Healy says report neglected to look at Bishop's

Bishop's slams Carleton report

PELLETIER EXPLAINS — Liberal candidate for Sherbrooke county, Irene Pelletier, wooed about 80 Lennoxville voters last night, accompanied by Robert Nichol and other Liberal organizers. He received a warm welcome and a few pointers about old age pensions, among other things.

LENNOXVILLE (CP) — Dr. D. M. Healy, president of Bishop's University, Tuesday rejected a charge by three Carleton University professors and a former Carleton student that French-Canadian studies at English-language universities are a disgrace.

Professors Sinclair Robinson, Donald Smith, Robin Matthews and former Carleton student Joyce Wayne made the charge in a report released in Ottawa last week.

"Findings of the Carleton University professors to not take into account the French department of Bishop's University nor that of other institutions and thus present a somewhat arbitrary and only partial review of the facts," Dr. Healy said in a statement.

"Had Bishop's University been included in the study... it would have been brought to light that Bishop's French department is staffed by four fulltime professors, all Canadian, three of whom have studies at Quebec francophone universities."

The report, independently compiled by the three Carleton University professors and the former student, was released after the four spent several months studying the French departments at a number of English-language universities and two bilingual universities.

It blamed French departments administered by "immigrant or English-Canadian scholars" for the lack of French-Canadian material offered at universities and recommended a "general expansion of French-Canadian studies within French departments" to enable students to specialize in French-Canadian studies at both the post-graduate and undergraduate levels.

Trudeau getting it together in Toronto

Prime Minister Trudeau spent a busy day in the Toronto area, capped by a packed Maple Leaf Gardens rally and speeded by a $30 million waterfront park announcement.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield got a bomb scare in Chicoutimi, Que., and spent the bulk of the day taking a distinct back seat to flamboyant and fluently bilingual Claude Wagner.

New Democrat Leader David Lewis went to the original medicare province and blistered the Liberal government for drug prices so high they are "mind-blowing."

Social Credit Leader Real Caouette stumped Quebec's depressed Gaspé area, saying the Liberal welfare program is a patchwork which "gives to those who don't need and forgets those who do need."

So it went Tuesday, Oct. 17, with 13 political shopping days until the voters have their say in the Oct. 30 federal election.

Mr. Trudeau made a round of speeches in Toronto and nearby Brampton but the big one was the night shindig at the Gardens, with the 15,000 seats filled, capacity swelled by putting folding seats on the floor and a couple of thousand other persons vainly trying to get in off the nearby streets.

Mr. Trudeau preceded files of cabinet ministers, MPs, Liberal party luminaries and hopeful candidates as he moved to the podium. Party workers had been given some 7,000 seats to fill and did so, sometimes by busing people in from nearby communities.

Only an occasional catcall floated down to floor level as Mr. Trudeau said under the Liberals Canada has a chance in 1972 "to bring it all together" and break through on technical, social and geographic frontiers in the years ahead.

Today is his 53rd birthday and Lester B. Pearson, his predecessor as prime minister, was on hand to give him a huge cake and to say Mr. Trudeau entered politics not for glory but "to keep Canada strong and free and united."

In the morning, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp and Science Minister Alastair Gillespie, both Toronto MPs, unveiled the plan for a $30 million expropriation of land along Toronto's central waterfront for park development.

"We saw the opportunity and we seized it," Mr. Sharp said in explaining why neither city nor provincial officials had been let in on the federal plan, kept secret to discourage land speculation.

He said it was coincidence that final negotiations had been wrapped up only days ago, in time for the announcement to be made on the day of Mr. Trudeau's big rally.

Mr. Wagner, campaign leader for the Conservatives in Quebec, was the central figure as he and Mr. Stanfield spent a day in Chicoutimi.

Mr. Wagner accused the Liberals of running a racist campaign in Quebec, pushing a sort of French power concept with a promotional film showing French-speaking ministers talking of how much they had accomplished in Ottawa. Mr. Stanfield applauded when he challenged the Liberals to show this film in English Canada.

What mattered was the competence of Quebec's representatives, not their race.

Mr. Wagner, who served in a Quebec Liberal cabinet with Pierre Laporte, labor minister who was abducted and slain in 1970 by members of the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec, linked that tragedy to a sick society that had flourished under Mr. Trudeau.

Two years later, Mr. Wagner said, society is even sicker. The future of Confederation would be decided at this election and "if the people take the risk of re-electing Trudeau for four years it will be finished, I'm sure."

HALL CLEARED

The bomb scare came as Mr. Wagner and his leader attended a question-and-answer session at a junior college. The meeting was cut short to allow the cafeteria to be cleared. No bomb was found.

In Saskatchewan, the province where an NDP government set up the first medical care insurance program in North America, Mr. Lewis said drug prices in Canada "are completely unrelated to reality." Companies charge whatever "they think they can get away with," he told a rally of about 1,700 persons.

Part of the cost was due to heavy advertising—30 cents on every dollar.

The NDP leader suggested a Crown corporation produce drugs and sell them at prices just high enough to cover production costs and research. He also suggested consumer regulations to limit costs and promotions by private firms. There also should be a requirement for drugs to show the generic name, not the brand name.

ASKS BREAK

At Rivière-au-Renard in the Gaspé, Mr. Caouette urged young people to break away from the patterns applied by the older parties "for 100 years" and turn to Social Credit.

He repeated his claim that a guaranteed minimum income system could replace all the varied welfare programs now in use and, by cutting out bureaucratic duplication, cost not a cent more.

Wagner says Laporte victim of sick society

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — On the second anniversary of Pierre Laporte's death in the terrorist kidnapping crisis of 1970, Claude Wagner Tuesday linked the tragedy to a sick society which he said is continuing under the Trudeau government.

About 50 per cent of the supplies in the pulp and paper industry would have come from Ingersoll Rand Co. or S.W. Hooper Co. in the immediate area, Mr. Hooper contends. This would have provided, according to his estimation, about 21,000 man-years of labor.

"This proves to me that this government is only interested in the export of natural resources rather than in the secondary, manufacturing industry," Mr. Hooper concluded.

died." Mr. Laporte, Quebec labor minister, was kidnapped Oct. 10, 1970, and was killed Oct. 17.

"It is two years since the people of Quebec were almost on their knees from fear and suddenly the violence broke out amongst us. Why?"

"Because society was sick," the Progressive Conservative's Quebec campaign leader said.

The crisis came in the middle of Prime Minister Trudeau's mandate and society had deteriorated to the point where the government had lost control, he said.

Two years later, society is more sick than it was then, he said.

His speech to 500 persons came at the end of a one-day visit to the Chicoutimi area by Mr. Wagner and Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield.

Senate overrides Nixon's veto on pollution bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon vetoed Tuesday night a $24.6-billion bill aimed at ridding American waters of all pollution by 1985. But the Senate quickly voted to override the veto.

The Senate vote was 52 to 12, nine more than the two-thirds majority required to override. The House of Representatives is expected to vote on overriding the veto this afternoon.

The Senate vote came early today, two hours after Nixon had slapped down the measure by calling it staggering and budget-wrecking.

Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern was on hand to join those voting to override.

The bill also contained funds for the Great Lakes cleanup agreement signed in Ottawa last year by Nixon and Prime Minister Trudeau.

Nixon said any spending bill this year which would lead to higher prices and taxes "defies signature by this president." He said: "I have nailed my colors to the mast on this issue; the political winds can blow where they may."

He had asked for a water-pollution bill that would have committed $6 billion in federal funds over a three-year period and he called the bill which came to his desk "a staggering, budget-wrecking $24 billion."

He said every dollar this bill asked above his proposal "would exact a price from the consumer in the form of inflated living costs or from the taxpayer in the form of a new federal tax bite or both."

Nixon said he was prepared for the possibility that his veto would be overridden by Congress and added: "A vote to override the veto is a vote to increase the likelihood of higher taxes."

Nixon said the bill provides a measure of spending discretion and flexibility which the president can exercise. "And if forced to administer this legislation, I mean to use those provisions to put the brakes on budget-wrecking expenditures as much as possible."

He said that if his veto is sustained, it would by no means terminate existing federal water-quality programs.

He maintained that the Environmental Protection Agency will continue to operate those programs "until the merits of a new water bill can be dealt with as a first order of business in the new Congress."

A reward offered

SHERBROOKE — A reward of up to $5,000 is being offered by Mrs. Mary Leslie for information leading to the recovery of items stolen from her house in North Hatley during the night of August 22-23.

The thieves took a 13-carat diamond ring, set in an eight-claw platinum setting and made of white gold; about 160 pieces of sterling silver flatware in a "chantilly" pattern; a Georgian barometer made of red wood and a brass clock with a satin base.

Mrs. Nelson, who lives in the guest cottage adjoining the house, said the reason Mrs. Leslie was offering this reward is that some of the items are of great sentimental value to Mrs. Leslie, having been given to her by her brother who died recently.

Mrs. Leslie, a widow, was sleeping in the guest cottage as she usually does when none of her children are with her, when the house was burgled, Mrs. Nelson reported.

The thieves tried several windows in the house before they discovered small wooden panes in the kitchen door which they broke through easily and then unlocked the door. Mrs. Leslie did not discover the theft until the following morning when she went into the main house.

Detectives investigating the case have taken fingerprints and discovered one of the masks the burglars wore, part of a child's leotard with holes cut to see through.

However, no trace of the stolen goods has yet been reported.

Information leading to the recovery of these articles should be reported to Corporal Guy Martel, officer in charge, detection unit, district of Sherbrooke, Quebec Police Force, (819) 569-5515.

...and the electrical manufacturers agree

By TERENCE CORCORAN
MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian electrical manufacturers are being threatened by low-cost imports allowed into the country by an "open door" trade policy, the newly-elected president of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association said Tuesday.

William J. Chessman, president of Westinghouse Canada Ltd., said "more than a billion dollars worth of electrical products and their components was imported into Canada over the past year."

Imports are growing at a faster rate than the domestic market, he said. During the first seven months of 1972, imports made up 33 per cent of the domestic market for electrical products—a record. A decade ago about 23 per cent of such products were imported.

The dumping of some of these products represents the biggest threat to the industry, Mr. Chessman said at a news conference.

Dollar value of shipment by the industry is expected to rise from $2.8 billion in 1971 to $3.4 billion in 1973 and to nearly $4 billion by 1975.

The import threat comes from countries with government subsidized industries and nations with low wages, he said.

