Liberal close with endorsement of Trudeau actions

OTTAWA (CP) — Its outcome difficult to define in terms of concrete decisions, a three-day Liberal party policy convention ended Sunday with the expected ringing endorsement for Prime Minister Trudeau's leadership.

For weeks, party officials will be assessing the results of preferential voting on hundreds of resolutions, all designed to provide a framework for party policy over the next decade. In the meantime, the leadership of the party remains unchallenged.

To the question of whether a leadership convention should be held within a year, the vote was 1,064 to 132 against such a proposition. Some of those favoring a convention told reporters their support was directed at the principle of such a procedure, not at a replacement for Mr. Trudeau.

"I thank you all very much for your support," the prime minister told the nearly 2,500 delegates, after he was given a standing ovation for his entry into the convention.

"I am thankful I have another year to go, at least."

While there were enough specific resolutions to bring about significant redirection of party activity—providing voting percentages dictate it—many of those under extensive debate could be taken for granted.

"The Liberal Party, in addition to its election and parliamentary roles, should commit itself to bringing people and government closer together by providing opportunities for participation by the people and by requiring responsiveness from its leaders," said one motion.

At a Saturday night forum discussion, C. Terrence Murphy, Liberal MP for Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., said "I've never seen more 'motherhood' resolutions."

But the discussions, said Chairman Allen Linden of Toronto, did provide a clear "feeling" on a wide variety of issues. There was, he said, a clear feeling for the human being; for an open society offering all members full protection for their rights and liberties; for a national community with harmony among linguistic groups; for social justice; for a nation committed to democracy; for a country of full employment, for the eradication of poverty, for decent and fair accommodation; for an independent Canada capable of protecting its sovereignty; for a nation that forbids pollution.

Premier Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia termed it a "wonderful" convention, and I. H. Asper, Liberal leader in Manitoba said he returns home enthusiastic and "convinced that the problems of Manitoba are sympathized with by delegates from all over Canada."

Phil Elder, 30, an assistant law professor at the University of Western Ontario, London, led 12 "ginger group" members to Ottawa to press for some radical reforms in the party, and he said most of the delegates obviously have great faith in the government.

But he was skeptical. "This is still a middle class party, with its hands in the till or on the levers of power."

Mr. Elder said he voted for a leadership convention. However if one were held he would support Mr. Trudeau. "But we have to shake him up."

John Roberts, Liberal MP for

York-Simcoe, told a convention seminar that the gathering proves to everyone that the Liberal party is one of participation. There had been a tendency for outsiders to regard it as an "establishment" party.

As arguments developed in one forum over the direction of the party, delegate Bob Handley of Simcoe, Ont., said there has been too much criticism from delegates who claim discussions are a farce unless they are transformed into immediate action. "We can't do everything immediately."

Barnett Danson, Liberal MP for North York, said "this has been the best Liberal convention I've attended since 1947."

On other topics, the convention decided that the 1969 therapeutic abortion law should be lifted from the Criminal Code and abortion should be allowed on the decision of a woman and her doctor.

More than 700 of about 1,000 votes on the abortion issue favored reform of the 1969 law "so that abortion is fairly, quickly and uniformly available."

SANTA'S BACK: Defying cold, rain and a biting wind, Santa Claus paid a surprise visit to Rock Forest shopping centre Saturday. Although unable to descend from the clouds as planned, Santa's visit was nonetheless cheered enthusiastically by the large crowd of youngsters on hand. (Record Photo Service: R. Smith)

Hundreds brave cold to meet Santa

ROCK FOREST (ROS) — "Come Dancer, Come Prancer, Come Convertible Car" — so arrived St. Nick at the shopping centre here Saturday, in weather so cold, wet and windy that scores of spectators huddled in the warmth of their cars rather than brave the elements to witness the coming of Santa Claus.

The bitter weather, though, did not succeed in dampening the enthusiasm of the youngsters, many of whom did not seem to notice the biting wind at all.

An air of disappointment, however, mingled with the youthful excitement of the onlookers. Unable to arrive via parachute as hoped due to weather conditions, Santa was to descend from the clouds by helicopter.

But no helicopter was available. This too had to be abandoned and hopes for a dramatic arrival with it. Santa was forced to use more mundane modes of transport.

Arriving fifty minutes later than expected, Santa, waving merrily from a convertible, was led through the parking area and toward the shelter of the shopping centre by the courteous "Les Tourbillons" band and majorettes from Coaticook. Grasping his great white beard with one hand to prevent it being plucked away by the wind, Santa used his other to toss hundreds of lollipops into the crowd lining his route, turning the scene into bedlam as youngsters scurried about collecting the sweets.

Once inside and settled on his gaily-decorated platform in the mall, Santa began to receive the many children queued up and anxiously waiting to present their lists of wishes for the rapidly-approaching Great Day.

Enveloping each in his warm embrace as they perched on his well-padded knee, Santa listened to requests ranging from the traditional dolls and ponies to the not-so-traditional diamond rings and space-ships.

Santa has again triumphed over Mother Nature's obstacles and his appearance at the shopping centre was obviously as much of a thrill to the children as it ever was. Yes, Santa Claus is alive and well.

Letters from Cross received

MONTREAL (CP) — Two letters apparently written by kidnapped British diplomat James Jasper Cross and a note purportedly from the outlawed Front de Liberation du Quebec were being studied by police experts today.

A provincial police spokesman said no decision had been made as to the authenticity of the communications discovered by reporters for two French-language newspapers after anonymous telephone calls Saturday afternoon.

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said in an interview Sunday on radio station CJAD the communications "appear to be authentic."

The note signed "FLQ" and the public letter signed "J.R. Cross" were being compared with earlier communications apparently from the terrorist kidnappers.

The FLQ note suggests U

Thant, United Nations secretary-general, intervene to secure the release of 24 so-called political prisoners sought by the terrorists in exchange for the release of Mr. Cross.

The letter, signed with the name of the kidnapped trade commissioner, says he is well and "still hoping" for "my liberty and my life," but wondering "when and how will this bad dream end."

"They (the FLQ) consider me as a political prisoner and they will keep me in captivity as long as the authorities do not accept their demands."

The spokesman would not say if an attached private note addressed to Mrs. Cross at the British embassy in Berne, Switzerland, was also being studied or if it was forwarded to the diplomat's wife.

Meanwhile, the fourth session of a coroner's inquest into the death of Pierre Laporte, kidnapped from outside his home Oct. 10, continues today. The FLQ has claimed Laporte.

Pequiste faithful hear harsh condemnation of War Measures

SHERBROOKE — Parti Quebecois stalwart Jacques Parizeau wound up a two-day regional party convention here Sunday by stating that the federal government had lost its head last month when it invoked the War Measures Act to quell the outlawed Quebec Liberation Front.

Mr. Parizeau told the 300 regional delegates gathered in the auditorium of the Administration building at the University of Sherbrooke that the fear of civil disorder in the province was to be expected after the outbreak of FLQ kidnappings last October.

"This type of activity is not uncommon in the United States," Mr. Parizeau said, "but you don't see the American government responding to the use of such rash legislation in handling that kind of problem."

The pequisite economist said that recent events led Quebecers to take a new stand on matters of economic and social concern. "If anything, a greater number of people joined the ranks of the Parti Quebecois as the result of the October events."

But the 300 delegates from the 11 counties represented agreed that the first objective for the party was to organize a better army and navy.

