21 OFFICIALS FIRED FROM VETERANS LAND ACT

World News In Brief

Huntingdon, Que., July 17.—The July 23 Huntingdon provincial by-election became a straight two-way fight today as nominations closed yesterday with the entering of only two names—those of Mrs. Mae L. O'Connor, Liberal, and John Gilles Rennie, Union Nationale.

There had been reports that an independent candidate, possibly Henri Turcot, defeated Union Nationale candidate in the 1944 general election, might run.

Yesterday's nomination makes Mrs. O'Connor the first woman candidate in a provincial election since women received the right to vote in the province some years ago. Several women have been candidates for seats in the federal field. The Huntingdon by-election was necessitated by the death of Mrs. O'Connor's husband.

Montreal, July 17.—"Our investigation has led us to believe that the stowaway lost his life at the hands of a group of assassins," declared Deputy Police Director Hilaire Beauregard yesterday, speaking of the Quebec Provincial Police probe into the death of a stowaway aboard the Canadian cargo ship, Maria G.

Then he added: "But we haven't been able to prove it as yet."
The stowaway, tentatively identified as C. H. Heilmeyer, a Shanghai restaurateur, was found dead aboard the vessel last April and buried at sea off the coast of India. Then the ship, which sailed from Saint John last January for the Far East, continued her journey to her home port where she arrived last Saturday and immediately came under the attention of the Quebec Provincial Police.

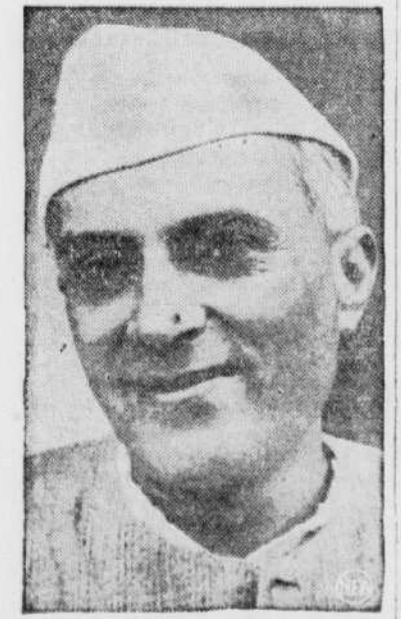

Rome, July 17.—(AP)—Pope Pius told an American Labor delegation yesterday that the Roman Catholic Church would defend the working man from any system that sought to deny his rights and subjugate him to a "bureaucratic clique holding political power."
Receiving 14 members of the delegation to the 30th International Labor Conference which ended in Geneva Friday, the Pope said their task was "one that challenges all that is noblest in the human heart."

No Foundation To Reports Dollar Will Be Devalued

Ottawa, July 17.—(AP)—Finance Minister Abbott today in the Commons branded as "completely without foundation" recurring reports in financial circles that the Canadian dollar was to be devalued and said he had "no intention" of recommending such action to the government.

Mr. Abbott made brief comment on the dollar after J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Muskoka-Ontario), Progressive Conservative financial

NEHRU RESIGNS POST

London, July 17.—(Reuters)—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, vice-president of India's Interim Government, was reported by New Delhi radio tonight to have resigned.

"Differences of opinion" were said to have caused his resignation, the radio added.

Chief Engineer And Twenty Other Officials Dismissed; Charge Of "Scandal" Heard

Open Inquest In Death Of Young Nurse

Friend Testifies Victim Had said She would Stay Overnight in Cabin Near Place Where Body Found.

Cochrane, Ont., July 17.—(AP)—Testimony that Valair Vanderbelt, the pretty 22-year-old Toronto nurse whose body was found last June 23 at nearby Silver Queen Lake, was quoted by two men as saying she had decided to stay the night at the cabin where she and five friends held a Saturday night party was offered a coroner's jury yesterday by a fellow-nurse, Eileen Keough.

Miss Keough, one of eight witnesses who were heard the first day of the inquest into the death of Miss Vanderbelt, said that the party was preparing to return to Toronto. Roger Gauthier, one of the boys in the group came out from the cottage and said: "Valair isn't going home. She doesn't have to work."

Later Recci Sisco, a second member of the party, told Miss Keough the same thing, she said. Miss Keough said she and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Tedesco, went into the cottage to look for Miss Vanderbelt, but they could not find her. She said they looked around outside the cabin, but did not call her by name.

Miss Vanderbelt was found in underbrush nearby two days later, a red plastic belt knotted about her neck and her skull fractured. Under cross-examination, Miss Keough said she did not expect that Miss Vanderbelt would have announced her intentions of staying all night; but said she had not become seriously alarmed until she learned the nurse had not returned by Monday morning.

R. P. Smith, police pathologist, told the jury that he did not believe Miss Vanderbelt's injuries were self-inflicted and scratches on her body indicated that she had been carried through the bush, or had been running through it.

At least 17 more witnesses are expected to be called in connection with case. W. J. Grummett, Ansonville lawyer and coroner said.

Alberta Has Say Against Freight Hike

Brief of More Than 10,000 Words Setting Forth Stand of Social Credit Government to be Presented Today.

Ottawa, July 17.—(AP)—Alberta's major submission in opposition to railway freight-rate increase was to be presented today to the Board of Transport Commissioners.

A brief of more than 10,000 words setting forth the stand of the Social Credit Government was to be read to the commissioners at the national rate inquiry by Prof. Andrew Stewart, head of the University of Alberta's Department of Economics.

In line with statements made by Premier Manning at the board's regional sessions in Edmonton, the submission was expected to express outright opposition to rate increases for the Prairie Provinces until rate "discriminations" reacting against it had been adjusted.

Before the Alberta brief was dealt with, President H. H. Hannam of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, took the witness stand for the third day to complete evidence dealing with agriculture's opposition to the lifting of rates.

Mr. Hannam told the board yesterday afternoon for Basra.

Donald Fleming Demands Royal Commission Enquiry into Veterans Land Act Homes Built in Canada—Says Evidence Taken by Public Accounts Committee "Shocking" and Indicated "Scandal" in Administration of V.L.A. Office.

Ottawa, July 17.—Charge that a "scandal" was indicated in veterans housing by evidence placed before the Public Accounts Committee was made in the Commons last night by Donald Fleming (P.C.—Toronto-Eglinton) at the same time that it was disclosed the chief engineer and twenty other officials of the Veterans Land Act Administration had been released "or permitted to resign."

Walter A. Tucker (L. Rosthern), parliamentary assistant to Veterans Affairs Minister Mackenzie, admitted that there had been failure in administration of the Veterans Land Act office, but said that "no official responsible had been spared."

Demanding a Royal Commission investigation of Veterans Land Act homes built in Canada, Mr. Fleming charged that Gordon Murchison, V. L. A. director, had answered committee questions with "hostility and belligerence." R. M. Warren (L.—Renfrew North), replied that Mr. Fleming had "stuck a knife" in Mr. Murchison's back and "treated him like a criminal."

The debate cropped up on Veterans Department estimates and was still under way at adjournment for the day.

(The veterans housing situation was first brought to the attention of the House of Commons by reports of conditions obtaining in Sherbrooke, when veterans protested that they were being charged a fee in excess of the stipulated amount for the houses constructed under V.L.A.).

Mr. Fleming told the House evidence taken by the committee had been "shocking—there is no other word for it."
Dealing with the Sarnia Veterans Housing project he said the houses there had cost $10,100 each and the construction was just about "the worst kind."

He said there were other bad projects besides Sarnia and he said he had letters from veterans saying they were willing to give evidence on projects other than those that had been mentioned before the committee.

Mr. Fleming read evidence that had been given by Sarnia veterans before the committee.

These, he said, were houses that were being sold to the veterans at $6,400 net, houses which competent builders had said they could build for $4,500.

There was a situation that was "absolutely scandalous."

The Day In Parliament

By The Canadian Press

The Commons will consider departmental estimates. The Senate will sit.

A C.C.F. motion, described by Prime Minister Mackenzie King as want of confidence in the government, was defeated in the Commons by a vote of 84-54; the defeated motion asked the government to consider immediately the question of increases for veterans and war widows; Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto-Eglinton) called for a Royal Commission to study veterans housing generally; Defence Minister Claxton said the Canadian general service badge now could be issued to Canadians who served with any other British Commonwealth or Allied forces in the Second World War; Trade Minister MacKinnon said cheques governing payment on a 10-cent adjustment in barley were to be mailed Friday; Reconstruction Minister Howe criticized as "serious" arrangements by the Ontario Government to fly 7,000 United Kingdom immigrants to Canada.

The Senate passed the redistribution bill increasing Commons membership from 245 to 255 seats.

6 Killed And 5 Missing In Collision Of Warship And Freighter Off Halifax Port

Sixteen Others Injured In Head-on Crash Between Micmac, Built-For-Speed Destroyer, and 10,000-Ton Freighter Yarmouth County in Dense Fog—Search Continues For Missing Men.

By R. A. JELLYSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Halifax, July 17.—(AP)—The battered and unidentified body of a rating was found early today in the crumpled bow of the Canadian destroyer Micmac raising the death toll to six and lowering the missing list to five with 16 others injured in yesterday's head-on collision between the warship and the 10,000-ton freighter Yarmouth County in dense fog off Halifax Harbor. A naval spokesman said that a search of the wreckage is continuing in the hope of finding some of the other missing men.

The force of impact did relatively little damage and caused no casualties aboard the tough-sided freighter but pushed up the deck structure of the thin-skinned, built-for-speed destroyer for 50 feet like an accordion, twisted the forward gun turret askew crushing ratings under shattered deck beams and spilling others into the sea.

Both naval and merchant marine men said that the death toll would have been heavier if the captains of the two ships had not acted skillfully when the collision was inevitable.

The ships struck a glancing blow port-to-port. A naval spokesman said that if the destroyer had been turned sharply just before the collision the freighter would have cut her in half. Cmdr. J. C. Little, D.S.C. of Victoria, on the bridge of the Micmac decided—in the split seconds he had to make a decision—to veer as close to the freighter's towing side as he could, hoping at best to strike a glancing blow. That is what happened.

The cause of the collision was being probed in a preliminary investigation but many of the questions being asked in naval and merchant marine circles will probably not be answered until a formal inquiry—probably a court martial—is held.

For instance, the Micmac is known to have carried the very latest in radar devices which are designed to pierce fog and pick up obstructions. It has been reported the radar was operating when the 2,600-ton Canadian-built vessel entered the fog bank.

