Feds call for seniors inclusion projects

Record Staff

The federal government is calling on organizations to submit projects designed to help include seniors in the life of their community.

Yesterday, the Hon. Filomena Tassi, Minister of Seniors, invited organizations to apply for funding for projects that will help increase social inclusion among seniors through collaborative and innovative approaches. Referred to as the New Horizons for Seniors Program or NHSP, the program fosters social inclusion and the engagement of seniors by encouraging seniors to share their knowledge, skills and experiences to the benefit of others through projects that make a difference in the lives of seniors and their communities.

The NHSP Pan-Canadian funding supports multi-year projects using collaborative and innovative approaches to address seniors' issues. The application period has begun and will close on January 21, 2019. Eligible organizations can receive up to $5M over five years.

Young newsies on the hunt for a hot scoop

MATTHEW MCCULLY

Students from Lisa Eryou's Grade 3 class at Sherbrooke Elementary School stopped by The Record office yesterday to get the whos, whats, whens, wheres and whys of the newspaper business.

Reporter Gordon Lambie gave the students a tour of the pressroom to show how the paper is printed. He also walked them through the very first edition of the Sherbrooke Record, published on Feb. 9, 1897, to show the students what the news of the day was 121 years ago.

The next stop was with reporter Matthew McCully, who explained how many words fit on a newspaper page, and the average time it takes to interview a subject and write an article. McCully also talked about advertising in

GOOD READS

LENNOXVILLE LIBRARY

Yesterday marked the 29th anniversary of the Polytechnic Massacre that happened December 6, 1989, in which armed student Marc Lépine murdered fourteen women and injured ten others in the name of "fighting feminism". 29 years later and we are still struggling as a society to create a world that is safer for women and girls. This is a heavy topic, a topic not easily discussed with young children, but it is important. I think if I told my 5 year old daughter about those women and how they were murdered for going to school and studying subjects not typical for women, she would be sad, but not shocked. My daughter's life began just after a young woman named Malala was shot in the head for wanting access to education. We may have made some strides in our society, but we still have great lengths to go before we eliminate domestic violence. We still have thousands of cases of missing or murdered indigenous women and girls. This reality can feel daunting. Every year this week in December I feel sad and frustrated that we haven't solved all the problems in our world. This powerlessness can be paralyzing. What can I do? How can I make a difference in the world?

I am a Mom and I am an educator, and as such, I have a platform in my own small world to instill empathy and empowerment in my children and in the families I interact with. I don't equate this to the small changes we can make in our homes to be more eco-friendly, as that can sometimes feel like a pointless drop in the bucket. Empowering and educating children has a much bigger impact. I believe that if every child grew up valuing their neighbours and embracing the diversity and beauty of human kind our world would be better. Children are not born mean. Children learn to hate each other and to do hateful things. If children were taught to love and be kind above all else and that every human being was a precious gift, I believe there would be fewer "bad guys" out there.

I want to recommend two books from the Lennoxville Library to read with your beloved little ones, nieces, nephews, grandchildren and students. The first is a kid-friendly telling of one of the stories I mentioned above; that of Malala Yousafzai. As a young girl, Malala defied the Taliban in Pakistan and demanded that girls be allowed to receive an education. She was shot in the head by a Taliban gunman in 2012, but survived and went on to receive the Nobel Peace Prize. Malala's Magic Pencil, is the autobiographical tale of how Malala was inspired by her Dad to love education and how the power of learning and words are greater than the power of violence and hate. It is a beautifully illustrated exploration of her story. Her story is scary, but filled with hope because she has survived and gone on to use her experience to make a difference on a global scale in the education of girls and women.

My second recommendation is in honour of the women who lost their lives trying to become scientists and engineers in Montreal 29 years ago. The victims of the 1989 massacre were Geneviève Bergeron, 21, Hélène Colgan, 23, Nathalie Croteau, 23, Barbara Daigneault, 22, Anne-Marie Edward, 21, Maud Haviernick, 29, Barbara Klucznik, 31, Maryse Laganière, 25, Maryse Leclair, 23, Anne-Marie Lemay, 22, Sonia Pelletier, 23, Michèle Richard, 21, Anne St-Arneault, 23, and Annie Turcotte, 21. These women may have done amazing things in their careers if they not been tragically cut short. Ada Twist, Scientist by Andrea Beaty, is a book about how questions and curiosity drive us to become great thinkers and inventors and problem solvers. Another masterful creation of Andrea Beaty who also brought out Rosie Revere, Engineer, is inspired by real life science celebs like Ada Lovelace and Marie Curie. Children learn to persevere and use their curiosity and questions to solve problems in the world and feel inspired to be whatever they dream of being.

We cannot erase the tragic events which have taken place in our past. We can help raise children who are inspired to create a beautiful world where all people are welcome and have the opportunity to reach their potential. We must teach our children to love and be kind and to never stop asking questions.

Lifeless body found in Brompton

An investigation is under way to determine the cause and the circumstances of the death. No hypothesis has been ruled out. SPS investigators are waiting for information from the coroner's office and a pathologist to determine the cause of death. The SPS says that no further information will be transmitted until this information is received.

The lifeless body of a 58-year-old woman was discovered in Sherbrooke's Brompton borough on Monday night. At approximately 7:00 p.m., police from Sherbrooke had to intervene during an "incident" on Notre-Dame St. Upon arrival, they found the body outside the building. Her death was confirmed on the spot.

the newspaper and gave the students an opportunity to build their own ads to try and sell a Townships staple, Christmas trees.

The students then headed to the pagination station where staffers Samantha Young and Emilie Hackett showed them how content is put onto the page.

Before the visit, the SES newsies had prepared their own articles about what's new in Grade 3. The students took turns laying out the page, sizing photos and deciding where the most important news items should be.

The following is the news of the day according to Eryou's Grade 3 class:

Christmas Bazaar. Saturday, December 1st, 2018.

At the Christmas bazaar, you could have bought toys and games. There were special treats to eat and drink. There was hot chocolate, McDonald's orange juice and many other things. To eat, there was chicken noodle soup, chilli, bread, popcorn, muffins, cookies and lots more. The amazing S.E.S. choir performed many songs and even Santa came. Our school mascot Sparky the dragon was there too. There was face painting for kids who wanted to have their faces painted. For people who wanted their nails painted, they could have someone do that too! In the middle of the gym, there was a silent auction of things you could bid on. The people who wasted the most of their money would win. The money goes to the school's P.P.O. and they help us go on cool field trips.

Grade 3 Sports

Often at small recess, grade three students can go to the big gym to play sports. Sometimes you can play football. You can play Mr.G style dodgeball if you want to. You can play a game called ten catches. Many kids really like playing hockey. Some kids like to play soccer. The teachers tell you what you will be playing when you arrive in the big gym at small recess.

Our playground

When you get to Grade 3, which is our grade, you can play on the other side of the playground. We like that side of the playground because the play structure is really neat. We can hang from bars and climb on walls that have holes. We have basketball nets in a nice big basketball court. There is this kind of snake thing that bounces you up and down. We have a couple of places where you can play tetherball. Tetherball is a game where a big ball is tied on a string and it hangs from a post. We have painted squares for the four squares game. We have a buddy bench you can sit on if you feel like you don't have friends to play with. When you sit on the buddy bench alone, someone will see that and come ask you to play with them. There are a lot of neat things you can do on the big kids' side of the playground at S.E.S.

Seniors inclusion projects

"The Government of Canada deeply values the contribution seniors make to our country. We know that when seniors can fully participate in society, everybody benefits," said Tassi. "That is why I am pleased to launch the Call for Concepts for the Pan-Canadian stream of the NHSP. The Pan-Canadian stream supports innovative projects that create a significant impact in communities. This program has been supporting more than half a million seniors annually and will continue to do so."

