parizeau said earlier this month that Quebec would proceed with expropriation plans because the parties have failed to reach a private agreement.

Premier Rene Levesque says General Dynamics must come to terms by the end of the year. Meanwhile, the government will proceed with expropriation legislation.

Grafftey, Scott ready to join Clark cabinet

By NELSON WYATT

As Tory Leader Joe Clark prepares to form the first Conservative government in nearly 20 years, speculation is still rampant about the choice of his cabinet with much of it focused on two Townships ridings.

"I have not heard from Mr. Clark as yet," said Missisquoi MP Heward Grafftey in a telephone interview early this morning. Grafftey, who was elected to his ninth term as member of Parliament for the predominantly franco-phone and rural riding is considered by many to be a likely choice for a cabinet spot, having served as an MP for over 16 years and being one of only two PCs elected from Quebec. He jovially said earlier that, "I would certainly be a flop as a foreign minister; would be absolutely horrible in finance; and would be the worst possible choice for justice."

In a more serious vein, Grafftey said he would like a position in "the sphere of social action" if chosen.

Gerald Scott, defeated Conservative candidate for Shefford county told The Record, "Right now I'm in the same spot as you — I don't know," when asked to comment on the speculation that he, too would be appointed to the cabinet.

Saying that he had had a close association with Clark, Scott added that no one from the Prime Minister-elect's office had contacted him, though legends of reporters had. Scott said one journalist had quoted a close aide of Clark's as saying that he would be chosen but pointed out that he received it as an indirect quote.

The Shefford PC, who boosted the party's standings in the riding to 25 per cent of the vote as compared to the Tory provincial average of 13 per cent said Clark had indicated confidence in him in the past, appointing him along with five others from this province to sit on a number of PC policy committees last year to represent the Quebec viewpoint.

Although a cabinet post was not a condition of his entering politics, Scott, an engineer, said his business was arranged so he could leave for Ottawa following a victory, and that he was "available" if Clark should deem him a wise choice. Asked if it would be an awkward situation for Shefford having a Liberal MP and a Tory cabinet minister, Scott said that this would only be so if he worked out of the riding and would be no worse than if he parachuted into another county to replace someone who had resigned.

Scott was defeated in Tuesday's vote by Liberal Jean Lapierre who took about 19,000 votes compared to Scott's 10,000 vote tally.

THE GOLDEN AGE OF MOTORING

By BRUCE PORTER

A few people still remember them but for most of the shoppers wandering around Carrefour de l'Estrie's centre mall, the Craven Foundation display of antique cars gives one a moment to ponder the reactions these shiny, chromed vehicles must have brought when they first hit the streets of North America in the early 1900's. The seven automobiles on display until June 2 are just a small portion of the Foundation's 72 collector's items which aims to keep many antique cars in Canada as a reminder of their glorious past. While the show lasts, people will be able to gaze at a Duesenberg, a Hupmobile, a Hudson, a Marmon and three Fords, ranging in vintage from 1910 to 1931.

1931 Hudson Big Eight cost $1,680 in 1931 and boasts a chromed oil can and rumble seat.

The 1910 Hupmobile Model 20 had a four-cylinder engine which produces 20 horsepower and is a far cry from the 1931 Duesenberg Model 'J', and its 265-horsepower eight-cylinder powerplant. This gigantic classic boasts two spare tires mounted on the running board, with rearview mirrors attached to them, a leather luggage compartment on the back and dual windshields to protect passengers in both the front and back seats. An altimeter was also standard equipment for their upper society owners, who paid $19,000 for the biggest, fastest — and most expensive — car in America just 48 years ago.

A Marmon Model 34 dating back to 1921 was used for racing with its 74 HP six-cylinder engine. A dash-mounted clock was part of only 60 such vehicles made in 1921, which went for $4,185 new.

For just $1,680 back in 1931, a well-to-do person could purchase a Hudson 'Big Eight' complete with 80 HP motor, a chromed oil can under the hood and a rumble seat out back.

The 1913 Ford Model T Speedster looks ornate enough with its serpent-headed horn and steering column-mounted round windshield, but the gutsy four-cylinder (35 HP) RAJO engine would power the automobile 75 miles per hour along a sand track.

An original 1927 Model 'T' (the last year of production for this line of Ford) with 4000 miles on it and a 1931 Model 'A' delivery truck round out the collection on display. The truck, by the way, carried an 1979 Quebec license plate and is still used for 'special deliveries' by the company. All the vehicles are in operating condition and are used for various parades.

Model T speedster and Model A delivery truck are both in perfect running condition. The truck even makes deliveries.

DBRSB releases nine teachers

BEDFORD (FJM) — The effects of declining enrolment have forced the District of Bedford Regional School Board to declare 14 surplus teaching positions for the 1979-80 school year. As a result 9 untenured teachers — those without two years experience — have been notified that they will not be re-engaged.

According to the terms of the teachers' collective agreement, school boards must declare personnel requirements every spring. It is expected that at least five of the 14 surplus positions declared at this time will be retained because of technicalities in the local and provincial agreements, actual enrolment figures, and notice of the resignations and retirements not yet received.

Total DBRSB school population this year is 3,777 students, with a staff of 266 teachers. Forecasts predict a drop in enrolment next year of approximately 225 students and the trend is expected to continue well into the next decade.

The DBRSB recently held a one-month intensive French Program for members of the administrators and support staff. Seventeen people from the Bedford office in Cowansville and other offices participated in the program. The program given was a provincial one entitled "Langue Francaise Internationale" for students at the Intermediate level. Classes were held both during working hours and after work. Four full day sessions were held near the end of the month.

Children's Day to mark the International Year of the Child, and a children's parade will move from St. Francis Park, under the Terrill Bridge, up Eymard Street, Chicouyn Street and Terrill Street, ending at the special Children's Pavilion set up in the trees on the west side of Parc Street. Dion explained that the program for the Children's Pavilion was drawn up on the basis of recommendations made by local students.

Across the street from the Children's Pavilion is a meeting place for senior citizens. Dion reminded me that people who are 65 and over will be able to fish for trout at Howard's Pond once more during this year's Festival: the event will be held on Thursday.

Next to the Children's Pavilion and still under the trees are booths ready to serve as showcases and backdrops for the work of painters and artists who want to display their work. In Pavilion 3 of the Sherbrooke CEGEP on Terrill Street some of the classrooms have been set up as permanent exhibits of pottery, weaving and other art work.

some of it to be judged in a competition, other pieces to be displayed so that local amateurs can meet and discuss their work with others in the same métier.

Dion said the Festival has a budget of $600,000 this year and has worked with a group of 900 volunteers divided into 47 committees since last January. The theme of this year's Festival is "Cocq-Chose de n'oeuf" or "Something New"

The cabinet Clark initially hopes will result from the discussions will contain about 12 to 18 senior ministers responsible for most policy making and more than 20 junior ministers. A similar type of cabinet operates in at least one province, Quebec.

