Pains in Back, Limbs and Side Yield to 'Nerviline'

If you have failed to receive relief from other remedies, rub on lots of good old 'Nerviline,' the strongest, most penetrating pain relief on the market. Nerviline acts quickly on small pains and is the surest to drive out the big ones. It's because every drop of Nerviline rubs in and because it has the ability to sink in deeply that it drives away pain that ordinary oil liniments won't touch. Large 35c bottles at all dealers.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot grip, try it today.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain Mulisified coconut oil shampoo, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulisified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulisified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure you get Mulisified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

Not A Blemish marks the perfect appearance of her complexion. Permanent and temporary skin troubles are effectively concealed. Reduces unnatural color and corrects gray sides. Highly antiseptic. Send 15c. for Trial Size.

CHINESE HYMNS AT THE PLYMOUTH SUNDAY SCHOOL

Mrs. J. E. Mitchell, of Hongkong, China, and little daughter, Margaret, both in Chinese dress, and Master Harold Mitchell visited the Plymouth Church Sunday School yesterday afternoon and gave a demonstration of Chinese kindergarten songs and hymns. The Lord's Prayer was also repeated in Chinese. Mrs. Mitchell gave some explanatory remarks in connection with Chinese life, and also translated the hymns and songs that were sung.

This demonstration by Mrs. Mitchell and her two children was much enjoyed and appreciated by all who were fortunate enough to be in attendance at yesterday's session of the Sunday School.

ROTARY ITEMS OF INTEREST

The Rev. E. C. Russell, of Stanstead, will be the speaker at tomorrow's Rotary Club meeting, and will touch upon the subject of boy's work. In this connection Rotarian Haight advises that his committee is still anxious to hear from Rotarians who are in a position to dispose of articles of clothing which they no longer need. This applies particularly to Rotarians with families who might have some pieces of children's clothing which could be used to good advantage and incidentally help to send a number of children to school.

Plans are being made for a trip to Shawbridge on Saturday and it is expected that about a dozen will make the trip. The Sherbrooke contingent will leave about 9 a.m. and join the Montreal Rotarians in the Metropolis and go up on a special train.

DR. F. F. ALLEN OF CHINA AT METHODIST GATHERING

The Methodists of Quebec and Stanstead Districts will hold a Missionary Conference in Wesley Hall next Thursday morning and afternoon, which will be presided over by the Rev. B. B. Brown and the Rev. A. T. Jones as chairmen. Four delegates besides the minister from each of some thirty circuits are expected to attend.

At noon the Women's Auxiliary will give a dinner, after which afternoon speeches will be given by the new ministers on the Districts who were stationed at the last Conference. Among these is the Rev. W. H. Stevens, of Quebec City, an old Sherbrooke boy.

The principal speaker at the afternoon gathering will be Dr. F. F. Allan, a returned medical missionary from China. He has been in medical service at the Methodist Missions at Jenschow, Chung King and Chengtu. He is a very successful doctor and he has been granted a Fellowship in New York, where he expects to take post-graduate work. He will have an exhibit of curios from China.

Dr. Graham, of Montreal; Rev. I. Nelson, of Coaticook; Rev. A. T. Jones, of Magog; Rev. W. H. Stevens, of Quebec, and Mr. P. C. DuBois, of Richmond, will also speak at the afternoon session. The general public of Sherbrooke and Lennoxville are invited to hear Dr. Allan's address.

FORD TOURING CAR RAN AMUCK

Frontenac street seems to have a strange effect on certain of the Ford cars which are parked by their owners along the side of the road. A short time ago a Ford sedan which had been left by its owner at the curb was suddenly seized with the wanderlust and rolled down the street, coming to a halt on the inside of the window of W. W. Shaw's tailor shop.

On Saturday afternoon a similar event took place, when at about five o'clock a Ford touring car parked on the south side of Frontenac street opposite the plant of the Julius Kayser Company, commenced to roll uncontrolled down the street. It travelled as far as the Sun Life building, gathering speed as it went, where it struck the curb. Instead of stopping, however, the unrestrained auto swerved back into the middle of the road and continued on down across the wide corner at the foot of the street, heading straight for the shop occupied by Mrs. Hurn.

MERCURY LOOK UPWARD SHOOT ON SATURDAY

On Friday Morning, Thermometer Registered Thirty-Two Degrees — Yesterday, Mercury Reached Eighty-Eight.

Like the sudden blast from the open door of a furnace, a heat wave struck this section of the country on Saturday and instead of shivering in the freezing weather of Thursday and Friday, people are now sweating in the unexpected and exceptional heat. Yesterday was the one of the hottest in the year, the thermometer recording 88 degrees shortly after noon.