Organizations can apply under the Call for Concepts (CFC) for the New Horizons for Seniors Program (NHSP) 2018-2019 for Pan-Canadian projects.

The last NHSP call for proposals for Pan-Canadian projects was open from May 29, 2015, to July 10, 2015 and focused on projects that would help reduce social isolation among seniors.

Honouring a “hands on” volunteer

By Nick Fonda

At a brief ceremony on Monday evening at the Richmond Town Hall, mayor Bertrand Ménard presented Beverly Taber Smith with the Sovereign’s Medal for Volunteers.

The contribution that volunteers make to our society is not something that goes unnoticed. The Conference Board of Canada estimated that in 2017, the work done by volunteers had an economic value of almost $56 billion, or 2.6 % of Canada’s gross domestic product. The social contribution of Canada’s 12 million volunteers is inestimable.

These facts explain why all three levels of government—municipal, provincial, and federal—make a point of publicly acknowledging volunteers, often during Volunteer Week, which usually falls in April. The Sovereign’s Medal for Volunteers, first awarded in 1995 (although under a different name), represents national recognition at the highest level.

Recipients of this award are individuals who have demonstrated an exemplary commitment through their dedicated volunteerism. It is awarded after the candidates, whose names have been submitted for consideration, have been reviewed by an advisory committee, a process that can take a year or more to complete. Sometimes the medal is presented at Rideau Hall by the Governor General, although presentation ceremonies are held throughout the year, in communities across Canada.

Because of time constraints (the mayor and councilors present for the ceremony had a council meeting to attend) the speeches in Richmond on Monday night were both short and heartfelt.

Carol Mooney, of the Sherbrooke and District branch of the Canadian Federation of University Women, initiated the submission of Beverly Taber Smith’s nomination for the Sovereign’s Medal last spring. She spoke of Bev’s long involvement with the CFUW, an organization that for almost 100 years has been working to promote the status of women, human rights, public education, and social justice.

Dwane Wilkin thanked Bev for her years of work with the Quebec Anglophone Heritage Network, a non-profit, province-wide organization dedicated to preserving the cultural and natural heritage of Quebec and promoting a greater understanding of the history of Quebec’s English speaking communities.

Gerald Cutting, president of Townshippers’ Association, reminded those present that the very successful Townshippers’ Day held in Danville some two decades ago was chaired by Bev, who continues to be active, now with the Townshippers’ Research and Cultural Foundation.

Finally, Patricia Keenan underlined Bev’s longstanding and ongoing involvement with the Richmond St. Patrick’s Society.

While she didn’t speak at the ceremony, Esther Healy, archivist at the Richmond County Historical Society, is similarly recognizant of and grateful to Bev for her energy, enthusiasm, and work ethic.

“I have known Bev since childhood when we attended St. Francis High School in Richmond,” said Esther. “In later years, when we both returned to Melbourne from teaching positions elsewhere, we reconnected and I came to value Bev’s rich spirit of generosity and her unending energy and enthusiasm toward volunteering with many community organizations.”

“Bev is a valuable volunteer with RCHS,” she continued, “and has served the past dozen years in executive roles. She completed two very successful terms as President, 2012-13 and 2013-14. During those years, she played a leading role in improving the organization’s financial status by supporting and actively participating in several unique and successful fundraising events. Through her enthusiasm and leadership, the coffers of RCHS were enhanced enough to begin the process of selling the former Museum and purchasing another suitable home for the Museum and Archival collections.”

“Bev is a very ‘hands-on’ volunteer,” Esther added, “and with the help of others, gets the jobs done, whatever their nature. She stands apart from others doing similar work in that she not only sees the ‘big picture’ of the many organizations in which she gets involved but she actively encourages the teams and commits herself, as well, to the work of getting the jobs done.”

Esther finished, “Bev’s contributions to the greater Richmond community through her extraordinary volunteerism have enabled organizations such as the historical society to have a larger role with all citizens including youth and recognition within the English and French-speaking community. Not only does she assist the organization in the celebration the rich history of the greater Richmond area but she helps the community look to the future with creative and meaningful activities.”

Beverly Taber Smith recalled her first volunteer experience. “I remember Marjorie Goodfellow and Della Goodsell at my kitchen table in the fall of 1986 asking me if I’d like to chair Townshippers’ Day in Danville. I had recently returned here after living in Montreal, so I didn’t

To fix a phone, buy a toaster, or simply install electric lighting, Walter J. Wiggett’s shop was the place to go. Located on Wellington Street circa 1905, the Electrical Repair & Supply Company was the product of Wiggett’s affiliation with his former boss, S. W. Jenckes. It wasn’t long before Wiggett ended this partnership to focus on his own aspirations. Relocated on Marquette Street at the turn of the 1920s, the company took part in many large-scale projects, such as the electrification of the Canadian Connecticut Cotton Mills. The electrician hung up his gloves after a career spanning over 70 years.

Sexual Exploitation in the Eastern Townships: a well-hidden reality

Submitted by Laurence Morin from CALACS Aggression Estrie

Sexual exploitation is the practice of one or many individuals obtaining sexual favours, financial gain, or profit/advancement of any kind by using another person's sex without regard for their wishes. It is the coercion of a person to submit sexually in exchange for money and such.

Is an equitable relationship possible in the context of Prostitution?

The nature of prostitution is such that one is at the mercy of the client's desire and must ensure their satisfaction. In order to do that, a prostitute must usually put aside their own needs.

When a person does not wish to perform a sexual act and does, despite their discomfort, it affects their self-respect, body and soul.

A sexual experience should ideally be an intimate encounter between two people who respect one another and who engage as equals, consensually, and respectful of each others' needs, desires, rights and limitations. Consent means the freedom to choose without pressure, which is never the case with prostitution since the person with the money / goods holds the power. Moreover, the demands made by clients are often violent or degrading.

Prostitution is not a choice, it is a lack of all other options.

The magnitude of this problem in the Easter Townships.

It's difficult to paint a clear picture on this subject because prostitution is often surrounded by criminal activity. The subject remains taboo as long the women being sexually exploited risk being judged or condemned.

In order to shed light on the reality of prostitution in the Townships, CALACS issued a number of surveys to the adult population in Estrie. More than 400 people responded to the call.

14 % of respondents said that they had endured sexual exploitation in their lives (most were women).

Questions from the same survey

Do you know women and girls who have experienced sexual exploitation?

YES : 39 %

How old were they?

They end up in different areas of sexual exploitation:

- Escort services
- Nude dance
- Internet prostitution (photos, webcam)
- Street prostitution
- Erotic massage
- Pornography
- Prostitution as means of survival

These types of sexual exploitation occur in a variety of private and public environments: bars, strip clubs, apartments, hotels, on the internet, in private parties etc.

Sexual exploitation is a form of sexual assault.

Prostitution is everywhere

In which towns do people practice activities related to prostitution?

What are the emotional consequences of sexual exploitation?

Here are how a few participants responded :

- Living in isolation
- Experiencing nightmares and flashbacks
- Difficulty returning to school
- Fear of reprisals
- Depression
- Fear of Intimacy
- Living with guilt and shame
- And more

Juvenile prostitution exists in the Easter Townships

136 adolescents from the region also responded to the survey

18 % of adolescents know someone who is involved with prostitution.

71 % of these people are 18 years or younger.

43 % of respondents know an adolescent who has been propositioned sexually in exchange for money, goods, drugs or other services.

We were able to see that a huge number of adolescent girls are asked to exchange sex for money, goods or services. These propositions may often come from friends and partners, but also from strangers.

Some moving testimonials

Approximately 20 women participated in CALACS' project on sexual exploitation. They were very generous in sharing their experiences, their troubles and their thoughts on the matter. Half of these women were introduced to prostitution when they were minors. Every one of them was younger than 24 years old when they started.