She had steamed to sea early in the morning for trials preliminary to going on a summer cruise with ships of the Atlantic squadron. She made her trials in clear weather, possibly about 10 miles off Sambro Light at the entrance to the harbor.

But returning she ran into a thick belt of fog fringing the coast but outside the harbor. She had just entered the fog bank and was decreasing speed when the collision occurred.

None of the freighter or destroyer crew interviewed reported on whether the ships were blowing fog alarms at the time of the collision. They all told a similar story of being suddenly jolted and at first thinking they had run aground. Then the freighter crew heard cries from the deck of the destroyer but the fog was so thick they had difficulty in even making out it was a warship that was involved.

Housing Issue May Postpone Prorogation

Debate Possibilities on Housing and Other Current Issues Seen Delaying Parliament Closing Until Friday or Saturday.

Ottawa, July 17.—(AP)—The whole complex Canadian housing picture, both veteran and civilian and a lot of other current issues, were spread before a dying session of Parliament today with debate possibilities that shut prorogation forecasts in to Friday—some even said Saturday.

The housing issue hit the floor of the Commons last night during consideration of veterans' affairs estimates and after one of the most hectic days in the session when the Government's authority in Parliament was questioned by the entire Opposition on a want-of-confidence motion.

But the administration of veteran Prime Minister Mackenzie King won out. The Liberals rallied around him—not one broke ranks—to defeat, 84 to 54, a C.C.F. amendment based on veterans' pensions which would have prevented the Government from going into committee of supply to consider its financial estimates, a move which Prime Minister King said was a want-of-confidence motion and which would precipitate a general election should the vote be lost.

The C.C.F. motion, supported by the entire Opposition in the House at the time, asked the Government to consider "immediately" the question of increases for veterans and war widows. Mr. King said it was something with which he and all members were in sympathy, but something which would have to be considered by the Government.

Only a few of the hefty veterans' affairs estimates had been passed at the adjournment.

Before the two-minute long scolding of Liberal desks signalled the Government's victory in the confidence vote—a lot of the Opposition seats were empty—the morning House opening heard these developments:

Defence Minister Claxton said the Canadian general service badge—Canada's discharge button—could now be issued to Canadians who served with any other British Commonwealth or Allied forces in the Second World War.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said negotiations between Canadian and Newfoundland delegations investigating possible union for the island colony, have not yet reached a stage where any definite statement can be made.

Trade Minister MacKinnon said cheques governing payment of a 10-cent adjustment on barley for

Government Forces In Hot Pursuit Of Greek Rebels

Athens, July 17.—(AP)—Greek Government troops were reported in hot pursuit today of battered guerrilla forces retreating northeastward parallel to the Albanian border after an abortive attempt to capture the city of Ioannina, capital of Epirus.

The withdrawing guerrillas—main body of a force of some 2,500 men which the government said earlier this week had launched an invasion from Albania—was believed attempting to make a junction with the other leftist fighting in the Grammos mountain range.

Reports from the front, however, suggested that government troops had anticipated the move and were taking steps to prevent a junction of the two forces.

The guerrilla retreat followed the launching of a full-scale assault late yesterday by reinforced government troops, who earlier had halted the invasion thrust near the village of Negradhes, about 19 miles north of Ioannina.

The way for the attack was paved by a heavy artillery bombardment of guerrilla forces in an area including the villages of Kato, Pedina, Ano Elatohori, Paleolouta and Asprangos, scattered along the slopes of Mt. Gania.

Greek war planes supported the attacking government forces by strafing guerrilla positions.

Local Man On Micmac Unhurt

A Sherbrooke man was among the crew of the destroyer Micmac, which was severely damaged in a collision with a freighter off Halifax Harbor early today that took a toll of six lives, with five other seamen missing.

The local seaman was Leading Stoker Stewart MacRae, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George MacRae, 61 Champlain street.

He telephoned his family today that he was unhurt, although "shaken up a bit."

FINAL READING TO DISTRIBUTION BILL

Ottawa, July 17.—(CP)—The Commons yesterday gave third and final reading to a government bill redefining the boundaries of many of Canada's constituencies and increasing the House membership from 245 to 255, effective in the next general election.

An amendment by John T. Hackett (PC—Stanstead) that would have deleted a section changing the name of the Ottawa district riding of Wright to Gatineau was ruled out of order.

And just when we got rid of Richard and his blankety-blank door, too. "Bloop Bleep" is like "Richard." Everyone is hearing it and humming it and cursing it in your town next.
It's on five different records, including one by Danny Kaye, but the record out-selling all others has Loesser singing it himself.
"I guess," says Frank, "I've got a voice that sounds like a leaky faucet."

VERSATILE TUNESMITH
And Frank is such a good songwriter, too. "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" was a Loesser hit. Romantic people have sent him fan mail for writing such tunes as "Two Sleepy People," "I Don't Want to Walk Without You, Baby," "In My Arms," and "They're Either Too Young or Too Old."
But now Frank is getting fan mail from plumbers because of "Bloop Bleep."

I guess it's because he just can't resist the pixie in himself now and then. A few years back Frank sneaked "I Got Spurs That Jingle, Jangle, Jingle" on unsuspecting America.
Everybody, of course, thinks Frank got the "Bloop Bleep" idea one night from a leaky faucet. He said it himself on a radio show the other night.
"But to be honest," he whispered, "I've never been kept awake by a leaky faucet. I just thought of it."

"Bloop Bleep—Bloop Bleep."
I wish he hadn't thought of it.

Arthur Rank, by the way, offered M-G-M $400,000 to borrow Gable for an English film. On top of his regular salary, yet.
Maybe we can credit Greta Garbo for Joan Crawford's inspired acting lately. She runs an old Garbo picture at least once a month, studying her technique.
Joey Adams, at the El Rancho Vegas, has been introducing Tony Canzoneri every night as "the world's greatest fighter." Then Jack Dempsey checked into the hotel. Canzoneri met Dempsey in the lobby and said: "Tonight Joey can't introduce me as the world's greatest fighter. You're here."

I have a good mind to get myself a Flit gun and go to work on the RKO press department. For the past couple of weeks, I've been reading their pre-opening advertisements for the new picture, "Crossfire."

I think these ads are pretty stale. They employ such chewed-over phrases as "It's Sensational! It's Dynamite! It's Coming!" They make it sound like just another cops-and-robbers program picture. In effect, they say to the customer, "If you feel like killing a couple of hours watching another well-made shoot-'em-up, we got it."
"I'll tell you how come I'm mad. I recently saw a preview of "Crossfire." Around reel two, I realized I was looking at a Hollywood picture which had the guts to go on about killing people because it had something to say and wasn't afraid to say it. And it was saying it with boxing gloves, not dancing pumps.
"Crossfire" is about a big, mean Army sergeant who hates "Jew-baiting" and beats one of them—a veteran—so death.
The story is expertly told in terms of murder melodrama. It would still be an exciting movie if it revolved around jewels, rather than Jews.
It has one scene which I don't think audiences will forget in a hurry. The detective is asked why he's anxious to capture the killer of the Jewish boy, is he Jewish himself? The cop answers that back in 1848 his great grandfather—an Irish immigrant—had been killed in Pennsylvania by a couple of Pennsylvania bigots who didn't like the idea of Catholics coming to America. He says he thinks it's important to fix it so it isn't safe to go around killing people because you don't like the church they go to or the amount of sun-burn on their skin.
I first started looking at movies on an open lot in the Bronx something like forty years ago. "Crossfire" is the first Hollywood picture I remember seeing which has had the courage to speak right out about something that 140,000,000 people have been thinking about for a long time — race hatred.
It's one of the few times the film makers have demonstrated they're anything except their quarterly financial statements. "Crossfire" is much too important a picture to be advertised like a catchpenny pot-boiler. On 18,000 screens it can do more good than a whole passel of tolerance societies with fancy names on the stationery.
"Crossfire" is presented by Dore Schary, the new RKO boss. It took a lot of nerve to make it. Now that it's made, I think it's sick-making that some Eastern promo-

Even in terms of dollars and cents, I think he's a chump. My guess as a showman is that this 'friday-cat policy' will cost this movie at least a million domestic at the box office. A smart and literate job of pre-selling it would be a cinch to create the kind of talk that fills theatres.
And I'd like to see "Crossfire" play to a lot of people. I think an occasional departure from passion, platitudes and popcorn can only make our screens more interesting. Once a month I think Joe Citizen and his misuses should be able to walk into an American movie theatre without checking their minds at the door.
When you see "Crossfire," I think you'll be proud it could have been made in this country.
If you're a right guy, you'll be ashamed it had to be.

Food Problem Seen As One Of Quantity Rather Than Quality

Rock Island, July 17.—With half of the world's present population existing in the shadow of semistarvation, the paramount food problem today is one of quantity rather than quality, David L. Thomson, Ph.D., F.R.S.C., Gilman Cheney Professor of Biochemistry and Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research at McGill University, said here last night.

Addressing a Haskell Opera House audience on the subject "Nutrition in Human Geography and History," Professor Thomson was the third speaker heard locally in a series of free public lectures being staged by McGill University. Held in connection with the university's Geography Summer School, now in session at Stansfeld College, the lectures are given weekly and will continue until August 6th.

"The most primitive methods of food-getting," Professor Thomson stated, "are either to live by the catching of wild animals and fishes and the finding of wild edible plants or to domesticate some animal in large flocks and herds and to live principally on the milk they produce. Such ways of living permit only a sparse population, commonly with no fixed home, and they are precarious since the food supply may give out at any time. These types of food, however, though uncertain in quantity, are of good nutritional quality and the peoples who have lived by such means have in general been well-developed and have often shown their vigor either by surviving successfully in inhospitable climates or by striking military prowess."

The invention of agriculture and the raising of crops, however, had resulted in more efficient utilization of the soil, the speaker said, and accordingly much denser population could be supported. In its earlier stages, agriculture had been limited to production to a single crop and this lack of variety had been "associated with poorer physique and lack of enterprise."

With the evolution of agriculture, many different kinds of crops were made available. Professor Thomson said, "The diet as a whole becomes varied and less likely to be deficient in quality. It is no longer necessary for the whole population to labor on the land, division of labor arises and arts and crafts develop. Explorers discover and introduce new food-plants and international trade and commerce arise."

The industrial revolution of the nineteenth century had caused the rise of great cities and attendant food problems, the speaker pointed out, and transportation facilities had to be utilized in order to provide nourishment for the masses. This, in turn, led to the processing of food to effect a price reduction and to prevent them from spoiling. But "unfortunately these manufacturing methods often decrease the nutritional value of the food by removing minerals or vitamins; hence those who can afford only the cheaper foods are apt to receive diets of poor quality and to lag behind the rich in physical development and resistance to disease. This is the greatest nutritional problem of the present day in civilized lands."