During the cold weather of last week, local residents came to the conclusion that they were safely out of danger from the heat. The nights grew cold and there was even a flavor of winter in the air. Between Thursday night and Friday morning the mercury took a downward shoot and reached freezing point—32 degrees, but luckily, the crops escaped damage. This, to many, was a final proof that autumn was really here, but they did not calculate on the irregularities of the weather.

During last week, western cities were sizzling from the effects of mid-summer weather in September and judging by results, this western heat wave decided to sweep across the continent and give to all a return taste of June and July. The forerunner of the approaching wave reached here on Friday, for during that night the mercury only sank to 55 degrees, 23 degrees higher than the previous night. Then, on Saturday, the heat commenced to make its presence felt in earnest, and before the sun had disappeared and the cool of the evening was felt, the thermometer had recorded 82 degrees.

On Saturday night the heat decreased to 85 degrees, but with the coming of the morning, the mercury again shot upwards and touched as high as 88 degrees.

Owing to the sudden change in temperature and the seemingly excessive humidity in the air, the heat of the past two days has been exceedingly noticeable and many are hoping for quick relief. At ten o'clock this morning, however, the Experimental Farm reported that the thermometer recorded 75 degrees and that the mercury was still rising steadily.

where it again struck the curb. A lady who was walking up the hill stepped off the sidewalk into the street to avoid the oncoming car, which, she evidently thought, would continue over the curb to the detriment of another shop window. The Ford seemed bent on some other course, however, and instead of running up over the curb, it swerved again and continued on down the hill on the left-hand side, driving the lady before it. The race between the lady and the car was a very close one, but the lady managed to find shelter in Spearling's store after a quick sprint down the hill. The car continued on down the hill and came to a stop at the foot, breaking awindow in the city offices.

NO BYE-ELECTION NECESSARY

Election day scheduled for September 14th, promises to be the quietest on record, and there is not even likely to be a meeting held. Dr. Forest has had no opposition and interest in the election is quite negligible. The few items that remained to be settled were disposed of at the nomination meeting held last Wednesday.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

A special meeting of the City Council will be held this evening to consider complaints arising out of the valuation roll for 1923. There are not as many complaints as was the case last winter, due to the fact that increases in valuation have been conspicuous by their absence. Practically the entire increase of $500,000 in the valuation roll has been due to new construction.

NEW ENGLAND AGENTS ON EXCURSION

The Boston and Maine train, which arrived in Sherbrooke about two and a half hours late this morning, carried two extra pullman cars in which were travelling fifty-four members of the New England Passenger Agents' Association, who are on their annual excursion from Boston to Quebec.

PRESENTATION TO MR. RALPH SMITH

A number of the young people from St. Andrew's Church gathered at St. Andrew's Manse on Friday evening to tender a farewell to Mr. Ralph Smith, who for the past few years has been the popular physical director of the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Ralph Smith has accepted a position with the Y.M.C.A. at Stratford, Ont., and left Saturday morning to begin his duties in Stratford.

Miss M. Miltimore, on behalf of the St. Andrew's Young People's Society presented Mr. Ralph Smith with a pair of gold cuff links, and called on Rev. Alfred Bright to voice the high regard in which Mr. Smith is held by the young people of Sherbrooke. Mr. Bright spoke of the splendid work done by Mr. Smith among the Tuxis Boys in St. Andrew's and among the young people of the congregation. Mention was made of the peculiar fitness which Mr. Smith possessed for his work at the Y.M.C.A. and the large place he had in the affections of all the boys and young men connected with the association. Mr. Smith replied in a few well-chosen words of the great kindness always shown to him in Sherbrooke, and his reluctance to leave the city and his many friends. The gathering dispersed after singing "Auld Lang Syne." On Wednesday evening the Tuxis

LOW PRICE ON WELSH SEMI-ANTHRACITE

Montreal Importer Can Obtain Substitute for $12.75 a Ton.

It is announced that the first of the Welsh coal purchased by the city has arrived, and it is presumed that the total amount of twenty-five hundred tons will be forthcoming very shortly. In the meantime the controversy as to whether the price is not too high in Sherbrooke goes merrily on.

The following is an extract from a letter from one of the Welsh coal importers of Montreal, addressed to the Municipal Publishing Company, which has been interesting itself in securing Welsh coal for the municipalities.

The importer writes as follows: "We understand from you that the municipalities, both in Ontario and Quebec, are badly in need of coal, and we would like to advise you that we are in a position to assist you to the extent of 25,000 tons. We have a cargo of Welsh coal due here about the 15th of October of approximately 6,000 tons, and we can order immediately any extra cargoes that might be needed. "We would like to have it distinctly understood that this coal is Welsh semi-anthracite, commonly known as Welsh dry. We do not wish anyone to think that we have anthracite coal to sell, but we have got up to 25,000 tons available of semi-anthracite. This coal is an exceptionally good substitute for anthracite, and can be used for household purposes or furnace use.

