World News In Brief

Blackpool, Lancs., Eng., Oct. 4.—(C.P.)—Demands that the United States keep out of British imperial affairs were voiced today as the Conservative party conference voted unanimously and with cheers that "the principle of imperial preference must be maintained."

Prominent speakers voiced fears that the Labor Government would abandon imperial preference—tariff protection of Empire products against competition from outside the Empire—in return for the American loan.

With only one dissenting vote, conference approved a resolution calling on the government to safeguard the rights of minorities and of the Indian states in any settlement of the Indian problem that might be proposed.

New York, Oct. 4.—(P)—There were indications today of possible progress in efforts to settle major United States labor disputes.

Government officials in Washington planned a new attempt to end the four-day-old shipping strike which has tied up 543 ships in Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf ports.

In strike-bound Pittsburgh where an 11-day strike of 3,500 power workers has curtailed general business, some 2,700 A.F.L. street car motormen planned to vote on whether to cross picket lines set up by the independent power union.

In Washington, the Maritime Commission arranged to invite west coast shipping officials to meet with east coast operators and commission members during the week-end and seek to end the maritime walkout.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—(P)—A bumper crop sufficient to provide 25 bushels for every man, woman and child in the United States was labelled "secure" today by grain experts.

Corn has won its race with frost, grain men asserted, and is now out of danger—assuring United States a firm base upon which to build its cereal, meat and dairy food production next year.

C. M. Calvin, statistician for J. E. Bennett and Company, grain firm, predicted a record-breaking crop of 3,326,398,000 bushels on the basis of Oct. 1 conditions reported by grain dealers, millers and other correspondents in the growing territory.

Bancroft, Ont., Oct. 4.—(C.P.)—Two men who escaped from jail in this North Hastings village yesterday after bludgeoning an aged guard, were recaptured at 2 a.m. at Apsley, 23 miles south of here, where they were arrested two weeks ago on car theft charges.

The bush-stealing pair, accused of stealing $60 from the guard after striking him with a birchwood billet, are 23-year-old Royce Seymour of Toronto, and Kenneth Jackson, alias Holland, 26, of Brantford, Ont.

A truck driver saw them at Apsley and drove 30 miles to Lakefield, where a police search was concentrated, to provide the tip that led to their arrest.

Ill-Feeling Left In Wake Of Steel Workers' Strike

Hamilton, Oct. 4.—(P)—Strife and ill-feeling engendered by the 81-day basic steel strike, now ended, remained today a force to be reckoned with in Hamilton where the urgent question of a date for full Steel Company of Canada production awaited answer.

The ill-feeling between strikers and their sympathizers and non-strikers flared into open violence for a time last night resulting in the arrest of two men charged with creating a disturbance.

And even as police worked to bring order in a melee involving upwards of 300 men it was anybody's guess when Steelco would be going full blast with its full quota of workers, now to be paid 13 cents an hour more than when they went on strike in mid-July for more pay, a 40-hour week and union security.

U.S. And Britain Accused By Russia Of Violating Their Big-4 Agreements

Red Embassy Cipher Clerk In Spy Trial

Igor Gouzenko Testifies in Espionage Hearing at Ottawa — Postmaster-General Named.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—(P)—The Crown will continue in Ontario Supreme Court today to draw from Igor Gouzenko the most vital evidence it has to throw against H. S. Gerson, 41-year-old geological engineer who is accused of conspiring to communicate confidential information for Russia.

Gouzenko, 27-year-old former cipher clerk at the Russian Embassy, began yesterday to unfold the story that has been told over and over in Canada's various espionage trials and in the report of the Royal Commission on Espionage.

Crown counsel J. R. Cartwright of Toronto guided him through the story of how he worked in the embassy as cipher clerk for Lt.-Col. Nicolai Zabolotni, former military attaché and alleged head of a spy ring said to include Gerson.

While Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland and a 12-man jury listened, Gouzenko identified 13 documents he had taken from the embassy the night of Sept. 5, 1945, when he fled on a mission that was to make him the key figure in Canada's espionage prosecutions.

One was a draft telegram Zabolotni had prepared for transmission to "the director" at military intelligence headquarters in Moscow. Although undated it was apparently written in 1944.

It contended that the then Fisheries Minister, now Postmaster-General Bertrand, had told Fred Rose, Labor-Progressive member of Parliament now appealing a six-year sentence for espionage, that the war would end in September.

It added that "three days before the mutiny, the attempt on the life of Hitler, the same Bertrand told Debouze (Rose) that within a few days there would be in Europe tremendous events which no one suspects."

It was the second time Mr. Bertrand's name has been indirectly linked with the spy cases. In August he told Parliament he had signed in 1936 a recommendation for the granting of naturalization papers to one William Brandis, who turned out to be a Russian agent, but contended that he had been duped as to Brandis' identity by a trusted election campaign worker.

He made the statement in reply to reports by a Montreal newspaper (Gazette) that he had aided in obtaining credentials for a Russian agent.

The name of Gray, allegedly Gerson's cover name, appeared again and again in the 13 documents filed during the first day of evidence against the accused.

They credited him with giving materials on guns and shells and with suggesting that the Russians help him financially to get established as a consultant, geological engineer in Ottawa if he lost his job with the Munitions Department.

Earlier non-striker workers, promised to advise employees when to report for work.

Departure of the non-striker, caused the flare-up which resulted in the arrest of Arnold Palan, 21, and Aclio Ugucioni, 20, amid flying stones, profanity and jeers from a mob gathered at a gate on a railway siding at Steelco.

Men were leaving the plant in scattered groups when others, sympathetic with the strike, gathered and two policemen sought to break up the crowd. In the course of it they arrested the two but a third man got away when the crowd stormed the policemen who held him.

Earlier non-striker workers raced through the main Steelco gate to 10 cars to jeers, catcalls and thrown pebbles. They returned thumbed noses from a group as the gate with just that—thumbed noses. Others left the plant by a "back door" to be landed at given points from ships and taken home in company cars.

A short time previously, after announcement in Toronto that the basic steel strike in Steelco and in the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation plant at Sydney, N.S., and the Algoma Steel Corporation at Sault Ste. Marie had ended, the Steelco picketline was withdrawn.

Both sides received warnings to avoid difficulties with each other.

Soviet Protests Australia Amendment Setting Up International Commission for Supervision of Italian Reparations Payments—Delegates Work Against Time to Wind Up Treaty-Drafting Task by October 15.

Paris, Oct. 4.—(P)—Russia in angry words today accused the United States and Britain of violating their Big Four agreements by voting for an Australian amendment to set up an international commission for supervision of Italian reparations payments.

The Italian Economic Commission of the Peace Conference, which still must fix the amount Italy is to pay neighboring Allied states, passed the amendment, 12 to 8, with France, China and the Slavic states opposed.

Under the amendment, an international body consisting of the Big Four and countries receiving reparations would supervise payments other than those to Russia. These would go to Yugoslavia, Albania, Greece, Ethiopia and Poland.

A. A. Arutiunian of the Soviet Union, visibly angered, declared that the United States and Britain had violated an agreement to a section of the Big Four Foreign Ministers' treaty draft.

American delegate Willard Thorp and British Spokesman Glenvil Hall both protested that the amendment was a new article and not a change in an agreed upon portion of the draft.

At one point Australia removed the name of the Soviet Union from the list of members of the proposed body after Russia protested that she was not concerned with non-Russian reparations. When the led to further protests, Australia re-inserted Russia's name, whereupon Mr. Arutiunian branded this an "electoral manoeuvre."

The Australian amendment, as originally worded, would have given the chairmanship of the commission to the United States on the ground that the United States is a non-claimant of reparations and non-European power had a better "perspective."

Mr. Arutiunian, terming this contrary to the interests of the Soviet Union and other countries concerned, accused Australia of acting by prearrangement with other powers.

"The Australian delegation," he said, "is undoubtedly coming on the voting machinery to pass its proposal, especially since other delegations do not hesitate about violating the Foreign Ministers' agreement."

South Africa offered a sub-amendment to let the proposed commission choose its own chairman. This eventually carried, but the vote, however, Thorp said, was 12 to 8.

Mr. Chairman, the United States delegation had the intention of asking that the chairmanship of this commission be entrusted to some other country, but in view of the totally unwarranted attack upon our motives we shall abstain from taking part in the voting and will abide by the decision of the commission."

Mr. Arutiunian countered with the assertion that he would refuse to take part in the vote even to the extent of abstaining. The sub-amendment was passed, 7 to 3.

Age-Old Well In Jerusalem Aids Shortage

Jerusalem, Oct. 4.—(Reuters)—Jerusalem's worst water shortage in many years may be relieved by the discovery of a large underground water cistern built by monks 1,600 years ago.

C. N. Johns, British archaeologist, Thursday identified a large cavern found 15 feet beneath the courtyard of the Crusader Church of the "Tomb of the Virgin" as an ancient cistern.

The site lies in the "Valley of the Last Judgment," one mile outside Jerusalem.

A four-foot-square opening in the sunlit court of the church gives access to a subterranean passage which leads into the cistern.

More than 35 intersecting arches in an excellent state of preservation support the cistern, used by the ancient monks to catch and store rain-water.

The Greek and Armenian patriarchs, who hold the ecclesiastical rights of the new discovery, plan to restore the cistern for present-day use in view of the current drought.

Thick, sticky mud, four feet deep and hundreds of years old, covers the floor of the cistern.

Reds Block Parley On Free Danube

U.S. Efforts to Force Immediate Parley on Navigation Question Halted by Russia.

By MAX HARRELSON
Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 4.—(P)—A threatened Russian boycott appeared today to have blocked United States efforts to force an immediate conference in Vienna to take up the question of free navigation of the Danube River.

United States delegate John G. Winant pushed a resolution through the United Nations Economic and Social Council in the closing hours of its three-week session late last night calling for such a conference before Nov. 1, but Russia served notice she would not attend.

Two other Danubian states, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, also opposed the United States move.

Refuse To Admit Acquitted Germans Into British Zone

Nuernberg, Oct. 4.—(P)—United States Army authorities said today British authorities had declined to permit Hjalmar Schacht and Hans Frische, acquitted of war crimes by the International Military Tribunal, to enter the British occupation zone of Germany.

Lt.-Gen. Lucius Clay, deputy American Military Governor, announced that the French had rejected the plea of Nazi diplomats Franz von Papen, the third of the acquitted German war leaders, to settle in the French zone.

The three acquitted men still were in the Nuernberg Palace of Justice jail, awaiting safe conduct out of the American zone. They told lawyers and army officers they feared the treatment they might receive at the hands of the Bavarians around Nuernberg, who want to try them under denazification laws.

Col. B. C. Andrus, security officer, said he was anxious to get rid of his "war boarders," but would keep them in his custody pending a decision at a higher level.

Meanwhile, lawyers for three additional Nazi war leaders and for the S.S. (Elite Guard) filed appeals from their convictions with the Allied Control Council.

Appeals on behalf of six of the 19 men convicted Tuesday now were before the council.

Appeals were filed for Hitler's erratic deputy, Rudolf Hess, who was sentenced to life imprisonment; for Hans Frank, Hitler's gauleiter in Poland, and Jew bailer Julius Streicher, both condemned to hang. All appeals must be before the council by 3.45 p.m. tomorrow.

After a temporary breakdown the negotiations were resumed in Winnipeg Sept. 16. Agreements were announced Tuesday with Canada Packers and Burns, but delay in the agreement with Swift led to preparations for strike action today in Swift Canadian plants across the country.

At Moose Jaw last night a "pre-strike" meeting called by the union to discuss a strike of 450 Moose Jaw employees of Swift Canadian was told the union had reached a tentative agreement with the company at Winnipeg.