Sharing their stories

"There are paths in life that lead you there. You don't decide to do that when you're 14 because it looks cool. If I go back to the first time it happened, I was 15 years old. I lost my virginity at the age of 12, in a horrific way. Then when I was 15, I ended up at a party with mostly adults (...) I was addicted to cocaine at the time, and I had run out. I ended up with the last 4 or 5 people, the "end-of-nighters"... and then... "come over here for a kiss, I'll give you a line", so there I was, with two strange men in someone's living room (...) I don't know why I did it, I just remember is being stoned, and needing more..."

Anonymous, 36 years old, working to get out of the life

"For me, it started when I was 22. I was in debt, and I wasn't getting enough hours at work, and the wage I was earning was not very high (hospitality). My debts kept piling up, (...). One day, I was talking to a friend (...) we were both desperately broke and were freaking out at all they payments we had to cover for the month (...) I went on the internet to see how it might work (...) I decided to put an ad on the web. I got tons of messages..."

L., 22 years old, still in the life

Mental health of young Townshippers at the worrying levels

Record Staff

The vulnerability of young Townshippers when it comes to mental health and social adaptation is on the rise according to the second edition of the Quebec Survey of High School Youth Health. The survey, whose first edition was published in 2011, dealt with twenty different topics and was filled out by 5,000 respondents a response rate of 92%.

The most worrying finding in the Estrie region is the high level of psychological distress, which sits at 29 per cent among young people, as it has increased significantly since 2010-2011. At that time the level was recorded as being 21 per cent. The increase for girls at this level is even greater, rising to 39 per cent up from 19 per cent.

Anxiety, depression, and eating disorders are also on the radar for young people in the area, as up to 20 per cent of young Townshippers have been diagnosed with one of these disorders in recent years.

The vast majority of young people feel that they benefit from a high level of social support in the home environment (78 per cent). Young people also receive social support in their school environment and demonstrate a strong sense of belonging (62 per cent) to their school.

"In Estrie, we are already actively working with our partners to improve the health of high school students," said Public Health Director, Dr. Mélissa Gagné. "In the coming weeks, we will be meeting with youth groups in two schools in the Sherbrooke area to hear what they have to say about the results published. We want to better understand how our young Estriens live."

This year, our update of the climate clock also reflects a new estimate of the remaining carbon budget from the IPCC 1.5°C report.

The Climate Clock: Counting down to 1.5°C

By H. Damon Matthews

Professor and Concordia University Research Chair in Climate Science and Sustainability, Concordia University, Glen Peters

Research Director, Center for International Climate and Environment Research - Oslo, Myles Allen

Professor of Geosystem Science, Leader of ECI Climate Research Programme, University of Oxford, Piers Forster

Professor of Physical Climate Change; Director of the Priestley International Centre for Climate, University of Leeds

The Climate Clock was launched in 2015 as a way to visualize the timeline over which global warming is occurring, and to provide a measuring stick against which we can track climate mitigation progress. If emissions keep rising, the date we reach 1.5°C will move closer. If emissions start to decrease, the date for 1.5°C will move further away.

Each year we have updated the clock to reflect the latest global CO2 emissions trend and rate of climate warming. In 2016, we saw the third year of stable CO2 emissions. This lack of increase in CO2 emissions extended the timeline to 1.5°C by a year.

This year, our update of the climate clock also reflects a new estimate of the remaining carbon budget from the IPCC 1.5°C report. This budget, which represents the total amount of allowable CO2 emissions between 2018 and the time we reach 1.5°C, has been revised upward to 770 billion tonnes of CO2. By itself, this increase in allowable emissions pushes the 1.5°C date further away by more than two years.

A simple methodology

The Climate Clock answers the question: given the current rate of emissions and level of human-induced warming, and assuming the emissions trend over the past five years continues into the future, how long will it be before the remaining allowable emissions for 1.5°C are used up?

To date, human activities have emitted close to 2,300 billion tonnes of CO2 since 1870 as a result of fossil fuel combustion and deforestation. These and other greenhouse gas emissions have caused global temperatures to increase by 1.06°C relative to the 1850-1900 average. Over the past five years, annual CO2 emissions from fossil fuels have increased by an average of 0.4 billion tonnes each year, and in 2018, are expected to reach a record high of 37.1 billion tonnes.

In creating the Climate Clock, we assume that this five-year fossil-fuel CO2 emissions trend will continue into the future, and that CO2 emissions from deforestation and land-use change remain constant at the most recent five-year average of 5.3 billion tonnes per year. By using the IPCC carbon budget estimate,

The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) Special Report on Global Warming of 1.5°C has opened a window to limit global warming to 1.5°C above pre-industrial levels, but carbon dioxide emissions are projected to increase in 2018 for the second year in a row. If this trend continues, emissions will drive global temperatures to 1.5°C in less than 16 years.

The Climate Clock we created shows how quickly we are approaching 1.5°C of global warming, given current emissions trends. Here, we present our third annual update of the clock in light of the most recent scientific data, released on Dec. 5, 2018.

The IPCC special report showed that 1.5°C is an important threshold for many climate impacts. Weather extremes such as heat waves and extreme precipitation events are expected to increase with every increment to global temperature. The risk of irreversible ice sheet loss and consequent sea level rise increases sharply between 1.5°C and 2°C, and nearly all corals could be wiped out at 2°C warming.

According to the latest data from both the IPCC special report and the Global Carbon Project, we are heading towards 1.5°C in a little less than 16 years. The IPCC report itself gave a range of 12-35 years to 1.5°C, if warming continues at the current rate. Unlike the IPCC report, the Climate Clock accounts for the fact that emissions are still rising, which will cause warming to accelerate.

Tracking the progression of climate mitigation

we also assume that pollutants other than CO2, such as methane and nitrous oxide, will be responsible for approximately 25 per cent of the warming between now and 1.5°C.

How confident are we in our time estimate?

Our time estimate is sensitive to the uncertainties associated with the climate response to CO2 emissions. Here, we provide a best estimate, which means that there is a 50 per cent chance of reaching 1.5°C before the clock's date, and similarly that there is a 50 per cent chance that the 1.5°C date will occur later than shown.

To increase the confidence that we have not overestimated the remaining time, we could instead use a smaller estimate of the remaining carbon budget. Setting allowable future emissions to 570 billion tonnes rather than 770 billion tonnes, for example, would move the 1.5°C date four years earlier to about the year 2030. This in turn would increase our confidence of not overestimating the time remaining before we reach 1.5°C from 50 to 67 per cent.

How do we add time to the clock?

Perhaps the most important uncertain factor is the question of how hard the world will try to decrease future CO2 and other greenhouse gas emissions. Clearly, if fossil fuel CO2 emissions continue to increase, we will continue to lose time between now and when we reach 1.5°C. Similarly, if the rate of deforestation or emissions of methane accelerate, this will also move 1.5°C closer in time.

Current national emissions targets are not sufficient to avoid 1.5°C: if all countries meet their 2030 targets, this would delay 1.5°C by only half a year. Similarly, holding CO2 emissions constant at today's level would buy only 14 months of additional time.

If we are able to decrease CO2 emissions to zero by the year 2080, we might avoid 2°C of global temperature increase, but would pass 1.5°C before the year 2040. To actually avoid 1.5°C altogether, CO2 emissions from both fossil fuels and deforestation would need to be eliminated by the year 2050.

Avoiding the impacts of more than 1.5°C of warming will require individuals, businesses and governments to cooperate and prioritize climate action at all levels of decision-making. It is only through bold and ambitious action that we will be able to add enough time to the clock to avoid the most dangerous consequences of continued climate warming.

This is a daunting challenge, and we may not succeed. But we will clearly fail if we do not try much harder than we have done so far.