For the world as a whole, however, the greatest difficulty lay in providing a sufficient quantity of food—especially for areas in Asia, Africa and Central America. For peoples in these districts, semi-starvation was said to be the rule rather than the exception, and "the urgent economic problem of supplying these backward areas is still unsolved."

FIELD DAY TO BE STAGED BY RIDING CLUB

The Horse Shoe Riding Club at Magog will hold its first field day on Sunday, July 20, at A. A. Mitson's show ring on the road leading to the Mount Orford Golf Club. Starting at 10 o'clock in the morning, the show will continue through the afternoon, with an intermission for lunch.

There are fourteen classes scheduled for the ribbon show which has been organized under the direction of Tanerred Lizotte, of Magog, a director of the club. Application forms have been forwarded to Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, North Hatley, Granby and Magog. The Horse Shoe Riding School itself will have at least ten of its own horses in the show.

Club members have been working diligently the past week preparing the ring and jumps. Judge for the show will be Walter Nesbitt, of Montreal, president of the Canadian Hackney Horse Society. Ring master will be Ernie Gilbey, of Lennoxville.

Two of the highlights will be the class for high steppers and the jump off. For the first, seven entries are expected. In the jump off class, last on the program, the style and conformation of the horse does not count, since emphasis is placed on height.

Well known horses in the saddle classes will include Dufferin Boy, owned by Adelard Dumas, of Sherbrooke; Prima Donna, owned by Mr. and Mrs. T. Lizotte, of Magog; Lucky King Spartan, owned by Judy Cate, of North Hatley; Clipper, owned by S.M.S. Stable, of Sherbrooke, and Prince, owned by Mrs. Berthe Triganne, of Sherbrooke.

The best jumpers and hunters of the district are also entered. Among these are Commando, owned by M. T. Stenson, of Sherbrooke; Gamin, owned by H. L. Blais, of Sherbrooke; Victory, owned by Alton A. Mitson, of Magog; Ben d'Or, owned by Larry Desruisseaux, of Sherbrooke; Dark Suzanne and Rock Forest Boy, owned by J. A. Desfossez, of Rock Forest, and Tommy, Lady Trustar and Captain Jack from S.M.S. Stable.

Listed here are the classes:
 Morning: Specified 3-gaited saddle class; green jumpers; 3-gaited saddle pair; open seat and hands; open hunter.
 Afternoon: Ladies' saddle; open jumping; roadster under saddle; open high steppers; pair jumping; road hack; combination ride and drive; open 3-gaited saddle; jump off.

ROTARY RAFFLE TO BE HELD AT DERBY LINE

Derby Line, July 17.—There will be a big prize each night at the Boundary Rotary Fair this fall. Albert Young, chairman of the Rotary Raffle has announced. This will be the third annual Rotary Fair, and will be held this year on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 18, 19 and 20.

On Thursday night the big prize will be a first class vacuum-cleaner; Friday night's prize will be $100 in credit at any store. Saturday night, a brand new Frigidaire Electric Refrigerator will be won by some lucky person.

Every ticket is good for all three prizes, emphasizes chairman Young. The ticket that wins Thursday night will be placed back in the box, as will the winner on Friday evening, making it possible for one ticket to win all three prizes.

One very important fact to be borne in mind, stated Claude Wilford, chairman of the Fair and president of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, is that the success or failure of the Rotary Children's Camp, the Rotary Children's Room at the Haskell Library, and the other club charities, depend in very large measure on the results of the Rotary Fair. The amount of money realized by the Fair determines the amount the club can spend for these very worthwhile activities. A liberal purchase of the tickets for the three fine prizes will do much to make certain that there will be another Children's Camp next summer and make sure that the club can continue its other important ventures.

With three times the usual number of prizes, with the camp fresh in the memory of everyone in the Boundary Communities, it is believed that the sale of tickets this year will set a new record.

College. The subject of the roll call was an interesting item about Canadian Industry. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Glens Coates and Mrs. Harold Mayhew.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Smith were Mrs. Smith, Messrs. Alex. Morrison, Justin Sharman and Arthur Lintott. The many friends of Mrs. Dana Smith will be pleased to know of her improvement after her serious illness.

Government Costs At Danger Point, Warns Senator Nicol In Demand Taxation Be Reduced

Special to The Record)
 Ottawa, July 17.—Senator Jacob Nicol, of Sherbrooke, proprietor of a chain of Liberal papers and radio stations in Quebec, and former provincial treasurer of Quebec, issued a stern warning in the Senate on Tuesday that federal and provincial costs have reached the "danger point" and pleaded for an immediate reduction in the heavy taxation put into effect during the war years.

"The people had been patriotic during the war, he said, and had given freely of their money in taxes and bonds. The time had come for a reduction. Quebec and other provinces were raising more money than they could spend for them to have."

"We called upon the people to pay money for a particular purpose and from one end of Canada to the other they have paid it. We should now give them a respite. As far as war expenses are concerned, I repeat what I told the Minister of Finance when he came to Sherbrooke. I said that he could demand any amount he needed as long as the money was being raised for war purposes. We wanted to win the war and we were prepared to pay the price. We were paying taxes for war but nobody imagined that once the war was over and the victory won, that the country would still be taxed as if the war were actually going on. When I examined the budget of the Dominion and the provinces, I am amazed at the amounts the Canadian people are called upon to pay."

"When I was a student at Quebec, I was secretary to the treasurer of that period and I recall that the budget for 1902 came to the very large total of five million dollars. The treasurer at that time called me and said, 'Nicol, imagine! The revenue of the province of Quebec amounts to five million dollars.' It was the first time this figure had been reached."

"In 1921 I had the privilege of becoming provincial treasurer of Quebec and I presented my first budget before the House in 1922—it amounted to 21 million dollars. It was the highest figure ever reached, up to that date, because during that time we had the report of the Liquor Commission, which furnished 5 million. During Sir Lomer Gouin's time, the budget of my province never exceeded 15 million, and people spoke of him as the great premier, and he accomplished some wonderful things for Quebec. I remained provincial treasurer for eight years and when I left, the budget was 30 million dollars, with a surplus of more than five million."

"The bill makes provision for possible future agreements with the two dissenting provinces, Ontario and Quebec."

Senator Nicol stated he would not oppose the bill because he could not decide whether or not it was absolutely necessary. He would have preferred to see it left over and the people of Quebec given more time to "go into this question, probably one of the most difficult and intricate which has ever come before the Parliament of Canada."

"Let us make no mistake about it, Canada now is facing a divided path. Rightly or wrongly, certain provinces have been given money. They want more. Only two provinces can provide. Others will contribute as much as they can, but the main burden will fall upon two provinces."

25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED

Hardwood Flat, July 15.—A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Herring when over eighty relatives and friends gathered to celebrate their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on Saturday June 28. The evening was spent with dancing after which refreshments were served, the table being centered with a three-tiered wedding cake made by Mrs. Douglas Harrison. Mr. Ted Bennett, of Canterbury, on behalf of the relatives present, extended congratulations and presented Mr. and Mrs. Herring with a beautiful chest of silver. Mr. J. D. Harrison, on behalf of the neighbors and friends voiced his good wishes and presented the couple with a beautiful six-piece dinner set, after which they all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." The guests of honor thanked their friends for the gifts. Among those from a distance who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Rastus Bennett, Miss Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Deacon, Mrs. Huntington, Mr. Mark Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Povey, of Lennoxville; Mr. and Mrs. John Clough Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Herring and son, of Bulwer.

NO NEW GAS CUSTOMERS TO BE TAKEN ON

Announcement that no new customers would be taken on by the Gas Department until the propane gas system is in operation, was made at the City Hall yesterday. This decision was reached at a committee-of-the-whole meeting after authorities had been notified that the present supply of gas is insufficient to meet the increased demand.

Local industries have suffered from this shortage, partly occasioned by the erection of new buildings in Sherbrooke and partly due to the steadily increasing population of the city. The hot weather, causing households to rely on gas to cook meals, instead of using wood stoves, may also be a contributing factor to the situation.

Several consumers reported that often during the day and especially at noon time the gas pressure is very low.

Recommendation that households cook their meals as early as possible so as to avoid the noon-time low was made by Alderman Paul Hamel, president of the gas committee. Mr. Hamel said that gas users had increased in number considerably during the past few months and that no arrangements had been made to provide additional service, as the propane gas plant which will be ready this fall will meet the demand adequately.

Mr. Hamel warned housewives that the low pressure of the gas will often cause the flame to go out without the key being turned off.

WORKERS' CASE IS ADJOURNED TO AUGUST 10

The arbitration board appointed to settle contract differences between the City of Sherbrooke and the Brotherhood of Civic Employees adjourned its sessions again yesterday.

The board will resume the present session on August 10. The argument presented by Guy Merrill Desaulniers, attorney for the Brotherhood, seeking to prove the increase of the cost of living over the past two years could not be terminated yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Desaulniers presented a brief based on statistics supplied by the Welfare Council of Toronto pertaining to standards of living as applied to an average family of five persons. These statistics show the increase in such basic items as rent, fuel, foodstuffs and clothing. The Brotherhood took the case to Court on behalf of four groups of civic employees: the fire, police and electrical department employees and the City Hall employees. Several clauses contained in the contract submitted by the Brotherhood to the City, were rejected.

The Brotherhood seeks an eight-hour working day for the Police department and salary increases ranging from 10 to 15 per cent for all other groups.

Mayors Urge Implementation Of Low-Rental Housing Plan

Ottawa, July 17.—The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities placed before Reconstruction Minister Howe yesterday a request that the Federal Government undertake immediate drafting and implementation of a plan for low-rental housing across the Dominion.

Meeting the Minister at his office in the Parliament Buildings, the mayors termed the program a "vital necessity" to meet the needs of low-income groups.

Asserting that municipalities in their present condition were in no position to furnish either direct or indirect subsidization of the plan, the mayors asked the Government to give it financial support. It was the "responsibility and duty" of the Dominion to make such a program become a reality.

It also was suggested that as soon as the proposed program had been drafted, the executive committee of the Federation should be called for final consultation.

In a detailed brief prepared at the Federation's convention at Winnipeg July 8-11, the mayors said a "housing crisis" existed in the Dominion today. Blamed for the shortage was an accumulated backlog of unbuilt houses from the 1930's.