Winter In October

This Christmas card photo of a home in Clyde, N.Y., was taken during the season's first snowfall. As much as a foot of snow covered parts of northern New York. Residents of the Eastern Townships saw a bit of snow this week but in this immediate area there was not sufficient to allow a recording at the Dominion Experimental Station, at Lennoxville. Today the weather was in sharp contrast and the forecast was "clear and warmer."

Truman Calls For Jewish Immigration

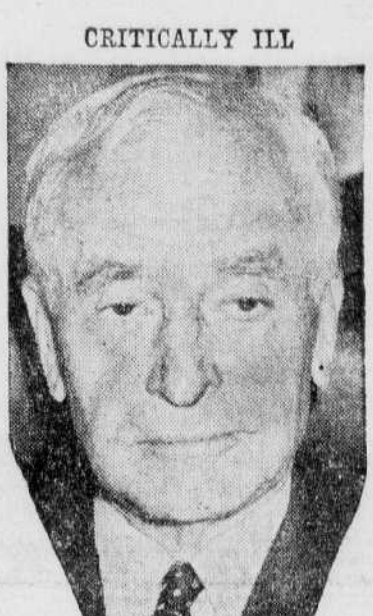

Declares Substantial Immigration Cannot Await Solution to Palestine Problem and Should Start at Once.

Washington, Oct. 4.—(P)—President Truman called today for an immediate "substantial immigration" of displaced Jews into Palestine.

In a Yom Kippur Day statement, which he cabled to Prime Minister Attlee of Britain, the President outlined his own views as follows: "In view of the fact that winter will come on before the conference (Palestine Conference in London) can be resumed, I believe and urge that substantial immigration into Palestine cannot await a solution to the Palestine problem and that it should begin at once."

Washington, Oct. 4.—(P)—Correll Hull, former United States Secretary, ill at Bethesda Naval Hospital, spent a more restful night last night but his condition continues grave.

At 9 a.m. report from the hospital today said: "Mr. Hull spent a more restful night than usual. His condition is still grave."

Mr. Hull suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Monday.

Seven Killed In Explosion At Oil Firm

More Than 140 Injured in Fire Following Blast at Gasoline Refinery—Earth-Shaking Tremors.

Marcus Hook, Pa., Oct. 4.—(P)—Seven persons were killed and more than 140 injured when fire, which followed a series of earth-shaking explosions, raged through a unit of the Sun Oil Company's $13,000,000 aviation gasoline refinery for more than seven hours before it was extinguished early today.

Arthur E. Pew, Jr., vice-president-in-charge of the company's refineries, estimated the damage at $300,000. The company said the first explosion in the world's largest alkylation plant occurred at 6:10 p.m. yesterday when "a packing gland which failed, caused gas to escape and flash," touching off the explosions. The blaze raged out of control until 10:15 p.m.

Another man, Leland Bailey, 40-year-old ship's cook, died during the blaze but a company spokesman said investigation disclosed he slipped into the Delaware River while boarding a ship and drowned.

Nineteen of the fire victims were reported in critical condition and hospital authorities said several were not expected to live. In addition, Joseph Rizzo, 52, a Marcus Hook policeman, was reported in critical condition after he was struck by an automobile while directing traffic after the fire.

Scores of company employees and firemen injured in the blaze were treated at nearby hospitals and released.

Meanwhile, tankers loading and unloading gasoline at the company's wharves along the Delaware River quickly pulled away to escape flying sparks that threatened to touch off their cargoes.

Shortly after the initial blast shook this Delaware River, industrial community of 4,000 all available fire fighting equipment was summoned from nearby cities. Flames fed by the high-octane gasoline spread to the base of a 125-foot fractionating tower causing it to collapse, spraying flaming gasoline over fire fighters.

Egg Contract With Britain Is Announced

Details Disclosed in Statement by Agriculture Department — Valued at 80 Million Dollars.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—(P)—Canada's new egg contract with the United Kingdom is valued by the Agriculture Department at approximately $80,000,000 and offers an assured market at a higher price for every surplus Canadian egg laid from Feb. 1, 1947 to Jan. 31, 1949, the department announced today.

Details of the new contract, which was first announced by Agriculture Minister Gardiner at a press conference Sept. 25, were disclosed in a departmental statement.

The contract calls for the special products board to deliver to the United Kingdom Food Ministry a minimum of 7,500 long tons of sugar-dried egg powder and 1,750,000 cases of shell eggs, of which only 600,000 cases are storage eggs, in each of the 12-month periods: Feb. 1, 1947 to Jan. 31, 1948 and Feb. 1, 1947 to Jan. 31, 1949.

Quality of the eggs required to fill each of the 12-month periods of the two-year contract is the same as required by the 1946 contract, but the price obtained will permit an increase of one cent a dozen over the 1946 price to the producer in the spring buying periods (Feb. 1 to Aug. 31) and an increase of two cents a dozen in the fall buying periods, Sept. 1 to Jan. 31.

The special products board will buy eggs of the Canadian Government grades A large, A medium and A pullet for its 1947 shipments. Whether grade A pullet eggs will be included in 1948 shipments will be decided by the U.K. Food Ministry before the end of 1947.

The board will limit its purchase of storage eggs to grades A large and A medium, but grades A, B and C will be accepted for the manufacture of the sugar-dried egg powder to be used by British bakers.

This official, who asked that he not be identified, told reporters the representatives of the Pacific American Shipowners Association have done nothing but say "No, no, no" in the negotiations here.

Grave Danger Facing U.N. Efforts On Atomic Control

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Oct. 4.—(P)—Grave danger confronts United Nations efforts to set up international atomic controls, Bernard M. Baruch and Henry A. Wallace virtually agreed today.

But they bitterly disputed the cause.

Mr. Wallace, ousted United States Commerce Secretary, blamed Mr. Baruch. He declared that with nations already launched on "a frantic atomic bomb race," Mr. Baruch has adopted a "stubborn and inflexible" approach to negotiations involving Russia.

Mr. Baruch, American member of the U.N. Atomic Energy Commission, blamed Mr. Wallace. He asserted the former cabinet officer perpetrated "errors" and caused public confusion in his criticism of the United States control plan.

The "errors," Mr. Baruch charged, are "gravely dangerous to the delicate negotiations now under way."

Mr. Wallace, whom the president removed from the cabinet last month because of his split with State Secretary Byrnes over Russian relation, had the latest word in the row with Mr. Baruch.

In a statement last night, Mr. Wallace declared that atomic energy negotiations in the United Nations have reached an "impasse."

Airliner's Crash Will Be Probed

None of 39 Occupants of Skymaster Could Be Identified When Rescue Parties Reached Charred Wreckage.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 4.—(C. P. Cable)—Government and airline officials were expected today to begin an investigation into Newfoundland's second air tragedy within a month as the cause of the worst disaster in the history of American commercial aviation remained unexplained.

None of the 39 occupants of the American Overseas Airlines Skymaster could be identified when rescue parties reached the charred wreckage yesterday at the summit of a hill 10 miles from this western Newfoundland village.

The plane, bound for Shannon, Eire, from New York, landed at nearby Harmon Field early Thursday to refuel because the huge Gander Airport 225 miles east of here was closed in by weather. Ten minutes after the take-off in the pre-dawn darkness, the plane smashed into the hillsides.

Rescue planes set out after the news of the accident was flashed and their observers reported the wreckage still burning. Later in the day ground parties toiled through marshland and forest to reach the scene.

They found twisted wreckage and charred bodies in the shattered plane.

It was considered that matters pertaining to the crash would be under jurisdiction of United States authorities who operate Harmon Field, which was involved in the 1940 British-American destroyers-for-bases deal.

Newfoundland Government officials and airline officers, however, left Gander after the disaster to begin an investigation.

Yesterday afternoon, T. M. McGrath, operations officer at Gander, together with airline officials began a preliminary investigation.

The tragedy occurred 15 days after a Belgian Sabena Airlines plane plummeted into the forests south of Gander with a death toll of 27. There were 17 survivors.

Whether the bodies of the latest victims, some of them wives and children bound to join their American soldier husbands and fathers in Germany, would be buried on the wooded hillside where they died was not known immediately.

FRESH ATTEMPT TO END MARITIME STRIKE
Washington, Oct. 4.—(P)—The Government sought today to by-pass the Pacific American Shipowners' Association and deal directly with its member companies in a fresh effort to end the United States maritime strike.

The Maritime Commission decided to invite various steamship company officials to fly here for a week-end conference, according to a maritime commission official.

This official, who asked that he not be identified, told reporters the representatives of the Pacific American Shipowners Association have done nothing but say "No, no, no" in the negotiations here.

Reduction Of Butter Ration Is Foreseen

Co-operative Executive Prophesies Cut in Existing Quota—Cheese Situation Declared Black.

Toronto, Oct. 4.—Figures on butter production, as presented to a meeting of co-operatives and farmers clubs from all over Ontario bode no good for continuance of Canada's current butter ration.

This was the word from James Ross, manager of the dairy department, United Farmers' Co-operative Company, in an address last night in which he forecast the possibility of butter ration reduction.

Clarence Dorman, head of the Delta Cheese Board, said the cheese outlook was black. He complained too of the method of marketing.

Mr. Ross' discussion followed by 24 hours the statement of a Prices Board spokesman in Ottawa that

Prices Board Hits Furniture Deals

Montreal, Oct. 4.—Twenty summonses for arrest were signed today by Judge Omer LeGrand as the Prices Board prepared for court action against persons who sell or purchase furniture without authorization for the purpose of renting dwellings.

The summonses are said to be part of 120 similar actions being prepared by the prices board in an attempt to wipe out the racket of conditional furniture sales at unreasonable prices.

"Montclare" Model Given Navy League

Quebec, Oct. 4.—On behalf of the Canadian Pacific Railway, a twelve foot scale model of the former C.P.S. "Montclare" was presented at the H.M.C.S. Montclair, by Jean Marchand, press relations officer of the C.P.R., Quebec, to the Navy League of Canada Quebec district. Wilfred Bherer, president of the Navy League in Quebec, accepted the big model on behalf of his organization.

The 16,314 ton former C.P.R. passenger liner "Montclare" is now being refitted and altered in Portsmouth naval dock yard as a submarine depot ship.

Well-known on the run between Liverpool, the Clyde and St. Lawrence River ports, the "Montclare" served during the later war as an armed merchant cruiser, and as flag ship of the famous British Pacific fleet train and a destroyer depot ship.

indicating they also would refuse to attend the proposed conference.

Dr. Andrija Stampar of Yugoslavia, council chairman, raised a technical point, which might even prevent any action being taken to call the meeting. He said that under the rules of the U.N. no international conference could be called without prior consultation with the states to be invited.

He said the United States resolution, approved by a scant margin of 8 to 5, with five others abstaining, would be turned over to Secretary-General Trygve Lie to take action "according to the rules."

Since Russia, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia are the only states involved besides the members of the control council in Austria and the enemy states of Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria, which would not be eligible to participate, there seemed little possibility of a meeting.

The United States proposal was acted upon along with other resolutions connected with Danube shipping. The council defeated resolutions in which Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia asked that it call on the United States to release Yugoslav and Czechoslovak vessels held on the Upper Danube. It also refused to vote on a similar resolution in which Greece asked for aid in recovering Greek vessels from Russia.

have already been made by this government and it is ready to lend its immediate assistance.

"I state again, as I have stated on previous occasions, that the immigration laws of other countries, including the United States, should be liberalized with a view to the admission of displaced persons. I am prepared to make such a recommendation to the Congress and to continue as energetically as possible collaboration with other countries on the whole problem of displaced persons."