"The coal is shipped from Cardiff in what is known as mine run sizes, i.e., anything from very large lumps down to dust. "We would like you to understand that there is no superior coal in the world to the genuine Welsh anthracite, and we might state that we expect to have a generous supply of the high-grade anthracite just as soon as navigation opens in the spring, but in the meantime we have this first-class substitute, known as Welsh dry or semi-anthracite, and you can advise your clients, if you wish, that if they are in need of coal we are prepared to take care of them.

"We are not inclined to use much newspaper propaganda, but prefer to get down to bare facts, tell you what we have to sell, and quote you a price to cover your requirements. If you act quickly you can have this Welsh dry coal loaded on cars at Montreal wharf for $12.75 (twelve seventy-five) per net ton of 2,000 lbs., in quantities from 500 to 3,000 tons."

MARRIAGES

WEBB-CARTER.

St. Peter's Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, September 6th, when Helen Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Carter, Marquette street, was united in marriage to Mr. William Stanley Webb, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William Webb, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Bigg.

The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, and was becomingly gowned in white satin, with over dress of white georgette and tulle veil with orange blossoms, carrying a bouquet of white sweet peas and small white asters.

The bride was attended by Miss Dorothy Webb, sister of the groom, and Miss Verlie Parfement, both were gowned in white organdy, with large white hats to match, carrying bouquets of pink sweet peas. Little Miss Aldine Parfement acted as flower girl and was dressed in white organdy, with hat to match. She carried a dainty basket of pink sweet peas and white asters.

The groom was supported by Mr. John Fitzsimmons. After the ceremony luncheon was served to about eighty guests at the home of the bride's parents.

The young couple received many beautiful and useful gifts, among them being a carving set from the Sherbrooke football team, of which the groom is manager, and a cheque from the staff of the Royal Bank. The bride's going-away suit was of navy blue, with hat to match, and a small fur neck piece. Mr. and Mrs. Webb left on their honeymoon for Montreal.

TO IMPROVE B & M. SERVICE.

The railway strike in the United States has been pretty severely felt by the Boston and Maine Railroad as far as the division of their line which terminates here is concerned. Although the company itself is only slightly affected by the strike, it suffers through the fact that its connections in Springfield with the New York, New Haven and Hartford trains are very irregular. This makes the train which is due in Sherbrooke at 6.35 standard time, very uncertain in its time of arrival.

During the past few weeks the company has been running the train in two sections from Newport, when the train from Springfield has been very late. The first section brings the coaches and pullmans from Boston, while the second section brings on the Springfield coaches. This arrangement makes the service more satisfactory to local people who have camps along the line, and who come in to the city every morning. A number of Boston and Maine officials who were in Sherbrooke during fair week, stated that efforts would be made to improve the service greatly during the next year. Better coaches, they state, will be in use, and the trains will be in every respect more satisfactory than has been the case in the past.

WARCUP—LEFEBVRE

LEEDS VILLAGE, Sept. 11. — St. James' Episcopal Church, Leeds Village, Que., was the scene of a very pretty and impressive double wedding which took place at noon on Saturday, September 2nd, when the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lefebvre were united in marriage, Anne Beatrice to J. Elmer Warcup, of Leeds, Que., and Jean Esther to Samuel W. Craig, of Glasgow, Scotland. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. J. Rothera.

Archibald Lefebvre. They were becomingly attired in brown suits, with hats to match, and wore corsage bouquets of sun-sets roses and sweet peas. They were unattended.

AUTUMNAL BROWNS

Borrowing Every Tint and Shade of the Mellow Season from the Pelucid Amber of the Harvest Moon to the Deep, Rich Browns of Furry Sables and Beavers.

SENTIMENTAL Paris dyes the mode in harvest hues of brown, and each of the grand couturiers features the tint of his temperament. Renee begins with the topaz of September goldenrod; Poiret deepens the range to the copper browns of turning maples; Patou blends the rosetinged browns of autumn sunsets; Brandt claims the tobacco brown of seared oak leaves. And Bonwit Teller & Co.'s autumn palette reveals them all—a spectrum of browns—in every detail of the autumnal costume.

A MODE of dignity and sophistication is the gown of brown for tailleur, afternoon, dinner or evening wear. In cloth it is a coatdress with all-over embroidered Russian blouse. In sheer fabrics it is draped in Egyptian or Persian fashion, or ripples into a circular skirt with circular "bib" berthas. Long sleeves, jeweled embroidery, twisted girdles, uneven drapes—these are fashion notes in the mode of brown.