Radio Mali, broadcasting from Bamako, said part of the raiding force was "annihilated" but fighting continued at nightfall.

Radio Conakry quoted a prisoner, described as "one of the principal leaders of the attack" and identified as Capt. Ambroise Fernando, as saying the raiding force had more than 10 heavily-armed warships and its mission was to seize the Guinea defence ministry.

The radio quoted another prisoner as saying the invasion force numbered about 350 men, including 50 Guineans serving as guides.

Toure said in a radio statement that Conakry was under bombardment but the attack had been contained by popular resistance. He said the UN troops were needed for the purpose of "wiping out, with our national army, the last positions occupied by the Portuguese mercenaries and to pursue the aggressors' ships in our territorial waters."

Toure appealed earlier in two messages to all African chiefs of state for help. President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania pledged Sunday night his country's "full sympathy and our support."

Tanzania is the base for a southern African guerrilla movement that has been fighting the Portuguese in Mozambique for over five years.

In his appeal to Thant, Toure said: "The government of the republic of Guinea informs the secretary-general of the United Nations that the country was the object of aggression by the Portuguese armed forces, unleashed Sunday morning at about 2 a.m. Landing craft, violating territorial waters, put ashore mercenary commandos at several points in Conakry and bombarded several points in the city.

"Thanks to the instantaneous reaction of the national army and the population, the attack was contained. However, the Guinea government, victim in its sacred rights as a sovereign state and member of the United Nations, asks the immediate intervention of United Nations' airborne troops toward wiping out, with our national army, the last positions occupied by the Portuguese mercenaries and to pursue the aggressors' ships from our territorial waters."

Guinea is on the western bulge of Africa, bordered by Sierra Leone, Liberia, the Ivory Coast,

Memoirs revive bitter image of Stalin

NEW YORK (AP) — Reminiscences attributed to Nikita S. Khrushchev describe Joseph Stalin as a madman who replaced Lenin's revolutionary ideals with terror, but whose name now is being whitewashed in the Soviet Union "by a few of our influential military leaders."

But they also say that Khrushchev owed his rise to power—and perhaps his life—to Stalin's second wife.

The reminiscences, published in the Nov. 27 edition of Life magazine, portray Stalin as a heavy drinker, a murderer of millions and a leader who permitted famine and poverty to persist because he thought pleas for help were plots against him. Khrushchev makes a plea to clear the names for those Stalin executed or imprisoned.

The reminiscences are the first of a four-part series to be published by Life.

The official Soviet news agency Tass says Khrushchev has denied he had ever turned over his memoirs to any foreign publishing firm.

Life editors insist, however, the manuscript being published by them and later in book form by Little, Brown and Co. is authentic. In an editors' note in this week's issue of Life, managing editor Ralph Graves says the manuscript had been obtained by the editors a year ago.

Knowing then, he adds, that a denial would be forthcoming "we had to be sure that what we had was not a fabrication."

"We did many things to authenticate it."

Khrushchev, who as premier began the campaign to downgrade Stalin, was ousted from power in 1964.

The reminiscences begin with Khrushchev saying he lives like a hermit on the outskirts of Moscow, communicating only with those who guard him.

Khrushchev, 76, was reported taken to a hospital in Moscow early last week with a recurring heart ailment.

The remarks attributed to him about Stalin come at a time when the name of the old dictator, who died March 5, 1953, is being resurrected in the Soviet Union in books, films and actions.

The article in Life, entitled Khrushchev Remembers, contends that Stalin purged the best military and political brains in the Soviet Union and at the same time threw aside many of Lenin's ideals.

"Honest, loyal Leninists, devoted to the cause of the revolution—they were the first to go when Stalin imposed his arbitrary rule on the party. All those who perished should not only be given back their names; they should be represented to the people as martyrs of the terror waged by Stalin."

US planes hit North Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 200 warplanes took part in a big new wave of air strikes intended to tell Hanoi that the United States intends to continue flying reconnaissance over North Vietnam, defence department sources said Sunday.

One of these sources said the prime purpose of the raids was to "remind the other guy what the rules of the game are, whether he understands them or not."

"Whether he understands them is not particularly important. The signal is the thing."

By this, the defence department officials referred to what they regard as an understanding at the time the Johnson administration halted the bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1, 1968.

This understanding, they said, was that the U.S. would continue to send reconnaissance planes over the North to guard against preparations for a possible surprise assault against southern allied troops in South Vietnam.

WILL DEFEND SKIES

The North Vietnamese have insisted they entered into no such understanding and have declared they will defend their skies.

The Pentagon officially refused to put out any details Sunday on the strikes against anti-aircraft missile and gun positions south of the 19th parallel.

They were awaiting firm and detailed after-action reports from Southeast Asia. Defence spokesmen indicated they would be ready to talk today.

Pentagon sources said the raids stopped when they were supposed to, by 6 p.m. EST Saturday. Persistent bad weather over the North was a complicating factor in assessments of the new raids.

The North Vietnamese claim U.S. strikes reached well above the 19th parallel and that a prisoner-of-war camp near Hanoi was struck, causing casualties among American prisoners.

Domtar office staff reach new agreement

EAST ANGLUS — The management of Domtar Packaging Limited, Kraft Paper & Board Division at East Angus, Quebec, and the representatives of the National Union of Pulp and Paper Workers of East Angus and of the Canadian Federation of Pulp and Paper and Forest Workers (CNTU) have reached agreement on the terms of a new 2½ year collective agreement for the 35 office employees.

The union members have ratified the agreement. The new collective agreement, to end April 30, 1973, calls for a general increase of $99 to $112 per month, for the duration of the agreement.

Among increased employee benefits are two additional paid holidays and four weeks vacation after 17 years of service starting January 1, 1971, and after 15 years of service starting January 1, 1972.

The insurance plan has been improved by an accrued contribution from the company; the pension plan has been improved to provide for an accrued pension from January 1, 1971, in addition to voluntary early retirement at age 62 without actuarial reduction from January 1, 1973.

The union representatives were Henri-Louis Proulx, technical adviser of the Federation, Denis St-Hilaire, president of the union, Noel Morin and Noel Hayes.

The company representatives were F.C. MacKenzie, mill manager, Jean-Paul Myre, labour relation specialist from the head office, Raymond Mongeau, superintendent of accounting, and Claude Couture, superintendent of personnel.

Speed flow of relief supplies to storm-stricken Pakistan

DACCA (Reuter) — Food, medicine, blankets and clothing were at last getting through Sunday to the tidal wave disaster areas of East Pakistan, where the dead outnumber the living.

Helicopters and boats sent by the United States and Britain are operating around the clock transporting international aid which had been mostly piling up at the airport.

The first helicopters and boats started operating Saturday almost immediately after they were brought in by transport aircraft and an advance team of British commandos was despatched to Patuakhali, one of the hardest-hit districts, with medical supplies and food.

At the same time, a British force of four vessels, led by the assault ship Intrepid, neared the disaster zone from Singapore.

It took more than a week since the cyclone and tidal wave struck Nov. 13 for the relief operation to get into full swing.

During the last few days fears of starvation among survivors mounted.

The latest confirmed death toll was 168,000, but officials readily agreed the final figure could be in the hundreds of thousands, perhaps as much as 1.5 million. Many of the dead were washed out to sea and many others could have died since from hunger, thirst, exposure or disease.

U.S. SENDS BOATS

The United States is reported to be sending 50 reinforced-plastic boats of shallow draft to supplement similar vessels already criss-crossing the debris-littered and intricate waterways of the stricken Ganges River delta region.