"3. Furthermore, should a workable solution for Palestine be devised, I would be willing to recommend to the Congress a plan for economic assistance for the development of that country."

MYSTIC

A meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. G. L. Bockus on Thursday afternoon, with a large number of members and friends present. The president, Mrs. Winston Soule, opened the meeting in the usual way. The minutes were read by the secretary, and were adopted as read. At the close of the business meeting tea was served by the hostess, assisted by the president and Miss Dorothy Walbridge, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

It was too early yet to determine whether the individual butter ration would have to be reduced this winter. That was the case a year ago.

Mr. Ross was pessimistic. He said on Sept. 1 the Dominion had the same amount of butter in storage as it had last year but that August production was down 4,000,000 pounds as compared with August, 1945.

"The Maritimes were down 15 per cent; Ontario—12 to 18; Manitoba five; Saskatchewan, 10, and Alberta, because of the strike, 73 per cent," Mr. Ross said.

Of cheese, he said production was 20,000,000 pounds lower this year than last and suggested the Canadian contract to supply Britain with cheese "may last a lot longer than we think."

Ontario Agriculture Department officials blamed a 75 per cent drop in butter production in part on dry weather which smothered pastures and increased milk consumption which caused farmers to deliver milk to dairies rather than to butter and cheese factories.

The Verdict "Hits The Streets"

Lucky Germans, who were able to get scarce copies of newspapers, avidly read the news of sentences meted out to members of the Nazi hierarchy at the War Crimes trial in Nuernberg.

EXPERT DEFENDS MALIGNED BIRDS

Toronto, Oct. 4.—Canada's double-crested cormorant is a greatly misunderstood bird. Anglers and commercial fishermen picture the big black water fowl as a sinister type that goes around grabbing fish away from their enticing hooks or robbing their nests. Yet naturalists declare that investigations invariably clear the bird of all charges and prove him to be a benefactor rather than a menace to man.

Latest group to campaign against the cormorant have been a group of fishermen in the Pointe au Baril area of Georgian Bay where the birds are relative newcomers. First being observed in 1939, in response to the fishermen's request, the Ontario lands and forests department sent J. L. Baillie Jr., ornithologist of the Royal Ontario Museum, to investigate.

Mr. Baillie spent three weeks poking about the big bare rocks on which the birds built their nests, shot some specimens and examined them. While official results of the expedition have not yet been made public, Mr. Baillie said he found no evidence that the birds had eaten commercially valuable fish but concentrated on such coarse varieties as suckers and rock bass, which prey on game fish themselves.

Investigation of a similar complaint by salmon fishermen in New Brunswick revealed that the cormorants were not only innocent of the charge of eating salmon but had a definite aversion to the fish and developed indigestion when fed salmon in captivity.

Although cormorants have an exotic appearance as they stand bolt upright on the bare rocks with their hooked beaks extended, they are native to Canada and can be seen anywhere from the Atlantic coast to the prairie lakes. There are a dozen colonies in Ontario alone.

In Peru where the birds are more plentiful, they are valued highly as a source of guano, a fertilizer with high nitrogen content which is marketed commercially. In China and Japan they are trained by fishermen to dive for fish and bring them to their boats, a tight basket around their necks prevents them from swallowing the catch.

WOMAN USES WINGS FOR 25-FOOT JUMPS

Virginitown, Ont. 4.—An adventurous Virginitown housewife has invented a pair of wings which she uses to jump from buildings 20 to 25 feet high.

Mrs. Phil Golden, the mother of two children, began working on her wings two years ago after dissecting birds in an attempt to learn how they fly. She made the wings of parachute silk and bits of plastic. They look like a mass of gossamer feather-like pockets built onto even larger feathers. These feathers or air pockets flush the air back through the larger feathers on to a plastic bag. In so doing, a vacuum is formed underneath the outer feathers. The vacuum together with a movable outer attachment at the wing tips allows for the possibility of propulsion by means of earnest wrist action.

Mrs. Golden said a weak heart so far has prevented her from more stringently testing her wings. Up until now she has been jumping from platforms at least 20-25 feet in height. Most of her "flying" has been done at night because she is shy of publicity.

with five abstentions and five states lined as no voting.

The United States, China, France, Greece and Poland recorded abstentions. The five other Slav states did not answer roll call.

SYDNEY BRIDGE NOTED LANDMARK

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Sydney, Australia, Oct. 4.—Australia's most famous landmark is the Sydney harbor bridge which links the city's downtown business section with northern suburbs and even 14 years after completion remains one of the most popular Sydney sights.

A toll-bridge, the great structure which took six years to build with 50,000 tons of special steel manufactured in England, is slightly more than two miles long.

When its approaches, including 285-foot granite pylons at either end of its arched central span, were completed in 1932, the total cost was about $32,000,000.

To Sydney residents, "our bridge" is not only an object of pride but an indispensable traffic route to the north shore of the harbor where thousands have homes from which they are able to travel in to city jobs by fast suburban train.

The bridge, carries four railway lines in addition to its six-lane automobile roadway and two footways. Its capacity is 138 trains, 6,000 motor vehicles and 40,000 pedestrians an hour.

Its 445-foot height from the water permits the largest ships visiting Sydney to pass under it easily, and from the footways, travellers get a view of the sprawling port exceeded only by the view from an airplane.

When it was first projected early in the century, at a time when harbor travel was largely by ferry, there was also talk of tunnelling a route to the north shore.

EVEREST CLIMBER IN COMMAND AT LAHORE

New Delhi, Oct. 4.—Maj.-Gen. J. G. Bruce, D.S.O., the mountaineer who, with Capt. G. I. Finch set up a world record in 1922 by climbing within 1,800 feet of the peak of Mount Everest, has recently been appointed Lahore Area Commander.

General Bruce fought in the First Great War and on India's North-West Frontier in 1937-38. In the Second Great War, he was first employed in the joint planning staff under the chiefs of staff in London and subsequently on the staff of the Central Norwegian Expeditionary Force.

On his return to India at the end of 1940, he took over command of the 17th Indian Infantry Brigade and later was appointed deputy director of Military operations at General Headquarters. Recently he became deputy chief of the general staff.

NEW ZEALAND PLANS BIG HISTORY OF WAR

Auckland, N. Z., Oct. 4.—New Zealand's histories of the Second Great War requires about 20 volumes, apart from unit histories, and will take seven to ten years to write, according to the editor-in-chief, Maj.-Gen. H. K. Kippenberger.

The project has been divided into four sections. As early as possible there will be published a series of volumes containing the relevant documents and messages on some of the critical phases of the Dominion's part in the war. The second phase will be the publication of a popular history, simply written, covering the whole field and complete with photographs, maps diagrams and drawings.

The third section will be the official history proper, which will deal with the New Zealand armed services overseas and at home, prisoners of war and civilian internees, medical and dental histories, financial and economic developments, and the work of voluntary patriotic organizations. The fourth section will be the supervision and control of a series of histories of the various services.

General Kippenberger is collecting a staff to carry out the work and an immense mass of records is being put in order.

JERSEY SHOPS THRIVING ON LUXURY TRADE

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Jersey, Channel Islands, Oct. 4.—Every week thousands of British holiday-makers return to austerity loaded with luxuries manufactured in Britain but not for sale in British stores.

The Channel Islands, being on Britain's export list, receive many fancy lines denied to Britons—until they visit Jersey or Guernsey.

Then, as the vacation draws to a close, they stock up for the return home. The islands for Weymouth, Southampton and Croydon Airport sees holiday folk carrying tins of English cigarettes wrapped in cellophane, bottles of cognac, whisky, and sometimes champagne, and smaller bottles containing choice perfumes.

The women frequently wear shoes bought in Jersey or Guernsey stores, of better quality and value for money than they can find at home. Hats, stockings and other apparel also get by the British customs as "articles worn."

Holiday-makers returning to Britain are allowed to take with them, tax-free, 200 cigarettes purchased at half price they pay at home and a limited amount of wine, spirits and perfume. Many cheerfully pay customs tax on long-desired luxuries. Many also do a little smuggling.

These holiday "importers" have to thank Britain's export policy for their good fortune. For ever since they were liberated, little more than a year ago, Britain has been pouring export goods into Jersey and Guernsey, helping the islands to regain prosperity while at the same time augmenting her much-needed revenues.

The many now seen on the island roads are all British export models sold considerably cheaper than in Britain because over here they are free from purchase tax.

Island industries, too, are getting back on their feet, with the return of hundreds of skilled workers who escaped the invasion.

A large building in Jersey that was used as a hospital by the Germans now is a brewery, producing hundreds of gallons weekly. There is no beer shortage and it is sold at half the price obtained in Britain.

Eggs and butter are plentiful. So are lamb chops, steaks and beef. The islands are able to produce enough of these things for visitors with enough left over for themselves—and there are no queues for anything except tickets to theatres and sporting events.

EDITOR SPEAKS OUT FOR MEN OF SCIENCE

London, Oct. 4.—"Nobody can control science except men of science," L. J. F. Brimble, editor of the scientific magazine Nature, said at a conference.

"Scientists have been developing a code of ethics for some time. They are aware of the way science is leading and they are resenting the treatment meted out to them since the development of the atomic bomb," he said.

"They now are beginning to show signs of self-control and they are determined not to be controlled by anybody else. Scientists are willing to co-operate with men of religion and have held their hands out to them on more than one occasion."

Prof. A. V. Hill, London University, said that failing the collaboration of the world's scientists and maintenance of a common ethical standard, "one could foresee the time when scientific discovery and invention may provide one of the chief stumbling blocks to international co-operation and the chief means for mutual destruction."

These figures and other facts were announced this morning by Police Secretary M. Vignault, whose monthly report on the activities of his department will be forwarded to the chairman of the police committee today.

One hundred and three cases were heard before Recorder Raoul Gagne and Acting Recorder Hertel O'Bready in September. Sum Of $40,000 For Widening Of King West Added To Public Works By Law Coming Up Soon

A last-minute delegation of members of the Proprietors' League of Sherbrooke waited upon the City Council in committee shortly before last night's adjourned meeting opened and were successful in obtaining a provision of $40,000 which will be added to the amount called for under by-law 664 for widening of King Street West from Quebec Street to the city limits. This brings the by-law amount to $650,000.

The by-law for a large public works program was given three readings and adopted as read by the City Fathers. Proprietors will go to the polls on October 24 to approve the issue and City Clerk Antonin Desautels, as chief returning officer, was instructed to make ready the various polls throughout the city.

If the by-law receives the approval of the people, the City of Sherbrooke will float a $650,000 bond issue to be redeemed in a period of twenty years. Interest for the first ten years will be at two and one-half per cent and for the remaining ten years at three per cent with bonds repayable by series through the Bank of Montreal.

The public works program calls for laying of sidewalks, street paving, gravelling and grading, opening of new streets, laying of sewer water and gas mains, certain purchases, completion of work already under way, purchase of property for improvement of certain streets, etc.

Only other business at last night's session was granting of permission to Sam Fabi for the construction of a silk factory on his property at the corner of Belmont Street and 14th Avenue. In order not to conflict with the zoning by-laws, an amendment was approved by the City Fathers to have that section of the city changed from commercial class "B" to commercial class "C." The former classification would not permit construction of an industry in any zone so designated.

Objection to this move, however, was taken by Ald. Albert Charpentier who stated that "almost every Council meeting brings about some change or other in the zoning by-laws. . . we have certain sections of the city set aside for the construction of new industries and I see no reason why these cannot be utilized instead of amending our laws to suit the needs of one or two citizens."

An East Sherbrooke alderman, Oliva Deziel, replied to these remarks with his opinion that it was only a minor adjustment and that he had no objection whatsoever, particularly in view of this site being just on the border of the city limits. A vote was taken on the issue with only Ald. Charpentier registering opposition.