Clark's cabinet would be enlarged from the average of 30 ministers during the 11 years of Trudeau's government.

An urgent priority is to find some Quebecers for the cabinet.

The only two Quebec Conservatives elected Tuesday — Heward Grafftey and Roch LaSalle — are both expected to be given junior posts.

Clark says he also will put some Quebec Senators in the cabinet.

Jacques Flynn, a mines minister in the government of former prime minister John Diefenbaker, is one prospect Clark has mentioned.

Clark may also appoint three new Quebec senators for the cabinet. Aiding him in choosing these Quebecers are Jean Bazin and Michel Cogger, two prominent Conservative party organizers from Quebec who sit on the transition committee.

The other committee members are James Balfour, a former Conservative MP from Regina; David Jenkins, a millionaire businessman from Edmonton, and Neville, the man who plans to replace Jim Coultas as principal secretary to the prime minister.

Quebec won't rescue firm

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has no intention of bailing out a troubled trailer-manufacturing company in Thetford Mines, Que., that has been forced to lay off 145 workers. Industry and Commerce Minister Rodrigue Tremblay said Thursday.

The government already has injected $6.5 million into Les Produits Bellevue (1977) Ltee, over the past four years and will not spend a cent more, he said.

The company makes motorized trailers, dormitories for Hydro-Quebec and buildings that can be transported by helicopter for the James Bay Energy Corp. to hydro-electric sites.

The Quebec government's industrial-development agency owns 50 per cent of the company's shares.

Thetford Mines is located 80 kilometres south of Quebec City.

Cornell Mill Museum opens

The Cornell Mill Museum in Stanbridge East, operated by the Missisquoi Historical Society, will open for the season on Friday, June 1st.

Over 10,000 items of Canadian and Eastern Townships History are displayed in three buildings: the 3-storey grist mill originally built in 1830, Hodge's Old Time Country Store and Bill's Machinery Barn of pioneer implements. Two special attractions will be a showing of slides of local interest, with synchronized sound, and — in keeping with 1979's theme of The Year of the Child — the third floor of the Museum will display items of special interest to children.

Visitors are welcome to picnic on the Museum grounds by the dam. From June 1st to October 14th, hours are: Weekdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sundays and Holidays, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission: Adults, $1.00; Students, $0.50; children under 12, $0.25. Members free. Group tours may be arranged by phoning (514) 248-3153. School groups are especially welcome in spring and fall.

Clark, Conservatives face election-promise hangover

Joe Clark's minority government will be hard pressed to make good on a string of controversial and costly promises strewn about the election trail that led him to the prime minister's job.

The Progressive Conservative leader could provoke a showdown vote in the Commons if he lives up to assertions during the campaign that a Clark government would make no deals on such things as tax deductibility for mortgage interest and property taxes, income tax cuts, the sale of state-owned Petro-Canada and cabinet-authorized lawbreaking by the RCMP.

He will be expected to move quickly on his economic proposals, but may choose to look for ways to delay action in other areas.

Clark has said his economic program, which would include $2 billion in tax cuts for low and middle-income wage earners, will be part of his first budget this fall.

But he is six seats short of the 142 needed to guarantee passage of his programs in the Commons and that might rise to eight if recounts in Vancouver and Halifax take away seats the Tories won by a whisker. Clark has to pick up those votes from the Opposition benches to get them passed.

FORCE ELECTION

By tradition, defeat of a key government program in the Commons would force resignation and a possible election.

But Ed Broadbent's New Democratic Party, which won 26 seats, and Fabien Roy's Social Credit, which won six, both have experienced solid drubbings from the electorate for pulling the plug in the past.

The Social Credit was wiped out when the party forced an election by voting against the Diefenbaker minority in 1958 and the NDP saw their slate slashed to 16 from 31 when they did it in 1974.

Clark's promise to sell Petrocan to the private sector was an important campaign issue and both the Liberals and the NDP are firmly opposed. Roy's position is not clear.

Clark can stall for time on the Petrocan issue because he plans to ask a committee to examine the Crown corporation and advise cabinet on how best to unload it.

He could also delay implementation of his idea to allow cabinet ministers to authorize police to break the law in emergency situations. He may decide to await a report of the McDonald royal commission now investigating a string of RCMP illegal acts committed during the years of the Trudeau government.

REMEMBER PROMISE

Clark has described his mortgage interest and property tax deductibility scheme as "a program Canadians can count on." Not to introduce it quickly would be a broken promise voters would remember.

Clark has said he would fight an election on the issue.

The program would allow homeowners to deduct mortgage interest of up to $5,000 and property taxes up to $1,000 from taxable income before calculation of federal tax. It would be phased in over four years.

The Liberals and the NDP have attacked it as being unfair because it gives the biggest tax advantage to those with the largest mortgages and the highest incomes.

But Clark sees it as a way to stimulate demand for housing and boost the slumping construction industry. It would also put more money in the hands of consumers who would be expected to go out and spend it.

He says the $1.6 billion it would cost in lost revenue when it is fully implemented in the fourth year would be offset by the higher tax revenues generated by new economic activity.

The NDP might be expected to give support to his plan to cut income taxes since they had made a similar proposal themselves.

FULFIL SLOGAN

But there are a raft of other controversial proposals that Clark outlined during the campaign that he says will help fulfil his party's campaign slogan to "get Canada working again."

The longer he waits to move, the more he will have to begin shouldering some of the blame for the country's chronic unemployment — hovering at the eight-per-cent level — and a renewed spurt of inflation heading back to the double-digit level.

He plans to reduce the bill for government services by eliminating 60,000 public service jobs by attrition.

He has promised a $125-million-a-year program of tax credits for research and development, a $5,000 annual tax credit for investment in small business — also estimated to cost $125 million annually — and elimination of capital gains tax on shares of Canadian-owned companies, which carries a yearly price tag of $50 million.

Promised introduction of inflation-accounting for business would cost $100 million a year. There is an unspecified proposal of tax advantages to help the mining industry.

ELIMINATE TAXES

Clark has also said that a Conservative government would eliminate taxes on companies investing in poorer regions of the country until they recovered 150 per cent of the cost of new facilities.

There is a plan for about $30 million in freight rate subsidies to key industries, a proposal to limit imports of foreign beef to keep the price of the domestically-produced product higher and a commitment to boost veterans' allowances by about $34 million a year.

Grain handling capacity is to be increased by 50 per cent over the next few years, federal money is to be spent to help renovate fishing boats and develop the fishery.

Loto Canada is to be disbanded and Clark has said he will make it government policy not to do business with companies which violate federal or provincial anti-discrimination laws.