"Even at full production capacity the construction industry will be unable to build sufficient housing for all people who need it for several years to come.

"In its present magnitude the problem has reached such proportions that it is beyond solution save through such facilities as alone can be provided by the Federal Government. It is a nation-wide problem and requires the national resources in order to provide a solution.

"Such facilities as are provided under the National Housing Act and other like provisions of the Federal Government are inadequate, and, at best, serve a limited proportion of Canadian households requiring shelter accommodation. Fully 45 per cent of Canadian families cannot be provided modern shelter accommodation within the framework of existing legislation and financial facilities."

A REPLY TO MR. HOWE

The reply of Premier George Drew of Ontario to the criticism of Reconstruction Minister Howe against his plans for the bringing of seven thousand British immigrants to Ontario by air is marked by more moderation than that voiced by the Federal Minister. The Premier states that up to this point he has received fine co-operation from Mr. Howe, except for the refusal to permit the landing of the airplanes at Malton. Under the rigid regulations the American craft will have to land at Buffalo, but Mr. Drew says this does not present too serious difficulties.

Earlier in the House of Commons, Mr. Howe made it plain that he does not like the idea of Premier Drew bringing these immigrants into Canada from the British Isles by an American airline and remarked that it was a perfect example "of a man playing with machinery he doesn't understand and getting his fingers burned."

According to the Reconstruction Minister it is all right for a Quebec industrialist, Mr. Dionne, to bring his Polish girls to Bangor, Me., by American air transport, but the initiative of Premier Drew in using American planes, probably the only transport available, is condemned.

It is obvious that Mr. Drew has had to turn some sharp corners and cut very considerable red tape. Other men might have been chagrined at the prospect but the Ontario Premier is a man not easily deviated once he sets his course. If Canada is to have an adequate immigration policy, the matter must be handled in a business way, with politics thrown out the window. Mr. Howe's remarks only serve to emphasize that Premier Drew must be regarded as one of the strong men in Canada opposed to the present administration at Ottawa, with the result that nothing he ever will do will be right. Of course, when he succeeds in cutting through the mass of federal red tape on immigration, he is terribly wrong.

SOCIALISM: PRINCIPLE AND PRACTICE

The residents of Leyton, a little town in England, apparently are strong believers in the principles of Socialism, for they have elected a Borough Council whose members are ninety per cent Socialists. In keeping with their principles the Councillors insisted on having a publicly-owned and operated canteen in the Town Hall, serving meals in competition with private restaurants.

Unfortunately, however, this municipal canteen has not been feeding the employees of the town in a satisfactory manner — the chief complaint of the civil servants being that it did not offer an adequate choice of menus. As a result the Socialist Borough Council has called in a private firm of restaurant operators, and turned the Town Hall canteen over to them to run for three months. There is said to have been no protest yet from the people who have to eat in the Town Hall canteen. Even if they are good socialists, employed by a Socialist municipality, they are prepared to put getting satisfactory meals ahead of loyalty to Socialist principles.

The Leyton incident only serves to prove that as long as free enterprise can give people better goods for less money than Socialism does, free enterprise is going to remain extremely popular in practice, however much it may appeal to groups of visionaries in theory.

A WORTHY CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

The awarding by the Sherbrooke City Council of the contract for the construction of a new reservoir in East Sherbrooke is another stage in carrying out the extended list of civic improvements which have been given the approval of the ratepayers in recent loan by-laws. For some years past, the East Sherbrooke water distribution system has left much to be desired. The large and rapidly-growing district was dependent for its water on mains which crossed the St. Francis river. The danger has always been great that these underwater mains might break and their location is such that extensive delay might result in making repairs. Thus important areas would be deprived of their normal water supply and the task of fighting any fire that might break out there would be complicated.

With the construction of an additional reservoir on the highlands, the maintenance of an adequate water supply in the East Ward is assured, as the storage capacity will be sufficient to meet any normal demands for such period as the supply mains themselves are out of commission.

The City Councillors have shown themselves appreciative of the need of an adequate water supply for all parts of the City, but as yet they have not been particularly aggressive in improving the quality of the water available for household and industrial use. For years there has been considerable debate on the matter of installing a filtration plant or of obtaining a new source of supply, but to date little or no actual progress has been made in this direction, despite the best efforts of successive mayors and groups of aldermen.

THE PRINTING GRAB

The decision of the joint Senate-House Committee on Printing to place government business ahead of the re-printing of speeches of private members will eliminate one of the small, cheap grafts which have been indulged in too frequently by certain Members of the House of Commons in the past. The condition has become so aggravated that the government printing plant has fallen weeks behind with its proper work and has had to farm out a substantial portion of it, with the result that the cost to the taxpayer has been trebled.

The original idea was that a member could purchase a reasonable number of copies of his Commons' addresses at nominal cost for distribution among his constituents, the speeches being mere reprints of the Hansard record. In recent years however, the practice has grown up of embellishing these pamphlets, often changing the text materially so that the original meaning is distorted, while too frequently the member asks for his picture on the front cover along with the insertion of headings, sub-headings and otherwise editing the copy. The result has been a break-down in the printing office.

There can be no winking at this practice. Each party should impress upon its own members the need of limiting their requisitions while the Government should see that the regulations are strictly enforced. The duty of the Opposition is to check up on the Government in case of laxity.

A reduction in the supply of these reprints might ease the burden of franked mail on the Post Office, which is forced to carry hundreds of thousands of these pamphlets each session without receiving a penny of revenue.

Washington Column

THE HOUSE TRIES A COORDINATOR

The greatest sneer that could be hurled at anyone in Washington in wartime was to call him a "Coordinator." Those were the days when Nelson Rockefeller was Coordinator for South America, Archie MacLeish was Coordinator of Facts and Figures and there were coordinators for this, that and every other little thing.

Congressmen up on Capitol Hill used to delight in heaping scorn on the heads of all the coordinators downtown. It got so bad that when Wilson Wyatt came to Washington to be Housing Coordinator, he said, "When you call me Coordinator, smile!"

But times have changed. Now what do you find? You find that the congressmen have named themselves a Coordinator of Information, that's what you find.

He has been on the job a couple of months now, so it seemed like an idea to run him down and see how he was getting on with his coordinating. Anyone coordinating Congress must be good.

He was harder to find than the guy who started throwing those saucers. The Clerk of the House gave directions to a little-used elevator. The elevator operator knew which floor it was, down in the upper basement. Then one of the natives who seem to live down there and like it, knew which door it was. Name on it. But inside was Mr. Coordinator J. Fredrick Richardson himself, comfortably housed in a big old-fashioned office with a circular end, a fireplace and a couple of helpers.

HAS THAT CONGRESSIONAL AIR
Mr. Richardson looks a good bit like a congressman — and that's not intended to be a dirty crack, son. He is big and gray and mustached and bespectacled. He used to be a newspaperman himself and is probably a nice gent if you ever get to know him.

But he says he can't talk. Confidential servant of the House, it seems. He gives no interviews, makes no statements. That makes him Coordinator of Secrets — not information.

He did say he didn't expect to occupy this space long. Had a terrible time getting a telephone. Seems that all the plugs on the Capitol switchboard were assigned to others. But eventually he'll move over to the House Office building. There he'll assemble a staff and be ready for business when Congress comes back to town. He has $65,000 to get going on, $12,000 of which is for him, which seems fair enough.

There are, it seems, some 3600 organizations pouring their information in on Congress. Eight hundred have offices in Washington. Fifty are considered important. Congress doesn't know what to do with all this material. So the idea is to send it all to the new Coordinator's office and let him do something with it.

THE HOUSE'S ANSWER MAN

The House Coordinator of Information will also answer questions from congressmen who want to know what's what about what. He won't do any original research, but he will make use of the work already done by others. He will try to report both sides, "without partisan bias in selection or presentation," as it says in House Resolution 183, which created the job.

Of course, a block away from the Capitol is another big-domed Victorian pile known as the Library of Congress. Its more modern annex is just about as big. Together they make the best library in the country, if not in the world. In these buildings works a group of scholars in the Legislative Reference Service. It is Congress' own research organization. But for some reason the congressmen seem to mistrust all that book learning, and they mistrust all those college professors in Legislative Reference Service. They reorganized it last year, but still weren't satisfied, so they set up this $65,000 Coordinator of Information.

'On You It Looks Good!'

Press Comment

In the July issue of the Atlantic Monthly there appeared a most interesting report on Canada. It is re-published in the Record in four editorial articles. Below is the last article.

EDITOR.

THE BURDEN OF CONTROLS

The great advantage the Conservatives have, outside of the Dominion-provincial relations question, is that they can promise, and should be better able than the Liberals to effect, a real reduction of the burden of official and bureau and regulatory and inspectors who dug themselves in during the war and whom the present government has not the courage to throw out.

The Liberals have had to apply to Parliament for a continuation of the special powers which enabled them to operate these controls during the war and for two years after it, but the Conservatives put up a good fight for a much greater reduction of the controls than the government was willing to accept, and this attitude is undoubtedly popular with the country.

On the other hand the governments of both Ontario and Quebec are unpopular with labor on account of their attitude during the recent strikes, and their unwillingness to adopt more modern labor legislation now that the ending of the war has thrown the labor problem back into the provincial arena. The Quebec government had a new labor bill ready during the past session, but organized labor regarded it as unacceptable and it was not even introduced.

There is a general belief that the political power of labor is very much less than it was before the public realized the extent to which the Communists have infiltrated into the unions; but this belief still remains to be tested. The Communists have just provided themselves with a daily newspaper in Toronto, but its influence is not likely to be great except in the more leftist unions.

Both in economics and in international politics Canada is, for geographical reasons, very closely tied in with the United States. That is not very surprising at a time when the whole world, both for its prosperity or depression and for its peace or conflicts, is more dependent on what the United States does than it has ever been on the policies of a single nation before.

But the tie-in of Canada is closer and more intimate than that of any other nation. It is well that there is so great a similarity between the characters, the habits, and the political ideals of the two peoples.

APATHY ON REFORM

Apathy of the federal Government on the question of penal reform is hard to understand. There is no lack of evidence to show that drastic changes in Canada's prison system are long overdue. Other countries, especially Britain, have demonstrated that by proper methods it is possible to make decent citizens out of youths who have run foul of the law. In Canada, however, there appears to be the defeatist attitude that little hope can be held out for reformation of most of the young people convicted of penitentiary offences. The result is that the prison population is not being decreased. Due to lack of facilities for proper segregation of young first offenders and for training and education, repeaters are being created in the penitentiaries. This is not only expensive but also reprehensible in this day and age.