The West Germans announced that two field hospitals, two transport aircraft and five helicopters were on their way with a number of outboard-motor vessels and roofing and building materials.

President Yahya Khan of Pakistan, who was here for a couple of days last week, is understood to be planning another trip in the next 24 hours to the disaster area from West Pakistan. There have been increasing allegations here of central government failure to demonstrate its concern over the disaster.

Most of the country's helicopters are concentrated in West Pakistan but until the American and British craft came in during the weekend there was only one helicopter available locally for air-dropping operations.

Requests halt to sale of publishing houses

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal policy convention which ended Sunday has recommended that the sale of two Toronto textbook publishing houses to United States interests be halted. It also has recommended that special tax advantages benefitting Time magazine and Reader's Digest be stopped.

The convention's decisions are intended to provide the framework for Liberal policy. While the government is not forced to follow every recommendation, the prime minister must come before another convention in 1972 to explain why recommendations have not been followed.

One of the resolutions approved said the sale of the W. J. Gage Co. and Ryerson Press to U.S. interests represented a "serious threat to our national interest.... The government of Canada should ensure that Gage and Ryerson remain owned and controlled by Canadians."

Under the five-choice preferential voting system, 438 delegates said they strongly agreed with this resolution and 286 said they agreed. Fifty strongly disagreed, 115 disagreed and 130 said they weren't sure.

The resolutions concerning the two magazines said: "All Canadian media should be encouraged. Special concessions to Time and Reader's Digest should end."

There was strong agreement from 524 delegates and agreement from 293. Only 10 expressed strong disagreement and 47 disagreement. Another 47 were not sure.

Time and Reader's Digest are classed as Canadian publications in granting tax benefits to advertisers for income tax purposes. Canadian advertisers using foreign publications other than Time or Reader's Digest cannot deduct them from taxable income.

ULVERTON — Two persons died Saturday when a car crashed into a tree near here.

The Quebec Police Force in Richmond identified the victims as Jean Braseau, 52, of 874 St. Louis Street, Sherbrooke, and 60-year-old Antonio Cabot of 164 Aberdeen Street, also in Sherbrooke.

Police said the accident occurred around 10:30 p.m. Saturday on Route 22 at Ulverton.

MDs to discuss medicare

SHERBROOKE — Five Sherbrooke doctors will discuss Medicare at a public meeting at the Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. on Montreal St. at 8 p.m. on Wednesday.

The panel includes Dr. A. Dougan, Dr. D.L. Campbell, Dr. J.L. Ross, Dr. B. Mongeau and Dr. T. J. Quintin.

"How will this new health scheme affect me and my family in the future" is one of the questions the doctors will attempt to answer. Any other questions will be welcomed.

1000 feet happier today

SHERBROOKE (RS) — At least 500 little people went home Saturday with the assurance that they would be able to keep their feet warm this winter because they have a pair of shoes and boots to wear them in.

The little people, recruited from among the needy elements of the population in the Sherbrooke district, assembled at the warehouse of Au Bon Marche on Depot Street throughout the day Saturday where the Sherbrooke Rotary Club was holding its annual shoe and boot distribution day.

By 1 p.m. in the afternoon, the 500 pairs of shoes and boots had been distributed among the needy and organizers had returned home with a well accomplished deed.

Every year, the Sherbrooke Rotary club organizes such a footwear distribution in order to come in use to the poor in our area.

Levesque calls Trudeau 'grave-digger of Canada'

OTTAWA (CP) — Rene Levesque, leader of the separatist Parti Quebecois, has called Prime Minister Trudeau "the grave-digger of Canada" and accused the Ottawa and Quebec governments of fabricating the terrorist crisis in Quebec.

The fiery Parti Quebecois leader, in a television program taped for the CTV network in Montreal Friday, described Quebec Premier Bourassa as a "wishy-washy" politician, called the Montreal civic government of "manipulating the police" and said police work on the terrorist kidnappings was "sure as hell not good."

The interview with Mr. Levesque was scheduled for showing at 4:30 p.m. EST Sunday on the program Question Period. A transcript was released in Ottawa.

Mr. Levesque was asked whether there was a threat to the provincial government or to maintenance of law and order in the Oct. 5 kidnapping of James Cross, British trade envoy in Montreal, and the Oct. 10 kidnapping of Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister, by the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec.

"No," he replied. Mr. Cross is believed to be alive in FLQ hands. Mr. Laporte was strangled a week after his abduction.

Mr. Levesque was asked to elaborate on the reaction of the Ottawa and Quebec governments, which included invoking wide police powers under the War Measures Act and posting troops through the province.

"They did fabricate a crisis," he replied, "one aspect of which is being used now a little bit as a scapegoat by Trudeau and by Quebec."

He said the reaction was "probably the mixture of panic and an urge to get rid of a lot of troublesome people from their point of view and that of the police...."

Mr. Levesque said there is a "cut-off quality" to political leadership in Quebec.

"Mr. Trudeau is not a Quebecois. Mr. Trudeau is Elliott more than Trudeau from my point of view and he had to be elected in the Mount Royal ghetto in Montreal to stand anywhere in

Unity isn't a closed shop

By Heward Graffey

Since my last column, I have received many inquiries about my statement to the effect that we do not know our strength if we do not know our history, that Confederation was an act of faith by statesmen from different political parties who put Canada first.

Unlike students at American schools and universities, it seems that Canadian students are made little aware of the fact that it took a lot of hard work by forward looking politicians and statesmen before the Canadian Union of 1867 became a "fait accompli".

At that time no one political party nor any one man was indispensable for bringing about "one United Canada". Unity was not a partisan issue.

Now, a little over 100 years later things seem different. It is and always has remained my firm conviction that the people are united. If the country seems divided it is that, especially during the past 30 years, so-called political leaders have cynically played politics with the so-called unity and French English question.

The public logically look to their elected representatives for leadership and it is here that the vicious circle is set into motion. If politicians say we are divided, who can blame the public for being confused, even if the individual has no evidence of division in his or her particular neighbourhood.

Until party politics is taken out of the national unity debate, we can seriously question the future viability of the Canadian union. Having this in mind, it was with a sense of near despair that I recently witnessed Prime Minister Trudeau being interviewed on the C.B.C. network television program "Encounter".

When the Prime Minister suggests he wants to unite Canada - he will find 99.999 per cent of the Canadian people with him, including many who cast a separatist vote in the last Provincial election but who feel Ottawa has opted for the "status quo" and is refusing to update and modernize our Federal institutions. Also, when the Prime Minister suggests we must combat separatism again he receives overwhelming support for this fundamental and basic proposition.

Mr. Trudeau speaking on the program said "I like a country where people have to stand up and be counted. I don't like wishy-washy thinking on anything. As much as possible I like people to have clear choices. That's the way I am and that's the way I will remain."

Up to this point there is little to argue about with this position be it even so simplistic but then the Prime Minister continued: "Now if Canadians prefer some more wishy-washy type of government which won't fight separatism so hard, they can elect it next time around."

To my way of thinking with this statement the Prime Minister has deliberately plunged the unity question into the partisan arena. Be his opponents separatists or any other non-liberal Canadians, he does not improve the situation with subtle insults over national television.