No idea

A study tabled yesterday by Intergovernmental Affairs Minister Claude Morin says a sovereign Quebec would see a 28-per-cent hike in unemployment if trade barriers existed between us and the rest of Canada.

A second study, also carried out by the University of Montreal and the prestigious Ecole des Hautes Etudes Commerciales, points out the danger of a customs union with the United States, which the authors conclude could lead to a greater foreign control of the Quebec economy.

Incredibly, the studies say the effects would be 'relatively minor' and less than one could expect, considering.

Whatever disclaimers the authors or Mr. Morin's ministry may make, we consider these effects to be grave, indeed. Do we have such a low rate of unemployment we can afford more unemployment? Do we have so many saleable products and resources that we can afford to thumb our noses at our markets? Are we so much in control of our own provincial economy that we can afford to give some of that control away?

It is clear even the experts have no idea of the full effects of creating a sovereign Quebec. No wonder Mr. Burns predicted the Parti Quebecois would lose both the referendum and the next election.

Clannishness?

On Saturday, June 16, some 200 English-speaking Townshippers will gather at Alexander Galt to discuss our community's relations with the Quebec government and what the future might bring. Cultural survival promises to be a major concern, and no doubt Cultural Development Minister Camille Laurin and fellow ministers in attendance will be treated to an earful of suggestions and concerns, and rightly so.

But it has struck us on more than one occasion that English-speaking Townshippers can be accused of clannishness and lack of interest in the cultural activities of the French-speaking Townships. We do tend to have our own organizations and annual events, such as the agricultural fairs and ploughing matches, but what about other, more wide-ranging events, like the Festival des Cantons which gets underway tonight? Here's an annual event which is entering its sixth year, has no particularly nationalist ties, and needs every bit of support the community as a whole, can give it.

This year, the Festival moves many of its activities from downtown to the Terrill Plateau. We'll see how effective the move is, especially since a passport is needed to gain entry to the exhibition area. We also wonder about the Festival's continuing policy of confining handicraft exhibitors to members of the Metiers d'Art des Cantons de l'Est, an organization which has a monopoly on deciding who is worthy of selling handicrafts in the Townships and who isn't.

In short, the Festival shows every sign of catering to a narrower and narrower range of people. Nevertheless, the city has done its best to encourage travel to the site, with 25-cent bus fares throughout the nine-day event, and many have worked long and hard to make it a success. We hope as many of you as possible will make it a point to spend at least a day at the Festival site, if for no other reason than to say you went.

Then if it bombs out, at least nobody can claim it was due in part to the disinterest and clannishness of the Townships English.

Letters

Editor:

What is a cult or sect?

In looking up these words in my dictionary they both have a similar meaning. The word cult means having an intense devotion to a person, ideal or thing. The word sect means a group of people united by a specific man made doctrine under one leader.

The reason I am writing

One man's opinion

this letter is for the public at large to be aware of these counterfeit religions. Those who are searching for a new way of life are the most susceptible to those who come to their door to witness. It can also be through their monthly magazines that they give donations to help their organizations to prosper. These organizations have much the same approach and that is through Bible study with those who do not understand their doctrine.

they do not teach the redemptive word of Jesus Christ.

By supporting these organizations it only helps for the leaders to live like kings.

er raised bodily from the grave, he became a spirit.

5. Jesus will never come again visibly from heaven, he came invisibly in 1914.

6. There is no punishment for the wicked, that is, no hell, we die like animals.

7. Only the 144,000 Witnesses will go to heaven. All others will come to life on earth during the Millennium.

There is absolutely no doubt in my mind that these witnesses preach a counterfeit christianity. As christians we should all pray for them to be delivered from their misinformed truths of God's Word. — John 3: 16.

P. DOUGLASS,

For one thing, I have found they have their own Bibles, which are not the same wording as our Bibles, such as, "King James Scofield, Nelson, North American Standard," etc. Those who witness to the public have been so indoctrinated by the leaders of their organizations they all are afraid to search for the truth in any other Bible, but theirs. They are so convincing as to their beliefs that it is hard for a non-Christian to resist them and even a Christian can be swayed by their appeal. Unless one understands the Scriptures that has been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit, it can be a losing battle to anyone. See 2nd Timothy 3: 15-17.

1. Jesus Christ is not God the Son (He is a god.)
 2. The Holy Spirit is not a person, "it" is an active force.
 3. There is no soul in a man, we are bodies only, the same class as animals.

Up in smoke

Editor:

I have to get this off my chest!!

Last Saturday evening I was seated in a restaurant, about to indulge in the most sumptuous of steaks - and YUK!... a huge billow of smoke smacked me in the face! I could have screamed! At a nearby table sat this man puffing out smoke over a cup of coffee. I felt like going over, snatching his cigarette and butting it out on his face!

How much abuse do we non-smokers have to take before a law is passed to stop all smoking in public places, especially restaurants? How would it be if I burped in their face when they were eating?? Or would they enjoy a plane trip with me beside them, passing wind? When they ask "Do you mind if I smoke?" I'd like to scream "Only if you soak yourself in kerosene and light up!"

These people have got to be made to see they can't sicken and endanger us like this. How about ex-smokers too? They have to be tormented because the laws are not fair!

There, I feel somewhat better for having blown off steam!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Henry K was a pushover for women reporters

WASHINGTON — Henry Kissinger's well-cultivated reputation for single-handedly achieving impossible feats of diplomatic legerdemain earned him the sobriquet "Super K."

Whether the pudgy, bespectacled secretary of state with the burlesque-comic German accent deserved comparison with Superman is still a matter of conjecture. But one thing has been made clear from secret documents: Like the comic-strip hero, Kissinger was a pushover for the Lois Lanes of the world. Whether from high hopes or low male chauvinism, Kissinger was repeatedly caught off guard by female journalists.

A year after he claimed to have been "anguished" over the Christmas-1972 bombing of Hanoi, he made the damaging admission to Flora Lewis of The New York Times that he had actually wanted to bomb even more, but "the president wouldn't let me."

Another distaff reporter who outwitted the urbane professor was Sally Quinn of The Washington Post. She would bump into him at Washington parties and after a few minutes of wily, womanly buttering up, Kissinger would be lulled into saying something ridiculous — which would promptly appear in the Post to the secretary's discomfiture.

Kissinger eventually grew gun-shy of Quinn, and firmly refused her request for an "in-depth" interview.

"I wouldn't let Sally Quinn interview me," he confided to a foreign diplomat in 1976. "She is vicious. I don't know anyone who has survived being interviewed by her. I know her socially, but I don't talk to her."

Alas for Dr. K., he had already learned to his sorrow the perils of a clever woman reporter — Oriana Fallaci. He later ruefully described the taped interview he gave the Italian journalist in 1972 as the "stupidest thing" he had ever done.