Recently the Toronto conference of the United Church went on record in favor of better plans and quicker action with regard to reformation of prisoners. In view of the fact that the bill to amend the Penitentiaries Act, given final reading in the Commons a few days ago, contained but few and only the least significant of the changes advocated by reformers, there is little reason to expect any speedy or sympathetic consideration of the proposals made by the conference.

Justice Minister Ilsley in discussing the bill in the House did not seem to be greatly concerned about the question of penal reform. With regard to one of the most important recommendations made in the Archambault report, the centralization of the prison system under control of the Dominion Government, the Minister intimated that he had no intention of taking the lead by asking the provincial governments to surrender jurisdiction in favor of federal authorities. If the provinces started any such move he would be quite willing to listen.

A MODERN MANCHURIAN INCIDENT

Armed conflict, on a scale that cannot be disguised by the meagreness of the reports, has broken out in Northern Greece. It is invasion. It is aggression. It is also, inevitable. From the moment that Greece, disregarding Soviet pressures, declined to be absorbed in the Russian Balkan sphere, it has been evident that the price of such independence would be a crushing imposition on the Greeks. But Greece willingly and deliberately chose its honorable post as sole Soviet bastion in a Russian area of strategic importance to Soviet schemes.

The costs of freedom have been no less high than anticipated. Greece desperately needs peace to rehabilitate itself economically, socially and politically. Soviet policy has denied the unfortunate Greeks the opportunity to create the characteristic conditions in which peace can develop; and to that fact may be attributed many of the regrettable political and social circumstances existing in Greece that are so generally criticized outside the country.

Twice the Greek Government has had to appeal to the United Nations for protection against the scheming of its Kremlin-inspired neighbors. Each time the U.S.S.R. has attempted to block the appeal or to negative it; on each occasion Russia has encouraged counter-charges from that obedient Sovietized circle that surrounds Greece.

At the moment there is before the Security Council a report on foreign aggressions into Greece drawn up by a neutral United Nations Commission. The document is remarkable in that it is unanimous — save for Russian and Polish dissent. The representatives of 12 nations thoroughly investigated the circumstances on Greece's Northern frontiers. The entire Commission saw the same things at the same time, heard the same evidence. Ten of them believe Greece the victim of foreign aggression and the report is drawn in that sense. The representatives of Poland and of Russia, however, read the evidence as convicting Greece of the aggression. Both nations will doubtless express themselves in such terms when the report is discussed by the Security Council.

In the meantime, with characteristic cynicism, Soviet policy has now launched a series of armed invasions into Greece from Albania. The aggressions are believed to have been intended to coincide with a domestic revolt, Communist-directed. The whole object is to overthrow the Greek Government and substitute one friendly to the Kremlin. So far Government troops appear to have met the challenge successfully; internally the projected revolution has been stifled by new and necessary, however unfortunate — repressive measures for public safety. But Greece is not equipped to wage a war, either economically or psychologically. Its sole hope of success is the Security Council; and there it will find the expected comfort blocked by Russia's veto in all probability.

There is an historic analogy that is as complete as it is obvious and as startling as it is alarming. Some 16 years ago a similar situation arose. Japan, in a brazen attempt to achieve a special position in Manchuria undertook military operations against the Chinese Government that resulted in the creation of the Japanese-dominated state of Manchukuo. The Chinese properly appealed to the League of Nations. But, like the United Nations, the former League of Nations could only function effectively when comparative agreement existed. In the Manchurian case it made an investigation and tabled a report. But it was wholly unable to effect a cessation of hostilities.

Conciliation, impartial investigation, the condemnation of world-wide public opinion were not able to deter the Japanese from a program of aggression. Confronted by unanimity, the Japanese withdrew from the League. And that was the end of a critical chapter both in world affairs and in the history of the League of Nations. It was also one of the warnings preliminary to a world war.

If experience counts at all, it is obvious that the Greek case must be resolved in terms other than those thought sufficient in the Sino-Japanese dispute.

CADET TRAINING

Canadians apparently have developed a keener appreciation of the value of cadet training in the schools. Ten years ago the plan was widely denounced as militaristic. Now a Gallup Poll indicates that a big majority of the people are strongly in favor.

There are some surprising and interesting results in this test of public opinion. Fifty-four per cent of the cross section of voters questioned would make cadet training obligatory while an additional 23 per cent would make it optional. Only eight per cent would have it abolished.

In Quebec 51 per cent favor compulsory training and only eight per cent would abolish it. Most of those who did not approve the cadet movement before the war were apathetic but two reasons are to be found for the awakening of interest; the first, of course, is that the preparatory training given the cadet corps during the war kept the Canadian military forces supplied with a fine type of young manhood.

Secondly the influence of corps work in promoting and encouraging fitness, discipline, leadership and good citizenship became recognized. The boys are enthusiastic in their work and the beneficial results have pleased the parents.

There can also be read into this poll an indication that Canadians do not want to be caught unprepared in the event of another conflict.

KLAN'S DEATH SENTENCE

St. Louis Globe-Democrat
The courts of Georgia last week pronounced the Ku-Klux-Klan legally dead. The Klan's charter as a national corporation was surrendered in the Superior Court in Atlanta, and its own lawyer expressed the pious hope that its interment will prove permanent. . . . The courts, of course, cannot revoke the state of mind upon which the Klan flourished. Prejudice and intolerance are beyond the jurisdiction of the law. Members of the defunct hooded order may still exercise their right of free assembly without benefit of charter, and some of their leaders have already announced their intention to do so. But without legal status the Klan can no longer hope to regain the power it held after the first world war. Inferentially, at least, the courts have placed a definite stamp of disapproval upon it which should lead to its actual as well as legal demise.

MANOEUVERS SQUEEZE FOR SIX TRUMP

Once again the recent Ohio State Tournament held at Cleveland drew record breaking entries. I was glad to see my trophy, which is awarded to the winners of the two-session mixed pair event, go to Capt. William Christian of Montegomery, Ala., and Mrs. C. J. Bonner of South Euclid, O. Captain Christian will defend his world championship Masters team-of-four title at the summer nationals in Brooklyn, N.Y., during the first week in August.

Mrs. Bonner, who has been one of the most enthusiastic workers of the Cleveland Whist Club for many years, plays her cards very well. In today's hand she executed a nice squeeze play. She won the opening heart lead with the king and led a small diamond, finessing dummy's ten-spot, which East won. The queen of hearts was returned.

Mrs. Bonner won with the ace and took another diamond finesse, dropping West's king. She came back to her hand by playing the small diamond to her nine-spot.

The third diamond started the squeeze on East. He let go the jack of hearts, hoping that his partner had the nine. On the fourth diamond he had to let go either a club or a spade.

When he discarded a club, Mrs. Bonner cashed the nine of hearts and East won was hopelessly squeezed. If he let go another club, the whole club suit would be established, while a spade discarding set up the entire spade suit.

Edna Moore Addresses Rotarians Regarding Laws Of Vermont State

Derby Line, Vt., July 17.—Making the laws of the State of Vermont is not merely talking about them, was the theme of an interesting talk by Miss Edna M. Moore, of Derby Line, representative for the Town of Derby to the Legislature of the State of Vermont, and president of the International Community School, at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

Anyone wishing to have a law passed at the Legislature must submit the outline of his wishes to a group of lawyers who put it into the proper form, she explained, pointing out that the bill is then submitted to the proper committee, which gives it due consideration, and then either rejects or recommends it. After this process she continued, the bill must still pass the House of Representatives of Vermont, which consists of one member for each town regardless of size, and the Senate of the State, which consists of membership according to the population of the counties.

It is an intricate and complicated process and until it is thoroughly understood, one which might quite easily baffle the average person. Bills ranging from a bounty on rattlesnakes to the necessary appropriations to maintain the regular departments, pass through the biennial session of the legislature, and each bill must be reported by the proper committee either favorably or unfavorably. Miss Moore was introduced by H. A. Rice and the thanks of those present was expressed by G. R. MacLean, Visiting Rotarians included Dr. Dallas Bray of Long Island City, N.Y., and Gordon McKenney, of Newport, who brought his brother-in-law, Lewis Baker, with him as a guest. Piano music to the contractor there still was a string of repairs "as long as your arm" to be completed on the houses.

Mr. Fleming said an efficient department never would have had to be "goaded" into considering action against the Sarnia contractor and even then the steps were negligible.

There had been no proposal for reduction of the price charged the veterans because of faulty work. They were "being kicked around." In March, after this "deplorable and disgraceful" situation had been fully exposed, the Sarnia veterans had been given an ultimatum to pay up or get out.

At his reference to "deplorable" conditions, the Minister blurted "nonsense." Mr. Fleming said that if the Minister doubted what he said he should appoint a Royal Commission to hear evidence about any V.L.A. project. "Let's get to the bottom of this thing; we've got enough facts to put parliament and the country on their guard."

"Go ahead and do it," said Veterans Minister Mackenzie. "You'll only keep veterans out of their homes."

Mr. Fleming said "shocking negligence and incompetence" had been discovered in the V.L.A. "The situation and it should be removed."

Mr. Mackenzie: "It's been done." Mr. Fleming: "It hasn't been done well enough." These Sarnia homes were not isolated cases. Many others had needed repairs. Some others had needed repairs.

Recalling that the committee had assured Gordon Murchison, V.L.A. director, for his evidence, Mr. Fleming said he had been "hostile, belligerent, high-handed and he didn't show the sympathy we might expect a public official to have for veterans."

It was "perfectly clear that the investigation had revealed such a situation."

"Tweedle," said Mr. Mackenzie. Mr. Fleming: "There is no greater authority on tweedle than the minister."

The need for a Royal Commission on V.L.A. housing had been proved "to the hilt." The Minister doesn't dare put the lid on. Discontent was seething among veterans.

"And you're stirring it up," said the minister. Mr. Fleming said that if no Royal Commission were appointed, the minister should give the situation his close personal attention. It should be decided whether Mr. Murchison should be allowed to continue in the repair staff.

Steps should be taken to bring defaulting contractors to book. Capt. Walter Tucker, parliamentary assistant to the Veterans Minister, said that the final cost of the Sarnia homes would be $1,100 apiece but that had been the worst experience encountered anywhere.

Mr. Fleming: "That's not what the director said." Mr. Tucker said it was "very significant" that the account committee had not recommended appointment of a Royal Commission although it had been sympathetic to the veterans. He thought Mr. Fleming's demand was "drama."