DEAR EDITOR;

We thank Gordon Lambie for his well-balanced and informative article in the Record and Matt McBrine for his prompt reply to our concerns. The article appears to be achieving the objective of raising awareness and promoting discussion.

To the silent majority who did not respond, we can only encourage you to visit the site and to draw your own conclusions.

Our position remains unchanged and must be clear to everyone by now; surely there has been more than enough cutting in this area.

THANK YOU AGAIN FOR READING.

ONE COLUMN, FOUR VOICES

Opening to the Spirit

Today's word: Vitality

By Revs Mead Baldwin,
W. Lynn Dillabough,
Lee Ann Hogle, and
Carole Martignacco

1) Some days we have a little more spring in our step. Where does this vitality come from? It may be because we have eaten well or because we have had a good sleep the night before, but other times it is just a gift. Yesterday I was dragging my feet and today I feel lifted. Does this happen to you? On good days, when I am full of vitality, I sometimes find myself humming "I can see clearly now, the rain is gone."

There is a vitality that comes from the body and we have more of this when we are young. There is also a vitality that comes from the spirit that is beyond age. Is there much in this world that is more beautiful than an elderly person who is full of vitality? They greet you with bright eyes, enthusiasm, and curiosity. They are always open to something new. No doubt life has brought them the same kinds of disappointments and troubles that we all face, but they have found a way to tap into that deeper vitality.

This vitality of the spirit transcends age. It transcends the aches and pains of the body and lifts us to a new place. Jesus tells his followers that he offers the living water. We are encouraged to drink from the well and be renewed in him. Freedom from thirst, vitality, and even eternal life are the things that we are offered when we choose to follow him. It is the path of life.

2) Vitality is a spirit-filled, irresistible quality of aliveness. Must it diminish with age, or does it paradoxically become more ever vital than before?

Vitality is what charms and overwhelms me in the very young. A week or so ago I was blessed to spend time in the company of a mother and her three small children. While we waited for an appointment, the two not strapped into the stroller seemed suspended in a state of perpetual motion. I was exhausted just watching, and logged at least two days worth of exercise merely turning my head to keep them in sight.

Among ageing companions, signs of vitality are inspirational and often move me to awe and admiration. There's a whole group of people with Parkinson's who show up at a local gym two days a week to put their bodies through the most demanding routines, my spouse among them. And they do it all with joy and mutual encouragement. Just being in their spirited presence reminds me to not take my own vitality for granted. Each time I try to match their courage and stamina, keeping active as best I can.

Whenever my spirit lags, and the body trails behind, I am inspired by vitality in others. There's a young woman who faithfully appears with shovel in hand at every heavy snowfall. This morning I opened the door to find her laughing as she heaved and scooped, shouting, "Isn't it beautiful?" And suddenly it was! Yes, I'll still have to be careful and watch out for ice at every step, but her joyful energy renewed my whole day's approach from one of dread to gratitude for the fresh beauty of the snowy world.

Let us vow to keep our vitality as long as we are alive. Vivre, vivre, vivre l'amour - vivre la compagne!

3) Should I begin by apologizing? With the word vitality, my mind flashed to all those health commercials, geared to senior citizens, selling some new pill or product that promises increased vitality - if you spend lots of money. That is not what I want to say about vitality.

In my ministry I have served in many churches that were full of vitality. This exuberance was not based on the large number of people in the pews or the size of their bank accounts. Instead, a common thread was compassion and joy. They contained people who truly cared about God, and others, and lived life to the full. There was courageous dialogue about faith and openness to the divine spirit. Some of my smallest congregations have shown the most vitality.

The denomination I am in is going through some major changes. Many of our communities struggle to survive and wonder what the future holds. Churches are closing, and others must make difficult choices. Many wonder if modern technology, a new program, or a different approach might help them return to a past when there were more people.

I see things differently. We are communities of faith, not trend followers. When we live simply, have honest conversations, care deeply about our communities, and open ourselves to see the divine in others, our vitality will be evident for the world to see.

4) Sometimes my vitality seems high and my to-do list grows accordingly. Bright ideas abound for home improvement projects and new church programs. Other days I sleep in late and drag myself around all day.

My vitality has a lot to do with how well I treat my body. If I overeat, under sleep, work so much I have no time to play my system becomes unbalanced and uncooperative. But the temptation to overdo in any one of these areas has a lot to do with not stopping to check-in with how we are feeling and not valuing our lives for the fragile and impermanent gifts that they are.

The envelope that is our bodies requires tender loving care. Our vitality is dependent on how well we respect that fact.

One word, four voices - now it's your turn to chime in: What does vitality look like in your life?

Rev. Mead Baldwin pastors the Waterville & North Hatley pastoral charge; Rev. Lynn Dillabough is now Rector of St. Paul's in Brockville ON. She continues to write for this column as a dedicated colleague with the Eastern Townships clergy writing team; Rev. Lee Ann Hogle ministers to the Ayer's Cliff, Magog & Georgeville United Churches; Rev. Carole Martignacco is Consulting Minister to UU Estrie-Unitarian Universalists in North Hatley.

Volunteer

really know a lot of people, and I was still teaching full time. I had no experience organizing an event of that magnitude but I said I'd look at the reports of the previous T-Day and see what I could do."

The 1987 Townshippers' Day in Danville was a great success, in more ways than one. "With relatively few contacts of my own," Bev recalled, "I did a lot of asking around to find people with the necessary expertise. What I learned after the event was that I had a number of people on that committee who didn't normally work together."

"What I like about volunteering," she continued, "is the interaction with people. I learn about what's going on, and I enjoy working on projects. It's better than sitting at home and watching TV."

She traces her interest in community life to her Grandfather Taber. "He was involved in numerous organizations," she said, "and he was always attending meetings. One of my cousins tells me that I take after him."

After the speeches, the crowd of 50 or so toasted Bev and enjoyed a wine-and-cheese type buffet, an occasion to catch up with old friends and make new ones.

Towards the end of the evening, still smiling but momentarily puzzled, Bev looked at her medal and asked, "But, when will I wear it?"

As it turns out, there is an established protocol outlined in an official guidebook. In part, it states: "Insignia are worn at all official occasions where it is appropriate, generally as indicated on the invitation. Full-size insignia are worn for all occasions before sundown and sometimes in the evening for certain occasions: Parades and other military ceremonies, change of command, consecration of colours, graduations, military funerals, Remembrance Day, and any other commemorative ceremonies, the speech from the throne, state funerals, New Year's Levee, and investitures."

If there are relatively few occasions to wear the medal itself, Bev received a small lapel pin, and that she can wear at any time.

Nor is Beverly Table Smith sitting on her laurels. On Tuesday evening, the day after receiving her award, she was again sitting with a committee, this one organizing an Irish Festival to take place next March.

"No, we weren't at my kitchen table," she says with a laugh. "There were too many of us and we had to sit at the dining room table."

Congratulations, Bev!

Gary Darling

A passion for music spanning over 25 years

COUNTRY CONNECTION

JESSIE PELLETIER AULIS

If you don't already know country singer Gary Darling, it is time for you to discover the hugely talented musician. He is a very quiet person, maybe a little shy, but don't let that fool you.

The singer is very passionate about his music and he is a perfectionist as well in everything he does.

Darling was born in Cowansville on Oct 24. The year doesn't matter, since he barely looks a day older than 49.

He was raised in a family where music was very important and very present. His mom Nellie and dad Durward worked for years as the duo Deo & Melody Ranch Boys. Darling was heavily but pleasantly exposed to traditional country music.

"I am one of three children and we all play music, for that was what was in our home. I started playing with my father when I was 13 years old," remembered Darling. His beginning in music was kind of peculiar but it turned out well.

"A bass player walked out in the middle of a wedding, so I learnt to play bass on stage with the help of Ross Roach (steel guitar player)." That moment could have been traumatic for a young man, but he had this music in his soul. Darling never took lessons, he simply plays by hear and with all his heart.