CHILDREN RAISE FOUR DOLLARS FOR HOSPITAL FUND

Even the children of Sherbrooke seem to realize the need for a new hospital, and seven of them took things into their own hands yesterday and staged a mock wedding, in the course of which they collected four dollars, which were turned over to the campaign fund. The youngsters, all under ten, are: Archy Flanders, bride; David Neilson, groom; Carol Loveland, maid of honor; Shirley Bradford, bride's maid; Brian Farrell, bride's father; Bobby Neilson, best man and Joyce Flanders, minister.

RED CROSS IN QUEBEC WILL EXPAND WORK

(Special to the Record)

Montreal, Oct. 4.—Reports submitted today at the quarterly meeting of the Quebec Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society show that Red Cross work in this province has expanded. Even further expansion is planned.

As chairman of the meeting, Paul Vaillancourt, president of the Quebec Provincial Division, congratulated the different committees on the work done under their guidance. He particularly referred to the growing task of outpost nursing, swimming and water safety, first aid and home nursing, the mobile medical and dental clinics of the Red Cross, the vast peace-time project of the women's work committee and the growing activity of the veteran's welfare committee. In all, there are a dozen different fields in which the Red Cross continues to serve the province in peace-time.

Dr. A. T. Bazin outlined the problems of the Red Cross in bringing medical and dental aid to the relatively forsaken areas of Abitibi, Temiskamingue, Gaspé and the Magdalen Islands, where the Society is now well installed and plans even further extension of its humanitarian work.

Mrs. Ruth Shaw outlined the work of the Junior Red Cross, particularly in schools where it had become necessary to install lunchroom facilities. H. P. Douglas spoke regarding veterans welfare work by the Red Cross through its many branches and sub-branches throughout the province. Major D. J. Corrigan and Col. J. T. E. Gagnon spoke as joint commissioners of the Quebec Division.

Total Of $113,500 Subscribed To Date In Campaign For New Hospital In City's North Ward

Including the original $80,000 received on the first day of the campaign, which total comprised only seven subscriptions, headquarters of the Sherbrooke Hospital Building Campaign today reported total receipts of $113,500, as against an overall objective in the Eastern Townships of $500,000.

Canvassers in Sherbrooke and district have swung into their stride and the campaign which got underway on Monday is stated to be progressing smoothly. Practically all cards have been called for by canvassers and those in outside districts are reported active.

Objective in this city, not including industrial and business and certain individuals covered by the Special Names Committee, is set at $50,000. This total is designated for the 2,000 names which appear on the general canvass list and while this works out to an average subscription of $25 per family, it is evident that in order to maintain this average, a large number of citizens will have to generously over subscribe this average to compensate for the smaller amounts donated by those in less fortunate circumstances. A French-speaking committee under Gedeon Nadeau is hard at work and all elements of the population, including Jewish, Polish, Chinese and Syrian, have formed special committees. This is an indication that the peoples of this city and the Eastern Townships are backing the needs of the Sherbrooke Hospital in the knowledge that the hospital in turn will not let them down if or when their need arises.

The new hospital to replace the fifty-year-old Park Avenue institution has been considered an urgency to none. The present hospital has inadequate accommodation to meet the needs of the fast-growing population, and this along with insufficient and out-dated equipment should improve the people which it has served with its needs, if this institution is to maintain a high standard of medical treatment and care.

Headquarters for the drive is located in the Bank of Commerce Building on Dufferin Avenue. Any information regarding the campaign may be obtained by phoning 3573.

Committees Are Appointed By Local Commerce Body—Black Market Here Discussed

The appointment of committees for the ensuing year, discussion on black market activities and a review of labor relations featured the regular monthly meeting of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce held last night at the New Sherbrooke House.

During the discussion on black market as it affected local residents, J. A. Archambault, president of the Chamber, said that the situation here was bad, but Armand Nadeau did not see eye to eye with the president on this and declared that the situation was not as acute as represented and certainly no worse here than in other parts of the province.

The general opinion of the members—there were fifty in attendance—was that the existence of the black market was as much due to the purchaser as the seller, and if the citizens did not support such a condition it would cease to exist. The discussion on labor relations led by President Archambault brought remarks from Lorenzo LeFebvre, president of the Central Council of the National Syndicate, to the effect that workers were not given enough consideration by their employers. He continued by outlining certain plans which he said would materially assist the employee both at his work and financially and at the same time not be detrimental to operation of the company by the employer.

Another matter brought up was elimination of price controls on butter and sugar, and while many who entered the discussion were in favor of such a move, others believed that the only result would be a decided scarcity coupled with inflation from all sides.

Committees appointed last night were: Industrial Development: Chairman, F. Pouliot; W. Cross, A. Whelan, W. Goddard, G. M. Young, Davis (C.N.R.), G. Pouliot, G. W. Gregoire. Membership: Chairman, M. Vallee; A. Audet, J. E. Cambron, A.

DAY OF PRAYER AND FAST FOR JEWS OBSERVED

Yom Kippur—the day of Atonement—will commence at sundown this evening and Jews all over the world will start a day of fast and prayer with the traditional "Kol Nidre" service this evening.

The chanting of this eleven centuries old service will usher in the most solemn and holy day in the Jewish calendar. It is a day of judgment and forgiveness for sins, is asked during the services which last the better part of the day.

"Yiskor," a memorial service for the deceased, will be held at half past ten on Saturday morning and Yom Kippur will be officially over at six o'clock tomorrow evening.

Services at the local synagogue will be conducted by Rabbi Isidore Pickholtz, who will be assisted by Rev. A. S. Mittleman. These services will consist of the traditional Hebrew prayers and congregational English readings.

INDEMNITY FOR CITY COUNCIL MAY BE DROPPED

The question of indemnity for the City Fathers, providing for a fee of $1,000 to each of the ten Aldermen and $2,000 to the Mayor, was not brought up at last night's adjourned session as was expected. Reports from the City Hall yesterday were to the effect that the matter would put to vote at the same time as by-law 664.

However, as this is not the case, it is to be assumed that several matters discouraged the City Fathers from this course. One, at least, could be the fact that a majority vote of the property-owners is needed to put the law into effect. There are 3,400 property-holders in this City, a majority constituting plus one, or 1,701 votes. In view of past referendums, when ten and twelve per cent and less of the voters have turned out, it is more than a possibility that the issue would be defeated because of the lack of votes.

Aside from the fact that there is provision in the city charter to put such a question to vote, there is the likelihood that if citizens were asked to vote on the matter, it would be turned down.

This accumulation of probabilities undoubtedly disheartened the City Fathers despite designation of an amount of $12,000 for such a purpose in the municipal budget approved by the Council last April.

OFFICERS ARE APPOINTED BY NEW SOCIETY

An organization meeting of the Cost and Management Institute, Sherbrooke Chapter, was held at the Magog House yesterday with forty persons, representing the various industries in Sherbrooke, attending. J. C. Dagneau, of Auto-Hoists Supplies Reg'd., later appointed provisional chairman, presided.

The Chapter, which will apply for a charter within the next week, will promote the betterment of accounting in the Eastern Townships.

Speakers at yesterday's meeting were P. W. Wright, past president of Cost and Management Institute, Quebec; C. P. Dumas, secretary of Cost and Management Institute, Quebec, manager of Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association; A. J. Dolbec, president of Cost and Management Institute, Quebec, provincial auditor; J. N. Allan, secretary-manager of the Canadian Society of Cost Accountants and Industrial Engineers.

With Mr. Dagneau, provisional chairman, and Les Memory, of the Superheated Company, Ltd., provisional secretary, elected to the pro-R. M. Cuts, Canadian Ingersoll Rand; H. Moffatt, Hall Machinery; R. Blake, Union Screen Plate; R. Tate, Julius Kayser Co., and E. Sutherland, Philip Carey, Ltd.

Muskkrats supplied more than 152,000 skins to the Alaskan fur crop of 1945.

Defeat Resolution Success In Life Based On Monetary Gain

A team from New Arts defeated an Old Lodge resolution that success in life was the accumulation of money in a verbal duel last night at Bishop's University, while a second debating team refuted the argument upheld by married veterans, that the Dominion Government should levy a tax on bachelors. These two debates marked the opening round in the annual inter-building series at the University held under the sponsorship of the Literary and Debating society.

The main feature of the evening, the inter-building debate between Old Lodge and New Arts, on the success in life question, saw Dick Turpin and Bill Rowe refute arguments advanced by opponents Jon Robinson and Bob Graham. Turpin maintained that success in life is man's contribution to the welfare of humanity, not in the accumulation of wealth. Potent factors of religious teaching were also introduced as were the greed aspect of monetary gain and the fame factors in history. Rowe, last speaker for the negative, based his plea for the defeat of the resolution on the contention that success in life consisted in happiness and contentment.

Jon Robinson, who led the affirmative in support of the resolution, defined success as the attainment of an object according to our desires and maintained that various classes in society all based success in terms of either tangible or intangible wealth. He argued that mere self-expression does not satisfy man unless accompanied by money, and that this desire for wealth was inherent in all. Bob Graham supported his argument and emphasized man's desire for a practical point of view, saying that without money there could be no success.

In the introductory debate, M. J. Seelye and P. S. Irwin, representing married veterans, stressed the fact that a tax should be levied on bachelors to encourage marriage and stabilize the state. Irwin stressed the moral and spiritual basis of the home in society and Seelye emphasized the basic principles of tax law in support of the resolution. The elements of contentment, longevity and continuity were also advanced. Francis Gooch and Ormand Hopkins successfully refuted arguments advanced, in the opinion of the audience which gave the decision, for they maintained that any discriminatory tax was foreign to Canadian life. Gooch referred to the benefits bachelors had given mankind and said that such a tax would drive single men into an indigent state. He concluded by making a strong plea that there was neither valid reason nor justification for such a tax. Hopkins spoke of the eugenics nature of man and the disastrous results of mass marriage. He inferred that to tax bachelors would be a sell-out of the country's ethics and pleaded that any such socially discriminatory tax would ruin, not aid, the nation.

Denzil Baird, president of the Literary and Debating Society, was in the chair and John Aboud acted as time-keeper for both verbal contests. A large audience of students was present in Convocation Hall and took part in the open house debate after each side had presented its case.

GOVERNMENT INFORMATION SERVICES FAIL

The complete failure of the National Film Board and the Canadian Information Service, costly Government propaganda agencies, to do the job they were ostensibly created for—publicize Canada abroad—is made abundantly clear by a recent radio discussion in the United States by Canadian Ambassador Lester B. Pearson, recently appointed Deputy Minister of State for External Affairs, and former New York Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia.

Mr. Pearson has recently been rumoured as a possible successor as leader of the Liberal party to Prime Minister King, and his recent appointment has been interpreted by some as a move to bring him more closely in contact with the political scene at home, so he would be better qualified to take over if called upon in the event of Mr. King's retirement.

But whether or not such political speculation is accurate, as ambassador to the United States for the past few years his remarks spring from actual knowledge of the facts as they are. This is what he has to say about United States knowledge about Canada. "The ignorance of this country (United States) of some aspects of Canadian life is almost ludicrous."

Mr. Pearson said he would like to see border regulations between the two countries simplified and relaxed and see "Americans better informed about Canada." His words are a condemnation of the ever increasing expenditures of the Federal Government on the Canadian Information Service and the National Film Board.

When the Government was accused by this paper, and others, and on the floor of the House of Commons of setting up the Canadian Information Service and using the National Film Board for party propaganda purposes within the Dominion the answer was made that these two agencies, particularly the Canadian Information Service, were primarily to publicize Canada in the United States and abroad.