"This is a labor-intensive industry, and if we are going to meet the competition from such low-wage countries as Japan and countries in the Communist bloc, we will have to broaden our market base to give us the advantage of scale that we do not have at the present time."

"This means we will not only have to stem the flow of imports into our domestic market, but also gain access to foreign markets which are presently excluded."

All in accord on U.S. firm

QUEBEC (CP) — There is "no division" among Quebec cabinet ministers over the government's approval of the appointment of a United States engineering firm as consultant for the $6-billion James Bay hydroelectric project, a spokesman in Premier Robert Bourassa's office said Tuesday.

The issue has been discussed by the cabinet, but it is "absolutely false" to state that the cabinet is divided over the appointment, the spokesman added.

The government official was responding to a published report that at least four Quebec cabinet ministers were "hopping with anger" over the choice of Bechtel Quebec Ltd., a subsidiary of Bechtel Corp., as a consultant for the James Bay project.

OPENING OF RAISING CAMPAIGN — At a press conference was held yesterday at the Archbishop's Residence of Sherbrooke Cathedral to open the 1972 campaign of the Sherbrooke Regional Welfare Council to raise $150,000 for distribution among worthy organizations in the Sherbrooke area. Bruno Dandaneault, Monseigneur Fortin, the archbishop's representative; Gilles Robineault, president of the Sherbrooke Regional Welfare Council and Jocelyn Tremblay, the campaign's coordinator, begin the campaign with a smile. (Record photo: W. McMullen)

Love, love, love

SHERBROOKE (WM) — The theme of the new campaign to raise funds for the Sherbrooke Regional Welfare Council is 'I give because I love.' Jocelyn Tremblay, the campaign's coordinator, said yesterday in Sherbrooke at a press conference opening of the campaign.

"I truly believe that this theme truly personifies the people of the Sherbrooke Parish," Mr. Tremblay said. "We already know that to give is to love and in the past the people of the parish have proved that they are capable of loving."

"To make an unhappy person smile is to love, to care for aged people is to love, to feed the starving is to love, and there are still many other occasions to prove that it is easy to love," he added.

The goal of the campaign this year is $150,000. The campaign is usually conducted by requesting donations from local companies and associations and by parishes in the area collecting individual donations.

Last year, the Regional Welfare Council's campaign fell $25,000 short of the projected aim of $150,000. The amount collected last year was distributed among hospitals, information centres, children's camps and other organizations aiding underprivileged groups.

The distribution of the amount is decided by a committee according to current needs and problems in the community.

The campaign will end on November 30.

St. Andrews to fete anniversary

SHERBROOKE — St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, Sherbrooke, will celebrate its 168th anniversary on Sunday, Oct. 22.

The first recorded history of the church, which dates back to 1864, refers to Mr. Charles I. Cameron of Lochiel, Scotland coming to Sherbrooke. Mr. Cameron, a graduate of Queen's College, was licensed and ordained in Scotland.

It is interesting to note that he was referred to as a catechist and a probable inference could be that his mission was to form a group of the scattered Presbyterians who had already taken up residence in Sherbrooke and the surrounding area.

On August 25, 1864, a petition signed by 45 persons was presented to the Presbytery at Renfrew asking for permission to organize a congregation. Permission was granted and the organizational meeting was held on September 12, probably in Sherbrooke.

It was agreed at this meeting that a call be extended to the Rev. Mr. Evans. This call was accepted and he was inducted as the first minister of St. Andrew's by the Presbytery with the Rev. Mr. Smith of Melbourne acting as moderator.

The present minister of St. Andrew's is the Rev. D.L. Campbell. Mr. Campbell is married to the former Mary Melver, who, as a young girl, lived in Sherbrooke. They have three children.

The congregation of St. Andrew's is a cross-section of people from Sherbrooke and the surrounding area. The church has, through the devotion of its ministers and the guidance of the session, given strong witness and contributed to the religious life of the community.

In the latter part of 1968, the Session sponsored 'The Word of Grace Radio Program.' The initial responsibility for the expenses was met by the 12 members of St. Andrew's. Since the inception of the program the minister of St. Andrew's has been the program director.

The broadcast service has gained wide acceptance and is entirely supported by voluntary contributions from the listeners.

Sunday, Oct. 22, will be anniversary Sunday and a former minister, the Rev. Alex McCombie, of Toronto, will be the guest preacher at the regular morning and special evening service.

The Piper-organ of the church is considered by many musicians to be one of the finest instruments in Southern Quebec.

Perhaps the most outstanding alderman in living memory was the late George M. Dick, a Chief Engineer at Canadian Ingersoll Rand Co. He was the secretary-treasurer of St. Andrew's School for Trinity for five years. Mr. Dick made a solid contribution to the University of Sherbrooke when that institution was started. The university has awarded him an honorary degree.

Christ Church ACW-Guild meets

Ivy Hatch

STANSTEAD — Lawrence Curtis, of Derty Line, of the United States Customs Agency, was the guest speaker at the October 4 meeting of Christ Church ACW — Guild meeting held that evening in the parish hall. Although the attendance was less than had been anticipated, those who did attend felt they got a lot out of his talk and his display of the various drugs and how they are used.

He said the Customs strive but have difficulties to keep drugs out of the country "how we have drug problems" and said that alcoholism is another severe drug problem, it causes broken homes, divorce, children being raised in adverse conditions and other heartaches.

The Customs have been armed the past two years because of some carrying switch blades, and other dangerous weapons, even small guns, for from the drug situation has come the weapons.

He said the basic drug locally is marijuana, much of which comes from Mexico into the United States and Canada. He said it takes 625 pounds of marijuana to make one pound of hashish. Speed, he said is the most dangerous of all.

As Mr. Curtis spoke for more than an hour he answered questions from the floor. Mrs. Lindsay Smith also had a display of new books at the Haskell Library on drugs.

Mr. Curtis was introduced by Mrs. George Hatch, president for the month, and was thanked by Mrs. Alfred Middleton.

The business meeting which preceded by Mr. Curtis' talk included the routine reports of the secretary, treasurer and various secretaries.

Several turned in their Thankoffering and others are asked to turn it in to Mrs. Nellie Kezar, the secretary or to Mrs. Alfred Middleton, the treasurer, before, or at the November meeting.

former pastor of Stanstead and Beebe Anglican churches, now is Chaplain at Stanstead College and is also on the teaching staff.

After the service, a reception will be held in the Parish hall. Friends of the parishes are invited to attend.

SPECIAL SERVICE
Wednesday evening a special service will be held at St. Matthias Church, in Fitch Bay, when Mrs. Edward Schmitt, of Coaticook, will be ordained a Deacon of the Church of God, Anglican congregation. Mrs. Schmitt is the wife of Rev. E.G. Schmitt, rector of St. Stephens Church, in Coaticook.

While there are women Anglican deacons, this is the first time one has been ordained in the Diocese of Quebec. The service is at 8:00 p.m. Rev. T.J. Matthews, Bishop of Quebec Diocese will officiate.

Pepin sees hard fight, stays in Drummondville

By ALEX RADMANOVICH
Record Reporter

DRUMMONDVILLE — When voters in Drummond county flock to the polls on October 30, they will judge the record of Jean-Luc Pepin, the first French-Canadian to hold the Industry, Trade and Commerce portfolio in Canadian history.

As alternatives to the flamboyant incumbent, the Social Credit Party has nominated Jean-Marie Boisvert, the Progressive Conservatives have recruited Roger Rousseau and the New Democratic Party has parachuted Anne Dewitt.

Although the electoral campaign has generally been a mild affair in most Eastern Townships ridings, political interest and participation has been very high in Drummondville. With less than two weeks remaining before the votes are cast, all the candidates have put their political machines in high gear.

In the spotlight is cabinet minister Pepin, as he attempts to turn back a determined bid by Socred Boisvert to unseat him. Pepin barely made it in 1965 and managed to retain his seat last time around by a mere 2,000 votes, hardly a comfortable margin.

Contacted in his Drummondville headquarters yesterday, the minister made it very clear he expects his main opposition to come from the Socreds.

"Boisvert is a very unconventional politician," Pepin said. "He doesn't know whether he is a revolutionary or a reformer."

'OUT TO GET ME'
At a press conference in Sherbrooke two weeks ago, Pepin alluded strongly to the intensive Social Credit campaign and muttered following the formal questioning. "They are certainly out to get me."

The SC campaign has been directed at discrediting the efforts of the federal government's agricultural and industrial policies in the Drummondville area. While Pepin and his aides have stressed the positive aspects of recent policies, the other side has denied that any benefits have actually been reaped.

"This area has improved considerably during the last few years," Pepin told The Record in an interview yesterday. "Both in the industrial and agricultural sectors."

Textile exports have increased by 10 per cent this year over last, "the minister added, "and the federal government has done much to help the farmers who suffered crop losses last year."

He also contended that the farmers and city dwellers are very happy about the current situation and gave full credit to the policies of the government for the improved economic climate.

Refuting the rosy picture painted by the Liberals, SC hopeful Jean-Marie Boisvert pointed out that prior to last year, Drummondville had one of the lowest per capita incomes in Quebec. He noted there were thousands of welfare recipients and as many unemployed under the liberal regime.

STAGNANT BEFORE
"It's easy to use figures today which show that things are getting better," Boisvert told The Record last night, "because any increase in incomes or exports is magnified by the fact that the economy was so stagnant before. Even the smallest improvement looks impressive in the statistics."

To make things worse, the government invites them to borrow money at lower interest rates so they can increase their debts," he asserted. "That's the last thing we need."

A fundamental political question has also been thrown at the Liberal candidate by the opposition parties. They allege that as a cabinet minister, Pepin does not pay enough attention to the people in the Drummondville area.

"I have tried to convince the voters that I can open more doors for them in Ottawa because of my cabinet position," Pepin said. "I don't visit the area too often but I do come regularly."

"The conservative candidate has accused me of coming only when a new plant opens," he added, "but I think that is a good indication that I have done much for the area."

In Drummond county at least, there is a very noticeable tolerance by the Liberals of the PC candidate, a fact which attests to the fear Pepin's organizers have towards the SC camp. Last election the conservatives delivered the coup de grace to the Socreds by amassing over 8,000 votes.

IMPOSING SIZE
This year the PC banner is carried by Roger Rousseau, an imposing figure with his size. Rousseau has been hammering away at bread and butter issues, something very much synonymous with the Social Credit campaign.