There are a number of sincere thinking Canadians, not necessarily a majority by any means, who feel that Mr. Trudeau's politics of confrontation on the unity issue is not producing and will not produce results. Many good and loyal Canadians have and will continue to work positively for a united Canada. This in turn, they feel, will diminish separatist forces within and outside Quebec. They do not necessarily share the Prime Minister's views - and have suggestions to put forward on a "non-political" basis and not during the heat of an election campaign.

Many Quebec Liberals feel the time is ripe for a federal election - an election which would combine, politicize and polarize the national unity and law and order questions. Surely we have learned our lessons from the union south of the border as it has never been divided before, turning some university campuses into virtual armed camps. Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine rendered a noble service by diffusing the law and order issue in an attempt to take it out of the political arena.

Mr. Trudeau you are the Prime Minister of all Canadians. I accept your call to work for one united Canada. Simplistic slogans make me shudder but I too will accept your call "stand up" and be counted in the fight against separatism.

On the other hand, I do not accept your proposition, be it ever so subtly and cleverly put forward on television that taking out a membership card in the Liberal Party is a prerequisite for fighting separatism and working for one united Canada.

Strange human behavior

Compared with the typhoons which have created such horrible tragedy in Pakistan, Hurricane Camille, which roared out of the Gulf of Mexico on the night of Aug. 17, 1969, was a modest blast although one of the most powerful storms to strike the United States coastline.

In the Gulf Coast strip which caught the hurricane's full fury, 146 persons died and 28 others are still listed as missing. More than 75,000 persons fled to safety. Most homes and businesses were damaged or destroyed.

Yet one of the most puzzling questions left in the wake of the storm was why perhaps 28 per cent of the people in that area chose to ignore Weather Bureau pleas to evacuate.

Two members of the Mississippi State University Science Research Centre tried to find out why. Sociologists Dr. Kenneth P. Wilkinson and Peggy J. Ross interviewed 384 heads of households in a 45-mile ribbon of coastline where Camille did her worst.

Of the 384 people, 107 chose to sit out the hurricane, even though they were generally an older, stable, well-educated and experienced population, aware that the hurricane was classed as extremely dangerous.

The sociologists suggest that some of the hesitation about leaving may have been because people did not know their home's height above sea level, even though most of them had lived in the area for years, and could not judge the danger of a 20-foot tidal wave. Another possible reason was "an ill-defined fear" that their abandoned homes would be looted.

One attitude difficult to measure was fatalism among the elderly. A few people expressed the feeling that if the hurricane took their homes and belongings, they would just as soon go, too.

In other words, sociologist wound up with more questions than answers about why different people behave differently during a time of common danger.

Oh, those happy days

An early Christmas gift has been bestowed on families in most parts of Canada, including those in the larger cities of the Eastern Townships. The grocery store chains and the super-markets are engaging in a price war which is bringing prices down by as much as 10 per cent in some commodities.

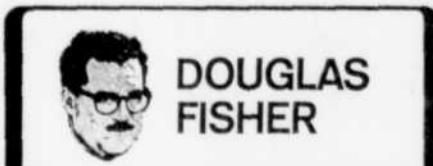

While the reductions in price are more than welcome, they can hardly be expected to evoke memories of the good old days. And while there is little hope of getting back to sensible prices such as grandmas used to know, at least some Christmas budgets will be a little better fleshed out for the festive season.

Grocery price wars, which are fed by the competitiveness of the supermarket chains, are a first step. Now, let us hope for a gasoline price war, then a clothing price war, and then an automobile price war, and ... but the government holds a monopoly on the sale of Christmas cheer. No price cutting there.

Surprise! A doubting-Pierre letter

DOUGLAS FISHER

Some time in 1968 I learned that the sharpest response from readers came after any views which were critical of Pierre Trudeau. Trudolators are fierce and protective.

Today I want to present the gist of an oddity, a doubting letter about Mr. Trudeau.

Recently, I wrote about Mr. Trudeau's military training during World War II as a subaltern in the Second Battalion of the Fusiliers-Mont Royal. A Mr. Tattersall from Barrie, Ont., writes that I should clarify this situation:

"... you state that he was a lieutenant in a Montreal-based unit and that he also paraded in support of non-intervention in European affairs, or to put it more bluntly, in objection to Canadian involvement. The two are opposed!

"I would like to know if he was in the forces as an NRMA person and, if he was, he could not be sent overseas, since he was in the parlance of the day, a Zombie.

"I don't question his motives; let history answer whether this group was right in refusing to serve. I happen to believe that in time of adversity I have an obligation to come to the aid of my country.

"However, in view of these opposing elements: (a) apparently serving his country in the armed forces; and (b) being exempted from overseas service by reason of his refusal to 'go active'; and (c) his parading while a member of His Majesty's Forces against conscription, there is a strong indication that he was a very mixed-up person at that time.

"It makes one wonder when Trudeau became a Canadian in the true sense of the term and left behind his socialist and separatist leanings and if the transition is permanent."

I did not say, indeed I can't say with assurance, that Mr. Trudeau campaigned against the war effort or conscription. When he emerged as leadership candidate and later as Prime Minister there were many articles and books about his life, most of which emphasized that he was fairly typical of his age group in French Canada.

They didn't have much enthusiasm for the war. There are anecdotes of Mr. Trudeau blitzing around Montreal on a Harley-Davidson, pretending to be a storm-trooper, and anecdotes about his speaking at anti-conscription rallies.

But there's nothing solid or documented. Nowhere in his own writing have I found a clear outline of his behavior during the war and his feelings about it. Nor, truth to tell, does he ever talk about his days in the FMR. But his participation in the FMR and the commission he held, are matters of record. It's in the files.

I think I can give a reasonable explanation of this part of Mr. Trudeau's life. As the war went along every young man was liable to draft for home defence. This meant full-time service in Canada, usually on the coast.

When the reinforcement crisis developed in the fall of 1944, great pressure was put on these "home defence" conscripts to go active service and thus be available for overseas action.

There developed the derisive nickname, Zombies. When the situation became desperate in the winter of 1944-1945, the bitter fight to clean Antwerp's approaches was taking a heavy toll - the Zombies were sent overseas and into action. Indeed, I was a witness to the first action in which Zombies took part on a bleak spring day before Xanten in Germany with the 4th division.

It was common for the ordinary Canadian lad, French or English, to be drafted if he had not already volunteered; then he could serve in Canada or volunteer for "active service" and go overseas. Eventually even those who did not volunteer were sent overseas into action.

But some young Canadians could take another course. If they were intrinsically more valuable to the war effort in industry, they were left at their jobs. If they were university students, they had an opportunity to continue at their studies. But if they were fit they had to take part in the militia. The normal procedure in the latter case was to take a commission in the navy or the army and train with a unit on campus.

Another less-usual practice was to seek a commission in the reserve or second battalion of a regiment and train with it at its armories or base until studies were completed or the student officer felt he wanted to go active.

During the peak period of the war - in Canadian terms from early 1943 until the spring of 1945 - this training was carried on with some seriousness. In most cases I've dug into, the recruit officer had to train or he was dropped. Then he became liable for the ordinary draft.

It's not speculation to note that Mr.

Trudeau must have been bright and shrewd and that he came from a family with excellent connections within the Quebec and Montreal establishment.

Thus it is easy to understand how he and his parents would make the plans for him to take the commission that kept him from the draft and which enabled him to carry on as a student.

Whether he was, at the same time he paraded part-time as an officer, taking an active part in the criticism of the war effort and conscription is something that only he can confirm.

Perhaps this is a myth that he has never bothered to destroy, for obvious reasons. Perhaps it is the truth and he saw no contradictions, morally or ethically, in beating the system on the one hand while attacking it on the other.