If this is the case, then the object has not been attained, and the unnecessary expense of these agencies should be abolished. As a matter of principle it is a dangerous policy for the government of a democratic country to set up news, radio and film agencies, no matter what the avowed purpose of their creation. In democracies governments are maintained in power by the political ascendancy of one party, and in order to retain that power any government would be greatly tempted to use such effective means of propaganda as a news, film or radio service operated at public expense.

This, in fact, is what is happening today in Canada with the National Film Board, Canadian Information Service, and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The news service should be abolished completely, the Film Board sharply limited in its activities, and the radio corporation reduced to a commission to judge disputes and settle government policy with regard to privately operated stations, which are now being gradually forced out of business.

AN UNJUSTIFIED PROPOSAL

The Sherbrooke Aldermen, if they actually propose to submit the plan to the ratepayers to grant themselves salaries of $2,000 annually for the Mayor and $1,000 for each Alderman, would be well-advised to make the indemnity proposition a by-law distinct from the loan by-law which is to be presented at the same time. If the salary plan is incorporated in the loan by-law it is bound to mean that a worthy project—the extensive public works program—will be defeated because of its alliance with a proposition that has little favor with the ratepayers.

The payment of indemnities to the mayor and aldermen is difficult to justify at the present time, especially in view of the fact that the municipal administration is finding it difficult to maintain a surplus of revenues over expenditures. Sherbrooke has long been proud of the efficiency of its municipal government, a record that has been established by men who have been pleased to serve the city without remuneration for the honor which this service bestows upon them and for the many indirect benefits which any strong municipal administration brings to every citizen.

To break away from this tradition would not react to the benefit of the people as a whole. The proposed remuneration is insufficient in itself to accomplish the alleged purpose of the payment—to attract the strongest men in the community to the municipal service. Rather the result might well be the opposite, the indemnity being just enough to tempt less responsible parties to seek office.

If the City Fathers feel that $12,000 additional can be spent by the municipality, they might do well to consider the question of appointing a city manager. The City of Sherbrooke is engaged in lines of business distinctly removed from the normal field of civic activities, including the operation of electric light, gas and water plants, etc., and it goes without argument that these could be operated much more efficiently if under the control of an experienced man than when directed by an Alderman who has had little contact with the many aspects of their maintenance. Certainly a City Manager could be obtained at a salary substantially below the amount it is proposed to divide among the Aldermen with the advantage that he could possibly introduce economies that would more than compensate for the amount he receives.

Washington Column

BY PETER EDSON

The rash of congressional investigations now breaking out is probably a healthy thing. Following the rotten disclosures in the May-Carson case, half a dozen other ham acts are getting a smearing. Shipbuilding profits, surplus property disposal, Senate and House election campaigns, the "dead horse" Canal, the Pan-American highway and Hawaiian construction scandals all are under investigation.

But some place in the proceedings, somebody out to get up before one of these committees and tell 'em what Charlie Dawes told similar investigators 25 years ago, "Hell and Maria! We had a war to win."

General Dawes had been called to Washington for testimony because he had been on Pershing's staff, in command of Service of Supply. He spoke out in words that everyone could understand, to the effect that war in itself is wasteful and that all the penny-pinching accounting of peacetime economy couldn't be practised when men were being killed and time was more important to save than money.

Industrialists Henry Kaiser had a golden opportunity to speak a piece of this kind in his appearance before the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, but, unfortunately, he blew his top and his lines. Thereby he failed to straighten out some of the lame-brain thinking these committees indulge in.

THE SHIPBUILDERS EARNED THEIR PROFITS

For instance, The House Merchant Marine Committee jumped on the shipbuilders for their so-called "excessive" profits. What could have been brought out at the hearings, but weren't, were simple truths like these:

At Kaiser's Oregon shipyard, Liberty ships were built at an average profit of $82,000 and an average total cost to the government of $1,621,000. That's a little over 5 per cent, not an unreasonable commission.

At the St. John's, Fla., yard, Liberty ships were built at a profit of only $25,000, but a total cost of $2,100,000 each. That's only a 1 per cent profit.

But from the taxpayers' standpoint, which deal is the better for the government? Obviously, it's the first. The saving of half a million dollars on each ship is far better, even though it gives the less expensive builder over three times as much profit.

The idea behind this whole investigation seems to be that it's wicked for the government to allow good profits, even though it save money by so doing. That's utter and arrogant nonsense, particularly when the higher profits were paid as an incentive for building the ships at lower costs to the government, and in far less time—44 days per ship for the first yard as against 88 for the second.

Another fuzzy philosophy presented by this investigation has been the idea that it was wrong for shipbuilders to make much money because they didn't have a high capital investment risk of their own money tied up in the shipyards.

SHIPBUILDERS WORKED AS HIRED MANAGERS

That's cockeyed because the government built the yards, paid for them and owned them outright. This is statism, socialism, totalitarianism or whatever you want to call it. But it is not capitalism. The shipbuilders didn't have to go out and raise the money to finance building the yards as they would have had to do under the free enterprise, capitalist system of economy.

This being the case, the rules of normal capitalism can't be applied as a yardstick to measure profits as a percentage of investment.

The shipbuilders on this deal weren't capitalists, but hired men. They were hired by the government, as contractors, to do a job for other people—the government—using the government's materials, tools and money. The contractors' earnings weren't profits on invested capital, but fees paid for work done, with bonuses for speed and economy. The fees were paid for jobs, organization, management, executive ability to produce.

To argue that the fees may have been too high is one thing. But to argue that the fees were too high in relation to capital investment is to confuse the issue completely. It is the same as arguing that a contractor shouldn't be paid $15,000 a year because they have invested no money of their own in building or buying a share of the U. S. Capitol where they work.

Any time this government can't afford to pay money for doing a job, it might as well decide to fold.

THE HOLEY LAND

Letter From The Editor

This is the final in a series of letters from the editor who has recently returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast of Canada. One of the purposes of the trip was to re-appraise the Canadian viewpoint and to see again the great national strength of this country in her prairies, mountains and sea coast.

Dear Readers:

It is difficult to co-relate the final days I spent in Vancouver, the trip home, and finally all the many impressions I brought back with me. Vancouver is, of course, one of the really great cosmopolitan cities of Canada. Built on both sides of the beautiful and excellent deep water harbor, it has a lovely setting, and spreads over a large area so that homes may take full advantage of the sea view, with the pine-covered mountains in the background.

There is the urgent, bustling spirit of a great world harbor about Vancouver, so different from the untroubled air of Victoria. While I was there the first Canada-Australia air flight had just arrived, and the speaker at the Vancouver Rotary Club was the press attaché of the Australian High Commissioner. To the Vancouver business man both these events are important, and related, because he is convinced that in the future Vancouver will be a great world sea and air port for trade with Australia and the Orient. He looks for a great expansion of trade and industry in Vancouver, and is keen to learn all he can of his Australian cousins.

Rather naturally I talked a lot of politics on the Coast, and had the opportunity to meet several men and women prominent in both the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties, both professionally as office-holders either provincially or federally, and non-professionally as defeated candidates or party workers. (Most of the latter group were Progressive Conservatives!) Two clear facts struck me as a result of these conversations.

First, the great majority of both old party members are in favor of the present Coalition Government in British Columbia, and want to see John Hart, the present Premier, carry on. Mr. Hart is universally respected, and from my meeting with him I would say he thoroughly deserves this respect.

Secondly, there appears to be a one hundred per cent agreement on the fact that the Japanese must never again be permitted to settle on the Pacific Coast. Every time this question is brought up in a group, the group, both men and women, noticeably bristle, and emphatically state that no matter what the cost, Toronto Saturday Night, or the Civil Liberties Union think, or no matter what the Privy Council decides, "we will not take the Japs back on the coast."

If one puts out that this is a strong attitude one is told that only by living on the coast before and during the war can the problem, both political and economic, of the Japanese be appreciated. Everyone seems to have his own particular story of Japanese fifth column activity, and I have heard men of standing and considerable business and civic responsibilities both in Victoria and Vancouver say in all seriousness that there would be armed riots on the coast if any attempt was made to re-establish the Japs there.

The whole trip was a grand experience. Canada is a magnificent country through a train window, in her rich prairies, inspiring mountains and rugged sea coasts. The basic differences between Canadian points of view are small, and rest largely on misunderstanding and prejudice.

Mechanically the nation has been drawn closely together first by the courage, imagination and engineering genius of the early Canadian Pacific Railway pioneers, and now by the Canadian National and Trans-Canada Airways.

In natural resources Canada is a storehouse unequalled in the world. The materials for the fullest life for all the people are at hand. It only remains for individual Canadians across this whole expanse from the Atlantic to the Pacific to search their hearts, find the answer and apply it, to make this full life a reality. The principles are simple, and are summed up in the second great commandment, "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

LONG SQUEEZE MAKES SLAM AND OVERTICK

Today's hand, from Dr. Paul Stern of London, England, was played by Dr. M. Rockfolt at the Lyndhurst Club. Although a doctor is supposed to relieve suffering, Dr. Rockfolt really tortured his East opponent on this hand.

East made the natural opening of the queen of spades, which the doctor won with his ace. He cashed the king and queen of diamonds and led a small club over to the queen.

East showed out, so Dr. Rockfolt cashed the king of clubs and led the four, finessing the nine-spot. Then he cashed the ace of clubs and led the jack.

You can see East's predicament. Four trumps had been cashed, on which he had discarded the five and seven of spades and five and seven of hearts. What could he discard on the jack of trumps? Hoping that his partner held the nine of spades, he let go the 10—and Dr. Rockfolt started the slow torture of the progressive squeeze. The king of spades picked up East's jack, and on the nine of spades East let go the eight of hearts.

Now the doctor led a small spade.

PRESS COMMENTS

FOOD IS A WEAPON

Vancouver Sun

A delegate to the international labor conference at Montreal this week uttered a great truth when he said that peace is not predicted on collection of reparations from the defeated nations.

It is the other way around. The Allies who beat Germany are now forced to take care of the Germans.

When the Hitler war machine was destroyed last year and Germany was divided into zones of administration, thousands of Germans walked across the boundary of the Russian zone into British and American territory. They were afraid of being taken by the Soviet whose troops were then sending every able-bodied man back to Russia for forced labor.

But since then the situation has changed. Russian treatment of the Germans has softened. Because the East side of Germany was a farming country of higher productive ability than the West, the Russian administrators were able to give the conquered people better food supplies than the British and Americans. Communism followed the flow of greater rations, and during recent weeks there has been a reverse flow of Germans crossing the line Eastbound in search of more food.

This week a most important development in this situation has been announced. Rations to the German population in United States and British zones have been raised to the level of the Russian, namely, 1,500 calories. Previously the people in the British zone were slowly starving with only 1,140 calories, while the United States standard was 1,360. It is expected that coal mine output and other manufacturing activity in the Ruhr will increase in proportion. Popularity of Communism may show a corresponding decrease.

WHAT PRICE A PROMISE?

Toronto Globe and Mail

It was to be thought that of all Government promises the first to be considered inviolable would be those given to war veterans. Yet without compunction or adequate explanation the King Administration on September 12th passed an Order-in-Council fixing two acres (instead of half an acre) as the minimum amount of land which can be acquired under the small lotting provision of the Veterans' Land Act. It was nothing short of a deliberate breach of faith and veterans who planned to take advantage of the act have every reason to feel that they have been done a gross injustice.