The PCs have just ended extensive campaigning in the rural areas of Drummond and are launching their attack in the city starting today. A spokesman for Rousseau revealed that the party will dwell on two themes during the final stages.

"We are in favor of abolishing the 11 per cent sales tax on

JEAN LUC PEPIN

The SC candidate also attacked government policies to help farmers in times of disaster. "Farmers are very unhappy," Boisvert indicated, "because all they got was a promise of $400 for their losses."

"To make things worse, the government invites them to borrow money at lower interest rates so they can increase their debts," he asserted. "That's the last thing we need."

A fundamental political question has also been thrown at the Liberal candidate by the

Candidates close in more than one sense

By RICHARD STARR

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP) — Campaign headquarters of the three major contenders in Portage constituency are bunched within a small two-block area around Saskatchewan Avenue, the main street in this central Manitoba city of 15,000.

As campaigning progresses, indications are the three candidates may be just as close together when the ballots are counted in the Oct. 30 federal election. A fourth candidate is Travis Fitch, a late entry for the Western Canada Party.

The predominantly agricultural constituency was represented in the last Parliament by Gerry Cobbe, who squeezed out a narrow victory in the 1968 election to become one of the few Liberals to go to Ottawa from a rural prairie seat.

The riding stretches west about 60 miles from the suburban fringes of Winnipeg and is about 100 miles from north to south, extending from south of the Assiniboine River into the southern part of the Interlake region between Lakes Winnipeg and Manitoba.

Its 29,359 voters present a mixed bag, with urban dwellers here and in the northwest corner of Winnipeg voting alongside grain farmers, ranchers and Lake Manitoba fishermen.

The area around and south of this city is populated largely by grain growers of Anglo-Saxon origin.

There are French-speaking settlers in communities like St. Claude and St. Eustache in the South and a heavy concentration of Ukrainians in the Interlake. Completing the picture is a bloc of service voters at CFB Southport near Portage la Prairie.

CHANGED IN 1968
The riding was held for many years by the Liberals until the Conservatives captured it in the Diefenbaker sweep of 1958. The Tories held it until 1968 when Mr. Cobbe edged Conservative Sgi Enns by 390 votes.

The narrowness of the Liberal victory last time is encouragement enough for Conservative candidate Peter Masniuk, who says Mr. Cobbe should be ripe for defeat.

"Trudeaumania," he says, "only gave him a 390-vote spread."

Although it would take a massive swing in voter sentiment to put the NDP into contention, it does not deter Nick Manchur, a 48-year-old farmer, insurance agent and National Farmers' Union activist who talks more confidently than his two opponents about his chances.

He says voters in the riding—and he says he knows one-quarter of them personally—are fed up with the Liberal government and will turn to him rather than Mr. Masniuk, whom he calls "a weak candidate."

The noisy vacuum

Up to now the national election campaign has been a masterpiece of evasion. The candidates are talking day and night, from coast to coast. The speech writers are working overtime. The hotlines, air waves and news columns are crowded. But in all this clamor (oddly called participatory democracy) the basic issues facing the Canadian nation have been avoided like the plague, as if they were too frightening, or too sacred, for public discussion. At all costs, apparently, the people must be shielded from their true business.

Any foreigner, observing such a debate of trivia and irrelevance, might conclude that Canada, as fortune's darling, had no significant problems to solve. But Canadians, even the most ignorant and indifferent, know better. They know that the problems are multiplying, deepening and becoming more complicated all the time. They also know that the placebos and soothing syrup offered by the politicians cannot long outlast election day.

Three problems, above all, must confront the Parliament and government elected on October 30.

The most obvious and urgent is the distorted state of the nation's economy, its bread and butter. While the economy grows rapidly in total output, it cannot provide enough jobs for a labor force growing even faster. Nor will it provide them, no matter how fast it grows, so long as its growth is artificially fueled by an easy expansion of the money supply, an ever-increasing wage level and a resulting rise in production costs and prices.

All the politicians should understand by now that unemployment is no longer caused by a mere disequilibrium between supply and demand, as in earlier days, but is a new phenomenon so deeply embedded and structural in a technological society that it will not yield to simple inflationary pump-priming. Yet no party in the election is prepared to tackle this problem by the only available means of direct, compulsory controls over costs and prices.

The Trudeau government, having lost its old fear of inflation, says that controls are not needed, will not work and, anyhow, are outside federal jurisdiction. Mr. Stanfield seems to see, rather dimly, through these fallacies and says that if inflation became dangerous he would not hesitate to impose controls — as if it were not so dangerous already that the Canadian price level has been rising much faster than the competitive level in Canada's primary market, the United States. Mr. Lewis has a still more evasive answer to the riddle. He hides it behind a dense smoke screen by blaming everything on the corporate welfare bums that alone have been making the economy grow.

All the party leaders understand perfectly well, however, that the existing policies, or the absence of them, cannot be maintained indefinitely, that they must be reconsidered and revised when the election is past.

A second problem, stemming in part from the first, is Canada's future economic relationship with the United States. By a gentlemen's agreement, the Canadian and American governments have postponed their deadlocked commercial negotiations until both are re-elected or replaced, but the crunch cannot be far off now. Once his second term is won, President Nixon will renew his demand for real free trade under the automotive pact, for more equitable defence-sharing arrangements, for increased Canadian energy supplies and other concessions not yet disclosed.

His demands, and the expectations of Congress, may be unreasonable, and often have been based in the past on inaccurate figures, but certainly they must confront any Canadian government with the gravest sort of national decisions. How are those decisions to be approached? What counter-proposals has Canada to offer?

The decline of patriotism

It is a cliché that patriotism has become a dirty word. There are two reasons for it, one of them understandable. It is true that the invocation of the love of country is often associated with someone who is really engaged in shilling an audience into a nefarious enterprise. This was done on a grand scale during America's brief adventure in jingoism. And it is done by individual charlatans when they seek to distract attention from what it is they are actually up to.

But the more recent assaults on patriotism aren't based on a posteriori indictments, reasoning from the obnoxious character of the America - booster on over to the obnoxious character of what it is that he is boosting. The attack, led as usual by the intellectuals, is both on the concept of patriotism, and on the qualifications of the United States to be loved. The internationalists have for quite a while now confused patriotism with nationalism, and they therefore despise patriotism as the fuel of imperialism and isolationism.

Others simply say that America isn't worth it — isn't worth the devotion of its subjects. Edmund Burke said

of fact

with Joseph Alsop

that a country to be loved must be lovely. That isn't in fact true. There are people who love Uganda and South Africa. But it is worth exploring, in an age when people are pretty mobile, whether America is straining the bonds that attach people to her. I think it is happening, though not for the reasons most generally adduced.

Garry Wills uses the irreplaceable phrase to describe that which makes society cohere, "the bond of social affections." Our bond of social affections is weakening for some of the best reasons, secular and non-secular.

Concerning the former, it is increasingly true that the attitude of the people who run the government is that Americans are in all economic matters, the wards of the state. I do not think it ever occurred to George McGovern, for instance — and it doesn't occur to Nixon all that often — that it is an awful presumption for the state to reach into the life of the average citizen in the way generally sanctioned by the socialist communities.

The average American spends 40 hours a week working. During that time he accumulates his pittance, or his millions. Some of it needs perforce to be taxes to run corporate enterprises that only the state can feasibly administer.

But the arguments generally accepted in Congress these days do not acknowledge the presumption against taking money from the people for purposes wildly unrelated to the survival of society. George McGovern talks about people's earnings as though the earnings were ours at his sufferance. In an age in which the liberty a typical man exercises is primarily economic, the impositions of the socialists necessarily weaken the fundamental attachments of a citizen to his country.

There is something more important even than this that is straining the bonds of common affection. The final commitments of the human species are always eschatological, commitments to end-purposes in life. To love of family, to redemption, to transcendence.

There is a special kind of impiety abroad, and the top of the iceberg is the anti-religious joke. A magazine features a blasphemous, altogether vile caricature of the Incarnation by which the Christian community is guided, and inspired. I wrote once that no one should be permitted to stage a musical on the theme of the Buchenwald, that to do something that insensitive at the expense of the Jewish people is to cut bonds of affection to one another in so decisive a way as to make us strangers to ourselves.

By the same token, sacrilegious assaults on each other wound perhaps irreparably. In this connection, the Supreme Court recently ruled against a California expedient which would have allowed the state to return their money to individual parents for their use in schools of their choice for their children.

All in the name of the separation of church and state. Well, if church and state are to be separated to that extent, then the society that asks us for patriotic attachments to it has singularly less appeal than once it had. Surely a generous gesture by everyone involved would be a Constitutional Amendment restoring the right of people to patronize religious schools.

But, above all, the spirit of generosity, of recognizing the central place of the individual and his trans-social affections, is needed. To strengthen the kind of patriotism which does cause countries to be lovely.

Porter a winner

Dear Sir:

Re: The Richmond Blahs.

I am an Alexander Galt student, and I also enjoy being a spectator and participant in school sports. And I agree with Miss Nicholls that Richmond and Bishop's College School frequently win their sports events, some of which were played against my school. But her complaint that Richmond never gets any credit should be directed to her own schoolmates.

She complains that everything is Galt, Galt, Galt. Of course this isn't surprising, considering that it is a regular column about Alexander Galt, written by an Alexander Galt student. Is there no one in all of the students at RRHS who has the initiative to write a column for his or her school? And how about BCS?

If you will notice, Stanstead also has their own column, which I believe to be a weekly affair, and it is naturally centred around Stanstead College School.

I feel that Bruce Porter is doing excellent work on this job, which is far from easy. But to ask him to report on all the sports action of the Townships would be asking the impossible. Why couldn't a student from each of the two other major English schools in this area undertake such a job for their schools?

So get moving BCS, and Richmond! You need and deserve to have your sports action reported on, but don't try to hand Galt a job that you yourselves should be doing.

Thank you,

Helen Branswell

Una unique running hard

By BERNIE GOEDHART

EDMONTON (CP) — Una MacLean Evans is "running" for Parliament.

Her campaign pace on any given day is quick, steady and virtually non-stop.

At 7:30 a.m., in a pickup truck driven by an NDP supporter, the Liberal candidate in Edmonton East headed for the United Grain Growers plant "to meet the eight o'clock shift." About 10 p.m., at a Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' banquet where her newspaper columnist husband was guest speaker, she began thinking of going home.

And that was a relatively easy day, said Bob Stewart, her 29-year-old aide.

"Normally she's running to 12:30 or 1 a.m.," Mr. Stewart said. "Then she's up again at 6."