During the war many Quebecers, including Real Caouette, advised their young compatriots to evade the draft and go to the bush or, if caught by it, not to go active. Amongst the young of that era in Quebec there was considerable scorn for the patriotism and the purposes of the nation as a whole. It was the Anglos' war to them.

Mr. Trudeau could well have been a very clear-thinking person in those years, not "mixed-up" as Mr. Tattersall suggests.

TIMELY QUOTES

Perhaps we need to be taking a whole new look at how we manufacture products in order to provide more responsible and meaningful work experiences. We have traditionally built splendid machines and hired workers to fit into the machines, so to speak. As long as the worker's main motivation was economic, this worked to everybody's advantage. Is it possible we now need to turn the process around?

-Walter D. Dence, senior vice president of General Electric, on worker frustration and alienation.

Ministers, priests and rabbis hear this time and time again—that we shouldn't meddle in politics. And I bet pharaoh said that to Moses.

-Rev. Dr. William Sloane Coffin Jr., Yale University chaplain and co-defendant with Dr. Benjamin Spock in anti-draft conspiracy trial.

MATTER OF FACT
JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON - Shining with the noblest glory of the human spirit; darker than the very depths of terror; richly witty, wonderfully wise and heartbreakingly sad, telling a tale for our time that none should fail to read; above all, an unimaginably beautiful book - that is the very least one can say of "Hope Against Hope."

By any rational test, such a book ought to be more important news than most of the stuff that covers the front pages. To illustrate, you could take the entire output of serious writing in America in the last decade, and you could throw in, for good measure, the earlier works by Norman Mailer, Mary McCarthy and a few others.

All of it would still weigh less in the balance, both as art and truth, than this long memoir of the last years of Russia's greatest modern poet, Osip Mandelstam.

The author is Mandelstam's undefeatable and undefeatable widow, Nadezhda. Her friend, Prof. Clarence Brown of Princeton, describes her in his introduction to her book as "a vinegary, Brechtian, steel-hard woman of great intelligence, limitless courage, permanent convictions and a wild sense of the absurdity of life."

One is compelled to believe every word of this; yet it still seems an inadequate summary of the mind that produced such a book. The book's themes are simple enough, to be sure.

They are the idyllic love that united the Mandelstams; their life together, almost as hunted animals, after the poet incurred the displeasure of Josef Stalin; and Mandelstam's final murder by Stalin's order and his widow's defiant conservation of the main body of his work, although the almighty state wished to destroy the poems along with the poet.

There is no use, here, trying to say much more than the above. The story the book tells is a true tale of horror of these harsh times. But the real point is that the tale of horror is told with a counterpoint of high comedy, with a richness of incident and a power of characterization, with a love of life despite life's cruelties and bestialities that are very, very hard to match.

All this, in itself, is sufficiently extraordinary. Except for the very different Casanova, after all, one cannot think of another truly major writer who only took up the pen in very old age. But although Nadezhda Mandelstam is a scholar of some distinction, with English as her speciality, she had produced not a single literary work of any significance before she began to compose "Hope Against Hope."

Reading it, you can see why this old lady with the face of an autumn pippin is a prime heroine, at the age of 71, among the more promising young writers in Russia. You can see, too, why Mandelstam's only real poetic competitor, the great Anna Akhmatova, who was famous for her distaste for other women, made a permanent exception for the wife of her beloved Mandelstam.

When you read Nadezhda Mandelstam's great book, in truth, your first impulse is to take a plane to Moscow for the sole reason of trying to scrape an acquaintance with her. The translation of her book, by Max Hayward, is well up to the very high Hayward standard; but the wit and wisdom, the celebration of courage and goodness, the proud defiance of tyranny have a reported bite in the original that cannot be translated.

Yet the dreadful admission must be made that for an American, at this juncture of our development, there is more to reading "Hope Against Hope" than the sheer glorious exhilaration of quite unexpectedly discovering a major work of art and thought. For this American, at any rate, it was also a worrying, even a shaming experience.

For there is something sadly shaming in the ironic contrast between this book and the sort of thing we in America take so seriously nowadays - such sentimental, antirational tosh, for instance, as Charles Reich's "Greening of America."

Where Reich never appears to have encountered anything remotely resembling this world's hard realities, Nadezhda Mandelstam, of course, digested a diet of those realities that would have killed or broken any ordinary person. We can only pray that such times as she had to live through will never come again - although there is no insurance at all against their coming again.

Yet one longs to buttonhole all the innocent young, with their total ignorance of history, their virtues and high hopes and their silly patter borrowed from Reich and to shout in their ears: "This is what is real, and from this you may really learn!"

New Birth for Midwives

Because two-thirds of the world's babies are born without a trained attendant, the medical profession is taking an increasing interest in practical midwifery with the result that the midwife is gaining stature and becoming more and more a member of a health team. In villages and outlying reaches of the globe, the midwife often is the area's only health attendant. In more economically developed regions, scarcity of hospital beds and medical personnel has contributed to need for midwives to assist in hospital and home deliveries. UNICEF has encouraged village midwives to attend refresher courses at neighborhood health centers, replacing folklore and tradition with scientific knowledge. These photos show some of the world's more than 800,000 midwives making their rounds.

New company promises major office innovations

ROCK FOREST (WT) — A futuristic approach to office furnishings and decor is offered by the Sher Art company which celebrated its official opening in the Rock Forest shopping center last week.

Under the direction of president Norman Maltais, Sher Art plans some major innovations in the field of office decoration.

The company's theme is high quality office furniture heavily but tastefully accented by a variety of artistic backgrounds including paintings by local artists, sculpture, creative carpeting and wall coverings.

"We want to eventually have our own art gallery," Mr. Maltais said, but emphasized that the company's main line is office furnishing and decorating.

He plans several art exhibits beginning next January to display the work of local artists.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE Going-away gifts presented by U.C.W. in Richmond

Today's hand illustrates two important principles of play. The first one is that, when you have no play for your contract, give your opponents a chance to go wrong. The second is that, when both sides play the same suit, one of them is making a mistake.

There is nothing wrong with South's three no-trump contract except that, after the heart opening, there is no play for it. Even with the spade finesse, he can make only eight tricks.

South counted up these eight tricks and decided to ask his opponents for help. South won the first trick with the ace of hearts and led the suit right back. The three-spot lead looked like a fourth best of a four- or five-card suit, so South wasn't afraid to find himself losing more than four heart tricks.

West put up his jack of hearts, looked hard at South, muttered something about Greeks bearing gifts and then cashed the rest of his hearts.

South let a spade and two diamonds go from dummy and a spade and two clubs from his hand, while East discarded the jack of diamonds. West responded to the very apparent signal by leading a diamond and South went right up with dummy's ace.

Four rounds of clubs followed. East discarded the deuce of spades on the third club, but was in real trouble on the last one. He couldn't afford to jettison his king of diamonds, so he let the 10 of spades go.

South, who had discarded the nine of diamonds on the third club, chucked his queen of diamonds, finessed the spades and made his ninth trick with the spade nine.

Resignation requested after acid announcement

DUBLIN (AP) — One of Ireland's top psychiatrists, Dr. Ivor Browne, told a public meeting Saturday he had taken the hallucinatory drug LSD on three occasions that changed his outlook on life.

An immediate demand for Browne's dismissal was voiced by Joseph Connolly, chairman of the Dublin Mental Health Board and a member of the Dublin Health Authority.