Yesterday on this page there appeared a letter signed by seven disillusioned veterans who pointed out that in literature circulated by the Department of Veterans' Affairs it was specifically stated that returned men could take their time in finding suitable land on which to settle. They were told they could have ten years in which to select a plot. "Your rights under the act will always be good, as long as you don't use your Re-establishment Credit." Those who took the advice of the department and waited until a more opportune time have been penalized. Instead of being able to purchase a half acre, they must now take two acres, or three if the price is less than $500 per acre.

The official excuse is that the small holdings plan was becoming a "camouflaged urban housing scheme" while the intention of the act was to enable the veteran to acquire a small piece of land in a suburban or rural area in which he could supplement his income from urban employment. Perhaps there have been some abuses. They were, in fact, inevitable, in light of the miserable failure on the part of the Government to make homes available for returned men. But any abuses which do

Duty-Shirking Wives

Woman, Who Shoves House Chores
On Decent Mate, Is Unfair

Dear Dorothy Dix: What do you think of these young wives who live in two or three-room apartments; who can't sew or cook; who send their laundry out; who patronize bakeries and delicatessens because it is too much work to get meals; who expect their husbands to spend their Sundays bathing the baby, sterilizing bottles, washing diapers, scrubbing and cleaning?

Yet before they were married these same wives were dancing half the night and then had to get up and go to work in stores, or offices, or factories; who also had to wash their own clothes and make or mend them, and cook their food.

Should these wives be put on a pedestal? Do they love their husbands or are they just meal tickets and chore boys? And are the young husbands nice or men? And are these good-for-nothing wives the reason for the increase of divorce among the young?

WONDERING.
Answer: Well, I'd say that any man who is married to a healthy, strong, able-bodied young woman who lets her dump all of the housework on him, certainly belongs to the white mouse category.

RENEGING IS QUITTER
Marriage is a partnership. It is dividing the responsibility and the work of making a home, and it is just as much the duty of the wife to fry the bacon as it is for the husband to bring it home. When either one reneges on their part of the contract, they are quitters. If the wife is sick and physically unable to carry her share of the burden, it is, of course, the husband's duty to lend her a helping hand. But if she is well and fit, there is no excuse for her turning him into a baby nurse and dish washer after his hard day's work is done.

I get many letters from men complaining that they have to get up and get their own breakfasts, while their wives turn over for another extra snooze of a morning; that they practically have to live out of their cans and paper bags out of the delicatessen messes that their wives have brought home on their way from a bridge game and their holidays and Sundays they have to put in in giving the house a good cleaning and taking care of the babies, while their wives go off on some pleasure excursion.

But you can't be sorry for any man who is weak enough to let a little two-by-four woman turn him into a slave. If he had the backbone that God promised a fishing worm, he wouldn't stand for it.

Dear Miss Dix: My wife and I have been married 15 years and have two fine children. I am a prosperous business man and give her a very comfortable living—a nice home, a good car, etc. We have always gotten along well together but for no reason that I can understand, she has decided that she no longer loves me. She wants me to give her a divorce and our home and a comfortable income and let her keep the children.

She seems to think that she is doing me a favor by taking the children, whom I adore, and that I should be perfectly contented to pay all the bills and live in some hotel or boarding house. She says she knows I deserve to be treated better, but she has to think of herself and she wants to be happy.

What shall I do?

Answer: Your wife evidently expects you to support her in luxury, while she sports around and has a good time unencumbered by a husband of whom she is tired. Tell her that you will make no such an unequal bargain. Advise her that if she leaves you that you will insist on having the children half of the time, and that you will give her only such alimony as the court will award her.

If you could induce her to go away somewhere and live separately from you for a year, she would be glad enough to come back to her good home and a comfortable living.

Dear Miss Dix: I had no intention of getting married when I did. I carelessly talked too much when I first met my wife at a party, not knowing that what she wanted was to make a home for her two-and-a-half-year-old child. I have been very unhappy with her.

What can I do about it?

A DRAFTED HUSBAND.
Answer: Nothing, I'm afraid, for it is much easier to acquire a wife than it is to get rid of one. But you are not the only man who has had to pay with a wedding ring for too much talking.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

MARRIAGES

NICHOLSON-McCORMICK

Drummondville, Oct. 4.—The marriage of Velma Mary, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McCormick, of Drummondville, to Mr. Clifford Murray Nicholson, of Drummondville, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander D. Nicholson, of Scottstown, was quietly solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, on Saturday, September 21, Rev. Roy P. Stafford, of Drummondville United Church, officiating.

Clusters of small white wedding bells, and gladioli in pastel shades were used to decorate, and appropriate wedding music, which included the Lohengrin Bridal March, was rendered by Mrs. Ernest Ash, of Montreal, aunt of the bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of blue satin, fashioned on simple lines, fitted bodice with peplum, short shirred sleeves, a sweetheart neckline softly outlined with ruching, which also edged the hem of the full skirt, falling in graceful folds to the floor. She wore long white gloves, and a two-strand necklace of pearls. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of lilies-of-the-valley, and she carried an arm bouquet of Bettertime roses.

The matron-of-honor, Mrs. Clayton Gordon, wore a gown fashioned on lines similar to that of the bride, in forget-me-not blue sheer over satin, with matching shoulder-length veil of net caught with cornflowers. She carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses.

Mrs. McCormick, mother of the bride, wore an afternoon dress of chocolate brown crepe, with brown accessories, and a shoulder corsage of Briarcliff roses.

Mrs. Nicholson, the groom's mother, wore a suit dress of teal blue crepe, with black accessories, and a shoulder corsage of Briarcliff roses. She also wore a small flower trimmed black hat, with veil.

Mr. Norman Campbell, cousin of the groom, acted as best man.

At the reception which followed the marriage ceremony, the bride's table, in white and silver, was covered with a beautiful cutwork cloth, and was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, surmounted by mums and baby's breath in a small crystal container. Tall white tapers, in silver holders, and small crystal vases of the mums and baby's breath completed the table decorations.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson left on a trip to Montreal, Quebec City, and other points, the bride travelling in a wool suit of natural beige, beaver-trimmed coat, brown accessories, and a shoulder corsage of Briarcliff roses.

Upon their return the young couple will reside in Drummondville.

The groom is a Hong Kong Veteran.

The guests from out of town who attended the wedding, were Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Nicholson, and Mrs. A. R. MacDonald, of Scottstown; Mr. Ernest Ash, of Montreal; and Mrs. Elmer Robson, and son, Jimmy, of Windsor Mills.

Church officiating.

The church had been prettily decorated by friends of the bride. Mrs. Roy Cillis presided at the organ, playing the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white sheer, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her fingertip veil was arranged with a band of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

Miss Frances Robertson, was her sister's only attendant and wore a floor-length gown of blue sheer, with shoulder length veil and carried a colonial nosegay.

The groom was attended by Mr. Robert Irving as best man.

Mrs. Robertson, mother of the bride, wore a dress of navy blue, with blue accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the table at which the bride and groom were seated being centered with a very pretty three-tiered wedding cake.

THREE-POINT PROGRAM BRIGHTENS HAIR PUNISHED BY SUMMER SUN

By ALICIA HART

There's work ahead of you in coaxing back polished gleam and healthy snap to hair that's been punished all summer long by sand and salt water.

But the job of reconditioning is simple and results are guaranteed, if you'll divide it into the following three-point program:

First, massage. The best way is to begin at the hairline, press cushions of fingers into the scalp, and rotate so that the scalp moves but the fingers. Then, move fingers inch by inch until you cover the scalp.

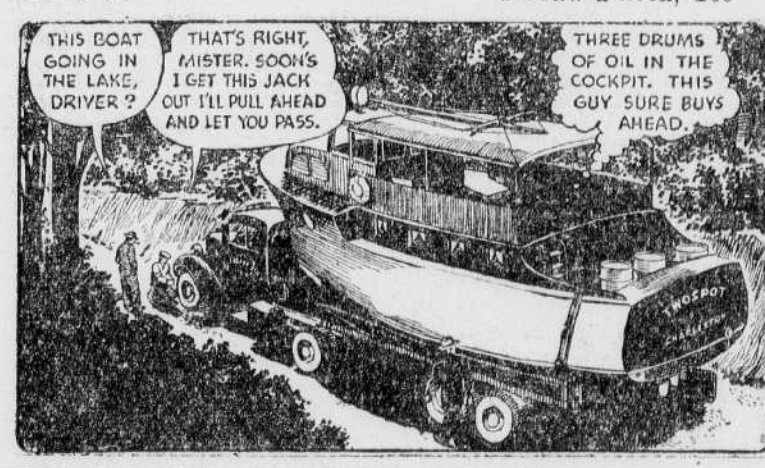

Second step is to brush. Before brushing, part hair in small sections and rub a cream on the exposed scalp. Then sweep hair its full length, working to brush the cream from roots to ends.

That old-reliable oil treatment should be the third point of your program. The night before you shampoo is the time to rub hot oil—olive, sweet almond or castor oil—over your scalp.

A simple reconditioning routine will put back the lustrous gleam in sun-dried hair.

1946 Wool Clip May Be Less

The bulk of the 1946 Canadian wool clip has reached the warehouses. Eastern domestic receipts have practically all been graded but the larger warehouses have many carloads to be handled. Complete information for either quantity or quality of the 1946 clip is not yet available, states the Current Review of Agriculture. Conditions in Canada, but reports indicate that there will probably be a moderate decrease in volume as compared with 1945.

Condition of the wool is somewhat variable. The British Columbia clip is reported as bright and light shrinking. The Alberta and Saskatchewan Range type graded to date would suggest that shrinkage is fairly high on the whole. Shrinkages in the Western Domestic type from the Prairie Provinces also vary according to district of origin and amount of rainfall experienced during the past year. The percentages of "Bright" wool either equal those of 1945 or surpass them in the case of some warehouses. The quality of Eastern Domestic, with respect to shrinkage, does not vary much from year to year. The extreme lightness of some Central Canada clips noted in 1945 and due to heavy rains before shearing were not as much in evidence in 1946.

The Canadian Wool Board Ltd. continues to be the sole purchaser of Canadian fleece wool in 1946 and prices to the grower have remained the same since control was adopted in 1942.

2,416 calves for sale on the two Montreal markets. In addition, 404 cattle, 608 sheep and lambs, 328 hogs and 48 calves were received on direct consignment to local plants and 305 cattle, 2 calves were handled on through billing to Canadian points.

This week's receipts were lighter than last week on all classes. Prices on cattle, hogs and calves were about steady. Lambs steady to 50 cents lower.

With a decrease in the offerings of close to 1,500 head, sales were slow to start. Good quality steers sold up to $12.50, with a few tops at $13, and two steers at $13.50. Mediums $10.50 to $11.50 and common $8 up. Heifers ranged from $7 to a top of $12. Good cows were $9.25 to $10 with a choice at $10.50. Mediums $8 to $9 and common butchers $7 up. Canners and cutters $5 to $7. Good bulls $9.25 to $10, tops $10.50. Commoner bulls from $7 to $9.

Veal calves were in very good demand selling from $11 for the common kinds to $15.50 for the best veals. The bulk of the calves offered were drinkers and light grassers and these were sold in mixed lots between $9 and $10. When sold separately light grassers were $8 to $9. Yearlings $7 to $8.

Medium to good ewes and wethers brought $13.50 to $14. Buck lambs were discounted $1 per cwt., and culls $8 to $10. Several carloads were sold on flat basis at $13. Sheep were $3 to $8.

Hogs were slow to start and prices were about steady at $20.50 for Grade A on the early part of the week, and closing at $20.25. Sows were $18.50 to $19.25 dressed.

BUSY TRADING CONTINUES ON LOCAL MARKET

The Lansdowne Market will soon be winding up one of the largest summer marketing seasons in the past ten years as cold weather sets in and vendors disappear from the outside stalls. About the middle of this month, or possibly later, depending on the weather, Friday market days will see all vendors occupying stalls within the main building.