"The fever of it sort of catches you up though. Excitement builds and you forget how tired you are."

Mrs. Evans, 46, a member of Edmonton's city council for the last six years, is running against Conservative Bill Skoryko, who has represented the riding for the last 14 years. Also contesting the seat in the Oct. 30 federal election are New Democrat Ashley Pachal, Social Credit's Nick Senyk and Communist W. A. Tuomi.

By noon, Mrs. Evans had met about 300 people—one by one.

All kinds of people. Men shovelling sawdust in a construction plant. Students on their way to school. Women in corner grocery stores. Men waiting at bus stops. Oil-covered mechanics in service stations.

Always a warm smile, a handshake, then:

"Hi. I'm Una MacLean Evans. I'm running for Parliament in this constituency. May I leave you some literature and a calendar to remind you of election day?"

She admits she used to be nervous about going up to strangers. "I usually don't like campaigning for myself. But in this case, we've had really good response. I'm enjoying it."

Her greetings meet with good response.

A workman in the construction plant tells her "You can have 'em if you want 'em" when Mrs. Evans spots some slats that "would be just terrific for our signs at the rally."

In a day-care centre, she discusses child care with the centre's leaders, and sticks a campaign badge on each tot's chest.

Later, with some surprise, Mrs. Evans said:

"Did you think I did it hoping they'd wear them home? I just like little kids. I don't like to use people. Kids love badges. My own kids love badges."

She is the mother of three children, aged three to nine years.

The on-foot canvassing lasted a couple of hours and took a greater toll of a reporter than of Mrs. Evans. Between stops there were snatches of conversation.

"I think this time around there'll be a lot of support for the individual instead of the party in this constituency. I think (it's because) people are expressing a greater concern for themselves."

Does she dislike the trappings of politics?

"Of course I dislike it. I don't like the hoopla and the balloons and the little kids dancing."

"There's so much about a national election that's false, and I hate it."

Mrs. Evans said she wishes people knew more about the technicalities of politics.

"People read headlines. And we have a hostile press in Ottawa—hostile to the government."

Lewis (NDP Leader David Lewis) talks about corporate rip-off bums, but he doesn't say anything about all the people lower down, who pay less taxes."

Mrs. Evans, who ran for Parliament unsuccessfully in Calgary in 1957, said her reason for running in this election is "probably true, but I really care about people."

She was national president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs from 1960 to 1962 and has served as an executive officer of the Liberal party at the federal and provincial levels.

At the rented trailer and garage which form her campaign headquarters, she spoke briefly of her family, and what would become of them if she should win the seat.

"If Parliament was called for January, I would take the children to Ottawa."

And her husband?

"As you know, writers are pretty mobile people," she replied with a smile. "I have the support of my husband in what I'm doing, or I wouldn't be doing it."

Consumer's BILL OF RIGHTS

OUR COMPANY HAS ALWAYS SHOWN ITS REAL CONCERN FOR THE CONSUMER AND FOR THE CITIZEN IN MANY WAYS. NOW WE ARE GOING EVEN FURTHER. WE ARE DEVELOPING A MEANINGFUL PROGRAMME TO SUPPORT OUR SUGGESTED "CONSUMERS' BILL OF RIGHTS".

1 THE RIGHT TO BE INFORMED

We pledge to continue offering you the type of advertising which states its aims in simple and direct terms and which does not lend itself to misinterpretation. We will continue examining the labeling of our products to make sure that what a consumer needs to know about the products she buys is on the label or is available. We'll continue to work in the areas of understandable dating of perishables, grade labeling, standards of identity, nutrition labeling, etc. We'll tell you more about unit pricing...how to make full use of it as quickly and easily as possible... We'll continue to publish our special "Consumer Information" ads informing you about price changes — the reasons for such changes.

2 THE RIGHT TO CHOOSE

We pledge to continue offering you a selective variety of quality products in our supermarkets — in order that YOU, the consumer, may choose for yourself the national-brand or house-brand products you wish...the products whose quality and price best suit your particular needs.

3 THE RIGHT TO BE HEARD

We pledge to continue conversing with you. We are working hard to establish a continuing dialogue with individual consumers and with consumer groups — all those who have a genuine interest in the marketplace. It is your words of praise and criticism that have allowed us to be what we are today. Without you, and without your co-operation which we count on at all times, Steinberg's Limited could never have attained its present growth, nor could we have put at your disposal a programme such as Miracle Discount Prices and Bonus Buys, now in effect for the fourth consecutive year. That's why we welcome your comments. Don't hesitate to send them in to the attention of the General Manager, 5400 Hochelaga, Montreal.

4 THE RIGHT TO CORRECT

We pledge to acknowledge the right you have to expect every product to perform as advertised when it is used as directed. Warranties should be meaningful. You have the right to expect that a product or a service lives up to its advertising in every way. If and when it does not, it is your right to tell us and help us rectify the situation.

By proposing this Consumers' Bill of Rights, we are fully aware of the responsibilities we are assuming. But for us, to better serve the consumer in 1972 means MUCH MORE than offering the opportunity to reduce food costs the year round (as we have continued to do since we launched our programme of Miracle Discount Prices on over 5,000 items every day, and our Bonus Buys in 1969); it means MUCH MORE than offering the quality, variety and services that have built Steinberg's reputation; it means really helping today's consumers to define and defend their OWN rights as consumers.

To do so, we are prepared to devote all the necessary time, energy and good-will, and we thank you again for your most valuable support.

By Ann Landers

Chicago centre for handicapped not to cure impotence or frigidity

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a woman whose husband had suffered a stroke. He was in his 50's and had always been a wonderfully satisfying lover. The woman said she was sure he would be unable to function sexually after his illness. (He had lost the use of his left arm and leg.) Their family doctor suggested that they take him to the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago. Within two years the man had regained partial use of his leg and complete use of his arm. And then his wife added happily, "He is once again a completely satisfying lover."

That Rehabilitation Institute in Chicago must be a place where they work miracles. I wonder if they can do anything for my husband. He hasn't had a stroke but at the age of 52 he has gone completely deaf. He was never a great lover, but he was at least there. Now he's nowhere. I hope I've made myself clear. Please tell me if that hospital can help him.—Batting Zero

Dear Zero: Since that woman wrote I've been deluged with letters from readers (both male and female) who are also "batting zero."

Dr. Henry Betts, the Medical Director of the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago would like me to make it clear that they offer counseling to the severely handicapped and this sometimes means helping patients reactivate their sex lives. The inability to function sexually, however, must be related to a spinal cord injury, Parkinson's disease, cerebral palsy, burns or some other medical problem. At present, they are not set up to treat impotent males and frigid females who are "batting zero" solely because of emotional problems.

P.S. Last week was the groundbreaking ceremony for the new building. Chicago will have one of the finest rehabilitation institutes in the world—thanks to Dr. Betts.

Dear Ann Landers: How strange that your advice should have appeared one day late for me. Yesterday's paper carried the letter from the girl who asked if she should tell her fiancé about her past. (He had been begging her to do so for several months.) You said, "No. A man should be willing to accept a woman for what she is. If he becomes too persistent she should tell him to get lost." You pointed out that many men promise to not hold a girl's past against her, but somehow they can't keep the promise and all of a sudden she's a tramp and a streetwalker and their marriage is never the same.

Right now I am crying my eyes out. I went with my fiancé for over a year. We were very much in love. I decided not to tell him about an affair I had had with a man he dislikes very much. The night before last he begged me to trust him. He swore he could forgive anything but he had to know who the other man in my life had been. When I finally told him he said, "I could have forgiven you for being with any man but HIM. I could never marry you now. I'd like my ring back, please."

Print my letter. It might help some girl for whom it is not too late.—Swollen Eyes in Tulsa

Dear Tulsa: Good riddance. He sounds like a heel.

Confidential to Say It Again: Your friend is correct. Those ear-splitting sounds the kids dig have already produced a number of cases of partial deafness. A person whose ear drums are assaulted by hours of continuous amplified rock music may pay a big price for his "entertainment." So turn it down, you cats.

With the help of others, Mr. Smith and the Sherrers over the summer months, have now completed painting the outside of their three-storey home which is over 100 years old. Newcomers to this area might be interested to learn that this building was known as halfway house (hotel) where the Montreal-Richford-North Troy, Vt., stage coach made their overnight stop.

Frontier Branch L.A. meets

STANSTEAD — The October 3rd meeting of Stanstead Frontier Branch Auxiliary was held that evening in the Memorial Home lounge.

President, Mrs. Helen Heald presided and welcomed the guests. Mrs. E. Harvey of Pierrefonds, and Mrs. Effie Smith of Verdun.

The application of Mrs. Louise Rolleston was approved and she was welcomed into the Branch.

It was agreed to continue to serve sandwiches and coffee at the Friday night dart games when they are held at the Memorial Home. Mrs. Gladys Hunter, Miss Carla Blay and Mrs. Doris Belanger offered to do the work Friday, October 6 with Mrs. Helen Heald and Mrs. Margaret Black on October 13. Mrs. Geneva Lyons and Mrs. Gladys Charter on Oct. 20. Mrs. Heald asked if any can go Oct. 27 to contact her.

It was announced several applications have been received from young people for the student cursaries from the Auxiliary. These will be accepted until October 30 with the decision to be made at the November meeting to whom they shall be given. The presentations will be made Nov. 11.

Plans were finalized to serve a casserole supper at the Crystal Rebekah District meeting in the IOOF hall on October 10.

Mrs. Heald announced the annual Armistice events Nov. 11, which will include the service at the Hook Island cenotaph and decorating of other memorials and graves and the banquet that evening to be followed by a dance. Plans for the Auxiliary participation will be made at the Nov. meeting.

The election of officers will be

November 7. Mrs. Heald asked if the members preferred a nominations committee to bring in a slate or nominations from the floor. The latter was voted on.

Hostesses for the November 7 meeting will be Mrs. Tillie Bowden, Mrs. Gladys Charter, Mrs. Maude Probert and Mrs. Lillian Probert.

Arrangements were also made to serve refreshments when the Legionnaire Dart League plays at the Memorial Home.

Mrs. Gladys Charter, recently returned home from a trip across Canada brought home a gift from Victoria, B.C. which was claimed by Mrs. Hazel Westover who had the "right" number.

The meeting closed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Geneva Lyons, Mrs. Gladys Hunter and Mrs. Ivy Hatch.