Mr. Fleming had said the investigation of V.L.A. homes by a three-man committee was largely useless because of its partial character, but Mr. Tucker said he was alone in criticizing a report made by a man of the quality of Walter Woods, Deputy Minister, and Col. C. E. Parrish, expert on engineering and a Canadian Legionist. The other member was Mr. Murchison.

Mr. Fleming's suggestion that the Sarnia homes would have been built for $4,500 placed the rest of his statements in the proper light. A comparison of the costs across Canada—Edmonton they cost $7,143, in Kamloops $7,674—showed that such a statement was wrong.

He said Mr. Fleming's estimate indicated "he doesn't know what he is talking about at all."

Mr. Fleming's statements that the veteran was unprotected and that the government was also were untrue. For one thing, all defects were being repaired at no cost to the veteran and there was a write-off under the law.

Defending Mr. Murchison, Mr. Tucker said that, being a returned soldier himself he had tried to do "his little bit." Had he been another type of civil servant and done nothing more than he had to, he would not be under attack.

There were great difficulties in trying to build houses and it was very easy to come now that it was over and criticize. There had been no attempt to hide anything and there had been a complete disclosure to the house.

Mr. Tucker said that while there had been defects in houses built for the veterans the justice department had been consulted and if action could be taken against the contractors it would.

Mr. Murchison had admitted that the department had been "poorly served" by some officials and some 20 engineers and inspectors had been released of their duties.

R. W. Warren (L.—Renfrew North) said he had found no discontent with Mr. Murchison's work. He had "accomplished a splendid job" in looking after settlement of veterans on farms.

Mr. Fleming had treated Mr. Murchison "as a common criminal . . . he's the type of lawyer who, when he gets a knife in, keeps twisting it."

He had not been greatly impressed with the Sarnia defects. He could understand the contractor's problems.

He belittled the demands for a Royal Commission. The Sarnia defects were negligible. A carpenter from Renfrew could clear them up in a week.

This was the way communism seeped in. Mr. Murchison didn't "deserve a knife in the back."

Joseph Burton (C.F.—Humboldt) a committee member, said the Sarnia situation couldn't be explained with a wave of the

U.S. At Turning Point

DeWitt Mackenzie, AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst That was a stern warning regarding the dangers of the European crisis which State Secretary Marshall gave in his address before the conference of United States Governors at Salt Lake City.

"There is no blinking the fact that this country now stands at a turning point in its relations to its traditional friends among the nations of the old world," said Marshall.

"Either it must finish the task of assisting those countries to adjust themselves to the changed demands of a new age, or it must reconcile itself to seeing them move in directions which are consistent neither with their own traditions nor with those of this country."

"In the latter case, the United States would be faced with a radical alteration of its own position in the world. I ask you to consider most carefully the implications of such a development for the future prosperity and security of our country."

The general has left observers to dot the 'i's and cross the 't's, but that's not difficult. If we don't help the still free European democracies to regain their feet, they will be brought under Russia's communist domination. Thus America will be cut off from her old friends. Her security, both economically and militarily, will be weakened.

But that's only a snap-shot of the threat. Europe's economic stability is by no means due solely to the ravages of war. A fundamental fact which a lot of folk fail to realize is that Europe in particular, and the eastern hemisphere in general, are in the throes of the communist world-revolution which was projected back in the days of the Bolshevik upheaval of 1917 and only now is in full swing.

Professional observers even before the last war, recognized the idea of world-revolution as a cardinal goal of Russian communism. It was held up pending the strengthening of the Soviet Union economically and militarily. This was achieved in the successive five-year plans carried out by Marshal Stalin.

Meanwhile, observers were giving the Moscow regime credit for foreseeing that another general war was brewing. This war would provide the chaos which would be favorable to the inauguration of the world drive for the expansion of communism under direction of the Communist in Moscow.

Well, the war came. Russia suffered grievously herself, but with Allied aid she emerged strong enough to undertake a wholesale expansion of her sphere of influence. This has resulted in the establishment of communist controlled governments throughout Eastern Europe—and the expansion continues.

So the greatest problem of the United States and the other democracies is to deal with this Red world revolution. However, the revolution isn't confined to Europe, though that's where we notice it most. Its tentacles reach around the globe, as anyone can see with half an eye if he looks about him.

Says Reform 7 Are Heard And Christian At Inquest Unity Needed In Malartic

Theological Seminary Head Tells Missionary Group Church Must Use These Weapons To Fight Revolutionary tendencies.

Whitby, Ont., July 17.—(C)—Reformation and world-wide Christian unity are the weapons the Christian Church must use to fight revolutionary tendencies which threaten the structures of modern culture.

Dr. Henry Pitney Van Dusen, Dr. Henry Pitney Van Dusen, president of the Union Theological Seminary, told the International Missionary Council.

In an address to last night's session of the gathering of Protestant missionary leaders here the Philadelphia-born theologian and author asserted that authentic Christian faith identified itself wholly with the needs of men.

"It synthesizes profoundly with the aspirations of men but it cannot identify itself uncritically with the desires and demands of men," he said. "It must understand the demonic as well as the creative impulses of the time . . ."

"Today, four mighty movements are kindling the flames of the passionate devotion of millions: Fascism, lately scotched but not dead, the others — communism, Islam, political romanism — are the three most powerful rivals, if not the enemies, of Christian faith in various parts of the world."

"With all their variety, indeed unity, they are alike in underlying character. All are totalitarianisms, both in their conception of the whole of life and in their ambition to dominate the whole world . . ."

"All hold out before men the promise of gifts valued more highly by the masses than any now possessed or promised by the dying society. These promises are many: personal fulfillment and security and self-fulfillment through participation in shaping a communal destiny."

Dr. Van Dusen occupied much of the morning and afternoon testimony. He told the court that he made no attempt to warn the men in the mine bottom either by sounding the warning buzzer, flashing the warning lights or by hammering on the air pipe. Lauson said he did not think the men would have heard the buzzer if sounded.

Ferrie Maurais told of finding the telephone box on the mine's 10th level lunchroom. He also claimed that 200-watt bulbs which were sometimes used in the phone box often burned the wood.

today that any advantages gained by the railways through higher rates would be outweighed by general disadvantages.

The farmer had to bear the brunt of freight rates, he said, and "a very serious national problem" would develop if they had to stand the estimated more than $20,000,000 a year which the railways' proposed 30-per-cent increase would cost agriculturists.

It was learned that the ships, as is customary in peacetime, were not following any set course and had not been informed by wireless of each other's presence.

All of the dead, injured and missing, most of them from Ontario and Quebec, were members of the destroyer's company of 178 naval men and eight dockyard civilians putting the warship through her steaming trials before going into her second commission. One of the missing men was a Halifax civilian.

None of the 41 crew members and two passengers aboard the freighter were hurt in the crash which telescoped the destroyer's bows but only gashed the larger ships forward plating.

The crash occurred about 1 p.m. off Sambro Lightship about 15 miles outside the harbor when the destroyer, returning from her trials, collided with the outbound freighter in the fog.

Cmdr. J. C. Littler, D.S.C., of Victoria, the Micmac's captain, was on the bridge "when she was hit."

"I saw the huge bow of the freighter looking as though it was directly over my head and then there was a jolt," he said afterwards. "I knew we had been hit."

It all happened within less than 20 seconds from the time of the impact until rescue operations and damage control was put into effect.

Seaman on the freighter thought their ship had grounded when the jar came.

They said the destroyer veered off after the first crash, then her stern struck the freighter and finally she drifted off into the fog.

From the Yarmouth County the damaged warship could not be seen in the murk, but the seamen said they could hear the commotion aboard the destroyer.

"We couldn't see the length of the deck the fog was so thick," T. Balcock of Dartmouth, N.S., a seaman, recalled afterwards.

Some of the freighter's crew, comparing the damage done to their own ship, were surprised that the warship had fared so badly. But others explained that the light bows of the destroyer, built for speed, would crumple readily that the more sturdily constructed freighter.

As the Yarmouth County hove to render assistance, damage control parties and rescue squads aboard the destroyer went to work. Men caught under buckled deck beams and jagged sections of plating were extricated and the dead removed.

It was believed the six missing men had been injured and tossed out through the grating hole in the smashed destroyer's bows. A sister ship, the Halda, searched the waters during the night for them but without success.

Cmdr. Littler mentioned especially the part of Lt.-Cmdr. J. C. Chauvin of Toronto in the action. Lt.-Cmdr. Chauvin was engineering and damage control officer.

He handled the situation with unusual competence after one command from me," the captain said.

After the crash both ships turned about and headed back to port under reduced speed.

A tense moment came when officers in Micmac discovered that 70 feet of her anchor chain, torn loose by the impact, was dragging on the bottom of the harbor, hampering her progress.

"All the way I had a party attempting to secure the chain," the captain said. "But it was found to be impossible due to the nature of the damage and the risk of losing men in the attempt."

Finally the navy tug Riverton slipped alongside and cut the chain with acetylene torches.

Faith Voiced In Marshall By Governors

State Secretary Still Lacks Specific Approval of His Plan For Economic Rebuilding of Europe, However.

By JACK BELL Salt Lake City, July 17.—(AP)—State Secretary Marshall had a vote of "faith and confidence" from United States Governors today but he lacked any specific approval of his plan for the economic rebuilding of Europe.

The Governors are meeting here in their annual conference.

The Governors today generally interpreted a foreign policy resolution which had adopted as a restoration of their faith in the workability of the United States bi-partisan international policy.

But despite a personal plea by Marshall in a Monday night address for their backing for "a course of action fully consistent with our own national interests and yet equally considerate of the inalienable rights of the United States has in the preservation of European civilization," the resolution avoided any reference to Europe.

Recounting the historical American fight for preservation of individual liberties, the resolution said that the United States stands today as "the bulwark of human freedom." It said the nation's foreign policy "is intimately related to the support of our historic liberties."

"Therefore," the resolution continued, "the governors' conference hereby asserts its conviction that the foreign policy of this country transcends in importance all partisan, personal or political considerations and should be at all times an American foreign policy, representative of the best in America and representing the United States to the nations of the world as a country that seeks peace and is united in its determination to protect the inalienable rights and privileges that our citizens now enjoy."

This left room for possible future support of the Marshall European aid plan, but as some Governors charged it avoided any advance endorsement until the details are known.

The Governors' reluctance to make any kind of advance commitment was demonstrated when, in closed session, they passed the original draft of a resolution in a section declaring support for "all proper efforts" on the part of the Secretary of State "to secure peace and freedom throughout the world."