While this self-assessment may be open to question, there's no doubt the Fallaci interview, with its "lone cowboy" reference, didn't exactly enhance Kissinger's reputation, either among world leaders or the public at large.

Although he was aware of Fallaci's reputation as a tough interviewer — even Quinn warned him — Kissinger evidently thought he could handle her with no trouble. "Why I agreed to it, I'll never know," he later moaned to reporters.

Actually, he did know. According to a secret transcript, Kissinger told a friend three years after the Fallaci interview, "She really got me in trouble. The only reason I agreed to an interview was that I saw a picture of her in a book and she looked attractive, so I wanted to meet her."

Even that turned to sour grapes. Fallaci, he told his friends, "is a dumpy little girl, totally unattractive."

Reached by our associate Dale Van Atta by phone in Milan, Fallaci was surprised to learn how she had been granted the famous interview. "It's unbelievable," she said. "Were our lives in the hands of such an individual who accepted to see a journalist because of a photo?" Kissinger had told her, she said, that he agreed because of her interview with North Vietnamese Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap.

As for the ex-secretary's undiplomatic description of her, Fallaci said smoothly: "Forget the painful words Dr. Kissinger uses in a judging my physical appearance. Being judged unattractive by such a tasteless man is a relief. Besides, it is difficult to discuss my stature, which is short, as short as Dr. Kissinger, with the difference that I am very thin and he is very fat."

Informed that Kissinger told his friends it would have been his right if Fallaci "had described me as a combination of Charles de Gaulle and Disraeli," she confessed that "it never occurred to me... out of respect for de Gaulle or Disraeli." They would, she said, "turn in their graves."

Explained Fallaci: "I described Dr. Kissinger as a cowboy because this was the way he described himself... If I were a cow-

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten boy, I would be very offended.

Footnote: At this writing, Kissinger is travelling overseas and cannot be reached for comment.

Hair Diplomacy: Dollar diplomacy is not dead. The Carter administration recently wrote off $10 million the Thai government had agreed to pay for munitions left behind when American forces were withdrawn from Thailand. A State Department official explained that it would have cost more to ship the material back home than to let the Thais have it — and technological advances have made the stuff worthless to our troops anyway. But another source told us the main purpose of the gift was to cement our ties to the Thais.

Washington Whirl: "Broadway Joe" Califano, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, added insult to injury when he delivered a report on home health care to the Senate Committee on Aging seven months late. It was addressed to "The Hon. Frank Church, Chairman, Special Committee on Aging, House of Representatives." Not only is Church a senator, he hasn't been chairman of the Senate committee for four months. A member of the committee, Sen. Peter Domenici, R-N.M., commented that the covering letter was "indicative of the sloppy and inefficient way the whole report was handled."

Mandarins jittery over 'hit-list' rumors

OTTAWA (CP) — Because changes in government are so rare in Canada, this public service town is buzzing with rumors that many top-level mandarins will lose their jobs as soon as prime minister-elect Joe Clark's Progressive Conservatives take over.

Published reports claim the Conservatives have a "hit list" of public servants they're going to fire, that government paper shredders are working overtime getting rid of "incriminating" documents, and that there is a rush to fill top public service jobs before a hiring freeze that was a Conservative campaign pledge takes effect.

"Nobody I know has been through a government change," said one public servant. "We don't know exactly what to expect."

The last change was in 1963 when Lester Pearson's Liberals replaced John Diefenbaker's Conservatives. The Liberals had held power for 16 years when Clark won 136 seats Tuesday, enough to form a minority government.

But Clark and his closest advisers have said they will move into office slowly. Sudden changes or massive firings do not appear to be part of their game plan.

It would be unwise for Clark to fire deputy ministers and heads of government agencies right now, said a political scientist who spent more than two years studying the most powerful public servants in the federal government.

"These are the people on whom the new government must depend more than anyone else for an orderly transition," George Szabowski said in an interview.

At a mountain resort hotel in Jasper, Alta., Clark was learning how to assume office in two weeks as the country's 16th prime minister.

Election mementoes history

By MARJORIE GOODFELLOW

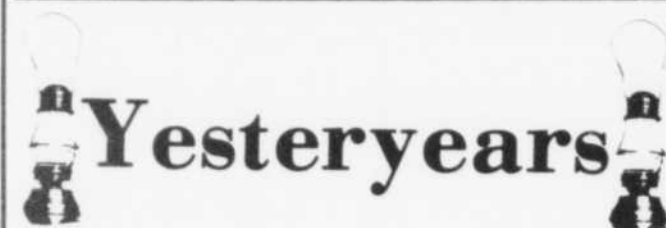

We have just experienced an extraordinary election in this country. How many readers have interesting memories of elections of yesteryear? In earlier times, people were likely to vote for the same party, generation after generation, what caused people to your local historical society. If you are in doubt as to where would be the most appropriate place to deposit them, contact the Heritage Foundation Handbills, posters, buttons, letters from candidates; all of these things would be welcome additions to any historical collection. Most of all, we would like to hear about your recollections of past Townships elections. If you change their vote from the traditional family party to an opposing one and what effect did this have on relationships between members of the family? How do present-day campaigning methods and voting procedures differ from those of years ago? Perhaps some of you have mementoes of historic election campaigns. If you are looking for a home for such items, do not forget do not care to relate your anecdotes in a letter, drop us a line saying that you would be willing to have someone come by with a tape recorder at a mutually convenient time during the summer. The Eastern Townships Heritage Foundation will be happy to arrange this.

When sorting through the debris of this most recent election, remember that what happens today is tomorrow's history. Make sure that examples of campaign literature and handouts get into your local museum so that they will be preserved for the education and pleasure of your grandchildren.

This week's mail brought a letter from Ronald Rudin of Concordia University's history department. Rudin, who is currently working on a biography of Richard William Heneker, would appreciate hearing from any reader who has documentation concerning, or information about, this important figure in the history of the Townships. Write to Dr. R.E. Rudin at Concordia University in Montreal or to Heritage, c/o The Sherbrooke Record 2520 Roy Street, Sherbrooke, Quebec J1K 1C1.

We'll see that the information gets passed on to him. While you have pen in hand, send in your solution to last Friday's puzzle. So far we have received only one reply. Don't delay!

Grit cabinet losers cheerful in defeat

TORONTO (CP) — Thirteen defeated Liberal MPs are pondering their futures this week as they say goodbye to the power and glory of holding a cabinet post in what was the Liberal government of Pierre Trudeau.

And although most remained cheerful when interviewed after their defeats in the election Tuesday, a Toronto psychiatrist says losing still hurts, even though politicians are a special breed.