W.H. and F.M. Society

BEEBE — The September 20 meeting of the W.H. and F.M. Society was held in the Sunday school room at the Advent Christian Church, with several members and one guest attending.

Mrs. E. Woodard called the meeting to order in the usual manner, followed by the devotional period led by Mrs. Batchelder assisted by several members. The theme being Gate way to Concern.

Routine reports were approved. The treasurer stated that the proceeds from the sale held on the campground were very satisfactory.

Correspondence was read and bills voted to be paid.

The secretary was asked to write notes of appreciation to donors of financial gifts and quilts and backing.

It was reported that the two quilts which had been tied and completed earlier in the week had been sold.

Two members and the president are to meet to plan a project which will be starting at the October meeting.

Following the business session, two quizzes were conducted with prizes being awarded the winners.

A member, observing a birthday, was remembered with a card, signed by all those attending the meeting.

The hostesses Mrs. G. Batchelder and Mrs. E.C. Middleton served light refreshments and a time of fellowship was enjoyed.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) Swap ideas with coworkers for mutual benefit. Financial outlook excellent in Aries charts.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You can make gains if you are a little more flexible. This is no time for stubbornness.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You abhor hypocrisy but circumstances force you to use devious methods in this case.

CANCER (June 22 to July 22) You resist a change in philosophy but something you read or hear may give you second thoughts.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23) Divulge no secrets as there are some who would be likely to spread the information around.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) Be extra discreet. Avoid questionable places and people. Accent morality and honesty.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) What seems to be inevitable is merely a challenge, accept it as such. You can meet it successfully.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) When you get your way (as you will today), be a gracious winner. Don't gloat over victory publicly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Consult others before making final decisions. You may be "too close to the forest to see the trees."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although you've been floundering in the dark, this is the day when you finally see the light. Take action.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although fame may escape you, you are satisfied with the love and respect of your family and friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have some apprehension regarding the state of your health. Have a checkup to relieve your mind.

West opened the ace of spades and continued with the deuce. East won the trick with the queen and shifted to a trump. Jim won in his own hand; ruffed his last spade in dummy; led and ruffed a heart with both opponents playing low; entered dummy with a trump; cashed the ace of clubs; ruffed another heart; drew East's last trump and stopped to count.

The odds in favor of finding the jack of clubs in the West hand were three to one so Jim made the expert's play of leading his 10 of clubs and letting it ride.

East cashed a surprise trick with his singleton jack and the expert had paid the penalty of knowing too much.

West had discarded the jack of spades and jack of hearts on the last two trump leads. Obviously his last four cards were three clubs and the ace of hearts. East had to be holding two hearts, the king of spades and one club.

U.C.W. meeting in the Townships

BIRCHTON — The October meeting of the Birchton U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Nutbrown on Oct. 4 with 12 in attendance. The president, Mrs. Howard Picard opened the meeting by asking the members to repeat the U.C.W. Purpose, in union. The Worship period was led by Mrs. Gilbert Nutbrown entitled Thanksgiving. The scripture reading was taken from Matthew 6: 25-33, followed by prayers respectively.

The program was a skit taken from the Clip Sheet with several members participating, led by Mrs. N. Turchyn. The president adopted the minutes of the last meeting as read and reports were given from different committees.

Since Cookshire and Birchton U.C.W. ladies had both chosen Nov. 18 for Christmas Sale and Tea, our members agreed to change the date to Nov. 11.

The Pulpit Supply Committee asked the U.C.W. to take charge of the Service on Oct. 22 and present the skit Let's Face It, formerly acted at the Fall Rally. Plans were set up to do so. The Historical Society are having a Canadiana Display and Tea in the Birchton Hall on Oct. 14.

The Youth Group are holding a Community Auction on Oct. 21 at 1:00 p.m. at the Birchton Hall and would appreciate donations of articles except clothing or will sell articles on a commission basis.

The president read an article written by Gregory Clark entitled Cash Registers Rattled Like Machine Guns. The Pennies for Peace boxes are to be turned in at the next meeting to be held at the Logan-MacKinnon home.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction and refreshments served by the hostesses, Mrs. Nutbrown and Mrs. J. Brazel.

What About Sex During Pregnancy?

Dear Dr. Lamb — I'm a married man and my wife is pregnant. I would like to know how long can marital relations be going on (she's in her seventh month). She is worrying over my having affairs with other women and is keeping me home when I would like to go out and have some fun talking with other men. I stay home and drink because of this. Is it normal for women to act this way when pregnant?

Dear Reader—Couples' individual living patterns are so variable that even when the wife isn't pregnant it is difficult to answer your question specifically. Some women are confident in their relationship with their husband and are well adjusted and don't make excessive demands on their husbands' time. They know if their husband is away from home it is because of something he has to do or it is important to him.

Other women are less secure, and may be overly demanding on their husbands. These are the women who demand that their husband be home at a specific time on the dot and keep track of all his time and activity whether or not they are pregnant. These are often dominating women who are attempting to control and dominate their husbands and usually try to run the family. Some husbands actually like this, others don't. Each couple has to work out their own interdynamic relationship, and if it isn't worked out satisfactorily they need professional help either in terms of marriage counseling or in some instances psychiatric help. The dominating, over-controlling wife many times does drive her husband to drink. This is part of the dynamics of the alcoholic's wife. She usually needs psychotherapy, but because of her husband's obvious drinking (which she actually precipitates), is able to convince herself that it is her husband's fault and that she is above reproach. The truth is both of them have a problem.

When a woman is pregnant things change and things get more complicated. Many women are very happy and secure in their pregnancy and look forward to the baby and may even have a better disposition during their pregnancy than they do other times. But this isn't always the case. Some women fear that pregnancy makes them unattractive or as you express it, are concerned that their husband will be interested in other women while they are pregnant. This is a real psychological threat to a woman and it's understandable that she might be insecure if this is her reaction to her pregnancy. Such a woman usually needs reassurance by her husband sufficient to convince her of his love. In these circumstances, a man might be well advised, if it is conversation he wants, to invite some of his men friends or married couples to the home and the wife would be wise to encourage this. Or if the family situation permits, you can take your wife out, even if she is in her last month of pregnancy. You can both enjoy the conversation.

As far as marital relations are concerned, most obstetricians feel that this should be avoided during the last month of pregnancy. There is evidence that when the woman reaches a climax that this causes the uterus to start contracting and may precipitate an early labor. If a woman does not reach a climax, then this doesn't occur of course.

MR. and MRS. CLAUDE VILLENEUVE at their wedding in the Wesley United Church, Beebe.

Villeneuve-Lepitre wed

BEEBE — A pretty late summer wedding took place on Saturday September 16, at the Wesley United Church, Beebe, when Judith Audrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Valmore Lepitre, of Beebe, became the bride of Mr. Claude A. Villeneuve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amédée Villeneuve of Rock Island.

Rev. G.W. Stokes, pastor of the church and Father R. LeGours, pastor of Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church, Rock Island, officiated for the double ring, bilingual ceremony. The wedding music was played by Miss Viola Moraville at the organ. Mrs. Gordon Laberee, soloist, during the signing of the register sang "Hawaiian Wedding Song."

Standards of pink tipped white hydrangea were used to decorate with the guest pews marked with white satin ribbon bows.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father looked lovely in a gown of white polyester crepe cut in straight lines with guipure lace threaded with white satin ribbon at the highrise waist, on the wedding ring collar and tipped the cathedral length train that fell from her shoulders. The long full sleeves with re-embroidered rose lace applique were finished with wide cuffs at the wrists. A cluster of five white roses held in place her fingertip length veil of silk illusion. She carried a white leather bound bible on which rested a cascade of deep red sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Miss Linda Lepitre was maid of honor for her sister and Miss Celine Villeneuve, sister of the groom, the bridesmaid. They wore gowns of pastel yellow polyester crepe with daisy chain cut lace on the contours of the sweetheart high rise bodice to encircle the high standing collar. Double bands of lace were on the cuffs of the short puffed sleeves. They wore white nylon lace straw picture hats banded with yellow satin ribbons under lace, and carried natural color baskets of yellow mums and mauve asters.

Miss Robin Davio, the flower girl was in a gown of matching yellow polyester crepe having daisy lace chain encircling the highrise waist, around the neckline and on the cuffs of the short puffed sleeves with daisy blossoms applied on the yoke. She carried a smaller basket of yellow mums and mauve asters. The gowns were made by Mrs. Villeneuve, mother of the groom.

Mr. Villeneuve stood as witness for his son. The ushers were Mr. Steven Bacon and Mr. Pierre Beaudin. Master Luc Giroux, nephew of the groom was ring bearer. They had carnation boutonnières.

Mrs. Lepitre, mother of the bride, was in a gown of aqua marine polyester crepe with silver braid on the kaputo pointed sleeves and scoop neckline. Her accessories were in white and she wore a corsage of deep red roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Villeneuve was in a gown of rose-pink polyester crepe trimmed with silver braid and accessorized with silver. She wore a deep red corsage of roses.

Mrs. Charles Crawford, maternal grandmother of the bride, was in green polyester crepe and wore a corsage of red roses. The paternal grandmother, Mrs. Erma Lepitre wore a gown of mauve polyester crepe and a corsage of tulle flowers.

The groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Henri Fauteux was gowned in mauve-pink polyester crepe and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Olive Villeneuve wore a gown of periwinkle blue polyester crepe trimmed with white ruching. Their corsages were red roses.

The reception was held at the Three Villages Sports Club where a turkey dinner was served to 125 guests. The tables were decorated with arrangements of late summer flowers. The bride's table was centred with a triple tier wedding cake made and decorated by the bride's mother in white with turquoise blue roses topped with silver wedding bells.

Later in the evening a wedding dance took place and the guests were joined by more invited relatives and friends. Music for dancing was played by Les Beaulieu's orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Villeneuve left by airplane for their honeymoon at Montagu Beach, in Nassau, the Bahamas. The bride travelled in a white slack ensemble having a white trimmed green blazer, black accessories and a corsage of red sweetheart roses. They have now taken up residence at 166 Strathgry St., Apt. 206, LaSalle, Que.

Master Louis Deguire, nephew of the groom was in charge of the guest book. Guests attended from Guelph, Capetown, Hull, Markdale, Ont., Boston, Mass., Ottawa, Ont., Hadley, Mass., Montreal, Quebec City, Charleston, Vt., Magog, Sherbrooke, East Angus and the Border Communities.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton L. Doyle of R.R. 3, Durham, Ont., wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Wilma Dianne, to Charles Thomas McClocklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thomas McClocklin, of R.R. 2, Priceville, Ont. The wedding is to be held at 2:00 p.m., October 21, in the Anglican Church, Durham, Ont., with Rev. Swan officiating.