Browne, 41, is chief psychiatrist of the health authority and professor of psychiatry at Dublin's University College.

"I feel it is nonsensical that people are being sent to jail for smoking a single marijuana cigarette," Browne told a shocked audience at University College.

In denouncing Browne, Connolly said: "We have a major drug problem in Dublin and here we have our chief psychiatrist telling us he has been on trips himself and condoning the use of marijuana cigarettes."

Browne, married and father of four children, also said he had been administering LSD to patients for 10 years. He said LSD enabled him to "see things with more clarity than is normal."

Dupont victimized in bizarre bankruptcy

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — An army of creditors crowds into a courtroom here Tuesday to begin unravelling one of the biggest and unlikeliest private bankruptcy act proceedings in history.

The debtor is Lamont du Pont Copeland Jr., who is: —Son of the chairman of the giant du Pont Co.; —Multimillionaire in his own right.

—Well-educated but shy, and, say some, financially naive; —By his own declaration, a victim of "a shrewdly conceived confidence game."

The cast of characters in this financial drama includes a man once convicted in a bank-fraud case, a smooth-talking promoter who once filed a $5-million personal bankruptcy of his own, a federal grand jury in Chicago, officials of two pension funds and an almost endless string of bankers, businessmen and lawyers.

Copeland filed in U.S. District Court here Oct. 20 for protection under the Bankruptcy Act while he reorganizes his financial affairs.

The law is designed to give creditors equal protection and the debtor time, without being tied up in diverse court suits, to try to work out a repayment plan that will enable him to hold on to at least some of his assets. OWES $60 MILLION

Tuesday's proceeding is a first meeting of the more than 100 creditors listed by Copeland in his petition, which showed nearly $60 million in debts—some of them contested. He listed assets of about $25 million.

IOOF compliments Lennoxville

SHERBROOKE (WT) — A personal letter from Mayor Victor K. Coppins of Hamilton, Ont., was delivered by a group of 49 visiting Odd Fellows to Lennoxville Mayor C. W. Dougherty.

In the letter, which bore the city seal of Hamilton, Mayor Coppins offered "the warmest good wishes" to the citizens of Lennoxville from the town of Hamilton.

Accompanying the letter was a pair of silver cuff links bearing the Hamilton crest which were also presented to Mayor Dougherty at the Odd Fellows oyster supper held Friday night.

Keith Coutlee of Hamilton, a district grand master of the order, made the presentation at the Odd Fellows lodge on Wellington St., Sherbrooke.

The purpose of the visit by Hamilton's Odd Fellows was to confer degrees of the order on a number of Lennoxville residents who are new members, according to H. Thornton Cleveland, Quebec grand master.

"They were a lively, snappy group," Mr. Cleveland said, referring to the visitors. "They left in gay spirits and remarked about Quebec hospitality."

The Hamilton group included a five-string orchestra.

Bruins, Rangers, Black Hawks maintain NHL leads

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Boston and New York remained in a deadlock and Chicago Black Hawks continue to be pressed in the National Hockey League standings after weekend games in which none of the division leaders could improve their position.

Boston Bruins tripped Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2 Sunday and Philadelphia Flyers 5-2 Saturday but remained in a standoff atop the NHL's East Division with New York Rangers, 2-0 victors over Minnesota North Stars Sunday and 5-4 Saturday against Montreal Canadiens.

The Black Hawks, meanwhile, drubbed California Golden Seals 9-0 Sunday as Bobby Hull collected three goals for the 25th time in his career, but had to settle for a 3-3 tie Saturday night against St. Louis Blues, their nearest rivals in the NHL West Division.

In another Sunday game, Detroit Red Wings tripped Philadelphia 4-2 after losing 6-1 Saturday against Pittsburgh.

Toronto Maple Leafs held on for a 5-3 win over California, Minnesota blanked Buffalo Sabres 3-0 and Vancouver Canucks defeated Los Angeles in other Saturday games as all 14 NHL teams saw action on the same day for the first time.

Tuesday, Pittsburgh visits Toronto, Boston is at St. Louis and Vancouver entertains Minnesota.

HULL HAS 11 NOW

Hull's output at Chicago Sunday gave him 11 goals for the season. He needs only one more game in which he scores three goals or more to tie the NHL career mark of 26, held by Montreal Canadiens' now-retired scoring ace, Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

The shutout for Tony Esposito of the Hawks was his third of the season. He holds the season record of 15, set last year during his rookie campaign.

Boston's Phil Esposito scored once and assisted on two goals by linemate Ken Hodge in the 4-2 Bruin victory to increase his lead atop the individual scoring race. The Bruins' centre now has 34 points off 14 goals and 20 assists—all league highs.

Rookie goaltender Gilles Villemure stopped 34 Minnesota scoring thrusts, including 15 in the second period when the Rangers could manage only seven at Gilles Gilbert in the North Stars' goal.

But Dave Balon, with his fifth goal in three games, notched the winner and captain Bob Nevin on a breakaway padded the New York victory as the Rangers extended their home unbeaten string to nine, seven of them victories.

HOWE SCORES TWO

Gordie Howe and Frank Mahovlich scored two goals each in Detroit's win at Philadelphia but the victory may have been costly to the Red Wings.

Howe, their 42-year-old allstar, missed most of the last half of the game after suffering a bruised rib cage in a collision with defenceman Joe Watson of the Flyers.

Dr. Stanley Spooner, the Flyers' team physician, said Howe's rib cage was packed in ice and the bruises did not appear serious.

Balon's two goals at Montreal Saturday paced the Rangers' victory and left the Canadiens third in the East, three points behind the pacesetter Rangers and Bruins.

Both goalies put in strong performances, Phil Myre in the Montreal goal facing 40 shots while his team-mates were directing 45 and New York's Ed Giacomin.

Third-period goals by Esposito, Don Marcotte's second of the game, and Derek Sanderson broke open a tight struggle at Philadelphia and offset a two-goal effort by Flyers' Bobby Clarke.

FIRE 40 SHOTS

The Bruins blustered Philadelphia's goaltending tandem of Doug Favell, who left after the first period when he twisted his knee, and Bernie Parent with 40 shots while Gerry Cheevers faced 35 Flyers shots.

Red Berenson's short-handed goal early in the third period lifted the Blues into a home-ice tie with Chicago.

Third placers contest Cup

Als, Stamps heading to Toronto

Larks' defence shuts off Cats

By IAN MacLAINE
HAMILTON (CP) — Montreal Alouettes shattered the Eastern Football Conference's thirdplace myth Saturday by sweeping into the national final with an 11-4 victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Combined with the previous Sunday's 32-22 decision at Montreal, the Alouettes took the two-game, total-point series 43-26 to become the first thirdplace finisher in EFC history to advance to the Grey Cup game.

Their opponents in the East-West finale at Toronto Nov. 28 will be Calgary Stampeders, whose 15-14 cliffhanger over Saskatchewan Roughriders at Regina Sunday gave the Calgarians the deciding game in their best-of-three Western final.

It will be the first Grey Cup appearance for Montreal in 14 years. Montreal head coach Sam Etcheverry and general manager Red O'Quinn were members of the 1956 Alouettes who were stopped 50-27 by Edmonton Eskimos.

The last Alouette team to win a Grey Cup was the 1949 edition. The Stampeders were the victims that year.