"What hurts a man is that if he feels he gave his best, and sacrificed his family and his friends and his time, and maybe even sacrificed financially, and then the public says we don't want you... well, that's a helluva blow," Dr. Jerry Cooper said.

Cooper said Wednesday in an interview that a similar scenario for the average person would be catastrophic and that "even though politicians are a special breed, it still hurts them."

He said those who lost as cabinet ministers will surface in other areas because most are well-connected, wealthy or have professions to fall back on.

Tony Abbott, minister of national revenue and small business who lost in Mississauga North, said Wednesday he will miss the stimulation and high-intensity lifestyle of being in politics.

Abbott, 49, said he is considering returning to his law practice.

Hugh Faulkner, 46, minister of Indian affairs and northern development, also is uncertain about his future after losing his Peterborough riding.

"Before I got into politics, I was in business, and before that I was teaching, so I'm used to changes in my life. Change is vital for staying alive."

He said, however, nothing else offers the range and excitement of politics at its best.

REFLECT ON FUTURE

Dan MacDonald, veteran affairs minister, may go back into farming while Otto Lang, transport minister, said he will reflect on his future for at least a few days.

"Life without any doubts is a lot simpler and easier," said Lang, the former dean of law at the University of Saskatchewan before he ran federally.

"And there are some good consolation prizes in losing — more time with family and friends."

Sovereignty effects minor, Morin claims

QUEBEC (CP) — A sovereign Quebec would suffer disruptions to the current patterns of trade between it and the rest of Canada but over-all effects would be "relatively minor," says one of two studies released Thursday.

The studies, the latest in a series of 18 examining Quebec's present and potential constitutional and economic relations with Canada and other countries, were tabled in the national assembly by Inter-governmental Affairs Minister Claude Morin.

The first study offered a number of scenarios regarding tariff barriers between Quebec, Ontario, and the rest of Canada.

In the worst possible situation — an economic blockade of all trade between the regions — employment in Quebec would drop 28 per cent, while Ontario's would drop nearly 15 per cent.

However, the authors say "the figure is less than what we could expect, given the importance of the Canadian market for Quebec."

If there were almost no tariff barriers between an independent Quebec and the rest of Canada, the study says employment would be affected even less.

In all of the scenarios, parts of Canada other than Quebec and Ontario would be affected only slightly.

The second study says that if an independent Quebec and the rest of Canada wanted to create some sort of common market, they should set up an economic union.

Margaret talks about Charles

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Margaret Trudeau, estranged wife of Canada's outgoing prime minister, says Britain's Prince Charles is "terribly attractive," but they've almost never been alone together, "although we have hidden behind a menu for a moment."

In an interview taped in Los Angeles last week by a Sydney television station, Mrs. Trudeau jokingly described herself as the "older woman" in the prince's life and said he wrote her a "lovely letter of support" after she left her husband.

The station released a transcript of the interview today, two days before it is to be broadcast.

$110 million for fisheries

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec will spend $110 million within the next five years on the province's fishing industry, Rodrigue Tremblay, minister of industry and commerce, announced Thursday.

"From now on Quebec will fully assume all jurisdiction over its maritime fisheries, reaffirm its leadership and ensure constant progress in maritime fisheries," Tremblay said at a news conference.

Schreyer calls for tolerance

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gov.-Gen. Edward Schreyer said Thursday that the future of Canada is at stake.

"No one expects every Canadian to be able to speak French and English," the former Manitoba premier told 450 arts, music and commerce graduates at the University of Manitoba's 100th spring convocation.

"More important is the desire to want to try. Without this, there is little possibility of maintaining national institutions that are acceptable to both groups."

Soviet nuclear accident described

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. government scientists said Thursday they are convinced a serious nuclear accident occurred two decades ago at a Soviet nuclear waste disposal plant, causing a wide area to be heavily contaminated with radiation.

There have been reports for years, based on claims by two exiled Soviet scientists and U.S. Central Intelligence Agency documents, that the accident probably took place in the Ural Mountains in early 1958 and claimed the lives of hundreds of people.

Former McGill music dean dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Marvin Duchow, professor and former dean of music at McGill University, died Thursday. He was 64.

Born in Montreal, he was educated at McGill, the Curtis Institute of Music, and the University of Rochester. A popular teacher both at McGill and the Conservatoire de Musique, he headed the music faculty from 1957-63.

He is survived by his wife and two sons.

Quebec likened to Swiss canton

ALMA, Que. (CP) — Roland Beguelin, speaker in the Jura parliament in Switzerland, likened his canton Thursday to Quebec in the common struggle for independence.

Beguelin, speaking to members of the Quebec Club, said the similarities were apparent. One need only replace the word "Jura" with "Quebec," adjusting a few proposals and a few figures, and the evidence is there.

Firestone 500 tires called defective

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Millions of users of Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. tires are risking their lives because the tires are defective, the head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said Thursday.

The tires are in the process of being recalled, but Joan Claybrook alleged that Firestone still has not notified most users of its "500" steel-belted radial tires that the tires should be replaced.

Wintario numbers chosen

HAWKESBURY, Ont. (CP) — Five numbers worth $100,000 each were chosen Thursday in the Wintario lottery.

The winning numbers were 67178 in series 7; 86849 in series 30; 66088 in series 11; 72584 in series 11 and 76274 in series 14.

The Win'fall number was 58.

Publisher denied bail

WINNIPEG (CP) — Richard C. Malone, on leave of absence as publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press, on Thursday was denied bail on charges of obstructing justice.

Provincial court Judge Michael Baryluk denied bail after Crown counsel Doug Abra opposed the application by Malone's lawyer, Frank Allen.

Parrot calls for Royal Commission

OTTAWA (CP) — Postal union leader Jean-Claude Parrot said Thursday the new Progressive Conservative government should appoint a royal commission into labor strife in the post office.

The national president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers noted in a press release that Conservative Leader Joe Clark during the election campaign said he wanted to attack conditions leading to problems rather than provoke dramatic confrontations.

Egypt takes over Sinai city

EL ARISH, Occupied Sinai (AP) — The Egyptian flag went up and Israel's Star of David banner came down today in this Sinai town in a brief military ceremony amid scenes of joyous confusion, marking the first transfer of territory under the U.S. sponsored Middle East peace treaty.

The ceremony coincides with the opening of talks between the two countries in Beersheba, the Israeli Negev Desert capital 95 kilometres to the northeast, on self-rule for Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

Israel returned the dusty desert town after about 200 Jewish settlers gave up their fight to retain a 10-acre patch of farmland on the outskirts of El Arish.

They agreed to give up the fight after Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Yadin brought the settlers a promise that Prime Minister Menachem Begin would discuss their plight with Sadat when the two leaders meet Sunday.

After the signing of the peace treaty last March in Washington, Sadat promised that the Israeli-Egyptian border at El Arish would be opened to Israelis immediately after Egypt regains control of the town.