Social & Personal

Miss Evelyn Davies, of 1023 Princess St., has returned home after spending the past two weeks as a guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Booth of Kingsbury.

Christening

BISHOPTON — The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pollick was christened at the Thanksgiving service, Sunday morning, at the United Church. The baby received the names Sean Rolfe.

Present for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Ian Evans, of St. Andrews East, who are friends of Mr. and Mrs. Pollick, and like them, former residents of Schefferville. Mr. and Mrs. Pollick and Sean, Mr. and Mrs. Evans and baby Ridian were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Rolfe.

Valley Weavers' Guild

LENNOXVILLE — The Valley Weavers' Guild held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace, Queen Street, Lennoxville, with ten members and four guests present.

Mrs. John York, president, was in charge of the meeting and extended a welcome to all. Mrs. Wallace acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. William Van Horn. Letters of appreciation were read from the Lakeshore Weavers' Guild and the Hudson District Handweavers; also Sutton's Yarns, Sutton, expressing their pleasure and appreciation in attending the annual conference at North Hatley.

During the week, a tea was held at the home of Mrs. Edward McLennan on High Street in Lennoxville when Mrs. Ernest Johnston of Tucson, Ariz., a Charter member and now an associate member was the guest of honor, and a pleasant time was enjoyed by those who attended.

Business at this meeting included final plans for the coming exhibition and sale of weaving by the Guild members to be held in conjunction with the Philathea Harvest Sale and Scone tea on October 25 in Douglas Hall, United Church, Lennoxville, with Mrs. McLennan in charge of arrangements.

Work on display included Mohair scarves by Mrs. Robert McConachie and bronson lace place mats by Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace.

A weaving discussion followed and refreshments were served by the hostess assisted in serving by Mrs. Edward McLennan and Mrs. David Hall.

All were pleasantly surprised by a call from Mrs. Arthur White of Niagara Falls, another charter member visiting here and most welcome.

U.C.W. meeting

BISHOPTON — The United Church Women met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Stevenson with Mrs. Lawrence Weston and Mrs. Ralph Gilbert on the lunch committee.

The president, Mrs. Oral Downes opened the meeting with the Purpose and the Lord's Prayer, in union.

Mrs. Ralph Gilbert led the devotional period followed by a Bible Quiz about Fathers of Bible, reading the answers from passages in the Bible.

Roll call was answered by seven members, one visitor was present.

The date for the Fall Supper was set for November 18.

It was decided to start a Memorial Fund for the United Church and a donation was made in memory of Mrs. Henry Kenney, a Life Member. Donations were also made to the Dixville Home, the Cecil Butters Home and to the Word of Grace.

The meeting was closed by the president and a delicious lunch served by the hostesses.

The family

Bridal shower

EAST FARNHAM — Miss Pauline Lacroix was a guest of honor at a miscellaneous bridal shower given by her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Wayne Lacroix and Mrs. Paul Lacroix, Cowansville, on September 13, 1972. Guests included a few of her friends from where she is employed and members of her family.

Pauline was again feted in East Farnham United Church Hall at another miscellaneous Shower on September 20, prior to her marriage on Sept. 30, to Mr. Gaston Houd of Adamsville. This event was sponsored by her aunts, Mrs. John Barrand, East Farnham, Mrs. Frank Graham and Mrs. Thomas Graham, Cowansville and Mrs. John Beerwort, Brome Center.

Seated at the table with Miss Lacroix and assisting, were her mother, Mrs. Romeo Lacroix, the groom to be's mother, Mrs. Maurice Houd and her daughter, Miss Lise Houd. Pauline graciously thanked her aunts for arranging the shower, and her friends and relatives for the many lovely and useful gifts.

Delicious refreshments of sweet breads, cheese, tea and coffee were enjoyed. Later Pauline cut and served the pretty Shower Cake.

Milby W.I.

The Milby W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Stuart Cairns on Thurs. evening Oct. 6, with Mrs. Albert Powell as joint hostess, thirteen members and one guest present.

The meeting opened in usual form with Mrs. Dorothy Green in the chair.

Welfare and Health month and what better time, could we be more conscious, of the blessing of good health and welfare than on Thanksgiving amid the glorious Autumn leaves and foliage of our maple trees and forests. Our motto for this Oct. meeting was Health is one of life's greatest blessings. Roll call: For what do you feel most thankful? We especially felt thankful to have one of our very dear members, Mrs. Beattie back with us after being absent for several months and enjoying better health.

The Secretary, Mrs. Olive Painter read the minutes of the last meeting and other correspondence including the name of the girl, Miss Muller Zita, who received the Cornelia Orr Scholarship Award, Alexander Galt Regional High School, in Home Economics 102 for 1971.

The treasurer, Mrs. Roy Sutor, gave a satisfactory report.

Mrs. Carolyn Coates, Agriculture Convenor, congratulated the members on the success of our glomina plant competition and gave out the prizes for same. Mrs. Roy Sutor rec'd first prize, other prize winners were, Mrs. O. Painter, Mrs. I. Kirby, Mrs. E. Naylor Sr. and Mrs. D. Green. A vote of thanks was expressed to Carolyn for her work and interest taken in this contest.

Mrs. E. Naylor Jr., Citizenship convenor, was absent but a letter from her was read suggesting ways in which we could become more acquainted with A.C.W.

Mrs. Rob't Sutor gave a reading on English fact in Quebec for Education in the absence of the Convenor Mrs. Eldora Turner. Mrs. Sutor gave us also a very gratifying report on the School fair held in September, saying how pleased she was to see so many good exhibits and the way the young people took charge of the recreation. The members voted all in favor of continuing the school fair next year.

Home Economics: Mrs. Roscoe Patrick gave a short reading on "Super fabrics." She asked the members if we were in favor of a fair Booth next year. All members voted in the affirmative but thought it would be to our advantage to advertise our booth and have signs made directing persons to the booth.

Welfare and Health Convenors, Mrs. S. Cairns and Mrs. I. Kirby both reported on persons visited and sunshine spread among the sick in our neighborhood, a basket was collected to be taken to Mrs. Aldrich who is now a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital. Gifts and money were also brought in toward Christmas cheer for cancer patients.

Members were pleased to learn that Mrs. S. Cairns' two little grandsons, Brent and Ronnie, had taken part in the ploughing match. Brent, seven years, the youngest ploughman at the match, and Bruce Kirby, son of Mrs. I. Kirby, was privileged to plow at the International ploughing match in Sebringville, Ont.

Mrs. Wm. Sutor read a report on "Drug Survey Results" in the absence of the Publicity Convenor, Mrs. J. Smith.

Plans were made to hold the next meeting at Grace Christian Home.

The meeting was adjourned and delicious refreshments served by the hostesses.

Audet-Girard exchange rings

A lovely autumn wedding took place at three o'clock on Saturday, October 7, at Our Lady of Mercy church, Rock Island, when the marriage of Claire, only daughter of His Worship, Mayor Edouard Girard and Mrs. Girard, of Rock Island, to Guy Audet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Davila Audet, of Sherbrooke, took place.

Rev. Father Marcel Girard, of Montreal, uncle of the bride, officiated for the double ring ceremony. He was assisted in celebrating the nuptial mass by Rev. Father Denis Lebel, of Coaticook. Mr. Robert Fournier played the organ music, with Mr. Guy Durocher, trumpet soloist, and Mr. Paul Vincent, vocal soloist, all of Montreal.

The church was decorated by Rev. Father Girard with arrangements of blue tinted and white mums, standards of white gladioli, with a vase of blue and white baby poms on the Holy Altar. The guest pews were marked with green fern fronds with cluster bouquets of white lilies which were tied with navy blue and white satin ribbons.

The groom walked down the aisle with his father and the bride was on the arm of her father as the musicians played the Pontifical March. During the Eucharist, Panis Angelicus was played and for the recessional procession, Trumpet Voluntary. The soloist, Mr. Vincent sang Qui Devant Dieu Devant Les Hommes, Que Dieu Protege Notre Amour; during the ceremony and Mass, and Pour Vivre Ensemble during the signing of the register.

Mr. Girard and Mr. Audet stood as witnesses for their daughter and son.

The bride wore a gown of white charmaine peau de soiree fashioned on Princess lines with daisy design guipure lace accenting the front contour lines from the shoulders to the hemline, the lace also edged the round neckline and attached hood, and was used to band the long sleeves. A butterfly bow at center back held in place her semi cathedral length train. She carried a cascade of white daisies edged with fern.

Miss Lisa Bissonnette, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor was in a floor length gown of white pin dots on yellow chiffon over matching taffets. Guipure lace outlined the square neckline the empire bodice and banded the wide cuffs of the long sleeves. She carried a cascade of yellow daisies and wore daisies and yellow ribbons in her hair.

Mrs. Girard, mother of the bride wore a gown of multicolored trivira polyester topped with a matching shawl edged with a black silk fringe. Her accessories were in black with an orchid corsage on her handbag. The groom's mother, Mrs. Audet was in a dress of turquoise linen with guipure lace sleeves topped with a sleeveless matching coat. She wore toning accessories and a corsage of orchids.

The reception was held at the Del Monty where approximately 150 guests were served a turkey dinner by the management. The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of daisies, and multicolored carnations accented the guest tables.

Later, dance music was played by Mrs. Sidney Flanders on her organ. Mr. Rene Deschesne of Sherbrooke was Master of Ceremonies. The blessing was spoken by Fr. R. Lecours, Pastor of Our Lady of Mercy.

Mr. and Mrs. Audet left by motor for their honeymoon trip to Quebec and the Maritimes. The bride travelled in a beige tweed three piece pant ensemble accessorized with a brown wool sweater and brown suede shoes and handbag. The couple are residing in Sherbrooke.

The maid of honor was in charge of the guest book.

WHEEL BALANCING — RETREAD TIRES

Seven CFLers named at least twice

MONTREAL (CP) — The results of first-round balloting to pick this season's top performers in the Canadian Football League show seven players nominated in more than one category.

And the results, released Monday, show the seven among 36 picked for the annual Schenley awards by 96 sports writers and broadcasters in the nine CFL cities.

This year marks the 20th anniversary of the outstanding player award by the distillery. To commemorate the birthday, the organizers have added a rookie-of-the-year category to the regular lineman-of-the-year and Canadian player-of-the-year awards.