There was no perceptible let-up in trading at the market today and the market clerk stated that since early August when both fruits and vegetables came into their own, practically every stall has been taken each week. "While in past years we have had upwards of a dozen or more stalls still free when Friday came along, this season has been one of the best in a long time," he said. "Since the month of August we have seldom had more than one or two stalls vacant."

Evidence that the crab apple season has arrived was given today when several traders offered six quart baskets for fifty cents. Although the crop was somewhat disappointing this year, many farmers stated that in some sections of the E.T. and more distant points, the crop is prolific and "at least as good as last year."

The price of eggs and meat remained steady this week. Butchers stated that, with the exception of veal, all meat is plentiful and western beef in particular is being received in quantity.

BUTTER PRICE IS FACTOR IN MILK CEILING

Quebec, Oct. 4.—Hon. Laurent Barre, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, said yesterday, after a four-hour conference with delegates of the Quebec Milk Producers' Syndicate, that the Dominion Government's ceiling price on butter was the main factor in fixing the price of milk.

The Dominion Government, Mr. Barre said, left the provinces, "in a bad position with the ceiling price on butter."

"In Quebec Province the price of butter is the basic factor in fixing the price of milk. The price of butter now is lower than its cost price."

Mr. Barre said the milk producers maintained a firm stand at the conference in their demand for $3.75 for 100 pounds of milk. The minimum price set by the Quebec Dairy Commission is $3.40 for 100 pounds.

The producers argued that $3.75 barely covered the cost of production and that Quebec dairy farmers are farmers in other parts of the province endorsed a recommendation that the price be $4.

Representatives of the distributors are due to meet the ministers today.

Sales Boost Noted By Co-Operatives

Montreal, Oct. 4.—A record increase of $13,000,000 in sales total during the year 1944-45 was reported by the Quebec Agricultural Co-operative Societies in the annual report released today by Hon. Laurent Barre, Minister of Agriculture.

Sales totalled $51,293,265, compared with approximately $38,000,000 the preceding year.

Butter and cheese societies led with total sales of $19,865,543. Other sections included: Cattle, $4,403,119; preserves, $3,717,464; eggs, $2,835,446.

There were 590 co-operative societies in 1944-45 with a total membership of 50,181, compared with 418 in 1941 and a membership of 32,584.

The societies cover approximately 37 per cent of the agricultural population of the province, the report said.

Junior Farm Clubs National Contests

Approximately 90 members of junior farm clubs from all parts of Canada are expected to take part in National Rural Youth Week under the direction of the Canadian Council on Boys' and Girls' Club Work in conjunction with the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto in November.

A new feature this year of the event, the fifteenth to be held under the sponsorship of the Canadian Council, is the inclusion of a contest for teams representing girls' clothing clubs. It is expected that seven provinces will send teams to compete in this contest. Other projects included in the National contest are dairy cattle, beef cattle, swine, poultry, grain and potatoes.

The junior farm club members eligible to compete will all be members of the provincial championship teams selected in provincial elimination contests.

The members are to arrive at Toronto on Sunday, November 10. The project contests will be conducted the following day and the remainder of the week will be devoted to several educational tours, including attendance at the Royal Winter Fair.

The annual meeting and meetings of the directors of the Canadian Council will be held during National Rural Youth Week. The President of the Council this year is Dr. W. V. Lengley, Director of Extension, Nova Scotia Agricultural College, Truro, N.S.

SERVICES IN MODERN HOSPITALS DEPENDENT ON PRIVATE CONTRIBUTIONS

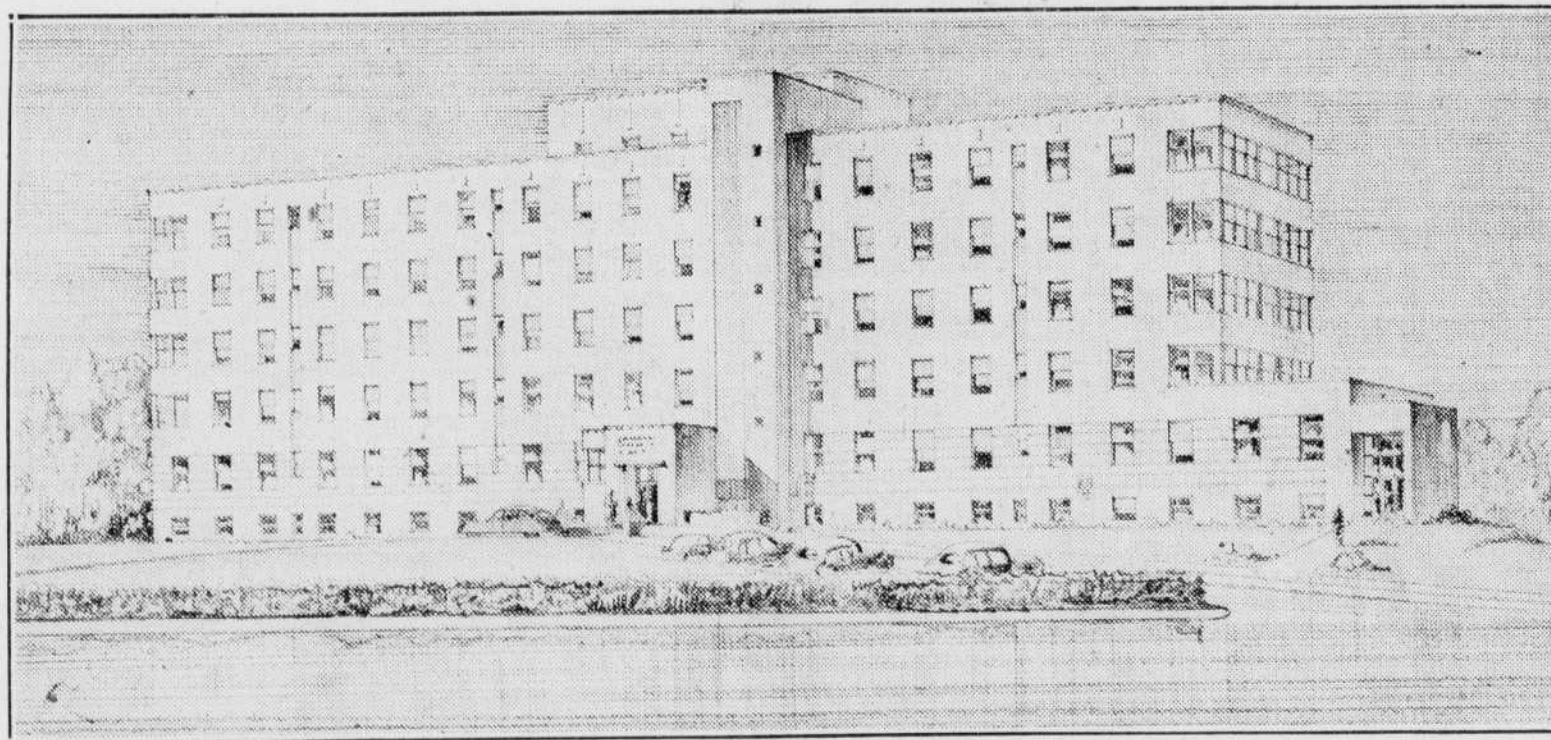

The hospital of today is the centre of highly specialized services so organized as to give the sick a better chance to get well. The facilities for treatment and the service available in such institutions have been organized to a high standard of efficiency but the same cannot be said regarding the organization for supplying the finances for maintaining and establishing such hospitals.

A well-equipped hospital is a community utility and as indispensable as the waterworks, the electric light plant, the fire department or the educational system. Every day of the year and every hour of the day the hospital must be prepared to give service to any man, woman or child within the radius of its activity and must be prepared to give such service at an instant's notice without stopping to consider the cost.

The feeling among many hospital executives is that these services should be so organized in every community as to receive universal support. Under present conditions every hospital's governing board is forced to depend on unknown sources for a certain amount of income.

It is because of this that drives for funds are put on from time to time by hospitals in all parts of the Dominion. The present campaign being conducted by the Sherbrooke Hospital is not for the maintenance of the institution but instead to carry out a very necessary new building program. When this is completed the Sherbrooke Hospital will be equal to the best medical and hospital centres to be found in this Country.

Lennoxville Bride-To-Be Feted At Shower By Friends At Bury

Bury, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Viola Allison, Mrs. Ernest Burgess, Mrs. Hattie Allison, Mrs. Douglas Harrison, Mrs. Arthur Herring and Mrs. Eric Fisher were hostesses at a charmingly arranged miscellaneous shower at the town hall here in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Lillian Allison, of Lennoxville.

Miss Allison and Miss Povey had accepted an invitation to be overnight guests of the former's aunt, Mrs. Burgess.

They arrived in Bury on the mail train and were met at the station by Messrs. E. Burgess and Eric Fisher, who took them to the hall, where they were to get Mrs. Burgess, who was supposed to be attending a supper there.

Upon arriving at the hall they were greatly surprised to find over twenty guests assembled in Miss Allison's honor. They were met by Mrs. E. Burgess and Mrs. Eric Fisher who presented the bride-elect with a beautiful bouquet of gladioli tied with pink and white ribbon. Mrs. Burgess then escorted Miss Allison to a daintily decorated chair in pink and white, while Mrs. Fisher escorted Miss Povey to a chair beside the bride-elect. The hall was most attractively decorated in pink and white with colored leaves of the season.

Two prettily decorated wagons were then brought in by Mrs. Douglas Harrison and Mrs. Eric Fisher. Mrs. Fisher on behalf of those present asked Miss Allison to accept the gifts from her friends from her old home town, who had gathered here to wish her happiness in her married life, after which she read a few lines of poetry.

Miss Povey assisted the bride-elect in unwrapping the beautiful gifts, which consisted of linens, silverware, pyrex, cutglass, blankets and quilts.

After the daintily wrapped gifts had been admired, Miss Allison graciously expressed her thanks to her friends for the pleasant surprise and the many lovely gifts and invited them to visit her in her new home. She then introduced Miss Povey, her sister-in-law-to-be, who had just arrived here from England. She said this had been the ninth shower given her and Miss Povey had been present with her at six of them.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

ST. PAUL'S W. A.

The monthly meeting of St. Paul's Women's Auxiliary was held at the "Rectory." Rev. Mr. Rowe opened the meeting with prayers and the blessing. Mrs. J. Dougherty, the president, then took the chair. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The correspondence was read and discussed. The Deane meeting to be held at Marlboro was also discussed. Arrangements were made for the chicken pie supper and committees were appointed to solicit food. The secretary was ordered to send for twenty boxes of Christmas cards.

The president closed the meeting with prayers. Several war-brides and new comers to town came in and spent a delightful social hour. Mrs. Rowe and daughter assisted by some of the members

The Doctor Says

ST. VITUS DANCE IS A RHEUMATIC INFECTION

By William A. O'Brien, M.D.

Chorea (St. Vitus Dance) is a form of rheumatic infection affecting the muscles. It may be associated with rheumatic infection elsewhere in the body, or it may develop as the only sign of the disease.

Chorea is most common in girls between 5 and 15 years of age, although it does develop in boys as well. Until the condition was understood, many young patients were punished because they could not hold still, since physicians parents failed to realize that their behavior was due to an underlying rheumatic infection.

Chorea begins, gradually or suddenly, with headache, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, and fever. The infection varies greatly in severity, and it may be difficult to recognize in the beginning.

The muscles jerk and twitch as the patients make movements which have no particular purpose. They find it difficult or impossible to hold their muscles in a state of contraction. There is some loss of power.