Such a move would allow the Israeli farmers to tend their vegetable crop.

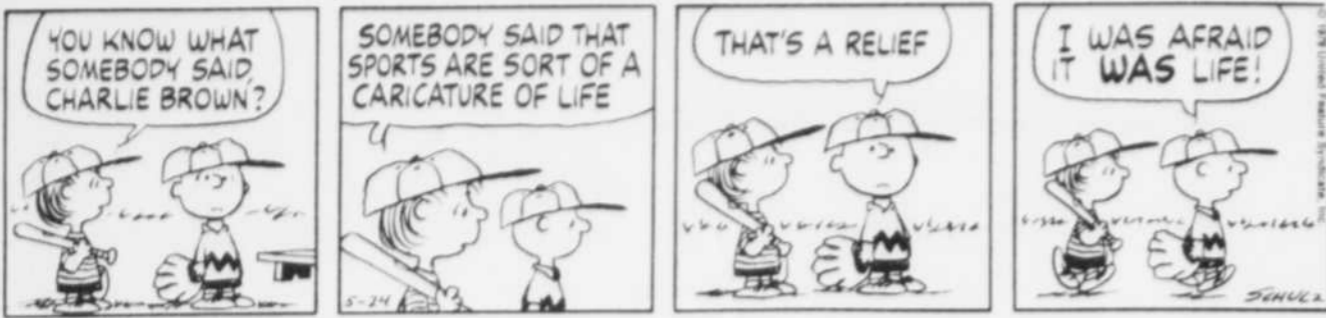

But Egyptian negotiators told the Israelis in talks last week that the border would not be opened for eight months, the period called for in the treaty.

ASTRO-GRAPH
Bernice Bede Osol

May 26, 1979

A change in your social life is about to take place this coming year when several new persons enter your life. However, make certain you don't forsake old and loyal allies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might experience some uncomfortable moments today because you are a bit too touchy. Focus your attention on being nice to others and forget yourself. Find out more of what lies ahead for you for the year following your birthday by sending for your new Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each and a self-addressed envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is not a get something for nothing kind of day. The only way you will get what you want is to expend the necessary effort.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Although you might think it is kinder to disguise the truth from a pal, it will not work out to either yours or your friend's benefit. Tell the truth.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lack of faith in yourself will be your biggest enemy today. If you allow self-doubts to influence you, you will lose out on a marvelous opportunity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take care not to be influenced by what others think today. Should you feel changes in your plans are in order, follow through on your reasoning.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's nice to be a "good guy" and help out your fellow man, but don't pull another's chestnuts out of the fire at your own expense.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Stumbling blocks might be thrown in your path today by one who is jealous of your accomplishments. If you can share a little of your glory with this person, do so.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Co-workers might need a few pats on the back in order to get done what needs to be accomplished. A little encouragement will go a long way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Stop and think before you react to gossip or hearsay information. You'll realize its worth if you take the time to study what was said.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Expecting more from others than they are able to give will disappoint you today. Be realistic. You'll accomplish a great deal in unison with them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful what you say and how you say it today. Retracting your words and trying to explain your intent will be a lot harder than you think.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something of value could be lost if you don't get your head out of clouds today. It would be a shame to suffer this loss from carelessness.

Sunday, May 27

May 27, 1979

With the development of many new interests, this coming year will be an extremely active one for you. However, don't forget to complete projects before taking on new ones, or nothing fruitful will be gained.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make plans to indulge in a lot of different kinds of activities today. You'll be restless and could get bored easily if you don't have variety. Learn more about yourself by sending for your new Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each and a self-addressed envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your recall is excellent today and can be used as a very effective tool in getting your points across without offending anyone.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are much in demand today and might find yourself jumping from one gathering to another. Better keep your roller skates handy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you are flexible and prepared to change tactics at a moment's notice, something that's personally important can be achieved today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unending good ideas will pour out of you today so easily that you may forget half of them unless you write them down. Concentrate in areas needing fresh thoughts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Two rewarding situations could arise today from your involvements with others. You should have time to take advantage of both.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll have no trouble finding several solutions to any issue you face today, but you might have a problem deciding which one to use. Don't hesitate so long that it's too late to do anything.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A fine day to tackle projects that have been waiting patiently for you. You do things so efficiently, chances are you'll complete a couple of major ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Divide your time equally between two close friends who are each bidding for your attention today. This way, no one's feelings will get hurt.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things will be buzzing around your house today. Get organized early so you'll be able to keep pace with all the activity.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Getting together with friends of long standing and catching up on a lot of small talk will make this a very pleasant day for you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a good day to re-evaluate your assets and perhaps even put the budget in order. Your organizational abilities are excellent.

- *Preserves wood tens of years longer than untreated wood (spruce, pine, cedar, etc.)
- *Odorless, non-poisonous, doesn't need painting nor staining. But will accept both finishes.
- *Resists rotting, fungus, and parasites.
- *Ideal for patios, wharves, fences, balconies, industrial and agricultural buildings.
- *Available in 2" x 4", 2" x 6", 4" x 4".

THE LUMBER "OUTDOOR WOOD" A MAJOR INNOVATION IN CONSTRUCTION AND RENOVATION.

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT

The election may be over but political games go on. And you can be sure that JEAN-GUY MOREAU's satiric reaction to the election results will find its way into his show this SATURDAY at Cinema Festival. Don't miss this opportunity to share in the caustic humour of the referendum debate. YESTERDAY, AUJOURD'HUI, TOUT-MOREAU still has good tickets available at $5.00. Showtime at the Cinema Festival is 8:30 p.m.

After a five-year absence, FERNAND GIGNAC returns to the stage Saturday night to serenade you with his songs of love. Two shows (8 & 10:30) will take place at Magog's Theatre le Vieux Clocher. Tickets are $7.00.

For $5.00, you can partake of a "SOIREE QUEBECOISE", featuring popular and classical music, at Salle Maurice O'Breedy, Monday, the 28th.

BROUE, tavern comedy for male and female, continues at the Theatre de l'Atelier. Tuesdays through Saturdays until June 16th.

FILMS

Cinema Festival will be closing its doors for the summer after the Festival des Cantons. Local management is reluctantly making this move following orders from the Montreal office. But some consolation can be derived from finishing the season with a bang.