TWO REPEAT
Only two players, fullback Jim Young of British Columbia Lions, nominated for outstanding player and top Canadian, and Ron Lancaster, quarterback with Saskatchewan Roughriders, also in the outstanding class, were previous winners.

Young, along with team-mate Ray Nettles, and Gerry Shaw of Calgary Stampeders, Saskatchewan's Bill Baker, half-back Eric Allen of Toronto Argonauts, Dick Adams from Ottawa Rough Riders, and lineman Ed George of Montreal Alouettes, all were nominated for two awards.

First-round balloting nominates four players from each team as outstanding player, Canadian player, top lineman and top rookie.

Second-round ballot results, announced Oct. 26, will reduce the nominees to eight, four from the Eastern Football Conference and the same number from the Western Football Conference.

Following is a list of nominees in the various categories:

Canadian player-of-the-year: Jim Young, B.C.; Gerry Shaw, Calgary; Ray Nettles, Edmonton; Bill Baker, Saskatchewan; Mike Doyle, Winnipeg; Ed Chalupka, Hamilton; Jim Stillwagon, Toronto; Wayne Smith, Ottawa; Ed George, Montreal.

Rookie-of-the-year: Ray Nettles, B.C.; Gary Kerr, Calgary; Tyrone Walls, Edmonton; Tom Campana, Saskatchewan; Mike Kuhn, Winnipeg; Chuck Ealey, Hamilton; Eric Allen, Toronto; Dick Adams, Ottawa; Dickie Harris, Montreal.

Young was voted top Canadian in 1970, the same year Lancaster won the outstanding-player vote. Hamilton's Henley now has his fifth nomination since 1965.

Linebacker-of-the-year: Ray Nettles, B.C.; John Helton, Calgary; Charlie Turner, Edmonton; Bill Baker, Saskatchewan; Mike Doyle, Winnipeg; Ed Chalupka, Hamilton; Jim Stillwagon, Toronto; Wayne Smith, Ottawa; Ed George, Montreal.

Early end to football season should help hockey Gaiters to fast start

By ALEX RADMANOVICH
Record Reporter

LENNOXVILLE — Hockey fever is expected to be felt at Bishop's University much earlier this year than in the last three years and local college hockey buffs should have plenty of reason to be happy.

"I guess it'll help us prepare for the season," hockey coach Al Grazys said yesterday, "but I would have liked to see the football team take the championship."

The veteran coach of Bishop's hockey Gaiters is obviously in a difficult position to comment but it is no secret that Bishop's hockey has suffered tremendously in the past due to prolonged football seasons. Every time the football team advanced to the national semi-finals the hockey players on the grid team arrived too late to help the pucksters in the early going.

Now that the Loyola College Warriors have wrested the football title from Bishop's such stalwarts as Gary Chown, Sandy Baptist and Mike Bookalam can get their skating legs back sooner than in the past.

Looking to the coming Quebec University Athletic Association hockey season coach Grazys said, "We're going to be much stronger this year."

MATERIAL TO REPLACE
"We lost two very good players in Ron Perowne and Larry Smith but I feel we have the material to replace them adequately," he added.

Back with the Gaiters are many seasoned performers led by goalie Alain Hebert and high scoring forward Rob McLernon. Hebert has been one of the best puck-stoppers in the league for several years while McLernon scored 26 goals in 29 games for the Gaiters last season.

"We'll have a lot of scoring punch on the team and I'm hoping that McLernon, Eric Iversen and Wayne Rahm can pick up where they left off last season," Grazys declared.

Centre Iversen led the team in assists a year ago, pivoting the line which carried Bishop's into the QAAA semi-finals and a near upset over Loyola. The other member of the effective trio, Wayne Rahm, clicked well with his new linemates.

"Jay Hanson can score goals and if he can stay healthy he'll help us considerably," Grazys said. Hanson spent most of last season on the sidelines with a shoulder injury.

SLICK SKATER BACK
The Gaiters will also have slick skating Don Campbell, who scored 15 goals last year, in uniform. Although he got off to a slow start, Campbell was a big factor in Bishop's playoff surge. Steve Connor is also back to add muscle up front.

Defence has always been a problem early in the season for the Gaiters but the early return of Chown, Baptist and Bookalam should help solve the problem. There are seven rookies vying for rear-guard positions on the team.

For those who wonder why Grazys has good reason for optimism, it may help to look at some of the other teams in the QAAA.

Defending champions, Sir George Williams University Georgians, have most of last year's rookies back in the fold but there are other considerations which may prove important.

Sir George lost team scoring-leader Mark Shewchuk and all-star defenceman John McNamara to the World Hockey Association and team leader John Murray via graduation.

"Any time you lose players of that calibre it's not easy to fill the vacuum," commented Grazys.

LOYOLA STARTING FROM SCRATCH
"Loyola always has a powerhouse but this year they are starting from scratch with only about six veterans returning," he said.

Loyola has former Georgian coach Paul Arseneault at the helm, Dave Draper having left for the Hamilton Red Wings of the OHA.

Bishop's cross-town rivals, University of Sherbrooke Green and Gold, also lost some big guns. High scoring Normand Dube went to Springfield in the American League while Yvon Robert and captain Yvon Bouillon graduated.

It all adds up to an exciting hockey season with the Gaiters in the thick of things right from the beginning. Grazys is still faced with the task of trimming the roster although a few rookies have already distinguished themselves.

Tomorrow evening Bishop's will play an inter-squad game and coach Grazys has to decide which of some 20 newcomers will stay with the big team.

No matter how you toss the dice, however, Bishop's will be a strong contender and all Gaiter fans can look forward to plenty of thrilling action at W.B. Scott Rink in the coming season.

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR
The Gaiters will also have slick skating Don Campbell, who scored 15 goals last year, in uniform. Although he got off to a slow start, Campbell was a big factor in Bishop's playoff surge. Steve Connor is also back to add muscle up front.

Loyola has former Georgian coach Paul Arseneault at the helm, Dave Draper having left for the Hamilton Red Wings of the OHA.

Bishop's cross-town rivals, University of Sherbrooke Green and Gold, also lost some big guns. High scoring Normand Dube went to Springfield in the American League while Yvon Robert and captain Yvon Bouillon graduated.

It all adds up to an exciting hockey season with the Gaiters in the thick of things right from the beginning. Grazys is still faced with the task of trimming the roster although a few rookies have already distinguished themselves.

Tomorrow evening Bishop's will play an inter-squad game and coach Grazys has to decide which of some 20 newcomers will stay with the big team.

No matter how you toss the dice, however, Bishop's will be a strong contender and all Gaiter fans can look forward to plenty of thrilling action at W.B. Scott Rink in the coming season.

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR
The Gaiters will also have slick skating Don Campbell, who scored 15 goals last year, in uniform. Although he got off to a slow start, Campbell was a big factor in Bishop's playoff surge. Steve Connor is also back to add muscle up front.

Defence has always been a problem early in the season for the Gaiters but the early return of Chown, Baptist and Bookalam should help solve the problem. There are seven rookies vying for rear-guard positions on the team.

For those who wonder why Grazys has good reason for optimism, it may help to look at some of the other teams in the QAAA.

Defending champions, Sir George Williams University Georgians, have most of last year's rookies back in the fold but there are other considerations which may prove important.

Sir George lost team scoring-leader Mark Shewchuk and all-star defenceman John McNamara to the World Hockey Association and team leader John Murray via graduation.

"Any time you lose players of that calibre it's not easy to fill the vacuum," commented Grazys.

Cutler kicks Mack out of first

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
For much of the 1972 Canadian Football League season, Mack Herron, chunky running back with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has been the best in the West.

But it's traditional in Canada for the kickers to dominate the scoring and in the official CFL statistics released Monday, kicker Dave Cutler of Edmonton Eskimos rose from second place to knock off the man who has scored the most touchdowns in the country.

Cutler, who learned his football at Simon Fraser University in Burnaby, B.C., has 97 points on 30 converts, 18 field goals and 13 singles. Herron, a two-year veteran with Winnipeg from Kansas State, has 90 points on 15 touchdowns.

The leading scorer in the country remains Jerry Organ of Ottawa Rough Riders, with 109 points on one touchdown, 24 converts, 24 field goals and seven converts.

In the top five scorers in the EFC, there is only one player whose main talent lies elsewhere than his big toe—Garney Henley MIAMI (AP) — Propped up in a hospital bed, Bob Griese, who quarterbacked Miami Dolphins to the Super Bowl last season and to the only undefeated record in the National Football League this season, said Monday he thinks his 38-year-old replacement, Earl Morrall, will take the Dolphins back to the Super Bowl.

"The team is too strong to be affected by the loss of one player," said Griese, his damaged right leg swathed in plaster.

"Earl is a proven veteran who can step in and win football games. He certainly did it yesterday."

Morrall got into Sunday's game after San Diego Chargers defensive end Deacon Jones had slammed the 27-year-old Griese to the ground as he got off a pass in the first quarter.

UNAWARE OF INJURIES
As Griese lay on the turf waiting for a doctor to come out from the sidelines, he didn't know he had a cracked bone in the leg and a dislocated ankle, "but I knew I wasn't going to be in there the next play."

"As I went down I could feel the pressure on my leg, and I knew it was something serious," he said. "While I lay there my major concern was how many games I would miss."

Basketball stars netting incredible sums

By HUBERT MIZELL
NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench earns $82,500 a year as catcher of Cincinnati Reds. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar makes about $82,500 a month during the Milwaukee Bucks' basketball season.

Pro basketball's salaries make virtual amateurs of affluent heroes from other sports despite a two-league war that is skyrocketing hockey pay cheques.

Stasiuk turns juggler leading Canucks to win

By IAN MACLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Vic Stasiuk, coach, became Vancouver Canucks' master juggler, as Vancouver Canucks came up with a variation in linechanges that upset Chicago Black Hawks 6-3 in one of two National Hockey League games played Tuesday night.

Stasiuk threw an assortment of line changes at the Hawks that kept the defending West Division champions off balance most of the night and allowed Pittsburgh Penguins, 5-0 winners over New York Raiders earlier in the evening, to claim a share of the West lead.

Pittsburgh moves into Toronto against the Maple Leafs tonight while Chicago's game in Oakland against California Golden Seals has been postponed because of the World Series game there between Oakland Athletics and

Stars fall, 7 jailed

ATLANTA (AP) — Seven members of the Minnesota North Stars hockey team have been arrested at an Atlanta lounge on charges ranging from public drunkenness to creating a tumult.