Young People's Corner

UNCLE JIM'S LETTER

Dear Corner Children—
A nice bundle of letters came to Uncle Jim, who at present is in the country, but they were a little late, and some will have to wait until next meeting. The members' pledges are still coming in and the club is growing. It will soon be strong enough to do some good for the birds. I think some of the boys and girls will decide that there are too many cats, especially the ones that kill birds.

Lois has quite a grand name for her pet puss, has she not? And I think that many of us know about that feeling of which Ethel speaks regarding the beginning of school. But, do you know, my dear children, that school days are the happiest days in our lives, though when the lessons are difficult and things go a little wrong, it is hard to think so.

NEW MEMBERS.
Susie Beattie, Sweetsburg.
Charlotte Perkins, Sutton.
Ella Burns, Cookshire.
Iris Gale, St. Cyr.
Katherine Bagley, East Angus.
Isabel and Ronald Stevens, Danville.
Uldene and Mac Adam, Barnston.
Annie Bailey, East Angus.
Margaret Ford, Cowansville.
Vivia Aldrich, Huntingville.
Clifford Johnston, Cowansville.
Myrtle and Mabel Nichols, Stanbridge East.
Lois Andrews, Mansonville.
Albia and Armand Morin, Stanbridge Station.
Pauline, Irma, Theima and Harry Armstrong.
Freddie Fillion.
Margaret, John and Karl Bakken.
Ethel, Pansy, Violet, Jean, George and Clifford Fallow, all of Strasburg, Sask.

MEMBERS' PLEDGES.
(1) I pledge myself to do all I can to protect our birds, to learn all I can about them, and to use my influence in keeping my playmates and friends from hurting them.
(2) I will not rob bird nests, or hurt young birds.
(3) I will do my part in making the Club a success.

THE CUSTOM OF GYPSIES.
They had a glorious picnic by the lake. Rowing, bathing, paddling and such games! Firebuilding, with scented fir cones for fuel, and supper shared under the trees. There was one moment never to be forgotten, when Peter let the basket of plates slip into the edge of the water, and Tony, lying full length, fished it out, while Rhoda and Tom, and Peter, and Billy all hung on to his legs for balance. Oh! That was grand! Everything was perfect that afternoon and a sigh was heard when it was nearly time to go home. "One more game before the end. What shall it be?"
"The Custom of the Gypsies," said Clifford. All properly conducted picnics finish with that.
"But what is the Custom of the Gypsies?" asked several voices.
"One Last Rite."
"When a Gypsy encampment moves on, there is one last rite to be performed. As you all know, Gypsies are perpetual rovers, there is no house for them to keep their treasures in, no strong room, no cellar, no safe, no banking company. There is only one place which they think really secure—in the ground. They dig a deep hole on the spot where the camp fire has been, and there they bury the precious hoard, covering it over with earth and ashes and dried leaves."
"How do they themselves know where to find it, when they come that way again?"
"They mark the nearest tree, or pace the distance from a bush or a rock. They are far too clever ever to make a mistake."
"Collecting the Treasures."
"But what treasures have we to put underground?"

Purest of all

UNCLE JIM.

"Treasures untold. Bob, collect all those bank notes for me, will you?" Clifford pointed with a lordly air to what you and I might have called bits of sandwich paper, but Bob jumped to the idea.
"Now, Mildred and Helen, you can have the honor of gathering up the silver ingots for the Gypsy King's treasury."
Chocolate wrappers of tinfoil seem quite regal, when called by such a high-sounding name.
"All the spoils here, brother? The wind on the heath, brother, must blow upon nothing that remains. Now let the small and nimble brothers hollow out the secret chamber."
No need to speak twice. Billy and Peter and Tony had it ready in no time. Solemnly Bob incensed, the treasure in a wad of hide (which had once been a newspaper), fastened with thongs of leather (formerly known as string). The treasure was lowered into the chamber, all the Gypsies looking on in solemn silence. It was duly covered over. All paced the distance east of the lone ash; 20 paces for Clifford, 29 paces for little Lorna. The ground was clear of "treasure."
"The Custom of the Gypsies has been observed. Salute the camp and its secret hoard! . . . Move on, brothers!"

SILENCED.
A man in workman's clothes entered the train and deposited himself beside a well-dressed individual.
"There are plenty of empty seats yet, aren't there?" said the latter, moving along grudgingly.
"Yes, sir," pleasantly replied the newcomer, "but it will be crowded pretty soon, and I thought I'd pick out a gentleman for a seatmate while I had the chance."
"Humph!" grunted the other man, and relapsed into silence.

PRICES STILL TOO HIGH.
"Let's go!" has lost its freshness as a slogan, but our money is still using it.