His main influence was his dad who loved classic country, so he got to hear plenty of Ray Price and Faron Young as he grew up. He went on to play with his parents for a while before he started playing with other bands.

"I did not sing until I was 20 years old and my first song was Buck Owen's 'A 11'. I sang at Gilmore corner in Cowansville. But understand I do not consider myself a musician. I sing and if I had my way, I would sing harmony," said the humble gentleman.

By definition, the word musician defines a person who plays an instrument. In Darling's case his vocal chords are his instrument, therefore, he needs to be referred to as a musician. His voice is pure country and it conveys all the emotions intended.

After his father retired from playing music, Gary Darling went on to play with many other groups, such as with Arnold Whiton at the Prince of Wales Hotel and with the late Steve Powers in the band Hobo Junction, just to name a few.

He finally got with the band 747, with his brother Duffy on bass, Maurice Singfield on guitar and Russell Tryhorn on the drums. "We recorded a 45rpm, including a song my dad wrote titled 'Long Long Road to Nashville' and a song written by Maurice, 'Eastern Townships Land' with which he won third prize in a song contest across Canada," Darling explained.

Electrician by trade, musician by night, he has been playing for over 25 years in the area with many different musicians such as the late Steve Powers, Allen Baily, Earl Matin and many others. "I am grateful for the time I have had with all the great musicians, I played with, because you learn something every night you are on stage" stressed the entertainer about his career in music.

"I have played in so many places such as the Royal Canadian Legion in Waterloo, the Richmond Fair, the Brome Fair, the Maples Hotel, the Four Corners Hotel and the Brome Hotel," he said.

Of course like many other singers, he has entertained a lot of people in a lot of places and he is well respected by his peers.

"They were a good family. We dedicated one of the recording studios to the Darling family, here at Knowlton's radio station CIDI with the Dad's words 'Long, Long Road to Nashville,'" said Dewey Derrell.

Gary Darling even had the pleasure to play in St-Tite for their big annual festival. He has also been a favourite at the Wish Foundation Music Fest held on the Ayer's Cliff Fairgrounds every year.

Now like many others have been forced to do, due to a lack of places where full bands can set up and perform, he plays gigs solo, with his computer. He also shares his passion with elderly people and is very generous with his time.

He plays for the seniors' homes such as Courville's nursing home in Waterloo and the nursing home in Knowlton. Whether it is for a wedding or the Mother's Day breakfast for the Children's Wish held on Mother's Day at the Royal Canadian Legion in Waterloo or a family reunion, Darling is always willing to sing and entertain people.

"I try hard to be as professional as I can be. I am a guy who loves old country music. I don't like to talk about myself but I hope my voice will tell," said Darling, about his performing at Burroughs Falls.

He will be performing at the next Country Music Appreciation Jam, the Christmas edition on Dec. 15, at The Burroughs Falls Dance Hall.

The show will start at 1:00 p.m. with Bobbi Dee and the house band The Honky Tonk Rebels, followed by singer Marie-Claude Proulx who will open the show for the main feature, Gary Darling. Do not miss the show, as you get to discover or hear again one of our talented musicians. Don't forget to reserve your tickets (includes a traditional Christmas meal) at 819- 838-4912, also available at Lennoxville Florist shop at 819- 346-4841.

BCS players present Whispers

By Gordon Lambie

The BCS Players' Club at Bishop's College School is right in the middle of its most recent production, this time taking on Whispers by Kendra Thomas. According to BCS Drama teacher Miranda McGie, the story focuses on a teenage girl who is grappling with the death of her father in Iraq, and deals with the idea of coping with loss and how to move forward.

"I chose this play because we often don't hear these stories," McGie said, noting that the struggle of children and teens who lose a parent to war are just as real, but less talked about in contemporary society. The teacher described the production, which opened in the school's theatre last night, as a minimalist play driven by powerful monologues.

"It's not a happy play," said student actor Priscilla Allatt. Allatt plays Kate, the teen at the centre of Whispers' story, and she shared that taking on the role involves shouldering a big emotional burden. "She's just lost her dad and is struggling with the feeling of having to let go," she continued. "When you lose someone they're always going to be gone and they're never going to come back."

Allatt, as Kate, spends the course of the play in the woods; a special place once shared with her father. While her best friend, Jamie, tries to console her, Kate finds herself and her thoughts surrounded by the whispered memoirs of other "army brats" she has met and their difficulties on overcoming a similar loss. Although the play is short, with a run time just over 30 minutes, Allatt and McGie said that brevity is not a sign that the show lacks depth.

The young actors of the BCS players will be taking to the stage again tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. More information about the production is available by calling 819-566-0227.

Wax sculpture exhibition at the Beaulne Museum

Record Staff

From Dec. 9 until Jan 20, the Beaulne Museum in Coaticook will host an exhibition of wax representations of the baby Jesus.

A material used by sculptors since Antiquity, wax has several advantages: it is malleable, economical and it does not require sophisticated instruments. It also offers characteristics that are closer to flesh by its color, transparency and a certain luminosity that perfectly matches the appearance of the baby Jesus.

The making of wax Jesus dolls dates as far back as the devotion shown to Jesus the infant. It was the work of several religious congregations in France and was established in Quebec with the Ursulines.

For practicing Catholics, the installation of the nativity scene at the foot of the Christmas tree is customary as the holiday season approaches. It is therefore a great opportunity to present a brief history of the tradition.

The exhibition shows a typological diversity of Jesus made of wax by different religious congregations. This collection was part of a vast one owned by Mrs. Lina Côté, a resident of the Coaticook area.

All kinds of classical music

Record Staff

The Orchestre symphonique des jeunes de Sherbrooke (OSJS), which has been conducted by Hubert Tanguay-Labrosse since 2015, is launching its 45th season with an unusual cooperation this weekend at Centennial Theatre.

Students from École St. Antoine in Lennoxville will add their voices to the Orchestra in a sweet and lyrical harmony.

The ensemble will demonstrate their talent by interpreting excerpts from two operas: Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's Don Giovanni and Modest Musorgsky's The Fair at Sorochyntsi.

Mariane Pellerin, one of the three winners of the concerto competition organized by the Festival-concours de musique de Sherbrooke et de la région de l'Estrie who will be our season's first soloist, is thoroughly familiar with the Orchestra. She played with the other musicians for four years before pursuing her education in Jean-François Normand's class at the Conservatoire de musique de Montréal.

She will open the concert with the first two movements from Carl Maria von Weber's Clarinet Concerto No. 1 in F minor.

The concert will also feature the epitome of classical music, Ludwig van Beethoven's famous Symphony No. 5 in C minor. Everybody knows the ominous four-note opening motif – known as “fate knocking at the door” – that recurs in various guises throughout the composition. Considered too complex when it was created, this symphony quickly evoked a profound admiration, which has never wavered since, because of its depiction of the world, the universe being disrupted. This musical icon, whose four movements are perfectly balanced, will resonate with the audience.

The concert will take place this Sunday Dec. 9 at 2 p.m. Tickets are available through the Centennial Theater box office (819 822-9692) from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. It's also possible to get a subscription for the December 9, February 24 and May 11 concerts at a reduced price.

Jonathan MacAulay coming to Salle Guy Veilleux in Cookshire

Record Staff

Local singer songwriter Jonathan MacAulay and his band will perform this evening (Friday, Dec.7) at the Salle Guy Veilleux in Cookshire.

The concert will include original compositions by MacAulay as well as a handful of cover songs.

This is the last chance to catch the local performer and his band before MacAulay embarks on a four-month trip playing music abroad.

He will be joined on stage by bassist Jonathan-Guillaume Boudreau, drummer Jean-Francois Bégin, guitarist and multi-instrumentalist Alexandre Cattaneo and keyboard player Jason Drew.