Police said Dennis Hextall, Dennis O'Brien, Fred Harvey, Jude Drouin, Gilles Gilbert, Ted Harris and Danny Grant were arrested shortly before midnight Monday. They were released on bonds ranging from $200 to $1,300.

Trial for the seven, originally scheduled for Tuesday, was postponed until November.

Police said Hextall, Harvey, Grant and Drouin were charged with creating a tumult; Gilbert with interfering with a police officer; and Harris with criminal trespass. O'Brien and Harris were released under $1,300 bond and the other bonds were $200.

The National Hockey League team is making its first visit to Atlanta to play Atlanta's new expansion team, the Flames, tonight at the city's new sports facility, the Omni.

From Gotta's got to go to Gotta's just great

By MARVIN ZIVITZ
EDMONTON (CP) — Ottawa Rough Rider coach Jack Gotta, named Canadian Football League coach of the year Tuesday night, doesn't have far to go for suggestions about cracking the jinx associated with the award.

Frank Clair, Gotta's predecessor and now general manager of the Riders, won the award in 1966 and 1969 and led Ottawa to a 1969 Grey Cup win over Saskatchewan. Clair is the only coach ever to win the award and the Grey Cup in the same season.

Gotta was selected by his fellow coaches for the Annis Stukus Trophy, presented at the Edmonton Eskimos' annual $100-a-plate dinner. Clair, accepting the award on behalf of Gotta, called his coach a "very dedicated guy... who has rebuilt the club."

Gotta said in an Ottawa interview he isn't scared of the Grey Cup jinx. "I don't believe there's a kiss of death on it (the award)."

He said he was "really pleased" to win the award, but suggested the donors should wait until the end of the regular season before announcing the winner.

Former Edmonton club president Moe Lieberman, who presented the trophy, named after a former Edmonton and British Columbia coach, said balloting was the closest in the 12-year history of the award. About 560 fans attended the annual dinner.

FOLLOWED CLAIR

Gotta, a 41-year-old product of Oregon State University, took over the Riders after Clair moved to the front office following the Grey Cup win. The 1970 team fell to last place in the east and rebounded to third last season before making a run at Cincinnati Reds.

Both the Athletics and Seals are owned by Charles O. Finley.

Elsewhere tonight, St. Louis Blues entertain Montreal Canadiens, Boston Bruins visit New York Rangers, Philadelphia Flyers are in Los Angeles against the Kings and Atlanta Flames are host to Minnesota North Stars.

Six players shared in the scoring at Vancouver but it was the line of Don Tannahill and rookies John Wright and Gerry O'Flaherty that proved the biggest thorn in Chicago goaltender Tony Esposito's side.

KEEP HAWKS IN CHECK

Tannahill sent Richard Lemieux in for one of two third-period goals that sealed the Vancouver victory. Wright engineered an earlier power play goal by captain Orland Kurtenbach, and the trio dogged the Chicago team with their close-checking each time they were on the ice.

Don Lever, the Canucks' No. 1 junior draft choice last June, fired the insurance goal past Esposito 20 seconds into the final period. The Black Hawk goaltender, who had allowed only five goals in his previous three starts, faced 28 shots in the game to 30 by Vancouver's Dunc Wilson.

The win, Vancouver's second of the season, moved them into fourth place in the East, one point ahead of Boston and the Rangers and two behind Montreal and the surprising Buffalo Sabres. Detroit Red Wings are another point in front.

The S-S-S Line and a rookie netminder shared in Pittsburgh's shutout laurels at New York.

Ken Schinkel had two goals, Eddie Shack added another and Ron Schock picked up three assists while Denis Herron, a 20-year-old newcomer from Trois-Rivières, Que., turned aside 23 shots in registering his first NHL shutout.

The Penguins, off to a surprisingly fast start, fired 35 shots at New York goaltender Gerry Gray.

the Eastern Conference crown this season.

A stingy defence has helped Ottawa battle Hamilton Tiger-Cats for first place in the east. The Ticats are 9-3 and hold a two-point edge over the Riders, who are 8-3. Ottawa is assured of a playoff berth and could finish first by sweeping the three remaining games while Hamilton must lose at least one game against Toronto and Winnipeg.

Clair praised Gotta for building a contender following the loss of quarterback Russ Jackson and running backs Vic Washington and Ron Stewart, standouts on Ottawa teams in the 1960s.

After playing college ball at Oregon State, Gotta went to the Calgary Stampede in 1956 and made the Western Conference all-star team. He was traded to Saskatchewan in 1959 and led them in passes caught and yardage gained on passes in 1961, 1962 and 1963.

Two years later he joined Clair in Ottawa as an assistant.

Third game called off

OAKLAND (AP) — The third game of the World Series was postponed Tuesday night by rain with Oakland Athletics leading Cincinnati Reds 2-0 in the best-of-seven series.

The third and fourth games are scheduled to be played tonight and Thursday night and the fifth game, if necessary, will be played here Friday afternoon. The last two games, if necessary, will be held in Cincinnati Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Fish and Game club to check old folks home

By IVY HATCH
DERBY LINE — A regular meeting of the Derby Fish and Game Club was held on Monday evening, Oct. 16, in the Derby Line Village Hall.

President Harold Carter presided. Ben Heath, chairman of three-man committee to look into the matter of a senior citizens park on club property near the range at Derby gave his report.

At a special meeting held on October 3, Mrs. Margaret Allen, of Newport, an officer of the Orleans County Council for Social Agencies, attended and spoke to the directors and club members.

Mr. Heath said that Rudolph Burroughs had come to the location and looked around. He had taken soil samples where the fish pond is to be built. A backhoe is to be engaged to study further the soil conditions.

Water would be supplied by piping a supply from a well running from a brook. The park would be for the exclusive use of Senior Citizens. After the study is completed, the report will be sent to Mrs. Allen.

The Club memberships stand at a total of 430, seniors and juniors. Craig Bedard, a membership chairman, distributed copies of the 1970 members list and asked all directors to contact those who have not yet renewed their memberships.

A resolution was authorized to have the club bylaws printed and, as each new director comes into the club, a copy will be given to him to be studied. One of the bylaw regulations says that a director must not miss more than three consecutive meetings.

The fabulous fat man is dead at 58

TORONTO (CP) — The Fabulous Fat Man of another hockey era is dead.

Walter (Turk) Broda died in hospital Tuesday night after suffering a heart attack. He was 58.

Through 16 years with Toronto Maple Leafs, Broda earned esteem as one of the greatest clutch goaltenders of all time in a National Hockey League era that spawned outstanding goalies such as Bill Durnan, Frank Brimsek, Terry Sawchuk and Jacques Plante.

Broda suffered chest pains Monday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Don Tushingham, but it wasn't until Tuesday, at the insistence of Mrs. Tushingham and another daughter, Mrs. Bruce Walker, that he was persuaded to take his doctor's advice and enter hospital.

He suffered the seizure shortly after being admitted. Doctors inserted a pacemaker to control his heartbeat but he died later in the evening.

Broda was a flashy performer from the time he played junior hockey in his native Brandon, Man., until he decided to retire from the Leafs in 1952. He was inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame in 1967.

HAD FAT PROBLEM

He had a weight problem throughout most of his career as a Leaf.

Toronto owner Conn Smythe had purchased him from Detroit Red Wings in 1936, a year after he signed his first professional contract, to provide back-up support to aging Hall of Famer George Hainsworth.

George springs back

MONTREAL (CP) — George Springate, Liberal member in the Quebec national assembly for Montreal Ste. Anne, has decided on a comeback as a place kicker in the Canadian Football League.

Springate, 33, signed a contract with Montreal Alouettes Tuesday in almost identical circumstances that led him to play a part in the club's 1970 Grey Cup victory against Calgary Stampede.

To make room for Springate on the roster, the Eastern Football Conference club placed Don Sweet of Vancouver on waivers. Sweet, a graduate of Washington State University, had little success with his soccer-style field goal and convert attempts this season.

Sweet missed two converts and a field-goal try here last Saturday, allowing Hamilton Tiger-Cats a 31-26 win against the Alouettes.

Dufferin club holds annual meeting

DUFFERIN (IH) — Douglas Henderson was elected the new president of the Dufferin Heights Golf club at the annual meeting held on Friday evening, October 13, at the Club House.

President Wallace Browning was in the chair and in his opening remarks welcomed the good representation of shareholders attending.

In his report, he said that on the short-term notes had been erased, the cart shelter finished, purchase was made of a new greens-mower and ice-maker, and improvements affected to the men's and women's locker rooms. A new porch on the club house has been started with one end to be converted into a stock room.

In closing, Mr. Browning thanked his directors and the members for making it a successful two years for him and the club.

Stuart Edgar, chairman, presented copies for proposed alterations to the course by changing some of the course's nine holes.

Mr. Edgar gave notice of motion that this proposal will be brought up at the director's meeting in the spring to start work in 1973. This work will be done, if the plan is accepted, over a period of years - not all in one year. The committee consists of Mr. Edgar, Robert Alger, Louis Barber, Gerald Farrow and Walter Mutchler.

The following members were elected Directors with J.M. Thomson the chairman for the elections: Louis Barber, George Joyal, Royce Martin, Harold Rever, Norman Wintle, Douglas Henderson, and Ronald Smith. These seven retired to another room and elected Mr. Henderson as president and Mr. Barber as vice-president. Gordon Stewart was named to continue as secretary-treasurer.

A hearty vote of appreciation was given the retiring directors for their many years of work on the board. They were Robert Alger, Gerald Farrow, Mr. Browning and Richard Wing.

Six AGRHS games today

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — This afternoon, Alexander Galt Regional High School takes to the soccer fields for six games, four against Stanstead College. The girls' field hockey squad also plays today.

The senior boys' soccer team plays its last game of the season against Stanstead, hoping to win to bring the team's record to six wins, one loss and one tie for the season. The juniors also travel to Stanstead and play at 3 p.m., the same time as the seniors.

All three bantam boys' soccer squads play, as Richmond meets Liverpool and Stanstead faces Leeds in Lennoxville. Manchester journeys to Stanstead. The first two games begin at 4 p.m., while the other starts at 3:30 p.m.

The senior girls' soccer team encounters Bishop's University Jayvees at 4:30 p.m. in an exhibition contest.

Richmond Regional High School girls' field hockey team travels to Lennoxville to face the AGRHS team at 4 p.m.