Correspondence
Dear Uncle Jim—
My sister and I would like to join the B. P. Club. We are very fond of the birds, and in winter we feed them on the doorstep. They must get hungry and cold. We would not hurt them for anything. I am five years old and my sister, Mae, is two-and-a-half years. My mama is writing for us. I do not go to school yet. We have for pets a cat named Jemima and her baby, Nigger; he is as black as coal. We have a collie dog named Bruno. He is our pet and daddy's hired man, for he gets the cows and helps a lot. I think I have written enough for this time, so will close, with love to Uncle Jim and best wishes to the B. P. Club.

LLOYD GEORGE VISITED CANADA MANY YEARS AGO

He Envied Canadians Then Their Great Opportunity, Untrammelled by Old Laws and Prejudices.

By J. LAWLER.

PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE has been so busily engaged in holding together and patching up Europe for the past six or seven years that he has not been able to cross the Atlantic, and a good many people imagine that he never saw this country. But Mr. Lloyd George once had a good look at Western Canada, and learned more in a month's stay than some people learn in a lifetime.

The youngest and most inconspicuous member of a parliamentary party which toured the west twenty-five years ago, he spent a day or two in Winnipeg, and for two weeks visited the little towns on the prairies.

It was noticed at that time that he almost alone in the party broke away from the view that Canada was a very young, raw colony, and should copy English methods as soon as possible.

There had been a heavy snowstorm the day before Mr. Lloyd George's arrival at Winnipeg. He stood in the rotunda of the old Leland Hotel, clad in the tourist's Norfolk jacket and knickerbockers, and watched the jingling sleighs go by filled with country produce, and the busy throng of buyers and sellers in the market square opposite. "In Britain," he remarked, "snow, generally speaking, means expense and misery; here it means economy and comfort. Out on the prairies last week farmers could not get their crops to market because of muddy roads. Now, with the snow, the roads are perfect and business is brisk. Look at that market." That was a thing, he said, he could never have understood without experiencing it.

The young member from Wales launched into what would now be considered a characteristic dissertation upon the folly of flitting visitors telling Canadians how they should conduct their affairs. Canada, instead of being at a disadvantage, as compared with the old land was incomparably better off, because untrammelled by a thousand old laws, customs and prejudices she could go ahead and build forthwith without being delayed by the necessity of pulling down the old, and he envied Canadians their great opportunity.

Lloyd George.

Would Pan Off the Wreck On a Methodist Parson

HON. DR. TOLMIE, who has declined the leadership of the Conservative party in British Columbia, was a veterinary surgeon before branching out as a farmer and stock-breeder.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie.

One day a tall, lean individual called him to treat a sick mare. The doctor examined the animal and gave the owner a large bottle of medicine, saying: "Now, friend, if this does no good, I would advise you to sell the mare to a Methodist preacher."

The tall, lean individual sighed and said: "I am a Methodist preacher myself."

Entertaining a Poet Unawares in the Wilds

CANADIAN literary critics have described Bliss Carman, in the fullest sense the Canadian lyrical poet, as a "beautiful pagan fleeing down the ways of life," and as being "content to sing of gypsies and vagabondage."

It was a strange vagabond meeting between Carman and T. Morris Longstreth, the author, in the Laurentian Wilderness in Northern Quebec that the latter describes. Carman, at that time, was unknown to the writer of prose.

"Your cook-fire made such a contented looking picture against the dark, you don't mind if I sit and watch you two?"

"This remark came from a tall, broad-shouldered, big-nosed, open countenanced man who lifted one moccasin-shod foot out of his canoe, and then the other, deliberately, but not ungracefully. We should have thought him thirty, but for a sort of shy magnetism which goes with youth. Our curiosity was piqued.

"We talked in the firelight, first of the mountains, then of the stars, and by and by, reached poetry. I have a cousin down in New Brunswick you may have heard of, Charles G. D. Roberts," said the stranger. "Now, there's a poet for you—a man who is at his best on a big theme in nature, and worth quoting at times like this, if one has the memory." Pressed further, he quoted the names of several Canadian poets of note, and then one of the listeners said: "You left one name from the list. Isn't Bliss Carman a Canadian?"

"Yes, but one of the wanderers, the wapiti, and little known."

"I didn't realize he was a Canadian, though everybody knows his name," said the listener.

"His name, perhaps," said the other dryly, "but his work, hardly; that is what counts. I can scarcely recall a dozen poems by him, and I am interested in poetry."

"I'd give a hand to meet that man Carman," said one of the listeners.

"He is not much to meet," said the stranger, "a shy and awkward old bachelor, who confines his conversation to the business of the day. I know him or did when we were younger, and still occasionally get glimpses of him. He is a whimsical, pondering, sort of giant, New Brunswick born, but forced to hunt his bread in the states. He was starting off for Montreal the other day on a lecture tour and vowing when he got it over that he'd never go again where he couldn't go in moccasins."