MacAulay, who graduated from Bishop's where he studied jazz guitar, released his debut album, 'Solid Ground' in 2015.

A versatile musician, MacAulay's songs have elements of folk, blues and country.

The show will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are available through the website salleguyveilleux.com.

The challenge is making the time to exercise despite the busy days of shopping, putting up decorations, work and family commitments.

Five fitness tips to keep you motivated through the holiday season

A RUNNER'S MIND

CHRISTINE BLANCHETTE

With the holiday season upon us, our commitment to working out can be negatively affected by so many holiday temptations. Think for a moment of the formidable challenges that lurk quietly, feigning innocence at almost every turn you make. It's true, fresh baked shortbread cookies don't grow wings and fly down your throat. They can't shout out, "We're delicious! Your diet can wait!" No, they just sit there quietly, their intoxicating aroma taking over the room until you cave. Yet you must resist. Going back to your previous strong willed self will not be easy. The chocolates are equally sinister. They lie in wait, almost daring someone to walk past but once the eyes are fixed, its game over and the chocolates win again. "I'll take a box of those, please. Better make it two."

The challenge is making the time to exercise despite the busy days of shopping, putting up decorations, work and family commitments. Simply put, your workout routine has taken the back seat for this month. Instead of lacing up your shoes for a stress reducing run, you're preparing for war at the mall as you go to battle for gifts and holiday favourites. Even when your focus is on the target gift just 20 paces or so up ahead, the chocolates could appear and stop you in your tracks. Have I mentioned eggnog? Nobody has ever gone undefeated against eggnog, which can add inches to your waistline and should be handled with extreme caution.

Now is the time to remember all the sublime effort that you've invested in your self. If you gained an extra kilogram or two in one week, it will take two weeks of hard work to lose it. Consider this. If you quit your athletic program after working hard for six months to lose weight, whatever you lost will be back where it was in just three months unless extraordinary changes were made to your diet. Remember why you started working out. Along with your fitness goal in writing under the fridge magnet, these fitness tips this will keep you on track to a healthy mind and body during this festive season.

1. Plan ahead and write down your workout dates and times. This will help you to stick to your workouts which will provide the energy you'll need for last minute shopping and other commitments. Tip: running early mornings may be the best option to make sure you have the necessary time to get everything done.

2. Change frequency of your runs - if there is less time to work out then either cut down on the days or length of your runs. This way you are still working out and at least maintaining your fitness.

3. Stress reliever - remember exercising helps you to de-stress and increases your energy level. Making time to exercise will enable you to focus on the task at hand. Walking instead of running is better than nothing. The key is to stay fit as much as you can during this busy time of year.

4. Social - going for a group run or with a friend will keep you committed. Try a new route that has Christmas lights to keep it fun.

5. Incorporate cross training or try a new activity to stay motivated with your program. Try out something new like Pilates.

Eating healthy, keeping track of your food intake, getting enough sleep and drinking plenty of water will keep you hydrated and energized for working out and that other huge challenge, shopping.

Enjoy that chocolate at the party but be careful or they'll get you.

Canada not the only country expected to have CHLers at world junior championship

By Kyle Cicerella
THE CANADIAN PRESS

Maxim Cajkovic didn't know a thing about the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League when he left Europe for the 2018-19 season, never mind how the world junior championship is embraced in Canada.

The annual tournament isn't viewed quite the same back home in Slovakia.

"I hear people in Canada watch it more than the actual men's championship," said Cajkovic, a Saint John Sea Dogs forward from Bratislava.

"I talked to my billet family and they told me they watch it every year, every game. And I see all the commercials here so I guess it's really, really big."

Canada has invited 29 Canadian Hockey League skaters to selection camp next week, but it isn't the only country with CHL players at the event.

The 17-year-old Cajkovic is one of many CHL import players that will be leaving his team and heading to camp in an effort to crack his national team's roster for the tournament that begins Boxing Day in Vancouver and Victoria, B.C.

"It would mean almost everything to me," said Cajkovic, who went No. 1 to Saint John in the 2018 CHL Import Draft. "The Ontario Hockey League's Sudbury Wolves will be losing a big part of their early-season success with Finnish goaltender Ukko-Pekka Luukkonen heading to the tournament for the second year in a row.

He was Finland's starter in the 2018 edition in Buffalo and is looking for some redemption after his country was bounced in the quarterfinals by the Czech Republic and placed sixth.

"Last year was a hard year for us but there's a lot of things to learn from," said the 19-year-old, who was taken No. 3 in the CHL import draft. "There's no easy team in the tournament. You have to be ready for everyone."

Luukkonen plans to have his parents and girlfriend make the flight over from Finland for the tournament, which is a big deal back home.

"A couple real good years and hosting in Finland, it's a big thing," said Luukkonen. "Of course it's hard for a lot to watch the games when we are in Vancouver but as hockey it's a big thing."

Cajkovic has never played for Slovakia's under-20 squad but was dominant at the past U18s, where he finished second in tournament scoring behind American and top NHL prospect Jack Hughes, who's expected to be one of the stars at the world juniors.

Cajkovic, a five-foot-11, 179-pound right-handed winger, has had a long road to the CHL, and is closing in on fulfilling his dream of playing in the world juniors after years of travelling around the world looking for the best competition.

He moved away from home with his mom when he was 12 to the Czech Republic to pursue hockey at a higher level, and went on to play two years in Sweden prior to joining the Sea Dogs. He has spent the majority of his young career playing with players much older than him.

"I always played with older kids, only season with my age group was the first year in Sweden."

Players like Luukkonen have used the international spotlight in the past to gain the attention of NHL teams, leading to the Finnish netminder being taken 54th overall by the Buffalo Sabres in 2017.

Cajkovic is hoping to do something similar in 2019.

"You see the rankings and people talking about it ... it's pretty tough for my head to think about all that stuff. I try to stop and just focus on what I do with Saint John," said Cajkovic.

"A lot of pressure, most pressure I've ever had on me. It's unbelievable how much pressure there is."

The main reason he came to the CHL was because he was told it would help his chances of making it to the NHL.

"I didn't know much, just that it was the junior NHL, best junior league in the world and I would compete with the best players for this age. That was pretty much it. I didn't know any teams," said Cajkovic.

Just like Canada, which finds an extra gear when it plays the rival Americans, Cajkovic says that representing Slovakia is always extra special when he lines up across from the Czech Republic.

"Czechs are really good and they think they are better than us and not nice to us, so we just want to beat them," said Cajkovic. "Basically a rivalry. I don't think we have anyone else like that."

Slovakia opens its tournament Dec. 26 against the U.S. in Victoria, where all Group B games are being held. Canada starts against Denmark in Vancouver, the site of all Group A games.

CHL players who are attending national team camps and could be participating in the world junior hockey championship include:

Czech Republic: Goalie Jiri Patera (Brandon); Defencemen Filip Kral (Spokane), Radim Salda (Rimouski), Daniel Bukac (Niagara); Forwards Petr Cjaka (Erie), Jakub Lauko (Rouyn-Noranda), Matej Pekar (Barrie), Ostap Safin (Halifax), Krystof Hrabik (Tri-City).

Denmark: Goalie Mads Sogaard (Medicine Hat); Forward Philip Schultz (Victoria).

Finland: Goalie Ukko-Pekka Luukkonen (Sudbury); Defencemen Anttalainen Aleksi (Blainville-Boisbriand), Thomson Lassi (Kelowna).

Russia: Defenceman Dmitry Samorukov (Guelph), Alexander Alexeyev (Red Deer), Alexander Khovanov (Moncton); Forward Ivan Chekhovich (Baie-Comeau).

Slovakia: North American skaters won't be confirmed until Dec. 15.

Sweden: Defenceman Adam Boqvist (London); Forwards Hugo Leufvenius (Sarnia), Rickard Hugg (Kitchener).