This statement had been approved unanimously by the resolution group headed by Governor Lester C. Hunt, Wyoming Democrat.

Immediately the destroyer docked at the navy's base here ambulances met her at the jetty and took off the dead and injured while civilian squads searched the wreckage for missing men. The remaining crew members were berthed in the H.M.C.S. Stadacona Shore Barracks for the night.

The Micmac's accident was the second to occur to a naval vessel here in eight months. The mine-sweeper Middlesex ran aground off Halifax while on a rescue mission in December and was lost but there were no casualties aboard the sweeper.

lands. In the case of Europe Russia lately opposed any such wide participation and insisted that those treaties be written by the European big four—Britain, the United States, Russia and France.

Eventually, the American plan contemplates a full dress general peace conference to be attended by all of the 48 countries which were—and technically still are—at war with Japan.

But the first stage is the 11-state meeting, which the United States suggested should open either in Washington or San Francisco August 19. The details are subject to change.

Tucker had. The Sarnia cost per cubic foot was 58 cents as compared to a national average of 44.

He had been "amazed" that no more drastic action had been taken by the department. The committee report was not as strong as he would have liked, but it was a compromise.

Tamsil Seeks To Stop War In Indonesia

Acting Foreign Minister Attempting to Resolve New Differences Between His Government and Netherlands.

By STANLEY SWINTON Batavia, Java, July 17.—(AP)—Acting Foreign Minister Tamsil of the Indonesian Republic flew to the Republic capital of Jogjakarta today in an effort to resolve new differences between his government and Netherlands authorities which threatened to precipitate war in Indonesia.

He left Batavia in a Dutch plane he had requested from Hubertus J. Van Mook, acting Governor-General, in a conference this morning in line with negotiations for a joint national government for the United States of Indonesia.

Tamsil indicated he would ask Republican Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin to clarify the policy connotations of a radio speech earlier today which the Dutch interpreted as meaning that Sjarifoeddin had rejected their compromise plan for the government. The Minister intended to return here later this afternoon and meet again with Van Mook.

A Jogjakarta dispatch said a Republic Parliamentary working committee had rejected unanimously a Dutch proposal for future policing of the republic, embodied in the plan.

Sobieski (the central Indonesian labor union federation) ordered all Indonesian workers to prepare the people "to launch united action in defence of Indonesia's sovereignty and independence against Dutch aggression."

One high-level Netherlands informant said the Dutch were expected to decide before nightfall whether to undertake military action against the Republic. He indicated that such action was extremely likely.

This informant declared that a new crisis of "extraordinary gravity" had grown out of Sjarifoeddin's refusal to issue a cease-fire order to Indonesian forces pledged the Premier made yesterday.

In his radio speech earlier the premier told Indonesians the situation was critical. He said the Dutch attitude showed "they want to avoid the ways of peace."

"Let us be alert," he went on. "We must organize all forces and powers under our command. But never forget the ways of peace. However, we must be prepared should the Dutch choose another way."

The Premier has been in Batavia negotiating with Van Mook on a Netherlands compromise plan for an interim national government for the Indies.

This government would function until Jan. 1, 1949. That is the date under the Cherbon agreement when the United States of Indonesia would be granted full sovereignty in perpetual union with the Netherlands.

In the U.S.I. the republic would rule Java, Sumatra and Madoera. Sjarifoeddin's vice premier, Setiadjit, who remained in Batavia, insisted that the premier had rejected only the demand for an Indonesian cease-fire.

claim that freight-rate levels must be "adequate" to enable the railways to give efficient service. Mr. Hannam said farmers thought the same about their prices but they were "not always what we consider adequate."

He said he would agree that railway revenues should be adequate but "only to the extent that the same applies to agriculture."

MARY gambled with her popularity—and lost. Does your deodorant really kill odor instantly, safely, surely? Or are you only half-safe?

JANE ruined a dress she loved. Some deodorants rot fabrics, others do not stop the perspiration which stains clothes. Are your clothes only half-safe?

SUE took chances with her skin. Some deodorants may seriously irritate underarm. Is your deodorant gentle, antiseptic? Or is your skin only half-safe?

MELBORO

The "Willing Helpers" Mission Band held a meeting in the United Church hall under the leadership of Mrs. Lorne Ames. There were eight members present. President Noreen Taber presided and the meeting opened by singing the hymn, "Jesus Loves Me," followed by the Lord's Prayer. The Mission Band purpose was repeated in unison. The Scripture lesson was read by Hazel Johnston. The offering was taken up by Kenneth Johnston, followed by a dedication prayer read by Mrs. Ames. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary Winnifred Booth. Three handed in their membership fees and one completed scrapbook was handed in. Letters were read from the Children's Home in Lachine and the Crippled Children's Hospital, Montreal, voicing thanks and appreciation for the many things sent to them from the Band. Mrs. Ames read a chapter from the Study Book "Shara of Punjab." The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. Quilt blocks were cut out and sewn on and games were played. Mother Tired of Entertaining Girls Son Met During War

Dear Miss Dix: I am the mother of an only son who returned unharmed from overseas service. He has taken advantage of the G. I. bill to complete his education that the war interfered with. He is a loveable boy, but here's the rub:

McConnell's

DOROTHY DIX

BARRESSED MOTHER

Answer: Natural! You and your son view the problem from different angles. His point of view is that of the man who sits in a comfortable chair, with a cheering drink in his hand, conversing with an old acquaintance about experiences they have had together, while Mom sweats over the cooking stove preparing a good meal for a guest who has wished herself on her.

INEXPERIENCED

Probably your son has never even washed a dish in his life, so he has no conception of the work and worry and the many steps it takes to prepare company meals and to clean up after women guests who leave their belongings scattered all over the place; who ruin your best towels with their lipstick and who gobble down the good dishes you have spent hours preparing without so much as a "thank you."

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I am a boy of 17, engaged to a girl of 16. I thought that I loved her when I gave her the ring, but have found out differently. She wants me to marry her this fall, but I don't think I want to marry anybody. Can you give me any advice?

Answer: Yes, son, I can give you plenty of advice that will be money in your pocket and happiness in your life if you take it. It is to refuse to let the girl either persuade, or cry you into marrying her. And that counsel is just as good for her as it is for you, because you are both too young to know what real love is, or what sort of wife or husband you will want when you are grown.

You have had your tip and you should heed the warning, for you have found out by experience that you are growing up and continually changing and that the girl you thought you were in love with you are already tired of.

So go around with a lot of girls and have good times, but wait until you are older before you take the fatal step.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband is all that a wife could want in a mate when he is sober, but when he is drinking he is horrible. He sincerely wishes to overcome this habit, but seems to be unable to do it, and he is getting worse all the time. We have been married two years and I am so distressed over it that it is wrecking my health. What shall I do?

A GIRL WHO NEVER DREAMED THIS COULD HAPPEN TO HER Answer: Your best plan is to contact Alcoholics Anonymous. As you know, it is made up of men who have been addicted to drink and who through the influence and sympathy of other alcoholics have been cured. There is a branch of the association in every city.

Mother Tired of Entertaining Girls Son Met During War

Dear Miss Dix: I am the mother of an only son who returned unharmed from overseas service. He has taken advantage of the G. I. bill to complete his education that the war interfered with. He is a loveable boy, but here's the rub:

During the war he met many WAVES and WACS and many other women abroad, and without an invitation or a word of warning they drop in on us from all over this country and abroad. The first time we know that an uninvited guest is coming to pay us a nice long visit is when we get a telegram saying: "Will arrive at 8:45 P.M."

My son thinks this is all right, but as I have to do all the cooking and the waiting on them I see it from a different light. He thinks I am very unreasonable. What do you think?

Answer: Natural! You and your son view the problem from different angles. His point of view is that of the man who sits in a comfortable chair, with a cheering drink in his hand, conversing with an old acquaintance about experiences they have had together, while Mom sweats over the cooking stove preparing a good meal for a guest who has wished herself on her.

Any woman who comes as a self-invited guest is nothing but a deadbeat, and you should deal with her on that platform. Just tell the next one who announces that she is coming unasked that it is inconvenient for you to have her and that she will find a good hotel on the next corner. And tell your son that he is weak and silly to let himself be taken in by women who care nothing for him and are just merely grafting their board bill.

No woman who has any decency about her would do such a thing.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a boy of 17, engaged to a girl of 16. I thought that I loved her when I gave her the ring, but have found out differently. She wants me to marry her this fall, but I don't think I want to marry anybody. Can you give me any advice?

Piper; "The Church in the Wilderness" by the Junior Choir; two beautiful solos sung by Miss Theima Crawford; the duet, "Beautiful Dreamer" sung by Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. E. Bower; the trio, "Holy Father Cheer Our Way" sung by Mrs. Arthur Bell, Miss Theima Crawford and Miss Gladys Swanson, accompanied by Mrs. Roy Beckett.

TODAY WE LIVE IN A GREATER CANADA

"On The Map" of the NEW AIR WORLD

CANADA LIES at the cross-roads of the great air routes of the modern world. Through our skies pass the shortest airways from North America to Europe and to Asia. Today, because of stupendous wartime achievements, we have the personnel, the experience and the vastly expanded facilities to take advantage of that favoured position.

Significant is the increase in air traffic within our own borders. Today Canada's civil aviation is flying three times the number of aircraft miles, carrying five times the number of passengers and three times the amount of mail that it did in 1939—advances typical of Canada's tremendous modern development, with new and greater opportunities in every field of Canadian activity.

After World War I, in which Canada's fighting airmen established Canada's world-famous flying tradition, aviation's development was rapid and in Canada more air-freight was carried—much of it by the "bush pilots" of the North—than in any other country.

In World War II, with the R.C.A.F. developing and administering the gigantic Commonwealth Air Training Plan, Canada became, in President Roosevelt's words, "the air-drome of Democracy", and emerged from the war the fourth air power in the world.

TO PROMOTE A FULLER REALIZATION BY CANADIANS OF CANADA'S PRESENT GREATNESS

JOHN WILLIAM BILLES, 25 years ago, used his $3,000 savings as down payment on a Toronto tire business. With his brother and five employees he began retailing automobile accessories. Initiative and industry produced results. Today his Canadian Tire Corp. is a million-dollar organization with a unique mail-order business and over 100 associate dealers throughout Eastern Canada.

MR. BILLES says: "Today I'm convinced more than ever of the soundness of my original decision to start in business for myself in Canada. Opportunities are even greater now. Today, whatever the careers they choose, young Canadians find awaiting them in our own country more worthwhile possibilities of advancement than ever were known before."