"They talked for hours, and once the stranger said he was trying to remember something, and wrote for fifteen minutes on envelopes and things from every pocket. When he had gone they picked up some letter paper, also scribbled over, and found on the letter-head:

"Bliss Carman,
New Canada,
Conn."

The Famous Dress Suit Worn by Karl and Jack

JACK Ramsden, Liberal M.P. for Southwest Toronto, and Karl Homuth, Labor representative for South Waterloo, are, physically, two of the biggest men in the Ontario Legislature. The best of friends, both in the House and outside, neither of them is averse to cracking a joke at the expense of the other.

Arm in arm, the pair made their way down the corridors of the parliament buildings, one night last session, to attend the speaker's annual dinner. Karl was attired in the conventional "soup and fish," while Jack wore an ordinary business suit.

"Case of necessity," he explained. "There's only one dress suit in town that will fit us two—and Karl beat me to it."

Taking the Bun

DEAN INGÉ, the gloomy dean of St. Paul's, is said to have met with an adventure lately that made him laugh.

Feeling hungry in a train, he beckoned a paper-boy at a station, gave him sixpence, and asked him to fetch a Bath bun, adding that he might have one for himself.

The boy departed, and presently returned munching a bun.

"Here's your change, sir," he said; "there was only one bun left."

The Szes Come Over the Sea

SZAOKE ALFRED SZE (with the accent on the middle syllable), the Chinese minister at Washington, is just as human and benignant as he looks, with his young family upon their return to these shores. His English is a joy to listen to; he came to Washington, of course, as a high school boy, and was graduated from Cornell. Sze, being a man of superlative mental capacity, unimpeachable character, and the highest idealism, was welcomed as Chinese minister to London during the war, and at Versailles.

Escaping by a Miracle from a Motor Wreck, Mr. Bowser Vouches Against Oliver's Roads

Through Inky Darkness the B.C. Leader of the Opposition, Tattered and Caked With Mud, Plodded for Three Miles to a Political Meeting, Arriving an Hour Late.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON.

IN British Columbia there are two sides to every question of importance. They are: (1) John Oliver.

(2) Bill Bowser.

Mr. Oliver is the premier, and Mr. Bowser frankly hopes to be; but just now, after leading one government, he is busy guiding the Conservative opposition. They are worthy opponents and crowded galleries usually watch them as they wrestle in the legislature every year. But it is on the hustings that they are at their best. In front of a cheering or hissing audience, their worst enemies admit they can take advantage of the slightest opportunity, the smallest weakness in an argument, to press home their points. And thereby hangs a tale.

In an automobile loaded down with politicians and newspapermen, Mr. Bowser was pushing into a certain small village where he was scheduled to deliver a speech in the last general provincial election. Darkness had fallen and the road was deep with mud. Mr. Bowser frowned in silence and the newspapermen said wicked things. Suddenly the car jumped the ruts, swayed over the road's edge, hung dizzily over space, and, rolling over, crashed down the embankment into some trees. Miraculously enough no one was hurt, but it was three miles to town and the evening's meeting was scheduled to start in five minutes.

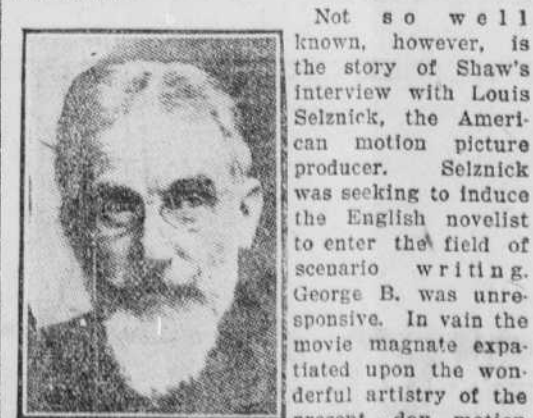

The meeting waited patiently, but an hour after the local orators had started the audience was getting restless. When the chairman had reached the verge of nervous prostration, suddenly a ragged, dirty figure strode upon the platform. His clothes were torn, his boots caked in an inch of mud, his face smeared. The chairman was about to order him out when he realized—there was no mistaking the overhanging brow and huge chin which the cartoonists love to draw—it was Mr. Bowser.

And Mr. Bowser was quite equal to the situation. Without introduction or apology he said, "Please keep your seats, ladies and gentlemen. Don't be alarmed. You may all be in my position yourself at any time if you allow John Oliver to build your roads any longer!"