IT'S DEFENSIVE STRUGGLE
Saturday's game developed almost from the start into a defensive struggle in which the Als' front four and the Hamilton linebackers kept constant pressure on opposition quarterbacks.

The only touchdown of the game, a two-yard run by Montreal's Moses Denson, followed a pass-interference call deep in Hamilton territory when Ticats' defensive halfback, John Williams, got caught for covering flanker Gary Lefebvre too closely.

These two carried on their own little war of words on the field and were eventually ejected from the game early in the fourth quarter when Lefebvre took exception to a tackle and came up swinging.

Jake Gaudaur, Canadian Football League commissioner, will probably decide after reading the game's official report if further disciplinary measures will be necessary.

Greg Fulton, CFL secretary-treasurer, said Sunday, however, he doubted the disqualification would affect Lefebvre's status for the Grey cup game since the incident occurred in the heat of the moment.

The usual penalty for being ejected is a $50 fine.

BOTH USE WIND
Both teams took advantage of a stiff westerly wind as the Als built quarter leads of 1-0, 8-4 and 9-4 before linebacker Mike Widge put the Montrealers a converted touchdown ahead by spilling Ticat quarterback Joe Zuger for a two-point safety.

Montreal quarterback Sonny Wade, who enjoyed his best play of the season in the last three games against Ticats—including an 18-18 tie in the season finale that gave Hamilton first place in the standings, kicked a wind-assisted 70-yard single and George Sprangate converted Denson's six-pointer to complete the Montreal scoring.

Hamilton used a second-quarter assist from the wind to do all its scoring; a 13-yard field goal by Tommy Joe Coffey and Zuger's 70-yard single that rolled through the end zone.

The only Hamilton victory of the day was registered during unscheduled post-game activities on the field when Ticat safety Garney Henley attempted to hand the game ball to Montreal's Mark Kosmos.

Henley, who played about 40 minutes on both offence and defence, said one of the fans who swarmed on the field grabbed his face mask and attempted to take off his helmet.

"I started to punch him but Zuger grabbed me," Henley recalled after the game. Hamilton halfback Dave Fleming moved in and pummeled Henley's assailant with a combination of punches.

TJEU WERE JIMGRU
The Als played like most of them felt—hungry.

Etcheverry said he called off the usual pre-game meal because of remarks overheard at the hotel where the team was staying.

"We heard someone say 'Bet all you can on the Tiger-Cats. We got to the chef.' We didn't want to risk doctored food so we got down to the dining room before the players," said the former CFL passing great. "None of them had meat. Some had eggs, and some guys didn't eat at all."

Wade, wide receiver Terry Evanshen and Sprangate confirmed following the game they had followed Etcheverry's instructions.

"We ate chocolate bars at half-time," said Sprangate, member of the Quebec national assembly who is still being accompanied by two plainclothes policemen because of the current political unrest in his province.

Etcheverry, who had an outstanding pro career as a quarterback in the CFL and National Football League before turning to coaching this season, gave Wade full credit for Saturday's victory.

He said fewer plays were sent in from the bench than for any other game this season.

O'QUINN'S HAPPY
O'Quinn said the victory was particularly gratifying for him. Although he had led a similar position in building up the EFC Ottawa Rough Riders to championship form, some questioned his selection of Etcheverry as coach.

"I'm happy for Sam because it will quieten a lot of second-guessers who said when we hired him as coach we did it for his name alone," said O'Quinn. "But we always had confidence in his coaching ability."

Lane TDs discounted

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan quarterback Gary Lane said officials should have awarded the Roughriders a touchdown in the third quarter Sunday in their Western Football Conference playoff final against Calgary Stampeders.

"They took it away from us twice. I know I had my foot into the end zone on that play when I lost my helmet but the officials marked it on the one."

"We made it again on the second down... when they untied I was lying across the goal line and there hadn't been any whistle... I guess it just wasn't in the books for us to win."

Lane did most of the quarterbacking for the Roughriders, who lost 15-14 on Larry Robinson's 32-yard field goal on the last play of the game.

The win gave the Stampeders the best-of-three final 2-1 and advanced them to the Grey Cup for the second time in three years.

The plays that Lane mentioned came late in the third quarter with Calgary leading 12-11. He took the ball from the Calgary 12 and, minus the helmet, headed for the goal-line and was met by a swarm of Calgary players.

STOPPED ON SECOND
On second down, Lane carried again and was stopped. Saskatchewan gave up the ball on downs when Lane fumbled and recovered on a third-down rush.

"Gary was in the end zone on the second play, from the one," said team-mate George Reed. "I was to carry and I slipped and fell... he made a great play and I know he was over."

Eagle Keys, head coach of the Roughriders, said: "What makes it so tough is that a team with a record like ours doesn't get a chance to play in the big game... it just doesn't seem right... but you can't take anything away from the Stampeders, they never gave up and came right back at us."

Robinson's kick kills Roughies

By CONWAY DALY
REGINA (CP) — Larry Robinson booted a 32-yard field goal on the last play of the game to give Calgary Stampeders a Grey Cup berth with a 15-14 win over Saskatchewan Roughriders Sunday afternoon in the final game of the Western Football Conference playoffs.

Robinson earlier had kicked a 17-yard field goal, two singles and a convert on the Stampeders' only touchdown, a 63-yard punt return by Jim Sillye.

With 90 seconds to play, fullback Hugh McKinnis fumbled on the Saskatchewan four-yard line and defensive tackle Don Bahnuik recovered for the Roughriders. They were forced to kick on the third down and a 16-yard Jerry Keeling pass to McKinnis set up the field goal.

Calgary, who last played in the Canadian Football League final in 1968, losing 24-21 to Ottawa Rough Riders, meet the Eastern Conference champion Montreal Alouettes Saturday at Toronto.

Saskatchewan, who lost 29-12 to Ottawa last year in the Grey Cup, led 12-11 at half-time Sunday. Calgary won the series opener 28-11 at Regina a week ago and Saskatchewan won 11-3 at Calgary Wednesday night.

Halfback Bob Pearce got the Roughriders' only touchdown and Jack Abendschan kicked a field goal, two singles and a convert. They also got two points on a safety touch.

FANS CHILLED
The game was played before a crowd of 18,385 and with temperatures of about three degrees above zero and a wind that gusted to 44 miles an hour. This produced a wind-chill factor of about 40 degrees below zero.

It was so cold that the national anthem was not sung before the game started. Officials said it had been agreed to waive the anthem and players' introduction before television cameras in order to speed up proceedings.

The footing on the snow-covered field was treacherous and each team fumbled four times. Saskatchewan lost all four. Calgary two.

Ron Lancaster, first-string quarterback who led Saskatchewan to a 14-2 record in regular-season play, the best in the club's history, made only a few appearances in the game.

Lancaster suffered back injuries in the Wednesday game and Gary Lane bore the quarterbacking burden.

Calgary entered the best-of-three final by defeating second-place Edmonton Eskimos 16-9.

Robinson's first single was on a wide field goal try after Steve Molnar fumbled on the Saskatchewan 18 on the second offensive play of the game and line-backer Joe Forzani recovered for Calgary.

Fullback George Reed, who carried 26 times for 62 yards, made the fumble that led to Calgary's next single. He lost the ball to Craig Koizman on the Saskatchewan 30 and Robinson again was wide.

The touchdown by Sillye, converted by Robinson, gave Calgary a 9-0 lead at the end of the first quarter. Saskatchewan came back with 11 unanswered points in the second quarter.