Three men and a girl, known professionally as The Bedells, who will present their top-notch acrobatic act at the Waterloo Fair on August 8th, 9th and 10th, have an enviable background in show business which probably accounts for their versatility as performers. They will star in the big stage show at Waterloo Fair being an outstanding act secured from some of the larger exhibitions.

The Bedells leap and tumble through the air to land in and on precarious perches with the abandon and sureness of lithe jungle animals. Their comely sister, whose daily work insures her shapeliness, adds poise and glamour and a daring routine of her own to the act.

The Bedells' performance is divided into two parts. The first is an acrobatic presentation with the aid of teeterboards which give them the necessary spring to leap high into the air. The second involves the same kind of intricate timing of daring acrobatic routines but these are performed with comical intent and result in a hilarious and lightning fast exhibition.

The Bedells were secured by Waterloo Fair's new management through George A. Hamid, the nation's foremost booker, and will headline an all-star show of eight or ten acts every afternoon and evening.

GRAZIANO DEFEATS ZALE — DRUMMONDVILLE HERE TONIGHT

Graziano T.K.O.'s Zale In Sixth To Capture Middleweight Crown

Chicago, July 17.—(P)—Rocky Graziano, tough, touse-haired youngster from New York, last night reached the top of the Middleweight Boxing heap when he battered World Champion Tony Zale to pitiful helplessness in Chicago stadium.

The Rock, fighting to redeem himself from the stigma of suspension in his native state, was declared winner on a technical knockout two minutes and 10 seconds after the start of the sixth round. The finish came at almost the exact stage that the 33-year-old Zale had come from behind to knock out Graziano, eight years younger, in their first engagement in New York last Sept. 27.

Last night's savagely fought battle, scheduled for 15 rounds, was witnessed by a sweltering, howling crowd of 18,547 which established an all-time indoor gate by paying $422,918 and more than doubled the old record of $201,485 hung up by Jimmy Maloney and Jack Delaney, heavyweights, in New York 20 years ago.

Zale got about $130,417 for his end and Graziano $65,208. Zale contracted for 40 per cent of the net gate and the challenger 20 per cent.

Zale, champion since 1940, came to the end of his trail suddenly. Up to the end of the fifth round, two judges and referee Johnny Behr had voted him leading on points by a safe margin for carrying the attack to the challenger. Zale had gashed a cut over Graziano's left eye, his right eye was rapidly closing and his nose was bleeding and cut.

In the third round Zale, who weighed 159 to 155½ for the challenger, had all but finished Graziano. Bleeding from his wounds, Rocky was badly hurt and staggering under Zale's punishing blows to the head and body. A short right to the chin had floored Graziano but he was up before the count started and somehow he weathered the storm.

In the fourth, Graziano drove a terrific right to Zale's body—a devastating punch that started Zale to his finish. Zale, however, courageously tried to carry the battle to his opponent but the punishing power of his blows was fading.

Zale started to wilt in the fifth. His tempo slowed. He lashed out with the pride of a falling champion, but failed to hurt Graziano and at the end of the round he was visibly tired.

Then came the dramatic sixth and finish. The spirit of youth was starting to tell. Zale was slowing down rapidly. Graziano was getting stronger.

Zale still rushed to attack and pinned the challenger in Tony's own corner. As Zale moved in, Graziano countered with a blasting right to the jaw. Zale reeled backwards, his hands dropped to his side. Graziano knew that Zale was hurt and he opened up in a fury of blows, connecting solidly with his left hook and a right to the chin. Zale's eyes glazed and he staggered back.

Zale stabbed with a left in a vain attempt to halt Graziano's charges but Rocky swept in with another right to the jaw, and Zale, completely helpless, sagged under the top strand of the ropes. The New York battler followed up, attempting to hammer Zale as he hung there. But referee Behr pulled him away.

As the timekeeper shouted "three," Behr pushed Graziano to a neutral corner and ended the fight.

Graziano was so blindly furious he completely misunderstood Behr's decision and thought he had been disqualified for standing over his beaten foe and continuing the attack.

Sam Pian and Art Winch, co-managers of Zale, declared today they would demand a return match with Graziano in accordance with the 90-day return bout stipulation in their contract.

Bids are under consideration from Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Chicago. Pian and Winch, and Zale, too, complained that the terrific heat robbed him of his speed.

"The next fight, if they meet again, will be held out of doors," Pian asserted. "Tony simply couldn't stand up under that heat."

CLOSE BATTLES WAGED IN "C" SOFTBALL LOOP

In Industrial "C" Softball League games that were all more or less close, Sherbrooke Machineries turned back Fairbanks 7-4 and the Sherbrooke Record topped Brake-shoe 6-4 at the Parade Grounds, while Philip Carey defeated Union Screen Plate 7-4 in Lennoxville last night.

Machineries' victory gives them a stronger grip on first place in the league standing. They are now four points ahead of Philip Carey the second-place team.

Carey's win over the Platenen means Carey temporarily shares second place with the Plate squad.

The Record is now in a three-way tie for fourth-place with Fairbanks and Brake-shoe.

Machineries turned back Fairbanks without much trouble. They really won the game on a six-run barrage in the second inning. Gorham, who brought in three of their 7 tallies, tripled home two of them in this stanza. They got another run in the third. Fairbanks put up a fight but fell short, scoring only two in the fourth and two in the fifth. Rice batted in two Fairbanks tallies with a single in the fourth. Machineries used Morin, their short stop, in the pitcher's box until the sixth, then put in Lindsay, apparently not taking any chances on Morin's faltering before Fairbanks in the dying moments of the game with victory in their grasp. Morin was the winning pitcher. The final score was Machineries 7, Fairbanks 4.

After Brake-shoe had made the score 4-1 at the end of the first half of the fourth inning of the Brake-shoe-Record tilt, it looked as though it would be the same old story again, with the Record once more going down to defeat. But in their turn at bat in that inning, the newsmen hit a too-frequent stride, walking twice, cracking out three singles and a double, and collecting five runs. Bisson hit a homer with one on in the fourth. Baldwin another immediately afterwards for Brake-shoe. The Record took the game, 6-4.

By hitting it practically every inning, and taking advantage of all but two of their nine safeties, a slugging Carey crew outscored Union Screen Plate 7-4 in Lennoxville. Williams singled twice. McTellan doubled and singled for Carey. John Kuehner and Langley each hit safely twice for the Platenen. It was the seventh triumph of the campaign against no defeats for Laramée, Carey's hurler.

The linescores and batteries follow.

Rugby Meeting At Y.M.C.A. Tonight Candidates Needed For Athletic Team

Officials of the Sherbrooke Athletics Football Club have called a general meeting tonight at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 to decide whether it will be possible to field a team this fall and to plan for its promotion and financing.

All those interested in English in being connected with the team in any way are invited to attend. With a population of nearly 40,000 surely there must be 30 rugged individuals who want to participate in the sport and put Sherbrooke in the headlines in another sport.

Attendance will be regarded as an indication of intention to play or to be connected with the team. Those who do not attend will be considered uninterested. This is the club's only way of finding out whether it can field a squad this fall and how many players it can count on.

The city have installed lights at the Parade Grounds, making night practice possible and it is hoped that further lighting will be available.

Those interested are asked to make an effort to keep the date open and attend tonight's meeting on masse.

Philips Sold To Drummondville And Lachine Drop Out Of League

John Philips former coach and pitcher for Sherbrooke has been sold outright to Drummondville. Goeler who just recently joined the local nine has been given no release. Maurice Guillet business manager of the club will leave tomorrow for the United States to find new talent. At the meeting of the League last night in Farnham, Drummondville and Sherbrooke walked out as the officials refused to set the date back for the signing of players. After fifteen minutes the clubs were asked to return and the deadline for signing players was advanced a week.

Sherbrooke also signed two Lachine players last night and it is expected that more are on their way. The players signed are Vernon Richardson a right-handed hitting catcher. Both played in the border League last year with the Sherbrooke aggregation.

Well, that is what happened during the past twenty-four hours and it is only the beginning. After tonight's game with Drummondville a few more fireworks might be set off.

Lefty Dick O'Rourke will go to the mound for the local nine tonight under the coaching of Lefty Dube. Either Bill O'Brien or Joe Thompson will be behind the plate.

The Sherbrooke team might not be at the top of the league but it is certainly not the fault of the local executive who are trying to secure additional talent regardless of cost.

The locals pitching staff seems settled as it will be hard to find a stronger one in the circuit.

JOHN PALMER WITH 66 LEADS CANADIAN OPEN

Toronto, July 17.—(C)—Some 24 of the 152 golfers competing yesterday in the opening round of the $10,000 Canadian Open Championship managed to scatter Scarborough Golf Club's par 71 demonstrating that if any one of them runs into an extended hot streak with his putter it will take a jig-saw puzzle addict to put the pieces together.

The hottest putting streak among the top dozen lasted for only nine holes and that was long enough to give 10th place U.S. money winner Johnny Palmer of Badin, N.C., the first day lead with a five-under-par 66.

He scored a par 36 on the first nine when his putt-attack refused to go into action, but the swarthy southerner with the short haircut and long drawl scored five birdies on the incoming nine.

Those five birdies represented five out-putt greens for the 27-year-old U.S. Army Air Force veteran, who knocked them down at distances of from four to 24 feet.

Crowding Palmer for the lead after the first round of the 72-hole tourney were three 67s posted by former Davis Cup Tennis Star Ellsworth Vines of Los Angeles; Clayton Haefer of Charlotte, N.C., and amateur Nick Wisnook, a former Scarborough member now playing out of Detroit.

Only two strokes off the pace was South Africa's favored Bobby Locke, who strung together 15 pars and three birdies for his 68.

Tied with him was the man he defeated in the recent Chicago Team O'Shanter to a tournament, Ed (Pook) Olives.

Rated the most fitted putter of them all, Locke couldn't keep his wooden-shafted club hot after using it to pick up two birdies on the first five holes. Thereafter it concentrated on near misses.

Seven tied with 69's, including top-rated Canadian pros Stan Leonard of Vire-power and the host club's Bobby Gray, both of whom were frankly disgusted with their putting. Bracketed with them were Chicago's Jimmy Thomson; Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio; Ky Laffoon of Chicago; George Peyton, Newport News, Va., and amateur Skee Riegel, of Upper Darby, Pa. They also complained of putter worries.

There was an 11-way tie for one-under-par 70 with United States Open Champion Lew Worsham heading the list. Thirteen more came in with par.