An excellent collection of Quebec films by some of our most talented and best known filmmakers has been scheduled for screening beginning on Sunday. There are two films each night, one at 7:00 p.m., the second at 9:30 p.m. Here's the rundown: On Sunday, May 27th, UNE AMIE D'ENFANCE, about two old friends who no longer have much in common, is based on the comic play of the same name which just finished a successful run at the Theatre de l'Atelier; GINA, directed by Denys Arcand (music by Michel Pagliaro) is a brutal humanistic film which denounces the violent mores of our society. Monday, the 28th: PARLEZ-NOUS D'AMOUR, a Jean-Claude Lord film with Michel Tremblay collaborating on the screenplay, reveals the sordid life of an idolized Quebec TV personality. Jacques Boulanger plays himself in the role of Jeannot. Monique Mercure (whom many of you saw in Festival Lennoxville's 1977 production of Michel Tremblay's FOREVER YOURS, MARIE-LOU) plays his disillusioned wife. LE SOLEIL SE LEVE EN RETARD brings to the screen the powerful theatrical teamwork of playwright Michel Tremblay and director Andre Brassard. This moving yet humorous love story stars Yvon Deschamps, Rita Lafontaine and Denise Filiatrault. Music is by Beau Dommage.

Tuesday, May 29th: Gilles Carle's LA VRAIE NATURE DE BERNADETTE, a superb portrait of a woman who has decided to live according to her own principles and the surprising twist her life takes; PANIQUE, another Jean-Claude Lord picture, considered his best by some, should be of particular interest to all who are concerned about the threat of water pollution. Labeled "ecological-fiction", PANIQUE is a thriller that may open a few eyes. Wednesday, May 30th: two Gilles Carle works: LES MALES, his funniest film and the most successful on the European market; and LA TETE DE NORMANDE STONGE, with its penetrating exploration of complex relationships between six very unconventional characters living under the same roof. Carole Laure guides us through the dark corridors where division between dreams and reality cease to exist. Lewis Furey creates the musical decor. Thursday, May 31st: BAR SALON by Andre Forcier and JE SUIS LOIN DE TOIT MIGNONNE, a Claude Fournier comedy with the dynamite combination of Dominique Michel and Denise Filiatrault. Saturday, June 2nd: relive (or experience for the first time) the Montreal Olympics in Jean-Claude Labrecque's NFB production, JEUX DE LA XXIIe OLYMPIADE; Claude Fournier's DEUX FEMMES EN OR, the most popular of all Quebec films. It features some of our biggest film and T.V. stars with Monique Mercure and Louise Turcot in the title role of two suburban housewives, Donald Pilon, Marcel Sabourin and Yvon Deschamps as some of the men in their lives. Robert Charlebois wrote the music.

Sunday, June 3rd: "JE CHANTE A CHEVAL" AVEC WILLIE LAMOTHE introduces us to Quebec's singing cowboy, Willie Lamothe; the final offering of the series, TIENS TOI BIEN APRES LES OREILLES A PAPA is a comedy by Jean Bissonnette, full of laughs and surprises, bringing together two great comedians, Yvon Deschamps and Dominique Michel. The action takes place in the (still) Montreal head office of an insurance company. Deschamps plays a servile, devoted office clerk whom Dominique, an argumentative secretary, is attempting to win over to the nationalist cause. Dave Broadfoot co-stars.

Children have not been forgotten in this celebration of Quebecois films. With the exception of LA BALLADE DES DALTONS, a French film starring the cartoon character Lucky Luke, all are Quebec productions. Lucky Luke can be seen Sunday, May 27th at 2. At 4, LA CABANE introduces us to seven chums who, unable to find homes for some kittens, discover a shack in the woods which they make their own. On Sunday, the 3rd of June, Cinema Festival offers free admission for the two afternoon sessions. At 2, ZAZI ET ZAZOU, an animated film, and LE NOUVEAU ROI; at 4, LES VRAIS GAGNANTS, the gangs of children whose imaginations are their guiding light, is really a combination of three films by Andre Melancon.

Try to see some of these movies. They provide a penetrating glimpse of life from a French-Canadian perspective. The more we get to know our compatriots the better.

At the Cinema du Carrefour, NORMA RAE starts today. It sounds like a hell of a good picture by most accounts. Derby-port Drive-In has the following line-up: Tomorrow, BLUE HAWAII with Elvis; Sunday, FUN WITH DICK & JANE, a comic caper with George Segal and Jane Fonda written by our own Mordecai Richler; Monday through Thursday, Gabe Kaplan as a fun-loving basketball coach is FASTBREAK; June 1 and 2, Jerry Reed and Peter Fonda will be HIGH-BALLIN'.

TELEVISION

The CBS SATURDAY NIGHT MOVIE will show THE LORDS OF FLATBUSH, the classic punk film which introduced us to Henry 'the Fonz' Winkler and Sylvester Stallone.

The WCAX series ACROSS THE FENCE, telecast weekdays from 1:10 to 1:30, should be of interest to gardeners. On Tuesday, the topic is "Early Care of Small Fruits and Tree Fruits". Next Friday, "Transplanting in the Garden".

The excellent informative series, THE BODY IN QUESTION comes to an end Monday night at 11:45, appropriately enough by confronting the inevitability of death. Let us hope that the next time CBC makes this series available to us, it will be given a better time slot.

And finally, on Tuesday at 8 p.m., CBC brings us a new 1/2 hour British comedy series, THE UPGRADE LINE. John Alderton (chauffeur in UPSTAIRS, DOWNSTAIRS) plays a struggling writer. Hopefully another winner. Amusez-vous au Festival des Cantons!

Tout-Moreau tomorrow

By NELLY YOUNG
Imagine Rene Levesque as Moses, leading his people to the Promised Land. Trudeau the Pharaoh, representing the old, established ways; and Claude Ryan, emerging on the scene as the new Messiah. The context? A group therapy session in a hospital where all the disease-ridden baggage of these three major actors in the Quebec drama gets picked apart. A contagious epidemic is spreading the referendum bug and other players are falling prey: Syndicalists, Marxist-Leninists, nationalists, fascists, federalists, each has his own mania to explore. This is the scenario in which Jean-Guy Moreau acts out the third dose in a trilogy inspired by the political pages of Canadian newspapers.

Moreau thinks of himself as a caricaturist rather than a mimic. In an interview Tuesday, Moreau spoke of his days at Montreal's Ecole des Beaux Arts as having had an influence on his chosen field. His training in ceramics and pottery taught him respect for three-dimensional, tangible figures. So he molds his characters with voice and body, leaving illustrations on paper to such talents as Terry Mosher (Aislin).

But even earlier, Jean-Guy discovered the thrill of making people laugh by caricaturing those around him. First to fall victim to his scathing wit was one of his teachers. Having found a public, he has never turned back. Still in his teens he began to play the "boites a chansons" with friends like Gilles Vigneault, Pierre Letourneau, Pauline Julien, Pierre Calve, Claude Gauthier et al. They prodded each other on ("J'y vais, si tu y vas"). Seven years of Saturday nights at the "salles de folklore". And then Expo '67 hit Montreal.