Listening to Rapture in Terms of Shekels

OF course you have probably heard George Bernard Shaw's explanation of his habit of talking to himself.

"I always like to talk to a clever man," says G. B., "and I like equally to have a clever man talk to me."

Bernard Shaw.

Not so well known, however, is the story of Shaw's interview with Louis Selznick, the American motion picture producer. Selznick was seeking to induce the English novelist to enter the field of scenario writing. George B. was unresponsive. In vain the movie magnate expatiated upon the wonderful artistry of the present-day motion picture; of the shades of beauty and expression, lacking in the written book or the spoken drama, which could be achieved upon the screen.

"The trouble, Selznick," Mr. Shaw finally summed up, "is that you're looking at this thing solely from the point of view of art, while I'm looking at it from the commercial angle."

They Cannot Lie

ENGLAND'S coast-line is 2,200 miles long.

There are 260,000 women farmers in the United States.

There were 35,132 applications for new patents in Britain last year.

Grease for train wheels cost one railway company about $650,000 a year.

Took All the Poor Beggar Had

AUGUSTINE BIRRELL, in his early days at the bar, often had many poor clients. On one occasion the defendant was so poor that Birrell offered to handle his case for nothing. Birrell won the case, and the grateful client sent him fifteen shillings. In order not to hurt the man's feelings Mr. Birrell accepted the fee, but a fellow lawyer reproached him for doing so.

"Don't you know," said the fellow lawyer, "that it is unprofessional to take less than gold?"

"Well," said Mr. Birrell, seriously, "I took all the poor beggar had. You don't consider that unprofessional, do you?"

THE VISION OF PEACE ABSORBS LORD ROBERT

He Is the Isolated Idealist of the British Commons Even to a Comic Extreme.

NO one can understand Lord Robert Cecil who doesn't grasp this primal fact about him: that he is peculiarly and essentially English. He is "peculiarly" English, because the type which he represents has very nearly disappeared from the House of Commons. His isolation in modern British politics is due to the fact that he is an English idealist.

One of the most saddening sights in the world is to see an idealist enter the House of Commons. As a rule, he struggles manfully for a session or two, trying hard to be independent. Eventually, finding that independence "cuts no ice," he joins the great majority.

Lord Robert Cecil started as another kind of idealist. He did honestly believe that salvation lay with the Conservatives. Then he suffered a nasty jar, and has plowed his lonely furrow ever since.

But—and herein lies his weakness as well as his strength—he remains an idealist. He is the leading spokesman in England for the League of Nations, and the ideal he has set himself to achieve absorbs him, heart and soul.

Everything he thinks, says and does is dominated now by that ever-present vision of permanent, universal peace on earth. If the vision were less noble one would call it an obsession, for it is sometimes carried to comic extremes. It affects his habits, his manners, his personal apparel—and especially his headgear. Indeed, not long ago, during a debate near Hitchin, a youthful constituent suddenly sprang the following question on him: "Where did you get that hat?" Lord Robert couldn't remember.

He will tell you, if you care to ask him, that his hobby is golf. But it is nothing of the sort. His hobby is the League of Nations. True, he sallies forth with a bag of clubs and a box of golf-balls—all of which he would lose in a round if he hadn't a caddy—but the entire outfit is merely useful as camouflage for a debate on the League of Nations, and doesn't impose for a moment on any of his friends.

"Who won?" asked an innocent fellow-member on one occasion as Lord Robert and his opponent entered the club from the last green.

"Good gracious!" came the latter's reply, "I've clean forgotten!"

"So have I!" chimed in Lord Robert, "but I've a kind of feeling we started all square."

Discoverer of the Century

SCIENTISTS of the United States are heralding the discovery of twin suns many times bigger than our own "Old Sol" as the greatest discovery of the age. Dr. J. S. Plaskett, who found these two new heavenly bodies, which are 20,000 times brighter than our own sun, is a Canadian, the director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria, B.C. It was by means of a 72-inch reflector telescope that he saw fifty-two quadrillions of miles through space.

Mr. Drury "Listens In"

IT was a few days after Premier Drury had been selected to head the U. F. O. party when, on the train from Toronto to his home at Crown Hill he overheard an animated conversation between two fellow passengers concerning himself. A reporter was accompanying the premier-elect.

The fellow passengers evidently did not know Mr. Drury by sight, for one of them, seated not more than a few feet distant, vigorously contended it was a joke on the province to permit a farmer to direct the management of a province like Ontario. Drury would not last—not for one session of the house.

The other passenger praised the premier-designate. The farmer M. P. P.'s knew what they were doing. Drury must be all right or they never would have him. In fact, the Drury booster continued, the farmers of Ontario had selected one of the cleverest, most learned, tactful, respected men in the entire province.