The Roughriders scoring drive began when the Stampeders, pushed deep into their own end after a blocked Abendschan field goal attempt, lost control of the ball on a fumble by Larry Lawrence who backed up Keeling.

The ball rolled into the end zone and tackle Granville Liggins fell on it for the safety.

Two minutes later, Pearce took a 20-yard pass from Lane and turned it into a 45-yard touchdown.

Abendschan tried a field goal that went wide for a 60-yard single, then tried one from the 50 that was short. Robinson touched the ball on the goal line and defensive half Howard Starks fell on the ball in the end zone for Calgary, giving Saskatchewan a single.

Calgary, who didn't get a first down until two minutes of the third quarter had elapsed, came back with a field goal by Robinson that gave them the lead for the second time in the game.

His 17-yard boot, the only score of the third quarter, came after Calgary had moved into position on a 12-yard gain by Keeling and a 16-yard pass-and-catch to Herman Harrison, who led the receivers with five catches for 57 yards gained.

STRETCH BUT NO SCORE — There was no goal on this play despite the pressure Alexander Galt Regional High School was putting on the Bishop's University Junior Varsity net. ## Winning Bisons bitter over pre-game neglect

TORONTO (CP) — To the University of Manitoba Bisons, their 38-11 victory over University of Ottawa Gee-Gees in the College Bowl Saturday was just a vehicle to show their displeasure with "the East."

The big sore spot with the Bisons before the bowl game had been the selection of Ottawa quarterback Paul Paddon as the Hee Creighton Trophy winner as top Canadian college player.

Bob Kraemer, who quarterbacked Manitoba to two straight bowl victories, placed third in the balloting.

"Why are we here?" asked Manitoba coach Henry Janzen in the Bison dressing room after the win. "Because we've got a quarterback. The only reason is Kraemer."

"Without him, we haven't got the team we have now. When we needed a pass, it was there."

The Bisons got an extra push Friday night.

"Our incentive came from just the way they treated us," said halfback Dennis Hrycaiko, who scored one of the Manitoba touchdowns.

"All they could talk about at last night's dinner was Ottawa's undefeated record. They never once mentioned that we were defending champions. And placing Kraemer third was ridiculous."

WAS SHOO-IN?
"It was typical of the East," he added bitterly. "We figured he was a shoo-in."

3-3 at one point in the second stanza. The Bruins took a 4-3 lead before the period ended, however, and outscored the home side 2-1 in the final 20 minutes.

Cards, Chiefs draw in Battle of Missouri

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
St. Louis Cardinals, who hadn't been scored on in their last three National Football League starts, yielded two field goals to Kansas City Chiefs' Jan Stenerud Sunday and had to settle for a 6-6 tie.

The Cardinals lead the National Conference's East Division with a 6-2-1 win-loss-tie record. Kansas City is second in the American Conference West Division at 5-3-2.

In other games Sunday, Minnesota Vikings overpowered Green Bay Packers 10-3, Detroit Lions whipped San Francisco 49ers 28-7, Cleveland Browns defeated Houston Oilers 28-14, Cincinnati Bengals romped over Pittsburgh Steelers 34-7, Bob Griese led Miami Dolphins to a 34-17 triumph over Baltimore Orioles; New York Jets downed Boston Patriots 17-3, Chicago Bears trounced Buffalo Bills 31-13, Denver Broncos routed New Orleans Saints 31-6, Los Angeles Rams topped Atlanta Falcons 17-7, Dallas Cowboys crushed

INTERCEPT THREE
Detroit, with a 6-4 record in the same division, intercepted three passes by John Brodie of the 49ers while Greg Landry was firing three touchdown passes for the Lions, despite brisk winds at Detroit.

Cleveland climbed into undisputed possession of the American Conference's Central Division with a 5-5 mark as Chip Glass caught two touchdown passes in the third quarter.

Pittsburgh, which had shared the division lead, dropped to 4-6 by losing to Cincinnati. Virgil Carter, stopgap quarterback acquired by Cincinnati from Buffalo after Greg Cook was injured, threw two touchdown passes and ran for a third.

Griese shocked Baltimore by scoring a touchdown on a quarterback draw and passing for two more for Miami. Jake Scott had a 77-yard punt return for a Miami touchdown. Baltimore leads the American Eastern Division with a 7-2-1 record to Miami's 6-4 mark.

New York Jets' George Nock scored two touchdowns against the Patriots, who suffered their ninth consecutive loss.

THROWS FOUR STRIKES

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) — Give your creative urge a chance to develop. Don't be unduly modest. Display your talents and be judged.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Not a day to act on impulse. Otherwise the sky's the limit. A friend may let you down, but take it in stride.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Your desire to please may in reality be a selfish one — a desire to satisfy your own ego, for instance.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) — Listen closely to fresh ideas from friends, associates. You may profit from a chance remark.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Beware are open to suggestion if approached in the right manner — and at the opportune time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Don't despair if you have reached an impasse. You may have to begin all over again. Profit from experience.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Anything of a detailed nature is under favorable planetary influences in Libra courts. Tickleish situation can be solved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Try not to make comparisons. If you feel you are being compared to someone you barely know, proceed with caution. If money is involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You may be asked to lend a hand to someone you barely know. Proceed with caution. If money is involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Choose your companions wisely. Discretion is the watchword in Capricorn charts during this period.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Cheat the decks, so you can enjoy the holiday with a clear conscience. Outlook is excellent for good fellowship.

PISCIS (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — As the year ends you're being off for a while. Money should be more plentiful now than for some time past.

More Harm than Good In Chemical Laxatives

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Most people eat less in adult life, particularly with advancing years and decreased physical activity. The decrease in bulk and the inactivity leads to less-frequent bowel movements in some cases.

The sense of satisfaction stemming from a loved parent's reward of praise for the child's good performance is lost, resulting in a sense of dissatisfaction. It is then that preoccupation with the bowels, the laxatives and the enemas often begins.

The chemical laxatives often cause more harm than good. They irritate the small intestine and cause undigested food to be dumped into the colon. Here the food decomposes, liberating excessive amounts of gas and foul odors. This contributes to distention and general ill feeling. The colon responds by slowing down the movement of the undigested food, by contracting and compressing the material.

Soon the colon has areas of "spasm" and above the "spasm" areas distended with the excess gas. Pain results from the overdistended colon and the spasm. Water is extracted from the delayed stool, causing small, dry, hard stool products. The increased contraction and activity of the colon causes more mucus to be formed from the glands in the wall of the large intestine. The results are stools of small hard material, interspersed with mucus, fluid and a great deal of gas.

Many individuals continue to take laxatives because of the small hard stools. If they stop the laxative, the hardened small intestine slows down. There is little or no undigested food propelled into the colon. Of course, the desired daily bowel movement does not occur. This serves to confirm the patient's opinion that a laxative is necessary for a "normal daily bowel movement." The victim is now fully hooked on the laxative habit. The small intestine and the colon are continually irritated. The stools remain abnormal, the gas and pain persist.

Some laxatives simply add bulk to the stool. These contain agar, a gelatinous material that expands by absorbing water. This is less harmful but unnecessary if one is eating a proper diet.

Enemas are not quite as bad as chemical laxatives. They don't irritate the small intestine and therefore don't cause the problems resulting from propelling undigested food into the colon. For the most part they act by increasing the volume in the rectum and through this means stimulating a bowel movement. Premature emptying of the colon, however, causes one to miss the next day's bowel movement. The result is danger of being hooked on a daily enema ritual.