Affects Mentality
The disease seems to affect the patients' mentality, and they find it difficult to concentrate.

Patients with chorea may twitch so badly that they appear to be making faces. Several movements in different directions are started at the same time, and while it is possible to dispel them temporarily, the jerks always come back. In severe cases, they interfere with sleep.

Walking may be difficult, and stumbling is common. Speech is affected, in many cases. Any number of muscles can be affected, though the condition may be limited to one group.

Chorea lasts from one to six months, unless the course is shortened by treatment.

In the beginning the patient is kept in bed for several days, to quiet his nerves. He should not have visitors, and every effort should be made to keep him from being stimulated.

Fever Therapy Helps
The most successful treatment results have followed fever therapy, which can be given in the form of injections of typhoid vaccine or by placing the patient in a Kettering hypertherm (fever box).

As the patient recovers, he is allowed to resume normal activity as soon as possible, playing with other children and doing things he likes.

In chorea the rheumatic infection is centered in the brain, and the outlook for cure depends on the degree of infection elsewhere, as the brain infection always shows a tendency to heal.

Other diseases may be confused with chorea, as young girls also suffer from hysteria and other nervous mannerisms.

Question: Is grinding the teeth a sign of worms?
Answer: No. It usually means that the child is nervous or that he is dreaming about "cops and robbers."

Mansonville Couple Celebrates Anniversary Of Farm Settling

Mansonville, Oct. 4. — A large number of friends and relatives gathered at "Sky Farm," the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Traver and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bradley on Saturday afternoon, September 21, to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the settling of their farm.

As it was a pleasant autumn day the guests assembled on the lawn to enjoy the magnificent view and examine the antiques belonging to the Traver family, ranging from all sorts of handmade wooden farm implements and carpenter's tools to beautiful hand-made quilts. Here, Mr. Keith Bradley, representing the fifth generation, welcomed the guests. Following his address of welcome many of the guests spoke on the events of the past hundred years, stressing the faith and courage of the pioneers as well as the importance of farm life today, referring to farming as a profession in these days.

Among the guest speakers were the following: J. Alv. St. Denis, the regional agronomist of Granby, and the secretary for the Bedford District Holstein Club; L. D. McIntock, of Knowlton, agronomist for Brome County; Mr. Lawrence Horner, of East Farnham, chairman of the East Farnham Farm Forum and first vice-president of the Farm Forums in the Province of Quebec; Mr. Gordon Shufelt, of East Farnham, a member of the Farm Forum Council for Brome County; Rev. M. Galbraith of the Mansonville United Church; Rev. A. L. Sisco, of Tweed, Ont.; Rev. E. F. Mackin, who offered prayers of thanksgiving; Mr. Herman Salisbury, president of Brome County Agricultural Society of Foster, who brought good wishes from the Agricultural Society, of which Mr. Traver is a director and E. S. Bradley is a past president. After the speeches, games and singing were enjoyed followed by the serving of refreshments.

Besides those already mentioned the following out of town guests were present: Mrs. A. L. Sisco, of Tweed, Ont., a daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Traver; Mr. and Mrs. John Connor, of Magog; Mr. Herbert Lyons, and Miss Bertha Morin, of Lawrence, Mass.; Mr. Charles Horner, Mrs. Lawrence Horner and Mrs. Gordon Shufelt, of East Farnham; Mr. Cedric Goddard, of Ottawa, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Boright and Mrs. Sadie Cowan, of Sutton.

The Honorable Jonathan Robinson, minister of Mines, in the Quebec Legislature, was invited but sent his regrets at being unable to be present, owing to previous engagements.

In 1846 Jacob Traver, originally of New York State, and his wife, Hannah Teal, settled on what is now the Traver-Bradley farm and built their first house of logs. This original log house remained on the estate until only a few years ago. Jacob Traver was a weaver and cooper by trade but when he first came here he made potash and hauled it by ox team to Waterloo.

Of their seven children, it was Orin J. Traver, who lived to carry on the farm. In 1867, he married Elvira Woodbury, and it is largely due to their hard work and perseverance that the farmland was improved and the present large house was built in 1896.

Orin Traver and Elvira Woodbury had three sons, the youngest, George W. Traver the present owner, who with Mr. Ernest S.

Bradley who married Mr. Traver's youngest daughter, Mildred, carry on the farm in a very up to date manner, having all modern conveniences both in the house and in the farm buildings.

Mr. Keith Bradley is carrying on the farming tradition of the Travers and Bradleys by taking a four years' course in Agriculture at Macdonald College, St. Anne de Bellevue.

Members of the family who were not able to be present on the day set for the celebrations but who visited the farm during the summer are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Traver, of Timmins, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Traver, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Williams and family, of Mount Royal; Mrs. Harry Traver and Mr. and Mrs. T. Vickers, of Lowell, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blake and Mr. George Blake, of Medford, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bradley and family, of Ottawa, Ont.; Mrs. T. H. Bradley, of Eardley; and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bradley and son, of Montreal.

WARNING HOUSEHOLD FUEL

Parts of Canada face a shortage of fuel for domestic use

This situation has been caused by the strikes of coal miners, the seaman's strike in the early summer which retarded shipments and the strike at the steel mills which has created a grave shortage of coke for domestic use.

To Protect Your Family Next Winter:

- 1—Order your fuel at once if you have not already done so.
- 2—Accept whatever suitable fuel your dealer can supply whenever he can make delivery. (At present there are satisfactory substitute fuels available).

Claims Atom Bomb Tested By Japanese

Story Carried in Atlanta Paper Refuted by U.S. Army Intelligence Officers and Jap Scientists.

Atlanta, Oct. 4. — (P) — Japanese scientists who developed and successfully tested an atom bomb three days before the war ended are now prisoners of the Russians in Moscow, the Atlanta Constitution said in a copyrighted story in today's issue.

The author, David Snell, a former reporter for the paper who recently returned from service with the 24th Criminal Investigation Detachment operating in Korea, said the Russians had brought pressure on the captured scientists to learn the "atomic know how."

Snell said he obtained his story from a Japanese officer who represented himself as a head of counter-espionage at Japan's atomic developing project at Konan, Korea.

This story may throw light on Stalin's recent statement that America will not long have a monopoly on atomic weapons. Snell said in the Constitution's story.

At Tokyo, United States Army intelligence officers today joined both American and Japanese scientists in scoffing at Snell's account.

"It is a complete lie," commented Japan's foremost nuclear physicist, Dr. Yoshio Nishina.

"Most unlikely," was the comment of United States Army intelligence officers in Tokyo.

Meanwhile, War Department officials at Washington declined immediate comment, while Maj.-Gen. Leslie Groves, who directed the atom bomb Manhattan project, observed that he "would be very much interested if the story were true."

Gen. Groves added: "It's all news to me."

At San Francisco, however, War Secretary Patterson said he was sure reports of the Japanese atomic explosive were not true.

Snell related that one member of the Japanese atom bomb staff escaped from the Russians in June and had been questioned by U.S. intelligence agents. Furthermore, he added, he himself had turned over to the United States Army intelligence in Seoul the information he had obtained from his informant, identified by the pseudonym, Capt. Tetsuo Wakabayashi.

Brebeuf's Church Ruins Discovered

Wauhashene, Ont., Oct. 4. — (P) — Archaeologists today discovered on the site of a former Huron Indian village three miles southwest of here the 300-year-old ruins of the church of the martyred Jesuit Father St. Jean de Brebeuf.

W. W. Jury, curator of the Museum of Indian Archaeology of the University of Western Ontario and leader of the group which made the discovery, said the church was 60 feet wide and 90 feet long. It stood in the centre of the stockaded Indian village of St. Ignace II.

"The discovery of the church means a great deal, not only to us but to Canada as a whole," said Rev. T. J. Lally, S. J., superintendent of the Martyrs' Shrine at Midland, Ont., as he viewed the ruins.

"It marks the place of one of the most heroic episodes in Canadian history. It was here that St. Jean de Brebeuf and St. Gabriel Lallemant were tied to the stake by the Iroquois, March 17, 1649 and tortured and burned until they died."

Hollywood, Oct. 4. — (P) — Newly-arrived from Britain, Ann Todd reports that she is amazed by California's climate, hospitality, and particularly, the bobby-soxers.

Ann is the girl who got her hands whacked by James Mason in "The Seventh Veil." One of Britain's top actresses, she is here to do "The Paradine Case." She and her husband, former R.A.F. Wing Cmdr. Nigel Tangye, now are living on a comfortable crag overlooking Laurel Canyon.

"In England we wake up and wonder, 'will this be a good day or a bad day?'" she said. "Here you wake up and the sun is always shining."

Once inside, she rhapsodized about the hospitality and the place offered ample evidence. Flowers and boxes of candy and cookies were in abundance. Ann also remarked how intrigued she was by her adolescent admirers, whom she called "bobby-soxers."

Mr. Tangye declared there is nothing approximating the bobby-soxer in England. "The fans stand very quietly and watch," he said. Occasionally one would emit a bold "that's our Annie!"

ST. LOUIS AND RED SOX MEET IN WORLD SERIES SUNDAY

Cards Win N.L. Pennant Despite Dodgers' Strong Last Stand Fight

En Route to St. Louis, Oct. 4.—(P)—Eddie Dyer's St. Louis Cardinals are counting on the momentum of the two playoff victories over Brooklyn Dodgers to send them winging into the World Series with Boston Red Sox Sunday as very healthy to 20 underdogs.

Instead of a bedraggled flock of Red Birds, drooping after a 154-game schedule that included the first tie in major league history, the revived St. Louis National League champs remain completely unawed by the gentlemen from Boston.

The Cardinals believe they have the lefthanded pitching—and in recent days the hitting too—to give Joe Cronin plenty of headaches.

They think they are at a keener competitive edge than a club that has done little more than wait since clinching the pennant, Sept. 13.

Cardinal fans do not have much data on clubs that ride home way out in front for only three of the nine flag winners since 1926 have done it the easy way and two of them did cop the series. The two teams that went down to the final day before settling the issue, Frankie Frisch's 1934 Gas House Gang and Billy Southworth's 1942 speedy crew, both won the world championship.

Boston has been without any kind of a title at Fenway Park since 1918.

With the chips down in a short series, the Cardinals proved against Brooklyn they can play like the team most of the experts picked last spring to breeze to the pennant.

Brooklyn was inclined to pass off Howie Pollet's aching left side as a "come on" designed to throw them off guard. Actually it was nothing of the kind. Dyer was uncertain about pitching him Tuesday in the 4-2 opener until as late as 10 minutes before game time. His condition is one of the very important question marks in all series conjectures.

If Pollet feels that his strained side won't bother his control, he will be the opening game pitcher. If there is any doubt about the matter, Dyer will go with Harry (The Cat) Brecheen. He is certain to start a lefthander despite Murry Dickson's early success yesterday.

Dickson, a converted reliever who never got a starting chance until June 9 and was passed up in the final Dodger series, showed the Brooks something in the final 8-4 victory. From the first inning when Brooklyn made two hits count for an early run, until the ninth when they drove him to cover in a rousing three-run uprising, Dickson held the home club without a smell of a hit, allowing only one ball to be hit to the outfield. The ever-faithful Dodger crowd, 31,437 strong, was walking out on the "Bum" when they crashed through with their desperate closing surge. Augie Galan's double, Ed Stevens' triple, Carl Furillo's single, a wild pitch and a walk to Pee Wee Reese forced Dyer to deride "Dix" and wave on Brecheen.

For the first and only time in the abbreviated series, the Dodgers had one of the big innings that have established them as a never-say-die gang that always makes the most of its opportunities. They didn't have many chances against the Cards and they muffed all of those until the rousing ninth.