The premier listened in silence. Then, smiling and blushing faintly, he turned to the reporter: "Wouldn't you like to go into the smoker? This is too much."

Canadian Heads G.T.R.

W. D. ROBB, who has just been appointed vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway System, is the first native born Canadian to be called upon to occupy the chief executive office of this line. He is also the first chief executive of the G. T. R. to have risen step by step, with unbroken service, from the time he began his career as an apprentice machinist, in 1871.

The Dreams of Youth

"AH," sighed the serious-faced passenger, "how little we know of the future and what it has in store for us."

"That's true," his seat-mate responded. "Little did I think when some thirty years ago I carved my initials on the desk in the old country school that I would some day grow up and fall to become famous."—Boston Transcript.

Carte Blanche

DOCTOR: "I would advise you, madam, to take frequent baths, plenty of fresh air, and dress in cool gowns."

Husband (an hour later): What did the doctor say?

Wife: He said I ought to go to a watering-place, and afterwards to the country. Also, I must get some new light gowns at once.—Tit-Bits.

MATCHING A "DEADHEAD"

DR. CHARLTON, the well-known physician of Galt, Ont., and also mayor of that city, knows that editors of newspapers are not the only ones in the community who are subject to the wiles of "deadheads."

The doctor relates how he once called the bluff of one of these gentry.

Scotty was well-to-do, but knew the value of money so well that he hated to part with a cent of it for anything.

One day he contracted a sore throat and meditated fearfully on paying a doctor's fee. So he hung about the doctor's office nearly a whole day and at last caught the doctor setting off on a trip.

"Well, doctor, how's beezness the noo?" "Oh, fair, fair."

"Ah, s'pose you've a great deal of prescribing to do for sair throats and colds?" "Ay."

"And now, what would you give for a sair throat, say?" "Nothing," was the reply. "I don't want a sore throat."

DEATHS REPORTED

MR. THOMAS GRAY, CLIFTON, Sept. 11. — Mr. Thomas Gray passed suddenly away on September 2nd while apparently in his usual health and while sitting in a chair.

Mr. Gray was seventy-seven years of age, and had lived the most of that time in Clifton, Compton County.

Four children mourn the loss of their father, Mrs. J. B. Straws, of Woodville, N.H.; Mrs. Walter Gray, of Colebrook, N.H.; Lyman Gray, of Drummheller, Alta., and Percy Gray, at home. Three brothers and one sister survive him, as well as his wife.

The funeral took place on Monday, September 4th, at two o'clock. Prayer was offered in the home, and then the body was taken to Clifton Church, where the funeral ceremony was conducted. The choir sang "A Few More Years Shall Roll," and Miss Bertha Waldron sang a very appropriate solo in her usual pleasing manner. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Shier, preached from I. Corinthians, fifth chapter and first verse, his subject being "The certainties of the Christian," namely, the saviourhood of Jesus Christ, the gracious fatherhood of God, and the blessedness of home and heaven.

The remains were laid in the East Clifton Cemetery.

It is just a month since an older brother, Mr. Charles Gray, died.

(Special to The Record.) FARNHAM, Que., Sept. 11.—The price of butter still continues on its irregular course, one week showing a decline in price and the next an advance. YOUNG FARMERS TO GET CHANCE TO SHOW SKILL

International Competition Being Planned by Directors of Toronto Exhibition.

(Associated Press Despatch) TORONTO, Sept. 11.—"Young farmers" from England and the United States will be given the opportunity at the Canadian National Exhibition next year to demonstrate their skill in the art of judging live stock shown at the fair. While the juvenile competitions at the Canadian National Exhibition have not been promoted on a large scale, more than ordinary interest has been manifested in the contests at smaller fairs. Managing Director John G. Kent yesterday stated that a movement was under way to have the competitions carried on next year with an interchange of juvenile contestants between Canada, England and the United States. He believes that the interchange would be productive of a greater degree of efficiency in the competitions, and at the same time serve to develop the practical side of such tests to much greater proportions than hitherto.

UPURNS IN THE PRICES ON CHICAGO WHEAT BOARD

(Associated Press Despatch) CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Rainy weather tending to check the crop movement led to an upturn in the price of wheat today during the early dealings.

The opening, which varied from 3/4 cent decline to 1/2 cent advance, with December at $1.02 1/4 to $1.02 1/2, and May at $1.07 1/2, was followed by gains all around, but then something of a reaction. Frost in Iowa and Minnesota gave a slight lift to the value of corn and oats. After opening half cent off to a like advance, with December at 57 1/2 to 57 3/4 cents the corn market tended upward for all deliveries. Oats started unchanged to 3/4 to a quarter cent higher with December at 35 1/2 cents and then continued to harden. Provisions lacked support.