Switzerland: Defencemen Nico Gross (Oshawa), Simon Le Coultre (Moncton); Forwards Valentin Nussbaumer (Shawinigan), Nando Eggenberger (Oshawa), Philipp Kurashev (Quebec), Kyen Sopa (Niagara).

USA: Goalie Kyle Keyser (Oshawa); Defenceman Joey Keane (Barrie); Forwards Sasha Chmelevski (Ottawa), Cole Coskey (Saginaw), Jason Robertson (Niagara). (Americans are not considered import players in the CHL).

LIVING CELEBRATION of life for Gwen Wilson

Our wife and mother, Gwen Wilson, was recently diagnosed with a terminal illness. It is her wish that we have a celebration of her life that she can attend, if her condition allows. As such, friends and family are invited to join us this Monday, December 10th at 3 p.m. in the Grand Hall (by the Bistro) at Grace Village, 1515 rue Pleasant View, Sherbrooke (Huntingville). Parking is available at the back of the building.

Harold, Susan and Steven Wilson

Card of Thanks

BROWN - I want to thank the Orr families, the Brown families, and to all my friends for making my birthday such a happy event.

STANLEY BROWN

Card of Thanks

TABER SMITH - I want to thank everyone who contributed to the wonderful award presentation event in Richmond on December 3. I especially want to thank the Mayor of the Town of Richmond, Bertrand Ménard, Esther Healy, Carol Mooney and Joe Kelly. Thanks to those who spoke, prepared refreshments, played music, attended from the Eastern Townships and beyond, and everyone who has sent congratulations. It is very much appreciated.

meaningful to the Wales Home. At the centre of the design are two people symbolizing person centred care, which Planetree is all about. The birds signify nature and friendship, two things that are very important to us here. The Planetree components are also inscribed in abbreviated form at the bottom of the design. They are: Human interaction, Inclusiveness, Community, Healing environment, Food & nutrition, Information, Arts & entertainment, Human touch, Complementary therapies, and the Senses.

Boutique Diane held a clothing sale in the living room on the 3rd. A Remembrance Day craft took place on the afternoon of the 5th. Our pool tournament finals took place on the afternoon of the 6th. Congratulations to our winner - John Cleary. Following the tournament, a happy hour took place in the living room. There was a chocolate sale in the living room on the 7th. Our annual Remembrance Day sing-song and service including Legion Branch 15 took place on the 11th.

A ukulele concert was held in the living room on the afternoon of the 13th. One of the performers was former Director of Health Services for the Home, Louis-Marie Decoste. Zootherapy in the nursing care units took place on the morning of the 15th. This month's visitors included four baby bunnies. We enjoyed music by Ron Haseltine and Janis Graham in the living room on the afternoon of the 15th. Our financial campaign launch for the Wales Home Foundation was held on the 16th. It included a tour of part of the addition to our CHSLD. The tour was also livestreamed on the large screens in the main living room.

The South Durham United Church held a bake sale in the living room on the 17th. The Wales Home knitters also held a sale of their warm and cozy goods on the 17th in the living room. The November birthday party was held on the 4th floor on the 21st. It was hosted by the Richmond Young Women's Institute. Happy birthday to everyone who celebrated. A special adapted hockey game was played in the living room on the 24th. The Roxton Singers performed for residents on the evening of the 26th. A special Christmas happy hour for our volunteers took place during the evening of the 28th.

Emily McBurney and Simon Collin both hosted an afternoon of Travel Tales this month telling us about a few places that they had visited. Emily and Simon were students working with the activity department from the end of August until November 30th. We would like to wish them well as they continue to pursue their education.

Welcome to Ange-Marie Vachon, Lucien Rancourt and Julie Fontaine. Our sympathies are extended to the family and friends of Therese Roy, Gérard Roy, Dorothy Reed, Charles Coburn and Grant Watson.

If you are looking for more information after you've read the details above, you can visit our website at www.waleshome.ca and Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/Resi-> denceCHSLDWales for photos, news updates and a copy of the monthly activity calendar and chatter. You can also give us a call at 819-826-3266 for information on admissions, etc., or if you'd like to become a volunteer. We are currently in need of volunteers to do one-on-ones (reading, chatting, etc.) with residents.

If you are looking for ideas for an interesting book to read, copies of "Memories Everlasting," are still available for sale at the Wales Home, Papeterie 2000 in Richmond, Brome Lake Books and The Townshipper's Association. They are $20 and can be purchased by contacting Rebecca Taylor by phone at 819826-3266 ext. 221 or by e-mail at rtaylor@waleshome.ca or making a purchase at one of the locations listed above. Mailing from the Wales Home is available for an additional cost. We are currently working on the sequel, which will be titled "Timeless Memories." Christmas cards are also available at a cost of $1 each. Each card has a picture of Christmas decorations from around the Home.

Thank you to all of the volunteers who lent a hand in any way to make this month's activities a reality.

Christmas decorations have begun to appear around the home and over the next month we will enjoy an array of holiday fun. Wishing you all a festive month of December. Our December calendar is booked, and you'll have the opportunity to read all about it next month.

Your Birthday

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 2018

Balance and integrity should be priorities. Be cautious of anyone trying to persuade you to take part in something that sounds too good to be true. You are best off trusting in your skills and experience, and practicing moderation and common sense in all walks of life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Stay grounded and avoid temptation. It's OK to have fun, but don't let anyone talk you into something that could lead to problems with someone in a position of authority.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Stick to the rules and regulations. If you exaggerate or lie, you will be held accountable. Someone you thought would have your back will disappoint you. Work alone. Make a positive domestic change.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — Look at all sides of a situation and make choices based on truth and facts. If someone tries to interfere, put a stop to it before it's too late.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — If someone overreacts, walk away. Don't get involved with people who are excessive or emotionally unstable. Focus on updating any financial or legal matters that are time-sensitive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You'll have choices to make that could be difficult. Be sure to stick to your budget and avoid being talked into something you don't need and cannot afford.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Put your best foot forward and make the changes that will put you on top of your game. End this year on a high note. Romance is highlighted.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Make partnerships your priority. Whether at home or at work, getting along will be essential if you don't want to fall behind. Oversee any responsibilities you delegate to others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Express your wishes when working alongside others. As long as everyone is fully aware of what has to be accomplished, you will reach your goal. Celebrate with a loved one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — A gathering with your co-workers will be fun, but don't get carried away and let indulgent behavior make you look bad. You can have fun and still be responsible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Don't get caught in an argument that could be avoided. Take care of your responsibilities before you move on to social events. A change of heart should be addressed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Taking short trips, making plans with a friend or relative or effecting a change that will help you save more and spend less should be your intent. Focus on being and doing your best.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — You'll be complimented on the changes you make or the insight you offer. Don't hesitate to speak up or to take charge if you feel you can make a difference. Romance is encouraged.

meetings will appear to go well. Present your offer, but get what you want in writing as well. Intellectual property theft could be a problem if you don't legally own your concept.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Focus on partnerships. Both personal and professional dealings will be filled with mixed emotions. Stick to basics and only allude to what you know you can produce.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Love, festive fun and preparations for big events will bring out the best in you. Make the most of your time by including others in your plans. Shopping, entertainment and family fun should be your priorities.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — You'll be tempted to overschedule, which would result in you falling short of your promises to those you care about. Slow down and focus on what matters most.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — A short trip to visit old, familiar places, relatives and friends will lift your spirits and bring back memories. A change in lifestyle will be an eye-opener.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Get out and have some fun, but don't put yourself in a vulnerable position by being indulgent or giving in to someone who has ulterior motives. Don't share personal information.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Plan an unusual day with someone you love. Trying new things or visiting places you've never been before will build memories that will bring you closer together.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8, 2018

Personal change is on the horizon. Consider how you would like to update your appearance, living arrangements or hobbies. A change of pace, space and pastime will give you the boost you need to restructure and improve your life. Follow your heart.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Say what's on your mind and sort out any differences before you lose sight of who you are and what you want. Revisit old goals and reconnect with people who once shared your dreams.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — If you want others to understand you better, share your feelings. Much can be accomplished if you break the silence. You'll discover how someone feels about you. Romance is in the stars.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — Make a lifestyle change that is conducive to better health. If you sport a new look, you'll receive plenty of compliments. Resolve to make personal improvements.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Strive for perfection, to get things done and to help others. Emotional matters should be handled responsibly. Face reality and clear up a mess you left sitting around.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You'll have choices to make that could affect your reputation and future. Take the high road and bring about the changes necessary to improve your life. Learn from experience.