Moreau teamed up with Robert Charlebois to do a revue at Clemence Desrochers's boite a chansons. TERRE DES BUMBES did extremely well during the Expo season. But the decline that set in after left few untouched. Within a couple of months, Yvon Deschamps, who owned the boite, was forced to declare bankruptcy (thanks to which a great comedian came out of the closet).

Moreau, meanwhile, began a six-year period of "apprentissage": artisanat, cameo roles in films, commercials, voices for cartoon figures, theatre - he even worked at Montreal radio station CKLM for six months.

Finally, in 1973, he made the decision to go solo and do a show based on one theme. The revue, "Spectacle du Plateau Tournant", written for Moreau by Jacqueline Barrette, was the story of Quebec nationalism. When the Parti Quebecois triumphed in 1976, it seemed inevitable to focus a second show on the surprising success. "Rene, Mon Cher Ami" was co-written by Moreau, Jacqueline Barrette and Mark Bradley. With the eyes of Canada directed at Quebec, Moreau's uncanny portrayal of our chain-smoking premier attracted the attention of the English media. This eventually resulted in a co-operative venture, "The Canada Show" with Don Harron (Charlie Farquason), Yvon Deschamps and Moreau tossing around the unity question nation-wide on CBC-TV. This and The Peter Gzowski Shows did alot to bring Quebec entertainers into English-Canadian living rooms, toning down the stereotype image of French-Canadians as bomb-totting proliferators of civil war.

But it could not have happened without the Parti Quebecois advent to power. For a long time, many Quebec artists expressed themselves through opposition and denunciation. In recent years they threw their energy and support behind the Parti Quebecois. But once the PQ government became a reality, many of Quebec's cultural voices were stifled within the province; and, correspondingly, there has been a discernible move to familiarize the rest of Canada with Quebec's cultural and political progression.

Moreau was shocked by the Anglo prejudices he kept bumping into in Toronto but plans another foray there this fall. The occasion will be a one-month show of his own called "Referendum". He envisages a variety of characters talking to Rene Levesque and intends to use this forum to reveal to English-Canadians all their cliché misconceptions about "the frogs".

The interview is laced with Moreau's anecdotes and droll observations. So it is not surprising when he slips into the character of an RCMP officer swearing in a young French-Canadian recruit. The deed done, he switches immediately from a heavily-accented broken French into English with the warning that the private must henceforth refrain from using his native language "You're in the RCMP now". A potential sketch for the upcoming show. Breaking down stereotypes can be fun and Moreau relishes the idea of outfitting a back-up band in RCMP uniforms. That should take the stiffness out of their collars.

It's an indication of the instinctive way Moreau works. Like a stage director, he sees things visually, putting together a puzzle of colours and images. Once the main theme has been chosen, a script is quickly written up. Three weeks of preparation follow. Every character must speak according to his true nature. The best impersonations, Moreau says, are achieved when you grasp something from within ("il faut cerner quelque chose dedans"). After three weeks in front of the mirror, never hearing a spontaneous laugh, doubt sets in - until the show begins. Moreau uses audience laughter as an indicator of when he's gone too far or not far enough. And, of course, he'll go back to the sketchboard on the least pretext. This week's election results will undoubtedly affect Pharaoh Trudeau's behaviour on stage Saturday night. YESTERDAY, AUJOURD'HUI, TOUT-MOREAU is all Moreau. This is the first show he has written entirely on his own and he seems to feel more comfortable with it.

After "Referendum" in Toronto, Moreau will lay down his parochial costumes and begin to build on images familiar to all. For example, instead of doing Robert Lemieux (the defense lawyer for FLQ accused), he'll simply play a lawyer. The same image, the same wardrobe will do for New York, Paris or London. Instead of two and a half hours alone on stage, he'll use singers-dancers-actors to people his productions. A musical comedy for export. Perhaps the focal point will be "money" - a topic that's universal. Moreau expressed great admiration for the universality of Lily Tomlin's characters which have become imprinted in the American consciousness and abroad.

After 35 years of a career that began early in life, Jean-Guy Moreau is ready to expand his horizons. "Je recommence, le metier chaque annee." But he will continue to "faire passer mes idees", by demystifying the pompous, taking comic swipes at the serious and making people laugh.

Tomorrow... TOUT-MOREAU. Expect a witty pace.

Save 15-40% with VIA's Group Fares.

- 10 to 29 people Save 25% per person
- 30 to 45 people Save 33 1/3% per person
- 46 people or more Save 40% per person

Get Together And Save. Group Fares from VIA can help make your travel dollars go further, and they're good all year 'round. To make up a group, you need a minimum of three adults travelling together. (Two children travelling half-price count as one adult.) The more people you have, the more money you save, everybody gets a discount. Minimum discounted fare is $4.

Lots of ways to save. Under our VIA Fare For All Plan, Group Fares are just one way to save. Check out our Round Trip Excursion, Children's, 65 Plus Fares, and CANRAILPASS. As with any discount fare plan, some restrictions do apply. To find out which incentive fare works best for you, discuss your travel needs with your Travel Agent or VIA Rail Canada.

Be good to yourself, take the train.

BARGAIN FARES? OF COURSE.

But did you know KLM's CCF also gives you year 'round flexibility?

With KLM's CHARTER CLASS FARES to Amsterdam, Europe's gateway, no one can give you a lower return fare. Or such convenience.

Our 7 to 180 day return fares are calculated on a combination of two, one-way fares. Add these portions together and you'll see that not only do you get a savings margin compared to other existing fares, but you'll also get a far greater choice of departure and return dates. To give you even greater flexibility when planning your holiday.

Here's how it works. With KLM, in co-operation with CP Air, you can choose from 5 to 7 departures a week, depending on the season. With our new east-bound / westbound fares (for return combinations, see chart) you simply choose the day you want to leave and plan your return within 7 to 180 days from your departure. You get the flexibility you want, at a saving.

There are other benefits too. Your children under 2 fly free, under 12 for 20% off the CCF or 50% off the excursion fare, whichever is less. And, you can take advantage of KLM's economical vacation packages, such as our 4 Country Summer Surprise at $66* U.S., the Drive-Inn Europe at $254* U.S. for one week and car rentals from $117 a week with unlimited mileage. With these packages out of Amsterdam, all Europe is yours. Economically!

KLM's new 1979 Charter Class Fares. Whether you're visiting Holland, or using Amsterdam as your gateway to Europe, there really isn't a cheaper or more convenient alternative. Ask your Travel Agent.

CCF Fares only available for return trips. $50 non-refundable deposit at time of booking. Balance due 30 days before departure. Cancellation fee of $100.00 if cancellation is within 30 days before departure. Low cost cancellation insurance is recommended. Fares do not include $8 Canadian transportation tax, and are subject to change. *per person, for 2 persons travelling together.