WE NEED A HELPING HAND THIS HOLIDAY!

ALEXANDER GALT CHRISTMAS BASKET CAMPAIGN 2018

The AGRHS Christmas basket campaign has been a long-standing tradition in the community. Over the years we have been fortunate in being able to rely on several partners and community members to help us fill the baskets with some staples and all the trimmings of a holiday meal. Thanks to great success last year, this holiday season we will continue to focus on raising funds rather than food items (any such donations will be taken to the local food bank), baskets will be created from the funds received.

With the help of our local partner Lennoxville's Provigo Robert Lafond, we are able to create baskets filled with daily necessities, holiday essentials and fresh produce. Your overwhelming support has allowed us to move forward to better answer the needs of the community and we thank you.

The baskets will benefit families from Alexander Galt Regional High School sector (elementary and high school).

We hope we can continue to rely on your support, as it remains very important for the success of our Christmas basket campaign.

Please, make cheques payable to (tax receipts for donations of $10 and over will be issued):

and mail to: AGRHS, P.O. Box 5002, 1700 rue College, J1M 1Z9

Thank you for your generosity!

Blue Christmas

Dear Annie

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 2018

Dear Annie: Whenever Christmas rolls around, I feel sick. I want to enjoy the merriment as much as most people seem to. Unfortunately, I have negative associations with the winter holidays. I'm sure I'm not alone in dreading Christmas. How can I put these associations aside in order to have a happy holiday season? — Cringing at Christmas

Dear Cringing at Christmas: It sounds as though it's not Christmas you're cringing at so much as the unresolved emotions it brings up for you. It's also possible that you're experiencing seasonal affective disorder, a type of depression that affects an estimated 3 million Americans each year. Either way, counseling could be a hugely beneficial tool for exploring, processing and, one hopes, moving past these negative associations.

Dear Annie: This is in response to "Grieving Mom," the mother who received a letter from a woman who is alive because of an organ donation from "Grieving Mom's" son who tragically died.

My husband died while riding his bicycle three years ago. We donated his organs because that's what he had indicated he wanted. Later, I received a note from someone who had gotten a tendon from him, thanking us for making this hard decision. We were so grateful to get that letter, knowing that maybe someone else could now ride a bike or be able to walk or function normally.

My heart aches for "Grieving Mom," but I know that the recipient of the organ was just trying to express her gratitude to that mother for giving her some more time. I hope that one day, "Grieving Mom" can accept the offering of gratitude. — Aching Heart

Dear Aching Heart: I am so incredibly sorry for your loss. Thank you for sharing your experience and offering some heartfelt perspective.

Dear Annie: This is a response to "Grieving Mom." I lost my 31-year-old son to a drunken driver last year. My son was riding his bicycle cross-country. With no hesitation, our family donated every part of his beautiful body so that others could have better lives. Greg would have wanted that. My point of this letter is to highlight how we all have different responses to tragic losses. Whereas "Grieving Mom" wants no contact with the recipient of her son's heart and is appalled that the receiver reached out to her, I would embrace the chance to hug the individual who has my son's heart beating in his or her body. What a gift for the both of us! Please remind your readers to take the time to become organ donors so that others might have the chance for a better life and your loved one, in a beautiful way, could live on. — Barry

Dear Barry: I am so sorry for the loss of your son. It sounds as if he was a generous and kind person. Thank you for your perspective. A single organ donor may save the lives of up to eight people and improve the lives of up to 50, according to the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center.

Your Birthday

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 9, 2018

It's up to you to say no, to bring about change and to stop anyone who interferes in your affairs. Common sense and practicality will come in handy when dealing with manipulative people. Arguing isn't the answer, but pouring your energy into being successful will have a positive effect.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Disregard anyone spouting untruths or meddling. Help those deserving of your time and effort. How you react will make a difference and will affect your reputation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Don't lose sight of what loved ones want. Compromise will be what makes this a day to remember. A surprise you plan for someone will secure your relationship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — Share your joy and make changes that will help you bring what's old and what's new together. Harmony should be your intent, and peace and good will should be the results.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Volunteer to do your part. Whether you plan a function for youngsters or those less fortunate or you help out at a soup kitchen, the people you meet will inspire you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Think outside the box when it comes to saving and spending. You can cut corners if you are clever in how you shop and handle your investments.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Embrace change and give it your all. Work hard to improve your relationships with those who count and to offer something special to the person who always has your back.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Don't let someone put crazy ideas in your head. Stick to the basics and what's realistic and doable. Avoid a challenge that will make you fall short in more ways than one.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Make relationships your priority. Do something special for a loved one. Love and laughter will bring you closer together and lead to greater security. Romance is highlighted.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Being the life of the party can have its disadvantages. Don't neglect someone who loves you in order to entertain acquaintances you are never likely to see again.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — A change of scenery will do you good. Make plans with a loved one to bring out the best in each other and accomplish a lot on your to-do list.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Someone from your past will reach out or come to mind. A reunion will give you greater insight into your current situation and how to best improve your life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Getting together with relatives to make plans for upcoming family events will give you a sense of belonging and pride. Your unique suggestions will make an impression. Romance is encouraged.

Computer chips or gray matter?

By Phillip Alder

Eugene Wigner, a Hungarian-American who won the 1962 Nobel Prize in Physics, said, "It is nice to know that the computer understands the problem. But I would like to understand it too."

That is not my experience in watching computers trying to play bridge. Today's deal would be easy for a player who has been around the block a few times, but it defeated most of the robots competing at Bridge Base Online.

How should South play in four hearts after West leads a low spade, given that the trumps are not 4-0?

In the auction, South might have opened one heart, but if North had responded one spade, South would have had to rebid two clubs, which would not have been ideal. So, one-no-trump was sensible. Then, North should have raised to three no-trump. Do not use Stayman with 4-3-3-3 distribution, especially with such a weak major. Note that South would have had nine top tricks.

In four hearts, declarer has three diamond losers, so he seems to need to find the club queen. That is how every robot played, most going down, but a couple succeeding because West unwisely discarded clubs while declarer was drawing trumps.

		North	12-07-18
		♠ A K 2
		♥ 8 7 6 3
		♦ 8 7 3
		♣ K 6 2
West		East
♠ J 9 8 7 5 4		♠ Q 3
♥ 10		♥ J 5 2
♦ K 5 2		♦ A Q 10 9
♣ 9 7 5		♣ Q 8 4 3
		South
		♠ 10 6
		♥ A K Q 9 4
		♦ J 6 4
		♣ A J 10
		Dealer: West
		Vulnerable: East-West
South	West	North	East
	Pass	Pass	Pass
1NT	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♥	Pass	4♥	All Pass
Opening lead: ♠ 7

However, the contract is 100 percent. After winning trick one and drawing trumps, declarer cashes dummy's second high spade, ruffs the last spade and exits with a diamond.

The defenders take their three diamond tricks, but are trapped. If a club is led, it finds the queen for South; if a spade or diamond is returned, declarer receives a ruff-and-sluff. It is a textbook elimination and endplay.
